I cannot hope to think.
The open books lie waiting,
But in vain. . .
I wonder what tomorrow
Holds in store. . .
Without an inkling in by head
I dread how that darn test
Will look to me!

Pep Rally To Send Team Off

The football team will leave for their first game of the season on Friday afternoon. It is planned to stage a pep rally and send the boys off with a big "bang." The exact time of departure is not yet known but plans are underway to have a large part of the student body on hand at that time.

This, together with the bus trip down to Annapolis next week for the Navy game, will give the team quite a boost and will give the students plenty of time to cut loose with some rousing spirit.

The bus trip to Annapolis will mark the first time since the start o fthe war that Villanovans have attended an away game as a body. We hope that in the future it will be possible to attend more of the games.

Rev. Thomas A. Burke, O.S.A., coordinator of Student Activities, has announced that the band will be on hand to help send the team off. Lou DiGiacomo, in charge of the cheer-leading squad will also have his men on hand and the school songs and cheers will be rendered.

Camp To Campus

Continued From Page One

working on the production control section of the flight line.

Cpl. Pete Hin tells us from Camp San Francisco in Aisne France "Two weeks before VJ Day our outfit was pulled out for redeployment to the Pacific but luckily the rapid development of things saved us a trip around the world. Now we are awaiting redeployment to the good old U.S.A." Cpl. Francis J. Bassler is teaching a class in Bookkeeping in the Army Education program somewhere in Germany. The Army's Cpl. Bill Froebough stationed at Tinian tells us of meeting Lieut. John Sutton and informs us that he is now on his way home.

Until the Postman rings again that is all for now.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
Member International Tailoring Co. N. Y.

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
5th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

ATTENTION SERVICEMEN

PURPOSE—The G. I. Veteran is entitled to any level of education for which he can qualify including undergraduate or graduate studies at a college, university, high school or vocational institution. The Veteran may make his own choice of the school, etc., anywhere in the United States.

EXTENT—90 days of active service entitles the Veteran to education or training, or a refresher or retraining course at an approved institution for a period of one year. If he completes the first year satisfactorily, he is entitled in addition to as many years or months of training as he served altogether in active service from September 16, 1940, to the end of the war. If the Veteran's length of service is sufficient and he qualifies otherwise he may have a total of four years of education.

EXPENSES—The Veteran's expense for tuition, fees, books and equipment, up to $500 for each ordinary academic year, will be paid by the government. In addition he will receive $50 a month for subsistence or $75 if he has one or more dependents.

HOW TO APPLY—Application should be made on Veterans Administration Form 1950, which can be obtained, after the Veteran is discharged, from regional offices of the Veterans Administration or from any educational institution.

SPECIAL NOTE—Disabled Veterans are eligible for additional educational services under another Bill.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION WRITE
THE VETERANS GUIDANCE SERVICE
VILLANOVA COLLEGE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Wildcats! Stop Here
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE,
VILLANOVA, PA.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

Men Of Navy And Marine Corps
Put Your Savings In An Established Bank
The
Bryn Mawr
Trust Company
Every Banking Facility
Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

For Expert Convenient
Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
The Campus
Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

VILLANOVA COLL
LIBRARY
VILLANOVA, PA.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 9 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1945

Rev. John Tuohy, O. S. A., Added To College Faculty

Taught at Villanova Prep In California; To Teach in Religion and Education Depts.

A new member was added to the Faculty of Villanova College recently when Rev. John W. Tuohy, O.S.A., arrived here from Ojai, California. Fr. Tuohy will teach in the Departments of Education and Religion.

Fr. Tuohy is a native of Staten Island, New York, where he was born in 1909 and where he attended school. Upon graduation from the Augustinian Academy in 1928 he entered the Novitiate of the Augustinian Order at New Hamburg, New York. He graduated from Villanova College in 1933 and was ordained to the Priesthood in 1936.

REV. JOHN W. TUOHY, O.S.A.

After ordination he continued his studies at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C. In 1937 he was awarded the degree of Master of Arts in Education by Catholic University. He was then appointed to the Faculty of the Villanova Prep School in Ojai, California.

Besides his teaching duties at Villanova Prep, Fr. Tuohy served as Director and Coach of Athletics. When improvements are completed in O'Dwyer Hall, Fr. Tuohy will be Student Counsellor in that dormitory.

Almost 100 Sign Up For Bus Trip

John Fitzgibbons, president of the Student Council has announced that at least three buses will be chartered to carry Villanova rooters to the Navy game next Saturday at Annapolis. The buses will leave the campus at 9:30 A. M. and 11:00 A. M. and will arrive at Annapolis in plenty of time to see the Navy campus before the game.

Last-minute reservations will be accepted today, and all those interested should contact John Fitzgibbons in the Belle Air office, Room 235 Mendel Hall, anytime after 2:30 this afternoon. Students may make reservations for their friends as well as themselves on the buses.

One stop for refreshment will be made on the trip down, and the buses will make a three of four hour layover in Annapolis after the game. Almost one hundred students have now signed up, and it is expected that there will be a representative cheering section on hand to boost the team.

Reservations were stimulated by the success of the team at Bucknell last Saturday, and student interest in the team is running high. The new Villanova Wildcat will be on hand as mascot, and the cheerleading squad will also be present. The Student Council points out that today is positively the last day for making reservations.

Villanovans at the Front

Last Monday official word was received that Ens. Fred Gerngross, USNR, formerly reported missing was to be presumed killed in action while serving on the cruiser Indianapolis.

A Solemn Requiem Mass will be said for him in his own parish of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary at ten o'clock on Saturday. On Thursday at seven a Requiem Mass will be said in his honor in the Villanova Chapel.

Vets Hold First Smoker; Good Time Had By All

The Villanova Veterans' Club held their first official social event last Wednesday night in the Blue Room of the Field House. The smoker got under way at 8:30 P.M., with John Ciotola acting as Master of Ceremonies, and provided a very enjoyable evening for all who attended.

Several Addresses

The assembly was addressed by Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O.S.A., moderator of the organization, and by Alfred Dumsa, Phi Kappa Pi's president, William Koerner, president of the Junior class, and John Fitzgibbons, D.P.E. president. All welcomed the new organization to the group of campus societies and pledged it their support.

Entertainment for the evening was varied and well received. Louis DiGiacomo provided music on the piano and was accompanied by the singing of Pete Pelitto. Lou was a guest of the club. Harry Waters, Villanovan Circulation Manager, also demonstrated his ability at the keyboard, to the entertainment of all. (Newt Ward also sang.)

Refreshments served

Following the entertainment, refreshments were served and consumed with vigor. The affair was well attended and was acclaimed a big success. The club plans to hold frequent social events in the future and the members are looking forward to as successful affairs as was this one.

Picture of the Week

Adonis

Selected by an unbiased observer (himself) as the most handsome man on the campus, A.S. Carl Schneider holds the spotlight this week. Reason: He lost a fifty-cent bet because he was unable to name one man whom he considered better looking than he.

(This picture was submitted by a group of his "admirers" in Austin Hall, to whom he is affectionately known as "Bulgy," who feel that such a situation should not go unnoticed. "He actually believes it," they commented.)

Wildcat Mascot Gets Name; Will Go To Annapolis

'Count Villan II' Chosen As Cat's Name; Trainers Cobb and Austin Weigh Many Suggestions

Count Villan II !!! At last the Villanova Wildcat emerges from his anonymity to strut proudly before the world with a brand new name. And what a name! At once expressive of ferocity, of royal lineage, and of Villanova, the new name was chosen by the cat's trainers as most befitting the fighting qualities of the young mascot.

The winner of the name contest is Martin Burkom of 5822 North Broad Street, Philadelphia. To Mr. Burkom go the tickets to the Villanova home football games this season. His entry was selected from among more than one hundred names that were submitted by Villanova sports fans.

The trainers of the wildcat, Pvt. Robert Austin, USMCR, and A/S Clyde Cobb, USNR, thought they would have an easy time of it when they agreed to select the cat's name. But when the entries began to pour in, not only from local fans, but even from far off Hollywood, California; Tilden, Nebraska; and the New England States, the name committee began to sweat. They began to see names in their sleep . . . Kitty, BoBo, Victor, Sarge . . . in their studies . . . Butch, Apex, Invader . . . at their meals . . Buster, Muscles, Campus, Cuddles, and on and on.

The atomic bomb brought peace to our armed forces but not to the name committee, who had to add Atomicat and Atom Cat to the growing list of entries three days after Hiroshima. The Serutan (spells Nature's backwards—Advt.) influence brought Ravilo, Roirepus, and Avon Alliv. Other anagrams produced Novavilla, Nova, Lanova, and Laphin (rearranger from S/gt. Joseph Halpin, who presented the

Continued on Page Four

Work To Start On '46 Belle Air

John Selfridge, Editor, Calls Organization Meeting; 1945 Issue To Be Ready Soon

The preparations for the 1946 edition of the Belle Air have finally begun in earnest. With an organization meeting on Wednesday, the staffs will be formed and the long job of composition will commence. The staff as a whole will be largely new men who are interested in the work and will be getting their first taste of the write-ups, pictures, and more write-ups routine which is the main task of those putting out such a publication.

The few veteran members of the staff are hopeful for the excellence of the new edition. They believe that the student interest in the Belle Air is high enough to carry on in grand style as all of the staffs before them have done. The interest is their primary worry for they feel that other conditions, such as the relaxation of war scarcities, all will be in favor of a really good Belle Air.

John Fitzgibbons, the editor of the 1945 edition, has announced that the forthcoming Belle Air will be ready for distribution in the not too distant future.

The new editor, John Selfridge, has assured us of the urgency of the Wednesday meeting. He expects all old members to attend and any men who are interested in any phase of the edition of the Belle Air. Since the staff is so depleted, positions are available on any one of the various staffs. The meeting will be held at 1:00 P. M. Wednesday, the 26th, in 235 Mendel Hall.

Campus Awaits Sophomore Cotillion Next Saturday

October 6 Date Draws Near; Committee Well Pleased With Present Indications of Success

With the date of the Sophomore Cotillion less than two weeks away, the committee feels assured of the success of the dance if the present indications are any criterion. Work on all phases of preparation for the affair has been progressing smoothly, and there is little doubt that October 6 will see all arrangements completed in a most satisfactory manner.

The ticket committee is also able to report favorable progress in the sale of admissions, thus predicting the financial success of the affair. Russ Welsh, A.S., acting chairman of the dance in the absence of Fred Koch, A.S., who is expected back from the hospital shortly, has announced that he is well pleased with the progress made thus far and expects the dance to be a big success.

Those students who have not as yet secured their tickets may obtain them from any member of the committee. The price is three dollars, including tax. The dance will feature the music of Chuck Gordon and his orchestra, a group of musicians well known in and around Philadelphia, and the band will play selections to please all tastes.

The dance will be the only major social event of the current season, and interest is high as the date draws near. Several requests have been received from recent graduates for tickets and it is expected that there will be a large turnout of alumni as well as underclassmen. Tickets will be available at the door to those who will not have an opportunity to contact a member of the committee.

DPE Postpones Smoker Till Next Thursday Night

Delta Pi Epsilon, the campus Commerce and Finance fraternity, has postponed its smoker till next week, but will conduct initiation of new members this evening at 8:30 in the basement of the C. & F. building. Both affairs were originally scheduled for last Thursday but were postponed because of other affairs last week.

Arrangements for the affair are in charge of Bob Conway, who promises that matters will be well in hand at the initiations tonight. D.P.E. initiations are usually quite entertaining affairs, with the pledges doing most of the entertaining. A relatively large group is to be received into the organization at this time.

Plans for next week's smoker are not yet completed, but arrangements are now being made by the executive committee. Plans for the revival of the Financier's Frolic, traditional Delta Pi dance, are also being considered, as the organization plans to become quite active again.

Bucknell Pep Rally A Big Success

The pep rally which sent the football team off to their first game and their first victory over Bucknell last Saturday was acclaimed a big success by all who attended. The band, the cheerleaders, and the student body participated at the Friday morning soiree and left Villanova's good wishes ringing in the team's ears.

Many students attended the Bucknell game and said it was one of the most enjoyable they had ever witnessed. A large proportion of the student body is scheduled to attend the Annapolis game this week, and a Villanova cheering section will make itself heard at the game.

It is planned to make the pep rallys a regular weekly feature in the future. Rev. Thomas A. Burke, O.S.A., who inspired the last rally said he believes the students are really "on the ball." The rallys also provide a good opportunity for the Frosh to practice the school cheers.

Fr. Stanford Receives Citation

Rev. E. V. Stanford, O.S.A., former President of the College, at present Rector of Augustinian College, Washington, D. C., was the recipient of high commendation for wartime service from Vice Admiral Randall Jacobs, U.S.N., Chief of Naval Personnel.

The Letter of Commendation read in part as follows: "As a member of the Naval Educational Advisory Committee and the special committee for the selection of NROTC institutions, you have given time and assistance to the educational problems of the Navy without reservation, and your advice and counsel have been important factors in shaping policies of great significance not only to the Navy but to the Nation as a whole."

Father Stanford has served as a Consultant to the Navy Department since February, 1942.

Marine Sergeant Joins Ship's Co.

Sgt. Muir is breathing sighs of relief since the placement of Sgt Melvin L. Krendiek, USMCR, here at Villanova. Sgt. Krendiek will have four years in the Marine Corps on the second of February. During his time in the Marines the sergeant has made his way usually behind a typewriter he complains. During his training he was with the second division tank corps through San Diego, Camp Elliott, and Jacques Farm, a tank-training base which even for the Marines is rough duty.

SGT. MELVIN L. KRENDIEK

In May of '42 he was with the second tank group on Bougainville. November of '42 saw him in Q-M school and from then on he never seemed to have stopped traveling. With the third tank division he was division Q-M in New Zealand. Still with the third, he was on Guadalcanal in charge of personnel effects. Sarge got back as far as the Canal Zone and then went right

MARINE SERGEANT
Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

JOHN J. BURNS, JR., '47....EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
HENRY P. J. WARD, A.S., USNR....SPORTS EDITOR
ROBERT K. AUSTIN, PVT., USMCR....Copy Editor
HARRY WATERS, '46....Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46....Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47....Photography Editor

Columnists

Frank Ronan, '45
George Elsesser, A.S., USNR
George Aulenbach, A. S., USNR
John Fitzgibbons, '45

Staff Writers

Robert J. Conway, '46
James Conaty, '48
Francis Ryan, '48
George O'Neil, '46
Anthony Mullen, '47

Sports Staff

Robert Manske, '48
James Breene, '48
Russell Welch, A.S., USNR
Mel Alpert, A.S., USNR
Fred Koch, A.S., USNR
Percy Butler, Pvt., USMCR

Circulation Staff

Peter McManus, '47
Joseph P. Sweeney, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Thomas N. Ward, '47
Bill Bryan, '47
Raymond F. Stone, '46
Adam Zuribida, '48
Warren Sexton, '46
Paul Curcillo, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

L E O G O O D R E A U

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 17, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - SEPTEMBER 25, 1945

Let's Go, Frosh!

With less than two weeks remaining before the date of the Sophomore Cotillion, the response of the Frosh in supporting the dance has not yet come up to the expectations of the Committee. The only social event of the summer season has met with a rather apathetic reception among our Freshmen which is a good indication for neither their school spirit nor the financial success of the affair.

The reputation of Villanova dances for being truly enjoyable affairs is well known, and the officers of the Sophomore Class and of the Student Council have made every effort to insure that this year's Soph Cotillion will be no exception. The purpose of the dance is to provide an enjoyable time for you and it is up to you to support it.

For those resident Freshmen who are not acquainted in the vicinity, The Student Council has arranged a Tea Dance at Rosemont College to provide them with dates. There is no reason why any Frosh should not attend the Cotillion, and if there is not a representative showing, the Orientation Committee will be forced to continue the Freshmen Regulations.

The sooner tickets are purchased, the sooner the Committee will be able to make the necessary commitments to provide the essentials of a successful dance. Procrastination will do no one any good and will seriously imperil the success of the affair. Purchase your ticket now!

Support The Team

The successful upset of Bucknell in the opening game of the football season at Bucknell on Saturday sets the pace for a season of hard fought as it is spectacular. With such a beginning, the team is in fine form to take on the impressive array of opponents on this year's schedule.

A small but ardent group of loyal Villanova rooters was on hand to witness the victory over Bucknell, and a larger, but just as eager, portion of the student body will be on hand to witness the Annapolis tilt next week.

It is not yet too late to become a part of this group of students who will be present at the game. Last-minute reservations are still being accepted for seats in the buses, and it is still possible to get your name on the list.

The team is set for a tough schedule and with your support they will be prepared to do their best in the face of terrific odds. Your presence at the Annapolis game will be an evidence of your backing and with a loyal rooting section to urge them on, the team will make a creditable showing against Navy.

The team does not expect to win every game, but they intend to put up a fight that will be worthy of the Villanova tradition. If there is a sufficient turnout for the Annapolis game, other trips may be planned by the Student Council to attend later games.

Today is your last chance to sign up for a reservation on the Annapolis buses. The bigger the rooting section, the better will be the morale of the team and the better their chance of winning.

'Cat Capers

By FRANK RONAN
and JOHN FITZGIBBONS

Sorry we did not see more of you at the game last Saturday because you certainly missed a swell game. Our congratulations to every member of the team and to Coach Olivar for a really swell performance.

Villanova was well represented at the Devon Horse Show last week. Hal Varani, that well known man with the broom, was seen wandering from stable to stable with a determined look in his eye. And we are investigating the rumor that Lou DiGiacomo has a crush on a brown mare. But the star of the show was "Apple Head" Riley. Riley, who now looks like a fugitive from a pool table was almost devoured by one of his four footed friends.

We have no doubt that some of the Frosh have some ingenious ideas tucked away in their little thimble brains but we think Frosh Ryan takes the prize. Who but a Ryan would ever think of smuggling "Cuddles" down to the furnace? But Ryan has promised not to let it happen again. At least he promised Cuddle's father that he wouldn't.

Brother if you think you have troubles, how would you like to be in Red Dog Koerner's shoes?

Since today is the day that the Rosie frosh start in over at the Country Club we feel that it is only proper for us to give out some good advice. First, if you are accosted by a tall young man, a fellow with a stupid look on his face, don't be at all scared. It is only Mother Dumsa from the Waterbury Copper Works wanting to teach you how to sing "College Days."

Then if you should meet another average young man, weighing about 220 pounds with a wicked leer in his eye, that is only Villanova's average young student, otherwise known as Deacon Merlino . . . When attending a Villanova Dance and your escort wants to show you our golf course, well . . . that's all sister, every man for himself . . . If by any chance you should get Fr. McNally for any classes, just give foolish answers to his questions. It will make your grade in Logic later on so much more interesting . . . Don't under any conditions, ask the score of last year's Villanova-Army game.

Don't whistle at boys, you will sound too much like some of the Sophomore and Junior Class . . . And if you have the opportunity we would like you to make a hobby of collecting Villanova Frosh hats as it would help our Treasury a great deal. And now to give one personal warning, if your last name happens to be Klekotka, pay no attention to any sweet sayings if the 2nd party happens to be an Electrical Engineer as there is probably a method to his madness.

Harcum certainly started the fall season on Sunday afternoon. H. P. certainly was in his glory with Mardge Hansen at the musical reception. What was the blonde for Dumsa, future reference? . . . Newt Ward may be a "Nice Boy" but he better not put out his cigarettes in the rug at Harcum or he won't be very welcome . . . We hear that the Peshina boys are forsaking the Main Line for Indiantown Gap. Good luck boys and say hello to MacArthur for us.

Be sure to make your reservations for the transportation to the Annapolis game right away so that the Student Council can charter enough room. See either Jack Fitzgibbons or yours truly to make reservations. And remember at the game be sure to give the cheer leaders plenty of co-operation.

The Vets Smoker was also a huge success last week. D.P.E. will have theirs next week. Membership cards will be given out.

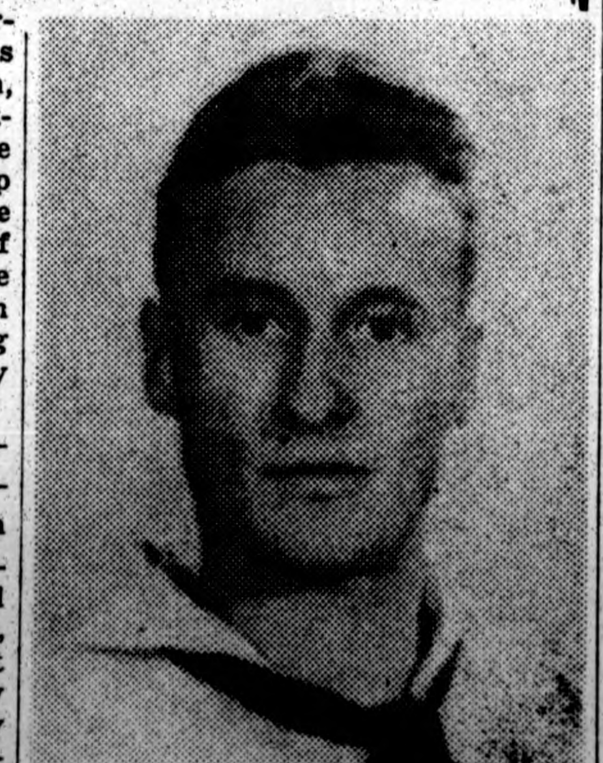
A tea dance is planned for next Sunday afternoon at Rosemont. More details on this will be posted on the bulletin board and also at the Frosh meeting on Wednesday. This will be a very good chance for Frosh to become acquainted with our neighbors over the hill. Sorry we couldn't get Jack Fitzgibbons to write this column this week but we guarantee that you will have him next week.

And so once again we will say so long for this week. Hope to see you all at Annapolis next Saturday afternoon yelling your heads off and showing the team that we are all behind them.

Meet the Boys

By GEORGE ELSESSER, A.S. and GEORGE AULBACK, A.S.

THE air is tinged with that certain something known as Football Fever. The Frosh, thanks to the orientation committee have been initiated into the club of Fall Fanatics by their Pep Rally at which time they sent the football team off to its first game of the season at Bucknell. George Scanlon and John Huckert are both old members of this club, having been through the rigors of many football seasons in the past.



JOHN W. HUCKERT, A.S.

John W. Huckert, one of our fellow men in the school of engineering, comes from almost any town that you can mention on the Eastern side of the map of the United States. He was born in Louisville, Kentucky on August 30, 1925. At the tender age of five the family moved Huck to Rochester, New York, and here he started his primary education which was completed in three phases, going from Rochester to Ithaca, back to Rochester.

He started High School in Silver Spring, Maryland where he attended Montgomery Blair High. John turned over a new leaf at Montgomery Blair by spending a full four years there. In his senior year in high school John decided that it wasn't much fun if you had to walk every place you went so he designed and built himself two motor bicycles. These motorbikes proved to be too slow for Huck so he began collecting motorcycles, being the proud owner of six of them at one time or another. He claims that his first motor was the fastest, registering 105 M.P.H.

Motorcycles having given him a smattering of mechanical workings, he decided to give his attentions to the field of Mechanical Engineering. He entered George Washington University in Washington, D. C., in February 1943, and studied there until July 1944 at which time the Navy called him to Villanova. John will graduate from here with a Degree in Mechanical Engineering this October.

Huck, like the rest of us, is just waiting to find out what is going to happen to him at the completion of this term. However, he is sure of one thing, it will be the Navy all the way.

Continued on Page Four

BEHIND THE 8

By HARRY EDWARDS and
HANK HANRATTY

Perhaps its the shortage of rope, or then again it might be that we have "extra good" guardian angels. . . . But at any rate we're still around, and the campus is still alive with activity despite the fact that the world ended four days ago. However don't be alarmed by our last statement. Mr. Amelotti, after computations beyond our realm of imagination, decided the world has not ended and has given us full authority to disclose this fact to the student body.

No doubt the first announcement of the above news prompted many students to find out what the inside of a church looks like. Harry Edwards, the worse half of this gruesome, twosome, left town for a few days for fear that "those fellows with the red faces and pitch fork" might catch up with him. (and I'm not speaking of Ronan, Dumsa, Koerner and Conway). Despite this rush to get on "the straight and narrow path," Villanova students were still clamoring for places in the social limelight; and we are here to put them there.

Probably even more devastating in its effects than the above news was the marriage of Shirley Temple. Many of our freshman and even some of our distinguished upperclassmen were unable to sleep and eat all week. Manske, Smith, and McIntyre even had a hard time studying. (But, of course, that isn't news) some of the more serious cases even threw away their Shirley Temple dolls. Among these were the Peshina twins, Clotola, and Frank Ryan.

Our advice to these broken hearted gentlemen is to see John Bauman. He buys second hand dolls. John is also a big man among the girls from Garrett Hill. In fact they were his chief source of cigarettes last semester.

Shifting our column to the more pleasant things in life, we see that Maurice Wilhere is gradually gaining prominence as an "operator" on the Red Arrow bus line. Maurice is "making time" with a beautiful maid who is all of fourteen years old. It might be of interest to our readers to know that this damsel was Doc Hart's big moment when he travelled to school via the bus line three years ago.

To calm the fears of some on the campus who enjoy music, the picture on the Soph. Cotillion posters is Chuck Gordon, NOT Frank Ronan. We heard one Frosh say "This is too much" as he banged his head against the wall.

Gossip from different corners of the campus shows that Al Cappuzzi has recently gone on the wagon. When we say the wagon we mean a milk wagon, and when we say recently we mean since the milk companies hired girl drivers. Pretty good way of getting to school, eh fellows? . . . That Tom Komplinsky claims people just don't understand him, espcially his girl friend's parents . . . That Joe Bisanti is the big reason for a certain girl from Washington to frequent this vicinity. . . . That Jack Sankey is the top man in the fashion pages this week.

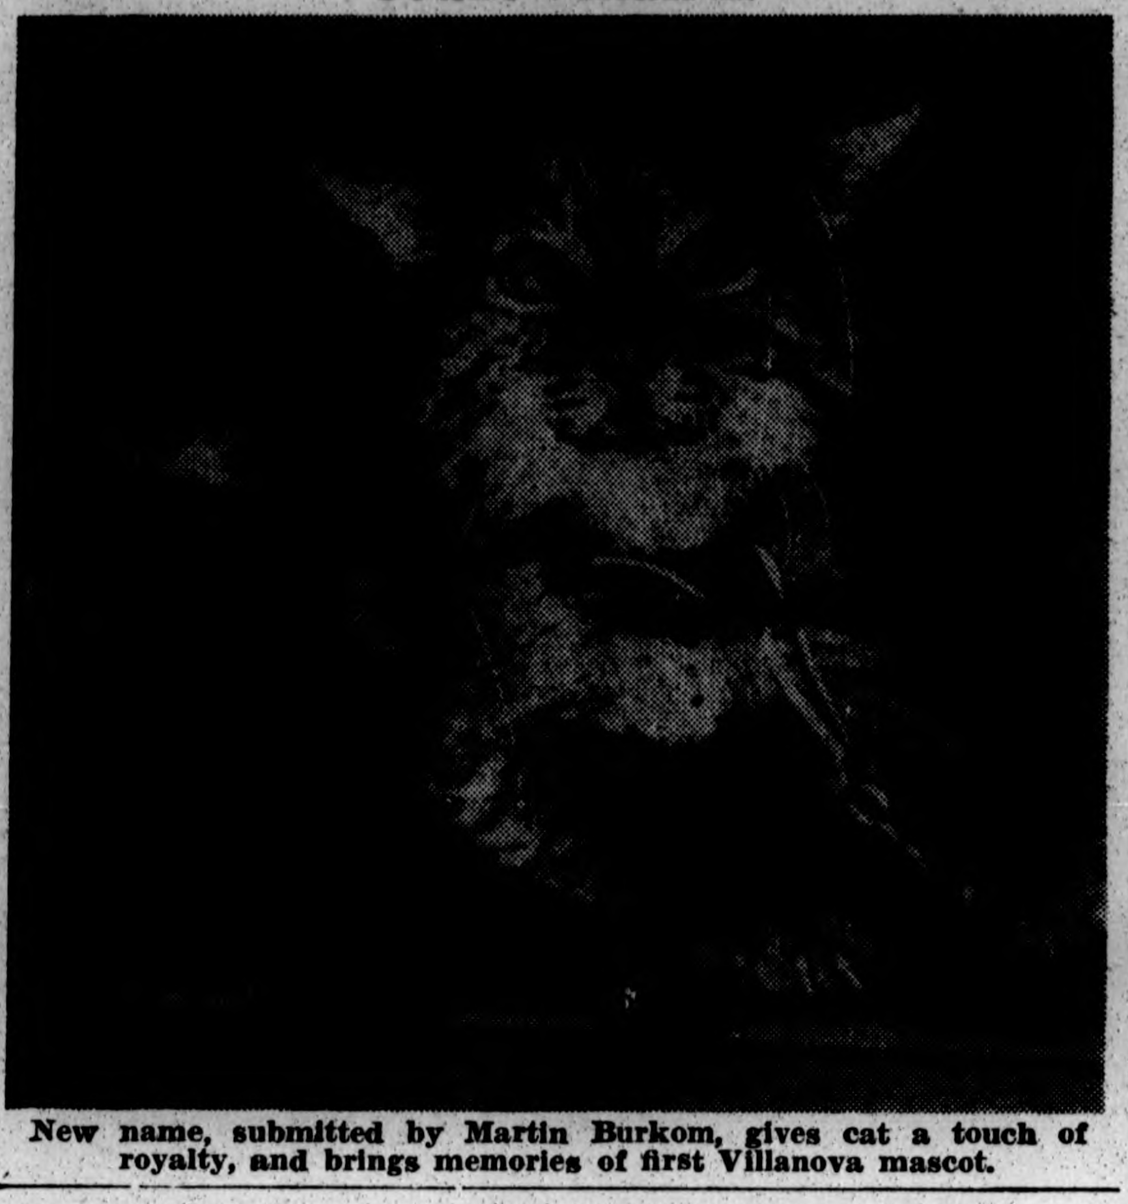
Jascula and Tait inform us that the inspiration behind this is the arrival of two new office girls upon the campus. . . . That Baldassano's broken jaw has given the students' ears some relief during the past couple of weeks. . . . That Hank Ward, our renowned Sports Editor, reads the Philadelphia papers to find out what goes on in the world of sports at Villanova.

And speaking of Hank Ward, it seems that the departure of Peggy Smith from the book store has left a trail of broken hearts in her wake. We are not allowed to say this, but we think our editors have been acting somewhat differently lately. Jasper Chen See, the campus sage, was quoted as saying, "That's the trouble with women, they are never content." Other preferred to brood in silence.

But seriously, we wish Peggy every success at college for she was a very nice kid. And since we have just about cleaned out all the dirt around the campus, we will close this week by reminding you that a good time will be had by all at the Sophomore Cotillion, a week from Saturday. Don't miss it!

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Count Villan II



New name, submitted by Martin Burkom, gives cat a touch of royalty, and brings memories of first Villanova mascot.

Villanova Scores 19-7 In Opening Game

Wildcats Pile Up Big Margin In Yards Gained; Welde, Capriotti and Williams Score As Team Overcomes 7-0 Deficit

The Villanova Wildcats opened their 1945 season with a smashing 19-7 victory over the Bucknell University Bisons. The Wildcats, captained by Bucky Williams, star halfback last year, trampled all over the Bucknell Stadium jinx in ringing up their initial victory. The 19-7 score gives only a small idea of the Villanova superiority on the field.

Stopped time and again by penalties, the 'Cats finally managed to score near the end of the second period. Ed Lawless' 29 yard heave to Chick Welde in the end zone climaxed a 74 yard drive which took only three plays. The try for the extra point was unsuccessful so at the half Bucknell led 7-6. The lone Bison score came in the first period when Bill McKay passed 26 yards to Paul Rutan who carried it 30 more yards for the score.

Williams Scores

In the third period the Wildcats came back to score again on four power plays. Starting from his own 25, Bucky Williams carried the ball to the 45. On the next play Romeo Capriotti lugged the ball 15 more yards to the Bucknell 40. Then Williams almost broke away for a touchdown but was brought down four yards short of the goal. One play later Bucky went over for the score that put Villanova ahead 12-7. Lawless' conversion made it 13-7.

After Jimmy Smith recovered a fumble on the Bucknell 30, the 'Cats made their final score. Romeo Capriotti made 17 of the 30 yards in three plays, going over for the touchdown from the 2.

Throughout the afternoon the Wildcat line stopped one Bucknell drive after another. The defensive play of Joe Scarcelli and Mickey Comiskey was very impressive.

Dave Generalli and Bucky Williams played in the contest even though they still sported injuries received early in the summer. Generalli's bad shoulder prevented him from playing more than a part of the game but Bucky's lame ankle didn't bother him as much as expected.

The statistics show Villanova way ahead in almost every department; 16 first downs to 3, 309 yards gained rushing to 51, and 91 yards to 72 passing. Penalties totalling 65 yards cramped the Wildcat attack while Bucknell drew only one five yard setback.

Fr. Boyle Wins Faculty Tourney

Defeats Mr. Oakey, 6-3, 6-2; Will Play Class A Champ; Bob Velte Meets Henry Ward in Class B

This week the tennis tournament was limited to one day of play as the weather in the early part of the week was extremely adverse to tennis. However this one day saw the completion of the Faculty tournament and the playing of the semi-final matches in the B group.

Fr. Boyle was victorious in an excellent match against Mr. Oakey by the score of 6-3, 6-2. Fr. Boyle displayed exceptionally fine form in downing Mr. Oakey and though Mr. Oakey's game was very good he was unable to break through Fr. Boyle. Both players were very steady and the match was filled with many long rallies and exceptional place shots. Whoever wins the A group tournament will have his hands full when he takes on Fr. Boyle. Although the score fails to indicate the intensity of the play it was without a doubt one of the hardest played matches yet seen on the Villanova courts.

In the B group tournament Hank Ward came from behind twice finally to defeat Harry Bombick in the longest match of the whole tournament, 8-10, 6-0, 7-5. Hank seemed a little nervous in the first set and as Harry was playing beautiful tennis he was unable to break through when the pressure was on. In the second set Hank seemed to find himself and proceeded to play unbeatable tenis. The third set saw Harry come from behind to lead 5-3, after trailing 3-0 at the early stage of the set. Here is where Hank showed his mastery as he forced Harry out of position time after time, thereby setting himself up with put away shots. Six times match point was played before Ward weathered the storm and succeeded in winning the match. Fighting up-hill from the eighth game Hank came through with a 7-5 victory which gave him the match and placed him in the finals of the tournament.

Velte Downs McCafferty

In the other half of the semi-finals in B group Bob Velte was victorious over Hugh McCafferty 6-3, 6-4. Although this match was not as long as the one between Ward and Bombick it was just as hard fought. Velte, a consistently long ball player, used this to his advantage by consistently driving McCafferty deep to the base line which enabled him to come up to the net for the put away smash. Bob had his serve under control and this was one of the things that was responsible for his well earned victory.

The A group tournament was further delayed by injuries but it is expected that this section will also play their finals tomorrow. The semi-finalists are Jim Riley, Dick Shedden, Horace Bernton, and Percy Butler.

Wildcat Mascot Gets Name; Will Go To Annapolis

Continued From Page One

sweet young pussy to his Alma Mater). An excursion into the Spanish language found Gato Montes to be the name for mountain cat.

A tribute was paid to one of Villanova's heroes who also gave his life in the war in the name Bascat, for Nick Basca. Others fondly recalled Villanova coaches or teachers and pulled Clipper, Jo-Al, Barney, and Skippy from their bag. By the time Novo Caine, to dope the opponents, was suggested, the trainers were ready to take it for themselves.

A goodly number presented Villan or Villain, and the trainers, who more than once have felt those sharp claws, were ready to agree that he is a villain. But still they are proud of their cat, and they do feel that he is of kingly stock, so when they saw Count Villan II entered they knew that just hit the spot. The II refers, of course, to the fact that the present Count Villan is the second wildcat to wear the colors as Villanova's mascot. And so they tagged him as Count Villan II.

When told of his new monicker, the Count merely stated in his usual laconic manner: "Grrrrrrr." However, Austin and Cobb have noticed that he now stalks around with greater dignity, seemingly conscious of his royal heritage. As for the trainers themselves, you can see them any time walking aimlessly about the campus, muttering. Should you happen to sidle up close you might hear the endless chant . . Sasanova, Villapuss, Jungle Jolly, Campus Rumpus, Claudia (Clawed ya), McCoy, Desperate Desmond . . . Poor fellows, they never dreamed V-12 would be such rough duty.

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., Faculty Moderator of Athletics, who sponsored the contest, expressed himself as highly pleased by the response of Villanova fans. The letters came from young and old, male and female, many of them expressing words of admiration and encouragement for Villanova and her teams. One letter from an experienced handler of wildcats even made suggestions for the care and feeding of "His Satanic Pusskins."

Now that the mascot has a name, he hopes that he will be able to go to Annapolis with his team to claw the Navy goat this Saturday. In any case the battle cry is "On to Victory with Count Villan II!"

Team Rarin' To Go For Annapolis Opener

Naval Academy's First Game; Team Not As Strong As Last Year's But Still Potent Threat

On Saturday the Villanova Wildcats invade Annapolis for the Middies opening game of the year. Victorious in eight out of ten games last season, Navy has a powerful array of backs to throw against the opposition this year.

Though they have lost Hal Hamberg and Don Whitmire, two of the greatest players ever to go through the Academy, Navy rates as one of the strongest teams in the country.

Navy Has Fast Backfield

The backfield, one of the fastest in the East, has been bolstered this season by Bob Kelly, All-American from Notre Dame. Kelly, a great passer and broken field runner, should be a big help to Navy. Two great Texas sprinters, Ralph Ellsworth and George Walmsley, give Navy the fastest backfield they have had in several seasons.

Clyde Scott, who, as a plebe last year, took over Bob Jenkins spot at fullback when injuries put him on the bench, has shifted to halfback and will see a lot of action. Others in the backfield are Bruce Smith, Jim Pettit, Tony Minisi and Dick Ambrogi. Minisi starred on Penn's team last year, while Ambrogi was a freshman speedster there two seasons ago.

Line Strong As Ever

Line Coach Rip Miller has no one as good as Whitmire, but the line still remains as one of the strongest in the East. Lee Bramlett at end is a good pass receiver and a terror on defense. At center, Henry Whittle has a lot of experience and is a great line backerupper. Jack Coppedge, Al Nemetz and Bill Webb give Navy a lot of protection at the tackle slots. Guards Jim Carrington, Stan Turner and Ed Demaree leave the coach few worries.

The Villanova team will be cheered on at Annapolis by a rooting section which will leave Villanova Saturday mornnig in time to reach the field for the kickoff. The return trip will be delayed long enough to enable all present to see the campus before leaving.

Fedigan B League Champions Again

Fedigan B clinched the Intramural Softball pennant for the 1945 season by winning the Spring schedule and then taking decidedly the Summer schedule. They won the flag with seven wins against one loss. The closest to them was Austin A who took a far second with four wins and two losses.

The line-up alone was enough to win for the West End boys, with Dick Naslund, lanky Wisconsin boy, who hurled a near perfect season with seven wins in eight starts. Dick was playing more or less just to keep in baseball as he was the ace hurler for the Villanova baseball nine this Spring and was on the inactive team this Summer.

Bobby Wilson, Joe Sulock, Mike Rogers and Dave Marano formed a fairly impregnable infield defense. Sulock was smooth at third and few got past him. Marano, another varsity man, displayed his usual air-tight work at short, with "Little Feller" Bobby Wilson, at second and big Mike Rogers at first. Paul Wiedenhaefer caught and played home like a stone wall. Among others in this star-studded cast were Tinker Heaps and Don Herman.

DelSi finished the season with a sad "wait till next year" as the combined team took six on the chin without a win.

With the weather permitting, Fathers Kemme and Girolami an-

FEDIGAN B
Continued on Page Four

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

As we all know by now the 1945 football season is in full swing. When this column appears, the first game will have been played and, win or lose, they are still our heroes.

Little is known about the heartbreak and injuries of a football player. Today I would like to devote this column to an injured player who even with the injury is giving his all for the team. Perhaps you recognize the young man but if you don't, he is David J. Generalli. Hornell, New York, is the city that proudly backs him up, since he was born there September 19, 1923.

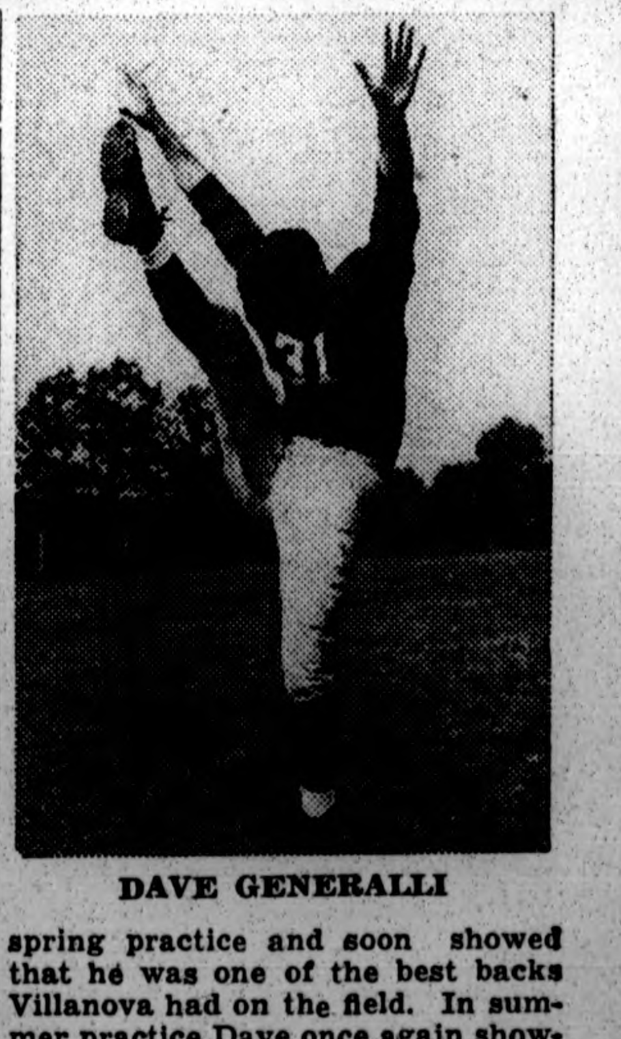
All-County

Dave, who is one rugged individual, entered Hornell High School September 1938. Right from the beginning the football coach realized his potentialities and hence Dave was made a member of the varsity when only a freshman. For four years thereafter Dave, or as he is sometimes rightfully called, Generator, bulled his way through all the opposing teams.

His efforts didn't go unnoticed either. He was All-County for two years, which is quite a distinction considering that Hornell is in a county with some of the best football teams in New York State. Dave was also voted captain of the team in his last year by his well-knowing teammates. He also was a member of the track team for three years and he captained this in his senior year.

Navy Discharge

Dave was inducted into the Navy July 1943. He spent eight months in the service and received a discharge. After working a while, Dave entered Villanova in March 1945. He immediately reported for spring practice and soon showed that he was one of the best backs Villanova had on the field. In summer practice Dave once again showed up in wonderful style. He was going "full gun" and his play was paying off. However, after the Swarthmore scrimmage his shoulder went bad and X-rays showed that it was badly bruised. To this day his shoulder is still hurting him but he expects that it will heal up for the Navy game. So, if you don't see Dave's name in the starting lineup remember that shoulder.



DAVE GENERALLI

Here at Villanova, Dave is taking Commerce and Finance and has a prospective eye on the business world.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

JOHN J. BURNS, JR., '47....EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
HENRY P. J. WARD, A.S., USNR....SPORTS EDITOR
ROBERT K. AUSTIN, PVT., USMCR....Copy Editor
HARRY WATERS, '46....Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46....Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47....Photography Editor

Columnists

Frank Ronan, '45
George Elsesser, A.S., USNR
George Aulenbach, A. S., USNR
John Fitzgibbons, '45

Staff Writers

Robert J. Conway, '46
James Conaty, '48
Francis Ryan, '48
George O'Neil, '46
Anthony Mullen, '47

Sports Staff

Robert Manske, '48
James Breene, '48
Russell Welch, A.S., USNR
Mel Alpert, A.S., USNR
Fred Koch, A.S., USNR
Percy Butler, Pvt., USMCR

Circulation Staff

Peter McManus, '47
Joseph P. Sweeney, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Thomas N. Ward, '47
Bill Bryan, '47
Raymond F. Stone, '46
Adam Zuribida, '48
Warren Sexton, '46
Paul Curcillo, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 17, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - SEPTEMBER 25, 1945

Let's Go, Frosh!

With less than two weeks remaining before the date of the Sophomore Cotillion, the response of the Frosh in supporting the dance has not yet come up to the expectations of the Committee. The only social event of the summer season has met with a rather apathetic reception among our Freshmen which is a good indication for neither their school spirit nor the financial success of the affair.

The reputation of Villanova dances for being truly enjoyable affairs is well known, and the officers of the Sophomore Class and of the Student Council have made every effort to insure that this year's Soph Cotillion will be no exception. The purpose of the dance is to provide an enjoyable time for you and it is up to you to support it.

For those resident Freshmen who are not acquainted in the vicinity, The Student Council has arranged a Tea Dance at Rosemont College to provide them with dates. There is no reason why any Frosh should not attend the Cotillion, and if there is not a representative showing, the Orientation Committee will be forced to continue the Freshmen Regulations.

The sooner tickets are purchased, the sooner the Committee will be able to make the necessary commitments to provide the essentials of a successful dance. Procrastination will do no one any good and will seriously imperil the success of the affair. Purchase your ticket now!

Support The Team

The successful upset of Bucknell in the opening game of the football season at Bucknell on Saturday sets the pace for a season of hard fought as it is spectacular. With such a beginning, the team is in fine form to take on the impressive array of opponents on this year's schedule.

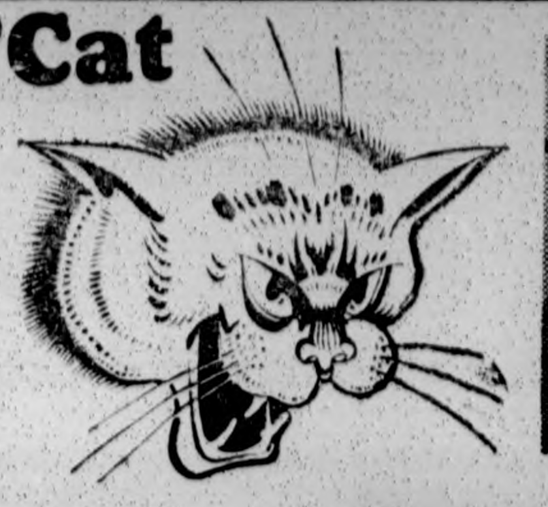
A small but ardent group of loyal Villanova rooters was on hand to witness the victory over Bucknell, and a larger, but just as eager, portion of the student body will be on hand to witness the Annapolis tilt next week.

It is not yet too late to become a part of this group of students who will be present at the game. Last-minute reservations are still being accepted for seats in the buses, and it is still possible to get your name on the list.

The team is set for a tough schedule and with your support they will be prepared to do their best in the face of terrific odds. Your presence at the Annapolis game will be an evidence of your backing and with a loyal rooting section to urge them on, the team will make a creditable showing against Navy.

The team does not expect to win every game, but they intend to put up a fight that will be worthy of the Villanova tradition. If there is a sufficient turnout for the Annapolis game, other trips may be planned by the Student Council to attend later games.

Today is your last chance to sign up for a reservation on the Annapolis buses. The bigger the rooting section, the better will be the morale of the team and the better their chance of winning.



'Cat Capers

By FRANK RONAN
and JOHN FITZGIBBONS

Sorry we did not see more of you at the game last Saturday because you certainly missed a swell game. Our congratulations to every member of the team and to Coach Olivar for a really swell performance.

Villanova was well represented at the Devon Horse Show last week. Hal Varani, that well known man with the broom, was seen wandering from stable to stable with a determined look in his eye. And we are investigating the rumor that Lou DiGiacomo has a crush on a brown mare. But the star of the show was "Apple Head" Riley. Riley, who now looks like a fugitive from a pool table was almost devoured by one of his four footed friends.

We have no doubt that some of the Frosh have some ingenious ideas tucked away in their little thimble brains but we think Frosh Ryan takes the prize. Who but a Ryan would ever think of smuggling "Cuddles" down to the furnace? But Ryan has promised not to let it happen again. At least he promised Cuddle's father that he wouldn't.

Brother if you think you have troubles, how would you like to be in Red Dog Koerner's shoes?

Since today is the day that the Rosie frosh start in over at the Country Club we feel that it is only proper for us to give out some good advice. First, if you are accosted by a tall young man, a fellow with a stupid look on his face, don't be at all scared. It is only Mother Dumsa from the Waterbury Copper Works wanting to teach you how to sing "College Days."

Then if you should meet another average young man, weighing about 220 pounds with a wicked leer in his eye, that is only Villanova's average young student, otherwise known as Deacon Merlino . . . When attending a Villanova Dance and your escort wants to show you our golf course, well . . . that's all sister, every man for himself . . . If by any chance you should get Fr. McNally for any classes, just give foolish answers to his questions. It will make your grade in Logic later on so much more interesting . . . Don't under any conditions, ask the score of last year's Villanova-Army game.

Don't whistle at boys, you will sound too much like some of the Sophomore and Junior Class . . . And if you have the opportunity we would like you to make a hobby of collecting Villanova Frosh hats as it would help our Treasury a great deal. And now to give one personal warning, if your last name happens to be Klekotka, pay no attention to any sweet sayings if the 2nd party happens to be an Electrical Engineer as there is probably a method to his madness.

Harcum certainly started the fall season on Sunday afternoon. H. P. certainly was in his glory with Mardge Hansen at the musical reception. What was the blonde for Dumsa, future reference? . . . Newt Ward may be a "Nice Boy" but he better not put out his cigarettes in the rug at Harcum or he won't be very welcome . . . We hear that the Peshina boys are forsaking the Main Line for Indiantown Gap. Good luck boys and say hello to MacArthur for us.

Be sure to make your reservations for the transportation to the Annapolis game right away so that the Student Council can charter enough room. See either Jack Fitzgibbons or yours truly to make reservations. And remember at the game be sure to give the cheer leaders plenty of co-operation.

The Vets Smoker was also a huge success last week. D.P.E. will have theirs next week. Membership cards will be given out.

A tea dance is planned for next Sunday afternoon at Rosemont. More details on this will be posted on the bulletin board and also at the Frosh meeting on Wednesday. This will be a very good chance for Frosh to become acquainted with our neighbors over the hill. Sorry we couldn't get Jack Fitzgibbons to write this column this week but we guarantee that you will have him next week.

And so once again we will say so long for this week. Hope to see you all at Annapolis next Saturday afternoon yelling your heads off and showing the team that we are all behind them.

Meet the Boys

By GEORGE ELSESSER, A.S. and GEORGE AULBACK, A.S.

THE air is tinged with that certain something known as Football Fever. The Frosh, thanks to the orientation committee have been initiated into the club of Fall Fanatics by their Pep Rally at which time they sent the football team off to its first game of the season at Bucknell. George Scanlon and John Huckert are both old members of this club, having been through the rigors of many football seasons in the past.

John W. Huckert, one of our fellow men in the school of engineering, comes from almost any town that you can mention on the Eastern side of the map of the United States. He was born in Louisville, Kentucky on August 30, 1925. At the tender age of five the family moved Huck to Rochester, New York, and here he started his primary education which was completed in three phases, going from Rochester to Ithaca, back to Rochester.

JOHN W. HUCKERT, A.S.

He started High School in Silver Spring, Maryland where he attended Montgomery Blair High. John turned over a new leaf at Montgomery Blair by spending a full four years there. In his senior year in high school John decided that it wasn't much fun if you had to walk every place you went so he designed and built himself two motor bicycles. These motorbikes proved to be too slow for Huck so he began collecting motorcycles, being the proud owner of six of them at one time or another. He claims that his first motor was the fastest, registering 105 M.P.H.

Motorcycles having given him a smattering of mechanical workings, he decided to give his attentions to the field of Mechanical Engineering. He entered George Washington University in Washington, D. C., in February 1943, and studied there until July 1944 at which time the Navy called him to Villanova. John will graduate from here with a Degree in Mechanical Engineering this October.

Huck, like the rest of us, is just waiting to find out what is going to happen to him at the completion of this term. However, he is sure of one thing, it will be the Navy all the way.

Continued on Page Four

BEHIND THE 8

By HARRY EDWARDS and
HANK HANRATTY

Perhaps its the shortage of rope, or then again it might be that we have "extra good" guardian angels. . . . But at any rate we're still around, and the campus is still alive with activity despite the fact that the world ended four days ago. However don't be alarmed by our last statement. Mr. Amelotti, after computations beyond our realm of imagination, decided the world has not ended and has given us full authority to disclose this fact to the student body.

No doubt the first announcement of the above news prompted many students to find out what the inside of a church looks like. Harry Edwards, the worse half of this gruesome, twosome, left town for a few days for fear that "those fellows with the red faces and pitch fork" might catch up with him. (and I'm not speaking of Ronan, Dumsa, Koerner and Conway). Despite this rush to get on "the straight and narrow path," Villanova students were still clamoring for places in the social limelight; and we are here to put them there.

Probably even more devastating in its effects than the above news was the marriage of Shirley Temple. Many of our freshman and even some of our distinguished upperclassmen were unable to sleep and eat all week. Manske, Smith, and McIntyre even had a hard time studying. (But, of course, that isn't news) some of the more serious cases even threw away their Shirley Temple dolls. Among these were the Peshina twins, Ciotola, and Frank Ryan.

Our advice to these broken hearted gentlemen is to see John Bauman. He buys second hand dolls. John is also a big man among the girls from Garrett Hill. In fact they were his chief source of cigarettes last semester.

Shifting our column to the more pleasant things in life, we see that Maurice Wilhere is gradually gaining prominence as an "operator" on the Red Arrow bus line. Maurice is "making time" with a beautiful maid who is all of fourteen years old. It might be of interest to our readers to know that this damsel was Doc Hart's big moment when he travelled to school via the bus line three years ago.

To calm the fears of some on the campus who enjoy music, the picture on the Soph. Cotillion posters is Chuck Gordon, NOT Frank Ronan. We heard one Frosh say "This is too much" as he banged his head against the wall.

Gossip from different corners of the campus shows that Al Cappuzzi has recently gone on the wagon. When we say the wagon we mean a milk wagon, and when we say recently we mean since the milk companies hired girl drivers. Pretty good way of getting to school, eh fellows? . . . That Tom Komplinsky claims people just don't understand him, espcially his girl friend's parents . . . That Joe Bisanti is the big reason for a certain girl from Washington to frequent this vicinity. . . . That Jack Sankey is the top man in the fashion pages this week.

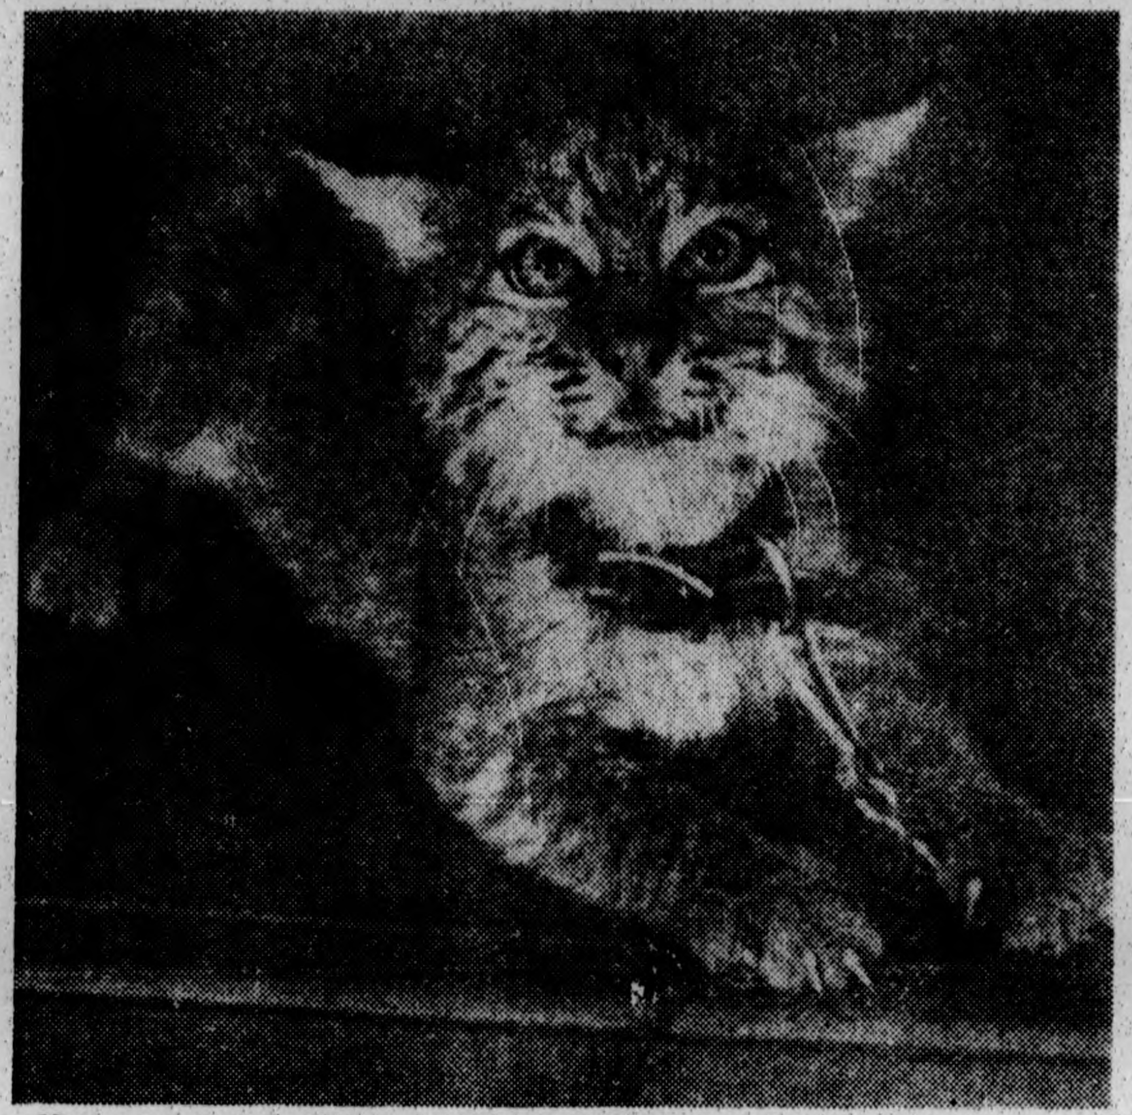
Jascula and Tait inform us that the inspiration behind this is the arrival of two new office girls upon the campus. . . . That Baldassano's broken jaw has given the students' ears some relief during the past couple of weeks. . . . That Hank Ward, our renowned Sports Editor, reads the Philadelphia papers to find out what goes on in the world of sports at Villanova.

And speaking of Hank Ward, it seems that the departure of Peggy Smith from the book store has left a trail of broken hearts in her wake. We are not allowed to say this, but we think our editors have been acting somewhat differently lately. Jasper Chen See, the campus sage, was quoted as saying, "That's the trouble with women, they are never content." Other preferred to brood in silence.

But seriously, we wish Peggy every success at college for she was a very nice kid. And since we have just about cleaned out all the dirt around the campus, we will close this week by reminding you that a good time will be had by all at the Sophomore Cotillion, a week from Saturday. Don't miss it!

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Count Villan II



New name, submitted by Martin Burkom, gives cat a touch of royalty, and brings memories of first Villanova mascot.

Wildcat Mascot Gets Name; Will Go To Annapolis

Continued From Page One

sweet young pussy to his Alma Mater). An excursion into the Spanish language found Gato Montes to be the name for mountain cat.

A tribute was paid to one of Villanova's heroes who also gave his life in the war in the name Bascat, for Nick Basca. Others fondly recalled Villanova coaches or teachers and pulled Clipper, Jo-Al, Barney, and Skippy from their bag. By the time Novo Caine, to dope the opponents, was suggested, the trainers were ready to take it for themselves.

A goodly number presented Villan or Villain, and the trainers, who more than once have felt those sharp claws, were ready to agree that he is a villain. But still they are proud of their cat, and they do feel that he is of kingly stock, so when they saw Count Villan II entered they knew that just hit the spot. The II refers, of course, to the fact that the present Count Villan is the second wildcat to wear the colors as Villanova's mascot. And so they tagged him as Count Villan II.

When told of his new monicker, the Count merely stated in his usual laconic manner: "Grrrrrrr." However, Austin and Cobb have noticed that he now stalks around with greater dignity, seemingly conscious of his royal heritage. As for the trainers themselves, you can see them any time walking aimlessly about the campus, muttering. Should you happen to sidle up close you might hear the endless chant . . . Sasanova, Villapuss, Jungle Jolly, Campus Rumpus, Claudia (Clawed ya), McCoy, Desperate Desmond . . . Poor fellows, they never dreamed V-12 would be such rough duty.

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., Faculty Moderator of Athletics, who sponsored the contest, expressed himself as highly pleased by the response of Villanova fans. The letters came from young and old, male and female, many of them expressing words of admiration and encouragement for Villanova and her teams. One letter from an experienced handler of wildcats even made suggestions for the care and feeding of "His Satanic Pusskins."

Now that the mascot has a name, he hopes that he will be able to go to Annapolis with his team to claw the Navy goat this Saturday. In any case the battle cry is "On to Victory with Count Villan II!"

Villanova Scores 19-7 In Opening Game

Wildcats Pile Up Big Margin In Yards Gained; Welde, Capriotti and Williams Score As Team Overcomes 7-0 Deficit

The Villanova Wildcats opened their 1945 season with a smashing 19-7 victory over the Bucknell University Bisons. The Wildcats, captained by Bucky Williams, star halfback last year, trampled all over the Bucknell Stadium jinx in ringing up their initial victory. The 19-7 score gives only a small idea of the Villanova superiority on the field.

Stopped time and again by penalties, the 'Cats finally managed to score near the end of the second period. Ed Lawless' 29 yard heave to Chick Welde in the end zone climaxed a 74 yard drive which took only three plays. The try for the extra point was unsuccessful so at the half Bucknell led 7-6. The lone Bison score came in the first period when Bill McKay passed 26 yards to Paul Rutan who carried it 30 more yards for the score.

Williams Scores

In the third period the Wildcats came back to score again on four power plays. Starting from his own 25, Bucky Williams carried the ball to the 45. On the next play Romeo Capriotti lugged the ball 15 more yards to the Bucknell 40. Then Williams almost broke away for a touchdown but was brought down four yards short of the goal. One play later Bucky went over for the score that put Villanova ahead 12-7. Lawless' conversion made it 13-7.

After Jimmy Smith recovered a fumble on the Bucknell 30, the 'Cats made their final score. Romeo Capriotti made 17 of the 30 yards in three plays, going over for the touchdown from the 2.

Throughout the afternoon the Wildcat line stopped one Bucknell drive after another. The defensive play of Joe Scarcelli and Mickey Comiskey was very impressive.

Dave Generalli and Bucky Williams played in the contest even though they still sported injuries received early in the summer. Generalli's bad shoulder prevented him from playing more than a part of the game but Bucky's lame ankle didn't bother him as much as expected.

The statistics show Villanova way ahead in almost every department; 16 first downs to 3, 309 yards gained rushing to 51, and 91 yards to 72 passing. Penalties totalling 65 yards cramped the Wildcat attack while Bucknell drew only one five yard setback.

Fr. Boyle Wins Faculty Tourney

Defeats Mr. Oakey, 6-3, 6-2; Will Play Class A Champ; Bob Velte Meets Henry Ward in Class B

This week the tennis tournament was limited to one day of play as the weather in the early part of the week was extremely adverse to tennis. However this one day saw the completion of the Faculty tournament and the playing of the semi-final matches in the B group.

Fr. Boyle was victorious in an excellent match against Mr. Oakey by the score of 6-3, 6-2. Fr. Boyle displayed exceptionally fine form in downing Mr. Oakey and though Mr. Oakey's game was very good he was unable to break through Fr. Boyle. Both players were very steady and the match was filled with many long rallies and exceptional place shots. Whoever wins the A group tournament will have his hands full when he takes on Fr. Boyle. Although the score fails to indicate the intensity of the play it was without a doubt one of the hardest played matches yet seen on the Villanova courts.

In the B group tournament Hank Ward came from behind twice finally to defeat Harry Bombick in the longest match of the whole tournament, 8-10, 6-0, 7-5. Hank seemed a little nervous in the first set and as Harry was playing beautiful tennis he was unable to break through when the pressure was on. In the second set Hank seemed to find himself and proceeded to play unbeatable tenis. The third set saw Harry come from behind to lead 5-3, after trailing 3-0 at the early stage of the set. Here is where Hank showed his mastery as he forced Harry out of position time after time, thereby setting himself up with put away shots. Six times match point was played before Ward weathered the storm and succeeded in winning the match. Fighting up-hill from the eighth game Hank came through with a 7-5 victory which gave him the match and placed him in the finals of the tournament.

Velte Downs McCafferty

In the other half of the semi-finals in B group Bob Velte was victorious over Hugh McCafferty 6-3, 6-4. Although this match was not as long as the one between Ward and Bombick it was just as hard fought. Velte, a consistently long ball player, used this to his advantage by consistently driving McCafferty deep to the base line which enabled him to come up to the net for the put away smash. Bob had his serve under control and this was one of the things that was responsible for his well earned victory.

The A group tournament was further delayed by injuries but it is expected that this section will also play their finals tomorrow. The semi-finalists are Jim Riley, Dick Shedden, Horace Bernton, and Percy Butler.

Team Rarin' To Go For Annapolis Opener

Naval Academy's First Game; Team Not As Strong As Last Year's But Still Potent Threat

On Saturday the Villanova Wildcats invade Annapolis for the Middies opening game of the year. Victorious in eight out of ten games last season, Navy has a powerful array of backs to throw against the opposition this year.

Though they have lost Hal Hamberg and Don Whitmire, two of the greatest players ever to go through the Academy, Navy rates as one of the strongest teams in the country.

Navy Has Fast Backfield

The backfield, one of the fastest in the East, has been bolstered this season by Bob Kelly, All-American from Notre Dame. Kelly, a great passer and broken field runner, should be a big help to Navy. Two great Texas sprinters, Ralph Ellsworth and George Walmsley, give Navy the fastest backfield they have had in several seasons.

Clyde Scott, who, as a plebe last year, took over Bob Jenkins spot at fullback when injuries put him on the bench, has shifted to halfback and will see a lot of action. Others in the backfield are Bruce Smith, Jim Pettit, Tony Minisi and Dick Ambrogi. Minisi starred on Penn's team last year, while Ambrogi was a freshman speedster there two seasons ago.

Line Strong As Ever

Line Coach Rip Miller has no one as good as Whitmire, but the line still remains as one of the strongest in the East. Lee Bramlett at end is a good pass receiver and a terror on defense. At center, Henry Whittle has a lot of experience and is a great line backerupper. Jack Coppedge, Al Nemetz and Bill Webb give Navy a lot of protection at the tackle slots. Guards Jim Carrington, Stan Turner and Ed Demaree leave the coach few worries.

The Villanova team will be cheered on at Annapolis by a rooting section which will leave Villanova Saturday mornnig in time to reach the field for the kickoff. The return trip will be delayed long enough to enable all present to see the campus before leaving.

Fedigan B League Champions Again

Fedigan B clinched the Intramural Softball pennant for the 1945 season by winning the Spring schedule and then taking decidedly the Summer schedule. They won the flag with seven wins against one loss. The closest to them was Austin A who took a far second with four wins and two losses.

The line-up alone was enough to win for the West End boys, with Dick Naslund, lanky Wisconsin boy, who hurled a near perfect season with seven wins in eight starts. Dick was playing more or less just to keep in baseball as he was the ace hurler for the Villanova baseball nine this Spring and was on the inactive team this Summer.

Bobby Wilson, Joe Sulock, Mike Rogers and Dave Marano formed a fairly impregnable infield defense. Sulock was smooth at third and few got past him. Marano, another varsity man, displayed his usual air-tight work at short, with "Little Feller" Bobby Wilson, at second and big Mike Rogers at first. Paul Wiedenhaefer caught and played home like a stone wall. Among others in this star-studded cast were Tinker Heaps and Don Herman.

DelSi finished the season with a sad "wait till next year" as the combined team took six on the chin without a win.

With the weather permitting, Fathers Kemme and Girolami an-

FEDIGAN B
Continued on Page Four

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

As we all know by now the 1945 football season is in full swing. When this column appears, the first game will have been played and, win or lose, they are still our heroes.

Little is known about the heartbreak and injuries of a football player. Today I would like to devote this column to an injured player who even with the injury is giving his all for the team. Perhaps you recognize the young man but if you don't, he is David J. Generalli. Hornell, New York, is the city that proudly backs him up, since he was born there September 19, 1923.

All-County

Dave, who is one rugged individual, entered Hornell High School September 1938. Right from the beginning the football coach realized his potentialities and hence Dave was made a member of the varsity when only a freshman. For four years thereafter Dave, or as he is sometimes rightfully called, Generator, bulled his way through all the opposing teams.

His efforts didn't go unnoticed either. He was All-County for two years, which is quite a distinction considering that Hornell is in a county with some of the best football teams in New York State. Dave was also voted captain of the team in his last year by his well-knowing teammates. He also was a member of the track team for three years and he captained this in his senior year.

Navy Discharge

Dave was inducted into the Navy July 1943. He spent eight months in the service and received a discharge. After working a while, Dave entered Villanova in March 1945. He immediately reported for spring practice and soon showed that he was one of the best backs Villanova had on the field. In summer practice Dave once again showed up in wonderful style. He was going "full gun" and his play was paying off. However, after the Swarthmore scrimmage his shoulder went bad and X-rays showed that it was badly bruised. To this day his shoulder is still hurting him but he expects that it will heal up for the Navy game. So, if you don't see Dave's name in the starting lineup remember that shoulder.

DAVE GENERALLI

Here at Villanova, Dave is taking Commerce and Finance and has a prospective eye on the business world.

Fedigan B

Continued From Page Three

nounced the possibility of a few weeks of Intramural Football. As many of the older men here remember, last year's games drew large crowds on Mendel Field and put forth many bloody battles.

The Final Standings

	W.	L.	Pct.
Fedigan B	7	1	.875
Austin A	4	2	.667
Austin B	3	2	.600
Fedigan A	2	3	.400
Mendel	2	4	.333
Del-Si	0	6	.000

College Tailor

Coladonato Tailor Shop, Inc.

1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266

We do adjustments the way you want them.

Work and Service—Good

Prices Reasonable

Member International Tailoring Co. N. Y.

Marine Sergeant

Continued From Page One

back to Guam. Getting back to the States, he was on Guard post in Washington, D.C., the Washington Navy Yard, and Depot Q-M at Quantico. From thence he came to Villanova.

The Sarge is a native of Peoria, Ill., and before Pearl Harbor was working as a clerk for the Rock Island R. R. He was unsatisfied in this position so the Marines duplicated it as soon as they could by making him Quartermaster. Nevertheless he's not complaining, loud.

Sarge is unmarried but human and therefore willing. The Marine Corps records could render no information as to whether he has any definite plans in this regard. His four years of the Marine Corps have given him a great love—for civilian life and he dreams of the day of his discharge.

BELLE AIR

There will be an important meeting of all former staff members and all those desiring to work on next year's Yearbook at one o'clock tomorrow, Wednesday, in Room 235 Mendel.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

Wildcats! Stop Here
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE,
VILLANOVA, PA.

Villanova College Rings by BARR'S

Largest Jewelers in Philadelphia

Presenting a display of College and Class
Rings for all local Schools and Colleges
A wide selection of designs, and stones.
All rings are 10 Kt. gold.

ESTABLISHED 1853
BARR'S
JEWELERS • SILVERSMITHS

1112 Chestnut St.
28 South 69th St.
5600 Germantown Ave.
4650 Frankford Ave.

WRITE FOR OUR FREE 48-PAGE CATALOG

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

GEORGE T. SCANLON was born in Philadelphia on April 23, 1926 and has spent all of his time in this city.

He entered St. John the Baptist Grade School and after finishing there he attended St. John the Baptist High School and he graduated from here in 1942. During his stay in high school, Hank was quite active. He took a great interest in Dramatics and he was also the editor of the school publication and from what he has to say about the paper it must have been quite good.

After high school, Hank spent one semester at the University of Pennsylvania. On February 1, 1943, George changed schools and came to Villanova. Upon entering Villanova, Hank decided to enroll in the School of Chemical Engineering. Hank is well known on the campus for his interest in dramatics. He has assisted in various productions of the Dramatic Club in the past few semesters.

GEORGE T. SCANLON, A.S.

George has also helped in writing script for some of the plays but he claims that all the success that the club has had to date is due to Sergeant Muir's untiring efforts and long hours. The Sarge will certainly be missed by the club when he leaves the campus. Hank has been Vice-President of the organization since its beginning. He is also a member of the Sanctuary Society, the Phi Kappa Pi and the A.I.Ch.E. of which he was elected Vice-President.

After graduation and upon release from the Navy, Hank plans on taking graduate work in the Chemical Engineering field but he is still undecided as to the selection of a school.

H. P. Dumsa has just informed us that there are only 26 more days till graduation. The time is certainly moving and so are we. See you next week.

Rosemont Tea Dance Sunday

The Student Council has announced that there will be a Tea Dance at Rosemont College on Sunday afternoon from four to six. This is primarily to give the resident students an opportunity to secure dates for the Sophomore Cotillion.

The dance will be held in Mayfield Hall, and Villanova students are invited to attend. Rosemont classes were resumed last Wednesday.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

Villanovan Staff To Attend Navy Game

Rev. John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., faculty moderator of the Villanovan, will attend the Navy-Villanova football game this Saturday with the editors of the paper. This will be Fr. Klekotka's first football game.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

ICE
Aristocrat
CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

MORE CALLS THAN EVER BEFORE

BIG INCREASE in Long Distance calls

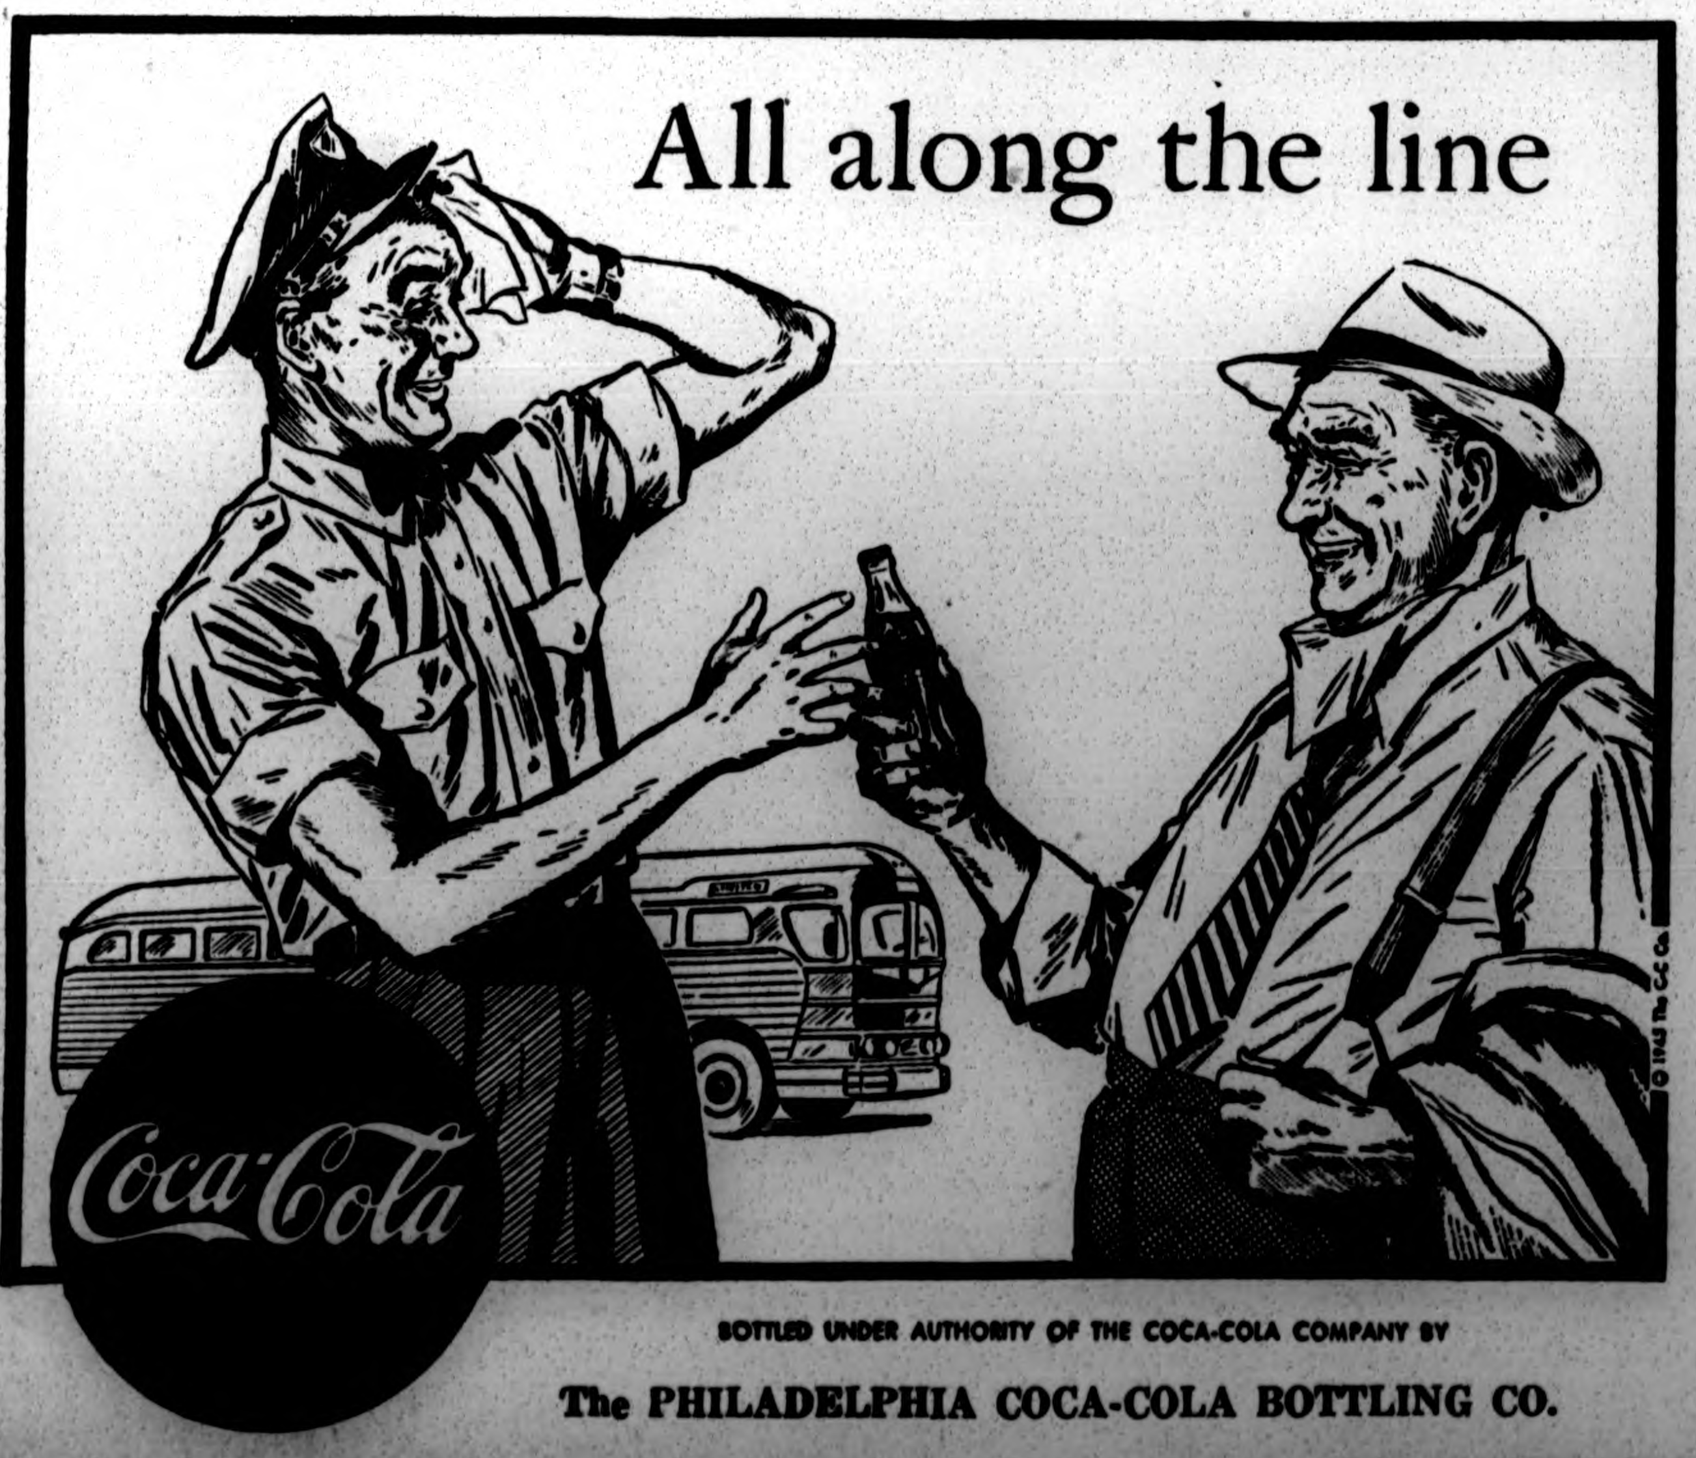
The return of thousands of overseas veterans has brought another great upsurge in Long Distance calls.

Service continues to be good on most calls. But a little more often now certain circuits get overcrowded.

Then the operator will ask your help by making this request—"Please limit your call to 5 minutes."

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
OF PENNSYLVANIA



All along the line

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

VILLANOVA COLLEGE
LIBRARY
VILLANOVA, PA.

VILLANOVAN

VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

Vol. 20—No. 10 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1945

Two New Chiefs Added To Ship's Company Here

To Supervise Navy P-T Drills; Chiefs Donaldson and Kizewich Come Here From Other Institutions

The college Navy V-12 Athletic staff has been bolstered by the arrival of two new athletic chief specialists from the Philadelphia Navy Yard. They are Robert L. Donaldson, Ch. Sp., (A), USNR, in charge of Swimming and John Kizewich, Ch. Sp., (A), USNR, in charge of Physical Training. Both non-coms assumed their respective posts at the college approximately two weeks ago.

Ch. Sp. (A) R. C. DONALDSON

Chief Donaldson, a native Philadelphian, was assigned to Villanova after serving as an instructor at Sampson and Bainbridge Naval Training Stations. He was a member of a group of 40 Penn State students, who comprised the first class to attend the University of North Carolina Pre-flight School, under the Naval Air Corps V-5 Program in May, 1942.

After completing his training at the University, the chief was transferred to Dallas Naval Air Station, Tex., whence he received a medical discharge from service after a short period of training. Returning to civilian life, Donaldson became affiliated with the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin in the sports and rewrite department.

Ch. Sp. (A) J. KIZEWICH

He re-entered the Navy in March, 1943 after getting a taste of civvies. The chief played varsity soccer at Penn State where he matriculated in 1939 and stayed till 1942. While there he pursued a journalism major and was a member of an athletic honorary society. Donaldson, whose wife is a schoolteacher in Pennsylvania, has no

NEW CHIEFS
Continued on Page Four

Sgt. John C. Muir, Drama Club Director, Leaves

One of Best-Known Members of Ships Company; Finishes Four-Year Hitch In Marine Corps

Sgt. John C. Muir, USMCR, for the past nine months Quartermaster supply head in Austin hall for the Marine contingent here at Villanova, has been transferred to the Phila. Navy Yard in preparation for his discharge. Sgt. Muir came to Villanova after extensive duty in the Pacific theater of operations. Since he came, Sergeant Muir has taken a great deal of interest in the activities on the campus.

His first activity outside his Marine duties was to revive the Belle Masque. This organization produced an original play, "I Want to be an Officer," which was written by Sgt. Muir, C. D. Cummings, A.S., G. Scanlon, A. S., and Bob Whalen. The play was a great success and did credit to Sgt. Muir's direction.

Now following up his initial interest he is in the midst of the production and direction of another original play. The new play, written by C. D. Cummings, is entitled "Up in Charley's Room." Although the curtain time, 8:00 Friday, October 12 will be four days after Sgt. Muir receives his discharge he will return to finish the direction and to see his boys perform.

S/SGT. JOHN C. MUIR

Sgt. Muir's outside interest has not been confined to the Belle Masque. He has also taken an active and helpful interest in the dance band which was formed here. He not only served in an advisory capacity but also was instrumental in obtaining for them the new songs and arrangements of the popular tunes.

Sgt. Muir is leaving the campus early Tuesday, Oct. 2, for the Navy Yard. Sgt. Krendiek, USMCR, who arrived here last week is relieving Sgt. Muir.

Upon receiving his discharge, John will return to his West Virginia home where he will spend some time with his wife and daughter. He then hopes to return to college, and with the help of the G.I. Bill of Rights will endeavor to complete his interrupted education.

Sgt. Muir has been a friend to everyone on the Villanova campus and he leaves these pleasant surroundings the best wishes of all will go with him.

Dave Reardon Married In Chapel

Lt. David N. Reardon, USNR, of the class of 1942, was married in the Villanova Chapel last Saturday to Miss Agnes Carr of Philadelphia. Lt. Reardon, who graduated from Villanova with a B. S. in Economics, was active in his student days as a member of the Villanovan and Belle Air Staffs. He was president of the Delta Pi Epsilon Fraternity and for four years was manager of the baseball teams. At present he is in the Supply Corps of the Navy. Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President, performed the marriage ceremony.

Villanovans at the Front

Major Walter Kelly Receives Second D.F.C.; Also Holds Air Medal and Presidential Citation

Major Walter E. Kelly, A.A.F., of the Class of 1940, hodler of the Distinguished Flying Cross, and the Air Medal, was recently awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster to the D.FC., signifying his second receipt of that medal, together with three Presidential Unit Citations for his participation in the successful bombing of Tokyo.

Major Kelly was Wing Commander and pilot of a B-29 bomber and spent ten months on Saipan, from which base his squadron operated in its bombing attacks against Japan. The original award of the D.F.C. was for his participation in 52 bombing missions over European targets from bases in England and North Africa.

MAJOR WALTER E. KELLY

The citation accompanying his second award of the medal tells of the exploits of his group in acting as pathfinders in locating and lighting up Japanese targets for larger groups of aircraft. The citation also describes the resistance met by the squadron in the form of enemy searchlights and anti-aircraft installations together with Jap night fighters.

At Villanova, Walt was a student in the School of Engineering and participated in many campus activities. He is now home on a 30-day furlough following which he will report to Washington, D. C. His home is in Manayunk and he formerly resided in Norristown.

Drama Club Holding Regular Rehearsals

With the advent of a new spirit which seemed to have been lacking in past rehearsals, The Villanova Dramatic Club has settled down to its task of producing the new comedy, "Up in Charley's Room." Due to the reduction of the number in the cast to eight, the spirit of the rehearsals seemed to lag and it was only during this past week that the almost daily practice produced the comedy it was supposed to ffect. Last semester's color is definitely back . . . to stay.

A little light may be thrown on the above with the statement that our stars, Miss Marnie Richardson and "Greg" Mueller, are leading the parade of eight in preparation of their parts for the forthcoming production. Two more weeks should provide the needed time for C. D. Cummings to polish their respective parts.

Due to the impending discharge of Sgt. John Muir, Cummings has taken over his duties and, in view of the fact that he wrote the play, C. D. should discharge his duties very ably and according to his original interpretation.

The parts of certain members of the cast will not be divulged till next week due to professional jealousy and numerous other petty trade secrets but we are allowed to divulge the name of a handsome young doctor who will appear in the cast, Carl Schneider, the Adonis of Villanova's campus.

Sophomore Cotillion To Be Held This Weekend

Final Plans Completed For Saturday-Night Dance; Chuck Gordon's Orchestra To Be Featured

This Saturday, October 6, the Villanova Field House will be the scene of the long-awaited social event of the current season, the Sophomore Cotillion. Featuring the music of Chuck Gordon and his orchestra, the dance will climax the plans made by the Class of '47 during the past two months.

Fred Koch, A.S., chairman of the dance committee, has reported that plans are moving smoothly for the Saturday night affair and he expressed the prediction that the dance will be a huge success. All committees are now busy making last-minute arrangements and it is expected that everything will be in readiness for the big night.

The decoration committee has promised that the decorations will be both novel and attractive. The decorations will feature a football theme and are now in course of erection. The other committees are also hard at work under the direction of their various chairmen.

In cooperation with Rosemont College, a tea-dance was held Sunday at Rosemont to introduce the Villanova and Rosemont freshmen, and to give the resident students an opportunity to become acquainted with girls in this vicinity. It was acclaimed a big success by all who attended.

The ticket committee has reported favorable response in sales during the past week and urges all students to purchase their tickets as soon as possible. Requests for tickets have been received from many of the alumni, and it is expected that many members of the Class of '47 who are now in service will be at the dance.

CAMP to CAMPUS

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

Once again the news from Villanovans in every part of the world to us and then from us to our readers, numbered among the thousands. Our first bit of information this week comes from the Catholic News in an article by Elsie Lavelle in which a Catholic Chaplain is praised by Major Milowski in Iceland.

Of the Chaplain, Rev. Henry F. Scanlon, O.S.A., formerly of Villanova Prep School in Ojai, Calif., he said, "We are glad to have him with us. Everyone in the field is glad he is among us. We have had a raft of upsetting letters from home lately. We still have a job to do and a man's morale goes away down when he gets one of those letters and is powerless to do anything about it but worry. I can't tell you how many of those cases I've sent to Father Scanlon. He's never failed to put things right."

From an LCT somewhere in the South Pacific we hear that Ens. Ben Paradee plans to eat his Christmas turkey in the "Butter and Egg State," for the benefit of foreigners, it is the state of New Jersey. Pfc. Joe Betz writes from Okinawa that he is enjoying his job under General Jimmey Doolittle. Ens. Charles LaBelle on an LST met Joe Mihalek and tells us of the engagement of Joe and Peggy McDonald. Another soon-returning friend, Ens. Tom Calpin writes that he hopes to see some of the home football games and also see the new mascot in action. SM 2/C Morris W. Bingham has spent six weeks on a Merchant Marine Transport on route to Pearl Harbor and is bound for submarine duty in the South Pacific.

From the Pacific we now turn our eyes to the European front and the first bit of information comes from Pvt. Nicholas Albano, telling us that he is stationed with a portable Surgical hospital now in Nuremberg, Germany.. Pvt. Daniel F. Shields, ex '46, after having been hospitalized near Toul, France, was sent to England where he is connected with the Wharton American Technical School.

After being in the African, Sicilian, Salerno beachhead, and French invasions, it seems strange that Dan is still abroad. Shortly before sailing for England he met his brother, whom he had not seen in over two years. From the Austrian Alps comes word from Pfc. Joseph B. McFarland that he is with the Army of Occupation there and that in his spare time he hopes to become a proficient skier.

Pete Saracini writes from down Annapolis way that he is waiting the expected attack of the Wildcat on the Navy Goat and that heavy defences have been thrown up as a matter of protection. Pfc. Al Prew ex '47, writes that he arrived in New York on September 10 aboard the Queen Mary. He will be sent to Breckinridge,. Ky. after his furlough and intends to visit the campus on his way to camp.

Cpl. Vince Gammache ex '45 sends word that "Up to now I have seen a lot of Europe and I find it much the same wherever I go. Everything is in a state of ruin, the people are poorly dressed and have nothing to eat. Consequently we

CAMP TO CAMPUS
Continued on Page Four

New Academic Calendar Given By Fr. McGuire

Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of the College, has announced the academic calendar for the coming year. All legal holidays will be observed, in contrast to the situation which has prevailed in recent semesters. It is probable that the present term will be the last Summer session for the college as a whole.

Oct.
20—First term ends
21—Commencement
29—Second term begins
Nov.
11—Armistice Day
29—Thanksgiving Day
Dec.
22—Christmas recess begins
30—Christmas recess ends
31—Classes resumed
Jan.
1—New Year's Day
Feb.
22—Washington's Birthday
23—Second term ends
24—Commencement
March
4—Third term begins
June
22—Third term ends
23—Commencement

Fr. McGuire Preaches At Brooklyn Mass

Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of the College, preached the sermon last Thursday at the annual "Red Mass" of the Catholic Lawyers' Guild in Brooklyn, New York. Bishop Malloy of the Brooklyn Diocese pontificated at the Mass. During his stay in New York Fr. McGuire also represented Villanova College at the Convocation celebrating the 75th Anniversary of St. John's University in Brooklyn.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

JOHN J. BURNS, JR., '47........................EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
HENRY P. J. WARD, A.S., USNR........................SPORTS EDITOR
ROBERT K. AUSTIN, PVT., USMCR........................Copy Editor
HARRY WATERS, '46........................Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46........................Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47........................Photography Editor

Columnists
Frank Ronan, '45
George Elsesser, A.S., USNR
George Aulenbach, A. S., USNR
John Fitzgibbons, '45

Staff Writers
Robert J. Conway, '46
James Conaty, '48
Francis Ryan, '48
George O'Neil, '46
Anthony Mullen, '47

Sports Staff
Robert Manske, '48
James Breene, '48
Russell Welch, A.S., USNR
Mel Alpert, A.S., USNR
Fred Koch, A.S., USNR
Percy Butler, Pvt., USMCR

Circulation Staff
Peter McManus, '47
Joseph P. Sweeney, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Thomas N. Ward, '47
Bill Bryan, '47
Raymond F. Stone, '46
Adam Zuribida, '48
Warren Sexton, '46
Paul Curcillo, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - OCTOBER 2, 1945

Come To The Dance

There is now less than one week before the date of the Sophomore Cotillion. The band has been secured, the Field House has been decorated, the refreshments have been ordered, but not enough tickets have been bought to make the affair a success.

Particularly has the response been very limited among the recent arrivals on the campus, both civilian and service students. Unless every student attends, the expectations of the committee will not be fulfilled, it is up to every student to see that he does his part in putting the dance over.

The committee has made every effort to ensure the success of the dance, not for their own personal satisfaction, but to ensure you a good time. The Soph Cotillion will be the only major social event of the season and unless it is a success it may well be a long, long time before there is another.

It should be unnecessary to urge school spirit as a reason for attending the dance, since it will be a pleasure. not an ordeal, to attend. Last week's excursion to Annapoli showed that most of the students are behind college activities and there is no reason why the Cotillion should no be an even more enjoyable and better-attended weekend

Villanova Cat Meets Navy Goat

Last Saturday Count Villan II journeyed to Annapolis with the team to meet Billy X, the Navy goat. Although his arrival was delayed, Count Villan arrived in time to witness the opening of the second quarter.

Between the halves Count Villan was taken to the Navy side of the field where he became acquainted with the famed Navy goat. The meeting was very ceremonious and both participants were well behaved. Billy X had great respect for the Villanova pet and treated him with deference. It was difficult to get the two mascots to pose together as Billy did not wish to feel Villan's claws. The mascots were finally persuaded to "hold that pose" and for ten minutes faced a large battery of cameras.

During the second half the Navy goat paid a visit to the Villanova stands but because of illness Villan was unable to meet him again. Villan's illness was caused by the heat, the temperature being over ninety degrees.

The Count's meeting with the goat was a huge success and it is hoped that at some future dates he will have the opportunity to become acquainted with the mascots of other schools which appear on the Villanova schedule.

'Cat Capers

By FRANK RONAN

Well here we go again. By now everyone is getting back to normal after the Navy trip. We certainly can all be proud of the team. Although the score may look one-sided, the fight that the Wildcats showed to the last gun proved that they knew how to take it. All we can say at this point is, Marquette better look out because Buffalo, here we come!

Sunday's Tea Dance at Rosemont was, if we may say so, very successful. Our thanks to the Rosemont Entertainment Committee and to the Frosh of both schools for all the swell cooperation.

The following poem was submitted to us and since it certainly does have a point we hereby submit it to you:

ODE TO THE EDITOR

There is a young man named Burns.
His company no one e'er yearns.
He's a pretty nice guy,
But one look at his tie
Makes a stomach of iron do turns.

This is not all I could say.
I could go on through the night and the day
For a life time of shocks
Take one look at his socks
They are what you might term rather gay.

C, what a sad state of affairs!
But Burnsie's a guy without cares
While other folks suffer,
He just makes it tougher
By wearing those awful nightmares.

We feel sorry that two Frosh, Sommer and Minerva had to take such a distasteful attitude at such a late date. It is too bad since it means that the entire class must suffer for their mistake but we feel sure that the next few weeks will show them the error of their ways.

It was good to see so many upper class Rosies at the Tea Dance. From what we have heard just about everyone has returned but Emmie O'Brien who is now at U. of Michigan. One familiar face that we did miss was that of Hank Scanlon and his sunny disposition.

We hope that the Peshina boys, Conway and Baccino didn't mind the girls being "removed" from their bus but after all boys you are so young.

By the way what ever happened to Joe Young and also Count Villan the II. They were either lost at Annapolis or decided to join the Navy.

That rendition of College Days last Sunday afternoon sounded rather familiar. One could tell who was leading it without turning around.

If there was one person who enjoyed himself Sunday, it was Ed Gonglefski. It is a good thing Ed has a large address book.

Tom Baxter dropped in yesterday with his new gold stripe and Stan Wagner was down Sunday. Stan had Mother Dumsa in stitches all afternoon with his ready wit etc.

A. J. Mullen seems to be giving Hank Ward a little competition for Peggy these days, or is it only an optical illusion?

Interest seems to really be rising for the Soph Cotillion. Fred Koch tells us that the committee expects a very large turnout. In a way the dance really serves a dual purpose. Besides being the first social affair for the Frosh it will also bring down the curtain for the Seniors. Our days on the Main Line are drawing to a close boys, so let's all show up for this last fling.

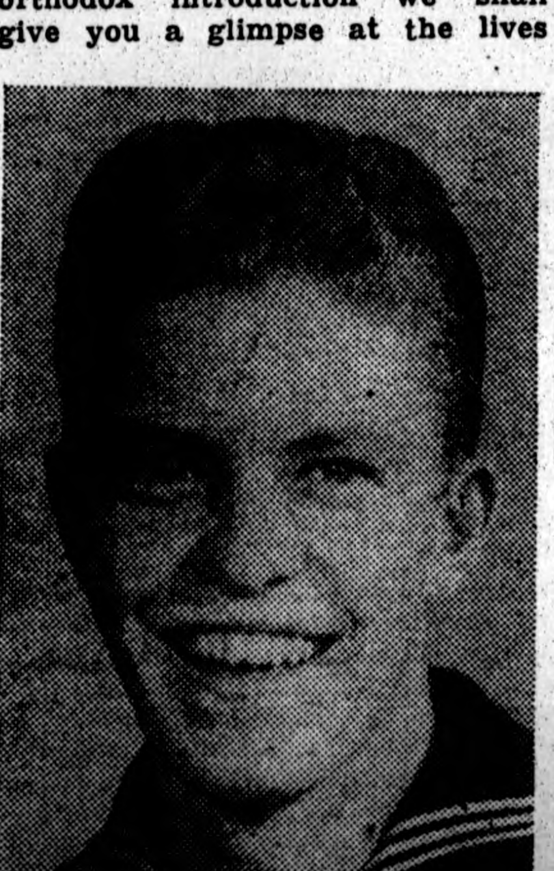
As an added attraction the committee has obtained, at no little cost, the services of John Coyne. John will give his rendition of the "Conshohocken Shuffle."

Well that is all for this week. Sorry there isn't more to tell you but it's the old story. We can't print our best items and our worst ones s—, pardon us, smell. So we shall just say, see you at the Cotillion.

Meet the Boys

By GEORGE ELSESSER, A.S. and GEORGE AULBACK, A.S.

THE sun is rising earlier and setting earlier these last few days and in case you can't decide on whom to blame it, you might try reading the newspapers for the two weeks preceding this and we think that you might find it to be the government's fault. They have set the clock back an hour so that we are again on standard time. But standard or not, life goes on and we must follow it, so if you will excuse our very unorthodox introduction we shall give you a glimpse at the lives



JOHN J. KENNEDY, A.S.

People, meet John J. Kennedy. John, meet the people.

John was brought into this worl on October 31, 1925 in the littl city of New York. At the age c six he was enrolled in St. Sebastian' Parochial School in New Yor City. After two years at St. Seba tian's, he moved to Philadelphi where he attended St. Martin's. John attended North Catholic High for his secondary education. At North, he was on the Art and Literary staffs of the school magazine and was a very stern member of the Supreme Court of the School Government. Kennedy graduated from North Catholic, and feeling the need for further education, he matriculated at Drexel in the School of Electrical Engineering. After one semester there, he was called to Villanova by the Navy V-12 program.

John has become a rather well-known figure on the campus, having been a Platoon leader and an Assistant Company Commander. He is a member of the A.I.E.E. and the Phi Kappa Pi. Kennedy was also one of our trackmen this past season.

John's immediate plans are vague about the Navy. However, he knows what he wants when he can get it—about six months of peace and quiet.

* * *

NEXT, we wish to introduce Gerald A. Lee who was born in the city of Brotherly Love on November 22, 1924. He started his primary education at St. Francis de Sales and later transferred to St. Carthage.

After completing his primary education, he enrolled at West Catholic High School for Boys. Here, Jerry was editor of the [illegible] weekly publication. He graduated from there in June of '42. After graduation, he worked for the Pennsylvania Railroad where he did office work before entering Villanova.

GERALD A. LEE, A.S.

In October of 1942, Jerry entered Villanova and enrolled in the School of Electrical Engineering. Gerald spent two semesters as a

Continued on Page Four

BEHIND THE 8

By HARRY EDWARDS and HANK HANRATTY

Well, it was a nice trip anyway. As for the score, N. C! But then, the score does not indicate how interesting the game was. The fighting spirit of our Wildcats was certainly something to behold especially in consideration of the fact that the score mounted high against us from the beginning. We would like to see the game when this Navy team is beaten. It would take plenty of everything that's good in football.

Even Count Villan II didn't fare too well at the game. Maybe it was the heat, or maybe it was the Navy goat, but he looked sick Saturday after the game. By the way did you notice that the Navy goat resembles B. O. Plenty (in more ways than one)?

The game announcer was so impressed with the showing of both teams on the field that he made up a mythical combination of the two and came out with: "Now Villanavy has the ball. . ." Well, maybe it was the heat. Or did they have more than just heat up in that press box? How about it Matt Kearney?

Speaking of the press box, how come Hank Ward did not arrive there for his duties until the game was already under way? The Villanovan car left here at 9:30 A. M. And does anyone know whether Hank is a Junior or a Sophomore? He certainly doesn't. At least he couldn't tell the folks listening in on the air waves.

Pete Saraceni, Bill Callaghan and Joe Wilson looking swell in their Annapolis uniforms. They just started class down there last week and here it's just another day after day.

We hear tell that the Navy scouts were interested in some of the boys on our team. Lay off, fellows, you have plenty to last you for four years, and we have just begun to fight.

It was a beautiful site for a stadium with the storied Severn on one end of the field. But the sight of the trim craft slipping up and down stream made some of our V-12 sailors seasick. A little too close to the water it seems.

Funny how those buses were lost in Baltimore. Probably a Southern plot to keep us Yankees from going to the game.

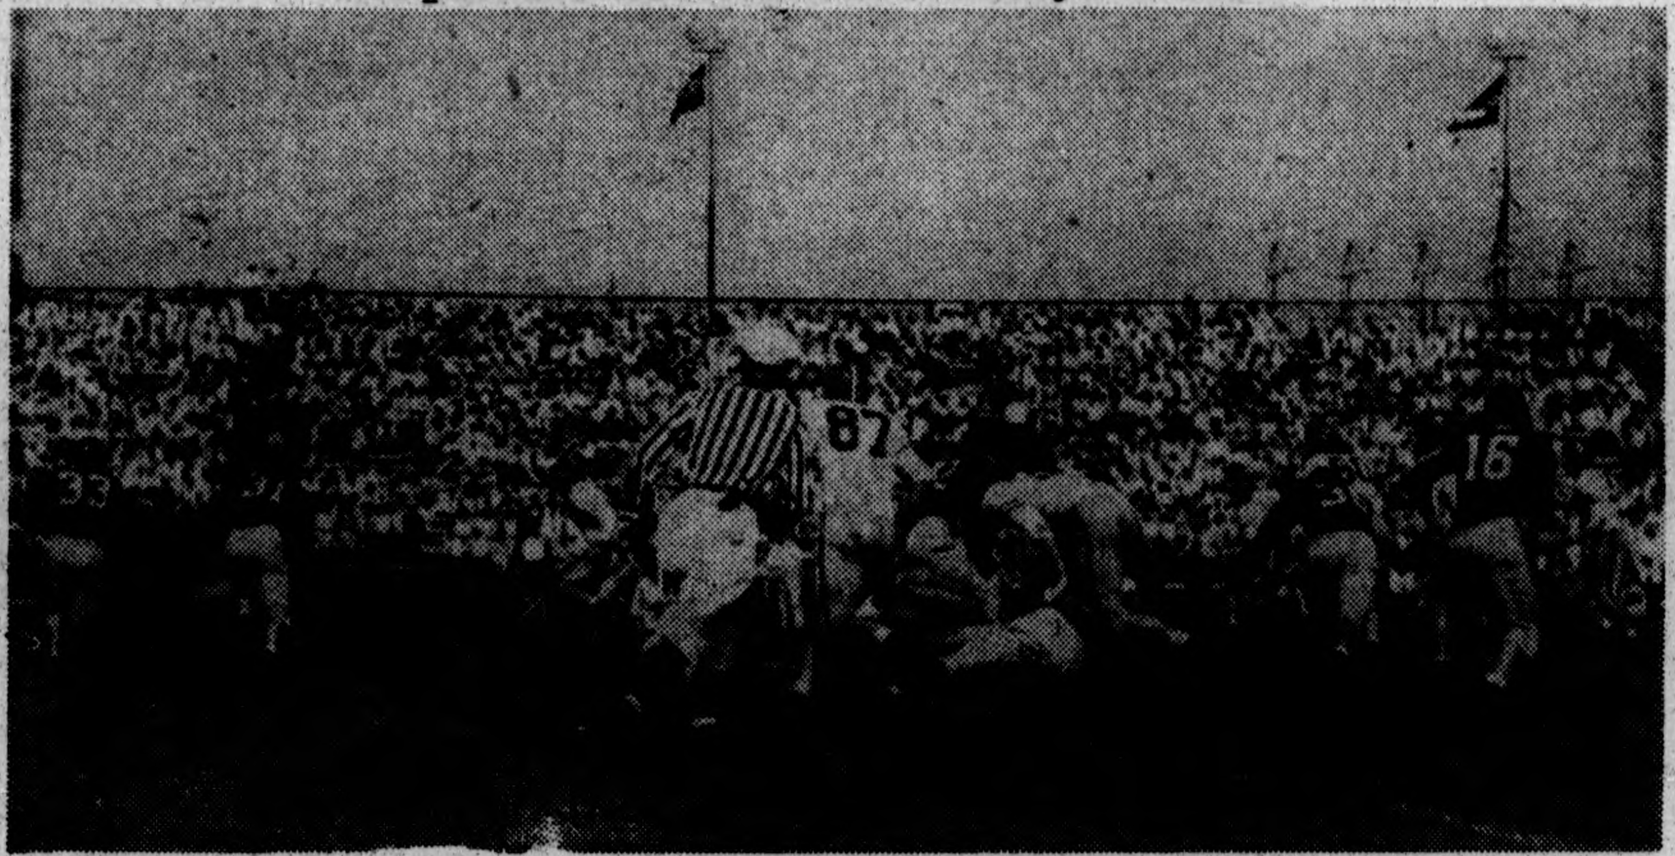
Picture of the Week

Our Alex

The picture of this week shows a Marine who cut quite a figure on the Villanova campus last year and is now doing the same at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina. Pfc. Alexander Colman, USMCR, an engineering student in the Villanova V-12 and first string guard on last year's football team, is taking a course for a reserve commission at Lejeune, after which he will go on inactive duty. He plans to return to Villanova to complete his studies.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Capriotti Rounds End Early In Game



Fullback Dave Generalli ([illegible]) runs interference for Romeo Capriotti (33) as he picks up five yards early in the first period. Other 'Cat gridmen are Joe Scarcelli (36), Tony Cocco (16), Tom Sekerchak (52), and Bob Riley (27). End Leon Bramlett (87) of Navy follows the play.

Hard-Fighting 'Cat Eleven Bows to Navy Power, 49-0

Defensive Work of Gonglefski, Sekerchak and Generalli Is Outstanding. Villanova Line Bottles Up Navy In Second and Third Periods. Capriotti Leads Offense

Using the "T" formation for the first time, Navy rolled up a 49-0 score over a hard-fighting Villanova eleven Saturday afternoon before 16,000 sweltering fans at Thompson Stadium, Annapolis, Md.

After scoring three touchdowns in the first quarter, the Navy team was stopped cold by a strong Villanova line and was held scoreless until late in the third quarter. In the second and third periods the Wildcat line broke up one Navy play after another. Led by Tom Sekerchak and Joe Gonglefski, the Villanova forward wall proved that the heavy Navy line wasn't invincible. The constant stream of Navy reserves finally wore down the Wildcats and the 'middies' scored four touchdowns in the last sixteen minutes.

Sekerchak and Gonglefski Star

Navy took the opening kickoff and marched 80 yards for the first score. Clyde Scott, veteran halfback, carried the ball down sideline for the last 26 yards. Three minutes later Navy scored again when All-American Hunchy Hoernschmeyer from Indiana passed 5 yards to Scott, who ran it 50 more yards to paydirt. Late in the first period Scott threw a 15 yard pass to Bob Kelly, former Notre Dame star, in the end zone to climax a 35 yard drive.

Then the Villanova line tightened, and Navy was unable to move. Throughout the afternoon Joe Gonglefski, left end, fought his way into the Navy backfield and broke up the end runs around his side of the line. Tom Sekerchak and Bob Riley at tackle played spectacularly. Lou Ferry and Mickey Comisky were injured early in the contest but played later.

Komarnicki Looked Good

Milt Komarnicki, center, did a terrific job of backing up the line along with fullback Dave Generalli. Jim Smith, Shep Wolford and Gene Alvarez played good ball in the guard positions. Generalli broke through the Navy line to partially block two Navy punts.

Late in the third period Navy scored their fourth touchdown

'CATS BOW TO NAVY
Continued on Page Four

Ollie's Comments

Villanova Team Gains Lot Of Experience Against Navy

As was expected, Navy was able to run up quite a score last Saturday. In fairness to the boys on the team, however, it should be pointed out that the game was closer than the score would indicate. Inexperience played a major role in many of the touchdowns chalked up against us and because of this we can look forward to the future with better and brighter hopes as the boys become more mature and acquire the "savoir faire" of the gridiron.

Despite the defeat, there were many bright spots. For the first time since last spring Dave Genneralli looked like his old swashbuckling self. Constantly plagued with minor injuries, Dave had not been very effective, but when pitted against some of the best football players in the land last Saturday he really stood out, especially on defense. Offensively his kicking got us out of trouble several times. Incidentally Dave and "Cap" Capriotti teamed up to out-punt Navy's best.

Gonglefski Standout

Our other standout of the afternoon was Joe Gonglefski. Time after time he brought down fleet Navy backs like Scott, Kelly, and Sundheim and also made a fine

OLLIE'S COMMENTS
Continued on Page Four

Velte, Riley Take Honors In Tourney As Meet Ends

Riley Defeats Butler In Three Sets While Velte Takes Three Out of Five From Ward

By FRED KOCH

Fighting against the weather the final matches of the tennis tournament were played last Thursday and Friday on the college courts. These brought together the best of tennis material to determine the champions of the two divisions.

The class B tournament was the first to get underway on Thursday with Bob Velte meeting Hank Ward in a very even match. Hank opened the match by winning the first two sets 8-6, 6-4, while Velte took the third set 6-3. Darkness prevented the completion of the match and it was postponed until Friday. However the next day with Hank having the advantage of 2 to 1, Bob Velte put on an exceptionally fine brand of tennis to take the remaining two sets and the championship by scores of 6-4, 6-3.

Velte Wins Class B

Both players employed deep base line shots with Vetle coming in to the net on frequent occasions to smash the ball away for placement shots. Ward tried hard to overcome Bob's placements and on few occasions was successful in lobbing the ball over Velte's head. Ward was very steady on his service while Vetle had frequent trouble in getting the ball over. However the main play was centered on long vollies and hard net smashes.

In the class A tournament Babe Riley was successful in downing Pero Butler by winning three straight sets 7-5, 6-4, 6-3. The play was exceptionally close throughout the match but Butler could not break through Jim's service, and the first set went to Riley 7-5. In the second set Riley broke loose and displayed remarkable tennis by taking the first five games. However Perc rallied and took the next four games to make it a close set at 5-4. It was then necessary for Riley to bear down and this he did to take the next game to lead by 2-0 in sets. In the third and final set it was Babe all the way. Perc

VELTE, RILEY WIN
Continued on Page Four

'Cats Play Marquette At Buffalo this Sunday

Third Game on Villanova Schedule To Be Played Against Veteran Team. Marquette Loses First Two Games

The third game on Villanova's eight game schedule will be played this Sunday at Buffalo, N. Y., against Marquette University. Coach Tom Stidham's Hilltop squad possesses a lot of experienced players and enough new talent to give Marquette supporters hopes for a successful season.

The team is particularly strong at the end, tackle and halfback positions. With veterans Carl Kaminski and Bob Quinsey holding down the flank positions as regulars, Stidham has few worries. Tackles Jim Terry and Bob Richardson looked like sure starters earlier this summer but several newcomers, including Johnny Gleason (a Princeton letter-winner last year), Jim Berendt and George Geers are giving them a lot of competition for their opening berths.

Many Holdovers From Last Season

Triple-threat quarterback Johnny Rudan, a veteran of last year's team, may not be able to play because of heavy classwork, but Marquette has Bob Lodde and Karl Plath to use in his place. Both players will give the opposition a lot of trouble this year.

At halfback, Paul Copoulos and Paul Glasener give the Hilltoppers a lot of experience and they should hold down starting berths. Bill Heinkel and Bob Teik, both veteran fullbacks, will help round out the hard-hitting backfield. Two freshmen, Bill Riggle and Roy Hall, give Marquette reserve strength at the halfback positions. Another freshman, Ray MacMichael, will be the first string center.

Also Play Detroit

This will be Marquette's third game. In their opener the Hilltoppers came from behind in the second half to almost upset the highly favored Purdue eleven. The Boilermakers finally won 14-13. On Saturday they were smothered, 40-13, by a powerful Wiconsin team. Other teams on the Marquette schedule are Kansas State, Michigan State, Detroit, Kansas and Kentucky.

Wildcat Gridman Leads 4th Army Air Force Team

A former Villanova tackle, Cpl. Paul Stenn, is the line bulwark this season of the Fourth Air Force Flyers football team, which is rated at the top of the new seven-team Army Air Forces Football League.

Stenn plays right tackle for the Flyers, who have won their first two games of the season including a smashing 17-14 triumph over strong Second Air Force which is led by All-Americans Frankie Sinkwich and Bulldog Turner.

Captains Team

"Villanova Paul" captained Fourth Air Force in its victory over Second Air, a game witnessed in the spacious Los Angeles Coliseum by a crowd of 61,000 which paid $161,000 to attend.

Lieutenant Johnny Baker, Flyers' coach and former University of Southern California All-American guard, describes Stenn as "the greatest tackle I ever coached, and the equal of any I have ever seen, played with or played against."

All-Service Tackle Selection

Stenn was the No. 1 man in the line for the Flyers last year, too, and was a unanimous All-Coast All-Service tackle. He made several All-American All-Service teams. Paul was slated to go overseas at the conclusion of last season but was removed from the order when

WILDCAT GRIDMAN
Continued on Page Four

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

Even thought the semester is fast coming to a close the football season is just starting into full swing. By the time this paper is in print the second game will have been played against the Navy powerhouse. The first game showed that the Cats really have the power and heart to play winning football.

Again the right tackle slot will probably be filled by the shoes of capable Clarence F. Comisky to whom the Sportlight this week is dedicated.

Mickey was born September 26, 1927 in Kingston, Pa., a little upstate city, but an an early age moved to Scranton Pa. It was here in Technical High School that Mick was soon to earn fame. He entered high school Sept. 1941 and '42 found him playing first string tackle, a spot he did not vacate till he graduated. In his senior year he was made captain of the team.

Dream Game

In his senior year at Technical, Mickey was placed on the ALL SCHOLASTIC team which was composed of the best players in the large city of Scranton.

As a member of the ALL SCHOLASTIC team Mick participated in the Dream Game which was a game played for charity between the City All-Stars and the County All-Stars. It was after this game that Mickey really had a flock of colleges on his trail.

Against Bucknell Mickey showed exactly what he had and that was a lot. One factor that showed up in particular was his team spirit.

Mick entered the hallowed halls of Villanova March 1st, 1945. In spring practice he earned himself a first-string position and through summer practice held it despite the attempts of numerous other men to take it away from him.

CLARENCE F. COMISKY

Mickey, who makes up in drive and fight for what he lacks in weight, is an education student here at Villanova.

After the season Mickey, who has already joined up, plans to enter the Navy on a three year hitch. If he likes it he thinks he will make the Navy his life's work.

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

civilian day-hop. He then went to work for the Penna. Railroad at his old job. In November 1943, Jerry was back on the campus again but this time as a Naval trainee in the V-12 program.

Since his coming to V.C., Jerry has taken part in various extra-curricular activities. He has written for the Villanovan, and the Belle Air. He is a member of the A.I.E.E., Phi Kap, has helped with many dances, taken an active part in intramural sports and is also a supporter of the music seminar. Jerry is a great lover of music, particularly that of Beethoven, Brahms and Tschaikowsky. Due to his love of music, he was given the nickname of "Ish."

As for the future, Jerry doesn't know exactly what he wants to do. He thinks he may join the regular Navy providing he likes the Navy well enough and also the Navy likes him. Gerald would also like to try to obtain a Master's Degree in Business Administration. Good Luck, Ish.

Thats' the —30— for us and may we say that it has been great to be with you. We thank you for being so indulgent and now we bid you a fond adieu.

'Bye George.
'Bye George.

Naval Machines Class Visits U. S. S. Howe

The U.S.S. Howe was the object of the second inspection tour to the Philadelphia Navy Yard of the Naval Machinery class conducted by Mr. Jos. C. Greyson. A group of the Naval Science class also took part in the tour.

The Howe, a destroyer escort of recent type which had been used by the British during the war, was returned to this country for decommissioning. The main propulsion unit consisted of four sixteen-cylinder 1700 horsepower diesel engines. Two three-cylinder diesels were used to generate the electric power for the ship. The tour covered the engine rooms, hydraulic steering gear, the gyro room, the bridge, steam and evaporator installations. The Naval Science class under Lt. Craig was given an extensive tour of the topside equipment, signal, and flying bridge.

As an added attraction, the group witnessed the crash of the helicopter near the Naval Hospital.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Wildcats! Stop Here
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE,
VILLANOVA, PA.

Velte, Riley Win

Continued From Page Three

fought back hard, but it was not hard enough. Babe's timely smash placement shots proved fatal to Butler who tried unsuccessfully throughout the match to solve them. This was indeed the best tennis seen in some time here on the campus.

Butler Loses to Riley

In the semi-finals in class A several days previous to the finals Butler defeated Horace Bernton 6-2, 6-2. Butler was complete master of this match but Bernton fought back hard and of course Perc had to be constantly on his guard to cope with his opponent's hard base line shots. In the other match played, Riley defeated Dick Shedden, 7-5, 6-3. Shedden had been playing very good tennis throughout the tournament and it was not an easy job for Jim to conquer him. Dick is the kind of player who never gives up and this proved valuable in his previous matches.

Fr. Boyle to Play Riley

This Wednesday will find Father Boyle, winner of the faculty tournament, meeting Babe Riley as an added attraction to the tournament. This will be an interesting match to watch, as Father Boyle employs hard volley shots while Riley depends on hard placement shots. These players will have to put up a close defense which will be interesting to follow.

This writer wishes to express his appreciation to all the players who have participated in the tournament to make it such a success. Also my thanks to Russ Welsh for his help and to Perc Butler for his managing the tourney during the past three weeks.

Let's have more intramural tournaments on the campus. We will appreciate any suggestions.

New Chiefs

Continued From Page Three

definite plans upon his second return to civilian life.

Chief Donaldson is highly recommended by one of the boys. While pushing boots, he ran into our own Clyde Kirlin. To quote the Chief, "Clyde was one of the best boys I had," and Clyde reiterated "Chief Donaldson was the best Chief I ever had." I wonder who paid who?

The second of the recent appointees, Chief Kizewich hails from West Pittston, Pa., and also is a college man, having graduated from West Chester State Teachers College in 1942. While in school he played varsity football, basketball and golf and found time to obtain a degree in science, with a physical education minor.

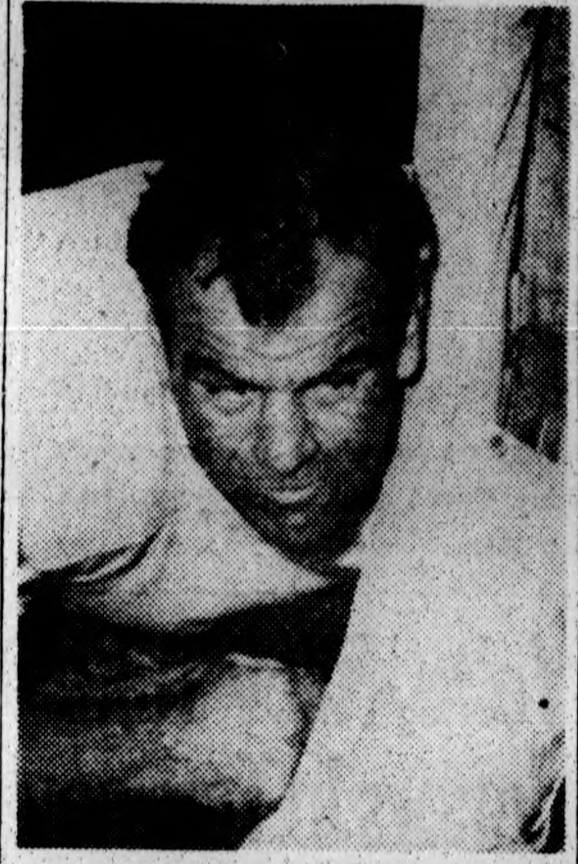
Chief Kizewich entered the Navy in April, 1943, prior to which he was employed by the Lukens Steel Co. at Coatesville, Pa. He received his boot training at Bainbridge where he attended physical instructor school. He later was assigned to Sampson where he had been stationed before coming to Villanova.

The Chief is unmarried but hastily added that he has a prospect which he hopes to land in the future. He played semi-pro football and basketball at Wilkes Barre and Scranton and hopes to follow the high school coaching line after his return to civilian life. In the meantime both chiefs will concentrate their efforts on the V-12 unit stationed here.

New Library Books

The following is a selected list of recent additions to the library collection in the fields of Economics, History, Sociology and Current Topics:

Baker, R. S.	American chronicle
Berge, W.	Cartels, challenge to a free world
Beveridge, W. H.	Full employment in a free society
Boyd, J. P.	The declaration of independence
Clapham J.	The bank of England
Dallin, D. J.	Russia and postwar Europe
Dunne, P. M.	A padre views South America
Halecki, O.	History of Poland
Heimann, E.	History of economic doctrines
Jordan, P.	Central union of Europe
Kerby, W. J.	Social mission of charity
Lynd, H. M.	England in the eighteen-eighties
McCune, W.	The farm bloc
MacLean, D.	A dynamic world order
Maurois, A.	The miracle of America
Ogden, A. R.	The Dies committee
Pettengill, S. B.	For Americans only
Robinson, J.	Economics of imperfect competition
Romulo, C. P.	My brother Americans
Stefansson, V.	The Arctic in fact and fable
Taussig, F. W.	Principles of economics. 4th ed.
Trevelyan, G. M.	English social history
Zuker M.	Philosophy of American history
U. S. Congress. House	Events leading up the World War II.
U. S. Congress. Senate	Decline and renaissance of the navy, 1922-44
U. S. Dept. of Commerce	Basic data on the other American republics



CPL. PAUL STENN

Wildcat Gridman

Continued From Page Three

he underwent an emergency appendectomy.

The Flyer star was with Villanova in 1939-40-41, and in 1942 when he was with the New York Giants, was rated among the National League's brightest "freshman" players. He is still under contract to the Giants.

Camp To Campus

Continued From Page One

have lines of people waiting at our garbage cans for any scraps that we throw away."

Lieut. Dave Reardon '42 visited the campus when he was recently transferred from the U.S.S. Chicago to Sea Bee's Camp in Davisville, R. I., where he will be dispersing officer. Dave's Medical officer on the Chicago was a Villanovan of the Class of '32, Lieut. Commander Gerald H. McAteer survived the sinking of the Aircraft carrier Hornet.

Lieut. Dan Haley '42 from a P. C. E. in the Phillipines transfers himself to the Villanova Chapel at which place he will be married to Miss Agnus Card of Philadelphia on September 29, 1945.

Lt. William E. Schubert, Class of '42, was on the campus last week. Bill is the holder of the Silver Star, Bronze Star, and several Presidential citations.

Thus once more we come to the end of the line. Until next week we close and say 'Good-bye.'

'Cats Bow To Navy

Continued From Page Three

after a 40 yard drive down the field. George Sundheim, Hoernschmeyer's teammate at Indiana last year, ran the last ten yards for the score.

In the fourth quarter Navy scored three more touchdowns, two on passes, to give them the 49-0 win. Tony Minisi, former Penn star, passed 20 yards to Ralph Williams for a six-pointer to climax a 60 yard drive. Jack Welsh went over the center of the line from the one-foot mark after Stan Turner ran back an intercepted pass for 26 yards. Welsh later passed eight yards to Dick Ambrogi for the final score. Jack Currence, substitute guard, converted seven straight extra points.

Capriotti, Generalli Backfield Stars

In the Villanova backfield the offensive playing of Alvin Hunter, Romeo Capriotti (team captain) and Chick Welde was outstanding. The punting of Capriotti and Generalli constantly got the 'Cats out of trouble. Bucky Williams, along with Capriotti, played fine defensive ball. Vince McPeak and Carl Ungaro looked very good while they were in, but they were used sparingly.

Ollie's Comments

Continued From Page Three

catch of a pass while surrounded by three Navy men.

The line played a grand game defensively as Shep Woolford, Joe Scarcelli, Jim Smith, Lou Ferry, Jack Glascott and Milt Komarnicki smothered those inside plays. "Chick" Smith finally got a chance to try out his injured ankle and looked great the short time he was in there. Offensively, we could not open up holes consistently as we did at Bucknell, nor could we protect our passer from Navy's hard charging line. This resulted in several pass interceptions by Navy.

Our quarterbacks may be criticized for throwing passes when deep in our own territory, but we were trying to score and had to take chances. We were not just trying to "run the clock out" as the saying goes.

Navy Backs Too Fast

In the final analysis, I think the Navy backs were just too fast for us to cope with as a group. On the first touchdown, Scott was trapped behind the line of scrimmage for a loss of about six yards but he sliced between two of our men, cut back across field and really ran!

Maybe it is a good thing we played Navy early in our schedule. Our "high school kids" have been well baptized. Every player we had with us got into the game except Teddy Oroski who is still suffering from a shoulder dislocation in the Bucknell game. Now they all know the feel of big time competition. They know they can't come much tougher than Navy so the boys are eager to face the rest of that schedule just to see what they can do with the rest of football's "Who's Who."

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
Member International Tailoring Co. N. Y.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
5th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

Villanova College Rings
by BARR'S
Largest Jewelers in Philadelphia
Presenting a display of College and Class
Rings for all local Schools and Colleges
A wide selection of designs, and stones.
All rings are 10 Kt. gold.
ESTABLISHED 1853
BARR'S
JEWELERS • SILVERSMITHS
1112 Chestnut St. 5600 Germantown Ave.
28 South 69th St. 4650 Frankford Ave.
WRITE FOR OUR FREE 48-PAGE CATALOG

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
The Campus
Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

Men Of Navy And Marine Corps
Put Your Savings In An Established Bank
The
Bryn Mawr
Trust Company
Every Banking Facility
Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

VILLANOVA COLLEGE — LIBRARY — VILLANOVA, PA.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 11 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1945

New Executive Officer Arrives at Navy Office

Commander Whaley Has Seen Variety Of Service; To Be Executive Officer Of V-12 and NROTC

Commander James W. Whaley, USN, last week took over the duties of Executive Officer of the Naval V-12 Unit here at Villanova it was learned today. Commander Whaley will serve in this capacity both for the present V-12 Unit and the NROTC program which starts October 29. The entire Ship's Company will be reorganized to take care of the expanded program under the NROTC.

The Commander is a native of Washington, D. C. and graduated from the US Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1935. Since that time he has seen an impressive array of active service, both ashore and afloat. His first assignment was the USS Tennessee, on which he served for one and a half years.

He then saw duty on two destroyers, the USS Bagley and the USS Aldan, which latter operated with the Asiatic Fleet. From 1941 until 1942 he was aboard the aircraft carrier USS Hornet. His next post was that of executive officer aboard the USS Terry, a destroyer.

Following this, he served as Commanding Officer aboard the Destroyer Escorts USS Deede and USS Jack Miller. He also has been Executive Officer of the V-12 and NROTC units at the University of Minnesota. His appointment to Vil-

NEW EXEC
Continued on Page Four

Drama Club Play This Friday Nite

'Up In Charlie's Room' Title Of Production; Special Liberty To Be Granted

This Friday evening, October 12, the Villanova Field House will be the scene of the Villanova Dramatic Club's second annual production. An original comedy written by C. D. Cummings, and featuring members of the student body in the male roles, with Miss Marnie Richardson of Wynnewood as leading lady, it will give the members of the club an opportunity to put their talents to the test.

The play, "Up in Charlie's Room," has been in the course of preparation for the last two months, mainly under the direction of C. D. Cummings, the club's capable writer and director. Sgt. John C. Muir, who today receives his discharge from the Marine Corps, and who during his stay at Villanova, had been moderator of the society and had collaborated with Cummings in the production of the show, will be on hand to see the performance.

The curtain will go up at 8:00 P. M. sharp and all Villanova students and their friends are invited. There will be no admission charge. The club is expecting a rather large turnout comparable to the attendance at their previous productions. Refreshments will be available during the intermission.

The plot of the play is centered about the antics of a group of college students and the difficulties they manage to involve themselves in. "Greg" Miller has the leading male role, and according to reports, handles the part quite capably. The play promises plenty of laughs and should also see some capable acting.

Commander J. W. Whaley, USN, the new V-12 executive officer, has announced that liberty will be granted to all trainees so desiring from 4:45 until 12 midnight on the night of the play, so that they may accompany their dates home.

The club has promised an enjoyable evening to all who attend and they hope that they will be able to produce another play in the near future. Since the departure of Sergeant Muir, the organization has been without a moderator, but it is expected that a new director will be found in the near future.

Fr. Tuohy, OSA, Made Moderator Of Soph Class

Appointed Moderator Of Class Of 1947; To Hold Executive Meeting Soon

REV. JOHN W. TUOHY, OSA

Rev. John W. Tuohy, O.S.A., recently added to the college faculty, has been appointed moderator of the Class of 1947, it was announced last week by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., dean of men. Fr. Tuohy arrived last week from Ojai, California, and is presently teaching in the Religion and Education departments.

The Class of '47 is the present Sophomore class which last week sponsored the very successful Sophomore Cotillion. The class had been functioning without a moderator after its recent organization by the Student Council until the arrival of Fr. Tuohy on the campus.

Father, a native of Staten Island, stated that he was well pleased with the activity and class spirit displayed by the class thus far and believes that they will be able to have quite an active organization. He plans to hol dan executive meeting of the class officers in the near future at which time plans for coming activities will be discussed.

Harry Edwards, president of the Soph class, has said that the class is solidly behind its new moderator and intend to make the Class of '47 the most active group on the campus. The success of the Sophomore Cotillion is a good indication for future activities. The appointment of a moderator completes the organization of this class, leaving only the Juniors without a moderator.

Contracts Let Out For Chem. Building

Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President, announced last week that the plans and specifications for the proposed Chemical Engineering Building had been delivered to nine contractors in the local area. The contractors are to submit their bids on the work by October 22.

The work of construction should begin shortly after that date. The plans and specifications for the new armory are as yet in the process of preparation by the architects.

Soph Cotillion Highlights

COUNT
VILLAN

One of the high spots of Saturday night's dance was the singing of the Alma Mater by the students and their friends. Also shown (inset) is the stuffed wildcat which was the keynote of the football theme featured in the decorations.

'45 Belle Air To Be Distributed This Week

John Fitzgibbons, editor of the 1945 Belle Air, has announced that the yearbook will arrive on the campus during this week and will be available for distribution to all those desiring a copy. The cost will be five dollars except to those students who have paid activity fees.

Reservations for the yearbook were taken some time ago, but there will be a very limited number available to those who did not put in their orders at that time. The time for the distribution of the books will be announced during this week, and all students are asked to secure their books at the appointed times.

JOHN FITZGIBBONS

The book, printed while war time restrictions were still in force, is nevertheless quite an attractive production, being printed partly by letterpress and partly by offset. All aspects of campus life are portrayed and there are numerous action shots and informal snaps of campus scenes.

John Seifridge, editor of the 1946 Belle Air, has announced that work on next year's book is already in the formulative stage. The staff is hoping for the lifting of the still rather stringent restrictions on paper and metal and expect to make the '46 edition of real pre-war quality.

The 1945 Belle Air will be available for distribution tomorrow, Wednesday, in the Belle Air office, Room 119 Mendel Hall. All students desiring to procure copies of the book should call at the office tomorrow.

Gay Crowd Makes Soph. Cotillion a Big Success

Chuck Gordon's Orchestra Provides Good Music; Many Alumni Gather For Summer Social

The Villanova Field House was bulging last Saturday night as the Sophomore Cotillion, first dance of the Class of 1947 and the only summer social event, went over as an unprecedented success. The dance was acclaimed by all who attended as one of the most enjoyable ever held.

The decoration of the Field House was on a football theme, with a stuffed Wildcat on a miniature football field highlighting the display. It was planned to have Count Villan II on hand for the affair but his untimely death made this impossible.

The music of Chuck Gordon was also very well received and provided an enjoyable evening's entertainment. The rendition of the Alma Mater was also very successful, as were the dedication dances for the various classes.

Fred Koch, A.S., chairman of the dance committee, states that he was very much pleased with the turnout and with the success of the entire affair. He particularly expressed his thanks to the many members of the class who served on the committees and who helped to make the dance a success.

He also extended his thanks and the thanks of the committee to all those who helped with the last minute details and who gave their time to insure the success of the affair. Without the generous assistance of the many students who helped out, it would have been impossible for the dance to have been as enjoyable as it was.

The Class of '47 will probably give the next college dance, also, when they hold their Junior Prom, the date for which has not yet been decided upon. Harry Edwards, president of the Class of '47, has stated that the class will do everything possible to have as successful a dance as soon in the future as possible.

GIFT TO COLLEGE

Four colorful prints, depicting life in Dublin in the 18th century, were presented to the College recently. The donor is Rev. Thomas J. Hurton, of St. Theresa's Parish in Philadelphia. One of the prints depicts a scene in the Dublin College library. Others are waterfront scenes. As soon as a suitable location is selected, the prints will be put on display.

Count Villan II Dies Wednesday

Wildcat Mascot Found Dead Thursday Morning; Trip To Annapolis Too Much For Little Feller

Count Villan is dead! Long live the Count! Last Thursday morning as Bob Austin and Clyde Cobb, the cat's trainers, went over to the wildcat's soft down bed to arouse him to a new day of frolicking, it was too late. The Count had passed away to his reward. And apparently he had already wasted away his first eight lives, for this time it was definitely final—the ninth and last inning. Expecting to chuck him lovingly under the chin, to brush his teeth and to manicure his nails, the trainers found only a warm, still body, dead to the world.

The sad news spread over the campus like wildfie and even reached the Villanovan office a scant two days later. Speculation was rife as to the cause of death. Was it suicide? Was the Count despondent over the stinging defeat taken at the hands of the Navy goat? Some were suspicious of sabotage, even claimed that they saw mysterious prowlers about the campus Wednesday night—probably sent by Holy Cross or Army or Detroit.

But investigation revealed that the prowlers were just a couple of Marines. Someone suggested that it might have been "something he et," but the student body rose as one and decided that it couldn't have been the "chow" which they find so uniformly excellent. So there is the mystery. Wednesday evening he is frisking about, gleefully chewing the fingers of all and sundry. Thursday morning he has already passed in his chips. The coroner's verdict was "death due to

COUNT VILLAN
Continued on Page Four

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

civilian day-hop. He then went to work for the Penna. Railroad at his old job. In November 1943, Jerry was back on the campus again but this time as a Naval trainee in the V-12 program.

Since his coming to V.C., Jerry has taken part in various extracurricular activities. He has written for the Villanovan, and the Belle Air. He is a member of the A.I.E.E., Phi Kap, has helped with many dances, taken an active part in intramural sports and is also a supporter of the music seminar. Jerry is a great lover of music, particularly that of Beethoven, Brahms and Tschaikowsky. Due to his love of music, he was given the nickname of "Ish."

As for the future, Jerry doesn't know exactly what he wants to do. He thinks he may join the regular Navy providing he likes the Navy well enough and also the Navy likes him. Gerald would also like to try to obtain a Master's Degree in Business Administration. Good Luck, Ish.

Thats' the —30— for us and may we say that it has been great to be with you. We thank you for being so indulgent and now we bid you a fond adieu.

'Bye George.
'Bye George.

Naval Machines Class Visits U. S. S. Howe

The U.S.S. Howe was the object of the second inspection tour to the Philadelphia Navy Yard of the Naval Machinery class conducted by Mr. Jos. C. Greyson. A group of the Naval Science class also took part in the tour.

The Howe, a destroyer escort of recent type which had been used by the British during the war, was returned to this country for decommissioning. The main propulsion unit consisted of four sixteen-cylinder 1700 horsepower diesel engines. Two three-cylinder diesels were used to generate the electric power for the ship. The tour covered the engine rooms, hydraulic steering gear, the gyro room, the bridge, steam and evaporator installations. The Naval Science class under Lt. Craig was given an extensive tour of the topside equipment, signal, and flying bridge.

As an added attraction, the group witnessed the crash of the helicopter near the Naval Hospital.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Wildcats! Stop Here
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE,
VILLANOVA, PA.

Villanova College Rings
by BARR'S
Largest Jewelers in Philadelphia
Presenting a display of College and Class Rings for all local Schools and Colleges
A wide selection of designs, and stones.
All rings are 10 Kt. gold.
ESTABLISHED 1853
BARR'S
JEWELERS • SILVERSMITHS
1112 Chestnut St. 5600 Germantown Ave.
28 South 69th St. 4650 Frankford Ave.
WRITE FOR OUR FREE 48-PAGE CATALOG

Velte, Riley Win

Continued From Page Three

fought back hard, but it was not hard enough. Babe's timely smash placement shots proved fatal to Butler who tried unsuccessfully throughout the match to solve them. This was indeed the best tennis seen in some time here on the campus.

Butler Loses to Riley

In the semi-finals in class A several days previous to the finals Butler defeated Horace Bernton 6-2, 6-2. Butler was complete master of this match but Bernton fought back hard and of course Perc had to be constantly on his guard to cope with his opponent's hard base line shots. In the other match played, Riley defeated Dick Shedden, 7-5, 6-3. Shedden had been playing very good tennis throughout the tournament and it was not an easy job for Jim to conquer him. Dick is the kind of player who never gives up and this proved valuable in his previous matches.

Fr. Boyle to Play Riley

This Wednesday will find Father Boyle, winner of the faculty tournament, meeting Babe Riley as an added attraction to the tournament. This will be an interesting match to watch, as Father Boyle employs hard volley shots while Riley depends on hard placement shots. These players will have to put up a close defense which will be interesting to follow.

This writer wishes to express his appreciation to all the players who have participated in the tournament to make it such a success. Also my thanks to Russ Welsh for his help and to Perc Butler for his managing the tourney during the past three weeks.

Let's have more intramural tournaments on the campus. We will appreciate any suggestions.

New Chiefs

Continued From Page Three

definite plans upon his second return to civilian life.

Chief Donaldson is highly recommended by one of the boys. While pushing boots, he ran into our own Clyde Kirlin. To quote the Chief, "Clyde was one of the best boys I had," and Clyde reiterated "Chief Donaldson was the best Chief I ever had." I wonder who paid who?

The second of the recent appointees, Chief Kizewich hails from West Pittston, Pa., and also is a college man, having graduated from West Chester State Teachers College in 1942. While in school he played varsity football, basketball and golf and found time to obtain a degree in science, with a physical education minor.

Chief Kizewich entered the Navy in April, 1943, prior to which he was employed by the Lukens Steel Co. at Coatesville, Pa. He received his boot training at Bainbridge where he attended physical instructor school. He later was assigned to Sampson where he had been stationed before coming to Villanova.

The Chief is unmarried but hastily added that he has a prospect which he hopes to land in the future. He played semi-pro football and basketball at Wilkes Barre and Scranton and hopes to follow the high school coaching line after his return to civilian life. In the meantime both chiefs will concentrate their efforts on the V-12 unit stationed here.

New Library Books

The following is a selected list of recent additions to the library collection in the fields of Economics, History, Sociology and Current Topics:

Baker, R. S.	American chronicle
Berge, W.	Cartels, challenge to a free world
Beveridge, W. H.	Full employment in a free society
Boyd, J. P.	The declaration of independence
Clapham J.	The bank of England
Dallin, D. J.	Russia and postwar Europe
Dunne, P. M.	A padre views South America
Halecki, O.	History of Poland
Heimann, E.	History of economic doctrines
Jordan, P.	Central union of Europe
Kerby, W. J.	Social mission of charity
Lynd, H. M.	England in the eighteen-eighties
McCune, W.	The farm bloc
MacLean, D.	A dynamic world order
Maurois, A.	The miracle of America
Ogden, A. R.	The Dies committee
Pettengill, S. B.	For Americans only
Robinson, J.	Economics of imperfect competition
Romulo, C. P.	My brother Americans
Stefansson, V.	The Arctic in fact and fable
Taussig, F. W.	Principles of economics. 4th ed.
Trevelyan, G. M.	English social history
Zuker M.	Philosophy of American history
U. S. Congress. House	Events leading up the World War II.
U. S. Congress. Senate	Decline and renaissance of the navy, 1922-44
U. S. Dept. of Commerce	Basic data on the other American republics

CPL. PAUL STENN

Wildcat Gridman

Continued From Page Three

he underwent an emergency appendectomy.

The Flyer star was with Villanova in 1939-40-41, and in 1942 when he was with the New York Giants, was rated among the National League's brightest "freshman" players. He is still under contract to the Giants.

Camp To Campus

Continued From Page One

have lines of people waiting at our garbage cans for any scraps that we throw away."

Lieut. Dave Reardon '42 visited the campus when he was recently transferred from the U.S.S. Chicago to Sea Bee's Camp in Davisville, R. I., where he will be dispersing officer. Dave's Medical officer on the Chicago was a Villanovan of the Class of '32, Lieut. Commander Gerald H. McAteer survived the sinking of the Aircraft carrier Hornet.

Lieut. Dan Haley '42 from a P. C. E. in the Phillipines transfers himself to the Villanova Chapel at which place he will be married to Miss Agnus Card of Philadelphia on September 29, 1945.

Lt, William E. Schubert, Class of '42, was on the campus last week. Bill is the holder of the Silver Star, Bronze Star, and several Presidential citations.

Thus once more we come to the end of the line. Until next week we close and say 'Good-bye.'

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
The Campus Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

'Cats Bow To Navy

Continued From Page Three

after a 40 yard drive down the field. George Sundheim, Hoernschmeyer's teammate at Indiana last year, ran the last ten yards for the score.

In the fourth quarter Navy scored three more touchdowns, two on passes, to give them the 49-0 win. Tony Minisi, former Penn star, passed 20 yards to Ralph Williams for a six-pointer to climax a 60 yard drive. Jack Welsh went over the center of the line from the one-foot mark after Stan Turner ran back an intercepted pass for 26 yards. Welsh later passed eight yards to Dick Ambrogi for the final score. Jack Currence, substitute guard, converted seven straight extra points.

Capriotti, Generalli Backfield Stars

In the Villanova backfield the offensive playing of Alvin Hunter, Romeo Capriotti (team captain) and Chick Welde was outstanding. The punting of Capriotti and Generalli constantly got the 'Cats out of trouble. Bucky Williams, along with Capriotti, played fine defensive ball. Vince McPeak and Carl Ungaro looked very good while they were in, but they were used sparingly.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
5th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

Men Of Navy And Marine Corps
Put Your Savings In An Established Bank
The
Bryn Mawr
Trust Company
Every Banking Facility
Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Ollie's Comments

Continued From Page Three

catch of a pass while surrounded by three Navy men.

The line played a grand game defensively as Shep Woolford, Joe Scarcelli, Jim Smith, Lou Ferry, Jack Glascott and Milt Komarnicki smothered those inside plays. "Chick" Smith finally got a chance to try out his injured ankle and looked great the short time he was in there. Offensively, we could not open up holes consistently as we did at Bucknell, nor could we protect our passer from Navy's hard charging line. This resulted in several pass interceptions by Navy.

Our quarterbacks may be criticized for throwing passes when deep in our own territory, but we were trying to score and had to take chances. We were not just trying to "run the clock out" as the saying goes.

Navy Backs Too Fast

In the final analysis, I think the Navy backs were just too fast for us to cope with as a group. On the first touchdown, Scott was trapped behind the line of scrimmage for a loss of about six yards but he sliced between two of our men, cut back across field and really ran!

Maybe it is a good thing we played Navy early in our schedule. Our "high school kids" have been well baptized. Every player we had with us got into the game except Teddy Oroski who is still suffering from a shoulder dislocation in the Bucknell game. Now they all know the feel of big time competition. They know they can't come much tougher than Navy so the boys are eager to face the rest of that schedule just to see what they can do with the rest of football's "Who's Who."

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
Member International Tailoring Co. N. Y.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 11 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1945

New Executive Officer Arrives at Navy Office

Commander Whaley Has Seen Variety Of Service; To Be Executive Officer Of V-12 and NROTC

Commander James W. Whaley, USN, last week took over the duties of Executive Officer of the Naval V-12 Unit here at Villanova it was learned today. Commander Whaley will serve in this capacity both for the present V-12 Unit and the NROTC program which starts October 29. The entire Ship's Company will be reorganized to take care of the expanded program under the NROTC.

The Commander is a native of Washington, D. C. and graduated from the US Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1935. Since that time he has seen an impressive array of active service, both ashore and afloat. His first assignment was the USS Tennessee, on which he served for one and a half years.

He then saw duty on two destroyers, the USS Bagley and the USS Aldan, which latter operated with the Asiatic Fleet. From 1941 until 1942 he was aboard the aircraft carrier USS Hornet. His next post was that of executive officer aboard the USS Terry, a destroyer.

Following this, he served as Commanding Officer aboard the Destroyer Escorts USS Deede and USS Jack Miller. He also has been Executive Officer of the V-12 and NROTC units at the University of Minnesota. His appointment to Vil-

NEW EXEC
Continued on Page Four

Drama Club Play This Friday Nite

'Up In Charlie's Room' Title Of Production; Special Liberty To Be Granted

This Friday evening, October 12, the Villanova Field House will be the scene of the Villanova Dramatic Club's second annual production. An original comedy written by C. D. Cummings, and featuring members of the student body in the male roles, with Miss Marnie Richardson of Wynnewood as leading lady, it will give the members of the club an opportunity to put their talents to the test.

The play, "Up in Charlie's Room," has been in the course of preparation for the last two months, mainly under the direction of C. D. Cummings, the club's capable writer and director. Sgt. John C. Muir, who today receives his discharge from the Marine Corps, and who during his stay at Villanova, had been moderator of the society and had collaborated with Cummings in the production of the show, will be on hand to see the performance.

The curtain will go up at 8:00 P. M. sharp and all Villanova students and their friends are invited. There will be no admission charge. The club is expecting a rather large turnout comparable to the attendance at their previous productions. Refreshments will be available during the intermission.

The plot of the play is centered about the antics of a group of college students and the difficulties they manage to involve themselves in. "Greg" Miller has the leading male role, and according to reports, handles the part quite capably. The play promises plenty of laughs and should also see some capable acting.

Commander J. W. Whaley, USN, the new V-12 executive officer, has announced that liberty will be granted to all trainees so desiring from 4:45 until 12 midnight on the night of the play, so that they may accompany their dates home.

The club has promised an enjoyable evening to all who attend and they hope that they will be able to produce another play in the near future. Since the departure of Sergeant Muir, the organization has been without a moderator, but it is expected that a new director will be found in the near future.

Fr. Tuohy, OSA, Made Moderator Of Soph Class

Appointed Moderator Of Class Of 1947; To Hold Executive Meeting Soon

REV. JOHN W. TUOHY, OSA

Rev. John W. Tuohy, O.S.A., recently added to the college faculty, has been appointed moderator of the Class of 1947, it was announced last week by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., dean of men. Fr. Tuohy arrived last week from Ojai, California, and is presently teaching in the Religion and Education departments.

The Class of '47 is the present Sophomore class which last week sponsored the very successful Sophomore Cotillion. The class had been functioning without a moderator after its recent organization by the Student Council until the arrival of Fr. Tuohy on the campus.

Father, a native of Staten Island, stated that he was well pleased with the activity and class spirit displayed by the class thus far and believes that they will be able to have quite an active organization. He plans to hol dan executive meeting of the class officers in the near future at which time plans for coming activities will be discussed.

Harry Edwards, president of the Soph class, has said that the class is solidly behind its new moderator and intend to make the Class of '47 the most active group on the campus. The success of the Sophomore Cotillion is a good indication for future activities. The appointment of a moderator completes the organization of this class, leaving only the Juniors without a moderator.

Contracts Let Out For Chem. Building

Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President, announced last week that the plans and specifications for the proposed Chemical Engineering Building had been delivered to nine contractors in the local area. The contractors are to submit their bids on the work by October 22.

The work of construction should begin shortly after that date. The plans and specifications for the new armory are as yet in the process of preparation by the architects.

Soph Cotillion Highlights

COUNT VILLAN

One of the high spots of Saturday night's dance was the singing of the Alma Mater by the students and their friends. Also shown (inset) is the stuffed wildcat which was the keynote of the football theme featured in the decorations.

'45 Belle Air To Be Distributed This Week

John Fitzgibbons, editor of the 1945 Belle Air, has announced that the yearbook will arrive on the campus during this week and will be available for distribution to all those desiring a copy. The cost will be five dollars except to those students who have paid activity fees.

Reservations for the yearbook were taken some time ago, but there will be a very limited number available to those who did not put in their orders at that time. The time for the distribution of the books will be announced during this week, and all students are asked to secure their books at the appointed times.

JOHN FITZGIBBONS

The book, printed while war time restrictions were still in force, is nevertheless quite an attractive production, being printed partly by letterpress and partly by offset. All aspects of campus life are portrayed and there are numerous action shots and informal snaps of campus scenes.

John Selfridge, editor of the 1946 Belle Air, has announced that work on next year's book is already in the formulative stage. The staff is hoping for the lifting of the still rather stringent restrictions on paper and metal and expect to make the '46 edition of real pre-war quality.

The 1945 Belle Air will be available for distribution tomorrow, Wednesday, in the Belle Air office, Room 119 Mendel Hall. All students desiring to procure copies of the book should call at the office tomorrow.

Gay Crowd Makes Soph. Cotillion a Big Success

Chuck Gordon's Orchestra Provides Good Music; Many Alumni Gather For Summer Social

The Villanova Field House was bulging last Saturday night as the Sophomore Cotillion, first dance of the Class of 1947 and the only summer social event, went over as an unprecedented success. The dance was acclaimed by all who attended as one of the most enjoyable ever held.

The decoration of the Field House was on a football theme, with a stuffed Wildcat on a miniature football field highlighting the display. It was planned to have Count Villan II on hand for the affair but his untimely death made this impossible.

The music of Chuck Gordon was also very well received and provided an enjoyable evening's entertainment. The rendition of the Alma Mater was also very successful, as were the dedication dances for the various classes.

Fred Koch, A.S., chairman of the dance committee, states that he was very much pleased with the turnout and with the success of the entire affair. He particularly expressed his thanks to the many members of the class who served on the committees and who helped to make the dance a success.

He also extended his thanks and the thanks of the committee to all those who helped with the last minute details and who gave their time to insure the success of the affair. Without the generous assistance of the many students who helped out, it would have been impossible for the dance to have been as enjoyable as it was.

The Class of '47 will probably give the next college dance, also, when they hold their Junior Prom, the date for which has not yet been decided upon. Harry Edwards, president of the Class of '47, has stated that the class will do everything possible to have as successful a dance as soon in the future as possible.

Count Villan II Dies Wednesday

Wildcat Mascot Found Dead Thursday Morning; Trip To Annapolis Too Much For Little Feller

Count Villan is dead! Long live the Count! Last Thursday morning as Bob Austin and Clyde Cobb, the cat's trainers, went over to the wildcat's soft down bed to arouse him to a new day of frolicking, it was too late. The Count had passed away to his reward. And apparently he had already wasted away his first eight lives, for this time it was definitely final—the ninth and last inning. Expecting to chuck him lovingly under the chin, to brush his teeth and to manicure his nails, the trainers found only a warm, still body, dead to the world.

The sad news spread over the campus like wildfie and even reached the Villanovan office a scant two days later. Speculation was rife as to the cause of death. Was it suicide? Was the Count despondent over the stinging defeat taken at the hands of the Navy goat? Some were suspicious of sabotage, even claimed that they saw mysterious prowlers about the campus Wednesday night—probably sent by Holy Cross or Army or Detroit.

But investigation revealed that the prowlers were just a couple of Marines. Someone suggested that it might have been "something he et," but the student body rose as one and decided that it couldn't have been the "chow" which they find so uniformly excellent. So there is the mystery. Wednesday evening he is frisking about, gleefully chewing the fingers of all and sundry. Thursday morning he has already passed in his chips. The coroner's verdict was "death due to

COUNT VILLAN
Continued on Page Four

GIFT TO COLLEGE

Four colorful prints, depicting life in Dublin in the 18th century, were presented to the College recently. The donor is Rev. Thomas J. Hurton, of St. Theresa's Parish in Philadelphia. One of the prints depicts a scene in the Dublin College library. Others are waterfront scenes. As soon as a suitable location is selected, the prints will be put on display.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

JOHN J. BURNS, JR., '47.......EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
HENRY P. J. WARD, A.S., USNR.......SPORTS EDITOR
ROBERT K. AUSTIN, PVT., USMCR.......Copy Editor
HARRY WATERS, '46.......Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46.......Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47.......Photography Editor

Columnists
Frank Ronan, '45
George Elsesser, A.S., USNR
George Aulbach, A. S., USNR
John Fitzgibbons, '45

Staff Writers
Robert J. Conway, '46
James Conaty, '48
Francis Ryan, '48
George O'Neil, '46
Anthony Mullen, '47

Sports Staff
Robert Manske, '48
James Breene, '48
Russell Welch, A.S., USNR
Mel Alpert, A.S., USNR
Fred Koch, A.S., USNR
Percy Butler, Pvt., USMCR

Circulation Staff
Peter McManus, '47
Joseph P. Sweeney, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Raymond F. Stone, '46
Bill Brown, '47
Warren Sexton, '46
Paul Curcillo, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 7, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - OCTOBER 9, 1945

Good Time Had By All

Last Saturday's Sophomore Cotillion saw one of the biggest crowds at a Villanova dance since before the war. Not at all dampened by the wetness of the night, the crowd was in great spirits and a fine spirit of fellowship prevailed. Particularly gratifying was the large turnout of alumni and recent graduates.

All of last year's graduation class who could possibly make it were there to lend their voices and presence to the happy throng and to see the Alma Mater once more. Also quite in evidence were many of those who started out their college careers as members of the Class of '47, and who have since joined the armed forces.

One could not help but notice that there was a real spirit of comradeship between the old and the new students. It was really one of the good-old-time Villanova dances, always known for their enjoyable qualities. More of them are coming in the future and many more good times can be expected.

The "Old Grads" seemed to be having a great time and were getting along quite well with the new students, and jovial reunions were taking place all night as more and more former students discovered their long-lost friends. Brotherhood was really in the air, and the atmosphere served to cement the relations of the students, both with themselves and with their Alma Mater, as no amount of classroom association can do.

The new students at Villanova got their first taste of the social side of college life, which, together with other extracurricular activity, forms such an important part in one's learning to appreciate other things in life beside studies. If one is unable to relax when it is time to relax, and to work when it is time to work, life in a world filled with other people can become very empty at times.

The cooperation displayed by the student body in helping to put the cotillion over was excellent, and nothing more could be desired in the way of response. The Soph Cotillion is the only large social event scheduled for this semester, but its unprecedented success points the way to more frequent affairs in the future.

A special vote of thanks and congratulation is due Fred Koch and the members of his committee for the fine job they did in planning and giving the dance. Without their untiring efforts and selfless sacrifice of time and energy, the dance could not have been the success that it was, and the many who attended could not have had the enjoyable time that they did. Thanks again!

'Cat Capers

By FRANK RONAN

Congrats to Fred Koch and his committee for one of the best dances held here in a long time . . .It was certainly swell to see all the old Villanovans there. Charlie "The Can" Mamzic related his experiences on the Delaware River Ferry. . .It also seemed good to see Gene Konopka back. . .

That announcement concerning Lou DiGiacomo and Bill Koerner certainly came as a surprise to all of us. We hope to have more details on this soon. . ."Red Buttons" O'Connor certainly does O.K. for himself. He must have a reserve list that he can fall back upon at a moment's notice. And we might also say at this time that if you know of anyone needing a good tire changer they should get in touch with Red Buttons or Fitz.

Some of the Frosh certainly did all right for themselves. We noticed that Tom Scanlon, Tom Daley, Ed Loughrey, Frannie Ryan and Tom Burke were getting along famously. We also would like to know just where Frank McDonald gets his connections. He certainly does O.K. for himself.

Word has just been received that Deacon Merlino has been appointed Life Guard of the Rosemont Fish Pond for the coming season. After witnessing the spectacle that Deacon presented at the party on Saturday night we feel that he could use a little life saving himself.

The loss of Count Villan II was felt by everyone on the campus last week. But the Count will be back in a month, well stuffed and brushed, to be added to the collection of A.A. trophies. We hope that we can have a Count Villan III before long.

A new mystery is bothering us again. Just how anyone can knock themselves out with a delivery wagon is beyond us, but Jean Waibel assures us that it can be done. We wonder if the occupants of a nearby car could have been the cause?

Simpson that rates a car load of Immaculatans to come visit him. It can't be Father Grimes because we hear he favors Chestnut Hill.

Bill Boyle dropped in for the weekend but we didn't have much time to talk to him as he was pretty busy with Mary O'Brien.

It looked like a class reunion at the Mill about 9:30 P.M. on Saturday. Harry Edward and the missus were present with Hank Tait, Joe Jaskula and Al Bequillard.

We would like to put in a plug for the coffee served by Nancy Weaver and Mary O'Brien. It must have been our favorite brand. It was certainly pleasant to see that Bob Manske owns a tie. Considering the trouble we have getting him to wear it, it was really remarkable.

Has anyone ever seen that angelic face that Jim Shoemaker sports when he is with Cass Miller. Boy if she only knew of the secret part of his life. Maybe if he wouldn't be at Pete's so often she could find out more. John Noonan was another one with sort of a far away look in his eyes after the dance with Posey Smith. We wouldn't want to do any forecasting but a little bird told us. . .

And our friend, Mother Dumsa showed up with one of his special Harcum friends. Where Mother finds such quiet, reserved, young ladies is beyond us. But Mother Dumsa seems to dig them up. (That is just a saying, no offense meant.)

Hal Varani was another dignitary present Sat. nite. Hal, the well known horseman and pool player, seems out of costume without those white duck pants.

It was good to see Jack O'Leary back on the campus this past week. Jack looks pretty neat with that gold stripe. . .Another visitor was Capt. Morgan who is heading back for civilian life very soon.

Next week is our last column as a Villanovan (please, no applause) so you will have to bear with us only once more. So until next

Just who is the popular guy in week. . .

Meet the Boys

By JOE GERNGROSS and JIM SHOEMAKER

WELL now you've met all the boys of the Class of '45 — all except the two boys who have been presenting the fellows to you during the past semester, and doing a mighty fine job of it too. So this week we pause to introduce you to those fugitives from the corn-country, "the men behind the pens," George Elsesser and George Aulbach.

ON the 25th of June in the year 1925 in a little house on Walnut Street, York Pa., George Michael Elsesser, Jr. — later to be known as "Red"—let his entrance into the modern world be known with a lusty yell. From that historic moment until the present day, society has been cognizant of the fact it had in its midst a truly remarkable person.

As most all children do, Red commenced his schooling at an early age. Concerning his eight years of attendance at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Parochial School, little of importance has come to our attention about the life of this future Villanovan. However, with his entrance into York Catholic High, Mr. Elsesser, Jr. came out of seclusion and went about making a name for himself around the local circles.

GEORGE ELSESSER, AS

Having little trouble with scholastic work . . . he was an honor student (as might be expected) . . . Red devoted a great part of his time to extracurricular activities in school and around the town. He was president of the School Mission Unit, took part in the Senior Play, worked as a committeeman on the Senior Prom and . . . this should be no surprise to those regular readers of this column (we thank you both) . . . was associate editor of the High's paper.

Climaxing all this in his last year Red was elected President of the Senior Class. While all this was going on within the walls of York Catholic, our first distinguished gentleman of this write-up was making rapid progress in the social world. An ardent advocate of "the wheels" George could be found six nights a week skating around the local rink. . . . (do they have skating on Sundays in York?).

While passing we would like to mention that it was when in High School that Red met a certain young lady (could her name be Adelaide? . . . yes, we think so) with whom he can be seen any weekend in York and at any social affair at the Villanova Field House.

It was in the winter of 1943 that George first came to V. C. to enroll in the School of Civil Engineering. Following a rather uneventful semester . . . the "Redhead," together with a great many of his classmates, enlisted in the Navy and found himself ordered to Villanova to complete his engineering work.

In the time of almost twenty-eight months which has passed since that date, Red has made an enviable record for himself here. Consistently an honor man and a leader among the Civil Engineers, he has been active in almost all of the campus goings-on. He is a member of the A.S.C.E., the Phi Kappa Phi, the Sanctuary Society, the Villanovan and has taken an active interest in intramural sports and social affair.

As for hobbies on the outside, George has an excellent collection of all types of recordings and his investment in these seems to hit his paycheck rather hard each month. One of his major interests which he has not had much opportunity to indulge in while in college is his love for good food and . . . get this . . . his ability to cook same. Naturally being the

Continued on Page Four

BEHIND THE 8

By HARRY EDWARDS and HANK HANRATTY

After asking sixteen girls we finally managed to get our dates and to put in our appearance at the Soph Cotillion. In spite of the rain Villanova social lions were at their best.

Even John Coyne with his immortal Conshohocken shuffle was pushed into the background by the antics of such very capable artists as Foster Blough and Karl "Adonis" Schneider. Foster, who gave every indication of being stone deaf, somehow managed to straight dance to the fast numbers and to jitterbug during the slow ones. Karl, who is saving all of his energy to win the Wonder Man Contest, did nothing more strenuous than a "one two to the right, one two to the left, and so on indefinitely." It is the opinion of these writers that these men ought to get a refund from their dancing school.

Many people wondered what was the inspiration behind the football field decorations. Those who inquired probably never saw Jack Glancey or Jim Conaty dance. Incidentally Jack, you looked good in your new suit. When are you going to be laid out?

Originally Chick Smith's jalopy was to be the centerpiece for the decorations. However, despite the efforts of Newt Ward, Red Brown, and other members of the decoration committee, no opening could be made large enough to fit the car through. We are sure that the engineering profession would shudder if they could see the men upon whom they will have to depend in action. However, the chemical engineers dug up Count Villan I, stuffed him, and used him in the car's stead. Incidentally, Count Villan II ate food from Villanova's cafeteria. We wonder what killed Count Villan I.

Even many of our old, outmoded, and decrepit seniors managed to get out of their rocking chairs for the night to attend the affair. However, those who did attend did nothing but sulk all night over the fact that the youngsters of the campus were so much more capable of throwing dances.

Also in attendance were many ex-Villanovans. Among these were Joe McLaughlin, Harry Lyons, and Dick Randolph. Larry is in the V-5 at F & M, Joe is an assistant accountant at Indiantown Gap, and Dick is leaving "to win the battle of the peace" on the 15th of this of the peace on the 15th of this month. We are sure that many of our readers bumped into them a number of times during the night—and we mean this literally. We don't know whether it was their dates or whether they were trying to catch up on lost sleep. At any rate, it would be a good idea if they tried dancing with their eyes open.

Frank Costa was also there but we didn't recognize him without Marian hanging out of his arm. One of the highest ranking officers at the affair was former student Daniel Murphy. Dan was sporting one stripe on his arm. I'll bet he felt good with all the A.S.'s around. Jim McNamara was sporting an Admiral's daughter. "What are you aiming for Jim, a promotion or a discharge?

Kling had bought a ticket, had gotten a means of transportation, had chiseled the money, but still didn't show up at the dance. Was it cold waiting on the corner, Harry?

Campus Briefs

Student Council

John Fitzgibbons, president of the Student Council, has announced that there will be an important meeting of that organization on Friday, October 12, at one o'clock in Room 215 Mendel.

All members are asked to be present, as several urgent problems will be considered at that time.

• • •

Belle Air

The 1945 Belle Air will be available to those desiring a copy tomorrow, Wednesday, in the Belle Air office, Room 235 Mendel Hall. The cost of the book is five dollars except to those students who have paid activities fees.

All students desiring to work on the 1946 Belle Air may leave their names in the office tomorrow.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcats Upset Marquette 6-0, on Capriotti's Score

Cap's 24-Yard Sprint Gives Villanova Second Victory Of Season. Scarelli Sets Up Score With Recovery. McPeak Stops Drive Late In Game

The Villanova Wildcats roared back into the win column Sunday afternoon with an upset victory over the favored Marquette Hilltoppers to the tune of 6-0. Romeo Capriotti rounded out a brilliant afternoon with a twenty-four yard dash over the goal stripe to provide the margin of victory for the Cats. Though this was the only score of the game, Villanova made it a decisive win over the opponents and led the play all the way.

The winning touchdown came in the second period when the Hilltopper's quarterback, Bill Hickey, fumbled the ball on his own 24. Joe Scarcelli, who played another bang-up game, pounced on the pigskin. On the next play Capriotti took the ball and, slashing through tackle, went all the way to the final stripe. Dan Marshalik's try for the extra point was wide.

Game Played At Buffalo

The game was played before a crowd of 15,000 fans in the Civic Stadium of Buffalo. It was arranged by the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce to provide football entertainment for the local residents who have no major teams of their own engaging in competition.

The veteran Marquette eleven, a pre-game 12 point favorite to take the Wildcats, threatened only once during the game. In the first half they carried the ball to the Villanova 12 on several passing plays by Bill Hickey and Paul Glasener. At the crucial moment, however, Vince McPeak, who captained Sunday's game, knocked down a pass on the goal line and the Cats took over. At other times Marquette fumbles gave Villanova more scoring chances, the Hilltoppers committing a total of eight bobbles.

Scores Winning Touchdown

ROMEO CAPRIOTTI

The Wildcat backfield marched down deep into Marquette territory on three occasions with Vince McPeak, Ed Lawless, Charley Welde, Dave Gennaralli and Bill Doherty carrying the ball for consistent gains. The drives bogged down at the Hilltoppers' 10, 12, and 22.

Cap Sparks Drive

Joe Scarcelli, Milt Komarnicki, and Joe Gonglefski played their usual brand of heads up ball to stand out in the Villanova line, setting the Marquette tacklers back on their heels. Capriotti was the standout in the Cat backield. Aside from the winning touchdown scamper, Cap provided other gains on numerous occasions, tackled hard, and punted with precision.

The win over Marquette gives

'CATS UPSET
Continued on Page Four

Ollie's Comments

McPeak, Capriotti Give Team Big Boast In Win

For the third straight time our team was the underdog and once again the boys proved they have what it takes in the pinches. Througout the game we received a lot of the breaks, but they were of the type engineered by the hard tackling of Cap Capriotti and Vince McPeak.

On offense Cap was our big gun with several sparkling runs. Although injured early in the game he still put on a show in the later stages when he returned to help hold Marquette.

Pass Defense Good

For a change our pass defense was very good. Milt Komarnicki intercepted the first Marquette pass and picked up about twelve yards runing it back. McPeak, Ed Lawless and Fred Graziani knocked down many touchdown threats after that.

The line played its usual good defensive game despite the muddy field. Tom Sekerchak blocked a punt that might have put us in a hole and when a penalty set Marquette on our ten yard line Smitty, Joe Gonglefski, Mickey Comisky and the others dug in and took the ball on the six. The only place Marquette really gained was near the midfield stripe and in their own territory.

Lawless Punts 55 Yards

The play that broke Marquette's back was a 55 yard punt by Eddie Lawless that went out of bounds on the Marquette six yard line. This was in the closing minutes of the ball game when they were taking desperate chances. After three plays they were on their own six inch line and were forced to punt. The game was ours as Bill Doherty ran a few time killing plays.

Marquette had fine experienced backs in Rudan, Teik, Glasener and Copoulos but fumble making tackles by our boys proved their undoing.

We'll Be Underdogs

All our future opponents but Boston College won by large scores over the weekend so we should be underdogs for the next four games. That's all right with us—the boys would not want it any other way.

SEEN From the Sidelines

The 1945 World Series finds another ex-Villanova star in the headlines. Lenny Merullo, who went from here to the Major League, is playing shortstop for the Chicago Cubs. Because of injuries he hasn't performed in many games recently, but he should be in the starting lineup of the final games.

Carl Oerth Award Presented To Don Schmitt Saturday

Pen And Pencil Set Given To Captain Of This Year's Track Team During Soph Cotillion

The annual Carl Oerth Memorial Award was presented to Midshipman Donald Schmitt, USNR, during the intermission of the Sophomore Cotillion Saturday night at the Field House. The award, a memorial to a former Villanovan killed in action, was presented by the Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., to Schmitt, who captained the 1945 Villanova track team.

DON SCHMITT, USNR

Each year the award, a pen and

AWARD PRESENTED
Continued on Page Four

Jim Riley Defeats Fr. Boyle In Close Match, 6-4, 7-5, 9-7

In a special match played Wednesday afternoon Jim Riley, Class A champion, defeated Fr. Joseph Boyle, winner of the Faculty tournament, in three close sets. The scores, 6-4, 7-5, 9-7, show that the match was close all the way and was the longest three set match played in the tournament.

Riley's serve didn't fool Fr. Boyle but his steady forehand and backhand gave him the margin of victory. The deep baseline shots were spectacular and the fans watching the match were constantly on their feet. The two champs went to deuce time after time before one of them could win the match.

Medals Will Be Given Monday

Tournament Chairman Fred Koch has announced that the medals to be given the winners and runner-ups will be presented Monday. The four medals, now being engraved, were on display throughout the Summer on the Mendel Hall bulletin board.

The Class A medals will be given to Jim Riley, the winner, and Percy Butler, USMCR, whom he defeated in the finals 7-5, 6-3, 6-2. Bob Velte, USNR, will receive the Class B championship medal while Hank Ward, another Fedigan sailor will get the second place award. Velte won his final match 4-6, 6-8, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Villanova Travels North To Meet Holy Cross Team

Crusader Squad Led By Stan Koslowski, Veteran Halfback. Joe Byers, Local Prep Star, Also To Be In Starting Lineup

Traveling once again to Worcester, Massachusetts, the Villanova varsity football eleven will meet a comparatively strong Holy Cross team on next Saturday. Coached by John "Ox" DaGrosa, who at one time was a member of the Temple and Philadelphia Eagles coaching staff, the Crusaders will have to fight off a Villanova attack in remembrance of last year's encounter which the Holy Cross team took 26-0.

Sparking the Holy Cross backfield will be big Stan Koslowski, who saw service against the Wildcats in 1943. Standing at six foot, one inches, two hundred and ten pounds, Stan is a potential All-American ballplayer. Veto Kissel will be a probable starter at fullback. Steven Conroy will see plenty of action at quarter while "Ox" Da Crosa will start wingback Joe Byers, former St. Joseph's Prep School ace.

Dick Durand and Jim Dieckleman will open at the flanks and they promise to be plenty of trouble to the Cats throughout the game. Tex Donnally and Roger Desroches are a good bet for starting tackles, and Bill Cregar and Billy Goepfrich will hold down the guard slots. The pivot man for DaGrosa is a hard choice, but veteran Frankie Kronoff will probably draw the lucky number.

Holy Cross will meet several tough numbers this season among which are such teams as Boston College, Dartmouth, Yale and, of course Villanova.

An interesting note about the school's athletic staff is that Jack Barry is a member. Barry will be immediately recognized as the former star infielder and Hall of Fame with the Philadelphia A's. Barry is the acting director of Athletics at Massachusetts school.

Over the weekend all of Villanova's future opponents won their games with one exception. The exception was Boston College, who suffered a 54-7 defeat at the hands of Brown University. Army scored the most impressive win, a 54-0 walkaway over a highly outclassed Wake Forest eleven.

Tommy Morgan On First Air Force Team This Year

Lt. Thomas J. Morgan, who played quarterback for the Villanova College elevens in 1940 and 1941, is a backfield ace this year with the new First Air Force football team.

LT. TOMMY MORGAN

Tommy, a native of Bloomfield, New Jersey, is with the Aces this season after playing last year for the Third Air Force team in the seven-team Army Air Force League. He was an outstanding play-

TOMMY MORGAN
Continued on Page Four

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

I would like to once again dedicate this article to one of the members of our gallant football team.

He is Sheppard C. Woolford whose one ninety pound, five foot nine inch frame is fast gaining respect on the gridiron. Shep is one of the young men that represents New Jersey here on the campus, having been born in Millville, November 3, 1927.

Two-Letter Man

When the Millville High School resumed classes in September, 1941, Sheppard enrolled here. In his Sophomore year Shep made the varsity. In his last two years in high school, Shep was on the first string. Also in these last two years Shep was picked on the All-County team which embraces the whole of Cumberland county, which is quite a big place.

Basketball also fell into Shep's line. He played first string in both his junior and senior years. In his senior year he was elected co-captain of the basketball team.

First String Guard

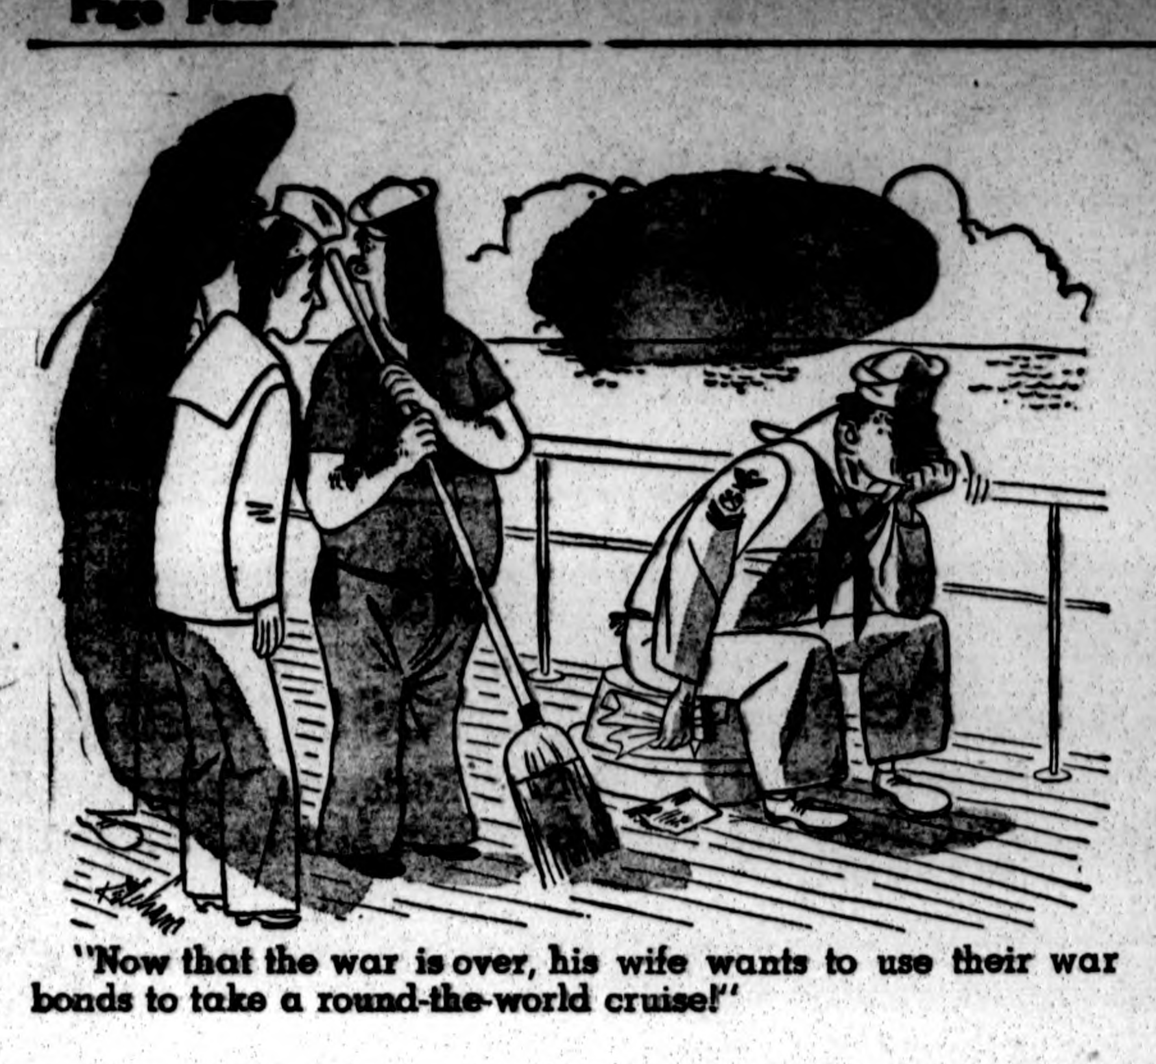
Shep came to Villanova this summer and went right out for football practice. He took a guard position away from a fellow who was here for spring practice.

When I mentioned the fact that he was first-string, he flatly denied it. The reason he denied it was the fact that a team is a team and everybody is working for each other, not for personal glory. Truthfully Shep's attitude is quite hard to put down on paper but just talk to him for a minute and you'll see what he means.

SHEPPARD WOOLFORD

In the games Villanova has played to date Shep has showed that he really deserves the first string berth. Against Navy he wasn't in the best of condition but he didn't ask any favors and still played a wonderful game.

Here at Villanova Shep is an Education student and he has hopes of someday becoming a coach.



"Now that the war is over, his wife wants to use their war bonds to take a round-the-world cruise!"

Award Presented

Continued From Page Three

pencil set, is given to that member of the graduating class who did the most for the track team. Carl Oert was a member of the track team in his first year at Villanova and his College career was cut short when he joined the service. He died in action in the European theater.

Don led the Villanova track team to one of its best seasons in many years and was considered by many as one of the best College milers in the East. As anchor man on the mile relay team, Schmitt helped the team to capture the famed Millrose Mile and many other races.

A member of the Class of '45, Don is now at Midshipman's school in New York and expects to get his commission early next month.

New Exec

Continued From Page One

lanova followed his work at the former institution.

The new commanding officer for the V-12 and NROTC programs is expected to arrive on the campus this week. Full details as to the functioning of the new program, as well as the disposition of students now in the V-12, have not yet been revealed. Details will be announced as soon as official announcements are available from Washington.

The new Naval Company will form the faculty and administration of the Department of Naval Science, which will become a part of the college academic setup upon the start of the NROTC program. Further details of the organization of this department are also still to be revealed.

Wildcats! Stop Here
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE,
VILLANOVA, PA.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

Count Villan

Continued From Page One

cause or causes unknown."

Who Will Succeed the Count?

The beloved cat's body was not yet cold when controversy arose about the succession to the throne as the Villanova mascot. The problem is complicated by the fact that Villan II left no issue, and moreover, so far as is known, failed to designate a successor to his estate. This was the occasion of sore distress to Pvt. Gamp, USMCR, who was closely associated with the Count in life and expected that he might be the beneficiary to the title and estate. But even Gamp was cut off without a scent.

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., seizing the powers of Regency, has rejected all local contenders to the earldom (or is it County?) and has directed his agents in Florida to search out a suitable cousin of Villain II who might accede to the title as Count Villan III.

Meanwhile plans for the fitting disposition of the mortal remains of the cat have proceeded apace. There was a clamor for a state funeral with interment under the goal-line in the stadium. However, a suggestion that a monument made of his remains won greater favor.

And so a taxidermist was called in to perpetuate the memory of this Villanova pussy in a suitable mounting. The disconsolate trainers, Austin and Cobb, who declared their pet had never flinched even in the face of the highly touted Navy goat, admitted sadly that when the Count met the taxidermist he lost his guts.

Saddened, but not disheartened by the loss of their gentle mascot, the Villanova football players made their journey to Buffalo determined to bring the palm of victory back to the campus and lay it at the feet of the Count. The memory of the cat will be with them throughout the season and, if his growl will no longer be heard, they will not let it be said that the Wildcats are silent. They will roar their way on to victory.

Count Villan's death was actually caused by an accident which he suffered the week before his death. In his capers he was entangled by his harness and suffered both cuts and a fractured bone in his left side. It was this fractured bone pressing against a nerve which caused his fits and ultimately his death.

Villanova College Rings
by BARR'S
Largest Jewelers in Philadelphia
Presenting a display of College and Class
Rings for all local Schools and Colleges
A wide selection of designs, and stones.
All rings are 10 Kt. gold.
ESTABLISHED 1853
BARR'S
JEWELERS • SILVERSMITHS
1112 Chestnut St. 5600 Germantown Ave.
28 South 69th St. 4650 Frankford Ave.
WRITE FOR OUR FREE 48-PAGE CATALOG

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

connoisseur of food that he is completely sold on that "good food" of York.

In the future Red hopes to continue work in the Civil Engineering line and we are sure he will go far as he carries with him that same likable personality which has won him so many friends here on the campus of Villanova.

* * *

DESPITE its small population, York boasts of yet another Villanovan son, . . . or is it vice versa. This one, too, answers to the name of George—George Louis Aulbach, preferably. Shoulder to shoulder with his "bosom buddy" Elsesser, George Louis braved the primitive hardships of his early pioneering days in York.

He took his first squint at the sunlight on July 9, 1925, just fourteen days after "Red," and then closed his eyes again and didn't open them until days later . . . already a sack hound at the age of "0". Aulbach claims the same grammar and high school as "Red", being in the same class with him from start to finish. (As a matter of fact, it was only a one room schoolhouse.)

GEORGE AULBACH, AS

While in York Catholic High School (Yea York! . . . quiet, George!) Aulbach too wrote for the school paper, worked on the Senior Prom Committee, played Intramurals, and was an Honor student . . . this despite the fact that he slept through the greater part of his classes. Between naps he also managed to play with the school orchestra . . . would that he kept sleeping!

Having spent his entire youth until his high school graduation in YORK, Aulbach decided that it was time to seek greater fields . . . of endeavor, I mean. So, once again he and "Red" got together, packed their bags, and arrived at good old V. C. in February of '43 in that envied civilian status. In March 1944 he joined the V-12 and was stationed here.

As a Navy Student, "Rip Van" Aulbach, former sack hound, ironically enough became Mendel's Company Bugler. George's activities here include the ASCE, the Phi Kappa Pi, the Villanovan, the Sanctuary Society, the Choir, and . . . ah yes . . . the band. George further states that he ran on the track team . . . many of the fellows who have seen him on the track doubt whether he was that fast. George's willingness to lend a ready ear at all times has won him many friends at Villanova.

As for future plans, George intends to practice his beloved C.E. He states the length of time he will spend in the Navy is rather uncertain . . . depending on the Navy. As for unpredictable George's romantic life, it is best answered by "?".

George and George's service in writing up their classmates for the Villanovan has been, they say, a pleasure and in some respects we are inclined to agree with them. Where they got all the dirt they did is not known but they did their best to rival even the acid tongue of their predecessor, Tom Welch.

So now we bid farewell to two down-right fine fellows who really carried the spirit of Villanova in their hearts, and, what is even more important, practiced that spirit. What else can Villanova say but "Thanks, fellows", good luck, and

'Bye George. 'Bye George.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

'Cats Upset

Continued From Page Three

Villanova its second victory in three starts. For Marquette it was the third successive defeat, previous losses having been suffered at the hands of Purdue and Wisconsin. By their win over the Hilltoppers the Wildcats served notice to Stan Koslowski, Joe Byers, and the rest of the Crusaders that this coming Sunday will mark the end of the winning streak of the Holy Cross eleven, who have scored wins over Dartmouth and Yale.

Tommy Morgan

Continued From Page Three

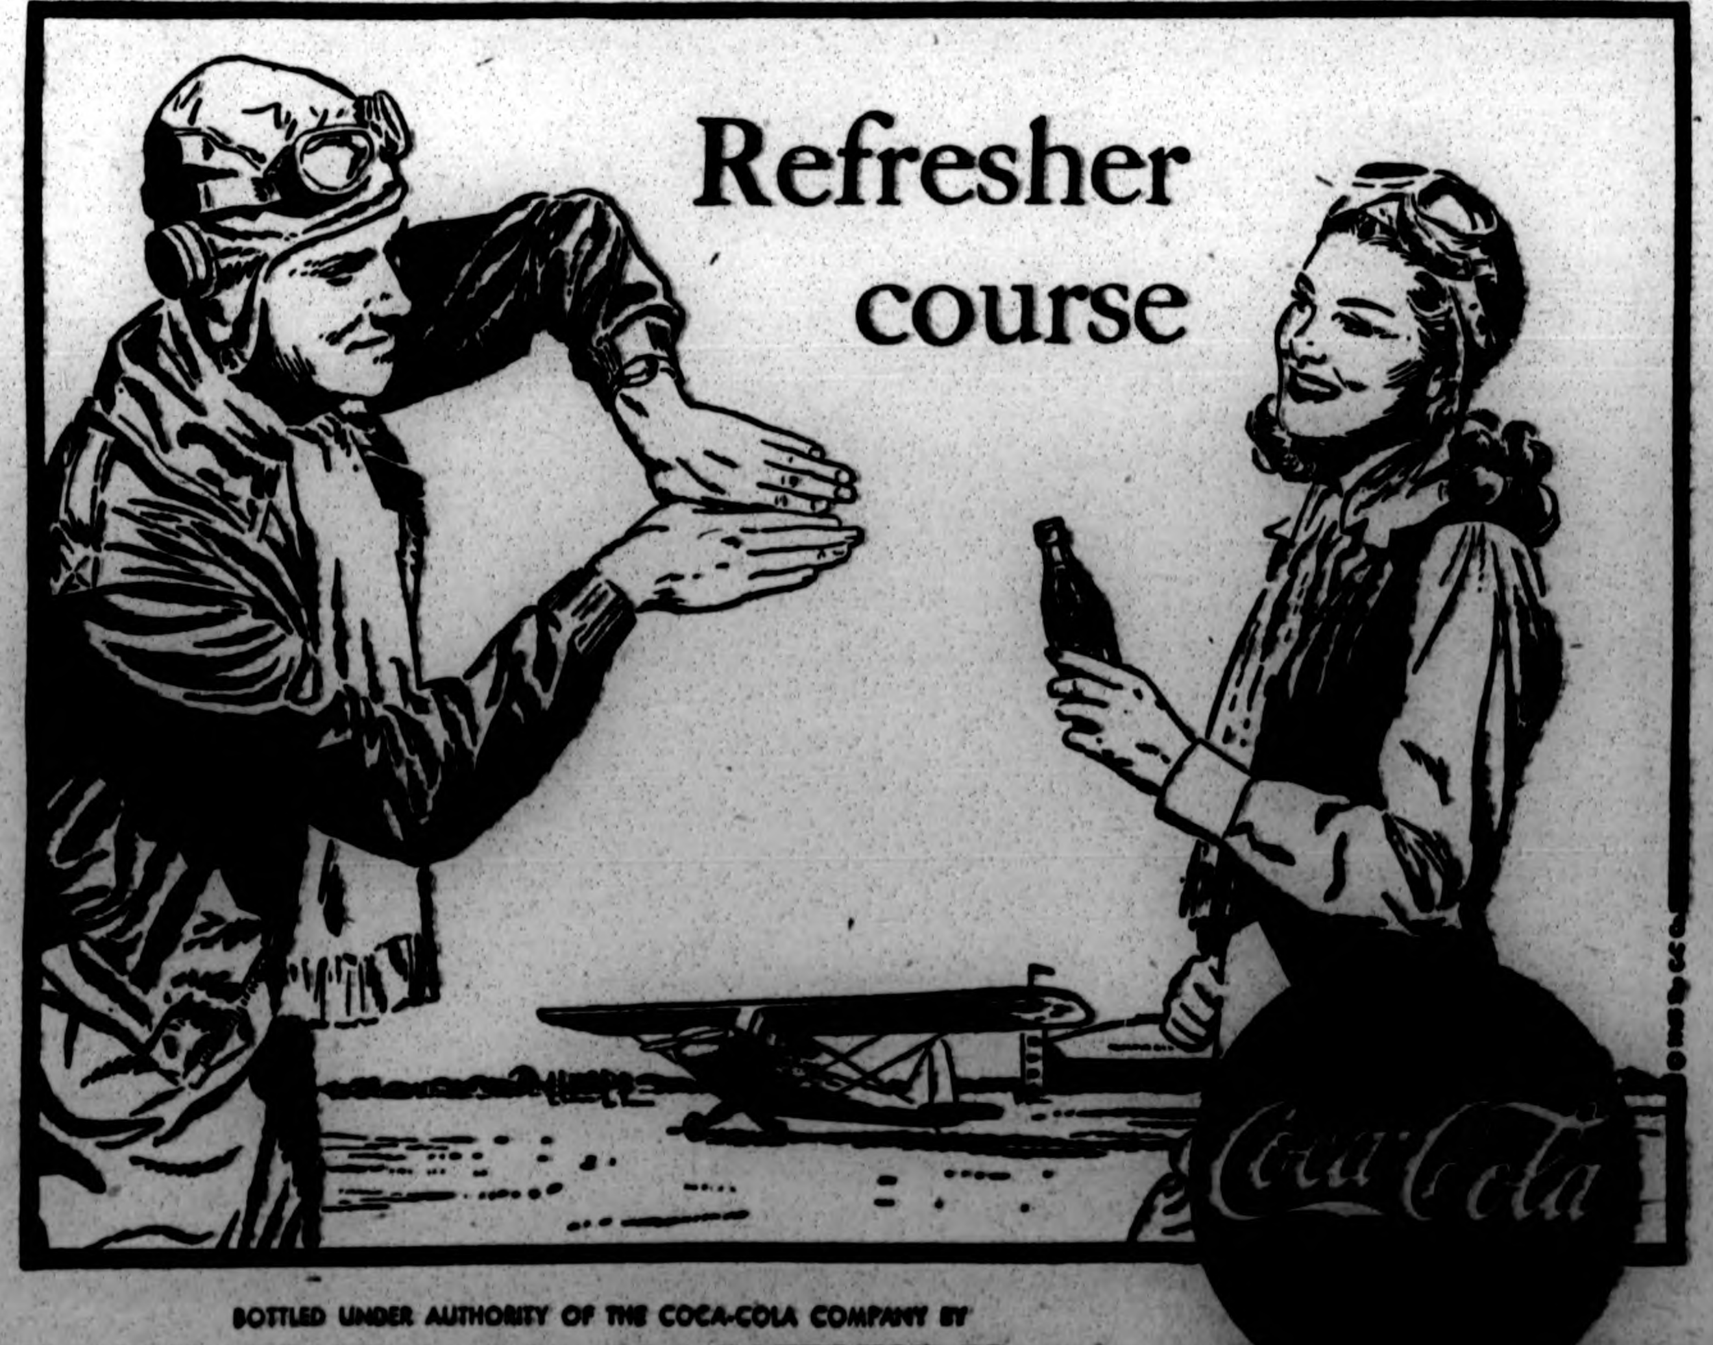
er last season and is expected to hold down the first string berth with the Aces this year.

Morgan played for Bloomfield High School before entering Villanova and while there he garnered All-New Jersey honors. Upon leaving Villanova in the spring of 1942, he joined the Air Corps and since then has seen a lot of action.

Lt. Morgan will appear with the First Air Force team when they play the Second Air Force Nov. 18, at Freeport, L. I., N. Y. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Morgan, and his wife, Gloria, live at 789 Broad St., Bloomfield, N. J.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
Member International Tailoring Co. N. Y.

ICE Aristocrat CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.



BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 12 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1945

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Navy Office Reorganized For NROTC Program

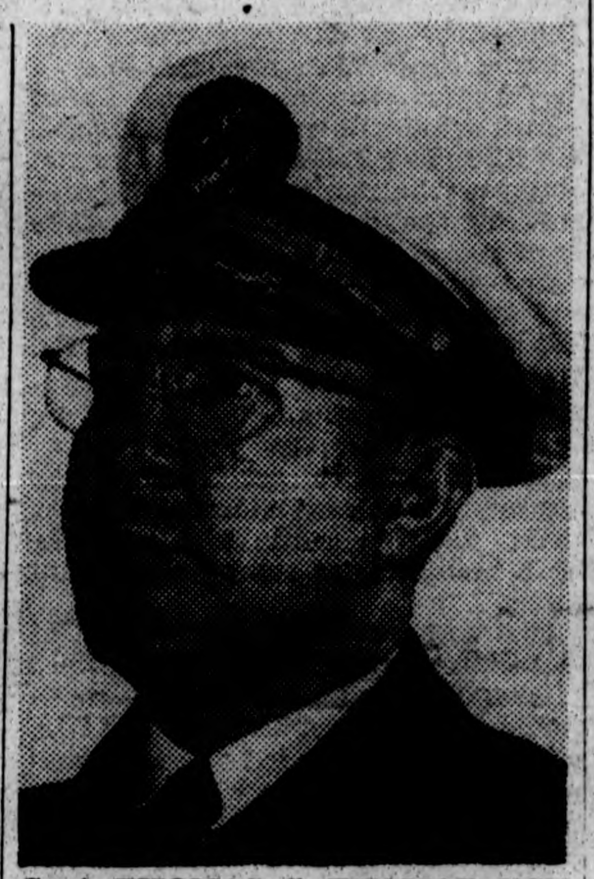
Capt. Thomas New Commanding Officer; Two Other Officers Receive Promotions

By GEORGE O'NEIL

Capt. Thomas C. Thomas, USN, has been appointed commanding officer of the Villanova Naval V-12 Unit and the new NROTC program which will commence next semester. The new officer assumed the post Oct. 6, Comdr. James W. Whaley, USN, new executive officer, having acted as commanding officer until his arrival.

Capt. Thomas was assigned to the college to fill the vacanacy left by Comdr. Edward Hannah, USNR, commanding officer of the V-12 for the past year, who was hospitalized Oct. 4. Eventually, Comdr. Hannah will report to the Third Naval District, New York City, as assistant communication officer for the district.

Comdr. JAMES WHALEY, USN



Capt. THOMAS C. THOMAS, USN

Captain Thomas is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, class of 1925. The new commanding officer has served on all types of naval craft and ashore with naval aviation units in the capacity of chief officer.

He has had post-graduate work at the Naval War College, Newport, R.I., and studied meteorology at the California Technical Institute. At the outbreak of World War II, he was assigned to Dutch Harbor, Aleutian Islands and served as meteorologist and executive officer there for a year.

In 1943, Captain Thomas spent several months at Fairbanks, Alaska, with the Russian mission stationed there. In this instance, he served as special liaison officer for the U.S. Army and Navy. In August of the same year, he joined the Pacific fleet and was promoted to his present rank in November, 1944. He returned to the states to take command of a division of small high-speed transports on the East Coast. Prior to his assignment to Villanova, he was hospitalized on the West Coast because of a service-incurred injury received in the spring of 1945.

The promotion of two college V-12 officers to the rank of Lieutenant Commander, has been announced by the Navy office. The newly elevated men are Lieut. Comdr. Carl Lorenz, USNR, and Lieut. Comdr. Vincent Miles, USNR. Lt. Comdr. Lorenz has received a change of orders and will remain

NAVY OFFICE
Continued on Page Four

In Memoriam

Word has just been received of the death of the mother of Professor Emil Amelotti. Mrs. Amelotti died in Italy three years ago.

The members of the Villanova Staff and the entire student body of Villanova College wish to take this opportunity to extend to Professor Amelotti their deepest and heartfelt sympathy.

Student Council Fills Vacancies

In order to start the coming semester with a full complement of officers, the Student Council last week held elections to fill the vacancies existing in its administrative setup. John Fitzgibbons, president of the body, presided at the meeting.

Joe Hoffman, who was elected to the presidency last semester, will return to take over the duties of that office after the summer vacation. Harold Varani was elected vice-president and Harry Edwards was chosen to fill the office of secretary-treasurer.

It is planned to bring the Council up to its full membership during the coming semester, and to have representatives from all the classes and active organizations. The Council functioned during the war with a limited membership and was unable to undertake all the projects desired.

The election meeting on Friday was the first official meeting of the organization this semester, but regular meetings are planned for the future. The Council plans to publish the college handbook as soon as possible and to reinstate

STUDENT COUNCIL
Continued on Page Four

Work On Alumni Hall To Be Completed Soon

Alumni Hall will be ready for occupancy for the coming term after being remodelled extensively inside. The new features of the building include a new fire-proof stairwell, permanent wall construction replacing the temporary partitioning, and new plumbing and electrical systems.

A new suite of rooms was put into the first floor for a student counsellor, so that there will be three counsellors instead of two as before. The chimney on the roof of the hall was removed to improve the external appearance of the building. The whole building was repainted inside.

It will be used as a dormitory for the civilian students during the new term, while the service men will occupy Austin, Fedigan and Mendel Halls. Until the armory is built, the Alumni Hall gym will be used for the Naval Science laboratory work.

Dr. Burke Resigns; Banmiller Made New Alumni Head

Francis X. Robinson Elected Second Vice President As John Gallen Becomes First Vice President

At a recent meeting of the Board of Governors of the Villanova College Alumni Association, Dr. Edward J. Burk, '23, resigned from his office as president of the association. He was succeeded by Paetrus F. Banmiller, '35, in accordance with the constitution of the association. Dr. Burke has been ill and strictest doctor's orders occasioned his resignation. The resignation was tendered and received with regret.

Mr. Banmiller, the new president, was the first vice-president until Dr. Burke's resignation. A graduate in Electrical Engineering in the class of 1935, Mr. Banmiller was for a number of years the Registrar of Villanova College. He is presently employed by the Budd Manufacturing Company. He is married and is the father of four children, including a pair of twins.

DR. EDWARD BURKE

Stepping up into the position of first vice-president is John J. Gallen, '27. Mr. Gallen, Assistant Professor of Civil Enginering at Villanova, was formerly second vice president. He was succeeded in that position by Francis X. Robinson '21, who was elected unanimously by the Board of Governors. Mr. Robinson was the winner of the Loyalty Award last winter.

At the same meeting of the Board of Governors, three new men were added to the Board. Lt. Col. J. Brad. McManus, '40, Lt. Commander Leo Lynch, '16, and Rev. James F. Connors, '28 are the new members.

Officers Elected By Delta Pi

Delta Pi Epsilon, the campus Commerce and Finance fraternity, last week held elections to fill the executive offices for the coming semester. John Fitzgibbons, retiring president, presided at the elections, which were held last Wednesday.

Robert Conway was elected president and Gerald DeMuro was chosen to fill the office of vice-president. Robert Manske and George O'Neil were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively. D.P.E.'s final meeting of the semester was held yesterday and the members were addressed by the new and retiring officers.

Delta Pi Epsilon is making plans for an expanded program of activities during the semester, and it is expected that with its increased membership it will again become one of the most active frats on the campus.

Graduation Exercises To Be Held Sunday

Twenty-Six Students To Receive Degrees; Fr. Caffrey To Preach at Baccalaureate Mass

After 11:45 Mass on Sunday, Oct. 21, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova College, will confer degrees on twenty-four students who have finished their course of study here at Villanova. This, the first graduating class since the end of the war, still is only one-third civilian, all the others being students in the V-12 program at the school.

The Baccalaureate Mass will be celebrated by Fr. McGuire assisted by Rev. Edward B. McKee, OSA, and Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, OSA. The Scholastic Choir of St. Mary's Hall will chant the reponses. Following the Mass, Fr. McGuire will confer the degrees, after which there will be an address to the graduates by Rev. Henry A. Caffrey, OSA, former Professor of Religion at Villanova and Prior of the Villanova Monastery. Luncheon will be served to the graduates and their guests in the college dining hall when the ceremonies have been completed.

REV. HENRY A. CAFFREY, USA

Those receiving degrees are as follows: Bachelor of Civil Engineering: George L. Aulbach, USNR, Anthony F. Cocco, USNR, LeRoy H. Collegeman, USNR, Myles F. Connors, USNR, George M. Elsesser Jr., USNR, Walter T. Huber, USNR, Richard J. Madigan, USNR, and Gerard L. Mellon.

Bachelor of Electrical Engineering: Joseph J. Gerngross, USNR, John T. Glancey Jr., John J. Kennedy, USNR, Gerald A. Lee, USNR, Karl A. Ohralik, USNR, Francis D.

GRADUATION
Continued on Page Four

'Up In Charley's Room' Makes Big Hit Friday Night

C. D. Cummings, A.S., scored once again last Friday night without producing any of his own thespian ability. C. D. succeeded this time in the role of author of "Up in Charlie's Room."

The major part of the play takes place in a frat house and the frantic plot concerns the frantic efforts of everyone (ten in all) to control a near riot. The heroine, Coreen Burbank, played by Marnie Richardson, meets the hero, Greg Madison, played by Eugene Mueller, in a nearby park and the two become involved in a series of consequences which almost succeeded in turning the frat house into a sorority and finally end in Miss Burbank's suffering from a case of mumps which perplexes all involved. Greg Madison is then almost dismissed from school by the dean, who is portrayed by Adam Zurybida. At the crucial moment, however, it develops that Coreen is his long-lost niece. Rather than cause a scene and damage his own reputation the dean absolves all concerned and there is a beautiful fadeout to the tune of soft, muted music.

High points in the play were Dave English's soliloquies as "Murph", the colored houseboy, and Larry Bradley's inimitable versions of both Jack and the "grandfather." They produced real talent with their black face and beard respectively.

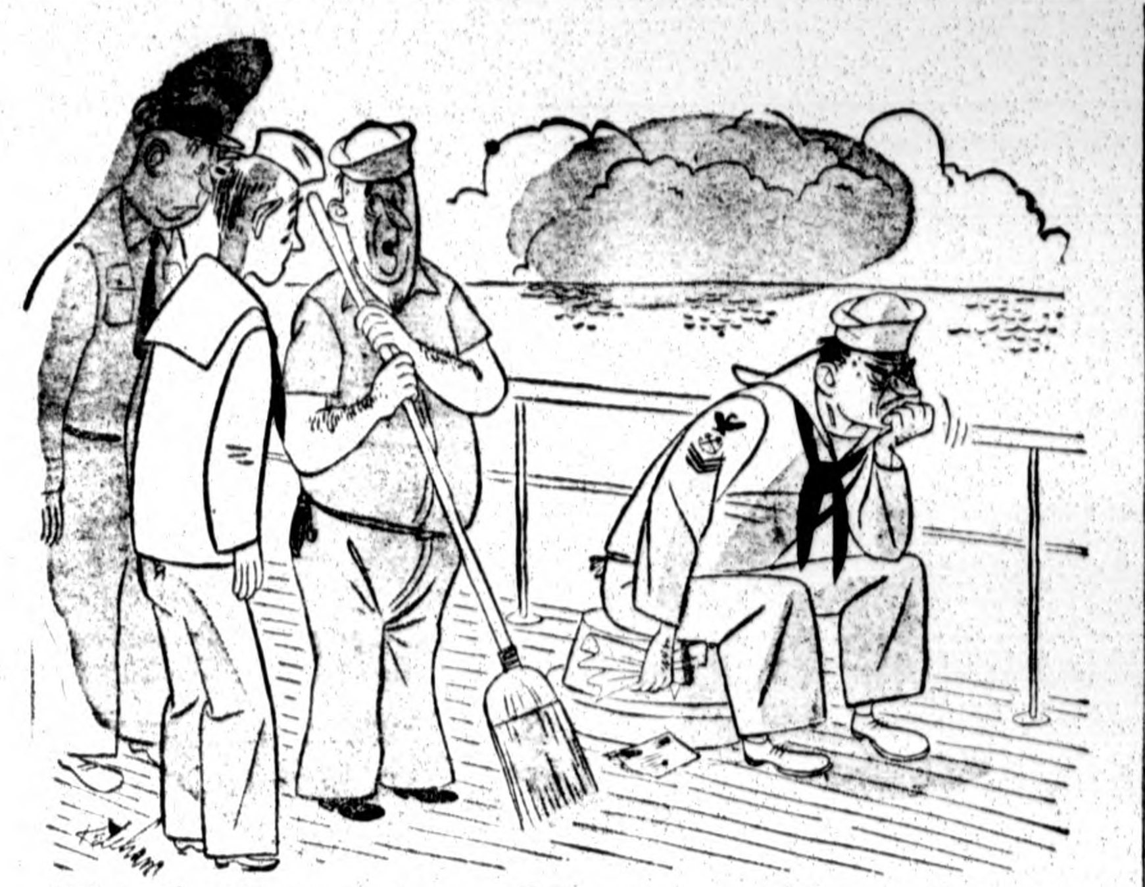
Minor Parts Lively

Jimmy Breene, Tom Dick and Don Barrett played their parts as Gregg's fellow students and frat brothers to the hilt. They provided that brash air typical of the college fraternity house. Carl Schneider was a dignified doctor called in on the mumps case.

The real hit of the show who drew whistles and applause at first appearance was Marnie Richardson, suave and smooth as the heroine. She accentuated a lively acting performance with a charm that warmed the hearts of the audience. Gene Mueller as the hero turned in a flawless and creditable performance.

Embarrassing Moments

Scene from the play, "Up In Charley's Room" presented last Friday night in the Field House by the Dramatic Club.



"Now that the war is over, his wife wants to use their war bonds to take a round-the-world cruise!"

Award Presented

Continued From Page Three

pencil set, is given to that member of the graduating class who did the most for the track team. Carl Oert was a member of the track team in his first year at Villanova and his College career was cut short when he joined the service. He died in action in the European theater.

Don led the Villanova track team to one of its best seasons in many years and was considered by many as one of the best College milers in the East. As anchor man on the mile relay team, Schmitt helped the team to capture the famed Millrose Mile and many other races.

A member of the Class of '45, Don is now at Midshipman's school in New York and expects to get his commission early next month.

New Exec

Continued From Page One

lanova followed his work at the former institution.

The new commanding officer for the V-12 and NROTC programs is expected to arrive on the campus this week. Full details as to the functioning of the new program, as well as the disposition of students now in the V-12, have not yet been revealed. Details will be announced as soon as official announcements are available from Washington.

The new Naval Company will form the faculty and administration of the Department of Naval Science, which will become a part of the college academic setup upon the start of the NROTC program. Further details of the organization of this department are also still to be revealed.

Wildcats! Stop Here
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE,
VILLANOVA, PA.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

Count Villan

Continued From Page One

cause or causes unknown."

Who Will Succeed the Count?

The beloved cat's body was not yet cold when controversy arose about the succession to the throne as the Villanova mascot. The problem is complicated by the fact that Villan II left no issue, and moreover, so far as is known, failed to designate a successor to his estate. This was the occasion of sore distress to Pvt. Gamp, USMCR, who was closely associated with the Count in life and expected that he might be the beneficiary to the title and estate. But even Gamp was cut off without a scent.

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., seizing the powers of Regency, has rejected all local contenders to the earldom (or is it County?) and has directed his agents in Florida to search out a suitable cousin of Villain II who might accede to the title as Count Villan III.

Meanwhile plans for the fitting disposition of the mortal remains of the cat have proceeded apace. There was a clamor for a state funeral with interment under the goal-line in the stadium. However, a suggestion that a monument made of his remains won greater favor.

And so a taxidermist was called in to perpetuate the memory of this Villanova pussy in a suitable mounting. The disconsolate trainers, Austin and Cobb, who declared their pet had never flinched even in the face of the highly touted Navy goat, admitted sadly that when the Count met the taxidermist he lost his guts.

Saddened, but not disheartened by the loss of their gentle mascot, the Villanova football players made their journey to Buffalo determined to bring the palm of victory back to the campus and lay it at the feet of the Count. The memory of the cat will be with them throughout the season and, if his growl will no longer be heard, they will not let it be said that the Wildcats are silent. They will roar their way on to victory.

Count Villan's death was actually caused by an accident which he suffered the week before his death. In his capers he was entangled by his harness and suffered both cuts and a fractured bone in his left side. It was this fractured bone pressing against a nerve which caused his fits and ultimately his death.

Villanova College Rings
by BARR'S
Largest Jewelers in Philadelphia
Presenting a display of College and Class
Rings for all local Schools and Colleges
A wide selection of designs, and stones.
All rings are 10 Kt. gold.
ESTABLISHED 1853
BARR'S
JEWELERS • SILVERSMITHS
1112 Chestnut St. 5600 Germantown Ave.
28 South 69th St. 4650 Frankford Ave.
WRITE FOR OUR FREE 48-PAGE CATALOG

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

connoisseur of food that he is completely sold on that "good food" of York.

In the future Red hopes to continue work in the Civil Engineering line and we are sure he will go far as he carries with him that same likable personality which has won him so many friends here on the campus of Villanova.

* * *

DESPITE its small population, York boasts of yet another Villanovan son, . . . or is it vice versa. This one, too, answers to the name of George—George Louis Aulbach, preferably. Shoulder to shoulder with his "bosom buddy" Elsesser, George Louis braved the primitive hardships of his early pioneering days in York.

He took his first squint at the sunlight on July 9, 1925, just fourteen days after "Red," and then closed his eyes again and didn't open them until days later . . . already a sack hound at the age of "0". Aulbach claims the same grammar and high school as "Red", being in the same class with him from start to finish. (As a matter of fact, it was only a one room schoolhouse.)

GEORGE AULBACH, AS

While in York Catholic High School (Yea York! . . . quiet, George!) Aulbach too wrote for the school paper, worked on the Senior Prom Committee, played Intramurals, and was an Honor student . . . this despite the fact that he slept through the greater part of his classes. Between naps he also managed to play with the school orchestra . . . would that he kept sleeping!

Having spent his entire youth until his high school graduation in YORK, Aulbach decided that it was time to seek greater fields . . . of endeavor, I mean. So, once again he and "Red" got together, packed their bags, and arrived at good old V. C. in February of '43 in that envied civilian status. In March 1944 he joined the V-12 and was stationed here.

As a Navy Student, "Rip Van" Aulbach, former sack hound, ironically enough became Mendel's Company Bugler. George's activities here include the ASCE, the Phi Kappa Pi, the Villanovan, the Sanctuary Society, the Choir, and . . . ah yes . . . the band. George further states that he ran on the track team . . . many of the fellows who have seen him on the track doubt whether he was that fast. George's willingness to lend a ready ear at all times has won him many friends at Villanova.

As for future plans, George intends to practice his beloved C.E. He states the length of time he will spend in the Navy is rather uncertain . . . depending on the Navy. As for unpredictable George's romantic life, it is best answered by "?".

George and George's service in writing up their classmates for the Villanovan has been, they say, a pleasure and in some respects we are inclined to agree with them. Where they got all the dirt they did is not known but they did their best to rival even the acid tongue of their predecessor, Tom Welch.

So now we bid farewell to two down-right fine fellows who really carried the spirit of Villanova in their hearts, and, what is even more important, practiced that spirit. What else can Villanova say but "Thanks, fellows", good luck, and

'Bye George. 'Bye George.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

Refresher course
Coca-Cola
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

'Cats Upset

Continued From Page Three

Villanova its second victory in three starts. For Marquette it was the third successive defeat, previous losses having been suffered at the hands of Purdue and Wisconsin. By their win over the Hilltoppers the Wildcats served notice to Stan Koslowski, Joe Byers, and the rest of the Crusaders that this coming Sunday will mark the end of the winning streak of the Holy Cross eleven, who have scored wins over Dartmouth and Yale.

Tommy Morgan

Continued From Page Three

er last season and is expected to hold down the first string berth with the Aces this year.

Morgan played for Bloomfield High School before entering Villanova and while there he garnered All-New Jersey honors. Upon leaving Villanova in the spring of 1942, he joined the Air Corps and since then has seen a lot of action.

Lt. Morgan will appear with the First Air Force team when they play the Second Air Force Nov. 18, at Freeport, L. I., N. Y. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Morgan, and his wife, Gloria, live at 789 Broad St., Bloomfield, N. J.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
Member International Tailoring Co. N. Y.

ICE Aristocrat CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 12 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1945

Navy Office Reorganized For NROTC Program

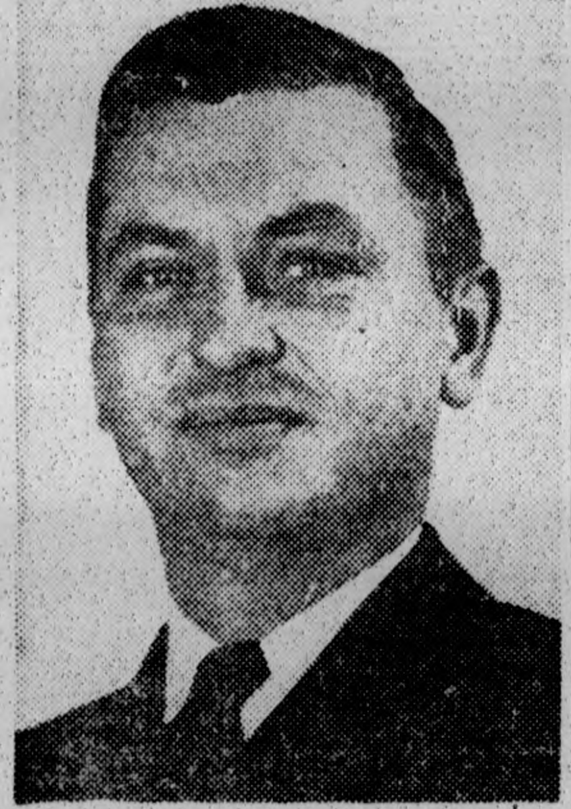
Capt. Thomas New Commanding Officer; Two Other Officers Receive Promotions

By GEORGE O'NEIL

Capt. Thomas C. Thomas, USN, has been appointed commanding officer of the Villanova Naval V-12 Unit and the new NROTC program which will commence next semester. The new officer assumed the post Oct. 6, Comdr. James W. Whaley, USN,new executive officer, having acted as commanding officer until his arrival.

Capt. Thomas was assigned to the college to fill the vacancy left by Comdr. Edward Hannah, USNR, commanding officer of the V-12 for the past year, who was hospitalized Oct. 4. Eventually, Comdr. Hannah will report to the Third Naval District, New York City, as assistant communication officer for the district.

Capt. THOMAS C. THOMAS, USN



Comdr. JAMES WHALEY, USN

Captain Thomas is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, class of 1925. The new commanding officer has served on all types of naval craft and ashore with naval aviation units in the capacity of chief officer.

He has had post-graduate work at the Naval War College, Newport, R.I., and studied meteorology at the California Technical Institute. At the outbreak of World War II, he was assigned to Dutch Harbor, Aleutian Islands and served as meteorologist and executive officer there for a year.

In 1943, Captain Thomas spent several months at Fairbanks, Alaska, with the Russian mission stationed there. In this instance, he served as special liaison officer for the U.S. Army and Navy. In August of the same year, he joined the Pacific fleet and was promoted to his present rank in November, 1944. He returned to the states to take command of a division of small high-speed transports on the East Coast. Prior to his assignment to Villanova, he was hospitalized on the West Coast because of a service-incurred injury received in the spring of 1945.

The promotion of two college V-12 officers to the rank of Lieutenant Commander, has been announced by the Navy office. The newly elevated men are Lieut. Comdr. Carl Lorenz, USNR, and Lieut. Comdr. Vincent Miles, USNR.

Lt. Comdr. Lorenz has received a change of orders and will remain

NAVY OFFICE
Continued on Page Four

In Memoriam

Word has just been received of the death of the mother of Professor Emil Amelotti. Mrs. Amelotti died in Italy three years ago.

The members of the Villanova Staff and the entire student body of Villanova College wish to take this opportunity to extend to Professor Amelotti their deepest and heartfelt sympathy.

Student Council Fills Vacancies

In order to start the coming semester with a full complement of officers, the Student Council last week held elections to fill the vacancies existing in its administrative setup. John Fitzgibbons, president of the body, presided at the meeting.

Joe Hoffman, who was elected to the presidency last semester, will return to take over the duties of that office after the summer vacation. Harold Varani was elected vice-president and Harry Edwards was chosen to fill the office of secretary-treasurer.

It is planned to bring the Council up to its full membership during the coming semester, and to have representatives from all the classes and active organizations. The Council functioned during the war with a limited membership and was unable to undertake all the projects desired.

The election meeting on Friday was the first official meeting of the organization this semester, but regular meetings are planned for the future. The Council plans to publish the college handbook as soon as possible and to reinstate

STUDENT COUNCIL
Continued on Page Four

Work On Alumni Hall To Be Completed Soon

Alumni Hall will be ready for occupancy for the coming term after being remodelled extensively inside. The new features of the building include a new fire-proof stairwell, permanent wall construction replacing the temporary partitioning, and new plumbing and electrical systems.

A new suite of rooms was put into the first floor for a student counsellor, so that there will be three counsellors instead of two as before. The chimney on the roof of the hall was removed to improve the external appearance of the building. The whole building was repainted inside.

It will be used as a dormitory for the civilian students during the new term, while the service men will occupy Austin, Fedigan and Mendel Halls. Until the armory is built, the Alumni Hall gym will be used for the Naval Science laboratory work.

Dr. Burke Resigns; Banmiller Made New Alumni Head

Francis X. Robinson Elected Second Vice President As John Gallen Becomes First Vice President

At a recent meeting of the Board of Governors of the Villanova College Alumni Association, Dr. Edward J. Burk, '23, resigned from his office as president of the association. He was succeeded by Paetrus F. Banmiller, '35, in accordance with the constitution of the association. Dr. Burke has been ill and strictest doctor's orders occasioned his resignation. The resignation was tendered and received with regret.

Mr. Banmiller, the new president, was the first vice-president until Dr. Burke's resignation. A graduate in Electrical Engineering in the class of 1935, Mr. Banmiller was for a number of years the Registrar of Villanova College. He is presently employed by the Budd Manufacturing Company. He is married and is the father of four children, including a pair of twins.

DR. EDWARD BURKE

Stepping up into the position of first vice-president is John J. Gallen, '27. Mr. Gallen, Assistant Professor of Civil Enginering at Villanova, was formerly second vice president. He was succeeded in that position by Francis X. Robinson '21, who was elected unanimously by the Board of Governors. Mr. Robinson was the winner of the Loyalty Award last winter.

At the same meeting of the Board of Governors, three new men were added to the Board. Lt. Col. J. Brad. McManus, '40, Lt. Commander Leo Lynch, '16, and Rev. James F. Connors, '28 are the new members.

Officers Elected By Delta Pi

Delta Pi Epsilon, the campus Commerce and Finance fraternity, last week held elections to fill the executive offices for the coming semester. John Fitzgibbons, retiring president, presided at the elections, which were held last Wednesday.

Robert Conway was elected president and Gerald DeMuro was chosen to fill the office of vice-president. Robert Manske and George O'Neil were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively. D.P.E.'s final meeting of the semester was held yesterday and the members were addressed by the new and retiring officers.

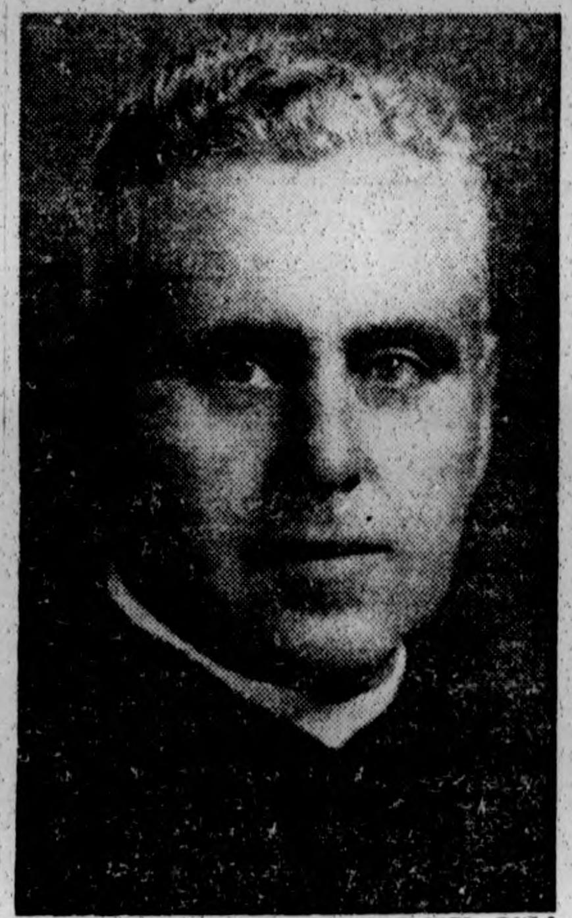
Delta Pi Epsilon is making plans for an expanded program of activities during the semester, and it is expected that with its increased membership it will again become one of the most active frats on the campus.

Graduation Exercises To Be Held Sunday

Twenty-Six Students To Receive Degrees; Fr. Caffrey To Preach at Baccalaureate Mass

After 11:45 Mass on Sunday, Oct. 21, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova College, will confer degrees on twenty-four students who have finished their course of study here at Villanova. This, the first graduating class since the end of the war, still is only one-third civilian, all the others being students in the V-12 program at the school.

The Baccalaureate Mass will be celebrated by Fr. McGuire assisted by Rev. Edward B. McKee, OSA, and Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, OSA. The Scholastic Choir of St. Mary's Hall will chant the reponses. Following the Mass, Fr. McGuire will confer the degrees, after which there will be an address to the graduates by Rev. Henry A. Caffrey, OSA, former Professor of Religion at Villanova and Prior of the Villanova Monastery. Luncheon will be served to the graduates and their guests in the college dining hall when the ceremonies have been completed.



REV. HENRY A. CAFFREY, USA

Those receiving degrees are as follows: Bachelor of Civil Engineering: George L. Aulbach, USNR, Anthony F. Cocco, USNR, LeRoy H. Collegeman, USNR, Myles F. Connors, USNR, George M. Elsesser Jr., USNR, Walter T. Huber, USNR, Richard J. Madigan, USNR, and Gerard L. Mellon.

Bachelor of Electrical Engineering: Joseph J. Gerngross, USNR, John T. Glancey Jr., John J. Kennedy, USNR, Gerald A. Lee, USNR, Karl A. Ohralik, USNR, Francis D.

GRADUATION
Continued on Page Four

'Up In Charley's Room' Makes Big Hit Friday Night

C. D. Cummings, A.S., scored once again last Friday night without producing any of his own thespian ability. C. D. succeeded this time in the role of author of "Up in Charlie's Room."

The major part of the play takes place in a frat house and the frantic plot concerns the frantic efforts of everyone (ten in all) to control a near riot. The heroine, Coreen Burbank, played by Marnie Richardson, meets the hero, Greg Madison, played by Eugene Mueller, in a nearby park and the two become involved in a series of consequences which almost succeeded in turning the frat house into a sorority and finally end in Miss Burbank's suffering from a case of mumps which perplexes all involved. Greg Madison is then almost dismissed from school by the dean, who is portrayed by Adam Zurybida. At the crucial moment, however, it develops that Coreen is his long-lost niece. Rather than cause a scene and damage his own reputation the dean absolves all concerned and there is a beautiful fadeout to the tune of soft, muted music.

High points in the play were Dave English's soliloquies as "Murph", the colored houseboy, and Larry Bradley's inimitable versions of both Jack and the "grandfather." They produced real talent with their black face and beard respectively.

Minor Parts Lively

Jimmy Breene, Tom Dick and Don Barrett played their parts as Gregg's fellow students and frat brothers to the hilt. They provided that brash air typical of the college fraternity house. Carl Schneider was a dignified doctor called in on the mumps case.

The real hit of the show who drew whistles and applause at first appearance was Marnie Richardson, suave and smooth as the heroine. She accentuated a lively acting performance with a charm that warmed the hearts of the audience. Gene Mueller as the hero turned in a flawless and creditable performance.

Embarrassing Moments

Scene from the play, "Up In Charley's Room" presented last Friday night in the Field House by the Dramatic Club.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

JOHN J. BURNS, JR., '47........EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
HENRY P. J. WARD, A.S., USNR........SPORTS EDITOR
ROBERT K. AUSTIN, PVT., USMCR........Copy Editor
HARRY WATERS, '46........Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46........Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47........Photography Editor

Columnists

Frank Ronan, '45
George Elsesser, A.S., USNR
George Aulbach, A. S., USNR
John Fitzgibbons, '45

Staff Writers

Robert J. Conway, '46
James Conaty, '48
Francis Ryan, '48
George O'Neil, '46
Anthony Mullen, '47

Sports Staff

Robert Manske, '48
James Breene, '48
Russell Welch, A.S., USNR
Mel Alpert, A.S., USNR
Fred Koch, A.S., USNR
Percy Butler, Pvt., USMCR

Circulation Staff

Peter McManus, '47
Joseph P. Sweeney, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Raymond F. Stone, '46
Bob Brown, '47
Warren Sexton, '46
Paul Curcillo, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.

Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - OCTOBER 16, 1945

End of the Trail

This Sunday, another class of Villanova men will come to the end of their four years of college life and will take their place among the thousands of Villanova alumni who also have passed their collegiate days on the campus of Belle Air.

Now at last, for them, the struggles of college days are over, and they face the future as individuals, armed with all that their Alma Mater has to offer in the way of preparation for success and happiness. Not undeservedly, then, they regard the occasion as a joyous one, with the joy of honest achievement and of a job well done.

But, perhaps unconsciously, they find the occasion at the same time a somewhat sobering and solemn one. College had its moments of difficulty, yes, but it had also its times of joy, of pleasure, and of happiness. They find themselves saying goodbye not to a group of buildings, but to an institution which had a profound effect upon their lives.

They see Villanova as the place where some of their happiest hours were spent, where some of their most lasting friendships were made, and where they learned to live and think as Catholic gentlemen. To leave all this behind and to face a world where they will no longer find a friend and a "kind mother" constantly at their side is an event not without its sobering aspects.

For each of us, there will come a time when we too must bid goodbye to Villanova; when we too must leave the beloved campus for the last time. We look forward to that day now, and think of what it will be like to see ourselves as the recipients of her cherished diploma, and to hear the congratulations of our fellows ringing in our ears. That is the way we picture our departure from Villanova; that is the end toward which our present efforts are directed.

As we come to the end of the present semester, and as we review our collegiate standing, the time of our graduation may seem very far distant. We may see numerous obstacles in our path, and we may begin to wonder if we will ever have the honor and the pleasure of leaving Villanova to become a member of her alumni. The end of this term and the beginning of another are immediately before us: we are approaching another milestone on the path toward our goal.

Now is the time for us to look forward to the day of our own graduation, and to strive more earnestly toward the realization of our dream. It is never too late to begin, and, with the grace of God, all things are possible to him who tries. As we watch our friends and fellow-students bring their college days to a close, let us, then, resolve that we too shall leave Villanova with honor and distinction; that we too shall reach the end of the trail.

To our graduates, then, we say goodbye and good luck: Yours has been the good fight and to you goes the reward. With it go our most heartfelt good wishes, and our most envious expectations of the day when we too may be deemed worthy to join you.

'Cat Capers

By FRANK RONAN

As someone once said, all good things must come to an end and as far as we are concerned this is it. We didn't mean the column hasn't been so hot but we mean that we have enjoyed writing it. After all where else can one stab so many people in the back and get away with it. So as we come to the end of the trail we want to assure you that all knives were thrown with glee and our only regret is that we didn't have more knives.

As we started to write this column our mind started wandering back over some of the incidents that have done so much to make our days at Villanova pleasant. Who will ever forget some of those nights at Abie's singing in the back room or the bar at the Mill most any Saturday nite. What Engineer will ever forget Bucky's "step lively now" or Emil's beautiful "curves" . . . Remember Helwig and Corkill, the mayors of O'Dwyer. Who will ever forget Tom Welch's sunny disposition or Red O'Connor's "Drop Daid" . . . We could always tell when Spring arrived when Apple Head Riley showed up with his annual trimming. It was also possible to check Sunday afternoons when Andy Murphy would head for Harcum. We believe that whenever we see ice we will think of the Deacon gliding gracefully along. Let's hope the Deacon moves to Florida.

The days in Mendel also bring some memories. Those nightly check ups by Fr. McQuade, and how he would swing that whip. And who will ever forget the night Fr. McGuire visited us on the fourth floor . . . The night D.P.E. held their banquet and Bob Conway and the Peshinas came home with upset stomachs also bring back memories . . . Windy Barrett's high-pressure promotions and the nightly bull sessions, Frank Perna's party, the Christmas party, and Charlie Hughes bring back memories of Alumni. The Christmas spirit instilled by the Rosemont glee club and the Christmas spirit distilled by the Villanova Knitting Club.

And the question still goes unanswered to just where Barrett secured the mirror for his room . . . It also looks like no other class will have the pleasure of seeing Koerner toss a coin whether to go to Harcum or Rosemont. It isn't that Red Dog has made a decision, it's just that he hasn't a coin anymore. And Dave Ryan will go down the ages probably always looking for Moon Mullins . . . If you were on the Orientation Committee you remember those hectic days trying to figure out some good rules for the frosh . . . And how about those committees for the Senior Prom and Dinner Dance . . . The swell affair at the Warwick where the most popular person was the house detective . . . The mystery of the P. K. P. keys which haven't shown up yet.

The sight of Fitzgibbons rushing to get the Belle Air out on time . . . The raid on Ford's (tis better left unsaid) . . . The battle royal in Ardmore with Lovey Quinn being the innocent bystander . . . Pat Regan's stories in the wee hours of the mornings . . . Those early morning paper deliveries (ha, ha, ha) . . . The sight of Foster Blough taking P. T. . . . Mother Dumsa heading for Rosemont to console any Rosie who may have troubles . . . The party at Keller's which the Deacon and Dumsa would like to forget and who can blame them.

And who will ever forget Louie, the Sherman Billingsley of the Pie Shoppe, who ran a special on hamburgers the day after Prof. Auth drowned a cat . . . Fr. Paquette's coupe roaring down past Delurey and everyone hoping he would miss the front porch . . . And did Fr. McKee ever catch you in the dining hall without a tie? . . . But we could go on all day just thinking of crazy little things. They might not mean much individually but put them together and it will bring back memories of some really swell times.

Can anyone remember when Chi Chi Varani didn't have that sweet "Lavender and Old Lace" fragrance floating around him? Chi Chi, who usually reminded one of a barman's convention, has all of a sudden blossomed out like an ad for Vogue.

But the hardest thing of all to remember is when certain Rosies were not crying for free publicity, while refusing any in return. We don't like to mention names, but a young lady whose initials are Lucille von Liebermann seems to be always yelling for a good press but forgets to reciprocate when the Rambler is being published (and we aren't kidding).

And can anyone remember when Peggy Smith was a sensible girl? She must have lost her mind.

It's going to seem strange not to hear people hiss when we pass or cry out something about yellow journalism. But we at least have the satisfaction of knowing that Hal Varani will be in the same position next term. We are sure that you will love Hal as he is just as big a heel as we are, if not more so. So this time it's so long for keeps. Take care of the Rosies frosh and make Mother Dumsa proud of you as he slaves away up in the Waterbury Copper Works.

Meet the Boys

All the class of '45 has been written up in this column as we come to the end of the semester, but we find that two of the boys have not yet had their pictures printed. So here they are.

HUGH F. HART

JAMES P. FOGERTY

CAMP to CAMPUS

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

The Jordan brothers, Lt. Richard Jordan, '43 and T/5 John Jordan dropped in on us during the past week. John is working on that much-discussed atomic bomb project and has brought home with him a piece of glazed earth from that test explosion in New Mexico. In fact, he was originally scheduled to be in the party when the bomb was tried out, but was stricken from the list at the last moment.

Ensign Allen "Dusty" Rhodes was married last Saturday in Bryn Mawr. Quite a few of the boys were there to see him launch on his new career.

Charley Stukas was back wearing the discharged emblem on his uniform. Most of the boys who left Villanova with him are now out of the service, he tells us.

Warren Fox, ex '44, is seriously ill in a hospital in New York.

Frank O'Neill and Bob Goode were discharged from North Carolina Pre-Flight School recently. Frank, who starred on last year's basketball team, will be starting in again in November.

Gene McFarland, one of the famous McFarland brothers, is home on furlough after a tough stretch of duty in Europe. Gene was a smooth diver and collected many points for his team in the swimming meets here not so long ago.

BEHIND THE 8

By HARRY EDWARDS and HANK HANRATTY

A rolling eight ball gathers no moss. So, to start the eight ball rolling again, will make a visit to the little theater off Lancaster Pike.

As we approached the playhouse we saw quite a huge line of "first nighters" outside the door. This was a disappointment to us, we had thought the Little theater's activities to be purely gratis. Also to our surprise, particularly on a brisk night as it was, we saw that many of the crowd were sweating.

As we came closer the mystery was soon unveiled. We then saw that the crowd was what is known in this vicinity as a stag line, and that the perspiration was merely a freely running froth from the mouth.

Prominent in this crowd was a checkered coat—our mistake, we meant to say Clarence Cominsky.

This probably solves the mystery of "who stole Itzybitzy blanket?" or "what was Clarence doing at the Devon Horse Show?"

Others who were preoccupied in the task of rating the braver studes' dates were (and we shall mention them in the order of the amount of froth coming out of their mouths) Tait, Brogan, Fallon, Kaczynski, Feeney, and Gerry DeMuro.

While on the topic of froth we might well remind that it won't be long until things shall come to a head. It seems that in his sophomore year he made the statement that he would buy the civil engineers all the beer they can drink if he ever managed to graduate.

Now, to get back to our story. Finally, we got inside the premises; and not very much to our amazement, we noticed that not all the acting was on the stage. In fact "everybody was getting into the act."

With a very wide selection of seats on hand, Bill Altenpole could find none more appealing than one which was located next to an unescorted redhead. We are sure that the maiden did not know just what to expect. Things were bad enough when Al Capuzzi followed him into the aisle but all during the performance Al was prompting Bill to put his arm around the maid. Incidentally, this was the first Villanova activity to enjoy Al's presence. He probably heard that Al Postus, after whom St. Thomas Postus High School was named, (to quote Hank Scanlon) was going to be there.

Paul Curcillo nearly lost an eye when Marnie Richardson made her appearance. Paul is not the only one whom the leading lady affects this way. In fact, news comes to us that Dean Carey has been toeing the mark for quite some time.

Not to be overlooked was the presence of Pete McManus in all the glory of his new hair-do. Also on hand were Jerry Mellon and Jim Fogarty. As you might have guessed this expedition was not stag. Yes Jim and Jerry are two of those fellows whose time from Friday night to Monday morning is subject to the dictates of the little lady.

Before we close this week's column we wish to say "good-bye, good luck, and good hunting" to the old gents who shall leave the security life and the protection of the Aug. Fathers.

To Collegeman, who is confused as to whether an officer should wear skivvies or pajamas to bed, We would say that a filmy negligee with shoulder boards attached would be very appropriate.

To Fitzgibbons, keep on promoting and possibility someday soon we'll visit your beer concession at some county fair.

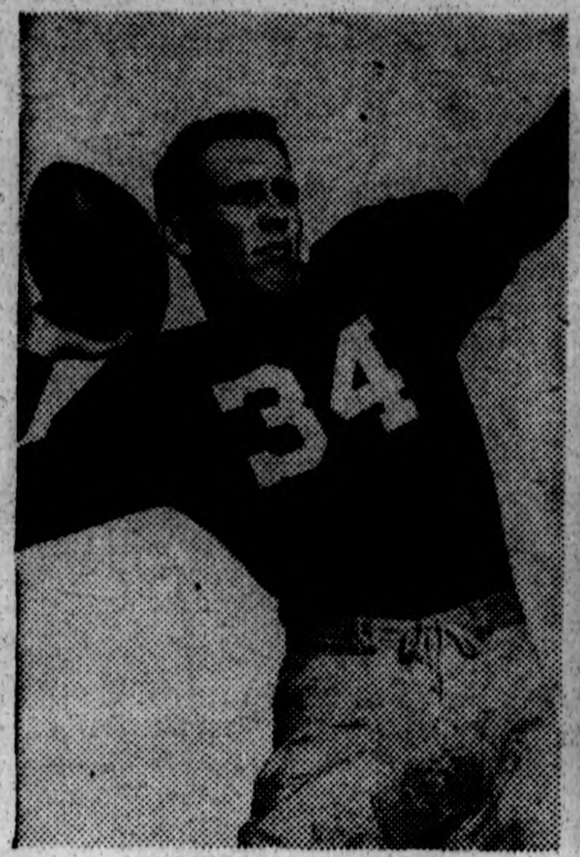
To Dumsa and Roman, don't worry too much about the girls you will leave behind. They shall not be lonesome or lonely. However, we will strive for a more even distribution and we will also be on the alert so that no other man or group of men shall gain control at any of our neighboring campuses.

To John Coyne, we hope he will get many more years of wear out of his plaid shirt.

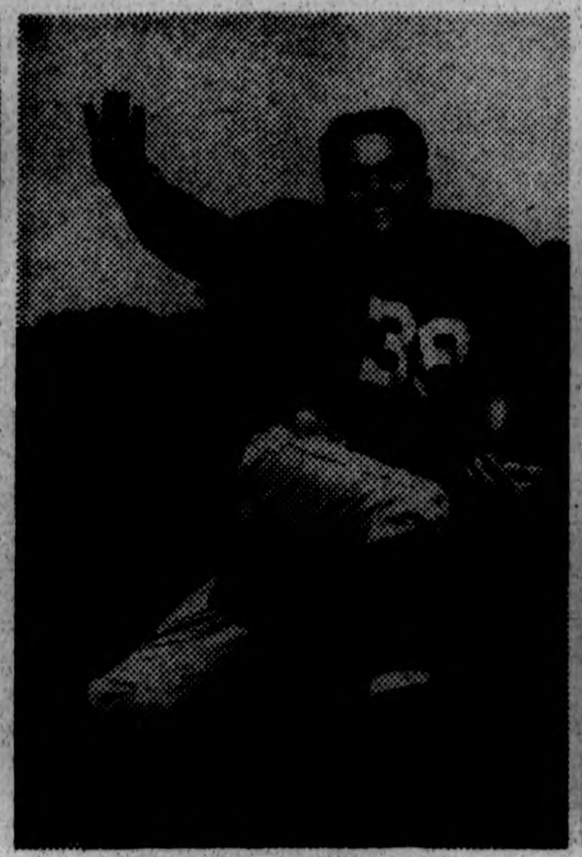
To Hank Scanlon, your activities at Chestnut Hill will be a legend for many years to come.

To all the rest of the departing souls, we say never fear, the W. P. A. will soon again be functioning, and there will be positions for all.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS



VINCE MC PEAK



CARL UNGARO

BUCKY WILLIAMS

'Cats Downed by Crusaders 26-7 as Kalowski Stars

McPeak Scores Lone Touchdown In Final Quarter. Villanova Fumbles At Start Of Game Set Up Two Holy Cross Scores. Capriotti Plays Terrific Game

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 14—Hampered by two important fumbles early in the game, The Villanova College football eleven dropped a 26-7 decision to Holy Cross this afternoon before 26,000 fans. The sky was cloudy throughout the afternoon, however it never rained and that prevented making the afternoon more blue for the Blue and White.

The Wildcat line played a good game but were no match for the blond Polish lad who spent the afternoon running back and forth through the Villanova line and crossing them up on passes. This big fellow, Stan Koslowski by name, is a potential All American footballer. In fact, just after the opening kick-off, Koslowski roared down the field to recover a fumble from the jittery hands of Bill Doherty. On the next three plays Koslowski managed to shove across for their first counter. Versatile Stan made the conversion with little or no effort.

The Wildcats then battled them back and forth for almost the rest of the half, and two minutes before it ended, Veto Kissel lumbered across to climax an eighty-six yard drive, in which Mr. Koslowski was once again off to the races with a forty-eight yard run and a twenty-eight yard pass to lanky end Jim Deickleman.

Holy Cross Does It Again

In the third period, Bill Doherty pulled a repeat performance of his first period act and once again Koslowski recovered his fumble deep in Cat territory. On the next three plays, the Crusaders had put the ball over for what they thought was a TD, but the ref said no, a Holy Cross man had been illegally in motion. From here, things began to perk up for the Pennsy team. Veteran Carl Ungaro came into the game and immediately smeared Joe Byers for a four yard loss. Two of Koslowski's passes did not click and Villanova took over. They could not do much, however, and Doherty punted to his own 46.

Once again, however, later in the period, Koslowski busted loose and tossed a pass to Joe Byers, Bill Doherty attempted to intercept but the ball slid off his eager fingers into Byers' arms for another Crusader score. Koslowski converted making the score stand at 26-0.

Ungaro Sparks Cat Drive

The big clock showed but six minutes left of football for Sunday afternoon when Bill Doherty returned a Holy Cross punt for twenty-five yards down to the Crusaders' twenty yard line. Two Holy Cross linemen were a little too eager, however, and two successive penalties set the Crusaders back to their own ten. Big Carl Ungaro bulled his way through their strong forward wall to land on the five.

'CATS BOW Continued on Page Four

Bowling League To Start Soon

It has been announced by William Thompson, A.S., that plans are being formulated for the opening of the Bowling League after November 1. Thompson in the past has put a lot of time and hard work into the organization and management of the league and hopes this year to find many of the good bowlers on the campus signing up for this competitive sport.

In the past many good times have been had at the weekly games and the prospects of this semester's league are better than any held for quite some time.

Prize money will be distributed to the winners in the various divisions and more than likely a sweepstake tournament will be sponsored at the end of the season for those who have bowled in the league.

SEEN From the Sidelines

One of Villanova's greats is still going strong in the football world. Eddie Michaels, stellar guard for the Philadelphia Eagles football team, has been in the professional football league for the past six years. Before that, he performed for the Wildcat elevens. Six years in a tough game like pro football is a feather in any man's cap, and Eddie continues his fine play like a fine suit that won't wear out.

* * *

Midshipman Don Schmidt, who was bell-cow of the Villanova track squad for the past three years, is due to be commissioned as an Ensign in the United States Naval Reserves in a short time, was around for a while last week. He reports, coincidently, that Midshipman Charles "Chuck" Harrington is also stationed with him and will receive his commission at the same time. Harrington was also a stalwart with the cindermen and the pair copped quite a few honors and medals for the Villanova show case.

* * *

Joe Walters, former Villanova basketballer and leading scorer in the Philadelphia district while he played, was also a local visitor last week. Joe is stationed at Jefferson Medical School where he is pursuing his studies for a degree in Medicine.

Passing Parade

By
HENRY WARD, A. S.

Sunday's football game with Holy Cross marked the end of the first half of Villanova's 1945 football schedule. The Wildcats, with two wins and two losses, have shown more fight this year than in many years past.

Opening with a victory over a favored Bucknell eleven 19-7, the 'Cats broke the Lewisburg jinx which had protected the Bisons for many years. This was only the fourth time that Bucknell had been beaten on its own field and was the first time Villanova had turned the trick.

Capriotti Stars

Romeo Capriotti made his first game with the Wildcats a memorable one by leading the team offensively and defensively. His running, passing and punting marked him as one of the best backs in this section. On Monday of this week he was presented the Maxwell Memorial Award for his work in the Marquette game. This award is presented each week to the best player in the Philadelphia area.

The following week Navy played host to the team and handed the 'Cats their first defeat. The score, 49-0, doesn't indicate the fight our boys put up against the highly favored middies. Through the second and third periods the Villanova line, paced by end Joe Gonglefski and tackle Tom Sekerchak, broke up one Navy play after another and only the constant stream of Navy reserves wore them down.

Williams' Last Game

The Navy game was the last appearance of one of Villanova's best backfield men in many seasons. Bucky Williams, captain of the 1944 squad, will graduate this Sunday. Plagued by injuries, he was unable to play in either of Villanova's last two games. Bucky, a Navy V-12 trainee here, has been with the team for three seasons and has always been a favorite with the fans. Last season a leg injury received in the Holy Cross game put him out of action for the remainder of the year. Until then he was one of the leading scorers in the east.

The Navy game also marked the first and last appearance of Count Villan II, the Villanova mascot. The Wildcat, the gift of a former Villanovan, died four days after the game as a result of an injury he received while frisking two weeks earlier.

'Cats Down Marquette

The 'Cats traveled to Buffalo N. Y., to meet the Marquette University eleven. Once again the underdog, Villanova came through

PASSING PARADE Continued on Page Four

Detroit in Home Opener; 'Cats Off to Tennessee

Shibe Park Contest Sunday First Of Two Home Games For 'Cats. Team Set For Titans

Villanova will play host to the University of Detroit this Sunday in the first home game of the 1945 season. The game, to be played at Shibe Park, will get underway at 2:00 P. M. This will be the first of two home games for the 'Cats, the other one being against Boston College on November 10 at 8:30 P. M.

The Titans will field an evenly balanced team and should give the boys a rough game. Victors in two of their three games so far this season, they have shown a lot of speed and fight. Coach Charley Baer has few returning veterans but has a lot of newcomers with plenty of spirit.

Strong At Tackle Slots

At the flank positions will be Beyerlin and Pulte. Both these boys are rangy ends and are sure to give our boys a lot of trouble. Sullivan and Ripple give the Detroit eleven plenty of drive at the tackle slots. Both are big and there are a lot of reserves at their positions.

The center of the line will be well manned by guards Nowak and Maher and center Malinowski. Nowak is one of the best players on Coach Baer's squad and Malinowski is a terrific defensive player. Detroit has few worries at these positions.

Fast Backfield

In the backfield quarterback Chapman and halfback Parke give the Titans a good scoring punch. Parke is a good running back and one of their best scorers. Fullback Lebouf and half back Simmons round out the fast backfield. Deroit's backfield reserves are very good and should see a lot of action.

In their opening game the Titans defeated Scranton by a 40-0 score. The following week they scored another victory, this time over Alma College. On Saturday they were swamped 41-6 by a Mississippi State powerhouse but still put up a good fight.

First Game With Vols To Be Played At Knoxville. Tennessee Has Good Record This Season

While most of us will be enjoying the leisures of leave, the Villanova Wildcats will be slugging it out with the powerful Tennessee "Vols" at Knoxville, Tenn.

This will be the first meeting of the two teams on the gridiron and Tennessee will be fighting hard to hold their winning streak. The Vols were undefeated last year and earned a trip to the Rose Bowl at Pasadena but were overpowered by a strong Southern California team 25-0. To date Tennessee has squeezed out a 7-6 victory over Wake Forrest and overran William and Mary 48-13.

18 Players Return

Tennessee can boast of the return this year of 18 members of the 1944 Rose Bowl squad and possesss the same backfield as last year. At guard the "Vols" will place Bob Dobelstein and Jay Asbury quite a sensation in the Tennessee line of '44, against the "Wildcats". Dobelstein, an outstanding guard was picked by the New York Sun for their All-American Team of last season. Billy Bevis, who was selected last year as the outstanding blocking back of the Southern Conference, will captain the "Vols" against Villanova. Mark Major, John Manning, and Buster Stevens will round out the fast Tennessee backfield. Buddy Pike, six foot two and Roy Cross, six foot, will be holding down the positions.

Coach Johnny Barnhill has coached the "Vols" through three successful season and has produced two Bowl teams. He has a very shifty and speedy backfield this year and the way his team has been playing to date he may be headed for another invitation to show his coaching ability at the Rose Bowl again on New Years Day.

The Vols schedule lists such teams as Alabama, North Carolina, Mississippi, Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

This being the last issue of the Villanovan this semester and with football still in the limelight, I would like to devote this column once again to a member of this year's varsity squad.

As we all know in football circles the line is often not given the credit it so richly deserves. This week I would like to give due credit to one of the linemen who has certainly given his all out there on the gridiron. This young man is Thomas G. Sekerchak, or as you know him, "Tiny."

Biggest on Squad

Tiny, who is a mere six foot five, two hundred and fifteen pounder, was born in Swoyersville, Pa., on April 15, 1925. In the fall of '39, Tom entered Swoyersville High School and reported to football practice right away. The coach immediately realized the potentialities of this tremendous young man and placed him on the varsity. He progressed to the first team in his junior year and was never dislodged from the position until he graduated. Tiny did not sit around in the off season but went right out and played basketball for the high school. He played four years varsity ball with his last two being spent on the first string. In his senior year he was one of the most renowned players upstate and was named to the All-North League team which embraces the greater part of upstate Pennsylvania.

Hard Working Tackle

In October 1944, Tiny went to Lafayette College and was soon found playing the first string tackle position. However, Lafayette did not have the courses Tiny wished to pursue so he came to Villanova and enrolled in the current summer session.

Tiny's ability on the football field was at once spotted by Coach Olivar and he was placed on the varsity squad. In the games Villanova played up to date Tiny has played at least half the time and has shown a beautiful brand of ball. In the Marquette game Tiny blocked a kick that all but broke the back of Marquette's chances of winning. It has also been noted by this reporter that Tom is one man who really knows how to handle the opposition when they get a little on the rough side. To me, Tiny, has been one of the outstanding linemen on Villanova's team this year but truthfully he does not need my praise.

THOMAS G. SEKERCHAK

Here and now, since this probably is my last column, I would like to say goodbye to my readers and good luck to the football team.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

JOHN J. BURNS, JR., '47..........EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
HENRY P. J. WARD, A.S., USNR..........SPORTS EDITOR
ROBERT K. AUSTIN, PVT., USMCR..........Copy Editor
HARRY WATERS, '46..........Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46..........Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47..........Photography Editor

Columnists
Frank Ronan, '45 George Aulbach, A. S., USNR
George Elsesser, A.S., USNR John Fitzgibbons, '45

Staff Writers
Robert J. Conway, '46 Francis Ryan, '48
James Conaty, '48 George O'Neil, '46
Anthony Mullen, '47

Sports Staff
Robert Manske, '48 Mel Alpert, A.S., USNR
James Breene, '48 Fred Koch, A.S., USNR
Russell Welch, A.S., USNR Percy Butler, Pvt., USMCR

Circulation Staff
Peter McManus, '47 Raymond F. Stone, '46
Joseph P. Sweeney, '46 Bob Brown, '47
Roland Higgs, '47 Warren Sexton, '46
Maurice Wilhere, '47 Paul Curcillo, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.

Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - OCTOBER 16, 1945

End of the Trail

This Sunday, another class of Villanova men will come to the end of their four years of college life and will take their place among the thousands of Villanova alumni who also have passed their collegiate days on the campus of Belle Air.

Now at last, for them, the struggles of college days are over, and they face the future as individuals, armed with all that their Alma Mater has to offer in the way of preparation for success and happiness. Not undeservedly, then, they regard the occasion as a joyous one, with the joy of honest achievement and of a job well done.

But, perhaps unconsciously, they find the occasion at the same time a somewhat sobering and solemn one. College had its moments of difficulty, yes, but it had also its times of joy, of pleasure, and of happiness. They find themselves saying goodbye not to a group of buildings, but to an institution which had a profound effect upon their lives.

They see Villanova as the place where some of their happiest hours were spent, where some of their most lasting friendships were made, and where they learned to live and think as Catholic gentlemen. To leave all this behind and to face a world where they will no longer find a friend and a "kind mother" constantly at their side is an event not without its sobering aspects.

For each of us, there will come a time when we too must bid goodbye to Villanova; when we too must leave the beloved campus for the last time. We look forward to that day now, and think of what it will be like to see ourselves as the recipients of her cherished diploma, and to hear the congratulations of our fellows ringing in our ears. That is the way we picture our departure from Villanova; that is the end toward which our present efforts are directed.

As we come to the end of the present semester, and as we review our collegiate standing, the time of our graduation may seem very far distant. We may see numerous obstacles in our path, and we may begin to wonder if we will ever have the honor and the pleasure of leaving Villanova to become a member of her alumni. The end of this term and the beginning of another are immediately before us: we are approaching another milestone on the path toward our goal.

Now is the time for us to look forward to the day of our own graduation, and to strive more earnestly toward the realization of our dream. It is never too late to begin, and, with the grace of God, all things are possible to him who tries. As we watch our friends and fellow-students bring their college days to a close, let us, then, resolve that we too shall leave Villanova with honor and distinction; that we too shall reach the end of the trail.

To our graduates, then, we say goodbye and good luck: Yours has been the good fight and to you goes the reward. With it go our most heartfelt good wishes, and our most envious expectations of the day when we too may be deemed worthy to join you.

'Cat Capers

By FRANK RONAN

As someone once said, all good things must come to an end and as far as we are concerned this is it. We didn't mean the column hasn't been so hot but we mean that we have enjoyed writing it. After all where else can one stab so many people in the back and get away with it. So as we come to the end of the trail we want to assure you that all knives were thrown with glee and our only regret is that we didn't have more knives.

As we started to write this column our mind started wandering back over some of the incidents that have done so much to make our days at Villanova pleasant. Who will ever forget some of those nights at Abie's singing in the back room or the bar at the Mill most any Saturday nite. What Engineer will ever forget Bucky's "step lively now" or Emil's beautiful "curves" . . . Remember Helwig and Corkill, the mayors of O'Dwyer. Who will ever forget Tom Welch's sunny disposition or Red O'Connor's "Drop Daid" . . . We could always tell when Spring arrived when Apple Head Riley showed up with his annual trimming. It was also possible to check Sunday afternoons when Andy Murphy would head for Harcum. We believe that whenever we see ice we will think of the Deacon gliding gracefully along. Let's hope the Deacon moves to Florida.

The days in Mendel also bring some memories. Those nightly check ups by Fr. McQuade, and how he would swing that whip. And who will ever forget the night Fr. McGuire visited us on the fourth floor . . . The night D.P.E. held their banquet and Bob Conway and the Peshinas came home with upset stomachs also bring back memories . . . Windy Barrett's high-pressure promotions and the nightly bull sessions, Frank Perna's party, the Christmas party, and Charlie Hughes bring back memories of Alumni. The Christmas spirit instilled by the Rosemont glee club and the Christmas spirit distilled by the Villanova Knitting Club.

And the question still goes unanswered to just where Barrett secured the mirror for his room . . . It also looks like no other class will have the pleasure of seeing Koerner toss a coin whether to go to Harcum or Rosemont. It isn't that Red Dog has made a decision, it's just that he hasn't a coin anymore. And Dave Ryan will go down the ages probably always looking for Moon Mullins . . . If you were on the Orientation Committee you remember those hectic days trying to figure out some good rules for the frosh . . . And how about those committees for the Senior Prom and Dinner Dance . . . The swell affair at the Warwick where the most popular person was the house detective . . . The mystery of the P. K. P. keys which haven't shown up yet.

The sight of Fitzgibbons rushing to get the Belle Air out on time . . . The raid on Ford's (tis better left unsaid) . . . The battle royal in Ardmore with Lovey Quinn being the innocent bystander . . . Pat Regan's stories in the wee hours of the mornings . . . Those early morning paper deliveries (ha, ha, ha) . . . The sight of Foster Blough taking P. T. . . . Mother Dumsa heading for Rosemont to console any Rosie who may have troubles . . . The party at Keller's which the Deacon and Dumsa would like to forget and who can blame them.

And who will ever forget Louie, the Sherman Billingsley of the Pie Shoppe, who ran a special on hamburgers the day after Prof. Auth drowned a cat . . . Fr. Paquette's coupe roaring down past Delurey and everyone hoping he would miss the front porch . . . And did Fr. McKee ever catch you in the dining hall without a tie? . . . But we could go on all day just thinking of crazy little things. They might not mean much individually but put them together and it will bring back memories of some really swell times.

Can anyone remember when Chi Chi Varani didn't have that sweet "Lavender and Old Lace" fragrance floating around him? Chi Chi, who usually reminded one of a barman's convention, has all of a sudden blossomed out like an ad for Vogue.

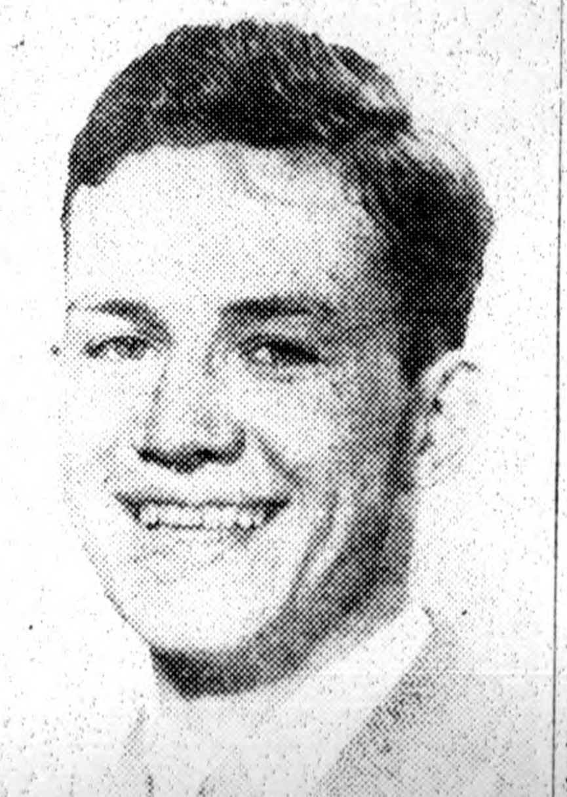
But the hardest thing of all to remember is when certain Rosies were not crying for free publicity, while refusing any in return. We don't like to mention names, but a young lady whose initials are Lucille von Liebermann seems to be always yelling for a good press but forgets to reciprocate when the Rambler is being published (and we aren't kidding).

And can anyone remember when Peggy Smith was a sensible girl? She must have lost her mind.

It's going to seem strange not to hear people hiss when we pass or cry out something about yellow journalism. But we at least have the satisfaction of knowing that Hal Varani will be in the same position next term. We are sure that you will love Hal as he is just as big a heel as we are, if not more so. So this time it's so long for keeps. Take care of the Rosies frosh and make Mother Dumsa proud of you as he slaves away up in the Waterbury Copper Works.

Meet the Boys

All the class of '45 has been written up in this column as we come to the end of the semester, but we find that two of the boys have not yet had their pictures printed. So here they are.



HUGH F. HART

JAMES P. FOGERTY

CAMP to CAMPUS

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

The Jordan brothers, Lt. Richard Jordan, '43 and T/5 John Jordan dropped in on us during the past week. John is working on that much-discussed atomic bomb project and has brought home with him a piece of glazed earth from that test explosion in New Mexico. In fact, he was originally scheduled to be in the party when the bomb was tried out, but was stricken from the list at the last moment.

Ensign Allen "Dusty" Rhodes was married last Saturday in Bryn Mawr. Quite a few of the boys were there to see him launch on his new career.

Charley Stukas was back wearing the discharged emblem on his uniform. Most of the boys who left Villanova with him are now out of the service, he tells us.

Warren Fox, ex '44, is seriously ill in a hospital in New York.

Frank O'Neill and Bob Goode were discharged from North Carolina Pre-Flight School recently. Frank, who starred on last year's basketball team, will be starting in again in November.

Gene McFarland, one of the famous McFarland brothers, is home on furlough after a tough stretch of duty in Europe. Gene was a smooth diver and collected many points for his team in the swimming meets here not so long ago.

BEHIND THE 8

By HARRY EDWARDS and HANK HANRATTY

A rolling eight ball gathers no moss. So, to start the eight ball rolling again, will make a visit to the little theater off Lancaster Pike.

As we approached the playhouse we saw quite a huge line of "first nighters" outside the door. This was a disappointment to us, we had thought the Little theater's activities to be purely gratis. Also to our surprise, particularly on a brisk night as it was, we saw that many of the crowd were sweating.

As we came closer the mystery was soon unveiled. We then saw that the crowd was what is known in this vicinity as a stag line, and that the perspiration was merely a freely running froth from the mouth.

Prominent in this crowd was a checkered coat—our mistake, we meant to say Clarence Cominsky.

This probably solves the mystery of "who stole Itzybitzy blanket?" or "what was Clarence doing at the Devon Horse Show?"

Others who were preoccupied in the task of rating the braver studes' dates were (and we shall mention them in the order of the amount of froth coming out of their mouths) Tait, Brogan, Fallon, Kaczynski, Feeney, and Gerry DeMuro.

While on the topic of froth we might well remind that it won't be long until things shall come to a head. It seems that in his sophomore year he made the statement that he would buy the civil engineers all the beer they can drink if he ever managed to graduate.

Now, to get back to our story. Finally, we got inside the premises; and not very much to our amazement, we noticed that not all the acting was on the stage. In fact "everybody was getting into the act."

With a very wide selection of seats on hand, Bill Altenpole could find none more appealing than one which was located next to an unescorted redhead. We are sure that the maiden did not know just what to expect. Things were bad enough when Al Capuzzi followed him into the aisle but all during the performance Al was prompting Bill to put his arm around the maid. Incidentally, this was the first Villanova activity to enjoy Al's presence. He probably heard that Al Postus, after whom St. Thomas Postus High School was named, (to quote Hank Scanlon) was going to be there.

Paul Curcillo nearly lost an eye when Marnie Richardson made her appearance. Paul is not the only one whom the leading lady affects this way. In fact, news comes to us that Dean Carey has been toeing the mark for quite some time.

Not to be overlooked was the presence of Pete McManus in all the glory of his new hair-do. Also on hand were Jerry Mellon and Jim Fogarty. As you might have guessed this expedition was not stag. Yes Jim and Jerry are two of those fellows whose time from Friday night to Monday morning is subject to the dictates of the little lady.

Before we close this week's column we wish to say "good-bye, good luck, and good hunting" to the old gents who shall leave the security life and the protection of the Aug. Fathers.

To Collegeman, who is confused as to whether an officer should wear skivvies or pajamas to bed, We would say that a filmy negligee with shoulder boards attached would be very appropriate.

To Fitzgibbons, keep on promoting and possibility someday soon we'll visit your beer concession at some county fair.

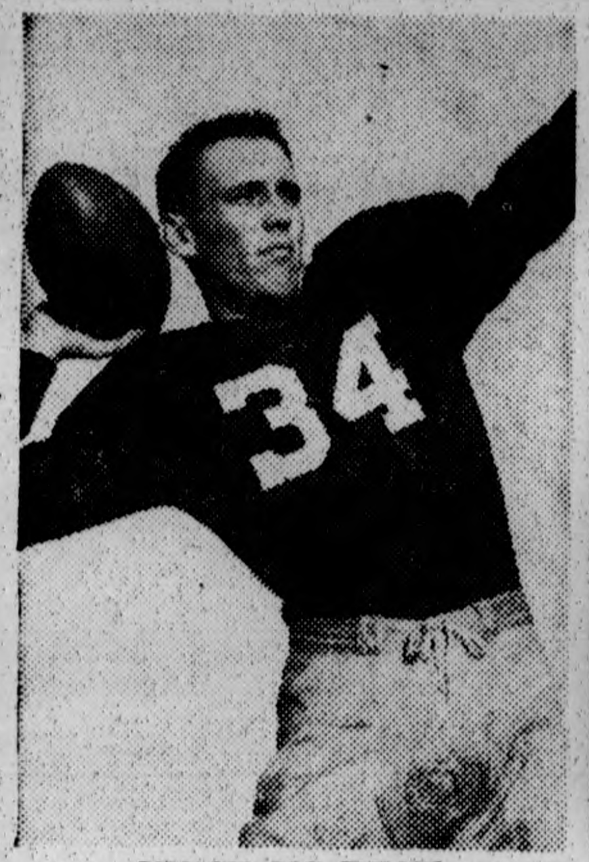
To Dumsa and Roman, don't worry too much about the girls you will leave behind. They shall not be lonesome or lonely. However, we will strive for a more even distribution and we will also be on the alert so that no other man or group of men shall gain control at any of our neighboring campuses.

To John Coyne, we hope he will get many more years of wear out of his plaid shirt.

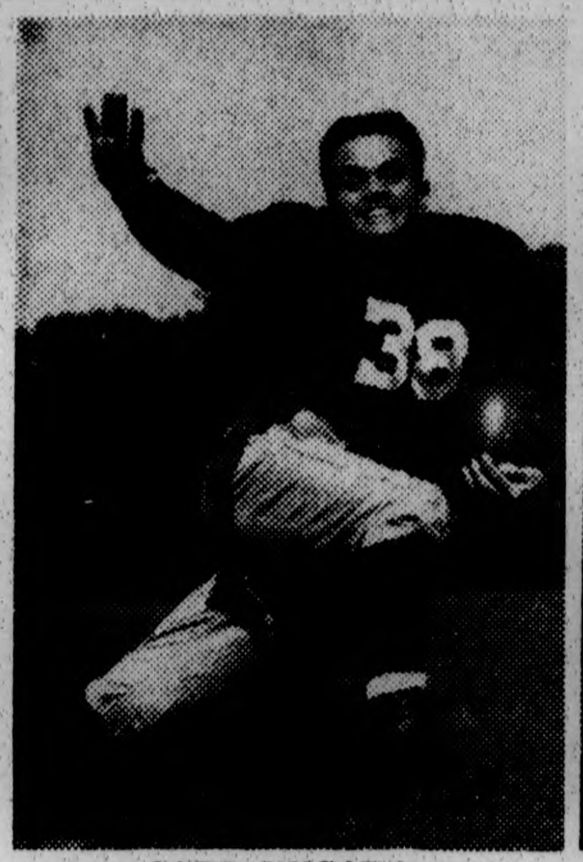
To Hank Scanlon, your activities at Chestnut Hill will be a legend for many years to come.

To all the rest of the departing souls, we say never fear, the W. P. A. will soon again be functioning, and there will be positions for all.

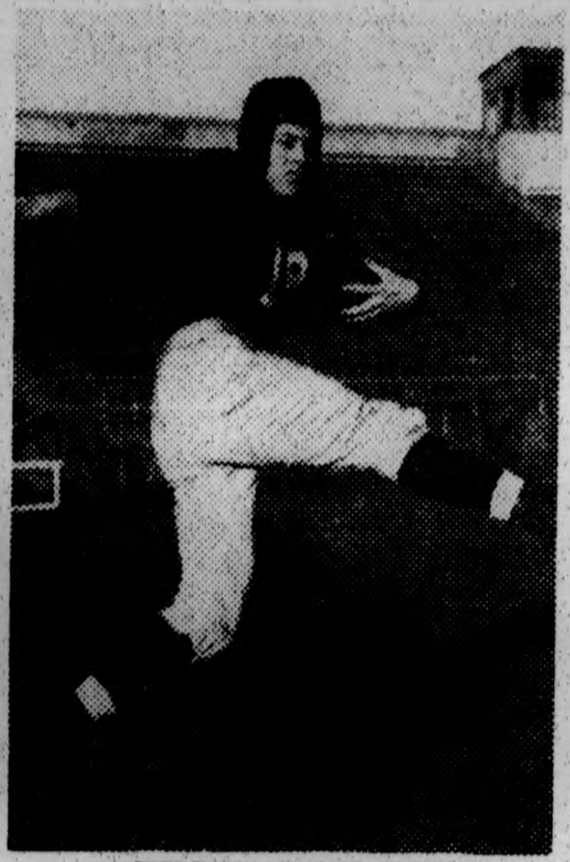
VILLANOVAN SPORTS



VINCE MC PEAK



CARL UNGARO



BUCKY WILLIAMS

'Cats Downed by Crusaders 26-7 as Kalowski Stars

McPeak Scores Lone Touchdown In Final Quarter. Villanova Fumbles At Start Of Game Set Up Two Holy Cross Scores. Capriotti Plays Terrific Game

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 14—Hampered by two important fumbles early in the game, The Villanova College football eleven dropped a 26-7 decision to Holy Cross this afternoon before 26,000 fans. The sky was cloudy throughout the afternoon, however it never rained and that prevented making the afternoon more blue for the Blue and White.

The Wildcat line played a good game but were no match for the blond Polish lad who spent the afternoon running back and forth through the Villanova line and crossing them up on passes. This big fellow, Stan Koslowski by name, is a potential All American footballer. In fact, just after the opening kick-off, Koslowski roared down the field to recover a fumble from the jittery hands of Bill Doherty. On the next three plays Koslowski managed to shove across for their first counter. Versatile Stan made the conversion with little or no effort.

The Wildcats then battled them back and forth for almost the rest of the half, and two minutes before it ended, Veto Kissel lumbered across to climax an eighty-six yard drive, in which Mr. Koslowski was once again off to the races with a forty-eight yard run and a twenty-eight yard pass to lanky end Jim Deickleman.

Holy Cross Does It Again

In the third period, Bill Doherty pulled a repeat performance of his first period act and once again Koslowski recovered his fumble deep in Cat territory. On the next three plays, the Crusaders had put the ball over for what they thought was a TD, but the ref said no, a Holy Cross man had been illegally in motion. From here, things began to perk up for the Pennsy team. Veteran Carl Ungaro came into the game and immediately smeared Joe Byers for a four yard loss. Two of Koslowski's passes did not click and Villanova took over. They could not do much, however, and Doherty punted to his own 46.

Once again, however, later in the period, Koslowski busted loose and tossed a pass to Joe Byers, Bill Doherty attempted to intercept but the ball slid off his eager fingers into Byers' arms for another Crusader score. Koslowski converted making the score stand at 26-0.

Ungaro Sparks Cat Drive

The big clock showed but six minutes left of football for Sunday afternoon when Bill Doherty returned a Holy Cross punt for twenty-five yards down to the Crusaders' twenty yard line. Two Holy Cross linemen were a little too eager, however, and two successive penalties set the Crusaders back to their own ten. Big Carl Ungaro bulled his way through their strong forward wall to land on the five.

'CATS BOW
Continued on Page Four

Bowling League To Start Soon

It has been announced by William Thompson, A.S., that plans are being formulated for the opening of the Bowling League after November 1. Thompson in the past has put a lot of time and hard work into the organization and management of the league and hopes this year to find many of the good bowlers on the campus signing up for this competitive sport.

In the past many good times have been had at the weekly games and the prospects of this semester's league are better than any held for quite some time.

Prize money will be distributed to the winners in the various divisions and more than likely a sweepstake tournament will be sponsored at the end of the season for those who have bowled in the league.

SEEN From the Sidelines

One of Villanova's greats is still going strong in the football world. Eddie Michaels, stellar guard for the Philadelphia Eagles football team, has been in the professional football league for the past six years. Before that, he performed for the Wildcat elevens. Six years in a tough game like pro football is a feather in any man's cap, and Eddie continues his fine play like a fine suit that won't wear out.

* * *

Midshipman Don Schmidt, who was bell-cow of the Villanova track squad for the past three years, is due to be commissioned as an Ensign in the United States Naval Reserves in a short time, was around for a while last week. He reports, coincidently, that Midshipman Charles "Chuck" Harrington is also stationed with him and will receive his commission at the same time. Harrington was also a stalwart with the cindermen and the pair copped quite a few honors and medals for the Villanova show case.

* * *

Joe Walters, former Villanova basketballer and leading scorer in the Philadelphia district while he played, was also a local visitor last week. Joe is stationed at Jefferson Medical School where he is pursuing his studies for a degree in Medicine.

Passing Parade

By
HENRY WARD, A. S.

Sunday's football game with Holy Cross marked the end of the first half of Villanova's 1945 football schedule. The Wildcats, with two wins and two losses, have shown more fight this year than in many years past.

Opening with a victory over a favored Bucknell eleven 19-7, the 'Cats broke the Lewisburg jinx which had protected the Bisons for many years. This was only the fourth time that Bucknell had been beaten on its own field and was the first time Villanova had turned the trick.

Capriotti Stars

Romeo Capriotti made his first game with the Wildcats a memorable one by leading the team offensively and defensively. His running, passing and punting marked him as one of the best backs in this section. On Monday of this week he was presented the Maxwell Memorial Award for his work in the Marquette game. This award is presented each week to the best player in the Philadelphia area.

The following week Navy played host to the team and handed the 'Cats their first defeat. The score, 49-0, doesn't indicate the fight our boys put up against the highly favored middies. Through the second and third periods the Villanova line, paced by end Joe Gonglefski and tackle Tom Sekerchak, broke up one Navy play after another and only the constant stream of Navy reserves wore them down.

Williams' Last Game

The Navy game was the last appearance of one of Villanova's best backfield men in many seasons. Bucky Williams, captain of the 1944 squad, will graduate this Sunday. Plagued by injuries, he was unable to play in either of Villanova's last two games. Bucky, a Navy V-12 trainee here, has been with the team for three seasons and has always been a favorite with the fans. Last season a leg injury received in the Holy Cross game put him out of action for the remainder of the year. Until then he was one of the leading scorers in the east.

The Navy game also marked the first and last appearance of Count Villan II, the Villanova mascot. The Wildcat, the gift of a former Villanovan, died four days after the game as a result of an injury he received while frisking two weeks earlier.

'Cats Down Marquette

The 'Cats traveled to Buffalo N. Y., to meet the Marquette University eleven. Once again the underdog, Villanova came through

PASSING PARADE
Continued on Page Four

Detroit in Home Opener; 'Cats Off to Tennessee

Shibe Park Contest Sunday First Of Two Home Games For 'Cats. Team Set For Titans

Villanova will play host to the University of Detroit this Sunday in the first home game of the 1945 season. The game, to be played at Shibe Park, will get underway at 2:00 P. M. This will be the first of two home games for the 'Cats, the other one being against Boston College on November 10 at 8:30 P. M.

The Titans will field an evenly balanced team and should give the boys a rough game. Victors in two of their three games so far this season, they have shown a lot of speed and fight. Coach Charley Baer has few returning veterans but has a lot of newcomers with plenty of spirit.

Strong At Tackle Slots

At the flank positions will be Beyerlin and Pulte. Both these boys are rangy ends and are sure to give our boys a lot of trouble. Sullivan and Ripple give the Detroit eleven plenty of drive at the tackle slots. Both are big and there are a lot of reserves at their positions.

The center of the line will be well manned by guards Nowak and Maher and center Malinowski. Nowak is one of the best players on Coach Baer's squad and Malinowski is a terrific defensive player. Detroit has few worries at these positions.

Fast Backfield

In the backfield quarterback Chapman and halfback Parke give the Titans a good scoring punch. Parke is a good running back and one of their best scorers. Fullback Lebouf and half back Simmons round out the fast backfield. Deroit's backfield reserves are very good and should see a lot of action.

In their opening game the Titans defeated Scranton by a 40-0 score. The following week they scored another victory, this time over Alma College. On Saturday they were swamped 41-6 by a Mississippi State powerhouse but still put up a good fight.

First Game With Vols To Be Played At Knoxville. Tennessee Has Good Record This Season

While most of us will be enjoying the leisures of leave, the Villanova Wildcats will be slugging it out with the powerful Tennessee "Vols" at Knoxville, Tenn.

This will be the first meeting of the two teams on the gridiron and Tennessee will be fighting hard to hold their winning streak. The Vols were undefeated last year and earned a trip to the Rose Bowl at Pasadena but were overpowered by a strong Southern California team 25-0. To date Tennessee has squeezed out a 7-6 victory over Wake Forrest and overran William and Mary 48-13.

18 Players Return

Tennessee can boast of the return this year of 18 members of the 1944 Rose Bowl squad and possesss the same backfield as last year. At guard the "Vols" will place Bob Dobelstein and Jay Asbury quite a sensation in the Tennessee line of '44, against the "Wildcats". Dobelstein, an outstanding guard was picked by the New York Sun for their All-American Team of last season. Billy Bevis, who was selected last year as the outstanding blocking back of the Southern Conference, will captain the "Vols" against Villanova. Mark Major, John Manning, and Buster Stevens will round out the fast Tennessee backfield. Buddy Pike, six foot two and Roy Cross, six foot, will be holding down the positions.

Coach Johnny Barnhill has coached the "Vols" through three successful season and has produced two Bowl teams. He has a very shifty and speedy backfield this year and the way his team has been playing to date he may be headed for another invitation to show his coaching ability at the Rose Bowl again on New Years Day.

The Vols schedule lists such teams as Alabama, North Carolina, Mississippi, Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

This being the last issue of the Villanovan this semester and with football still in the limelight, I would like to devote this column once again to a member of this year's varsity squad.

As we all know in football circles the line is often not given the credit it so richly deserves. This week I would like to give due credit to one of the linemen who has certainly given his all out there on the gridiron. This young man is Thomas G. Sekerchak, or as you know him, "Tiny."

Biggest on Squad

Tiny, who is a mere six foot five, two hundred and fifteen pounder, was born in Swoyersville, Pa., on April 15, 1925. In the fall of '39, Tom entered Swoyersville High School and reported to football practice right away. The coach immediately realized the potentialities of this tremendous young man and placed him on the varsity. He progressed to the first team in his junior year and was never dislodged from the position until he graduated. Tiny did not sit around in the off season but went right out and played basketball for the high school. He played four years varsity ball with his last two being spent on the first string. In his senior year he was one of the most renowned players upstate and was named to the All-North League team which embraces the greater part of upstate Pennsylvania.

Hard Working Tackle

In October 1944, Tiny went to Lafayette College and was soon found playing the first string tackle position. However, Lafayette did not have the courses Tiny wished to pursue so he came to Villanova and enrolled in the current summer session.

Tiny's ability on the football field was at once spotted by Coach Olivar and he was placed on the varsity squad. In the games Villanova played up to date Tiny has played at least half the time and has shown a beautiful brand of ball. In the Marquette game Tiny blocked a kick that all but broke the back of Marquette's chances of winning. It has also been noted by this reporter that Tom is one man who really knows how to handle the opposition when they get a little on the rough side. To me, Tiny, has been one of the outstanding linemen on Villanova's team this year but truthfully he does not need my praise.

THOMAS G. SEKERCHAK

Here and now, since this probably is my last column, I would like to say goodbye to my readers and good luck to the football team.

Phi Kappa Pi Holds Elections

Following the nominations on Friday, the officers of the Phi Kappa Pi were elected on Monday. The position of president is already filled by Joe Hoffman who was elected last semester but was unable to hold the position during the past semester. Bill Koerner was elected to fill the vice-president's chair. The other officers are Harold Varani, secretary; Joe Brogan, treasurer; Larry Fallon, Student Council representative, and John Coyne will retain his post as sergeant-at-arms.

Al Dumsa, who served during the past semester in the capacity of president pro-tem, has said that the bowling league will be organized as soon as Joe Hoffman is back to take charge. It was not begun this semester because of the general rush toward the end of the semester and because many of the fellows will be leaving.

During the past semester the PKP has been planning its return to its pre-war activities. The frat played several intramural baseball games with the Delta Pi Epsilon, the Commerce and Finance fraternity. The PKP also held a smoker which featured an address by Doctor Haenisch and some movies of the V-12 unit on campus.

The most anticipated activity scheduled for next semester is the initiation of the new members. The initiation is always one of the things which the members never forget.

Wildcats! Stop Here
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE,
VILLANOVA, PA.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
Member International Tailoring Co. N. Y.

'Cats Bow

Continued From Page Three

Chick Welde lugged the leather to the two but on the fourth down Lemay busted through and knocked Doherty's pass to the ground.

Doherty once again set up the score with a return of a kick to the Cross eighteen. Chick Welde stepped into the picture and took it for ten yards and a first down. "Cap" Capriotti made a run which netted three more yards. After that, there was no stopping Vince McPeak, one of the few lettermen from last year, who ran and rammed his way over for a score. Lawless converted. It was McPeak's first touchdown this season, and all the Villanova followers remembered Vince as the agile, hard tackling sparkplug of the '44 team.

Nervousness could have meant the ball game to the Cats.. The two fumbles which set up the Crusaders' first two scores broke the backs, so to speak, of the visitors, and put them in the hole for the rest of the afternoon. McPeak, Ungaro, Capriotti and Dave Gennaralli performed smoothly in the Villanova backfield throughout the afternoon and their play was one of the few bright spots in the cloudy afternoon's melee.

Passing Parade

Continued From Page Three

with a well earned 6-0 victory. The game was played in a constant drizzle on a muddy field. Capriotti's 24 yard touchdown dash gave Villanova the margin of victory, but again the Villanova line was outstanding. In the closing minutes of the game the Hilltoppers resorted to passes and Vince McPeak's near interception on the goal line stopped the drive.

Villanova's 26-7 defeat at the hands of the Holy Cross team was almost a repetition of last year's 26-0 score. The Villanova backfield suffered a severe case of 'fumbleitis' in the opening minutes and the Crusaders' All-American candidate Stan Koslowski lost little time in scoring 14 points. After that the game was much more evenly played but the 'Cats couldn't produce when deep in enemy territory. McPeak's five yard plunge for a score in the last quarter was the only Villanova scoree.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

The Campus
Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

Navy Office

Continued From Page One

as medical officer for the NROTC program which commences next semester. He has been stationed as medical officer in the V-12 here since November, 1944. Prior to his assignment to the college he served 17 months in the Aleutian Islands.

Ii civilian life, Dr. Lorenz was a practicing physician at Plymouth Meeting, Pa. His wife and two daughters reside there. A graduate of Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa., he attended Villanova College and William and Mary College.

Lt. Comdr. Miles has been connected with the V-12 program here since his arrival June 18, 1945. At that time he held the rank of Lieutenant. He is an instructor in Naval Science.

Lt. Stanley Kuffel, USNR, former executive officer of the V-12 Unit, will take over the duties of athletic and supply officer for the NROTC program. Lt. Kuffel has been at Villanova since July of 1944.

Captain Thomas explained that the NROTC program will supplement the V-12 program which ends with the termination of the current semester. Naval Science subjects will be taught to trainees as a major with courses in the regular college curriculum being offered as electives. For the present, the Marine Corps trainees will continue the same type of instruction pursued under the V-12 program except that their college training will be extended to eight terms instead of the current four.

The NROTC trainees will wear blue-jacket uniforms for work and classroom activities. For dress and parade, they will wear the midshipman type of uniform. Pre-Med and Pre-Dent students who are either graduating this term or are being returned to inactive duty, will be required, upon leaving school, to pursue the same course of study at some other college or university or they will be returned to general service, Captain Thomas explained. Engineering graduates will be on delayed orders for thirty days after which they will be given spot commissions and will go on active duty.

There will be a total of aproximately 375 trainees under the new program. The NROTC plans, at present, to give all trainees eight terms of college and, upon successful completion, a degree plus a commission in the Naval Reserve. Some will go on active naval duty and may elect to join the regular Navy, Captain Thomas said.

Graduation

Continued From Page One

Ronan, James L. Shoemaker Jr., USNR, Joseph M. Sulock, USNR, and William L. Williams Jr., USNR.

Bachelor of Mechanical Engineering: Alfred V. Dumsa, John W. Huckert, USNR; Bachelor of Chemical Engineering: James P. Fogerty, Hugh F. Hart, George T. Scanlon, USNR; Bachelor of Science in Economics: John J. Fitzgibbons and Richard E. Merlino.

Tastes like home
© 1945 The C-C Co.
Drink
Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

ATTENTION SERVICEMEN

PURPOSE—The G. I. Veteran is entitled to any level of education for which he can qualify including undergraduate or graduate studies at a college, university, high school or vocational institution. The Veteran may make his own choice of the school, etc., anywhere in the United States.

EXTENT—90 days of active service entitles the Veteran to education or training, or a refresher or retraining course at an approved institution for a period of one year. If he completes the first year satisfactorily, he is entitled in addition to as many years or months of training as he served altogether in active service from September 16, 1940, to the end of the war. If the Veteran's length of service is sufficient and he qualifies otherwise he may have a total of four years of education.

EXPENSES—The Veteran's expense for tuition, fees, books and equipment, up to $500 for each ordinary academic year, will be paid by the government. In addition he will receive $50 a month for subsistence or $75 if he has one or more dependents.

HOW TO APPLY—Application should be made on Veterans Administration Form 1950, which can be obtained, after the Veteran is discharged, from regional offices of the Veterans Administration or from any educational institution.

SPECIAL NOTE—Disabled Veterans are eligible for additional educational services under another Bill.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION WRITE
THE VETERANS GUIDANCE SERVICE
VILLANOVA COLLEGE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Student Council

Continued From Page One

the pre-war rules and regulations.

The Orientation Committee for the coming semester will comprise the Student Council and the following members of the Class of 1948: John Behen, James Breene, Peter Chaplinsky, Tony Cocco, Peter Gelzinis, Edmund Gonglefski, Francis Hennessy, Richard Hartman, Victor Liberi, Edward Loughery, Joseph Lombardo, Robert Manske, Francis McDonald, John Noonan, Frank Nugent, Dante Orazi, John Quinn, Charles McIntyre.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

Villanova College Rings by BARR'S
Largest Jewelers in Philadelphia
Presenting a display of College and Class Rings for all local Schools and Colleges
A wide selection of designs, and stones.
All rings are 10 Kt. gold.

ESTABLISHED 1853
BARR'S
JEWELERS • SILVERSMITHS
1112 Chestnut St. 5600 Germantown Ave.
28 South 69th St. 4650 Frankford Ave.
WRITE FOR OUR FREE 48-PAGE CATALOG

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 13 N. A. A. S. X1660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1945

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Four Officers Added To NROTC Teaching Staff

New Officers To Take Up Duties As Instructors In Naval Program

On November 1, 1945, Lts., Wm. D. Groff Jr., USNR and Elmer D. West USNR, Lts. (jg) Harry C. Abraham, USNR and Robert D. Hecht, NSNR assumed their duties as Naval science instructors at Villanova College. These officers have been added to the naval station for the purpose of presenting to the Navy R. O. T. C. students, the large number of courses required under the Navy program.

The first to be interviewed, in order to familiarize you with these officers was Lt. Elmer D. West, USNR, who was born in Spencer, West Virginia on September 13, 1907. He received his preliminary education in Spencer and in 1926 matriculated at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio, where he received a B. A. Degree in 1930. After graduation Lt. West entered Harvard University to major in psychology,, obtaining his Ed.M in 1934 and an Ed.D. in 1935.

LT. ELMER D. WEST, USNR

LT. WM. D. GROFF JR., USNR

While attending Harvard he was very active in social organization and for this he received the Blue key. Lt. West is a member of the Psi Chi and Phi Delta Kappa education fraternities.

Lt. West entered the Naval Reserve in April 1943 and was indoctrinated at Columbia University for V-12 training program. After his training he reported to Middlebury College where he remained on the Navy staff until October of this year, at which time he received his assignment to Villanova College as an instructor in Naval Sciences. Lt. West is married and has two children.

Lt. Groff was born on August 12, 1916 in Owings Mills, Baltimore County, Maryland, where he attended the public grade and high schools. Lt. Groff then enrolled at the University of Maryland where he obtained a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1939. While at the Univ. of Maryland he played on the lacrosse team for three years, which team was declared intercollegiate champions in 1936 and 1937. After graduating he played lacrosse with the non-professional Baltimore All Stars which was rated highly in the East.

On July 7, 1942 Lt. Groff was sworn in as an Ensign in the United States Naval Reserve and after spending only a month in the states was assigned to the Dorothea L. Dix for duty in the Atlantic. His ship participated in the invasions of North Africa, Sicily, Normandy, and Southern France. Lt Groff later saw four months duty in the Pacific aboard the same vessel, until he received an assignment to Yale University as an N.R.O.T.C. instructor. He was later assigned to Ursinus College at Collegeville, Pa. in the same capacity.

On November 1, he came to Villanova as a naval science instructor in the new N.R.O.T.C. program.

Lt. Groff was married on October 20, 1945 in Maryland. His bride was a resident of the city of Baltimore.

Student Council Lays Plans For New Semester

At a recent meeting of the Student Council plans were discussed concerning the action of the Council during the coming semester. The meeting was called by Joseph Hoffman, president, for the purpose of formulating methods for announcing the various extra-curricular activities in advance.

The Student Council has arranged for a meeting today at 1 P. M. for all class officers and representatives from each of the societies. This meeting will be held to devise a calendar for the various dances and other social activities to be given by the different classes and societies. In addition the start of a Sanctuary Society will be discussed. Notices will be posted on the Bulletin Boards sometime this week, and all who wish to serve Mass are requested to become members.

Another topic of last week's meeting was the subject of the freshmen rules and regulations. Freshmen who have violated any of the regulations will be brought before the Student Council for punishment instead of before the Orientation Committee as last semester. There will be two freshmen meetings each week which will be held on Mondays and Fridays under the direction of the Orientation Committee and the Student Council.

Mass And Benediction For Day Students

Father Edwin Grimes, O.S.A., College Chaplain, has announced that Benediction will be given for all Catholic day students every Wednesday afternoon, at 1:20 P. M. On the First Friday of each month there will be a Mass at 8:00 A. M., especially for the day students, to encourage their making the Nine First Fridays.

At present, Benediction attendance is mandatory, but hope has been expressed that in the future attendance cards can be eliminated.

After Mass there will be sufficient time for students to get a bite to eat before going to classes.

Comdr. Whaley Receives Purple Heart Medal

Award Given For Wounds Received On U.S.S. Hornet

The Executive Officer of the Navy Training Program at Villanova, Commander James W. Whaley, U. S. N., in the presence of the assembled Navy Unit received the Purple Heart Medal from the hands of the Commanding Officer on Monday 5 November 1945.

Commander Whaley merited the Medal for wounds received in the battle off Santa Cruz due to torpedo action by the enemy, while Boiler Division Officer on the U.S.S. Hornet. In consequence of this same battle, Comdr. Whaley received the Silver Star in connection with a commendation signed by Admiral Halsey.

The letter accompanying the Purple Heart read: "In the name of the President and by direction of the Secretary of the Navy, a Purple Heart Medal is awarded to Comdr. James W. Whaley for wounds received in action against the enemy of the United States on 26 October 1942 while attached to the U.S.S. Hornet."

CAMP TO CAMPUS

By ROBERT CONWAY

News again comes from all corners of the globe with the beginning of a new semester. Once again we will look first to the Pacific front and the first bit of information comes from Ph. M. 3/c Tom Corbett on board the U. S. S. Consolation, a hospital ship anchored off Wakayowa in southern Japan He writes that they are taking patients back to the base hospitals at Guam, Okinawa and Pearl Harbor. The last time at Pearl Harbor he met Tim Brennan, brother of Bill Brennan of Simpson Hall. He is also trying to contact Frank Breslan who is in the same harbor.

Cpl. Jack Betz writes that he has been promoted to T/5 and that despite rumors to the contrary he successfully survived that typhoon which almost dumped Okinawa into the Pacific Ocean. Another typhoon victim was Y 2/C Bill Swan. He writes that they were driven off their course towards Formosa with a 40 to 50 knot wind and seas running to a height of 40 feet. While walked the streets of Manila he ran into Ed Rabidoux, who is waiting transportation home and ultimate discharge. Johnnie Humphry R. D. M. 3/C writes from Saipan that he is having a first class vacation at the expense of the U. S. Government. Pfc. Pat Coletta M. P. Det. 6th Replacement depot at Manila writes that he will in the near future be an officer of the law somewhere in Japan.

The next line of information comes from Europe and Pfc. Ed. A. Fenalli. He writes that he is stationed at Wiesbaden, Germany, and is having a wonderful time on the French Riviera. The most pleasant news he receives is the publicity Villanova receives in the "Stars and Stripes." He writes that since Villanova plays most of their games on Sunday they get a detailed writeup while the Saturday games are given in box detail.

Sgt.Norman Restains, who made the varsity his first year at Villanova, is playing with the Army team that has been touring Europe and was recently featured in the sports section of "Stars and Stripes." He is currently at the Hotel Paradise, "Bell-Aair" near Marseilles (Bell-Air is the name of the Main Line estate which in 1841 became Villanova College). He also visited the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in southern France.

Orientation Committee Announces Frosh Rules

Hal Varani, Chairmen of Committee, States Infractions Will Be Dealt With By Student Court

An ominous warning to the Frosh to abide by the Freshmen regulations has been sounded by Hal Varani, chairman of the Orientation Committee. Total or partial disregard for college regulations pertaining to wearing "Regs" by the Freshmen, prompted the announcement.

The chairman pointed out that it is the purpose of the Orientation Committee to enforce Frosh rules according to the college traditions not to "try to act wise" as some of the newcomers seem to believe.

The formation of a Student Council Court, composed of five senior members of the Orientation Committee, for the purpose of deliberating on orientation infractions, also was announced by Varani. The court will sit as a body to hear and rule on violation cases which will be dealt with individually.

Members of the Student Council Court are: William Koerner, Joseph Hoffman, Edwin Keller, Hal Varani and James Meehan.

The Orientation Committee will sit in the background as a court body. Penalties will be meeted out according to the infraction of rules. The chairman emphasized that any infraction of college rules by any Freshman will be dealt with by the court, which will meet once a week.

A Freshman meeting will be held every Monday and Friday at 1 P. M. in Room 215 Mendel Hall. Copies of college regulations have been distributed to all Frosh so ignorance of the rules is no excuse, Varani declared.

The wearing of "Regs" will be suspended December 20 providing Freshmen cooperate as a body with the Orientation Committee on regulations. If not, the Frosh restrictions will be continued for an indefinite period of time.

V-5 Unit Added To Naval Training Program Here

Fifty Naval Air Corps Aspirants Commence Studies

You may have been astonished last week at seeing a number of "civilians" about the campus exercising peculiar functions such as, marching in ranks and carrying sea bags from place to place. This was however, not out of the ordinary, for these men comprise the newest addition to our service organization, namely the V-5 Naval Trainees.

The group, numbering fifty, arrived three days after the start of the semester and the training course that lies ahead of them is rather uncertain. It is known however, that they will eventually become fliers for the Navy Air Force which we hope, will forever hold the peace.

Though handicapped by their late start and the fact that most of them are from civilian life, they have succeeded in adapting themselves to college life and to naval discipline: Under the competent guidance of Lt. (j.g.) Robert D. Hecht, these new trainees will undoubtedly give competition to their upper classmen both in the classroom and on the drill field.

Fathers McGuire, McKee Address Student Assembly

Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., College President, and Father Edward B. McKee, Vice-President, addressed the student body of Villanova at the outset of the new term. Father McGuire's talk was held in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium and in attendance were both civilian students and Naval and Marine trainees, in addition to the officers of the Ships Company. Father McKee addressed the civilian students in the amphitheatre in Mendel Hall.

The first thought of Father McGuire's address was to welcome the students, trainees and veterans to Villanova. He pointed out to them the "Spirit of Villanova" and how it has grown during these many years, emphasizing the spirit that has lived with the Villanovans scattered around the world.

Discipline Necessary

Father McGuire stressed several other important points in his address. He spoke of the need of discipline and the part it plays in college life, giving several examples on this principle and pointing out to the students that habits formed in college would be reflected in later life.

Father McGuire concluded his address by emphasizing that the policies of Villanova are based on Christian principles and that no

ADDRESS ASSEMBLY
Continued on Page Four

Warren Fox; Ex-Student Dies

Attended Villanova For Two Years; Mass Celebrated By Fr. Edwin Grimes

Warren Fox, ex '45, died in the Brooklyn Navy Yard Hospital on October 20. He is the fifty-first Villanovan to die in the service.

Father Vincent McQuade, O.S.A., attended the funeral Mass and burial in Warren's home town, Farmingdale, Long Island. A Requiem Mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul by Father Edwin Grimes, O.S.A., College Chaplain, on Thursday, November 1.

Fox matriculated at Villanova in October, 1941, and remained for two years. In November, 1943 he enlisted in the Marine Corps and was sent to Parris Island for boot training. After going through several Marine radio and communications schools, he was taken sick while stationed in Texas, in August of this year. In September he was transferred to the Brooklyn Navy Yard Hospital where he died.

Warren, 23 when he died, is the brother of Walter Fox, '42.

DPE Holds Meeting

On Monday, Nov. 5, 1945 the Commerce and Finance Fraternity, Delta Pi Epsilon, held its first meeting of the new semester.

Robert Conway, President of the fraternity, presided at the meeting and announced plans for obtaining pins and keys for a fraternity dance. Also a committee was organized to draw up a new constitution and by-laws.

The next meeting of the fraternity will be held Tuesday, Nov. 13, in 215 Mendel Hall.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
FREDERICK J. KOCH, NROTC .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff

Russell Welsh, '47
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Donald Sommer, '47
William Altenpohl, '47
Joseph D'Auria, '48

Sports Staff

Robert Manske, '48
William Thompson, NROTC
James McNamara, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
William Chester, '48
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists

William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Benjamin Reist, NROTC
Harold Varani, '46
Thomas Heaps, NROTC
James Mackey, '46

Photography Staff

Charles Sibre, '48
Albert Derr, '46

Circulation Staff

Raymond Stone, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Joseph Sweeney, '46
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Peter McManus, '47
Thomas Donnelley, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.

Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - NOVEMBER 13, 1945

Villanova's Invitation

With the advent of many new students to the Villanova campus, it is fitting to dedicate the first issue of the scholastic year to the formation of Christian gentlemen. The proper college attitude is a major demonstration of that mark. If this is not the school of your choice, we vehemently exhort you to make the best of it and to sustain at least passively the burden of your disinterest. All of you will make acquaintances here at Villanova, acquaintances which may be life-long. Of these, there will be those for whom Villanova has meant home, a bulwark against the immoralities of life, a spiritual solace, and a stepping stone to success. Try to consider them when expressing your feelings toward the school. Your derogatory remarks will only lower you in their opinion. Opinions that are expressed in order to suggest self-superiority usually fall flat, because they are seldom expressed by the superior. This is a place to build your character. Villanova welcomes you to her Campus, welcomes you to be a gentleman.

—R. L. W.

Back To Whence We Came

"United in war, divided in peace," may well describe the rather disturbing predicament in which the United Nations now find themselves after having beaten the Axis powers. Since September, 1939, when Germany first sent her troops into Poland, until late this summer, at the instant of Japan's surrender, Great Britain, France, Russia, China, the United States, and other allied powers fought side by side against a common group of countries, the Axis powers, in what was the most diabolical of all wars, a war which set a new high for mass blood-letting in the history of man.

But the conflict, which ushered in the beginning of the atomic age, is almost three months past. And many a returning or wounded veteran, many an aching and heavy heart, burdened with the horrible results of man's inhumanity to man, now searchingly asks, "Was it worth it?" or, in view of political and military developments of the past several weeks, they despondently cry, "Where do we go from here?"

It was worth all the effort if we follow through in peace, with all the resolve and drive and courage that helped us win the war, along that road which leads to tranquility among men and the brotherhood of nations by going back to the ageless ideals of charity and understanding, which our Creator Himself promulgated. We will progress in our fight to attain, at least, the middle of the road, if we humbly turn our hearts to the Tabernacles of the Church and lend an attentive ear to the Vicar of Christ in Rome.

The Awful Truth

By BEN REIST & TINKER HEAPS

Greetings John Doe . . . here we are again, the Villanova Villians!!! Now, as we understand it, we are slated to pick up all the local dope and attempt transcribing it to you; therefore, stand by, and we shall see what can be done about the situation . . .

Opening flash; Envious eyes and yearning hearts followed two weary forms from the campus last week; no, it wasn't due to the food situation, but Messrs. Rogers and Fesmire have been extricated to that cruel, cruel world of civilians. In fact, at this writing they have been completely liberated and now wear "The Flying Doughnut." Soon they'll be forced to wear civvies again and pay full price at the movies . . . ain't it "hail", how could they stand it??? . . . Speaking of surviving, did anybody notice the self-propelled piece (rifle) going through the manual by itself??? Well, word has reached our ears that Chief Donaldson looked aghast at this "manuevering piece" until the platoon did a column movement and he spotted our fine friend, Fatty Walsh. Laugh if you will, but who of you can say he already has a postwar future as can Walsh!??! Yep, he is already contracted for modeling in a needle factory . . .

New arrivals this semester are headed by that great personality of the Marine Corps, "Blubber" O'Donnel. A new transferee from Colgate this well groomed Gyrene will undoubtedly add color to the Belle Air atmosphere. Welcome Aboard Blubber!!! . . . and speaking of new faces, I imagine you are all aware of the return of our latest dischargees; yessir with us these days we see the smiling faces of Skull McPeak, Mackey and Welsh of Pre-Med fame. Uh-huh, the only "disecticians" who ever cut classes without an anesthetic. Nod hello to our ex-comrades fellows, they've come back of their own free will . . .

Fedigan Hall is once more wearing a happy smile, for it has been the aid in bringing two happy hearts together again; two of our M-berg boys were angry with one another for sometime, but through heartwarming tales they have been reconciled and are now planning their lives as one . . . know who we mean??? Those lovable boys, Freddy Otto and Jack Gourley . . .

Arrival of the V-5's aboard had a considerable effect on some of our colleagues; it made them appreciate all their time in the service . . . yep, all five semesters!!! In fact, the old hands of the establishment gave the boys a helping hand; those engineers (usually said with a sneer) showed their good hearts by helping the latest contingents in squaring away their billets. Therefore, flowers and candy to the engineers for their niceties!!! . . .

Stumpy Wilson tells us his bunky is a real pal; Winner has been indoctrinating his buddies to all the wiles and wickednesses of Ye Olde Legion. A brother crony, Freytag, has a like habit . . . he even sleeps there occasionally, when he's too tired??? . . . our peering eyes also found Bascik and Co. well on their way to ruin at that spot of spots, El Glendennings.

Those cynical, chastising remarks of Staff Sgt. Christien seem to be having the proper effect, for when Mather, Villanova and soon to be discharged Walters can do a flank movement without bloodshed there's a great influence at work somewhere . . . but then, some guys can't help it if all their limbs are lefts . . .

Just a chilly note of warning to some of our pals who have that "fleetlook" in their eyes; Goch and Rodkey, both November evacuees to the Philly Yards, have already been transferred to the soft, sandy shores of Shoemaker, California . . . get what we mean???

Joke of the Week; Lyons and Marano arguing over who has the ugliest Durante . . . That's all for now . . . Nove smotz ka pop!!!

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI and BILL KOERNER

This is Station VILLAN bringing you another semester program sponsored by that well known products, Cat Capers. The sponsor wishes to announce that any similarity to places or persons is strictly coincidental.

Flash!! Flash!! The best news, or should I say the best gossip of all comes to Villanova's halls. To inform our new and old students as to "the meaning of gossip," Webster, back in the early days of the dictionary, anticipated this so-called column and defined same as over-the-fence oratory. (Slightly altered by yours truly) In due respect to our former gossip slinger, Mr. "Lacy" Ronan better known as Villanova's own leaning tower we will try our best to make as many friends (mostly enemies) in bringing out what most of us wish to be held in secrecy.

Many Villanova wolves in gentleman's clothing were seen Sunday beaming in glory at Rosemont's tea dance. We tried our best to please the gals but the absence of H. P. Dumsa, former Dean of Women, was felt by all. You see, H. P. is the only one capable of dancing with a gal and yet tall enough to say hello to all others present. Chalk up one for us, Al.

However, a capable successor for H. P. has been discovered. He is none other than John J. Coyne, better known as the "Conshohocken Shuffle."

By the way, if charms failed you Sunday at the tea and wangling an invite from one of the beautiful Rosies for their Senior Ball failed then you needn't fret. You may still satisfy your desire by contacting Jim Riley who will be very glad to accommodate you. Leave your specifications as to height, weight, and color of hair with Jim, and your order will be filled. Remember we only have a limited supply so do not linger, place your order immediately.

Carl Ungaro was all set for an A in Religion, but circumstances altered the situation. He'll have to study now.

The Boston College game saw many of the boys sporting beautiful chicks from the college ranks. Among the celebrities were: Ed Keller, with a Parsons' School, Riley and Chestnut Hill, Caruso and Rosemont, and Ward and Harcum.

By the way, they are still trying to find out the score of the game. Their eyes throughout the game were focused on the fair damsels. Can't say that I blame them.—Come to think of it, what was the score?

We would like to know whether Ed Gonglefski is the second or third party in the Bryn Mawr Hospital Trio.——Why does Bob Walcovy buy a brand new paper every morning and then only gets to read it second-handed? What does the dentist's office have to offer that drags Pete Palitto out four nights a week? It's also good to see Manske wearing a sport coat.

News has been coming in a little slow this week, but you can expect us back next Tuesday with a column full of your favorite "Cat Capers."

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

With fall semesters everywhere in full swing, it's high time to look into the doings of Villanova's brothers in the "fields of higher learning." Just follow along and see what's going on.

* * *

Social Stuff

The Rosemont class of '46 presents its senior ball on Dec. 1. Our Main Line neighbors are going to call their dance the "Victory Ball"; the band—Elliot Lawrence.

Chestnut Hill's senior prom is coming up on Saturday, Nov. 27.

* * *

Morning Cheer

Do you hear a rooster crow
When it is time to rise?
Or does a little trumpet blow
To help you ope' your eyes?
Some folks hear a tinkling bell
And some a fife and drum.
But I just hear my roommate yell,
"Get out of bed, ya' bum!"

Further "Zoot Hoot" column wisely reminds girls who think a lot of themselves because they're chased by wolves that "the three little pigs were chased too."

—Temple University News.

* * *

Anniversary News

Canisius College of Buffalo, N. Y., celebrated with a Pontifical High Mass its diamond jubilee on Sept. 30, 1945.

Down the tracks away near Paoli, our neighbor, Immaculata College, celebrated its 25th anniversary with a Solemn High Mass.

* * *

College Youth

You're never too old to learn. The University of Rochester reports that Mrs. Ada King, 81, decided she'd like to know something about philosophy, so she enrolled at the University, becoming oldest coed.

* * *

Ah Vegetables

Do you CARROT all for me?
My bleeding heart BEETS for you.
My love is as soft as SQUASH
And if we CANTELOPE
LETTUCE because I'm sure
We'll make a happy PEAR.

—"The Tatler."

* * *

WITH THE RELIGIOUS

Cancer Research

At Immaculata Sister M. St. Agatha and Sister Mary of Lourdes after three years of training at the Divi Thomae Institutum, have set up a new research laboratory to combat one of the nation's worst sicknesses,

The Sisters are fortunate in having a modern lab completely equipped. For example the newer pieces are: an Autoclave, a centrifuge, Warburg Respirometer, and many other devices having tongue-twisting names. The Sisters are well supplied also with albino rats, which besides serving as excellent needle-material and victims for experimentation, we bet will turn out to be an efficient damper for the curious spirits of the Immaculata misses.

Today cancer is the big question mark of medicine. Thus the efforts of the sisters of Immaculata are particularly apropos. With all their modern equipment plus their extensive training we feel certain that the sisters will experience some success in denting the wall of ignorance surrounding cancer.

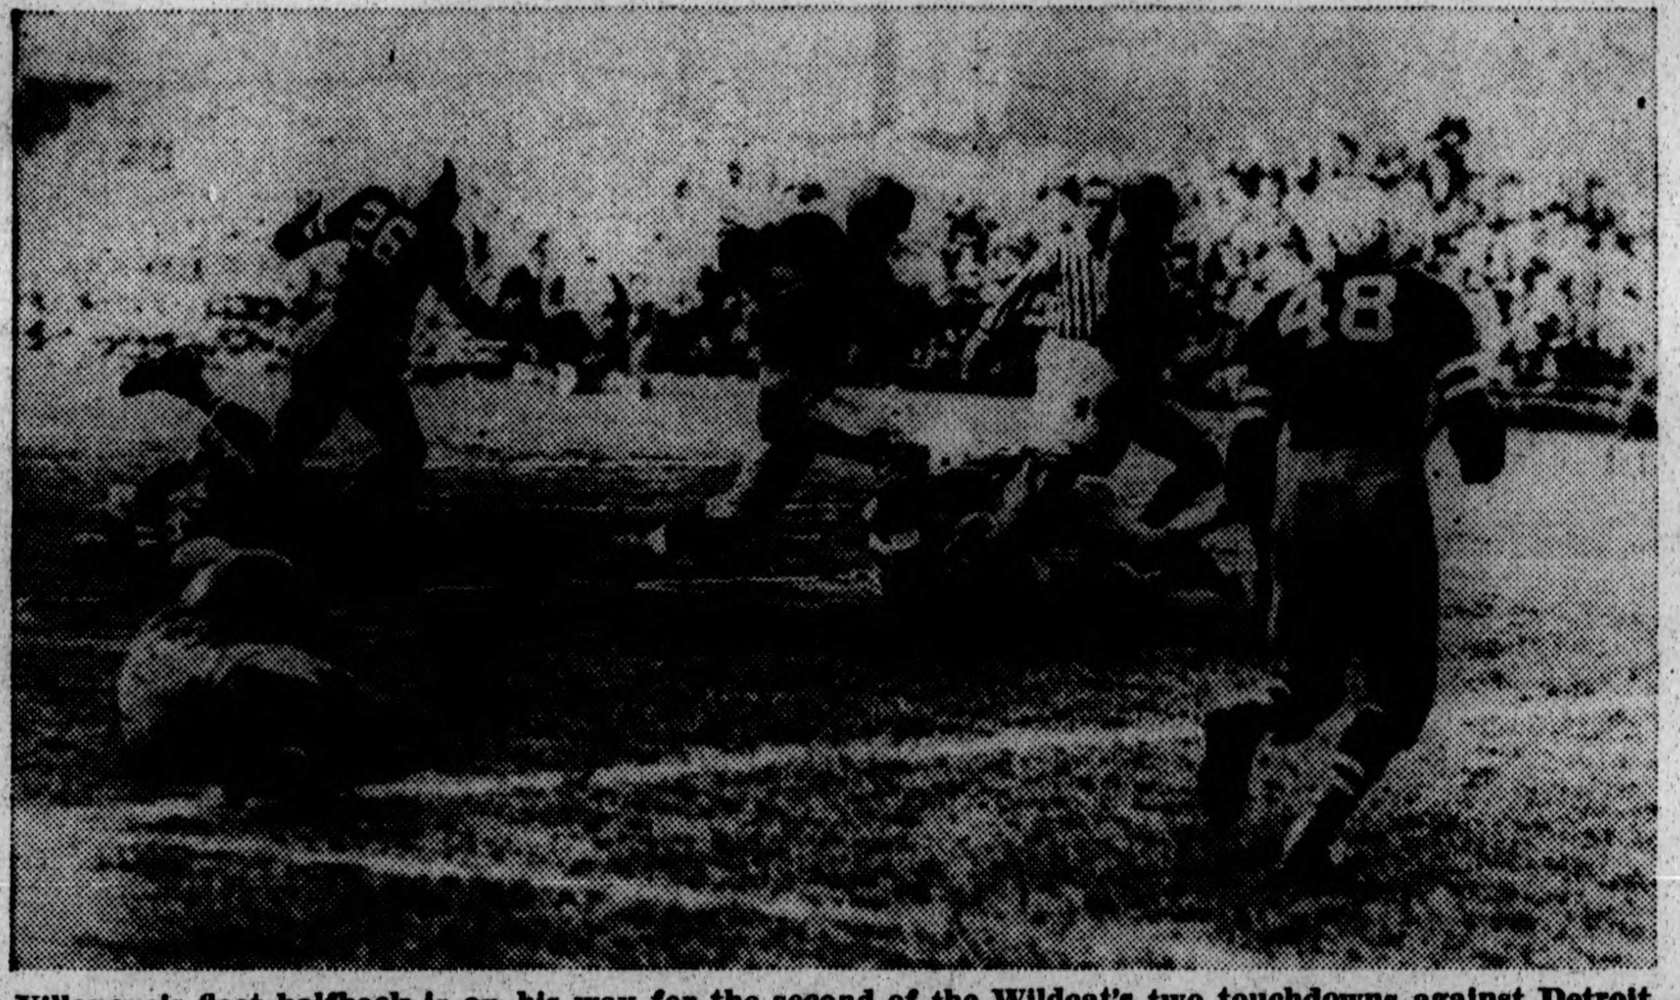
KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS
Longines
THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE

ICE Aristocrat CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Capriotti Scores In Home Opener



Villanova's fleet halfback is on his way for the second of the Wildcat's two touchdowns against Detroit, from the six yard marker. The Titans fell before the 'Cat onslaught, 14-0.

Gridmen Down B.C., 41-0, To Close With .500 Record

Doherty, McPeak, Generalli, Ungaro and Mackowki Score As Wildcats Run Up Highest Total of Season

Villanova's varsity football eleven finished off their first peacetime season in four years Saturday night in a blaze of glory by administering a 41-0 lacing to the Golden Eagles of Boston College. After a slow and slightly perilous first half the Wildcat machine began to click with an efficiency that forced the Eagles to leave the field dizzy.

The Cat eleven was shoved around for the first seven minutes and it looked like a rough and tumble ball game. However, when the scoreboard clock showed that 8 minutes and 34 seconds had elapsed, Mr. Bill Doherty decided things had gone far enough and stepped in to intercept one of Jim McMorrow's passes and trot, behind fine blocking, the thirty yards to pay dirt. Marine private Ed Lawless converted with ease. This ended the first half scoring and the game turned to one of the see-saw type.

Veteran McPeak Sets Up Score

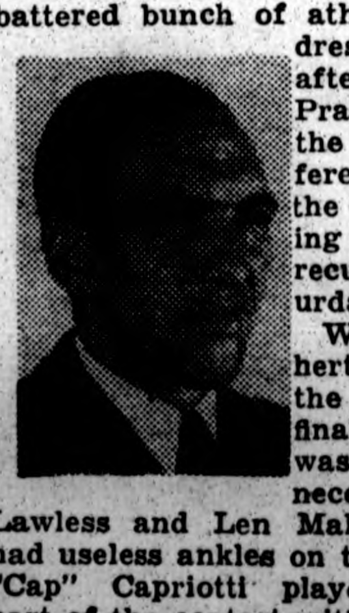
In the third canto, Vince McPeak burst through a tough Eagle line for a nice 32 yard run from his own 43. This set up the first score of the second half. Boston held for downs and took over. Chick Welde took a stray lateral down to the 3 on a nice interception. Capriotti took the ball to the 3 inch line, and Dave Generalli bulled his way over for TD No. 2. Cap Capriotti booted a perfect placement for the conversion.

On the kickoff, Bob Riley, V.C., tackle recovered a B.C. fumble and a few seconds later, Vince McPeak broke away for 21 yards and another score. Once again Capriotti, who with McPeak sparked the Wildcat drive, kicked a perfect conversion. At this point, feelings ran high between the teams and a fistic engagement ensued, resulting in the ousting of two players.

In the fourth period it was McPeak again setting up the score with a beautiful end sweep for 33 yards down to the 3. Lenny Mackowski cracked over with ease from the quarterback position. Bill Doherty converted. Reserve back, Johnny Appleton, with a 17 yard jog and Big Carl Ungaro who smashed over with half of the Eagles on his back, gave V.C. their next touchdown. Doherty again was the booter for the extra score. Dogherty, number 13, the lucky "unlucky" diget, received a pass from McPeak on the 4 and he trotted to the races for the forty mark. The Bristol boy, McPeak again, converted.

Ollie's Comments

Season Successful As Freshman Stars Develop



Like all other things even our schedule had to come to an end. The surprising part of it all is that the schedule ended before the football team did. Despite the fact that the Boston College affair appeared to be an easy one, we had a well-battered bunch of athletes in the dressing room after the game. Practically all the injuries suffered in some of the earlier bruising contests had recurrences Saturday night.

When Bill Doherty went into the game in the final quarter it was because of necessity as Ed Lawless and Len Makowski both had useless ankles on the sidelines. "Cap" Capriotti played a major part of the contest with an injured leg. In fact, Capriotti has been hampered by an injury since the start of the season but has played brilliant football nevertheless. Our three centers all had minor injuries along with Tom Sekerchak, Joe Gonglefski, Shep Woolford and Jack Glascott. Now the boys have ten months in which to recover before the next whistle.

The game turned out as expected although we played poor football during the first half. The only redeeming feature was our drive in the last few minutes of the half when time ran out on us.

Fine Running and Passing

The second half was Boston College's turn to put on a fancy exhibition and they certainly did. They

OLLIE'S COMMENTS
Continued on Page Four

Villanova Loses Two Road Games; Army, Tennessee

33-2 Loss At Knoxville And 54-0 Defeat At West Point Close Away Schedule For Gridmen

By BILL CHESTER

During the past holidays, while most students were home thinking of the ways and means to help overcome the havoc that four months of intensive schooling had wrought, the Wildcats were facing Tennessee's experienced (17 lettermen back) and versatile team.

Mainly because of the strength and individual style of the foe's line and powerful open field running of Buster Stephens, Villanova emerged from the fray at the short end of a 33-2 score.

Stephens Scores Two

Tennessee's first score came after the Catmen punted to Stephens who carried it 45 yards for the score. The Volunteers then kicked off to us; again the ever alert Mountainmen held our attack in check and finally intercepted one of our passes. Stephens faked a pass, found a hole and eluding many would-be tacklers crossed the white stripe for another tally.

The only points scored against Tennessee were the two Santacrocce picked up when he and a host of teammates fell on the ball carrier behind Tennessee's goal line.

Near the end of the fourth period the Mainliners launched an accurate passing attack that carried them eighty-one yards and almost to a T. D. When the attack failed on the four yard line, Tennesse's victory was assured.

Army 54—Villanova 0

Why did our gridmen lose 54-0 to Army? Mainly because Army has a reserve poll of polished ball players that would be able to man three topflight college teams.

Army's T is a devastating thing to watch, with Doc Blanchard ripping "up the middle" and Glenn Davis rounding "the horn" like someone possessed.

On the second play from scrimmage Blanchard drifted out as man-in-motion, suddenly changed pace, outdistanced the secondary and went over standing after having received a beautiful pass from Davis. This fault of letting offensive ends and backs get behind the secondaries was corrected by the second half and from there on in Army relied on power plays for gains.

'Cats Win Home Opener, 14-0, Against Detroit

Two Intercepted Passes Give 'Cats Touchdowns. Hunter and Capriotti Register Scores As Gonglefski Blocks Two Punts. 12,000 See Home Opener

Philadelphia, Oct. 21 . . . Opening their 1945 home season before a crowd of 12,000, the Villanova Wildcats capitalized on two intercepted passes to defeat the University of Detroit 14-0. Scoring once in both the first and third periods, the 'Cats held the advantage all the way and were never in serious trouble.

Villanova kicked off to Detroit to start the contest and after an exchange of punts Bill Doherty, 'Cat quarterback, intercepted a pass from Guy "Buzz Bomb" Brown on the 50-yard marker and carried it to the Detroit 33. Six plays moved the ball to the 4-yard line with Doherty, "Cap" Capriotti and Vince McPeak sharing the heavy work. On a straight power plunge fullback Al Hunter went over for the score at 8:13 of the first period. Ed Lawless' placekick split the uprights perfectly to give the hosts a 7-0 lead.

Villanova took the second half kickoff and marched 70 yards down the field in ten plays for a first down on the Detroit 9-yard line. Four plays lost four yards and Detroit took over on the 13. Don Guepe gave Coach Howard Baer's Titans a first on the 24, two plays later. Brown's long pass was snatched out of Ralph Chapman's hands on the Villanova 40 by Capriotti and the 'Cats were given a first down on the Detroit 45 when the officials decided the Titans were too rough on Cap.

Cap Goes Over

Six plays later Villanova had a first down on the 6-yard stripe. McPeak bore the brunt of the drive with 20 yards in three attempts. After being stopped twice at the line of scrimmage, Capriotti went over for the score on a counter play. Lawless' conversion was again good and Villanova led 14-0 at 12:45 of the third period. Villanova almost scored again later in the period on a blocked kick. This time Joe Gonglefski broke through to block the kick and Jack Glascott

DETROIT GAME
Continued on Page Four

Bowling League To Reopen Soon

With the beginning of the new semester Joe Hoffman, President of Phi Kappa Pi fraternity, has announced that once again the bowling league will be sponsored by the PKP. Bill Koerner will act as representative of the fraternity, and with the assistance of Bill Thompson, will be responsible for getting the league off to a smooth start. It is hoped that the teams will be formed, and all plans completed to start the league on Saturday, November 24th. The time will be decided upon at a later date. The league will bowl at the Rosemont alleys as they have during the last two seasons.

The same rules that governed last years league will also be in effect this season. For the benefit of all new men interested in joining the league, the rules will be outlined breifly here. The league will be "guaranteed," that is, the prize money must be paid each week to insure a fair distribution of awards at the seasons end. The point system will be in effect which practically guarantees some return to each member. The total cost will be $1.25 per person, each week, this includes the prize money, and the cost of three games. The league will be run on the handicap system, which under the circumstances, has been found to be the fairest method. The scratch average will be 160, but the open-

BOWLING LEAGUE
Continued on Page Four

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

"Joe, by all means has certainly proven himself to be a great ballplayer here at Villanova," is one of the praiseworthy statements delivered this season by Jordan Olivar, head football coach.

The "Joe" that Olivar had in mind is none other than Joseph R. Gonglefski or as he is commonly known around the campus "Chooch." Joe is one of those ready for anything men from upstate Pennsylvania, hailing from Swoyerville.

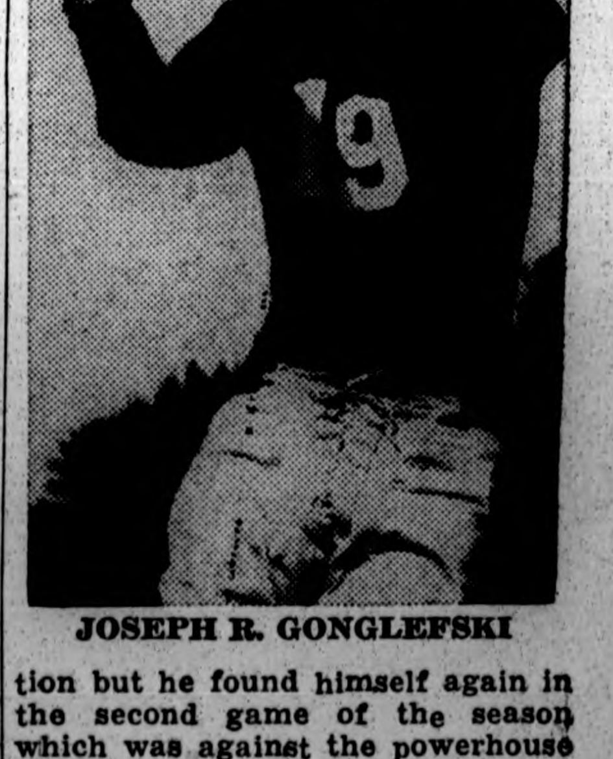
Two Letter Man

In the fall of 1941 Chooch entered Swoyerville High School and at once started to gain state wide fame in sports. In his sophomore year at Swoyerville he landed a starting berth at center on the varsity football squad and this he did not relinquish until his graduation. In his senior year Chooch was elected captain of the team by his well-knowing teammates, and he was also given honorable mention for the All-Scholastic team that represents Wyoming Valley.

Basketball also entered into Chooch's realm as he played three years of varsity ball with his last two being spent on the first team. In his senior year Chooch was made co-captain of the team.

Injured At Tennessee

Chooch entered these hallowed halls of Villanova in the summer of 1945. He reported at once to football practice and in a few weeks time found himself playing end instead of center. It took Chooch a while to get on to this new position but he found himself again in the second game of the season which was against the powerhouse Navy team. From that game on Gonglefski started at left end and at once everyone started to take notice of his defensive powers.



JOSEPH R. GONGLEFSKI

Misfortune however befell Joe when he received a knee injury against Tennessee in the opening minutes of play. This injury also held him back in the Army game.

Chooch is engrossing himself with the Education course that Villanova is offering and after finishing his education he hopes to become a football coach.

Ollie's Comments

Continued From Page One

must have set a record for fumbles in one half and our boys by that time were alert enough to capitalize on them. Welde, McPeak, Capriotti and Doherty each put on brilliant running exhibitions while Lawless did some fine passing. Just a little more glue on the fingertips would have turned a couple of Eddie's heaves into six-pointers.

The line, after an in and out first half, finally settled down and showed what it really could do by holding B.C. without a first down in the second half. The line also rushed the B.C. passer well enough to permit no forward pass completions in eight tries.

Much credit also must be given to many of the fellows who played the final quarter and showed promise of future greatness—John Appleton, Dick Janson, Tom Smith, Mike Santacroce and a host of others.

Doherty Intercepts

The outstanding play of the night was Doherty's interception in the first quarter. Billy was wide awake and as soon as he saw the intended B.C. receiver fall he came charging in for the kill and an easy touchdown. He had the play covered right from the start.

Well, the season's over and the record of four and four may not be considered successful in some quarters, but Jerry Neri and I want to state publicly that we think the boys did a fine job and thank them for the cooperation they have shown throughout.

Hit the books as well as you hit them on the field fellows, and who knows? Maybe next year Glen Davis and Doc Blanchard will be generals!

Detroit Game

Continued From Page One

picked it up on the 35 but couldn't get around one of the officials and was brought down from behind on the 21. After two losses and a fumble, the Titans took over on the 27. Three plays later they were on their own 10, where Simmons punted out of bounds on the 40.

The 'Cats drove to the 3 but were unable to score. Simmons kicked from the end zone to the 39 and Villanova took over again. Brown intercepted Makowski's second down pass and two plays later Ungaro intercepted Brown's pass. The clock ran out as Chick Welde went around end for five yards.

Address Assembly

Continued From Page One

success could be attained without the help of God.

Father McKee's talks were a little different in nature. Primarily they were intended to introduce and to review to the students the rules of Villanova, stressing the policy of the college to have these rules enforced and that offenders would be dealth with accordingly.

Bowling League

Continued From Page One

ing week all men will bowl on an equal basis, since no handicap can be given until team averages have been established. Three games must be bowled to establish an individual average after the first week.

A plan is under consideration concerning the formation of teams on the basis of group membership on the campus, in other words, R.O.T.C. V-12, fraternities, etc. All those interested may form their own teams, or may hand in their names individually to either Bill Koerner or Bill Thompson. Either way, all names should be entered before this Friday afternoon, and may for convenience be left at the Villanovan office. There is room for eight teams, and the league will be made up of those entering their names first.

The right note
Drink
Coca-Cola
© 1945 The C-C Co.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

12
11
1
10
2
9
3
8
4
7
5
6

IT'S SIMPLY A MATTER OF TIME

The pendulum of production is swinging again for the Bell System, as Western Electric, our manufacturing division, reconverts for the all-out manufacture of the thousand-and-one things we need to give you the Bell System's true standards of service once more.

During 1946, for instance, it is planned to add 2,100,000 miles of Long Distance telephone circuits to the System. That's more than there were in Great Britain and France combined, before the war, and it means that the pressure on our lines will ease up.

Today, of course, the thousands of calls of returning veterans are actually giving us more rush-time peaks than we had last year. So it's more important than ever to limit your call to five minutes when the operator must ask you to do so. A service man's call to his home may be waiting.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
OF PENNSYLVANIA

DO YOU KNOW YOUR ABC's
Always Buy Chesterfield
They Satisfy
Chesterfield CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.
ALWAYS MILDER BETTER TASTING COOLER SMOKING

SIGNE HASSO knows her A B C's. This glamorous star is currently appearing in Twentieth Century-Fox's "The House on 92nd Street."

Take your pick. Name any pleasure you enjoy in a cigarette. You'll find them all in Chesterfield's A B C: A—ALWAYS MILDER, B—BETTER TASTING and C—COOLER SMOKING.

The point is: Chesterfield's famous Right Combination . . . World's Best Tobaccos gives you ALL the benefits of smoking pleasure.

Copyright 1945, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

Vol. 20—No. 14 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1945

LIBRARY

New Officers, Instructors In Navigation Department

Lieutenants Hecht And Abraham Teach NROTC Navigation Courses Here

In last week's article, the accounts of Lts. Wm. D. Groff Jr., USNR and Elmer D. West, two of the four naval officers added to the naval station with the coming of the NROTC, were presented. For this week's concluding article of the series to familiarize you with these officers, Lts. (jg) Harry C. Abraham, USNR and Robert D. Hecht, USNR were interviewed and contributed the accounts of their lives.

LT. (jg) ROBERT D. HECHT

Lt. (jg) Harry C. Abraham, USNR, who was born in San Francisco, California, on November 15th 1920, lived and was educated in Berkeley, California. After completing his preparatory education, he entered the University of California, in Berkeley, where he majored in forestry and obtained his B.S. degree in 1942.

Forestry Expert

While at the University, Lt. Abraham's chief interests dealt with skiing, swimming, and mountain climbing. Pursuing his interest in forestry, he also worked as a forest ranger in California at the Plumas National Forest. It is into this field that Lt. Abraham hopes to enter, either as a research expert for the government or as a lumberman for a private company.

LT. (jg) HARRY C. ABRAHAM

Lt. Abraham entered the Navy in the V-7 program in April, 1942 and was sent to midshipman's school at Columbia in April, 1943. Upon graduating in July, he was commissioned and immediately ordered to teach ordnance at Columbia. After teaching for eleven months, he then served aboard the destroyer U.S.S. Wyley DD597 in the Pacific area and finally returned to midshipman's school at Fort Schyler, New York, where he served as officer in charge of the training ship YP557, which was maintained for the instruction of the midshipmen. It was here that he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant (jg) in November, 1944.

Lt. Abraham decommissioned his ship in September, 1945 and came to Villanova on October 27th.

NROTC Graduate

Southern influence is gaining on the staff of the Naval Unit with the addition of Lt. (jg) Robert D. Hecht, USNR, who was born in March 1922 in Norfolk, Virginia. He went to Bryn Mawr High School where he was a member of the debating team. Lt. Hecht later entered the University of Virginia where he was a member of its debating team and co-captain of the fencing team. He was associated with the Greek Society and was also president of the Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity.

Lt. Hecht started his naval career while at the University of Virginia while he was in the NROTC, of which he was battalion adj. Ten days after he received his B.S. in Economics and his commission, Lt. Hecht received his orders for duty aboard the destroyer USS Morris. The Morris was the flagship of Destroyer

NEW OFFICERS
Continued on Page Two

Ship's Company Increased Here

With the opening of a new semester and the enlargement of the Naval Training Program here, the need for an expanded Ship's Company has been created.

The first of the added personnel is Chief Quartermaster Winfield Simpson, USN, who, coincidently comes from Philadelphia. His rather pompous display of gold braid signifies twenty years of service with good conduct, undoubtedly compels one to have a second look.

Other additions, all chiefs, are; Chief Gunners Mates M. J. Brown, of Bell Gardens, California, and R. V. Pueschel, USNR, from Joppa, Maryland, Chief Signalman W. J. Featherstone, USN, of New York and Chief Boatswains Mate R. A. Williams, USN, from Craigsville, West Virginia. All of these men have served in the U. S. Navy for considerable lengths of time.

The new Chiefs will aid in instructing NROTC trainees in such subjects as Navigation, Gunnery, Seamanship and Communications.

New Yeoman Added

Assigned here to bolster the complement of the Navy Detail Office, which is becoming more active as each day passes, are Yeomen 2/c W. P. McCue, of Trenton, N. J., W. G. Lehman, of Lancaster, Pa., and Seaman 2/c A. M. Ault, of Columbus, Ohio.

The one addition to the Storekeeping Dept. is Storekeeper 1/C R. E. Hodgdon, of Ridgewood, N. J., to aid SK 1/c John O'Leary in his mounting duties.

Chief Sp A, Robert Donaldson, was transferred and in his place in the Swimming Dept. comes Specialist A 1/c C. A. Hilger, USNR of Boden, Pa. Another addition to the PT department is Specialist A. 1/C J. Huhas, USNR, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Pharmacist Mate Wedo Esposito, of the Medical Department, was promoted to Chief Pharmacist Mate during the past week. Another replacement, here for Frank Mackowski, PhMate 1/c is C. S. Stanley, of Silver Cliff, Colorado.

In Memoriam

Mr. Aloysius Banmiller, father of Alumni President Paetrus Banmiller '35, died suddenly last week. He was buried this morning from St. Patrick's Church at Norristown. The Villanova faculty and student body express their deepest and heartfelt sympathy to the family.

Immaculata Marks Its Jubilee

Local College Is Successful Center Of Pan-American Relations

The Silver Jubilee of the founding the Immaculata College was observed with elaborate ceremonies last Sunday and Monday, November 11 and 12.

At the Solemn Benediction which marked the end of the jubilee celebration, on Monday afternoon, the Rev. Francis Dennis, O.S.A., Headmaster of Malvern-Villanova Prep School, acted as Celebrant, while the Very Rev. Francis X. M. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova, acted as sub-deacon.

On November 12, 1920, the late Reverend Francis A. Driscoll, O.S.A., Dean of Villanova College and a member of the College and University Council, wired the decision of the Department of Public Instruction of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which disclosed the granting of the College Charter to Immaculata.

Important Educational Center

The first twenty-five years of Immaculata's existence has won its claim to national recognition by the foundation of one of the nations most successful centers of the Pan-American Union, and by the recent inauguration of the Father Gillet Cancer Unit, a branch of the Institutum Divi Thomae.

The faculty, alumni and students of Villanova College, who have watched with fraternal admiration the progress of Immaculata through the past twenty-five years, take this opportunity to express their congratulations. Immaculata College has set a new pace in the fulfillment of the ideals of Catholic education. Such a remarkable history is that revealed on Immaculata's Silver Jubilee should serve as an inspiration to all institutions of learning.

Sanctuary Society Has First Meeting

The first monthly meeting of the Sanctuary Society was called to order by Father Grimes at 6:30 P. M., November 13th. Parts of the Constitution were read and discussed by Joseph Hoffman.

Father Grimes gave a short history of the Society at Villanova and expressed his appreciation to A/S Leslie Powers, A/S Don Schumaker, Jasper Chen See and William Janton who did a great deal work in keeping the Society together.

Nominations Posted

Under the direction of Joseph Hoffman, President of the Student Council, nominations for election of officers of the Society for the coming year were held. These were:

President

William Boyle.
Jasper Chen See.

Vice-Pres.

A/S John White.
A/S Matthew Kearney.

Secretary

William Janton.
Thomas Burke.

The next meeting of the Society was called for Tuesday November 20th in Room 215 Mendel Hall, after evening chapel, for the election of officers.

Veterans Discuss Organization Plans

Last Thursday afternoon, a general meeting of all veterans was held to discuss the future of their organization. The plan of admission, the program of coming activities and the initiation of new members were the high spots of the meeting.

Since there are so many new veterans it is felt that this organization will be very successful in its future activities.

There will be a meeting of the Vets Club today in Room 202 Mendel Hall and all members are requested to attend.

Father Kiley Leaves Here To Become Pastor In N. Y.

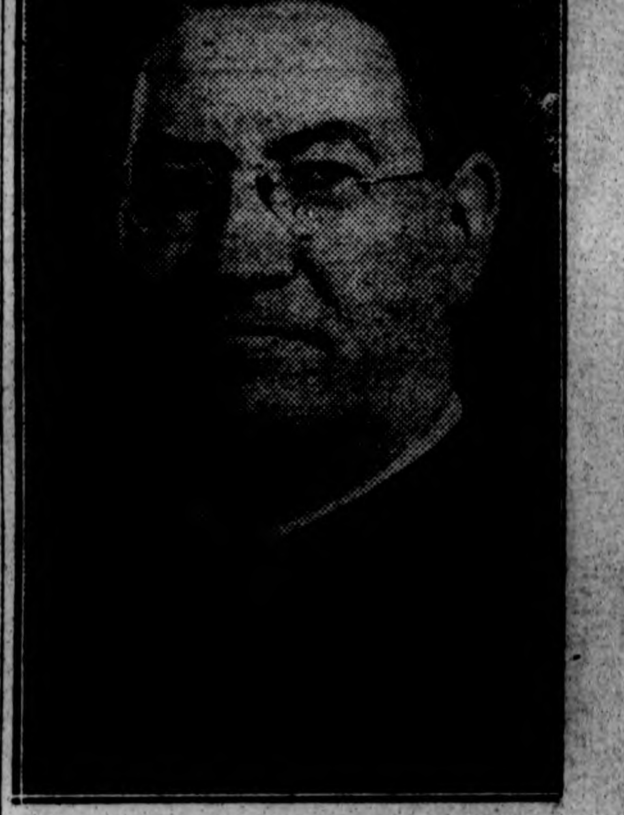
Newly Named Head Of Classics Department Will Assume Pastoral Duties This Month

Rev. Thomas A. Kiley, O.S.A., long associated with Villanova College and recently named Head of the Department of Classics, was made pastor of St. John the Baptist Church in Schaghticoke, N. Y., last Friday. Fr. Kiley will assume his new duties on November 26.

A member of the Villanova College faculty since 1932, Fr. Kiley taught Latin and Greek both in the College and in the seminary at St. Mary's Hall. During much of that time he has been a member of the Definitory of the Augustinian Province of St. Thomas of Villanova. The Definitory is the consultative body assisting the Provincial in the administration of the Province.

Headmaster at Malvern

A native of Philadelphia, Fr. Kiley entered the Augustinian Order in 1904 and was ordained to the Sacred Priesthood in 1909. His first appointment was to the Augustinian High School in Staten Island, New York. Following this he came to Villanova for a year. He alternated parish duties with high school work, serving in parishes in Lawrence, Mass., and Lansingburg, New York. He was stationed in St. Rita High School, Chicago, for four years. In 1922 he went to the newly acquired Malvern Preparatory School at Malvern, Pa. There he became Prior and Headmaster of the school.



FR. THOMAS A. KILEY, O.S.A.

He returned to Villanova in 1932 to become a Professor of the Classics. When the departmental heads were announced recently by Rev Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., president, Fr. Kiley was named Head of the Department of Classics. He has been at the same time the Sacristan of the Monastery. In his new assignment, Fr. Kiley succeeds Rev. George L. Dermody, O.S.A., who is retiring because of illness.

Holiday Hop Will Be Held By Guild Early Next Month

Tickets for the Holiday Hop, which is scheduled to be held in Town Hall, Philadelphia, Saturday December 15, 9 P. M. until 1 A. M., are now on sale under the sponsorship of the Augustinian Seminary Guild.

The distribution and sale of tickets is being handled by the Rev. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., head of the Guild. The price of the tickets is $3.00, including tax. The proceeds of the dance will go toward the teaching and sustenance of Augustinian seminarians here and in Washington, D. C., Staten Island and New Hamburg, New York.

Music By Leo Zollo

To a large extent the success of the affair lies in the hands of the Villanova students. Father Coffey is depending upon the student body not only for the sale of tickets but the formation of a Decoration Committee. Those who wish to purchase tickets or lend a helping hand should see either Fr. Coffey or Miss Haggerty at the Guild office in St. Rita's Hall.

Leo Zollo and his orchestra will supply the music for the Informal affair. Zollo is well known throughout the East for his excellent arrangements. He has added to the dancing pleasure of many at the Walton Hotel "Roof" in Philadelphia, and servicemen will long remember him for his work at the Labor Plaza.

Tickets for the benefit dance are now on sale, and some of the college students are distributing them. All who wish to purchase tickets may call on either William Monagle or William Wescott in the Villanovan office.

Glee Club Formed

Inactivated During War, Club Reorganizes Under Dr. Haenisch and Mr. Whelan

The Villanova Glee Club which has been inactive during the war years intends to reappear on the campus this semester.

The club will be under the supervision and direction of two ardent music lovers, Dr. E. L. Haenisch, of the chemistry department, who will act as moderator and Mr. Robt. Whalen, athletic director of the College.

The tentative plans of the Glee Club for this semester feature a presentation of popular Christmas Carols. This group expects to sing these carols during the Yuletide season on the Villanova campus and at Rosemont College.

Concert Tentative

Further plans for the club call for a joint concert with Rosemont College some time after the first of the year.

Glee Clubs have always been a tradition in college life, especially here at Villanova. The college has always had a fine club and the present one expects to hold that record. Due to the war and the accelerated program the club has been idle since 1942.

An important meeting of the Glee Club will be held this coming Wednesday, November 21 and all students interested in the club are urged to attend.

SPANISH CLUB HOLDS FIRST GROUP MEETING IN THREE YEARS

After a three year dormant period, the Spanish Club held its first meeting last Thursday. The club, drawing its members from among the Spanish students and Latin American men of the college, was one of the most active organizations on the campus before the war.

The officers for the coming semester will be as follows: President, Duilio D'Albora; Vice President, Beltran Wifredo; Secretary, William Chester; Treasurer, Robert Walcovy.

Activities Planned

Speakers, movies, banquets and inter-collegiate meetings are being planned for the members enjoyment.

Father Lozano, Moderator, explained to the members, the Club's affiliation with the "Instituto de las Espanas" at Columbia University.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
FREDERICK J. KOCH, NROTC .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Russell Welsh, '47
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Donald Sommer, '47
William Altenponl, '47
Joseph D'Auria, '48
George O'Neill, '47

Sports Staff
Robert Manske, '48
William Thompson, NROTC
James McNamara, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
William Chester, '48
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Benjamin Reist, NROTC
Harold Varani, '46
Thomas Heaps, NROTC
James Mackey, '46

Photography Staff
Charles Sibre, '48
Albert Derr, '46

Circulation Staff
Raymond Stone, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Joseph Sweeney, '46
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Peter McManus, '47
Thomas Donnelley, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - NOVEMBER 20, 1945

Congratulations, Immaculata!

LAST Sunday and Monday, Immaculata College celebrated its silver jubilee. The Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, who conducts the institution, at this time of retrospect, have good reason to feel justifiably proud of their work accomplished during the past 25 years. Theirs has been a job well done.

Immaculata has taken its place as one of the leading girls' colleges in the country, and its reputation has been further enhanced by the fact that it is recognized as one of the outstanding centers of Pan-American affairs in this area. The nuns of Immaculata have recently established a research foundation, specializing in the fight against cancer, which, in view of other of the Sisters' successes, will probably produce valuable findings in this field.

At this particular time, the Augustinians of Villanova express their heartfelt felicitations upon the success and growth of Immaculata, not merely because it is a nearby Catholic institution, very worthy of commendation, but also because many of the priests here at Villanova, 25 years ago, gave a helping hand towards establishing the school. These same priests now see an ivory tower of Catholic learning helping to swell the ranks of educated, Christian womanhood yearly.

The ties that bind Villanova College and Immaculata College have been strong throughout the years. Now with the time's urgent need for unity of both thought and action between Catholic schools, it is hoped that this bond of mutual interest will bring into even closer contact the student bodies of both institutions.

Thanksgiving For Peace

BEFORE the beginning of World War II, Thanksgiving Day had almost lost it's true meaning. Through the advent of modern times, this holiday had changed—changed from a day of Thanksgiving to God to a day set aside for celebration.

Then came the most devastating of all wars; a war which was filled with sorrow and heartaches. Throughout these war years we continually gave thanks to God for His help and benefits. Remember those days of Thanksgiving!

However the killing is over but the peace is yet to come. We need an everlasting peace so that never again will we be threatened by power crazed nations. It is now necessary, more than ever before, to thank God as we did on V-J Day and ask Him to grant us this Peace which is necessary for the security of all times.

—F. J. K.

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI and BILL KOERNER

As a great man once said "somethings are better unsaid." But, if we do the same, this column wouldn't be. Thus, we are out to prove that this statement is misleading.

It will be quite disheartening for the Rosies when they discover that Mother Dumsa, Villanova's own, turned traitor to the cause by accepting an invitation to Chestnut Hill's Junior Ball, which took place last weekend. This is merely a repitition of one of his previous episodes.

Another extravaganza occurred at Ed Keller's home after the B. C. game. A few of the amazing incidents that stood out were Dave Ryan's paying a little more attention to his date, which naturally gave us more time with ours — thanks Dave, old boy and Newt Ward failing to come through with his (sigh) Swoonatra style.

The Bryn Mawr nurses still have a controling hand over many of the Villanova Casanovas. Cheplinsky and the rest still spend most of their leisure evenings having their pulse count taken.

It must have been quite an experience for Carl Ungaro, Dave Generalli, and Capriotti when they called on their dates after the game and found three more of the boys, namely Ed and Joe Gonlefski and Vitacco already taking care of the entertaining. The question is, "How was the affair settled?"

We hear that Ed Pusak uses a number system to keep his "friends" catalogued but we wonder if Terry would appreciate the beauty of his efficiency.

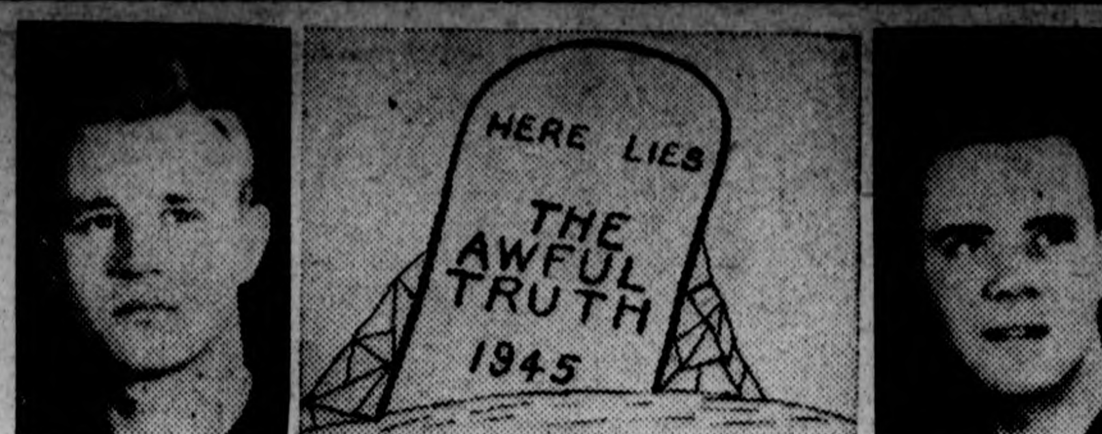
The story is around that Tony Caruso's new theme song is "All or Nothing at All," and from past appearances it seems to be the latter. So Tony our advise is "If you don't first succeed, try, try again."

Last Tuesday night at a "doggie" roast Joe Sweeney seems to have monopolized Ray Stones' girl. It so happened that he left with a scarf belonging to the girl. Could he be saving this for an excuse to visit this popular young lady?

The Spanish Club seems to be increasing its membership, if the mob that turned out for the picture are all proteges of Padre Lozano. But fellows there must be an easier way to get by.

It was surprising to hear that some gals from the nearby colleges have been singing "I have Eyes to see with, and they're only for you;" and then "I walk Alone!" Take note "deah" girls ! ! !

We all hope that a good time is had by all over Thanksgiving. It seems to us that a vote of appreciation ought to be given to that unsung hero of the campus, the one dear to the heart of every Villanovan, the Puritan Father who instituted this holiday since Sunday was already a day of rest.



By TINKER HEAPS and BEN REISE

This week caught us off guard for info. on Who's Who Here, but by wandering from one deck to another we did gather some of the latest scuttlebutt. Some of it very interesting — but unprintable, so we'll carry on from here with what we have . . .

First and foremost in our minds is the praise and credit due to our football squad for its showing Saturday evening against Boston College; all hands showed up fine, even during the two rounds of boxing which came as an added attraction, but since one's pay here is so very low I fear we can only offer a "Well Done" to all hands for a job well executed; nods of appraisal to Ollie for his coaching and nods of sympathy to the squad for their bruises. . . .

Complaints have been arriving at the main office in an almost endless stream; reason why—guys like Homer Halm keeping all those nickel dates with the Rosemont girls via Mr. Bell's machine, the telephone!! You'd think some of these first classmen who rate gangway every night could afford riding down the road a piece to see their belles rather than keep servicemen (nobody in Fedigan, Mendel, or Austin halls referred to) from phoning home.

Bouquet of the week goes to Fr. Lorenzo Lozano for his instructions in Espanol. No other professor on the campus can boast the statement, "I keep them laughing and learning at the same time," which El Padre could well do. A salute and salutation to our choice of the week . . .

Upon the reguest of many P&W passengers who were kept awake Thurs. evening by the rambling of a new member here . . . Mr. Siegel by name, the rotund roommate of A.S. McDermott, has been given injections for that dreaded disease "Ya ta ta Ya ta ta" . . . tch., tch, some people never learn . . . speaking of learning, the column would feel obliged to anyone who can expose the name (nicknames will not do, thanks) of the hamburger-shaped article we ate Monday evening . . . funny how generally the art of camouflage is being used!!! . . .

"Revenge is sweet" were the words of Stanislaus Walsh as he crawled through our keyhole one evening and proved his nickname wasn't Fatty. Sorry Paul, we'll try to do better next time; but you still have to admit they've never been able to get that X-ray of your chest!! . . .

The Sgt. Lewis Award Of The Week goes to the new group of V-5's and their respective leaders. Not only did they look good at Saturday's drill, but they outshined all on the field. Others who passed as being fair were 2nd platoon, A company; 1st platoon, B company; and 2nd platoon Marine company. Those remaining are best not referred to . . .

Once more we swallow our words of last week . . . Fred Otto says that the ring he wears is definitely not Jack Gourley's. Oh well, to err is only human . . . Embarassment reigned throughout Matt Kearney's system upon being tripped up on a salty tale while talking for free beers at Ye Olde Legion. Seems as though Matt ended up being a pointer for a 5 inch gun on some famous PT boat; but he wasn't very thirsty anyway, he was just seeking brew for his lil playmate Bobby W.—know who we mean Stumpy? . . .

Best argument for the cause that the service ties you down is the feat recently accomplished by our former Marine Sgt. Muir; Yessir, only six weeks out of the green suit and he boasted the birth of a bouncing son. Ah yes, that "civvy" air is wonderful . . . congratulations to the ex-Gyrene and family . . .

That's all for now. . . . Nove smotz ka pop! ! !

CAMP TO CAMPUS

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

Once again we will try to keep you up to date on the happenings of former Villanovans who are with the armed forces.

T/Sgt. Nick Albano, writes that he is now with the 28th Field Hospital at Ingolstadt, Germany. Cpl. Joe Pesce writes from Herzagenaurach (Wow!) Germany that he has been doing a lot of duty at 'Cpl. of the Guard.' He is also a squad leader and having a lot of fun keeping his men in top shape.

News on the home front brings Congratulations to Ens. Bill Connors who was commissioned last week and who at the same time took the fatal step on matrimony at Saint Monica's Church in Philadelphia. Bill Pease, who is now at Great Lakes awaiting shipment to Storekeepers School writes that he enjoyed the party at Simpson Hall very much and hopes to get his copy of the Yearbook. Ens. Hugh Gannon is waiting his ship, U.S.S. Idaho at Norfolk. When he boards ship he will take on the duties of Dispersing Officer. Tom Hitchell S1/C S.P. (T.) is at the Naval Air Station on Whitbey Island in Washington. He informs us that he is a Link Instructor. M/Sgt. Jack Valeri recently returned from Europe and is now stationed at Camp Shelby, Mississippi. He says that he is engaged in discharging men and since he is the M/Sgt. he will be among the last to leave the Camp.

Gab Lezak is now stationed at the University of Georgetown and

CAMP TO CAMPUS
Continued on Page Four

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

Once again the old Friday night deadline rolls around, and once again yours truly crawls "Out of the Copy Basket" with news and views of the college world.

First of all we might feature some info. from our old pal "The Temple University News" which always seems to supply really snappy material in its "Zoot Hoot" column. To Villanova's "D. B.'s" we pass on this little gem from "The Zoot" . . . Good news for expectant draftees', the headlinees cheerfully said. As if there could possibly be any good news for expectant draftees."

Another super column, "Temple Topics," relates ,"Two sisters born on the same calender date and married at a double wedding, went home to the same house with baby daughters born on the same day. Their babies were born in different hospitals, so help us."

* * *

Up In Syracuse

Dr. Frederick Taylor Wilson, of Syracuse University, says, "The golden goals of the undergraduate are physical perfection, mental alertness, social understanding, and spiritual awareness." We come to college "the training camp of the future, to learn, to think, and thinking is the most difficult thing in the world." Furthermore Dr. Wilson went on to say that the problems of the world are now theological problems, "We know so much of dynamo and so little of deity." Finally Dr. Wilson compared the four college years to Shakepearean plays saying that the freshman year is the "Comedy of Errors;" the sophomore year, "Much Ado About Nothing;" the junior year, "As you Like it;" and the senior, "All's Well That Ends Well."

* * *

Say talking of the old masters like Shapespeare reminds us that here's some consolation for "youse guys that think that Shakespeare and Milton are just no good bums nohow" . . .

Milton Stinks

The "Manhattan Quadrangle" dug this one up—written by one William Winstanley, 1687, in an anthology called "Lives of the Most Famous English Poets." We quote (from "Quadrange" from Winstanley, "John Milton was one whose natural parts might deservedy give him a place amongst the principals of English poets; but his flame is gone out like a candle in a snuff, and his Memory will always Stink, which might have lived in honorable repute, had he not been a notorious Trayter, and most impiously and villainously bely'd that blessed Martyr, King Charles the First."

* * *

Manhattan's ace column "From the Four Corners" goes on to say "Yale University conferred the degree of Bachelor of Arts on Merrill K. Wolf of Cleveland, who according to the Gregorian calender is only 14 years of age . . . It goes to show what results can be obtained under the accelerated program of studies." And here's the big joke, "The only reason that young Merrill chose Yale instead of Manhattan was that our brochure reads, "Maker of Men," and obviously nothing in that direction can be guaranteed at fourteen."

* * *

Law In The West

In the archives of the University of Wisconsin by-laws, hear-say has it, is a rule that could cause 1945 co-eds much trouble. Written during the Victorian era of the last century, it forbids girls who wear night gowns to room with girls who wear pajamas. A poll taken among Cardinal staff workers showed that 100 percent of them sleep in men's pajamas. Apparently grandmother's nightgown is on its way out as a part of the wardrobe of the 1945 co-ed. A. C.P.

* * *

And so we end "Out of the C. Basket" for this week reminding our readers that Villanova spelled sideways is nothing."

New Officers

Continued From Page One

Squadron 2, which saw duty with the 5th and 7th fleets in the Pacific.

He served as torpedo officer and first lieutenant during his two years aboard ship. In October he was detached from the USS Morris and received his orders to proceed to Villanova College as instructor in Naval Science.

Wildcat's Basketball Schedule Announced

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

New Intramural Basketball Tops Winter Sports

Do you have a desire to make the Varsity Basketball Team? If so, do what thousands of other hopefuls have done and achieve success the easy way. The easy way you hear so much talk about is your opportunity to join one of the five Intramural Basketball Teams being formed. Three service and two Civilain fives will be organized.

These fiery games may be witnessed by the student free of charge 3 nights a week, from six to eight down at the fieldhouse. Games must be played on time in order to let the varsity practice.

In former years, interest in the Intramural Basketball League was kept at a high pitch throughout the season because so many of the students took an active part in competition. Father Kemme and Father Girolami, co-Moderators, want to get the league action rolling soon and would like to see a large turnout of participants at the various games in order to bring the organization back to its former standards.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Al Postus, star backfield ace of the 1942 and 1943 Wildcat elevens is performing this year with the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Professional League. The property of the Philadelphia Eagles, Al is a loan to the Steelers for the 1945 season.

* * *

On Sunday, November 11, the Eagles paid tribute to Nick Basca, former Villanovan, who was killed in action. Nick was one of the Eagles best prospects when he left to join the Army.

* * *

Johnny Mellus, All-American lineman from Villanova in the late thirties, was recently signed by Vince McNally, assistant coach here in the days of Clipper Smith, to play for the San Francisco team in the new All-American League.

VARSITY BASKETBALL SCHEDULE
1945-46

November 28	Georgetown	Home
December 5	Princeton	Home
December 8	Bucknell	Away
December 12	Fordham	Home
December 14	U. S. Merchant Marine Academy	Away
December 15	Yale	Away
December 19	Valley Forge Hospital	Home
January 5	Rhode Island State	Away
January 9	Bucknell*	Home
January 10	Boston College	Away
January 12	Navy	Away
January 16	England General Hospital	Home
January 19	Manhattan	Away
January 23	U. S. Merchant Marine Academy*	Home
January 25	Colgate	Away
January 26	Syracuse	Away
January 30	Princeton	Away
February 2	Bainbridge Naval Training Station	Home
February 6	Rider	Home
February 9	Scranton	Home
February 13	Manhattan	Home
February 16	Muhlenberg	Away
February 20	Albright	Home

N. B.—All home games at Villanova Field House, Lancaster Pike—Tap-off at 8:30 P. M.

Severance Still Undecided Upon Starting Wildcat Varsity Five

Veteran Coach Puts Stock In Burr And Reybitz; Both Men Have Played With Championship Teams

By JIM McNAMARA

The 1945-46 basketball season will open in one week when the Villanova Cats meet the Hoyas of Georgetown University on the home court. The curtain raiser will introduce 15 new men to Villanova followers. Because the competition is so keen and the spirit so high it will be a difficult task for Coach Al Severence to pick a starting five.

To introduce you to a few of the players we will start with Bill Burr, one of the few men with previous college experience. Bill made his first bid for recognition at Burlington High School, where he won varsity letters in basketball, baseball, and track. In his senior year Bill was elected captain of the basketball team and sparked his team to the New Jersey State Championship and garnered for himself individual honors of high scorer in the district and a cup for the most valuable player. The crowning point of his high school career was shattering the individual high game scoring mark when he bombarded the hoops for 33 points.

Joined Navy in 1943

For his efforts he was rewarded with a place on the All State team and received numerous college offers. Bill turned down all offers and entered the Navy in 1943. He served aboard an LST with the Atlantic Fleet for a year before being selected for V-12 training and subsequently being transferred to Muhlenberg College in July of 1944.

While at Muhlenberg, Bill starred in basketball and track. His scrappy style of play on the courts was no little factor in lifting that college to the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden last winter.

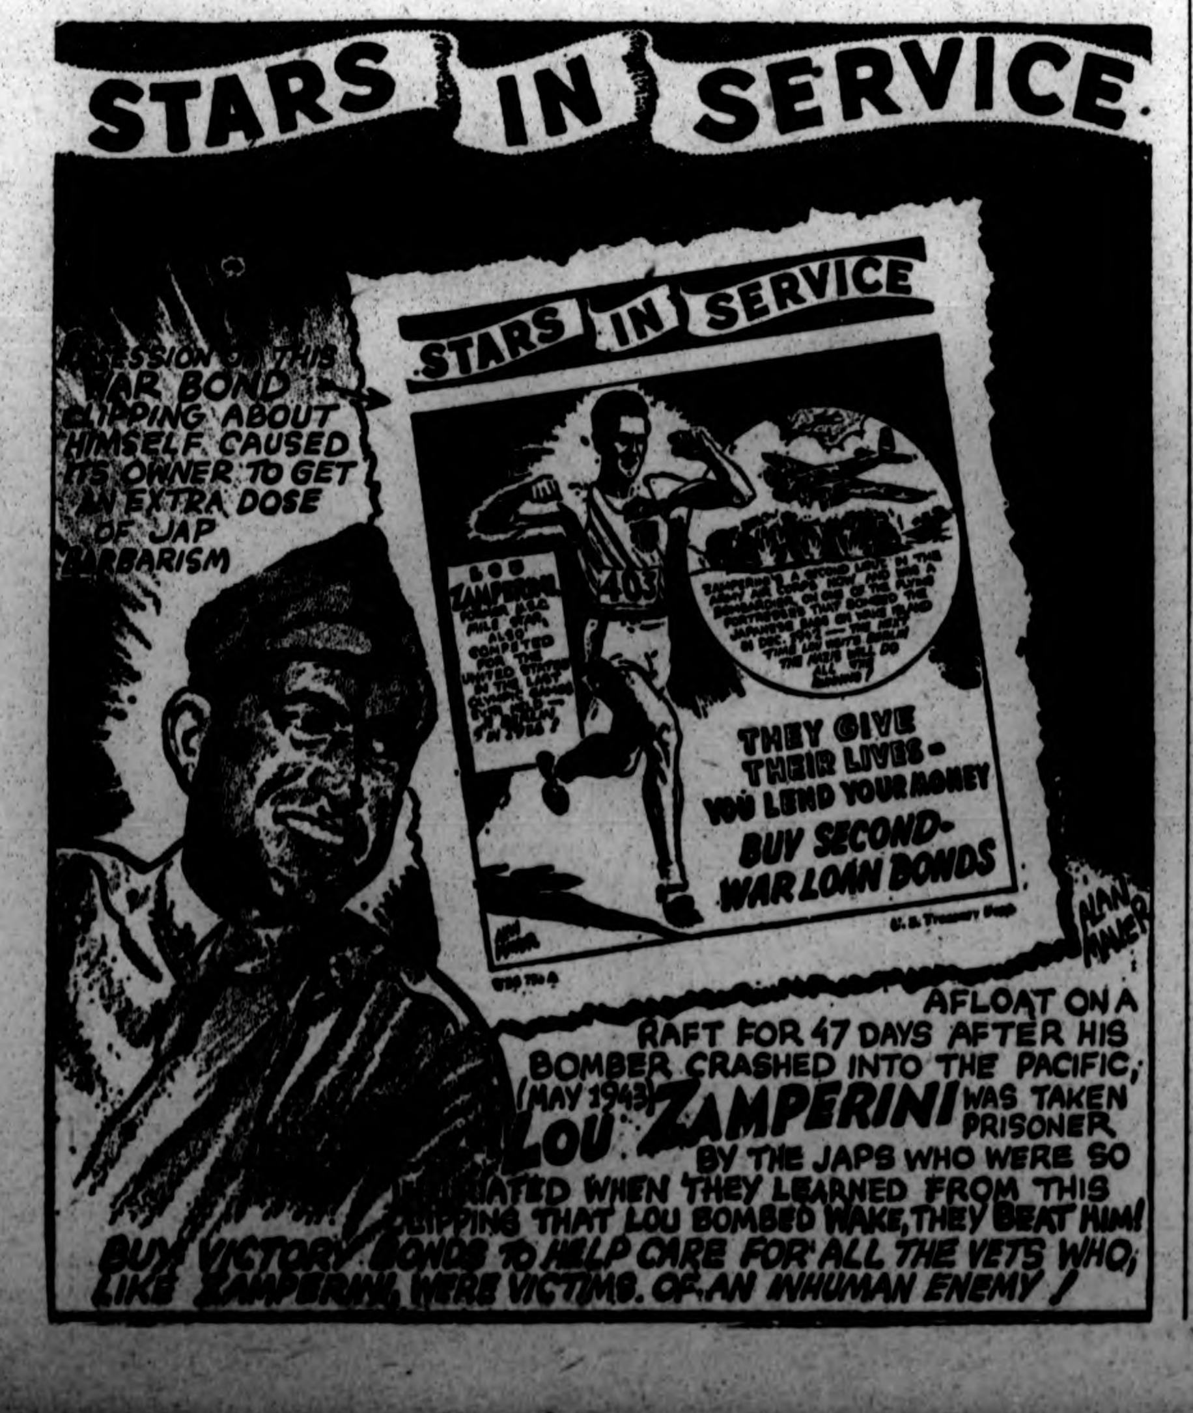
His wealth of experience will be a steadying factor in coordinating the high geared pick and cut system advocated by Al Severance. This diminutive hustler will get more than his share of points this season, "For what he lacks in height, he makes up for in aggressiveness."

Probable Center

Another man Villanova rooters will want to meet is big Ed "Chet" Reybitz. Ed possesses the well known court "savvy" and his 6 ft. 4½ in, frame makes him dangerous from any point on the floor. His flashy ball-handling and play-making potential will probably realize for him the nod at starting the pivot. Chet played three years at Bethlehem Catholic which team he captained in his senior year and led to the Eastern Pennsylvania Catholic League Championship. His average of 23 points per game landed him a berth on the All-Sectional team. The trophy adorning the Reybitz mantle place acclaims Ed as the most valuable player in high school ranks for 1939.

Chet entered the service a few weeks after Pearl Harbor and went to North Carolina Preflight where he played on the basketball team. This top-flight aggregation recognized his ability and he held down the center slot there during the 1943 season. For the next two years the task of ferrying planes in the South Pacific kept Lt. Reybitz too busy to frequent the wooden ways. He was discharged late in 1944 and worked for almost a year before entering Villanova last July.

Villanova's strength under the boards should be greatly augmented by this fellow's height and alertness. Feeding passes from the pivot and faking defensive men out of position are his specialty and he may well be the key to Severance's dreams of duplicating the feats of his great teams of the past.



STARS IN SERVICE
POSSESSION OF THIS WAR BOND CLIPPING ABOUT HIMSELF CAUSED ITS OWNER TO GET AN EXTRA DOSE OF JAP BARBARISM
STARS IN SERVICE
LOU ZAMPERINI
403
THEY GIVE THEIR LIVES - YOU LEND YOUR MONEY
BUY SECOND WAR LOAN BONDS
U. S. Treasury Dept.
ALAN MAVER
AFLOAT ON A RAFT FOR 47 DAYS AFTER HIS BOMBER CRASHED INTO THE PACIFIC, (MAY 1943) LOU ZAMPERINI WAS TAKEN PRISONER BY THE JAPS WHO WERE SO INFURIATED WHEN THEY LEARNED FROM THIS CLIPPING THAT LOU BOMBED WAKE, THEY BEAT HIM!
BUY VICTORY BONDS TO HELP CARE FOR ALL THE VETS WHO, LIKE ZAMPERINI, WERE VICTIMS OF AN INHUMAN ENEMY!

Team To Play 23-Game Schedule In Twelve Weeks; To Meet 19 Teams

Twelve Games To Be Played Here During Season; Six Newcomers And Six Old Rivals Top Schedule; Many Top Flight Service Teams On Card

With hopes of emulating the records of their peace-time predecessors, Villanova's young and inexperienced basketeers face a true test of ability in the 23 game schedule that has just been released by Rev. Edward B. McKee O. S. A., Director of Athletics. Opening at home on November 28 with Georgetown University, the Cats have Wednesday and Saturday engagements virtually every week following that, with the exception of the Christmas holiday interim. Twelve of the games, including the opener with the Hoyas, are scheduled for the Wilcats' lair.

The schedule, featured by meetings with Rhode Island State's "firehouse" team, Navy's perennially power-laden quintet, and the star-studded Valley Forge Medics, is loaded with potential strength from start to finish. Question marks are presented by a few service teams, but most likely the only question should be about the degree of strength which they have. Valley Forge has the same team that carried it through a thirty-seven game grind last year with but two reverses, including two victories over Villanova. The other service squads, England General Hospital, Bainbridge, and the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy (Kings Point) are newcomers on the schedule, and not much is known of their true strength. The latter, according to reports, is supposed to have a crackerjack five, however, and Bainbridge in the past has been represented by one of the leading teams of the country.

Four Home And Home Games

Home - and - home engagements have been arranged with four teams; Bucknell, Princeton, Kings Point and Manhattan. Similar arrangements were made last year with the first-mentioned, while the latter is just returning to basketball after a war-time lay-off. Georgetown and Fordham, likewise had abandoned the sport for the past few years and will endeavor to climb back to the top rating they received in the ante—bellum days. Boston College, whom the Blue and White meet in the Boston Garden on January 10, is returning to the sport after a two decade lapse.

Six teams will be faced by a Villanova squad for the first time. Other than the three abovementioned service aggregations, Boston College, Syracuse, and Yale are newcomers as Wildcat court rivals. The addition of Yale to the card means that the Severancemen will meet two "Ivy" league teams this season, since Priceton's Tigers are also listed. Boston College, while not new to Villanova followers in the football world, is undoubtedly unfamiliar to them in basketball circles due to their inactivity. Syracuse, on the other hand, always has a ranking team and this year should be no exception.

Four of the teams are being met for only the second time. Of the four, Villanova has taken the nod over but one, Rhode Island State, while Georgetown, Fordham, and Colgate hold single decisions over the Cats.

Face Old Opponents

Some familiar Villanova opponents to be faced this year are Bucknell, Muhlenberg, Albright, Manhattan, Scranton, and Rider, Of these, only Bucknell and Manhattan hold leads in all-time series. The Bisons, by virtue of victories in the last three meetings, hold a seven to six edge. Manhattan has shown clear superiority over the Villanovans by returning winners six times out of six games, so the Main Liners will be determined to break the jinx this year. Muhlenberg, last year's regional representative in the New York Invitation Tournament, has evened up its record by sweeping its last

1945-46 SCHEDULE
Continued on Page Four

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

This week's column is again devoted to one of the players that made up this year's varsity eleven. He is not just another player but one of those men who really gets in there and fights when the going gets tough. He is Joseph A. Scarcelli.

All-Scholastic

Joe, or if you must, Scar, was born in South Philadelphia on June 7, 1928. Here he attended Southern High School for Boys beginning in September 1942. Joe lost no time going out for football and when only a Sophomore he found himself on the varsity. Through his hard work and everlasting spirit he landed a berth on the first string in his Junior year and did not relinquish the same till his graduation. In his Senior year he got the biggest thrill in his life as he put it, that is, Southern won the City League Championship making them the best high school team in Philadelphia.

Joe did not go unnoticed by the experts either, for he was placed on the All-Public team and then the All- Scholastic team which is comprised of the best players in Philadelphia.

At Southern Joe also went in for track and made the team in the shotput field. In the pinches he also ran the hurdles and short distances.

Mechanical Engineer

Joe started here at Villanova in July 1945. During the Summer he reported for practice and was soon fighting all out for the first team. Then the season started he was found playing at least half the game. As the season progressed, Joe found himself edging up on his teammate and the Tennessee game found him starting. In the last game of the season against Boston College Joe started again and really played one of his best games.

JOSEPH A. SCARCELLI

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
FREDERICK J. KOCH, NROTC .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff

Russell Welsh, '47
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Donald Sommer, '47
William Altenpohl, '47
Joseph D'Auria, '48
George O'Neill, '47

Sports Staff

Robert Manske, '48
William Thompson, NROTC
James McNamara, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
William Chester, '48
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists

William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Benjamin Reist, NROTC
Harold Varani, '46
Thomas Heaps, NROTC
James Mackey, '46

Photography Staff

Charles Sibre, '48
Albert Derr, '46

Circulation Staff

Raymond Stone, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Joseph Sweeney, '46
Maurice Wilbere, '47
Peter McManus, '47
Thomas Donnelley, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

L E O G O O D R E A U

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - NOVEMBER 20, 1945

Congratulations, Immaculata!

LAST Sunday and Monday, Immaculata College celebrated its silver jubilee. The Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, who conducts the institution, at this time of retrospect, have good reason to feel justifiably proud of their work accomplished during the past 25 years. Theirs has been a job well done.

Immaculata has taken its place as one of the leading girls' colleges in the country, and its reputation has been further enhanced by the fact that it is recognized as one of the outstanding centers of Pan-American affairs in this area. The nuns of Immaculata have recently established a research foundation, specializing in the fight against cancer, which, in view of other of the Sisters' successes, will probably produce valuable findings in this field.

At this particular time, the Augustinians of Villanova express their heartfelt felicitations upon the success and growth of Immaculata, not merely because it is a nearby Catholic institution, very worthy of commendation, but also because many of the priests here at Villanova, 25 years ago, gave a helping hand towards establishing the school. These same priests now see an ivory tower of Catholic learning helping to swell the ranks of educated, Christian womanhood yearly.

The ties that bind Villanova College and Immaculata College have been strong throughout the years. Now with the time's urgent need for unity of both thought and action between Catholic schools, it is hoped that this bond of mutual interest will bring into even closer contact the student bodies of both institutions.

Thanksgiving For Peace

BEFORE the beginning of World War II, Thanksgiving Day had almost lost it's true meaning. Through the advent of modern times, this holiday had changed—changed from a day of Thanksgiving to God to a day set aside for celebration.

Then came the most devastating of all wars; a war which was filled with sorrow and heartaches. Throughout these war years we continually gave thanks to God for His help and benefits. Remember those days of Thanksgiving!

However the killing is over but the peace is yet to come. We need an everlasting peace so that never again will we be threatened by power crazed nations. It is now necessary, more than ever before, to thank God as we did on V-J Day and ask Him to grant us this Peace which is necessary for the security of all times.

—F. J. K.

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI and BILL KOERNER

As a great man once said "somethings are better unsaid." But, if we do the same, this column wouldn't be. Thus, we are out to prove that this statement is misleading.

It will be quite disheartening for the Rosies when they discover that Mother Dumsa, Villanova's own, turned traitor to the cause by accepting an invitation to Chestnut Hill's Junior Ball, which took place last weekend. This is merely a repitition of one of his previous episodes.

Another extravaganza occurred at Ed Keller's home after the B. C. game. A few of the amazing incidents that stood out were Dave Ryan's paying a little more attention to his date, which naturally gave us more time with ours — thanks Dave, old boy and Newt Ward failing to come through with his (sigh) Swoonatra style.

The Bryn Mawr nurses still have a controling hand over many of the Villanova Casanovas. Cheplinsky and the rest still spend most of their leisure evenings having their pulse count taken.

It must have been quite an experience for Carl Ungaro, Dave Generalli, and Capriotti when they called on their dates after the game and found three more of the boys, namely Ed and Joe Gonlefski and Vitacco already taking care of the entertaining. The question is, "How was the affair settled?"

We hear that Ed Pusak uses a number system to keep his "friends" catalogued but we wonder if Terry would appreciate the beauty of his efficiency.

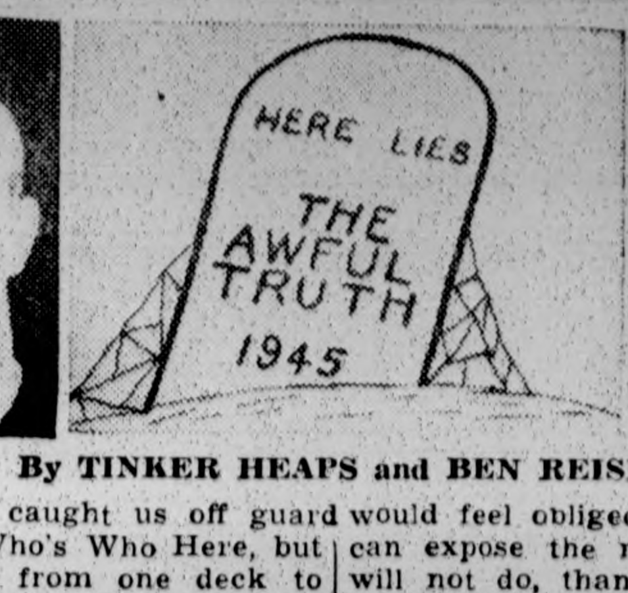
The story is around that Tony Caruso's new theme song is "All or Nothing at All," and from past appearances it seems to be the latter. So Tony our advise is "If you don't first succeed, try, try again."

Last Tuesday night at a "doggie" roast Joe Sweeney seems to have monopolized Ray Stones' girl. It so happened that he left with a scarf belonging to the girl. Could he be saving this for an excuse to visit this popular young lady?

The Spanish Club seems to be increasing its membership, if the mob that turned out for the picture are all proteges of Padre Lozano. But fellows there must be an easier way to get by.

It was surprising to hear that some gals from the nearby colleges have been singing "I have Eyes to see with, and they're only for you;" and then "I walk Alone!" Take note "deah" girls ! ! !

We all hope that a good time is had by all over Thanksgiving. It seems to us that a vote of appreciation ought to be given to that unsung hero of the campus, the one dear to the heart of every Villanovan, the Puritan Father who instituted this holiday since Sunday was already a day of rest.



By TINKER HEAPS and BEN REISE

This week caught us off guard for info. on Who's Who Here, but by wandering from one deck to another we did gather some of the latest scuttlebutt. Some of it very interesting — but unprintable, so we'll carry on from here with what we have . . .

First and foremost in our minds is the praise and credit due to our football squad for its showing Saturday evening against Boston College; all hands showed up fine, even during the two rounds of boxing which came as an added attraction, but since one's pay here is so very low I fear we can only offer a "Well Done" to all hands for a job well executed; nods of appraisal to Ollie for his coaching and nods of sympathy to the squad for their bruises. . . .

Complaints have been arriving at the main office in an almost endless stream; reason why—guys like Homer Halm keeping all those nickel dates with the Rosemont girls via Mr. Bell's machine, the telephone!! You'd think some of these first classmen who rate gangway every night could afford riding down the road a piece to see their belles rather than keep servicemen (nobody in Fedigan, Mendel, or Austin halls referred to) from phoning home.

Bouquet of the week goes to Fr. Lorenzo Lozano for his instructions in Espanol. No other professor on the campus can boast the statement, "I keep them laughing and learning at the same time," which El Padre could well do. A salute and salutation to our choice of the week . . .

Upon the reguest of many P&W passengers who were kept awake Thurs. evening by the rambling of a new member here . . . Mr. Siegel by name, the rotund roommate of A.S. McDermott, has been given injections for that dreaded disease "Ya ta ta Ya ta ta" . . . tch., tch, some people never learn . . . speaking of learning, the column would feel obliged to anyone who can expose the name (nicknames will not do, thanks) of the hamburger-shaped article we ate Monday evening . . . funny how generally the art of camouflage is being used!!! . . .

"Revenge is sweet" were the words of Stanislaus Walsh as he crawled through our keyhole one evening and proved his nickname wasn't Fatty. Sorry Paul, we'll try to do better next time; but you still have to admit they've never been able to get that X-ray of your chest!! . . .

The Sgt. Lewis Award Of The Week goes to the new group of V-5's and their respective leaders. Not only did they look good at Saturday's drill, but they outshined all on the field. Others who passed as being fair were 2nd platoon, A company; 1st platoon, B company; and 2nd platoon Marine company. Those remaining are best not referred to . . .

Once more we swallow our words of last week . . . Fred Otto says that the ring he wears is definitely not Jack Gourley's. Oh well, to err is only human . . . Embarassment reigned throughout Matt Kearney's system upon being tripped up on a salty tale while talking for free beers at Ye Olde Legion. Seems as though Matt ended up being a pointer for a 5 inch gun on some famous PT boat; but he wasn't very thirsty anyway, he was just seeking brew for his lil playmate Bobby W.—know who we mean Stumpy? . . .

Best argument for the cause that the service ties you down is the feat recently accomplished by our former Marine Sgt. Muir; Yessir, only six weeks out of the green suit and he boasted the birth of a bouncing son. Ah yes, that "civvy" air is wonderful . . . congratulations to the ex-Gyrene and family . . .

That's all for now. . . . Nove smotz ka pop! ! !

CAMP TO CAMPUS

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

Once again we will try to keep you up to date on the happenings of former Villanovans who are with the armed forces.

T/Sgt. Nick Albano, writes that he is now with the 28th Field Hospital at Ingolstadt, Germany. Cpl. Joe Pesce writes from Herzagenaurach (Wow!) Germany that he has been doing a lot of duty at 'Cpl. of the Guard.' He is also a squad leader and having a lot of fun keeping his men in top shape.

News on the home front brings Congratulations to Ens. Bill Connors who was commissioned last week and who at the same time took the fatal step on matrimony at Saint Monica's Church in Philadelphia. Bill Pease, who is now at Great Lakes awaiting shipment to Storekeepers School writes that he enjoyed the party at Simpson Hall very much and hopes to get his copy of the Yearbook. Ens. Hugh Gannon is waiting his ship, U.S.S. Idaho at Norfolk. When he boards ship he will take on the duties of Dispersing Officer. Tom Hitchell S1/C S.P. (T.) is at the Naval Air Station on Whitbey Island in Washington. He informs us that he is a Link Instructor. M/Sgt. Jack Valeri recently returned from Europe and is now stationed at Camp Shelby, Mississippi. He says that he is engaged in discharging men and since he is the M/Sgt. he will be among the last to leave the Camp.

Gab Lezak is now stationed at the University of Georgetown and

CAMP TO CAMPUS
Continued on Page Four

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

Once again the old Friday night deadline rolls around, and once again yours truly crawls "Out of the Copy Basket" with news and views of the college world.

First of all we might feature some info. from our old pal "The Temple University News" which always seems to supply really snappy material in its "Zoot Hoot" column. To Villanova's "D. B.'s" we pass on this little gem from "The Zoot" . . . Good news for expectant draftees', the headlinees cheerfully said. As if there could possibly be any good news for expectant draftees."

Another super column, "Temple Topics," relates ,"Two sisters born on the same calender date and married at a double wedding, went home to the same house with baby daughters born on the same day. Their babies were born in different hospitals, so help us."

* * *

Up In Syracuse

Dr. Frederick Taylor Wilson, of Syracuse University, says, "The golden goals of the undergraduate are physical perfection, mental alertness, social understanding, and spiritual awareness." We come to college "the training camp of the future, to learn, to think, and thinking is the most difficult thing in the world." Furthermore Dr. Wilson went on to say that the problems of the world are now theological problems, "We know so much of dynamo and so little of deity." Finally Dr. Wilson compared the four college years to Shakepearean plays saying that the freshman year is the "Comedy of Errors;" the sophomore year, "Much Ado About Nothing;" the junior year, "As you Like it;" and the senior, "All's Well That Ends Well."

* * *

Say talking of the old masters like Shapespeare reminds us that here's some consolation for "youse guys that think that Shakespeare and Milton are just no good bums nohow" . . .

Milton Stinks

The "Manhattan Quadrangle" dug this one up—written by one William Winstanley, 1687, in an anthology called "Lives of the Most Famous English Poets." We quote (from "Quadrange" from Winstanley, "John Milton was one whose natural parts might deservedy give him a place amongst the principals of English poets; but his flame is gone out like a candle in a snuff, and his Memory will always Stink, which might have lived in honorable repute, had he not been a notorious Trayter, and most impiously and villainously bely'd that blessed Martyr, King Charles the First."

* * *

Manhattan's ace column "From the Four Corners" goes on to say "Yale University conferred the degree of Bachelor of Arts on Merrill K. Wolf of Cleveland, who according to the Gregorian calender is only 14 years of age . . . It goes to show what results can be obtained under the accelerated program of studies." And here's the big joke, "The only reason that young Merrill chose Yale instead of Manhattan was that our brochure reads, "Maker of Men," and obviously nothing in that direction can be guaranteed at fourteen."

* * *

Law In The West

In the archives of the University of Wisconsin by-laws, hear-say has it, is a rule that could cause 1945 co-eds much trouble. Written during the Victorian era of the last century, it forbids girls who wear night gowns to room with girls who wear pajamas. A poll taken among Cardinal staff workers showed that 100 percent of them sleep in men's pajamas. Apparently grandmother's nightgown is on its way out as a part of the wardrobe of the 1945 co-ed. A. C.P.

* * *

And so we end "Out of the C. Basket" for this week reminding our readers that Villanova spelled sideways is nothing."

New Officers

Continued From Page One

Squadron 2, which saw duty with the 5th and 7th fleets in the Pacific.

He served as torpedo officer and first lieutenant during his two years aboard ship. In October he was detached from the USS Morris and received his orders to proceed to Villanova College as instructor in Naval Science.

Wildcat's Basketball Schedule Announced

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

New Intramural Basketball Tops Winter Sports

Do you have a desire to make the Varsity Basketball Team? If so, do what thousands of other hopefuls have done and achieve success the easy way. The easy way you hear so much talk about is your opportunity to join one of the five Intramural Basketball Teams being formed. Three service and two Civilain fives will be organized.

These fiery games may be witnessed by the student free of charge 3 nights a week, from six to eight down at the fieldhouse. Games must be played on time in order to let the varsity practice.

In former years, interest in the Intramural Basketball League was kept at a high pitch throughout the season because so many of the students took an active part in competition. Father Kemme and Father Girolami, co-Moderators, want to get the league action rolling soon and would like to see a large turnout of participants at the various games in order to bring the organization back to its former standards.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Al Postus, star backfield ace of the 1942 and 1943 Wildcat elevens is performing this year with the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Professional League. The property of the Philadelphia Eagles, Al is a loan to the Steelers for the 1945 season.

* * *

On Sunday, November 11, the Eagles paid tribute to Nick Basca, former Villanovan, who was killed in action. Nick was one of the Eagles best prospects when he left to join the Army.

* * *

Johnny Mellus, All-American lineman from Villanova in the late thirties, was recently signed by Vince McNally, assistant coach here in the days of Clipper Smith, to play for the San Francisco team in the new All-American League.

VARSITY BASKETBALL SCHEDULE
1945-46

November 28	Georgetown	Home
December 5	Princeton	Home
December 8	Bucknell	Away
December 12	Fordham	Home
December 14	U. S. Merchant Marine Academy	Away
December 15	Yale	Away
December 19	Valley Forge Hospital	Home
January 5	Rhode Island State	Away
January 9	Bucknell*	Home
January 10	Boston College	Away
January 12	Navy	Away
January 16	England General Hospital	Home
January 19	Manhattan	Away
January 23	U. S. Merchant Marine Academy*	Home
January 25	Colgate	Away
January 26	Syracuse	Away
January 30	Princeton	Away
February 2	Bainbridge Naval Training Station	Home
February 6	Rider	Home
February 9	Scranton	Home
February 13	Manhattan	Home
February 16	Muhlenberg	Away
February 20	Albright	Home

N. B.—All home games at Villanova Field House, Lancaster Pike—Tap-off at 8:30 P. M.

Severance Still Undecided Upon Starting Wildcat Varsity Five

Veteran Coach Puts Stock In Burr And Reybitz; Both Men Have Played With Championship Teams

By JIM McNAMARA

The 1945-46 basketball season will open in one week when the Villanova Cats meet the Hoyas of Georgetown University on the home court. The curtain raiser will introduce 15 new men to Villanova followers. Because the competition is so keen and the spirit so high it will be a difficult task for Coach Al Severence to pick a starting five.

To introduce you to a few of the players we will start with Bill Burr, one of the few men with previous college experience. Bill made his first bid for recognition at Burlington High School, where he won varsity letters in basketball, baseball, and track. In his senior year Bill was elected captain of the basketball team and sparked his team to the New Jersey State Championship and garnered for himself individual honors of high scorer in the district and a cup for the most valuable player. The crowning point of his high school career was shattering the individual high game scoring mark when he bombarded the hoops for 33 points.

Joined Navy in 1943

For his efforts he was rewarded with a place on the All State team and received numerous college offers. Bill turned down all offers and entered the Navy in 1943. He served aboard an LST with the Atlantic Fleet for a year before being selected for V-12 training and subsequently being transferred to Muhlenberg College in July of 1944.

While at Muhlenberg, Bill starred in basketball and track. His scrappy style of play on the courts was no little factor in lifting that college to the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden last winter.

His wealth of experience will be a steadying factor in coordinating the high geared pick and cut system advocated by Al Severance. This diminutive hustler will get more than his share of points this season, "For what he lacks in height, he makes up for in aggressiveness."

Probable Center

Another man Villanova rooters will want to meet is big Ed "Chet" Reybitz. Ed possesses the well known court "savvy" and his 6 ft. 4½ in. frame makes him dangerous from any point on the floor. His flashy ball-handling and play-making potential will probably realize for him the nod at starting the pivot. Chet played three years at Bethlehem Catholic which team he captained in his senior year and led to the Eastern Pennsylvania Catholic League Championship. His average of 23 points per game landed him a berth on the All-Sectional team. The trophy adorning the Reybitz mantle place acclaims Ed as the most valuable player in high school ranks for 1939.

Chet entered the service a few weeks after Pearl Harbor and went to North Carolina Preflight where he played on the basketball team. This top-flight aggregation recognized his ability and he held down the center slot there during the 1943 season. For the next two years the task of ferrying planes in the South Pacific kept Lt. Reybitz too busy to frequent the wooden ways. He was discharged late in 1944 and worked for almost a year before entering Villanova last July.

Villanova's strength under the boards should be greatly augmented by this fellow's height and alertness. Feeding passes from the pivot and faking defensive men out of position are his specialty and he may well be the key to Severance's dreams of duplicating the feats of his great teams of the past.

Team To Play 23-Game Schedule In Twelve Weeks; To Meet 19 Teams

Twelve Games To Be Played Here During Season; Six Newcomers And Six Old Rivals Top Schedule; Many Top Flight Service Teams On Card

With hopes of emulating the records of their peace-time predecessors, Villanova's young and inexperienced basketeers face a true test of ability in the 23 game schedule that has just been released by Rev. Edward B. McKee O. S. A., Director of Athletics. Opening at home on November 28 with Georgetown University, the Cats have Wednesday and Saturday engagements virtually every week following that, with the exception of the Christmas holiday interim. Twelve of the games, including the opener with the Hoyas, are scheduled for the Wilcats' lair.

The schedule, featured by meetings with Rhode Island State's "firehouse" team, Navy's perennially power-laden quintet, and the star-studded Valley Forge Medics, is loaded with potential strength from start to finish. Question marks are presented by a few service teams, but most likely the only question should be about the degree of strength which they have. Valley Forge has the same team that carried it through a thirty-seven game grind last year with but two reverses, including two victories over Villanova. The other service squads, England General Hospital, Bainbridge, and the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy (Kings Point) are newcomers on the schedule, and not much is known of their true strength. The latter, according to reports, is supposed to have a crackerjack five, however, and Bainbridge in the past has been represented by one of the leading teams of the country.

Four Home And Home Games

Home - and - home engagements have been arranged with four teams; Bucknell, Princeton, Kings Point and Manhattan. Similar arrangements were made last year with the first-mentioned, while the latter is just returning to basketball after a war-time lay-off. Georgetown and Fordham, likewise had abandoned the sport for the past few years and will endeavor to climb back to the top rating they received in the ante--bellum days. Boston College, whom the Blue and White meet in the Boston Garden on January 10, is returning to the sport after a two decade lapse.

Six teams will be faced by a Villanova squad for the first time. Other than the three above-mentioned service aggregations, Boston College, Syracuse, and Yale are newcomers as Wildcat court rivals. The addition of Yale to the card means that the Severancemen will meet two "Ivy" league teams this season, since Princeton's Tigers are also listed. Boston College, while not new to Villanova followers in the football world, is undoubtedly unfamiliar to them in basketball circles due to their inactivity. Syracuse, on the other hand, always has a ranking team and this year should be no exception.

Four of the teams are being met for only the second time. Of the four, Villanova has taken the nod over but one, Rhode Island State, while Georgetown, Fordham, and Colgate hold single decisions over the Cats.

Face Old Opponents

Some familiar Villanova opponents to be faced this year are Bucknell, Muhlenberg, Albright, Manhattan, Scranton, and Rider. Of these, only Bucknell and Manhattan hold leads in all-time series. The Bisons, by virtue of victories in the last three meetings, hold a seven to six edge. Manhattan has shown clear superiority over the Villanovans by returning winners six times out of six games, so the Main Liners will be determined to break the jinx this year. Muhlenberg, last year's regional representative in the New York Invitation Tournament, has evened up its record by sweeping its last

1945-46 SCHEDULE
Continued on Page Four

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

This week's column is again devoted to one of the players that made up this year's varsity eleven. He is not just another player but one of those men who really gets in there and fights when the going gets tough. He is Joseph A. Scarcelli.

All-Scholastic

Joe, or if you must, Scar, was born in South Philadelphia on June 7, 1928. Here he attended Southern High School for Boys beginning in September 1942. Joe lost no time going out for football and when only a Sophomore he found himself on the varsity. Through his hard work and everlasting spirit he landed a berth on the first string in his Junior year and did not relinquish the same till his graduation. In his Senior year he got the biggest thrill in his life as he put it, that is, Southern won the City League Championship making them the best high school team in Philadelphia.

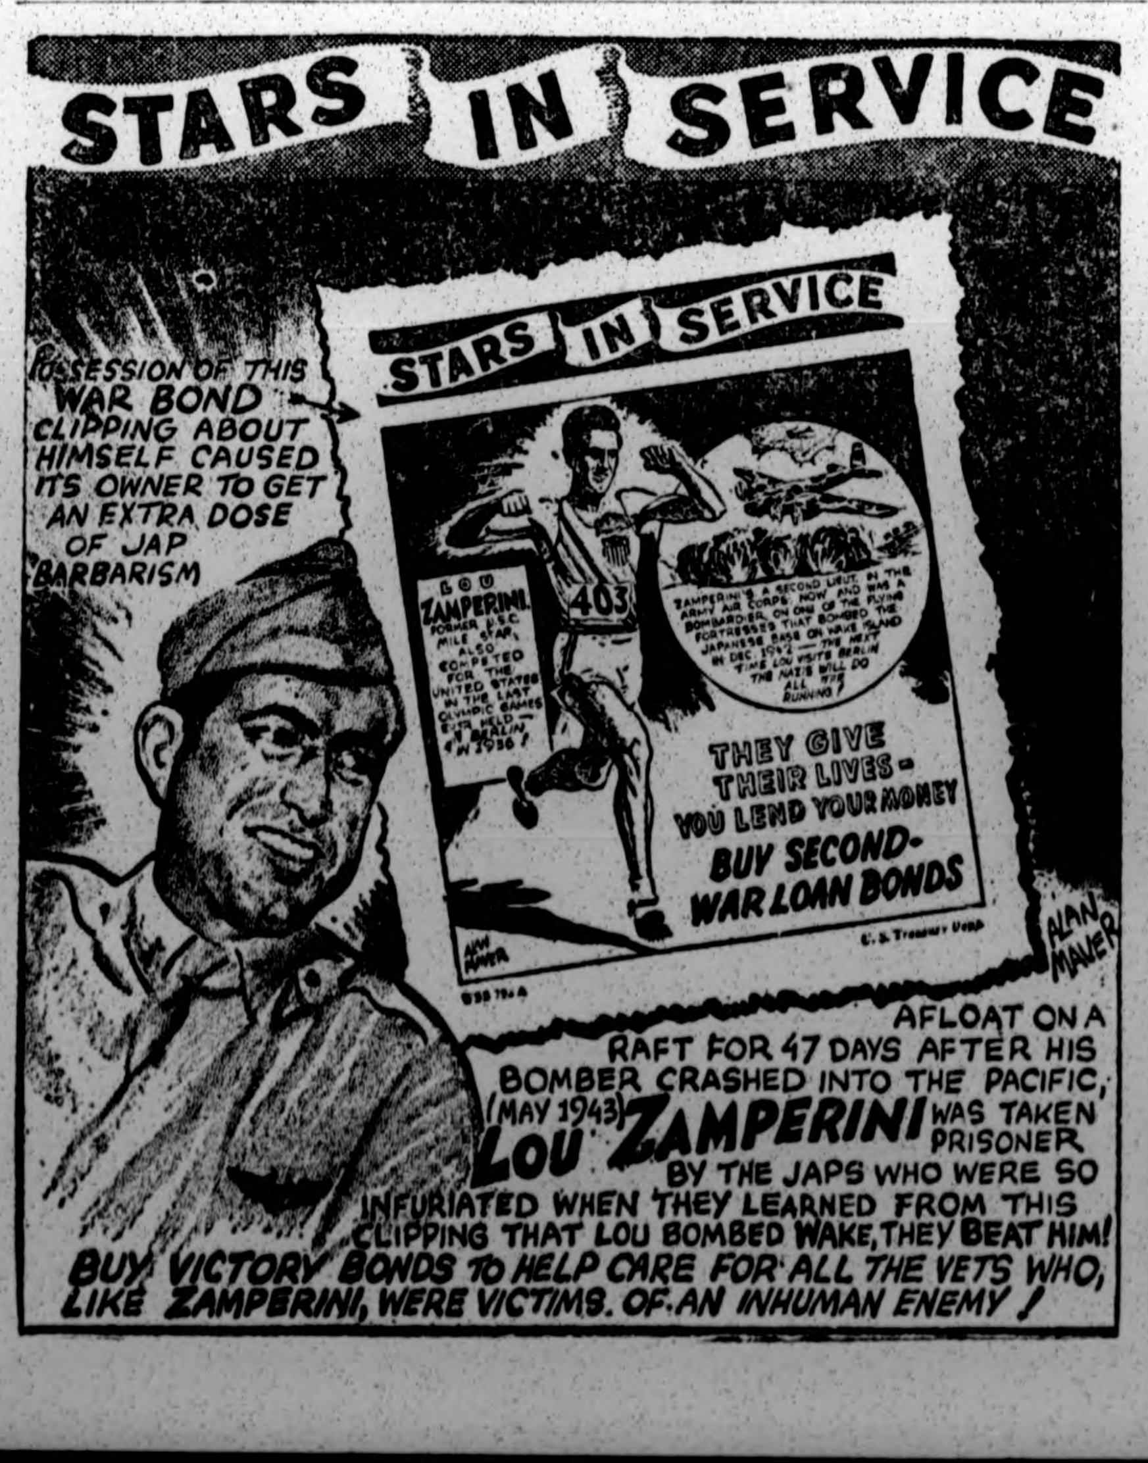
Joe did not go unnoticed by the experts either, for he was placed on the All-Public team and then the All- Scholastic team which is comprised of the best players in Philadelphia.

At Southern Joe also went in for track and made the team in the shotput field. In the pinches he also ran the hurdles and short distances.

Mechanical Engineer

Joe started here at Villanova in July 1945. During the Summer he reported for practice and was soon fighting all out for the first team. Then the season started he was found playing at least half the game. As the season progressed, Joe found himself edging up on his teammate and the Tennessee game found him starting. In the last game of the season against Boston College Joe started again and really played one of his best games.

JOSEPH A. SCARCELLI



STARS IN SERVICE
POSSESSION OF THIS WAR BOND CLIPPING ABOUT HIMSELF CAUSED ITS OWNER TO GET AN EXTRA DOSE OF JAP BARBARISM
STARS IN SERVICE
LOU ZAMPERINI FORMER U.S.C. MILE STAR, ALSO COMPETED FOR THE UNITED STATES IN THE LAST OLYMPIC GAMES HELD IN BERLIN IN 1936!
403
ZAMPERINI'S A SECOND LIEUT. IN THE ARMY AIR CORPS. NOW AND WAS A BOMBARDIER ON ONE OF THE FLYING FORTRESSES THAT BOMBED THE JAPANESE BASE ON WAKE ISLAND IN DEC. 1942 — THE NEXT TIME LOU VISITS BERLIN THE NAZIS WILL DO ALL THE RUNNING!
THEY GIVE THEIR LIVES - YOU LEND YOUR MONEY
BUY SECOND-WAR LOAN BONDS
U. S. Treasury Dept.
ALAN MAVER
AFLOAT ON A RAFT FOR 47 DAYS AFTER HIS BOMBER CRASHED INTO THE PACIFIC, (MAY 1943) LOU ZAMPERINI WAS TAKEN PRISONER BY THE JAPS WHO WERE SO INFURIATED WHEN THEY LEARNED FROM THIS CLIPPING THAT LOU BOMBED WAKE, THEY BEAT HIM!
BUY VICTORY BONDS TO HELP CARE FOR ALL THE VETS WHO, LIKE ZAMPERINI, WERE VICTIMS OF AN INHUMAN ENEMY!

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
Member International Tailoring Co. N. Y.

Belle Air Staff Begins Work On '46 Year Book

The Belle Air staff under the direction of John Selfridge are compiling photographs for the next edition, which will be available in June. Portraits of the members of the Senior Class have been taken, as well as photographs of the other class groups and societies.

The veterans were photographed in two groups. The first composed of men who were students at Villanova prior to entering the service, and the second of the newly arrived men. Informal pictures, taken in the classroom and corridors will appear in the '46 edition of the year book.

The article on last semester's soft ball season has been completed, and articles on the past foot ball season will soon be ready for the printer. A staff of sports writers has been selected for the basketball season.

Last Edition Still Available

The 1945 edition of the Belle Air may be obtained at the library. Students who are entitled to a book should call at their earliest convenience. Books have been mailed to former students who are now in the service.

The members of the Belle Air staff are doing excellent work regardless of the fact that more men are needed. Anyone interested in joining the staff should report to the Belle Air office in Mendel Hall.

Camp To Campus

Continued From Page Two

reports he is working hard at those medical subjects. Francis McGuinn who was graduated from here in 1944 was recently married to Ruth Volt of Philadelphia. Henry Strauss, recently commissioned from Ft. Schyler, was married last Saturday in Baltimore, Md. Hank paid his friends a visit and introduced his bride to his former chums. Reserve commissions and then inactive duty at New River were given to George Hooper, Alex Coleman, Wallie Collins, Pedro Jackson, Hary Pryer, Jim Lubin and Dick Barry.

Duke Severson, one the anchor men of last seasons football team, along with recently discharged Clark Reynolds and Tom Fitsgibbons were seen at the Boston College-Villanova football game. Second Lt. Bill Dennis is now at Saipan wishing he was back in the states.

1945-46 Schedule

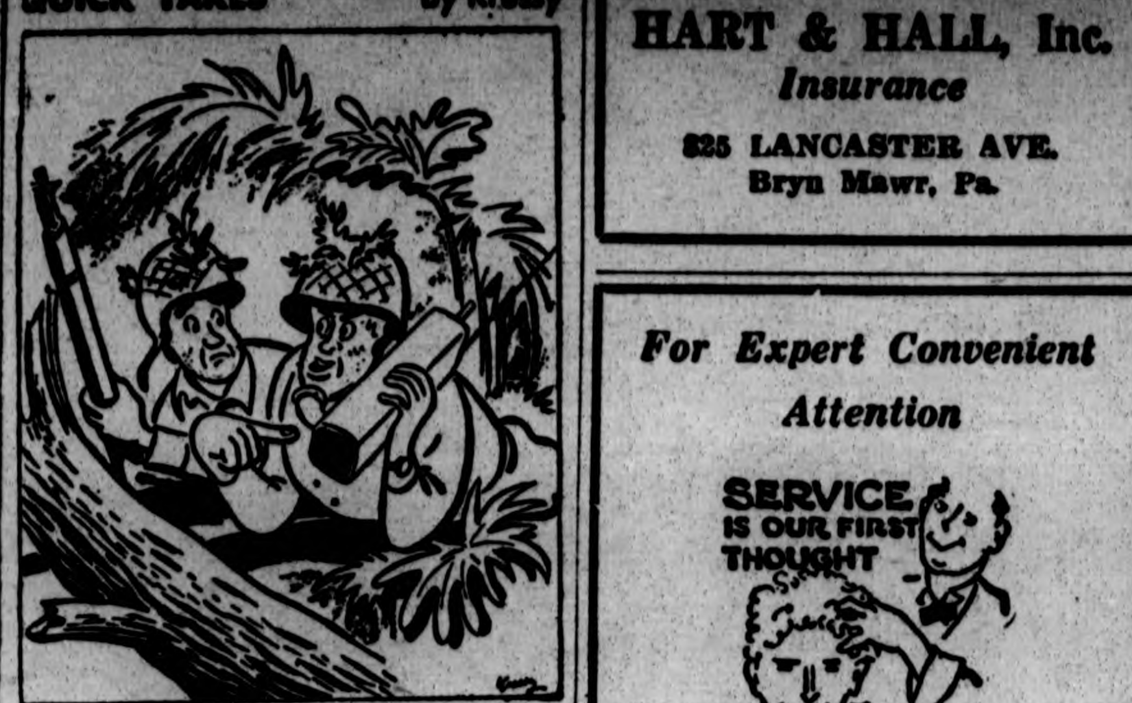
Continued From Page Three

four clashes with Al Severance's charges.

Six teams are returning from the 1944-45 schedule. Of the six, the Cats clawed only one, Rider, while they were victoryless against Princeton, Bucknell, Valley Forge, Navy, and Muhlenberg. However, it's pretty safe to assume that they will fare much better this season. In practice sessions to date they have displayed flashes of brilliance and they should show Villanova followers some fine basketball this Winter.

QUICK TAKES

By Kressy



"ITS NO USE—ALL I GET IS GABRIEL HEATTER"

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
The Campus Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Men Of Navy And Marine Corps
Put Your Savings In An Established Bank
The
Bryn Mawr
Trust Company
Every Banking Facility
Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

ATTENTION SERVICEMEN

PURPOSE—The G. I. Veteran is entitled to any level of education for which he can qualify including undergraduate or graduate studies at a college, university, high school or vocational institution. The Veteran may make his own choice of the school, etc., anywhere in the United States.

EXTENT—90 days of active service entitles the Veteran to education or training, or a refresher or retraining course at an approved institution for a period of one year. If he completes the first year satisfactorily, he is entitled in addition to as many years or months of training as he served altogether in active service from September 16, 1940, to the end of the war. If the Veteran's length of service is sufficient and he qualifies otherwise he may have a total of four years of education.

EXPENSES—The Veteran's expense for tuition, fees, books and equipment, up to $500 for each ordinary academic year, will be paid by the government. In addition he will receive $50 a month for subsistence or $75 if he has one or more dependents.

HOW TO APPLY—Application should be made on Veterans Administration Form 1950, which can be obtained, after the Veteran is discharged, from regional offices of the Veterans Administration or from any educational institution.

SPECIAL NOTE—Disabled Veterans are eligible for additional educational services under another Bill.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION WRITE
THE VETERANS GUIDANCE SERVICE
VILLANOVA COLLEGE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Big Moment
Coca-Cola
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 20—No. 15 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1945

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Dr. Florencio Buztinza Addresses Spanish Club

Discusses Development And Production Of Penicillin; Here To Visit Catholic Colleges

Habda Vd. el espanol? If you don't, brother, you should hide that transit and slide rule and enroll at once in one of the diversified Spanish Classes conducted by the Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A. An example of this diversity is shown by an incident that occurred last Tuesday when Fr. Lozano introduced Doctor Bustinza to his afternoon class. Doctor Bustinza, distinguished bacteriologist and author, is on an official mission in this country to make a study of Catholic Colleges and Universities. On his return to his country he will deliver a lecture about Villanova under the title "The Most Spanish College in the United States." Needless to say Doctor Bustinza will devote part of his talk to the Spanish Club which is flourishing on the campus at the present time.

DR. BUZTINZA

Doctor Buztinza, conservatively attired in a blue business suit, spoke in his native tongue, which brought pleas of "mas lentamente" (slower). He discussed the discovery, early development and the large-scale production of the valuable germ-killing agent, penicillin. He pointed out that penicillin is not a cure-all for all of man's diseases. Many new fields of scientific research have been opened since penicillin's discovery.

Author of "La Penicillina"

Opening a portfolio he showed the group his most recent book 'La Penicillina," which has been dedicated to Doctor Fleming, the discoverer of Penicillin. The profusely illustrated volume has been published in three languages and is soon to be translated into English.

When asked by a student the reason for the current shortage of the

DR. BUZTINZA
Continued on Page Four

Villanova Grads Placed on Who's Who

Eight recent graduates have been accepted for inclusion in the 1945-46 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Candidates are selected by a special faculty committee of the students' school on the basis of academic standing, extracurricular activity work, and general qualifications for outstanding college students.

School Leaders

Nominated by this school and accepted by Who's Who are: John Joseph Fitzgibbons; Joseph John Gerngross; William Joseph Koness; Thomas Morton Schubert; David VanValzah Ward; Thomas Patrick Welch; Joseph Donald Keating, and John Michael Millet. All these men took an active part in college life and made themselves conspicuous during their stay at Villanova because of their outstanding work which merited them their just recognition.

Senior Class May Obtain Proofs

Cooperation Must Be Given To Have Pictures In Time For Belle Air

On Friday, November 23, Zamsky Studios returned the Senior portraits to the Belle Air Office. Students who were photographed in the reception room at Austin Hall may call at the Belle Air Office, 235 Mendel Hall, to obtain their proofs.

All proofs must be returned to Zamsky Studios by Friday, November 30. A representative of the Studio will be in the reception room at Austin Hall to receive the proofs and to make any necessary correctionss.

Pressed for Time

The cooperation of students is requested in the returning of the proofs. The Studio has only a limited time in which complete the portraits and return them to the Belle Air in order that all pictures may be included in the 1946 year book.

Those students who have not obtained their 1945 Belle Air are reminded that they may do so by calling on Father Falvey in the library.

A. I. E. E. Branch Elects Officers

Plan To Resume Visits To Local Plants

Elections for officers in the American Institute of Electrical Engineers were held on Wednesday, Nov. 21. Returns on the ballots found B. L. Price, Chairman; F. Boyle, Vice-Chairman; L. Fallon, Secretary and J. Brogan, Treasurer.

Tentative plans of the society for this semester include a visit to Franklin Institute and attendance at the mid-winter convention of the A.I.E.E. in New York City.

Will Expand Upon Activities

During the war activities in the society were greatly curtailed because of the difficulty in arranging visits to the local war plants. However, now that war contracts and war production has been stopped and local plants are back to prewar activities, many more trips into industry are contemplated.

Last year the group, under the supervision of Prof. Harry S. Bueche, of the Electrical Engineering Department, attended the A.I.E.E. convention in New York. There they met members of the institute from all parts of the nation and took an active interest in the discussions.

All Electric Engineering students interested in the society should consult any of the new officers, concerning admittance.

IN MEMORIUM

The faculty and student body of Villanova College express their deep sympathy to Mr. John A. Oakey, Associate Professor of Civil Engineering, whose father died last week.

Television For Basketball Tilts

Equipment Now Being Installed In Field House By Philco; Test To Be Made On Nov. 28th

Villanova is the first College to be equipped with a Television system that will relay its basketball games to the thousands of Television receivers along the Atlantic Seaboard. The Philco Corporation has installed a Rhombic antenna atop the Villanova Field House, and the electrical work is expected to be completed within the next week.

The whole project to date has been the work of six Philco engineers. They estimated that eight to ten men would be on hand to televise the games. One camera will operate from the stage, another will be managed from the balcony in the back of the gym.

The installation is a relay station, from which place they will transmit it approximately nine and a half miles to Windmore, Pa., where it will be sent to the different parts of the country. The basketball games will be carried on Channel No. 3 (66-72 megacycles), and the sound will be Frequency Modulated.

Music Seminar To Resume Activities

The weekly Music Seminars, which have come to be a permanent institution around Villanova, will start today, under the capable direction of an ardent music lover, Dr. Haenisch. These meetings will be held every Tuesday in the Amphitheatre, 215 Mendel, from 12:40 to 1:20. Those who cannot attend for the whole period are urged to feel free to come and go as they please. The seminar is open to all students.

The feature number of the program will be Beethoven's Sonata in F minor, for the piano, better known as the "Appasionata Sonata." This was written early in Beethoven's career and when Beethoven was asked, one time, "the meaning" of it, he replied, "Read Shakespeare's 'Tempest.'" From that time on he has been criticised but, as Schauffler puts it, these writers could not have read "The Tempest" with much imaginative intensity. It was written in 1904, nine years after his Opus 1 was published and at a time when he could barely fill the numerous orders for music which were pouring in.

The program for the following week will be selected by those present this afternoon.

Vets Meeting Held To Discuss Initiation

The Veterans Club of Villanova held a meeting last Tuesday, at which time application blanks were filled out and returned along with initiation fees of the one hundred fifty new members. A number of important questions were discussed, some of which were carried over from the previous meeting.

President Harry Edwards announced that due to a previously scheduled basketball game, set for November 8, the Vets' Initiation Smoker would be advanced to the night of December 6.

Sanctuary Society Elects Officers

The recently reorganized Sanctuary Society held final elections at its second meeting of the term last Tuesday night.

Jasper Chen See was elected president of the Society, while Matthew Kearney, A.S., and William Janton were chosen for the offices of Vice-President and Secretary respectively.

The newly elected president gave a short talk, expressing appreciation for his election and set forth his hopes and desires to render his functions as efficiently and smoothly as possible.

Augustinian Guild Plans For Christmastide Dance

Father Coffey Appeals To College Students For Aid To Insure Success Of Holiday Hop

The Holiday Hop which is to be held December 15 at Town Hall is something new in the way of activities sponsored by the Augustinian Seminary Guild. Rev. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., head of the Guild, has announced that plans are now being formulated to make it the best informal affair of this or any other season. The Guild hopes to make the dance an annual affair, and Fr. Coffey expressed the hope that the Villanova students will turn out to make it a big success.

The price of the tickets is $3.00, and they may be obtained either at the Guild office or from members of the ticket committee. Students are urged to purchase their tickets as soon as possible so that the commitee may make necessary arrangements early. Since this is not a closed affair, students, especially Day Hops, are urged to contact their friends in order to insure a large attendance. Friends of the Guild who wish to become Patrons may do so by contributing $1.00.

LEO ZOLLO

Christmas Theme

The most important man of the evening will be Leo Zollo. Mr. Zollo, together with an outstanding group of musicians will be on hand to supply music which is strictly on the "up beat." The band plays good music, both sweet and hot, depending on the mood of the song and the dancers. The tunes of the day played the "Zollo way" will make the evening one of the best of the Christmas Season.

In tune with the season the decorations committee is planning to

AUGUSTINIAN GUILD
Continued on Page Four

Annual Faculty Dinner Held Here

Father Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., Expresses Gratitude For Navy's Cooperation With College

On Wednesday, November 21, the annual Facutly Dinner was held at 7:00 P. M. in the Villanova field house. As this was the first time that the dinner was not held in the monastery dining room, the meal was catered by Rogers of Philadelphia. Present among the ninety-two guests at the dinner were the majority of the faculty, including the naval teaching staff, certain distinguished friends of the college, and the wives of the Naval officers and the lay members of the faculty.

The guests at the dinner were Captain and Mrs. H. R. Stevens, USN, District Training Officer of the Fourth Naval District; Captain and Mrs. Thomas C. Thomas, USN, Commanding Officer of the NROTC Unit here at Villanova; Commander and Mrs. Scott G. Lamb, USNR, former District Training Officer of the Fourth Naval Unit; and Commander and Mrs. Edward Hannah, USNR, former Commanding Officer of the V-12 Unit at Villanova.

New Teachers Introduced

During the course of the meal, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova, who presided over the affair, spoke and expressed his gratitude to Commander Lamb for the Navy's cooperation with Villanova during the war and the training period of the V-12 students. During the remainder of his address, Fr. McGuire then introduced the additional members of the faculty who had just come to Villanova to the other guests at the dinner. The new members who were introduced were: Commander James W. Whaley, USN; Lts. William D. Groff, USNR, and Elmer D. West, USNR; Lts. (jg) Harry C. Abraham, USNR, and Robert D. Hecht, USNR; and the Revs. John W. Touhy, O. S. A., John Maher, O.S.A., and William J. Krupa, O.S.A.

of Villanova 4 Dec '45 pge 1. + Dec 11 pge 1.

Villanova College Honor Roll

DIED IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

2nd Lt. J. Benedcit Maloney, '37
2nd Lt. Denis J. Dowling, ex-'42
1st Lt. John J. Parson, ex-'42
Staff Sgt. Walter A. Lang, ex-'42
Ensign James P. Mulroy, ex-'41
Ensign Joseph A. Hirsch, '40
Pvt. James F. Gallagher, Jr., '33
2nd Lt. James Daly, Evening School
Pvt. Leon J. Gaussuin, Jr., ex-'40.
Capt. Joseph B. Christoph, '40
Lt. James E. Tolan, 3rd, ex-'44
Pvt. Charles C. Vail, Prep., '22
A/C Vitalis P. Miciunas, ex-'45
Lt. Harry A. Mazzei, '40
Pfct. Joseph C. Folla, ex-'42
Lt. William F. Garrity, '40
Lt. Stephen Shizkowski, '35
Lt. Frank E. Buckley, '42
Capt. Harry Singley, Jr., '32, M.C.
Capt. Robert Mentzinger, '41, U.S.M.C.R.
Lt. William J. Howlett, '42, U.S.M.C.R.
S/Sgt. Stephen F. Miller, ex-'36
T/Sgt. George M. Balmore, '41
S/Sgt. Michael O'Connor, ex-'44
Captain William W. Neel, ex-'40
Cpl. Michael M. Basca, '41
1st Lt. Albert M. Ehart, Jr., ex-'45
Pfc. Harry J. Bell, ex-'46
Pvt. John F. Miller, ex-'46
Cpl. Thomas O'Brien, ex-'32
Lt. Salvatore L. Catanese, ex-'44
Pfc. Thomas S. Siani, ex-'45
S/Sgt. John T. Corkill, '34
Lt. Kirl Oerth, ex-'45, U.S.M.C.R.
Pvt. William D. Kelley, ex-'45
Pvt. Joseph A. Bonafiglia, ex-'44
Lt. Herman Drizin, ex-'44, U.S.M.C.R.
Sgt. John D. Schuyler, '39
Sgt. Norbert R. Longo, ex-'43, U.S.M.C.R.
Pfc. Norton Alexander, ex-'45
Pfc. William B. McDonald, Jr., ex-'44
Pfc. William E. Conroy, Jr., ex-'32
Lt. Charles J. Cooke, Jr., '38
Lt. John F. Geraghty, Jr., '37, M.C.
Lt. John A. Bittig, ex-'45, U.S.M.C.R.
Lt. Joseph A. Federowicz, '38
S/Sgt. Arthur E. Bove, ex-'41
John T. Boyle, ex-'44
Lt. Joseph J. Kozlowski, '39, M.C.
Ensign Frederick Gerngross, '44

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH SCHOOL TICKETS

GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED

5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.

RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

College Tailor

Coladonato Tailor Shop, Inc.

1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266

We do adjustments the way you want them.

Work and Service—Good

Prices Reasonable

Member International Tailoring Co. N. Y.

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM

"Deliciously Different"

PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

ATTENTION SERVICEMEN

PURPOSE—The G. I. Veteran is entitled to any level of education for which he can qualify including undergraduate or graduate studies at a college, university, high school or vocational institution. The Veteran may make his own choice of the school, etc., anywhere in the United States.

EXTENT—90 days of active service entitles the Veteran to education or training, or a refresher or retraining course at an approved institution for a period of one year. If he completes the first year satisfactorily, he is entitled in addition to as many years or months of training as he served altogether in active service from September 16, 1940, to the end of the war. If the Veteran's length of service is sufficient and he qualifies otherwise he may have a total of four years of education.

EXPENSES—The Veteran's expense for tuition, fees, books and equipment, up to $500 for each ordinary academic year, will be paid by the government. In addition he will receive $50 a month for subsistence or $75 if he has one or more dependents.

HOW TO APPLY—Application should be made on Veterans Administration Form 1950, which can be obtained, after the Veteran is discharged, from regional offices of the Veterans Administration or from any educational institution.

SPECIAL NOTE—Disabled Veterans are eligible for additional educational services under another Bill.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION WRITE
THE VETERANS GUIDANCE SERVICE
VILLANOVA COLLEGE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Belle Air Staff Begins Work On '46 Year Book

The Belle Air staff under the direction of John Selfridge are compiling photographs for the next edition, which will be available in June. Portraits of the members of the Senior Class have been taken, as well as photographs of the other class groups and societies.

The veterans were photographed in two groups. The first composed of men who were students at Villanova prior to entering the service, and the second of the newly arrived men. Informal pictures, taken in the classroom and corridors will appear in the '46 edition of the year book.

The article on last semester's soft ball season has been completed, and articles on the past foot ball season will soon be ready for the printer. A staff of sports writers has been selected for the basketball season.

Last Edition Still Available

The 1945 edition of the Belle Air may be obtained at the library. Students who are entitled to a book should call at their earliest convenience. Books have been mailed to former students who are now in the service.

The members of the Belle Air staff are doing excellent work regardless of the fact that more men are needed. Anyone interested in joining the staff should report to the Belle Air office in Mendel Hall.

Camp To Campus

Continued From Page Two

reports he is working hard at those medical subjects. Francis McGuinn who was graduated from here in 1944 was recently married to Ruth Volt of Philadelphia. Henry Strauss, recently commissioned from Ft. Schyler, was married last Saturday in Baltimore, Md. Hank paid his friends a visit and introduced his bride to his former chums. Reserve commissions and then inactive duty at New River were given to George Hooper, Alex Coleman, Wallie Collins, Pedro Jackson, Hary Pryer, Jim Lubin and Dick Barry.

Duke Severson, one the anchor men of last seasons football team, along with recently discharged Clark Reynolds and Tom Fitsgibbons were seen at the Boston College-Villanova football game. Second Lt. Bill Dennis is now at Saipan wishing he was back in the states.

1945-46 Schedule

Continued From Page Three

four clashes with Al Severance's charges.

Six teams are returning from the 1944-45 schedule. Of the six, the Cats clawed only one, Rider, while they were victoryless against Princeton, Bucknell, Valley Forge, Navy, and Muhlenberg. However, it's pretty safe to assume that they will fare much better this season. In practice sessions to date they have displayed flashes of brilliance and they should show Villanova followers some fine basketball this Winter.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure

COLEBY Tailoring Inc.

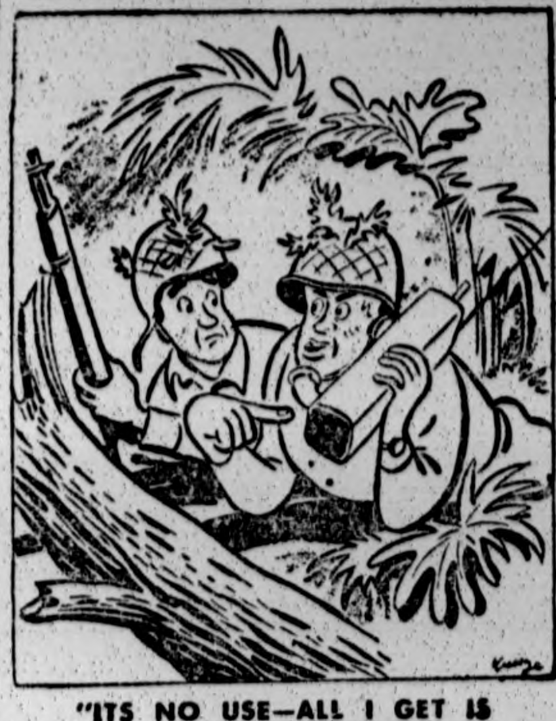
57th & MARKET STS.

Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.

Suits & Topcoats

$29.75

QUICK TAKES By Kressy



"ITS NO USE—ALL I GET IS GABRIEL HEATTER"

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

The Campus Barber Shop

First Class Work
Popular Prices

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE . . .
Longines
THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

Men Of Navy And Marine Corps
Put Your Savings In An
Established Bank

The Bryn Mawr Trust Company

Every Banking Facility

Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Big Moment
Drink Coca-Cola
© 1945 The C-C Co.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

VILLANOVAN

VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

Vol. 20—No. 15 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1945

Dr. Florencio Buztinza Addresses Spanish Club

Discusses Development And Production Of Penicillin; Here To Visit Catholic Colleges

Habda Vd. el espanol? If you don't, brother, you should hide that transit and slide rule and enroll at once in one of the diversified Spanish Classes conducted by the Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A. An example of this diversity is shown by an incident that occurred last Tuesday when Fr. Lozano introduced Doctor Bustinza to his afternoon class. Doctor Bustinza, distinguished bacteriologist and author, is on an official mission in this country to make a study of Catholic Colleges and Universities. On his return to his country he will deliver a lecture about Villanova under the title "The Most Spanish College in the United States." Needless to say Doctor Bustinza will devote part of his talk to the Spanish Club which is flourishing on the campus at the present time.

DR. BUZTINZA

Doctor Buztinza, conservatively attired in a blue business suit, spoke in his native tongue, which brought pleas of "mas lentamente" (slower). He discussed the discovery, early development and the large-scale production of the valuable germ-killing agent, penicillin. He pointed out that penicillin is not a cure-all for all of man's diseases. Many new fields of scientific research have been opened since penicillin's discovery.

Author of "La Penicillina"

Opening a portfolio he showed the group his most recent book 'La Penicillina," which has been dedicated to Doctor Fleming, the discoverer of Penicillin. The profusely illustrated volume has been published in three languages and is soon to be translated into English.

When asked by a student the reason for the current shortage of the

DR. BUZTINZA
Continued on Page Four

Villanova Grads Placed on Who's Who

Eight recent graduates have been accepted for inclusion in the 1945-46 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Candidates are selected by a special faculty committee of the students' school on the basis of academic standing, extracurricular activity work, and general qualifications for outstanding college students.

School Leaders

Nominated by this school and accepted by Who's Who are: John Joseph Fitzgibbons; Joseph John Gerngross; William Joseph Koness; Thomas Morton Schubert; David VanValzah Ward; Thomas Patrick Welch; Joseph Donald Keating, and John Michael Millet. All these men took an active part in college life and made themselves conspicuous during their stay at Villanova because of their outstanding work which merited them their just recognition.

Senior Class May Obtain Proofs

Cooperation Must Be Given To Have Pictures In Time For Belle Air

On Friday, November 23, Zamsky Studios returned the Senior portraits to the Belle Air Office. Students who were photographed in the reception room at Austin Hall may call at the Belle Air Office, 235 Mendel Hall, to obtain their proofs.

All proofs must be returned to Zamsky Studios by Friday, November 30. A representative of the Studio will be in the reception room at Austin Hall to receive the proofs and to make any necessary correctionss.

Pressed for Time

The cooperation of students is requested in the returning of the proofs. The Studio has only a limited time in which complete the portraits and return them to the Belle Air in order that all pictures may be included in the 1946 year book.

Those students who have not obtained their 1945 Belle Air are reminded that they may do so by calling on Father Falvey in the library.

A. I. E. E. Branch Elects Officers

Plan To Resume Visits To Local Plants

Elections for officers in the American Institute of Electrical Engineers were held on Wednesday, Nov. 21. Returns on the ballots found B. L. Price, Chairman; F. Boyle, Vice-Chairman; L. Fallon, Secretary and J. Brogan, Treasurer.

Tentative plans of the society for this semester include a visit to Franklin Institute and attendance at the mid-winter convention of the A.I.E.E. in New York City.

Will Expand Upon Activities

During the war activities in the society were greatly curtailed because of the difficulty in arranging visits to the local war plants. However, now that war contracts and war production has been stopped and local plants are back to prewar activities, many more trips into industry are contemplated.

Last year the group, under the supervision of Prof. Harry S. Bueche, of the Electrical Engineering Department, attended the A.I.E.E. convention in New York. There they met members of the Institute from all parts of the nation and took an active interest in the discussions.

All Electric Engineering students interested in the society should consult any of the new officers, concerning admittance.

IN MEMORIUM

The faculty and student body of Villanova College express their deep sympathy to Mr. John A. Oakey, Associate Professor of Civil Engineering, whose father died last week.

Television For Basketball Tilts

Equipment Now Being Installed In Field House By Philco; Test To Be Made On Nov. 28th

Villanova is the first College to be equipped with a Television system that will relay its basketball games to the thousands of Television receivers along the Atlantic Seaboard. The Philco Corporation has installed a Rhombic antenna atop the Villanova Field House, and the electrical work is expected to be completed within the next week.

The whole project to date has been the work of six Philco engineers. They estimated that eight to ten men would be on hand to televise the games. One camera will operate from the stage, another will be managed from the balcony in the back of the gym.

The installation is a relay station, from which place they will transmit it approximately nine and a half miles to Windmore, Pa., where it will be sent to the different parts of the country. The basketball games will be carried on Channel No. 3 (66-72 megacycles), and the sound will be Frequency Modulated.

Music Seminar To Resume Activities

The weekly Music Seminars, which have come to be a permanent institution around Villanova, will start today, under the capable direction of an ardent music lover, Dr. Haenisch. These meetings will be held every Tuesday in the Amphitheatre, 215 Mendel, from 12:40 to 1:20. Those who cannot attend for the whole period are urged to feel free to come and go as they please. The seminar is open to all students.

The feature number of the program will be Beethoven's Sonata in F minor, for the piano, better known as the "Appasionata Sonata." This was written early in Beethoven's career and when Beethoven was asked, one time, "the meaning" of it, he replied, "Read Shakespeare's 'Tempest.'" From that time on he has been criticised but, as Schauffler puts it, these writers could not have read "The Tempest" with much imaginative intensity. It was written in 1904, nine years after his Opus 1 was published and at a time when he could barely fill the numerous orders for music which were pouring in.

The program for the following week will be selected by those present this afternoon.

Vets Meeting Held To Discuss Initiation

The Veterans Club of Villanova held a meeting last Tuesday, at which time application blanks were filled out and returned along with initiation fees of the one hundred fifty new members. A number of important questions were discussed, some of which were carried over from the previous meeting.

President Harry Edwards announced that due to a previously scheduled basketball game, set for November 8, the Vets' Initiation Smoker would be advanced to the night of December 6.

Sanctuary Society Elects Officers

The recently reorganized Sanctuary Society held final elections at its second meeting of the term last Tuesday night.

Jasper Chen See was elected president of the Society, while Matthew Kearney, A.S., and William Janton were chosen for the offices of Vice-President and Secretary respectively.

The newly elected president gave a short talk, expressing appreciation for his election and set forth his hopes and desires to render his functions as efficiently and smoothly as possible.

Augustinian Guild Plans For Christmastide Dance

Father Coffey Appeals To College Students For Aid To Insure Success Of Holiday Hop

The Holiday Hop which is to be held December 15 at Town Hall is something new in the way of activities sponsored by the Augustinian Seminary Guild. Rev. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., head of the Guild, has announced that plans are now being formulated to make it the best informal affair of this or any other season. The Guild hopes to make the dance an annual affair, and Fr. Coffey expressed the hope that the Villanova students will turn out to make it a big success.

The price of the tickets is $3.00, and they may be obtained either at the Guild office or from members of the ticket committee. Students are urged to purchase their tickets as soon as possible so that the commitee may make necessary arrangements early. Since this is not a closed affair, students, especially Day Hops, are urged to contact their friends in order to insure a large attendance. Friends of the Guild who wish to become Patrons may do so by contributing $1.00.

LEO ZOLLO

Christmas Theme

The most important man of the evening will be Leo Zollo. Mr. Zollo, together with an outstanding group of musicians will be on hand to supply music which is strictly on the "up beat." The band plays good music, both sweet and hot, depending on the mood of the song and the dancers. The tunes of the day played the "Zollo way" will make the evening one of the best of the Christmas Season.

In tune with the season the decorations committee is planning to

AUGUSTINIAN GUILD
Continued on Page Four

Annual Faculty Dinner Held Here

Father Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., Expresses Gratitude For Navy's Cooperation With College

On Wednesday, November 21, the annual Facutly Dinner was held at 7:00 P. M. in the Villanova field house. As this was the first time that the dinner was not held in the monastery dining room, the meal was catered by Rogers of Philadelphia. Present among the ninety-two guests at the dinner were the majority of the faculty, including the naval teaching staff, certain distinguished friends of the college, and the wives of the Naval officers and the lay members of the faculty.

The guests at the dinner were Captain and Mrs. H. R. Stevens, USN, District Training Officer of the Fourth Naval District; Captain and Mrs. Thomas C. Thomas, USN, Commanding Officer of the NROTC Unit here at Villanova; Commander and Mrs. Scott G. Lamb, USNR, former District Training Officer of the Fourth Naval Unit; and Commander and Mrs. Edward Hannah, USNR, former Commanding Officer of the V-12 Unit at Villanova.

New Teachers Introduced

During the course of the meal, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova, who presided over the affair, spoke and expressed his gratitude to Commander Lamb for the Navy's cooperation with Villanova during the war and the training period of the V-12 students. During the remainder of his address, Fr. McGuire then introduced the additional members of the faculty who had just come to Villanova to the other guests at the dinner. The new members who were introduced were: Commander James W. Whaley, USN; Lts. William D. Groff, USNR, and Elmer D. West, USNR; Lts. (jg) Harry C. Abraham, USNR, and Robert D. Hecht, USNR; and the Revs. John W. Touhy, O. S . A., John Maher, O.S.A., and William J. Krupa, O.S.A.

Villanova College Honor Roll

DIED IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

2nd Lt. J. Benedcit Maloney, '37
2nd Lt. Denis J. Dowling, ex-'42
1st Lt. John J. Parson, ex-'42
Staff Sgt. Walter A. Lang, ex-'42
Ensign James P. Mulroy, ex-'41
Ensign Joseph A. Hirsch, '40
Pvt. James F. Gallagher, Jr., '33
2nd Lt. James Daly, Evening School
Pvt. Leon J. Gaussuin, Jr., ex-'40.
Capt. Joseph B. Christoph, '40
Lt. James E. Tolan, 3rd, ex-'44
Pvt. Charles C. Vail, Prep., '22
A/C Vitalis P. Miciunas, ex-'45
Lt. Harry A. Mazzei, '40
Pfct. Joseph C. Folla, ex-'42
Lt. William F. Garrity, '40
Lt. Stephen Shizkowski, '35
Lt. Frank E. Buckley, '42
Capt. Harry Singley, Jr., '32, M.C.
Capt. Robert Mentzinger, '41, U.S.M.C.R.
Lt. William J. Howlett, '42, U.S.M.C.R.
S/Sgt. Stephen F. Miller, ex-'36
T/Sgt. George M. Balmore, '41
S/Sgt. Michael O'Connor, ex-'44
Captain William W. Neel, ex-'40
Cpl. Michael M. Basca, '41
1st Lt. Albert M. Ehart, Jr., ex-'45
Pfc. Harry J. Bell, ex-'46
Pvt. John F. Miller, ex-'46
Cpl. Thomas O'Brien, ex-'32
Lt. Salvatore L. Catanese, ex-'44
Pfc. Thomas S. Siani, ex-'45
S/Sgt. John T. Corkill, '34
Lt. Kirl Oerth, ex-'45, U.S.M.C.R.
Pvt. William D. Kelley, ex-'45
Pvt. Joseph A. Bonafiglia, ex-'44
Lt. Herman Drizin, ex-'44, U.S.M.C.R.
Sgt. John D. Schuyler, '39
Sgt. Norbert R. Longo, ex-'43, U.S.M.C.R.
Pfc. Norton Alexander, ex-'45
Pfc. William B. McDonald, Jr., ex-'44
Pfc. William E. Conroy, Jr., ex-'32
Lt. Charles J. Cooke, Jr., '38
Lt. John F. Geraghty, Jr., '37, M.C.
Lt. John A. Bittig, ex-'45, U.S.M.C.R.
Lt. Joseph A. Federowicz, '38
S/Sgt. Arthur E. Bove, ex-'41
John T. Boyle, ex-'44
Lt. Joseph J. Kozlowski, '39, M.C.
Ensign Frederick Gerngross, '44

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
FREDERICK J. KOCH, NROTC .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Russell Welsh, '47
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Donald Sommer, '47
William Altenpohl, '47
Joseph D'Auria, '48
George O'Neill, '47

Sports Staff
Robert Manske, '48
William Thompson, NROTC
James McNamara, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
William Chester, '48
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Benjamin Reist, NROTC
Charles Cummings, NROTC
Harold Varani, '46
Thomas Heaps, NROTC
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, NROTC

Photography Staff
Charles Sibre, '48
Albert Derr, '46

Circulation Staff
Raymond Stone, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Joseph Sweeney, '46
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Peter McManus, '47
Thomas Donnelly, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - • - NOVEMBER 27, 1945

No Complacency

NOW THAT the guns of war have ceased their seemingly endless roar and peace has settled upon the war-shattered lands of Europe, perhaps a feeling of that old American complacency has descended upon us. We can now afford to scrap our excess planes and arms, we can now scream to our Congressmen that Europe and Japan no longer need an armed police force and therefore all our men should immediately be sent homeward; we can now openly condemn peacetime conscription because we are the victors along with our inconquerable allies who can force any insurgent nation to subjection.

It is true that we are protected from our former enemies who now lie beaten and defenseless, but are we protected from our allies — especially from our ally who takes what land she wants and sets up the form of government that is pleasing to her? Of course when Hitler and his fanatical fascists employed the same tactics, he was condemned and banned from international society as a dictator, one who lusted for land and one who could be stopped only by force. But in Russia's case? Ah, Russia is our ally, and so when Stalin decrees that Russia shall take over the government of Poland or Hungary or Bulgaria, we smile and gently look the other way.

It is only we in our position, possessing the secret to the atomic bomb, who can stop Russia — perhaps diplomatically, perhaps not. Russia knows our position and inwardly fears it, but it is only with the strict enforcement of the San Francisco Conference, backed with the threat of the atomic bomb that we can bring Russia from her high perch and take the gleam of power from her eyes.

—D. S.

Catholic Literature Is Valuable

THE VALUE of the Church's literature in the Catholic home cannot be overemphasized today mainly because of the secular press' attitude concerning morals in feature articles, news reports, and advertisements. It is to combat this influence of the secular press that the Church each year dedicates a week towards the advancement of the Catholic press in the home of the layman.

"A Catholic paper in every Catholic home" should be more than just a mere slogan, but rather an actuality. It is through the medium of the Catholic press that we can best assimilate the news of the world for a better understanding of political, social, religious, and other problems pertinent to our well-being. The news we get from the Catholic press has not travelled through the fogs and detours of prejudice, nor has it been subjected to various pressures which only tend to distort its fullness and objective value.

The newspapers, magazines, periodicals, and other forms of literature of the Church do not try to excuse or explain away any mistake made by one of its members by resorting to sophistry, but rather they come to the front and admit, though rather sorrowfully at times, what has actually happened.

At a minimum, it is estimated that the average American family spends approximately $.46 on secular newspapers alone during the course of one week. We can do no less if we purchase but one Catholic paper a week. Of course, the more literature and reading, the better understanding Catholics we become, and from this the stauncher and fuller we become in our religion.

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI and BILL KOERNER

Let's step out of character a minute and extend our deepest regrets to Professor Oakey upon the death of his father last week. This column sends condolences.

* * *

It was approximately twelve midnight and all was still when suddenly from out of the darkness came riding "Paul Revere" of Villanova, shouting "Grab your partners, take up the rugs, oil your joints and let's dance—the Holiday Hop is coming Saturday, December 15th." This column has received word that the sale of tickets for the Hop hasn't come up to par. Come on fellows, dig deep and let's support a worthy cause. Tickets are on sale at the Villanovan office for the mere sum of $3.00.

* * *

Now we know why Roland Higgs is able to afford a milk-shake daily—so would we if we had a young damsel to treat us to a movie and other luxuries.

* * *

It's amazing to note what feminity will do to stimulate certain members of the Circulation Staff to work with interest. We hear that Tom Donnelly did more circulating last Friday night with Flavia and Kaye than he's expected to do all year under our most efficient Circulation Manager Warren Sexton. You're welcome, Warren!

* * *

We hear that Harry Waters, the man with a suit for each day, was seen at the Chestnut Hill formal with a blind date. The blindness must have proved enlightening to Harry's eyes—he still smiles.

* * *

It can now be told why Bill Boyle has been neglecting the women at some of the local colleges. He is now spending his spare time in the E.E. lab as a handyman. To quote one of his profs: He is most efficient.

* * *

Steve Gasparovic and Jim Murphy, with harmony furnished by John Skorka, have formed their own glee club in O'Dwyer Hall. Steve's repertoire of marches seems to be endless. Talent scouts take note!

* * *

We finally found out the name of the girl who reads Bob Walcovy's

'CAT CAPERS

Continued on Page Four

HERE LIES
THE AWFUL TRUTH
1945

By TINKER HEAPS and BEN REIST

Greetin's all you gobblers (as in turkey gobblers) . . . how was the holiday, or rather, how did you like your chicken Thursday??? Too much of that stuff is bad for the system you know!!! . . . Considering that we are all now on the bloated side we figured that maybe just a little bit of relaxing gossip would turn the trick this week . . . so jest sit back and we'll see what we can do about nothin' . . .

* * *

This last week saw some more of our old frans come wandering back to this little oasis (just west of Philly) to inject that "I want to be free" spirit into our veins again! ex-Marine Craig arrived just in time to view all his old playmates engaged in the favorite Saturday morning game of "drill." He smiled consolingly though to those of us who are still marooned here, and I think I saw a lot of eyes grow green with envy at the sight of those civvy garbs . . . oh well, what with the lowering of points we will all be free within a few more years (yes, dear V-5'ers, that means you too) . . . AND, our distinguished visitor was none other Walt (I may come from Teaneck, but I still outweigh Walsh Rumpf; in case you don't recall who Walt is, he happened to be listed as one of the school's war casualties . . . mortally wounded in one of Rogallas. P. T. war games (????) . . . so there's a way to get out gang, just drop down and see Doc Lorenz and you can draw your white chit to go home . . .

* * *

Tears fell and smiles raged last week when two counter measures fell upon the campus. Yessir, all those lucky band "volunteers" were granted special liberty for their excellent showing at the last football game; funny thing though, there wasn't nearly as much cheering over their getting the extra liberty as there had been excess griping when they found they were selected to play. Guess the fellas ain't happy no matter what gives . . .

* * *

Our other news concerns a certain group of fellows who attended a social event over the weekend; we would go into detail about it but that would lead to the embarassment of fellows like McNamara, Marano, McDermott. In any event, the result is that everyone is shunning Danny Redmond, who was the sole instigator of the affair . . . get him to tell you, it will sound funnier . . . you can recognize him by the deep wounds he is wearing . . . and speaking of social events, here's another "hush-hush" story that leaked out. Seems as tho' Don (why do they call me Mortimer) Boos is also being called a "stinker" these days due to his part in a fouled up evening; uh-huh, he got a call from some lovely lasses who invited him and some nice boys up for a Thursday evening. Those nice (???) fellows were Gaskill, Wilson, Riccio, Phillips and Berge, plus others . . . but to their amazement they found that when they arrived at the meeting spot they were without wimmen (in other words they were flimmed, stood-up, stung, or what-have-you) . . . tch. tch. is our faces red??? Those nasty belles.

* * *

All votes for Zombie of the Week went to J. L. Flynn this week, for when you haven't even got a pulse count at 0700 in the morning you are really "daid." Coud be that his aspiring roomy is so medicine-minded that he is already contemplating work on a cadaver . . . smiles were predominent this week when the arrival of the Roach (ROTC) uniforms was substantiated . . . watcha gonna do with all that pocket room fellas?? . . . Someone was so mean as to say they merely dyed a handkerchief and tagged our friend Walsh's name to it (how very

THE AWFUL TRUTH

Continued on Page Four

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

Wondering where to find Harold V. Varani, we took one glance at the bulletin board to find, "There will be a meeting . . .", we looked no further for we knew no matter what activity, save maybe the D. P. E., we would find Villanova's first returning pre-war B. M. O. C.

Little Harold (he was little then) came into existence on September 20, 1920 in a suburb of Villanova known as Philadelphia. Pre-Villanova education included Childs Grammar School and Central High School before he embarked upon a journey to Villanova on the P. & W. in September, 1939. Like many who haven't been forewarned, he chose the field of engineering.

HAROLD VARANI

Wore a Dink

Take note, freshmen! Hal was oriented too. He had to wear a "dink" and roll up his cuffs. He's finally getting even as chairman of this year's orientation committee. To list the extra-curriculars in which Hal participates would be to list the extra-curriculars which Villanova has to offer.

He is a member of all publications, holds vice-presidency in his class, takes part in intramurals, but here is the catch . . . he only belongs to one fraternity . . . the Phi Kappa Pi and he's secretary of that. Hal should have graduated in June 1943 but not unlike many others Uncle Samuel intervened by giving him 21 months of Army life before he gets his degree in June, 1945.

Sells Malt Beverages

Varani's off campus activities and incidentally his source of revenue include a beer distributing business. No kidding, fellows! He even sells some of it to customers . . . and imagine, an engineer, too. Then, too, Villanova isn't the only campus upon which he is a B.M.O.C. His "little black book" is arranged geographically. However, there is a certain address in Dover, Del. which is fillled in, in red ink.

Looking under another one of those white caps which signifies membership in the local Gestapo we found William Koerner, another member of the Rosemont faculty who was scheduled to appear in this pillar. Bill is one of the original seven of the Rochester gang who plagued Alumni Hall back in the fall of 1942 when they were freshmen.

Another Bogey Man

Rochester first claimed Koerner (they've been sorry ever since) on Jan. 11, 1925. To show their appreciation they educated him at the local grammar school and later at Aquinas Institute. At this point they got fed up and shipped him off to Villanova and Villanova has been stuck ever since. Bill is another of those boys who hadn't been forwarned,, for he's a member of the school of civil engineering.

During his freshman and sophomore years, Koerner lived the quiet, simple existence an engineer is supposed to lead. He left school for a short while to work up in Rochester and then came back with a bang. Bill is the president of his class, a member of Orient-

MEET THE BOYS

Continued on Page Four

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

Why waste time on introductions? No introduction; we'll just plunge into the meat of the matter.

* * *

Who's Copying Whom

What's the action here?

The Chinese Version

A Chinese visitor says, "Funny people, you Americans. You take a glass. You put in sugar to make it sweet. You put in lemon to make it sour. You put in gin to warm it up. You put in ice to make it cold. You say, 'Here's to you'—then you drink it yourself."

* * *

The "Court Page"

To Be Drafted or Not To Be Drafted.

The contents of the "Copy Basket" this week show that a big source of controversy in the college field is the question of whether or not the United States should continue conscription.

At Georgetown "The Hoya Poll" distributed questionnaires which ran, "I, the undersigned students of College of Foreign Service School, am in favor of (or opposed to) peacetime military conscription." As could easily be guessed, the men who had completed their term of service—the discharged men—voted on the whole in favor of peacetime military conscription.

On the other hand the fellows of below-draft age and non-servicemen voted as being opposed to peacetime conscription.

However "The Fournier News" of Chestnut Hill seems to think that peacetime conscription is definitely "un-good."

In short, then, the majority of college students don't want peacetime military conscription. The exception of course is the returning veteran who on the whole wants the peacetime draft.

* * *

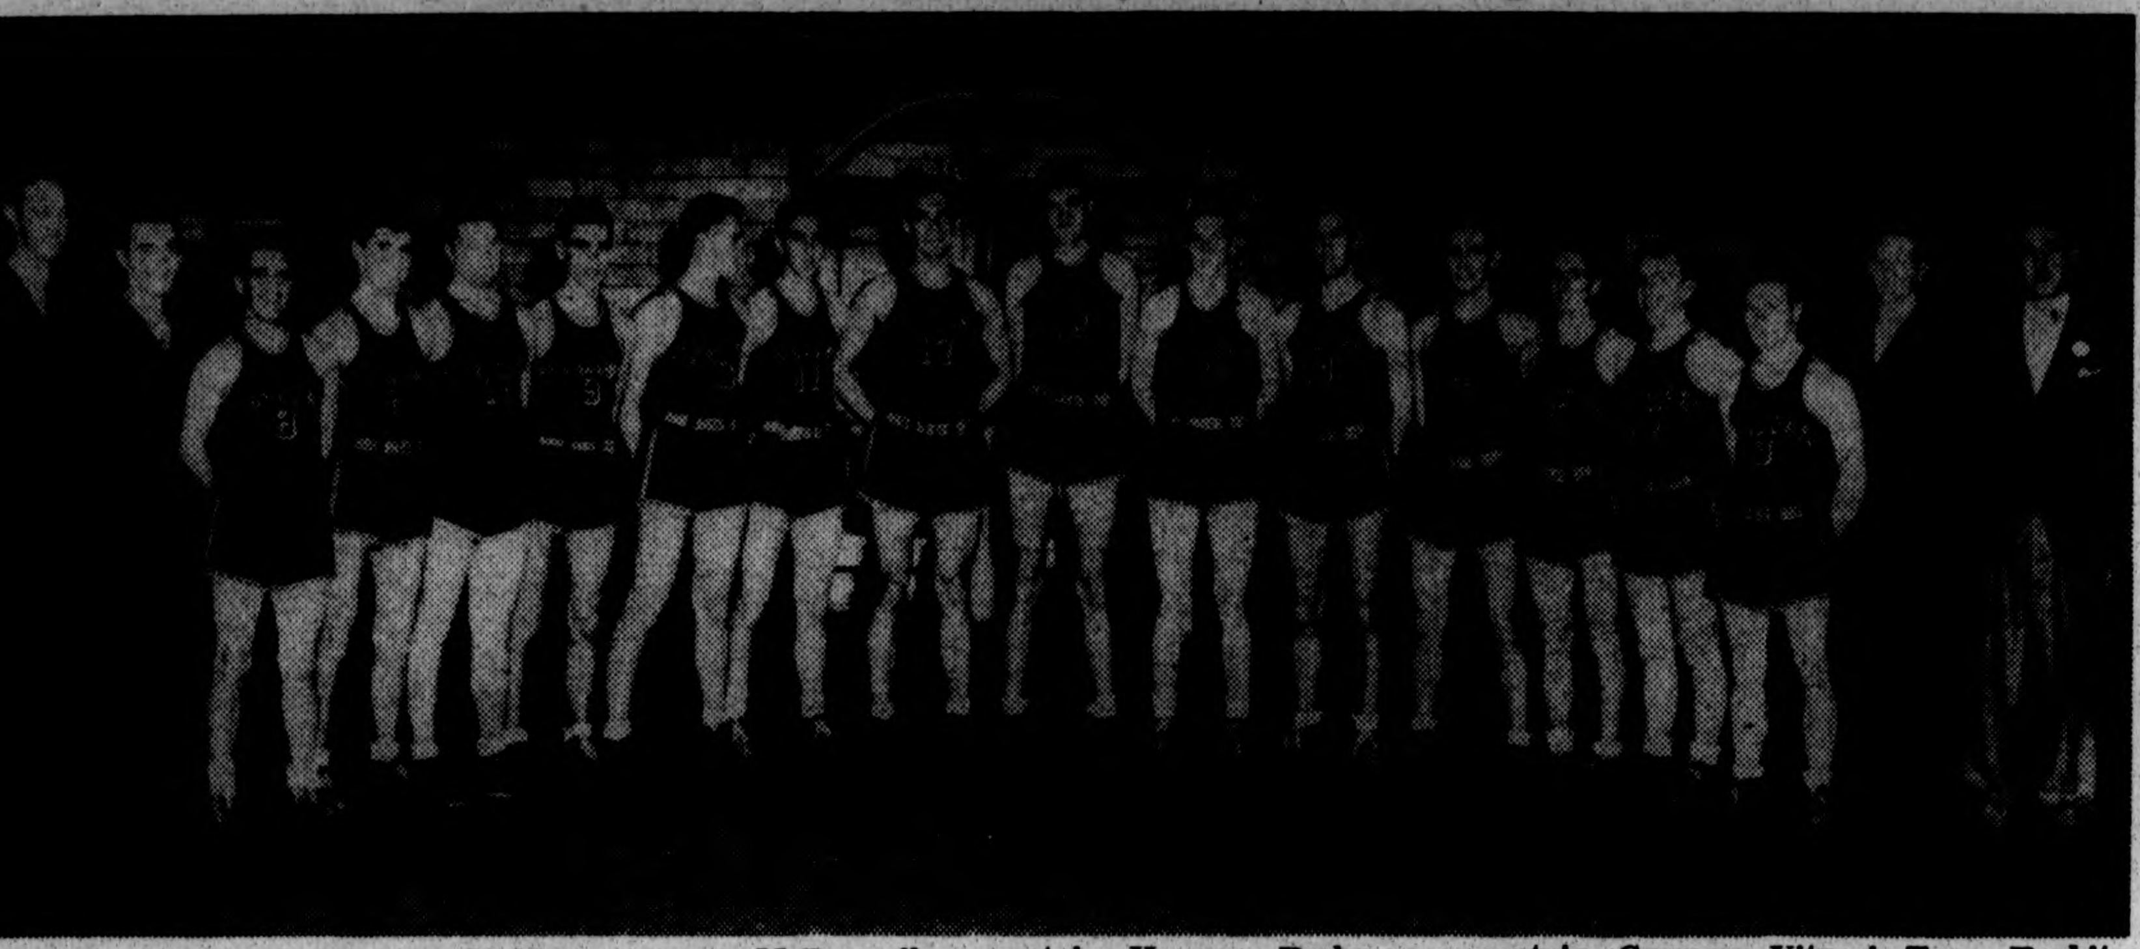
The Batak

"Out of the Copy Basket", you know, is a summary of the choicest pieces coming to the Villanovan by mail. However as you may not

OUT OF THE COPY BASKET

Continued on Page Four

Villanova's 1945-46 Varsity Basketball Squad



From left to right: Somers, mgr.; McNamara, mgr.; McDonnell, co-captain; Hannan; Brehmer, co-captain; Gorman; Vitucci; Tone; Reybitz; Sullivan; Fuglestad; Rice; Martin; Burr; Kline; Weber; Redmond, mgr.; Severance, coach.

Phi Kap Will Inaugurate Pin Season Saturday

Two Teams Needed To Complete Roster For Bowling League

Phi Kappa Pi's bowling league, which was to get under way last Saturday has been postponed until this coming week. However it is hoped that two more teams can be signed up before roll-off time this coming Saturday to fill out the league.

Since the league is run on the handicap basis bowlers should be willing to turn out for this season's league for it gives each team an equal chance to win games. Each game won will be counted one point for the team and each team will receive prize money for points at the end of the season, insuring everyone some return. It is compulsory for the members to pay their prize money each week whether they bowl or not.

New Teams Needed

The games will be rolled at the Rosemont Alleys each Saturday at 1 o'clock. Anyone interested in forming a new team should get in touch with William Thompson, NROTC, Room 209 Fedigan Hall or William Koerner, Simpson Hall early this week so preparations can be completed.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcats Play Georgetown In Court Opener Tomorrow

Hoyas Start First Season In Two Years; Have Victory In Only Game Between The Two Teams; Engle Makes Debut

The 1945-46 edition of the Villanova basketball team will be unveiled tomorrow night when the Wildcats tangle with Georgetown University in the Main Line Field House at 8:30 P. M. It will also be the Hoyas' first game and will mark their return to intercollegiate athletics after a war-time lapse of two years. In spite of this, they expect to field teams strong enough to re-establish the Hilltop as one of the biggest sporting centers in the nation.

Under the guidance of new coach, Kenny Engles, the Hoyas have been shaping up well in practice sessions to date. Stressing a fast-breaking, hard driving type of basketball, Coach Engles has an excellent executor in Joe Daly, erstwhile Fordham Prep flash, who is the play-maker and star ball-handler of the club. Ervin Ornstein, a returned vet who played under Elmer Ripley (present Notre Dame coach) as a freshman at Georgetown, is another play-maker who should garner his share of points. Tom Galla, a good man under the boards, and Paul Durkin, a fast-breaking guard, are others who should start. Several players are battling for the other position and the competition is so keen that some of the above-mentioned may be edged out of starting roles.

Georgetown Has Edge

The Wildcats, in addition to wanting to start out the season with a win, will be out to even up matters with the Hilltoppers. In their only previous encounter (1922), Georgetown emerged victorious by a 38-31 count. The Hoyas, however, are not strangers to Philadelphia sports fans. They have always had strong teams and have proved troublesome to Philadelphia colleges on numerous occasions in the past. In 1937-38, they were one of the two teams who were able to defeat Temple's national champions, the other being our own Villanova Wildcats.

In starting his tenth campaign as head basketball coach, Al Severance presents an array that is completely devoid of any members from last year's squad. However, he has two Army veterans returning from his 1942-43 quintet which lost but two games out of twenty-one. Of the two, Bob "Major" McDonnell will likely see more action, since he has been working out with the squad for the past few weeks. Joe Lord, the other veteran, hasn't had a chance to scrimmage as yet, but he will be certain to be in the starting line-up in the very near future.

Brehmer Good Shot

Leading the group of newcomers is aggressive Joe Brehmer, husky Marine trainee, who is a great play-maker and an excellent one-hand shot. Joe "Toad" Hannan, captain of last year's city championship South Catholic team, will be one of the Cats' main scoring threats. He is dangerous from the outside as well as from under the hoops on one of his fast breaks. The starting five will probably be completed by Bill Burr, an NROTC trainee, and pivotman Ed "Chet" Raybitz, discharged Marine flyer. Others who are sure to see plenty of action are Joe Gorman, a teammate of Hannan's at South Catholic, Mark Weber, diminutive hustler from Easton Catholic; and Carl Fugelstad, blond-haired forward from Staten Island. Several others have been improving rapidly and should be ready for plenty of work by the time the whistle announces the beginning of our court season.

VICTORY LOAN

Victory Loan Emblem

Brehmer, Hannan And Gorman Add Strength To Team

Marine Trainee And South Catholic Duo Expected To Provide Scoring Punch For Severance's Team

Tomorrow night the Wildcats play host to Georgetown's heralded quintet at the Field House. The spectators are in for a treat in the flashy, fancy-dan style of Marine trainee, Joe Brehmer. This spark-plug possesses that copyrighted "something" that belongs to only truly greats. His sincere modesty led him to shun an interview last week and we had to get his story from Coach Al Severance.

Joe played 3 years on the varsity basketball, football, and baseball teams while at East St. Louis High School, East St. Louis, Ill. He played guard on the basketball teams and his selection for All Conference honors highlighted a brilliant high school career. His high game of 31 points is still the standard in East St. Louis. The quarterback assignment on the gridiron was capably taken care of by Joe and he directed his team to the S. W. Conference Championship for 3 successive years as they rolled over all opposition in 21 straight games. Two straight years he was heralded as the season's outstanding player.

Captained Baseball Team

In a catcher's paraphernalia he again proved his athletic prowess and was elected captain of the diamond forces. He batted in the clean-up spot and was definitely instrumental in his team's reaching the state finals. Through the ropes he carried his 160 pound frame and battled his way to the championship in the High School Middleweight Division for 3 straight years. Four major varsity letters on championship caliber teams and All Conference selection in every sport—that is the record of Joe Brehmer.

On the basketball floor Joe's overhead shot from any range beyond the foul circle is deadly and in the playmaker's role from the weave he has no equal.

South Catholic Provides Two

Southeast Catholic High School in Philadelphia, the local arsenal of basketball talent, this year released the most dynamic one-two punch seen in high school ranks in many a year. Joe "Toad" Hannan and his court brother, Joe Gorman, burned up the Catholic League last

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

Continued on Page Four

League Opening Date Announced

Plans for the coming Intramural Basketball League are still in the formative stages. The opening date has been postponed because of the Faculty Dinner and is now tentatively set for Tuesday, December 4. Two games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and one as a preliminary to the varsity games on Wednesdays.

Co-Moderators Father Kemme and Father Girolami expect to announce the captains of the respective service and civilian teams in the League as well as the schedule next week. Application from a sixth team would be gratefully accepted.

Keen competition and spirited play has been traditional with this league and this year should be no exception.

SEEN From the Sidelines

General admission for this year's basketball games will be $0.74 for non-residents, $0.40 for service trainees, while all civilian students will be admitted free on presentation of their matriculation cards.

* * *

Ensign William L. (Bucky) Williams, captain of the 1944 Wildcat eleven, stopped by the campus last week on his way out to the Pacific Coast.

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

Fight and guts, yes, those two words come to my mind as I start my column this week. In a way those words are utterly delightful and charming but Villanova's opponents most certainly did not think so when they ran up against the young man in question at his familiar left guard position. The young man that I am going to describe and delineate on is none other than Eugene P. Alvarez.

Al happens to be one of those brotherly love fellows, having been born in North Philadelphia, September 22, 1927. In the Fall of 1941 he entered Northeast High School and though at the time he did not realize it he was also starting on a great football career.

Hard Charging Guard

There at North Al played freshman ball but decided not to go on with sports when a sophomore because it took up too much of his time. The old urge crept back however when he was a junior and without losing any time he went right out and earned a berth on the varsity squad. In his last year in high school his name was found in all the starting lineups.

It was during his last year that he really began to be recognized as a powerhouse and through this he was awarded honorable mention on the All-Catholic team.

In the Spring of 1945 Gene decided that he would enter into college life and Villanova was his well picked choice. He reported for Spring practice and at once gained recognition because of his direct fearlessness. He weathered the storm through the long grind of Summer practice and when the season started Al found himself on the second team.

Entering Army

In our first game it became apparent that Al was not a man to be kept on the second string, that is going in when the regulars tire out. From that very first game on Al was put into action when the going was tough. He had an uncanny way of breaking up drives and in no time this was noticed by the ever-watchful Ollie. It was at Marquette that his ferocious recklessness really paid off. However, when I really started him talking, he admitted that he thought he played his best game against Holy Cross.

EUGENE P. ALVAREZ

When the draftees leave Philadelphia November 29, Al will be among them. Al, who has a brother who was recently discharged from the service, will bring along his fight and guts, and if he ever has to use them, watch out!

Here at Villanova Al was taking a Commerce and Finance Course. He was a member of the Delta Pi Epislon Fraternity and of the Spanish Club.

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

ation Committee, Student Council, Phi Kappa Pi, A.S.C.E., Villanovan, Intramurals, Sanctuary Society, Dean of Rosemont et al.

That Certain One

"Red Dog" (we'll explain this name later) has singled out one of the Rosemont lassies as his very own. Appointment of himself as

WILLIAM KOERNER

Miss Joan O'Brien's chief beau caused quite a stir on the nearby campus, but the girls have gradually resigned themselves to their fate.

Mystery has always shrouded the origin of that Monicker, "Red Dog." Well it seems every so often Bill needs spending money and so do the other fellows at the hall. They indulge in business transactions of which he has his favorite choice. Well "Red Dog" is easier to pronounce than Bill, anyway.

Basketball Prospects

Continued From Page Three

season in convincing fashion. They will be on hand tomorrow night to help usher in the season and they should see plenty of action. Both played football and basketball in high school. Gorman was captain of the school eleven and was voted the outstanding end in the league. "Toad" provided the scoring punch from the halfback position on a mediocre team.

In basketball the two were in a class by themselves. They lifted South Catholic to the League Championship in 1943-44 and swept through the P.C.I.A.A. playoffs to acclaim their school the Catholic State Champion. The following season found Toad following a family tradition of being captain of the court team. Both of his brothers held the reins before him in 1939 and 1941 and both were All-City selections. The nucleus was still there so South Catholic repeated their record of the previous season and landed the League Championship. When they defeated the Public League Champs at Convention Hall last winter they were recognized as City Champs and another trophy was added to the already bulging show case of that great school. Joe Gorman went on to win the School Athletic Award. Repeat nomination in the All-Catholic teams in both football and basketball is a feat rarely accomplished in the local area.

Toad's greatest assets are an amazing eye on set shots and blazing speed on fast breaking plays. Gorman controls the back boards and possesses a remarkable sense of pace and timing.

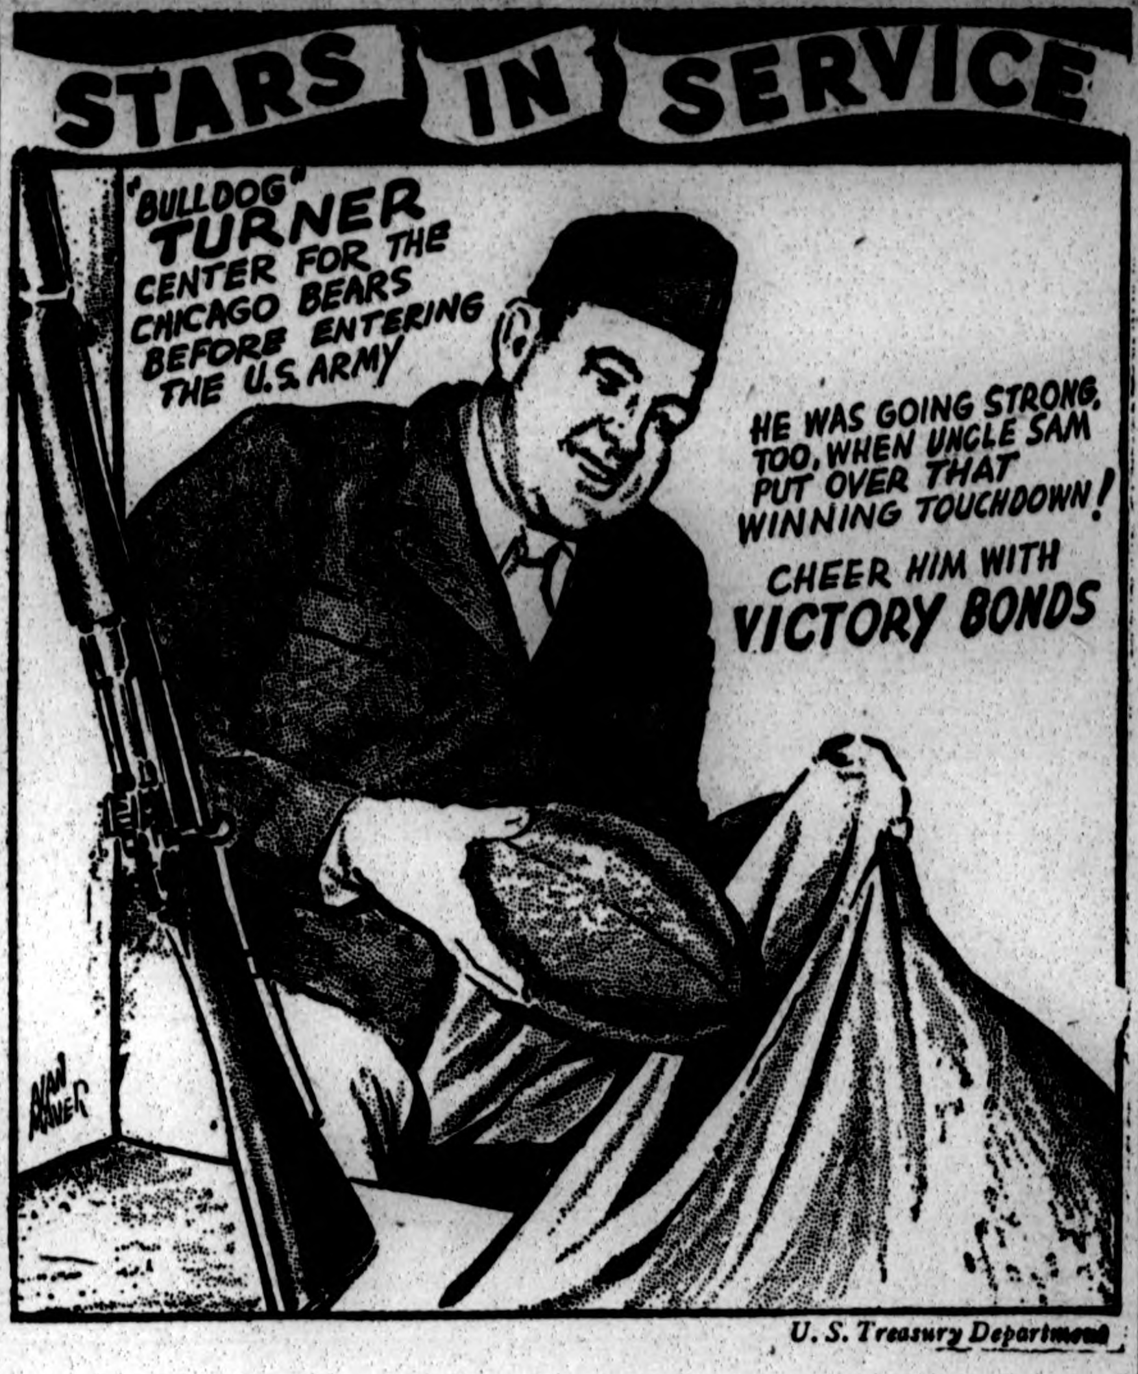
Dr. Buztinza

Continued From Page One

drug he replied, that it was caused by the poor quality and insufficiency of last summer's corn steep liquor from which the mold is made. After the completion of his study in December he will return to Europe by ship.

Among those present were the President, Vice President and the Secretary of the Spanish Club, in addition to the regular Spanish class.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570



STARS IN SERVICE
"BULLDOG" TURNER CENTER FOR THE CHICAGO BEARS BEFORE ENTERING THE U.S. ARMY
HE WAS GOING STRONG, TOO, WHEN UNCLE SAM PUT OVER THAT WINNING TOUCHDOWN!
CHEER HIM WITH VICTORY BONDS
ALAN MAVER

U. S. Treasury Department

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

know, much that is not collegiate comes along with the "Ramblers," "Tatlers", and "Hoyas." Here is an interesting topic from the "Knockerbocker Keekly," the Netherland's Magazine. This article was written by Tassilo Adam, former N.E.I. Government Enthologist.

Mr. Adam tells of meeting a Batak chiefstain who refused to allow Mr. Adam to take his photograph. To this refusal Mr. Adam said, Bayak don't get angry! So far nobody I wanted has escaped my lens, and I will get you too—dead or alive."

Three days later, early in the morning, a Batak from Berastagi knocked at my door and shouted: "Master, the Si Bayak is dead! This night, quite suddenly, he died in his house."

Astounded, I asked, "What do you think he died of?"

"Well, you told him some time ago that if he didn't want to pose for you you would get him anyhow, dead or alive. Now he is dead."

Consequently Mr. Adam had to go to the Chiefstain's funeral, and here is the gory detail of the ceremony.

"I crept through the narrow opening of the dark housee, filled with thick, foul air and lighted only with small oil lamps: an awful, mysterious atmosphere. There I stood before the corpse. It was covered with many clothes, near its head sat the Guru, on the right side many women, all sobbing and screaming as I calmly approached and grasped the widow's hand, saying, "The sudden death of the Si Bayak fills me with grief. He was a great chieftain, highly esteemed all over the country."

In the meantime the house was packed with curious people, the air and the heat unbearable. I took away one cloth after another in order to see the dead chief once more; the women sobbed louder. The face of the Si Bayak had a peaceful expression. In the dim light his clear-cut features assumed more than their usual beauty. His entire body was red, covered with the ugly betel juice that the sorcerer had spat on it so that no evil spirits should touch it. Since the Batak believe that these evildoers are especially active in trying to seize the tondi of the deceased, I had to cover the body quickly with the weavings. Then the Guru said, "Sir, we have decided to cremate him and we ask you to stay until he is turned to ashes." Deeply moved by this proof of friendship, I promised to do so.

"The Karo Batak, up to the first years of this century, neither buried nor cremated their deceased. They erected somewhere on the open plain a simple sort of scaffold of bamboo and rattan. The corpses were left naked in the open air, about four feet off the ground. When completely decayed—or partly or wholly eaten by birds and wild animals—the skulls were taken to the griten, the miniature house, where they were kept indefinitely. After the subduing of the Batak lands by the Netherlands Government, the natives were obliged to bury or burn the bodies. However, cremations were rarely heard of and the burning of the Si Bayak's body was the only one I ever attended."

Another interesting and sadistic peculiarity of the Batak is their tooth-filing ceremony. Here is Mr. Adam's description of this ugly operation—

"When a white man first makes the acquaintance of the Batak, he is shocked by the horrible mutilation of the mouths of these people. The teeth are chiseled off, filed flat to the gums; in addition to the operation, the stumps are blackened. Considering the ugly habit of chewing betel which produces a scarlet red juice, often purposely smeared all around the mouth, one is frightened, or at least disgusted and horrified, by the sight of a Batak mouth.

In many records of the Batak the only information we get about the tooth-filing is that "they don't want to have sets of white teeth like a dog". I never acceped this statement at its face value but it took me almost 18 years to find the true explanation. The main food of the Batak is rice. Like all living creatures—whether man, animals, plant or even stones—the rice has its tondi, a "soul". Since rice is so important to the Batak, they evaluate its tondi as one of the strongest, most powerful of all the ghosts and spirits living with man.

Such spirits must be respected and venerated. They require flattery, offerings, festivals. Offending, insulting, frightening or scaring the good spirits may result in all kinds of evil, diseases, even death.

If rice is to be eaten, the white and sharp teeth would frighten the rice tondi; consequently, they have to be cut and filed and blackened.

Why then do the boys and girls have to undergo this cruel, extremely painful operation at the time of puberty when they are about 12 years of age?

The Batak have no distinct conception about the matter of their tondi, of good spirits and evil ones, the begus. They believe that the tondi of a child becomes "harder" with the change of the milk teeth into the permanent ones. When the youngsters arrive at the state of puberty they are accepted in the community of man and woman. However, a great sacrifice is necessary—the tooth filing. To endure this ghastly operation, which lasts for four to five hours, by withstanding the pain with not the slightest sign of emotion, is considered the final proof of maturity."

Mr. Adam closes with, "Before I left Sumatra, the Batak arranged a great festival in one of the largest villages of the Karo lands. Many chieftains were there. When I was about to leave, they accompanied me for the last time to the entrance of the village. There, the eldest of them grasped and said with emotion, "Sir, we thank you for all that you have done for us. Who will be our father from now on?"

Well that's all for this article. While in the scientific frame of mind we might leave you with a little gem dug up in the course of some Anatomy reading (N.B. Doc McClain) — Did you know that the sweat of Kangeroos is red while that of the South African Antelope is blue. Get some white in there and we'd have Old Glory)?

Augustinian Guild

Continued From Page One

make Town Hall literally flow over with Christmas Cheer. Rumor has it that everything from Christmas trees to mistletoe will adorn the ballroom of "Ye Olde Town Hall." However, the committee is at present rather short on manpower and the services of any volunteer will be greatly appreciated.

A. S. C. E. To Hold Meeting Tomorrow

There will be a meeting of the Villanova Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers on Wednesday, November 28 at 1:00 P. M. in Room 102.

THE MOST HONORED
WATCH ON THE CAMPUS
Longines
THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10
WORLD'S FAIR
GRAND PRIZES,
28 GOLD MEDALS
AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE

The Awful Truth

Continued From Page Two

cruel) . . . not only that but they had to take it in at the waist . . . Yaknow what else happened of late . . . well, no one noticed Lil Walt Little leaving the mess (some adjectives fit so well—so very well) hall Monday and all his buddies (this too is doubtful) searched all the empty soup bowls for hours, figuring that the little fellow might have slipped and drowned . . . so now they have assigned him an orderly who takes him to the washrooms and . . . back again every day.

* * *

Our detective minded pal, "Pinky" McDermott was caught napping the other evening when spying on some of the boys; seems as though he was unable to hear their conversation with the door closed so he attempted opening it and was dectected; funny that he couldn't hear too, 'cause all the time there was no glass in the transom . . . once more he backed blushingly away . . . He had to be excused though, for he was still reeling with shock from his Saturday night date; gad, . . . "Father Time" Koch is all smiles these days, for after being notified at the front office that shortly his sentence was over and he could go home he couldn't hold them back . . . he really doesn't look to be 29, tho', does he???? What these latest shaving lotions won't do for some people . . . and also smiling last week was happy .George (Gruesome) Miller, but his smile was a mite more costly; seems as though Chris saw the smile too and asked George to start running (oh, those ugly ugly words . . . so (obedient as ever) Moose Mather started off jauntily. Have you ever seen him jaunt? Well, it resembles a jelly fish rolling off a pier (very picturesque) . . . all arms and legs . . .

* * *

And with that we must close gang (the thought of George sickened us), so as our friend the linguist, Cavey, would say . . . Eso es!!! . . . Nove smotz ka pop??!!??

'Cat Capers

Continued From Page Two

morning paper. It's Lorraine Constable. Not only that, she reads his Psych. book, too.

* * *

Howie Groetzinger is going to Reading too much for his own good—or Betty's either.

* * *

The Senior Belle Air pictures, taken a few weeks ago were returned to the boys last week, and the phrase on every senior's lips is, "Golly, to think that I was a blue ribbon baby!" Don't feel too bad fellows, they haven't been touched up yet—it may help.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M.
Daily; Except Wednesdays and
Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL
CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special
Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban
Transportation Co.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
Member International Tailoring
Co. N. Y.

ICE
Aristocrat
CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 16 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1945

VILLANOVA COLLEGE
LIBRARY
VILLANOVA, PA.

Sp. Masciantoni Discharged from Naval Service

Director Of Navy Band To Resume Teaching And Coaching Activities

Last Friday Al Masciantonio, Sp. (A) 2/c was relieved of his duties in the Naval Training Program and was transfered to the Philadelphia Navy Yard to await his discharge from the Navy under the new point system.

Al assumed his duties in May of this year as a Physical Training Instructor for the Navy. Aside from these duties, Al devoted much of his time and energy to the improvement of the Navy Band, which has won much praise for its activities at the Navy drills and inspections. Last Wednesday night at the Georgetown-Villanova basketball game, Al made his farewell appearance as conductor of the Band.

AL MASCIANTONIO, Sp (A) 2/C

After being discharged from the service, Al expects to return to Mount Carmel Township High School, as coach of basketball, baseball and football. In conjunction with his coaching he will also teach several Commerce and Finance subjects.

Al Masciantonio received his education at Holy Cross and Beckley College. While at Beckley he was voted the most valuable player on the football team and earned four letters in sports. A year after graduation he signed a contract to coach his Alma Mater, Mount Carmel Township High School in the four sports in which he starred four years previously. Two of his basketball teams won the intersectional championships.

Al joined the Navy in March 1944 and after boot training was sent to Physical Instructors School in Bainbridge, Md., where he received the rate of Sp. 3/c. After his training he was transferred to to Deland Naval Air Base where he acted as assistant coach of basketball as well as physical training instructor. While at Villanova he received an advance in rating to second class.

Rosemont Will Hold Inter-Racial Meeting

Miss Delores Moman, Assistant to the Dean of studies at Cheyney State Teachers College, Cheyney, Penna., will be the guest speaker at the Inter-Racial meeting to be held in Good Counsel Hall, Rosemont College, Sunday, December 9, at 2:30 P. M. Miss Moman, a negress, who studied at the Catholic University of America and received her M.A. from the University of Pennsylvania, will discuss her experiences and activities in the promotion of good-fellowship between the white and colored races.

Miss Betty Lowe, President of the Commission of National Federation of Catholic College Students, has announced an invitation for this occasion to the faculty and students of Villanova.

Music Seminar Will Present Tschaikowsky

Group To Enjoy Famous Composer's Little Russian Symphony

When the Music Seminar convenes today for its weekly meeting it will enjoy the music of Tchaikowsky's Second Symphony in C minor. This is sometimes referred to as the "Little Russian Symphony." Music lovers are familiar with his Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Symphonies, but few have ever heard the Second. It is in this way that the Seminar can acquaint the student with some of the lesser known works of the famous composers which are as good, if not better, than the well-known ones.

The Second Symphony was written in 1872, but through the failure of the publisher, it did not reach the public except for one performance in 1873. Seven years after he had written it, in 1879, Tchaikowsky voiced his thanks that the publisher had failed him and proceeded to revise it. It was a rather drastic revision, but in the end, he was satisfied.

Everyone is invited to these Seminars every Tuesday, 12:40-1:20 P. M., in Room 215 Mendel, and those who cannot attend for the whole period should feel free to come for any part of it.

Annual Triduum To Commence In Chapel Tonight

In preparation for the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, a Triduum will be held in the College Chapel beginning Tuesday evening and ending Friday morning. These three days of prayer will be opened Tuesday evening, December 4, with the Litany, a sermon by Father Crawford, followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The sermons on Wednesday and Thursday will be delivered by Fathers Burke and Girolami, respectively.

Father Grimes, the College Chaplain, exhorts all to attend these services. The Feast of the Immaculate Conception, the patron of the United States, will be celebrated for the first time in the new Era of Peace. It is fitting that these three days be set aside to pay special tribute to Our Lady.

Confessions will be heard after the services each evening and during the 7:00 and 7:30 Masses each morning.

Smoker Will Be Held By Vets Club

On Thursday evening, December 6, the Veterans Club of Villanova will hold a Smoker for the purpose of initiating new members to the club. The affair will take place in the Blue Room of the Villanova Field House at 8:00 P. M. A program of entertainment is now under way and promises to present a pleasant evening.

All veterans now in attendance at Villanova, both resident and day students, are requested to attend. President Harry Edwards expressed the desire for "full cooperation in order to foster a bond of acquaintance between the old and new members, and to create a spirit of comradeship necessary for the success of the organization."

Membership cards will be presented to all members present at the smoker.

Father McKee Urges Students To Attend Games

Finest Teams Obtainable Scheduled For Wed. Night Home Games

Villanova's first basketball game of the season was anticipated by Fr. McKee's address to the Civilian Student body last Wednesday afternoon. The purpose of the talk, as outlined by Fr. McKee, was to stimulate mass attendance at all future home games.

Father McKee said in part: "Now that the war is over, and the student enrollment has increased impressively, there is no reason to expect a small attendance at any home game. With great difficulty the Athletic board has scheduled the best teams available and has arranged a program that will best serve the student body. Double headers have purposely been avoided, for the convenience of students with regards to extra fees, transportation, etc.

Expects Large Attendance

"Most of our home games will be played on Wednesday evenings, which in effect are to be Villanova Nights exclusively. Our gym is one of the finest in the locality with ample room and comfortable ventilation, and there should be no excuse for future poor attendance. You can show your appreciation to both the team and the Athletic Board by consistently attending the home games."

Father McKee ended his discourse with the words: "I want to see every civilian student at the game tonight and at all future home games."

The words of the Vice-President held enough weight to lead the students through the rainy weather of the opening night to the portals of the well-filled Field House.

CAMP TO CAMPUS

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

S 1/C Jim Plunkett, now stationed at Sampson Naval Training Station, after visiting the Campus returned to the base to take up duties under the Provost Marshal on Sunday. Jim saw the opening game of the basketball season and thoroughly enjoyed the shooting of Joe Lord. Another visitor, S 1/C Dick Carli ex-baseball manager on a recent stopover told us that he had re-enlisted for a three year period.

Pride of Simpson Hall, Pvt. Bill Yeager, on furlough from Keesler Field, Mississippi, spent a couple of days here and never left the "good old sack" until lunch time. Pvt. Dom Longo is now stationed at Rutgers where he is taking an Engineering Course. Dom said that he is very glad to be able to get home every weekend.

H.A. 1/C Dick D. Dalrymple has just been transferred to the Philadelphia Naval Hospital and stopped in to say "Hello" on his way there. Dick appeared to be in fine shape and to quote his opinion of the Navy, "The Navy is like a vacation from Villanova."

Another H.A. 1/C, Joe Borsellino, on a recent visit said that as soon as he leaves the Navy he will return to his pre-med studies. At present Joe is at the Chelsea Naval Hospital near Boston.

Error Of Omission

The editor of the Villanovan wishes to apologize for having omitted the name of Warren Fox, ex '45, from the list of the Villanova College Honor Roll printed in last week's edition of this paper. Fox died Nov. 1, being the last of the college's fifty-one gold star men of World War II.

Posthumous Tribute Paid To Lt. Herman Drizen

Taps Sounded Prior To Villanova - Georgetown Game; Father And Brother In Attendance

By DONALD SOMMER

On Wednesday, November 28, during the period preceding its game with Georgetown University, Villanova paid tribute to the late Lt. Chuck Drizen. Some two thousand people stood solemnly for the sounding of taps and the Navy Band's rendition of the National Anthem.

At the far end of the gym, on the stage, a huge American flag, illuminated by the foot lights, symbolized what "Chuck" Drizen had fought and died for. In the middle of the court the five members of the Villanova varsity stood rigidly silhouetted against the light reflected by the flag—each man thinking about the fellow who only a few years before had starred on that same court and had been the friend and teammate of two of them. This was the dedication ceremony and the game to be played in honor of Chuck Drizen who had starred on Villanova's basketball court, become a hero on Iwo Jima, and had later died in the same battle.

LT. HERMAN (Chuck) DRIZEN

Lt. Herman "Chuck" Drizen, who entered Villanova in 1940, became a member of the first contingent of Marine V-12 Trainees when that program started at Villanova. While at Vilanova Drizen became well-known as a member of the famous '42-43 basketball team which he sparked on to nineteen wins and only two losses. Playing with him on this team were Bob Kelly, Bill Woods, "Major" McDonald, and Joe Lord. Lord was present at the ceremony and played in the game.

Enters Marine Corps

After finishing his course at Villanova, Drizen then went on to Parris Island to take his "boot" training. Completing his training at Parris Island, Drizen was then sent to Quantico where, after another period of training, he was commissioned as a second lieutenant.

It was on Iwo Jima that Lt. Drizen became a hero and was decorated for his bravery. Cut off from his own lines a quarter of a mile behind the enemy lines, Drizen in charge of thirteen men, fought his way back to his own lines ducking from hill to hole, and dodging both Japanese fire and American bombing and strafing. While fighting his way back to his own lines, Drizen and his men killed thirteen Japs and destroyed three Jap tanks.

A few weeks later, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Drizen of 4943 Frankford av. Phila., were informed that their son had been killed in action on Iwo on March 6th, while fighting in the same battle in which he had proven his bravery only a few days before.

Lt. Drizen is one of the 51 Villanovans who died in the service of our country.

Good Counsel Hall Undergoes Repair

Rooms To Be Redecorated And Will Be Occupied By Resident Students Next Semester

Good Counsel Hall heads the list of improvements being made on the campus this month. Many repairs are to be made in the building including the priests' dining room and the roof, new concrete fire tower and dormitory rooms.

Located on the first floor of Good Counsel, the priests' dining room will be redecorated and refinished. Further improvements will be a new wooden floor, better lighting fixtures and new dining hall equipment.

The upper floors of the hall will also be renovated in similar order, with new flooring added throughout. A modern concrete fire tower will be built in the northeast corner of the building, with a door opening out to the campus drive. Rooms in the building are being completely refinished and redecorated, and will be used by resident students. These rooms will probably be ready for occupancy in time for the next semester.

Metallurgy Lab Moved

Also included in the repairs are a new roof to both the hall and the sallyport between Mendel Hall and the Monastery. Recently the metallurgy lab was removed from the basement of this building to make way for these improvements. The lab is temporarily located in the basement of the monastery.

Good Counsel Hall is part of the Old College Monastery erected and dedicated in 1901. The hall survived the disastrous fire in the summer of 1932, and is the only part of the original building that is standing.

A. S. C. E. Members Ellect Officers

Villanova's Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers convened for its first meeting of the Winter Term Wednesday evening. The rseults for the election of officers were as follows:

John W. Coyne—President

Pvt. S. M. Korneff, USMCR—Vice-President.

Pvt. I. J. Talbot, USMCR—Secretary-Treasurer.

Pvt. J. J. Stewart, USMCR—Student Council Rep.

A.S.C.E. has tentative plans for holding a smoker the latter part of January. An interesting and educational program for the affair is now being prepared.

Future plans will be discussed at the next meeting of the Chapter, which will be on Wednesday, December 5.

IN MEMORIAM

The students and faculty of Villanova wish to extend condolences to Mr. William C. A. Henry on the recent death of his mother, Mrs. Bridget Henry. Mrs. Henry died last Thursday and her funeral was held yesterday morning.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Russell Welsh, '47
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Donald Sommer, '47
William Altenpohl, '47
Donald M. Collins, '47
George O'Neill, '47

Sports Staff
Robert Manske, '48
William Boyle, '46
James McNamara, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
William Chester, '48
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Benjamin Reist, NROTC
Charles Cummings, NROTC
Harold Varani, '46
Thomas Heaps, NROTC
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, NROTC

Photography Staff
Charles Stere, '48
Albert Derr, '46

Circulation Staff
Raymond Stone, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Joseph A. Doughty, '48
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Peter McManus, '47
Thomas Donnelly, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 17, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - DECEMBER 4, 1945

Recreation Room Needed

AS ONE of the outlets of undergraduate expression, the Villanovan considers it its duty to call attention to the interests of the college students. Thus we would like to bring to light the increased necessity for a day-room.

During free hours the day-hop must spend his moments devoted to relaxation and social contact either in the Pie Shop, the library, or the room of some overly hospitable resident. Now these are fine places, but their purposes are not those which a day-room could fulfill.

Nor are the day-hops alone in this movement. The need of a reception room for entertaining guests of the residents is sorely felt. A pleasant and friendly atmosphere in these meetings would contribute to the general prestige of the college, and enhance the pride of the student in his school.

Would this be a novel innovation in college life? Not, at least, in Philadelphia! The social life of all colleges and universities in the surrounding district centers about the day room.

We sincerely hope that the college will consider this need when they begin their building program in the near future.

—D. M. C.

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

Yes, you lucky people, you're going to laugh this week. Here we have a wonderful cross-section of the best that college papers have to offer. Get ready to laugh now. Are you ready? O.K. Start laughing.

• • •

Dear Editor:

I am a girl who is an excellent student in school—I only failed three of my major subjects. My problem is: will I get the Penn or Temple scholarship?

Ima Brain.

Dear Ima Brain:

Why worry about these scholarships. There is a new scholarship being offered for girl of your unusual ability. Send in your application to Mortimer Hall, Snerd University, Blockhead, N. Y.

Editor.

—The Criterion.

Oh, this one will kill you . . .

"Ode to Ladies"

I think that I shall never see
A girl refused a meal that's free,
A girl with hungry eyes not fixed
Upon the drink that's being mixed;
A girl who doesn't like to wear,
A lot of junk to match her hair;
But girls are loved by guys like me,
'Cause I don't like to kiss a tree.

—The Capstan.

Grasp something, a good stout wall, a rope, anything; because this one will knock you for a loop.

Well-dressed man, with a cigar in his hand, falling through the air from a plane: "Well! That wasn't the washroom after all."

The Tatler.

"Your wife used to be terribly calm and controlled. What cured nervous, but now she's perfectly her?"

"It was the doctor who did it. He told her that her kind of nervousness was the result of advancing age."

—The Talter.

• • •

Well by this time everyone's rolling in the aisles, naturally. Thus we close once again this peerless column. Don't let it get you down tho; we'll be back next week with more. I'm sorry tho that I haven't got anything on my old home tribe (See last week's—"The Batak"). But anyway here's a little thought to hold you till next time—"Blessed are they who sit on brass tacks, for they will surely rise."

• • •

Sorry, we're not through. Now, Dave (Editor) wants to recall to you a little something from the last week's Villanovan. Please laugh; Dave thinks it's funny (we're really all out for laughs this time, thanks to our boys Fred and Dave).

Well here's the piece. As you remember, last week's front page had an article called "Music Seminar to Resume Activities." (Hold your sides cause here it is—oh you'll die laughing).

Dave's Pet Few Lines

"The feature number of the program will be Beethoven's Sonata in F minor, for the piano, better known as the 'Appasionata Sonata.'"

Gad, Dave, that was funny.

Laugh! Come on laugh; he's the editor.

Meet the Boys

By CHARLES CUMMINGS and CARROLL ANDREWS

Today we should like to push around Foster Weaver Blough. On him we couldnt' miss. An introduction really isn't necessary, but according to the rules and regulations, it must be done, besides he wants his picture in the paper. Foster was born in Windber, Pa. in the year 19 and 20, on December 14th. To prove his education as an electrical engineer has taught him to use his head, he provides the following statement of fact, and we quote, "I waz very young when born." That's our boy who said that. To get back to the story, he attended the Windber public schools and Windber High. In somewhat of a rut wasn't he? In high school he was engaged in various activities: the band, the dramatic club, the band, the Hi-Y club, the band, and finally was made student conductor of the band.

FOSTER W. BLOUGH

Like a good American, he joined the Marine Corps on April 4, 1942 and was stationed at Parris Island four months in the Military Police company and the the quartermaster depot, which netted him one of the finest collections of men's clothing to be found on the campus—if you go for those flashy green tweeds. Then came Villanova. No, then came Blough to Villanova as one of the original, yes, the original V-12's on July 1, 1943. Since then he has pursued many things besides his electrical engineering curricula, but we won't go into them here. College life has found Pvt. Blough plenty busy. His efforts in the Dramatic Club, the band, and the AIEE have been never ending. His perserverance has been unceasing. With a build like that, how could you help but have a lot of energy?

We then asked our subject, "How about the gals?" "Gals, what's gals?" To which, "Who are you trying to kid!" But it seems that the women are a very small part of Foster's life, fool that he is. He doesn't have any nicknames either. The words just haven't been discovered that will do justice to our boy Foster. There he is, boys, look him over, and meet Foster Weaver Blough, Pvt. USMC.

To keep peace in the unit, we thought we would throw in for your perusal Donald Tice Knauss. Now there is a character; Don was first seen wandering aimlessly around the streets of Quakertown, Pa., March 18, 1926. His first words were, "Gee, if I had been born only two years and nineteen days sooner, I would have been a Leap Year baby." But dispite his handicap, Don labored on. When he was a mere lad, he was run over by a steam engine. This left such an impression on his mind, he decided to make it his life's work. Not getting run over by locomotives, but Mechanical Engineering.

Don struggled through his early years in the Quakertown public schools and by the time he was ready for high school, high school was ready for him. They put him to work on their football team, as a last resort; on the photographer's staff of the school paper, which accounts for the good picture he takes; and also pushed him around in the Hi-Y club. "Pushed him around," that's from the French meaning, pushez le untoit, which means—but who

MEET THE BOYS
Continued on Page Four

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI and BILL KOERNER

Last week marked the start of the Villanova basketball season. The attendance was good, considering the foul weather but cheering was far under expectation. Father McKee worked hard to arrange a good schedule for us, bringing in as many big clubs as possible. Now it's up to us to show our appreciation by backing up Al Severence and the boys. Let's all bring our dates and bat 1.000 by attending all home games. Who knows! Al may let up on PP. T.?

• • •

Jack: "Say, Bill, are you going to the Rosie Prom?" Mr. Boyle replied, "Oh No! I've decided to give up those few hours of music and loveliness for a wonderful time wtih electricity." Really, Bill, we didn't know that electricity had that effect on you.

Lou Alverez is still brooding over the ordeal fate played on him. Rose Marie, the girl of his dreams, emptied his beautiful world when she invited some other Doan Juan to her school prom.

All Villanovans missing a small section from the first page of last week's Villanovan see B. L. Brice. B. L. is now selling copies of "How to Be Elected without Influencing Friends in One Easy Lesson."

• • •

Rosemont Post-Mortems

We hope that all the boys who placed their trust in Jim Riley when they escorted blind dates last week were pleased with Jim's match-making. If you have any kickbacks, Jim will gladly give you a rain check for a future event or your time refunded.

• • •

Questions of the Week:

Where is Villanova's Brown Prep? Stay with our column (puhleeze) next week, same day, for the answer.

What fascination does Dave Ryan (our deah editor) get out of dropping a lump of sugar with such precision and grace in his coffee? Do not look in this column next week for the answer.

Why haven't the boys been going up to Bridgeport any more? Have they their colleges mixed up?

Did the members of the basketball team meet with any success from scribbling their names and call numbers in the books left by the Rosie gals during last week's practice. Ask them!

• • •

The irony of it was when John Ciotola, a member of the Comic and Frolic clan, grabbed Ferguson's head by mistake thinking it a bowling ball. The mistake was not discovered until Fergie, head and all, was half way down the alley. A hint to Fergie—Why not invest seventy-five cents (that's money) and have your hair cut?

Speaking about fidelity and all that sort of lingo, what makes certain people speak of others in their darker moments and yet he himself spells Margie E-L-L-E-N. Did we hear someone say Di-Giacomo?

Why does Carl Ungaro take his

'CAT CAPERS
Continued on Page Four

HERE LIES
THE AWFUL TRUTH
1945

By TINKER HEAPS and BEN REIST

"Nove smotz ka pop" gang (which doesn't mean—ah, your uncle's mustache) once more the talk of G. I. Gossiping comes our way, and per usual we have been busy beavering hither and yon in hopes of obtaining some of the interesting facts for delivery to the ears. Of course we aren't responsible for all that comes out in the final wash, 'cause this sheet goes through so many fatal jobs of censorship that we never know ourselves what we'll be reading come every Tueday edition . . . patience is a great virtue, no doubt—but who cares about being virtuous?? . . . Our last issue missed noting that our new instructor Lt. Hecht had been taken ill (seems as tho' he might have timed it a little better for our sake), but we are all in hopes of his being back with us at this writing. If you think we are kidding just ask his Navigation classes . . . but of course, you just can't tell when what is gong to happen around here. If you don't eat, malnutrition sets in and if you do eat you wish it were malnutrition that resulted. We aren't saying that "belly aches" don't arise from other sources, but we are also betting that none of you will argue as to the cause . . . keerect? . . .

* * * * * * *

Current ribbing sessions on the campus seem to be all directed toward the new ROTC emblems that the boys are wearing with the boys in green making the loudest "haw haws" . . . forgetting for the moment what a lovely picture they make in those nice green skivvies themselves. Can't seem to understand how some of the corps can be so petty when there are examples like Cavey, Eisenhart, Little, Autrey and others about, who know more about the situation than the length of the ride from home to college . . . try acting as the four above fellows and you'll see a difference among yourselves, since they are of 4.0 caliber . . . Speaking of that color green, we hope you all saw the maestro Joe Casolaro this last week when he was around . . . "mit bars even mit" . . . which just goes to show you that the atom bomb wasn't the only think which decided the war; think what might have happened if Joe had been turned loose over the Tokio areas . . . huba huba huba!!! . . .

* * * * * * *

Seems as though Mr. Cummings—the kid with the musician's mind and build—sort of on the baton side, is prone to tossing bones in our column . . . but we don't care too much, 'cause he's just gotta fill up all that space somehow . . . Friday we saw Ole Man Winter arrive and "Fat Man" Masciantonio leave—followed closely by Catania and Flynn (our own example of the perisphere and trylon) . . . How could they be so-o-o happy about leaving this abode for wayward swabbies??

* * * * * * *

A few others from amongst our "gold braid buddies" came aboard this last week to attend the basketball game—namely, Walt Huber, Joe Sullock and Dick Madigan (the three bears of Fedigan Hall fame) . . . and speaking of the basketball game, we offer "congrats" to the squad. Everyone was singing "Lord, Lord, Lord" . . . and Joe Lord made them scream it louder . . . the boy was smooth and hot; Burr Robinson, Hannan and Reybitz all looked good also. Muhlenberg happened to knock off our next opponent, Princeton, by a 62-36 score. Those Mules can kick . Now let's hope our Wildcats learn to growl, yeah, 'cause Severance even drowned out the band Wednesday nite . . .

* * * * * * *

"Sneaky" Dan Redmond scored again last week by getting at our column and depleting a few of his frans names . . . but we're slowly working his name up for a fry, so follow the column and you'll see him getting burned . . . the nasty fellow . . . Intra-mural rumor has it that ships' company may enter the basketball tournament since it has been developing a secret screen play. "Shorty" Higler hides behind "Gordo" Hudas for a pass in, and then "Sarge" Chris lifts him up to the basket for a drop in . . . but it's only a rumor!!! . . . The "Top" showed up for practice as their guard, but when he heard he couldn't use a gun he resigned and took on the managing job . . .

* * * * *

Our "fine" (that's Serbian for skinny) friend Walsh had another narrow escape this week, . . . what with the coming of snow. One of our new transferees mistook his snow covered form for an icicle and nearly snapped his "poor wittle" back in half . . . oh, how that man suffers . . . And so, the coming of evening's twilight once again tolls the call of liberty . . . therefore we'll say Adoo—for, as with Lucky Strike Tobacco our fren Kisewich says 2 and 2 are 1 . . . Neve Smotz Ka Pop!!!

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcats Win Opener By Downing Georgetown University 40 - 37

Last Wednesday night the Wildcats launched the 1945-1946 basketball season with a thrilling, but unimpressive win over a stubborn Georgetown five. From the home front stand point the game was a story of erratic play, saved only by the dead-eye of Joe Lord. The game was dedicated to the memory of Chuck Drizen and it was fitting that Lord, a teammate of Drizen's on the '42-'43 team, should spark the team to such a worthy win.

The Cats took advantage of a slow starting opponent and built up what looked to be a comfortable lead. Robertson dropped a free toss at 1:17 of the first period and the locals were never headed. Lord looped a two pointer after five minutes the score stood 8-4 as Robertson set the pace by dropping two goals from the floor and another charity heave. The gap was widened as Lord began to drop long ones.

Lord High Scorer

Joe Brehmer pitched in with two foul shots and Lord zipped four more goals and made good on the try from the foul line. Reybitz sunk a classy pivot shot and one pointer, and Hannan added another point to conclude the scoring for the first half. The Hilltoppers were off in the first twenty minutes and this proved their downfall. A rejuvenated drive in the final session fell short as they fought their way to within one point of the home club.

The Hoya coach, Ken Engles, had his proteges playing a wide open, Rhode Island State brand of ball from the intermission on. They brought the ball up the floor and took quick setting pop shots at the bucket. Paul Durkin led the attack and the gap between the two scores narrowed. The Villanovans tried the same thing and passing was at a minimum and this almost proved disastrous. Three times toward the close of the game that Hoyas found themselves one point shy in the running score. Lord contributed 7 points this half and Brehmer six to hold the lead.

Reybitz Shot Ends Scoring

With one minute and 19 seconds to go the score read 36 to 35. Brehmer's one-handed stab made it 38 to 35, but Durkin followed with a long one to reduce the lead to one point again and pave the way for a fast and furious last 60 seconds. The Cats tried to freeze the ball and when Georgetown opened up its defense trying for the ball, Burr shot a fast pass to Reybitz, who sunk the last basket as the gun sounded.

It was a grand effort to win the opener for Drizen and the Wildcats are off on the right side of the ledger in the first game of a tough 23 game schedule.

Severance's Comments

Prying the lid off the 1945-46 basketball season last Wednesday night the members of the present quintet left many fundamentals of the game still unanswered. There were many and varied indicators, and a careful student of the game would not find it hard to measure the stature of this year's aggregation of the wooden way.

It is no secret that many of the members of this year's team have been schooled in the zone defense, and the system of screen or block is very foreign to them. Nevertheless, there is plenty of margin in their individual play which indicates that time will demonstrate their ability to absorb and to execute this style of basketball with marked success. The split second timing and the smooth operation of the fundamentals of the pick-off system calls for a man to be in top physical condition as well as mentally alert at all times. More important, each and every member of a quintet operating under such a style of play must realize immediately that it is a five man operation and individual talent must only supplement the accepted method of play.

High school coaches employ the zone defense in many instances for the reason of small floors, a dearth of eagle eyed shooters, the element of the quick break, and the saving of the men from physical exhaustion. College ball, however, present problems which make ever, presents problems which make play very hazardous. Most college players have fair shooting ability from the outside. Floors for the most part are standard; that is to say, they measure roughly ninety feet long by fifty wide. This makes the operation of the zone loose and gives the offensive quintet plenty of space in which to operate. Dropping back two men cripples the quick break and results very often in interceptions which are marked by offensive scores. Schooled in this style of play, once it starts to falter, very often the team is left without any ability to shift to the man to man.

This year's members of the wooden way are for all practical purposes new to each other and have only a smattering of our form of play. The game with Georgetown proved, in my estimation, to be a boon in disguise. Starting off in good style and employing a rough picture of the system the home aggregation took a commanding lead of some eleven points, which to some of the old timers would have been the deathknell to Georgetown. This margin plus the definite and deadly style of execution would have forced the visiting five to come "Out and Show" and it is under such conditions that the pick off system becomes superb. Instead of keeping the ball moving among the five members of the quintet, a vital "Must" in our system, we found men going "Ball Happy" and losing the "Apple" time and again, leaving us unbalanced for recovery on defense.

This occurrence is not to be wondered at, for it is the specter of all young teams, and the havoc it causes is for the most part almost impossible to repair in that particular game. The veteran, Joe Lord, rose to the occasion, and, although the burden of getting the ball and controlling it was almost an impossibility, he managed to return some semblance of order to a thorough disorganized team in the last five minutes. The return of another veteran should give more confidence to the team and also place better control of the "Ball" in the five members. The absorbing of the system and the smoothing out of the rough spots will come gradually. Retention of the personnel of this team will definitely give to the Blue and White an aggregation worthy of the quintets of the past.

Basketball Teams Start Intramural Play This Week

Five Teams Make Up New League. Games On Monday, Tuesday And Wednesday Nights

By WILLIAM CHESTER

After a week of intensified activity, during which time teams, captains and schedules have been selected, it now appears that the feverishly contested intramural basketball league is under way.

The league is organized on a Hall versus Hall basis in order to tie the men together by a common bond of endeavor and to develop the old pre-war college life and spirit.

Five Teams in League

The sailors of Austin and Mendel Halls are banded together as the "Ausmen" under the captaincy of Kenneth Sonner. A civilian five from Delurey, O'Dwyer, Mendel and Simpson Halls will be led by Tom Ward. This snappy aggregation will be called the "Doms." The "All-Star" Alumni Hall team, judged by many to be the proverbial "dark horse" in the league is being developed and captained by Pat Friel. Francis Hitinger will lead a powerpacked Marine quintet throughout the series. Bob Wilson will lead the Fedigan "West-Enders" in the fast action on the hard woods.

At this stage in the contest it is difficult to foretell which team will emerge voitorious, but if the intramural baseball league may be used as an index it is certain that the contest will be hard fought and very close.

Preliminary to Varsity Games

Two games will be played every Monday and Tuesday night at the Field House and one game will be played every Wednesday night as a preliminary to the Varsity games. The first games on Monday and Tuesday will get underway promptly at 5:45 while all other games will start at 6:45.

Frs. Girolami and Kemme, Intramural directors, hope that attendance at these games will be high, because all the contests should prove to be hard-fought and well-played.

Bowling League Opens Saturday

Due to many difficulties, the opening of the Phi Kappa Pi Bowling League, originally scheduled for last Saturday, has been postponed until this Saturday. Chairman Bill Koerner would like to have one or two more teams added to the league before Saturday. He may be contacted in the Villanovan office.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Last week Joe Cassalaro and Johnny Murphy, ex-roommates and Varsity baseball players, visited the campus. Joe was sporting his new Navy Air Corps Ensign's uniform, while Murph was in a sharp set of civvies.

Sal Rosato, former Villanova backfield performer, is in action with the Washington Redskins after being out for several weeks with injuries. He saw a little action in the Eagles-Redskins game recently.

Art Spector, one of the best basketball players in Villanova's history is now coaching basketball at St. Thomas More High School in Philadelphia. Art left Villanova in 1942 and then entered the Pro ranks.

'Cats to Play Bucknell and Princeton this Week

Saturday's Contest Is First Away Game Of Season; Woody Ludwig's Men Have Won Last Three Games

By DICK SOMERS

Third opponent on the local schedule, and first on a foreign court, is Bucknell's potentially powerful quintet. The Bisons, competing in the northern circuit of the newly organized five-team Middle Atlantic League, are riding the crest of a three game winning streak over the 'Cats and have tied the over all record at six games apiece.

Coach J. E. "Woody" Ludwig is starting his third season as guide of the Herd's hardwood destinies. His squad this year is composed of five men making their debut in college competition and eleven experienced men.

Gene Wilson is the only holdover from last year's squad. Gene was third high in scoring with 126 points. Jim Seel has returned to Bucknell after playing for Yale last year. Two years ago Jim played in both games against Villanova. Jack Haas, while not classed as a holdover, played part of last season with the Bisons. Two newcomers with a chance to break into the starting lineup are Bob Joest of California High School and Don Frazier from Cleveland High School.

Other experienced men on the squad are: Dick Edgecomb, Bowden College; Bob Edmunds, Bucknell; P. Fluechas, Columbia University; Tasso Kostelas, Carnegie Tech; Dick McGinn, Dickinson Jr. College; Jack Weiss, Tulane University; and Tom Widges, Bucknell. Glenn Fortenberry, C. P. Johnson, and Bill Von Heill complete the squad.

Face Tigers Tomorrow Night At Field House; "Major" McDonnell, An Army Veteran, Returns To Wildcat Court

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova's Wildcats will be seeking to maintain a clean slate tomorrow night when they meet Princeton in the Field House in a game starting at 8:30 P. M. It will be the first game of a home-and-home arrangement, the second game being scheduled for the New Jersey school on January 30.

The Wildcats, hairline victors over Georgetown in the lid-raiser, will be out to make it two in a row at the expense of a team that dropped its opener and only game (at this writing) to Muhlenberg by a 62 to 36 count. That game was a lot closer than the score indicates, however. It was nip and tuck for most of the first half, a Mule spurt being necessary to give the latter a 28 to 20 half-time lead. Indications are, therefore, that it will be a battle of first-half teams, the Cats themselves having looked pretty ragged in the second half of the Georgetown game, after walking off with a 23-10 lead at intermission.

Villanova will depend on dead-eye Joe Lord, recently returned from Army service, to supply its scoring punch. Joe will be aided by a teammate from the 1942-43 quintet, Bob "Major" McDonnell, who also just returned from service. The rest of the starting five will likely be picked from Joe Brehmer, Joe "Toad" Hannan, Bill Burr, Don Robertson, Ed Reybitz, and Carl Fuglestad, but anyone is liable to start.

This game will be fourth in the Princeton series. The Wildcats hold a 2-1 edge, having won by 54-46 and 42-40 scores in the two successive years prior to last years' reversal. A Wildcat victory would insure a Villanova lead in the series at the conclusion of the year, while a victory for the Tigers would put even greater importance on their meeting later. It should prove to be a real battle.

ATHLETES DRAFTED

Joe Gorman and Gene Alvarez, Wildcat varsity athletes both left this week for the Army. Gorman was a member of the basketball squad, playing forward, and Alvarez was one of the guards of this past season's Villanova grid team.

In The Sportlight

By BOB MANSKE

Though only the bowl games remain to be played, people are still talking about their favorite football teams and players. One Villanova player who has not received all the credit due him is our own Tony Cocco.

Tony, christened Anthony A. Cocco, was born in North Philadelphia on January 26, 1927, and has lived there ever since. He matriculated to Northeast Catholic High School in the fall of 1941 and immediately launched his football career.

Made Varsity in Sophomore Year

Coke, as he is called by his closest friends, started playing football in his freshman year at North and soon caused the coaches to sit up and take notice. By the start of his sophomore year he had earned a varsity position at end. For three years he was one of the stalwarts of North's line.

Tony's senior year was by far his best and as first-string right end he helped North reach second place in the League standings. He was given Honorable Mention on the All-Catholic League team, which was quite an honor, considering the large number of players competing in the league.

Entered Villanova in March

Coke entered Villanova in March of this year and immediately went out for spring football practice. Throughout the spring and summer he held down the first-string right end job and was still there when the season started. Against Bucknell in the opening game he played his best game of the year. The following week in the Navy game he was injured and played the rest of the season under a handicap.

ANTHONY A. COCCO

Despite the fact that he was one of the lightest players on the team, statistics show that he put in more time on the field than any other end. Tony took time out from kidding his roommate long enough to tell us that his greatest thrill of the season was playing against the Army team.

Coke has his eye on the business world and is taking the Commerce and Finance course here at Villanova. He is a member of the Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity, the Spanish Club and is on the Freshman Orientation Committee.

'Cat Capers

Continued From Page Two

religion so seriously, Father Maher? It is rumored it is the only class during which he remains awake.

Word comes to us, via the C & F. building, that Jim Meehan is the head man at the Bellevue. Jim's operations on one floor went unnoticed but now that he has taken over the entire hostelry, he is gaining prominence for same.

* * *

Conclusion

It hurts us deeply to receive word that the sale of tickets for the Holiday Hop has thus far been under par. Let's get on the ball, fellows, and set a record-breaking attendance. Let's make it an overwhelming success. It depends on us.

DONALD T. KNAUSS

Meet The Boys

Continued From Page Two

cares this is supposed to be about Knauss.

Then came the big decision in Don's career. He joined the Navy. Yes, he joined the Navy under the V-12 program. Well, they sent him to Swarthmore, but due to his animal instincts, he was transferred after eight months to Villanova, which, as you know, is not purely a co-ed school. During his stay here he has studied Mechanical engineering until he has, not water, but steam on the brain. You can find him at ASME meeting and he is presently starred in front of Company C every day at 1320. What those poor V-5's go through shouldn't happen to a dog, but Don wears his authority well.

We asked him about the future and sat back for the three hours while he unreeled. It seems there is a guiding light shining brightly. Her name is Ruth, and he is completely gone. He plans to get married and go to work. This job tends to be most interesting. With all the knowledge Don has accumulated, he hopes to crash the meat packing business. He has it pretty well broken already, and if it were not for the fact that all red pointts are out the window, this article would not have been so compiled. Yes, all that potatoes and no meat. That gives a rough idea of what goes, so, guys, meet Apprentice Seaman Donald Tice Knauss.

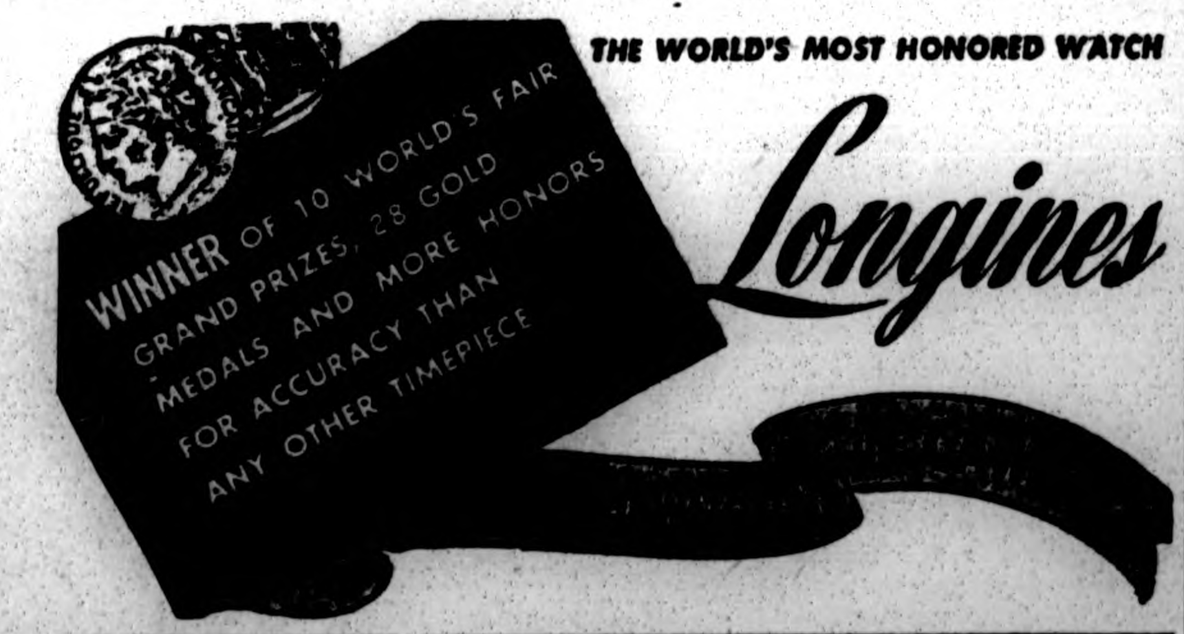
JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5¢ a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
1213 Lancaster Ave.
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
Member International Tailoring Co. N. Y.



THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

All's well
DRINK Coca-Cola
© 1945 The C-C Co.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

WISHING YOU A CHEERFUL TREEFULL
☆☆☆ WITH THE THREE FIRSTS IN SMOKING PLEASURE
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
Chesterfield's gay Christmas carton is a beauty...just the thing to say "Merry Christmas" to your classmates and to top off the bundles for those at home.
And there's nothing finer than what's inside, for Chesterfield's Right Combination . . . World's Best Tobaccos gives you all the benefits of smoking pleasure.
They're givable, acceptable and enjoyable
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
Copyright 1945, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 17 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1945

VILLANOVA COLLEGE
LIBRARY
VILLANOVA, PA.

Seniors Will Present Belle Air Ball Jan. 16

Naval Training Program Will End In February

Captain Thomas C. Thomas Announces Plans To Navy And Marine Students; NROTC May Function On Another Basis; V-5 Will Probably Continue Until July

After February28th, no longer will the blue and khaki Navy and Marine uniforms be a familiar sight on the grounds of Villanova. Last Tuesday, at a meeting called for the entire ROTC and V-12 students, and the naval teaching staff, Captain Thomas C. Thomas USN, announced that the Navy and Marines would discontinue their training program here at Villanova.

At the meeting, Captain Thomas stated that all senior engineers who will have finished their course by March, 1946, will be commissioned after graduating. At the present time it is not known whether the remaining V-12 and ROTC students will continue in their present status in colleges still maintaining the V-12 and ROTC programs, or continue their time of service in the regular Navy or Marine Corps.

When asked for a statement concerning the disbandment of the Navy Program, Rev. Francis X. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova, said, "According to an official announcement from the Navy Department, the V-12 and NROTC programs will cease to function on the present active duty basis as of February 28, 1946. The NROTC Program will continue to function on another basis, the details of which will be announced by the Bureau of Naval Personnel at some future date. It is probable that the V-5 program will continue on the present basis until July 1, 1946."

V-12 Started in 1943

The Marine and Navy V-12 Program began at Villanova in June of 1943 when about three hundred men who were transferred from the Navy V-1 and V-7 Naval Training Programs entered Villanova to study a basic engineering or premedical curriculum. At that time students at Villanova, high school or preparatory school graduates, and high school students who were finishing their last year and who had not completed their twenty-second birthday were eligible. However, as the quota of officers for the Navy and Marines reached its complement, the requirements became more stringent and only members of the services were eligible for the Naval or Marine Training Program.

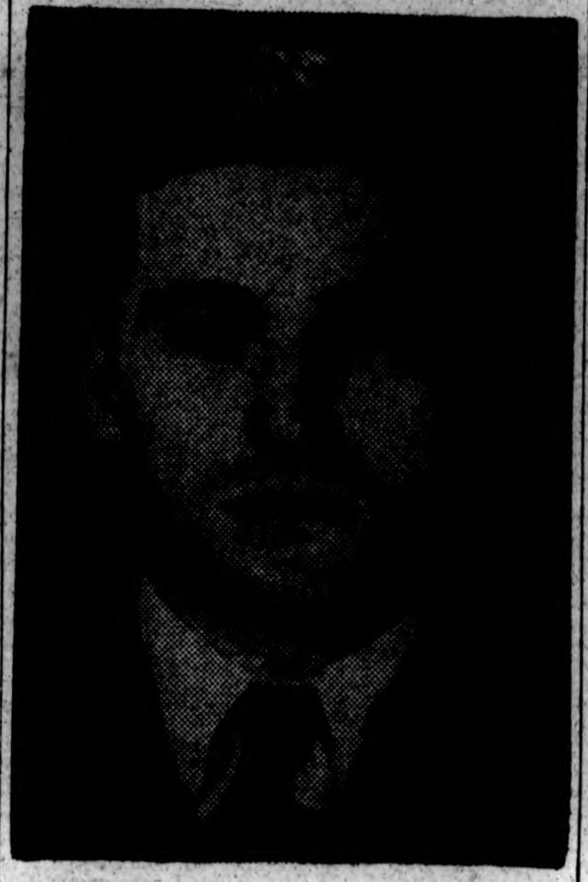
Since 1943 Villanova has trained approximately one thousand men as officers for the Navy and Marine Corps combined. In addition, at the opening of this semester a V-5 Naval Training Program for pilots was begun under the direction of the ROTC.

Lt. Joe Carbine Declared Dead

Fifty-Second Villanovan Dies In Service of His Country

The fifty-second gold star has been added to the Villanova service flag, after the United States Government last Thursday officially pronounced the death of Lieutenant J. Carbine ex '44.

A Mass card was sent by Fr. Grimes, O.S.A., the College Chaplain, to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Carbine.



LT. JOSEPH CARBINE

Lost Last February

Lt. Carbine had been reported as missing in action following a raid over Germany on February 3, 1945. Co-pilot of a Flying Fortress and attached to an airbase somewhere in England, Lieutenant Carbine had

LT. JOE CARBINE
Continued on Page Three

Villanova Students Give Views On Peacetime Conscription

By WARREN G. SEXTON

The object of this column is to obtain a cross-section of the College students' views on prominent issues of the day. Because of its importance to every young man in America today, the topic of Peace Time Military Conscription will be the first subject of discussion. The opinions listed below were received from both military and civilian students as indicated.

Thomas Smith, Veteran: "I believe that conscription will be a good thing for the actual experience of it. Something is needed to mix with the book knowledge of High School and College."

Joseph Jaskula, Veteran: "It's a good deal. It will do the younger generation good to acquire a knowledge of the world."

John Sankey, Veteran: "I can't see it. It will interfere in many ways with education and will dull the keeness of their outlook on life."

White Sooner, NROTC: I'm against it. It would take youth at their peak and regiment them with military training. As an alternative, they could have compulsory R.O.T.C. in High School."

John Ciotola, Veteran: "It would be good, for it is a practical education in itself as far as human nature is concerned."

James J. Gorman, U.S.M.C.: "We should have conscription. The best defense is a good offense."

Edwin Keller, Veteran: "I believe in Peace Time Conscription because it will broaden a young man's outlook on life. It will also make the College student one year older and more appreciative of his college responsibilities."

Samuel Geller: "I am for this

VILLANOVA STUDENTS
Continued on Page Four

Construction Of Chemical Lab To Begin Soon

Most Modern Facilities Will Be Incorporated In The Building; Will Accommodate Large Classes

After a slight delay due to a few minor changes in plans, construction on the chemical engineering laboratory, which has been under consideration, is about to begin. Failure to comply with state ordinances concerning the width of corridors necessitated the change in plans. The site chosen for the proposed lab is that area immediately behind the Navy sick bay, with it's length running parallel to a line from the sick bay to Simpson Hall.

The two story, Foxcroft stone building, as planned, will be one hundred and eleven ft. by 56 ft. wide. A little less than one half of the interior of the structure will be set aside as a unit parts lab, which is to be situated in the east wing rising the two full stories. A balcony around the second floor of lab will provide access to offices and classrooms which will occupy the remainder of that floor. In the west wing, on the first floor, a smaller chemistry laboratory will occupy the remainder of that floor.

Up To Date Structure

All modern facilities will be incorporated in the structure including modern toilet facilities, five and one half feet of tile lining the walls, as in C. and F., and terrazza corridors as in Mendel. The safety factor is provided for by building with fireproof materials throughout. A slate roof, steel joist, and concrete fire escapes will as nearly as possible erase the possibility of fire.

Some of the problems confronting the architect are power and sewage. Power must be supplied from Mendel hall, which will necessitate digging a ditch between the buildings. Delaware County has already agreed to extend their main sewage lines from Spring Mill Road, up Lancaster Pike, to a point where the sewage pipes of the building will intersect them.

Naval Armory Proceeding

Purer water will be supplied from a 79ft. Spray Pond located behind the building. The purpose of the pond is to cool and purify the water before use. There is also a possibility of the pond being used for ice skating during the winter months.

Capable of accommodating any senior class the school intends to graduate, the new building should do very much in providing opportunity for the student's study and enhance the beauty of the campus by providing an attractive building in the place of a once undeveloped tract of land.

Speech On Vibrations Delivered to ASME

The local branch of the A.S.M.E. met Friday evening, George Bascik, A.S. presiding. The feature of the evening was a talk delivered by Paul Christenson, A.S. on the subject of "Vibrations." A motion picture on the same topic was presented to the attending members immediately following the speech.

Plans were discussed for the future enlargement of the membership of the A.S.M.E. through enrollment of Freshman and Sophomore Mechanical Engineering students.

The next meeting of the society will be held on Monday evening, December 17, at which time Professor Brown will speak on the "History of Transportation." The meeting promises to be interesting, and all present and prospective members are urged to be on hand.

Elliot Lawrence and Orch. Will Furnish Dance Music

Chairman Joseph Hoffman Announces Completion Of Plans; Tickets Will Be On Sale This Week

The Senior Class will present the Belle Air Ball in the College Field House on Saturday evening, January 19. Music will be provided by Elliot Lawrence and his orchestra.

ELLIOT LAWRENCE

The traditional festivity will be the first formal dance since the war's end and the second since the memorable Centennial Ball of January, 1943.

While many of the plans are still in the molding stage, the selection of the orchestra is definite.

The talented, young maestro, Elliot Lawrence has been the subject of considerable and favorable discussion during the past few weeks. He was heard by many of the students at the recent Rosemont dance and can be heard over the CBS network whenever other engagements permit.

Unique Programs

Tickets for the affair will be put on sale by Jim Meehan and George Bascik within the next few days. The price of admission to the first formal dance of the current school year will be $4.00 per couple if the tickets are purchased in advance and $4.40 if purchased at the door.

The design of the programs will be in keeping with the affair and contain the names of the 1946 graduates. As in the past, the decorations will be unique and original but the committee hopes to be able to surpass to some slight degree, any designs that have heretofore appeared. Since anticipation is half the fun of such a social gathering, their plans will not be divulged.

The Grand March of the Seniors, followed by the Alma Mater, which will be sung by the Senior Class, will be the highlight of the evening. Closely following in importance will be dedicatory dances for each of the classes.

Band Leader Featured on CBS

Elliot Lawrence and his orchestra may be heard six times weekly over Station WCAU and the CBS Coast-to-Coast Network. The gifted young Philadelphia composer, arranger and pianist, won his first musical acclaim while a student at Berwyn High School, Pa., when he walked off with first honors in a state-wide contest for high school pianists.

ROSALIND PATTON

At the University of Pennsylvania, where he attained the highest music honors, he directed the band, sang in the Glee Club and performed in Mask and Wig productions. After graduation he continued his musical studies under prominent teachers.

Elliot has been composing since the age of four, made his radio debut at nine, was an arranger at

SENIORS WILL PRESENT
Continued on Page Three

Games Will Not Be Televised

Philco Informs College Of Change In Frequency Bands By F.C.C.; May Cover Games Next Year

Preparations for the televising of the basketball games for the 1945-46 season have been halted due to the sudden changes in plans by the television station WPTZ.

Station WPTZ was authorized to operate the Villanova equipment on television channel 3. In the course of re-shuffling the broadcast bands, the frequency of this channel was lowered from 66-72 megacycles to 60-66 megacycles. The new station frequency being much lower than before, the entire station will have to alter all of its present transmitting equipment to comply with the latest requirements set by the government. This task of changing the equipment calls for a temporary halt in the station's activities, thus necessitating going off the air for a brief period of time.

Appreciate Cooperation

Besides the halt in the television station's activities, many changes have to be made in the college equipment. The lighting in the Field House has to be improved, and a few major changes made in the transmitting equipment. In view of these changes and all of the work yet to be done on the station's transmitters, the Philco Corporation informed the college that it will be unable to televise the basketball games this season.

However, the company was pleased with the cooperation it received from the college and hopes that it will be able to carry out its plans in the following season by featuring Villanova in its sportcasts. These plans for the season of 1946-47 are tentative, but with the rapid advances being made by the company, televising of major sports events is the coming thing. Perhaps by next season television sets will be on the market in great numbers, and events of this nature will be of great interest to the people of this locality.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Russell Welsh, '47
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Donald Sommer, '47
William Altenpohl, '47
Donald M. Collins, '47
George O'Neill, '47
John P. Murphy, '48

Sports Staff
William Boyle, '46
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
William Chester, '48
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Benjamin Reist, NROTC
Charles Cummings, NROTC
Harold Varani, '46
Thomas Heaps, NROTC
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, NROTC

Photography Staff
Charles Sibre, '48
Albert Derr, '46

Circulation Staff
Raymond Stone, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Joseph A. Doughty, '48
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Peter McManus, '47
Thomas Donnelly, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 6, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - DECEMBER 11, 1945

College Activities are Yours

COLLEGE life can well be considered a preview of the student's future. More precisely, participating in activities outside the classroom reflects the qualities and make-up of the would-be successful man, for the concentrated attention on class-work alone suggests a weakness in social compatibility.

The expression of individual initiative is manifested in the varied clubs, fraternities, societies, intramural and varsity sports. It is true that inexperience and certain physical incoordinations limit the acceptance of some students to varsity teams, but there is a "welcome sign" hanging on the entrance of such activities as: the Glee Club, the Belle Air Staff, the Dramatic Club, Villanovan staff, German Club, Spanish Club, Sanctuary Society and the various Fraternities.

For the most part, the students of Villanova present an edifying picture of varied College activity. However, it is felt by some that the varsity teams could be greatly improved if more of our capable athletes would introduce themselves to the Athletic department.

No student should spend four years in College without being able to boast of some extra-curricular activity to which he belonged. The opportunities lie before the student, only his intiative will force him to make use of them.

—R. L. W.

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

Hello, you lucky people; we're back again. Yes sir, and this week we have a terrific offer—no box tops needed.

Just answer correctly the question, "How high is a mouse if it spins?"

Go ahead try. Send all answers to "The Last World"—The Greyhound, Loyala College weekly. However there is one drawback to this contest—nothing was said about offering duplicate awards in case of a tie. It's worth trying because the "column will award a brand new, pre-fabricated, prewar, and pre-made yo-yo string to the person who sends in the neatest correct answer.

• • •

In North Dakota They're Laughing At . . .

Dirty Crack

Johnny: "A little bird told me what kind of a Lawyer your father is."

Jimmy: "What did the bird say?"

Johnny: "Cheep, cheep!"

Jimmy: "O, well a duck told me what kind of a doctor your father is."

• • •

Not Hard to Please

Mr. Satterlee: "Waiter, I want some oysters, But they musn't be too large or two small, too old or too tough, and they musn't be too salty. I want them cold and I want them at once."

Waiter: "Yes, sir. With or without pearls?"

• • •

Hail Shea

"The Tomahawk," the weekly at Holy Cross boasts that one of the Worcester boys, Shea by name, has won the Howitzer Prize.

By the way this Shea is quite a fella, started out as a street cleaner. I quote, "worked as a street cleaner on Chicopee's street (singular), and as business was picking up when he wrote his first work, Forever Ambler, under the pen name of Overboard Woman — (the crew saved her), and from then on his rise to fame was meteoric."

There you are; Holy Cross has something Villanova hasn't got. Men of Villanova strive to follow this guy Shea (more power to him), and may all your rises to fame be meteoric (Gee what lousy English—what school did you went?)

• • •

Hey You Roosians

Poughkeepsie, N. Y. (I. P.)—In recognition of the growing importance of Russia in world affairs, Vassar College is offering a major field in Russian studies.

Ursinus Weekly

• • •

For Fred

Fred wanted the following included in this week's column, and he also likes jokes so I'll just wedge this in here someplace. I hope that the fellow in the article, L. J. Starer, doesn't mind being in with a lot of corn—I apologise again; it's not corn—it's really funny.

At a farewell dinner held for all the officers and men of the Navy V-12 unit of Ursinus College on Oct. 17, A/S L. J. Starer, Battalion

OUT OF THE COPY
Continued on Page Eight

CAMP TO CAMPUS

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

Once again the visitors to the campus were numerous and perhaps the most outstanding was 2nd Lieut. Jim Skane. Jim has just been transferred from Camp Pendleton to Bainbridge where he is assuming the duties of Billetting Officer at the Marine Separation Center. He assigns men to their places, receives the information and puts them on the roster for separation. He saw Lieut. Johnnie Dritzko, who was in the hospital as a result of an auto accident. He had word that Lieuts. O'Connell and Sawtelle are with the Marines on Guam and expect to be home next summer.

One of the old timers, Lieut. Commander Fr. O'Donnell was in for a visit on his way to the Philadelphia Navy Yard for his terminal leave. He expects to be discharged in the near future. Speaking of discharges, former Marine Jim Lublin was in for a visit and Midshipman Jack McClancy said that effective as of next week he will be a civilian. Old reliable Sgt. Dutch Fauber was in for a visit and he was the only one who refused the subject of 'Discharge' as conversational material. Last weekend Ens. Don Schmitt put in appearance for the Rosemont Dance. Don is currently stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

From the visitors to the mail and the first word is from S1/C Carlo Andreone, ex '46, who sends word that he received a copy of Villanovan via the Carrier Pigeon route. He is stationed at the Naval Base in Subic Bay on the island of Luzon in the Philippines. Carlo says that he was driving Higgins boats around the bay and when he lost two boats, at ten thousand per, during the typhoon season in one week he was transferred to other duty.

Another Subic bay man S1/C Dom Parrone ex '46 is waiting future assignment at the receiving station there. Dom writes that out there this time of the year the weath is either unbearably hot or raining pitchforks.

Back in the United States: Recently inducted John and Joe Peshina are at Fort George Meade, Maryland at this point the boys like almost everything about the Army. The write, "We were most surprised at the good food." Pvt. Jim Doriety is with the Infantry at Camp Blanding in Florida. He writes that basic training is the toughest racket in the Army and since completing it he has been hitting the high spots in Florida. Ens. William 'Bucky' Williams is now at Coronado Beach in California taking Amphibious training. He says that Officers life is fine, as can be seen from that liquor list at the club.

Turning to the late reports word comes from Pvt. Eugene Stewart at Compiegne, France, that while in London on a furlough he tried to visit Pvt. Bill Barker ex '46 who is in a hospital somewhere outside London. However he was unable to see Bill because of the fact that Bill was allowed no visitors. From Guam, writes Lieut. Jack Evans, "The island is pretty well crowded with all branches of the service. There's still plenty of jungle though. A few Japs wander in every week or so, and give themselves up. Some people never get the word."

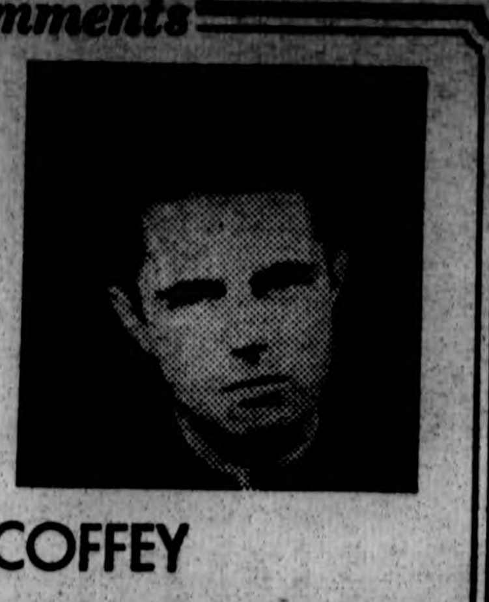
VICTORY LOAN

Victory Loan Emblem

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

Faculty Comments

Political Affairs Are Your Concern



By FATHER COFFEY

Several weeks ago The Saturday Evening Post visioned great political hope for our country. In one of its editorials the magazine hailed the returning serviceman not merely as one seeking an opportunity in the nation but rather as an opportunity for the nation. The Post of course meant by this observation, that a veteran of solid and mature judgment can contribute much to our public life which is far from being healthy.

To almost every ex-serviceman "the old home town looks good;" but he now knows, after his travels, that all the best things in the world aren't centered in his birthplace. There are, consequently, many worth-while improvements he desires for his community. To him, then the populace might have to turn if action along these lines is desired.

Now this dream of the Post does not seem to be fantastic. According to one reliable forecaster about 60% of the seats open during the next Congressional elections will be sought by men who served in the armed forces. Certainly no one dares contest that we need new blood in government. Nor ought any of us feel that those who faced death bravely for our safety and honor will not now fight politically for our constitutional rights and betterment.

Obviously, we admit that every warrior would not make a good governor; no more than every soldier would make a general. Yet in our armed services we had many men of promise whose sprouting abilities to think in terms of the common good was recognized before the war. These are the men the Post urges to turn to political issues. It is a well known fact that some of the best minds of our nation have been contented to bewail the state of the nation only after damage has been done. If then a group of men has returned whose vision has been enlarged by experience both at home and abroad — whose will burns to act for the good of the community, and whose heart loathes the smallness of public men smothering their consciences for material gain—we are indeed fortunate.

Now the Catholic Church has ever pleaded with her subjects to be alert citizens. She taught that love for country is a noble virtue. Love is proved by sacrifice. The citizen, therefore, who claims love for his country places the welfare of the nation above his own comfort in the observance of its just laws. Such a regard for law blesses a nation. As Leo XIII stated: "Unless the individual citizens lead good lives, the state cannot keep in the path of virtue and avoid offending." The greatest contribution of the ex-serviceman to America, therefore, can be his will to respect authority, to honor decency, to abhor immorality of any kind as found in the lives of public servants. Only leaders with clear eyes and sinless hearts can find the way out of the meshes we are in today, both at home and abroad.

We merely express a truism to state that public life in many instances is immoral. The ethical standards of a large number in government are quite low. All of which is dangerous for the nation. But is it not more dangerous when Brown and Smith, average citizens like ourselves, shrug a shoulder, wink an eye, and yawn boringly "so what?"

Leo XIII also has something to say about this. In one of his Encyclicals, Leo writes against that great number of citizens who desire moral public servants, yet do not care to disturb themselves about the evil they recognize. "Of those whose principles are sound," he states, "there are many who through a misplaced timidity are frightened, and have not the courage even to speak out their opinions boldly, far less to translate them in deeds."

Obviously, a great task faces our nation if we would not tramp the same road taken by ancient Rome. The moment the morals of Romans lowered and public men thought only in terms of fabulous luxury this great republic began to die. Our duty, then, is to become intolerant of abuses in government. To awaken people to this obligation will be difficult and will cause pain, yet we must face and expect unpleasantness if we are to work a cure. George Bernard Shaw aptly epitomizes the situation: "a nation's morals are like its teeth; the more they are decayed, the more it hurts to touch them."

You, college men of America, filled with ambition to succeed must take a hand in the struggle to clean our political house. As young doctors, lawyers, engineers, and business men you hope to live and work in America. To be indifferent to the domestic and foreign policies of America merely plays into the hands of dishonest men. Your sense of responsibility to your future and to the family you hope someday will be yours cries out that you be alert and interested in the lives and philosophies of those men asking you for confidence in their powers to rule you. Never admit that a politican's business is his own. He is a public servant and must give an account of his stewardship to all of us, his public. If then, the Post is correct in predicting that the returning veterans have many among them honest and clever who wish to help us make America a better place, then back them in their struggle for decency against those who are indifferent to evil.

Contest Open For College Students

A $1500 prize contest open to all officially enrolled college students throughout the United States has been announced by "Tomorrow" magazine.

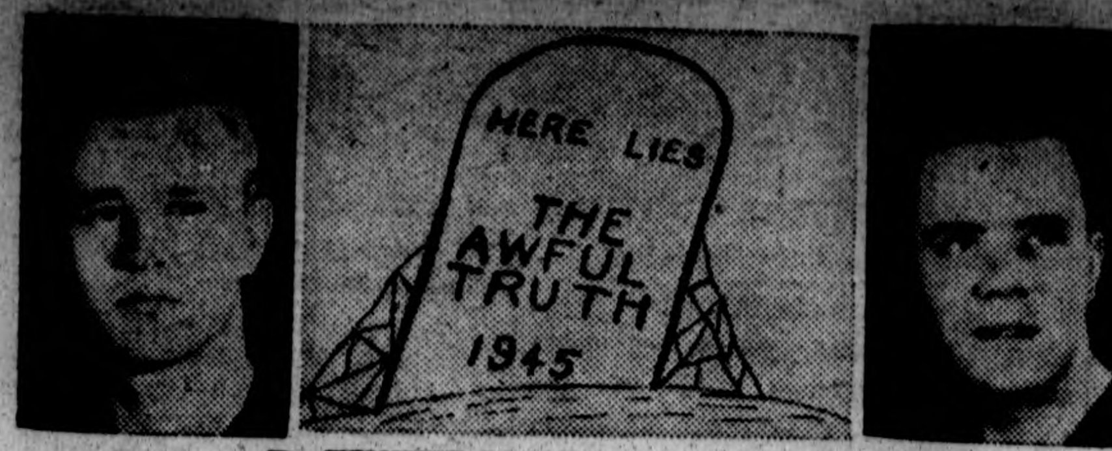
The best short story and the best article will each receive a first prize of $500, while second prize in both of these categories will be $250.

The choice of subject matter for both stories and articles is left to the discretion of the contestants, although no theme is actually prohibited. Manuscripts will be judged solely on the basis of literary merit and clarity of expression.

Length of manuscripts may range from 2500 to 5000 words. The notation "Entry for College Contest" along with the name and address of the contestant must appear on the envelope and also the first page of each manuscript. Return postage must also be included.

This contest closes on May 1, 1946. All entries should be mailed to College Contest, "Tomorrow," 11 E. 44th St., New York 17, N. Y.

ICE Aristocrat CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.



By TINKER HEAPS and BEN REIST

Leveling our guns about the campus this week we have brought into the range of fire quite a host of our more unfortunate friends, so stand by for the first salvo and we shall see if the pride of some of our little chums can be sunk by one disdainful remark from your Swabbie Snoopers . . .

First off we find that little fellow with the big heart, Bobby Wilson, clearing away all the debris from Christmas shopping hours and having left but one package to wrap; this last one is to be addressed to his cohort "Butts" Brandt. Seems as though the latter mentioned lad has been perching outside Bobby's billet now for quite a few semesters in quest of cigarettes, and the thing has got to come to a halt; so to be rid of the same scourge, Bobby decided to make him a donation of one generous carton . . . isn't he the generous lad??? . . .

Just to prove that anything is possible these days we bring you an example of the "impossible come true" . . . yessir, Father Time Koch appeared at Wednesday night's game with a lovely lass from the Main Line, and although many thought it might be his daughter, they were later enlightened by the fact that it's really his one and only; what with the coming of a discharge for the Old Vet you never can tell what will happen along those lines . . .

SOS's and screams of help poured forth from the school swimming pool this week as a near calamity occurred; yes sir, our Husky new instructor, Chief Hussas, was in such a hurry to give a third class swimmer a hand with his stroke that he inadvertantly used Poor Paul Walsh rather than the pole supplied for such activity; seems as though that kid will never have a safe moment, for after three dunkings he had to be administered to . . . Have you ever seen a waistline that only needed three fingers for artificial respiration . . . that's the Thin Man for you. . . .

And since we are speaking of characters, we might as well make mention of Moose Mather again; words reach our ears that the Moose is making a run on the target down at Hood College this weekend. He figures that tracking will be made easier this week due to the snowfall, but he forgets that there are places the girls can go where he can never follow . . .

Many hearts sank and many rose to glorious heights this week with the end of the semester being possible and probable; some hope for inactive duty while others see a commission eluding their grasp . . . but it also acted as a prompting agent for some of the fellows who wear the Gyrene Green; uh-huh, a few of our colleagues made it a point to see about re-enlisting in the USMC (seeking A's in Marine Tactics no doubt). Those so brave travel under the names of Gorman, Little and Bradley . . . hats off to the boys for the courageous deed.

The Complaint Dept. was heavily loaded this week, but we'll try to push a few of the more prominent ones through for publication:

a. People want to know where the storekeepers find all the work (???) so that they're too busy to issue a pair of shoes, or such, after a guy waits in line for four hours. It couldn't have been the uniforms, for they weren't here . . . so maybe they're just tired, huh??? . . .

b. The reasan that the cry of anguish arises from third deck Fedigan is that they find it hard getting ready for inspections on Saturday morn with the lack of swabs and brooms; well fellows, if ever you really find yourself in that fix just visit Halm and Ferry's room . . . they have everything hidden in their gear locker. . .

And speaking of Homer Halm, we found another little quip about the boy. Seems as though he nearly drowned the other day in swimming with a rifle, for some helpful budddy told him to use two hands when he found one wasn't sufficient, so "always obedient" Homer tried two hands and headed straight for the bottom . . . tch. tch. and they say monkeys are dumb . . . maybe it's his past, for he was a pharmacists mate you know, (too much rubbing juice in his system) . . .

Since they say you really needn't know anything about a subject to try criticising it, I may as well make a few comments on the Wednesday night game with Princeton: To Joe Hannon go the laurels of a wonderfully played game, as he was in there fighting all the time (except when it got rough and then the coach thought he would play better from the bench . . . why, nobody knows, as he had been terriffic . . .) Lord once more was good for a splendid game and his usual half-a-dozen points, but was hampered with a bad ankle . . . the "Major" found things a bit different than "over there" and couldn't seem to get going at all during the game except for two spurts . . . here's hoping he gets hot . . . Burr didn't play (another questionable point) and his smoothness was missed to the terrible degree, for what he does with a ball just can't be spoken of . . . Robertson did fine, after the coach realized he was sitting on the bench . . . Reybitz found it tough playing for he had to be sweet to all the Princeton boys after getting tagged for fouls early in the game (but for a family man he ain't doing half bad) . . .

Doherty, a newcomer to the squad, registered four nice points but looked a bit out of the groove later in the game when the going became a bit hectic . . . and Brehmer, although scoring six of the total score, looked out of place on the court again this week; seems as tho' he wore himself out in the early practice sessions for he was hot then . . . but oh brother how he has cooled off . . . and last, but not least, Al himself looked mighty bad just sitting on the bench, for when he should have been substituting he was moaning and when he was substituting he should have sat still. And did you see what these Mules did again this week . . . looks like an unhappy Feb. 16th for someone"??!

Trotting through the passageway this week we happened to hear the humm of "Hearts and Flowers" bursting forth from MR. (just being nice) McNamara's room; and then after some probing we find that he has started working on his Psychology Major by trying a new line on some lassie referred to as Connie. But as the old tune goes "Felicia NO Capicia" and he finds more than the weather cold these days . . . so, as the little mouse in the Looney Tunes would say, "sucker ! ! !" . . .

AND, since we're speaking of music, we may just as well make mention of Tony Coppa's misery; due to his having a leg length of about 22 inches he's been moaning "Sam, you made the pants too long" and we find his ROTC pants overlapping . . . ah, for a build like Walsh's (oh, no, not that). . .

And so, what with the coming of late afternoon we must turn our watchful eyes from this lovely campus (gotta be nice sometimes, you know) and quote the famous words of Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty, or give me death . . . and you know I'm too young to die" . . . Meet you at Glendennings. . . Nove smotz ka pop!!?? . . .

Lt. Joe Carbine

Continued From Page One

been overseas since September 1944 and had had more than fifteen missions over enemy territory to his credit.

Lt. Carbine entered Villanova in September 1940 as an Arts student. He was Vice-President and then President of the Arts Fraternity, Epsilon Pi Theta; he served as College Editor on the Belle Air staff, and was a member of the Villanovan sports staff.

In February 1943 Lt. Carbine withdrew from school as a member of the Army Air Corps Reserve. He is the brother of Lt. Colonel Thomas J. Carbine, '39 and Cadet James T. Carbine, Jr. ex '45, stationed at West Point.

Meet the Boys

By CHARLES CUMMINGS and CARROLL ANDREWS

Before going any farther, we think it a good policy to set forth the general purposes of this column. We, unlike most of the columns on this page, will print nothing but ambiguous statements, misleadings facts, and the awful but untrue truth. By letting that be known from the start, we feel we will keep our friends and will not find it hard sleeping nights. If you will take a quick glance to the head of a certain column nearby, you will see what sleepless nights do to people. We should like to give a more specific location for said column, but as it used only to take up leftover space, that would be impossible. Note the blots of ink under the eyes. By the way, that column is up to its usual rank this week, and we mean rank, which comes from the Ethiopian or "lousez."

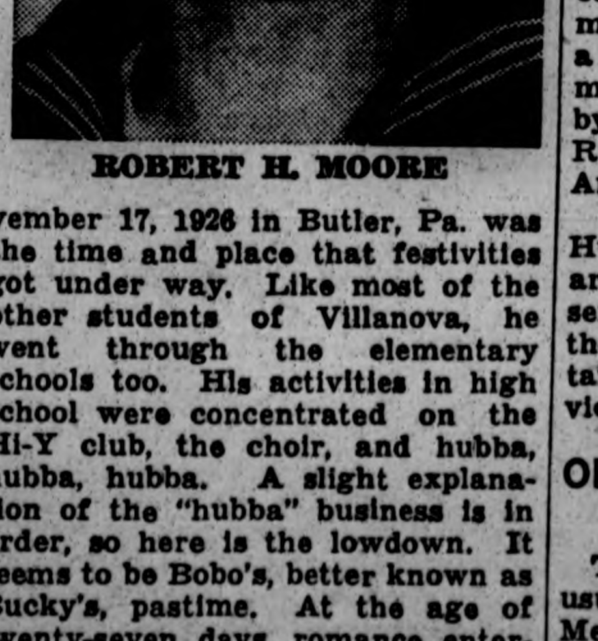
The Spice

We have a few tidbits to toss your way this week. Lawrence James Bradley is the first morsel. The night before the "big wind" Larry was born in a lobster trap off the coast of Maine. Now that things are off to a flying start, a few more startling facts. At the early age of nine years he started to talk. At seventeen he started to say words. His first word, which came after walking into a Marine recruiting office, was "Yes." But to get back—he was noted throughout Portland, Maine for various achievements. Larry was the only bookey in kindergarten, was restring man on the yo-yo team and was a boxer in high school, having the distinction of being the only man carried to and from the ring. This kid is an ardent Bob Hope fan, if you hadn't guessed. He did get through school, even though he is the only Democrat in the state of Maine. After high school came the big worries. His father gave him the choice of two alternatives: get out and work or join the Marines. Larry was next seen wearing olive drab or drab, we're not sure which, on the campus of Villanova on July 1, 1945. Since then he has been working his way through college. His life here has consisted of studying civil engineering, although it isn't doing much good, taking a wild fling at dramatics in character parts, and drinking coffee whenever he can bum a nickel.

"Hashmark," as he affectionately called, plans on spending the next thirty years in the Corps and then running for Congress on the Bull Moose ticket. "There'll never be another Teddy." Another mad desire is to send all of his daughters to Bryn Mawr. After that, we were about finished so, boys, meet Lawrence James Bradley.

The Salt

Second to suffer the consequences is Robert Hall Moore. It seems that he has lived a perfectly normal life. Well, he'll be sorry. November 17, 1926 in Butler, Pa. was the time and place that festivities got under way. Like most of the other students of Villanova, he went through the elementary schools too. His activities in high school were concentrated on the Hi-Y club, the choir, and hubba, hubba, hubba. A slight explanation of the "hubba" business is in order, so here is the lowdown. It seems to be Bobo's, better known as Bucky's, pastime. At the age of twenty-seven days, romance entered his young life. Her name was Mildred. Muggy Mildred he called



ROBERT H. MOORE

Continued on Page Four

'Cat Capers

After the usual Monday morning post-mortem of the social weekend, we finally managed to uncover a few tid-bits of choice gossip which are always prevalent on "washday". It seems that it always comes out in the wash!

• • •

Many of the boys seemed to be enjoying themselves at the recent Rosemont dance. We extend our congratulations to Jim "Babe" Riley on his match-making for the occasion. Two of Jim's satisfied customers were Tom Burke and Jim McNally who are planning on seeing more of those lovely damsels.

Scuttlebutt has it that our dear old friend, H. P. Dumsa, is now the Dean of Women at Mary Grove College in Detroit. He has situated himself directly across the street from the campus which makes it much more convenient than it was when he undertook the duties as Dean at Rosemont. Undoubtedly the Mary Grovers will be bursting out singing College Days after a few choice lessons by old H. P. That man just can't seem to keep away from the women.

Who's Who "I buy and sell houses" Fitzgibbons last week proved himself over a glass of beer with his usual repertoire of jokes. It's funny what 3.2 can really do.

It must have been quite a night Saturday at the Legion Hall, especially for Harry Bombick when he had to play nursemaid to Jack Freytag. What was the trouble Jack, the coke too strong?

Getting haircuts at a barber's school seems to be becoming the latest epidemic around here. The most recent man to be sporting one of those close cut jobs and one who can't afford to lose any more is none other than Jack "Baldy" Luley.

• • •

Now returning to the night of the Rosemont dance we have a familiar ditty that many of the boys were chirping to their inviteee;

Roses are red
Violets are blue
Orchids are $5.00
Won't dandelions do?

• • •

Before the affair a couple of the boys namely Bill Altenpohl and Dave Ryan got quite a kick or should we say punch at Ann Kimnoch's party. It didn't appear to be enough for them because they were seen later at either Pat Collin's or Rebe Keegan's social gatherings. By the way one of the aforementioned "Beau Brummels" asked a hostess who a certain person was; when he found out he happened to remember that she was his date on a previous weekend. We are not mentioning any names for safety's sake. Is that allright, Dave?

Questions Of The Week:

Who will Tony Caruso be seen with next weekend? It must be great to be in love with them all.

Why has John Burke been frequenting the Greek's so much lately?

Who called Mike Ruchio last Monday and informed him that the school had burned down?

• • •

In answer to last week's question—"Brown Prep" is the name given to the building located between the library and our C.&F. building. We're surprised too.

We received an unexpected visit recently from our former editor, John Burns. Poor boy, his vocabulary still covers the infinite range—Oh to Ahh!! To think they kill dogs!!

The best recorded time in the latest numbers puzzles craze was chalked up by Don Collins. Unofficial time is 2:50.

Joe Hoffman, Villanova's man about town really came up with a corker recently. A former Immaculatan with whom Joe has been corresponding seems to have failed to answer one of his recent letters. Joe's answer to one of the fellows when questioned on the subject was, "Perhaps she's not back from Rhode Island yet and hasn't received the letter." Our informer' asked what she was doing there, so Joe repled, "She and her mother went to Rhode Island for a summer vacation." We wonder if she is trying to pull the wool over Joe's eyes or maybe she just meant an "Indian Summer" vacation.

• • •

The "Jump Boys" from the Devon Horse Show, composed Jim Riley, Bill Ferguson and Ed Keller, are going to work in the 30th Street Post Office during the Christmas rush. If your mail is delayed, you know why. They are also known as the, "You Do It, I'm Tired" Boys.

• • •

A little lyric that we dug out of our cob-webbed minds is dedicated to Charlie, Villanova's beloved barber.

Villanova Barber

Maybe your girl friend thought you cute
But for her opinion I don't give a hoot
To me your just another boot
I am Villanova's barber.

I chuckle with glee as I snip and clip
You hold your breath and bite your lip
But I have you in my clammy grip
I am Villanova's barber.

And when I die and go below
And references I am asked to show
I'll tell old Satan, "You ought to know."
I am Villanova's barber.

And if by chance Heaven is my fate
Please, dear Lord, don't make me wait
Send me more of that Barber Bait
I am Villanova's barber.

• • •

Watch your local news papers for the date of the World Premiere of "Weekend At The Bellevue" starring Jim Meehan.

Seniors Will Present

Continued From Page One

twelve and had his own dance orchestra at sixteen. As well as arranging for Benny Goodman, collaborating with Raymond Scott on acoustical effects for radio music, he has composed a tone poem which was awarded the Thornton Oakley prize for creative composition and premiered by the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Nation-Wide Popularity

Along with everything else, he found time to do "M.C." and play piano at the Stage Door Canteen on Sunday nights. When he was appointed musical director of Station WCAU, the popular CBS program, "Listen to Lawrence," was inaugurated, and with it, nation-wide popularity for the "young man at a piano" and his orchestra.

The principal reason for Elliot Lawrence's success is his thoroughness. Numbered among the personnel of his band are men who have played with such currently popular bands as Tommy Dorsey, Benny Goodman, Charlie Barnet, Bob Crosby, Abe Lyman, Jimmy Dorsey and Clyde McCoy.

His talent as an arranger and composer was soon recognized by musicians and critics alike, and as a result, his arrangement on "Rumanian Rhapsody" was featured by Benny Goodman in the Billy Rose production "Seven Lively Arts."

Lawrence's two vocalists, Jack Hunter and Rosalind Patton, both are war veterans — Jack having served with the Marine Corps while the latter performed with an entertainment unit in the Special Services Branch of the WAVES.

OPERA MUSIC AT SEMINAR TODAY

The Music Seminar will meet as usual, today at 12:40, in Room 215 Mendel. The program will consist of selections from the operas. The following week, Dec. 18, 1945, the program will feature Christmas music, both vocal and symphonic.

New Officer Joins Training Staff

Assumes Duties Of Director Of Naval Physical Training Program

Last week Lt. (jg) William T. Robertson was added to the Navy staff in the capacity of Officer in Charge of Physical Training.

Lt. Robertson was born south of the Mason-Dixon line in Petersburg, Va. in April, 1914 and received his early education at the grade and high schools of that city. In 1933 he enrolled at the University of Richmond, graduating with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1937. While at the university he won 3 letters in sports: football, basketball and golf.

LT. (jg) WM. T. ROBERTSON

Lt. Robertson entered the Navy in March 1944 and was sent to Hollywood, Florida, Indoctrination School, where he was commissioned an Ensign in the United States Naval Reserve upon completion of his training. After receiving his commission he was assigned to Gulfport, Miss. and later to the Armed Guard School at New Orleans for training in Gunnery. Upon completion of the required studies, Lt. Robertson was assigned to a tanker, the S.S. Pacific, as Armed Guard Commander with duty in the Caribbean area for 4 months.

Assigned to Pacific

After this assignment, he was transferred to a Liberty Aircraft Carrier and a Liberty Ammunition Ship and saw duty in the Pacific. Further orders brought him to Villanova as Athletic Officer.

Lt. Robertson stated that the Navy and Marine Trainees are in good physical shape and that the Physical Training program this semester will be devoted to the maintenance of the present level. He also said that the trainees will continue to have one to two days each week of calisthentic workouts and that the rest of the days will be devoted to sports, physical games and tumbling.

Managing Editor To Be Discharged From Navy

Russell Welsh To Replace Fred Koch On Villanovan Staff

Transfer of the managing editorship of the Villanovan occurred this week when it was learned that the present managing editor, Fred Koch, has accumulated enough points for release from the Navy. Fred surrendered his position to the capable hands of Russel Welsh.

The oath was taken by Fred on May 29th, 1942, and since then he has had an adventuresome cruise. After completing the usual procedure of boots and service school, Hospital Apprentice Koch was assigned to Mobile Hospital No. 3 which was then located in Samoa. Unfortunately, Fred arrived in Samoa at a critical time during the Pacific war, and the outpost spent a jittery period before the danger of invasion passed. The 15 months spent in Samoa were not wasted. When Fred was selected for V-12 training he had already advanced to the rating of Pharmacist's Mate 2/C and was head corpsman in the operating room.

FRED J. KOCH

Upon entering Villanova in March of 1944, Fred matriculated under the pre-medical course. immediately his amiable personality was felt about the campus. Seldom, if ever, has a derogatory remark been made about him. Unfortunately for Fred, bad luck was to come his way. Although he worked at his studies with his characteristic zeal, it was still not enough to offset the handicap of the illnesses that forced Fred to abandon his plans of medicine and turned to business course.

Campus Activities

Since entering Villanova, Fred has distinguished himself by taking the initiative in originating new extra-curricular activities. His first project, taken in company with others, was the bowling league which is currently in operation. It was the winter of 1944 when Fred and his associates turned their energies toward forming the league. From the weekly reports received from the league, it is obvious that their work was not in vain.

Another of Fred's ideas which materialized was the formation of the tennis tournament, which ran through the past summer.

The master's hand was again felt, but this time as chairman of the dance committee for the Sophomore Cotillion. It is acclaimed by many as the best dance given at Villanova in past few years.

Writes for Villanovan

Fred started with the Villanovan as a sports writer during the summer semester of this year, and reached the crest of his activities at the college by becoming managing editor in November of 1945.

When Mr. Koch resumes his job as assistant buyer for a wholesale merchandising firm in his home town of Columbus, Ohio, he can be sure that his presence will be missed by his many friends out Villanova way.

The Villanovan staff has been fortunate in securing a capable successor to Fred in the person of Russell Welsh. A former sailor in the Navy V-12 unit at Villanova, Russell has taken the reins from the hands of Fred and very capably guided the newspaper in its last few editions.

Studied At St. Meinrad

Before entering the Navy, Rusty was a student at St. Meinrad College in Indiana. Coincidentally, Russell too emerged from the rigors of early Navy life as a corpsman, but his was a different lot. It was Russell's fate to be assigned to the Fleet Marine Forces with which he served for 11 months. He then entered Villanova to continue his studies as a pre-med under the V-12 program.

While at Villlanova Russ found time for many extra-curricular

MANAGING EDITOR
Continued on Page Eight

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

Continued From Page Three

her. It was wonderful. Well, anyway, after three years of high school, Bucky was sent to the state pen, no, that must be Penn State. Yes, that's it, Penn State. While there he joined the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity, about which you may read a stirring articles in this week's Life Magazine, and completed a year and a half of college before joining the Navy and coming to Villanova on July 2, 1944. His activities require the removal of shoes to add up, but a few are the intramural, softball and basketball teams, the ASME, and the extra curricula poker club. Villanova, too, has profited by his presents. By presents we mean one pine tree in front of Austin Hall. And that, we might add, is where the name Bucky originated. It's a long story, but to make it longer here goes. Bucky is a descriptive adjective for a wild horse. Hoarse is the condition of the throat when slightly under the weather. Whether suggests indecision. De incision is bloody. Blood is red. Red the color of fire engines. Fire engines stop fires. Fires are started by Bucky and there you have it. Which brings us to the time that Bucky, in a reminiscent mood, thought he was Mrs. O'Leary's cow. However, he not only kicked over the kerosene lamp, but threw it out the window. It wasn't long before his reverie was broken and Bucky was just plain broke.

His ambitions are many, but mainly he yearns to be an ex-Navy man. He also wants to join his one hundred and ten brothers at Penn State. Having made things about as uninteresting as possible, we present Robert Hall Moore. Glad to meet cha.

The Pepper

Robert, I've got my fingers in more stuff, Joseph Conway is next on the list of guys suing us for liable. However, here we've got to use a little more care as the guy has mad desires about becoming a legal grafter. It all started in June, which comes around every year, 1925 on the 18th in that suburb of Bayonne, Newark. Roberto went to school. After that he came to Villanova. At Sacred Heart grammar school in Newark, he learned to read, but then came Seton High Preparatory School in South Orange and the kid really knocked himself out. To enumerate: the J.V. football team, the school paper, the debating club, the Knights of Setonia, and the fencing team, on which he was the first Irishman, occupied some of the free time along with being treasurer of the Senior class, and sports editor of the yearbook.

ROBERT J. CONWAY

On 1 July 1943, along with a few hundred other bewildered young souls, Mr. Conway journeyed to Villanova. They, referring to guys like Dave Ryan, the editor of this rag, saw a good man and promptly cornered him. As a consequence, the following: the baseball team, the Villanovan, the Belle Air, the Spanish club, the D.P.E. and the Senior class have all had their share of Bob. He managed the baseball team, was secretary and then president of the Financier's frat, and treasurer of the Senior class.

Bob has wild ideas about going to law school and then doing his apprenticeship with a good firm before entering the bar. Gung-ho! Nancie is the attractive attraction which keeps Bob busy buying beautiful boxes of Bachelor's Buttons, brother, and we do mean. Le finis.

Having polished off this week's customers, we feel we should try to dream up some remarkably foreign sounding phrase, or perhaps walk off with the genius of some poor comic strip writer. That would finish things in fine fashion. It seems to be in style this semester. But that is a little out of the question, as we can hardly speak English, so we remain yours truly,

C.A. and C.D.

PKP Set Plans For Social Events

The annual initiation of the Phi Kappa Pi Fraternity will be held on Thursday night, January 10. Membership in the society is open to all engineers. There will be a special meeting this week to distribute application blanks to all those wishing to join. Anyone who is unable to attend this meeting should see Jos. H. Hoffman in Room 11 O'Dwyer. The initiation will be directed by Stephen Gasparovic and William Boyle.

Tentative dates have been set for future activities. A smoker will be held about February 7 or 8 to distribute keys to all those graduating in February who are eligible to receive them. There has been some favorable discussion about having an Interfraternity Ball about April 20. The date of the annual Dinner Dance, which will be open only to members of the Frat, has been tentatively set for May 25. At this affair the keys will be awarded to the graduates of the June class.

Joseph Brogan, Treasurer of Phi Kap, is compiling a list of all those entitled to receive keys both in February and in June. All members who are eligible but have reason to believe they will not be included should contact him immediately.

Villanova Students

Continued From Page One

training because it will be taking a step of precaution in insuring future protection. The good points outweigh the bad."

Robert K. Shelton, U.S.M.C.: "Definitely not. That year will be wasted, for those trained will be too old to fight when needed. Besides, it doesn't take very long to train an army."

Donald M. Collins, Veteran: "I believe that in conjunction with the obvious good points of peacetime conscription, it has also the advantage of making the present two-year veterans eligible for discharge."

John Selfridge: "No. It will rob fellows of the opportunities of schooling and take them away from family ties when they need the home influence most. Moreover, it doesn't fit into our concept of world peace."

Thomas Donnelly: "I don't believe that peace time conscription will offer any advantage that can't be had in civilian life. The training offered is so restricted and technical that it will be of little value upon the trainee's release from service. What is learned now by the draftee will be obsolete in ten years."

THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS
Longines
THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE

COLLEGE MEN MUST FACE THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF A NEW WORLD

By DONALD COLLINS

For fifteen years after World War 1, the American scene served as a backdrop for one of the most bizarre dances of national corruption and indifference that the world has ever known. The black vapors of oil reserve scandals and the farce of prohibition putrescence crept even to the gates of the White House. The large American cities were controlled by the lowest classes of society; racketeer and gunmen ruled from thrones of hooch; open disregard of the Constitution was characteristic not only of the anti-social but also of the so-called respectable citizens.

Racy minded trials, cross-word puzzles and marathon dances limited the scope of John Doe. The American people had shirked the responsibility of guiding the League of Nations and now, in character, attempted to escape their national duties. Fat and avaricious capitalists continued unrestrained and unnoticed, piling up the boom pyramid of paper money while striking the spark which would ignite this sham Golconda, leaving the American economy to perish in its flames. Public opinion, which could have stopped, controlled, or prevented these national scandals from arising, turned its voice into the more enjoyable and less difficult path of 'knock-knock' and the 'Babe's' home run record. The people seemed to forget that they lived, for better or worse, in a democracy; they refused to accept government by the people, ignored Euclid's prime postulate, did not realize that a government is only as honest and as capable as its ruling class.

What is the situation today? How staunch the character of the nation, how honest its purpose?

Leadership Entails Responsibility

We are American men, rather a noble title for most, and yet that's what we are, ultimate rulers of the richest, most liberal and most powerful nation of God's earth. Yes, that is a responsibility, but that is not all. On our shoulers is placed as well the fine, but weighty cloak, reserved for those who, as Catholics and moreover as College men, are fitted to form the opinions of the less fortunate. We are to be engineers, professional and business men, most of us will be included in the economic keystone of the upper middle class; our judgments will be respected and our mode of life, an example.

Truly, the American college and university is the arsenal of democracy. Many of us fought in this great War, all have sacrificed; but again we must take up arms. We must seize upon our educational opportunities, we must learn above all the true status of man, his relationship to reality, his purpose and the means of their attainment. We must learn man's actual relationship to his fellow man. And all the while we are to acquire the bearing and the persuasive power to effect the application of our principles.

The Cost of Progress

Why are these responsibilities thrown upon us? Why can we not live as simply, and as detachedly as did our forefathers? Why is the rifle fired in far off Calcutta so vastly more important than your new car? Why have values lost their allegiance to intimate concerns and pledged themselves to the more remote circumstances?

Look to your gifts! To your father's dreams, they would seem even more impossible than you problems. Consider the progress of modern transportation and communication; the diminishment of man's share of toil; the increment of his general wealth.

Our Brother's Keeper

Duty still walks hand in hand with privilege. The responsibilities of a new world are part of the legacy of modern science. Our brother is everywhere, our fate is influenced by every tension.

The difficulties are great. Failure would be catastrophic, but victory, glorious.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcat Outreaches Tiger

Ed Reybitz (17), Villanova center, leaps high for jump ball with Johnny Doar (5), Princeton guard, in last Wedesday's game. Phil Fehl (7), Priceton forward, looks on.

'Cats Tamed by Tigers, 47 - 40, In Close Game

Villanova Half-Time Lead Wiped Out By Princeton Second Half Drive; Lord Again High Scorer

By JIM McNAMARA

Princeton's Tigers fought back with jungle vengeance last Wednesday night to claw the Wildcats 47-40 in the Cat's lair. Augmented by four new players, the Princeton team displayed a brilliant attack against the Cats.

"Toad" Hannan drew first blood when he dropped a set shot from outside after 40 seconds, and Bob "Major" McDonnell added a free throw to put Villanova in the lead. With the Wildcats finding the target from long range and Princeton racking up lay-ups, fed from the pivot, double-deckers were exchanged throughout a nip-and-tuck first half. Neither team boasted of more than a three point lead at any time during the first twenty minutes. The indomitable Joe Lord, handicapped by two bad ankles, by racking up five points in the first half set the pace again this week, and held an over-anxious club together. Princeton took the lead at 10-9 and 20-18, but both times the 'Cats parried and fought back. "Robbie" Robertson had the Field House foundations rocking when, with the 'Cats trailing 20-18 and the half drawing to a close, he dropped five straight points in the space of fifteen seconds. Princeton weathered the storm and added a goal from the floor to stand within flirting distance of the home club at intermission. Villanova led 23-22.

Princeton Takes Lead

Joe Brehmer dropped two quick goals to open the second half, and it appeared that the latent power which the team possesses, but has as yet not displayed, would finally be unveiled. But, no—Princeton cagily slowed the tempo of the game, and the offensive-conscious locals cooled off. The defense weaked, and Art Wilson, agile Negro guard, time and again found himself dribbling through a "mirage" of defenders for easy two-pointers. Robertson came through with two points, and Reybitz contributed one more to tie the score at 30-30. Wilson sent the Bengals out front, this time for keeps, with a one hand stab from close quarters. Doar added three, Wilson notched five, and Skolnick two to assume the comfortable margin of 42-32.

McDonnell executed the pick-and-go when he cut past his man, who was effectively screened out of the play, and stabbed a lay-up. Lord, not familiar with playing on a trailing team, scored twice again, and Villanova's basketeers closed the gap to 42-38. Princeton's Phil Fehl and Villanova's Bill Doherty exchanged baskets. Coach Al Severance almost choked on his leg-

TIGERS DOWN 'CATS
Continued on Page Six

'Cats Downed By Bucknell, 43-32

Late Villanova Rally Falls Short As Wilson Leads Winners. Reybitz Scores 13

By DICK SOMERS

The Bucknell jinx continued as Villanova dropped its fourth game in a row to the upstaters and also absorbed its second successive defeat by a 43-32 count. Failure to gain possession of the ball off the backboards in addition to butterfinger ball handling hampered the 'Cats offensive maneuvers throughout three-quarters of the game. Another noticeable weakness was on the foul line as the locals made only six out of twenty-two chances from the fifteen foot mark.

Ed Reybitz was the lone bright spot in a losing cause. He was the only one capable of garnering rebounds and also found the range for six baskets. Added to his foul these give him high honors for 'Cats. Joe Hannan with three and two was the only other consistant scorer for the Blue and White.

Gene Wilson took high scoring honors for the night with 14 points. Frank Haas was right behind him with six double deckers. Between them they came within four points of the entire Villanova total. Don Frazier, who had seven points for the night, contributed two baskets in the second quarter that doomed the local cause.

Bisons Score First

Bucknell took control at the opening tap-off and ran up a four-point lead on a field goal and foul by Wilson and a foul by Dick McGinn. Reybitz broke the ice for Villanova with a foul shot. The Bisons continued after this rude interruption with a foul by Frazier, a set shot by Haas, and a foul goal by Jim Seel. At the seven minute mark, Hannon connected for the first local field goal. This started a rally that carried the blue and white into the lead at 10-8. Reybitz followed up Robertson's foul attempt for the second two-pointer. Then Joe Lord, who saw limited service because of his bad ankles, tapped in McDonnell's miss from the fifteen-foot mark. "Maj" made good on his next attempt and Reybitz converted a pass from Hannon to give Villanova the lead. With two seconds remaining in the first period, Wilson stole the ball and dribbled in for the tying points.

Second Quarter

Lord quickly broke the tie by dropping one from twenty feet out. Phil Fluchaus added one point to the Herd's total and Frazier put them in front by picking up a loose ball for a lay-up shot. Hannon cut

BUCKNELL GAME
Continued on Page Six

Steve Pritko On 1945 All-Pro Team

One of the finest ends in Villanova history, Steve Pritko, last week was selected on the 1945 All-Pro team. Playing this year for the Cleveland Rams, Steve has been outstanding and was almost a unanimous choice for the right end position.

Pritko captained the Wildcats in the annual Temple-Villanova game in 1942, which was his senior year. His three seasons at Villanova were crowded with many fine performances on the gridiron. Playing with the State Champion Northampton High team in 1937, Steve was a letter winner in football, basketball and track.

He is the third former Villanovan to make All Pro honors. Eddie Michaels, of the Eagles, was a perennial choice for the team and Johnny Mellus, of the Giants, was another top performer

'Cats to Play Fordham And Kings Point Teams

Meet Rams At Fieldhouse Wednesday Night. Coach "Bo" Adams Squad Packed With New Yorkers

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova's basketeers will meet their second Jesuit school to-morrow night when they tangle with Fordham's Rams in the Wildcat lair starting at 8:30 P. M. This season marks the return of the New York school to full sports competition after a short lapse effected by the war. That is no indication that the Villanovans should have an easy time, however, for Georgetown, the other Jesuit institution that was inactive during the war, gave the Wildcats a pretty busy evening before succumbing, 40-37, in the season's opener.

Fordham is represented by an entirely new array and Coach Frank "Bo" Adams has a rather undesirable task in tutoring the Rams. His squad is composed almost entirely of young players drawn from the New York area, only one, forward Herb Clann, being a "foreigner." Clann hails from Tampa, Fla. Height is lent to the team by the presence of John Kupillas and Don O'Brien, two 6' 4" pivotmen.

This inexperience was manifested in the Rams' opening game loss to Panzer College last Friday night. In this, their only game played to date, they folded up too soon and were returned losers 69 to 43. Gene Taylor led the losers' scoring with ten points. He was aided by Bill Miehe and Al Restive who chipped in with 4 field goals each, but none of the others were able to hit with any consistency.

However, there is no doubt that they will correct plenty of their mistakes from that tussle, so they shouldn't be regarded too lightly. The Wildcats certainly should remember the Princeton game. After being trounced by Muhlenberg a week before, the Tigers came to the Main Line with some corrected mistakes and the addition of a few discharged veterans who made the difference in the ball game.

Coach Al Severance hopes to have his complete squad available for this tilt. Both Carl Fugelstad and Bill Tone have been hampered by injuries thus far, but should be

FORDHAM GAME
Continued on Page Six

Meet First Service Rival Friday Night At Kings Point. Home And Home Series

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova's Wildcats engage their first service squad of the season when they travel to Kings Point, N. Y., to meet the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy on Friday night. This game will be the first of two meetings scheduled between the two fives, a return match being listed for the home court on January 23.

The Mariners, tutored by Earl Brown, former Dartmouth coach, boast a 2-0 record at this writing. They trounced Queens College, 54-27, in their opener and checked in with a 42-31 victory over Union College last Thursday. The 'Cats, in seeking to stop Kings Point's infant streak, will be coming up against a coach who compiled an amazing record while at the Ivy school in New Hampshire. Brown piloted Dartmouth to seven straight Ivy League court crowns before being stopped by Penn last year. Throughout that time he was also the guide of the Indians' gridiron destinies and during the past season he performed capably as Mariner football mentor. So the Wildcats will be pitted against a team that, through the fortunes of war, is gifted with a successful, experienced coach. If Brown's pupils are as apt as they have been in the past, the Wildcats will be in for a busy evening.

Boast Good Record

If the Kings Pointers enter the fray unbeaten, the men on whom Coach Al Severance will lean upon most heavily to halt their streak will again be veterans of Joe Lord and Bob "Major" McDonnell. In both games to date Lord has been the top point-getter. McDonnell, absent for the opener, is expected to coordinate the offense by his snappy, clever play. "Toad" Hannan, Joe Brehmer, Ed Reybitz, Don Robertson, and Bill Burr are others who hope to keep the Mariners' lines fouled, with footballer Bill Doherty also ready for action.

This will be the first of quite a few Wildcat sojourns into the state of New York. It also marks the first meeting between the two schools in any athletic endeavor. Let's hope that it will be the first of two Wildcat victories over the Academy five this season.

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS

Basketball prospects at Villanova took on a rosy glow when Uncle Sam released Joe Lord and "Major" McDonnell. Coach Al Severance forgot to take sleeping pills for several nights when he heard the news. This solved two-fifths of his problem for this season in selecting his starting team.

This will serve as an introduction to two boys from the old, carefree days at Villanova when a uniform on the campus was a curiosity and, though present, war seemed to be completely disconnected with college life.

Campus Clown

The incomparable "Major" was the "Clown Prince" of campus life with Joe as his straight man. As master of ceremonies at the boxing bouts Bob invariably brought down the house.

Robert "Call me Major" McDonnell was born and raised in the Kensington section of Philadelphia. His early education was gained at St. Anne's Parochial School, Northeast High, and Brown Prep. Basketball and Baseball occupied his leisure moments in school.

Joseph Lord claims Norristown as his home town. He played basketball and baseball at Rittenhouse Jr. High and Norristown High school. Joe and "Maj" both entered Villanova in September, 1940. They were teammates on a powerful freshman team, a fair sophomore team, and the 1942-43 team that won 19 and lost 2. Joe is a consistent player with a deadly eye from outside the foul circle. His defensive ability will also be an asset to this year's team. Mac isn't spectacular from the standpoint of scoring ability, but he is a steadying influence and sets the tempo of the 'Cats offense.

Both Baseball Players

When the curtain falls on the basketball season both will turn their attention to diamond activities. Bob takes his regular turn on the mound and Joe performs around the keystone sack.

March 1, 1943 marked the departure of our heroes to New Cumberland, Penna. with the Army Enlisted Reserve. Here they began their separate careers in the service. Joe went to Miami Beach for basic training with the Air Corps. Primary training began on May 24. Two weeks later he became an Acting Sergeant. July found him at Davidson College with the College Training Detachment. There he served as Student Corporal, Squadron Captain, and Wing Commander Student Lieutenant Colonel. "Lordy" was classified as a pilot at Nashville after serving as 2nd in Command of his squadron.

Maxwell Field was the next stop

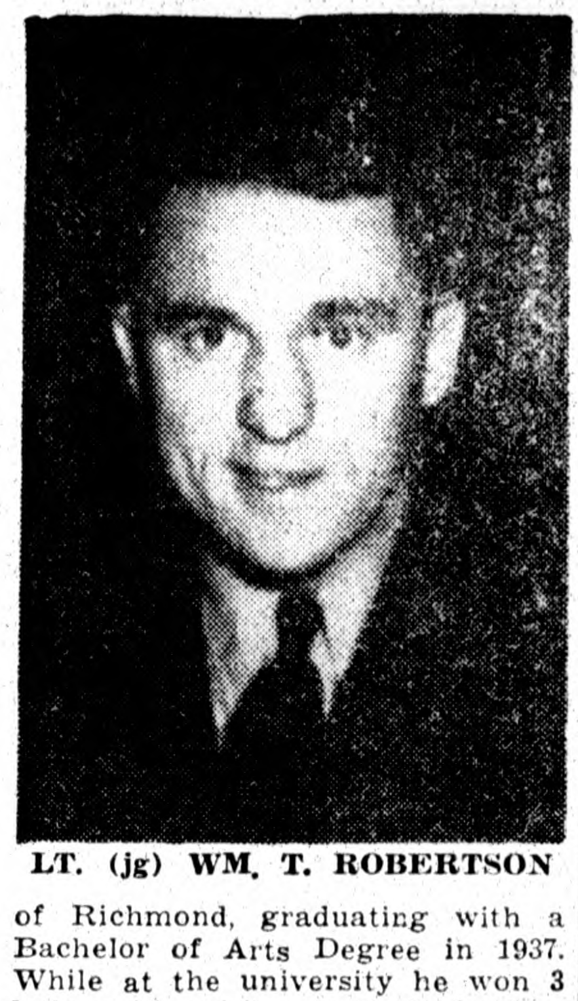
SPORTLIGHT
Continued on Page Six

New Officer Joins Training Staff

Assumes Duties Of Director Of Naval Physical Training Program

Last week Lt. (jg) William T. Robertson was added to the Navy staff in the capacity of Officer in Charge of Physical Training.

Lt. Robertson was born south of the Mason-Dixon line in Petersburg, Va. in April, 1914 and received his early education at the grade and high schools of that city. In 1933 he enrolled at the University of Richmond, graduating with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1937. While at the university he won 3 letters in sports: football, basketball and golf.



LT. (jg) WM. T. ROBERTSON

Lt. Robertson entered the Navy in March 1944 and was sent to Hollywood, Florida, Indoctrination School, where he was commissioned an Ensign in the United States Naval Reserve upon completion of his training. After receiving his commission he was assigned to Gulfport, Miss. and later to the Armed Guard School at New Orleans for training in Gunnery. Upon completion of the required studies, Lt. Robertson was assigned to a tanker, the S.S. Pacific, as Armed Guard Commander with duty in the Caribbean area for 4 months.

Assigned to Pacific

After this assignment, he was transferred to a Liberty Aircraft Carrier and a Liberty Ammunition Ship and saw duty in the Pacific. Further orders brought him to Villanova as Athletic Officer.

Lt. Robertson stated that the Navy and Marine Trainees are in good physical shape and that the Physical Training program this semester will be devoted to the maintenance of the present level. He also said that the trainees will continue to have one to two days each week of calisthentic workouts and that the rest of the days will be devoted to sports, physical games and tumbling.

Managing Editor To Be Discharged From Navy

Russell Welsh To Replace Fred Koch On Villanovan Staff

Transfer of the managing editorship of the Villanovan occurred this week when it was learned that the present managing editor, Fred Koch, has accumulated enough points for release from the Navy. Fred surrendered his position to the capable hands of Russel Welsh.

The oath was taken by Fred on May 29th, 1942, and since then he has had an adventuresome cruise. After completing the usual procedure of boots and service school, Hospital Apprentice Koch was assigned to Mobile Hospital No. 3 which was then located in Samoa. Unfortunately, Fred arrived in Samoa at a critical time during the Pacific war, and the outpost spent a jittery period before the danger of invasion passed. The 15 months spent in Samoa were not wasted. When Fred was selected for V-12 training he had already advanced to the rating of Pharmacist's Mate 2/C and was head corpsman in the operating room.

FRED J. KOCH

Upon entering Villanova in March of 1944, Fred matriculated under the pre-medical course. immediately his amiable personality was felt about the campus. Seldom, if ever, has a derogatory remark been made about him. Unfortunately for Fred, bad luck was to come his way. Although he worked at his studies with his characteristic zeal, it was still not enough to offset the handicap of the illnesses that forced Fred to abandon his plans of medicine and turned to business course.

Campus Activities

Since entering Villanova, Fred has distinguished himself by taking the initiative in originating new extra-curricular activities. His first project, taken in company with others, was the bowling league which is currently in operation. It was the winter of 1944 when Fred and his associates turned their energies toward forming the league. From the weekly reports received from the league, it is obvious that their work was not in vain.

Another of Fred's ideas which materialized was the formation of the tennis tournament, which ran through the past summer.

The master's hand was again felt, but this time as chairman of the dance committee for the Sophomore Cotillion. It is acclaimed by many as the best dance given at Villanova in past few years.

Writes for Villanovan

Fred started with the Villanovan as a sports writer during the summer semester of this year, and reached the crest of his activities at the college by becoming managing editor in November of 1945.

When Mr. Koch resumes his job as assistant buyer for a wholesale merchandising firm in his home town of Columbus, Ohio, he can be sure that his presence will be missed by his many friends out Villanova way.

The Villanovan staff has been fortunate in securing a capable successor to Fred in the person of Russell Welsh. A former sailor in the Navy V-12 unit at Villanova, Russell has taken the reins from the hands of Fred and very capably guided the newspaper in its last few editions.

Studied At St. Meinrad

Before entering the Navy, Rusty was a student at St. Meinrad College in Indiana. Coincidentally, Russell too emerged from the rigors of early Navy life as a corpsman, but his was a different lot. It was Russell's fate to be assigned to the Fleet Marine Forces with which he served for 11 months. He then entered Villanova to continue his studies as a pre-med under the V-12 program.

While at Villlanova Russ found time for many extra-curricular

MANAGING EDITOR
Continued on Page Eight

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

Continued From Page Three

her. It was wonderful. Well, anyway, after three years of high school, Bucky was sent to the state pen, no, that must be Penn State. Yes, that's it, Penn State. While there he joined the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity, about which you may read a stirring articles in this week's Life Magazine, and completed a year and a half of college before joining the Navy and coming to Villanova on July 2, 1944. His activities require the removal of shoes to add up, but a few are the intramural, softball and basketball teams, the ASME, and the extra curricula poker club. Villanova, too, has profited by his presents. By presents we mean one pine tree in front of Austin Hall. And that, we might add, is where the name Bucky originated. It's a long story, but to make it longer here goes. Bucky is a descriptive adjective for a wild horse. Hoarse is the condition of the throat when slightly under the weather. Whether suggests indecision. De incision is bloody. Blood is red. Red the color of fire engines. Fire engines stop fires. Fires are started by Bucky and there you have it. Which brings us to the time that Bucky, in a reminiscent mood, thought he was Mrs. O'Leary's cow. However, he not only kicked over the kerosene lamp, but threw it out the window. It wasn't long before his reverie was broken and Bucky was just plain broke.

His ambitions are many, but mainly he yearns to be an ex-Navy man. He also wants to join his one hundred and ten brothers at Penn State. Having made things about as uninteresting as possible, we present Robert Hall Moore. Glad to meet cha.

The Pepper

Robert, I've got my fingers in more stuff, Joseph Conway is next on the list of guys suing us for liable. However, here we've got to use a little more care as the guy has mad desires about becoming a legal grafter. It all started in June, which comes around every year, 1925 on the 18th in that suburb of Bayonne, Newark. Roberto went to school. After that he came to Villanova. At Sacred Heart grammar school in Newark, he learned to read, but then came Seton High Preparatory School in South Orange and the kid really knocked himself out. To enumerate: the J.V. football team, the school paper, the debating club, the Knights of Setonia, and the fencing team, on which he was the first Irishman, occupied some of the free time along with being treasurer of the Senior class, and sports editor of the yearbook.

ROBERT J. CONWAY

On 1 July 1943, along with a few hundred other bewildered young souls, Mr. Conway journeyed to Villanova. They, referring to guys like Dave Ryan, the editor of this rag, saw a good man and promptly cornered him. As a consequence, the following: the baseball team, the Villanovan, the Belle Air, the Spanish club, the D.P.E. and the Senior class have all had their share of Bob. He managed the baseball team, was secretary and then president of the Financier's frat, and treasurer of the Senior class.

Bob has wild ideas about going to law school and then doing his apprenticeship with a good firm before entering the bar. Gung-ho! Nancie is the attractive attraction which keeps Bob busy buying beautiful boxes of Bachelor's Buttons, brother, and we do mean. Le finis.

Having polished off this week's customers, we feel we should try to dream up some remarkably foreign sounding phrase, or perhaps walk off with the genius of some poor comic strip writer. That would finish things in fine fashion. It seems to be in style this semester. But that is a little out of the question, as we can hardly speak English, so we remain yours truly,

C.A. and C.D.

PKP Set Plans For Social Events

The annual initiation of the Phi Kappa Pi Fraternity will be held on Thursday night, January 10. Membership in the society is open to all engineers. There will be a special meeting this week to distribute application blanks to all those wishing to join. Anyone who is unable to attend this meeting should see Jos. H. Hoffman in Room 11 O'Dwyer. The initiation will be directed by Stephen Gasparovic and William Boyle.

Tentative dates have been set for future activities. A smoker will be held about February 7 or 8 to distribute keys to all those graduating in February who are eligible to receive them. There has been some favorable discussion about having an Interfraternity Ball about April 20. The date of the annual Dinner Dance, which will be open only to members of the Frat, has been tentatively set for May 25. At this affair the keys will be awarded to the graduates of the June class.

Joseph Brogan, Treasurer of Phi Kap, is compiling a list of all those entitled to receive keys both in February and in June. All members who are eligible but have reason to believe they will not be included should contact him immediately.

Villanova Students

Continu d From Page One

training because it will be taking a step of precaution in insuring future protection. The good points outweigh the bad." ,

Robert K. Shelton, U.S.M.C.: "Definitely not. That year will be wasted, for those trained will be too old to fight when needed. Besides, it doesn't take very long to train an army."

Donald M. Collins, Veteran: "I believe that in conjunction with the obvious good points of peacetime conscription, it has also the advantage of making the present two-year veterans eligible for discharge."

John Selfridge: "No. It will rob fellows of the opportunities of schooling and take them away from family ties when they need the home influence most. Moreover, it doesn't fit into our concept of world peace."

Thomas Donnelly: "I don't believe that peace time conscription will offer any advantage that can't be had in civilian life. The training offered is so restricted and technical that it will be of little value upon the trainee's release from service. What is learned now by the draftee will be obsolete in ten years."

COLLEGE MEN MUST FACE THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF A NEW WORLD

By DONALD COLLINS

For fifteen years after World War 1, the American scene served as a backdrop for one of the most bizarre dances of national corruption and indifference that the world has ever known. The black vapors of oil reserve scandals and the farce of prohibition putrescence crept even to the gates of the White House. The large American cities were controlled by the lowest classes of society; racketeer and gunmen ruled from thrones of hooch; open disregard of the Constitution was characteristic not only of the anti-social but also of the so-called respectable citizens.

Racy minded trials, cross-word puzzles and marathon dances limited the scope of John Doe. The American people had shirked the responsibility of guiding the League of Nations and now, in character, attempted to escape their national duties. Fat and avaricious capitalists continued unrestrained and unnoticed, piling up the boom pyramid of paper money while striking the spark which would ignite this sham Golconda, leaving the American economy to perish in its flames. Public opinion, which could have stopped, controlleded, or prevented these national scandals from arising, turned its voice into the more enjoyable and less difficult path of 'knock-knock' and the 'Babe's' home run record. The people seemed to forget that they lived, for better or worse, in a democracy; they refused to accept government by the people, ignored Euclid's prime postulate, did not realize that a government is only as honest and as capable as its ruling class.

What is the situation today? How staunch the character of the nation, how honest its purpose?

Leadership Entails Responsibility

We are American men, rather a noble title for most, and yet that's what we are, ultimate rulers of the richest, most liberal and most powerful nation of God's earth. Yes, that is a responsibility, but that is not all. On our shoulers is placed as well the fine, but weighty cloak, reserved for those who, as Catholics and moreover as College men, are fitted to form the opinions of the less fortunate. We are to be engineers, professional and business men, most of us will be included in the economic keystone of the upper middle class; our judgments will be respected and our mode of life, an example.

Truly, the American college and university is the arsenal of democracy. Many of us fought in this great War, all have sacrificed; but again we must take up arms. We must seize upon our educational opportunities, we must learn above all the true status of man, his relationship to reality, his purpose and the means of their attainment. We must learn man's actual relationship to his fellow man. And all the while we are to acquire the bearing and the persuasive power to effect the application of our principles.

The Cost of Progress

Why are these responsibilities thrown upon us? Why can we not live as simply, and as detachedly as did our forefathers? Why is the rifle fired in far off Calcutta so vastly more important than your new car? Why have values lost their allegiance to intimate concerns and pledged themselves to the more remote circumstances?

Look to your gifts! To your father's dreams, they would seem even more impossible than you problems. Consider the progress of modern transportation and communication; the diminishment of man's share of toil; the increment of his general wealth.

Our Brother's Keeper

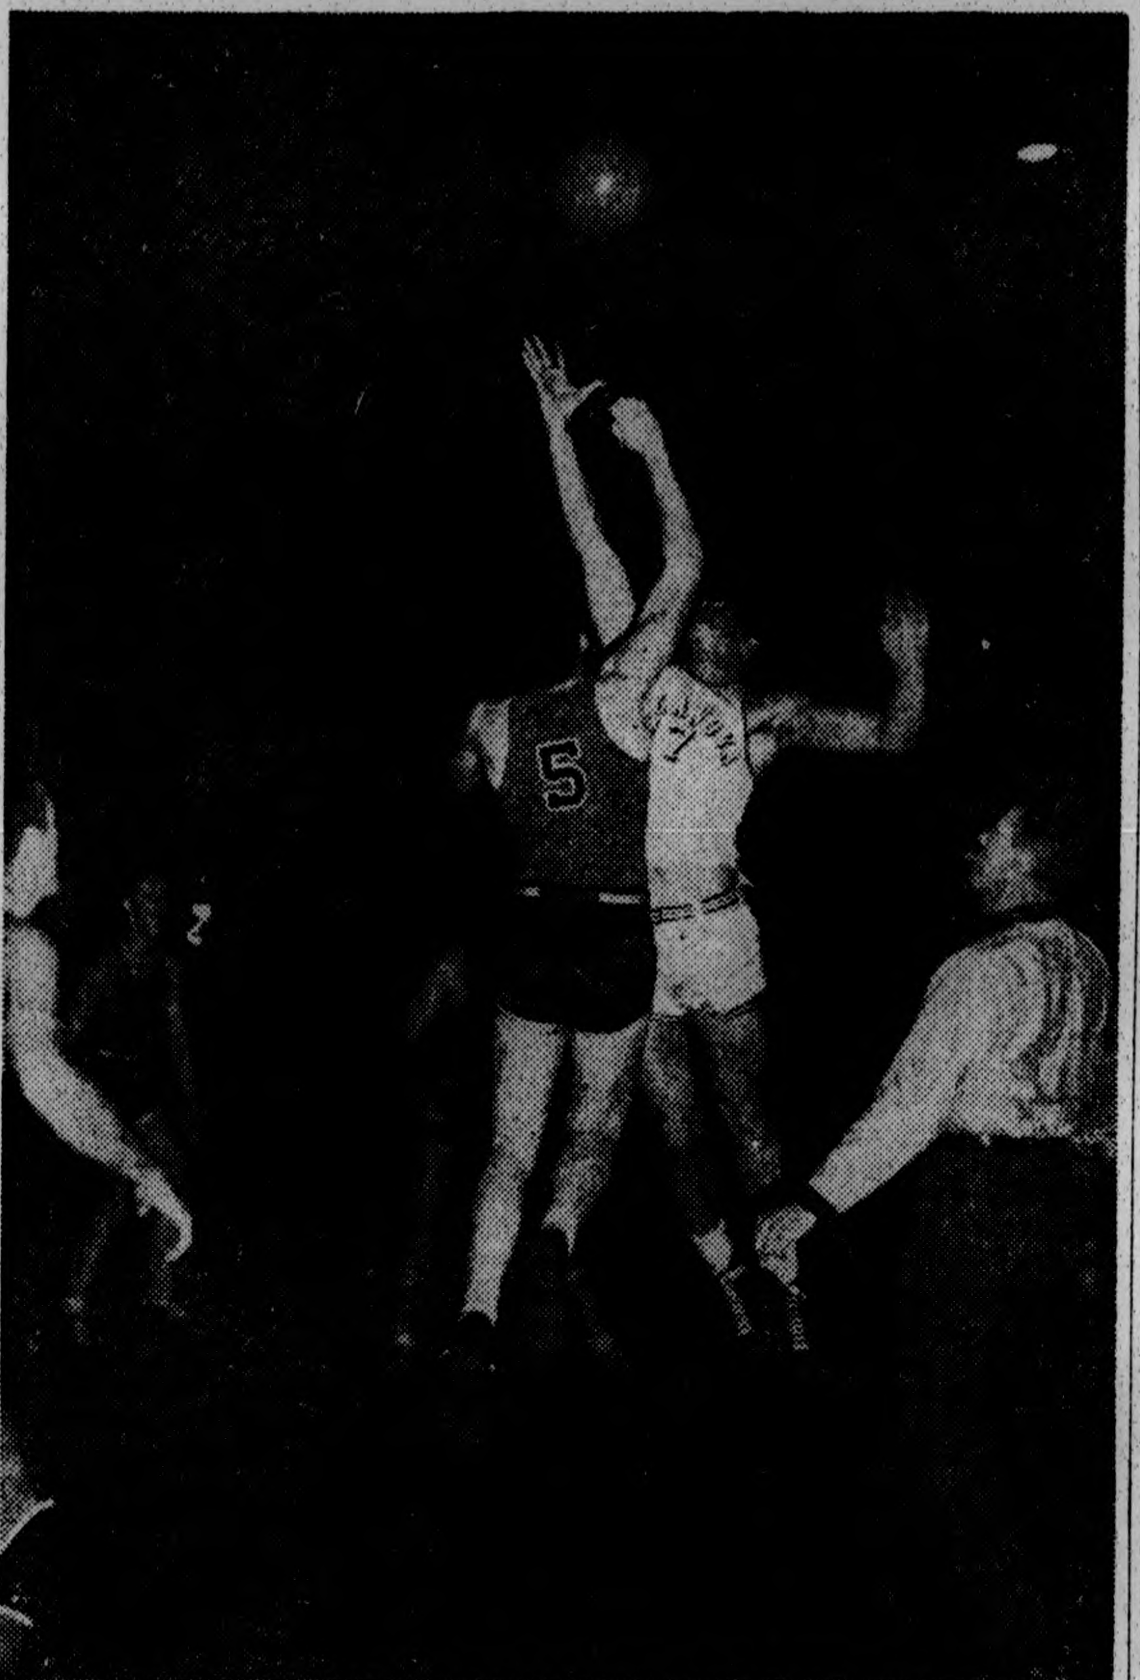
Duty still walks hand in hand with privilege. The responsibilities of a new world are part of the legacy of modern science. Our brother is everywhere, our fate is influenced by every tension.

The difficulties are great. Failure would be catastrophic, but victory, glorious.

THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS
Longines
THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcat Outreaches Tiger



Ed Reybitz (17), Villanova center, leaps high for jump ball with Johnny Doar (5), Princeton guard, in last Wedesday's game. Phil Fehl (7), Priceton forward, looks on.

'Cats Tamed by Tigers, 47-40, In Close Game

Villanova Half-Time Lead Wiped Out By Princeton Second Half Drive; Lord Again High Scorer

By JIM McNAMARA

Princeton's Tigers fought back with jungle vengeance last Wednesday night to claw the Wildcats 47-40 in the Cat's lair. Augmented by four new players, the Princeton team displayed a brilliant attack against the Cats.

"Toad" Hannan drew first blood when he dropped a set shot from outside after 40 seconds, and Bob "Major" McDonnell added a free throw to put Villanova in the lead. With the Wildcats finding the target from long range and Princeton racking up lay-ups, fed from the pivot, double-deckers were exchanged throughout a nip-and-tuck first half. Neither team boasted of more than a three point lead at any time during the first twenty minutes. The indomitable Joe Lord, handicapped by two bad ankles, by racking up five points in the first half set the pace again this week, and held an over-anxious club together. Princeton took the lead at 10-9 and 20-18, but both times the 'Cats parried and fought back. "Robbie" Robertson had the Field House foundations rocking when, with the 'Cats trailing 20-18 and the half drawing to a close, he dropped five straight points in the space of fifteen seconds. Princeton weathered the storm and added a goal from the floor to stand within flirting distance of the home club at intermission. Villanova led 23-22.

Princeton Takes Lead

Joe Brehmer dropped two quick goals to open the second half, and it appeared that the latent power which the team possesses, but has as yet not displayed, would finally be unveiled. But, no—Princeton cagily slowed the tempo of the game, and the offensive-conscious locals cooled off. The defense weaked, and Art Wilson, agile Negro guard, time and again found himself dribbling through a "mirage" of defenders for easy two-pointers. Robertson came through with two points, and Reybitz contributed one more to tie the score at 30-30. Wilson sent the Bengals out front, this time for keeps, with a one hand stab from close quarters. Doar added three, Wilson notched five, and Skolnick two to assume the comfortable margin of 42-32.

McDonnell executed the pick-and-go when he cut past his man, who was effectively screened out of the play, and stabbed a lay-up. Lord, not familiar with playing on a trailing team, scored twice again, and Villanova's basketeers closed the gap to 42-38. Princeton's Phil Fehl and Villanova's Bill Doherty exchanged baskets. Coach Al Severance almost choked on his leg-

TIGERS DOWN 'CATS
Continued on Page Six

'Cats Downed By Bucknell, 43-32

Late Villanova Rally Falls Short As Wilson Leads Winners. Reybitz Scores 13

By DICK SOMERS

The Bucknell jinx continued as Villanova dropped its fourth game in a row to the upstaters and also absorbed its second successive defeat by a 43-32 count. Failure to gain possession of the ball off the backboards in addition to butter-finger ball handling hampered the 'Cats offensive maneuvers throughout three-quarters of the game. Another noticeable weakness was on the foul line as the locals made only six out of twenty—two chances from the fifteen foot mark.

Ed Reybitz was the lone bright spot in a losing cause. He was the only one capable of garnering rebounds and also found the range for six baskets. Added to his foul these give him high honors for 'Cats. Joe Hannan with three and two was the only other consistant scorer for the Blue and White.

Gene Wilson took high scoring honors for the night with 14 points. Frank Haas was right behind him with six double deckers. Between them they came within four points of the entire Villanova total. Don Frazier, who had seven points for the night, contributed two baskets in the second quarter that doomed the local cause.

Bisons Score First

Bucknell took control at the opening tap-off and ran up a four-point lead on a field goal and foul by Wilson and a foul by Dick McGinn. Reybitz broke the ice for Villanova with a foul shot. The Bisons continued after this rude interruption with a foul by Frazier, a set shot by Haas, and a foul goal by Jim Seel. At the seven minute mark, Hannon connected for the first local field goal. This started a rally that carried the blue and white into the lead at 10-8. Reybitz followed up Robertson's foul attempt for the second two-pointer. Then Joe Lord, who saw limited service because of his bad ankles, tapped in McDonnell's miss from the fifteen-foot mark. "Maj" made good on his next attempt and Reybitz converted a pass from Hannon to give Villanova the lead. With two seconds remaining in the first period, Wilson stole the ball and dribbled in for the tying points.

Second Quarter

Lord quickly broke the tie by dropping one from twenty feet out. Phil Fluchaus added one point to the Herd's total and Frazier put them in front by picking up a loose ball for a lay-up shot. Hannon cut

BUCKNELL GAME
Continued on Page Six

Steve Pritko On 1945 All-Pro Team

One of the finest ends in Villanova history, Steve Pritko, last week was selected on the 1945 All-Pro team. Playing this year for the Cleveland Rams, Steve has been outstanding and was almost a unanimous choice for the right end position.

Pritko captained the Wildcats in the annual Temple-Villanova game in 1942, which was his senior year. His three seasons at Villanova were crowded with many fine performances on the gridiron. Playing with the State Champion Northampton High team in 1937, Steve was a letter winner in football, basketball and track.

He is the third former Villanovan to make All Pro honors. Eddie Michaels, of the Eagles, was a perennial choice for the team and Johnny Mellus, of the Giants, was another top performer

'Cats to Play Fordham And Kings Point Teams

Meet Rams At Fieldhouse Wednesday Night. Coach "Bo" Adams Squad Packed With New Yorkers

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova's basketeers will meet their second Jesuit school to-morrow night when they tangle with Fordham's Rams in the Wildcat lair starting at 8:30 P. M. This season marks the return of the New York school to full sports competition after a short lapse effected by the war. That is no indication that the Villanovans should have an easy time, however, for Georgetown, the other Jesuit institution that was inactive during the war, gave the Wildcats a pretty busy evening before succumbing, 40-37, in the season's opener.

Fordham is represented by an entirely new array and Coach Frank "Bo" Adams has a rather undesirable task in tutoring the Rams. His squad is composed almost entirely of young players drawn from the New York area, only one, forward Herb Clann, being a "foreigner." Clann hails from Tampa, Fla. Height is lent to the team by the presence of John Kupillas and Don O'Brien, two 6' 4" pivotmen.

This inexperience was manifested in the Rams' opening game loss to Panzer College last Friday night. In this, their only game played to date, they folded up too soon and were returned losers 69 to 43. Gene Taylor led the losers' scoring with ten points. He was aided by Bill Miehe and Al Restive who chipped in with 4 field goals each, but none of the others were able to hit with any consistency.

However, there is no doubt that they will correct plenty of their mistakes from that tussle, so they shouldn't be regarded too lightly. The Wildcats certainly should remember the Princeton game. After being trounced by Muhlenberg a week before, the Tigers came to the Main Line with some corrected mistakes and the addition of a few discharged veterans who made the difference in the ball game.

Coach Al Severance hopes to have his complete squad available for this tilt. Both Carl Fugelstad and Bill Tone have been hampered by injuries thus far, but should be

FORDHAM GAME
Continued on Page Six

Meet First Service Rival Friday Night At Kings Point. Home And Home Series

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova's Wildcats engage their first service squad of the season when they travel to Kings Point, N. Y., to meet the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy on Friday night. This game will be the first of two meetings scheduled between the two fives, a return match being listed for the home court on January 23.

The Mariners, tutored by Earl Brown, former Dartmouth coach, boast a 2-0 record at this writing. They trounced Queens College, 54-27, in their opener and checked in with a 42-31 victory over Union College last Thursday. The 'Cats, in seeking to stop Kings Point's infant streak, will be coming up against a coach who compiled an amazing record while at the Ivy school in New Hampshire. Brown piloted Dartmouth to seven straight Ivy League court crowns before being stopped by Penn last year. Throughout that time he was also the guide of the Indians' gridiron destinies and during the past season he performed capably as Mariner football mentor. So the Wildcats will be pitted against a team that, through the fortunes of war, is gifted with a successful, experienced coach. If Brown's pupils are as apt as they have been in the past, the Wildcats will be in for a busy evening.

Boast Good Record

If the Kings Pointers enter the fray unbeaten, the men on whom Coach Al Severance will lean upon most heavily to halt their streak will again be veterans of Joe Lord and Bob "Major" McDonnell. In both games to date Lord has been the top point-getter. McDonnell, absent for the opener, is expected to coordinate the offense by his snappy, clever play. "Toad" Hannan, Joe Brehmer, Ed Reybitz, Don Robertson, and Bill Burr are others who hope to keep the Mariners' lines fouled, with footballer Bill Doherty also ready for action.

This will be the first of quite a few Wildcat sojourns into the state of New York. It also marks the first meeting between the two schools in any athletic endeavor. Let's hope that it will be the first of two Wildcat victories over the Academy five this season.

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS

Basketball prospects at Villanova took on a rosy glow when Uncle Sam released Joe Lord and "Major" McDonnell. Coach Al Severance forgot to take sleeping pills for several nights when he heard the news. This solved two-fifths of his problem for this season in selecting his starting team.

This will serve as an introduction to two boys from the old, carefree days at Villanova when a uniform on the campus was a curiosity and, though present, war seemed to be completely disconnected with college life.

Campus Clown

The incomparable "Major" was the "Clown Prince" of campus life with Joe as his straight man. As master of ceremonies at the boxing bouts Bob invariably brought down the house.

Robert "Call me Major" McDonnell was born and raised in the Kensington section of Philadelphia. His early education was gained at St. Anne's Parochial School, Northeast High, and Brown Prep. Basketball and Baseball occupied his leisure moments in school.

Joseph Lord claims Norristown as his home town. He played basketball and baseball at Rittenhouse Jr. High and Norristown High school. Joe and "Maj" both entered Villanova in September, 1940. They were teammates on a powerful freshman team, a fair sophomore team, and the 1942-43 team that won 19 and lost 2. Joe is a consistent player with a deadly eye from outside the foul circle. His defensive ability will also be an asset to this year's team. Mac isn't spectacular from the standpoint of scoring ability, but he is a steadying influence and sets the tempo of the 'Cats offense.

Both Baseball Players

When the curtain falls on the basketball season both will turn their attention to diamond activities. Bob takes his regular turn on the mound and Joe performs around the keystone sack.

March 1, 1943 marked the departure of our heroes to New Cumberland, Penna. with the Army Enlisted Reserve. Here they began their separate careers in the service. Joe went to Miami Beach for basic training with the Air Corps. Primary training began on May 24. Two weeks later he became an Acting Sergeant. July found him at Davidson College with the College Training Detachment. There he served as Student Corporal, Squadron Captain, and Wing Commander Student Lieutenant Colonel. "Lordy" was classified as a pilot at Nashville after serving as 2nd in Command of his squadron.

Maxwell Field was the next stop

SPORTLIGHT
Continued on Page Six

BOB McDONNELL (9) JOE LORD (5)

Sportlight

Continued From Page Five

in Joe's travels with the Air Corps. Here he was Squad Sergeant and was elected athletic chairman of his squad. This group won the Field basketball title with Joe averaging 24 points for the seven games played. About this time the Army decided that it had an excess number of pilots and shipped him to San Angelo, Texas, for advanced bomber training from May to September of 1944.

Served Over Burma

Joe began overseas training in November and was transferred to Fort Dix for specialized training. In April of 1945 he went to India and participated in 5 mission over Burma before the war ended. The squadron returned in November and Joe received his discharge on the 23d.

"Major" took basic training at Camp Robinson and joined the 379th Infantry Regiment of the 95th (Victory) Division at Fort Sam Houston.

Maneuvers took Bob to Camp Shelby where he pitched the Regimental team to the Post Championship. From there he had desert training in California, returned East to climb the mountains of West Virginia, and then to Indiantown Gap. At the Gap he coached the Regimental Basketball team.

Fought in France

Pfc. McDonnell participated in three European battles: Northern France, the Rhineland, and Central Europe. These carried him through France, Luxembourg, Belgium, Holland, and Germany in addition to England. His decorations include the Combat Infantry Badge, Bronze Star, and European Theater Ribbon with three battle stars.

Bucknell Game

Continued From Page Five

under the basket and converted a pass from McDonnell and the 'Cats were back in the lead, 14-13. Roger Joest batted in a re-bound and Bucknell was back in front 15-14. This lasted about thirty seconds as Don Robertson made good from the foul line to tie the score at 15-all with three minutes to go in the half. Bucknell came down the floor and Haas put them in front with a lay-up. Wilson converted a technical foul and Frazier sealed Villanova's doom with a long shot to make the score 20-15. McDonnell and Wilson traded goals to make the half-time totals 22-17.

Reybitz Starts Rally

The Bisons opened the third period scoring as Seel converted a foul. Brehmer equalized this for the 'Cats. Both teams traded field goals as Wilson stile the ball and dribbled in for a shot and Hannon connected from the outside. A flurry of Bucknell goals, three by Haas and one each by Wilson and Don Trainer in addition to a foul by Fluchaus, increased its lead to 36-20. Reybitz started a futile counter rally with a goal in the last two seconds of the period.

Fourth Quarter

Hannon made a foul and Reybitz added two more lay-ups to bring the totals to 36-27, with five minutes to play. Within the next minute foul goals were exchanged by Frazier and Hannon and Wilson made good on a foul before Reybitz and Burr tapped in baskets to complete the Villanova scoring for the evening. Bucknell had the last say as Haas dropped a set shot and Frazier added a foul to make the final score read 43-32.

Ausmen, Doms Tops In League

Doms Down Marines In Overtime To Tie Sailors For League Lead. Ausmen Set High Score

Getting off to a fast start in the Intramural League last week, the Ausmen (Austin-Mendel Sailors) jumped in to the League lead by winning their first two games, but were tied by the Doms who also won their two opening games.

On Monday night they defeated Fedigan Hall's swabbies in a slow, 24-17 contest. Diminutive forward Agnew was high scorer with nine points, all made in the hectic first half. Redmond and Peksa's four points apiece for the losers couldn't stop the Ausmen's drive. The following night they won their second game by downing the Alumni Hall civilian team, 38-24. The first half score was 13-9, but a fast, high-scoring second half gave the winners the top score of the week. Milsop and Sonner led the Ausmen with thirteen and ten points respectively.

Doms Win in Overtime

The second game Monday night proved the closest of the week. In it the Doms defeated the Marines, 34-32, with Bill Boyle's field goal in a sudden-death overtime period giving them the victory. At the end of the regulation time the score was tied at 30-30. Shelton scored for the Marines in the opening seconds of the first overtime period, but Newt Ward tied the score with another two-pointer a minute later. This left the score tied at 32-32 when the overtime period ended and set the stage for Boyle's score in the Sudden-death period.

Wednesday night the Doms staved off a last minute Alumni rally to win 28-26 and tie the Ausmen for the League lead. Gaffney and O'Brien's seven points apiece were high for the winners, while Dwyer's seven was high for the losers.

In the opening week's other game, Fedigan Hall Downed the Marines, 30-19, to hold onto third place in the League Standings. Bob Trichtinger scored seven for the winners while Jackman led the Marines with six points.

Tigers Down 'Cats

Continued From Page Five

endary stogey when he saw his proteges, with still two minutes to play, taking wild stabs which usually coincide with the bark of the final gun. Princeton added three more to settle the issue, and the final score read 47-40 in their favor.

Lord Matches Doar

The second half was highlighted by Joe Lord and John Doar engaging in a shooting duel, each emerging with three field goals. When the initiative fell from Lord to his teammates, the lead fell from Villanova to Princeton.

This year's representatives of Villanova on the wooded arena are not to be held lightly. Man for man they are potentially as strong as any team that should invade our home grounds this season. When the early season kinks are ironed out, and our ball hawks find themselves, they should display what is highly expected from such an aggregation of talent.

Vet Appointed Cafeteria Mgr.

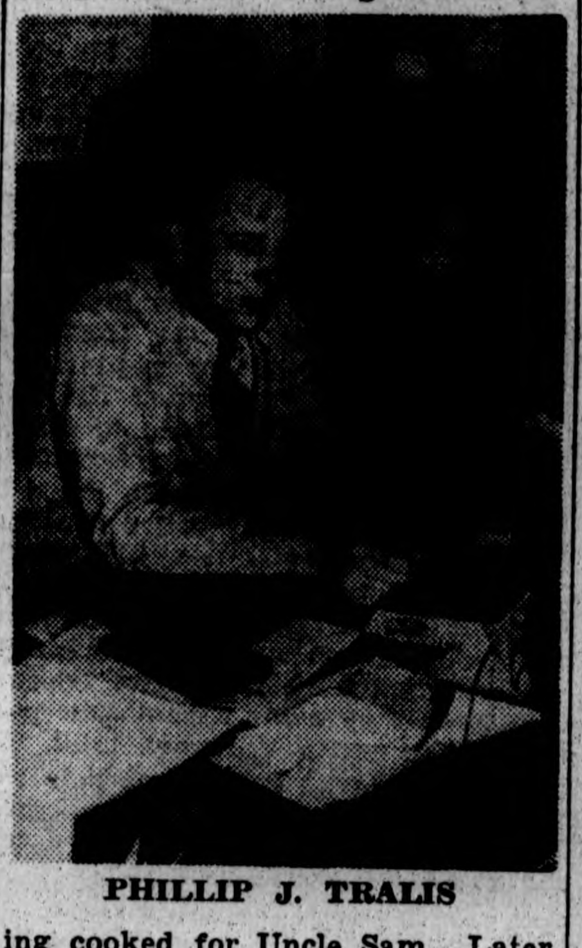
Mr. Tralis Returns After Thirty-Four Months In Army

After thirty-four months of Army duty, Phillip J. Tralis, erstwhile cafeteria manager has returned to our campus in his former capacity. To many students, Mr. Tralis is an entirely new personality, thus introductions are in order.

Mr. Tralis was born in the neighboring borough of Philadelphia on the pre-war date of November 13, 1914. He entered St. Ludwig's Parochial school, graduated and matriculated at the old Central High School. Here he put in time on both the varsity football and baseball teams and pinned on letters for both sports before graduating in 1933. By 1936, Mr. Tralis decided to go West and entered Villanova's service as a counterman. As the years passed he worked his way up to the post of assistant manager under Mr. McCollis.

Cook In Army

Then came the War and early in 1943 he left to join the army, his post durationed by Mr. Daniel Boyle. Tralis was processed and for a short time during basic training cooked for Uncle Sam. Later came assignment, training, and embarkation. He landed at Normandy beach on D-Day plus 9 and took up the long cold trail that brought him through five countries and the Ardennes bulge. As a member of the 43rd Mechanized Cavalry his reconnaissance work merited him a bronze star and the Purple Heart, gained at the bitter Battle of The Bulge. After five battle stars were bolted to his European area ribbon, Tralis boarded a homeward bound transport and was discharged with eighty-nine points at Indiantown Gap last month.



PHILLIP J. TRALIS

Mr. Tralis feels he has had enough excitement and is glad to settle down to the difficult but less glamorous job of preparing eighteen hundred meals a day here at Villanova. Many changes have been made since he left but he, together with his superior, Mr. Voelker, plans to return to the old standard of three entrees a meal, toast in the mornings and beverage choices when the Navy leaves in March. So it is that with open arms we greet Mr. Tralis and hope that his next years at Villanova be as happy as possible.

McKenna Named Athletic Director At Malvern Prep

John McKenna, varsity football performer at Villanova during the coaching reigns of Harry Stuhldreher and Clipper Smith has been signed to become Athletic Director and head mentor of football, basketball and baseball at Malvern Prep School.

McKenna who graduated from here in 1938, was a letterman for three years, and was selected on several of the mythical all-Eastern teams at center. Upon leaving Villanova he played pro-ball with the Sun Oil team of the Eastern Pennsylvania Football League, having passed up a contract with the then Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League.

Next year will mark McKenna's third season as head football coach at Villanova's preparatory school.

LOU FERRY

ROMEO CAPRIOTTI

Three 'Cats Selected On AP All State Squad

Lou Ferry On A. P. Second Team. Milt Komarnicki And Romeo Capriotti On Third Team

Three members of Villanova's 1945 football team were honored for their fine play during the past season by being picked on the Associated Press' All-State Squad. Tackle Lou Ferry was selected for the second team, and Center Milt Komarnicki and Halfback Romeo Capriotti were placed on the third team.

Ferry, 190 lb. stalwart of the 'Cats line, played brilliant ball throughout the season. On offense, he opened up many holes for the backfield men to charge through for long gains. He was a terror on defense, constantly breaking through into the opponents' backfield to spill enemy ball carriers. His teammates elected him team captain for the Army game, and he justified the honor by playing one of his best games of the season. Paired with tall Tom Sekerchak, he helped the 'Cats in slowing up the Cadets' ground attack.

Komarnicki Southern High Star

Milt Komarnicki was discharged from the Marines this summer and reported for summer practice only two shorts weeks before the opening of the season. By the second game of the season he had taken over the first-string pivot position and he held it for the rest of the season. At Southern High School in Philadelphia he was a football star for three years. In his senior year, Milt was selected for the "All-Scholastic" team as the top center in the city. Southern High coach Joe Pitt rated him as one of the most valuable players on his squad.

During the past season he was a very good defensive player. He backed up the line in strong manner and many times brought down opposing backs after they had apparently started on long gains. On offense Milt was a steady and sure ball-handler, just the type needed for the precise work of the T formation.

Capriotti Leading Scorer

Villanova's leading scorer, Romeo "Cap" Capriotti, was the third Villanovan picked on the All-State squad. A discharged Army man, winner of the Silver Star in Italy, Cap played a bang-up game all season even though he was hampered by a bad leg and lame ankle. He captained the team in the Navy contest and scored the only touchdown in Villanova's victory over Marquette University.

Fordham Game

Continued From Page Five

ready by to-morrow night. The rest of the squad appears to be in good shape and eager to show the fans the basketball they are capable of playing.

This will be the second meeting of the two teams on the wooden ways. The Severancemen will be out to even up the short series, the Rams, under the late Ed Kelleher, having nipped the Cats by a 40-37 score back in 1938. A Wildcat victory tomorrow night will not only knot the series, but will put the Villanovans ahead in the win column of their home game record.

LEAGUE STANDINGS

	W.	L.	Pct.
Ausmen	2	0	1.000
Doms	2	0	1.000
Fedigan	1	1	.500
Marines	0	2	.000
Alumni	0	2	.000

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The Editor,
"The Villanovan"

Dear Sir:

We of O'Dwyer Hall wish to toss bouquets to the gentleman who penned the article entitled "A day-room for Villanovans." Some of us were here before, as far back as 1938 and there are some among us who even matriculated at Villanova way back in 1936. This issue of a day room has long been one of the sore spots of all students, resident and day-hops, probably since the days when Mr. Macadam first paved the Lancaster Pike with his tar.

We all welcome the day hops to our rooms and extend to them the meager hospitality that is afforded by our rooms. However, the day-room issue is not an issue for day-hops alone, residents would like to see one organized as well. A day-room could be employed by the day-hops during their free hours as a room in which to study, talk over studies and could further be used by the residents to entertain friends. Since Villanova is our home for the time being, we would like to have a "front room" that would be free of shower-bent nudes, a Times Square atmosphere, and students who gape at guests because of the novelty of having guests here at all.

The "Villanovan" can count on O'Dwyer Hall to back them in any campaign they might instigate for a day room. Thanks for bringing this timely matter before the Villanova "public."

Very sincerely: N. A. DeQuinqui, Robert J. Miles, Bernard J. Cleary, Richard A. McKinly, Charles Feehan, J. Richard Frey, G. O. Gibs, William F. Boyle, Wayne E. Teehan, Alfred R. Mosk, J. A. Murphy, Bernard C. Crumb, John E. Skorka, W. T. Loftus.

Many New Designs Stem From Improved Basic Materials

Of the many new designs and appearance of apparatus and equipment, half are made possible through the development of new and improved materials, the other half through the skill of the designer, according to R. C. Bergvall, engineering executive of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

Mr. Bergvall discussed the key role of new materials — many of them speeded by wartime research — being played in the design of postwar equipment and machinery at a recent meeting of the Philadelphia Sales Managers Association.

To illustrate the point, the speaker cited a comparison between the automobile of 1915 and that of 1942.

"Both cars had a body, engine, clutch, gears and tires," he pointed out, "but we all know there were radical differences in performance between the two models. Without new kinds of fuels, the high compression ratios needed to get the power from the same general type of engine would not have been possible. Without better bearing materials, these higher compression ratios could not be used because the engine would not stand up.

Buy Victory Bonds

Smoker Held By Veterans' Club

Fr. McQuade Delivers Address On Loyalty And Responsibility

Last Thursday night, the newly expanded Veteran's association held the first function of the new semester. The Field House served as the backdrop for an introductory smoker.

Considering the weather, the turnout was surprising and under the direction of Harry Waters, the boys managed a very convivial evening. Proceedings got under way at 8:30 P. M. with a short address by the organization's president, Harry Edwards. The distribution of membership cards and the introduction of the new members followed. Then Mr. Johnson, the local director of the Collegiate Veterans' group took the ball and displayed a pleasing complement to his business-like attitude by regaling the assemblage with homorous, if somewhat difficult to believe, tales of his days on the baseball diamond.

Football Pictures Shown

Fr. McQuade, the club's moderater then ascended the dias and delivered an address which merited much applause. Although spiced with 'bon mots' his speech touched upon the important and serious topic of national loyalty and responsibility.

After a short but entertaining talk by Mr. Jerri Neri, assistant football coach, Father Varana obliged with the showing of the Navy-Villanova game motion pictures.

At the close of the film the boys took advantage of the copious hospitality of energetic Jim Conaty and his staff in the locker room. Sandwiches were consumed along with several cases of soft drinks.

A. S. C. E. Holds Second Meeting

The A.S.C.E. held its second meeting of the semester on last Wednesday, and the entertainment for the coming smoker was planned.

President John W. Coyne announced that the smoker will be held on January 21, and that the following motion picture films, available from the list compiled by the Visual Education Committee of the American Road Builders Association, will be shown if they can be obtained by that date:

"Bridging San Francisco Bay"—a sound picture showing the construction of the twin suspension spans and the cantilever span in the eight mile San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge. It shows the building of the deepest bridge foundations ever undertaken. The film was produced by the U. S. Steel Corporation.

"Job Planning"—a sound picture showing uses and operation of dozers, scrapers, cranes, tournapulls and power control units. It deals with selection of proper equipment, and job methods that speed up operations and result in greater efficiency of equipment. This film was prepared from the contractor's viewpoint by R. G. LeTourneau, Inc.

"A Thrill a Second"—a sports film showing interesting sports such as parachute jumping, tightrope walking, daredevil driving, horseback riding, etc. Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company produced this film.

"Pennsylvania Turnpike" — a sound film showing views of construction methods and equipment details on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. This film was produced by the Portland Cement Association.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

The Campus Barber Shop

First Class Work
Popular Prices

Use Your Library

The following is a selected list of recent publications in the Library collection:

FICTION—
Bauer, F.	Behold your king
Buchanan, R.	This bread
Hilton, J.	So well remembered
Hobart, A. T.	The peacock sheds his tail
Hutchinson, R. C.	Interim
Marshall, B.	The world, the flesh and Father Smith
Partridge, B.	January thaw
Robinson, H. M.	The perfect round
Sedges, J.	The townsman
Walsh, M.	Nine strings to your bow
NON-FICTION—
Bailey, T.	Woodrow Wilson and the great betrayal
Beard, C. A.	Economic basis of politics
Berge, W.	Cartels
Borden, L.	Francesco Cabrini
Brown, S. J.	Survey of Catholic literature
Burnett, W., ed.	Time to be young
Drake, St. C.	Black metropolis
Dunlap, O.	Radio's 100 men of science
Farren, R.	Rime, gentlemen, please
Frost, R.	Masque of reason
Fry, V.	Surrender on demand
Hackett, A.	Fifty years of best sellers, 1895-1945
James, M.	Cherokee strip
Johnson, E.	Treasury of satire
Lande, A.	Physics of flight
Koestler, A.	The Yogi and the commissar
Lewis, N.	How to read better and faster
Maritain, R.	Adventures in grace
Marsh, I. T., ed.	Best sports stories of 1944
Mills, J.	Electronics today and tomorrow
Oberling, C.	The riddle of cancer
Ramo, S.	Introduction to microwaves
Scally, M. A.	Negro Catholic writers, 1900-1943
Smyth, H.	Atomic energy
Snell, F. D.	Commercial methods of analysis
Turnbull, E. L., ed.	Contemporary Spanish poetry
Wheland, G. W.	Theory of resonance and application to organic chemistry

'The Times' Presents A Fallacy; 'Villanovan' Voices The Truth

By DONALD SOMMER

In an editorial of one of our more prominent Main Line newspapers, there recently appeared a series of contradictory, diverse, and invective statements which not only scorned the true origin of Thanksgiving Day, but also declared the Christian belief in prayer and thanksgiving to be a fallacy.

In this editorial the "Main Line Times," satirically proclaiming its ultra-modern views, looked down upon the virtue of thanking God for our blessings as a primitive remnant of a combination of the ideas of our unimaginative Puritan fathers and the early Christions who supposedly looked to God as "a kindly giant who smiled and said "you're welcome" when thanked. The editorial then went on in a conventional, high-planed manner of name calling, which no doubt was supposed to reflect the writer's extreme knowledge and philosophic principles, to declare that the custom of Thanksgiving was "a colossal example of" unconscious obstinacy and narrow mindedness in religious history.

The writer then states that the main fault of thanksgiving to God is giving with a sense of "superior snobbishness," or an appreciation that we are better than the next man. Then, in attempting to prove his statement concerning "the fallacy of thanking God," the writer points out that blessings must either be accidents or come from God, completely overlooking the fact that any benefit received by accident is merely one of God's ways of bestowing blessings upon us. He then states that if we do believe that our blessings come from God, we are destroying an "acceptable concept of divine justice" because "these rewards are never distributed in accordance with any standards of virtue, as they fall on the good and the evil alike." It is here that the writer proves his complete ignorance in regards to the Christian Principles of divine justice. Unaware of the fact, or perhaps just forgetting, that after death both the good and the evil receive their just rewards or punishments, the writer bases his entire proof merely on material misfortunes and rewards which are often tests of our strength by God.

Turning once again to his satirical attitude, the writer then infers that it is about time that this childish behaviour of thanking God was stopped, stating that "if this phoney business of thanking God" were the only by-product of Thanksgiving Day, it would be better to eliminate the entire affair from man's memory.

Finally, without any definite conclusion, the writer seems to contradict himself by complaining that the entire matter has become a "heathenish reflex action, performed without intellectual conviction or emotional inspiration." He finally states that Thanksgiving Day is an opportunity for people to remind themselves of their relationship with God.

It is very difficult to understand why the writer, who has definitely opposed the giving of thanks to God throughout his entire editorial, should suddenly turn in the opposite direction and praise Thanksgiving Day because of the small degree of religion that it injects into the generally irreligious American people. However, although the writer seems to be groping about in the dark for an idea, the general sense of the editorial suggests an intense disgust for the childish, primitive action of thanking God.

When this disgraceful rendition of anti-Christian and atheistic writing was brought before the eyes of the public, a wave of public opinion, led by the Christian leaders and the people offended by the writer's prejudiced opinions, immediately descended upon the "Main Line Times" office. Catholic and non-Catholic writers alike sprang to life to answer the abject insults used so fluently by this writer. In a refuting editorial, the "Catholic Standard and Times" politely but firmly disproved each blind statement that the writer had made or taken for granted.

As a result of the disturbance which the editorial caused, the following issue of the "Main Line Times" presented a formal clarification of its policies to the indignant public. In writing this article, Mr. A. E. Hickerson, the publisher of the paper, apparently seemed to be in the same position as that of a criminal lawyer, glossing over the incriminating facts and dwelling upon the few points which could be used as a defense. With continued reference to the concluding paragraph of the original editorial, Mr. Hickerson repeatedly quoted excerpts, which, taken by themselves, appeared to be the sanctimonious product of some monastery, but, if connected with preceding passages, presented a shameful attack upon God's wishes and our beliefs and customs.

Although this editorial, The Fallacy of Thanking God, might seem to be only the opinion of one man, it is actually the opinion of millions in the world today. With the advent of modernism with its material developments and its material effects on man-kind, man now tends to turn away for God. Each day this trend grows worse, as can be seen by the inclination of this editorial to look upon religion as a foolish superstitution which should have ended with the Middle Ages. This editorial is a direct challenge to every Catholic—are we going to follow the example of the atheists and put God in the background or are we going to fight to protect our faith and loyalty to God?

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure

COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.

57th & MARKET STS.

Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M.
Daily; Except Wednesdays and
Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.

Suits & Topcoats

$29.75

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS

GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

College Tailor

Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.

2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266

We do adjustments the way you want them.

Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable

For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

Busiest
Christmas for Long Distance

PLEASE DON'T MAKE ANY BUT NECESSARY
CALLS ON DECEMBER 24 AND 25

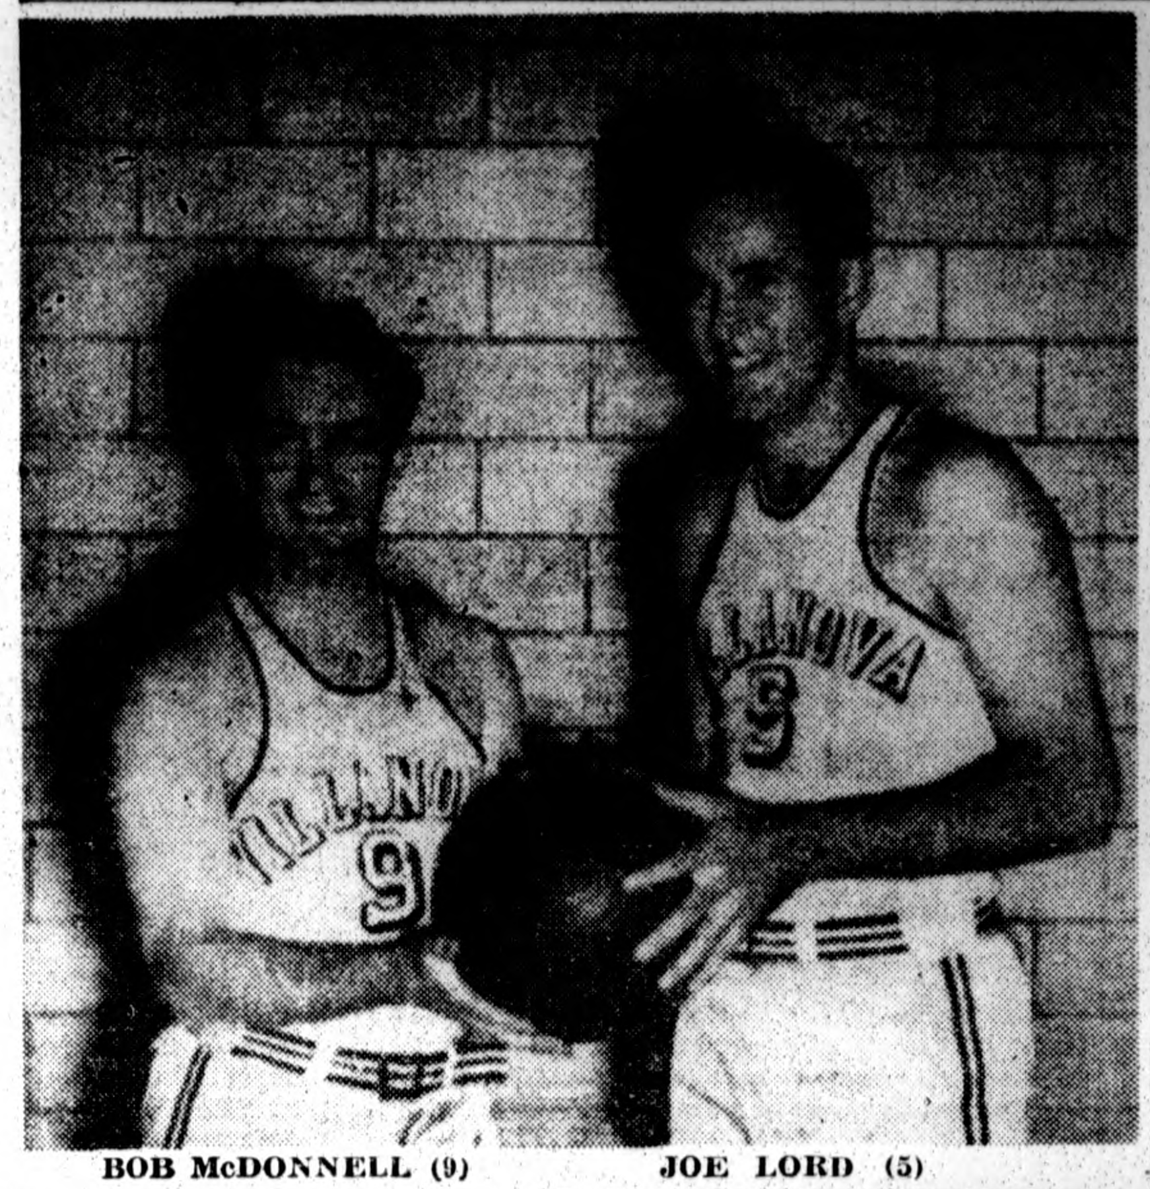
THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
OF PENNSYLVANIA



BOB McDONNELL (9) JOE LORD (5)

Sportlight

Continued From Page Five

in Joe's travels with the Air Corps. Here he was Squad Sergeant and was elected athletic chairman of his squad. This group won the Field basketball title with Joe averaging 24 points for the seven games played. About this time the Army decided that it had an excess number of pilots and shipped him to San Angelo, Texas, for advanced bomber training from May to September of 1944.

Served Over Burma

Joe began overseas training in November and was transferred to Fort Dix for specialized training. In April of 1945 he went to India and participated in 5 mission over Burma before the war ended. The squadron returned in November and Joe received his discharge on the 23d.

"Major" took basic training at Camp Robinson and joined the 379th Infantry Regiment of the 95th (Victory) Division at Fort Sam Houston.

Maneuvers took Bob to Camp Shelby where he pitched the Regimental team to the Post Championship. From there he had desert training in California, returned East to climb the mountains of West Virginia, and then to Indiantown Gap. At the Gap he coached the Regimental Basketball team.

Fought in France

Pfc. McDonnell participated in three European battles: Northern France, the Rhineland, and Central Europe. These carried him through France, Luxembourg, Belgium, Holland, and Germany in addition to England. His decorations include the Combat Infantry Badge, Bronze Star, and European Theater Ribbon with three battle stars.

Bucknell Game

Continued From Page Five

under the basket and converted a pass from McDonnell and the 'Cats were back in the lead, 14-13. Roger Joest batted in a re-bound and Bucknell was back in front 15-14. This lasted about thirty seconds as Don Robertson made good from the foul line to tie the score at 15-all with three minutes to go in the half. Bucknell came down the floor and Haas put them in front with a lay-up. Wilson converted a technical foul and Frazier sealed Villanova's doom with a long shot to make the score 20-15. McDonnell and Wilson traded goals to make the half-time totals 22-17.

Reybitz Starts Rally

The Bisons opened the third period scoring as Seel converted a foul. Brehmer equalized this for the 'Cats. Both teams traded field goals as Wilson stile the ball and dribbled in for a shot and Hannon connected from the outside. A flurry of Bucknell goals, three by Haas and one each by Wilson and Don Trainer in addition to a foul by Fluchaus, increased its lead to 36-20. Reybitz started a futile counter rally with a goal in the last two seconds of the period.

Fourth Quarter

Hannon made a foul and Reybitz added two more lay-ups to bring the totals to 36-27, with five minutes to play. Within the next minute foul goals were exchanged by Frazier and Hannon and Wilson made good on a foul before Reybitz and Burr tapped in baskets to complete the Villanova scoring for the evening. Bucknell had the last say as Haas dropped a set shot and Frazier added a foul to make the final score read 43-32.

Ausmen, Doms Tops In League

Doms Down Marines In Overtime To Tie Sailors For League Lead. Ausmen Set High Score

Getting off to a fast start in the Intramural League last week, the Ausmen (Austin-Mendel Sailors) jumped in to the League lead by winning their first two games, but were tied by the Doms who also won their two opening games.

On Monday night they defeated Fedigan Hall's swabbies in a slow, 24-17 contest. Diminutive forward Agnew was high scorer with nine points, all made in the hectic first half. Redmond and Peksa's four points apiece for the losers couldn't stop the Ausmen's drive. The following night they won their second game by downing the Alumni Hall civilian team, 38-24. The first half score was 13-9, but a fast, high-scoring second half gave the winners the top score of the week. Milsop and Sonner led the Ausmen with thirteen and ten points respectively.

Doms Win in Overtime

The second game Monday night proved the closest of the week. In it the Doms defeated the Marines, 34-32, with Bill Boyle's field goal in a sudden-death overtime period giving them the victory. At the end of the regulation time the score was tied at 30-30. Shelton scored for the Marines in the opening seconds of the first overtime period, but Newt Ward tied the score with another two-pointer a minute later. This left the score tied at 32-32 when the overtime period ended and set the stage for Boyle's score in the Sudden-death period.

Wednesday night the Doms staved off a last minute Alumni rally to win 28-26 and tie the Ausmen for the League lead. Gaffney and O'Brien's seven points apiece were high for the winners, while Dwyer's seven was high for the losers.

In the opening week's other game, Fedigan Hall Downed the Marines, 30-19, to hold onto third place in the League Standings. Bob Trichtinger scored seven for the winners while Jackman led the Marines with six points.

Tigers Down 'Cats

Continued From Page Five

endary stogey when he saw his proteges, with still two minutes to play, taking wild stabs which usually coincide with the bark of the final gun. Princeton added three more to settle the issue, and the final score read 47-40 in their favor.

Lord Matches Doar

The second half was highlighted by Joe Lord and John Doar engaging in a shooting duel, each emerging with three field goals. When the initiative fell from Lord to his teammates, the lead fell from Villanova to Princeton.

This year's representatives of Villanova on the wooded arena are not to be held lightly. Man for man they are potentially as strong as any team that should invade our home grounds this season. When the early season kinks are ironed out, and our ball hawks find themselves, they should display what is highly expected from such an aggregation of talent.

Vet Appointed Cafeteria Mgr.

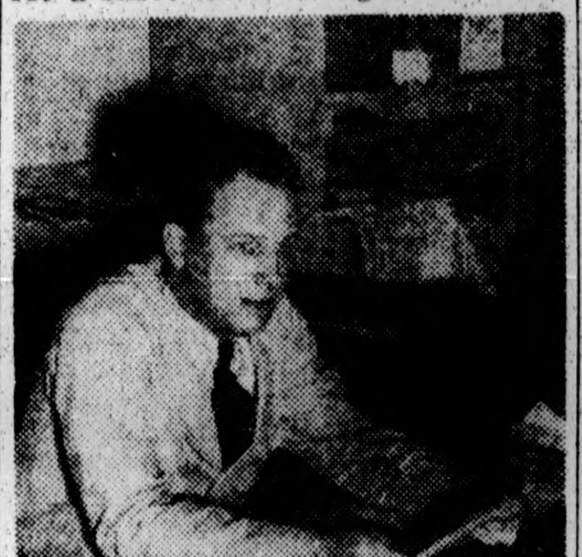
Mr. Tralis Returns After Thirty-Four Months In Army

After thirty-four months of Army duty, Phillip J. Tralis, erstwhile cafeteria manager has returned to our campus in his former capacity. To many students, Mr. Tralis is an entirely new personality, thus introductions are in order.

Mr. Tralis was born in the neighboring borough of Philadelphia on the pre-war date of November 13, 1914. He entered St. Ludwig's Parochial school, graduated and matriculated at the old Central High School. Here he put in time on both the varsity football and baseball teams and pinned on letters for both sports before graduating in 1933. By 1936, Mr. Tralis decided to go West and entered Villanova's service as a counterman. As the years passed he worked his way up to the post of assistant manager under Mr. McCollis.

Cook In Army

Then came the War and early in 1943 he left to join the army, his post durationed by Mr. Daniel Boyle. Tralis was processed and for a short time during basic training cooked for Uncle Sam. Later came assignment, training, and embarkation. He landed at Normandy beach on D-Day plus 9 and took up the long cold trail that brought him through five countries and the Ardennes bulge. As a member of the 43rd Mechanized Cavalry his reconnaissance work merited him a bronze star and the Purple Heart, gained at the bitter Battle of The Bulge. After five battle stars were bolted to his European area ribbon, Tralis boarded a homeward bound transport and was discharged with eighty-nine points at Indiantown Gap last month.



PHILLIP J. TRALIS

Mr. Tralis feels he has had enough excitement and is glad to settle down to the difficult but less glamorous job of preparing eighteen hundred meals a day here at Villanova. Many changes have been made since he left but he, together with his superior, Mr. Voelker, plans to return to the old standard of three entrees a meal, toast in the mornings and beverage choices when the Navy leaves in March. So it is that with open arms we greet Mr. Tralis and hope that his next years at Villanova be as happy as possible.

McKenna Named Athletic Director At Malvern Prep

John McKenna, varsity football performer at Villanova during the coaching reigns of Harry Stuhldreher and Clipper Smith has been signed to become Athletic Director and head mentor of football, basketball and baseball at Malvern Prep School.

McKenna who graduated from here in 1938, was a letterman for three years, and was selected on several of the mythical all-Eastern teams at center. Upon leaving Villanova he played pro-ball with the Sun Oil team of the Eastern Pennsylvania Football League, having passed up a contract with the then Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League.

Next year will mark McKenna's third season as head football coach at Villanova's preparatory school.

LOU FERRY

ROMEO CAPRIOTTI

Three 'Cats Selected On AP All State Squad

Lou Ferry On A. P. Second Team. Milt Komarnicki And Romeo Capriotti On Third Team

Three members of Villanova's 1945 football team were honored for their fine play during the past season by being picked on the Associated Press' All-State Squad. Tackle Lou Ferry was selected for the second team, and Center Milt Komarnicki and Halfback Romeo Capriotti were placed on the third team.

Ferry, 190 lb. stalwart of the 'Cats line, played brilliant ball throughout the season. On offense, he opened up many holes for the backfield men to charge through for long gains. He was a terror on defense, constantly breaking through into the opponents' backfield to spill enemy ball carriers. His teammates elected him team captain for the Army game, and he justified the honor by playing one of his best games of the season. Paired with tall Tom Sekerchak, he helped the 'Cats in slowing up the Cadets' ground attack.

Komarnicki Southern High Star

Milt Komarnicki was discharged from the Marines this summer and reported for summer practice only two shorts weeks before the opening of the season. By the second game of the season he had taken over the first-string pivot position and he held it for the rest of the season. At Southern High School in Philadelphia he was a football star for three years. In his senior year, Milt was selected for the "All-Scholastic" team as the top center in the city. Southern High coach Joe Pitt rated him as one of the most valuable players on his squad.

During the past season he was a very good defensive player. He backed up the line in strong manner and many times brought down opposing backs after they had apparently started on long gains. On offense Milt was a steady and sure ball-handler, just the type needed for the precise work of the T formation.

Capriotti Leading Scorer

Villanova's leading scorer, Romeo "Cap" Capriotti, was the third Villanovan picked on the All-State squad. A discharged Army man, winner of the Silver Star in Italy, Cap played a bang-up game all season even though he was hampered by a bad leg and lame ankle. He captained the team in the Navy contest and scored the only touchdown in Villanova's victory over Marquette University.

Fordham Game

Continued From Page Five

ready by to-morrow night. The rest of the squad appears to be in good shape and eager to show the fans the basketball they are capable of playing.

This will be the second meeting of the two teams on the wooden ways. The Severancemen will be out to even up the short series, the Rams, under the late Ed Kelleher, having nipped the Cats by a 40-37 score back in 1938. A Wildcat victory tomorrow night will not only knot the series, but will put the Villanovans ahead in the win column of their home game record.

LEAGUE STANDINGS

	W.	L.	Pct.
Ausmen	2	0	1.000
Doms	2	0	1.000
Fedigan	1	1	.500
Marines	0	2	.000
Alumni	0	2	.000

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The Editor,
"The Villanovan"

Dear Sir:

We of O'Dwyer Hall wish to toss bouquets to the gentleman who penned the article entitled "A day-room for Villanovans." Some of us were here before, as far back as 1938 and there are some among us who even matriculated at Villanova way back in 1936. This issue of a day room has long been one of the sore spots of all students, resident and day-hops probably since the days when Mr. Macadam first paved the Lancaster Pike with his tar.

We all welcome the day hops to our rooms and extend to them the meager hospitality that is afforded by our rooms. However, the day-room issue is not an issue for day-hops alone, residents would like to see one organized as well. A day-room could be employed by the day-hops during their free hours as a room in which to study, talk over studies and could further be used by the residents to entertain friends. Since Villanova is our home for the time being, we would like to have a "front room" that would be free of shower-bent nudes, a Times Square atmosphere, and students who gape at guests because of the novelty of having guests here at all.

The "Villanovan" can count on O'Dwyer Hall to back them in any campaign they might instigate for a day room. Thanks for bringing this timely matter before the Villanova "public."

Very sincerely: N. A. DeQuinqui, Robert J. Miles, Bernard J. Cleary, Richard A. McKinly, Charles Feehan, J. Richard Frey, G. O. Gibs, William F. Boyle, Wayne E. Teehan, Alfred R. Mosk, J. A. Murphy, Bernard C. Crumb, John E. Skorka, W. T. Loftus.

Many New Designs Stem From Improved Basic Materials

Of the many new designs and appearance of apparatus and equipment, half are made possible through the development of new and improved materials, the other half through the skill of the designer, according to R. C. Bergvall, engineering executive of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

Mr. Bergvall discussed the key role of new materials — many of them speeded by wartime research — being played in the design of postwar equipment and machinery at a recent meeting of the Philadelphia Sales Managers Association.

To illustrate the point, the speaker cited a comparison between the automobile of 1915 and that of 1942.

"Both cars had a body, engine, clutch, gears and tires," he pointed out, "but we all know there were radical differences in performance between the two models. Without new kinds of fuels, the high compression ratios needed to get the power from the same general type of engine would not have been possible. Without better bearing materials, these higher compression ratios could not be used because the engine would not stand up.

Buy Victory Bonds

Smoker Held By Veterans' Club

Fr. McQuade Delivers Address On Loyalty And Responsibility

Last Thursday night, the newly expanded Veteran's association held the first function of the new semester. The Field House served as the backdrop for an introductory smoker.

Considering the weather, the turnout was surprising and under the direction of Harry Waters, the boys managed a very convivial evening. Proceedings got under way at 8:30 P. M. with a short address by the organization's president, Harry Edwards. The distribution of membership cards and the introduction of the new members followed. Then Mr. Johnson, the local director of the Collegiate Veterans' group took the ball and displayed a pleasing complement to his business-like attitude by regaling the assemblage with homorous, if somewhat difficult to believe, tales of his days on the baseball diamond.

Football Pictures Shown

Fr. McQuade, the club's moderater then ascended the dias and delivered an address which merited much applause. Although spiced with 'bon mots' his speech touched upon the important and serious topic of national loyalty and responsibility.

After a short but entertaining talk by Mr. Jerri Neri, assistant football coach, Father Varana obliged with the showing of the Navy-Villanova game motion pictures.

At the close of the film the boys took advantage of the copious hospitality of energetic Jim Conaty and his staff in the locker room. Sandwiches were consumed along with several cases of soft drinks.

A. S. C. E. Holds Second Meeting

The A.S.C.E. held its second meeting of the semester on last Wednesday, and the entertainment for the coming smoker was planned.

President John W. Coyne announced that the smoker will be held on January 21, and that the following motion picture films, available from the list compiled by the Visual Education Committee of the American Road Builders Association, will be shown if they can be obtained by that date:

"Bridging San Francisco Bay"—a sound picture showing the construction of the twin suspension spans and the cantilever span in the eight mile San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge. It shows the building of the deepest bridge foundations ever undertaken. The film was produced by the U. S. Steel Corporation.

"Job Planning"—a sound picture showing uses and operation of dozers, scrapers, cranes, tournapulls and power control units. It deals with selection of proper equipment, and job methods that speed up operations and result in greater efficiency of equipment. This film was prepared from the contractor's viewpoint by R. G. LeTourneau, Inc.

"A Thrill a Second"—a sports film showing interesting sports such as parachute jumping, tightrope walking, daredevil driving, horseback riding, etc. Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company produced this film.

"Pennsylvania Turnpike" — a sound film showing views of construction methods and equipment details on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. This film was produced by the Portland Cement Association.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

The Campus Barber Shop

First Class Work
Popular Prices

Use Your Library

The following is a selected list of recent publications in the Library collection:

FICTION—

Bauer, F.	Behold your king
Buchanan, R.	This bread
Hilton, J.	So well remembered
Hobart, A. T.	The peacock sheds his tail
Hutchinson, R. C.	Interim
Marshall, B.	The world, the flesh and Father Smith
Partridge, B.	January thaw
Robinson, H. M.	The perfect round
Sedges, J.	The townsman
Walsh, M.	Nine strings to your bow

NON-FICTION—

Bailey, T.	Woodrow Wilson and the great betrayal
Beard, C. A.	Economic basis of politics
Berge, W.	Cartels
Borden, L.	Francesco Cabrini
Brown, S. J.	Survey of Catholic literature
Burnett, W., ed.	Time to be young
Drake, St. C.	Black metropolis
Dunlap, O.	Radio's 100 men of science
Farren, R.	Rime, gentlemen, please
Frost, R.	Masque of reason
Fry, V.	Surrender on demand
Hackett, A.	Fifty years of best sellers, 1895-1945
James, M.	Cherokee strip
Johnson, E.	Treasury of satire
Lande, A.	Physics of flight
Koestler, A.	The Yogi and the commissar
Lewis, N.	How to read better and faster
Maritain, R.	Adventures in grace
Marsh, I. T., ed.	Best sports stories of 1944
Mills, J.	Electronics today and tomorrow
Oberling, C.	The riddle of cancer
Ramo, S.	Introduction to microwaves
Scally, M. A.	Negro Catholic writers, 1900-1943
Smyth, H.	Atomic energy
Snell, F. D.	Commercial methods of analysis
Turnbull, E. L., ed.	Contemporary Spanish poetry
Wheland, G. W.	Theory of resonance and application to organic chemistry

'The Times' Presents A Fallacy; 'Villanovan' Voices The Truth

By DONALD SOMMER

In an editorial of one of our more prominent Main Line newspapers, there recently appeared a series of contradictory, diverse, and invective statements which not only scorned the true origin of Thanksgiving Day, but also declared the Christian belief in prayer and thanksgiving to be a fallacy.

In this editorial the "Main Line Times," satirically proclaiming its ultra-modern views, looked down upon the virtue of thanking God for our blessings as a primitive remnant of a combination of the ideas of our unimaginative Puritan fathers and the early Christions who supposedly looked to God as "a kindly giant who smiled and said "you're welcome" when thanked. The editorial then went on in a conventional, high-planed manner of name calling, which no doubt was supposed to reflect the writer's extreme knowledge and philosophic principles, to declare that the custom of Thanksgiving was "a colossal example of" unconscious obstinacy and narrow mindedness in religious history.

The writer then states that the main fault of thanksgiving to God is giving with a sense of "superior snobbishness," or an appreciation that we are better than the next man. Then, in attempting to prove his statement concerning "the fallacy of thanking God," the writer points out that blessings must either be accidents or come from God, completely overlooking the fact that any benefit received by accident is merely one of God's ways of bestowing blessings upon us. He then states that if we do believe that our blessings come from God, we are destroying an "acceptable concept of divine justice" because "these rewards are never distributed in accordance with any standards of virtue, as they fall on the good and the evil alike." It is here that the writer proves his complete ignorance in regards to the Christian Principles of divine justice. Unaware of the fact, or perhaps just forgetting, that after death both the good and the evil receive their just rewards or punishments, the writer bases his entire proof merely on material misfortunes and rewards which are often tests of our strength by God.

Turning once again to his satirical attitude, the writer then infers that it is about time that this childish behaviour of thanking God was stopped, stating that "if this phoney business of thanking God" were the only by-product of Thanksgiving Day, it would be better to eliminate the entire affair from man's memory.

Finally, without any definite conclusion, the writer seems to contradict himself by complaining that the entire matter has become a "heathenish reflex action, performed without intellectual conviction or emotional inspiration." He finally states that Thanksgiving Day is an opportunity for people to remind themselves of their relationship with God.

It is very difficult to understand why the writer, who has definitely opposed the giving of thanks to God throughout his entire editorial, should suddenly turn in the opposite direction and praise Thanksgiving Day because of the small degree of religion that it injects into the generally irreligious American people. However, although the writer seems to be groping about in the dark for an idea, the general sense of the editorial suggests an intense disgust for the childish, primitive action of thanking God.

When this disgraceful rendition of anti-Christian and atheistic writing was brought before the eyes of the public, a wave of public opinion, led by the Christian leaders and the people offended by the writer's prejudiced opinions, immediately descended upon the "Main Line Times" office. Catholic and non-Catholic writers alike sprang to life to answer the abject insults used so fluently by this writer. In a refuting editorial, the "Catholic Standard and Times" politely but firmly disproved each blind statement that the writer had made or taken for granted.

As a result of the disturbance which the editorial caused, the following issue of the "Main Line Times" presented a formal clarification of its policies to the indignant public. In writing this article, Mr. A. E. Hickerson, the publisher of the paper, apparently seemed to be in the same position as that of a criminal lawyer, glossing over the incriminating facts and dwelling upon the few points which could be used as a defense. With continued reference to the concluding paragraph of the original editorial, Mr. Hickerson repeatedly quoted excerpts, which, taken by themselves, appeared to be the sanctimonious product of some monastery, but, if connected with preceding passages, presented a shameful attack upon God's wishes and our beliefs and customs.

Although this editorial, The Fallacy of Thanking God, might seem to be only the opinion of one man, it is actually the opinion of millions in the world today. With the advent of modernism with its material developments and its material effects on man-kind, man now tends to turn away for God. Each day this trend grows worse, as can be seen by the inclination of this editorial to look upon religion as a foolish superstitution which should have ended with the Middle Ages. This editorial is a direct challenge to every Catholic—are we going to follow the example of the atheists and put God in the background or are we going to fight to protect our faith and loyalty to God?

Men's Clothes

Made-to-Measure

COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.

57th & MARKET STS.

Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.

Suits & Topcoats

$29.75

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS

GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED

5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.

RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

College Tailor

Coladonato Tailor Shop, Inc.

2 ARTHUR ROAD

Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266

We do adjustments the way you want them.

Work and Service—Good

Prices Reasonable

For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

Busiest Christmas for Long Distance

PLEASE DON'T MAKE ANY BUT NECESSARY CALLS ON DECEMBER 24 AND 25

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Out Of The Copy

Continued From Page Two

Commander, presented a framed photo of the Unit to President McClure. In presenting the photograph, Starer, in behalf of all the V-12 Trainees leaving Ursinus, thanked the college for allowing them to be "accepted into every phase of the College's life." He closed with, "Our hope is that the faculty and the staff of Ursinus College may prosper as they deserve, and that some small recompense shall be theirs for the large measure of good done for all of us."

Starer is now here in the N.R.O.T.C. program at Villanova College.

Who's on First Routine

Customer: "Have you any four-volt, two watt bulbs?"
Deaf Clerk: "For what?"
Customer: "No, two."
Clerk: "Two what?"
Customer: "Yes."

* * *

Her: Where shall we eat?

Him: Oh, let's eat up the street.

Her: No, I don't like asphalt.

* * *

(a) Said the dentist to the patient: "The Yanks are coming."

(b) Said one stocking to the other:—"So long, I gotta run."

* * *

I like an exam.
I think they're fun.
I never cram.
I won't flunk one.
I'm the teacher.

—The Loyolan.

* * *

On With The Laughs

The hit - and - run driver was brought to trial. His lawyer pleaded eloquently in his behalf: "Your Honor, the plaintiff must have been walking very carelessly. My client has been driving a car for eleven years."

"Your Honor," shouted the counsel for the plaintiff, "I can prove my client's case without further argument: He has been walking for forty-five years."

* * *

Pat smashed into a telephone pole with such force that wire and pole came down around his ears. Half conscious in the wrecked car, he reached out feebly, touched the wire, and murmured, "Thank Heavens, I lived a good life. They've given me a harp."

* * *

Doubtless anyone lasting this far is now suffering that dull, headachy feeling plus all the aches and pains that come after 35 when the system is naturally slowing down . . .

Well ever thoughtful of his readers J. T. Mackey is going to offer some help. Just dash right down to your neighborhood grocery store this very minute and ask for . . .

Mackey Cola — The pause that depresses.

Buy Victory Bonds

Managing Editor

Continued From Page Four

activities. Among these are intramural basketball last season, the Navy band, and the tennis tournament.

Many congratulations are due Russell for the fine manner in which he relieved Fred Koch of his duties as chairman of the Sophomore Cotillion dance committee. Russ took over in time to relieve the confusion caused when Fred was taken ill and had to be hospitalized.

After being discharged from the Navy, when the V-12 program stopped its pre-med course, Russ returned to Villanova as a civilian.

POST

THE 1945 ALL-AMERICAN FOOTBALL TEAM

Selected by
The 350 Members Of The American Football Coaches Association

HERE, at last, is an All-American football team selected by the men best qualified to judge—the football coaches of the nation.

It's the first time in the history of college football that any publication has been privileged to announce a selection from the top authorities in the game:

350 COACHES TO VOTE

These are the men who have set the college football stage—discovered, trained and turned out the players. Together, they have witnessed all of the good football in the entire season.

NEW METHOD OF JUDGING

During each week of the football season, coaches watched with trained eyes every man who looked like All-American material. Week after week, these reports were filed with the Association, tabulated, and returned to the coaches for a careful study and a final, end-of-season vote.

The men who made this final All-American team are the real "Who's Who" among the nation's players, as selected by the "Who's Who" among the men best qualified to judge.

Don't miss the American Football Coaches Association 1945 All-American Team in the December 29th issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

Again the Post pioneers in a sports venture of interest to millions of fans. To keep up with all that's new in the nation's favorite sports—be sure to read the Post every week.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

VILLANOVAN

VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

Vol. 20—No. 18 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1945

VILLANOVA COLLEGE

Yuletide Display Lights Campus

Colored Lights Deck The Trees And Shrubs In Front Of Mendel Hall And Monastery

For the first time since 1941 the evergreens and shrubs on the Villanova campus burst forth in a mass of color for Christmas as the wartime bans on electrical displays were finally lifted. Under the direction of Mr. Edward A. Loughrey, Superintendent of the Grounds, the various trees extending from the far end of Mendel Hall, past the Monastery and the Chapel, to the circle in front of St. Rita's Hall were decorated with colored electric bulbs.

Villanova has long been noted for its outstanding lighting effects during the week preceding Christmas, but due to the difficulty in obtaining material and the government's request to refrain from wasting electricity, the annual custom of lighting its trees was discontinued during the past few years. Therefore, as a renewal of the former customs, the school hoped to enlarge its display to cover the entire front of the campus. However, as there is still a scarcity of materials for use, and as only one hundred lights could be obtained, the original display had to be set up with hopes of expansion postponed until later years.

Statue Illuminated

The display this year includes about fifteen hundred feet of wiring in which there are said to be approximately one thousand bulbs. Of these bulbs, there are about four hundred covering the trees surrounding the Monastery, and two hundred and forty on the trees around Mendel Hall. On many of the larger evergreens of the campus there are as many as sixty to eighty bulbs on a single tree.

The main feature of the display this year is the group of trees in the circle in front of the Monastery In this circle there are about sixty lights entwined among the small shrubs with a searchlight on the tallest one to illuminate the statue of St. Thomas of Villanova, standing in the center.

Results Unsatisfactory

Although these lights, when lit, are a very breathtaking sight, the men working and those in charge are not satisfied with their results and are waiting for next year when they can expand their lighting effects to extend across the campus from Mendel to Auustin Hall.

Director Of Glee Club Appointed

At the request of the students, the Glee Club has been reorganized under the supervision of Dr. Haenisch, Fr. Joseph Boyle, O.S.A., and Mr. Whalen.

The intense interest shown by the above men in forming the Club has led to the appointment of Mr. Eugene Sullivan of Upper Darby as the director. Mr. Sullivan has been associated with the Palestrina Choir of Philadelphia and the Paulist Choir of New York. Since 1930 he has been teaching Gregorian Chant to the Seminarians in St. Mary's Hall.

The club is scheduled to give a concert of Christmas Carols next Thursday evening in the College Chapel. Originally this concert was to be given at Rosemont College, but due to sickness, the girls departed for their Christmas vacation sooner than was expected. However, another concert is being planned for the Spring.

Dr. Haenisch, who has demonstrated his love for music on several occasions about the campus, has expressed his desire for full cooperation from the students, so that the traditional spirit of the Glee Club will be renewed at Villanova.

The Villanovan extends Holiday Greetings

P. Guarini '37

Peace and the Star

For the first time since 1938 the Christian world is celebrating the feast of the birth of the King of Peace with the world at peace. For the past many years the Angels' refrain: "Peace on earth to men of good will" fell on unheeding ears. For the first time in seven years the message of the Angelic choir is piercing the clouds of a war-torn world and finding its resting place in the anguished heart of mankind.

This year for the first time in many years the little Alpine village of Oberndorf, the birthplace of the world-famous Christmas hymn, will resound with the melody of "Silent Night." With the Nazi occupation this world-beloved carol of the Austrian Tyrol was declared "undesirable." In Germany itself the ravages of war will be softened somewhat by the return of their "Christkindl" — the Christ Child — and the traditional "Tannenbaum." Perhaps even in Soviet Russia, now that the Russian Orthodox Church is partially functioning, the peasants will be able to bring out from their hiding places the "Icons" of the Infant without fear of reprisal.

Once again mankind is finding its way to the cave in the hillsides of Judea where lies in swaddling clothes the King of Peace. It was at this lowly place in the first Christmas season that the world became one. Here men of every nation gathered, and all conditions of life were represented. And peace reigned here. Bethlehem of the year of 1 A. D. became the cross-roads of the world. Here East and West blended into one world, here the Jew and the Gentile acknowledged the one source of salvation, here the rich man and the poor man worshiped the one true God.

This first Christmas scene should be an example and a hope for those who seek world peace. Our diplomats today are speaking in terms of world unity as the only guarantee of a world peace if we are to escape annihilation of future Atomic warfare. We are looking for a Saviour to save us from our own folly. The world of 1945 must return to that silent, holy night in Bethlehem of the year One. For it was here that the Scripture was fulfilled: Unto you is born this day in the City of David a Saviour.

There are thousands of homes in the United States this year in which the traditional festivities of a peace-time Christmas celebration will be found wanting. Peering out from among the multi-colored lights and tinseled symbols of neighborhood decorations will be many Gold Stars of a great tragedy. Those stars bask in the brilliance of another Star that appeared in the heavens on the first Christmas morning. Those stars have aroused hope in a people that almost despaired of hope. They tell a story of heroic life: Greater love than this no man hath than that he lay down his life for his friends. Was not this the message of the Christmas Star?

Numbered among the many gold-starred homes in America this Christmas, Villanova College counts fifty-two, proportionately a large number for a traditionally small college. To the fathers and mothers, the wives and the children of these men the heart of Villanova goes out this Christmas morning. In spirit, we of Villanova will go with them to the Manger at Bethlehem to adore the Prince of Peace. There we will pray that the void made by the absence of one loved will be filled by a calm, a peace, and a serenity of soul that the shepherds felt that first Christmas morn.

By Fr. EDWIN T. GRIMES, O. S. A.,
College Chaplain.

Disposition Of Naval Students Is Explained

Father McGuire And Captain Thomas Address The NROTC And V-12 Students

Last Friday the Rev. Francis X. lanova College, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, College President and the Commanding Officer of the Villanova Navy Unit, Capt. Thomas C. Thomas, U. S. N., addressed the Naval student body with particular regard to their future.

As ouutlined by Navy V-12 bulletin No. 336, the Commanding Officer explained that all NROTC students will be retained under instruction on active duty until the end of the current semester. The specific dispositon of the V-12, NROTC and V-5 students were briefly outlined. Three alternatives were left to the NROTC students. They may be released to inactive duty, but must continue the NROTC studies. Those who retain their enrollment in the NROTC on an inactive status will be required to complete a total of not more than 24 semester hours, or equivalent quarter hours, of Naval Science and Tactics by the end of their eighth college semester or equivalent quarter in college. However, they must complete at least one Naval Science Course each term or quarter, even if the total of 24 hours is thereby exceeded.

Students May Select Schools

The trainees will be permitted to transfer, on their own initiative, from the NROTC unit in which they are now enrolled to any other NROTC unit of their choice, provided that they are entirely acceptable to the academic authorities of the institution to which they desire to transfer.

The basic law governing the NROTC permits the payment of a sum not to exceed one commuted ration per day to trainees who have attained junior or senior standing.

May Transfer to V-5

Any trainee now enrolled in the NROTC who will have completed three terms of college training, or the equivalent in quarters, may be transferred within established quotas, if fuly qualified in all respects, to Class V-5, to continue in college on active duty under the (NAPP) V-5 Program until July, 1946.

Those enlisted men who will have completed six semesters will be required to complete a total of not more than eighteen semester or equivalent quarters in college.

Enlisted men who enroll in NROTC on inactive duty status and remain qualified in every respect for further training will be eligible for any benefits which Congress may approve for the permanent peacetime NROTC. The recommendations of the Navy Department which will soon be presented to Congress including payment by the Navy of all tuition charges and fifty dollars a month to each trainee.

Those enlisted men who desire general duty, or those who are found not physically qualified for enrollment in the NROTC or appointment to commissioned rank (permanent) in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve will be assigned to general duty in a normal enlisted status to remain on active duty until eligible for discharge under general demobilization directives.

Opportunity in Regular Navy

Particular attention of all Navy students is called to the opportunities to transfer to the Regular Navy. Students in all categories, regardles of demobilization status, will, upon successful completion of training, be called to active duty if they express a desire to be considered for transfer to the Regular Navy. Six months service on active duty as a com-

NAVAL STUDENTS
Continued on Page Four

Out Of The Copy

Continued From Page Two

Commander, presented a framed photo of the Unit to President McClure. In presenting the photograph, Starer, in behalf of all the V-12 Trainees leaving Ursinus, thanked the college for allowing them to be "accepted into every phase of the College's life." He closed with, "Our hope is that the faculty and the staff of Ursinus College may prosper as they deserve, and that some small recompense shall be theirs for the large measure of good done for all of us."

Starer is now here in the N.R.O.T.C. program at Villanova College.

Who's on First Routine

Customer: "Have you any four-volt, two watt bulbs?"
Deaf Clerk: "For what?"
Customer: "No, two."
Clerk: "Two what?"
Customer: "Yes."

* * *

Her: Where shall we eat?

Him: Oh, let's eat up the street.

Her: No, I don't like asphalt.

* * *

(a) Said the dentist to the patient: "The Yanks are coming."

(b) Said one stocking to the other:—"So long, I gotta run."

* * *

I like an exam.
I think they're fun.
I never cram.
I won't flunk one.
I'm the teacher.

—The Loyolan.

* * *

On With The Laughs

The hit - and - run driver was brought to trial. His lawyer pleaded eloquently in his behalf: "Your Honor, the plaintiff must have been walking very carelessly. My client has been driving a car for eleven years."

"Your Honor," shouted the counsel for the plaintiff, "I can prove my client's case without further argument: He has been walking for forty-five years."

* * *

Pat smashed into a telephone pole with such force that wire and pole came down around his ears. Half conscious in the wrecked car, he reached out feebly, touched the wire, and murmured, "Thank Heavens, I lived a good life. They've given me a harp."

* * *

Doubtless anyone lasting this far is now suffering that dull, headachy feeling plus all the aches and pains that come after 35 when the system is naturally slowing down . . .

Well ever thoughtful of his readers J. T. Mackey is going to offer some help. Just dash right down to your neighborhood grocery store this very minute and ask for . . .

Mackey Cola — The pause that depresses.

Buy Victory Bonds

Managing Editor

Continued From Page Four

activities. Among these are intramural basketball last season, the Navy band, and the tennis tournament.

Many congratulations are due Russell for the fine manner in which he relieved Fred Koch of his duties as chairman of the Sophomore Cotillion dance committee. Russ took over in time to relieve the confusion caused when Fred was taken ill and had to be hospitalized.

After being discharged from the Navy, when the V-12 program stopped its pre-med course, Russ returned to Villanova as a civilian.

WATCH THE
SATURDAY EVENING
POST
ISSUE OF DECEMBER 29TH
ON SALE DEC. 26TH

THE 1945 ALL-AMERICAN FOOTBALL TEAM

Selected by

The 350 Members Of The American Football Coaches Association

HERE, at last, is an All-American football team selected by the men best qualified to judge—the football coaches of the nation.

It's the first time in the history of college football that any publication has been privileged to announce a selection from the top authorities in the game.

350 COACHES TO VOTE

These are the men who have set the college football stage—discovered, trained and turned out the players. Together, they have witnessed all of the good football in the entire season.

NEW METHOD OF JUDGING

During each week of the football season, coaches watched with trained eyes every man who looked like All-American material. Week after week, these reports were filed with the Association, tabulated, and returned to the coaches for a careful study and a final, end-of-season vote.

The men who made this final All-American team are the real "Who's Who" among the nation's players, as selected by the "Who's Who" among the men best qualified to judge.

Don't miss the American Football Coaches Association 1945 All-American Team in the December 29th Issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

Again the Post pioneers in a sports venture of interest to millions of fans. To keep up with all that's new in the nation's favorite sports—be sure to read the Post every week.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST
DECEMBER 29, 1945 10¢

VILLANOVAN

VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

Vol. 20—No. 18 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1945

Yuletide Display Lights Campus

Colored Lights Deck The Trees And Shrubs In Front Of Mendel Hall And Monastery

For the first time since 1941 the evergreens and shrubs on the Villanova campus burst forth in a mass of color for Christmas as the wartime bans on electrical displays were finally lifted. Under the direction of Mr. Edward A. Loughrey, Superintendent of the Grounds, the various trees extending from the far end of Mendel Hall, past the Monastery and the Chapel, to the circle in front of St. Rita's Hall were decorated with colored electric bulbs.

Villanova has long been noted for its outstanding lighting effects during the week preceding Christmas, but due to the difficulty in obtaining material and the government's request to refrain from wasting electricity, the annual custom of lighting its trees was discontinued during the past few years. Therefore, as a renewal of the former customs, the school hoped to enlarge its display to cover the entire front of the campus. However, as there is still a scarcity of materials for use, and as only one hundred lights could be obtained, the original display had to be set up with hopes of expansion postponed until later years.

Statue Illuminated

The display this year includes about fifteen hundred feet of wiring in which there are said to be approximately one thousand bulbs. Of these bulbs, there are about four hundred covering the trees surrounding the Monastery, and two hundred and forty on the trees around Mendel Hall. On many of the larger evergreens of the campus there are as many as sixty to eighty bulbs on a single tree.

The main feature of the display this year is the group of trees in the circle in front of the Monastery In this circle there are about sixty lights entwined among the small shrubs with a searchlight on the tallest one to illuminate the statue of St. Thomas of Villanova, standing in the center.

Results Unsatisfactory

Although these lights, when lit, are a very breathtaking sight, the men working and those in charge are not satisfied with their results and are waiting for next year when they can expand their lighting effects to extend across the campus from Mendel to Auustin Hall.

Director Of Glee Club Appointed

At the request of the students, the Glee Club has been reorganized under the supervision of Dr. Haenisch, Fr. Joseph Boyle, O.S.A., and Mr. Whalen.

The intense interest shown by the above men in forming the Club has led to the appointment of Mr. Eugene Sullivan of Upper Darby as the director. Mr. Sullivan has been associated with the Palestrina Choir of Philadelphia and the Paulist Choir of New York. Since 1930 he has been teaching Gregorian Chant to the Seminarians in St. Mary's Hall.

The club is scheduled to give a concert of Christmas Carols next Thursday evening in the College Chapel. Originally this concert was to be given at Rosemont College, but due to sickness, the girls departed for their Christmas vacation sooner than was expected. However, another concert is being planned for the Spring.

Dr. Haenisch, who has demonstrated his love for music on several occasions about the campus, has expressed his desire for full cooperation from the students, so that the traditional spirit of the Glee Club will be renewed at Villanova.

The Villanovan extends Holiday Greetings
P. Guarini '37

Peace and the Star

For the first time since 1938 the Christian world is celebrating the feast of the birth of the King of Peace with the world at peace. For the past many years the Angels' refrain: "Peace on earth to men of good will" fell on unheeding ears. For the first time in seven years the message of the Angelic choir is piercing the clouds of a war-torn world and finding its resting place in the anguished heart of mankind.

This year for the first time in many years the little Alpine village of Oberndorf, the birthplace of the world-famous Christmas hymn, will resound with the melody of "Silent Night." With the Nazi occupation this world-beloved carol of the Austrian Tyrol was declared "undesirable." In Germany itself the ravages of war will be softened somewhat by the return of their "Christkindl" — the Christ Child — and the traditional "Tannenbaum." Perhaps even in Soviet Russia, now that the Russian Orthodox Church is partially functioning, the peasants will be able to bring out from their hiding places the "Icons" of the Infant without fear of reprisal.

Once again mankind is finding its way to the cave in the hillsides of Judea where lies in swaddling clothes the King of Peace. It was at this lowly place in the first Christmas season that the world became one. Here men of every nation gathered, and all conditions of life were represented. And peace reigned here. Bethlehem of the year of 1 A. D. became the cross-roads of the world. Here East and West blended into one world, here the Jew and the Gentile acknowledged the one source of salvation, here the rich man and the poor man worshiped the one true God.

This first Christmas scene should be an example and a hope for those who seek world peace. Our diplomats today are speaking in terms of world unity as the only guarantee of a world peace if we are to escape annihilation of future Atomic warfare. We are looking for a Saviour to save us from our own folly. The world of 1945 must return to that silent, holy night in Bethlehem of the year One. For it was here that the Scripture was fulfilled: Unto you is born this day in the City of David a Saviour.

There are thousands of homes in the United States this year in which the traditional festivities of a peace-time Christmas celebration will be found wanting. Peering out from among the multi-colored lights and tinseled symbols of neighborhood decorations will be many Gold Stars of a great tragedy. Those stars bask in the brilliance of another Star that appeared in the heavens on the first Christmas morning. Those stars have aroused hope in a people that almost despaired of hope. They tell a story of heroic life: Greater love than this no man hath than that he lay down his life for his friends. Was not this the message of the Christmas Star?

Numbered among the many gold-starred homes in America this Christmas, Villanova College counts fifty-two, proportionately a large number for a traditionally small college. To the fathers and mothers, the wives and the children of these men the heart of Villanova goes out this Christmas morning. In spirit, we of Villanova will go with them to the Manger at Bethlehem to adore the Prince of Peace. There we will pray that the void made by the absence of one loved will be filled by a calm, a peace, and a serenity of soul that the shepherds felt that first Christmas morn.

By Fr. EDWIN T. GRIMES, O. S. A.,
College Chaplain.

Disposition Of Naval Students Is Explained

Father McGuire And Captain Thomas Address The NROTC And V-12 Students

Last Friday the Rev. Francis X. lanova College, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, College President and the Commanding Officer of the Villanova Navy Unit, Capt. Thomas C. Thomas, U. S. N., addressed the Naval student body with particular regard to their future.

As ouutlined by Navy V-12 bulletin No. 336, the Commanding Officer explained that all NROTC students will be retained under instruction on active duty until the end of the current semester. The specific dispositon of the V-12, NROTC and V-5 students were briefly outlined. Three alternatives were left to the NROTC students. They may be released to inactive duty, but must continue the NROTC studies. Those who retain their enrollment in the NROTC on an inactive status will be required to complete a total of not more than 24 semester hours, or equivalent quarter hours, of Naval Science and Tactics by the end of their eighth college semester or equivalent quarter in college. However, they must complete at least one Naval Science Course each term or quarter, even if the total of 24 hours is thereby exceeded.

Students May Select Schools

The trainees will be permitted to transfer, on their own initiative, from the NROTC unit in which they are now enrolled to any other NROTC unit of their choice, provided that they are entirely acceptable to the academic authorities of the institution to which they desire to transfer.

The basic law governing the NROTC permits the payment of a sum not to exceed one commuted ration per day to trainees who have attained junior or senior standing.

May Transfer to V-5

Any trainee now enrolled in the NROTC who will have completed three terms of college training, or the equivalent in quarters, may be transferred within established quotas, if fuly qualified in all respects, to Class V-5, to continue in college on active duty under the (NAPP) V-5 Program until July, 1946.

Those enlisted men who will have completed six semesters will be required to complete a total of not more than eighteen semester or equivalent quarters in colcollege.

Enlisted men who enroll in NROTC on inactive duty status and remain qualified in every respect for further training will be eligible for any benefits which Congress may approve for the permanent peacetime NROTC. The recommendations of the Navy Department which will soon be presented to Congress including payment by the Navy of all tuition charges and fifty dollars a month to each trainee.

Those enlisted men who desire general duty, or those who are found not physically qualified for enrollment in the NROTC or appointment to commissioned rank (permanent) in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve will be assigned to general duty in a normal enlisted status to remain on active duty until eligible for discharge under general demobilization directives.

Opportunity in Regular Navy

Particular attention of all Navy students is called to the opportunities to transfer to the Regular Navy. Students in all categories, regardles of demobilization status, will, upon successful completion of training, be called to active duty if they express a desire to be considered for transfer to the Regular Navy. Six months service on active duty as a com-

NAVAL STUDENTS
Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Donald Sommer, '47
William Altenpohl, '47
Donald M. Collins, '47
George O'Neill, '47
John P. Murphy, '48

Sports Staff
William Boyne, '46
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
William Chester, '48
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Benjamin Reist, NROTC
Charles Cummings, NROTC
Harold Varani, '46
Thomas Heaps, NROTC
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, NROTC

Photography Staff
Charles Sibre, '48
Albert Derr, '46

Circulation Staff
Raymond Stone, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Joseph A. Doughty, '48
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Peter McManus, '47
Thomas Donnelly, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - DECEMBER 18, 1945

Christmas After The War

THE mind of man for almost twenty centuries has striven to express the sacredly triumphant and majestically jubilant spirit that pervades the Christmastide. And yet, words are not comparable to that blessed joy that rises like the perfume of cool, fresh blossoms in the breast of every Christian. The soul transcends its mortal tools and can only mutely speak to God. Then are all united, when language is no bar, when tear-gleaming eyes alone make known the hope and the thanksgiving of a weary world.

For the Prince of Peace has come again and herald angels proclaim their tidings to men . . . Peace on earth, how apt this holy chant when the pure snow is blanketing with the innocence of Heaven the newly broken machines and the newly broken men of a horrible war; when the impotent world seeks to bind its wounds and to propose their cure.

Into the midst of our flounderings, the ever-benevolent Father has sent once more His Son, 'the Way, the Truth, and the Life.' Let us not lock our hearts to the Christ Child as did Bethlehem's inns that blessed night. Let us receive Him and hear His cry. Let the Yule bell announce His real advent into the world.

D. M. C.

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

'Tis a week before Christmas
And all through the place,
The Yuletide spirit
Looms on everyone's face.
With but four or five days
Before taking our leave
What else would be better?
We couldn't conceive.

* * *

And as we, too, are in gayest of spirits, we'll get right down to business and not waste good time which could be spent in preparation. We do have a couple of swell guys to tell you about this week, so sit down for five minutes and lend an ear.

The Terror

Thomas Francis Carrigg, a most outstanding name, is possessed by Thomas Francis Carrigg, a most outstanding guy. Known as the 'Terror of South Brockton," Tom was inaugurated June 15, 1925 in the aforementioned Brockton, Mass., U. S. A.; a man from the states. Right from the start, Tom has been a natural leader of men. There wasn't one gang war in which he wasn't in the front lines. He took time out, however, from his administrative duties to attend Sacred Heart Grammar and Junior High School. Then came Brockton High and finally the Navy in April of 1943.

Let us digress for a moment. "Red," as he is called due to his high blood pressure, was, back in the middle of '43, a prime example of young manhood. Today the conditions have changed. Tom is no longer the hard, robust, individual of days gone by, but is almost the picture of our "quite obese" battalion commander, the Bayonne Baby Bacsik. Yes, we fear that Navy life agrees a little too well with Tommy, too well indeed.

THOMAS F. CARRIGG

The naval operation in which Red took part was the maneuver-

Continued on Page Four

Out of the Copy Basket

My frans, what more need be said by way of intro. than that your old exchanger, Jas. T. Mackey, is here once again?

* * *

"Owl's Eye View" of the Temple U. News begrudgingly announces that Fiorello H. LaGuardia shorn of his title of Mayor will become a coast-to-coast radio commentator on Jan. 6.

"Owl's Eye" says when asked how long he could hold this job, he (LaGuardia) shot back 'Look, when I took the job of mayor, I stayed longer than a few weeks, didn't I?' (That was 12 years to be exact.)"

* * *

Oh You Lucky Chicagoans!

Yes, people, truly the U. of Chicago is lucky, for according to "The Chicago Maroon" a revival of the communist Youth Party was well under way.

"The Newspaper, "The Campuus Communist,' extended an invitation to all University students to attend a meeting Sunday evening."

Oh, you lucky Chicagoans! Your benevolent Communist buddies are extending to you such wonderful opportunities! Why you may even be allowed to strike against the University (could always strike for easier exams, fewer classes, more vacations, etc., etc.). And then, with the University as stymied by uncle Joe's boys as is the whole national industrial field today, you may be fortunate enough to find that you don't have to go to school anymore since your Commie friends had helped the University to fold up.

* * *

"' I stood before the bars of Fate and bowed my head disconsolate; so high they seemed, so fierce their frown, I thought no hand could break them down.' "

Mississippi Collegian

* * *

PRETTY GOOD GUESS

Two drunks were sitting at a table, staring mournfully into their drinks. One of them stirred, and cupping his hands together as if they contained something, asked his companion: "Wha' I got in my hands?"

His pal thought seriously. "The Brooklyn Bridge?" he asked.

"Nope, guess again."

"Santa Anita Racetrack?"

"Nope, but you're getting warmer."

"A horse?"

The first drunk opened his hands a crack and peeped in. Then he looked up eagerly and asked, "Wha' color?"

* * *

HAILED ON BRAND

When a man began boasting that he could name any brand of liquor, a friend pulled a flask from his pocket and invited him to taste the contents and tell him what it was.

He did so and promptly spit it out." That's gasoline, you fool!"

"Yeah, I know. But what brand?"

The Dakota Scientist

* * *

Funeral director (addressing aged mourner):

"How old are you?"

"I'll be 98 in March."

"Well, well, hardly worth while going home, is it?"

* * *

". . . and what do they make shoes of nowadays?"

"Hide."

"Huh?"

"I said hide!"

"What for?"

"Hide, dammit! The cow's outside!"

"Huh, who's afraid of a cow?"

* * *

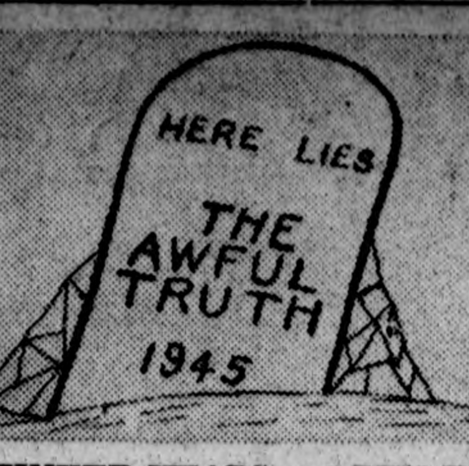
We're really sorry to leave you, readers—so sorry we feel we're going to cry like Durante. "A tear rolled down muh nose—a mere two day trip." But ever game, we still have a word of farewell—Fr. Hammond's "Osta Lumbago."

Senior Ball News

Date Of Dance Is Jan. 19; Tickets To Go On Sale Wednesday

Tickets for the Belle Air Ball, scheduled for Saturday, January 19, will go on sale tomorrow as announced by Joseph Hoffman, chairman of the committee. James Meehan will handle the sale of tickets for the Ball and it is expected that tickets will be purchased early. The price of the tickets will be $4.00 plus tax before the dance and $4.40 plus tax if purchased at the door.

Plans for the decorations are still undisclosed but the director of the decoration committee, Harry Waters, promises something new in that line.



By TINKER HEAPS and BEN REIST

Peering forth from our "snow covered igloo," located on Spring Mill Road, we've spotted quite a few interesting facts and tales concerning our next door neighbors, and their next neighbors . . . and your next door neighbor, so lend us that well bent ear whilst we attempt at crossing someone's yet to be mauled path of life . . .

Naturally, the first thing which should be mentioned in the corner of this week's gossip group is the subject of "what's going to happen to you and me at the end of this semester" . . . tragic isn't it ?!! . . . What with the OPA closing in on all the rooming spaces throughout the land we now find our own Uncle Sam dislodging us'ns too, and where do we go from here?? Well, little friends, as for me—I'm going home with Ma and Pa and Bra (that's my little brother) and enjoy the happy confines of homelife, but as for those of you who aren't fortunate I can only suggest a few paths by which to travel:

a. Join the WAVES — they only need 23 points to get out.

b. Have your father tell MacArthur that you want to become a doctor or, be like Hess and forget everything — thus working for a psycho . . . otherwise you'll always remember yourself hating the moment that recruiting chief (or was it the draft board) twisted your arm and you said "I do (gulp)" . . .

At the basketball game we were all blessed with the presence of the first successful (at this point I was bribed) attempt at combining the Armed Forces; yessir, sitting directly opposite us were Mr. and Mrs. Dalrymple, looking very, very sharp too!! Welcome aboard folks and come more often — it adds some color to the place . . . oh yes, we can't let this slip by; sometime when you all are with plenty of spare time you should come to the intra-murals and take note (or take aim—it's irrelevant) of the two officiating Gyrenes. Schleicher is a musician as far as blowing the whistle goes and Glascott can't see three feet ahead of him on the court—but all in all they add to the comedy of the thing and make fairly good watching when you don't feel like staying in the rooms and doing homework . . .

Sneaking through the engineers dorm we hear loud and lavish tales about that highly respected student officer Julius (reminds me of another guy who was stabbed by his best friend) Palley; seems as though the boy has grown tired of the run of the mine material about this area and has gone out in search of better grounds, and with his favorite friend Chet Duncan too! Well, some things we must ignore in this writing, but her name was Isabelle and if you will just close your eyes and visualize Chet Duncan and then try to visualize one of his love-mates then you've got it (and ain't it awful??) . . . Shame on Julius Palley!! . . .

Seems as though our jibe at the storekeepers last week had its effect, for about 30 gobs got their new ROTC garb just this week—and if we could just think of something else nasty to say about them we would be pretty happy, cause otherwise there will be about 50 guys who won't enjoy Christmas quite so much as they would have if their uniforms had been among those already here and alloted . . . maybe the front office will have that one Christmas gift for them yet, all hands are keeping their fingers crossed for everyone knows the old quote "a good ship is a happy ship" . . . keerect gang?? . . .

Could be another one of our jibes had an opposing effect too, for our favorite banking board for cracks, Paul (so what if I'm not like Atlas) Walsh is now recuperating in the cheery (???) Sick Bay. Official

THE AWFUL TRUTH
Continued on Page Four

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

This week will commence the long anticipated Christmas holidays which will afford a lengthy respite from the scholastic grind and permit the boys to return to their local lairs and renew their social acquaintances. Oh! Yes there is one other little item — remember don't exceed your capacity for the sweet little number's gift (or gifts), for it's not the quality that counts, it's the sentiment. It says here!!

* * *

Now getting into the serious aspect of the social goings-on of the many Romeos about the campus.

It seems that Dave Ryan had a little trouble finding a date for the Holiday Hop—either Dave has lost his charm or the gals have finally given up hope. We agree on the latter.

Carl Ungaro and Al Pelusi should look up Mr. Webster to find out the definitions of "smile" and "sneer." You may find out that the chick on the "L" was not smiling.

Bill Altenpohl almost blinded the entire Villanovan staff last week when he removed his Eisenhower jacket with its bright red lining. Bill claimed the lining cost him ten extra bucks. Extravagant isn't he?

We received word that Harry Waters wore the same suit twice in one week. Harry explained the shortage has hit him hard. He only has a dozen left. Tuff!!

If you want to spend an enjoyable evening with lots of laughs just take a short jaunt to the Field House and watch Tom "Set Shot" Burke in action for the Doms basketball team. Set Shot is the only player who can fall asleep on the floor and still keep moving.

Ed Keller, C. & F.'s own (they can have him) has taken a new pen name—Sammy Keller. His latest book is "How to Win Pinochle Games in One Easy Lesson" or "Pass with Seventeen Meld for the Extra Dime."

Questions of the Week:

When is Newt Ward going to put in for his weekend dates before Friday night or Saturday morning?

When will Joanne say "yes" to Bill's question? 'I slipped this one in on you, Bill.'

When will Paul Murphy, the painter, get one of his painted windowns in the Art Gallery? He and Rembrandt attended school together.

* * *

In answer to last week's question: Tony Caruso informed us that he was seen with no one over the past weekend. The commencing of the Rosies' Christmas vacation on Friday must have upset his schedule.

* * *

To prove that others have talent too, we have taken it upon ourselves to quote the Notre Dame Scholastic.

Under the Mistletoe

I was charmed by the look in her eye,
By her nightingale voice I was smitten
And her beautiful figure—Oh my!
By her glorious tongue I was bitten.
She is really the charmingest girl, sir
In her arms any man would find bliss, sir;
But what struck me most about her
Was her hand when I started to kiss her.

* * *

Don "She speaks highly of you" Collins fouled up a certain individ-

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Villanova Down Rams 56-39 In Fast Game

Reybitz Sparks Home Team To Best Game Of Season; Ties Lord For Scoring Honors With 14 Points

Villanova's basketeers evened their record for the young season when they throttled the Fordham Rams 56-39 last Wednesday night in their best showing of the season. Operating with big Chet Reybitz in the pivot during the first half, Coach Al Severance tuned in on a winning combination. With a repertoire of fakes and deceptive passes, Reybitz gave the Rams a rough evening before he was forced to leave the game with an injured back.

The Rams scored first, and a Villanova victory was seen in the stars if this little omen, which ordained the outcome of the previous games were to be accepted. Assured of the outcome, Reybitz decided to contribute material aid so he dropped a foul shot after a minute of play. Herb Clan, Fordham's main threat, dropped a set shot to move out in front 4-1. With Lord hitting from outside and Chet offering his teammates bonuses from the foul line, the Cats kept pace with their opponent and finally drew abreast at 8-8. Lord added a one pointer to garner a lead which was never relinquished.

Reybitz Controls Boards

"Robbie" Robertson played his usually aggressive game and racked up four points in the first half, while his running mate at forward, "Toad" Hannan, dropped one goal to widen the margin. At the ten minute mark of the first half the score read 19-13 and it was a smooth working Villanova five that relentlessly kept forcing the play. Reybitz controlled the boards, and Hannan and Robertson were all over the floor fighting for the ball, which threw a road block in the path of Fordham's expected wide-open play. By inserting Kline in the starting line-up, Coach Al Severance added a polished floorman amongst his sharp-shooters, which insured passing to keep the Rams on their heels. The Cats worked the ball this week and had more time to get set for long ones.

Bill Burr entered the game and promptly proceded to steal the ball. His tap-in was one of the best shots of the half. Reybitz tallied ten on one bucket and eight charities, and Lord registered nine points on four and one to lead in the scoring department at the intermission. The score read 30-19 in our favor.

Fordham Uses Zone

Villanova's pop shot artists relished the zone defense set up by the Rams in the second half. Hannan conected for two baskets, one a brilliant tap from off balance. Reybitz was injured when he landed on his back after taking a rebound and was replaced by capable Dick Rice. Villanova moved out to 37-29, and at this point Joe Brehmer came in to add

BEAT FORDHAM
Continued on Page Four

Courtmen Lose Two Games On Weekend Trip

Late Rally Gives Kings Point 43-38 Victory, Yale Bulldogs Smother 'Cats During Bad Road Trip

By DICK SOMERS

The United States Merchant Marine Academy rallied in the last four minutes to defeat Villanova 43-38 on its home floor in Kings Point, Long Island, N. Y.

Bill Feris was the man responsible for changing ultimate defeat into victory for the Sailors. He scored 16 points in the second half, 10 of them in the last seven minutes of play.

Villanova's starting lineup of Robertson, Hannan, Reybitz, Lord and Kline handled the ball well and maintained control of the ball while they performed as a unit. The burden of the offense was again carried by the four heavily taped ankles of Ed Reybitz, 11 points, and Joe Lord, 10 points. Joe Hannon was the only other 'Cat able to hit consistently and finished with 8 points.

Go "Shot Happy"

As often happens with inexperienced players in a close game, the boys went "shot happy" in the closing minutes. On five occasions, long shots were taken without any Blue and White man in position to take a rebound and each time the Kings Pointers scored.

The Wildcats rolled up 7 points on two baskets and a foul by Reybitz and a tap-in by Hannan. Si Taflan, Zagelmeier, and Faris dropped fouls but Lord answered with 2 from the floor to make it 11-3. Zagelmeier made the first Marine field goal when he stole the ball at mid-court and dribbled in for a lay-up.

Lead at Half

Two fouls each by McDonnell and Lord, and one each by Brehmer and Hannon in addition to field goals by Reybitz and Hannan brought Villanova's total to 22 for the half. The Mariners made their half-time total 15 on fouls by Lou Viau and Faris with 3 field goals by Zagelmeier and the first of 9 by Faris.

Throughout the first ten minutes of the second half, the teams ex-

AWAY GAMES
Continued on Page Four

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE
Longines

Ausmen Continue Intramural Lead

Fedigan Takes Over Second Spot As Doms Lose Two

By DAVID MARANO

Intramurals this week continued at their usual red hot clip, with the undefeated sailors of Austin Hall racking up two more victories. After being held to a two point lead at halftime by the Marines, the Ausmen found their stride, and, led by automatic Bill Agnew, they increased their margin and wound up on the top end of a 44-30 score. Tuesday night it was the same story. This time the Doms were the victim. Hitting the cords for 12 points, Agnew again led the victors giving him a total of 31 points for the two games.

The second game Monday night found Fedigan's fighting swabbies really getting hot and dropping the then undefeated Doms outfit out of a tie for first place. Never in danger, it seemed as though the boys from Fedigan couldn't miss. A one-two punch of Phippeny and Armstrong, hitting the hoop over and over again, brought the score to 13-1 before Doms could register even one goal. At the half Fedigan held a comfortable 20-3 lead. During the second half the valiant Doms outfit came to life and traded the sailors point for point with the final score reading Fedigan 32, Doms 13.

Fedigan Downs Alumni

The sharp eyes of Phippeny and Armstrong, combined with the smart ball handling and aggressive play of Dan Redmond were the big factors in the victory. On Tuesday night these same men from Fedigan had a tough one on their hands, but finally pulled it out of the fire by a 21-20 score. Trailing 12-5 at the half, a great last period surge sank the civilians of Alumni Hall. High scorer, with twelve points, was Peksa.

Preceding the varsity games last Wednesday, the Alumni Hall team, on the rebound from their recent loss to Fedigan, took a close 28-27 decision from the Marines. Highlights of this game were Bob Manske's 11 points for the winners, Jackman's 9 for the losers, and the clever floor work of Shelton.

League Standings

	W.	L.	Pct.
Ausmen	4	0	1.000
Fedigan	3	1	.750
Doms	2	2	.500
Alumni	1	3	.250
Marines	0	4	.000

SEEN From the Sidelines

Colgate University will field a 20-man basketball squad against the Wildcats in their game January 25. This is the largest team Colgate has had in several seasons. Veteran Coach Karl Lawrence hopes to repeat Colgate's '42 victory over the 'Cats with his large but inexperienced squad.

* * *

Villanova's basketball team has been plagued by injuries so far this season, but the boys are now in pretty good shape. "Toad" Hannan has had stitches put in his head twice, Carl Fuglestad has been limping on a bad leg and several others, including Joe Lord and Bill Tome, have been bothered by bad ankles.

* * *

Fr. McKee announced recently that Villanova will meet Army for the next three years on the football field. The Villanova-Army games during these years will be the opening contests for both teams.

Arthur Raimo Returns To Villanova As 1946 Assistant Football Coach

Fullback During '35-'36-'37 Seasons Will Assist Olivar And Neri. Served in Navy V-12 Ship's Company Here

It was announced last week by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., Director of Athletics, that Arthur F. Raimo, former Villanovan, will return to the campus next year to act as assistant football coach. Raimo will work with head coach Jordan Olivar and assistant coach Jerry Neri.

Art was fullback on the 1937 Villanova football team that had only one tie to mar a perfect season. Known as the Wildcats flying "Jeep," Raimo scored a total of four touchdowns in his first two varsity games, twice traveling over 70 yards to register. For three years he was one of Villanova's best players, even though he was in the company of such all time greats as Johnny Wysocki, Johnny Mellus, Jordan Olivar, Andy Stopper and a host of others.

ARTHUR F. RAIMO

High School Handyman

Raimo was born in East Boston, Mass., on April 24, 1916, and seven years later his family moved to Everett Mass. At Everett High

RAIMO RETURNS
Continued on Page Four

'Cats Meet Valley Forge Medics In 4th Home Game

Villanova will play host to one of the top teams of the East tomorrow night when the Wildcats entertain the Valley Forge General Hospital's star-studded court aggregation in the Field House. The contest is scheduled to begin at 8:30 P. M.

The Medics have the same squad that carried them through a thirty-seven game card with but two revers last year. They lost only to Temple (in an overtime tussle) and to New York Coast Guard, a team which they defeated in three other meetings. That record entitled them to the Eastern Service Championship, a title for which they are strong contenders again this year. At this writing they have reeled off nine successes in ten starts, having lost only to the powerful, unbeaten Philadelphia Navy Yard five.

Led By Szukala

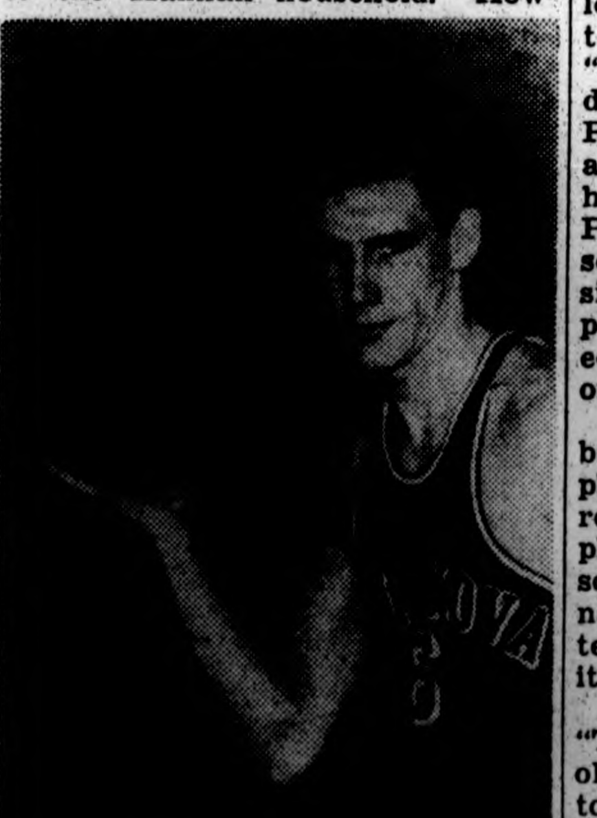
Leading the Valley Forge attack again this year is Stan Szukala, former All-American at De Paul, but any one of the starting five is liable to be top scorer for the evening, the team is that well-balanced. A trio of ex-Notre Damers, Johnny Niemiera, Johnny Craddock, and Charley Davis supply plenty of offensive strength. The fifth starter, Walter Graf, is a veteran of Big Ten play at Wisconsin and prior to the war was coaching

MEET MEDICS
Continued on Page Four

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS

Approximately 18 years ago a weary stork paid his sixth visit to a certain house in South Philadelphia. Just to prove that it was no mistake, or possibly as compensation for previous errors, Sir Stork made three additional visits to the Hannan household. However, the subject of this discourse is the bouncing baby boy, hereinafter designated as Joseph "Toad" Hannan, of aforesaid sixth visit.



JOSEPH "TOAD" HANNAN

Joe must have escaped some of the rigors of life in a large family by developing his amazing speed at an early age. (Could be he just wanted to make sure of a place at the table). At any rate his tender head and face have made him Trainer Jim Tadley's special passenger to Bryn Mawr Hospital on several occasions.

Attended St. Patrick's

Now to get back to the chronological development of the character selected for this week's study, "Toad" began his wanderings down the trail of knowledge at St. Patrick's Parochial School. It was at this stage of life that he made his debut on the hardwood, as St. Patrick's is noted for its grade school basketball teams. St. Aloysius had the priviledge of his company for one year before he entered Southeast Catholic in the fall of 1941.

Following in the footsteps of his brothers, Jack and Mickey who played for South in 1939 and 1941 respectively, Joe earned himself a place on the varsity five in his sophomore year. Also in true Hannan style he became captain of the team in his junior year and led it to the Catholic League title.

In 1944, his first year as captain, "Toad" played on the State Catholic Championship team. Previous to entering the State tournament, South won the Catholic League playoffs and lost the City Championship to Bartram.

Captained Team Twice

Serving his second term as captain, Joe kept the boys running in front again. This time they won the League title and defended their rights by taking the playoffs. The largest crowd to attend a City

IN THE SPORTLIGHT
Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Donald Sommer, '47
William Altenpohl, '47
Donald M. Collins, '47
George O'Neill, '47
John P. Murphy, '48

Sports Staff
William Boyle, '46
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
William Chester, '48
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Benjamin Reist, NROTC
Charles Cummings, NROTC
Harold Varani, '46
Thomas Heaps, NROTC
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, NROTC

Photography Staff
Charles Sibre, '48
Albert Derr, '46

Circulation Staff
Raymond Stone, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Joseph A. Doughty, '48
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Peter McManus, '47
Thomas Donnelly, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - DECEMBER 18, 1945

Christmas After The War

THE mind of man for almost twenty centuries has striven to express the sacredly triumphant and majestically jubilant spirit that pervades the Christmastide. And yet, words are not comparable to that blessed joy that rises like the perfume of cool, fresh blossoms in the breast of every Christian. The soul transcends its mortal tools and can only mutely speak to God. Then are all united, when language is no bar, when tear-gleaming eyes alone make known the hope and the thanksgiving of a weary world.

For the Prince of Peace has come again and herald angels proclaim their tidings to men . . . Peace on earth, how apt this holy chant when the pure snow is blanketing with the innocence of Heaven the newly broken machines and the newly broken men of a horrible war; when the impotent world seeks to bind its wounds and to propose their cure.

Into the midst of our flounderings, the ever-benevolent Father has sent once more His Son, 'the Way, the Truth, and the Life.' Let us not lock our hearts to the Christ Child as did Bethlehem's inns that blessed night. Let us receive Him and hear His cry. Let the Yule bell announce His real advent into the world.

D. M. C.

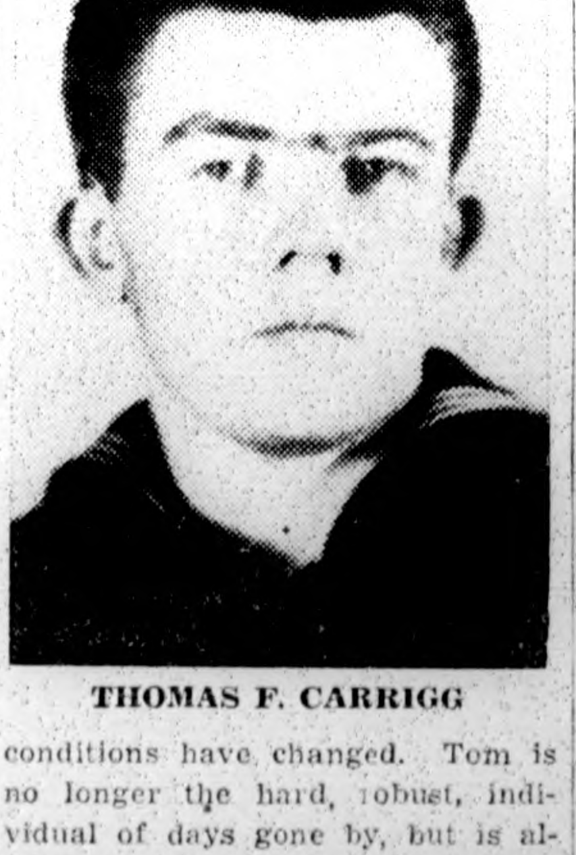
Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

'Tis a week before Christmas
And all through the place,
The Yuletide spirit
Looms on everyone's face.
With but four or five days
Before taking our leave
What else would be better?
We couldn't conceive.

* * *

And as we, too, are in gayest of spirits, we'll get right down to business and not waste good time which could be spent in preparation. We do have a couple of swell guys to tell you about this week, so sit down for five minutes and lend an ear.



THOMAS F. CARRIGG

The Terror

Thomas Francis Carrigg, a most outstanding name, is possessed by Thomas Francis Carrigg, a most outstanding guy. Known as the "Terror of South Brockton," Tom was inaugurated June 15, 1925 in the aforementioned Brockton, Mass., U. S. A.; a man from the states. Right from the start, Tom has been a natural leader of men. There wasn't one gang war in which he wasn't in the front lines. He took time out, however, from his administrative duties to attend Sacred Heart Grammar and Junior High School. Then came Brockton High and finally the Navy in April of 1943.

Let us digress for a moment. "Red," as he is called due to his high blood pressure, was, back in the middle of '43, a prime example of young manhood. Today the conditions have changed. Tom is no longer the hard, robust, individual of days gone by, but is almost the picture of our "quite obese" battalion commander, the Bayonne Baby Bacsik. Yes, we fear that Navy life agrees a little too well with Tommy, too well indeed.

The naval operation in which Red took part was the maneuver-

Continued on Page Four

Out of the Copy Basket

My frans, what more need be said by way of intro, than that your old exchanger, Jas. T. Mackey, is here once again?

* * *

"Owl's Eye View" of the Temple U. News begrudgingly announces that Fiorello H. LaGuardia shorn of his title of Mayor will become a coast-to-coast radio commentator on Jan. 6.

"Owl's Eye" says when asked how long he could hold this job, he (LaGuardia) shot back 'Look, when I took the job of mayor, I stayed longer than a few weeks, didn't I?' (That was 12 years to be exact.)"

* * *

Oh You Lucky Chicagoans!

Yes, people, truly the U. of Chicago is lucky, for according to "The Chicago Maroon" a revival of the communist Youth Party was well under way.

"The Newspaper, "The Campuus Communist,' extended an invitation to all University students to attend a meeting Sunday evening."

Oh, you lucky Chicagoans! Your benevolent Communist buddies are extending to you such wonderful opportunities! Why you may even be allowed to strike against the University (could always strike for easier exams, fewer classes, more vacations, etc., etc.). And then, with the University as stymied by uncle Joe's boys as is the whole national industrial field today, you may be fortunate enough to find that you don't have to go to school anymore since your Commie friends had helped the University to fold up.

* * *

"' I stood before the bars of Fate and bowed my head disconsolate; so high they seemed, so fierce their frown, I thought no hand could break them down.' "

Mississippi Collegian

* * *

PRETTY GOOD GUESS

Two drunks were sitting at a table, staring mournfully into their drinks. One of them stirred, and cupping his hands together as if they contained something, asked his companion: "Wha' I got in my hands?"

His pal thought seriously. "The Brooklyn Bridge?" he asked.

"Nope, guess again."

"Santa Anita Racetrack?"

"Nope, but you're getting warmer."

"A horse?"

The first drunk opened his hands a crack and peeped in. Then he looked up eagerly and asked, "Wha' color?"

* * *

HAILED ON BRAND

When a man began boasting that he could name any brand of liquor, a friend pulled a flask from his pocket and invited him to taste the contents and tell him what it was.

He did so and promptly spit it out." That's gasoline, you fool!"

"Yeah, I know. But what brand?"

The Dakota Scientist

* * *

Funeral director (addressing aged mourner):

"How old are you?"

"I'll be 98 in March."

"Well, well, hardly worth while going home, is it?"

* * *

". . . and what do they make shoes of nowadays?"

"Hide."

"Huh?"

"I said hide!"

"What for?"

"Hide, dammit! The cow's outside!"

"Huh, who's afraid of a cow?"

* * *

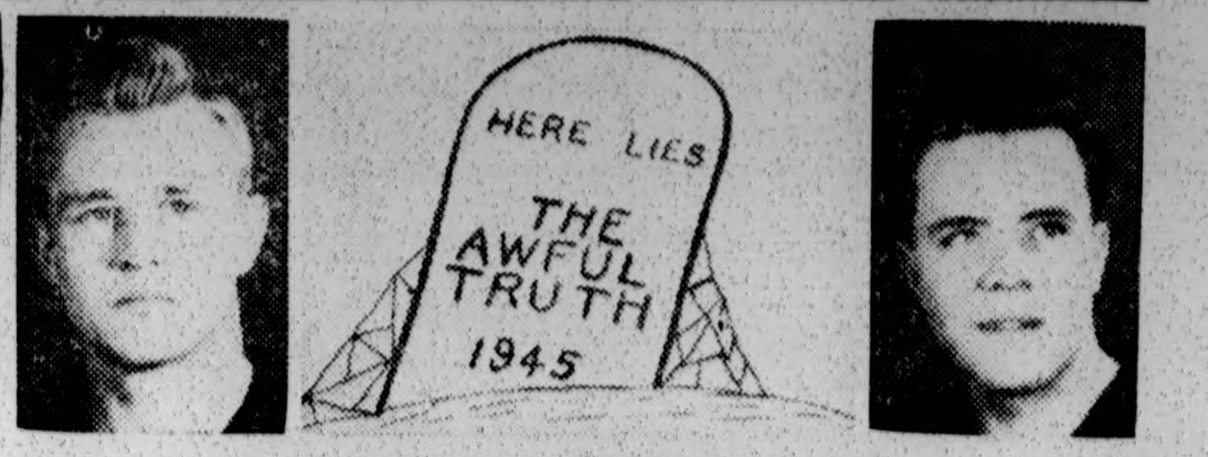
We're really sorry to leave you, readers—so sorry we feel we're going to cry like Durante. "A tear rolled down muh nose—a mere two day trip." But ever game, we still have a word of farewell—Fr. Hammond's "Osta Lumbago."

Senior Ball News

Date Of Dance Is Jan. 19; Tickets To Go On Sale Wednesday

Tickets for the Belle Air Ball, scheduled for Saturday, January 19, will go on sale tomorrow as announced by Joseph Hoffman, chairman of the committee. James Meehan will handle the sale of tickets for the Ball and it is expected that tickets will be purchased early. The price of the tickets will be $4.00 plus tax before the dance and $4.40 plus tax if purchased at the door.

Plans for the decorations are still undisclosed but the director of the decoration committee, Harry Waters, promises something new in that line.



By TINKER HEAPS and BEN REIST

Peering forth from our "snow covered igloo," located on Spring Mill Road, we've spotted quite a few interesting facts and tales concerning our next door neighbors, and their next neighbors . . . and your next door neighbor, so lend us that well bent ear whilst we attempt at crossing someone's yet to be mauled path of life . . .

Naturally, the first thing which should be mentioned in the corner of this week's gossip group is the subject of "what's going to happen to you and me at the end of this semester" . . . tragic isn't it ?!! . . . What with the OPA closing in on all, the rooming spaces throughout the land we now find our own Uncle Sam dislodging us'ns too, and where do we go from here?? Well, little friends, as for me—I'm going home with Ma and Pa and Bra (that's my little brother) and enjoy the happy confines of homelife, but as for those of you who aren't fortunate I can only suggest a few paths by which to travel:

a. Join the WAVES — they only need 23 points to get out.

b. Have your father tell MacArthur that you want to become a doctor or, be like Hess and forget everything — thus working for a psycho . . . otherwise you'll always remember yourself hating the moment that recruiting chief (or was it the draft board) twisted your arm and you said "I do (gulp)" . . .

At the basketball game we were all blessed with the presence of the first successful (at this point I was bribed) attempt at combining the Armed Forces; yessir, sitting directly opposite us were Mr. and Mrs. Dalrymple, looking very, very sharp too!! Welcome aboard folks and come more often — it adds some color to the place . . . oh yes, we can't let this slip by; sometime when you all are with plenty of spare time you should come to the intra-murals and take note (or take aim—it's irrelevant) of the two officiating Gyrenes. Schleicher is a musician as far as blowing the whistle goes and Glascott can't see three feet ahead of him on the court—but all in all they add to the comedy of the thing and make fairly good watching when you don't feel like staying in the rooms and doing homework . . .

Sneaking through the engineers dorm we hear loud and lavish tales about that highly respected student officer Julius (reminds me of another guy who was stabbed by his best friend) Palley; seems as though the boy has grown tired of the run of the mine material about this area and has gone out in search of better grounds, and with his favorite friend Chet Duncan too! Well, some things we must ignore in this writing, but her name was Isabelle and if you will just close your eyes and visualize Chet Duncan and then try to visualize one of his love-mates then you've got it (and ain't it awful??) . . . Shame on Julius Palley!! . . .

Seems as though our jibe at the storekeepers last week had its effect, for about 30 gobs got their new ROTC garb just this week—and if we could just think of something else nasty to say about them we would be pretty happy, cause otherwise there will be about 50 guys who won't enjoy Christmas quite so much as they would have if their uniforms had been among those already here and alloted . . . maybe the front office will have that one Christmas gift for them yet, all hands are keeping their fingers crossed for everyone knows the old quote "a good ship is a happy ship" . . . keerect gang?? . . .

Could be another one of our jibes had an opposing effect too, for our favorite banking board for cracks, Paul (so what if I'm not like Atlas) Walsh is now recuperating in the cheery (???) Sick Bay. Official

THE AWFUL TRUTH
Continued on Page Four

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

This week will commence the long anticipated Christmas holidays which will afford a lengthy respite from the scholastic grind and permit the boys to return to their local lairs and renew their social acquaintances. Oh! Yes there is one other little item — remember don't exceed your capacity for the sweet little number's gift (or gifts), for it's not the quality that counts, it's the sentiment. It says here!!

* * *

Now getting into the serious aspect of the social goings-on of the many Romeos about the campus.

It seems that Dave Ryan had a little trouble finding a date for the Holiday Hop—either Dave has lost his charm or the gals have finally given up hope. We agree on the latter.

Carl Ungaro and Al Pelusi should look up Mr. Webster to find out the definitions of "smile" and "sneer." You may find out that the chick on the "L" was not smiling.

Bill Altenpohl almost blinded the entire Villanovan staff last week when he removed his Eisenhower jacket with its bright red lining. Bill claimed the lining cost him ten extra bucks. Extravagant isn't he?

We received word that Harry Waters wore the same suit twice in one week. Harry explained the shortage has hit him hard. He only has a dozen left. Tuff!!

If you want to spend an enjoyable evening with lots of laughs just take a short jaunt to the Field House and watch Tom "Set Shot" Burke in action for the Doms basketball team. Set Shot is the only player who can fall asleep on the floor and still keep moving.

Ed Keller, C. & F.'s own (they can have him) has taken a new pen name—Sammy Keller. His latest book is "How to Win Pinochle Games in One Easy Lesson" or "Pass with Seventeen Meld for the Extra Dime."

Questions of the Week:

When is Newt Ward going to put in for his weekend dates before Friday night or Saturday morning?

When will Joanne say "yes" to Bill's question? 'I slipped this one in on you, Bill.'

When will Paul Murphy, the painter, get one of his painted windowns in the Art Gallery? He and Rembrandt attended school together.

* * *

In answer to last week's question; Tony Caruso informed us that he was seen with no one over the past weekend. The commencing of the Rosies' Christmas vacation on Friday must have upset his schedule.

* * *

To prove that others have talent too, we have taken it upon ourselves to quote the Notre Dame Scholastic.

Under the Mistletoe

I was charmed by the look in her eye,
By her nightingale voice I was smitten
And her beautiful figure—Oh my!
By her glorious tongue I was bitten.
She is really the charmingest girl, sir
In her arms any man would find bliss, sir;
But what struck me most about her
Was her hand when I started to kiss her.

* * *

Don "She speaks highly of you" Collins fouled up a certain individ-

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Villanova Down Rams 56-39 In Fast Game

Reybitz Sparks Home Team To Best Game Of Season; Ties Lord For Scoring Honors With 14 Points

Villanova's basketeers evened their record for the young season when they throttled the Fordham Rams 56-39 last Wednesday night in their best showing of the season. Operating with big Chet Reybitz in the pivot during the first half, Coach Al Severance tuned in on a winning combination.

With a repertoire of fakes and deceptive passes, Reybitz gave the Rams a rough evening before he was forced to leave the game with an injured back.

The Rams scored first, and a Villanova victory was seen in the stars if this little omen, which ordained the outcome of the previous games were to be accepted. Assured of the outcome, Reybitz decided to contribute material aid so he dropped a foul shot after a minute of play. Herb Clan, Fordham's main threat, dropped a set shot to move out in front 4-1. With Lord hitting from outside and Chet offering his teammates bonuses from the foul line, the Cats kept pace with their opponent and finally drew abreast at 8-8. Lord added a one pointer to garner a lead which was never relinquished.

Reybitz Controls Boards

"Robbie" Robertson played his usually aggressive game and racked up four points in the first half, while his running mate at forward, "Toad" Hannan, dropped one goal to widen the margin. At the ten minute mark of the first half the score read 19-13 and it was a smooth working Villanova five that relentlessly kept forcing the play. Reybitz controlled the boards, and Hannan and Robertson were all over the floor fighting for the ball, which threw a road block in the path of Fordham's expected wide-open play. By inserting Kline in the starting line-up, Coach Al Severance added a polished floorman amongst his sharp-shooters, which insured passing to keep the Rams on their heels. The Cats worked the ball this week and had more time to get set for long ones.

Bill Burr entered the game and promptly proceded to steal the ball. His tap-in was one of the best shots of the half. Reybitz tallied ten on one bucket and eight charities, and Lord registered nine points on four and one to lead in the scoring department at the intermission. The score read 30-19 in our favor.

Fordham Uses Zone

Villanova's pop shot artists relished the zone defense set up by the Rams in the second half. Hannan conected for two baskets, one a brilliant tap from off balance. Reybitz was injured when he landed on his back after taking a rebound and was replaced by capable Dick Rice. Villanova moved out to 37-29, and at this point Joe Brehmer came in to add

BEAT FORDHAM
Continued on Page Four

Courtmen Lose Two Games On Weekend Trip

Late Rally Gives Kings Point 43-38 Victory, Yale Bulldogs Smother 'Cats During Bad Road Trip

By DICK SOMERS

The United States Merchant Marine Academy rallied in the last four minutes to defeat Villanova 43-38 on its home floor in Kings-Point, Long Island, N. Y.

Bill Feris was the man responsible for changing ultimate defeat into victory for the Sailors. He scored 16 points in the second half, 10 of them in the last seven minutes. of play.

Villanova's starting lineup of Robertson, Hannan, Reybitz, Lord and Kline handled the ball well and maintained control of the ball while they performed as a unit. The burden of the offense was again carried by the four heavily taped ankles of Eu Reybitz, 11 points, and Joe Lord, 10 points. Joe Hannon was the only other 'Cat able to hit consistently and finished with 8 points.

Go "Shot Happy"

As often happens with inexperienced players in a close game, the boys went "shot happy" in the closing minutes. On five occasions, long shots were taken without any Blue and White man in position to take a rebound and each time the Kings Pointers scored.

The Wildcats rolled up 7 points on two baskets and a foul by Reybitz and a tap-in by Hannan. Si Taflan, Zagelmeier, and Faris dropped fouls but Lord answered with 2 from the floor to make it 11-3. Zagelmeier made the first Marine field goal when he stole the ball at mid-court and dribbled in for a lay-up.

Lead at Half

Two fouls each by McDonnell and Lord, and one each by Brehmer and Hannon in addition to field goals by Reybitz and Hannan brought Villanova's total to 22 for the half. The Mariners made their half-time total 15 on fouls by Lou Viau and Faris with 3 field goals by Zagelmeier and the first of 9 by Faris.

Throughout the first ten minutes of the second half, the teams ex-

AWAY GAMES
Continued on Page Four

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE
THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

Ausmen Continue Intramural Lead

Fedigan Takes Over Second Spot As Doms Lose Two

By DAVID MARANO

Intramurals this week continued at their usual red hot clip, with the undefeated sailors of Austin Hall racking up two more victories. After being held to a two point lead at halftime by the Marines, the Ausmen found their stride, and, led by automatic Bill Agnew, they increased their margin and wound up on the top end of a 44-30 score. Tuesday night it was the same story. This time the Doms were the victim. Hitting the cords for 12 points, Agnew again led the victors giving him a total of 31 points for the two games.

The second game Monday night found Fedigan's fighting swabbies really getting hot and dropping the then undefeated Doms outfit out of a tie for first place. Never in danger, it seemed as though the boys from Fedigan couldn't miss. A one-two punch of Phippeny and Armstrong, hitting the hoop over and over again, brought the score to 13-1 before Doms could register even one goal. At the half Fedigan held a comfortable 20-3 lead. During the second half the valiant Doms outfit came to life and traded the sailors point for point with the final score reading Fedigan 32, Doms 13.

Fedigan Downs Alumni

The sharp eyes of Phippeny and Armstrong, combined with the smart ball handling and aggressive play of Dan Redmond were the big factors in the victory. On Tuesday night these same men from Fedigan had a tough one on their hands, but finally pulled it out of the fire by a 21-20 score. Trailing 12-5 at the half, a great last period surge sank the civilians of Alumni Hall. High scorer, with twelve points, was Peksa.

Preceding the varsity games last Wednesday, the Alumni Hall team, on the rebound from their recent loss to Fedigan, took a close 28-27 decision from the Marines. Highlights of this game were Bob Manske's 11 points for the winners, Jackman's 9 for the losers, and the clever floor work of Shelton.

League Standings

	W.	L.	Pct.
Ausmen	4	0	1.000
Fedigan	3	1	.750
Doms	2	2	.500
Alumni	1	3	.250
Marines	0	4	.000

SEEN From the Sidelines

Colgate University will field a 20-man basketball squad against the Wildcats in their game January 25. This is the largest team Colgate has had in several seasons. Veteran Coach Karl Lawrence hopes to repeat Colgate's '42 victory over the 'Cats with his large but inexperienced squad.

* * *

Villanova's basketball team has been plagued by injuries so far this season, but the boys are now in pretty good shape. "Toad" Hannan has had stitches put in his head twice, Carl Fuglestad has been limping on a bad leg and several others, including Joe Lord and Bill Tome, have been bothered by bad ankles.

* * *

Fr. McKee announced recently that Villanova will meet Army for the next three years on the football field. The Villanova-Army games during these years will be the opening contests for both teams.

Arthur Raimo Returns To Villanova As 1946 Assistant Football Coach

Fullback During '35-'36-'37 Seasons Will Assist Olivar And Neri. Served in Navy V-12 Ship's Company Here

It was announced last week by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., Director of Athletics, that Arthur F. Raimo, former Villanovan, will return to the campus next year to act as assistant football coach. Raimo will work with head coach Jordan Olivar and assistant coach Jerry Neri.

Art was fullback on the 1937 Villanova football team that had only one tie to mar a perfect season. Known as the Wildcats flying "Jeep," Raimo scored a total of four touchdowns in his first two varsity games, twice traveling over 70 yards to register. For three years he was one of Villanova's best players, even though he was in the company of such all time greats as Johnny Wysocki, Johnny Mellus, Jordan Olivar, Andy Stopper and a host of others.

ARTHUR F. RAIMO

High School Handyman

Raimo was born in East Boston, Mass., on April 24, 1916, and seven years later his family moved to Everett Mass. At Everett High

RAIMO RETURNS
Continued on Page Four

'Cats Meet Valley Forge Medics In 4th Home Game

Villanova will play host to one of the top teams of the East tomorrow night when the Wildcats entertain the Valley Forge General Hospital's star-studded court aggregation in the Field House. The contest is scheduled to begin at 8:30 P. M.

The Medics have the same squad that carried them through a thirty-seven game card with but two revers last year. They lost only to Temple (in an overtime tussle) and to New York Coast Guard, a team which they defeated in three other meetings. That record entitled them to the Eastern Service Championship, a title for which they are strong contenders again this year. At this writing they have reeled off nine successes in ten starts, having lost only to the powerful, unbeaten Philadelphia Navy Yard five.

Led By Szukala

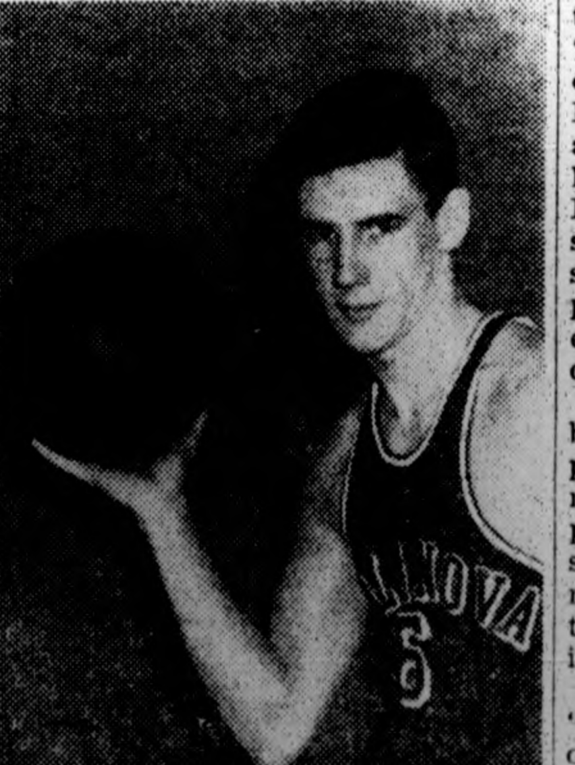
Leading the Valley Forge attack again this year is Stan Szukala, former All-American at De Paul, but any one of the starting five is liable to be top scorer for the evening, the team is that well-balanced. A trio of ex-Notre Damers, Johnny Niemiera, Johnny Craddock, and Charley Davis supply plenty of offensive strength. The fifth starter, Walter Graf, is a veteran of Big Ten play at Wisconsin and prior to the war was coaching

MEET MEDICS
Continued on Page Four

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS

Approximately 18 years ago a weary stork paid his sixth visit to a certain house in South Philadelphia. Just to prove that it was no mistake, or possibly as compensation for previous errors, Sir Stork made three additional visits to the Hannan household. However, the subject of this discourse is the bouncing baby boy, hereinafter designated as Joseph "Toad" Hannan, of aforesaid sixth visit.



JOSEPH "TOAD" HANNAN

Joe must have escaped some of the rigors of life in a large family by developing his amazing speed at an early age. (Could be he just wanted to make sure of a place at the table). At any rate his tender head and face have made him Trainer Jim Tadley's special passenger to Bryn Mawr Hospital on several occasions.

Attended St. Patrick's

Now to get back to the chronological development of the character selected for this week's study, "Toad" began his wanderings down the trail of knowledge at St. Patrick's Parochial School. It was at this stage of life that he made his debut on the hardwood, as St. Patrick's is noted for its grade school basketball teams. St. Aloysius had the priviledge of his company for one year before he entered Southeast Catholic in the fall of 1941.

Following in the footsteps of his brothers, Jack and Mickey who played for South in 1939 and 1941 respectively, Joe earned himself a place on the varsity five in his sophomore year. Also in true Hannan style he became captain of the team in his junior year and led it to the Catholic League title.

In 1944, his first year as captain, "Toad" played on the State Catholic Championship team. Previous to entering the State tournament, South won the Catholic League playoffs and lost the City Championship to Bartram.

Captained Team Twice

Serving his second term as captain, Joe kept the boys running in front again. This time they won the League title and defended their rights by taking the playoffs. The largest crowd to attend a City

IN THE SPORTLIGHT
Continued on Page Four

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

ing to Worcester Polytechnic Institute, in Worcester, Mass., where he moaned and groaned, mostly in the sack, for eight months. After serving his time there, he came to Villanova, March 1, 1944, and has just moaned and groaned, knowing full well what might occur if you know what.

Presently he is filling the capacity of vice-chairman of the ASME—the draft is what did it—and is anticipating ye olde gold stripe. You see, he claims he wants to be a sailor for a while, but we have it from well informed sources that the truth of the matter is the girls at home are just sitting and waiting and Tom, being a natural leader of men, has got to go to sea to get away from it all. This gives you the general idea. Quite a boy is Red Dog Tom Carrigg.

The Tempest

To complete the team, Henry Norman Bombick, alias Harry Norton Bombsight, alias Bombstick the Beautiful, obligingly conceded to help us fill the column. After removing the flaming straws from under his fingernails and taking the needles from his feet, he decided to talk and this is the resulting story.

"I was born, see, born in Overbrook, Pa., see, near Pittsburgh, August 27, 1925, see and . . ." He rambled on for a minute or two and as we were becoming increasingly see-sick, he was beat to a state of unconsciousness and we decided to write the rest of the story ourselves. We finally got it through our thick skulls, and no cracks from you, Heaps and Reist, that there is an Overbrook near Pittsburgh or something.

HENRY N. BOMBICK

We thought that St. Norbert's Grade School and Overbrook Junior High School would be about as good an elementary education as Harry would need, so that is where he went. Looking somewhat like Shakespeare, Harry indulged in a little heavy drama in Junior High School.

After being kicked out of Junior High, he bribed his way into South Hills High. Having no other way to waste time, he joined the Chemistry Club, but the other boys weren't nice to Harry. He couldn't come to the meetings. The reason is the new roof which now graces the upper stories of the building. It seems that Harry's bank account was still rather large, so he found himself in the National Honor Society.

On July 1, 1943, he entered Dartmouth in the V-12. After eight futile months of trying to learn to ski, the old bank account got him to Villanova, the garden spot of America. Softball teams, the ASME, of which he is presently Secretary-treasurer, and being a strong link in the company organization all have been keeping H.N. busy.

Here is the best laugh yet. He yearns to return to "sunny" Pittsburgh and put his knowledge to work in the steel mills. Harry was a brunette before going East. You never saw a more surprised guy in your life. It's too bad we can't include Barrel-house Bacsik in this edition. Then we would have the "Glendening Trio" in the flesh, but that will come later.

We've wasted enough time and thus will close by saying we'll see you next year and until then Merry Christmas and Happy New Year from yours truly, changed goals with Villanova ahead 32-24. At this point the Sailors got hot and in two minutes were trailing 31-34. Mr. Faris took over at this point and dropped five successive baskets on an assortment of overhead shots from under the basket to fifteen feet out. This streak put the Pointers in front for the first time, 41-36. Each team added two foul goals in the final minute of play.

C.A. and C.D.

Away Games

Continued From Page Three

Yale Wins

Yale University defeated Villanova by a 46-33 count in its spacious Payne Whitney Gymnasium last Saturday. It was the second successive loss suffered by the 'Cats and third in as many road games.

In winning its second game of the season, the Bulldogs presented a one-man team in the person of 6 ft. 6 in. Tony Lavelli. This gangling Freshman with an educated left hand, hit the cords for 23 points. In addition, he controlled the backboards and effectively checked Villanova offensive maneuvers under the basket.

Lord Scores 14

Joe Lord set the scoring pace for the Blue and White with 14 points. Joe Hannan followed with 8. In all, only 10 field shots dropped for the locals. From the foul line, 13 out of 16 tries registered on the scoreboard.

For the first ten minutes, the game was an exhibition of passing and frantic shooting. Each side made two fouls; Villanova scored first on each occasion and had the lead for the only time in the evening. Yale was able to hit on two double-deckers as against one for the locals. Lavelli hit the hoop for 13 as the Bulldogs ran up a 22-15 advantage after twenty minutes of action. Lord had 8 for the 'Cats.

Lavelli continued to rain goals through the hoop as the bulk of the second half scoring was confined to the first fifteen minutes of play. At this point Yale was ahead 44-31.

The last five minutes were almost as dull as the first ten. However, the situation was reversed: Villanova was wild in its shooting and Yane froze the ball. During this period the only change in score was an exchange of foul goals.

'Cat Capers

Continued From Page Two

ual by telling this Mr. X to get a date with Miss Morales, a Mackie belle. And then Don himself called Anita for a date before Mr. X. Great work if you can do it.

* * *

For reference only — the girls who go to Rosemont are known as Rosies, and those who attend Immaculata are Mackies.

* * *

Our Best Wishes

This is all for this year Romeos. We'll be back next year to unravel some holiday gossip. Until then may you all have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Naval Students

Continued From Page One

missioned officer is required before an officer is eligible for transfer Attention is invited to BuPers Circular Letter 288-45.

Invitation to Villanova

Father McGuire's addres to the Naval students expressed the invitation of the College to them to return and to complete their NROTC training. Father added that even though they did not intend to return to this school, he felt that they should at least continue their training in another college or university.

QUICK TAKES By Baer

"Montmorency hasn't been the same since that hypnotist Ralph Slater started broadcasting from here."

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

In The Sportlight

Continued From Page Three

Championship basketball game in Philadelphia filled Convention Hall to see them play Southern for the City title. "Toad" saved the game by calling time in the fleeting seconds and giving the boys a pep talk that produced the winning goal as the final gun went off.

Purely for diversion, young Mr. Hannan took his 150 lbs. out on the football field in his senior year and ended up as a first team halfback. The South Philadelphia Lions Club selected him as the most valuable man on the squad and presented him a suitable trophy to prove it. Joe also earned a place on the All-Catholic League second team.

Scored Winning Touchdown

It seems that the greatest thrill of Joe's athletic career occurred during his brief excursion into gridiron glory. However, this should not reach the ears of Trainer Jim Tadley. When Roman and South met on the football field in 1944 everyone expected Roman to win easily. For three periods neither team scored. Then late in the fourth quarter Joe broke loose for a twenty yard run and an upset victory for South.

To keep in shape over the summer vacation "Toad" played with the Marine Post American Legion baseball team. At the end of the season he was selected to play in the All-Star game at Shibe Park.

Meet Medics

Continued From Page Three

high school hoopmen in his native state. This quintet, benefited by individual experience and two years of play together, is a "dream" to watch in operation. They work the "pick" system to perfection and all of them are excellent shots. Presently, the entire starting five of the Hospital team is entered in the American Professional League as the Wilmington Bombers.

The sixth man, Aaron Tanitsky, should be familiar to Philadelphians. He led the Public League in scoring while at Southern High and played as a freshman at Penn before entering the service. Beyond these six men the Medics have but a mediocre squad. This lack of depth is their only weakness and it represents their opponents' only hope for victory.

'Cats Have Improved

Villanova, its outlook brightened by the improved performance of the team in general and Ed Reybitz in particular, will be meeting Valley Forge for the third time. Last season, the Cats dropped both games to the Medics by 61-31 and 61-42 scores, respectively, but there was a little more to the latter game than the score indicates. The Serverancemen, nearing the end of a miserable season, surprised the home crowd by matching the hospital team point for point for most of the first half. Valley Forge left the court at intermission with a relatively slim lead of six points but during the second half their power began to tell and they gradually pulled away to a comfortable lead and ultimate victory.

This year's Wildcats are a little "wilder", so look for anything to happen. They will have an extra incentive to make a good showing in that it will be their last home appearance until January 9. The eagerness of the Cats, plus the capabilities of their opponents should make it a contest well worth watching.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Beat Fordham

Continued From Page Three

seven straight points and tuck the game away. Brehmer looked terrific as he whipped the ball around to open up the Ram's defense and then hit the cords from all angles. The Cats had the better of the waning minutes' flurry when they intercepted enemy passes and executed a fast break style of play. The home team was moving away at the final whistle and registered a thrill-packed 56-39 win. Scoring honors were shared by Lord and Reybitz with fourteen apiece, followed by Brehmer and Hannan with 7 and 6 respectively.

It seems that the Wildcats have hits their belated stride and the prospects of a successful season were given a boost by the magnificent all around play exhibited against the Rose Hill invaders.

Raimo Returns

Continued From Page Three

School, Art, besides being a first string performer on the football team, ran the high and low hurdles, the dashes, threw the shot, high jumped and broad jumped. In his senior year Art played fullback, halfback, quarterback, end, tackle and center all in one game!

He attended Villanova from 1934-38 and was appointed backfield coach at St. Josephs' College after his graduation. Raimo later coached the Ridley Township High School team before enlisting in the Navy in September, 1943.

Returned with V-12

He was assigned to Physical Instructor's School at Bainbridge and while there he played on the base's undefeated and untied eleven. Art graduated from P. I. School with the rate Specialist 2/C and was assigned to Villanova for temporary duty with the V-12 Unit.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Seminar Presents Christmas Selections

The program of the Music Seminar this week will feature Christmas Music, both orchestral and choral.

The orchestral music will consist of selections from Handel's "Messiah," Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," and Humperdinck's "Hansel und Gretel." The choral selections will be a rendition of the traditonal Christmas Carols.

The seminar will be held, as usual, in room 215 Mendel, this afternoon from 12:40 to 1:20 P. M.

The Awful Truth

Continued From Page Two

medical word has it that his tiny stomach has become lodged between his masculine shoulders and chest, thus not allowing the proper passage of food. He is apparently getting better now—which causes, us all to wonder as to where he is getting his food for fitness (it just cain't be from here cause right now I'm starving) . . . which reminds me that this is another liberty night and I must be about the task of going out for a steak dinner . . . and so, what with doubts as to what McNamara and Redmond might be doing about protecting their fair names, we'll have to bow down low and wish you all a best of the best holiday seasons leaves . . .

PS. The blank spaces with no deroggetory remarks went as a gift to McNamara and Redmond—whose consciences have been bothering them about what we know about their prided femanine possessions . . . Nove smitz ka pop!! . . .

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

Men Of Navy And Marine Corps
Put Your Savings In An Established Bank
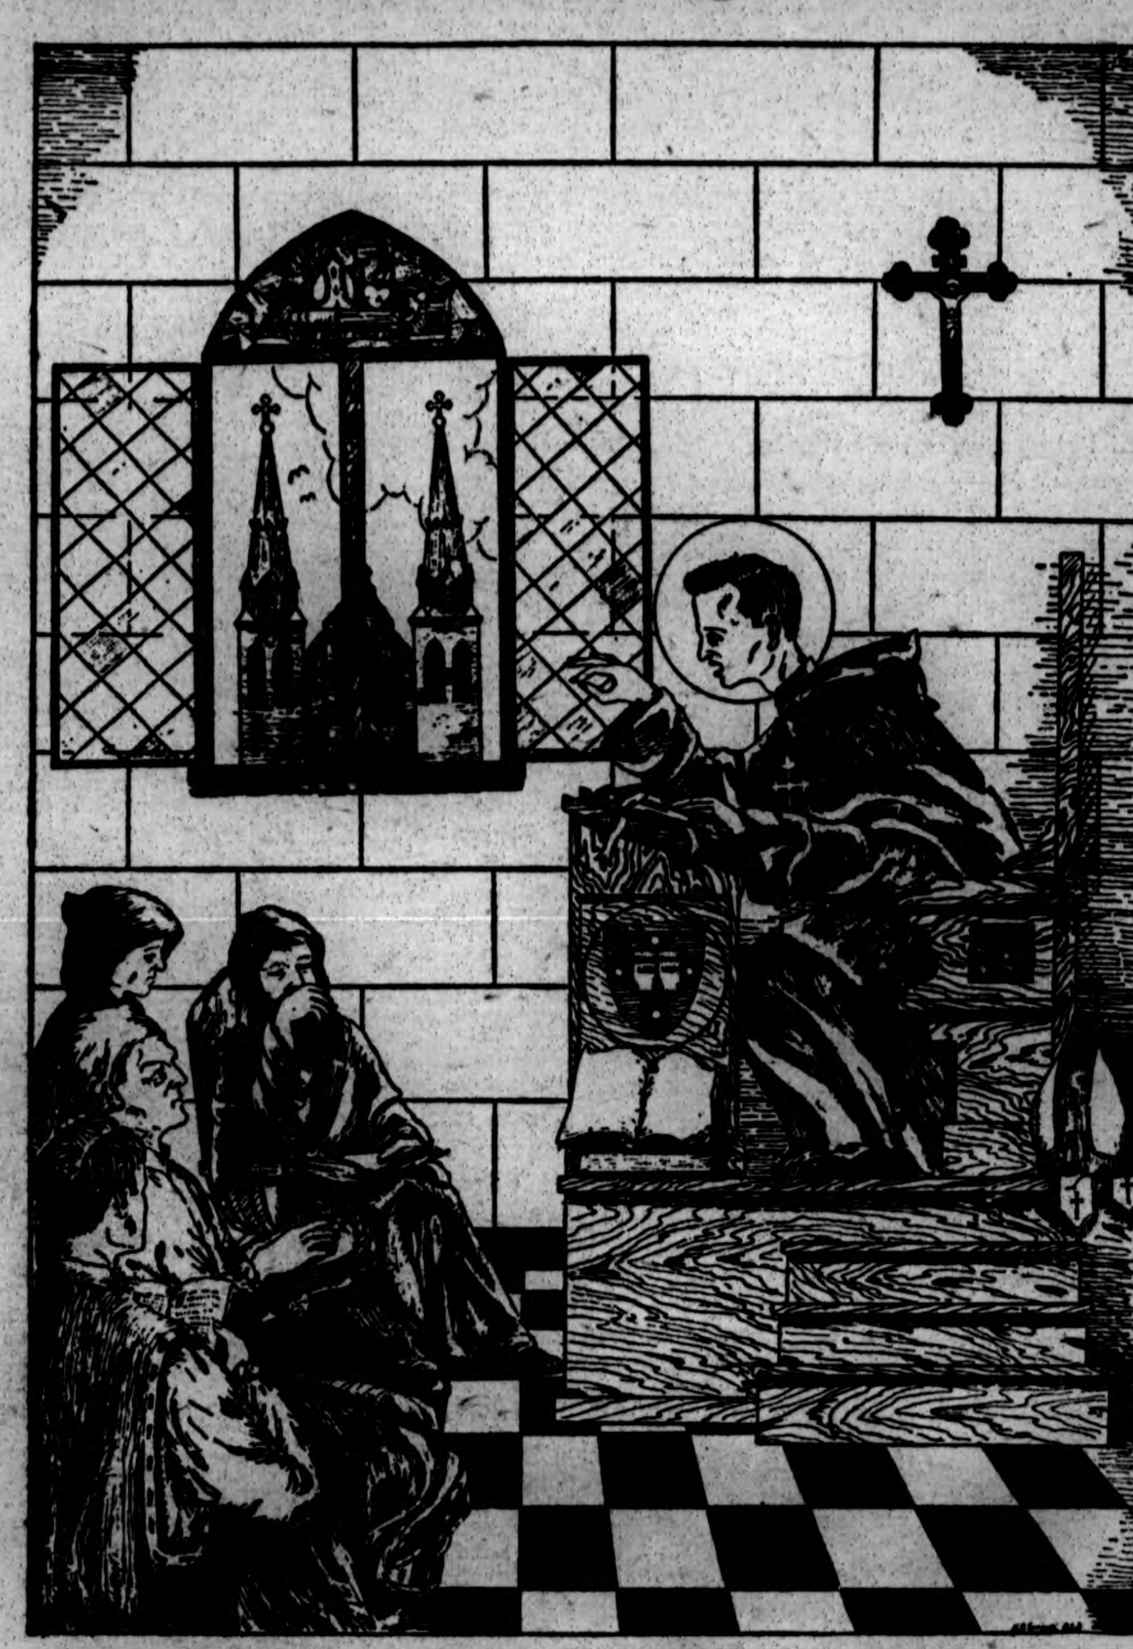
The
Bryn Mawr
Trust Company
Every Banking Facility
Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Vol. 20—No. 19 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JANUARY 8, 1946

Saint Thomas of Villanova, College Patron



Sketched by Henry B. Syvinski, Villanova '44 and a Professed Augustinian, this is a depiction of St. Thomas of Villanova, teaching a group of Augustinians at the University of Salamanca. The seal of the Order is on the wall in the background. Villanova College Chapel, seen through the window, and the College coat-of-arms, on the rostrum, are represenative of the fruitful works of the Augustinians. The mitre, resting on the platform, signifies St. Thomas' episcopal authority.

By RUSSELL LEO WELSH

St. Thomas was born at Fuentellana, Spain in 1488. When sixteen years old, he entered the University of Alcala, where, after procuring a Master of Arts and a Licentiate in Theology, he filled the chair of arts, logic and philosophy. With Alcala, however, ended his university associations, he having declined the chair of natural philosophy at Salamanca, where he joined the Augustinians in 1516 and was ordained to the Priesthood in 1518. At Salamanca Convent Thomas was given the class of Scholastic theology because of his attachment for books, chiefly the Lombard and St. Thomas, and his exemplary life.

Court Preacher for Charles V

Preaching in the chief pulpits of Spain was soon added to his duties, and among other places at Valencia, the field of his later trials, and Valladolid, seat of the Imperial Court and residence of the Emperor Charles V when on his visits from the Low Countries. In this last-named city St. Thomas was named by the emperor his court preacher, and one of his councillors of State. Rarely, however, did the saint pay visits of ceremony to the then master of Europe, through his written correspondence with Charles, who held his opinions in high esteen, was voluminous.

On his entrance to his See on 1 January 1545, of which he was thirty-second bishop and eighth archbishop, St. Thomas opened his career as legislator and philanthropist, which won for him the titles of "Almsgiver," "Father of the Poor," and "Model of Bishops" given at his beatification in 1618 by Paul V.

During his eleven years of episcopal rule his most noteworthy deeds were as follows: a visitation of his diocese, and amendments inhibiting his visitators from accepting any gifts whatever. He then held a synod, the first at Valencia for many years, whereby he sought to do away with a number of abuses, as bloodshed, divorce, concubinage, and many excessive privileges or unreasonable exemptions; he abolished the underground prisons; rebuilt the general hospital at Valencia which had just been destroyed by fire; founded two colleges, one for young ecclesiastics, the other for poor students; had Mass said at early hours for the working classes; and in brief, by statutes, by preaching, and by example, strove to reform the morals of churchman and layman.

Father of the Poor

Towards the poor especially his heart was ever alive with pity; to them his palace gate was always open; daily he had a repast for every poor person that applied for help, as many even as four to five hundred thus getting their meals at his hands. In every district of the city he had almoners appointed with orders especially to search out the respectable persons who shrank from asking alms; these he had supplied with money, food, clothing, while as to indigent workmen, poor farmers, and mechanics, he replenished their stock and bought them tools, thus putting them in the way of making a living.

St. Thomas was taken ill in August, 1555, of angina pectoris, of which he died at the age of 67, at the termination of Mass in his bedroom. The writings of St. Thomas, mainly sermons are replete with practical norms of mystic theology. Some twenty editions have been published, the best and most complete being probably that of Manila, 1882-1884, in 5 tomes.

Mother Mary Cleophas, Rosemont President, Dies

Mother Mary Cleophas, President of Roosemont College, died Sunday following an illness of four days.

Having joined the Order of the Holy Child of Jesus in January, 1902, Mother Cleophas had held several important educational positions prior to her elevation to the presidency of Rosemont in 1939.

Seniors To Present Belle Air Ball

Dance Jan. 19 Will Feature The Music Of Elliot Lawrence And His Orchestra

By BILL ALTENPOHL

Inaugurating the season of formal affairs at Villanova is the coming Belle Air Ball, which is to be held on the evening of Saturday, January, 19. It will be the first formal dance held on the campus since the Centennial Ball of January 1943, and will feature the music of Elliot Lawrence and his orchestra.

This local maestro currently heard daily on WCAU on a coast-to-coast broadcast has been featured at many college dances throughout this area and is on the way to national recognition in the field of popular music.

Benny Goodman Arranger

His career started at Berwyn High School where he took first honors in a state-wide contest for high school pianists. Later he attended the University of Pennsylvania where he directed the Glee Club, played in the band and was active in "Mask and Wig" productions. Following graduation he studied music and later was associated with many prominent band leaders. His experience as an arranger for Benny Goodman and a composer of tone music for a radio station eventually started him on the road to fame as a master of rhythm and arrangements.

Today after a few years his band is on its way to the top of the line in the "Hit Parade Circuit." His daily C.B.S. program "Listen To Lawrence" is gaining nationwide popularity, and features the young maestro as the "young man at the piano."

Feature Name Bands

The Belle Air Ball will certainly keep up its past traditions with this fine orchestra. In the past years senior proms have always been the center point of interest featuring such name bands as Les Brown and Will Bradley.

Tickets for the Ball are now on sale. They may be purchased at $4.00 from any member of the committee, to wit: Jim Meehan, George Basick, Jim Reilly, Foster Blough, Harry Bombick, John Freytag, Ed Keller and Bill Koerner. The price for the late arrivals will be $4.80.

Schola Cantorum Renews Caroling

The annual caroling was renewed after its interruption due to the war, when Schola Cantorum of St. Mary's Hall presented a program of seasonal hymns in the College Chapel for the students last Thursday night.

The chapel was decorated to capture the spirit of the season. The Altar was curtained with a background of fragrant pine trees, and the facade was lined with poinsettia plants. The illuminated Crib, commemorating the Nativity of the Christ Child, occupied the space in front of St. Patrick's Altar.

Sing Work of Pietro Yon

When all the students had seated themselves in the chapel, the Schola rendered the popular "Silent Night" and "Angels We Have Heard On High." Then College Chaplain, Father Edwin T. Grimes, entered the Sanctuary to celebrate Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. The Schola then sang "Adeste Fideles" and "Tantum Ergo," the latter sung in Gregorian Chant.

The service ended with the singing of "Jesu Bambino" a work of Pietro Yon, former Organist at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City.

In Memoriam

The Villanovan, in the name of the entire student body of the college, expresses its deepest sympathy to those men who suffered the loss of a dear one during the holidays.

REQUIESCANT IN PACE

Mrs. James Hannon, mother of Rev. James Hannon, O.S.A., Instructor in Religion.

* * *

Michael Slavin, brother of Professor William A. Slavin.

* * *

Myles F. Connors, father of Ensign Myles F. Connors, '45

* * *

Mrs. Alice M. Melton, mother of Andrew Melton, '41.

It Could Happen Only At Villanova - And It Did In 1945

A Classical Treatise On The Weather Or A Harlequinade In Twelve Acts

By DONALD M. COLLINS

"Ring out the old, ring in the new" or so our old friend Al Tennyson admonished. However the old year wasn't a completely bitter coil to shuffle off and herewith we present a revue of that tired old friend, 1945, from the files of the Villanovan.

January, yes that was the month that slipped in between December and February—well it was icy. John Fitzgibbons was officially voted, "Time" notwithstanding, "Man of the Month." His picture was seen more often than the negligent damsel in the Colgate ads.

February —ah— yea that's right. The aforementioned January must have been a papa of a "bouncing" boy for February was festooned by the Winter "Hop" and the obese "amblings" of "Queenie" Alex Coleman in the Yankee Doodle extravaganza.

Beware the hives of March. Through shame or otherwise the basketball team closed its season and Carrol Andrews and George Bascik had straight A's. Oh those gay days, Eh boys!

Departing from character, let us mention that April brought the end of an era in American politics, for Franklin D. Roosevelt joined the immortals whose lives were of public service and selfless devotion.

It's May again and we're on the limb again—That's when the Senior Ball rolled around the Fairmount Parkish Field House and Tuxs were untucked for the first time in years.

June, in the same vein, busted out all over and spilled a Belle Masque super-ultra-colossal into our laps when "I Want To Be an Officer," a mockery, was produced.

July was hot.

August lived up to its proud name and a merry V-J day to Yooooo!

Seriously the end of the War was the "sine qua non" of today's happiness. Deo Gratias.

September brought the Navy game, Pass the Arnica. . .And, oh yes what do you think of Chuck Gordon's vocalist?

October set the stage for C. D. Cummings' masterpiece, "Up In Charlie's Room" and the audience was regaled (?) with the appearance of his sensational feminine "find."

November saw the onslaught of a new Navy staff and Jas. T. Mackey. The Navy was in good hands but could the Villanovan hold up? The world awaited breathlessly for the answer.

And December struggled in to end the year in joy. How's your head Koerner?

Now let's put the pipe away and face the future. But don't let auld acquaintance be forgot. Wrap it up, we'll take it home.

Conference Held By Augustinian Educators

Annual Educational Meeting Held In Washington, D. C., On December 27-28

By DONALD SOMMER

During the Christmas holidays, the annual Augustinian Education Conference was held at the Augustinian House of Studies in Washington, D. C. This conference was held for the purpose of discussing and bettering the educational methods employed by the Augustinian teachers in the various high schools and colleges throughout the country. Present at the meeting were about fifty representatives from Villanova and the seven Augustinian high schools.

Opens With Solemn High Mass

The conference opened on Thursday morning at 8:00 A. M. with a Solemn High Mass celebrated by the Very Rev. Mortimer A. Sullivan, O.S.A., LL.D., Provincial of the Province of St. Thomas of Villanova. After the Mass the conference began with a paper on St. Augustine the Preacher, presented by Rev. Robert E. Regan, O.S.A., S.T.D., followed by a discussion of the subject by Rev. James G. Sherman, O.S.A., M. A. The conference then continued with the topic of the Catholic Approach to Science, presented by Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., Ph. D., Assistant Professor of Biology at Villanova.

When the conference again convened for the afternoon session the scientific portion of the program, presided over by the Very Rev. Henry A. Wierman, O.S.A., M.A., acting as chairman, was presented. In this part of the program the topic, Suggestions for Science Teachers, were discussed by Rev. Edward F. Jenkins, O.S.A., Ph. D., Assistant Professor of Chemistry at Villanova, who emphasized the fact that students preparing for college should be fully instructed in the essentials of reading, arthmetic, and reasoning.

Fr. Grimes Addresses

Following this the Arts Section of the program was held under the chairmanship of Rev. John F. Toomey, O.S.A., M. A. The subject of The Apologetic Content of the History Course was discussed by Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O.S.A., M. A., Chaplain of Villanova College. After this topic the meeting was adjourned for the day.

On the following day the conference reopened with the subject, The Alumni Society, presented by Rev. Joseph A. Coyne, O.S.A., M.A., followed by a discussion by Rev. Joseph J. Gildea, O.S.A., M. A. After this the topic, The Parents and the School, was presented by the Very Rev. Francis L. Dennis, O.S.A., M.A., Headmaster of Malvern Preparatory School, and followed by a discussion by Rev. John A. Glynn, O.S.A., M. A.

Current Educational Problems

The executive meeting of the Augustinian educators, which was presided over by the Very Rev. Fr. Sullivan, devoted itself to current educational problems. Among the questions discussed were: "The Standardizing of Curricula in Augustinian High Schools," "The Catholic School's Access to Government Surplus Equipment," "The Professional Training of Augustinian Teachers" and "Methods of Promoting Religious Vocations."

Among the schools represented were: Malvern Preparatory School, Malvern, Penna., Augustinian Academy, Staten Island, N. Y., Cascia Hall, Tulsa, Okla., St. Rita's Technical School, Chicago, Ill., St. Augustine's School, San Diego, Calif., Villanova Prep., Ojai, Calif., and St. Augustine's College, Havana, Cuba.

The sessions of the conference which were under the direction of the Rev. Thomas F. Gilligan, O.S.A., M.A., director of studies at St. Mary's Hall, Villanova, closed with Solemn Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament celebrated by Very Rev. Charles, Melchior, O.S.A.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Donald Sommer, '47
William Altenponl, '47
Donald M. Collins, '47
George O'Neill, '47
John P. Murphy, '48

Sports Staff
William Boyie, '46
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
William Chester, '48
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Benjamin Reist, NROTC
Charles Cummings, NROTC
Harold Varani, '46
Thomas Heaps, NROTC
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, NROTC

Photography Staff
Charles Sibre, '48
Albert Derr, '46

Circulation Staff
Raymond Stone, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Joseph A. Doughty, '48
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Peter McManus, '47
Thomas Donnelly, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - JANUARY 8, 1946

The Student Council—Your Voice

IN THE past few months a number of unofficial petitions from the student body have reached the Villanovan office. They were, no doubt, sincere proposals attempting to foster genuine improvement, but they were misguidedly presented to us for action. Primarily, the purpose of this publication is to present the news of the campus and to disseminate our own collegiate anecdotes. Only incidentally do we serve as a digest of opinion on things Villanova; and our voice can only be heard as one in the wind.

There is, however, a body constituted for the reception and consideration of these demands and which is empowered to bring them to official attention, if the case so warrants. That body was founded to unify the unorganized voices of the College's men; it represents the due process of law; it is the Student Council.

The facilities of this group were neglected either through ignorance of its existence and purpose or lack of faith in its effectiveness. Whichever is the case, wherever lies the cause, it must be eradicated. An organization of this type should be the paramount activity of the school for it is not only the lone representation of all Villanovans, but also has a singular capacity for advancing our interests.

The Council elections should be a subject of serious thought and broad publicity. The Council meetings should be frequent, easily accessible and also publicized. The Council agenda should be pertinent and widely known. The Council demeanor should be formal, sober and interested.

Backed by active student participation, guided by rational yet progressive minds, this organization can achieve its dual purpose of effectively voicing undergraduate opinion and of providing training in administration, government and common sense.

It is an experience we can ill-afford to miss.

—DONALD M. COLLINS

Camp to Campus

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

With the introduction of the New Year, many of the boys are coming back to the States and returning to the fair campus on the Main Line. News of this sort comes from Marine Cpl. Tom McCarthy ex '45, who hopes to return in March and confine his fighting to the football field after a period in the South Pacific knocking the Japs around. Another athlete, hurdler Jim Rooney, ex '46, is on his way back from the tour of duty with the Navy Air Corps and will also return to school. Not to be outdone, the Army is sending basketball star Joe Kelley back to the campus in the near future. Too bad he was not here a few months earlier.

We are glad to hear that Lou Carridio has just returned from the land of the Taj Mahal where he had the duty of taking care of the men who could stand the climate. Staff Sgt. Don Pancrasio writes that he is expecting to leave the Panama Canal and return to the States by the end of the month. He says that he will return to school, dropping Medicine and following the field of Journalism.

Highlight of the week is that former sprinter and track captain, Sgt. Johnny Maher raced the stork home and beat him. Congratulations Johnny! Lieut. Dan Healey who just arrived from sea duty in the Pacific and expecting a discharge, has been made skipper of a P.C.E. and is touring off Norfolk.

Many men are returning, some are leaving, and some are just on their way. Among the men on their way is Pvt. Tom Mantini who is at Camp Pickett, Virginia. Tom says that he is on his way to Europe and the only hope he has is to be sta-

CAMP TO CAMPUS
Continued on Page Four

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

Happy New Year everybody. This week we bring you the dyin' breath of '45; most of the material in this issue came from the last '45 sheets published by college weeklies.

* * *

This week the University of Tampa announced a plan to house and feed a veteran and his wife (who must also be attending the university) for sixteen dollars a week. Of this amount seven dollars a week would cover rent. Plans are being made to set up a cooperative cafeteria on the campus in order to realize the economical food system required. At sixteen dollars a week a veteran and his wife could manage to get by on the 75 dollars a month allowed a veteran and his wife by G. I. Bill.

The Florida Alligator.

* * *

Will Smoking Harm You?

Reports say that smoking causes high blood pressure, heart trouble, cancer of the lip, hardening of the arteries, and in brief — it shortens life.

Dr. Wingate M. Johnson tested a group of 150 habitual smokers and 150 non-smokers of the same age, sex and body build to observe any increase in blood pressure. Dr. Arthur F. Fishburg of the Mount Sinai Hospital in New York tested a similar group. Their reports in the Journal of the American Medical Association showed practically no change in the blood pressure of the patients.

In the case of heart trouble, Dr. Paul White of Boston and Dr. Frederick Willis of the Mayo Clinic listened to the hearts of fifteen hundred and two thousand people respectively. About of the former number had heart disease (they call it angina pectoris), of whom 35% were smokers and 47% non-smokers. Probably if he excluded those cases of heart disease which were naturally inclined, the data of the two would be similar. Therefore smoking does not motivate heart disease.

If anyone were to tell you that holding your pipe or cigar in the same place would cause cancer of the lip, don't believe them. Of 318 people with cancer of the lip, 3/5 were non-smokers.

The American Heart Association at its convention in 1941 proved that smoking definitely does not induce hardening of the arteries.

In their physical exams, insurance companies have stopped asking policy-holders whether or not they smoke. If these concerns have gone this far, the smoker will live.

Other authorities have discovered that "smoking alters the whole function of the human organism." This increase in basal metabolic rate, as the medics put it, disappeared when the persons smoked corn silk.

The St. Bonaventure.

(Of course we're on Chesterfield's payroll for Jan. '46.)

* * *

What follows . . . C'est superbe (As they say in Australia).

His toes curled in the black soil. It's marvelous to feel the good cool earth beneath his feet again. Tenderly he bent down and crumbled a sod beneath his fingers. A man was a fool to leave the land. He thought of the city with loathing. All it had brought him was unhappines and sorrow, but that was over. He was back to his first love . . . the soil. For a while he was motionless in silent prayer; a prayer of thanksgiving rose from his heart. Once more he was a part of nature and not just a part of the city. A voice called "Dinner's ready" Slowly and reluctantly he took his feet out the flower pot.

The Cornell Widow.

* * *

"Fishing?"
"Naw just downing worms".

* * *

Freshman—I don't know.
Sophomore—I'm not prepared.
Junior—I don't remember.
Senior—I don't believe I could add anything to what has already been said.

Ball State News.

* * *

A member of a Psyche class on tour asked an inmate his name.

"George Washington" was his reply.

"But last time I was here you were Abraham Lincoln."

"That," said the inmate, "was by my first wife."

Log.

* * *

There was a young woman from

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Four

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI and BILL KOERNER

Taking up the loose ends of gossip where we left off last year, we commence the New Year without resolutions. Beware you Romeos for we see all, hear all and write all.

It is customary during vacations to enjoy a period of relaxation of mind and of body, but there are exceptions. Giving full consideration to these exceptions we feel for you Don Juans who are still trying to piece together Christmas and New Years Eve.

* * *

Jim Meehan spent most of the Christmas holidays in solitary. Jim claims he was taken down with the grippe, it says here.

Don Collins proved to be quite the versatile one New Year's Eve by toe dancing his way across 69th St. singing operatic arias from Porgy and Bess. Prior to this Don had been on a bombing mission over Dave Ryan's coffee, payment of which he received a haircut from Mr. Ryan.

* * *

If any of you are wondering what's behind that pipe that walks around our halls, you need not wonder any longer, its Frank Greco.

Windy Barrett, one of our former B.T.O.'s, was seen around school last week still carrying the bags under his eyes left over from the holiday rush.

* * *

Jim Bonner, our capitalist, and big Jim Donohue ardent labor advocate kept the Pie Shop in great political turmoil last week discussing the present strike situation. Look out for a new union fellows.

For Roland Higgs benefit we wish to say that dead men can not drive buses from Trenton to Neew York without the company knowing same. P.S. It was done with mirrors.

* * *

Several of the boys really put in a hectic week at some local parties. Bill Altenponl's lip reading at the O'Brien's open house on New Year's Day seemed to make quite a hit with Connie. He is very good at this art for he does it with his eyes closed and at very close range. A few other amazing characters helping out with the laughs were Newt Ward thinking he was Charles Atlas tried to lift the punch bowl but even that was too much for him; Carl Annas, trying to keep all the girls happy while his friend was sleeping; Dick Doley, sitting it out with his one and only; Ed Loughrey, a frosh, trying to impress a Rosie upper-classman and Dave Ryan evading the mistletoe.

Bill Ferguson and Jim "Peek-a-Boo" Riley had quite a time on a New York Subway New Year's Day. "Peak-a-Boo" just couldn't resist seeing what was hiding behind a beautiful crop of hair so he brushed it aside and took a glance. After that they weren't sure if they were still on the Subway or if they become lost in a stable.

Maurice Labarrere eventually arrived back on the campus after spending an exciting Christmas in Cuba. He had his troubles on the return trip for due to a train wreck he was held up in South Carolina. If you want to hear something rare just listen to Maurice speak Spanish with a Southern drawl.

* * *

Tony Caruso related to us (confidentially of course) that he was unable to keep away from the Rosies, even over the holidays for he even had to make a special trip to New York to visit one, or should we say entertain one.

Bill "Get-Me-A-Date" O'Neill returned from the holidays all enthused because he now thinks he can work on his own. At last report he was overheard making a solo call to Harcum. We hear that his next venture will be to Rosemont as soon as they return.

In conclusion we hope that you all enjoyed the Holidays. And we are looking forward to seeing everyone making preparations to attend the Senior Ball on January 19th.

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

And a happy '46 to you, too! After a fortnight of general merrymaking and chaos, our only comment is let it snow, let it snow, let it snow, as we are completely. And among our resolutions for the year was one that will surely plunge the few remaining unfortunates left at our command into utter disrepute and ruin.

Smokey Stover

In order to fill our quota this week, we will mull over, first of all, Howard B. Groetzinger, Jr. On one of the brightest days Pittsburgh has ever seen, and considering it was Pittsburgh you have to kinda use your imagination Sept. 24, 1925, little Howie arrived upon the scene. As he spent his earlier years in Ben Avon, about eight miles from the metropolis—petromopulis—well, anyway, he has always wanted to be a crooner. "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" heads his hit parade for obvious reasons.

Daily Mr. Groetzinger would take his little lantern from the shelf and grope his way to John Morrow Grammar School. Later he would take his seal-beam jobs and struggle to Oliver High School. Then something very peculiar happened. One day, during his final year, he set out as usual, but somehow missed a bend in the road and wound up at Avonworth High. They would not let him loose until he had graduated even though he did everything humanly possible to get out-including joining the Marines.

A big Saint Bernard dog with all the fixtures was sent out from Muhlenburg College one day with Howie its destination. On July 1, 1943 the dog returned to the Burg, Howie in tow. It was there, after eight months of good healthy sunlight, that he decided to become an engineer. And to fulfill his every whim, the Marine Corps passed him off on Villanova.

Our subject arrived March 1, 1944 to become an engineer. That, we believe, is the only factual statement thus far written. To proceed, as nobody else would have him, the Civil Engineering Department held out a welcome hand, and after filling said hand with the proper amount, Howie joined the A.S.C.E. He also took part in the Dramatic Society during his Junior year.

Right now his ambition is to become a civilian. Our reply—'Your Father's Mustache.' Following this, he yearns to return to his little grass shack in Ben Avon and Betty, the only shining light, as far as Pvt. Groetzinger is concerned, in the whole town. She's even better than fog lamps unquote.

Chief Wahoo

Next, as we feel so gay in a melancholy way, it might as well be Alphonse Canuel, another pride of the Marine Corps. Al has had about all the fortunates possible. He was born in Fall River, Mass. on February 27, 1923. Now what could be more beautiful, more picturesque, more exciting than Fall River in February. Well, now that we think it over, a lot of things, for instance Bettle Grable in—in—but, no, we have to get the column in before the end of the semester.

ALPHONSE CANUEL

New York is only two hundred miles from Al so he commuted to Grammar School and Cathedral Boys High School in the big city. He graduated in 1939 after participating in the Glee Club. As the school was rather small, the sports department was held to minimum. He then decided to go to work in New York as an elevator boy and then as a surveyor's assistant. As Al was making only three dollars a week and the carfare was costing him one hundred and fifty dollars a week, he realized that he wasn't making any money and

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcats Lose to Rhode Island In Fast Contest

Hannan Scores 25 As Team Matches Rams Until Closing Minutes. Calverly Scores 29 In 84-67 Game. Halftime Score 40-36

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova, playing it first basketball game since before the Christmas holidays, showed its best form of the year in dropping an 84-67 decision to Rhode Island State at Kingston, R. I., last Saturday night. The Wildcats matched the high scoring Rams point for point throughout the first half and hung within striking distance for the majority of the second half only to fold in the last eight minutes of play before a blistering Rhode Island attack.

Ernie Calverly, top point producer for the evening with 29 points, initiated the scoring with a right hand stab from side court. Joe Hannan followed with a foul shot and the rest of the half was a dog fight. The score was tied many times but the Severancemen were able to grab the lead but once. With five minutes to go in the half, Don Robertson was fouled while scoring and he converted to give the Cats a short lived 29-27 lead. The Rams, thanks to Calverly, jumped to 40-32 with a minute left in the half but two quick goals by the Villanovans brought the score to respectable 40-36 score at the intermission. Calverly was unstoppable, making seemingly impossible shots to rack up twenty of his points during this half. Hannan and Joe Lord each

RHODE ISLAND
Continued on Page Four

Severance's Comments

Saturday night's encounter with "Rams" of Kingston, R. I., presented Villanova's yearlings with a new and strange brand of basketball and also the mentor with grave doubts as to the ultimate score.

For the initial period the "Wildcats" matched the New England aggregation point for point, and actually took the lead (29-27). The terrific pace set by the State quintet forced substitutions for the two veterans who had a very steadying influence under trying circumstances. At this stage, our host started to drive for a sky-rocket score, and although the younger men did have mental lapses, were slow of foot and failed to pick up loose men, they did give the starting quintet a much needed breather. Injecting the starting combination back into the game brought the score to 40-36, the upstater's edge.

Try To Pour It On

The start of the second half indicated that Rhode Island was out to pour it on and the pace set at this stage was for the sole purpose of wearing down a much smaller and less conditioned aggregation. Villanova, ever conscious of this danger, used a slow approach to the scoring area, this in an effort to conserve energy and keep possession of the ball. State then resorted to playing all over the floor and, as mentioned above, this again had a tendency to force younger and less experienced ball players to lose possession of the ball. State capitalized on this condition on three occasions to the tune of six points on our debit side.

Despite a hostile and rabid crowd and a smaller playing area than we have been accustomed to, our boys turned in a creditable brand of ball and acquitted themselves nobly. Not minimizing the State superiority one iota, nevertheless the margin of dif-

SEVERANCE'S
Continued on Page Four

Cats Travel To Meet Navy & B. C.

On Thursday, January 10 Villanova will again invade the New England area. This time to match shots with a Boston College team of unknown quantity and quality at the Boston Garden. It will be the first meeting between these schools on the basketball court.

Saturday, January 12 will find the Blue and White in Annapolis, Maryland, to do battle with the quintette representing the United States Naval Academy.

Navy Beat Bainbridge

Navy's powerful team has rolled over four opponents in a series of warmup tilts prior to the Christmas vacation. Most impressive of these was the decision over the Bainbridge Naval Training Center, a team which also extended Temple to the limit in a high scoring game.

The Middies scoring power is concentrated in its forwards, Carroll and Nelson. They are ably supported by Dick, a guard and centers Waldrop and Barrow. Young completes the team at the other guard position. Dick Duden, of football fame, is also a member of the basketball squad.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH

WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE

Longines

Cinder Squad To Run In Inquirer Meet This Month

Five Holdovers And Many Newcomers Give Promise Of Another Fine Season

By DAVID MARANO

With holdovers of the caliber of Tom Short, Burt Cox, Dan Redmond, Joe Beals and Jack Glascott forming a nucleus, and many new prospective cindermen available, things look bright for a successful track season.

After the terrific showings the mile relay team put on in all of last year's meets, much will be expected of them in the coming season. Short and Cox have already established reputations as two of the best cindermen in the Philadelphia district. Sorely missed will be the services of Don Schmitt, Chuck Harrington and Bob Bean, who are now ensigns with Uncle Sam's fleet, but with the improvement shown by Dan Redmond and Joe Beals, the boys should give all comers a lot of trouble.

Returning to fill the roster in the hurdling slot is Marine trainee Jack Glascott.

Many Newcomers Available

Many new faces will be seen mingling with the old when the first gun is sounded. Ralph Farnsworth shows promise of developing into a fine quarter miler, while Gomerlock is working hard to bring his time on the mile down, and Roy Weidman is giving Glascott lots of worries over the starting berth on the hurdles.

Any students who feel they can, and would like to try the sport, are welcome to come out for trials. The first meet is the Inquirer's Invitation meet at Convention Hall January 25, after which the mile relay team participates at Madison Square Garden in February and March.

Intramural Teams Resume Contests

The 1945-46 Intramural League resumed activities last night after a three week layoff for the Christmas Holidays. Members of all teams are requested to be at the Field House tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in order that their pictures for the '46 Belle Air may be taken.

The pre-Varsity game tomorrow night, which begins at 6:45, will bring together Bobby Wilson's Fedigan Hall Sailors and Newt Ward's boys from Delurey, O'Dwyer, Mendel and Simpson Halls. These two teams are currenly in second and third places in the League, and this should prove to be a hotly contested match.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Corporal Paul Stenn, former Villanova athlete, won a first-string tackle position on the All-Army Air Forces Conference football team, according to an AP dispatch released last week. Stenn, a 6-foot, 2-inch giant from Berwick, starred this season on the 4th Air Force eleven.

* * *

Lt. (jg) Harry Keefrider, track star here a few seasons back, in a recent letter to the Villanovan requested that in the future, times, heights and distances be included in the track summaries. We will do our best to see that this suggestion is carried out.

Wildcats Meet Valley Forge and Bucknell Here

Medics Play Monday In Postponed Contest; Bisons Bring Fine Record In Second Game Of Home Series

By JIM McNAMARA

Villanova's Wildcats will complete the second half of a home and home arrangement with Bucknell when they entertain the Bisons tomorrow night at the Field House. In the first meeting of the two schools Bucknell emerged the victor by the impressive score of 43-32 and extended their streak against the Cats to four straight, at the same time stealing the lead in the over all series at 7 to 6.

Coach "Woody" Ludwig, the Bison mentor, has a wealth of talent in high-scoring Gene Wilson and set-shot artist Jack Haas. This duo accounted for 26 points in the last engagement and virtually beat Villanova by themselves. Wilson's 14 points won top scoring honors for the night followed by the Cats' Ed Reybitz who registered 13. Haas was credited with 12 and Don Frazier with 7.

Wilson Only Holdover

With Wilson, Haas and Frazier, the Bison quintet, which faced the Wildcats last Dec. 8, included Jim Seel and Dick McGinn. Wilson is the only holdover from last year's squad on which team he compiled 126 points for third high on the roster. Haas saw limited duty last season and could hardly be tagged a holdover. He has shown much improvement thus far this year and is a consistent threat. Don Frazier is making his debut in collegiate ranks and his scoring record merits recognition. He hails from Cleveland High School. Jim Seel has returned to the ranks of the "Thundering Herd" after a year at Yale and was more than welcomed back by the student body who remember his feats of two seasons ago. Dick McGinn, the fifth man, is the balancing wheel and it was he who directed the fast break style of play the Bisons employed against us. Other experienced eligibles on the roster include Dick Edgecomb, Bob Edmunds, Tasso Kostelas, Bob Joest, Jack Weiss, Tom Widges, Bill Von Heill, and Paul Fleuchas.

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova will play host to one of the top teams of the East next Monday evening, January 14, when the Wildcats entertain the Valley Forge General Hospitals' star-studded court aggregation in the Field House. The contest is scheduled to begin at 8:30 P. M. It is a rescheduled game, the original having been postponed because of inclement weather.

The Medics have the same squad that carried them through a thirty-seven game card with but two reverses last year. They lost only to Temple (in an overtime tussle) and to New York Coast Guard, a team which they defeated in three other meetings. That record entitled them to the Eastern Service Championship, a title for which they are strong contenders again this year. At this writing they have reeled off fourteen successes in fifteen starts, having lost only to the powerful, unbeaten Philadelphia Navy Yard five.

Led by Szukala

Leading the Valley Forge attack again this year is Stan Szukala, former All-American at DePaul, but any one of the starting five is liable to be top scorer for the evening, the team is that well-balanced. A trio of ex-Notre Damers, Johnny Niemiera, Johnny Craddock ,and Bill Davis supply plenty of offensive strength. The fifth starter, Harley Graf, is a veteran of Big Ten play at Wisconsin, and prior to the war was coaching high school hoopmen in his native state. This quintet, benefitted by individual experience and two years of play together as a team, is a dream to watch in operation. They work the "pick" system to perfection, all of them are excellent shots, and team play stands out in their games. Presently, the entire starting five of the Hospital team is entered in the American Professional League as the Wilmington Bombers.

The sixth man, Aaron Tanitsky, should be familiar to Philadelphians. He led the Public League in scoring while at Southern High and played as a freshman at Penn

VALLEY FORGE
Continued on Page Four

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS

Presenting, in person, and in the sportlight, the one and only, Henry Norman Kline, Jr.

Norm first saw the light of day in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, and still calls it his home. At Lancaster Catholic High School he played three years as guard on the football team and the same length of time as a forward on the basketball team.

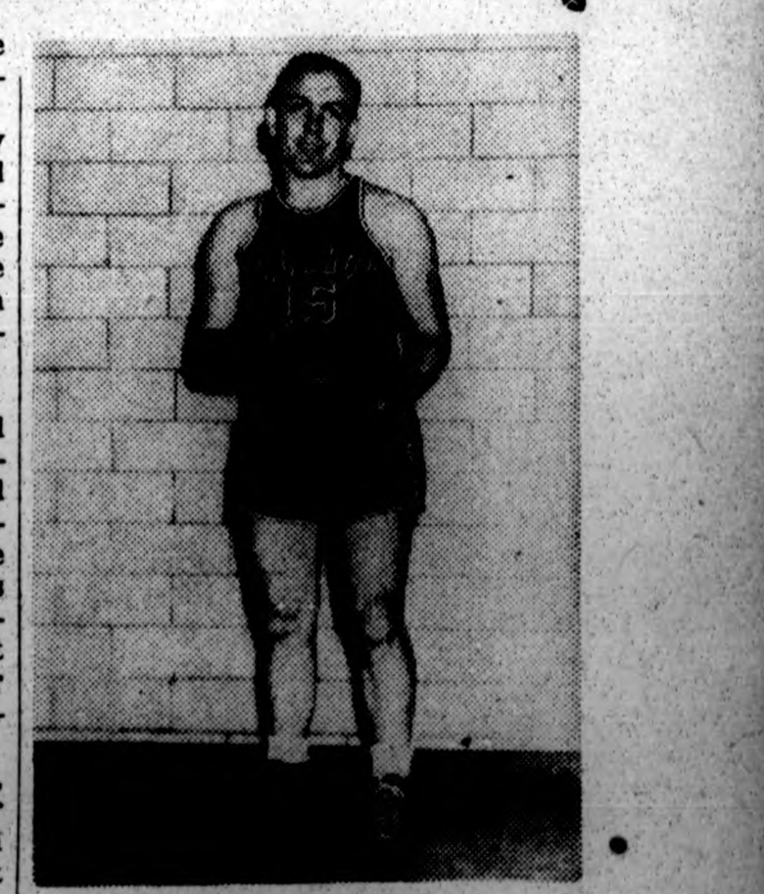
Played Amateur Baseball

To complete the cycle Henry had to play baseball in a local Amateur League as the high school does not have a team. The Lancaster Roses of the Interstate League thought enough of his catching ability to offer him a contract. However, the offer has not been accepted as the Army Air Corps and college received priority.

Before enlisting in June, 1942, Norm worked as a printer for about two years. He became an Air Cadet in December of that year at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas. Primary, basic, and advanced training took him on a sightseeing tour of the State of Texas. The big day came on October 1, 1943 at Ellington Field when he received his commission as a Second Lieutenant in the Air Corps.

Has Air Medal

Junior arrived in England as a co-pilot of a B-26 in December of 1943. With the 391st Medium Bomber Group of the 9th Air Force he took part in raids over France, Belgium, and Germany. This group hit tactical targets to support the invasion and moved into France in August of 1944.



NORMAN KLINE

Norm returned to this country in December, 1944, with an Air Medal with 13 Oak Leaf Clusters and 5 battle stars on his ETO Ribbon. Until receiving his discharge at Fort Dix on July 9, 1945 he was an instructor at Del Rio, Texas.

Rhode Island

Continued From Page Three

scored 10 points during this half to pace the Wildcats.

Cats Slow Tempo

The second half saw the Wildcats continuing to attempt to slow down the home club's "firehouse" game by employing a slow, deliberate style. While they maintained this mode of play they remained in the ball game, but sporadic lapses and reversion to the homesters' running game resulted in Rhode Island scoring splurges. With eight minutes to go the New Englanders led, 67-59, but this was the last time that they were in sight. During he next five minutes they built up 77-61 lead and this proved to be the margin of victory.

Joe Hannan added fifteen points to his first half aggregate to take scoring honors for the Cats with twenty-five points. Joe Lord and Bill Doherty contributed 16 and 13 points, respectively. While Ernie Calverly was slightly cooled down during the second half, the rest of Coach Frank Keany's charges poured it on to cement the decision.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

The Campus Barber Shop

First Class Work
Popular Prices

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Men Of Navy And Marine Corps
Put Your Savings In An Established Bank
The
Bryn Mawr
Trust Company
Every Banking Facility
Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

therefore went to work in a cotton mill in Fall River.

Al joined the Marine Corps on December 4, 1942 and to prepare himself properly for the early morning hours, was next a milkman. Yes sir, the ham with the eggs. He was sent to Parris Island and became a rifle range instructor after finishing boot camp.

On July 1, 1943 he came to Villanova and has been getting in everybody's hair ever since. His activities include the A.I.E.E., the Dramatic Club, and the Glee Club, which we hope a lot of you guys will come out and support. One of the places where he is the greatest nuisance is the E.E. lab. Dairy-maid Canuel has now become Short-circuit Canuel.

His immediate ambitions are to take a month's vacation and a long ride looking for a job. Electronic research seems to be his interest and any inquiries about such a position will be forwarded to Pvt. Canuel through this column.

Well, we'll close now with this well known bit of verse:

East is east, and west is west
And Bacsick can't fit between.
So we remain, yours truly
CA & CD.

Thanks, Al.

Valley Forge

Continued From Page Three

before entering the service. Beyond these six men the Medics have but a mediocre squad. This lack of depth is their only weakness and it represents their opponents' sole hope for victory.

Probably Last Game

The Wildcats will be meeting Valley Forge for the third time. Last season, the Severancemen dropped both games to the Phoenixville outfit by 61-31 and 61-42 scores, respectively, but it took a last-half spurt by the latter to settle the second encounter. Monday's meeting will likely be the last between the two teams. The Valley Forge team has existed as a result of the emergency, and probably will not be represented in the sport next year. The Wildcats' eagerness to close the series with a victory, plus the capabilities of their opponents, should make the game well worth watching.

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

Natchez,
Whose clothes were in terrible patches.
When comment arose on the state of her clothes,
She said, "When Ah itches, Ah scratches!"
The Court Page.

* * *

Ode to the Dining Hall
Me molars is nicked; me bicuspids is bent;
Me jawbone is lame to de ears;
But dem chops what you give us shows never a dent . . .
That sheep must a lived 80 years.
Notre Dame Scholastic.

* * *

By way of conclusion, we might say that we wish all the intelligentia who read this column to the end "A most atomic '46" And thank you too.

Severance's

Continued From Page Three

ference could have been less than twelve points, for in the closing minutes Villanova had the ball under own basket with no one around and failed to capitalize in the point department on three distinct occasions. This could be charged to physical fatigue, for the pace was heart breaking and stiff all the way.

All five men; Lord, Hannan, McDonnell, Doherty, and Burr contributed, in my estimation, a splendid performance against tough odds and the game should pay off in future contests in the improvement department.

Camp To Campus

Continued From Page Two

tioned near a University in order that he may continue his schooling. Pvt. Ralph Annunziata is in Alabama, at Camp Rucker, where he raves about the great physical training program. To prove it he says that he is down to the amazing weight of 190. Seeing is believing Ralph!

S 1/C Frank Saponare writes from the Brooklyn Navy Yard that being in Brooklyn is great and he is slowly mastering the language. Our sources report that Middie Jack Welsh is enjoying his vacation from Annapolis, taking lessons on how to trim Army on the football field.

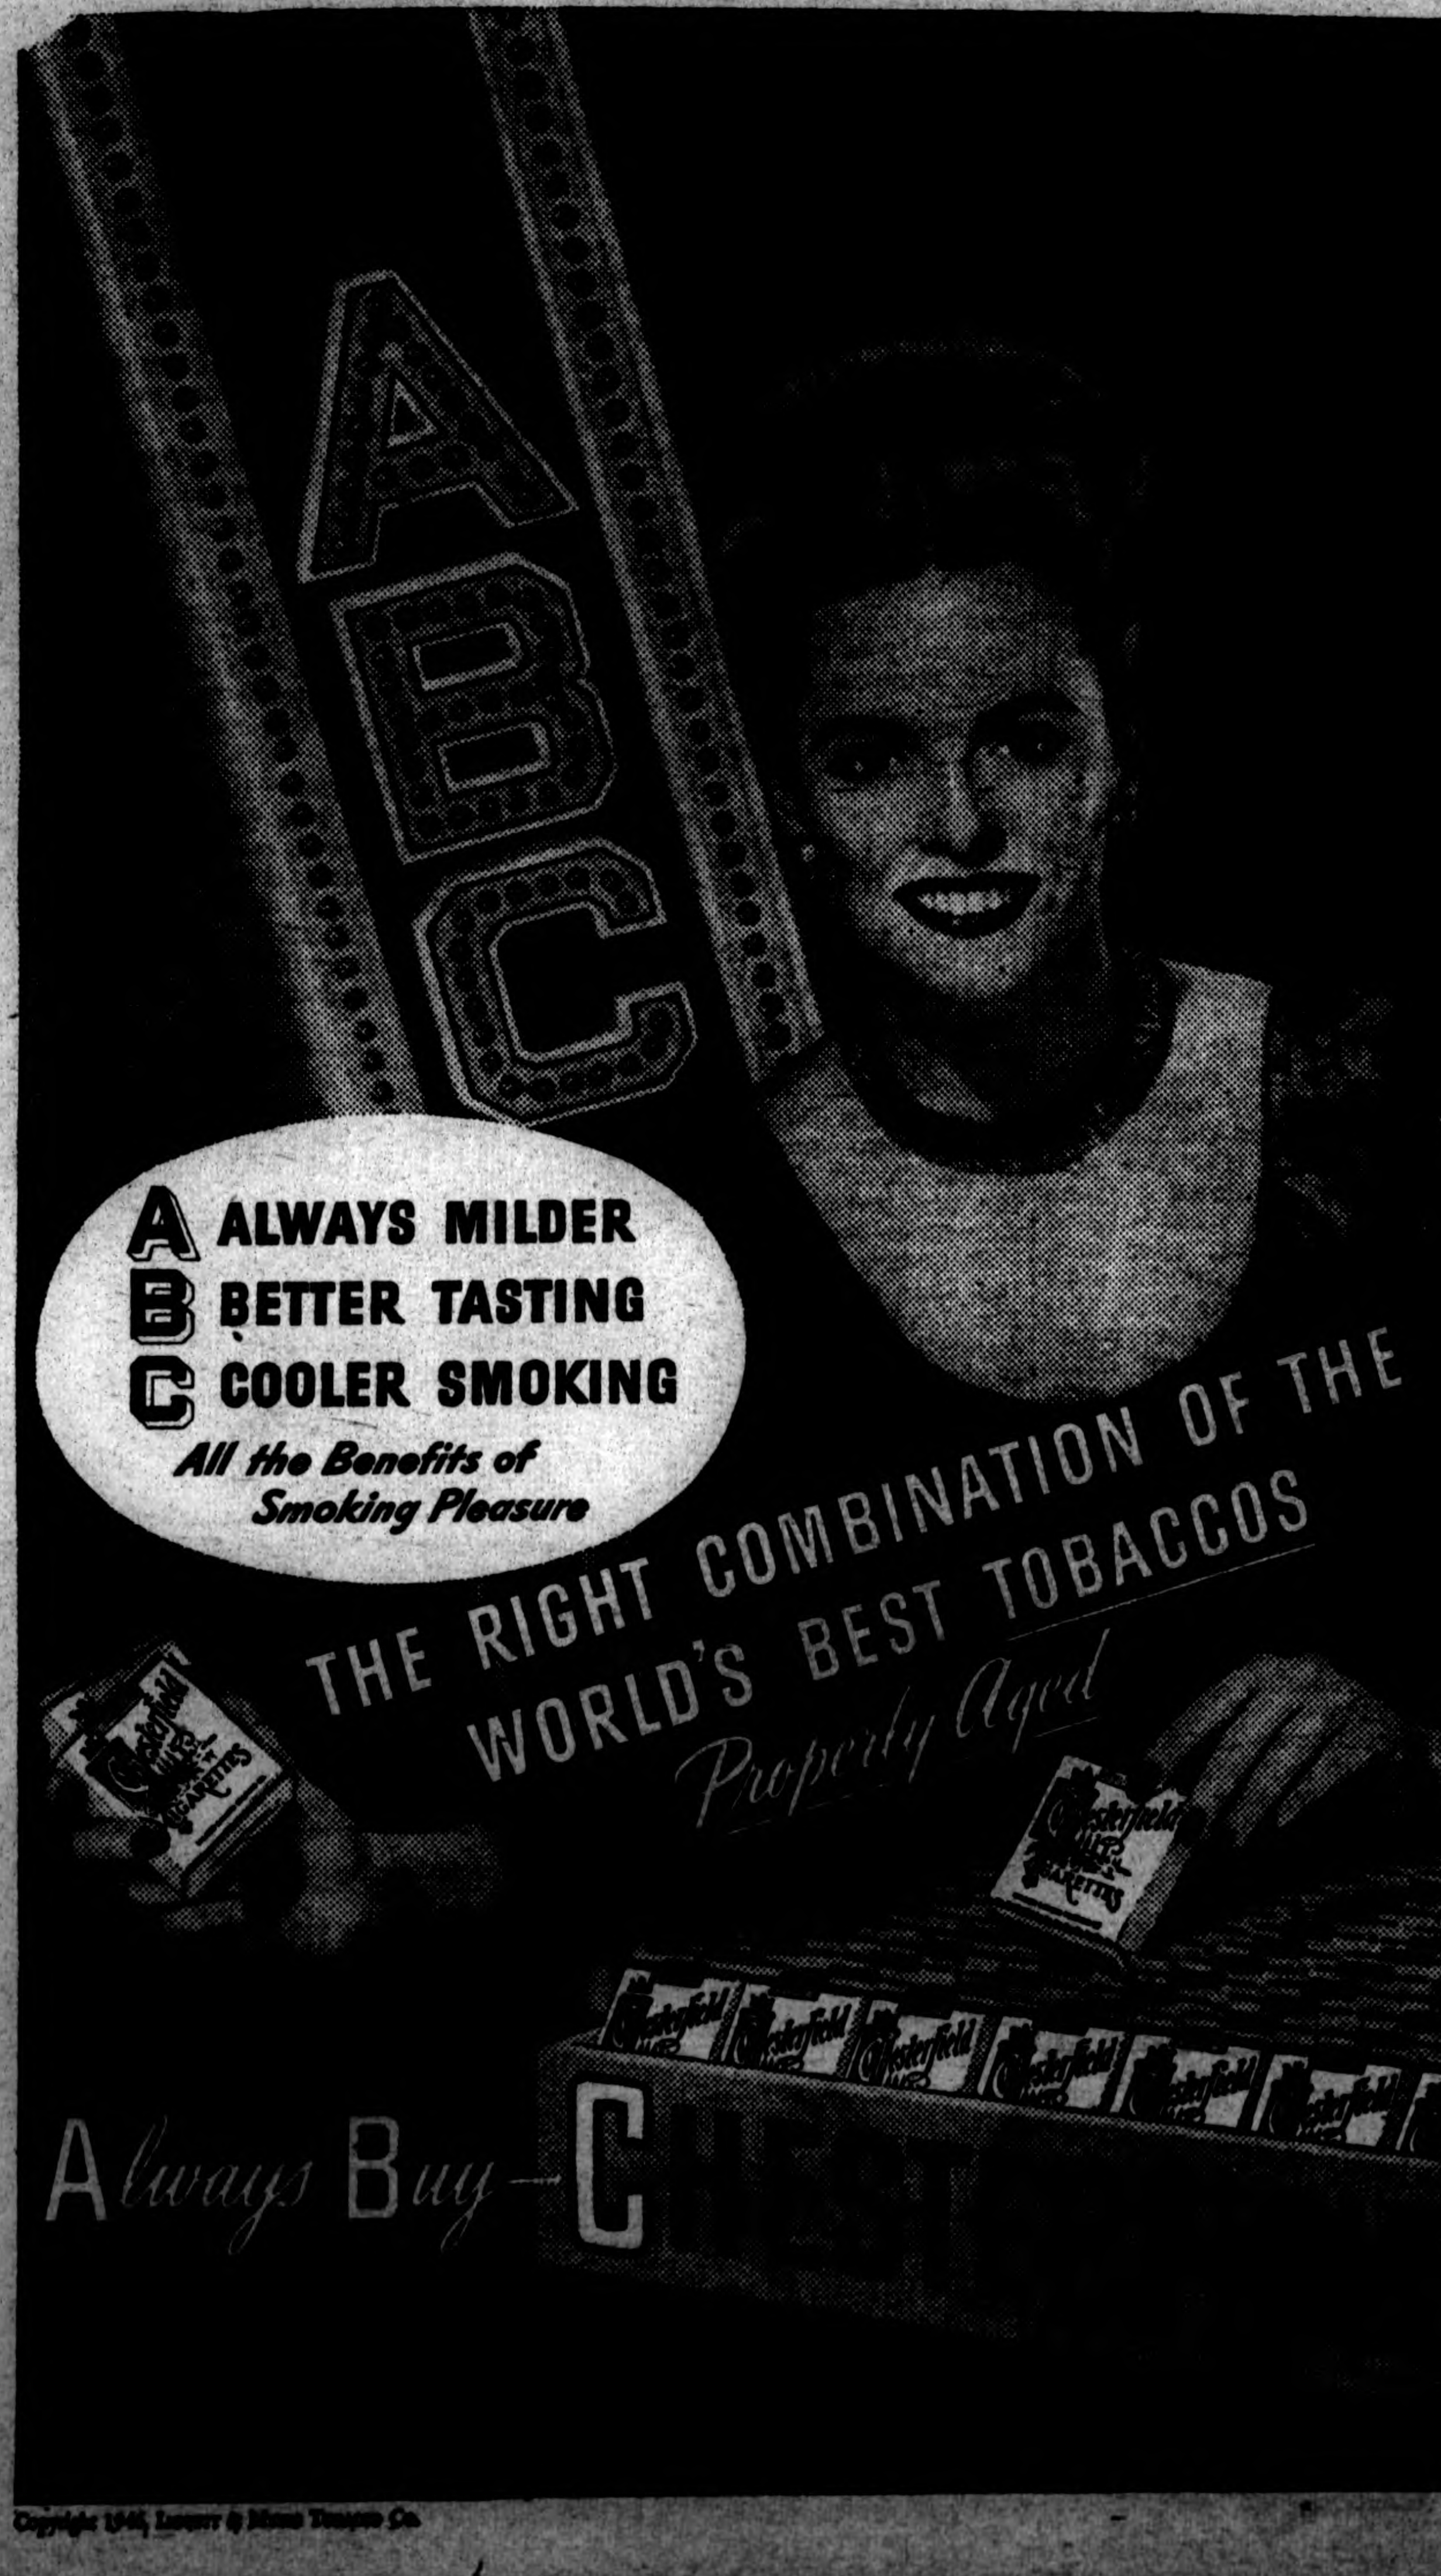
News from the Philippines is that S 1/C Paul Turvill has arrived in Manila which makes an addition to the list of Pvts. Pat Collets, Louis Slater and Seamen Dom Patrone and Carlo Andreone.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

ICE Aristocrat CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made



ABC
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
All the Benefits of Smoking Pleasure
THE RIGHT COMBINATION OF THE WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS
Properly Aged
Always Buy—CHEST

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 20—No. 20 N. A. A. S. X.-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1946

Father O'Donnell Returns From Naval Service

Former Navy Chaplain Returns To Villanova To Resume His Associate Professorship In English

By GEORGE O'NEIL

After 43 months of service as a Navy chaplain in the Pacific theater of operations, Rev. Michael J. O'Donnell, O.S.A., has returned to Villanova College to resume his associate professorship in English, a position which he held prior to his departure for active duty in May, 1942 as a lieutenant (j.g.). Father O'Donnell was released from the Navy last December 7 at the Philadelphia Separation Center.

"I wouldn't have missed it for anything even though it was rugged at times," asserted the former chaplain in commenting about his experiences. Father O'Donnell held the rank of lieutenant commander at the time of his discharge. He has taught at Villanova since 1932, two years after his ordination, and had charge of the Augustinian Seminary Guild until he entered the Navy.

Said Mass Under All Conditions

Despite the fact that he lost considerable weight, Father O'Donnell said he is feeling fine and is none the worse off for his long tour of duty in the torrid climates. "I believe I've said Mass on everything from a couple of boards to the rear of a heavy truck," he declared. Most of the time he celebrated Mass on a portable altar set up in a jeep for the men while they worked on airstrips in the Pacific Islands. "They heard Mass with one eye on their work and other on the Holy Sacrifice because they had to keep on the job to finish the vital landing strips," the priest explained.

His intial assignment was to Chaplain's School, Norfolk, Va., and later to Manhattan Beach Coast Guard Station on Long Island where he was stationed for a year. He then was attached to the 109th Naval Construction Battalion, a Seabee unit and served with them two years, the duration of his time with the Navy. The outfit was sent to the West Coast and Father O'Donnell accompanied them to Hawaii and then into the Marshall Islands invasion.

Baptism of Fire

It was on Kwajalein, the first Jap-mandate territory taken by the American forces, that Father O'Donnell received his "baptism of fire." His battalion had landed on the atoll and had commenced construction and cleaning up operations when they were submitted to heavy Jap bombardment from the air which continued for more than four days. "They dropped incendiary bombs and during the bombardment I lost my Mass kit and all my clothing except that which I had on my back," the former chaplain explained.

REV. MICHAEL J. O'DONNELL

Later he recovered the kit but the contents were so completely smashed that he had to return the damaged kit to Hawaii and request

FATHER O'DONNELL Continued on Page Four

Veteran's Aid Now Available

Guidance Bureau Has Been Set Up To Serve The Returning Veterans Of Villanova

By JAMES CONTY

Today there is the spectacle of thousands of G.I.s returning to college or entering for the first time. The past war brought to a temporary cessation the education of these men and as a result many schools of higher learning throughout the nation were forced to operate on a greatly depressed level. Other schools were fortunate enough to obtain Army and Navy student training units and thereby were able to function on a basis closely approximating pre-war days. With the war's end many of these schools were required to renew their pre-war schedules. Accompanying this transition one finds a host of complex problems confronting the educational institutions of the country. Housing and curriculum facilities are among the more important problems.

At Villanova, a Veteran's Guidance Bureau has been set up to cope with the crisis at first hand. A Bureau staff member serves as liaison officer to acquire living quarters within a reasonable distance of the college for the married Vets. The housing situation is yet critical in the area, but the Bureau has hopes of getting suitable quarters within the rent limit desired by the Vets who use this service. The Bureau has inaugurated Refresher Courses to aid the two classes of Veterans who are expected to enter Villanova. These are without credit. The first group, made up of those returning and with previous college work, will review and reacquaint themselves with that subject matter which they covered before service. The second group will consist of those who have had no college work and have been without benefit of study habit formation for so long. They are offered Refresher Courses on a sub-collegiate level. The courses begin within a month of the start of a semester. The selection of a suitable course of study for the Vet is taken care of in the following manner. A series of tests has been assembled, and these, with the aid of the guidance officials, are hoped to enable the Vet to discover his own aptitudes, thus helping him to choose the course of study in which he will be interested and successful. These factors, while not perfect, will reduce failure appreciably.

Staff Meeting

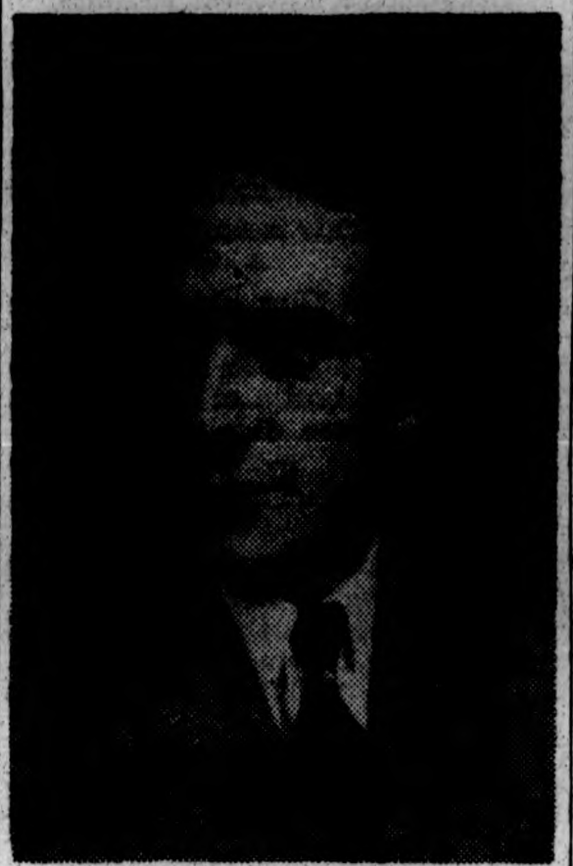
There will be a special meeting of the Villanovan staff, Friday at 1:00 P. M. in Room 214 Mendel Hall. All members of the staff are requested to attend the meeting as plans for the coming Villanovan Dinner-Dance will be discussed.

The yearly group picture of the newspaper staff will also be taken at the same time.

John Leary Dies From Infection

Villanova Chemical Engineer Graduate Worked On The Atomic Bomb

John Raymond (Bud) Leary, '40, a chemical engineer, died January 10, in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital after an illness of about six months. He is survived by his wife and two sons, John Raymond III, and Edward, his mother and father, and a brother, Robert, a recent Villanova graduate.



JOHN R. LEARY

He was a member of the tennis team, the Belle Air staff, the Villanova Engineer staff, the Phi Kappa Pi and the Chemical Engineering Society.

Operated Plutonium Pile

After graduating, Leary worked for some time for the Ugite Sales Corp., Chester, Pa., as an operator's helper. He then worked in several explosive plants, from which he was transferred to Oak Ridge, Tenn., to work on the Atom Bomb. At Oak Ridge he helped load and operate the first experimental plutoium pile, and was fascinated by his work.

Last summer he was stricken with a streptococcic infection of the throat, which, due to his lowered resistance soon developed into general blood-poisoning and endocarditis. His poor physical condition was caused by overwork.

X-Ray Machine Will Aid Studies

A tool of incalculable value, an industrial x-ray machine, has been purchased by Villanova to be used in its engineering school. This machine can be used in conjunction with the study of metal castings, metal plates and materials used in metallurgy. X-ray inspection further provides a complete study of mechanical parts which are ordinarily obscured.

Without the necessity of destructive inspection, x-rays permit the study of all opaque materials. There are only a few of the more prominent industrial applications for x-rays. Future applications of this valuable machine involve the study of fast moving projectiles and industrial fluoroscopy. However, at Villanova this machine will be used in conjunction with the study of metallurgy.

Contains Warning Indicator

Essentially, the x-ray machine consists of three parts: tube, transformer and control cabinet. The tube is of shockproof, rayproof design and will be water cooled. Made of aluminum the tube housing is equipped with a warning indicator which indicates the approach of unsafe operating temperatures. Extremely high voltage is produced by the transformer which has a ratio of one thousand to one. A timer which provides a fifty-nine minute selector dial, as well as a one minute dial, is among the main features of the control box.

Floral Atmosphere To Be Setting For Belle Air Dance

William Koerner, Class President, Will Lead The Seniors In The Procession Of Honor

By DONALD M. COLLINS

Belle Air colors will hit the headlines with the same fire and elegance as that o fold when the Senior Ball brings Villanova's social schedule to its climax Saturday night, January 19. Joseph Hoffman, chairman of the Dance Committee, when reached last week, made known that final preparations were under way, for the dance of the year and that all the affair needed was the wholesale support of the student body. Hoffman explained that all the committees had turned in favorable reports and that the ticket sale was above expectations.

The Highlight of the evening is to be the Grand March, recalling the halcyon days of pre-war extravaganzas. The seniors will leave the hall and re-enter by another door beginning the promenade down the flower bedecked stairways from the stage. Led by Bill Koerner, Senior class president, the class will form procession of honor and then disperse for the graduate dance.

Experienced Decorators Contacted

The Field House itself will assume the festive air under the astute and tasteful guidance of Habermehl Flower Co. This group, one of the finest in the east, has the contract to convert our basketball arena into a ball room suited to the Belle Air dance. Habermehls have had much experience in this work, having handled the dances at Pennsylvania University, Valley Forge, and the Bellevue-Stratford.

Sylvan Atmosphere

The keystone of the decorations will be the Garden Square placed in the floor's center, Harry Waters, properties chairman stated. The band will play, actually on a Silver Screen and will be enclosed in a colonial period picket fence. Arbors at the entrances and floral profusion will heighten the sylvan atmosphere. Soft lights will blend with the soft music as the dancers glide through the man made glens. But we could expect nothing else; it's the Belle Air Ball.

McGuckin Wins Annual Award

Presentation For Loyalty To Villanova Will Honor Graduate Class Of 1918

At the annual dinner to be held in the Warwick Hotel in Philadelphia on Feb. 7th, the Philadelphia Club's annual award for loyalty and unselfishness towards Villanova will be presented to Charles McGuckin of Long Island, N. Y., a graduate of the Class of 1918. Mr. McGuckin was chosen the receiver of this award for this year by a committee, composed of alumni from Villanova who were past recipients of the ward, because of his outstanding achievements not only while attending Villanova but also after graduating.

McGuckin entered Villanova in 1914 as an engineering student and became noted for his proficiency both in scholastic work and athletics. While at Villanova, McGuckin received a number of gold medals for his scholastic ability in the field of engineering.

Kicked Winning Field Goal

However, the ability for which he is best known is his athletic prowess with which he threatened many a record. He was a member of the famous 1915 football team, and it was he who drop kicked the winning field goal to clinch a 16-13 Villanova victory over Army. It was also in 1915 that McGuckin broke the intercollegiate field goal record. He then went on to play in 1916 and captained the Villanova varsity in 1917. In baseball McGuckin also made a name for himself playing shortstop and second base on the Villanova varsity.

Served in World War I

In 1918 McGuckin left early in his senior year to accept a commission in the Navy and during the First World War he served as an ensign making use of his abilities as an engineer.

Mr. McGuckin is now the president of Glen Cove High School on Long Island, N. Y.

Delta Pi Epsilon Plans Dinner Dance For February 16

At a recent meeting Delta Pi Epsilon, Commerce and Finance fraternity, formulated plans for a Dinner-Dance to be held Feb. 16 at the Hotel Philadelphian.

The affair will be the first social function since 1944 for the financier's fraternity. It is open to present members, former D.P.E. members now returned from service and all pledges who hope to become members of the fraternity according to Robert Conway, president of the organization.

The arrangements for the social event are being handled by an executive committee including Bernard Borschke, James Meehan, Robert Mills and Robert Conway.

Glee Club Meets

The Continuation Of The Club Depends On The Cooperation Of Its Members

At the Glee Club meeting last Thursday, Dr. Haenish stressed the need for more cooperation among the members. He emphasized that the club started out with forty members then the attendance diminished until three men showed up for Caroling during the Christmas Season.

Whether the College should retain the services of Mr. Sullivan or should discontinue the Glee Club was discussed by College Authorities. Dr. Haenish, director of the Music Seminar, said that he will call a special rehearsal in the near future. The attendance at this meeting will decide the fate of the club.

The students voted that the rehearsal will be held either on Jan. 14 or Jan. 21, between 6:30 P. M. and 8:00 P. M. Twenty or more men are needed for the continuation of the organization. Only those who are willing to give an hour and a half each Monday for the enjoyment of singing will be admitted

Rhode Island

Continued From Page Three

scored 10 points during this half to pace the Wildcats.

Cats Slow Tempo

The second half saw the Wildcats continuing to attempt to slow down the home club's "firehouse" game by employing a slow, deliberate style. While they maintained this mode of play they remained in the ball game, but sporadic lapses and reversion to the homesters' running game resulted in Rhode Island scoring splurges. With eight minutes to go the New Englanders led, 67-59, but this was the last time that they were in sight. During he next five minutes they built up 77-61 lead and this proved to be the margin of victory.

Joe Hannan added fifteen points to his first half aggregate to take scoring honors for the Cats with twenty-five points. Joe Lord and Bill Doherty contributed 16 and 13 points, respectively. While Ernie Calverly was slightly cooled down during the second half, the rest of Coach Frank Keany's charges poured it on to cement the decision.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

The Campus Barber Shop

First Class Work
Popular Prices

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Men Of Navy And Marine Corps
Put Your Savings In An Established Bank
The
Bryn Mawr
Trust Company
Every Banking Facility
Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

therefore went to work in a cotton mill in Fall River.

Al joined the Marine Corps on December 4, 1942 and to prepare himself properly for the early morning hours, was next a milkman. Yes sir, the ham with the eggs. He was sent to Parris Island and became a rifle range instructor after finishing boot camp.

On July 1, 1943 he came to Villanova and has been getting in everybody's hair ever since. His activities include the A.I.E.E., the Dramatic Club, and the Glee Club, which we hope a lot of you guys will come out and support. One of the places where he is the greatest nuisance is the E.E. lab. Dairy-maid Canuel has now become Short-circuit Canuel.

His immediate ambitions are to take a month's vacation and a long ride looking for a job. Electronic research seems to be his interest and any inquiries about such a position will be forwarded to Pvt. Canuel through this column.

Well, we'll close now with this well known bit of verse:

East is east, and west is west
And Bacsick can't fit between.
So we remain, yours truly
CA & CD.

Thanks, Al.

Valley Forge

Continued From Page Three

before entering the service. Beyond these six men the Medics have but a mediocre squad. This lack of depth is their only weakness and it represents their opponents' sole hope for victory.

Probably Last Game

The Wildcats will be meeting Valley Forge for the third time. Last season, the Severancemen dropped both games to the Phoenixville outfit by 61-31 and 61-42 scores, respectively, but it took a last-half spurt by the latter to settle the second encounter. Monday's meeting will likely be the last between the two teams. The Valley Forge team has existed as a result of the emergency, and probably will not be represented in the sport next year. The Wildcats' eagerness to close the series with a victory, plus the capabilities of their opponents, should make the game well worth watching.

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

Natchez,
Whose clothes were in terrible patches.
When comment arose on the state of her clothes,
She said, "When Ah itches, Ah scratches!"
The Court Page.

* * *

Ode to the Dining Hall

Me molars is nicked; me bicuspids is bent;
Me jawbone is lame to de ears;
But dem chops what you give us shows never a dent . . .
That sheep must a lived 80 years.
Notre Dame Scholastic.

* * *

By way of conclusion, we might say that we wish all the intelligentia who read this column to the end "A most atomic '46" And thank you too.

Severance's

Continued From Page Three

ference could have been less than twelve points, for in the closing minutes Villanova had the ball under own basket with no one around and failed to capitalize in the point department on three distinct occasions. This could be charged to physical fatigue, for the pace was heart breaking and stiff all the way.

All five men; Lord, Hannan, McDonnell, Doherty, and Burr contributed, in my estimation, a splendid performance against tough odds and the game should pay off in future contests in the improvement department.

Camp To Campus

Continued From Page Two

tioned near a University in order that he may continue his schooling. Pvt. Ralph Annunziata is in Alabama, at Camp Rucker, where he raves about the great physical training program. To prove it he says that he is down to the amazing weight of 190. Seeing is believing Ralph!

S 1/C Frank Saponare writes from the Brooklyn Navy Yard that being in Brooklyn is great and he is slowly mastering the language. Our sources report that Middie Jack Welsh is enjoying his vacation from Annapolis, taking lessons on how to trim Army on the football field.

News from the Philippines is that S 1/C Paul Turvill has arrived in Manila which makes an addition to the list of Pvts. Pat Colleta, Louie Slater and Seamen Dom Parrone and Carlo Andreone.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

ICE Aristocrat CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

ABC
Chesterfield Cigarettes
CHESTERFIELD

A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
All the Benefits of Smoking Pleasure
THE RIGHT COMBINATION OF THE WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS
Properly Aged
Always Buy—CHESTERFIELD
Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

Vol. 20—No. 20 N. A. A. S. X.-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1946

Father O'Donnell Returns From Naval Service

Former Navy Chaplain Returns To Villanova To Resume His Associate Professorship In English

By GEORGE O'NEIL

After 43 months of service as a Navy chaplain in the Pacific theater of operations, Rev. Michael J. O'Donnell, O.S.A., has returned to Villanova College to resume his associate professorship in English, a position which he held prior to his departure for active duty in May, 1942 as a lieutenant (j.g.). Father O'Donnell was released from the Navy last December 7 at the Philadelphia Separation Center.

"I wouldn't have missed it for anything even though it was rugged at times," asserted the former chaplain in commenting about his experiences. Father O'Donnell held the rank of lieutenant commander at the time of his discharge. He has taught at Villanova since 1932, two years after his ordination, and had charge of the Augustinian Seminary Guild until he entered the Navy.

Said Mass Under All Conditions

Despite the fact that he lost considerable weight, Father O'Donnell said he is feeling fine and is none the worse off for his long tour of duty in the torrid climates. "I believe I've said Mass on everything from a couple of boards to the rear of a heavy truck," he declared. Most of the time he celebrated Mass on a portable altar set up in a jeep for the men while they worked on airstrips in the Pacific Islands. "They heard Mass with one eye on their work and other on the Holy Sacrifice because they had to keep on the job to finish the vital landing strips," the priest explained.

His intial assignment was to Chaplain's School, Norfolk, Va., and later to Manhattan Beach Coast Guard Station on Long Island where he was stationed for a year. He then was attached to the 109th Naval Construction Battalion, a Seabee unit and served with them two years, the duration of his time with the Navy. The outfit was sent to the West Coast and Father O'Donnell accompanied them to Hawaii and then into the Marshall Islands invasion.

Baptism of Fire

It was on Kwajalein, the first Jap-mandate territory taken by the American forces, that Father O'Donnell received his "baptism of fire." His battalion had landed on the atoll and had commenced construction and cleaning up operations when they were submitted to heavy Jap bombardment from the air which continued for more than four days. "They dropped incendiary bombs and during the bombardment I lost my Mass kit and all my clothing except that which I had on my back," the former chaplain explained.

REV. MICHAEL J. O'DONNELL

Later he recovered the kit but the contents were so completely smashed that he had to return the damaged kit to Hawaii and request

FATHER O'DONNELL
Continued on Page Four

Veteran's Aid Now Available

Guidance Bureau Has Been Set Up To Serve The Returning Veterans Of Villanova

By JAMES CONTY

Today there is the spectacle of thousands of G.I.s returning to college or entering for the first time. The past war brought to a temporary cessation the education of these men and as a result many schools of higher learning throughout the nation were forced to operate on a greatly depressed level. Other schools were fortunate enough to obtain Army and Navy student training units and thereby were able to function on a basis closely approximating pre-war days. With the war's end many of these schools were required to renew their pre-war schedules. Accompanying this transition one finds a host of complex problems confronting the educational institutions of the country. Housing and curriculum facilities are among the more important problems.

At Villanova, a Veteran's Guidance Bureau has been set up to cope with the crisis at first hand. A Bureau staff member serves as liaison officer to acquire living quarters within a reasonable distance of the college for the married Vets. The housing situation is yet critical in the area, but the Bureau has hopes of getting suitable quarters within the rent limit desired by the Vets who use this service. The Bureau has inaugurated Refresher Courses to aid the two classes of Veterans who are expected to enter Villanova. These are without credit. The first group, made up of those returning and with previous college work, will review and reacquaint themselves with that subject matter which they covered before service. The second group will consist of those who have had no college work and have been without benefit of study habit formation for so long. They are offered Refresher Courses on a sub-collegiate level. The courses begin within a month of the start of a semester. The selection of a suitable course of study for the Vet is taken care of in the following manner. A series of tests has been assembled, and these, with the aid of the guidance officials, are hoped to enable the Vet to discover his own aptitudes, thus helping him to choose the course of study in which he will be interested and successful. These factors, while not perfect, will reduce failure appreciably.

Staff Meeting

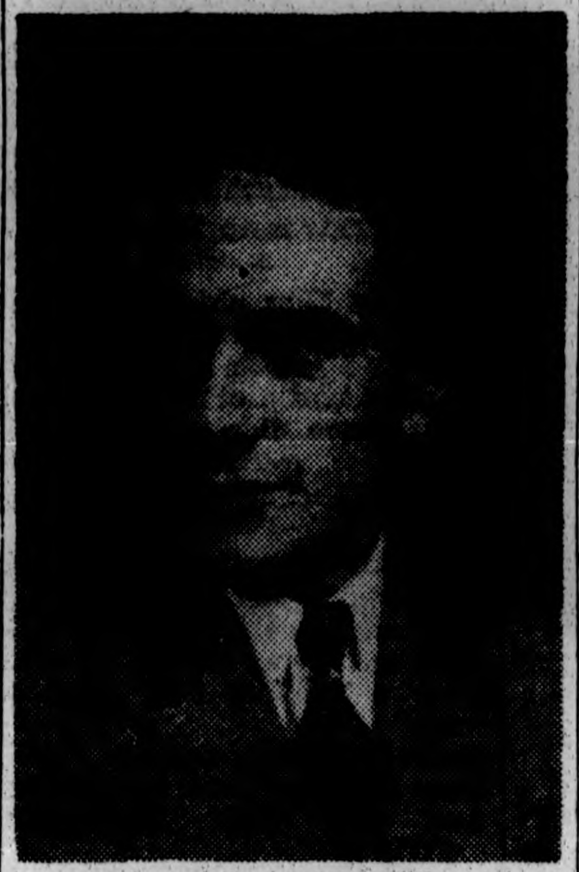
There will be a special meeting of the Villanovan staff, Friday at 1:00 P. M. in Room 214 Mendel Hall. All members of the staff are requested to attend the meeting as plans for the coming Villanovan Dinner-Dance will be discussed.

The yearly group picture of the newspaper staff will also be taken at the same time.

John Leary Dies From Infection

Villanova Chemical Engineer Graduate Worked On The Atomic Bomb

John Raymond (Bud) Leary, '40, a chemical engineer, died January 10, in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital after an illness of about six months. He is survived by his wife and two sons, John Raymond III, and Edward, his mother and father, and a brother, Robert, a recent Villanova graduate.



JOHN R. LEARY

He was a member of the tennis team, the Belle Air staff, the Villanova Engineer staff, the Phi Kappa Pi and the Chemical Engineering Society.

Operated Plutonium Pile

After graduating, Leary worked for some time for the Ugite Sales Corp., Chester, Pa., as an operator's helper. He then worked in several explosive plants, from which he was transferred to Oak Ridge, Tenn., to work on the Atom Bomb. At Oak Ridge he helped load and operate the first experimental plutoium pile, and was fascinated by his work.

Last summer he was stricken with a streptococcic infection of the throat, which, due to his lowered resistance soon developed into general blood-poisoning and endocarditis. His poor physical condition was caused by overwork.

X-Ray Machine Will Aid Studies

A tool of incalculable value, an industrial x-ray machine, has been purchased by Villanova to be used in its engineering school. This machine can be used in conjunction with the study of metal castings, metal plates and materials used in metallurgy. X-ray inspection further provides a complete study of mechanical parts which are ordinarily obscured.

Without the necessity of destructive inspection, x-rays permit the study of all opaque materials. There are only a few of the more prominent industrial applications for x-rays. Future applications of this valuable machine involve the study of fast moving projectiles and industrial fluoroscopy. However, at Villanova this machine will be used in conjunction with the study of metallurgy.

Contains Warning Indicator

Essentially, the x-ray machine consists of three parts: tube, transformer and control cabinet. The tube is of shockproof, rayproof design and will be water cooled. Made of aluminum the tube housing is equipped with a warning indicator which indicates the approach of unsafe operating temperatures. Extremely high voltage is produced by the transformer which has a ratio of one thousand to one. A timer which provides a fifty-nine minute selector dial, as well as a one minute dial, is among the main features of the control box.

Floral Atmosphere To Be Setting For Belle Air Dance

William Koerner, Class President, Will Lead The Seniors In The Procession Of Honor

By DONALD M. COLLINS

Belle Air colors will hit the headlines with the same fire and elegance as that o fold when the Senior Ball brings Villanova's social schedule to its climax Saturday night, January 19. Joseph Hoffman, chairman of the Dance Committee, when reached last week, made known that final preparations were under way, for the dance of the year and that all the affair needed was the wholesale support of the student body. Hoffman explained that all the committees had turned in favorable reports and that the ticket sale was above expectations.

The Highlight of the evening is to be the Grand March, recalling the halcyon days of pre-war extravaganzas. The seniors will leave the hall and re-enter by another door beginning the promenade down the flower bedecked stairways from the stage. Led by Bill Koerner, Senior class president, the class will form procession of honor and then disperse for the graduate dance.

Experienced Decorators Contacted

The Field House itself will assume the festive air under the astute and tasteful guidance of Habermehl Flower Co. This group, one of the finest in the east, has the contract to convert our basketball arena into a ball room suited to the Belle Air dance. Habermehls have had much experience in this work, having handled the dances at Pennsylvania University, Valley Forge, and the Bellevue-Stratford.

Sylvan Atmosphere

The keystone of the decorations will be the Garden Square placed in the floor's center, Harry Waters, properties chairman stated. The band will play, actually on a Silver Screen and will be enclosed in a colonial period picket fence. Arbors at the entrances and floral profusion will heighten the sylvan atmosphere. Soft lights will blend with the soft music as the dancers glide through the man made glens. But we could expect nothing else; it's the Belle Air Ball.

McGuckin Wins Annual Award

Presentation For Loyalty To Villanova Will Honor Graduate Class Of 1918

At the annual dinner to be held in the Warwick Hotel in Philadelphia on Feb. 7th, the Philadelphia Club's annual award for loyalty and unselfishness towards Villanova will be presented to Charles McGuckin of Long Island, N. Y., a graduate of the Class of 1918. Mr. McGuckin was chosen the receiver of this award for this year by a committee, composed of alumni from Villanova who were past recipients of the ward, because of his outstanding achievements not only while attending Villanova but also after graduating.

McGuckin entered Villanova in 1914 as an engineering student and became noted for his proficiency both in scholastic work and athletics. While at Villanova, McGuckin received a number of gold medals for his scholastic ability in the field of engineering.

Kicked Winning Field Goal

However, the ability for which he is best known is his athletic prowess with which he threatened many a record. He was a member of the famous 1915 football team, and it was he who drop kicked the winning field goal to clinch a 16-13 Villanova victory over Army. It was also in 1915 that McGuckin broke the intercollegiate field goal record. He then went on to play in 1916 and captained the Villanova varsity in 1917. In baseball McGuckin also made a name for himself playing shortstop and second base on the Villanova varsity.

Served in World War I

In 1918 McGuckin left early in his senior year to accept a commission in the Navy and during the First World War he served as an ensign making use of his abilities as an engineer.

Mr. McGuckin is now the president of Glen Cove High School on Long Island, N. Y.

Delta Pi Epsilon Plans Dinner Dance For February 16

At a recent meeting Delta Pi Epsilon, Commerce and Finance fraternity, formulated plans for a Dinner-Dance to be held Feb. 16 at the Hotel Philadelphian.

The affair will be the first social function since 1944 for the financier's fraternity. It is open to present members, former D.P.E. members now returned from service and all pledges who hope to become members of the fraternity according to Robert Conway, president of the organization.

The arrangements for the social event are being handled by an executive committee including Bernard Borschke, James Meehan, Robert Mills and Robert Conway.

Glee Club Meets

The Continuation Of The Club Depends On The Cooperation Of Its Members

At the Glee Club meeting last Thursday, Dr. Haenish stressed the need for more cooperation among the members. He emphasized that the club started out with forty members then the attendance diminished until three men showed up for Caroling during the Christmas Season.

Whether the College should retain the services of Mr. Sullivan or should discontinue the Glee Club was discussed by College Authorities. Dr. Haenish, director of the Music Seminar, said that he will call a special rehearsal in the near future. The attendance at this meeting will decide the fate of the club.

The students voted that the rehearsal will be held either on Jan. 14 or Jan. 21, between 6:30 P. M. and 8:00 P. M. Twenty or more men are needed for the continuation of the organization. Only those who are willing to give an hour and a half each Monday for the enjoyment of singing will be admitted

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WALSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Edward A. Loughrey, '48
Donald Sommer, '47
William Altenponi, '47
Donald M. Collins, '47
George O'Neill, '47
John P. Murphy, '48

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Benjamin Reist, NROTC
Charles Cummings, NROTC
Harold Varani, '46
Thomas Heaps, NROTC
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, NROTC

Photography Staff
Charles Sibre, '48
Albert Derr, '46

Business Staff
William Wescott, '47
J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Raymond Stone, '46
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Joseph A. Doughty, '48
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Peter McManus, '47
Thomas Donnelly, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - JANUARY 15, 1946

Look to the Vatican

THE JANUARY 7th issue of "Time" magazine stated that the Pope's two acts, namely, the reorganization of the College of Cardinals and his pronouncement of a program for World Peace, made on successive days, staked out for the Church its biggest religious and political role in world affairs since the Crusades. The Villanovan feels that the significance of this demonstration of Catholicism should be impressed on its readers.

The Holy Father's thirty-two appointments to the Cardinalate were revolutionary. They were a total rejection of nationalism and a restoration of the doctrine of universalism. His choices were above war and indisputably a disregard of military strength. Victorious France, defeated Germany and neutral, totalitarian Spain were equally recognized. The Pope has asserted universalism, with no alternative, as a principle of life.

To bring home the significance of this demonstration of universality, the following comments from the secular press are presented:

The "New York Times" observed that the Pope, in making the College of Cardinals "a more nearly global body than it has ever been before," has taken "cognizance of the new world that follows the war."

The new appointments "reflect the rise of small nations everywhere," says an editorial in the "Milwaukee Journal," which lauds the appointment of Cardinals in Germany and France "who were ardent, almost militant, anti-Nazis."

The "Cleveland Plain Dealer" says that it is necessary only to peruse the list of new Cardinals to recognize the dawning of a new day. The larger recognition accorded to American Catholicism gives cause for "pride and satisfaction to Americans of all faiths," writes the "Cincinnati Enquirer."

George Sokolsky, the Jewish columnist, in a recent syndicated article said: "Intellectual forces within the Church are astonishingly potent; schools, colleges, seminaries are full and scholarship flourishes." This introduces the purpose of this editorial. Villanova is a college devoted primarily to the production of Catholic leaders. If this end is not attained, those men who have given their life to this cause have seriously failed, and the doors of the College could well be closed. However, the Augustinian Fathers are cognizant of their record, and their work continues.

What does all this mean to us as College students? Simply this—we cannot afford to disrobe ourselves of Christian principles when we leave our Religion classes; it means we must become conscious of the pronouncements of the Holy Father. His encyclicals must be of vital concern to us; our answers to the problems of the world must reflect his guidance.

—R. L. W.

Out of the Copy Basket

Just call us The Villanova Joke Column because that's about all we have this week, jokes.

* * *

The name of the exchange column in "The Flaming Bomb" is "Stolen from Other Thieves."

The "Dakota Scientist" calls its exchange column "The Hell Box" and explains, "'Hellbox': A receptacle into which a printer throws his type (Webster). Into this column we throw our odds and ends of humor.

* * *

And for any of you who enjoy letter-writing—

Sweden Calling

"The members of 'My Friend Abroad' are young Swedes, aged 15 to 25, who want to correspond with American friends. If you want to get a pen-friend in Sweden write to us, stating your name, address, age, and interests."

By Friend Abroad,
27 B. Lastmakaregatan
Stockholm, Sweden.

P.S.: This is on the level.

* * *

Officer: How did you get so completely intoxicated?

G. I.: I got in bad company, sir. I had a bottle of whiskey and the other three didn't drink.

—The Flaming Bomb

From a G. I. who's there waiting—

"It didn't take them very long
To bring us here, you know.
But now it's time to take us back,
They're moving rather slow.
They're building new ships every day
Exceeding every nation.
How can they look us in the face
And say "NO TRANSPORTATION."

—Temple University News.

George: "Do you believe kissing is unhealthy?"

Mary: "I couldn't say — I've never—"

George: "You've never been kissed?"

Mary: "I've never been sick."

Unusual

Peter (on telephone): "How do you feel this morning?"

Lady: "All right."

Peter: "Sorry, I must have the wrong number."

—The Dakota Scientist.

* * *

Once again you have come to the end of the best reading material printed in the Villanovan, once again we congratulate you the Hoi Aristoi who read this throughout. We leave you with this kind wish (Of course Feb. 2 is a long way off, but there's nothing like being punctual) Happy Ground Hog Day.

—Jas. T. Mackey.

Fr. Sullivan Holds Obsequies For Mother Cleophas

Mother Mary Cleophas, S.H.C.J., the late President of Rosemont College, was buried January 3, in Holy Sepulchre cemetery. A low Mass (Coram Episcopo) was celebrated by Rev. Robert Sullivan, O.S.A., Chaplain of Rosemont; William Koerner, President of the Senior Class at Villanova, and Joseph Hoffman, President of the Student Council, served the Mass.

Bishop Leech, of Harrisburg, Penna., seven Monsignori and the Presidents of Villanova and Immaculata were in the Sanctuary. Many of the priests of the Villanova Faculty were in attendance.

The Student's Mass on Thursday morning was said for Mother Cleophas, at which Mass many of the students received Holy Communion.

Chapter Of ASCE Has Smoker Planned

The Villanova Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers held a meeting last Friday, at which the coming smoker, to be held Monday night, January 21, was discussed.

President John W. Coyne announced that plans for the entertainment are practically completed. Harold Varani was appointed head of the refreshment committee and Pvt. I. J. Talbot, USMCR, Secretary-Treasurer, will handle the financial matters.

Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

With the coming event of our Belle Air Ball and the possibility of returning to pre-Alexander Bell days (no phones) we trust that all you wolves have made arrangements for the great affair. For you who are new concerning our ball, we will outline the necessities. First one gets a date (any size, shape or form); second purchase a ticket (only 4 bucks); third a tux or set of tails (one that fits or otherwise); fourth, and a very important item, buy an orchid or a reasonable facsimile such as dandelion; and last but not least, a fat check from Pop. Oh, yes, transportation usually helps.

Now comes the calm before the storm; next week we expect lots of news to come from you who practice the old saying "actions speak louder than words." So look out for our news spotters and eliminate for yourself an embarrassing aftermath.

* * *

The Phi Kap postponed the initiation of new members (paddles and all) until the week following the ball. It's quite difficult to dance with the impression of a paddle still carrying the stinging effects. Also making it impossible to sit any out. Tough, isn't it! !

* * *

The dance is causing much trouble to two of the more prominent Marines in the Senior class, namely, Larry Bradley and Burt Cox. It so happens that Burt has been unable to influence his girl friend's mother to permit her to leave the cradle and come to the dance. As a result of this Larry can't seem to find a partner to rent a car for the affair. He has offered to get a date for Burt, but it appears that Burt is afraid to take a chance that she will not be young enough.

One of the more fortunate buddies of the aforementioned has really made a deal for the ball. Howie Groetzinger somehow or other has influenced his girl friend's father to send her from Pittsburgh. It even includes a plane trip home for her. We always thought that he was capable of putting something like that across and now we know.

Bill O'Niell remained true to form after our comment on him last week. He couldn't wait until the weekend to see the Rosies so he escorted one to the basketball game last Wednesday night. We also hope that he enjoyed the trip to Ridley Park on Friday to see her again.

* * *

Questions of the week:

Who is that little man running around the campus with the Clark Gable mustache? It couldn't be Major McDonnell could it?

What intriguing factor is there in Marcus Hook that puts that look of spring on Charlie Gallagher's face in the middle of winter? We expect to find out on Belle Air night.

Is it true that Tony Caruso is holding a lottery to determine which girl he will escort to the Ball? We have been informed that there are eight possibilities.

Are YOU going to be seen in the Field House on Saturday night with your gorgeous blonde or what have you?

* * *

With the publishing of the grades and the sending of them home, we hope that your checks covering the damages of attending the dance was received before Dad catches wise.

* * *

We close this week with a fitting tribute to the coming dance.

Now there is no cause at all
To forget the ball
Where Elliot Lawrence and the orch will play;
And all will dance
And joke and romance
And laugh the whole night away! !

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

Nylons? You say you'd like some nylons? Tell you what we're goin' to do. It just so happens there is a character, born April 27, 1922 in Philly and who attended Childs Elementary, Vare Junior, and Southern High schools, who can fix you up. This veteran, at more things than one to whom we refer is Rocco "Smilin' Jack" Robert Giannini, of the South Philadelphia Gianninis.

ROCCO R. GIANNINI

Rocco has been an important man in all his connections. "Connections," that's when you rap on the door, a panel slides open, and someone sticks their head out when you says, "Don't open the door, mother, Rocco will take the rap." Rocco was a three letter man in high school, playing baseball, football and basketball.

In Again — Out Again

"Everybody's Friend" started to arrive at Villanova for his first period class at 8:45 back in September of '42 and has been arriving at 8:45 ever since. There was, however, a lapse of eight months, from July of '44 to March of '45, when Rocco was in the Navy. It seems that an Admiral and he were having a friendly game and—well, he's out.

Rocco played football, softball, and basketball at Villanova, too. One of his greatest endeavors was his pitching for the Villanova All Stars. Right now the Veterans club and the Senior dance are keeping Roc busy.

He wants to go into sales engineering after he receives his B.S. as a mechanical engineer. And finally, the happy ending. He is going to marry Flora, a Rosemont graduate of last June. Yes, they lived happily ever after, Flora with Rocco, Rocco with the racing forms.

It wasn't Paris in '29 or Palmyra in '27, but Poughkeepsie in '23, September 28th, that Carl George Fritz decided to come to the aid of mankind. The first written records to be uncovered relating to the early days of Carl were discovered by us just recently. After translating the cross between Japanese and Afghanistan scrolls, we found that Mr. Fritz went to Oakwood high for two years and was then drafted He finished the remaining two years at Georgia Military Academy. After graduating, Carl went out to face the cold, cruel world, and after three months of working for DeLaval, got away from it all by dashing madly to Lehigh and becoming a chemical engineer.

Read the Editorial

He was drafted again, this time in November '42 and into the Marine Corps. He came to Villanova; stopped being a chemical; started being a mechanical; went to boots in March '45; and was discharged in September '45. How so little can tell so much — well, read the editorial, and then come back. All

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

'Cats Avenge Defeat By Bucknell In 54-52 Game

Lord And Hannan Spark Improved Villanova Team To Victory In Return Game. Bucknell Rally In Closing Minutes Falls Short In Close Finish

By JIM McNAMARA

Last Wednesday night 1100 partisan fans saw Villanova's Wildcats avenge an early season upset as they outlasted a stubborn Bucknell quintet and walked off victorious, 54 to 52. It was the most thrilling game of the season which saw a rapidly improving Villanova five steadily forge ahead and then stave off the "Thundering Herd's" last minute explosion to save the game. The score was tied at 2, 4, 6, 12 and 33 and it was a case of dog eat dog all the way.

The first two minutes of play were slow and then Frank Haas looped a right hander from the left corner to give Bucknell the lead. Within ten seconds, Joe Lord tied the score on one of his "copyrighted" set shots from outside. Gene Wilson and Lord exchanged sets, and Haas' double decker gave Bucknell the lead again. Determined to stay among the District's leading scorers, Lord once more contributed a field goal and the score read 6-6. "Toad" Hannan dropped a long one to move out, 8-6, and Doherty and McDonnell added free throws. Bill Burr's spectacular right handed, cross-court shot on a dash down the left sidelines was sandwiched between buckets by Wilson and Seel. Dick McGinn deadlocked the contest at 12-12 when he was left unguarded under the basket and, taking a long pass from Bob Edmunds, scored an easy lay-up.

McDonnell Looks Good

"Major" McDonnell put on a brilliant exhibition of aggressive floor play and showed the fans how the pick and cut system should be executed. He was all over the floor, setting up plays and sparking a Wildcat rally. He even threw a body block on a Bucknell defender —unintentionally, of course. Villanova, catching the spark, began to pull away. At this point Coach "Woody" Ludwig, the Bison tutor, inserted sub Don Frazier with instructions to play all over the floor in Rhode Island State "firehouse" fashion, which temporarily neutralized the Villanova attack. With Bucknell forcing the play, and Lord and Doherty controlling the backboards, fair exchanges of points were registered and halftime found Villanova leading, 29-20. Lord's eleven points in the first half was high for the home team, followed by seven for Doherty and six for Hannan. McDonnell's three and Burr's two came at crucial moments, and this was the extent of the scoring at the twenty minute mark.

Bucknell employed a fast break throughout most of the second half, and after five minutes were in the ball game again, tied, 33-33. Joe Hannan's long set shot broke the ice and gave Villanova a never-to-be-relinquished lead. Don Robertson, fouled on the same play, added one more point. With the Bisons threatening and getting more than their share of rebounds, Coach Al Severance added height to his club by rushing Big Ed Gonglefski into the game. He racked up four points in the short time he played, one a Ned Brant over-the-head specialty from a tight squeeze under the basket.

Hannan was on the well known team and pumped three baskets this half together with two fouls. The visitors kept plugging away and trailed by only one point at 46-45 with four minutes to go. The Wildcats moved out 54-46, and, with a minute and twenty seconds remaining, this edge seemed adequate. Lord, co-captain of the home team, directed his mates to freeze the ball, but Bucknell broke

BUCKNELL GAME
Continued on Page Four

Basketball Comments

(Ed. note:—Coach Severance is still recuperating from a strenuous week which saw his team win two out of three games. For this reason his column will contain sidelights on the games by his shadow.)

On Wednesday the team held together long enough to avenge the early season defeat Bucknell administered on the Lewisburg court. However, they still have a tendency to run instead of playing conservative ball after building up a lead.

Bucknell Varies Defense

Bucknell complicated matters still further by varying its defense. They opened the game by laying back and allowing the ball to be advanced over the center line unchallenged. As the Villanova score increased the Bisons began meeting the ball at mid-court. Then as the gap narrowed it pulled out and played all over the court. This constant shifting of defense lead to rough play on both sides. Unfortunately, Villanova missed twelve of its twenty-two chances from the foul line.

Immediately after the game the team left for Boston and spent a hectic night trying to sleep in a day-coach. To start things off on the wrong foot the train was two hours late because of a rock slide near Harrisburg. After arriving in Boston the boys had to wait until the Ice-Capades cast vacated their hotel rooms before they could get some rest.

During the first half of the Boston College game the team appeared to be going through the motions and trying to keep the score down. This activity took the

BASKETBALL
Continued on Page Four

THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS
Longines
THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE

Team Wins And Loses On Road

By DICK SOMERS

Before the largest crowd ever assembled in the Boston Gardens, Villanova defeated Boston College for its second victory in as many nights by a 38-34 count. This victory was pulled out of the fire with a thrilling second half by a travel weary (slept in coaches the night before) and thoroughly disgusted (at the general lack of forethought in arranging transportation) team.

Joe Lord and Bill Doherty with eleven points apiece, and 'Major" McDonnell, with eight, lead the Villanova offense. Fitzgerald and Kenney were high for B. C. with ten and nine respectively.

'Cats Were Tired

The 'Cats played the first half with butter fingers, sleep ladened eyes, and aching muscles. Fortunately the Boston boys played the same type of ball.

Doherty opened the scoring by dropping one of his patented one-handers from ten feet out. Ed Ryan quickly matched this for Boston College. Joe Hannon and Fitzgerald hit from the outside to make the score 4-4 at the end of five minutes.

At this point the game started to speed up as Boston College tried to run up a large score. Jim Harrington dropped two free tosses to put his team in front for the first time in the evening. Lord dropped a singleton before the Purple and Gold started to move. Fitzgerald, with one from the floor and six charity baskets, and Levinon, with a long shot, increased the Eagle's total to sixteen. Doherty and Ed Reybitz were the only other Severance-men able to find the hoop as the half ended with the 'Cats on the short end of a 16-9 score.

Puts Team in Shape

During the intermission Jim Tadley rubbed some life into the boys' legs and a rejuvenated team started to run Boston College into defeat. After the first five minutes the Eagles maintained a 24-15 ad-

BOSTON COLLEGE
Continued on Page Four

"Jumbo" Elliot Back On Campus

Another old familiar figure returned to the Villanova Campus last week in the person of track coach James "Jumbo" Elliott. The sartorially dressed Mr. Elliott returned to civilian life after having served three years and seven months with the Navy.

Jim entered the service in May, 1942, as a Lieutenant (jg) at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station in Texas. He was a V-5 Physical Training Officer until September of that year.

At this point "Jumbo" transferred out of the V-5 and became a Yardcraft Officer. On March 1, 1943 his promotion to a full Lieutenant was approved. He remained at Corpus Christi until January, 1944.

Served in France

France also came under Jim's scrutinizing as he was the senior officer present in charge of two French S.B.D. Squadrons at Cognac, France. His European duty ended in April, 1945.

"Jumbo" returned to Port Lyoutey as a Physical Training Officer and Survival Officer on Fleet Air Wing 15 Staff. This assignment completed his overseas service.

In August, 1945, Jim was on the Fleet Air Wing 5 Staff at Norfolk, Virginia handling the same duties as on the 15 Staff. He became a Lt. Commander on October 1, 1945 and received his discharge January 2, 1946.

Meet England Hospital Here; Manhattan Away

Atlantic City Soldiers To Be Met For First Time Tomorrow Night. Manhattan Holds 6-0 Lead In Series. Have Lost Once This Year

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova's Wildcats, getting wilder all the time, play their sixth home game of the season tomorrow night when they entertain the quintet representing the Thomas England General Hospital in the Field House starting at 8:30 P. M. It will be the first meeting between the two teams in athletic competition.

Not much is known about the Atalntic City soldiers, except that they are numbered among the victims of our opponents of last night, Valley Forge. However, this fact does not limit their capabilities one iota. The list of Valley Forge victims is a long and formidable one, and membership does not necessarily constitute ineptitude. Therefore, the Cats will have to be ready for anything tomorrow evening. After coping with such varied styles in their recent outings, they should be ready for about anything.

Starting Five Improves

Coach Al Severance has managed to change the Wildcats' style according to that of his opponents in each of the last three games without changing his starting combination. This five, (Lord, Hannan, McDonnell, Burr, and Doherty) has brought two victories (Bucknell and Boston College) and a creditable showing (Rhode Island) in its three starts as a team. Their improved play merits a good attendance by the student body at this, their first game of the second half of the schedule.

The next game listed for the Main Liners takes them to New York City, where they are scheduled to meet Manhattan on Saturday, January 19th. The Jaspers are returning to the sport after a two year lay-off occasioned by the war, but they are just as powerful as their pre-war representatives. Under new coach "Honey" Russell, former Seton Hall mentor and professional great, they have suffered but one setback, that at the hands of Brigham Young. They hold victories over Boston College and Scranton, among others. The latter was a surprise victor over a powerful C.C.N.Y. team. Leading the Jasper attack, is set-shot artist Bobby Kelly. He has been top point producr in virtually all of the games. Two guards, Berchuren and Cohan, are his chief assistants in the field goal department.

First of Home and Home

This will be the first game of a home and home arrangement and, at the same time, it will mark the first court meeting between the two schools since 1936, when Manhattan

MANHATTAN
Continued on Page Four

Fedigan, Ausmen Occupy Top Spot

Fedigan Wins Three As Ausmen Split Two To Tie For Lead. Down Doms In 35-32 Thriller

By DAVID MARANO

Highlight of this week's intramural basketball schedule was Wednesday night's varsity game between Fedigan and the Doms. Trailing 17-8 at the start of the second half, a scrappy Fedigan team led by "Marty" Trichtinger hit the cords for 13 field goals and 1 foul for a total of 27 points in the second half and a 35-52 victory. After being held to one goal in the first half, Trichtinger found the range from the outside and dropped six beautiful set shots in the second half, the last two of these being the margin of victory. With less than one minute remaining in the ball game, the Doms, who had been leading all through the game found themselves ahead at 32-31. Putting on a torrid last minute drive, the swabbies fed the ball to "Trichy" just twice and that was all they needed. Both shots were from just short of mid-court, and neither of them touched the rim. They were enough to give Fedigan a 35-32 victory.

Ausmen Forfeit

Luck was with Fedigan Tuesday night when they handed the Ausmen their first defeat of the season. By failing to carry out a technicality in the rules, which states that a team must have at least 5 men on the court by 6:00 P. M., the Ausmen were forced to forfeit to Fedigan, putting them into a tie for first place.

In the other games of the past week; Fedigan beat Alumni 27-25, giving them a clean sweep of 3 for 3 for the week; Ausmen defeated the Doms 39-29, with Sonner scoring 20 points for the Ausmen, enabling them to split two games for the week, and the Marines defeated Alumni 32-24.

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS

Edward Casimer "Chet" Reybitz, a 6 ft., 4½, 200 pound product of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, is another of the many veterans playing for Villanova this year.

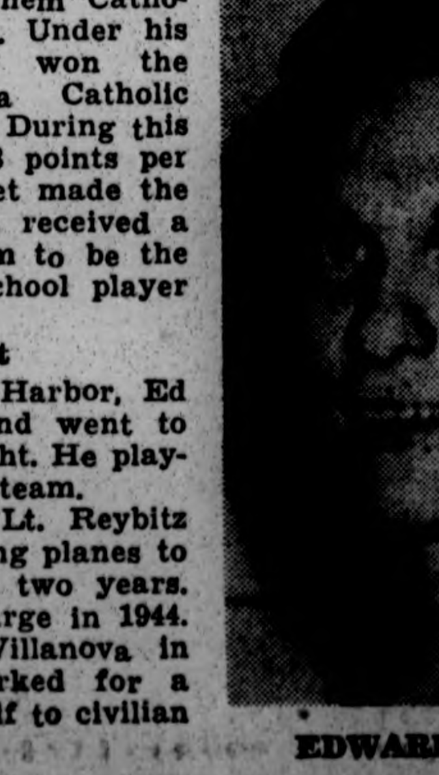
Ed captained Bethlehem Catholic in his senior year. Under his leadership the team won the Eastern Pennsylvania Catholic League Championship. During this season he averaged 23 points per game. As a result Chet made the All-Sectional team and received a trophy proclaiming him to be the most valuable high school player in 1939.

Marine Pilot

Shortly after Pearl Harbor, Ed entered the service and went to North Carolina Pre-flight. He played center on its 1943 team.

As a Marine pilot, Lt. Reybitz was assigned to ferrying planes to the South Pacific for two years. He received his discharge in 1944.

Before coming to Villanova in July of 1945, Ed worked for a year readjusting himself to civilian life.



EDWARD C. REYBITZ

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

the foregoing was found chiseled into a chunk of peanut brittle and found washed up on the bench near Cleptomania, Alabama.

Very Interesting

Mrs. Fritz confirmed it and further related that son Carl was a member of the A.S.M.E. at present, and has played intramural softball.

CARL G. FRITZ

This was confirmed by Horatio Bauldingtwine, who has nothing to do with the story but was standing around at the time.

Carl would like a job making three hundred dollars a week. And until next week kiddies, pleasant dreams. He would also like it to be connected with gas turbines or power plants. Well, it takes all kinds.

According to the schedule "slave driver" Ryan put up, we have to next narrate the heart-rending tale of Robert William Griesser. This guy is so bad off it took hours for him to decide he would like September 10, 1925 as his date of birth, the only reason being that it comes before the 11th. Then came the usual barrage of questions about this and that with the startling reply, "I was born and I'm glad, see. Glad, glad, glad." So once more the opportunity, for shall we say, enlarging on the subject has presented itself. The fair hair boy came, originally from Madison, Wisconson, at three moved to Brookline, and later migrated to Manoa, Pa.

The usual alibis for going through the elementary curricula will be omitted, except to say Bob went to Sacred Heart Grammar School, and Haverford Township Senior High, where he was in the Science Club and the wrestling fraternity. Yes, he was one of the brothers in the Twisted Knights of the Ring.

Nine—Nine—Nine

We should here like to inject that Bob invented soleless shoes for people who like to walk bare-foot, but instead we shall say he was sent to Muhlenburg College July 1, 1943 as a member of the Marine Corps. One day he went out for the cross-country team and didn't stop running until he reached Villanova, March 1, 1944. Still out of breath, he turned in a beautiful performance for the Dramatic Club in his Junior year. Who can forget his stirring, "Nine!"? . . . .

ROBERT W. GREISSER

Robert yearns to be an electrical engineer. Nobody knows why, but he does. The Middle West will undoubtedly be shocked when Mr. Griesser starts crossing the wires.

And then there is Helen. But if this goes on any longer, where will they put the Coke ad, so we remain yours truly.

C.A. & C.D.

Bucknell Game

Continued From Page Three

up the freeze on three occasions with their fiery scramble for possession of the ball and scored six lightning-fast points. Trailing by two points at 54-52, the Bisons took possession once again, but Wilson's one handed shot from twenty feet out, hit the rim and rolled off at the final whistle. The ultimate score of 54-52 confirms how close the game was, but doesn't even hint at the fighting spirit which both teams demonstrated. Haas won scoring honors for the night with eighteen points, followed by teammate Wilson and Wildcats' Joe Lord with fifteen each. Hannan and Doherty notched fourteen and ten, respectively.

The victory for Villanova broke a four game streak the Bisons had built up in the past two seasons and evened the over-all series at 7-7.

Basketball

Continued From Page Three

stiffness out of their legs and they were an improved team in the final twenty minutes.

Lord Proves Worth

Joe Lord proved his mettle as team Captain by waiving three fouls in the last two minutes to protect a slender two point lead. However, Doherty and Hannan almost ruined this strategy by taking unwarranted long shots. Fortunately the Eagles failed to take advantage of these opportunities.

Immediately after the game the team headed for home on the midnight train.

On Saturday the inevitable let down occurred and a fair Navy team ran Villanova into defeat. Everything the Midddies threw up dropped while the Blue and White couldn't find the hoop.

Manhattan

Continued From Page Three

won, 34-31. In the six game series played thus far, the Jaspers have eeked out decisions in every meeting. The victory margins, which have ranged from one to six points, are indicative of the closeness of the contests. This year should see another close struggle, especially if the Villanovans continue to improve.

Father O'Donnell

Continued From Page One

a replacement from the Bishop of that district. Not only did Father O'Donnell have to care for the spiritual needs of the 314 men of his battalion but frequently he had to get around to several other outfits lacking the services of a Catholic chaplain. He shouldered multitudinous extra-curricula duties in addition to his work as spiritual advisor.

In the extra curricula capacity he, at one time or another, had charge of education, recreation and public relations facilities available to the men on the various islands. Father O'Donnell commented favorably on the entertainment and recreation supplied by touring shows and added that motion pictures were a great relief both to him and his battalion.

Meets Fellow Augustinians

Father O'Donnell met several of his fellow Augustinians while in the Pacific. In the Marshalls he met Rev. Charles Bauman, O.S.A.; they were together in the islands for five and one-half months. In August, 1944, he encountered Rev. Ralph Handran, O.S.A. at Pearl Harbor. "I hit him up for a couple of good meals," Father O'Donnell reminisced. At Pearl Harbor, he also met Rev. John Daley, O.S.A., who is stationed there.

Father O'Donnell said the thing that impressed him and the members of his battalion was the fact that 99 percent of the natives on Guam were Catholic. He returned to Hawaii with his outfit after the landings on Kwajalein and then was assigned to Guam. He came back to this country after 21 months overseas with the same outfit and was granted a 30 day leave prior to his transfer to the Separation Center.

The incident which gave him the greatest thrill, Father O'Donnell said, occurred in Hawaii while he and his battalion were awaiting assignment to Guam. The priest lamented the absence of facilities in a building for the celebration of Mass. The next day the men had already constructed an altar, a pulpit, an altar rail and forty wooden benches. "They apparently worked all night to complete the equipment the following day for Mass," Father O'Donnell said with admiration.

Held Regular Novenas

The former chaplain told of the Solemn three day Novena he conducted for the Feast of the Sacred Heart in a Marine mess hall in the Marshalls. "The place was jammed every night and at the closing service over 600 men attended," he said. High Mass we celebrated on Christmas and Easter if conditions and cirmustances permitted. "We held regular Novenas right along on the islands where fighting had ceased and recited the Rosary every night during Lent and Advent."

He then explained the simple but solemn services that marked Good Friday in 1944 on a large coral stretch in the Marshalls. The Stations of the Cross were designated by plain, numbered placards held by the men. "There was a very large turnout for these services and after the men made the Stations, I delivered a sermon in the growing dusk in the open beach jammed with men," Father O'Donnell related.

When asked how he felt about returning to Villanova, the former Navy Chaplain declared: "It is a magnificent feeling to say Mass on a real Altar in the chapel after experiencing the meager facilities available in the battle zones in the Pacific."

Boston College

Continued From Page Three

vantage but the pace was beginning to tell on them.

The 'Cats then shifted into high gear and rolled up seven consecutive points. McDonnell and Lord hit from the outside and Doherty added three fouls during the spree. Kenney sneaked through for a layup to make the count 26-22 going into the final ten minutes.

Lord and Don Robertson quickly brought the third deadlock of the game. However, Kenney broke it, with his ninth point of the half, and the Eagles stretched it to five on baskets by Bob Kuirk and Ed Ryan.

Lord Gives Victory Margin

Villanova went into the lead again on two baskets by Lord and another by Doherty. Wolfe tapped in a goal from scrimmage to give Boston College the lead 33-32 with four minutes left.

Lord came to the rescue again with a shot from mid-court and Hannan added one from side-center as insurance. Harrington dropped a foul for the last Boston College marker.

During the last two minutes the 'Cats waived three fouls and "Major" sealed the decision with a layup.

Navy Game Slow

Before a capacity crowd of Midshipmen and their drags Navy defeated Villanova 50-31 at Annapolis on Saturday. After the first ten minutes the Middies simply ran up the score as a tired Blue and White team showed the effects of the long overnight trip to Boston and two previous hard fought games.

Perry Nelson and Cy Waldrop, with twenty and eleven points respectively, equalled the scoring output of the entire Villanova team. Don Robertson and Joe Lord paced the 'Cats with ten and nine.

Nelson opened the scoring with a foul and followed with a lay-up before Joe Hannon connected for the first local score. It was give and take with Navy in front 9-7 after ten minutes of play.

Big Margin at Half

The Middies really opened up in the next five minutes and rolled up twelve points as Nelson and Waldrop added two baskets apiece and "Beast" Duden and Don Dick also hit the cords. Ed Reybitz sparked a futile rally by contributing six points but Lord and Robertson were the only ones able to assist him. Navy continued to hit consistently and carried a thirteen point lead into the dressing room at half time.

After the intermission Villanova trimmed the gap to ten points but could get no closer. Nelson and Waldrop continuing to set a torrid pace as Navy pulled away steadily during the last ten minutes. During this time the 'Cats were able to score only one field goal and three fouls; so completely did the Middies dominate play. Thus the final score, Navy 50, Villanova 31.

INTRAMURAL LEAGUE STANDINGS

	W.	L.	Pct.
Fedigan	7	1	.875
Ausmen	7	1	.875
Doms	2	5	.286
Alumni	2	6	.250
Marines	1	6	.143

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M.
Daily; Except Wednesdays and
Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL
CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special
Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban
Transportation Co.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

Friendly
pause
DRINK
Coca-Cola
© 1945 The C-C Co.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

VILLANOVAN
Veritas Unitas Caritas
Vol. 20—No. 21 N.A.A.S.X.-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1946

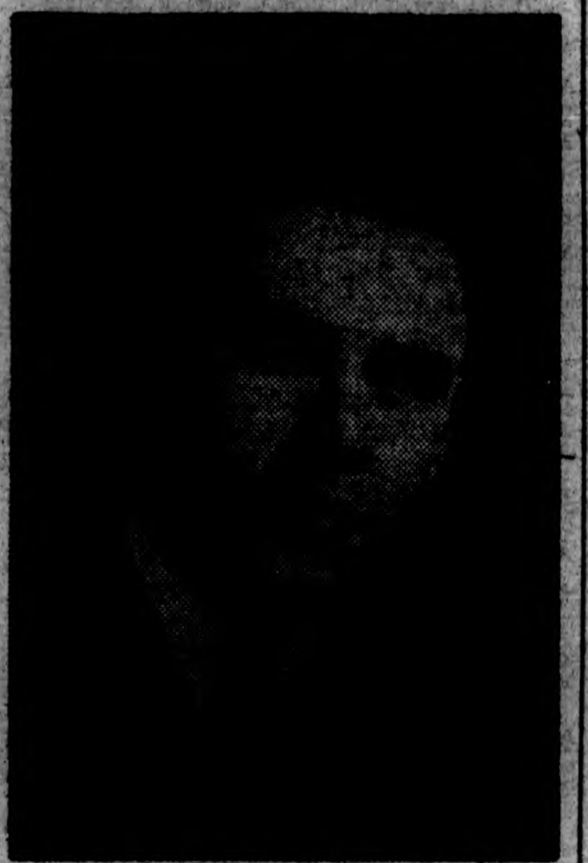
COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Jim Haughton Returns To Sports Publicity Position

Reassumes Position He Held Before Entering Service

James Haughton, class of '41, has returned to the college to resume his duties as director of public relations for Villanova, a position he held for two years prior to his entry into the armed forces early in 1943. The announcement of Mr. Haughton's return was made by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., vice president and moderator of athletics.

The new public relations director, who received a B.S. in Economics degree in the C. & F. school, assumed his post yesterday with offices in the college field house with Robert Whelan, Athletic Association Secretary.



JAMES HAUGHTON

Mr. Haughton was appointed to the relations position following his graduation from Villanova in 1941 and remained in that capacity until 1943 when he embarked on his military career. He was stationed at Camp Lee, Va., during his stay in service.

Mr. Haughton's experience at Villanova earned for him a post in the Public Relations Office at Camp Lee and he held this position until his discharge from service recently. In addition to his relations work, Mr. Haughton will act as assistant to Rev. Robert Sullivan, O.S.A., Alumni secretary.

While a student at Villanova from 1937 to 1941, Mr. Haughton was very active in extracurricular activities, having been a student director of the Intramural teams and Sports Editor of the Villanovan during his senior year.

During his military service with the Army at Camp Lee, Mr. Haughton was attached to Co. N, 7th Regiment. At this writing the newly-returned public relations director was not available for comment on how it feels to "be back on the job."

Staff Plans Dance

Tentative Date For The Villanovan Staff Dinner Dance Is Feb. 5

Last Friday the staff members of the Villanovan held a meeting to lay out the plans for a Dinner Dance. Don Collins was appointed Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements.

David J. Ryan, editor, has announced the tentative date for the dance to be Tuesday, February 5. Since this date is subject to change, the staff members are asked to keep in contact with the Villanovan bulletin board.

Father Klekotka, faculty moderator, has announced that since the dance is a closed affair, except for the dates of the members, the Villanovan will stand a considerable portion of the expenses.

VILLANOVA
EX - SERVICEMEN
JUST A PENNY POSTCARD
IS ALL WE ASK
DROP US A LINE
TO LET US KNOW WHEN
YOU HAVE BEEN DISCHARGED

The Alumni Secretary
Villanova College,
Villanova, Pa.

Add New Officers To Ships Company

Moriconi And Bricker, Overseas Veterans, Assume New Duties With Naval Unit

The Naval Unit of Villanova was recently strengthened by the addition of two gentlemen from the western states of Kansas and Iowa. The history of these two officers is too complex to treat here so only the highlights of their careers will be touched upon.

Bill Moriconi was born in Frontenac, Kansas October 18, 1921. Bill attended Frontenac High School and later was accepted at the University of Wichita. During his stay at Wichita, Lt. Moriconi took a stab at playing football, and he did well for himself, making all-state in 1942. He held a position at guard for four years, at the end of which, in 1943, he received his B.A. in Economics.

Overseas Two Years

As any Navy career, Lt. Moriconi's has been most exciting. After completing his training in Midshipman's School at Northwestern, Bill spent two years in the Pacific on LCI-330. Two years in the Pacific, just to remind the readers, is just as long as two years transferring from one base to another.

Lt. Moriconi met a Villanova alumnus, Joe Pezelski—halfback in 1942 and 1943, while returning to the States on an APA. Bill stated that his impression of Villanova has been very favorable, and he feels that his time here teaching Seamanship to the Navy students will be enjoyable. The Lieutenant is single and has no definite plans for the future.

Captain John L. Bricker, U.S.M.C. reported to Villanova January 9 to relieve Captain Toussaint as Officer in Charge of the Marine Detachment. Boone, Iowa, is the place of Captain Bricker's birth, the date being March 14, 1919. John moved to Minneapolis where he attended Washburn High School. While there he participated in many track events, running the mile and high hurdles.

The University of Minnesota was John's choice for higher education. He graduated from there with a B.S. in Economics. While at the University, the future Marine Corps Officer participated in the intramural sports, which included basketball, baseball and football. He also joined the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

Fought on Iwo

Captain Bricker's service began March 19, 1942 as a Pfc. in Officer Candidate School. He was commissioned June 13, 1942. His active service began at New River, North Carolina where the Tank Company felt the need for his presence. Here at Camp LeJeune John became the assistant R-3 of the 25th Regiment, Fourth Marine Division. In September 1943, he moved with his outfit to Camp Pendelton, Oceanside, California. In January of 1944 the Fourth Marine Division shoved off for overseas. Among the notable places that felt the strength of the Fourth Marine Division was Saipan and Iwo Jima. Captain Bricker returned to the states November 4, 1945. His first assignment since his return was Villanova.

"I heard of the Villanova foot-

NEW OFFICERS
Continued on Page Four

Successful Belle Air Ball Sets Standard for Post-War Dances

By DONALD M. COLLINS

The final chord crashed, the first couple swept away in a billow of silk, and the Belle Air Ball was a reality. For after many bitter years of war and separation, sparkle and gentility had returned to the campus. It was evident everywhere that the cruel dragons of fear had been cast down once more and now, with washing of hands, youth was returning to the business of being young.

The night itself was typical of mid-winter social functions. The crystalline black sky was in sympathy with the merciless cold and the wind was so fierce it seemed to be a live thing grasping and tearing any foolhardy human who challenged its domain.

But as the Field House was approached from the hundreds of cars which spotted its hinterland, frigidity lessened in the brilliance of the lobby lights and dissipated entirely with the warmth of good fellowship and Tony's fruitful hearth. The lobby itself so brimmed with fur and top hats that it resembled an ante room of the Metropolitan's Diamond Circle. The attendance was so large that the capacity of the wardrobe was exceeded and long queues demonstrated to what peacetime uses war learned skills could be applied.

At the door the tickets were received and after an unnecessary and vulgar hand stamp the ballroom itself was reached. The hard work of the dance committee was here manifested and the proud smiles of the men of Villanova mingled with the "Ah's" of their companions in a general and overwhelming stamp of approval. The stage crystallized the spirit of the Ball, bearing the great school seal in its frame of Royal Blue and pure white. With whatever black and mystic arts Tony and his boys employ, they transformed the severe and rudely functional lines common to Palestra into the soft and appealing contours of the Ballroom. Surmounting everything, the tremendous beige drapes floated as a cloud benignly smiling down on the happiness of youth. At the corners of these folds multi-colored variable beams played across the multitude, wrapping them in spectral warmth. At the center of the floor the bower of palm and poinsettia served as the hub about which played the dancers.

On the center line of the right side of the hall, Elliot Lawrence and his band held forth, framed in silver and enveloped in their own rythm.

Band Meets Expectations

Lawrence indeed proved his title as the up-and-coming orchestra leader. His gracious and tasteful orchestrations lent beauty and harmony to the graceful songs of yesteryear and to the modern but equally fine compositions. His orchestra featured novelties as well, and they were received with the same acclaim as his more serious music. One of the more spectacular feats was Lawrence's conducting the band from the stage at the side of his vocalist. One intermission was the only break in the constant and soothing flow of rhythm. This was admirably filled by the piano virtuosity of our own Lou DiGiacomo. Splicing boogie woogie with the more conventional harmonies, DiGiacomo achieved an effect which was proudly and gratefully received by the entire group.

Seniors Hold Grand March

The high point of the evening was the stately promenade of the Senior Class across the stage and down the twin stairs. They marched through the hall's center and skirted the balconies in an inspiring and orderly maneuver. At the first notes of the trumpet the Seniors swept their ladies into the graduate dance, Stardust. In like manner following this the Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen were in turn featured in their individual dances. One amusing incident occurred during the promenade when Mr. Carl Wolfe, Zamsky studio pho-

BELLE AIR BALL
Continued on Page Four

Phi Kappa Pi To Initiate Pledgees

President Joe Hoffman has just completed plans for the initiation of new members into the Phi Kappa Pi, engineering fraternity, and expects to have his committee put approximately fifty pledgees through vigorous paces.

This will take place in the Dynamo and Hydraulics lab in Mendel Hall Thursday night, and the ordeal will begin at 7:30 P. M., and is expected to be over by 9:45. The refreshment committee of Jim Murphy and Jim Brogan will provide the newly accepted members with plenty of food and drinks.

Hoffman and Steve Gasparovic have been working the past few weeks on some new and rare ideas which should keep everyone busy and provide plenty of fun and laughs.

There will be an important meeting in Room 202 Mendel at 1:00 P. M. All men who are pledged must attend this meeting in order to be accepted for initiation.

WILLIAM FRIEL WILL WED ON SATURDAY

This coming Saturday William F. Friel, 3d, '43, will marry Miss Marie Selfridge, of Philadelphia. Mr. Friel acted as Placement Director and Secretary of the Alumni Association during his senior year at Villanova.

Upon his graduation from the School of Commerce and Finance he went into the Army with the Supply Corps. He was discharged this month after extensive service in the Pacific.

The wedding will take place in the Church of the Transfiguration in Philadelphia at nine o'clock.

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

the foregoing was found chiseled into a chunk of peanut brittle and found washed up on the bench near Cleptomania, Alabama.

Very Interesting

Mrs. Fritz confirmed it and further related that son Carl was a member of the A.S.M.E. at present, and has played intramural softball.

CARL G. FRITZ

This was confirmed by Horatio Bauldingtwine, who has nothing to do with the story but was standing around at the time.

Carl would like a job making three hundred dollars a week. And until next week kiddies, pleasant dreams. He would also like it to be connected with gas turbines or power plants. Well, it takes all kinds.

According to the schedule "slave driver" Ryan put up, we have to next narrate the heart-rending tale of Robert William Griesser. This guy is so bad off it took hours for him to decide he would like September 10, 1925 as his date of birth, the only reason being that it comes before the 11th. Then came the usual barrage of questions about this and that with the startling reply, "I was born and I'm glad, see. Glad, glad, glad." So once more the opportunity, for shall we say, enlarging on the subject has presented itself. The fair hair boy came, originally from Madison, Wisconson, at three moved to Brookline, and later migrated to Manoa, Pa.

The usual alibis for going through the elementary curricula will be omitted, except to say Bob went to Sacred Heart Grammar School, and Haverford Township Senior High, where he was in the Science Club and the wrestling fraternity. Yes, he was one of the brothers in the Twisted Knights of the Ring.

Nine—Nine—Nine

We should here like to inject that Bob invented soleless shoes for people who like to walk bare-foot, but instead we shall say he was sent to Muhlenburg College July 1, 1943 as a member of the Marine Corps. One day he went out for the cross-country team and didn't stop running until he reached Villanova, March 1, 1944. Still out of breath, he turned in a beautiful performance for the Dramatic Club in his Junior year. Who can forget his stirring, "Nine!"? .. ..

ROBERT W. GREISSER

Robert yearns to be an electrical engineer. Nobody knows why, but he does. The Middle West will undoubtedly be shocked when Mr. Griesser starts crossing the wires.

And then there is Helen. But if this goes on any longer, where will they put the Coke ad, so we remain yours truly.

C.A. & C.D.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Bucknell Game

Continued From Page Three

up the freeze on three occasions with their fiery scramble for possession of the ball and scored six lightning-fast points. Trailing by two points at 54-52, the Bisons took possession once again, but Wilson's one handed shot from twenty feet out, hit the rim and rolled off at the final whistle. The ultimate score of 54-52 confirms how close the game was, but doesn't even hint at the fighting spirit which both teams demonstrated. Haas won scoring honors for the night with eighteen points, followed by teammate Wilson and Wildcats' Joe Lord with fifteen each. Hannan and Doherty notched fourteen and ten, respectively.

The victory for Villanova broke a four game streak the Bisons had built up in the past two seasons and evened the over-all series at 7-7.

Basketball

Continued From Page Three

stiffness out of their legs and they were an improved team in the final twenty minutes.

Lord Proves Worth

Joe Lord proved his mettle as team Captain by waiving three fouls in the last two minutes to protect a slender two point lead. However, Doherty and Hannan almost ruined this strategy by taking unwarranted long shots. Fortunately the Eagles failed to take advantage of these opportunities.

Immediately after the game the team headed for home on the midnight train.

On Saturday the inevitable let down occurred and a fair Navy team ran Villanova into defeat. Everything the Midddies threw up dropped while the Blue and White couldn't find the hoop.

Manhattan

Continued From Page Three

won, 34-31. In the six game series played thus far, the Jaspers have eeked out decisions in every meeting. The victory margins, which have ranged from one to six points, are indicative of the closeness of the contests. This year should see another close struggle, especially if the Villanovans continue to improve.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Father O'Donnell

Continued From Page One

a replacement from the Bishop of that district. Not only did Father O'Donnell have to care for the spiritual needs of the 314 men of his battalion but frequently he had to get around to several other outfits lacking the services of a Catholic chaplain. He shouldered multitudinous extra-curricula duties in addition to his work as spiritual advisor.

In the extra curricula capacity he, at one time or another, had charge of education, recreation and public relations facilities available to the men on the various islands. Father O'Donnell commented favorably on the entertainment and recreation supplied by touring shows and added that motion pictures were a great relief both to him and his battalion.

Meets Fellow Augustinians

Father O'Donnell met several of his fellow Augustinians while in the Pacific. In the Marshalls he met Rev. Charles Bauman, O.S.A.; they were together in the islands for five and one-half months. In August, 1944, he encountered Rev. Ralph Handran, O.S.A. at Pearl Harbor. "I hit him up for a couple of good meals," Father O'Donnell reminisced. At Pearl Harbor, he also met Rev. John Daley, O.S.A., who is stationed there.

Father O'Donnell said the thing that impressed him and the members of his battalion was the fact that 99 percent of the natives on Guam were Catholic. He returned to Hawaii with his outfit after the landings on Kwajalein and then was assigned to Guam. He came back to this country after 21 months overseas with the same outfit and was granted a 30 day leave prior to his transfer to the Separation Center.

The incident which gave him the greatest thrill, Father O'Donnell said, occurred in Hawaii while he and his battalion were awaiting assignment to Guam. The priest lamented the absence of facilities in a building for the celebration of Mass. The next day the men had already constructed an altar, a pulpit, an altar rail and forty wooden benches. "They apparently worked all night to complete the equipment the following day for Mass," Father O'Donnell said with admiration.

Held Regular Novenas

The former chaplain told of the Solemn three day Novena he conducted for the Feast of the Sacred Heart in a Marine mess hall in the Marshalls. "The place was jammed every night and at the closing service over 600 men attended," he said. High Mass we celebrated on Christmas and Easter if conditions and cirmustances permitted. "We held regular Novenas right along on the islands where fighting had ceased and recited the Rosary every night during Lent and Advent."

He then explained the simple but solemn services that marked Good Friday in 1944 on a large coral stretch in the Marshalls. The Stations of the Cross were designated by plain, numbered placards held by the men. "There was a very large turnout for these services and after the men made the Stations, I delivered a sermon in the growing dusk in the open beach jammed with men," Father O'Donnell related.

When asked how he felt about returning to Villanova, the former Navy Chaplain declared: "It is a magnificent feeling to say Mass on a real Altar in the chapel after experiencing the meager facilities available in the battle zones in the Pacific."

Boston College

Continued From Page Three

vantage but the pace was beginning to tell on them.

The 'Cats then shifted into high gear and rolled up seven consecutive points. McDonnell and Lord hit from the outside and Doherty added three fouls during the spree. Kenney sneaked through for a layup to make the count 26-22 going into the final ten minutes.

Lord and Don Robertson quickly brought the third deadlock of the game. However, Kenney broke it, with his ninth point of the half, and the Eagles stretched it to five on baskets by Bob Kuirk and Ed Ryan.

Lord Gives Victory Margin

Villanova went into the lead again on two baskets by Lord and another by Doherty. Wolfe tapped in a goal from scrimmage to give Boston College the lead 33-32 with four minutes left.

Lord came to the rescue again with a shot from mid-court and Hannan added one from side-center as insurance. Harrington dropped a foul for the last Boston College marker.

During the last two minutes the 'Cats waived three fouls and "Major" sealed the decision with a layup.

Navy Game Slow

Before a capacity crowd of Midshipmen and their drags Navy defeated Villanova 50-31 at Annapolis on Saturday. After the flirst ten minutes the Middies simply ran up the score as a tired Blue and White team showed the effects of the long overnight trip to Boston and two previous hard fought games.

Perry Nelson and Cy Waldrop, with twenty and eleven points respectively, equalled the scoring output of the entire Villanova team. Don Robertson and Joe Lord paced the 'Cats with ten and nine.

Nelson opened the scoring with a foul and followed with a lay-up before Joe Hannon connected for the first local score. It was give and take with Navy in front 9-7 after ten minutes of play.

Big Margin at Half

The Middies really opened up in the next five minutes and rolled up twelve points as Nelson and Waldrop added two baskets apiece and "Beast" Duden and Don Dick also hit the cords. Ed Reybitz sparked a futile rally by contributing six points but Lord and Robertson were the only ones able to assist him. Navy continued to hit consistently and carried a thirteen point lead into the dressing room at half time.

After the intermission Villanova trimmed the gap to ten points but could get no closer. Nelson and Waldrop continuing to set a torrid pace as Navy pulled away steadily during the last ten minutes. During this time the 'Cats were able to score only one field goal and three fouls; so completely did the Middies dominate play. Thus the final score, Navy 50, Villanova 31.

INTRAMURAL LEAGUE STANDINGS

	W.	L.	Pct.
Fedigan	7	1	.875
Ausmen	7	1	.875
Doms	2	5	.286
Alumni	2	6	.250
Marines	1	6	.143

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

Friendly
pause
DRINK
Coca-Cola
© 1945 The C-C Co.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

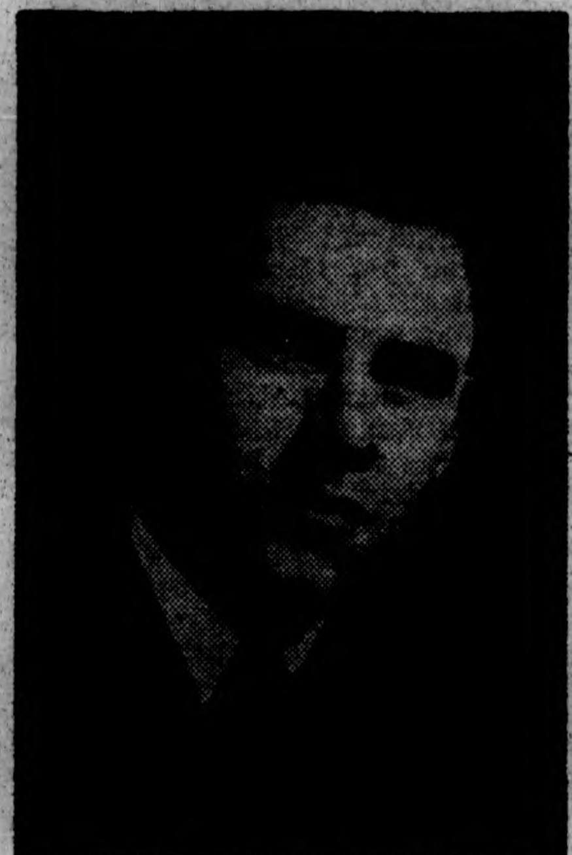
VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 21 N.A.A.S.X.-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1946

Jim Haughton Returns To Sports Publicity Position

Reassumes Position He Held Before Entering Service

James Haughton, class of '41, has returned to the college to resume his duties as director of public relations for Villanova, a position he held for two years prior to his entry into the armed forces early in 1943. The announcement of Mr. Haughton's return was made by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., vice president and moderator of athletics.

The new public relations director, who received a B.S. in Economics degree in the C. & F. school, assumed his post yesterday with offices in the college field house with Robert Whelan, Athletic Association Secretary.



JAMES HAUGHTON

Mr. Haughton was appointed to the relations position following his graduation from Villanova in 1941 and remained in that capacity until 1943 when he embarked on his military career. He was stationed at Camp Lee, Va., during his stay in service.

Mr. Haughton's experience at Villanova earned for him a post in the Public Relations Office at Camp Lee and he held this position until his discharge from service recently. In addition to his relations work, Mr. Haughton will act as assistant to Rev. Robert Sullivan, O.S.A., Alumni secretary.

While a student at Villanova from 1937 to 1941, Mr. Haughton was very active in extracurricular activities, having been a student director of the Intramural teams and Sports Editor of the Villanovan during his senior year.

During his military service with the Army at Camp Lee, Mr. Haughton was attached to Co. N, 7th Regiment. At this writing the newly-returned public relations director was not available for comment on how it feels to "be back on the job."

Staff Plans Dance

Tentative Date For The Villanovan Staff Dinner Dance Is Feb. 5

Last Friday the staff members of the Villanovan held a meeting to lay out the plans for a Dinner Dance. Don Collins was appointed Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements.

David J. Ryan, editor, has announced the tentative date for the dance to be Tuesday, February 5. Since this date is subject to change, the staff members are asked to keep in contact with the Villanovan bulletin board.

Father Klekotka, faculty moderator, has announced that since the dance is a closed affair, except for the dates of the members, the Villanovan will stand a considerable portion of the expenses.

VILLANOVA EX-SERVICEMEN

JUST A PENNY POSTCARD IS ALL WE ASK

DROP US A LINE TO LET US KNOW WHEN YOU HAVE BEEN DISCHARGED

The Alumni Secretary
Villanova College,
Villanova, Pa.

Add New Officers To Ships Company

Moriconi And Bricker, Overseas Veterans, Assume New Duties With Naval Unit

The Naval Unit of Villanova was recently strengthened by the addition of two gentlemen from the western states of Kansas and Iowa. The history of these two officers is too complex to treat here so only the highlights of their careers will be touched upon.

Bill Moriconi was born in Frontenac, Kansas October 18, 1921. Bill attended Frontenac High School and later was accepted at the University of Wichita. During his stay at Wichita, Lt. Moriconi took a stab at playing football, and he did well for himself, making all-state in 1942. He held a position at guard for four years, at the end of which, in 1943, he received his B.A. in Economics.

Overseas Two Years

As any Navy career, Lt. Moriconi's has been most exciting. After completing his training in Midshipman's School at Northwestern, Bill spent two years in the Pacific on LCI-330. Two years in the Pacific, just to remind the readers, is just as long as two years transferring from one base to another.

Lt. Moriconi met a Villanova alumnus, Joe Pezelski—halfback in 1942 and 1943, while returning to the States on an APA. Bill stated that his impression of Villanova has been very favorable, and he feels that his time here teaching Seamanship to the Navy students will be enjoyable. The Lieutenant is single and has no definite plans for the future.

Captain John L. Bricker, U.S.M.C. reported to Villanova January 9 to relieve Captain Toussaint as Officer in Charge of the Marine Detachment. Boone, Iowa, is the place of Captain Bricker's birth, the date being March 14, 1919. John moved to Minneapolis where he attended Washburn High School. While there he participated in many track events, running the mile and high hurdles.

The University of Minnesota was John's choice for higher education. He graduated from there with a B.S. in Economics. While at the University, the future Marine Corps Officer participated in the intramural sports, which included basketball, baseball and football. He also joined the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

Fought on Iwo

Captain Bricker's service began March 19, 1942 as a Pfc. in Officer Candidate School. He was commissioned June 13, 1942. His active service began at New River, North Carolina where the Tank Company felt the need for his presence. Here at Camp LeJeune John became the assistant R-3 of the 25th Regiment, Fourth Marine Division. In September 1943, he moved with his outfit to Camp Pendelton, Oceanside, California. In January of 1944 the Fourth Marine Division shoved off for overseas. Among the notable places that felt the strength of the Fourth Marine Division was Saipan and Iwo Jima. Captain Bricker returned to the states November 4, 1945. His first assignment since his return was Villanova.

"I heard of the Villanova foot-

NEW OFFICERS
Continued on Page Four

Successful Belle Air Ball Sets Standard for Post-War Dances

By DONALD M. COLLINS

The final chord crashed, the first couple swept away in a billow of silk, and the Belle Air Ball was a reality. For after many bitter years of war and separation, sparkle and gentility had returned to the campus. It was evident everywhere that the cruel dragons of fear had been cast down once more and now, with washing of hands, youth was returning to the business of being young.

The night itself was typical of mid-winter social functions. The crystalline black sky was in sympathy with the merciless cold and the wind was so fierce it seemed to be a live thing grasping and tearing any foolhardy human who challenged its domain.

But as the Field House was approached from the hundreds of cars which spotted its hinterland, frigidity lessened in the brilliance of the lobby lights and dissipated entirely with the warmth of good fellowship and Tony's fruitful hearth. The lobby itself so brimmed with fur and top hats that it resembled an ante room of the Metropolitan's Diamond Circle. The attendance was so large that the capacity of the wardrobe was exceeded and long queues demonstrated to what peacetime uses war learned skills could be applied.

At the door the tickets were received and after an unnecessary and vulgar hand stamp the ballroom itself was reached. The hard work of the dance committee was here manifested and the proud smiles of the men of Villanova mingled with the "Ah's" of their companions in a general and overwhelming stamp of approval. The stage crystallized the spirit of the Ball, bearing the great school seal in its frame of Royal Blue and pure white. With whatever black and mystic arts Tony and his boys employ, they transformed the severe and rudely functional lines common to Palestra into the soft and appealing contours of the Ballroom. Surmounting everything, the tremendous beige drapes floated as a cloud benignly smiling down on the happiness of youth. At the corners of these folds multi-colored variable beams played across the multitude, wrapping them in spectral warmth. At the center of the floor the bower of palm and poinsettia served as the hub about which played the dancers.

On the center line of the right side of the hall, Elliot Lawrence and his band held forth, framed in silver and enveloped in their own rythm.

Band Meets Expectations

Lawrence indeed proved his title as the up-and-coming orchestra leader. His gracious and tasteful orchestrations lent beauty and harmony to the graceful songs of yesteryear and to the modern but equally fine compositions. His orchestra featured novelties as well, and they were received with the same acclaim as his more serious music. One of the more spectacular feats was Lawrence's conducting the band from the stage at the side of his vocalist. One intermission was the only break in the constant and soothing flow of rhythm. This was admirably filled by the piano virtuosity of our own Lou DiGiacomo. Splicing boogie woogie with the more conventional harmonies, DiGiacomo achieved an effect which was proudly and gratefully received by the entire group.

Seniors Hold Grand March

The high point of the evening was the stately promenade of the Senior Class across the stage and down the twin stairs. They marched through the hall's center and skirted the balconies in an inspiring and orderly maneuver. At the first notes of the trumpet the Seniors swept their ladies into the graduate dance, Stardust. In like manner following this the Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen were in turn featured in their individual dances. One amusing incident occurred during the promenade when Mr. Carl Wolfe, Zamsky studio pho-

BELLE AIR BALL
Continued on Page Four

Phi Kappa Pi To Initiate Pledgees

President Joe Hoffman has just completed plans for the initiation of new members into the Phi Kappa Pi, engineering fraternity, and expects to have his committee put approximately fifty pledgees through vigorous paces.

This will take place in the Dynamo and Hydraulics lab in Mendel Hall Thursday night, and the ordeal will begin at 7:30 P. M., and is expected to be over by 9:45. The refreshment committee of Jim Murphy and Jim Brogan will provide the newly accepted members with plenty of food and drinks.

Hoffman and Steve Gasparovic have been working the past few weeks on some new and rare ideas which should keep everyone busy and provide plenty of fun and laughs.

There will be an important meeting in Room 202 Mendel at 1:00 P. M. All men who are pledged must attend this meeting in order to be accepted for initiation.

WILLIAM FRIEL WILL WED ON SATURDAY

This coming Saturday William F. Friel, 3d, '43, will marry Miss Marie Selfridge, of Philadelphia. Mr. Friel acted as Placement Director and Secretary of the Alumni Association during his senior year at Villanova.

Upon his graduation from the School of Commerce and Finance he went into the Army with the Supply Corps. He was discharged this month after extensive service in the Pacific.

The wedding will take place in the Church of the Transfiguration in Philadelphia at nine o'clock.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Robert Conway, '46 — Donald Sommer, '47
John P. Mallick, '48 — William Altenpohl, '47
Edward Minsavage, '47 — Donald M. Collins, '47
James Conaty, '48 — George O'Neill, '47
Edward A. Loughrey, '48 — John P. Murphy, '48
William B. Carey Jr., '46

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC — Richard Somers, '46
David Marano, NROTC — Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46 — Harold Varani, '46
Edward Keller, '47 — Thomas Heaps, NROTC
Benjamin Reist, NROTC — James Mackey, '46
Charles Cummings, NROTC — Carroll Andrews, NROTC

Photography Staff
Albert Derr, '46

Business Staff
William Wescott, '47 — J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Raymond Stone, '46 — Maurice Wilhere, '47
Roland Higgs, '47 — Peter McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47 — Thomas Donnelly, '48
Joseph A. Doughty, '48

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

L E O G O O D R E A U

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - JANUARY 22, 1946

Chaos Substituting for Cooperation

WHEN AMERICA was at war and vital materials were needed for our men overseas, labor and management, working hand in hand, turned out such unbelievable quotas of materials that it has been said that one of the deciding factors of the war was the United States' production front. Now that the cooperative spirit of war has ceased, labor and management have once again taken opposite sides of the production fence to bicker and quarrel over each new difference of opinion.

As there are two sides to every question, so are there two sides to this controversial subject. In the late nineteenth century, it is well known that the conditions under which labor worked were very poor and that when the unions came into existence, they did much to better these working conditions. However, having tasted of victory and craving for more, the unions have demanded so much for their members that they have reached such an extreme that in some cases they are striking for better conditions in places in which better conditions cannot be had.

However, the entire blame for these strikes cannot be placed upon the unions. For every case of the unions' unfairness to management there is another of management's oppression of labor. With the conclusion of the war and overtime wages, it is true that labor is hard pressed, as the cost of living has remained the same. It is here that the difficulty lies because management refuses to provide a better living wage.

The solution of this problem lies neither in labor nor in management. The solution lies in Congress who are the only ones who can formulate a law binding both labor and management. Until this step is taken constant bickering will continue on the industrial stage of America.

—D. S.

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

Mackey copies again. Ta ta da ta.

* * *

New Atom Smasher for Penn

The physics department of the University of Pennsylvania whose staff contributed to wartime developments in atomic physics and radar, is adding new laboratory equipment to extend its investigative and teaching work in those fields, it was announced recently.

A 200,000-volt particle accelerator, or atom smasher, is now under construction and, when completed, will probably be the only one of its kind devoted to undergraduate instruction, according to Dr. Park H. Miller, Jr., Assistant of physics and acting head of the department.

The new apparatus, which will employ the results of wartime radar developments, will be constructed as soon as surplus radar material becomes available.

—The Pennsylvanian

* * *

Japanese Psychology Survey

Dr. Krech, of the Swarthmore Psychology Department, a member of the Morale Division of the U. S. Bombing Survey, is in charge of the Planning Staff which is conducting a survey of the reactions of Japanese civilians to American bombings.

The purpose of the survey is to discover whether, to what degree, and in what ways, the bombings changed Japanese civilians' war morale during the war, altered their attitude toward the Americans. They also wish to discover the effect of final defeat on the

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Four

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

As the orchestra played its final number Villanova brought down the curtain on another successfully sponsored Belle Air Ball. The Ball was the first since pre-war days when grasshopper suits (tails) dominated. The Pennsylvania Blue Laws didn't seem to have any effect on the congregation. There were as many 'two-steppers" on the floor at 1:00 A.M. as there were at 11:00 P.M.

Eliott Lawrence's "Goodnight, Sweetheart" seemed to be the favorite number of the evening. It wasn't because it meant the end of a most enjoyable evening, but rather it put the boys in the mood. Why even Joe Hoffman mentioned that there was no better moment than then to make the proposal. We're wondering now if Joe took advantage of the situation. Did you, Joe?

The dance was a great success, thanks to all of you who attended. It even had its little laughs such as Mr. Wolff, the yearbook photographer, toppling over the fence into the floral centerpiece when he was trying to photograph the Grand March. That's a result of not having eyes in the back of your head.

After the dance it seemed as though the entire gathering moved from the Field House to Bill Altenpohl's where everyone prolonged the night of nights. Bill handled the situation wonderfully by entertaining nearly forty couples.

* * *

Highlights of the party:

Jim Humes, an old graduate, taking care of dispensing refreshments and seeing that all were warmly satisfied. Ed Keller complaining that he was stiff all night and blaming it on his shirt with the starched front, but maybe Jim knows different. John Burke entertaining other fellows' dates. Didn't he, Tony Caruso? Dave Ryan making himself the center of attraction by placing his chair in the middle of the floor. That was as good a way as any. Newt Ward telling Bill O'Niell a story after which no one could stop Bill from rolling in laughter, and we do mean roll. Don Collins not being his usual self, fixed himself a "mickey" and again we had another Fred Astaire minus his 69th St. setting. The only registered complaint was from John Fitzgibbons and that was because he didn't get his usual ride on a tricycle.

The Marines were holding their usual positions in the Grand March by bringing up the rear. They were led by that battle-scarred company-commander, Larry Bradley and followed by that streak of lightning, Burt Cox.

Lou DiGiacomo proved again that the Senior Class is well talented by rendering a boogie-woogie special during the first intermission.

Carl Ungaro did his best to get into the act by chasing Mr. Wolff around the hall. We hear that he did quite well by being photographed five or more times.

Much as we like to continue, we are compelled to bring this chatter to an end—thereby saving you all lots of embarrassing moments.

Fight Against Polio Has Begun

Having been a victim of Infantile Paralysis, the late President of the United States realized the need for a national institution which would aid financially in arresting the devastating effects of this malady. As founder of the institution, Franklin D. Roosevelt appealed to the public in general to give what he considered a small sum — one DIME. From this, the institution received its name "The March Of Dimes."

There are 140 million Americans; each contributing one dime, the annual donation from the American people reaches a minimum of $14,000,000,000.

There are approximately 750 students at Villanova College. There is also a box situated in front of the bulletin board in Mendel Hall labelled "The March Of Dimes." It will easily hold 750 dimes.

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

This week we really hit the jackpot. And speaking of jackpots, we are reminded of the general run of the characters up for discussion this week. John Robert Freytag—well, this, we think, is where the word "jack-pot" originated. Have you ever seen Jack's pot? It's not that he's fat, no, but Clarabella Zuntz, the nurse who was the first to see little Jackie on May 6, 1925 in Easton, Pa., said, "It's things like this that keep Robert Ripley in business!"

And so the story begins. Jack did everything he could think of to reduce. After Traillgreen Grammar School and Easton Junior High School, Frey beat himself into a frenzy in Easton Senior High by getting himself into the Student Council, Physics Club and the Hi-Y Club. As if that weren't enough, he tried football and baseball, but in vain. There just isn't any remedy.

M.E.

After graduating and convincing the Navy that he would make an awful lot of officer, Jack was sent to Swarthmore July 1, 1943. During his eight months at that institution, he, still hopeful, played football and intramurals and even joined the Phi Delta Fraternity, the heaviest member until that time weighing ninety-nine pounds.

March 1, 1944 was the date of Jack's arrival at Villanova. That date is very important in his life. Jack was so troubled about the Laws of Weights and Measures, mostly weights, he decided to study Mechanical Engineering. And so he made the grade by joining the A.S.M.E. The Senior dance committee has kept him stepping recently. He's the guy who got the idea about paying for the ticket and getting in at the door free or paying at the door and getting a box of tax free or. . .but he hasn't figured it out yet and as the gala affair has passed, we should worry. Jack is also noted for his gay and carefree outlooks on life, especially after a night at Post 214.

As to the future and women, complete chaos. Jack would like to take a little business administration and then take a little blonde. But as so many young things are throwing themselves at brother Frey, he is still looking as this goes to press.

E.E.

Now for that bundle of joy, Burton Lewis Price. See what we mean by characters. B.L., named after Burton Lewis Dribbledurff, inventor of the legless chair for people who like to sit on the floor, came around to Philadelphia on April 3, 1926. After the necessary instruction at home, such as learning to talk, etc., he was admitted to Harrity Grammar School, then Shaw Junior High, and finally West Philadelphia High School. The Science Club, Physics Club, Nautical Club, school plays, and—dig this—the Stamp Club, all kept Burt out of mischief and drove teachers to distraction. That Stamp Club has us worried. What else could they do but play you-know-what in a stamp club.

After being paroled in June of '42, Burt went to work for the Army and wound up at Villanova on July 1, 1943. How working for the Army would result in coming to Villanova we shall never find out. He started out as an E.E. and still is, so they tell us. After a few semesters he joined the Navy and became a resident student. At present he is chairman of the A.I.E.E. and a member of the Phi Kappa Pi.

And now for predictions of things to come. Ah, yes, there's good news for Burton tonight. He wants to go to work or go into business with his father or the usual third alternative, do anything that will pay well. He does want to take Architecture and then work at illumination, which should be most enlightening.

D.T.

Finally, we should like to try and squeeze in George Bacsik. This is really the opportunity of a lifetime. Imagine being able to give George B. C. Bacsik the once over. The B.C. stands not only for battalion commander, but also "bundles of calories." However, we shall revise our policy and give the interview just as we took it down.

Question: Born? Answer: Yes.

Question: Where? Answer: Where they make Fitch's.

Question: Why don't you take gas?

And so we referred to the book, "Who's Who in Kalameque, Ark." and got the facts. April 12, 1920 was the time in Baggaley, Pa., the place of the first act. Then Bayonne, N. J., the Lincoln Grammar and Bayonne High Schools filled another page or two. It also stated that intramural gymnastics and swimming put George in the fine physical shape he is in today. After loafing around a year he worked for General Motors in the shipping department until he joined the Navy on Jan. 4, 1942. It seems as though his father bought a Ford and he had to get away from it all.

Then, as the book said, after his boots, George boarded the U.S.S. Duncan for her shakedown and escorted the Battleship X to the Pacific. From March until his ship was sunk in November George roamed the Pacific. He returned to Philly on the U.S.S. Boise and was next assigned to the U.S.S. Shubert, another destroyer. It was while he was on this ship that George learned he was going into the V-12 program. The University of Drew provided the first eight months of hard labor for George, and then he came to Villanova. With tnat, we slammed the book and decided to do the rest ourselves.

Intramural softball, eating, swimming, eating, basketball, eating, Heading the A.S.M.E., The Senior dance committee and eating seem to occupy George's extra-curricular life. An interesting thing happened the other night, though. It seems that George wanted to check, shall we say, his petitness, so he nimbly stepped onto a scale and put his slug into the slot. The little white card popped out with the quaint fortune, "One at a time,

Continued on Page Four

Camp To Campus

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

Thoughts sent in by some of the boys still remind us of the grim reality of the recent war. Cpl. Ed Fanelli writes from Liege in Belgium that he recently visited the American Military Cemetery at Margraten, Holland, where he saw Bill Kelly's grave. Bill was killed a year ago in the Battle of the Bulge. Cpl. Joe Betz, writing from Okinawa, sent two snapshots of Lieut. John Bittig's grave. Joe said, "Gosh, I sure had a funny feeling seeing one of my best buddies there but that is the price we have to pay." These incidents remind us of a letter received some time ago from Norman Kordwitz. Norm visited the grave of another Villanovan, Bill McDonald, who was killed in Austria.

The brothers Bob and Bill Koness met recently in San Pedro, California. Captain Bob was returning after one and a half years in the Pacific with the U. S. Marines. It was the first time they had met in more than two years. News comes that Captain Francis J. McGarrity, '38, has been in the Army Medical Corps for three and a half years, is now in Japan and expects to be home and discharged early this year. Thomas F. Hitchell S1/c S. P. (D) is recovering from an appendectomy at the Naval Air Station on Whitbey Island in Washington State. Another Washington man, Sgt. Ed Gregory is now the Chaplain's assistant at McChord Field near Tacoma, in that state. Thomas D. McQuade, recently discharged from the Navy, announced his marriage, good luck you brave man.

Highlights of the week were the many outstanding Villanova men now wearing the uniform of Uncle Sam who were seen at the dance on Saturday night. Representing the Navy were: S1/C Bill Pease from Ledo Beach in New York, Jack Heilmann S1/C and Dannie Fleisher S1/C both from down in Bainbridge, Maryland. Representing the Army were: Captain Tom McKimmey, on terminal leave, Pvt. John

CAMP TO CAMPUS
Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Villanova Wins Handily From England Hospital

Lord Scores 24, Doherty 21, As Home Team Makes Highest Score Of Season. Atlantic City Team Weak In Reserves

By JIM McNAMARA

In the more encouraging half of the week's home stand basketball festivities the Wildcats romped to a one-sided victory as they outplayed and outscored England General Hospital to the tune of 75-40. The visitors lacked the polish and confidence of a winning combination and their loose defense coupled with a haphazard attack didn't contribute much to the color of the game and at no time presented much of a threat.

There was no ceiling on laughs however because Lombardi, the invaders' forward, when he wasn't flat on his back or trying to referee the game, would acknowledge the crowd's plea for a score and oblige by shooting from half court (the ball usually landed in the vicinity of the foul circle.)

Big Lead at Quarter

Swede Swiderski, center of the Atlantic City team, scored on a pivot shot the first time the Medics came down the floor. Joe Lord made good on one try from the foul line and added two more on a set shot. Don Erikson tallied on a one handed push going away to move the Medics into the lead once again, 4-3. Lord, finding the lid off the basket, pumped a long one and paved the way for a rally. Hannan scored two and Lord five more in quick order. Clark slipped in a sleeper and Swiderski hit again from the pivot to reduce the Wildcat lead to 12-8. It was Hannan again for two and Doherty for four before Clark could add a free throw to complete the foreigners bid in the first quarter . Don Robertson rang up a charity to assume the comfortable quarter time lead of 19-9.

The shore team refused to take advantage of a whistle-tooting referee's bonuses as they denied themselves 9 out of 10 charity tries during the second 10 minute stretch. This poor showing from the plaintiff's circle cost the medics a chance to close the gap, since Villanova only scored 12 points this second period. Freshman Bill Doherty fired two long angle shots that found their mark. Hannan followed with two to make it 25 for the home team before Clark scored on a lay-up after he recovered a loose ball. Clark and Sloan added five more between them to shoulder what was left of the enemy's punch.

Robbie Robertson took a pass down the middle from Lord and laid it up for number 27. Two foul shots by Robbie and a double-decker by Doherty brought the half time nod to Villanova 31-16. The Villanova team's passing highlighted the action, with a fair share of the credit going to Bill Burr, a great team player, who consistently set up scores.

Medics "Shot Happy"

The Wildcats continued to roll on after the twenty minute break,

VILLANOVA WINS
Continued on Page Four

Medics Smother Wildcats, 66-42

Davis, Niemera Lead Valley Forge To Victory In Postponed Game

By JIM McNAMARA

The star-studded Medics from Valley Forge added another scalp to their collection last Monday night when they trounced our Wildcats 66-42 at the Field House. The Medics, on the rebound after their loss to Temple, exploded with all the finesse and precise shot-making that advance notices warranted. With Bill Davis, ex-Notre Dame star, operating the pivot and his teammates alternating with a weave and fast break the Army team poured it on in a free scoring game.

Ed Reybitz initiated the evening's free for all when he scored on a left handed pivot after 20 seconds. Harley Graf, the cool and undaunted mechanical floor man of the invaders, dropped a foul toss, and when Johnny Niemiera, another South Bender, added a lay-up following Bill Burr's bonus from the foul line, the score was tied at 3-3. Joe Lord dumped a long one to regain the lead for Villanova for the second and last time. It was Aaron Tanitsky, the pride and joy of the University of Pennsylvania, who deadlocked the score on a lay-up.

Take Early Lead

Davis denied his rights on "basket hanging" in the pivot slot and came outside to drop a set and settle the issue save for the formality of playing the remainder of the forty minutes. Craddock, Niemiera, and Davis pulled away and at the 10 minute mark their team was in the van 17 to 10. It wasn't Joe Lord's fault that Valley Forge increased their lead during the second quarter because he scored 8 of the 10 points credited to the Cats in this frame. "Toad" Hannan hit the cords from the sidelines to account for the other basket. Tanitsky, Davis, and Schwille carried the brunt of the visitors' attack in tally 4 points apiece to enable the Medics to bring a 34-17

MEDICS SMOTHER
Continued on Page Four

Manhattan Wins, 57-47, With Last Half Rally

By HENRY WARD

The deadeye shooting of center Jack Byrnes gave Manhattan College a 57-47 victory over Villanova Saturday night on the victor's court. Scoring 12 points in the second half, Byrnes gave Manhattan the edge after an exciting first half in which the lead changed hands eight times.

Joe Hannan gave Villanova an early lead by scoring three points in the first minute of play but baskets by Bob Kelley, Byrnes and Charlie Verschuuren and a foul shot by Byrnes put Manhattan four points ahead at the end of four minutes. After that the pace quickened with both teams shooting freely. Forward Johnny Hughes scored four points in a row for Manhattan to put his team ahead 22-17 with six minutes remaining in the half.

Manhattan Leads at Half

Their lead was shortlived as Bill Burr and Joe Lord began to find the range and close the gap. Don Robertson sank a lay-up and a foul shot to tie the score at 27-all, but again Byrnes broke away from his man to score, giving Manhattan a 29-27 edge at half-time.

Midway through the third period Villanova still trailed by two points when Byrnes and Verschuuren scored four points apiece to put Manhattan ahead by the comfortable margin of ten points. Lord's six points in the next five minutes were not enough as Villanova could come no closer than five points in the final minutes. Ed Reybitz's foul shot with 30 seconds remaining completed the scoring for the night.

Byrnes Scores 19

Throughout the game the floor play of Burr and Bill Doherty kept Villanova in the fight. Joe Brehmer and "Robbie" Robertson each had to leave the game in the final period after accumulating five personal fouls. Joe Lord and Joe Hannan led the Villanova scoring with 15 and 12 points respectively. Byrnes scored 19 for the winners, followed by Kelley and Hughes with 12 points each.

Mariners Invade For Second Game

Tomorrow evening Villanova will play host to the United States Merchant Marine Academy basketball team from Kings Point, Long Island. In the previous meeting between these teams the Sailors came from behind in the closing minutes to win 43-38.

The Kings Pointers gained the decision on the spectacular shooting of Bill Faris who scored twenty points, sixteen of them in the second half. Bill Zagelmeier contributed eleven points toward the victory. His shooting in the first half kept his team within striking distance of the locals.

Si Taflan is another Mariner who will bear watching in tomorrow's game.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Romeo Capriotti, star halfback of last season's football team, was recently named to a first team spot on the All-Veteran All-American Football team. "Cap" was also named to the All-Catholic All-American team. Leading scorer of the Wildcat eleven, Capriotti was winner of the Maxwell Player of the Week Award for his play in the Villanova-Marquette game last October. He made the lone score in the 6-0 contest.

Colgate, Syracuse To Be Met This Weekend

Two New York Teams Have Fine Records This Season, Colgate Upset Victor Over Strong Army Quintet Recently

By DAN REDMOND

Coach Al Severance's Wildcats take to the road once again next Friday, January 25th, when they begin a two day excursion into New York state to meet two of the East's top ranking fives on successive nights. First they will journey to Hamilton, New York, where they will encounter once-beaten Colgate on Friday night. This will be the second meeting between the two schools, the Red Raiders having been victorious in 1942 by a 51-40 score. Following this game they will depart for Syracuse to meet that city's collegiate court representatives for the first time.

In tackling these two teams, the Wildcats have a task that wouldn't be appreciated by even the best team in the nation. Colgate holds a record of seven wins against one reversal. This one loss was suffered at the hands of N.Y.U. in a 45-43 game. The Violet tied the score with only ten seconds remaining and went on to win in an overtime session. Outstanding in the win column is their surprisingly easy 70-46 victory over Army last Saturday. Coach Karl Lawrence's charges built up a 29-20 half-time lead and during the second half easily lengthened it, as the Cadets proved no match for the young but capable Red Raiders. Ernie Vandewghe tabbed seven field goals and was faultless at the foul line, sinking eight straight for 22 points and high scoring honors. Carl Braun, 6 foot 5 in. center also notched seven field goals but he added only two charity heaves for a sixteen point total.

Experience Meaningless

In this game the team proved that inexperience, the only factor that could possibly prohibit them from enjoying a successful season, can be forgotten about. Their shooting and height, (the starting five's heights range from 6' 1" to 6' 5") together with the experience that they will garner from each additional game, should make them a team to be feared by the best. With service veteran Jack Sullivan as a leader and steadying force for the other two starters, Adrian Avery and Bob Plunkett, the Raiders have a quintet that seems to lose all semblances of inexperience when it takes the court.

After bidding farewell to Hamilton, the Cats will be entertained (?) by Syracuse's unbeaten (at this writing) basketball team. The Orange has rolled to nine straight wins, including an impressive 52-43 triumph over high-ranking St. John's last week. The key to this, and probably most, of their successes is six foot-ten inch John Budka who held Harry Boykoff, St. John's ace, to one field goal and a total of six points. With the presence of a man such as this on the court, hopes for more than one shot at the hoop are rather low, so the Wildcats' shots will have to be few but accurate if they are to meet with any measure of success.

Syracuse's streak will be imperiled a few times before they meet the Wildcats, especially in their meeting with ever-dangerous Temple, but regardless of what may happen in that week, Villanova can be assured that it will be stacking up against one of the strongest, if not the strongest, teams on its schedule.

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS

By courtsey of the United States Navy we present Donald Robertson.

Don comes from the small north Jersey community of East Orange. His only athletic activity in High School was basketball, two years on the varsity and one on the jayvees.

Prior to his enlistment in March, 1943, Don worked for eight months after his graduation. He took boot training at Newport, Rhode Island, which was followed by four months in Electrican's Mate School at the same base.

Served at Brooklyn Yard

October found Robby at the Brooklyn Navy Yard where he had two months in Motion Picture School. He left there with C.T.F. 24 and saw eight months service in the North Atlantic theater.

Don signed over into the V-12 program in September, 1944, and was assigned to Asbury Park for a two month refresher course. In November he was assigned to the unit at Ursinus College. While there Robby played football and baseball. When that unit closed in November of last year, he was transferred to Villanova.

Ausmen Win First Half Champ'nship

Win Three Games In Closing Week. Sonner, Agnew Lead First Half Scorers

By DAVID MARANO

This week brought the first half of the intra-mural league to a close with the Ausmen emerging as champions. By chalking up three decisive wins in as many nights, while their closest rival, Fedigan, was dropping two, the Ausmen took undisputed possession of first place.

On Wednesday night, after suffering their second loss of the season the Fediganites were faced with the tough proposition of defeating a strong Ausmen outfit in order to keep a mathematical chance for the title. Even this inspiration was not enough to stem the wave of field goals the Ausmen threw their way. The result was a new high in individual team scoring and total score. The Ausmen wound up on the heavy end of a 61-32 score. Bert Agnew was high man with 17 points, while White Sonner was a close second with 16.

V-5ers Helps Ausmen

The addition of two new faces seemed to inject an extra spark into an already fired team. Rivard and Nicholson, a couple of V-5 trainees from Mendel Hall, aside from scoring 17 points between them, time and again were instrumental in setting up tricky scoring plays.

At the conclusion of Wednesday's game it was announced by Father Girolami that the league would be expanded to include six teams during the second half. Finally succumbing to their incessant pleas, Fathers Girolami and Kemme have decided to admit the day students. With a six team league, the schedule will be amended to include two games preliminary to the varsity on Wednesday nights.

Sonner Leads Scorers

The results of the other games this week are as follows: Monday night the Marines found revenge on Fedigan to a 20-14 score, while in the windup, the Ausmen downed Alumni, 44-35. Tuesday the Ausmen took another from the Marines, 39-34, after which Alumni beat the Doms 21-18. Wednesday, in the first half windup, it was again the Ausmen, this time 61-32 over Fedigan.

Final statistics showed White Soner, Ausmen, as leading scorer with 119 points, Bert Agnew, Ausmen, second with 103 points, and Jackman, Marines, third with 56 points.

Final Standings

	W.	L.	Pct.
Ausmen	10	1	.909
Fedigan	7	3	.700
Alumni	3	7	.300
Doms	2	6	.250
Marines	2	7	.222

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE
Longines

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

please!" Or do you listen to Pick and Pat too.

George yearns to return to General Motors as a tool design engineer. He also plans to marry Anne upon graduation. We feel sure that Anne will be waiting, but G.M. isn't doing too much business, is it?

An so we come to the end of another edition. Any resemblance to anyone living or dead, well they have our condolences. So we remain yours truly,

C.D. & C.A.

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

political, economic, and cultural attitudes of the Japanese.

The procedure used in the survey is the same as that developed in Germany. Interviews held with 8500 Japanese civilians, both men and women, between the ages of sixteen and seventy. Those interviewed were chosen at random from all over the country, the interviewers even penetrating areas to which no occupation troops had had access.

—The Phoenix

• • •

A scholarship in honor of a soldier killed on Luzon has been established at Lafayette College by the boy's parents, with the provision that a Japanese student be given first consideration for the award.

The parents explained that their son, a former Lafayette student, was internationally minded and deeply sympathetic with peoples of other nations and believed that the causes of most wars should be removed if a better understanding could be achieved.

The terms of the scholarship provide that if a Japanese student is not a candidate, it is to be awarded to a Chinese, Korean, Filipino, or other member of the yellow race, or to a member of the white race, whose intention is to serve as a missionary to the Orient.

Temple University News

• • •

Smoke?
No.
Drink?
Naw.
D'ye eat hay?
Nope.
Gosh, woman, yoo ain't a fit companion for man or beast.

—The Capstan

• • •

The attraction between studying and not studying is proportional to the mass of the student's bed and the mass of his bloodshot eyes, and inversely proportional to the square of the distance between the dinner table and the upstairs desk.

—Temple University News

• • •

Albright College Gets $150,000

Albright's benefactor made her most recent gift to the College about a year ago when she pledged $150,000 for the purpose of a new chapel-auditorium. The gift was made in the form of a bequest in Mrs. Pfeiffer's will. Construction of the building will begin as soon as materials are available.

Mrs. Pfeiffer's contributions to Albright have totaled $750,000. Her philanthropic interests extended to twelve colleges of various denominations, both in this country and in China.

Mrs. Pfeiffer's first connection with Albright was in 1937 when she, with her husband, the late Henry Pfeiffer, contributed $250,000; to which an equal amount was added by the Evangelical Church. These contributions made possible the debt liquidation program of the school.

—The Albrightian

• • •

From a Springfield paper: MAN TAKES FIRST BATH IN 80 YEARS: SAYS NEVER AGAIN . . . hope he used Lifebuoy. New York: DECK POKER BAN SPOILS TRIP FOR RETURNING GI's . . . look like papa doesn't get his new pair of shoes. FUND SEEKER FINED $25 FOR STORK CLUB DETOUR: Here to Ask Grandmother for Money, He Didn't Pay Check . . . and Grandma still loves the boy. Washington contributes a new angle on racial prejudice with: NEGRO PROTESTS DISCRIMINATION AGAINST WHITE AT DANCE. Worcester: SPORTS BULLETIN: NO SKATING, NO SKIING . . . no snow either.

—The Tomahawk

• • •

Well all good things must come to an end. But then again you can always look forward to next week and the best exchange columnist on the Villanovan staff. — Jas. T. Mackey.

D.P.E. Meets

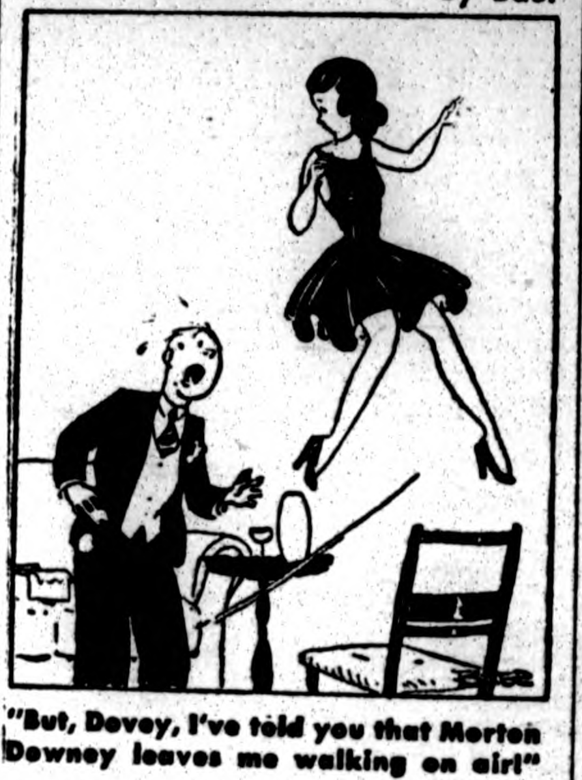
Approximately fifteen Commerce and Finance students submitted their applications as pledgees for admission to the Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity at a meeting of the organization last Thursday. Robert J. Conway, president of the D.P.E., addressed the pledgees and discussed the rules and regulations governing the body under the recently adopted new constitution.

Mr. Conway gave notice that no new applications from would-be D.P.E. members would be accepted after January 25 which is the deadline. Plans for the fraternity dinner-dance scheduled for Feb. 16 at the Adelphia Hotel in Philadelphia are rapidly taking shape.

The president announced that an important meeting of fraternity will be held on Tuesday, January 22, in Room 213, Mendel Hall. At that time further plans and arrangements for the formal dinner-dance and the Dues Laws of the new constitution adopted at the last meeting, will be among the topics for discussion.

The dinner-dance committee members are requesting that a former D.P.E. members now on the college grounds attend the meeting on Tuesday.

QUIC" TAKES By Baer



"But, Dovey, I've told you that Morton Downey leaves me walking on air!"

Villanova Wins

Continued From Page Three

and soon it was no contest at all. Lord had eight points and Doherty six, to lead the locals in this frame. A completely disorganized Medic team went "shot happy" and the execution of any plays lost all semblance of team work. The gap widened to 49-23 at the three quarter mark. Gonglefski and Reybitz looked pretty smooth in the passing roles of pivot men.

The Wildcats for the second time last week finished strong, showing much improvement over their early season habit of blowing substantial leads to better conditioned clubs in the last few minutes. Twenty six points in this quarter brought the total to 75 as against 40 for the Medics.

The high scorers for the night were Lord with 24 and Doherty with 21. Swiderski and Clark had 13 apiece for the losers.

Medics Smother

Continued From Page Three

lead to the locker room with them at the intermission.

Two goals from the floor, a set shot by Hannan and a lay-up by Robertson and five successful foul shots were all that Villanova could claim during the third quarter. Valley Forge, handicapped only to the extent of having to decide whose turn it was to score, added 18 more to compile a thirty-minute mark total of 52 points. It was during this spree that high-scoring Niemiera pushed in 9 points, making most of them on fast cuts after slip passes from the pivot.

'Cats Rally at Finish

"To save the best for the last" is a laconic expression that certainly epitomizes the situation. In this final session Villanova traded basket for basket and meeting the opposition on their own terms of a fast break, even outclassed the Medics with sure fire passing and team work. The final read 66-42 as Villanova became one of many on the formidable list of Valley Forge victims.

Niemiera's 19 points topped the point-making department, followed by Joe Lord, now familiar with his none too novel role of leading the Wildcat scorers, who had 15. Reybitz, Robertson, and Hannan had 8, 7 and 5 respectively. It was the third game of the series and the Medic's aggregate total of 188 points supplies the answer to why they were top dollar in all three.

Belle Air Ball

Continued From Page One

tographer, on official business for the year book backed up to get the correct range for a picture. He back stepped into the center piece and tripped over the rail, falling into the shrubbery and emerging from the fronds like Adam from his Eden.

Photographs of the individual couples were taken in one of the side wells, and proud escorts led their dates within camera range so that the night and its memories might be perpetuated.

Peace at Last

But somewhere in the hangings or perhaps in the nooks under the balconies, there was an atmosphere of peace and its blessings. The more tangible evidences were the predominance of evening coats over military brass, but the spirit of the night was more evident than anything the eye could discern. This was postwar and it breathed a spirit that had not been felt in many years. For now the war that all had known was about to be and then was so valiantly fought was over and placidity in the correct sense was the reward.

Camp To Campus

Continued From Page Two

Peshina from Indiantown Gap. Lieut. Jim McElliot was up to the Valley Forge Spectacle on Monday last. He is now stationed at the Philadelphia Navy Base, living at the Hotel Walnut Park Plaza. Some life this Navy. S/Sgt. Bob Donovan stopped in for a visit and informed us that he is in the finance department, stationed at Elgin Field in Florida.

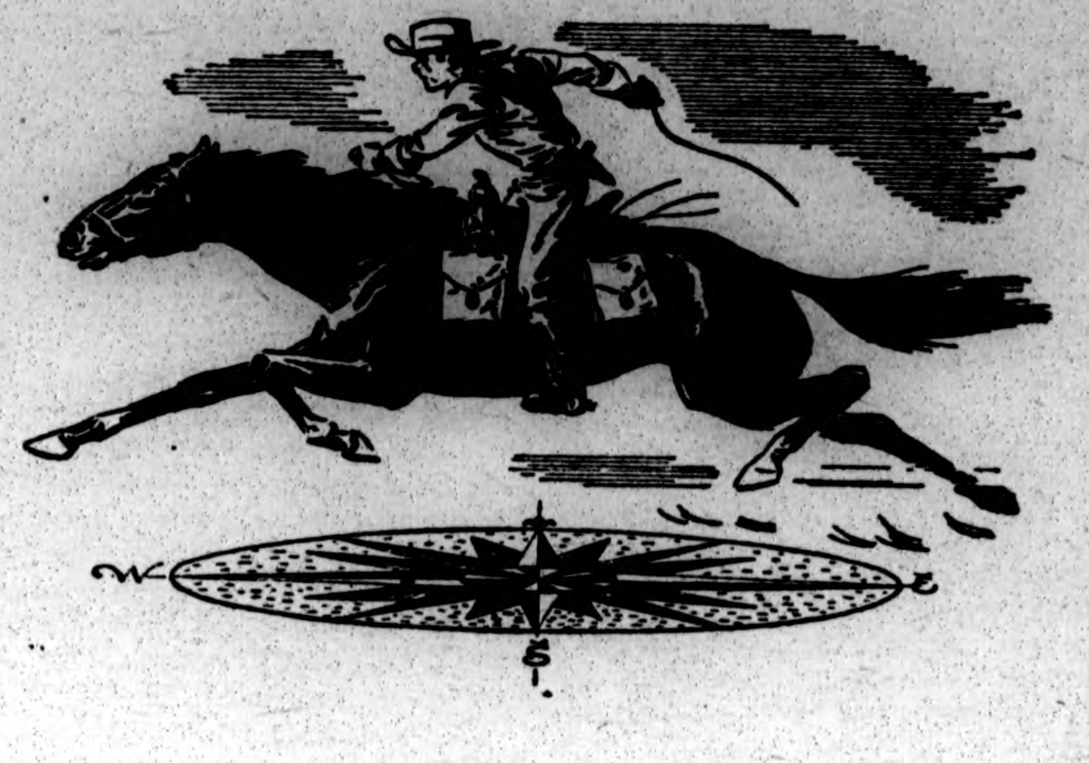
New Officers

Continued From Page One

ball team" said the Captain, "but I had never been in Pennsylvania." Captain Bricker feels that his stay at Villanova will meet with his high expectations. The Captain is married; he has not decided into which field he will enter upon his return to civilian life.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

JOURNEYS WEST



It is not always possible to put through Long Distance calls to the far West without delay. A major reason is returning veterans and their desire to call home. Sometimes, too, lines to the deep South are overcrowded . . . for the same good reason.

But we're putting in more circuits—thousands of miles of them—as fast as we can, and we hope it won't be much longer before we're back to pre-war standards of service.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

The Campus
Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

ICE Aristocrat CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Vol. 20—No. 22 N. A. A. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JANUARY 29, 1946

Admiral Draemel Inspects Villanova Navy Students

Honorary Alumnus Of Villanova, The Commandant Of The Fourth Naval District, Makes Annual Inspection And Delivers Encouraging Talk

The Villanova faculty and authorities of the Naval Unit welcomed aboard the Commandant of the Fourth Naval District, Rear Admiral M. F. Draemel, USN, last Wednesday. The occasion of the Admiral's visit was the annual inspection of the Naval Unit.

Rear Admiral Draemel is an honorary alumnus of Villanova, having been awarded a Doctor of Laws on the occasion of Villanova's centennial in 1943.

Accompanying the Admiral on his inspection tour were: Captain W. L. Beck, U.S.N., Chief of Staff and Aide to Admiral Draemel, Captain H. R. Stevens, U.S.N., District Director of Training, and Commander J. K. Fyfe, U.S.N., Aide to the Admiral.

The inspecting party was welcomed by the President of the College, Rev. Francis X. McGuire, O.S.A. An inspection was then made of all the buildings occupied by Naval personnel, which include Mendel, Austin and Fedigan Halls. The inspecting party, together with Father McGuire and Father Dwyer, lunched in the College Cafeteria.

NROTC Sport New Uniforms

At 1:20 P. M. all Navy personnel assembled in the Field House for inspection. The Admiral and his party first inspected the Officers, who were individually introduced to the Admiral by Captain Thomas C. Thomas, U.S.N., Commanding Officer of the Villanova Naval Unit. The inspection of the enlisted men of the Ship's Company was followed by the inspection of the Navy and Marine trainees. This was the first occasion wherein all the NROTC men have been able to sport their new uniforms. The Admiral made several complimentary remarks on the performance of the Navy Band, which supplied appropriate music for the inspection.

Trainees Must Recognize Responsibility

Admiral Draemel spoke to the trainees for a few minutes during the formation in the Field House. Congratulations on the excellent appearance of the Unit were the first words that the Admiral expressed. He impressed on the trainees the opportunity which lay before them both as students and as future Officers of the Navy. More important, though, was the recognition of their responsibility as future officers. The Admiral added that from what he had seen during his inspection, he was sure that the future of the Navy was in good hands if these men were representative of the Navy's future officers.

After the inspection a tour was conducted through the Mess Hall, and the Admiral returned to the Navy Base in Philadelphia.

Could Not Have Gone Better

Captain Thomas expressed his complete satisfaction with the appearance of the Navy dormitories and the Naval personnel, and added that a letter concerning the inspection would be forthcoming from the Admiral. The inspection "could not have gone better," stated the Commanding Officer.

Memory Of Mrs. Morrell Honored By High Mass

Catholic Interracial Groups of the Philadelphia area joined with a host of friends in offering a Requiem High Mass in memory of the late Mrs. L. B. Drexel Morrell at St. Michael's Chapel, Shrine of the True Cross, in Torresdale on Saturday last.

The Catholic Intercollegiate Interracial Council was represented from Villanova by Russell L. Welsh, Managing Editor of the Villanovan.

Mrs. Morrell, a daughter of the famous Drexel family and sister of the Rev. Mother M. Katharine Drexel, spent her vast fortune in aiding the underprivileged of our country, especially the Negroes and Indians.

Spanish Club Presents Play

"Las Penasquitas" Written And Directed By Father Lorenzo Lozano

The regular monthly meeting of the Spanish Club last Thursday night was highlighted by a short Spanish play "Las Penasquitas" presented by student-members of the club in the Commerce and Finance School auditorium. A large turnout of the organization witnessed the skit, written and directed by Fr. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A., moderator of the club, who expressed satisfaction at the performance of the members of the play's cast.

Those who took part in the skit included Frank Murray, Jack Quinn, Robert Reilly, Russell Hittinger and Donald Boos. The first Social function of the Spanish Club since 1942 will be held on Thursday night, Feb. 14. The Villanova organization will act as host to the Spanish clubs of surrounding girls' colleges at a party to be held in the C.&F. auditorium. Spanish music will be featured and entertainment will be provided by the college Spanish Club.

Father Lozano requested the attendance of the club members of music rehearsals Monday through Friday from 1 to 1:30 P. M. this week in the C.&F. auditorium. Popular Spanish songs will be rehearsed in preparation for the club's social function next month.

DPE Pledges 20

New Members Accepted Into Commerce And Finance Fraternity

Twenty pledgees were accepted and greeted as new members into the Delta Pi Epsilon, Commerce and Finance School fraternity, at a meeting of the organization last Tuesday. Robert J. Conway, president of the fraternity, familiarized the new members with general aims of the organization.

He emphasized to both new and old members that the primary aim and hope of the D.P.E. is to obtain a fraternity "house" and to gain recognition for the organization as a member of the national college fraternities. Plans and arrangements for the D.P.E. Dinner-Dance neared completion at the meeting with the appointment of Gerald De Muro, vice-president, to work out transportation problems.

Mr. Conway also announced that an important meeting will be held today in Room 213, Mendel Hall at 1 P. M. to work out final arrangements for next month's social function. Today will be the deadline for payment of dues by delinquent members, and failure to do so will mean suspension from the fraternity.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING

A very important meeting of the Student Council will be held next Thursday at 1:00 P. M. in Room 210. It is imperative that all members be present and on time. Any member who is absent will place himself in a position to be dropped from the organization.

Father O'Callahan Receives Nation's Highest Award

The First Chaplain In The History Of This Country Receives The Congressional Medal Of Honor From President Truman

By DON COLLINS

The Congressional Medal of Honor, that badge of outstanding heroism and devotion above and beyond the call of duty, was awarded last Wednesday to Navy Catholic Chaplain Commander Joseph T. O'Callahan, S.J. Fr. O'Callahan was not only the first priest, but also the first chaplain in our country's history to receive the badge of valour, the nation's highest tribute.

In receiving the medal from President Truman, Father O'Callahan symbolized the honor due all those great "Padres," living and dead, who offered, under the most hazardous conditions, physical and spiritual aid to the fighting men of all faiths. Their's was the task of bringing God into the violent plain of hate; their's the duty to face the whine of bullets and the flare of flame with the courage of faith, with the hand of Christ, with the word of peace; their's was the role of brave men.

Mastered the Situation

But Father O'Callahan was not only a symbol; for his exploits on the carrier "Franklin" in the sea off Kobe, Japan, formed one of the most valiant chapters in our history of Heroism. Resourceful even in death's red glare, Father O'Callahan aided the wounded, ministered to the dying and fought fires and explosions which twisted and blistered the steel bulwarks of that great craft.

Even the stern simplicity of the Navy's citation could not lessen the stark naked courage with which Father O'Callahan faced the holocaust.

"When," the Navy's account read, "the carrier was turned into a floating inferno by the aerial bomb and explosion of her own ready ammunition and bombs, Chaplain O'Callahan left his battle station on the island bridge to go to the blazing flight deck.

Led the Fire-Fighting Crew

"There he ministered to the wounded and dying of all faiths, organized and led fire-fighting crews, braved already burning ammunition magazines to wet them down, jettisoned live ammunition and manned a hose to cool hot bombs rolling dangerously on the listing deck. Though wounded in action, he continued his life-saving

FR. O'CALLAHAN Continued on Page Four

A.S.M.E. Nominations Were Voiced At Last Meeting

Last Tuesday afternoon, the Villanova Chapter of the A.S.M.E. held its regular meeting to broach the subject of officer nominations for the scheduled elections. Named for the Chairman spot were P. H. Christenson and R. W. Richardson; S. J. Gosparovic, J. Beals and B. L. Poppert received the nod as Vice-Chairmen; and J. Schneider, C. G. Fritz and J. Megna will be balloted for the Secretary-Treasurer post.

The smoker to be held in early February was also discussed at the meeting. A noted speaker has been chosen to attend and a motion picture of special interest to the "Mechs" will be presented. C. D. Cummings and J. R. Murphy are in charge of the entertainment, while B. L. Poppert, J. A. Palley and C. G. Schneider, under their committee chairman, J. N. Hartwell, will undertake the procurement of refreshments for the night.

The meeting closed with a motion to extend membership to first year M.E.'s This is a great opportunity for freshmen to become participants in this broad and influential organization.

Three Day Retreat To Commence This Monday

Father Francis Fenton, Prior Of The Augustinian Community Of St. Rita In Chicago Will Conduct The Retreat

In a circular letter to all students of Villanova, Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O.S.A., the Chaplain of the school, announced the coming of Villanova's One Hundred and Third Annual Retreat. The Retreat, to be conducted by Rev. Francis Fenton, O.S.A., will begin on Mondayy, Feb. 4th at 7:45 A. M. with a Mass and conference in the Chapel and end at noon on the following Thursday with Solemn Benediction and the final sermon.

The Retreat will consist of two sessions each day with Mass and a conference in the morning and Benediction and a conference in the afternoon. During the course of the Retreat Confessions will be heard during Mass and after Benediction. Father Fenton, upon request, will be available for private audiences at any time during the three days.

SPIRITUAL EXERCISES FOR RESIDENTS
(Mon. through Thurs.)
7:00 A. M. — Holy Mass and Conference.
6:45 P. M. — Conference and Benediction.

SPIRITUAL EXERCISES FOR NON-RESIDENTS
(Mon. through Thurs.)
7:45 A. M. — Holy Mass and Conference.
1:00 P. M. — Conference and Benediction.

Educated at Villanova

The Masses during the Retreat will be offered for the following purposes: on Monday, for the deceased members of the Faculty; on Tuesday, for the parents, living and deceased, of the Students; on Wednesday, for the intentions of the Students; and on Thursday the Mass will be offered for all Villanova's war casualties.

Rev. Francis Fenton, the conductor of the Retreat, is returning to Villanova after an absence of fifteen years. Educated here and a member of the class of 1930, Father Fenton traveled to Germany where he continued his studies at the University of Wurzburg. After completing his education, he returned to America and became the Professor of German at St. Rita's High School in Chicago, Ill. Father Fenton is currently a member of the Mission Band, National Chaplain of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and Prior of the Augustinian Community of St. Rita.

Rev. Francis Fenton, O.S.A.

Classes Will Not Be Called Off

During the course of his letter to the students, Father Grimes also stated: "Many of the students now on the campus are making a transition from camp life and life on the field of battle to life in the classroom. Such transition brings about a change in our habits of life and there is need for proper direction. This transition to be effective cannot be haphazard. There is need for skillful planning and

RETREAT Continued on Page Four

UNO Committee To Meet In Phila.

Villanova Represented By Don Collins At Intercultural Meeting Last Saturday

Villanova College was represented at a meeting of the Intercultural Committee of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia last Saturday by Donald M. Collins, '48.

The discussion held at last week's meeting was concerned with the control of the Atomic Bomb. The guest speaker was Earl G. Harrison, Dean of the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania, and Vice-Chairman of the Intercultural Committee. The Chairman of the Intercultural Committee is Miss Sophia Yarnall Jacobs of Bryn Mawr.

Plan Villanova Organization

Don Collins is planning to organize a unit of the Intercultural Committee here at Villanova. Don has expressed the necessity for workers in this field, "as an army of fighters was needed after Pearl Harbor, so too an army of workers is needed now to establish firmly Democracy in the United States as well as in all the world. If we are to turn the triumph of our armed forces into a true victory," he added, "we must take up the battle cry, 'Freedom of all men everywhere—regardless of race, creed or nationality'."

Plans Completed For Staff Dance

Final arrangements for the dinner-dance to be held for present and former Villanovan staff members were completed early this week.

Editor D. I. Ryan and arrangement committee chairman D. M. Collins contracted the use of the Covered Wagon Inn, Strafford, Pa., for February fifth and all the details have been straightened out.

The Villanovan will bear part of the cost of the affair bringing the price down to $5.00 a couple. All men eligible to attend are requested to sign upon the Bulletin board in the Villanovan office as soon as possible.

This is the first dinner-dance sponsored by the staff since January of 1942 and is a welcome milestone on the road back.

A Villanova alumnus and current journalist will be a guest of the staff and will speak on the place of the College publication in the modern world.

AIEE Students Take Trip To New York

Under the direction of Professors Emil Amelotti and Harry Bueche, a group of seven Electrical Engineering students attended some informative lectures in New York City.

These lectures were given at the Winter Technological Convention, which was held in the Engineering Club at 33 West 39th Street. One of the outstanding exhibits was the one on Radar Technique.

Some of the men visited the Institute of Radio Engineers at the Hotel Astor.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Robert Conway, '46 — Donald J. Sommer, '48
John P. Mallick, '48 — William Altenpohl, '47
Edward Minsavage, '47 — Donald M. Collins, '47
James Conaty, '48 — George O'Neill, '47
Edward A. Loughrey, '48 — John P. Murphy, '48
William B. Carey Jr., '46 — William Carey, '46

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC — Richard Somers, '46
David Marano, NROTC — Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46 — Harold Varani, '46
Edward Keller, '47 — James Mackey, '46
Charles Cummings, U.S.N.R. — Carroll Andrews, U.S.N.R.

Photography Staff
Albert Derr, '46

Business Staff
William Wescott, '47 — J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Roland Higgs, '47 — Peter McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
L E O G O O D R E A U

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 17, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - JANUARY 29, 1946

"To Clothe The Naked"

COLLEGE students played a noteworthy party in last Spring's nation-wide clothing drive for overseas relief. Campus collections and students canvassing of off-campus areas produced tons of used clothing. The chores that students handled in collection centers and sorting rooms speeded the contributions overseas for UNRRA distribution to war victims.

Although 25,000,000 destitute people were clothed as a result of the Spring drive, it was not enough. For each one who received an American garment to replace the rags worn through five or more years of war, a dozen are still insufficiently clad for Winter, for health or for self-respect. Tuberculosis, scabies and influenza are rampant, and reconstruction and schooling are being held up because workers, farmers, teachers, students and children do not have clothing or shoes to wear.

Villanova College students are asked to aid these victims of the Second World War by supporting to the full the Victory Clothing Collection for overseas relief, January 7-31. President Truman requested Henry J. Kaiser to head this collection. The national goal is one hundred million serviceable, used garments, in addition to shoes and bedding. With wartime security regulations cancelled, contributors of clothing in this drive may attach a friendly note with their gifts. This expression of good will can mean much to bruised and lonely spirits.

France and de Gaulle

AMERICANS have cause to know Charles de Gaulle. He has been one of the most paradoxical and controversial figures in the parade of World War II heroes. Irritating, inspiring, recalcitrant, our only hope of co-operation, petulant, independent ,our boon and our bane, de Gaulle has fretted his way across bold print history, but his goal was always one, consistent, unyielding — the good of France.

He was president of the interim government of the French Republic. He has resigned. Why?

It seems that he didn't get along; but this only leads to another question. His opponents, let's look at them: Communists, lately Socialists, Radical Socialists; his allies, a few: the National Republicans, the people.

What were the issues? de Gaulle wanted a strong Army, the Reds didn't, result: stalemate; de Gaulle wanted a strong Chief Executive, Communists desired the power in the assembly, result: stalemate; de Gaulle advanced his plan of food relief, Commies found no other but refused his, result: stalemate.

Why did de Gaulle resign? No co-operation? Perhaps. But then again he may have decided to throw the insoluble problems of post-war hunger and strife into the laps of the cocky belittlers.

Perhaps he felt that the people, knowing not the complexities at hand but only the misery of the moment, might swing to any group of debunkers who promised relief. Why not test the strength of their negative priciples in the snowy crucible of the Winter? He, then could be the debunker, he could wait for the inevitable unrest. He could once more raise France from despair.

Without doubt things are going to be difficult, and those in charge will be blamed for it; if de Gaulle allows someone else to be the fall guy, he can cash in when the crisis comes and perhaps lead France back to glory.

—Donald M. Collins.

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

This week brings news of very crowded conditions in undergraduate schools. Colleges all over the country are turning away applicants. Here's the way the Temple University News describes the situation.

Registration Requirements Get Stiffer

Applications for enrollment in the University for the next term are being accepted only from Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey, Delaware and the eastern shore of Maryland, according to John M. Rhoads, registrar.

As long as the present situation exists students from other states will be accepted only if they are in the upper quintile of their class, and then under extenuating circumstances.

A new rule for veterans was announced on Monday. Instead of Veterans paying their entire tuition, and then being reimbursed, they will pay only a $25 deposit, which will be returned to them when they receive their certificate of eligibility from the Veterans' Administration.

—Temple University News.

* * *

Michigan Vets Eligible For $100 Grants

A $25,000 fund has been made available to veteran students at the University of Michigan by the Student Bomber Scholarship Committee. Fifteen $100 grants will be made each semester.

Veterans to be eligible for the scholarships must be former Michigan students who have served at least six months in the armed forces, have completed two semesters in any undergraduate school at Michigan, and must have insufficient credit hours for a degree of any kind from the University. The University Scholarship Committee will select the recipients of the award.

Women At Texas A. and M.

Wives of veterans at Texas A. and M. College will be allowed to take extension courses from the school, beginning with the Spring semester.

A. and M., a non-coeducational institution, plans to serve these women through this scheme, realizing that many of them left college to join their husbands at their service posts.

—The Chicago Maroon.

* * *

An Arizona hillbilly died recently after seeing an automobile for the first time—he didn't see it soon enough.

—The Seattle Spectator.

* * *

The Varsity News of the University of Detroit claims that 90% of new enrollments are veterans.

* * *

"I'm so mixed up I don't know what to do—I don't know where I stand or what I'm going to do or what I'm supposed to be."

It could have been a freshman who said it; it could have been a senior; it could have been you. It might have been nearly any of us, and altogether too often it is.

—The Baylor Lariat.

* * *

Just A Prayer

A colored gentleman was accused by a friend of insulting the minister by asking that worthy man to pray for his floating kidney. "No sir, I did not insult the gentleman," said the colored man. "All I did was to ask him please pray foah my floating kidney. Whut's the matter wid dat? Las' week he done prayed for the loose livers."

—The Dakota Scientist.

* * *

N. B. Bob Mills

You'll now have a chance to read your favorite Chaucer not only in English but in Japanese too. The Georgetown weekly "The Hoya" states "Former Hoya, who served in Jap army, translates Chaucer into Japanese."

* * *

Well I guess I'll be "sashayin along" as they say in the old Podolian dialect. But just one more thought, or I should say word of advice—the next time any of you happen to be driving your sheep thru Trenton, N. J., don't wear a false face. City legislation of Trenton states that shepherds driving their herds through the city must not wear false faces. So remember no false faces next time.

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

The social front has calmed down a good deal since the Senior Ball but many of the fast steppers are still going merrily on their way, refusing to slow down or be slowed down. Some of our B.T.O.'s believe it unthinkable that a week-end should go by without a social tangle—it gives them something to talk about on Monday.

It seems that Jim "Knucklehead" Riley has returned to his former high school practices, when carving the loved one's initials and his own (in a heart of course) on the bark of a tree was quite the thing. Ask Jim to show you what he has inscribed on his leg. Could be J.R.—K.L.!!!

Al Canuel really believes in doing things as they really should be done. Last week before making a date with the sandman (during class) he removed his shoes to assure himself absolute comfort. We hear if a certain class was removed from the schedule he would lose four hours sleep a week.

* * *

The grapevine has it that Burt Cox is working on a new find—or is the new find working on him.

It seems that Phil Appleby has been singing the song, "Nancy With the Laughing Face."

Last week the Phi Kappa Pi held their annual initiation of new members . . . Glad we were on the giving instead of on the receiving end. We love to eat sitting . . . Many of the new members received quite a jar in meeting Mr. Sparks, whose shocking handshake really sent them out of this world. Didn't it Joe Devereaux??? — Franny Ryan (a pledgee) spent most of the evening holding up the rear end of the line of honors and then spent most of the aftermath nursing his own. We hear that Jim Bonner has resigned himself to remain a bachelor the rest of his life. Are we correct Jim — Or should we ask Fr. O'Leary? The initiation was topped off with a buffet luncheon most of which was consumed by the residents of Delurey Hall. The KP's for the cleaning up duties were Joe Hoffman, Jim Murphy, Steve Gasparovic and other old members. After seeing them work we are sure that they will make excellent mates for some old maids.

* * *

The newly adopted theme song of the V-12 unit here on the campus is, "Don't send me out to sea," or "I Like it her where I am."...

Why is Bob Greisser going around in a daze? Perhaps Helen could provide the answer.

We understand that John Sankey is preparing to join Delta Pi Epsilon and his best friend Jim Riley just can't wait to escort him through the initiation. Jim tells us that they are "buddy-buddy" in the classroom.

Last week Fr. Lozano had the best turnout at his Spanish Club meeting of this semester. We are glad to see that the Spanish students finally understand the Padre's theory of "co-operation."

* * *

Delurey Hall was honored last week by a visit from Deacon Merlino, who is about to enter St. John's Law School. He still finds it difficult to maneuver on the ice covered campus.

Famous quotation by Harold "Hank" Talt, "Watch me make this light before it changes red!"

All good things must come to an end, so au revoir you bon vivants.

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

Harry A. Waters II, who comes from a long line—of pipes, is the novelty with which we start today's clam-bake. It was Sept. 2, 1922 in Washington, D. C., that Henry decided to become a banker. After getting a short change by his nurse, he knew that he, too, could make a living that way. So he, upon setting up business offices in Mount Airy, Pa., went to work in Holy Cross Grammar School and later LaSalle Prep. To make a go of it he became class president and then went a little further and captained the intermural basketball and football teams. Finally, he went all the way and got on the track team. We might add he hasn't gotten back yet.

HARRY A. WATERS

Served In V-12

While riding down the Pike in Sept. of '41, Harry spied the grey building which graces the campus on the far eastern end, and said, "Huzzah, huzzah, that's pour me!" And so it was. One year later Harry joined the Naby but returned to Villanova in July of '43 in the V-12 program. After serving two semesters, he was commissioned at Harvard, becoming a staff officer in the Supply Corps.

H. A. II, referring to today's choice morsel, returned to the House of Commerce and Finance in July of '45 and has been stepping ever since. The Senior class nailed him as secretary, he was forced into the Spanish club, the Villanovan beat him into being circulation manager for three years, the D.P.E. and the Veterans' club both have their finger on him, and he's been brow-beat into many dance committee positions.

Alma Mater A Tradition

As we said before, Mr. Waters comes from a long line. Two of his brothers graduated from our old Alma Mater and it seems that his great grandfather was one of the first students here. Ain't that something?

To get back to the life of Harry the happy hurdler, he plans to go into investment banking. Dawkins Waters and Co. in Philly is the address, if any of you'd like to take anything out before he gets there.

The Cowboy

Next on the list of 'People are stranger than friction' is Orville Frederick Anderson of the wide open spaces Andersons. Orville was born in the thriving metropolis, we spelled it right this week, of Keene, Nebraska, population 58. When Andy came around on June 15, 1920 the population remained constant as his father, unable to stand the shock, was forced to leave.

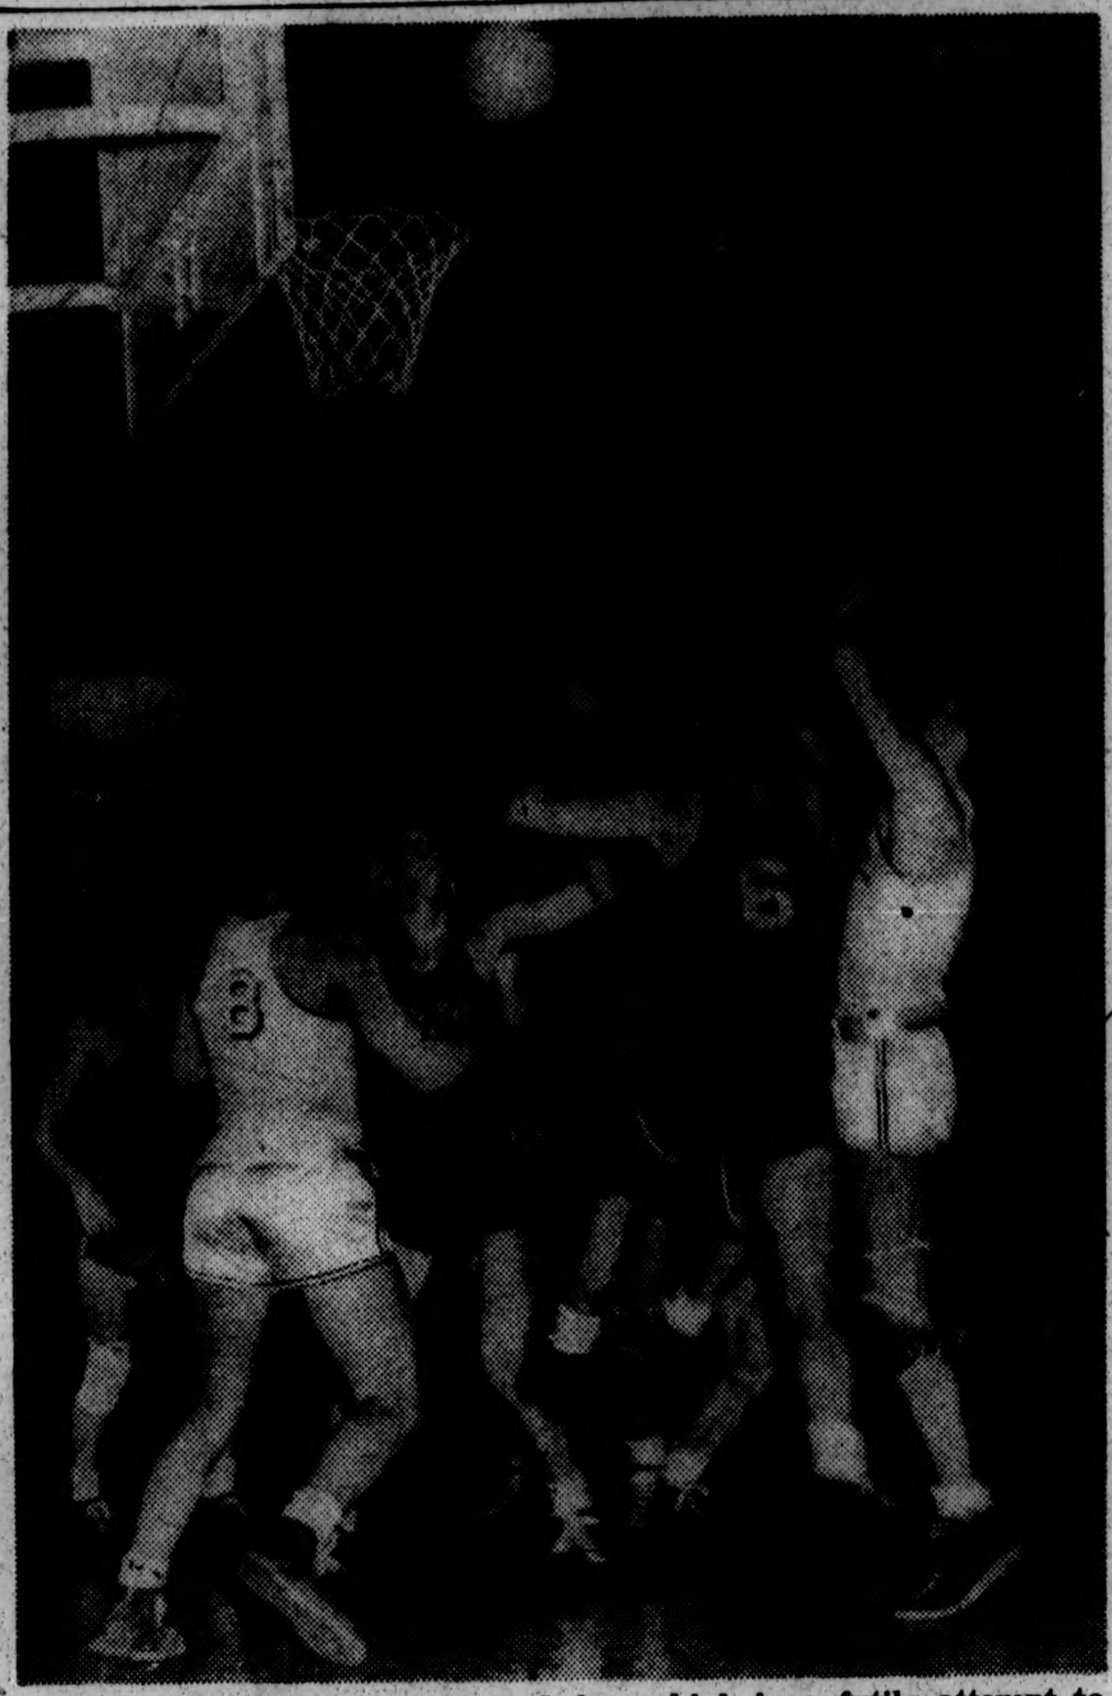
At the tender age of nine, the Anderson Clan migrated to Loup City, where O. F., and we mean O. F., finished grade school and attended Loup City High School. In high school, he muscled his way onto the basketball team under the condition that he join the track team, the football team, the glee club, and serve a term on the student council, which he promptly proceeded to do.

Assigned To Naval Intelligence

Having seen friend Orville through high school has been quite an ordeal, but get ready for the big one. After leaving the afore mentioned establishment, his first

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN SPORTS



Don Robertson, Villanova guard, leaps high in a futile attempt to prevent King's Point forward, Lou Viau from scoring. Joe Brehmer (16) and Bill Faris (10) stand by to give assistance.

Villanova Evens Series With Mariners, 53 - 49

Late Rally Puts Home Team Ahead After Trailing Most Of Game. King's Point Team Had Won Opener, 43-38

Villanova's hoopmen again fared better in the home version of a home and away arrangement as they defeated the Merchant Marine Academy of King's Point, New York. The Mariners won the first contest 43-38 on their home court in a great last period drive when the lack of reserves hurt the Villanova cause.

Wednesday's game took on the appearance of a retake with a switch in the leading roles because the Wildcats won in a game similar to the first by the score of 53-49. The score was tied at 2, 9, 40, and 47 and the lead changed hands eight times before the final whistle ushered Villanova into the winner's circle. It was the sixth win of the current campaign for the Cats compared with eight setbacks.

Bill Faris, the invader's big gun, inaugurated the night's proceedings with a one-handed stab from beyond the circle after 20 seconds of play. "Robbie" Robertson promptly tied the score with a set shot. The visitors had much their own way under the boards at this point and registered two goals from in close after repeated taps following sets. It was Faris again and Si Taflan who outjumped the field to add these four points. Joe Lord rang the bell from long range after Bill Doherty's foul conversion to close the gap to 6-5.

Our Passes Intercepted

Many Villanova passes intended for big "Chet" Reybitz in the pivot, were intercepted, but luckily the Sailors only capitalized on a few of them. Jack Viau land up a spinner from directly under the basket, but a tap by Reybitz and

DOWN MARINERS
Continued on Page Four

Team Travels To Princeton Game

By JIM McNAMARA

The Villanova Wildcats will meet the Princeton Tigers tomorrow night on the New Jersey team's court. The Orange and Black color bearers are considered one of the most improved teams in the East. They threw a scare at Muhlenberg's powerful quintet before they succumbed in a close battle, and only last week they humbled the high riding Cadets from West Point.

In the first encounter between the Wildcats and the Ivy Leaguers earlier this season, the Bengals overcame a half time deficit and won 47-40 going away. Johnny Doar, Phil Fehl, and Art Wilson were the point producing trio that carried the Princeton banner the night of Dec. 5 and these three are still on hand. Returning servicemen have augmented the Tiger's roster which should install them the favorite in tomorrow's game. Accustomed to pre-game, underdog ratings, Villanova will entrust its chances to a representative quintet which has shown proportional strides of improvement and has been "up" for the toughest opponents. If Villanova's club displays the excellent team play which it showed against the King's Pointers last week, a decided chance for victory must be accepted.

Quintet Suffers Two Defeats On Successive Nights

By DICK SOMERS

Snafu-thanks to Carl Braun, Colgate, Roy Newell and Bill Cabor, both of Syracuse. Those gentlemen were the main thorns as Villanova continued to be hampered by the "road jinx" and lost to Colgate, 56-45, and Syracuse, 44-33. Of the ten defeats suffered by the Blue and White to date, eight have been away from home.

The shining light for the 'Cats was the "Pride of the Marines," Joe Brehmer. He played steady ball in both games, and received a deafening round of applause from the spectators at Colgate when he left the game after committing his fifth foul early in the fourth qaurter.

Reybitz Performs

At Syracuse, Ed Reybitz gave a splendid defensive performance against Newall and his substitute John Lubka, both of whom tower six-foot ten. Newell emerged as high scorer only on his ability to tap in rebounds.

At Colgate the Blue and White jumped into an early lead on quick baskets by Joe Hannan and Reybitz, our high man for the night. The Red Raiders came back on goals by Bob Plunkett, Braun, and Jack Sullivan to take the lead for the first time. Hannan and Joe Lord hit from the outside and Plunkett added a short shot to tie the score again. Lord and Braun traded field goals and Brehmer and Adrian Aery exchanged fouls before Ernie Vandeweghe broke in for a lay-up to put the Raiders in the lead 13-11 at the quarter.

The home team continued to increase its lead on a foul by Vandeweghe and a pivot shot by Braun. Two fouls by Brehmer and a tap-in by Reybitz cut the margin to one point. Aery inserted a field goal at this point to accompany Sullivan's foul as the lead went to four points. Don Robertson halved this with a long shot to leave the score 19-17 midway in the period.

Trail 27-19 at Half

Colgate got better mileage on its shots in the next five minutes and rolled up eight points to two for Villanova. For the Raiders Braun had two and Plunkett one from the floor in addition to fouls by Aery and Vandeweghe. Bill Burr was the only member of the 'Cats able to hit the scoring column. The score at half time was 27-19.

Braun opened the third quarter with a lay-up shot before the Blue and White came to life. Hannan started by making two fouls, Brehmer hit from three different spots and Reybitz made two from the inside. A goal by Vandeweghe and a foul by Braun left the Red Raiders in front 34-31 as the third quarter ended.

Colgate Pulls Away

Colgate started again in the final quarter with Braun dropping a foul and field goal. Reybitz took a pass from Burr and hit from inside. Jim Cox hit from the outside and then passed to Sullivan as the lead went to eight points. Robertson removed three of them on a lay-up and the accompanying foul. However, Cox, Braun and Sullivan moved the count to 47-36 with five minutes to play.

"Maj" McDonnell and Lord made the nine remaining points that the 'Cats scored in the game. The Red Raiders divided their nine among Vandeweghe, Cox, and Harry Hoffman.

Syracuse Game Slow

The Syracuse game was slow and uninteresting in comparison with the one at Colgate. Hannan and Lord were the only Villanova men able to hit the baskets with any consistency in the first half. Between them they had ten points and Brehmer made the other two. Newell and Gabor did the bulk of the scoring for the Orange with eight and six respectively. Ed Stickel was close behind with five. Ollie Renzi and Lou Spicer had one goal apiece. Score at the half was 22-12, Syracuse.

Six and a half minutes of the third period elapsed before Villanova hit the scoring column with two fouls by Burr. During this period, the Orange built up a seventeen point lead. The Blue and White were hot for the remainder of the game but could only decrease the margin of defeat by six points.

Bainbridge Sailors In Saturday Night's Game

Bob Metcalf And Randy Clark Lead Topflight Service Team. Team Boasts One Of The Best Records Among Eastern Teams

This week finds the Villanova quintet playing the first of two consecutive Saturday night home games. The Wildcats will be host to one of the top service teams in the East as they meet the sailors of Bainbridge Naval Training Station.

Bainbridge will be led by Randy Clark and Bob Metcalf, two of the leading scorers in this section. Metcalf has time and again pulled the sailors out of the fire when they seemed doomed to lose. Against the Patuxent River Naval Air Station's team both the stars scored 22 points as their team won handily, 79-53.

Have Lost to Temple

Though they have been beaten by Navy, Philadelphia Naval Base and Temple (a one-point heartbreaker) the Sailors have an enviable record to date. One of their victories was over a powerful Aberdeen Proving Grounds quintet which had been unbeaten until that game.

Gone are last season's stars such as Doug Holcomb, now leading the Philadelphia Naval Base team, and Frankie Frascella, former Villanovan, who is performing for St. John's this season, but Metcalf and Clark are well supported by center Switzer and guards Gordon and Rilla. These five men are expected to take the floor for the opening tap-off.

Track Team Takes Two Seconds In Inquirer Meet

Inaugurating the 1946 season, Villanova's indoor track team journeyed to Philadelphia's Convention Hall last Friday night to participate in the second annual Inquirer Invitation Meet. Competing in the one mile relay for Colleges within the state, the Wildcat quartet chased Penn to a 3:35.9 time while capturing runner-up honors. In the 1000 yard novice run, a race run from scratch, Danny Redmond likewise placed second.

Jack Glascott, the football end and son of Penn's assistant track coach, won his heat of the 50 yd. high hurdles, but, in the semi-finals, tipped the fourth hurdle and was eliminated in a heat won by Bob Wright, the ultimate winner of the event. Burt Cox, National hop, step and jump champion, was eliminated in his heat of the 50 yard dash by Ed Conwell, Negro flash, who bested Tom Carey and Barney Ewell to win the final. Tony Minyon, Wildcat hurdler, placed third in the heat won by Glascott.

In the relay, lead-off man Jack Farnsworth ran into trouble on the back stretch of the first lap of his three-lap journey, when the Penn State man dropped his baton. Farnsworth lost yardage in side-stepping the Nittany Lion, but through fine running was able to come within a yard of Penn's man as he passed the stick to Joe Beals for the start of the second leg. Beals matched Penn's Don Lyman stride for stride through the first two laps, twice trying in vain to pass him. However, on the third lap of his leg, Lyman, the high school quarter mile king of District One last year, poured it on to leave a fifteen yard gap between the Quaker's Bob Dellinger and the Blue and White's Tom Short at the exchange. The latter, running the best quarter of the four men, was only able to gain a yard or two on Dellinger, to whom he had shown his heels in last Spring's Metropolitan meet.

This lead was too much for anchor-man Burt Cox to overcome, as Danny Kirk, Penn's fourth man, maintained the same margin to the end. Penn State was third. The unofficial elapsed time for Coach Jumbo Elliott's relay team was 3:37.9. Individual times were as follows: Farnworth 54.9, Beals 55.4, Short 53.7 and Cox 53.9.

In the 1000 yard run, Redmond jumped into the lead on the back stretch of the second lap. He stayed there until the sixth lap and at that point, Tom Stout, runner-up in the Catholic League cross country championships, took over and won going away. He covered the 6⅞ laps of the wooden oval in 2 minutes 27.8 seconds.

Marines, Ausmen Off To Good Start

By DAVID MARANO

Indications gathered from the first week of the second half point to a much tighter race than was shown in the first half of the intramural season. Especially noticeable was the fine showing made by the Marines in taking their first two games this week. These two victories already equal their sum total of wins for the first half.

The opening game brought together the Doms and an inspired Day-Hop outfit, newest member of the League. Try as they may, the best the newcomers could do was to play the Doms nip and tuck all the way, only to lose by the close score of 29-27. Eleven of the victors' points came through the efforts of forward Gaffney who was the high scorer of the night.

The second game of the evening

INTRAMURALS
Continued on Page Four

THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS
Longines
THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Edward A. Loughrey, '48
William B. Carey Jr., '46
Donald J. Sommer, '48
William Altenpohl, '47
Donald M. Collins, '47
George O'Neill, '47
John P. Murphy, '48
William Carey, '46

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Charles Cummings, U.S.N.R.
Harold Varani, '46
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, U.S.N.R.

Photography Staff
Albert Derr, '46

Business Staff
William Wescott, '47
J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Peter McManus, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - JANUARY 29, 1946

"To Clothe The Naked"

COLLEGE students played a noteworthy party in last Spring's nation-wide clothing drive for overseas relief. Campus collections and students canvassing of off-campus areas produced tons of used clothing. The chores that students handled in collection centers and sorting rooms speeded the contributions overseas for UNRRA distribution to war victims.

Although 25,000,000 destitute people were clothed as a result of the Spring drive, it was not enough. For each one who received an American garment to replace the rags worn through five or more years of war, a dozen are still insufficiently clad for Winter, for health or for self-respect. Tuberculosis, scabies and influenza are rampant, and reconstruction and schooling are being held up because workers, farmers, teachers, students and children do not have clothing or shoes to wear.

Villanova College students are asked to aid these victims of the Second World War by supporting to the full the Victory Clothing Collection for overseas relief, January 7-31. President Truman requested Henry J. Kaiser to head this collection. The national goal is one hundred million serviceable, used garments, in addition to shoes and bedding. With wartime security regulations cancelled, contributors of clothing in this drive may attach a friendly note with their gifts. This expression of good will can mean much to bruised and lonely spirits.

France and de Gaulle

AMERICANS have cause to know Charles de Gaulle. He has been one of the most paradoxical and controversial figures in the parade of World War II heroes. Irritating, inspiring, recalcitrant, our only hope of co-operation, petulant, independent ,our boon and our bane, de Gaulle has fretted his way across bold print history, but his goal was always one, consistent, unyielding — the good of France.

He was president of the interim government of the French Republic. He has resigned. Why?

It seems that he didn't get along; but this only leads to another question. His opponents, let's look at them: Communists, lately Socialists, Radical Socialists; his allies, a few: the National Republicans, the people.

What were the issues? de Gaulle wanted a strong Army, the Reds didn't, result: stalemate; de Gaulle wanted a strong Chief Executive, Communists desired the power in the assembly, result: stalemate; de Gaulle advanced his plan of food relief, Commies found no other but refused his, result: stalemate.

Why did de Gaulle resign? No co-operation? Perhaps. But then again he may have decided to throw the insoluble problems of post-war hunger and strife into the laps of the cocky belittlers.

Perhaps he felt that the people, knowing not the complexities at hand but only the misery of the moment, might swing to any group of debunkers who promised relief. Why not test the strength of their negative priciples in the snowy crucible of the Winter? He, then could be the debunker, he could wait for the inevitable unrest. He could once more raise France from despair.

Without doubt things are going to be difficult, and those in charge will be blamed for it; if de Gaulle allows someone else to be the fall guy, he can cash in when the crisis comes and perhaps lead France back to glory.

—Donald M. Collins.

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

This week brings news of very crowded conditions in undergraduate schools. Colleges all over the country are turning away applicants. Here's the way the Temple University News describes the situation.

Registration Requirements Get Stiffer

Applications for enrollment in the University for the next term are being accepted only from Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey, Delaware and the eastern shore of Maryland, according to John M. Rhoads, registrar.

As long as the present situation exists students from other states will be accepted only if they are in the upper quintile of their class, and then under extenuating circumstances.

A new rule for veterans was announced on Monday. Instead of Veterans paying their entire tuition, and then being reimbursed, they will pay only a $25 deposit, which will be returned to them when they receive their certificate of eligibility from the Veterans' Administration.

—Temple University News.

* * *

Michigan Vets Eligible For $100 Grants

A $25,000 fund has been made available to veteran students at the University of Michigan by the Student Bomber Scholarship Committee. Fifteen $100 grants will be made each semester.

Veterans to be eligible for the scholarships must be former Michigan students who have served at least six months in the armed forces, have completed two semesters in any undergraduate school at Michigan, and must have insufficient credit hours for a degree of any kind from the University. The University Scholarship Committee will select the recipients of the award.

Women At Texas A. and M.

Wives of veterans at Texas A. and M. College will be allowed to take extension courses from the school, beginning with the Spring semester.

A. and M., a non-coeducational institution, plans to serve these women through this scheme, realizing that many of them left college to join their husbands at their service posts.

—The Chicago Maroon.

* * *

An Arizona hillbilly died recently after seeing an automobile for the first time—he didn't see it soon enough.

—The Seattle Spectator.

* * *

The Varsity News of the University of Detroit claims that 90% of new enrollments are veterans.

* * *

"I'm so mixed up I don't know what to do—I don't know where I stand or what I'm going to do or what I'm supposed to be."

It could have been a freshman who said it; it could have been a senior; it could have been you. It might have been nearly any of us, and altogether too often it is.

—The Baylor Lariat.

* * *

Just A Prayer

A colored gentleman was accused by a friend of insulting the minister by asking that worthy man to pray for his floating kidney. "No sir, I did not insult the gentleman," said the colored man. "All I did was to ask him please pray foah my floating kidney. Whut's the matter wid dat? Las' week he done prayed for the loose livers."

—The Dakota Scientist.

* * *

N. B. Bob Mills

You'll now have a chance to read your favorite Chaucer not only in English but in Japanese too. The Georgetown weekly "The Hoya" states "Former Hoya, who served in Jap army, translates Chaucer into Japanese."

* * *

Well I guess I'll be "sashayin along" as they say in the old Podolian dialect. But just one more thought, or I should say word of advice—the next time any of you happen to be driving your sheep thru Trenton, N. J., don't wear a false face. City legislation of Trenton states that shepherds driving their herds through the city must not wear false faces. So remember no false faces next time.

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

The social front has calmed down a good deal since the Senior Ball but many of the fast steppers are still going merrily on their way, refusing to slow down or be slowed down. Some of our B.T.O.'s believe it unthinkable that a week-end should go by without a social tangle—it gives them something to talk about on Monday.

It seems that Jim "Knucklehead" Riley has returned to his former high school practices, when carving the loved one's initials and his own (in a heart of course) on the bark of a tree was quite the thing. Ask Jim to show you what he has inscribed on his leg. Could be J.R.—K.L.!!!

Al Canuel really believes in doing things as they really should be done. Last week before making a date with the sandman (during class) he removed his shoes to assure himself absolute comfort. We hear if a certain class was removed from the schedule he would lose four hours sleep a week.

* * *

The grapevine has it that Burt Cox is working on a new find—or is the new find working on him.

It seems that Phil Appleby has been singing the song, "Nancy With the Laughing Face."

Last week the Phi Kappa Pi held their annual initiation of new members . . . Glad we were on the giving instead of on the receiving end. We love to eat sitting . . . Many of the new members received quite a jar in meeting Mr. Sparks, whose shocking handshake really sent them out of this world. Didn't it Joe Devereaux??? — Franny Ryan (a pledgee) spent most of the evening holding up the rear end of the line of honors and then spent most of the aftermath nursing his own. We hear that Jim Bonner has resigned himself to remain a bachelor the rest of his life. Are we correct Jim — Or should we ask Fr. O'Leary? The initiation was topped off with a buffet luncheon most of which was consumed by the residents of Delurey Hall. The KP's for the cleaning up duties were Joe Hoffman, Jim Murphy, Steve Gasparovic and other old members. After seeing them work we are sure that they will make excellent mates for some old maids.

* * *

The newly adopted theme song of the V-12 unit here on the campus is, "Don't send me out to sea," or "I Like it her where I am."...

Why is Bob Greisser going around in a daze? Perhaps Helen could provide the answer.

We understand that John Sankey is preparing to join Delta Pi Epsilon and his best friend Jim Riley just can't wait to escort him through the initiation. Jim tells us that they are "buddy-buddy" in the classroom.

Last week Fr. Lozano had the best turnout at his Spanish Club meeting of this semester. We are glad to see that the Spanish students finally understand the Padre's theory of "co-operation."

* * *

Delurey Hall was honored last week by a visit from Deacon Merlino, who is about to enter St. John's Law School. He still finds it difficult to maneuver on the ice covered campus.

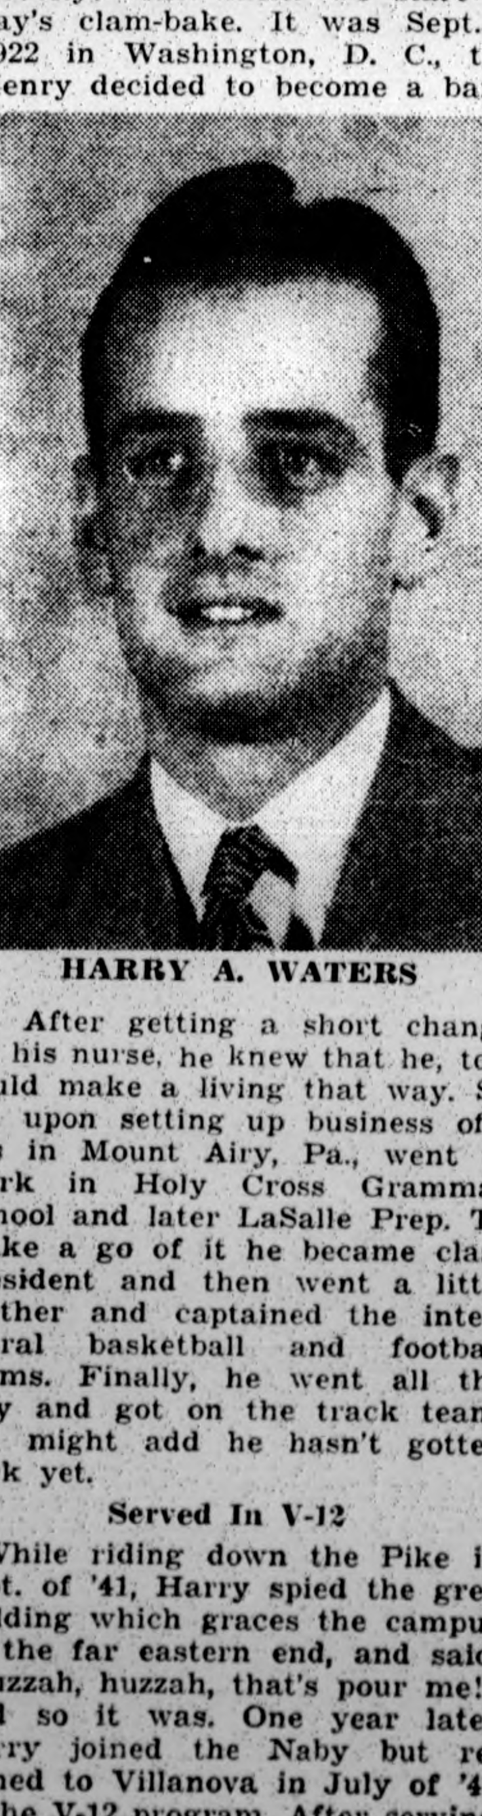
Famous quotation by Harold "Hank" Tait, "Watch me make this light before it changes red!"

All good things must come to an end, so au revoir you bon vivants.

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

Harry A. Waters II, who comes from a long line—of pipes, is the novelty with which we start today's clam-bake. It was Sept. 2, 1922 in Washington, D. C., that Henry decided to become a banker. After getting a short change by his nurse, he knew that he, too, could make a living that way. So he, upon setting up business offices in Mount Airy, Pa., went to work in Holy Cross Grammar School and later LaSalle Prep. To make a go of it he became class president and then went a little further and captained the intermural basketball and football teams. Finally, he went all the way and got on the track team. We might add he hasn't gotten back yet.



HARRY A. WATERS

Served In V-12

While riding down the Pike in Sept. of '41, Harry spied the grey building which graces the campus on the far eastern end, and said, "Huzzah, huzzah, that's pour me!" And so it was. One year later Harry joined the Naby but returned to Villanova in July of '43 in the V-12 program. After serving two semesters, he was commissioned at Harvard, becoming a staff officer in the Supply Corps.

H. A. II, referring to today's choice morsel, returned to the House of Commerce and Finance in July of '45 and has been stepping ever since. The Senior class nailed him as secretary, he was forced into the Spanish club, the Villanovan beat him into being circulation manager for three years, the D.P.E. and the Veterans' club both have their finger on him, and he's been brow-beat into many dance committee positions.

Alma Mater A Tradition

As we said before, Mr. Waters comes from a long line. Two of his brothers graduated from our old Alma Mater and it seems that his great grandfather was one of the first students here. Ain't that something?

To get back to the life of Harry the happy hurdler, he plans to go into investment banking. Dawkins Waters and Co. in Philly is the address, if any of you'd like to take anything out before he gets there.

The Cowboy

Next on the list of 'People are stranger than friction' is Orville Frederick Anderson of the wide open spaces Andersons. Orville was born in the thriving metropolis, we spelled it right this week, of Keene, Nebraska, population 58. When Andy came around on June 15, 1920 the population remained constant as his father, unable to stand the shock, was forced to leave.

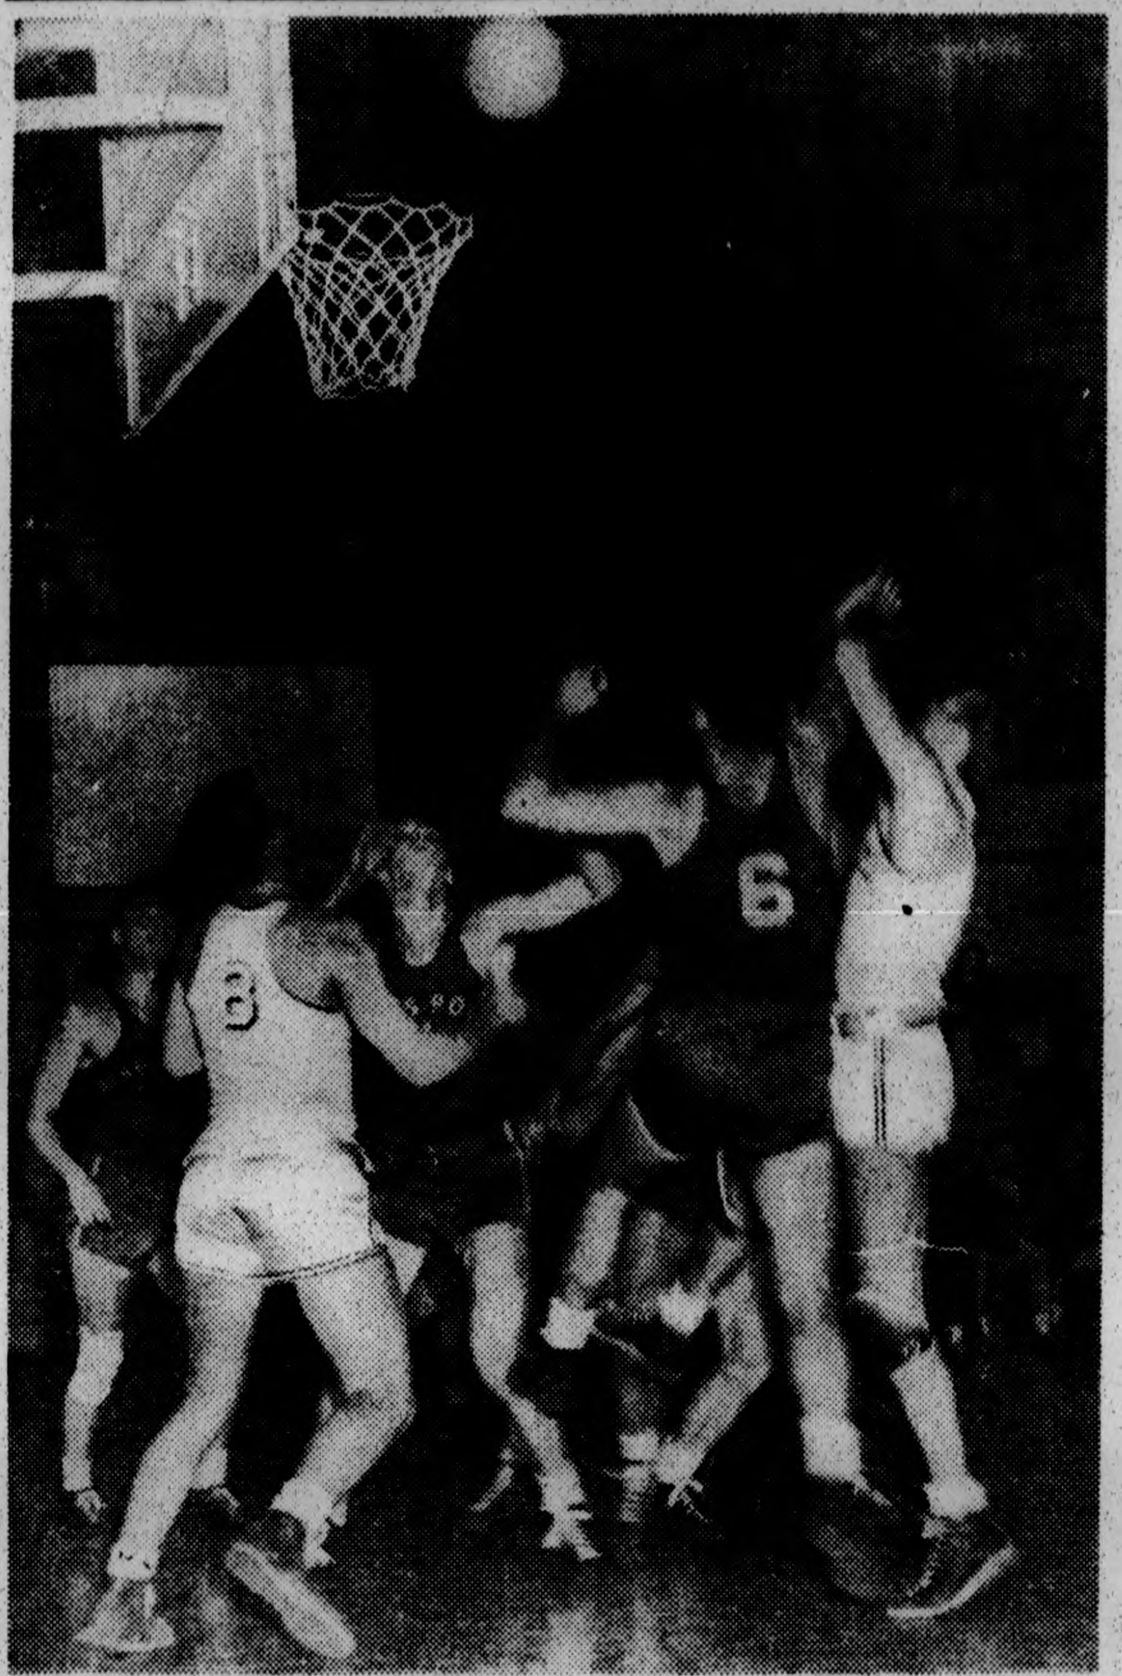
At the tender age of nine, the Anderson Clan migrated to Loup City, where O. F., and we mean O. F., finished grade school and attended Loup City High School. In high school, he muscled his way onto the basketball team under the condition that he join the track team, the football team, the glee club, and serve a term on the student council, which he promptly proceeded to do.

Assigned To Naval Intelligence

Having seen friend Orville through high school has been quite an ordeal, but get ready for the big one. After leaving the afore mentioned establishment, his first

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN SPORTS



Don Robertson, Villanova guard, leaps high in a futile attempt to prevent King's Point forward, Lou Viau from scoring. Joe Brehmer (16) and Bill Faris (10) stand by to give assistance.

Villanova Evens Series With Mariners, 53 - 49

Late Rally Puts Home Team Ahead After Trailing Most Of Game. King's Point Team Had Won Opener, 43-38

Villanova's hoopmen again fared better in the home version of a home and away arrangement as they defeated the Merchant Marine Academy of King's Point, New York. The Mariners won the first contest 43-38 on their home court in a great last period drive when the lack of reserves hurt the Villanova cause.

Wednesday's game took on the appearance of a retake with a switch in the leading roles because the Wildcats won in a game similar to the first by the score of 53-49. The score was tied at 2, 9, 40, and 47 and the lead changed hands eight times before the final whistle ushered Villanova into the winner's circle. It was the sixth win of the current campaign for the Cats compared with eight setbacks.

Bill Faris, the invader's big gun, inaugurated the night's proceedings with a one-handed stab from beyond the circle after 20 seconds of play. "Robbie" Robertson promptly tied the score with a set shot. The visitors had much their own way under the boards at this point and registered two goals from in close after repeated taps following sets. It was Faris again and Si Taflan who outjumped the field to add these four points. Joe Lord rang the bell from long range after Bill Doherty's foul conversion to close the gap to 6-5.

Our Passes Intercepted

Many Villanova passes intended for big "Chet" Reybitz in the pivot, were intercepted, but luckily the Sailors only capitalized on a few of them. Jack Viau land up a spinner from directly under the basket, but a tap by Reybitz and

DOWN MARINERS
Continued on Page Four

Team Travels To Princeton Game

By JIM McNAMARA

The Villanova Wildcats will meet the Princeton Tigers tomorrow night on the New Jersey team's court. The Orange and Black color bearers are considered one of the most improved teams in the East. They threw a scare at Muhlenberg's powerful quintet before they succumbed in a close battle, and only last week they humbled the high riding Cadets from West Point.

In the first encounter between the Wildcats and the Ivy Leaguers earlier this season, the Bengals overcame a half time deficit and won 47-40 going away. Johnny Doar, Phil Fehl, and Art Wilson were the point producing trio that carried the Princeton banner the night of Dec. 5 and these three are still on hand. Returning servicemen have augmented the Tiger's roster which should install them the favorite in tomorrow's game. Accustomed to pre-game, underdog ratings, Villanova will entrust its chances to a representative quintet which has shown proportional strides of improvement and has been "up" for the toughest opponents. If Villanova's club displays the excellent team play which it showed against the King's Pointers last week, a decided chance for victory must be accepted.

Quintet Suffers Two Defeats On Successive Nights

By DICK SOMERS

Snafu-thanks to Carl Braun, Colgate, Roy Newell and Bill Cabor, both of Syracuse. Those gentlemen were the main thorns as Villanova continued to be hampered by the "road jinx" and lost to Colgate, 56-45, and Syracuse, 44-33. Of the ten defeats suffered by the Blue and White to date, eight have been away from home.

The shining light for the 'Cats was the "Pride of the Marines," Joe Brehmer. He played steady ball in both games, and received a deafening round of applause from the spectators at Colgate when he left the game after committing his fifth foul early in the fourth qaurter.

Reybitz Performs

At Syracuse, Ed Reybitz gave a splendid defensive performance against Newall and his substitute John Lubka, both of whom tower six-foot ten. Newell emerged as high scorer only on his ability to tap in rebounds.

At Colgate the Blue and White jumped into an early lead on quick baskets by Joe Hannan and Reybitz, our high man for the night. The Red Raiders came back on goals by Bob Plunkett, Braun, and Jack Sullivan to take the lead for the first time. Hannan and Joe Lord hit from the outside and Plunkett added a short shot to tie the score again. Lord and Braun traded field goals and Brehmer and Adrian Aery exchanged fouls before Ernie Vandeweghe broke in for a lay-up to put the Raiders in the lead 13-11 at the quarter.

The home team continued to increase its lead on a foul by Vandeweghe and a pivot shot by Braun. Two fouls by Brehmer and a tap-in by Reybitz cut the margin to one point. Aery inserted a field goal at this point to accompany Sullivan's foul as the lead went to four points. Don Robertson halved this with a long shot to leave the score 19-17 midway in the period.

Trail 27-19 at Half

Colgate got better mileage on its shots in the next five minutes and rolled up eight points to two for Villanova. For the Raiders Braun had two and Plunkett one from the floor in addition to fouls by Aery and Vandeweghe. Bill Burr was the only member of the 'Cats able to hit the scoring column. The score at half time was 27-19.

Braun opened the third quarter with a lay-up shot before the Blue and White came to life. Hannan started by making two fouls, Brehmer hit from three different spots and Reybitz made two from the inside. A goal by Vandeweghe and a foul by Braun left the Red Raiders in front 34-31 as the third quarter ended.

Colgate Pulls Away

Colgate started again in the final quarter with Braun dropping a foul and field goal. Reybitz took a pass from Burr and hit from inside. Jim Cox hit from the outside and then passed to Sullivan as the lead went to eight points. Robertson removed three of them on a lay-up and the accompanying foul. However, Cox, Braun and Sullivan moved the count to 47-36 with five minutes to play.

"Maj" McDonnell and Lord made the nine remaining points that the 'Cats scored in the game. The Red Raiders divided their nine among Vandeweghe, Cox, and Harry Hoffman.

Syracuse Game Slow

The Syracuse game was slow and uninteresting in comparison with the one at Colgate. Hannan and Lord were the only Villanova men able to hit the baskets with any consistency in the first half. Between them they had ten points and Brehmer made the other two. Newell and Gabor did the bulk of the scoring for the Orange with eight and six respectively. Ed Stickel was close behind with five. Ollie Renzi and Lou Spicer had one goal apiece. Score at the half was 22-12, Syracuse.

Six and a half minutes of the third period elapsed before Villanova hit the scoring column with two fouls by Burr. During this period, the Orange built up a seventeen point lead. The Blue and White were hot for the remainder of the game but could only decrease the margin of defeat by six points.

Bainbridge Sailors In Saturday Night's Game

Bob Metcalf And Randy Clark Lead Topflight Service Team. Team Boasts One Of The Best Records Among Eastern Teams

This week finds the Villanova quintet playing the first of two consecutive Saturday night home games. The Wildcats will be host to one of the top service teams in the East as they meet the sailors of Bainbridge Naval Training Station.

Bainbridge will be led by Randy Clark and Bob Metcalf, two of the leading scorers in this section. Metcalf has time and again pulled the sailors out of the fire when they seemed doomed to lose. Against the Patuxent River Naval Air Station's team both the stars scored 22 points as their team won handily, 79-53.

Have Lost to Temple

Though they have been beaten by Navy, Philadelphia Naval Base and Temple (a one-point heartbreaker) the Sailors have an enviable record to date. One of their victories was over a powerful Aberdeen Proving Grounds quintet which had been unbeaten until that game.

Gone are last season's stars such as Doug Holcomb, now leading the Philadelphia Naval Base team, and Frankie Frascella, former Villanovan, who is performing for St. John's this season, but Metcalf and Clark are well supported by center Switzer and guards Gordon and Rilla. These five men are expected to take the floor for the opening tap-off.

Track Team Takes Two Seconds In Inquirer Meet

Inaugurating the 1946 season, Villanova's indoor track team journeyed to Philadelphia's Convention Hall last Friday night to participate in the second annual Inquirer Invitation Meet. Competing in the one mile relay for Colleges within the state, the Wildcat quartet chased Penn to a 3:35.9 time while capturing runner-up honors. In the 1000 yard novice run, a race run from scratch, Danny Redmond likewise placed second.

Jack Glascott, the football end and son of Penn's assistant track coach, won his heat of the 50 yd. high hurdles, but, in the semi-finals, tipped the fourth hurdle and was eliminated in a heat won by Bob Wright, the ultimate winner of the event. Burt Cox, National hop, step and jump champion, was eliminated in his heat of the 50 yard dash by Ed Conwell, Negro flash, who bested Tom Carey and Barney Ewell to win the final. Tony Minyon, Wildcat hurdler, placed third in the heat won by Glascott.

In the relay, lead-off man Jack Farnsworth ran into trouble on the back stretch of the first lap of his three-lap journey, when the Penn State man dropped his baton. Farnsworth lost yardage in side-stepping the Nittany Lion, but through fine running was able to come within a yard of Penn's man as he passed the stick to Joe Beals for the start of the second leg. Beals matched Penn's Don Lyman stride for stride through the first two laps, twice trying in vain to pass him. However, on the third lap of his leg, Lyman, the high school quarter mile king of District One last year, poured it on to leave a fifteen yard gap between the Quaker's Bob Dellinger and the Blue and White's Tom Short at the exchange. The latter, running the best quarter of the four men, was only able to gain a yard or two on Dellinger, to whom he had shown his heels in last Spring's Metropolitan meet.

This lead was too much for anchor-man Burt Cox to overcome, as Danny Kirk, Penn's fourth man, maintained the same margin to the end. Penn State was third. The unofficial elapsed time for Coach Jumbo Elliott's relay team was 3:37.9. Individual times were as follows: Farnworth 54.9, Beals 55.4, Short 53.7 and Cox 53.9.

In the 1000 yard run, Redmond jumped into the lead on the back stretch of the second lap. He stayed there until the sixth lap and at that point, Tom Stout, runner-up in the Catholic League cross country championships, took over and won going away. He covered the 6⅞ laps of the wooden oval in 2 minutes 27.8 seconds.

Marines, Ausmen Off To Good Start

By DAVID MARANO

Indications gathered from the first week of the second half point to a much tighter race than was shown in the first half of the intramural season. Especially noticeable was the fine showing made by the Marines in taking their first two games this week. These two victories already equal their sum total of wins for the first half.

The opening game brought together the Doms and an inspired Day-Hop outfit, newest member of the League. Try as they may, the best the newcomers could do was to play the Doms nip and tuck all the way, only to lose by the close score of 29-27. Eleven of the victors' points came through the efforts of forward Gaffney who was the high scorer of the night.

The second game of the evening

INTRAMURALS
Continued on Page Four

THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS
Longines
THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE

P.K.P. Initiates Thirty-five Men

Last Thursday night the Phi Kappa Pi fraternity initiated and accepted thirty-five new members and with this President Joe Hoffman expressed his enthusiasm for renewed interest in what was one of the most active prewar frats on the campus.

After completing the physical chastisements, the newly initiated members were treated to refreshments, a round of congratulations and free cigarettes. The evening fun turned out most successful and gave the engineers a foothold again in campus fraternity life.

With no winter social activities planned the members will keep their slide rules busy in formulating their Spring program. Hoffman is hopeful of getting some professional men to speak at various times to the group and bring the engineer's planning and working problems right to the campus.

The officers of the frat request that there be full cooperation of the group in attending meetings and full participation in the coming programs.

Intramurals

Continued From Page Three

brought together the rejuvenated Marines and the Alumni Hall team. Pressed all the way, the servicemen rallied in the final minutes to win 24-18.

In facing the hottest team in the circuit on Tuesday night, the Day-Hops didn't fare as well as they did against the Doms. It was simply no contest at all as the Ausmen (first half champs) led 24-5 at the half time mark and 41-15 at the final gun.

After giving the Ausmen plenty of competition all through the first half of the season, it seems as though the Fedigan team has lost all its spark. The absence of Clyde Armstrong, Danny Redmond and Bobby Wilson hurt the Fediganites as they lost their first game to a weak Alumni outfit, 34-18. On Wednesday night their last half rally fell short as the Marines handed them their second defeat, this time by a 33-29 score.

The second game Wednesday night was a field day for the Ausmen as they romped over the Doms, 53-30. Holding the Ausmen to a respectable score until the start of the final quarter, the Doms were finally submerged under a deluge of baskets by Nicholson and Milsop. High scorer of the evening was Milsop with 17 points, closely followed by Nicholson with 14 points.

League Standings

	W.	L.	Pct.
Ausmen	2	0	1.000
Marines	2	0	1.000
Doms	1	1	.500
Alumni	1	1	.500
Day-Hops	0	2	.000
Fedigan	0	2	.000

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

Down Mariners

Continued From Page Three

then a one-pointer by "Chet" pushed the Cats into the lead for the first time 9-8. Faris and Viau went to work and added three more lay-ups, which with Zagelmier's charity made it 15 to 9, the Mariners in the van. "Toad" Hannan followed up his own unfruitful foul toss and scored. It was unnecessary for the Mariners to try any long shots as they persisted in drifting through the Wildcat defense for easy "ducks."

Burr Starts Rally

Bill Burr came into the game for the home team, his club trailing 21-12, and he immediately took command to change the complexion of the game. His play all season reflects team interest and his passing, floor work, and all-around aggressive play have been instrumental in most of Villanova's victories. Last Wednesday he again came through and in the space of two minutes had Villanova back in the ball game. He intercepted three alien passes and scored three times and a few seconds later added a one-hander from near the foul circle.

This lightning like splurge for eight points kept the Wildcat hopes alive and prompted Hannan, Robertson, and Brehmer to add goals from the floor. Faris was a rugged opponent to stop and it was his nine points in the first half that entitled his club to a 34-27 margin at half time.

Team Starts Fast

Coach Al Severance, a magistrate among his other around-the-clock activities, must have waived the flowery oratory of the bar and substituted the "lingo" that ballplayers understand in his intermission pep talk because the Wildcats came roaring back to register 10 points in three minutes and grab the lead at 37-36. Joe Lord had six of these markers on a tap-in, set shot, and a lay-up.

Zangelmier put the academy out in front again with a field goal, but Joe Brehmer, who played a terrific all around game, snatched the lead for the locals on a one-hander from side court. The King's Pointers moved ahead once more as Harless added two set shots and Faris one. At the thirty minute mark it was 44-40 in favor of the sailors.

Brehmer Controls Rally

Brehmer took personal charge in slowing down an over-anxious club and consistently picked to screen Hannan for his long shots. His coolness in play-making enabled the 'Cats to pull abreast at 47-47. Hannan sank two as Brehmer afforded the protection during the uphill battle. Si Taflan swung the lead to the foreigners again on a foul conversion, but Reybitz added a pivot shot to stop the pendulum with the 'Cats in front, 49-48.

Hannan padded the lead with another set shot and Robertson and Brehmer made good on foul tries when a charging opponent became reckless trying to disrupt the Villanova freeze. Taflan completed the night's scoring with a last minute foul shot. With a lead of 53-49, Villanova elected to waive Bill Burr's foul shot and took the ball out of bounds.

In trying desperately to keep the ball moving, the Wildcats fell afoul of the rules on two occasions. The Mariners, using similar strategy, took the ball out of bounds, but were unable to penetrate a stubborn and victory assured Villanova five. The final score read 53-49.

Faris High With 15

Bill Faris had 15 points followed by teammate Zagelmier with 11 points. The Villanova colors were fairly shouldered by the entire club. Hannan was high with 10, followed by Burr and Lord who had nine apiece. Robertson, Brehmer and Reybitz all had eight.

VISIT FRANKLIN INSTITUTE

Upperclassmen of the Physics Department made a trip to the Franklin Institute last Tuesday, accompanied by Father John H. Crawford, O.S.A., head of the department. While there, they visited the exhibits on the various branches of Physics.

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

job was tending the monkeys in the local zoo at three dollars per. All we know is what we hear. Then there was a job in a hotel for three years. Finally the young man from the West came East to work for the Navy Department in Dec., 1940. He liked his position so much that in July of '42 he joined up and was assigned to Naval Intelligence in Washington.

Come July '43, Andy transferred to the V-12 program and, yearning to see more of the country, typed out his orders with Dartmouth at the top. When it got warm enough to support civilization up there, Andy went out for intramurals and yodeling from one mountain peak to another. Then they caught up with him. He no longer had the power of going where he desired. The Navy Department became the controlling influence, and so he landed at Villanova March 1, 1944. Now the A.S.M.E., as he is a mechanical engineer, and acting as Battalion Adjutant keep Andy busy. Of course when he and Mike take off so mysteriously, heading for points Norris—, we realize that all work and no play makes jack.

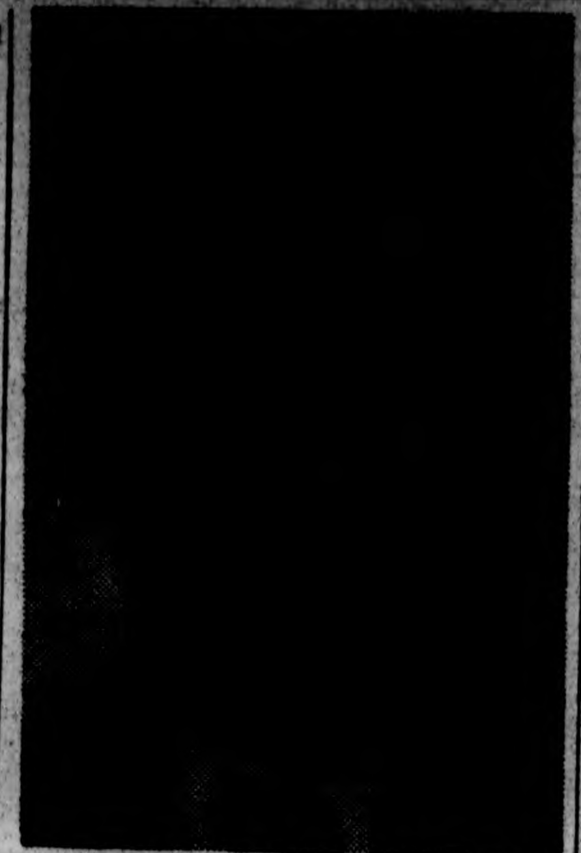
ORVILLE F. ANDERSON

According to the kid from the wild West, he aims to be an engineer in a civil service sort of way, which personally means nothing to us. Shortly after graduation Andy will be married to a "lovely brunette from the prairies" and then see them tumbling down.

When James J. T. Meehan provides food for thought, the meat shortage will no longer bother us. This guy has done more stuff, but we'll get to that later. It all started in Philadelphia about two-thirty in the morning some time during the twentieth century. The Academy of Mercy and St. Joseph Prep provide the necessary fill from the time James was six until eighteen.

Served With A.A.F.

Villanova was first molested by Jimmy in Sept. '39. Then the Army Air Corps started calling and after answering in Feb. '43, James heard, "Greetings"! A quick semester at the University of Cincinnati came next and then the return to Villanova on November 1, 1945. Now here's where it starts coming thick and fast. The Spanish club, the D.P.E., the Veterans' club, the Orientation committee, the Student Council, have you tried a Lucky lately, the all-star intramural basketball team, and numerous dance committees, all this, yes, all this and the History seminar too, are what makes Jimmy jump.



JAMES T. MEEHAN

The happy ending is that he yearns to go to law school. Which reminds us—have you heard, "Mother, you don't need a lawyer, how do you know the butcher saw ya." Or, "Meat rations are getting shorter, the stuff we gets tastes like mortar." And so we remain yours truly—

—C. A. & C. D.

Retreat

Continued From Page One

prudent direction. The spiritual exercises of the Retreat will help you in this all important matter. Due to the accelerated program and the other heavy circumstances surrounding a post-wartime curriculum, the exercises of the Retreat will necessarily be curtailed. We will not be able to call off classes as formerly. This means that we will have to accommodate ourselves to the daily class schedule. It is hoped that you will make use of this opportunity to give some serious thought to your spiritual advancement."

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Fr. O'Callahan

Continued From Page One

efforts in spite of suffocating smoke and searing heat."

This was the conduct of the priest in battle, this was his imitation of "Via Crucis."

Nephew Graduated from Villanova

But Fr. O'Callahan's service to God, his country, and to youth did not start with his enlistment in Navy. It began many years ago when he first realized the call of Christ and decided to live thenceforth 'ad maiorem Dei gloriam.'

After many years in Jesuit seminaries all over the East, Fr. O'Callahan was ordained and was transferred to the graduate school of Georgetown University, to continue his studies of Mathematics. Upon graduation he was assigned to Holy Cross College where he became Dean of the school of Mathematics. Villanova is proud that his nephew, Charles Harrington, graduated from here in the class of '45. Harrington is now serving in the Pacific as an Ensign.

Thus stands Father Joseph T. O'Callahan, a man, a priest, an American.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Big occasion... have a Coke
DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

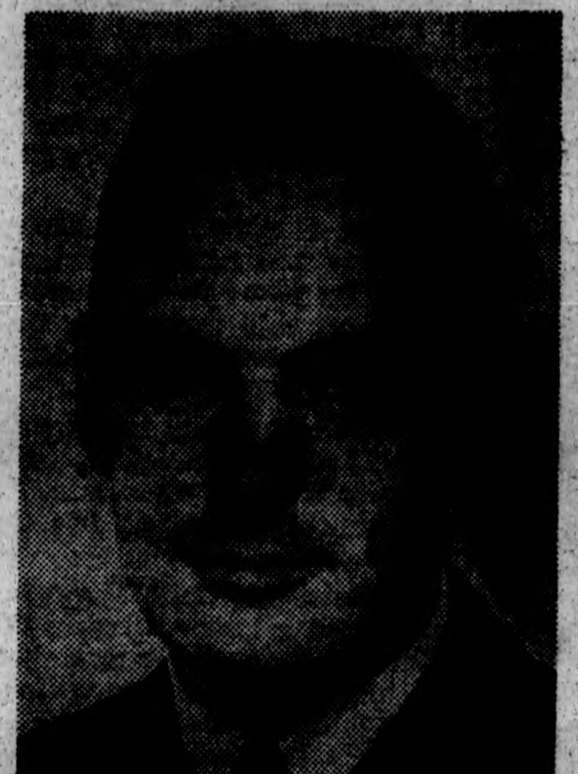
VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 23 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1946

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Former Villanovan Editor Will Speak At Dinner Dance

Edmond P. Reiley To Address First Villanovan Social Function In 4 Years

The first Villanovan dinner-dance to be held since January 1942 will take place tonight at the Covered Wagon Inn, Strafford, Pa., at 7:00 P. M. The dance is to be held exclusively for former and present members of the Villanovan staff, and all arrangements have been made by David I. Ryan, Editor of the Villanovan, and Donald M. Collins, staff writer. Music for the affair will be provided by the Covered Wagon Orchestra.



EDMOND P. REILEY

Present at the dinner in the capacity of guest speaker will be former editor of the Villanovan, Edmond P. Reiley, '35, and his wife. While attending Villanova, Reiley served as Editor-in-chief during the years of 1934-35. He is now the Picture Editor of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and at one time served as rewrite man for the Bulletin, faculty advisor for the "Georgian Court Page," and Editor of the "Villanova Alumnus," a quarterly review concerning the activities of the alumni. During the war Reiley served as a lieutenant (jg) in the Navy for a year and a half, editing a naval newspaper while stationed on Guam. Mr. Reiley is married and is the father of three girls.

At the affair tonight, Mr. Reiley will address the staff on the subject of the College publication in the modern world.

Also present at the dinner-dance as guests of the Villanovan will be Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., vice-president of the College, and Rev. John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., moderator of the Villanovan.

W. Mahoney Dies

One of Villanova's oldest alumni, William P. Mahoney, died this week at his Yeadon, Pa. residence.

Mr. Mahoney was born in Philadelphia on August 7, 1868. He studied Civil Engineering at Villanova and after graduating worked for the Engineering department of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Later he formed his own company.

He was President of the Town Council of Yeadon, a member of the Yeadon fire department and the Knights of Columbus.

1946 Belle Air Reservations Now Available To Servicemen

Four servicemen on the campus have been appointed to accept orders from Naval and Marine students at Villanova for the 1946 Belle Air, which will be available in the latter part of May. A deposit of $1.00 is required with each order.

Those men who have been appointed to accept reservations for the annual college yearbook are: Clyde Kirlin, Mendel Hall; John E. White, Fedigan Hall; K. White Sonner, Austin Hall sailors and Foster Blough, Austin Marines.

Fr. Fenton, OSA, Now Conducting Annual Retreat

"Rehabilitation Of The Student" Is Theme Of Religious Exercises Which Will End On Thursday

By RUSSELL LEO WALSH

Father Francis Fenton, O. S. A., arrived here yesterday to conduct Villanova's 103rd Annual Retreat. The services, starting yesterday afternoon, will continue until Thursday. Holy Mass and a Conference in the morning together with a Conference and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament in the evening will constitute the public official phase of the retreat.

The Reverend Retreat Master stated that the theme of the retreat will be the "Rehabilitation of the Student." The purpose of the retreat is to allow the student time to review the progress of his spiritual life. Ordinarily, when classes are called off, strict silence is observed by all those making the retreat, in order to present the proper atmosphere for meditation. Since this is not possible this year, because of the prevailing conditions, the initiative of the individual will determine the degree of success for the retreatant.

Problems Of A Retreat

A retreat is a vacation without the expense and the occasions of sin which are ordinarily associated with free time. The soul is put into good condition by a sincere Confession. The failures of the past, the temptations that constantly pursue the student, the long road stretching ahead into eternity are the problems of a retreat.

Forget The Past

The Retreat Master is a priest skilled in helping souls who are in difficulty; he gives himself, his knowledge, his experience, his priesthood, entirely to the student. A retreat is the time to finish off the past and forget it. With the help of the Retreat Master, the student can bring his confessions up to date, beg God's forgiveness and receive it.

A Good Job

The Servicemen's Religious Bulletin of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, contained in a recent issue a timely suggestion "advanced centuries ago by the Church" which will help every ex-serviceman. It stated: "As you make the transition from service life to civilian normalcy, make a retreat. If possible join a small group who are undergoing the spiritual house-cleaning and do a good job on yourself.

"Retreats are helpful at all times because they intensify our spirituality, but there are times when the Church suggests that we make particular use of them. In general, we are advised to make a retreat whenever we are making a distinct change in our lives, when we are closing up one phase of it and preparing to enter a new type of endeavor. Certainly the breach between service life and civilian living is a great one and it gives a splendid chance for new and better beginnings."

The Future

Father Fenton explains the general plan for the retreat as being "concerned only with the future. We do not want to drift with the current, we want to pilot our own course through the hazardous shoals which we know very well that we must navigate. We are aware that we shall fail if we go to the job haphazardly; we shall need skillful planning, prudent direction and effective carrythrough.

"The plotting of our attack is not too difficult for the charts are clearly drawn, but the staying-in-the-line, the constant plugging comes hard. We need someone to sustain us, to come to our aid regularly. We have such a Helper in our Blessed Savior in Holy Communion. If we put Him into our future plans then they are taken care of."

DPE Plans For Formal Frolic

C. And F. Fraternity Completes Arrangements For First Post-War Dinner-Dance

Final plans have just been drawn up by Bob Conway for the financier's dinner-dance which will inaugurate the post-war social season of Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity.

The black tie affair will be held in the Hotel Philadelphian's Mirror Room on Saturday, February 16th, and the first course of a roast chicken dinner will be served at seven thirty.

The executive committee has promised an eventful evening for all and has secured an eight piece orchestra for dinner music, and for dancing till midnight. Decorations are being taken care by the hotel, and the management has pledged full cooperation in readying the newly decorated mirror room, one of Quakertown's most fashionable dinner-dancing spots.

Naturally the affair will be a private one, so the C&F'ers will have plenty of room for their guests. The committee has made arrangements for fifty couples.

With so many of the campus leaders taking an active part in affair, the D.P.E. has served notice of rejoining the fraternity league and will again before long become the most active group in college.

A final word will be given those attending by Bob Conway at a meeting to be held on Thursday the seventh of February at one o'clock in 213 Mendel.

Villanovan To Move Office

In the near future, the Villanovan Office will be moved to a new location. The present office located on the main corridor will be used as a temporary annex to the book store.

During the beginning of a new semester it is extremely difficult to purchase books under the present set up because of the great demand and the crowded conditions. To remedy this condition, the Villanovan office will serve as a temporary annex to the book store. In nection with this no major alterations of the room will be necessary, except for the installation of a large counter to provide quicker service, and the removal of the filing cases and typewriters to the new location.

For the next few months the newspaper will be edited in the Belle Air Office, necessitating the moving of that staff to new accommodations in the Commerce and Finance Building.

As usual, the Villanovan will be distributed on Tuesday from the main corridor.

V-12 Graduates Will Cruise For Six Months

A recent directive from the Bureau of Naval Personnel announced that all graduating V-12 students will be assigned to a six month cruise.

According to present knowledge, the graduating Navy men will receive their commission before going to sea, but during the training on the cruise they will wear the uniform of the enlisted man.

VILLANOVA
EX-SERVICEMEN
JUST A PENNY POSTCARD
IS ALL WE ASK
DROP US A LINE
TO LET US KNOW WHEN
YOU HAVE BEEN DISCHARGED
The Alumni Secretary
Villanova College,
Villanova, Pa.

Student Council Holds Reactivation Meeting

Dormant Organization Proposes To Regain Former Status As A Representative Body By Strict Enforcement Of Its Rules

One of the most important meetings affecting campus life at Villanova was held last Thursday in Mendel Hall. The purpose of the Student Council meeting was to raise the dormant organization to a more powerful and functional position.

It was indicated that severe penalties will be meted out to members of the Student Council who miss more than one meeting of that representative body in the future. The question of the frequent absences on the part of some Council members and the proposed system of reprimand was brought to the floor by Council chairman Joseph Hoffman.

Expulsion for Second Offense

The Chairman suggested that if a member is absent in the future, the Council should notify the campus faction which the absentee represents of his failure to attend the meeting. A second offense on the part of the representative would automatically mean his expulsion from the student organization, the chairman explained.

Hoffman's proposals were heatedly discussed by the attending Council representatives, but no decision regarding the proposals were reached.

Future Meetings Scheduled

To insure prompt and full attendance by all members at future meetings, the Council has outlined its schedule. The chairman pointed out that "Although things can not get back to normal as long as the accelerated program is in effect, the Student Council should attempt to revert as far as possible to its pre-war status in campus activities.

"The Student Council," added the Chairman, "is the mediator between the Faculty and the Student Body. All classes and functional activities on the Campus are represented in the Council. In order to derive the benefits for which the organization was established, it is imperative that the representatives be sought out by the students, and that their problems be soberly discussed."

JOSEPH HOFFMAN

STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS

Executives

Joseph Hoffman, Chairman
Harold Varani, Vice Chairman
Harry Edwards, Sec.-Treas.

Representatives

Paul Christenson
Harold Tait
Edwin Keller
William Koerner
Quentin Montonario
Dante Oratzy
David I. Ryan
Lawrence Fallon
John Selfridge

Chen See, Collins In Public Forum Of U N C. Groups

The Intercultural Committee of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia has arranged a public Forum at the University of Pennsylvania on Saturday, Februry 16 at 10:30 A. M.

The Forum is open to the public and will be conducted by representatives of ten colleges in the Philadelphia area. Mr. Jasper Chen See will speak as a foreign College student and Don Collins will represent Villanova in the discussion.

Dr. Earl G. Harrison, Dean of the University of Pennsylvania's Law School, will moderate the discussion. As a topic, Dr. Harrison, in conjunction with Mrs. Yarnall Jacobs and Mrs. Crystal Fauset, Intercultural Committee directors, has chosen the Contribution of Collegiate Education in an Atomic World.

It is the desire of the Intercultural Committee that the Forum be attended by as many students as possible.

Sanctuary Group Hears Fr. Grimes

"Additions to the College of Cardinals and Their Effects on the Modern-day World," was the theme of the talk given by Father Edwin Grimes, OSA, in the first of a series of talks by guest speakers at the monthly Club meetings of the Sanctuary Society. At this, the second meeting since the Club's revival, Father Grimes explained the College of Cardinals and the traditions and laws connected with it, and after the talk opened himself to questions of interest and a discussion on points of his talk.

On Thursday, a business meeting was held at which time the members present voted in an amendment to the Constitution of the Club whereby the Society has the power to hold social functions. Likewise it was decided that prospective members undergo a month's probation period after which they will be voted on for admission.

Father Grimes announced at the meeting that the new membership cards will be given out within a few weeks. With no further business, President Jasper Chen See, closed the meeting.

All men on campus, whether they have had experience on the Altar or not, who wish to become members are urged to leave their names with the Chaplain, or the Club's Secretary, William Janton.

A.S.C.E. Holds Last Social Event Of Semester

The Villanova Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers held its final social event of the semester yesterday afternoon.

The motion pictures, enjoyed by all who attended, were shown. One of the films showed various aspects of the construction of the well known Pennsylvania Turnpike, and the other was a sports reel, showing many interesting sports shots.

The movies were a climax to a successful social season which was highlighted by the A.S.C.E. smoker which was held in late January. That affair was also well attended.

P.K.P. Initiates Thirty-five Men

Last Thursday night the Phi Kappa Pi fraternity initiated and accepted thirty-five new members and with this President Joe Hoffman expressed his enthusiasm for renewed interest in what was one of the most active prewar frats on the campus.

After completing the physical chastisements, the newly initiated members were treated to refreshments, a round of congratulations and free cigarettes. The evening fun turned out most successful and gave the engineers a foothold again in campus fraternity life.

With no winter social activities planned the members will keep their slide rules busy in formulating their Spring program. Hoffman is hopeful of getting some professional men to speak at various times to the group and bring the engineer's planning and working problems right to the campus.

The officers of the frat request that there be full cooperation of the group in attending meetings and full participation in the coming programs.

Intramurals

Continued From Page Three

brought together the rejuvenated Marines and the Alumni Hall team. Pressed all the way, the servicemen rallied in the final minutes to win 24-18.

In facing the hottest team in the circuit on Tuesday night, the Day-Hops didn't fare as well as they did against the Doms. It was simply no contest at all as the Ausmen (first half champs) led 24-5 at the half time mark and 41-15 at the final gun.

After giving the Ausmen plenty of competition all through the first half of the season, it seems as though the Fedigan team has lost all its spark. The absence of Clyde Armstrong, Danny Redmond and Bobby Wilson hurt the Fediganites as they lost their first game to a weak Alumni outfit, 34-18. On Wednesday night their last half rally fell short as the Marines handed them their second defeat, this time by a 33-29 score.

The second game Wednesday night was a field day for the Ausmen as they romped over the Doms, 53-30. Holding the Ausmen to a respectable score until the start of the final quarter, the Doms were finally submerged under a deluge of baskets by Nicholson and Milsop. High scorer of the evening was Milsop with 17 points, closely followed by Nicholson with 14 points.

League Standings

	W.	L.	Pct.
Ausmen	2	0	1.000
Marines	2	0	1.000
Doms	1	1	.500
Alumni	1	1	.500
Day-Hops	0	2	.000
Fedigan	0	2	.000

College Tailor

Coladonato Tailor Shop, Inc.

2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266

We do adjustments the way you want them.

Work and Service—Good

Prices Reasonable

For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"

PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

Down Mariners

Continued From Page Three

then a one-pointer by "Chet" pushed the Cats into the lead for the first time 9-8. Faris and Viau went to work and added three more lay-ups, which with Zagelmier's charity made it 15 to 9, the Mariners in the van. "Toad" Hannan followed up his own unfruitful foul toss and scored. It was unnecessary for the Mariners to try any long shots as they persisted in drifting through the Wildcat defense for easy "ducks."

Burr Starts Rally

Bill Burr came into the game for the home team, his club trailing 21-12, and he immediately took command to change the complexion of the game. His play all season reflects team interest and his passing, floor work, and all-around aggressive play have been instrumental in most of Villanova's victories. Last Wednesday he again came through and in the space of two minutes had Villanova back in the ball game. He intercepted three alien passes and scored three times and a few seconds later added a one-hander from near the foul circle.

This lightning like splurge for eight points kept the Wildcat hopes alive and prompted Hannan, Robertson, and Brehmer to add goals from the floor. Faris was a rugged opponent to stop and it was his nine points in the first half that entitled his club to a 34-27 margin at half time.

Team Starts Fast

Coach Al Severance, a magistrate among his other around-the-clock activities, must have waived the flowery oratory of the bar and substituted the "lingo" that ballplayers understand in his intermission pep talk because the Wildcats came roaring back to register 10 points in three minutes and grab the lead at 37-36. Joe Lord had six of these markers on a tap-in, set shot, and a lay-up.

Zangelmier put the academy out in front again with a field goal, but Joe Brehmer, who played a terrific all around game, snatched the lead for the locals on a one-hander from side court. The King's Pointers moved ahead once more as Harless added two set shots and Faris one. At the thirty minute mark it was 44-40 in favor of the sailors.

Brehmer Controls Rally

Brehmer took personal charge in slowing down an over-anxious club and consistently picked to screen Hannan for his long shots. His coolness in play-making enabled the 'Cats to pull abreast at 47-47. Hannan sank two as Brehmer afforded the protection during the uphill battle. Si Taflan swung the lead to the foreigners again on a foul conversion, but Reybitz added a pivot shot to stop the pendulum with the 'Cats in front, 49-48.

Hannan padded the lead with another set shot and Robertson and Brehmer made good on foul tries when a charging opponent became reckless trying to disrupt the Villanova freeze. Taflan completed the night's scoring with a last minute foul shot. With a lead of 53-49, Villanova elected to waive Bill Burr's foul shot and took the ball out of bounds.

In trying desperately to keep the ball moving, the Wildcats fell afoul of the rules on two occasions. The Mariners, using similar strategy, took the ball out of bounds, but were unable to penetrate a stubborn and victory assured Villanova five. The final score read 53-49.

Faris High With 15

Bill Faris had 15 points followed by teammate Zagelmier with 11 points. The Villanova colors were fairly shouldered by the entire club. Hannan was high with 10, followed by Burr and Lord who had nine apiece. Robertson, Brehmer and Reybitz all had eight.

VISIT FRANKLIN INSTITUTE

Upperclassmen of the Physics Department made a trip to the Franklin Institute last Tuesday, accompanied by Father John H. Crawford, O.S.A., head of the department. While there, they visited the exhibits on the various branches of Physics.

Meet the Boys

Continu d From Page Two

job was tending the monkeys in the local zoo at three dollars per. All we know is what we hear. Then there was a job in a hotel for three years. Finally the young man from the West came East to work for the Navy Department in Dec., 1940. He liked his position so much that in July of '42 he joined up and was assigned to Naval Intelligence in Washington.

Come July '43, Andy transferred to the V-12 program and, yearning to see more of the country, typed out his orders with Dartmouth at the top. When it got warm enough to support civilization up there, Andy went out for intramurals and yodeling from one mountain peak to another. Then they caught up with him. He no longer had the power of going where he desired. The Navy Department became the controlling influence, and so he landed at Villanova March 1, 1944. Now the A.S.M.E., as he is a mechanical engineer, and acting as Battalion Adjutant keep Andy busy. Of course when he and Mike take off so mysteriously, heading for points Norris—, we realize that all work and no play makes jack.

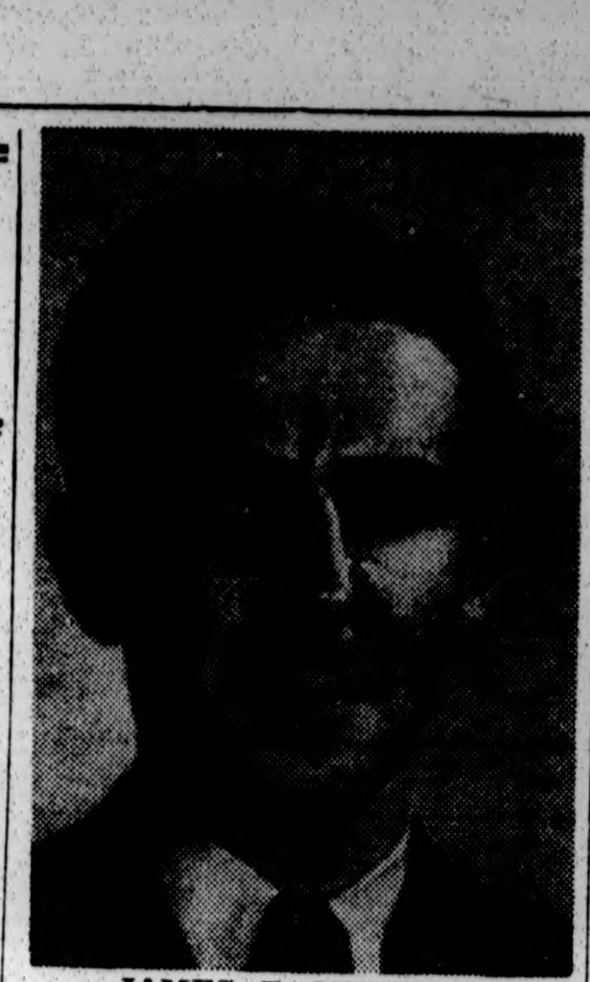
ORVILLE F. ANDERSON

According to the kid from the wild West, he aims to be an engineer in a civil service sort of way, which personally means nothing to us. Shortly after graduation Andy will be married to a "lovely brunette from the prairies" and then see them tumbling down.

When James J. T. Meehan provides food for thought, the meat shortage will no longer bother us. This guy has done more stuff, but we'll get to that later. It all started in Philadelphia about two-thirty in the morning some time during the twentieth century. The Academy of Mercy and St. Joseph Prep provide the necessary fill from the time James was six until eighteen.

Served With A.A.F.

Villanova was first molested by



JAMES T. MEEHAN

Jimmy in Sept. '39. Then the Army Air Corps started calling and after answering in Feb. '43, James heard, "Greetings"! A quick semester at the University of Cincinnati came next and then the return to Villanova on November 1, 1945. Now here's where it starts coming thick and fast. The Spanish club, the D.P.E., the Veterans' club, the Orientation committee, the Student Council, have you tried a Lucky lately, the all-star intramural basketball team, and numerous dance committees, all this, yes, all this and the History seminar too, are what makes Jimmy jump.

The happy ending is that he yearns to go to law school. Which reminds us—have you heard, "Mother, you don't need a lawyer, how do you know the butcher saw ya." Or, "Meat rations are getting shorter, the stuff we gets tastes like mortar." And so we remain yours truly—

—C. A. & C. D.

Retreat

Continued From Page One

prudent direction. The spiritual exercises of the Retreat will help you in this all important matter. Due to the accelerated program and the other heavy circumstances surrounding a post-wartime curriculum, the exercises of the Retreat will necessarily be curtailed. We will not be able to call off classes as formerly. This means that we will have to accommodate ourselves to the daily class schedule. It is hoped that you will make use of this opportunity to give some serious thought to your spiritual advancement."

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Fr. O'Callahan

Continued From Page One

efforts in spite of suffocating smoke and searing heat."

This was the conduct of the priest in battle, this was his imitation of "Via Crucis."

Nephew Graduated from Villanova

But Fr. O'Callahan's service to God, his country, and to youth did not start with his enlistment in Navy. It began many years ago when he first realized the call of Christ and decided to live thenceforth 'ad maiorem Dei gloriam.'

After many years in Jesuit seminaries all over the East, Fr. O'Callahan was ordained and was transferred to the graduate school of Georgetown University, to continue his studies of Mathematics. Upon graduation he was assigned to Holy Cross College where he became Dean of the school of Mathematics. Villanova is proud that his nephew, Charles Harrington, graduated from here in the class of '45. Harrington is now serving in the Pacific as an Ensign.

Thus stands Father Joseph T. O'Callahan, a man, a priest, an American.

JEANNETT'S FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Big occasion... have a Coke
DRINK Coca-Cola
©1945 The C-C Co.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 23 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1946

Former Villanovan Editor Will Speak At Dinner Dance

Edmond P. Reiley To Address First Villanovan Social Function In 4 Years

The first Villanovan dinner-dance to be held since January 1942 will take place tonight at the Covered Wagon Inn, Strafford, Pa., at 7:00 P. M. The dance is to be held exclusively for former and present members of the Villanovan staff, and all arrangements have been made by David I. Ryan, Editor of the Villanovan, and Donald M. Collins, staff writer. Music for the affair will be provided by the Covered Wagon Orchestra.

EDMOND P. REILEY

Present at the dinner in the capacity of guest speaker will be former editor of the Villanovan, Edmond P. Reiley, '35, and his wife. While attending Villanova, Reiley served as Editor-in-chief during the years of 1934-35. He is now the Picture Editor of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and at one time served as rewrite man for the Bulletin, faculty advisor for the "Georgian Court Page," and Editor of the "Villanova Alumnus," a quarterly review concerning the activities of the alumni. During the war Reiley served as a lieutenant (jg) in the Navy for a year and a half, editing a naval newspaper while stationed on Guam. Mr. Reiley is married and is the father of three girls.

At the affair tonight, Mr. Reiley will address the staff on the subject of the College publication in the modern world.

Also present at the dinner-dance as guests of the Villanovan will be Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., vice-president of the College, and Rev. John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., moderator of the Villanovan.

W. Mahoney Dies

One of Villanova's oldest alumni, William P. Mahoney, died this week at his Yeadon, Pa. residence.

Mr. Mahoney was born in Philadelphia on August 7, 1868. He studied Civil Engineering at Villanova and after graduating worked for the Engineering department of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Later he formed his own company.

He was President of the Town Council of Yeadon, a member of the Yeadon fire department and the Knights of Columbus.

1946 Belle Air Reservations Now Available To Servicemen

Four servicemen on the campus have been appointed to accept orders from Naval and Marine students at Villanova for the 1946 Belle Air, which will be available in the latter part of May. A deposit of $1.00 is required with each order.

Those men who have been appointed to accept reservations for the annual college yearbook are: Clyde Kirlin, Mendel Hall; John E. White, Fedigan Hall; K White Sonner, Austin Hall sailors and Foster Blough, Austin Marines.

Fr. Fenton, OSA, Now Conducting Annual Retreat

"Rehabilitation Of The Student" Is Theme Of Religious Exercises Which Will End On Thursday

By RUSSELL LEO WALSH

Father Francis Fenton, O. S. A., arrived here yesterday to conduct Villanova's 103rd Annual Retreat. The services, starting yesterday afternoon, will continue until Thursday. Holy Mass and a Conference in the morning together with a Conference and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament in the evening will constitute the public official phase of the retreat.

The Reverend Retreat Master stated that the theme of the retreat will be the "Rehabilitation of the Student." The purpose of the retreat is to allow the student time to review the progress of his spiritual life. Ordinarily, when classes are called off, strict silence is observed by all those making the retreat, in order to present the proper atmosphere for meditation. Since this is not possible this year, because of the prevailing conditions, the initiative of the individual will determine the degree of success for the retreatant.

Problems Of A Retreat

A retreat is a vacation without the expense and the occasions of sin which are ordinarily associated with free time. The soul is put into good condition by a sincere Confession. The failures of the past, the temptations that constantly pursue the student, the long road stretching ahead into eternity are the problems of a retreat.

Forget The Past

The Retreat Master is a priest skilled in helping souls who are in difficulty; he gives himself, his knowledge, his experience, his priesthood, entirely to the student. A retreat is the time to finish off the past and forget it. With the help of the Retreat Master, the student can bring his confessions up to date, beg God's forgiveness and receive it.

A Good Job

The Servicemen's Religious Bulletin of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, contained in a recent issue a timely suggestion "advanced centuries ago by the Church" which will help every ex-serviceman. It stated: "As you make the transition from service life to civilian normalcy, make a retreat. If possible join a small group who are undergoing the spiritual house-cleaning and do a good job on yourself.

"Retreats are helpful at all times because they intensify our spirituality, but there are times when the Church suggests that we make particular use of them. In general, we are advised to make a retreat whenever we are making a distinct change in our lives, when we are closing up one phase of it and preparing to enter a new type of endeavor. Certainly the breach between service life and civilian living is a great one and it gives a splendid chance for new and better beginnings."

The Future

Father Fenton explains the general plan for the retreat as being "concerned only with the future. We do not want to drift with the current, we want to pilot our own course through the hazardous shoals which we know very well that we must navigate. We are aware that we shall fail if we go to the job haphazardly; we shall need skillful planning, prudent direction and effective carrythrough.

"The plotting of our attack is not too difficult for the charts are clearly drawn, but the staying-in-the-line, the constant plugging comes hard. We need someone to sustain us, to come to our aid regularly. We have such a Helper in our Blessed Savior in Holy Communion. If we put Him into our future plans then they are taken care of."

DPE Plans For Formal Frolic

C. And F. Fraternity Completes Arrangements For First Post-War Dinner-Dance

Final plans have just been drawn up by Bob Conway for the financier's dinner-dance which will inaugurate the post-war social season of Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity.

The black tie affair will be held in the Hotel Philadelphian's Mirror Room on Saturday, February 16th, and the first course of a roast chicken dinner will be served at seven thirty.

The executive committee has promised an eventful evening for all and has secured an eight piece orchestra for dinner music, and for dancing till midnight. Decorations are being taken care by the hotel, and the management has pledged full cooperation in readying the newly decorated mirror room, one of Quakertown's most fashionable dinner-dancing spots.

Naturally the affair will be a private one, so the C&F'ers will have plenty of room for their guests. The committee has made arrangements for fifty couples.

With so many of the campus leaders taking an active part in affair, the D.P.E. has served notice of rejoining the fraternity league and will again before long become the most active group in college.

A final word will be given those attending by Bob Conway at a meeting to be held on Thursday the seventh of February at one o'clock in 213 Mendel.

Villanovan To Move Office

In the near future, the Villanovan Office will be moved to a new location. The present office located on the main corridor will be used as a temporary annex to the book store.

During the beginning of a new semester it is extremely difficult to purchase books under the present set up because of the great demand and the crowded conditions. To remedy this condition, the Villanovan office will serve as a temporary annex to the book store. In nection with this no major alterations of the room will be necessary, except for the installation of a large counter to provide quicker service, and the removal of the filing cases and typewriters to the new location.

For the next few months the newspaper will be edited in the Belle Air Office, necessitating the moving of that staff to new accommodations in the Commerce and Finance Building.

As usual, the Villanovan will be distributed on Tuesday from the main corridor.

V-12 Graduates Will Cruise For Six Months

A recent directive from the Bureau of Naval Personnel announced that all graduating V-12 students will be assigned to a six month cruise.

According to present knowledge, the graduating Navy men will receive their commission before going to sea, but during the training on the cruise they will wear the uniform of the enlisted man.

VILLANOVA EX-SERVICEMEN

JUST A PENNY POSTCARD IS ALL WE ASK

DROP US A LINE TO LET US KNOW WHEN YOU HAVE BEEN DISCHARGED

The Alumni Secretary
Villanova College,
Villanova, Pa.

Student Council Holds Reactivation Meeting

Dormant Organization Proposes To Regain Former Status As A Representative Body By Strict Enforcement Of Its Rules

One of the most important meetings affecting campus life at Villanova was held last Thursday in Mendel Hall. The purpose of the Student Council meeting was to raise the dormant organization to a more powerful and functional position.

It was indicated that severe penalties will be meted out to members of the Student Council who miss more than one meeting of that representative body in the future. The question of the frequent absences on the part of some Council members and the proposed system of reprimand was brought to the floor by Council chairman Joseph Hoffman.

Expulsion for Second Offense

The Chairman suggested that if a member is absent in the future, the Council should notify the campus faction which the absentee represents of his failure to attend the meeting. A second offense on the part of the representative would automatically mean his expulsion from the student organization, the chairman explained.

Hoffman's proposals were heatedly discussed by the attending Council representatives, but no decision regarding the proposals were reached.

Future Meetings Scheduled

To insure prompt and full attendance by all members at future meetings, the Council has outlined its schedule. The chairman pointed out that "Although things can not get back to normal as long as the accelerated program is in effect, the Student Council should attempt to revert as far as possible to its pre-war status in campus activities.

"The Student Council," added the Chairman, "is the mediator between the Faculty and the Student Body. All classes and functional activities on the Campus are represented in the Council. In order to derive the benefits for which the organization was established, it is imperative that the representatives be sought out by the students, and that their problems be soberly discussed."

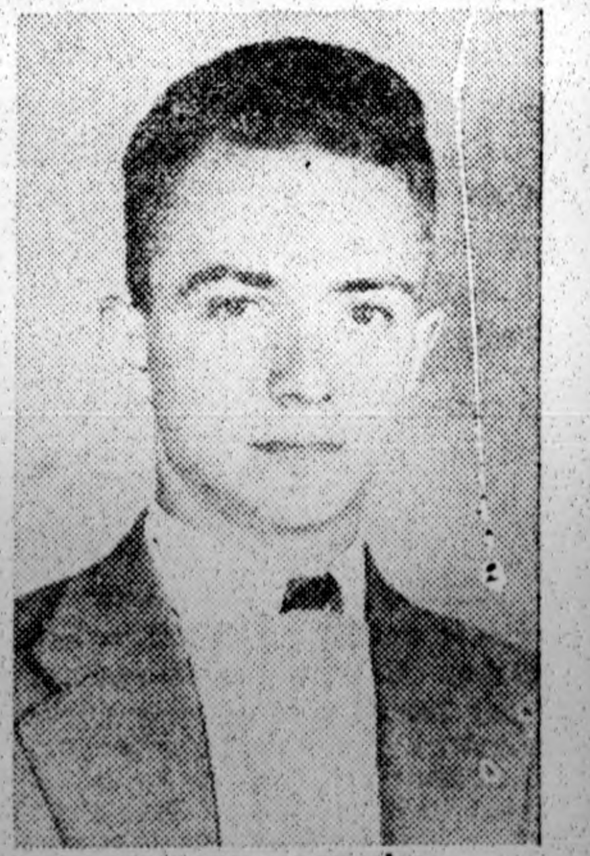
STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS

Executives

Joseph Hoffman, Chairman
Harold Varani, Vice Chairman
Harry Edwards, Sec.-Treas.

Representatives

Paul Christenson
Harold Tait
Edwin Keller
William Koerner
Quentin Montonario
Dante Oratzy
David I. Ryan
Lawrence Fallon
John Selfridge



JOSEPH HOFFMAN

Chen See, Collins 'n Public Forum Of U. N. C. Groups

The Intercultural Committee of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia has arranged a public Forum at the University of Pennsylvania on Saturday, Februry 16 at 10:30 A. M.

The Forum is open to the public and will be conducted by representatives of ten colleges in the Philadelphia area. Mr. Jasper Chen See will speak as a foreign College student and Don Collins will represent Villanova in the discussion.

Dr. Earl G. Harrison, Dean of the University of Pennsylvania's Law School, will moderate the discussion. As a topic, Dr. Harrison, in conjunction with Mrs. Yarnall Jacobs and Mrs. Crystal Fauset, Intercultural Committee directors, has chosen the Contribution of Collegiate Education in an Atomic World.

It is the desire of the Intercultural Committee that the Forum be attended by as many students as possible.

Sanctuary Group Hears Fr. Grimes

"Additions to the College of Cardinals and Their Effects on the Modern-day World," was the theme of the talk given by Father Edwin Grimes, OSA, in the first of a series of talks by guest speakers at the monthly Club meetings of the Sanctuary Society. At this, the second meeting since the Club's revival, Father Grimes explained the College of Cardinals and the traditions and laws connected with it, and after the talk opened himself to questions of interest and a discussion on points of his talk.

On Thursday, a business meeting was held at which time the members present voted in an amendment to the Constitution of the Club whereby the Society has the power to hold social functions. Likewise it was decided that prospective members undergo a month's probation period after which they will be voted on for admission.

Father Grimes announced at the meeting that the new membership cards will be given out within a few weeks. With no further business, President Jasper Chen See, closed the meeting.

All men on campus, whether they have had experience on the Altar or not, who wish to become members are urged to leave their names with the Chaplain, or the Club's Secretary, William Janton.

A.S.C.E. Holds Last Social Event Of Semester

The Villanova Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers held its final social event of the semester yesterday afternoon.

The motion pictures, enjoyed by all who attended, were shown. One of the films showed various aspects of the construction of the well known Pennsylvania Turnpike, and the other was a sports reel, showing many interesting sports shots.

The movies were a climax to a successful social season which was highlighted by the A.S.C.E. smoker which was held in late January. That affair was also well attended.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 ....Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 ....Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC ....Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 ....Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 ....Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 ....Photography Editor

News Staff
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Edward A. Loughrey, '48
William B. Carey Jr., '46
Donald J. Sommer, '48
William Altenponi, '47
Donald M. Collins, '47
George O'Neill, '47
John P. Murphy, '48

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Charles Cummings, U.S.N.R.
Harold Varani, '46
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, U.S.N.R.

Photography Staff
Albert Derr, '46

Business Staff
William Wescott, '47
J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Peter McManus, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office Decembe
7, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Ass ciation and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - FEBRUARY 5, 1946

The Council Advances

LAST WEEK there was a meeting of the Student Council. In another section of this paper a full report has been made on it; but we here wish to congratulate the members of the council for a long and conscious step in the right direction. It is altogether true that the more important points discussed and those on which any agreement was reached were largely concerned with the reorganization of the council itself. But this must not be construed to mean that any action taken was an artificial and effete excuse for the group's existance.

No muscles of a body can function if they are not bonded to a firm and integrated skeleton. To enable this organization to accomplish its limited ends an as-rigid-as-possible frame must be sagaciously and diplomatically constructed. Before operation the machine must be designed and built.

The investigation of the student groups represented indicates awareness of responsibility that the student's guiding activity should have. The vital nature of the school's organization demands the frequent reviewal of these groups to ascertain their importance and the representation due them.

The new method instituted to determine the sentiment of the undergraduate body should also come in for praise. This bill accentuates the senatorial nature of the Council's members and will certainly enable them to gain a more cosmopolitan view of the students' needs and desires.

The Council has found the right road and deserves a vote of thanks. We hope they continue this revitalization and form an organization which will be in a position to handle the affairs of next term's greatly expanded enrollment.

DONALD M. COLLINS.

Camp to Campus

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

Although the newspaper shortage is over, there is still a lack of news. However, word reaches us that Dutch Fauber, now at Camp Lejuene has become a six striper and now has a private room. He is said to be working (?) in the field as a Radar technician and rumor has it from Austin Hall that he had something to do with the recent radar trip to the "man in the moon." Coming next to Portsmouth, Virginia the Naval Hospital says that the local flash of Simpson Hall, P.M. 2/C Bob Fenton is really running the place. Bob tells that he has not been in for a visit since he spends all his free time in Brooklyn with the "Blonde Bombshell." To finish up in the South we hear from his brother that big Ed Riley, of the Merchant Marine, is currently enjoying a vacation in the West Indies on board a first class tanker.

Highlight of the week: Former Villanovan George Guida won the 300 yard Invitation dash at the Philadelphia Inquirer meet a week ago Saturday. George left Villanova in 1942 and is currently stationed at Rensselaer Polytech with the V-12 unit. Congratulations George!

Ex-baseball man Pvt. Maurice Hertzfeld sends us word that he is stationed at Fort Dix. Murph is engaged in "Counseling Work" in reference to the separation center. For a definition consult the Army. Tackle Jim Smith is now a Private, stationed at Indiantown Gap. Jim hopes that he will get down for the D.P.E. Dinner-Dance before he is shipped overseas.

Last but not the forgotten place this week goes to Pvt. Art Alois, a football star in his freshman year, who has just returned from Italy. Art tells us that while over there he attended the University of Milan. In the end he will be back to Villanova.

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

"Never does a man know the force that is in him till some mighty affection or grief has humanized the soul."
—Frederick Robertson.
The Notre Dame Scholastic.

* * *

Well ahem—so we start nobly, officially.

* * *

Notre Dame students dirty 67,850 pieces of laundry per week.
—The Notre Dame Scholastic.

* * *

Two modern knights on a subway:
1st: "Whatcha got your eyes closed for " "Feeling bad?"
2nd: "No, I just hate to see ladies standing." —The Tatler.

* * *

The Muller-Benz entry kept a very complete record. It "coughed" when the Judge said "go." It didn't like its "new belts." In frenzy it was worked on one hour and eleven minutes before it stopped "balking."

It reached near-by Lincoln Park in grand style, "twine wrapped around its pneumatic tires" and one of its three musketeers cooling the engine with ice and another sanding belt. Rough roads bent the clutch. Rougher roads tumbled the three gentlemen out for pushing purposes. Stops were made for repairs, oil, ice, snow, and sandwiches. No wonder at the 35 mile junction that one of the three transferred to a horse-drawn cutter. No wonder that Muller, the driver, "went to pieces" soon after. Next he fainted. The third and last man took over the driver's seat. He crossed the line with a record of 10 hours and 47 minutes and with the still unconscious Muller at his side. The official record says of the car: "her return journey through the parks and boulevards was lonely and unnoticed." The gayeties of the evening had called away the large and jolly morning crowds.

And then the judges declared all contestants guilty in "one manner or another" and the $5000 award with withdrawn.
—The Plainsman.

Gad those judges really gave those stout lads a raw deal, eh?

* * *

Well as V. J. McPeak (He's usually up studying anatomy when the Blue Bird of Happiness is spreading joy.) says "It's all the same; it's in the game, the bitter and the sweet."

* * *

Drunk: (After bumping into the the same tree three times) Losht —Losht in an impenetrable forest!
—The Flaming Bomb.

* * *

Fare Please

Reluctantly a potential draftee faced a medical examining officer, who asked him to read a chart.

"What chart " asked the potential rookie.

The examining officer persevered: "Just sit in this chair and I'll show you."

"What chair?" asked the patient.

Finally deferred because of bad eyesight, the draft-dodger went to a nearby movie that night. When the lights went on he was horrified to discover the examining officer in the next seat.

"Excuse me," said the shirker, "does this bus go to New Orleans?"
—The Santa Clara.

* * *

"Some girls are afraid of mice—others have pretty legs."
—Ball State News.

* * *

1st Joe College: "The girls around here are biased."

2nd Joe College: "Yeah buy us this and buy us that until I'm broke."
—The Tatler.

* * *

"What's worse than raining cats and dogs?" inquired the Senior.

"I don't know murmured the Freshman, "Unless it's hailing a street car."
—West Point "Pointer."

That's all for now. But say, you didn't know that our good St. Thomas is still alive and kicking, did you? Well he is, and what's more he's still dirtying sheets and pillow cases. We have proof. Yes here we have a bill from the Bluemont Laundry dated Jan. 18, 1946 which relates—

1 Sp. Dim.
2 pillows
1 sheet

And at the end of the bill is a space for the customer's name—
Name—St. Thomas.

—Jas. T. Mackey.

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

Stuck again. We've been told week after week to produce a humorous column, but this week we just can't think of anything much to amuse you (not that we ever did). We thought we were alone in this situation but after many hours of extensive reading we found that lots of other Longfellows were in the same predicament and they expressed it this way. . .

If it's funny enough to tell, it's been told
If it hasn't been told, it's too clean; and
If it's dirty enough to interest
the students,
The editor gets kicked out of school
If I could only be sure he'd be kicked out. . .

* * *

Doc Loeflad took over the senior religion class last week during which he described the ideal marriage. Our definition of marriage . . .an institution in which two not knowing any better are bonded in the old fashioned infrangable knot, after which the old mother-in-law legend becomes a nightmare. . . Carl Ungaro kept the class going by asking many interesting questions. . .could be that Carl has a past??' . . . Joe Centrone, one of the poor unfortunates who has entered the institution refused to comment on Doc's pointers. We wonder why! ! The class was a complete sell out. In fact we had a few unexpected guests such as Dave Generalli. Aren't you a bit ahead of yourself, Dave?????? If any of you poor faithful readers have questions concerning said class, submit them to this column and we assure you no answers. . .

* * *

Senator George Murray has been paying quite a bit of attention to a certain young chick from Rosemont named Helen, however complications have set in, Frank graduates in three weeks. TUF Frank.

Treasurer George O'Neill of D.P.E. has been seen buying a pair of women's shoes for someone in Binghamton. George claims they are for his sister. There we go again with that old sister act. . .

* * *

It was noticed that all indications point to having better food in our MESS hall. . .that must be the reason why many of the ship's company break into the mess line. Why not try standing awhile to raise an appetite, one really eats more that way.

Burt Cox seems to be all aflutter over this new find of his. Hearsay has it that he plans to be occupied for three days this week with that certain little friend. You've got it bad and that ain't good, Burt.

Carl Annas has finally found time to do his Accounting homework. He now does it while on a date. He is really concerned about his figures!!!

John Ciotola and Bill Ferguson have instituted a new course in the curriculum. Upon the completion of two semesters' study you will receive a B.S. in Pinochle. One of their more advanced students is Jim Riley whose next lesson will be to get his signals straight.

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

As we dig to the bottom of the pile, we come up first with Julius Arnold Palley. Nobody cares too much, but the remaining essential of his birth is June 10, 1925 in Worcester, Mass. Many of the early days of friend Palley were spent in attending schools. Of course, going to school in Worcester isn't like to going to school any place else in the country. There the warden comes around at four in the morning, pokes a hot jimmy between your toes and cheerfully says, "Come on, kiddies, rise and shine, the weather out is really fine, so get up before I beat your heads in." And so it was that Beazy (the nickname he received because he was the eager beaver of Sever Prep, very beasy) launched on his career through said Sever Prep. and Classical High.

One day as Julius was pucking away on the G-string of his fiddle, the good music supervisor of Classical approached and said, "Palley old man, wouldn't you like to play a horn?" "Why, yes sire, I would." "Well, learn how then, because if you don't, I'll break that lousy fiddle over your head." Beazy joined the band. And the debating club, and the student council, which makes for a fine murdering of the rules and regulations of sentence structure.

Main Line Playboy

After two years of serving as assistant to the assistant shipper's assistant, Beaz joined the Navy and went to Worcester Poly somethingorother Institute where he played a little football, very little after the coach saw him, and then came to Villanova, March 1, 1944. Outside of the A.S.M.E. and playing some intramural softball, Beazy had gotten a lot from his stay in these parts. Certain connections, example nearby Wayne, will be most beneficial in years to come. The answer to that one lies in the Dec. 18th edition of the Villanovan or a penny post card to this column.

One day Ebenhart Q. Pillzingtrough, fire chief of Hutsut on the Merrimac, told J.A. he would make a good salesman, and not wanting to waste his education as a mechanical engineer, J.A. plans on sales engineering to supplement his relief check.

Who?

Who is the most worried guy on the campus, and not about the mechanical engineering he is supposedly studying? Who was born in Maplewood, N. J., March 31, 1925 with unsolved problems staring him in the face? Who struggled through Tuscan Grammar School, Maplewood Junior High, and Columbia High School perplexed upon entering and more so on leaving? If you're interested in finding out, jump to the end of the column, but if the suspense isn't too much, we shall proceed. "Who" spent most of his leisure time "borrowing" stuff from the junk yard where he was employed? He was able to build three automobiles, four washing machines, and a pogo-stick from the various and sundry articles which fell into his hands.

EDWARD FIMBEL, JR.

To evade the police force of Maplewood, who were on the trail of a pair of hot nylons, "who" joined the Navy and went to Swarthmore till the heat was off in July of '43. He passed Physics by giving the unwanted material to his Physics professor's wife. Once more a clear

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

White Sonner, Ausmen Center and leading scorer in the Intramural League, leaps high to score two points in a recent game. Wagner (4) of the Doms, and an unidentified Ausmen player looks on.

Wildcats Lose Second To Princeton Tigers, 44-36

Quintet Fails To Avenge Earlier 47-40 Defeat In Slow Game. Late Goals By Doar Put Orange And Black Ahead

By JIM McNAMARA

Villanova's basketball quintet ran into trouble at Princeton last Wednesday night and for the second time this season were defeated by the Tigers, this time by the score of 44-36. By virtue of the victory the Orange and Black moved out in front in the over all series with three victories against two setbacks. It was the eleventh loss of the current campaign for the 'Cats compared with six victories.

For the first 20 minutes the game was a see-saw battle with both teams sharing the lead twice. Don Robertson dropped a free throw at 0:18 to put the Wildcats into the lead, and Joe Brehmer added a lay-up the next time the Villanovans came down the floor. Brehmer's shot was his typical underhand, hesitation shot that brought a partisan crowd to its feet to acknowledge a great play. Marty Zundel, a three letter man in major Princeton sports, registered two points under the basket, but Joe Lord maintained the three point margin by dropping a set shot from the corner.

'Cats Provide Excitement

For the next four minutes Baker Rink was rocking with excitement as the crowd lustily approved of the classy, sure-fire passing and Frank Merriwell shots that Villanova team unveiled. The 'Cats mixed a slow weave with big "Chooch" Gonglefski in the pivot and at times a fast break.

Lord scored again on a tap-in before Johnny Doar and Chad Johnson contributed their double deckers for the Bengals. With the score 7-6 still in favor of Villanova, Bill Burr, the smallest man in a five-man scramble under the basket, outjumped his taller friends and foes to tap in a rebound. Skolnick and Dapcio added single free throws for Princeton and a field goal by Dapcio moved the Tigers into the lead at 10-9. "Toad" Hannan's charity tied the score and Brehmer's put the 'Cats in the lead again. A long set shot by Johnson swung the lead to the Tigers again, this time for keeps.

The Ivy Leaguers maintained this one point margin at 21-20 with a minute to go until half time. Doar, who shoots almost every shot with one hand, dropped a typical stab from the sideline and Zundel added a one pointer to conclude the scoring for the first 20 minutes. "Robie" Robertson's desperation shot from beyond half court beat the echo but not the initial bark of the half time gun for no goal and Princeton retired with a shaky 24-20 lead.

The second round belonged to Chad Johnson, who put on a brilliant exhibition of shooting. He dropped 4 straight set shots while taking only 4 shots in the space of 3 minutes. Hannan and Brehmer were meanwhile scoring on set shots for the Blue and White. "Chooch" Gonglefski laid one up in close and Lord added two charities.

Johnson scored again, after dribbling through the lane, to pad the Tiger's lead. Hannan's set shot and a foul and basket by Brehmer closed the gap to 34-33. Skolnick and Doar decided Johnson could use a little help so they offered a basket apiece for the cause. Johnson rang up one more set shot and called it a night. "Ed" Reybitz, who had replaced Gonglefski, added three points to conclude the Wildcats point making. Johnny Doar piled on four more points for added security in the waning minutes. With an eight point lead and less than a minute to go the Nassau club waived a foul try and took the ball out of bounds. A solid freeze nudged the second hand along and the game ended with Princeton in front 44-36.

Bainbridge Wins Fast Game Over Villanova, 77-55

By Dick Somers

The high scoring Bainbridge Naval Training Station basketball team defeated Villanova, 77-55 last Saturday night on the local floor. It was the ninth consecutive victory for the Sailors and extended the 'Cats losing streak to four games.

Bob Metcalf paced the Bainbridge attack with eleven field goals and one foul for twenty-three points. Paul Gordon, eighteen, Randy Clark, fourteen, and Brooks Ricca, ten, gave him plenty of assistance. Between them they scored sixty-five points, or ten more than the entire Blue and White team could produce.

Hannan's Final Goal

Villanova's big guns were all named Joe, surnames Lord, Hannan, and Brehmer. Lord increased his season total to 229 by connecting for ten baskets. Brehmer was third high with four and five for thirteen points. Hannan was in the middle with six goals and three fouls in his final game in a Blue and White uniform. He was second high in scoring with 156 points on sixty-three field goals and thirty fouls.

Goals by Ricca and Metcalf gave Bainbridge a 6-0 lead before Villanova could find the range on the basket. Hannan, Brehmer, and Lord brought the score up to 11-10 about half way through the first half. This was the closest that the score got all evennig.

18 Points Margin at Half

From this point the Sailors put on the pressure and built up a comfortable lead. Clark, Gordon, and Metcalf were hitting the cords shots. Brehmer was high man for the 'Cats with eleven points. Half-time score was; Bainbridge 42, Villanova 24.

Play in the second half was spirited and the scoring maintained its high speed. Metcalf and Gordon supplied the punch for Bainbridge as the difference between the teams varied from twenty to thirty points. Lord and Hannan were the only Villanova men able to find the range consistently.

Sailors Control the Boards

Defensively, the Sailors kept the Blue and White off balance throughout the game and gave them very few chances to take clean shots at the hoop. The center was so effectively blocked that not more than ten shots were taken from less then fifteen feet out. They also controlled both backboards, thereby preventing tap-ins on rebounds. Thus, by the simple process of controlling the ball, they were able to force the 'Cats into playing firehouse ball and take advantage of the loose ball handling and erratic shooting that resulted.

Bainbridge was also superior from the foul line. They made eleven out of the fourteen tries they were given during the evening.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

The Campus Barber Shop

First Class Work
Popular Prices

Villanova Meets Rider, Scranton During Week

Play Trenton Team Tomorrow Night And Scranton Saturday. Visitors Have Similar Records This Season. Team Starts Final Home Stand

Tomorrow night the Villanova Wildcats will play host to the Rider College Roughriders at the Field House, in a game starting at 8:30. The Wildcats will enter the contest with a 7 to 1 edge in the series. In the initial meeting of a home and home arrangement last season, the Roughriders came out victorious on their home court, 42-27, to snap a six-game streak the Wildcats had enjoyed at their expense. In the second contest the Wildcats resumed their winning ways and took the game by the score of 46-36.

The Trentonians have a better than average team this season, emphasized by a ten-point loss to the powerful Valley Forge Medic quintet last week and an easy win over La Salle's Exploeers, recent conquerors of St. Joseph's. Villanova's hopes will be dimmed by the loss of freshman ace, "Toad" Hannan, who enters the Army tomorrow.

On Saturday night the Tommies of Scranton University will play here in the only game between the two schools this season. Scranton has not enjoyed too good a season so far, winning only three games out of eleven, but have shown plenty of fight in all these contests.

Scranton has played two of our opponents this season. They have split two games with Georgetown University, whom we defeated 40-37, and have lost two games to Manhattan College.

Track Team Wins Millrose Relay

Villanova's indoor mile relay team copped their fourth consecutive Millrose A.A. mile relay title when Coach "Jumbo" Elliot's Wildcats raced to victory before 18,000 in New York's Madison Square Garden last Saturday night. The 'Cats, participating in their second meet of the current indoor season, led mile quartets from Kings Point, Rhode Island State, and Seton Hall to win in 3:36.2.

Burt Cox returned to his old lead-off spot on the team and ran an unusual (for him) race in that he didn't take the lead right at the gun. Instead, he lay back until he hit the last straightaway. At that point he unleashed a kick that enabled him to pass runners from Rhode Island and Kings Point just before he slipped the baton to Dan Redmond for his 2¾ lap leg. The latter lost a few yards to the Kings Point man, but Jack Farnsworth sent the 'Cats into the lead within a half lap after he took the stick from Redmond. He remained a stride or so in front until the next exchange.

Short Clinches Victory

Tom Short, running anchor for the Blue and White, protected this lead for the rest of the way but he was forced to fight off a determined Kings Point bid on the last turn in order to assure victory. On the back-stretch of the final lap, the Mariner thinclad made an effort to beat Short to the turn. The latter very wisely allowed him to come as close as possible without giving him the right of way to the inside of the turn.

This sapped the Kings Pointer's strength and at the same time forced him to run on the outside in order to take advantage of the few yards he had gained on the straightaway. These two factors aided in enabling Short to outsprint the cadet to the tape and extend Villanova's Millrose successes to four in a row.

This was the first Millrose A.A. event that coach "Jumbo" Elliott participated in since his entry into the service in May, 1942.

GENERALLI HONORED

Dave Generalli, fullback on the 1945 Villanova College football team, was honored recently by his election to the All-Opponent squad chosen by the Holy Cross Crusaders.

Dave's defensive play in the Holy Cross game was one of the main reasons why Villanova was able to hold Stan Koslowski and company to only 26 points.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS

GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Men Of Navy And Marine Corps
Put Your Savings In An Established Bank

The
Bryn Mawr
Trust Company

Every Banking Facility

Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Edward A. Loughrey, '48
William B. Carey Jr., '46
Donald J. Sommer, '48
William Altenponl, '47
Donald M. Collins, '47
George O'Neill, '47
John P. Murphy, '48

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Charles Cummings, U.S.N.R.
Harold Varani, '46
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, U.S.N.R.

Photography Staff
Albert Derr, '46

Business Staff
William Wescott, '47
J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Peter McManus, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 7, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - FEBRUARY 5, 1946

The Council Advances

LAST WEEK there was a meeting of the Student Council. In another section of this paper a full report has been made on it; but we here wish to congratulate the members of the council for a long and conscious step in the right direction. It is altogether true that the more important points discussed and those on which any agreement was reached were largely concerned with the reorganization of the council itself. But this must not be construed to mean that any action taken was an artificial and effete excuse for the group's existance.

No muscles of a body can function if they are not bonded to a firm and integrated skeleton. To enable this organization to accomplish its limited ends an as-rigid-as possible frame must be sagaciously and diplomatically constructed. Before operation the machine must be designed and built.

The investigation of the student groups represented indicates awareness of responsibility that the student's guiding activity should have. The vital nature of the school's organization demands the frequent reviewal of these groups to ascertain their importance and the representation due them.

The new method instituted to determine the sentiment of the undergraduate body should also come in for praise. This bill accentuates the senatorial nature of the Council's members and will certainly enable them to gain a more cosmopolitan view of the students' needs and desires.

The Council has found the right road and deserves a vote of thanks. We hope they continue this revitalization and form an organization which will be in a position to handle the affairs of next term's greatly expanded enrollment.

DONALD M. COLLINS.

Camp to Campus

By ROBERT J. CONWAY

Although the newspaper shortage is over, there is still a lack of news. However, word reaches us that Dutch Fauber, now at Camp Lejuene has become a six striper and now has a private room. He is said to be working (?) in the field as a Radar technician and rumor has it from Austin Hall that he had something to do with the recent radar trip to the "man in the moon." Coming next to Portsmouth, Virginia the Naval Hospital says that the local flash of Simpson Hall, P.M. 2/C Bob Fenton is really running the place. Bob tells that he has not been in for a visit since he spends all his free time in Brooklyn with the "Blonde Bombshell." To finish up in the South we hear from his brother that big Ed Riley, of the Merchant Marine, is currently enjoying a vacation in the West Indies on board a first class tanker.

Highlight of the week: Former Villanovan George Guida won the 300 yard Invitation dash at the Philadelphia Inquirer meet a week ago Saturday. George left Villanova in 1942 and is currently station at Rensselaer Polytech with the V-12 unit. Congratulations George!

Ex-baseball man Pvt. Maurice Hertzfeld sends us word that he is stationed at Fort Dix. Murph is engaged in "Counseling Work" in reference to the separation center. For a definition consult the Army. Tackle Jim Smith is now a Private, stationed at Indiantown Gap. Jim hopes that he will get down for the D.P.E. Dinner-Dance before he is shipped overseas.

Last but not the forgotten place this week goes to Pvt. Art Alois, a football star in his freshman year, who has just returned from Italy. Art tells us that while over there he attended the University of Milan. In the end he will be back to Villanova.

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

"Never does a man know the force that is in him till some mighty affection or grief has humanized the soul."
—Frederick Robertson.
The Notre Dame Scholastic.

* * *

Well ahem—so we start nobly, officially.

* * *

Notre Dame students dirty 67,850 pieces of laundry per week.
—The Notre Dame Scholastic.

* * *

Two modern knights on a subway:
1st: "Whatcha got your eyes closed for " "Feeling bad?"
2nd: "No, I just hate to see ladies standing." —The Tatler.

* * *

The Muller-Benz entry kept a very complete record. It "coughed" when the Judge said "go." It didn't like its "new belts." In frenzy it was worked on one hour and eleven minutes before it stopped "balking."

It reached near-by Lincoln Park in grand style, "twine wrapped around its pneumatic tires" and one of its three musketeers cooling the engine with ice and another sanding belt. Rough roads bent the clutch. Rougher roads tumbled the three gentlemen out for pushing purposes. Stops were made for repairs, oil, ice, snow, and sandwiches. No wonder at the 35 mile junction that one of the three transferred to a horse-drawn cutter. No wonder that Muller, the driver, "went to pieces" soon after. Next he fainted. The third and last man took over the driver's seat. He crossed the line with a record of 10 hours and 47 minutes and with the still unconscious Muller at his side. The official record says of the car: "her return journey through the parks and boulevards was lonely and unnoticed." The gayeties of the evening had called away the large and jolly morning crowds.

And then the judges declared all contestants guilty in "one manner or another" and the $5000 award with withdrawn.
—The Plainsman.

Gad those judges really gave those stout lads a raw deal, eh?

* * *

Well as V. J. McPeak (He's usually up studying anatomy when the Blue Bird of Happiness is spreading joy.) says "It's all the same; it's in the game, the bitter and the sweet."

* * *

Drunk: (After bumping into the the same tree three times) Losht—Losht in an impenetrable forest!
—The Flaming Bomb.

* * *

Fare Please

Reluctantly a potential draftee faced a medical examining officer, who asked him to read a chart.

"What chart " asked the potential rookie.

The examining officer persevered: "Just sit in this chair and I'll show you."

"What chair?" asked the patient.

Finally deferred because of bad eyesight, the draft-dodger went to a nearby movie that night. When the lights went on he was horrified to discover the examining officer in the next seat.

"Excuse me," said the shirker, "does this bus go to New Orleans?"
—The Santa Clara.

* * *

"Some girls are afraid of mice—others have pretty legs."
—Ball State News.

* * *

1st Joe College: "The girls around here are biased."
2nd Joe College: "Yeah buy us this and buy us that until I'm broke."
—The Tatler.

* * *

"What's worse than raining cats and dogs?" inquired the Senior.

"I don't know murmured the Freshman, "Unless it's hailing a street car."
—West Point "Pointer."

That's all for now. But say, you didn't know that our good St. Thomas is still alive and kicking, did you? Well he is, and what's more he's still dirtying sheets and pillow cases. We have proof. Yes here we have a bill from the Bluemont Laundry dated Jan. 18, 1946 which relates—

1 Sp. Dim.
2 pillows
1 sheet

And at the end of the bill is a space for the customer's name—
Name—St. Thomas.
—Jas. T. Mackey.

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

Stuck again. We've been told week after week to produce a humorous column, but this week we just can't think of anything much to amuse you (not that we ever did). We thought we were alone in this situation but after many hours of extensive reading we found that lots of other Longfellows were in the same predicament and they expressed it this way. . .

If it's funny enough to tell, it's been told
If it hasn't been told, it's too clean; and
If it's dirty enough to interest the students,
The editor gets kicked out of school
If I could only be sure he'd be kicked out. . .

* * *

Doc Loeflad took over the senior religion class last week during which he described the ideal marriage. Our definition of marriage . . .an institution in which two not knowing any better are bonded in the old fashioned infrangable knot, after which the old mother-in-law legend becomes a nightmare. . . Carl Ungaro kept the class going by asking many interesting questions. . .could be that Carl has a past??' . . . Joe Centrone, one of the poor unfortunates who has entered the institution refused to comment on Doc's pointers. We wonder why! ! The class was a complete sell out. In fact we had a few unexpected guests such as Dave Generalli. Aren't you a bit ahead of yourself, Dave?????? If any of you poor faithful readers have questions concerning said class, submit them to this column and we assure you no answers. . .

* * *

Senator George Murray has been paying quite a bit of attention to a certain young chick from Rosemont named Helen, however complications have set in, Frank graduates in three weeks. TUF Frank.

Treasurer George O'Neill of D.P.E. has been seen buying a pair of women's shoes for someone in Binghamton. George claims they are for his sister. There we go again with that old sister act. . .

* * *

It was noticed that all indications point to having better food in our MESS hall. . .that must be the reason why many of the ship's company break into the mess line. Why not try standing awhile to raise an appetite, one really eats more that way.

Burt Cox seems to be all aflutter over this new find of his. Hearsay has it that he plans to be occupied for three days this week with that certain little friend. You've got it bad and that ain't good, Burt.

Carl Annas has finally found time to do his Accounting homework. He now does it while on a date. He is really concerned about his figures!!!

John Ciotola and Bill Ferguson have instituted a new course in the curriculum. Upon the completion of two semesters' study you will receive a B.S. in Pinochle. One of their more advanced students is Jim Riley whose next lesson will be to get his signals straight.

Meet the Boys

By CARROLL ANDREWS and CHARLES CUMMINGS

As we dig to the bottom of the pile, we come up first with Julius Arnold Palley. Nobody cares too much, but the remaining essential of his birth is June 10, 1925 in Worcester, Mass. Many of the early days of friend Palley were spent in attending schools. Of course, going to school in Worcester isn't like to going to school any place else in the country. There the warden comes around at four in the morning, pokes a hot jimmy between your toes and cheerfully says, "Come on, kiddies, rise and shine, the weather out is really fine, so get up before I beat your heads in." And so it was that Beazy (the nickname he received because he was the eager beaver of Sever Prep, very beasy) launched on his career through said Sever Prep. and Classical High.

One day as Julius was pucking away on the G-string of his fiddle, the good music supervisor of Classical approached and said, "Palley old man, wouldn't you like to play a horn?" "Why, yes sire, I would." "Well, learn how then, because if you don't, I'll break that lousy fiddle over your head." Beazy joined the band. And the debating club, and the student council, which makes for a fine murdering of the rules and regulations of sentence structure.

Main Line Playboy

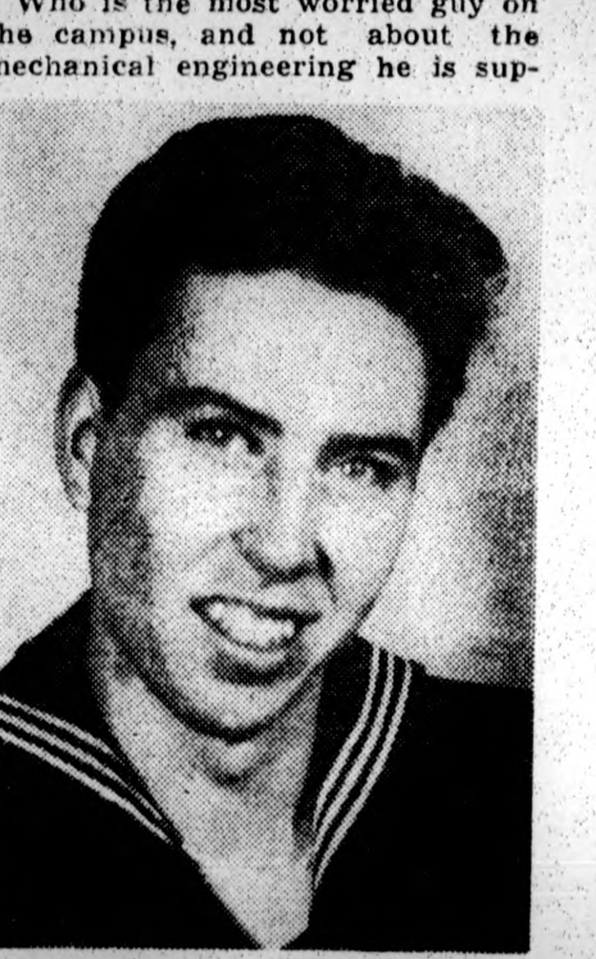
After two years of serving as assistant to the assistant shipper's assistant, Beaz joined the Navy and went to Worcester Poly somethingorother Institute where he played a little football, very little after the coach saw him, and then came to Villanova, March 1, 1944. Outside of the A.S.M.E. and playing some intramural softball, Beazy had gotten a lot from his stay in these parts. Certain connections, example nearby Wayne, will be most beneficial in years to come. The answer to that one lies in the Dec. 18th edition of the Villanovan or a penny post card to this column.

One day Ebenhart Q. Pillzingtrough, fire chief of Hutsut on the Merrimac, told J.A. he would make a good salesman, and not wanting to waste his education as a mechanical engineer, J.A. plans on sales engineering to supplement his relief check.

Who?

Who is the most worried guy on the campus, and not about the mechanical engineering he is supposedly studying? Who was born in Maplewood, N. J., March 31, 1925 with unsolved problems staring him in the face? Who struggled through Tuscan Grammar School, Maplewood Junior High, and Columbia High School perplexed upon entering and more so on leaving? If you're interested in finding out, jump to the end of the column, but if the suspense isn't too much, we shall proceed. "Who" spent most of his leisure time "borrowing" stuff from the junk yard where he was employed? He was able to build three automobiles, four washing machines, and a pogo-stick from the various and sundry articles which fell into his hands.

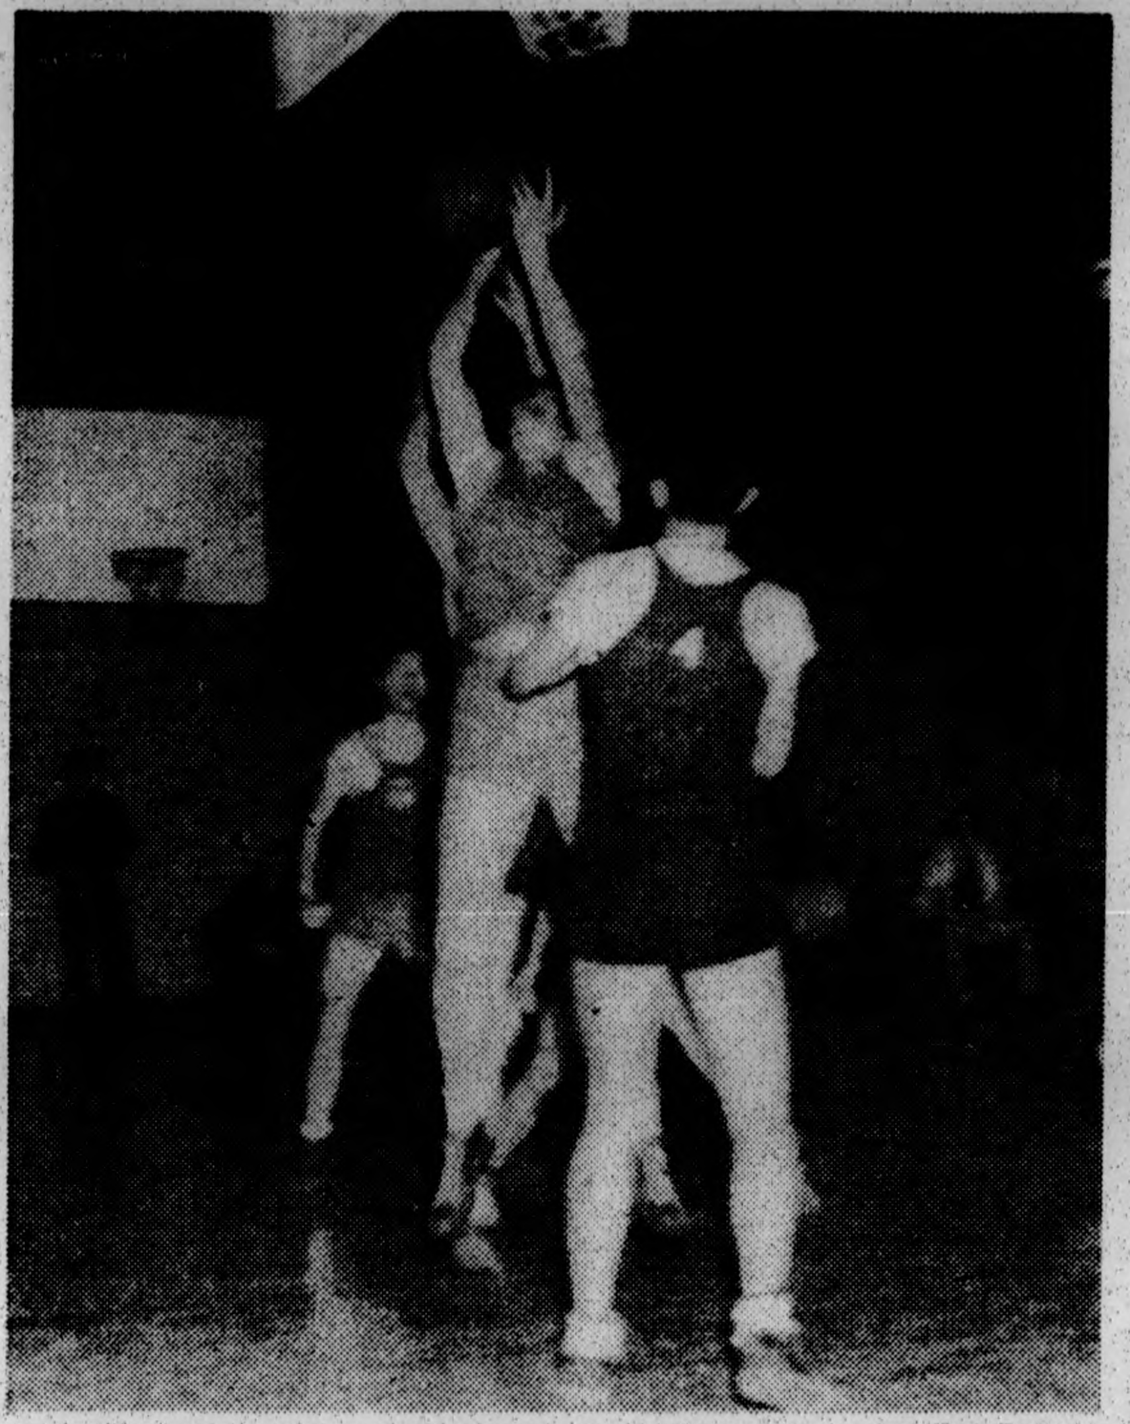
To evade the police force of Maplewood, who were on the trail of a pair of hot nylons, "who" joined the Navy and went to Swarthmore till the heat was off in July of '43. He passed Physics by giving the unwanted material to his Physics professor's wife. Once more a clear



EDWARD FIMBEL, JR.

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN SPORTS



White Sonner, Ausmen Center and leading scorer in the Intramural League, leaps high to score two points in a recent game. Wagner (4) of the Doms, and an unidentified Ausmen player looks on.

Wildcats Lose Second To Princeton Tigers, 44-36

Quintet Fails To Avenge Earlier 47-40 Defeat In Slow Game. Late Goals By Doar Put Orange And Black Ahead

By JIM McNAMARA

Villanova's basketball quintet ran into trouble at Princeton last Wednesday night and for the second time this season were defeated by the Tigers, this time by the score of 44-36. By virtue of the victory the Orange and Black moved out in front in the over all series with three victories against two setbacks. It was the eleventh loss of the current campaign for the 'Cats compared with six victories.

For the first 20 minutes the game was a see-saw battle with both teams sharing the lead twice. Don Robertson dropped a free throw at 0:18 to put the Wildcats into the lead, and Joe Brehmer added a lay-up the next time the Villanovans came down the floor. Brehmer's shot was his typical underhand, hesitation shot that brought a partisan crowd to its feet to acknowledge a great play. Marty Zundel, a three letter man in major Princeton sports, registered two points under the basket, but Joe Lord maintained the three point margin by dropping a set shot from the corner.

'Cats Provide Excitement

For the next four minutes Baker Rink was rocking with excitement as the crowd lustily approved of the classy, sure-fire passing and Frank Merriwell shots that Villanova team unveiled. The 'Cats mixed a slow weave with big "Chooch" Gonglefski in the pivot and at times a fast break.

Lord scored again on a tap-in before Johnny Doar and Chad Johnson contributed their double deckers for the Bengals. With the score 7-6 still in favor of Villanova, Bill Burr, the smallest man in a five-man scramble under the basket, outjumped his taller friends and foes to tap in a rebound. Skolnick and Dapcic added single free throws for Princeton and a field goal by Dapcic moved the Tigers into the lead at 10-9. "Toad" Hannan's charity tied the score and Brehmer's put the 'Cats in the lead again. A long set shot by Johnson swung the lead to the Tigers again, this time for keeps.

The Ivy Leaguers maintained this one point margin at 21-20 with a minute to go until half time. Doar, who shoots almost every shot with one hand, dropped a typical stab from the sideline and Zundel added a one pointer to conclude the scoring for the first 20 minutes. "Robie" Robertson's desperation shot from beyond half court beat the echo but not the initial bark of the half time gun for no goal and Princeton retired with a shaky 24-20 lead.

The second round belonged to Chad Johnson, who put on a brilliant exhibition of shooting. He dropped 4 straight set shots while taking only 4 shots in the space of 3 minutes. Hannan and Brehmer were meanwhile scoring on set shots for the Blue and White. "Chooch" Gonglefski laid one up in close and Lord added two charities.

Johnson scored again, after dribbling through the lane, to pad the Tiger's lead. Hannan's set shot and a foul and basket by Brehmer closed the gap to 34-33. Skolnick and Doar decided Johnson could use a little help so they offered a basket apiece for the cause. Johnson rang up one more set shot and called it a night. "Ed" Reybitz, who had replaced Gonglefski, added three points to conclude the Wildcats point making. Johnny Doar piled on four more points for added security in the waning minutes. With an eight point lead and less than a minute to go the Nassau club waived a foul try and took the ball out of bounds. A solid freeze nudged the second hand along and the game ended with Princeton in front 44-36.

Bainbridge Wins Fast Game Over Villanova, 77-55

By Dick Somers

The high scoring Bainbridge Naval Training Station basketball team defeated Villanova, 77-55 last Saturday night on the local floor. It was the ninth consecutive victory for the Sailors and extended the 'Cats losing streak to four games.

Bob Metcalf paced the Bainbridge attack with eleven field goals and one foul for twenty-three points. Paul Gordon, eighteen, Randy Clark, fourteen, and Brooks Ricca, ten, gave him plenty of assistance. Between them they scored sixty-five points, or ten more than the entire Blue and White team could produce.

Hannan's Final Goal

Villanova's big guns were all named Joe, surnames Lord, Hannan, and Brehmer. Lord increased his season total to 229 by connecting for ten baskets. Brehmer was third high with four and five for thirteen points. Hannan was in the middle with six goals and three fouls in his final game in a Blue and White uniform. He was second high in scoring with 156 points on sixty-three field goals and thirty fouls.

Goals by Ricca and Metcalf gave Bainbridge a 6-0 lead before Villanova could find the range on the basket. Hannan, Brehmer, and Lord brought the score up to 11-10 about half way through the first half. This was the closest that the score got all evennig.

18 Points Margin at Half

From this point the Sailors put on the pressure and built up a comfortable lead. Clark, Gordon, and Metcalf were hitting the cords shots. Brehmer was high man for the 'Cats with eleven points. Half-time score was; Bainbridge 42, Villanova 24.

Play in the second half was spirited and the scoring maintained its high speed. Metcalf and Gordon supplied the punch for Bainbridge as the difference between the teams varied from twenty to thirty points. Lord and Hannan were the only Villanova men able to find the range consistently.

Sailors Control the Boards

Defensively, the Sailors kept the Blue and White off balance throughout the game and gave them very few chances to take clean shots at the hoop. The center was so effectively blocked that not more than ten shots were taken from less then fifteen feet out. They also controlled both backboards, thereby preventing tap-ins on rebounds. Thus, by the simple process of controlling the ball, they were able to force the 'Cats into playing firehouse ball and take advantage of the loose ball handling and erratic shooting that resulted.

Bainbridge was also superior from the foul line. They made eleven out of the fourteen tries they were given during the evening.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

The Campus Barber Shop

First Class Work
Popular Prices

Villanova Meets Rider, Scranton During Week

Play Trenton Team Tomorrow Night And Scranton Saturday. Visitors Have Similar Records This Season. Team Starts Final Home Stand

Tomorrow night the Villanova Wildcats will play host to the Rider College Roughriders at the Field House, in a game starting at 8:30. The Wildcats will enter the contest with a 7 to 1 edge in the series. In the initial meeting of a home and home arrangement last season, the Roughriders came out victorious on their home court, 42-27, to snap a six-game streak the Wildcats had enjoyed at their expense. In the second contest the Wildcats resumed their winning ways and took the game by the score of 46-36.

The Trentonians have a better than average team this season, emphasized by a ten-point loss to the powerful Valley Forge Medic quintet last week and an easy win over La Salle's Exploeers, recent conquerors of St. Joseph's. Villanova's hopes will be dimmed by the loss of freshman ace, "Toad" Hannan, who enters the Army tomorrow.

On Saturday night the Tommies of Scranton University will play here in the only game between the two schools this season. Scranton has not enjoyed too good a season so far, winning only three games out of eleven, but have shown plenty of fight in all these contests.

Scranton has played two of our opponents this season. They have split two games with Georgetown University, whom we defeated 40-37, and have lost two games to Manhattan College.

Track Team Wins Millrose Relay

Villanova's indoor mile relay team copped their fourth consecutive Millrose A.A. mile relay title when Coach "Jumbo" Elliot's Wildcats raced to victory before 18,000 in New York's Madison Square Garden last Saturday night. The 'Cats, participating in their second meet of the current indoor season, led mile quartets from Kings Point, Rhode Island State, and Seton Hall to win in 3:36.2.

Burt Cox returned to his old lead-off spot on the team and ran an unusual (for him) race in that he didn't take the lead right at the gun. Instead, he lay back until he hit the last straightaway. At that point he unleashed a kick that enabled him to pass runners from Rhode Island and Kings Point just before he slipped the baton to Dan Redmond for his 2¾ lap leg. The latter lost a few yards to the Kings Point man, but Jack Farnsworth sent the 'Cats into the lead within a half lap after he took the stick from Redmond. He remained a stride or so in front until the next exchange.

Short Clinches Victory

Tom Short, running anchor for the Blue and White, protected this lead for the rest of the way but he was forced to fight off a determined Kings Point bid on the last turn in order to assure victory. On the back-stretch of the final lap, the Mariner thinclad made an effort to beat Short to the turn. The latter very wisely allowed him to come as close as possible without giving him the right of way to the inside of the turn.

This sapped the Kings Pointer's strength and at the same time forced him to run on the outside in order to take advantage of the few yards he had gained on the straightaway. These two factors aided in enabling Short to outsprint the cadet to the tape and extend Villanova's Millrose successes to four in a row.

This was the first Millrose A.A. event that coach "Jumbo" Elliott participated in since his entry into the service in May, 1942.

GENERALLI HONORED

Dave Generalli, fullback on the 1945 Villanova College football team, was honored recently by his election to the All-Opponent squad chosen by the Holy Cross Crusaders.

Dave's defensive play in the Holy Cross game was one of the main reasons why Villanova was able to hold Stan Koslowski and company to only 26 points.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS

GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Men Of Navy And Marine Corps
Put Your Savings In An Established Bank

The
Bryn Mawr
Trust Company

Every Banking Facility

Member of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

conscience allowed "who" to journey home every weekend. However complications surrounding a bathing suit, or should we say a bathing suit surrounding complications made it desirable for the subject under discussion to get farther away from home.

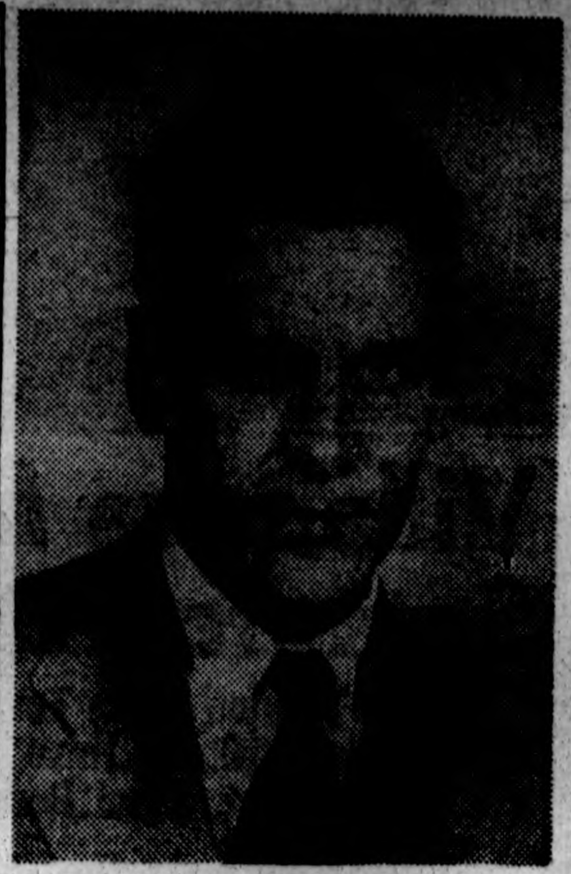
To keep within shouting range, he came to Villanova March 1, 1944, as a mechanical engineer. So the natural steps were taken, meaning he joined the A.S.M.E. One day, guess who received a telegram from Abagale Glemslemfobb, his sixty-ninth cousin on his mother's side, that things had quieted down at home, and so home he went. At last, he was almost free from worry. Nothing seemed to go wrong, nothing else could, so he thought. But then came the biggest problem of all. Women! Not that there hadn't been women before, but just that there hadn't been one like this. Soon trips home became frequent, gas became more plentiful, and problems became problems.

The result of this whole mess is that the day after graduation if-you - don't - know - by - this - time - you - had - better - look under - the - picture is getting married. Congratch, Fimbel old boy, may you sell lots and lots of those overhead garage doors.

Carey and Coffee

As a last resort, William B. Carey, Jr., of the August 25, 1919 Philadelphia variety will finish this rendition. We looked over the interview data, then adjourned to the Pie Shop for a cup of coffee to see if something couldn't be done about it. It seems that nothing can, so here are the facts. The B.V.M. Grammar School and West Catholic High, where the J.V. football and track teams, the dramatic and debating clubs were principle interests, groomed Willie for Villanova.

It's hard to understand how a poor little coffee bean can be kicked around to the extent that those poor little coffee beans that Louie gets a hold of are. But to get back, Sept. 1939 to 1942 W. B. spent in the capacity of a college student. From then until he joined the Merchant Marine in Feb. '43, Bill made B-29s. Nerve, that's what it is, calling that stuff coffee. The return to Villanova in Nov. '45 came in Nov. '45. Some of the stuff with which Mr. Carey has been connected includes the Villanovan staff, the Belle Air, the History Seminar, the D.P.E., the intramural tennis and basketball teams, and the track team. And those mugs — it's not that they're thick, but by the time you have opened your mouth the full gape, it's sometimes possible to get the rim in, that is if you are lucky and if it is a cool day when the cup hasn't expanded too much.



WILLIAM B. CAREY, JR.

They tell us some poor guy got a sliver in his tonsil the other day. Now we don't want to say anything but the chunk of redwood had "Stolen from Louie's Coffee Shoppee" written thereupon. As the future is concerned, Bill will either go to U.C.L.A. or Penn or to sea. Well, every man has his wife, but the ice man has his pick. Those cubes of sugar, never a grain too much that's our motto. And so we take leave of Mr. Carey and try to straighten out affairs. It is impossible for two guys to write a column at the same time, we have found out, so for the last time we remain yours truly

C.A. & C.D.

ESMWT Course Closed By Federal Security Agency

Villanova College was notified by the Federal Security Agency, U. S. Office of Education in Washington, D. C., that the Office for the Engineering Science and Management War Training Courses has been closed.

Dean J. Stanley Morehouse was at the head of this Organization at Villanova. He organized the program whereby 156 teachers were trained to teach a college-level course of Engineering to men of different trades throughout the war.

ALUMNI DINNER THURSDAY NIGHT

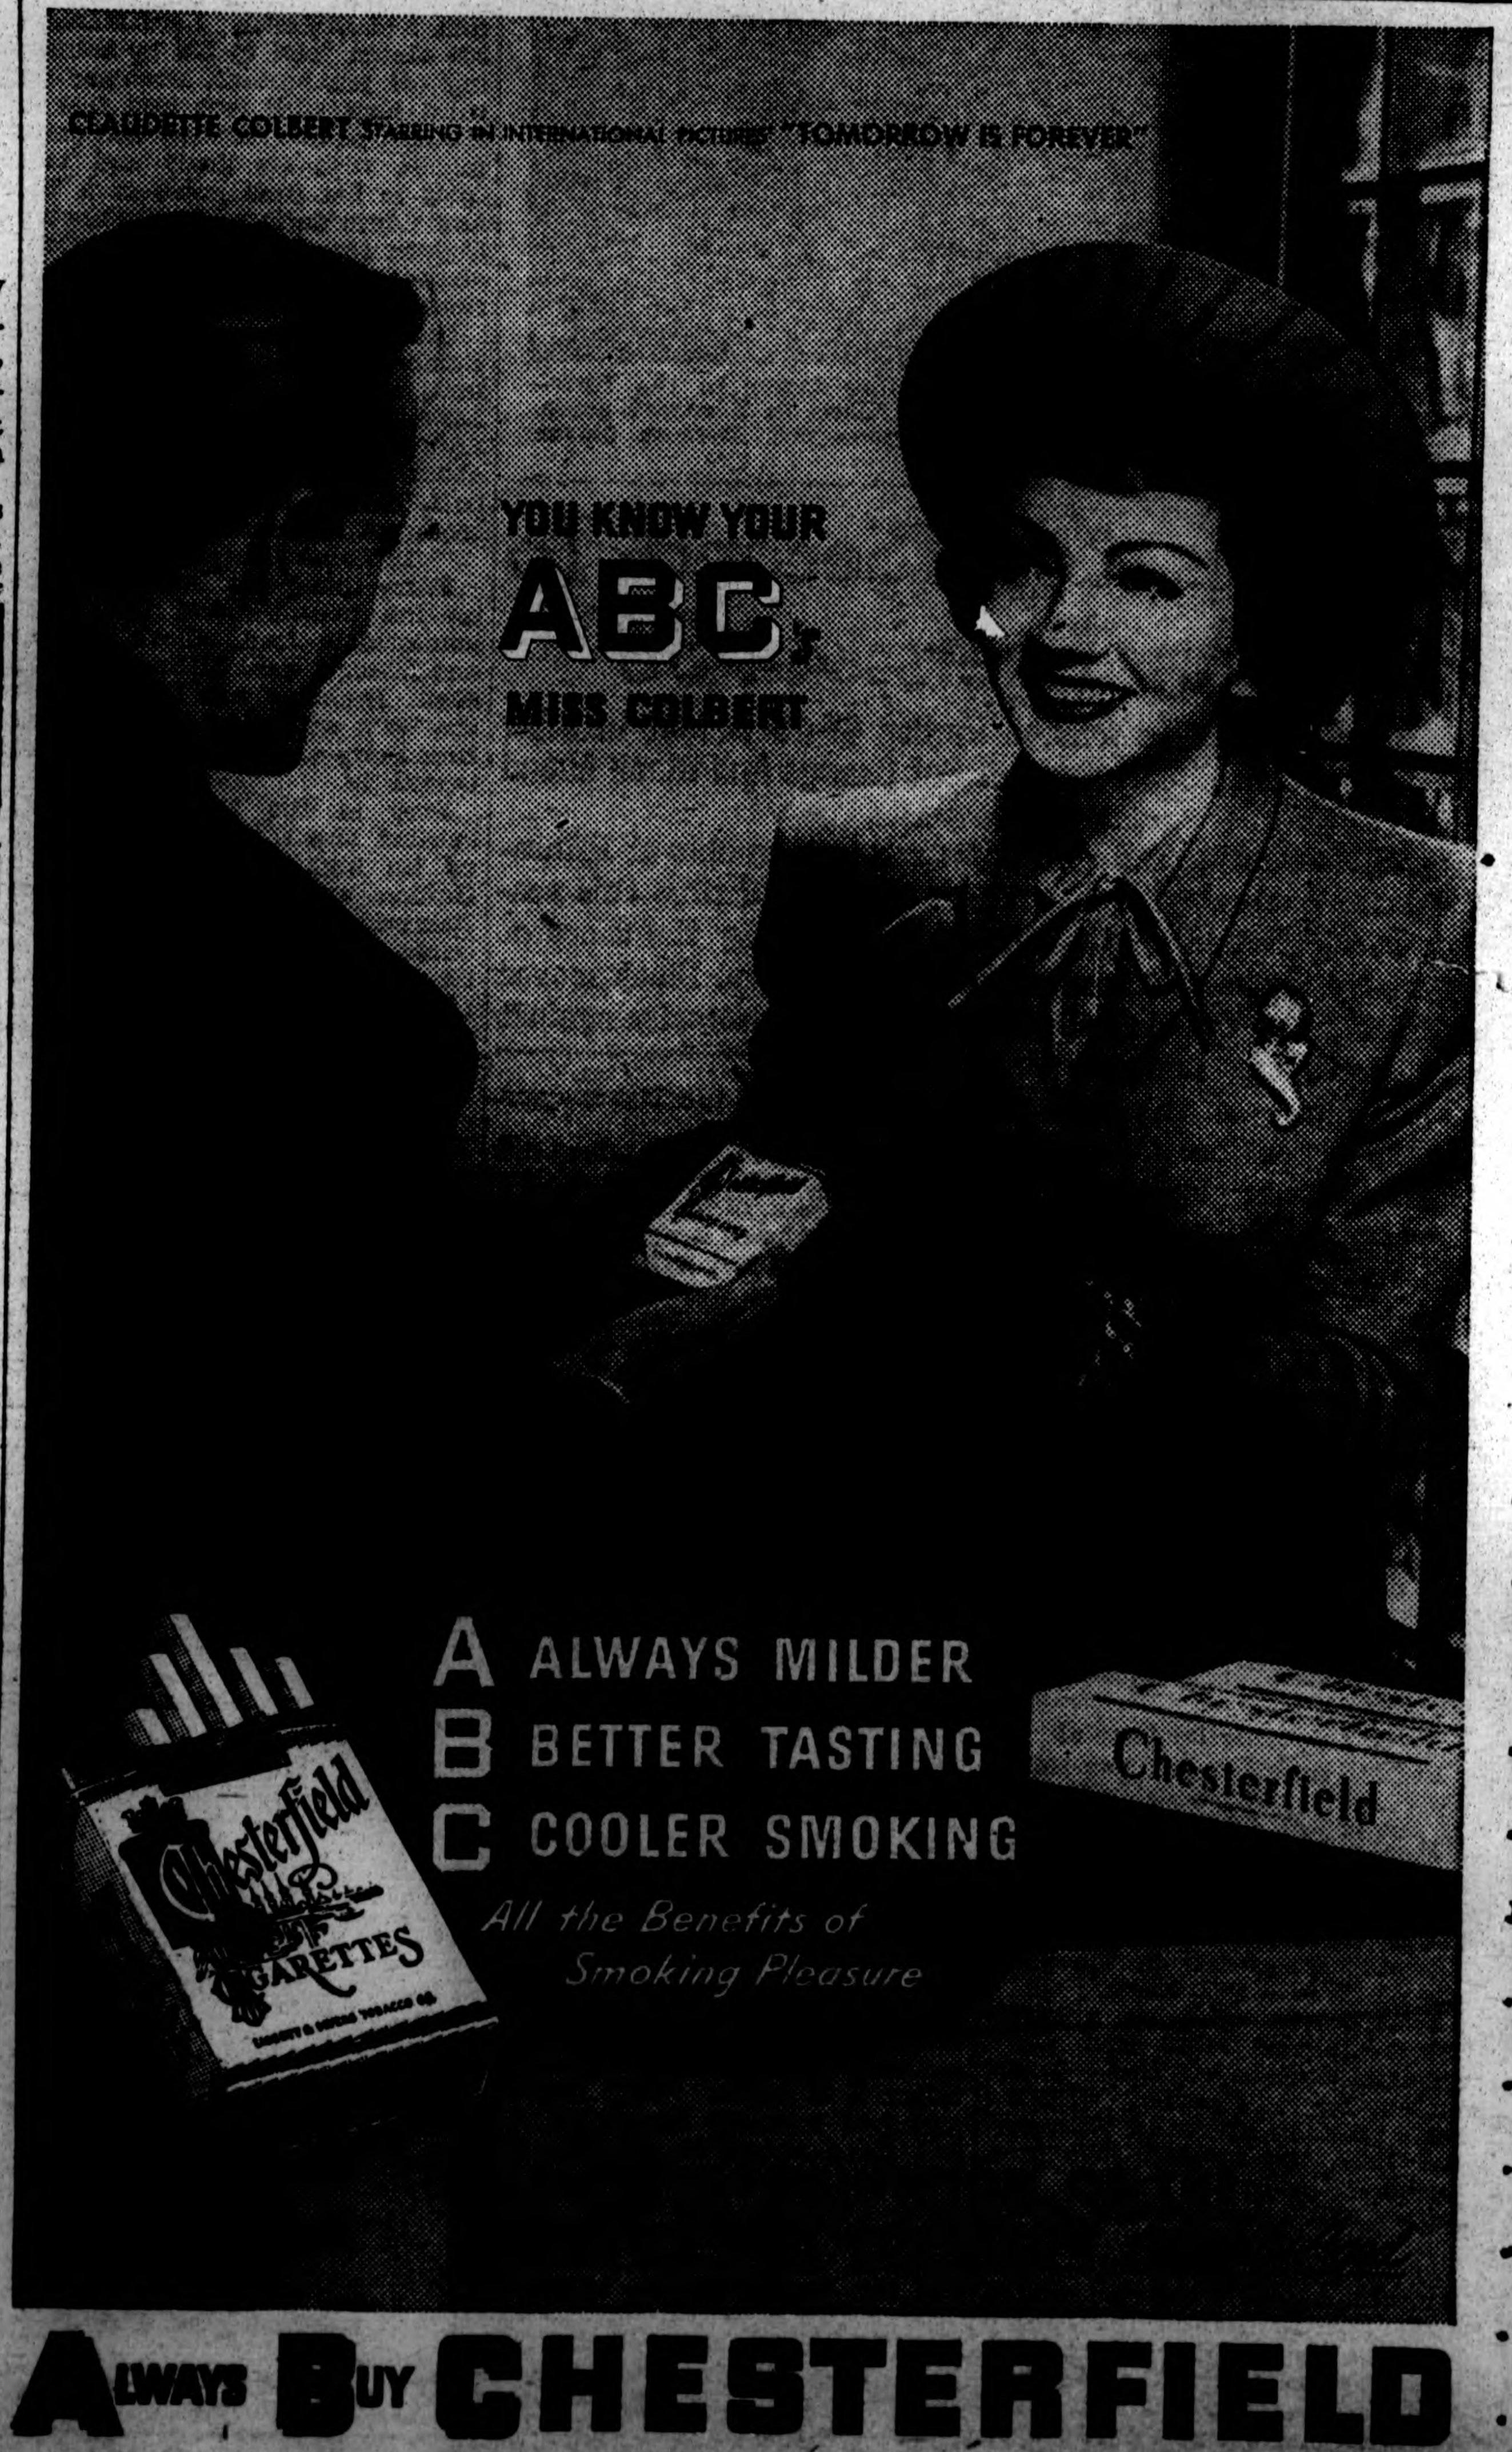
The Alumni Association of Villanova College will hold its annual dinner at the Warwick Hotel, in Philadelphia, this Thursday night. Over a hundred alumni are expected to attend, in addition to the several invited guests.

Always welcome
DRINK Coca-Cola
© 1945 The C-C Co.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75



CLAUDETTE COLBERT STARRING IN INTERNATIONAL PICTURES' "TOMORROW IS FOREVER"
YOU KNOW YOUR ABC's MISS COLBERT
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
All the Benefits of Smoking Pleasure
Chesterfield
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

ICE Aristocrat CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 20—No. 24 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1946

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

53rd Villanovan Dies In Service

Capt. Arthur Ziegler Killed In Brussells By Accidental Discharge Of Gun

The news of the 53rd Villanovan to meet his death in the service of his country has recently been announced by the Alumni office. Captain Arthur Zeigler was killed in Brussels through the accidental discharge of his gun while cleaning it.

CAPT. ARTHUR ZIEGLER

After leaving Villanova in 1933, Arthur completed his College education at St. John's University, Brooklyn, receiving a B.S. and later his L.L.B. in 1937. He was admitted to the Bar in New York State and at the time of entry into the Service he was in the Legal Department of Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation, New York City.

Arthur progressed through the ranks of Corporal, Sergeant, Staff

53RD VILLANOVAN
Continued on Page Four

Staff Dance Tops All Expectations

Edmond P. Reiley, Guest Speaker, Narrates Experiences With Newspapers In Battle

Nothing succeeds like success. This may well be applied to the Villanovan Dinner-Dance, held at the Covered Wagon Inn last Tuesday. The reception of the affair, the first since 1942, was a strong argument for the return of this once annual event to the future activities of the school paper.

The program was admirably arranged by David Ryan, Villanovan Editor, and Don Collins, of its new staff. An excellent bill of fare was served at tables disposed in horseshoe fashion on the edge of the dance floor.

After dinner attention was turned to the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Edmond P. Reiley, '35, former editor of the Villanovan and recently discharged from the Navy. Following his introduction by Rev. John A. Klekotka, Mr. Reiley expressed his thanks to the assembly for the invitation tendered him. He then spoke on the role that College newspapers play in their use of the rights of Free Press as guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution, and indicated their effect on the nation as a whole.

This was followed by an account of his experiences in the Pacific during the war as editor of a Navy newspaper. Here he threw some light on the workings of censorship and on the method of relaying combat news directly from the front to the public. In addition, he compared wartime and peacetime press usage with regard to its effect upon public opinion.

At the close of Mr. Reiley's talk the tables were cleared and the meeting continued in the less formal atmosphere of the dance floor.

Papal Blessing Solemnly Closes 103rd Retreat

Recently Concluded Service Proved A Gratifying Accomplishment In The Purpose For Which The Retreat Was Conducted

With the bestowal of the Papal Blessing on the attending student body in the college chapel by Father Francis Fenton, O.S.A., Retreat Master, Villanova's 103d Annual Retreat was brought to a solemn and impressive close last Thursday morning after Holy Mass was celebrated by the Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., president; a final conference address was given by Father Fenton.

The three day period of meditation and prayer was wholeheartedly welcomed and embraced by the student body as evidenced by the capacity attendance at all services. If the frequent and many receptions of the Holy Eucharist by the student body was any criterion of a successful retreat, the recently-concluded services here proved a gratifying accomplishment in the purpose for which the retreat was conducted.

Chaplain Pleased

Rev. Edward T. Grimes, O.S.A., college chaplain, expressed himself as "particularly pleased with the response of the student body during the past few days of retreat." He characterized the cooperation as "wholehearted and generous — characteristics worthy of the Faith that is ours."

Villanova is personally interested in each and every one of its students. Being a Catholic college this interest naturally centers around the religious development of its men. Villanova endeavors to impress upon its students that the "'things of God' should be their greatest concern during their years of training on our campus."

Traditional

It was with this end in view, the chaplain continued, that the annual retreat was inaugurated by the Augustinian Fathers one hundred and three years ago so that today it forms one of Villanova's most cherished traditions. "The generous response of the present student body imprints more deeply on our college a tradition which helps to make Villanova men better Catholics and better citizens of our country," Father Grimes concluded.

In his opening address to the student body Monday night, Father Fenton discussed Faith—what it is, what it does for us, who has it and how it may be obtained. The Retreat Master's subsequent conferences dealt with "The Difficult Commandments," the need for making a thorough and good confession and finally a summary of his sermons during the three-day period of spiritual meditation and "house-cleaning." The theme of Father Fenton's conference was the "Rehabilitation of the Student." The Retreat Master expressed the hope that the three-day services "would help the recently-returned veterans in bridging the gap between military and civilian student life."

The retreat services comprised Holy Mass and a conference in the morning together with a conference and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament in the evening. The Masses during the retreat were offered for the following purposes: on Monday, for the deceased members of the faculty; on Tuesday, for the parents, living and deceased, of the students; on Wednesday for the intentions of the students; and on Thursday the Mass was offered for all Villanova's war casualties.

Studied Abroad

Father Fenton was educated here and a member of the class of 1930. He travelled to Germany where he continued his studies at the University of Wurzburg. After completing his graduate work, Father Fenton returned to America and became the Professor of German at St. Rita's High School in Chicago, Ill. He is currently a member of the Mission Band, National Chaplain of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and Prior of the Augustinian Community of St. Rita.

Award Presented At Alumni Dinner

Charles E. McGuckin Received Loyalty Award At Warwick Hotel From Villanova Alumni Association

Charles E. McGuckin, Villanova immortal of the class of 1918 was honored Thursday night with the presentation of the Loyalty Award for 1946 by the Philadelphia Club of the Villanova College Alumni Association. The award was made at the annual dinner of the club in the Mirror Room of the Hotel Warwick. Some 100 alumni were present.

The award, given annually to the alumnus most conspicuous for his loyalty to Villanova and the Alumni Association was given to McGuckin for his work in connection with the New York Club of the Association.

In his school days at Villanova, McGuckin was a sensational athlete, being outstanding in all the major sports. In 1915 he set an intercollegiate record by kicking nine field goals during the season. One of these field goals upset a highly favored Army team to the tune of 16-13. In 1917, McGuckin was captain of the football team. He graduated the following year with a degree in Civil Engineering.

Lynch Presents Award

The presentation of the award at the banquet was made by Leo Lynch, a team mate and 1937 winner of the loyalty award. In acknowledging the award, a silver football, McGuckin expressed the hope that an annual homecoming game would be played at Villanova, enabing the graduates to return and renew their ties with their Alma Mater.

Other speakers at the banquet included Very Rev. Mortimer A. Sullivan, O.S.A., Provincial; Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty, O.S.A., Prior of Villanova Monastery; Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova College; Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., Vice-President and Director of Athletics, who announced the football schedule for 1946; and Paetrus Banmiller, President of the Alumni Association. Martin McLaughlin acted as toastmaster at the affair which was under the chairmanship of Francis X. Robinson, winner of the award last year.

German Club Host To Chestnut Hill

A skit in the form of a quiz program entitled "Richtig Geantwortet oder sie werden's bereuen?" — "Truth or Consequences" — was presented last Friday night by the German Club of Villanova for the girls of Chestnut Hill College. Following the program there was dancing and refreshments.

This event was in the nature of a reciprocal engagement since the Villanova Club was entertained and feasted by the young ladies of the Chestnut Hill Club shortly before Christmas. The men of Villanova enjoyed their visit to the "Mount," and in like manner the girls departed Friday night similarly pleased.

Singing Excellent

It is hoped that the girls benefited from the German version of Truth or Consequences, particularly those who participated as contestants. It may be noted that the singing of those who partook of the consequences was of the highest order and they are to be complimented for their excellent renditions.

David Ley, who composed this bit of linguistic gymnastics, has been appraised by critics as the find of the year. To the Rev. William J. Lunney, O. S. A., however, goes much of the credit for the arrangement and success of the affair. In his usual unassuming way, he has worked hard to bring about a better understanding of the German language both in and out of the classroom.

British Navy Chaplain Will Address Graduates

Twenty-Eight Potential Graduates Await The Conferring Of Degrees On February 24th; Navy V-12 Students Will Receive Their Commissions

By RUSSELL LEO WELSH

Villanova College will confer degrees on the prospective twenty-eight graduates Sunday, February 24th. The services will open with a Solemn High Mass, Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., celebrating, Rev. E. B. McKee, O.S.A., deacon, and Rev. E. M. Dwyer, O.S.A., sub-deacon.

After the Mass, diplomas will be presented by the President of the College, Father McGuire. Navy V-12 students who graduate and meet all the requirements of the Navy will be presented their commissions by Capt. Thomas C. Thomas, U.S.N., Commanding Officer of the Naval Unit at Villanova. The Commencement exercises will include a talk by the Very Rev. Thomas Gilby, O.P. and will conclude with the National Anthem.

REV. THOMAS GILBY, O.P.

Attached to Cambridge University

Father Gilbey is at present a Chaplain in the Royal English Navy and has been commissioned by the English Admiralty to lecture in all parts of the United States. Although Father is attached to the H.M.S. Saker, the British Admiralty Delegation at Washington, his home is the Dominican House at Cambridge University.

An author, lecturer and editor, Father Gilby has served in the Mediterranean, the North Sea, the Atlantic and the Arctic. Born in 1902, Father was educated privately and at St. Philip's Grammar School, Birmingham. At the age of fourteen, Thomas Gilby became a convert to the Roman Catholic Church. He received his S.T.L. and Ph.D. at Louvain University. He was formerly Professor of Speculative Morals and Lector of Sacred Theology at Blackfriars, the Dominican House at Oxford, and a London Extension Lecturer on the "Summa."

Editor

Father Gilby is also acting editor of "Blackfriars," the English Dominican Review, and has written occasionally for the "Thomist Quarterly," a publication of the

BRITISH NAVY
Continued on Page Four

PROSPECTIVE GRADUATES

Mechanical Engineering

Willie F. Anderson, Carroll A. Andrews, George Bacsik, Henry Bombick, Thomas F. Carrigg, Jr., Charles D. Cummings, Jr., Chester I. Duncan, Jr., Edward Fimbel, John R. Freytag, Rocco R. Giannini, John N. Hartwell, Donald T. Knauss, Robert H. Moore, Julius A. Palley, Kenneth D. Robertson, David S. Walker.

Commerce and Finance

Robert J. Conway, Richard J. Frey, James Meehan, Robert F. Walter, Harry A. Waters, Jr.

Electrical Engineering

Foster A. Blough, Robert W. Griesser, Burton L. Price.

Civil Engineering

Burton N. Cox, John W. Coyne, Edwin H. Michael.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Student Council this Thursday at 1:00 P. M. in Room 210 Mendel.

This will be the last meeting of the present semester for the Council and President Joseph Hoffman has requested that all members attend since plans are to be formulated concerning the work of the Council during the coming term.

Inter-Fraternity Ball To Be Held

Last Thursday Bob Conway, D. P. E. president, bade farewell to that fraternity at its meeting in Mendel Hall. Highlighting this meeting was the choice of Ed Keller to act as co-chairman of the Inter-fraternity Ball to be held shortly after the Easter holidays. Keller will be joined by his engineer counterpart, Steve Gasparovic. Other members of the committee will be announced after the approvals come through the selection committees. Conway announced that the dinner dance committee has reported that the returns have already covered the expenses.

Keller, a junior, has already begun plans with Gasparovic to build this Inter-fraternity Ball into one of Villanova's major social affairs. The Ball which had its inauguration in the Summer of '44 had long been advocated by the D. P. E. members, who, with the Phi Kappa Pi delegation, hopes to collaborate with the Arts school and the Pre-Meds as soon as they announce the reactivation of their respective fraternities.

Guest Speakers Monthly

Although the dinner-dance will bring a halt to its social activities until after the Easter season, the fraternity, with the help of Rev. Joseph Bartley, O. S. A., and faculty advisor, Prof. Patrick Dougherty, is laying plans to bring in a guest speaker at least once a month.

College Enrollment Climbs To New High

Villanova's enrollment will jump to a new high next semester with the addition of some 295 students. Not since the peak years of 1936-37 has Villanova had so large an attendance.

Enrollment for the new semester will take place on 1st and 2nd of March with classes resuming on the 4th.

Most Applicants are Veterans

As is the case of the colleges throughout America, veterans comprise the major part of the applicants. In the coming semester Villanova will receive 266 more veterans, the greater part of whom are former students.

A further breakdown of these figures shows that 100 are Engineering Students, 114 Commerce and Finance students, and the remainder are distributed evenly throughout the various schools.

Many more students will be admitted to the college after the results of entrance exams, to be given March 15, are made known.

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

conscience allowed "who" to journey home every weekend. However complications surrounding a bathing suit, or should we say a bathing suit surrounding complications made it desirable for the subject under discussion to get farther away from home.

To keep within shouting range, he came to Villanova March 1, 1944, as a mechanical engineer. So the natural steps were taken, meaning he joined the A.S.M.E. One day, guess who received a telegram from Abagale Glemslemfobb, his sixty-ninth cousin on his mother's side, that things had quieted down at home, and so home he went. At last, he was almost free from worry. Nothing seemed to go wrong, nothing else could, so he thought. But then came the biggest problem of all, Women! Not that there hadn't been women before, but just that there hadn't been one like this. Soon trips home became frequent, gas became more plentiful, and problems became problems.

The result of this whole mess is that the day after graduation if-you - don't - know - by - this - time - you - had - better - look under - the - picture is getting married. Congratch, Fimbel old boy, may you sell lots and lots of those overhead garage doors.

Carey and Coffee

As a last resort, William B. Carey, Jr., of the August 25, 1919 Philadelphia variety will finish this rendition. We looked over the interview data, then adjourned to the Pie Shop for a cup of coffee to see if something couldn't be done about it. It seems that nothing can, so here are the facts. The B.V.M. Grammar School and West Catholic High, where the J.V. football and track teams, the dramatic and debating clubs were principle interests, groomed Willie for Villanova.

It's hard to understand how a poor little coffee bean can be kicked around to the extent that those poor little coffee beans that Louie gets a hold of are. But to get back, Sept. 1939 to 1942 W. B. spent in the capacity of a college student. From then until he joined the Merchant Marine in Feb. '43, Bill made B-29s. Nerve, that's what it is, calling that stuff coffee. The return to Villanova in Nov. '45 came in Nov. '45. Some of the stuff with which Mr. Carey has been connected includes the Villanovan staff, the Belle Air, the History Seminar, the D.P.E., the intramural tennis and basketball teams, and the track team. And those mugs — it's not that they're thick, but by the time you have opened your mouth the full gape, it's sometimes possible to get the rim in, that is if you are lucky and if it is a cool day when the cup hasn't expanded too much.

WILLIAM B. CAREY, JR.

They tell us some poor guy got a sliver in his tonsil the other day. Now we don't want to say anything but the chunk of redwood had "Stolen from Louie's Coffee Shoppee" written thereupon. As the future is concerned, Bill will either go to U.C.L.A. or Penn or to sea. Well, every man has his wife, but the ice man has his pick. Those cubes of sugar, never a grain too much that's our motto. And so we take leave of Mr. Carey and try to straighten out affairs. It is impossible for two guys to write a column at the same time, we have found out, so for the last time we remain yours truly

C.A. & C.D.

ESMWT Course Closed By Federal Security Agency

Villanova College was notified by the Federal Security Agency, U. S. Office of Education in Washington, D. C., that the Office for the Engineering Science and Management War Training Courses has been closed.

Dean J. Stanley Morehouse was at the head of this Organization at Villanova. He organized the program whereby 156 teachers were trained to teach a college-level course of Engineering to men of different trades throughout the war.

ALUMNI DINNER THURSDAY NIGHT

The Alumni Association of Villanova College will hold its annual dinner at the Warwick Hotel, in Philadelphia, this Thursday night. Over a hundred alumni are expected to attend, in addition to the several invited guests.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266

We do adjustments the way you want them.

Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable

For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.

Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.

Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

ICE
Aristocrat
CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Always welcome
DRINK
Coca-Cola
© 1945 The C-C Co.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT STARRING IN INTERNATIONAL PICTURES' "TOMORROW IS FOREVER"
YOU KNOW YOUR ABC's MISS COLBERT
Chesterfield CIGARETTES
Chesterfield
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
All the Benefits of Smoking Pleasure
THE RIGHT COMBINATION OF THE WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS Properly Aged
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 20—No. 24 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1946

53rd Villanovan Dies In Service

Capt. Arthur Ziegler Killed In Brussells By Accidental Discharge Of Gun

The news of the 53rd Villanovan to meet his death in the service of his country has recently been announced by the Alumni office. Captain Arthur Zeigler was killed in Brussels through the accidental discharge of his gun while cleaning it.

CAPT. ARTHUR ZIEGLER

After leaving Villanova in 1933, Arthur completed his College education at St. John's University, Brooklyn, receiving a B.S. and later his L.L.B. in 1937. He was admitted to the Bar in New York State and at the time of entry into the Service he was in the Legal Department of Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation, New York City.

Arthur progressed through the ranks of Corporal, Sergeant, Staff

53RD VILLANOVAN
Continued on Page Four

Staff Dance Tops All Expectations

Edmond P. Reiley, Guest Speaker, Narrates Experiences With Newspapers In Battle

Nothing succeeds like success. This may well be applied to the Villanovan Dinner-Dance, held at the Covered Wagon Inn last Tuesday. The reception of the affair, the first since 1942, was a strong argument for the return of this once annual event to the future activities of the school paper.

The program was admirably arranged by David Ryan, Villanovan Editor, and Don Collins, of its new staff. An excellent bill of fare was served at tables disposed in horseshoe fashion on the edge of the dance floor.

After dinner attention was turned to the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Edmond P. Reiley, '35, former editor of the Villanovan and recently discharged from the Navy. Following his introduction by Rev. John A. Klekotka, Mr. Reiley expressed his thanks to the assembly for the invitation tendered him. He then spoke on the role that College newspapers play in their use of the rights of Free Press as guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution, and indicated their effect on the nation as a whole.

This was followed by an account of his experiences in the Pacific during the war as editor of a Navy newspaper. Here he threw some light on the workings of censorship and on the method of relaying combat news directly from the front to the public. In addition, he compared wartime and peacetime press usage with regard to its effect upon public opinion.

At the close of Mr. Reiley's talk the tables were cleared and the meeting continued in the less formal atmosphere of the dance floor.

Papal Blessing Solemnly Closes 103rd Retreat

Recently Concluded Service Proved A Gratifying Accomplishment In The Purpose For Which The Retreat Was Conducted

With the bestowal of the Papal Blessing on the attending student body in the college chapel by Father Francis Fenton, O.S.A., Retreat Master, Villanova's 103d Annual Retreat was brought to a solemn and impressive close last Thursday morning after Holy Mass was celebrated by the Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., president; a final conference address was given by Father Fenton.

The three day period of meditation and prayer was wholeheartedly welcomed and embraced by the student body as evidenced by the capacity attendance at all services. If the frequent and many receptions of the Holy Eucharist by the student body was any criterion of a successful retreat, the recently-concluded services here proved a gratifying accomplishment in the purpose for which the retreat was conducted.

Chaplain Pleased

Rev. Edward T. Grimes, O.S.A., college chaplain, expressed himself as "particularly pleased with the response of the student body during the past few days of retreat." He characterized the cooperation as "wholehearted and generous — characteristics worthy of the Faith that is ours."

Villanova is personally interested in each and every one of its students. Being a Catholic college this interest naturally centers around the religious development of its men. Villanova endeavors to impress upon its students that the "'things of God' should be their greatest concern during their years of training on our campus."

Traditional

It was with this end in view, the chaplain continued, that the annual retreat was inaugurated by the Augustinian Fathers one hundred and three years ago so that today it forms one of Villanova's most cherished traditions. "The generous response of the present student body imprints more deeply on our college a tradition which helps to make Villanova men better Catholics and better citizens of our country," Father Grimes concluded.

In his opening address to the student body Monday night, Father Fenton discussed Faith—what it is, what it does for us, who has it and how it may be obtained. The Retreat Master's subsequent conferences dealt with "The Difficult Commandments," the need for making a thorough and good confession and finally a summary of his sermons during the three-day period of spiritual meditation and "house-cleaning.". The theme of Father Fenton's conference was the "Rehabilitation of the Student." The Retreat Master expressed the hope that the three-day services "would help the recently-returned veterans in bridging the gap between military and civilian student life."

The retreat services comprised Holy Mass and a conference in the morning together with a conference and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament in the evening. The Masses during the retreat were offered for the following purposes: on Monday, for the deceased members of the faculty; on Tuesday, for the parents, living and deceased, of the students; on Wednesday for the intentions of the students; and on Thursday the Mass was offered for all Villanova's war casualties.

Studied Abroad

Father Fenton was educated here and a member of the class of 1930. He travelled to Germany where he continued his studies at the University of Wurzburg. After completing his graduate work, Father Fenton returned to America and became the Professor of German at St. Rita's High School in Chicago, Ill. He is currently a member of the Mission Band, National Chaplain of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and Prior of the Augustinian Community of St. Rita.

Award Presented At Alumni Dinner

Charles E. McGuckin Received Loyalty Award At Warwick Hotel From Villanova Alumni Association

Charles E. McGuckin, Villanova immortal of the class of 1918 was honored Thursday night with the presentation of the Loyalty Award for 1946 by the Philadelphia Club of the Villanova College Alumni Association. The award was made at the annual dinner of the club in the Mirror Room of the Hotel Warwick. Some 100 alumni were present.

The award, given annually to the alumnus most conspicuous for his loyalty to Villanova and the Alumni Association was given to McGuckin for his work in connection with the New York Club of the Association.

In his school days at Villanova, McGuckin was a sensational athlete, being outstanding in all the major sports. In 1915 he set an intercollegiate record by kicking nine field goals during the season. One of these field goals upset a highly favored Army team to the tune of 16-13. In 1917, McGuckin was captain of the football team. He graduated the following year with a degree in Civil Engineering.

Lynch Presents Award

The presentation of the award at the banquet was made by Leo Lynch, a team mate and 1937 winner of the loyalty award. In acknowledging the award, a silver football, McGuckin expressed the hope that an annual homecoming game would be played at Villanova, enabing the graduates to return and renew their ties with their Alma Mater.

Other speakers at the banquet included Very Rev. Mortimer A. Sullivan, O.S.A., Provincial; Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty, O.S.A., Prior of Villanova Monastery; Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova College; Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., Vice-President and Director of Athletics, who announced the football schedule for 1946; and Paetrus Banmiller, President of the Alumni Association. Martin McLaughlin acted as toastmaster at the affair which was under the chairmanship of Francis X. Robinson, winner of the award last year.

German Club Host To Chestnut Hill

A skit in the form of a quiz program entitled "Richtig Geantwortet oder sie werden's bereuen?" — "Truth or Consequences" — was presented last Friday night by the German Club of Villanova for the girls of Chestnut Hill College. Following the program there was dancing and refreshments.

This event was in the nature of a reciprocal engagement since the Villanova Club was entertained and feasted by the young ladies of the Chestnut Hill Club shortly before Christmas. The men of Villanova enjoyed their visit to the "Mount," and in like manner the girls departed Friday night similarly pleased.

Singing Excellent

It is hoped that the girls benefited from the German version of Truth or Consequences, particularly those who participated as contestants. It may be noted that the singing of those who partook of the consequences was of the highest order and they are to be complimented for their excellent renditions.

David Ley, who composed this bit of linguistic gymnastics, has been appraised by critics as the find of the year. To the Rev. William J. Lunney, O. S. A., however, goes much of the credit for the arrangement and success of the affair. In his usual unassuming way, he has worked hard to bring about a better understanding of the German language both in and out of the classroom.

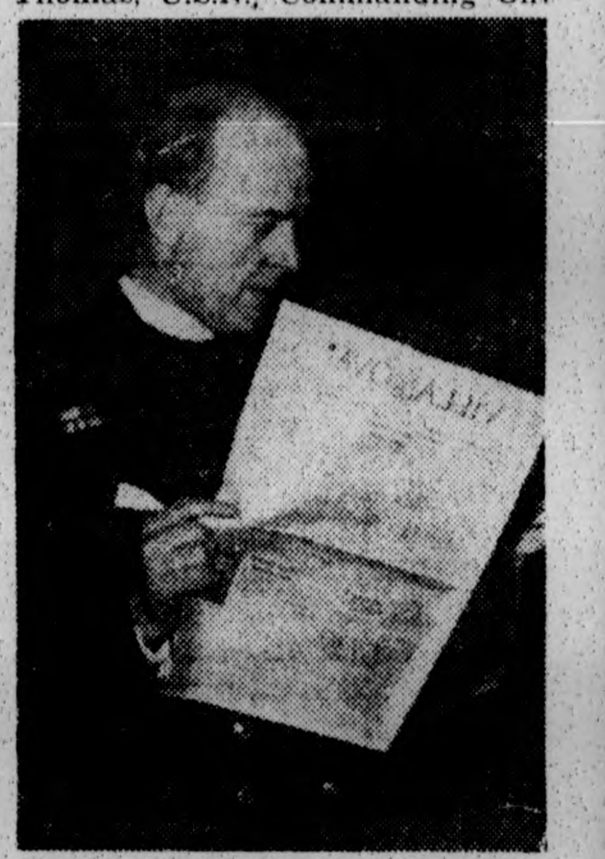
British Navy Chaplain Will Address Graduates

Twenty-Eight Potential Graduates Await The Conferring Of Degrees On February 24th; Navy V-12 Students Will Receive Their Commissions

By RUSSELL LEO WELSH

Villanova College will confer degrees on the prospective twenty-eight graduates Sunday, February 24th. The services will open with a Solemn High Mass, Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., celebrating, Rev. E. B. McKee, O.S.A., deacon, and Rev. E. M. Dwyer, O.S.A., sub-deacon.

After the Mass, diplomas will be presented by the President of the College, Father McGuire. Navy V-12 students who graduate and meet all the requirements of the Navy will be presented their commissions by Capt. Thomas C. Thomas, U.S.N., Commanding Officer of the Naval Unit at Villanova. The Commencement exercises will include a talk by the Very Rev. Thomas Gilby, O.P. and will conclude with the National Anthem.



REV. THOMAS GILBY, O.P.

Attached to Cambridge University

Father Gilbey is at present a Chaplain in the Royal English Navy and has been commissioned by the English Admiralty to lecture in all parts of the United States. Although Father is attached to the H.M.S. Saker, the British Admiralty Delegation at Washington, his home is the Dominican House at Cambridge University.

An author, lecturer and editor, Father Gilby has served in the Mediterranean, the North Sea, the Atlantic and the Arctic. Born in 1902, Father was educated privately and at St. Philip's Grammar School, Birmingham. At the age of fourteen, Thomas Gilby became a convert to the Roman Catholic Church. He received his S.T.L. and Ph.D. at Louvain University. He was formerly Professor of Speculative Morals and Lector of Sacred Theology at Blackfriars, the Dominican House at Oxford, and a London Extension Lecturer on the "Summa."

Editor

Father Gilby is also acting editor of "Blackfriars," the English Dominican Review, and has written occasionally for the "Thomist Quarterly," a publication of the

BRITISH NAVY
Continued on Page Four

PROSPECTIVE GRADUATES

Mechanical Engineering

Willie F. Anderson, Carroll A. Andrews, George Bacsik, Henry Bombick, Thomas F. Carrigg, Jr., Charles D. Cummings, Jr., Chester I. Duncan, Jr., Edward Fimbel, John R. Freytag, Rocco R. Giannini, John N. Hartwell, Donald T. Knauss, Robert H. Moore, Julius A. Palley, Kenneth D. Robertson, David S. Walker.

Commerce and Finance

Robert J. Conway, Richard J. Frey, James Meehan, Robert F Walter, Harry A. Waters, Jr.

Electrical Engineering

Foster A. Blough, Robert W. Griesser, Burton L. Price.

Civil Engineering

Burton N. Cox, John W. Coyne, Edwin H. Michael.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Student Council this Thursday at 1:00 P. M. in Room 210 Mendel.

This will be the last meeting of the present semester for the Council and President Joseph Hoffman has requested that all members attend since plans are to be formulated concerning the work of the Council during the coming term.

Inter-Fraternity Ball To Be Held

Last Thursday Bob Conway, D. P. E. president, bade farewell to that fraternity at its meeting in Mendel Hall. Highlighting this meeting was the choice of Ed Keller to act as co-chairman of the Inter-fraternity Ball to be held shortly after the Easter holidays. Keller will be joined by his engineer counterpart, Steve Gasparovic. Other members of the committee will be announced after the approvals come through the selection committees. Conway announced that the dinner dance committee has reported that the returns have already covered the expenses.

Keller, a junior, has already begun plans with Gasparovic to build this Inter-fraternity Ball into one of Villanova's major social affairs. The Ball which had its inauguration in the Summer of '44 had long been advocated by the D. P. E. members, who, with the Phi Kappa Pi delegation, hopes to collaborate with the Arts school and the Pre-Meds as soon as they announce the reactivation of their respective fraternities.

Guest Speakers Monthly

Although the dinner-dance will bring a halt to its social activities until after the Easter season, the fraternity, with the help of Rev. Joseph Bartley, O. S. A., and faculty advisor, Prof. Patrick Dougherty, is laying plans to bring in a guest speaker at least once a month.

College Enrollment Climbs To New High

Villanova's enrollment will jump to a new high next semester with the addition of some 295 students. Not since the peak years of 1936-37 has Villanova had so large an attendance.

Enrollment for the new semester will take place on 1st and 2nd of March with classes resuming on the 4th.

Most Applicants are Veterans

As is the case of the colleges throughout America, veterans comprise the major part of the applicants. In the coming semester Villanova will receive 266 more veterans, the greater part of whom are former students.

A further breakdown of these figures shows that 100 are Engineering Students, 114 Commerce and Finance students, and the remainder are distributed evenly throughout the various schools.

Many more students will be admitted to the college after the results of entrance exams, to be given March 15, are made known.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

DAVID I. RYAN, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Managing Editor
HENRY P. J. WARD, NROTC .... Sports Editor
WARREN SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
JOHN W. COYNE, '46 .... Business Manager
WILLIAM MONAGLE, '47 .... Photography Editor

News Staff
Robert Conway, '46
John P. Mallick, '48
Edward Minsavage, '47
James Conaty, '48
Edward A. Loughrey, '48
William B. Carey Jr., '46
Donald J. Sommer, '48
William Altenpohl, '47
Donald M. Collins, '47
George O'Neill, '47
John P. Murphy, '48
James M. Bonner, '46

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
Edward Keller, '47
Charles Cummings, U.S.N.R.
Harold Varani, '46
James Mackey, '46
Carroll Andrews, U.S.N.R.

Photography Staff
Albert Derr, '46

Business Staff
William Wescott, '47
J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Roland Higgs, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Peter McManus, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 7, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - FEBRUARY 12, 1946

Scholar and Gentleman

THIS is the last edition of the semester and an appropriate editorial would consist of either a term recapitulation or an exhortatory outline of what the future should be. What we have done before, especially in these hectic days of continual change is of no importance, but what we shall do is of great consequence.

Let us, then, consider first things first. From the moment we received our acceptance we are college men. To us accrue all the benefits derived from that relatively rare position, but to us also falls the duty to preserve the tradition of the scholar and gentleman.

It is for us to be scholars. We must strive to gain full value from our opportunities, we must theorize and apply. The lessons we may learn, the facts we assemble should not lie as dead things in our minds. Thought must be carried to a higher level, we must manifest the idea in the accurate and forceful term.

We are obliged also to be gentlemen. The plain fact of the matter is that the present men of Villanova have failed incontrovertibly, at least in the outward evidences, to maintain our ancient inheritance of culture. Disorderly and unconventional dress, unshaven faces, and bad grooming in general pervade the halls and campus of our college. But of more moment, the manners and conduct of the men have deteriorated. Propriety and fraternity have yielded to vulgarity and unsympathetic indifference.

Most of us have been in the service, and have been influenced by it for both good and evil. It is then for us as individuals capable of choice to weed out the undesirable effects of the past and to broaden our vistas to receive new virtues.

When the new semester starts the Orientation Committee will attempt to inculcate the amenitities of Villanova life into the newcomers. They need and should have wholehearted student support. We must set the example and bolster the Committee's authority and, above all else, we should reinstitute the fine old "Hello" habit. Extend friendship to all your fellow students and we shall bring college life back to the plane on which we wish it to be lived.

—DONALD M. COLLINS.

Out of the Copy Basket

By JAMES T. MACKEY

(Ed. note. Jas. T. Mackey is tired. Jas. T. has been overwhelmed. Jas. has offered his resignation. However we pleaded, we conjoled, we threatened and finally the aforementioned Jas. T. Mackey consented to choose at random a few nutshells of humour which pleased his own highly ecletic taste.)

* * *

Ladies and Gentlemen we present Mackey . . . (&?&).

* * *

Down in a Southern induction camp a dusky Negro sergeant was questioning a newly drafted Negro recruit.

"What's yo' name and address, big boy?" asked the sergeant. "Sakes alive, man, you sho' ought to know," was the reply. "Yo' done sent fo' me."

—The Skirmisher.

* * *

The moon was bright,
The road was dark;
The perfect place
To stop and park.

He gave a sigh,
He gave a groan,
He cursed his luck,
He was alone.

—Notre Dame Scholastic.

* * *

Seen in a local newspaper headline:

"Snow Medal Given To Dr. Stokes." Tough luck, Don Collins, try again next year.

* * *

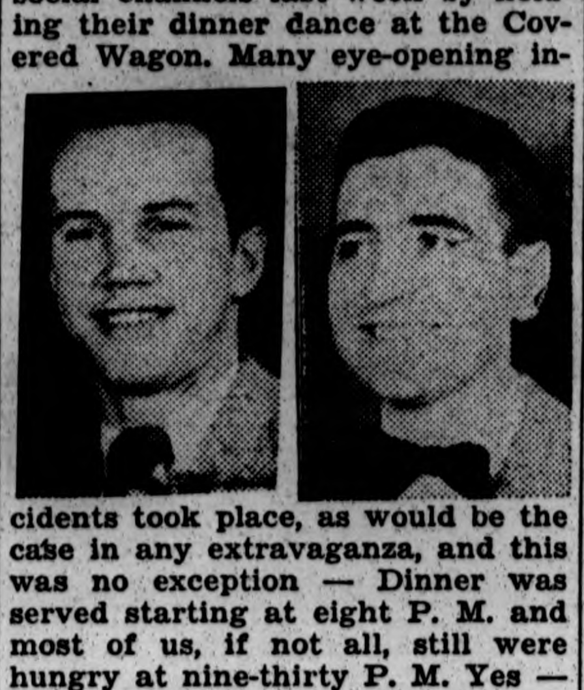
Then there's the story about the devout Irishman who was returning to America from overseas. The customs officer picked up a suspicious looking bottle from Pat's luggage: "Hah, what's this?"

"Oh, that's just Lourdes water," coyly replied Pat. But the officer

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Four

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI



The Villanovan staff opened the social channels last week by holding their dinner dance at the Covered Wagon. Many eye-opening incidents took place, as would be the case in any extravaganza, and this was no exception — Dinner was served starting at eight P. M. and most of us, if not all, still were hungry at nine-thirty P. M. Yes — the food was terif — What was it? Darned if we know. — After the so-called dinner Father Klekotka gave his address, with, and we quote, "tear gleaming eyes," Yes, the affair was sad.

Most of the boys brightened things by wearing a path to the bar. We're ashamed of you, Jim Conaty. One of the Emily Post grave-turners came off when John (Conshohocken Shuffle) Coyne asked if the soup was to be drunk or slurped. That's what spoons are for John. Rosemont was well represented by Joanne O'Brien, Patty Collins and Nancy Powers who also enjoyed the turkey a la pork. It's amazing what people will call turkey when they're hungry. It is told that Joanne and Patty went without food for three days in preparation. What's the matter gals? Aren't you fed well?

Bill Altenpohls question of the evening — "How do we maneuver into the bar without being noticed?" — You did a fine job, Bill. — Don Collins made quite a hit with those present, giving out with many tall stories. — It was the result of frequent trips to the brass rail. Bill Wescott made the evening quite formal by introducing his charming date as Miss Lappen. Honest, Bill, we think Dolores is a very pretty name—There were many other interesting aftermaths but our editor threatened us with bodily harm if we continue writing about his treasured staff.

* * *

Last week we came across a birthday card sent to a friend signed, "Iggie" — Where does the new pen come from, Dave Ryan?

Rumor has it that Jim Meehan, better known as Mr. Tremblechin, is going to graduate after seven long years of mental application, but we know this report is false.

Bill Carey, C & F's man about town, finally admitted why the women always flock to him. It's nylons. He confiscated a whole shipment when he was a cook in the Merchant Marine.

P. S.—He wears them too.

* * *

Lem Wentling seems to be doing most of his sleeping in English class of late, rather than at home. What's cooking, Lem?

Joe Bonnes recently took the fatal plunge and had himself all united by virtue of those final word, "I do."

One of the great mysteries of the year: What became of the Belle Air pictures that were on display three weeks ago?

Sight about the campus — Jim Murphy dashing to make connections for New York and that lovely damsel he moons over.

* * *

A classmate of John Sankey has informed us that John has been made official distributor of copies of the U. S. Constitution. He is the only man in Hostory 122 who has one. Thanks for the information, J. P. R.

Tony Caruso is up to his old tricks again. He is continually roaming from campus to campus of the local girls' colleges. His lat-

'CAT CAPERS
Continued on Page Four

Spanish Club Books Consuls For Thurs.

The Spanish Club of Villanova will present a literary musical show in Spanish next Thursday evening in the C. & F. auditorium. The members of the Spanish Clubs of the neighboring Colleges have been invited.

The guest speakers will include Don Enrrique Albela, the Spanish Consul; Don Nicolas Meneses, the Cuban Consul; and Dr. Romero Navarro, Head of the Spanish Department of the University of Pennsylvania. Among the several musical numbers, Robert Sabol will sing "Ay Ay" and "Marta," accompanied by Harry Waters at the piano.

Meet the Boys

By JAMES M. BONNER

Today we introduce the two men responsible for the production of this column over the last semester. Their fine work should be rewarded and I, in my own humble way, will endeavor to do them justice.

Frankly this is a job that I don't relish very much. It's one thing to write about a man but to be writing about a fellow writer is doubly difficult. Bear with me and I will set down the facts about these men who have been exposing the seniors over the past few months.

* * *

Charles D. Cummings, A/S extraordinary. In one word this describes Mr. Cummings. He has participated in all phases of college and military life. In his brief two years at Villanova he has accomplished more than many men accomplish in four normal years of college. Overnight he became a man whom the college will always be able to point to with a distinct measure of pride.

CHARLES D. CUMMINGS

Cummings is a Southerner by birth, but a New Englander by choice. He first saw the light of day in Charlottesville, Virginia in June of 1926. Even at that tender age Charlie was too much for Virginia so he migrated with his family to the New England States where he settled. Based would be a better word in describing Mr. Cummings. He immediately started commuting between New Hampshire and Massachusetts. All in all he managed to attend eleven schools before graduating from high school. This is no reflection on his scholastic ability. He had the wanderlust and, as those with the wanderlust will do, he wandered.

During his stay in high school Charlie participated in dramatics, and did considerable writing for high school publications. The day after he attained his 17th birthday he hied himself down to the nearest recruiting office and enlisted in the V-12 program. In July of 1943 he entered Worcester Polytechnic Institute. That is about all that can be said about this phase of his life. He would say no more and, as the Villanovan hasn't paid the rent on its leased wire into Worcester, we must be satisfied.

In March of 1944, Cummings was transferred south to the hallowed halls of Villanova. He immediately entered into his studies and extracurricular activities with a zest that was rarely seen during the war years. Rapidly he assumed a position of leadership in his class and in the school. As a playwright he has no peer in the college. He turned out two of the finest plays that have been produced at Villanova in quite some time. The first, "I Want to be an Officer," was a satire on the Navy training program and the trials and tribulations that assail a member of the detachment. In spite of this play, Mr. Cummings was retained in the program and will graduate on the 24th of February.

His second play, "Up In Charlie's Room," was excellent and was very well received by the audience.

Charlie did not stop here in the field of entertainment. He directed the band and organized a highly successful dance orchestra. At the same time he was doing a bit of composing on the side. It would be rather difficult to say what the future holds for so talented a man. Will he be another Jerome Kern, a Saroyan, or a combination of both?

A member of the ASME, Mr. Cummings topped off his already successful career by joining the Villanovan staff and producing the column in which he is now being eulogized. Together with Mr. Andrews, he handled his assignment in a very unique way. It was light, amusing, and factual. You certainly make it tough for your successors.

This brings us to Carroll Andrews. A/S Andrews was very hard to find. Repeated forays through the Pie Shop and the hall revealed nothing. Fortunately a hot tip from the Surplus Property Board uncovered some excess Radar equipment. I was able then to locate Mr. Andrews lounging in his sack on the third deck.

After an hour's argument as to whether or not he would give me

Continued on Page Four

FEBRUARY PROCLAIMED CATHOLIC PRESS MONTH

By DONALD J. SOMMER

During Febrbuary, the month especially set aside by the hierarchy of the Church as Catholic Press Month, a new drive has been started to induce the Catholic reading public throughout the country to patronize the various Catholic periodicals which unfortunately come into too few hands and are read by too few people.

Catholic literature in America has been in existence since the beginning of the nineteenth century when the Irish-Catholics began publishing periodicals in defense of their principles and ideals. Since then Catholic magazines and newspapers have made such strides that today the hundreds of Catholic periodicals appearing throughout the country are served by The National Catholic News Service, an organization aimed at presenting a continuous word and photographic picture of current Catholic events and thought everywhere. On its European staff this organization has some of the most distinguished journalists of the various countries.

Sponsored By Hierarchy

Each year a drive by the hierarchy of the Church and carried out by the Catholic Press Association endeavors to bring before the eyes of the public the merits of the Catholic Press. In the past few years the Catholic Press has built itself up to such a point where its complete coverage of the news concerning Catholic events is remarkable, its editorials have reached the highest level, and its features and articles dealing with world events can easily be compared with the secular newspaper. Unfortunately, however, only a small fraction of the Catholics, for whom these periodicals exist, seem to realize these merits on comparing Catholic literature with secular newspapers, and therefore the Catholic Press fails to influence the greater majority of Catholics with its principles and possibilities.

Today, in these times of dissension and modern ideas, Catholic literature should be read by every Catholic in order that he might know the Catholic ideas and principles concerning these new and modernistic trends. In many cases the Catholic, influenced by the principles of a secular newspaper and subtly led into believing their righteousness, might defend principles which are not in accordance with the Catholic Church and which might be definitely wrong.

Defend Principles Of Religion

Another of the Catholic periodicals' vital functions is to defend the Catholic principles of religion and to combat religious prejudices in anti-Catholic communities. This cannot be done unless the periodical is supported by enough Catholics to maintain an intelligent staff and to keep the newspaper or magazine in business.

A few years ago Villanova was an ardent supporter of Catholic periodicals. This support was carried out in the formation of a Catholic Press Apostolate through which the students of the school subscribed to many of the periodicals appearing throughout the country today. The Apostolate reached such a peak that at one time 13,453 periodicals were distributed in one year. This organization did much to further Catholic reading in the school, but unfortunately it has recently failed to function as it has been discontinued because of the war.

Nine Grid Games Carded

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcats Win Home Games From Rider, 53-47; Scranton, 70-42

Last Half Rally Defeats Stubborn Trenton Team. Winners Trail At Half, 27-24

By JIM McNAMARA

Last Wednesday night Villanova's inspired ball hawks again tripped a troublesome Rider College Roughrider quintet by the score of 53-47. The Wildcats now claim eigh victories in a nine game series dating back to 1938.

Joe Lord slipped in a lay-up to preface the proceedings and send the Wildcats on their way to their sixth win in the nine games thus far played. Lord scored four more points on a set and a pivot and left the 'Cats in the van at 6-1 when Dick Korngut offered a bonus for the Purple and Gold cause. The score read 10-7 at the end of the first quarter.

Rider Leads At Half

The second quarter found the invaders racking up 20 opints compared with 14 for the 'Cats and thus enable the Roughriders to boast of a 27-24 lead at half time. Korngut slipped through the lane three times during the second ten minutes to score.

For the Wildcats, Joe Brehmer and "Major" McDonnell connected on two long sets apiece and Gonglefski claimed two charities to permit Villanova to remain in front at 20-19. The score read 27-21 in favor of Rider when Joe Lord raced the half time whistle and won. He was fouled on the same shot and then made good on his free throw.

Regain Lead In Third Period

The Rider five threw a zone defense against the 'Cats which enabled our set shot artists to fire away unmolested. A terrific third period outburst by the Severancemen overhauled the Rider lead and installed the locals on top of the heap at the 30 minute mark, 43-33. Brehmer's eight points and McDonnell's six this period led the barrage.

Going into the final quarter the Roughriders switched their defense to man-to-man which bottled up the Wildcats weave, but the outcome was already decided. Lord led the Villanova scorers with 17 points, followed by Brehmer and McDonnell with 15 and 12.

Joe Brehmer Scores 27 Points, Reybitz 17, As 'Cats Are Never Headed By Tommies

By DICK SOMERS

Villanova won its second successive basketball game of the week and increased the number of games in the victory column to eight by winning from the University of Scranton, 70-42. For the first time this season the 'Cats clicked as a unit.

Ed Reybitz did yeoman work retrieving balls off both backboards in addition to scoring seventeen points and handing out passes that resulted in goals for his teammates. Bill Burr played his usually fine floor game. "Major" McDonnell continued to blister the nets for thirteen markers. Joe Lord contributed six field goals to the carnage and assistedReybitz on the boards. Last but not least, the "Pride of the Marines" Joe Brehmer set the scoring pace for the evening by passing the ball through the hoop for the small total of twenty-seven points.

Scranton opened and closed the scoring in the first half on goals by its high scoring forward Bill Griglock who had nineteen points for the evening. In between these baskets, the Blue and White rolled up a commanding 38-15 advantage. Brehmer lead the carnage with five field goals and six fouls. Reybitz and McDonnell had eight with Lord making the remaining six.

The Tommies made a battle of it the second half but could not overcome the large half-time deficit. Greglock lead the attack for a futile cause with thirteen points. However, the closest that the upstaters could come was eighteen points with four minutes to play. The 'Cats accepted the challenge by notching twelve points to two. By outscoring Scranton 32-27 in the second half, Villanova ended up with a twenty-eight point margin of victory.

VISITS CAMPUS

Walt Nowack, block - busting blocking end of the 1938-1939 Blue and White football teams, and present coach of Camden High's South Jersey championship football team, was on campus last week with four former Purple and Gold players.

Karl Weber, Karl Vogt, Al Litwa and Gabby Odonisio comprised the group. These boys expect to perform for the Main Liners this fall.

EX-VILLANOVA SERVICEMEN

Congratulations are in order for the men who have been discharged. First on the list this week is former sailor Tom Tipaldi of Newark. Tom writes that since he has only been out a few days, there are no definite plans formed as yet. However, he intends to continue his college education somewhere. Recently "Dixie" Dunbar returned home for good and has resumed the duties of bringing up his two children. Pride of the C&F Alumni, Louis Maschiocci returned for a visit after being out two days. Louie was pleased with the improvement of the Financier's Fraternity. As to the future, Lou is still wondering where he will get a white shirt.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE
Longines

Courtmen Close 1945-46 Season

By HENRY WARD
Sports Editor

Villanova College closes it 1945-46 basketball season next week when it meets Albright College on Wednesday, February 16. Tomorrow night it will entertain Manhattan College here and will journey to Allentown this Saturday to meet the Mules of Muhlenberg College, prior to its closing game with the Lions.

In meeting Manhattan, the Wildcats will be out to avenge an earlier loss. The first meeting, at Manhattan, showed Villanova trailing at the final whistle, 57-47. It was the deadeye shooting of center Jack Byrnes that produced the winning margin in the second half after an exciting first half in which the lead changed hands eight times.

Byrnes High Scorer

Manhattan led by only two points in the third period when Byrnes started a scoring spree that put his team ahead for good. The two forwards, Johnny Hughes and Paul Cohane, also are scoring threats. Bob Kelley and Charlie Verschuuren will probably round out the starting five.

Muhlenberg College has a record of 14 wins and 1 loss to date. This defeat, at the hands of Temple University, has been followed by 12 consecutive victories. Last year they participated in the National Invitation tournament at Madison Square Garden in New York.

Leading Coach Floyd Schwartzwalder's team will be "Reds" Baldwin and Van Combs. Both of these boys hail from London, Kentucky, where they played together in high school. Last year, Baldwin scored 369 points and was picked on the AP All-Pennsylvania Collegiate team.

Lions Have Lost Seven

The Lions of Albright College have lost seven of their thirteen games so far this season. After losing their first six games, they turned around and won six in a row before St. Joseph's stopped their streak. They have, like Villanova, been defeated by both Valley Forge and Manhattan.

Cindermen Lose Two Star Runners

Track Coach Jim Elliot is carrying a help wanted sign and surveying the campus in search of talent for the track team. Anyone desiring to apply or who knows of any prospective candidates should contact "Jumbo" immediately. Otherwise he will add a few more gray hairs or tear the remaining ones out worrying over the future of the team in the coming indoor meets.

The reason for his misery is very simple. After the New York A. C. Games this Saturday night in New York's Madison Square Garden the Villanova indoor one-mile relay team will lose Burt Cox, its speedy lead-off man, and the third man of the quartette, Jack Farnsworth. These two combined with Tom Short and Dan Redmond to defeat a classy field in the Millrose Mile at the Garden two weeks ago after running into hard luck at the Inquirer Invitation Meet earlier in the season.

Cox, in addition to running on the relay team, is a modified one-man track team. He also performs in the dashes and broad jump, and holds the National Hop, Skip and Jump Championship.

Wildcats Add Miami, Georgetown And Kings Point; Play Army, Navy

Season Opens September 14 In Goodreau Stadium. Home Games Listed Against Marquette And Three Newcomers. Also Play Holy Cross, Boston College And Detroit

By DAN REDMOND

A power-packed nine game football schedule for the 1946 edition of Villanova's Wildcats was released by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., moderator of athletics, last Thursday night. Speaking at the annual banquet of the Villanova Club of Philadelphia, Father McKee announced that in addition to six 1945 opponents, the 'Cats will meet Miami's Orange bowl champions, the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy (Kings Point), and Georgetown.

Coach Jordan Olivar and his boys will return to the Villanova campus for their opening game, a meeting with Kings Point, on Sept. 14th. This will be the first game to be played on the campus since 1939 when the Main Liners laced Muhlenberg, 14-0.

Early Start Explained

The reason for the early start was given by Father McKee when he said, "There is the possibility of an extended Summer semester to accommodate the veterans and this game was arranged to give the students an opportunity to see the team in action before they leave on vacation. And, too, the game will give the squad a chance to test its ability before the Army game."

The West Point game is scheduled for Sept. 21, one week before the Navy encounter. Both are away games and will be played at the respective academies.

Marquette will send its Golden Avalanche to Philadelphia's Shibe Park on Friday night, Oct. 4, in an effort to chalk up its first win over the 'Cats in four meetings. The best that they have been able to do in the brief three game series thus far is to hold Villanova to a scoreless tie.

Again Journey To Worcester

The following Saturday, Oct. 12, the Villanovans will be seeking their initial victory over Holy Cross at Worcester, Mass. The Crusaders have prevailed over the Wildcats for three successive wartime seasons.

Shibe Park will be the scene of battle on Sunday, Oct. 20 when the locals will resume gridiron relations with Georgetown University after a lapse of fifteen years. They last met in 1931 with the Hoyas emerging victorious by a 16-6 count. Their only meeting previous to that was in 1930 when Villanova won, 3-0, so that makes next year's match a rubber game.

On Friday, Oct. 25 it's back to New England again where Villanova and Boston College will fight for the edge in a series that is knotted at six wins apiece. A 7-7 tie in 1929 completes the recapitulation of the thirteen game series.

The University of Miami's Hurricanes will invade Shibe Park on Friday, Nov. 1, for an arclight tilt with the Wildcats. This will complete half of a two year agreement that has been signed by the two schools. Villanova will travel to Miami in 1947.

The schedule, as it stands now, will be completed by our purrin' pigskinners' journey to Detroit to engage that city's collegiate gridiron representatives on Nov. 8. The Wildcats will take to the Motor City with them a seven to four edge in a thirteen game series. Two games have resulted in ties.

Two open dates, Nov. 16 and Nov. 23, remain on the slate, but negotiations are unlerway to fill one of these two Saturdays.

The schedule: Sept. 14, U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, Villanova; 21, Army at West Point; 28, Navy at Annapolis; Oct. 4, Marquette, Shibe Park (night); 12, Holy Cross at Worcester; 20, Georgetown, Shibe Park (Sunday); 25, Boston College at Boston; Nov. 1, University of Miami, Shibe Park (night); Detroit at Detroit (night); 16, open; 23, open.

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS

Presenting, the "Little Man" whose always there, William Burr, NROTC.

Bill is a product of Burlington, New Jersey. During his high school days he was a member of the basketball, baseball and track teams at the local high school. He was a guard on the court team, shortstop on the diamond, and specialized in the pole vault and broad jump on the cinder path.

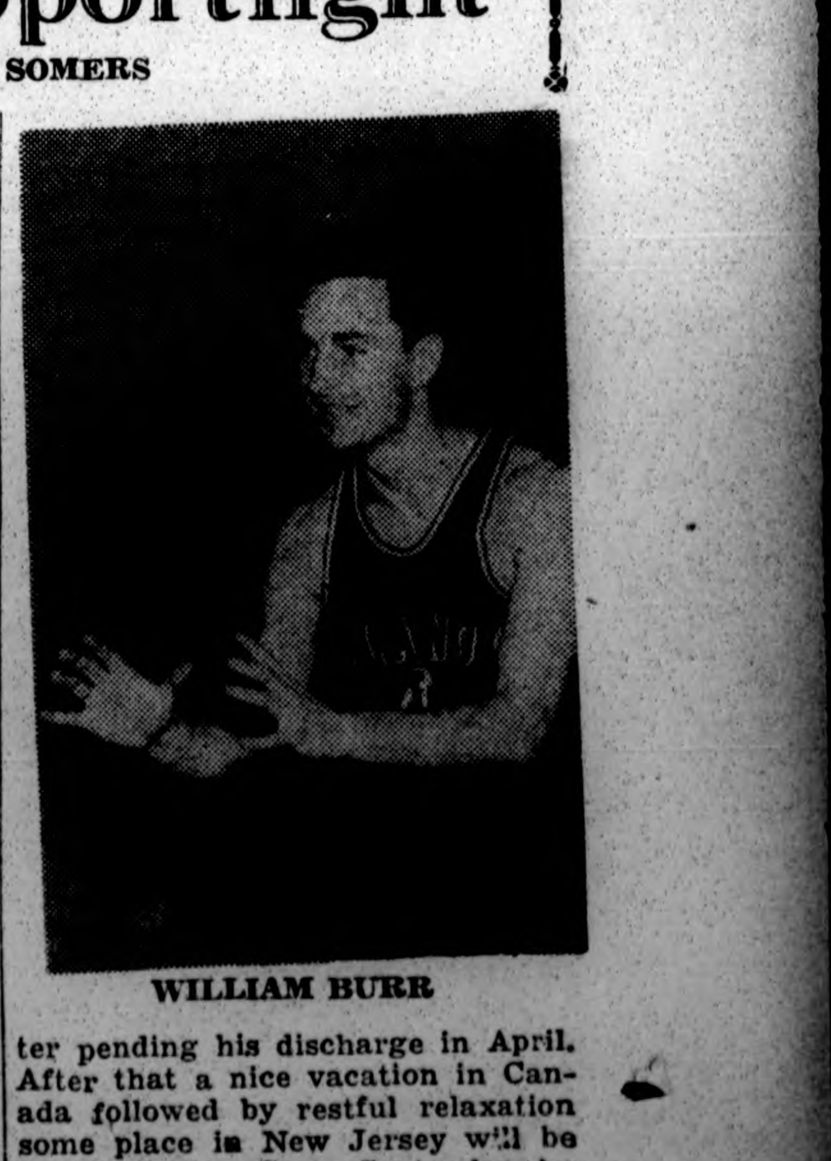
Enlisted in March, 1943

After graduating he worked six months for the U. S. Pipe Foundry Co., then joined the Navy in March, 1943. Bill took his boot training at Bainbridge. From there he moved to the Machinist Mate's School at Richmond and then to Norfolk for duty on an LST.

July of 1944 found him a member of the V-12 unit at Muhlenberg College. While there he played on its basketball team that was invited to the National Championship Tournament in New York. During the spring his attention was on his field events for the track team.

Leaves This Semester

Transferred to Villanova in July, 1945, he reported for track and participated in the Princeton meet. At present Bill is performing on the hardwood.



WILLIAM BURR

Bill expects to be reassigned to sea duty at the end of this semester pending his discharge in April. After that a nice vacation in Canada followed by restful relaxation some place in New Jersey will be easy to take. Come September he would like to finish his education with an eye on obtaining a degree in Physical Education.

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Two

any information at all on his past life Andy broke down and very guardedly released some of those secrets that heretofore have never been revealed.

Andy, who forms the second part of the infamous C.A. and C.D. duo, arrived over Baltimore on the 6th of January 1926. Due to some mix-up at the immigration office he managed to slip in unobserved. When the mistake was uncovered there was a big shake up in the aforementioned department.

During the formative years (those are the years that an ordinary child becomes a problem and a problem child becomes impossible) he did the things that a boy does in high school. He did some swimming, ran on the track team and wrote for the high school publications. At this time Andy was in attendance at the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute.

CARROLL ANDREWS

One of the last things to come out of my interview with Mr. Andrews was that he was on the Ways and Means Committee while in high school. Other than that I was unable to learn anything concerning this phase of his development. Any information will be greatly appreciated. It seems that the courses in security have made serious inroads into his thought processes.

After graduation from Tech Andy followed the example of many others and joined the Navy. He was assigned to the V-12 unit at the University of Pennsylvania. He spent two semesters there laying the groundwork for his engineering. Then, true to the tradition that one man should never get too settled in any one place, the Navy cut orders reading Villanova College. Andy entered Mendel Hall to finish his studies in engineering.

After getting settled Andy joined our engineering organizations, the ASME and the Phi Kappa Pi. He was very active throughout his college career and served on the dance committee during the past year.

For the past semester Andrews has been collaborating with Cummings to produce the column that I am now endeavoring to write. Although Andy only wrote for one semester he did a fine job and will be sorely missed in future issues.

As far as the gals go, both our salts were very reticent. All the information I got was contained in blank looks. I never could interpret those correctly.

So, as we prepare to write 30 to another issue. I'd like to wish two former staff members luck and success in their Navy life and a speedy return to civilian life and the normal pursuits of peacetime.

British Navy

Continued From Page One

American Dominican in Washington. He is probably best known in the U.S. for his publication, "Poetic Experience" and "Morals and Marriage."

During the war, Father Gilby was attached to the Battle Cruiser Squadron. He later served in Force "H" which included H.M. Ships Renown and Ark Royal in the Western Mediterranean, and then with the Home Fleet destroyers in the Arctic. In 1943 he was attached to Royal Marine Landing Group in the Levant, Sicily and Italy. In 1944 he was appointed to the shore establishment H.M.S. Drake, the Barracks at Devonport, one of the largest British naval ports.

Speaks to Seminarians

Father Gilby was received last Friday evening by the Very Rev. Father McGuire, President of the College, Father McCabe, Prior of St. Mary's Hall, Father Plunkett, Master of the Professed and Fathers Gilligan, Coffey, Bresnahan and Krupa. After discussing books, authors and acquaintances, the group proceeded to the Community Room where Father Gilby addressed the Augustinian Seminarians. Although it was his intention to cover the subject "Social Philosophy of the English Speaking Nations," anecdotes and the characterization of the English seaman predominated his discourse. Father Gilby kept his audience laughing throughout. An open forum was conducted after his talk, and questions of all natures were answered by the English Dominican.

53rd Villanovan

Continued From Page One

Sergeant and Master Sergeant and went to O.C.S. where he was commissioned Second Lieutenant. He subsequently became First Lieutenant and spent some time doing Trial work in the Judge Advocate General's Office on Courts Martial.

Buried in Holland

Arthur transferred to Rents and Claims work in order to see Service overseas, became Captain, and shipped out in September 1944, eventually making headquarters at Brussels where he met his death. Captain Ziegler was buried in the Margraten Cemetery in Southern Holland.

A Mass card was sent to the parents of Arthur Ziegler by the College Chaplain, Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O.S.A. Arthur was also enrolled with a Perpetual Membership in the Seminary Guild.

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

was doubtful. Opening the bottle he smelled of its contents.

"Hah, I thought so," he said, "that's not Lourdes water. That's whisky that's what it is."

"Glory be to God. It's a miracle," cried Pat.

• • •

Man is sick; man dies; man is buried; man turns to dust; dust turns to soil; grass grows from soil; cows eat grass: Moral: Never kick a cow, she may be your Uncle Wilbur.

—Loyolan.

• • •

Why do they call girls angels?

Because they are always up in the air, usually harping on something, and never have a thing to wear.

• • •

There's a new card game popular up on the Temple University campus these day called "Spit on the Table Poker." The game is so crooked that no one dares turn his head for an instant, and so they spit on the table.

'Cat Capers

Continued From Page Two

est expedition over the past week-end was in the company of Harcum's Jean Ryan.

We close our semester of m[illegible]ing other people's business with a little advice to each and every one to buckle down for the finals that begin next week.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

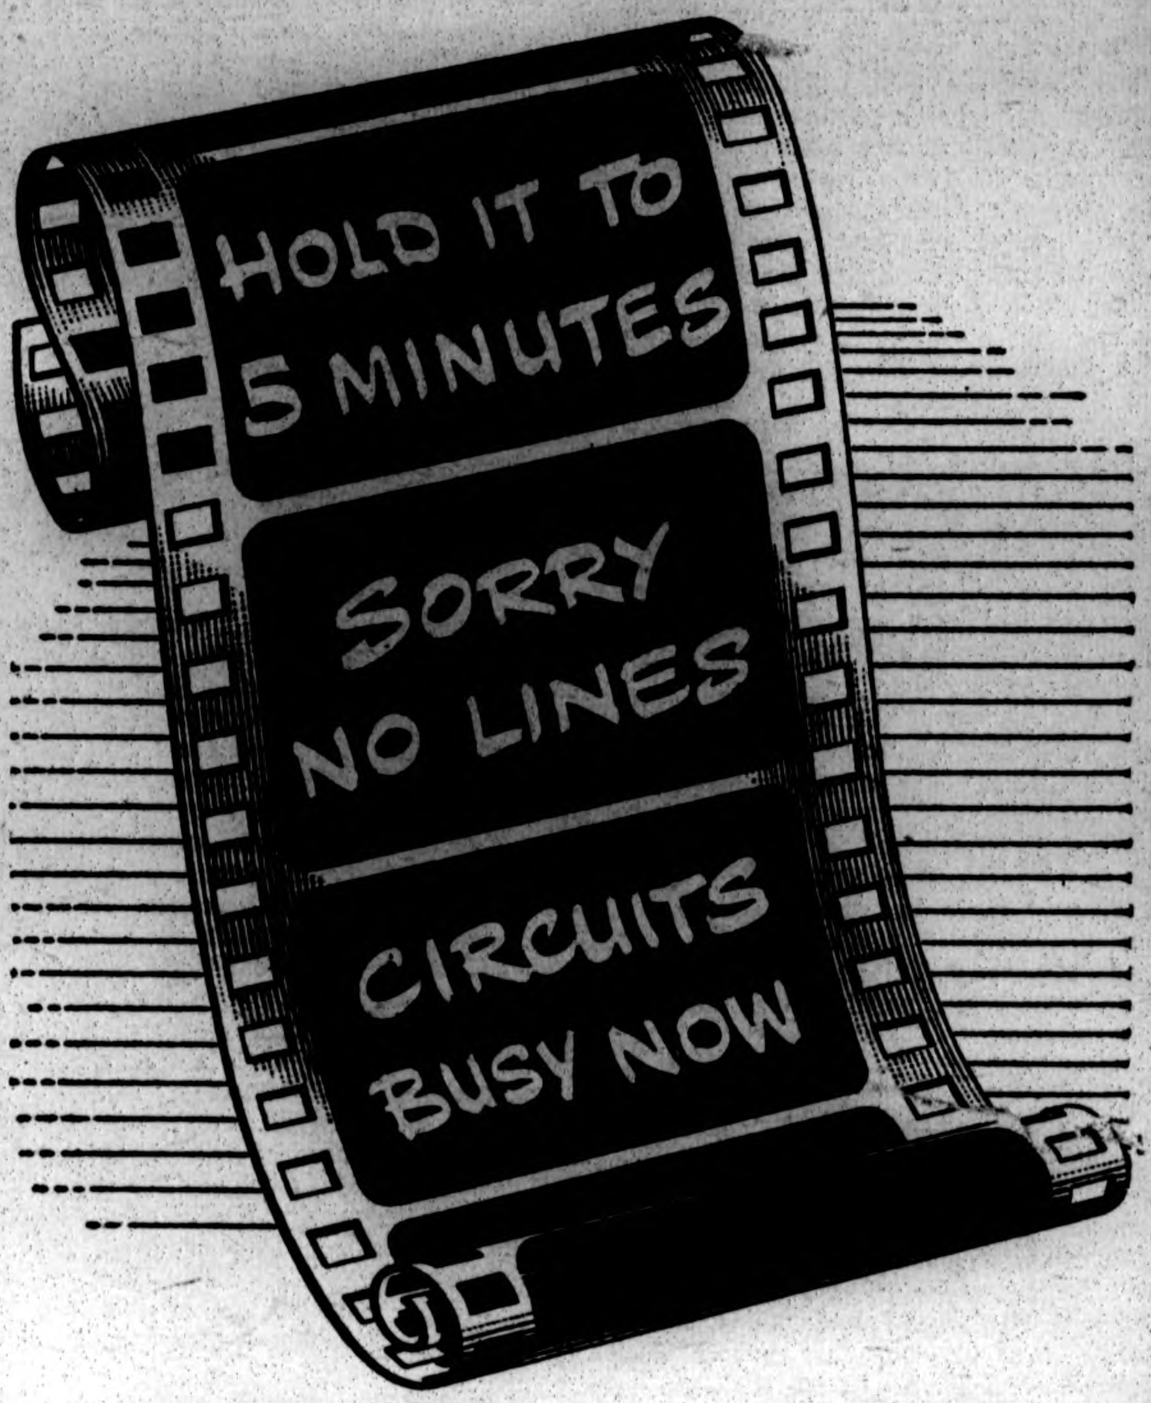
180
36
216
4

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Refreshment
coming up
DRINK
Coca-Cola
© 1946 The C-C Co.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.



WAR-STORY SERIAL
. . . to be concluded
If you'll be glad when Long Distance delays are ended . . . imagine our delight.
We've hated to ask you to wait, as necessary as it has been. And delays still occur on some crowded lines, particularly to the South and Far West.
But dawn is breaking. Soon we'll have the facilities to take care of the increased demand for Long Distance service. We're glad to be able to tell you this.
THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
OF PENNSYLVANIA

Volume 21
n. 1-12

March 12 –
June 11, 1946

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

Vol 21 No 1

Vol. 20—No. 25 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MARCH 12, 1946

President's Address Keynotes Semester

Reverend Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., Addresses Undergraduate Body At Start of Semester

Rev. Francis X. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova College, addressed the upperclassmen last Thursday in the Commerce and Finance building. The new students and former Villanovans were extended a formal and cordial welcome to the College. Father McGuire recalled the times in the last four years when he had bade farewell to most of these same students.

It was so planned, said Father, that no Villanovan was denied readmission under any condition. This was carried out. Said the President: "It is true that the present College men are different from those of peacetime. Matured by the cruel laboratory of war, the Veteran is schooled in academic and moral responsibility as well as leadership."

Responsibility to War Dead

Father McGuire pointed out to the students their obligation to those men who had given their lives for the country's cause: "If they die for the things that are best, why can't we live for them?"

Upperclassmen were asked to help the freshmen as much as possible, even to the extent of going out of their way to do so. Father made it plain that the best way of renewing the traditional campus spirit was to inaugurate the "hello" habit.

High praise was extended by the President to the Faculty members, who have worked continuously since 1942.

Further Expansion Planned

Father McGuire told of plans for further expansion of the campus, and he added that only the industrial situation involving plumbing, electrical and steel strikes was inhibiting their progress.

One of the more prominent points of the President's talk was his exhortation to the returning Veter-

PRES. ADDRESS
Continued on Page Seven

Lenten Services Begin At Chapel

Father John Crawford, O.S.A., Preaches To Resident Students

Last Wednesday the students of Villanova carried the significant smudge of ashes on their foreheads, announcing the advent of Lent.

Each year, on Shrove Tuesday—Mardi Gras—the Church gathers up the palms, the wistful souvenirs left from last year's celebration of Christ's triump in Jerusalem shortly before the cricifixion. These she burns to ashes in token of the hollowness in every worldly success. The ashes are then blessed with every solemnity and laid on the foreheads of her children.

Memento Homo

At each Mass in the morning, in the afternoon, and the evening, the students were given the opportunity to approach the rail, where the priest dipped his thumb into a cup of ashes and drew it over their foreheads in the form of a cross, saying: "Remember man, that thou are dust, and unto dust thou shalt return."

Wednesday evening Rev. John Crawford, O.S.A., delivered a sermon to the resident students, impressing upon them the necessity of the observance of the season of Lent. Father Crawford reminded the returning Veterans of their recent proximity to death, but warned that even though they survived the draft of Death's open door, uncertainty still lingers. This Wednesday the students will hear Rev. James A. Donellon, O.S.A.

Appropriately, the President of the United States has asked the people of this country to partake of as little food as possible in order to diminish the sufferings of the people abroad.

LENTEN SCHEDULE

Residents

Daily Mass: 7:00, 7:30 and 8:00 A. M.

Confessions during all Masses.

Monday evening: Benediction.

Tuesday evening: Stations of the Cross.

Wednesday evening: Sermon and Confessions.

Thursday evening: Benediction.

Day Students

Daily Mass: 8:00 A. M.

Wednesday at 1:20 P. M.: Benediction followed by Confessions.

Degrees Presented To Twenty-Eight At Winter Commencement

Reverend Thomas Gilby, O.P., British Navy Chaplain Likens College Degrees To Service Commissions

Twenty-eight men graduated from Villanova College at services held in the College Chapel on Sunday, February 24. Rev. F. X. N. McGuire, President of the college, conferred the degrees and Captain Thomas C. Thomas, U.S.N. Commanding Officer of the naval unit awarded the commission.

Attired in caps and gowns the small group presented a memorable picture as they climbed the steps of the chapel. For most of then it was a day of happiness — for all of them it was a day of triumph.

Ceremonies Begin With Mass

Commencement Exercises were begun sharply at 11:00 A. M. with a Solemn High Mass sung by Father McGuire and assisted by Father McKee and Father Dwyer, Vice President and Dean of studies respectively.

Upon the conclusion of the Holy Sacrifice the pledge of loyalty was given. To many friends of the graduates this was a momentous occasion but to the graduates it was a renewal of the spirit that had made them men of Villanova. Following the pledge, the Commander of the Naval Unit, Captain Thomas, awarded commissions in the Naval Reserve to the Senior who had completed the prescribed course as naval trainees.

The twenty-eight men then walked one by one up to the altar rail and received their degrees. Not many in number but exact in the execution of their ceremony, the class enacted a scene that will live in the minds and hearts of the many guests.

Father Gilby Speaks

After the awarding of the diplomas an address was delivered to the graduates by Rev. Thomas Gilby, O.P., chaplain in the British Navy. Speaking with an unmistakable British accent, Father Gilby pointed out to the men the close harmony and splendid cooperation his country and the United States had during the war. He cited examples of the heroic exploits of the allied navies; pointing out to the graduates and the newly commissioned officers the tasks and responsibilities ahead of them.

Father Gilby, a chaplain in the Royal Navy, has been commissioned by the Admiralty to lecture in the United States and its possessions. He is officially attached to the H.M.S. Saker, the British Admiralty Delegation in Washington, although his home is the Do-

GRADUATION
Continued on Page Seven

The following men received commissions in the United States Naval Reserve:

Orville Anderson
Carroll Andrews
George Bacsik
Henry Bombick
Thomas Carrigg
Charles Cummings
Chester Duncan
Edward Fimbel
John Freytag
John Hartwell
Donald Knauss
Edwin Michael
Robert Moore
Julius Palley
Burton Price
Kenneth Rob'tson

DAVID I. RYAN RETIRES AS EDITOR

David I. Ryan, Editor-in-Chief of the Villanovan last semester, resigned that post last month. He was succeeded by Russell Leo Welsh, who was Managing Editor of the college tabloid last term. Ryan, who has been affiliated with the Villanovan since his entry here in July, 1944, intends to remain with the paper as a staff writer.

During his first semester at Villanova, the retired editor worked with the news and sports staffs and his commendable performances in those capacities earned for him the Managing Editorship of the paper the following semester. The succeeding term found Ryan in the Sports Editor slot which post he held until he was raised to the Editor-in-Chief position last November.

Ryan Active in Conucil

Besides his extensive and various jobs on the Villanovan, Ryan has found time to take active part in such extracurricular functions as the Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity of the Commerce and Finance school, the Student Council, the Orientation Committee and the Sanctuary Society. The ex-chief, who is a pre-law major in the Commerce and Finance school, is a day student who hails from Wayne, Pa., a few miles up the Main Line from the college grounds. He hopes to enter law school after his graduation from Villanova.

The former editor was born in Bryn Mawr, Pa. on Aug. 15, 1923 and after going through the customary procedure of reaching the age of reason, he embarked on his educational career by enrolling at Waldron Academy in Merion. After a comparatively inactive eight years, he graduated from there and entered Malvern Prep where he started to get into the swing of extracurricular functions.

DAVID I. RYAN

Malvern Line Star

Besides playing varsity football for two years, he became co-editor of the school paper and year-book. While with the school paper, he did considerable story writing for the sports department. Regarding his football activities, the ex-chief pointed out that he almost scored a touchdown once. It involved the team center, who dropped back of the line of scrimmage to throw a pass to Ryan at end. It was all very confusing but it netted the Malvern outfit an eighteen yard gain.

Ryan graduated from Prep school in 1941 and went to work with the General Electric Company in Philadelphia. He later worked with the Department of Justice in the

DAVE RYAN
Continued on Page Seven

In Memorium

The Villanovan, in the name of the entire student body of the college, expresses its deepest sympathy to those Villanovans who recently suffered the loss of a dear one.

Requiescant in Pace

The Mother of Maurice Wilhere, '47.

• • •

The Father of Edward Gallagher, '44.

• • •

The Mother of Richard Shinner, '44.

• • •

The Mother of Professor Leo F. Brown.

• • •

John Edward Casey, ex. '40.

• • •

The Father of Ed Dolan.

• • •

Dave Berman, ex. '45.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATTHEW J. KEARNEY, '47 .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Arthur R. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Herman J. Diesel, '50
John White, USNR
Donald Fox, '50
James G. Mudd, '50
David I. Ryan, '48

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
George O'Neill, '47
Milton Clemati, '49
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
William Mansell, '50
Emile Meyer, '50

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
Joseph Braezler, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Francis Linsulata, '49
Roland Higgs, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Charles J. McCarthy, '49

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - FEBRUARY 12, 1946

Our Policy

PERHAPS THIRTY years from now the editorial staff of a twenty page weekly Villanovan will thumb through this present edition. "One thousand students and an eight pager, ye gods!"

This is an apology to the future. Here are the facts. Veterans are returning to school with the intention of making the most of their time—study is foremost. Future issues will demonstrate the caution these veterans are employing. It will be their duty to feel their way around until they know they can cope with both study and extra activities. That is noble.

Need For Good Writers

It is true, the Villanovan staff needs writers, and it needs good writers. We are asking for your support if you can give it, but we respect your prudent judgment if you can't.

At present the industrial world is at a standstill. Flash bulbs are unobtainable; our photographers haven't seen a single "fast" cut film for the past month. This has hindered us to an extreme.

However, this will be our policy: Whenever possible, and we hope it will be weekly, we intend to run an eight page issue. We will cover and back all activities that come to our attention. We will welcome all criticisms of the style, make-up, features and editorials of the Villanovan. Good stories and good pictures will be our goal.

If we fail in the above, the blame rests with us. Still, we will ask the help of all the organizations on the campus. If there is news in your particular fraternity, club or society, let us know about it.

It is your paper, and we are your servants. Help us make the Villanovan a real power on the campus.

Campus Beautiful

THE STUDENTS of Villanova College may justly take pride in their campus. Those who have visited other college campuses marvel at the God-given beauty of Villanova campus. But that God-given beauty does require cooperation from man. The student can do a great deal to help keep the campus beautiful. Walking on the paths does seem an extra bother when you are hurrying to catch a train, and after all what harm will come of one person walking on the grass? The difficulty is that one thousand men get the same idea and it doesn't take long for unsightly paths to be worn in the grass. A little thoughtfulness on the part of students will go a long way to prevent such damage being done. Throwing litter around the campus, of course, should not even be thought of on a college campus.

An important part of the campus is the interior appearance of the buildings. Here, too, a little more care about the disposal of papers and food containers will do much to help keep up the appearance of classrooms and corridors.

Attention to details of this kind does require a bit of sacrifice on the part of the students. But it is the student who stands to reap the most benefit from such care. A general improvement in campus appearance will make his stay here more pleasant. Furthermore, the high opinion that outsiders have of the campus will reflect in their attitude toward students and graduates of Villanova.

A Screeching Halt

ONE LOOK at the front page of any leading newspaper and the reader is convinced that the United States faces the most serious period of internal strife in twenty-five years. Work stoppages have occurred in practically every industry and utility in the nation. The causes of these strikes vary, but they center about the proposition of higher hourly wages to combat the advanced cost of living. The answers to these problems will not be attempted here but we do wish to indicate the entity whose capacity and responsibility make it the sole agent of a rapid, just and permanent settlement.

We said before that this was the most strike-bound time in twenty-five years. In a manner this is the limit, in another it is not. True, more corporations were picketed, true, also, the number of strikers exceeds that of today, but never in their history have the American people been so handcuffed or so deterred from their hopes and expectations. In the decade following the first world war industrial dependence had not assumed the universal and iron like grip which it has today. The telephone, the automobile, the radio, modern appliances, even electricity itself had not participated so importantly or generally in the American domestic scene and today the bloodstream of corporate enterprise reaches and nourishes every American and any poison injected into it enervates and affects every member.

When such a large portion of the public is in any way afflicted, it is the duty of the federal government to seek out and forcefully to eradicate the cause. Explicitly in the preamble to our constitution the government has been organized to insure tranquility—to promote the general welfare. Certainly the difficulties which now assail our nation constitute a disruption of domestic tranquility and a detriment to the general welfare. In the constitution itself Congress is empowered to regulate interstate commerce. The current difficulties threaten even the existence of interstate commerce or commerce at all.

Moreover Washington is the only well capable of pouring oil to calm industry's troubled waters. The executive power to bring labor and management to a suitable agreement for the public good lies only in the federal government. Unions will fight their bitter, hungry battle and capital their desultory, annoyed one at the general expense until the one is brought to its knees.

In the government we, of our own volition, vested the power to destroy these blocks; we, for our own good, expect them to be destroyed.

—Donald M. Collins.

The Labor Problem

DURING AND shortly after the first world war, a major revolution shook Russia and produced not only a new ruler but also a totally new form of government. For over ten years this new government was not recognized by any world power. Then the United States decided to exchange ambassadors with that nation, now called the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Until 1940 the relations between the two nations was indifferent but the acts of the year before and the years to follow were to bring about a great change in reciprocal policy. Russia's seizure of the Polish East was officially overlooked with a grunt of disapproval, and the signing of the Russo-German pact caused real alarm in our State Department. Then with 1941 came the Eastern Europe reversal and our own entry into war, with the subsequent mutual overtures between Stalin and Roosevelt.

The war years saw Russia hold and throw back the invaders while the United States sprang across two oceans to fight and win two antipodal battles. This triumph of arms was carried out by three nations but it rolled to completion on American wheels. The tremendous economic, moral and logistic efforts of the United States lent sinews to all the fighting men facing the Axis. History cannot forget Stalingrad, but it must not forget the enormous quantities of American equipment flown in American planes which succored and strengthened the valiant Russians who fought there. Men look with wonder at the Russian advance across the Ukraine and Poland, but they must peer more closely and notice the tank label: 'Made in Detroit.'

While the American military industry was thus engaged where was our diplomacy? Not halfway, but extended. We went to Teheran, we went to Yalta, we yielded this and we accepted that, where is the parallel? But of course this was war and unity was necessary.

Comes the peace, and the world boasts flowers on its bosom, yet there grows a weed. Russia says correspondents can't go here, Russia orders military visits curtailed and conducted, Russia enters Iran, Russia won't ebb from Eastern Europe, Russia won't recede from Manchuria, the Red Sea is bubbling over. But this is not enough, Russia wants to know why Greece isn't completely evacuated, Russia wants African bases, and, Russia wants one and one half billion American dollars.

While the USSR was thus engaged where was our diplomacy? We are yielding at San Francisco, we are yielding at London, we get out of Iran, we get out of Manchuria, we yield this and we accept that. And, oh yes, we have the atomic bomb spied upon.

At last, this week Secretary of State James Byrnes called the screeching halt. Things must stop somewhere and Byrnes said where. Let us hope that this is the end of the perpendicular parallel, maybe we have called the bluff of the diplomatic "Red Menace."

—Donald M. Collins.

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEILL

POET'S PATTER

An amoeba named Joe and his brother
Were out drinking toasts to each other
And, as they sat quaffing,
They split themselves laffing
Now each one of them is a mother.

—Northeastern News.

The beautiful harvest moon beamed down into her sparkling eyes, a scintillating piquant nose elfishly turned up at the end, and her beautiful long tresses curled lazily about her shoulders as she looked up into the rapt eyes of her dashing Romeo:

"John—John darling, do you love me?"

"So what's it to you, you slob?"

—The Santa Clara.

The clique men are the ones who strut about any campus with their noses riding on a cloud. They won't look at "outsiders" and won't speak to them because they think they're too good for others. When they do endeavor to speak, their condescending attitude speaks for itself.

—Excerpt from an editorial, The St. Bona Venture.

One uninitiated V-5 going through the chow line wanted to know: "What is this stuff they keep giving us for breakfast?" "I think they call it Philadelphia schrapnel" was the knowing answer.

—The Ursinus Weekly.

Prof (to a sleepy frosh): "Well what's your excuse this time?"

Frosh: Well, er, you see there are eight of us in the family, and the alarm clock was only set for seven, this morning." (Maybe we had better pause for thirty seconds silence to the memory of that one.)

—Northeastern News...

The "back to college" trend among discharged veterans of the nation was reflected in the registration figures released by the registrar which showed a 100 percent increase in the student body of St. John's College for the Spring term.

—The Torch,
St. John's College.

A real estate salesman of Loyola Village: "How do you like our little town?"

Prospective Buyer: "It's the first cemetery I've seen with lights in it."

—The Loyolan..

In reply to the landlord's demand to vacate, knowing his rights under OPA regulations, a tenant wrote:

"Dear Sir:
I remain
Truly Yours."

—The Santa Clara.

"Say, Dad, what keeps us from falling off the earth when we are upside down?"

"Why, the law of gravity, of course."

"Well, how did folks stay on before the law was passed?"

—The Tatler.
New Rochelle College.

I'm through with all women
They cheat and they lie
They prey on us males
Till the day we die
They tease us, torment us
And drive us to sin
Say, who was that blonde that just walked in?

—The Plainsman.

The train halted for a moment at the station and the traveler reached out, called a small boy, and said: "Son, here's fifty cents. Get me a twenty-five cent sandwich and get one for yourself. Hurry up."

Just as the train pulled out the boy ran up to the window. "Here's a quarter mister," he shouted. "They only had one sandwich."

—The Tatler,
New Rochelle College.

The recent allocation by the FPHA of additional family dwellings for erection on the Auburn campus to accommodate students with families, is learned through the Plainsman, Auburn College tabloid. The paper points out the housing shortage and steps that are being taken to alleviate the situation.

"Can you help me select a gift for my aunt? She's awfully weak and very rich."

"How about some floor wax?"

—The Loyolan.

There have been times when I, and certainly you, have felt the same as the little boy who return-

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Eight

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

With the curtain call for a new year resounding over the dressing room of the Villanovan, and many of Villanova's fast steppers still wishing they had studied for that last exam instead of seeing the dream gal, this column would inform the Class of '49, a new group of Main Line campus future pill rollers, pencil pushers, bar barkers and punchy engineers, that herein is published in like manner (your guess is as good as ours) . . . our reportorial snoopings. We are interested in knowing what's been done, when it's been done, where it's been done and "WHO DID IT" . . . In other words, "what's the story."

That dreamy part of the year—Spring . . . made an early arrival on the campus last week and was welcomed with open arms by all love the sick bugs, Bill Altenphol in particular. This was made evident at Rosemont's Tea Dance last week when Bill was noticed strolling arm in arm with a certain gal. . . The more ambitious lads such as Joe Brogan and Larry Fallon are again taking up the national past time of baseball, while the Spring fever boys are lying about the campus wishing they had a low-slung convertible with tires and a cute damsel to go with it . . . But as Don Collins would say, at a time like this who cares about the convertible."

John "Lovey" Quinn's return seemed to make quite a hit with all his Rosie friends at the tea dance last week. A familiar quotation when they met John was "Oooh! John, you're back!!" Then they fainted.

Tom "What's the other guy's name" McCarthy is considering the removal of one of his courses because the prof doesn't speak the same language.

Well!! Well!! For the benefit of Bill Diana and Jack Mallick who have been trying so hard to get their name in print here it is.

Donald Panccaszo, God's gift to the women, has returned to reserve his place at Villanova. Look out fellows, he's got a terrific way with other fellow's gals.

Frank Greco has suddenly taken to art. He was noticed entering the Art Museum last week and, after spending four hours looking over the situation, he was heard saying "I'd rather buy an Esquire!!"

Aristides Scarpa, a frosh, was asked what was his impression of Villanova during his first few days —and we quote "Book store line, dining hall line—lines—lines—I'm going mad!!"

Lou DiGiacomo made it known to us that we had better write nice things about him from now on—he writes a gossip column too!! Yipe!! Just give us the dirt boys.

John Masson was asked the following question in English class. "When was the English language originated?"—After a short period of mental starvation John answered —"I really don't know, but it must have been a long time ago." Yes sir, our boys know all the answers.

Immaculatans "Mackies" have informed us that Bob Walcovy has been circulating quite a bit around their campus lately. We hope that you are taking more of the boys with you.

Bob "Shorty" Manske seems to have made Rosemont his second home. He tells us that he really enjoyed his first girls' basketball game last Thursday night when the Rosies trounced Bryn Mawr College.

What we want to know is 'what is Lou Selzer doing around 69th Street on the weekends.' Is she nice, Lou?

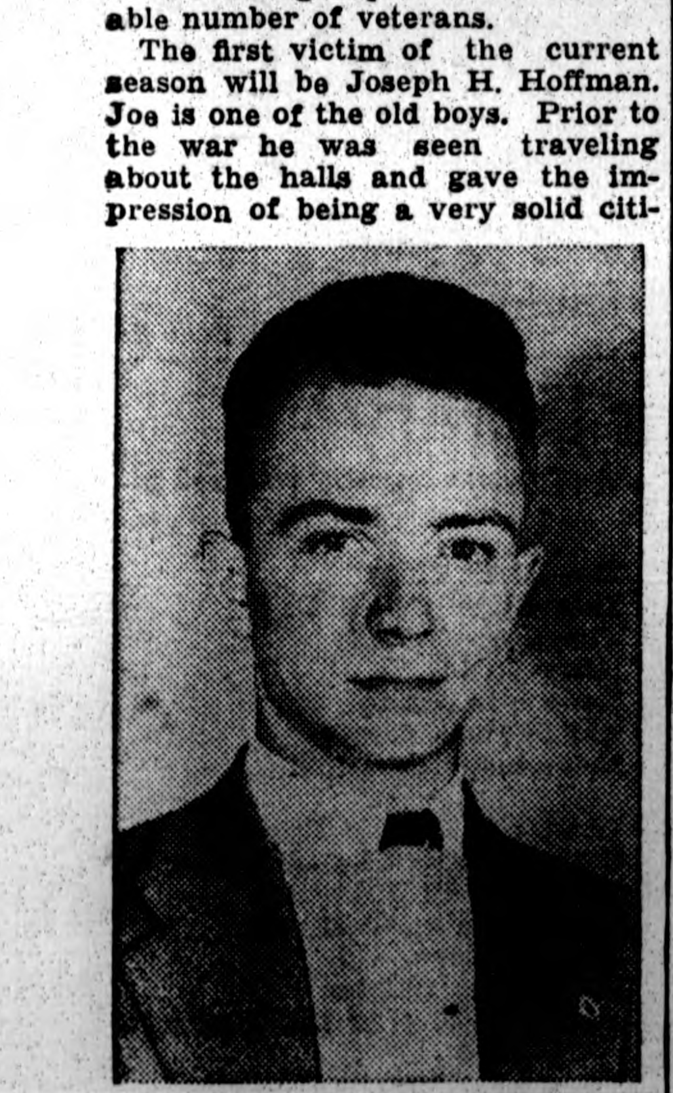
Bill Lillienthal was seen trying to get back into the swing of social life at the recent Rosemont Tea Dance. We're wondering how you made out Big Bill so we can make a longer report the next time.

Meet the Boys

By JAMES M. BONNER

A NEW semester — and we introduce a new crop of prospective graduates. This will be the first group to contain a sizable number of veterans.

The first victim of the current season will be Joseph H. Hoffman. Joe is one of the old boys. Prior to the war he was seen traveling about the halls and gave the impression of being a very solid citizen. Studies, a host of extracurricular activities, and a host of friends go with him.



JOSEPH HOFFMAN

Edits School Paper

Joe put in his appearance on the 19th of December 1922 in Lykens, Pennsylvania. He grew, as we all do, and entered St. Mary's High. While there he posted very creditable marks and was editor of the school paper in his senior year. It was at this time that he first gave evidence of his remarkable versatility. He was a member of the dramatic society for four years and participated in intramural sports throughout his stay in high school.

Worked Six Months

After leaving high school Joe spent six months getting a bit of business training at the Central Pennsylvania Business School in Harrisburg. In March of 1941 he left here and went out into the field and gathered valuable practical experience in engineering.

After about a year Joe decided to enter Villanova. He took up his studies in the fall of 1942 in the field of Mechanical Engineering. At the end of his freshman year Joe received a singular honor. He was granted the Dean Humphries award. This award is made by Phi Kappa Pi and is presented to the outstanding freshman engineer of the year.

They Got Him

In July of '43, Joe went on active duty with the Navy and was assigned to Villanova as a member of the V-12 unit. During this time he was a member of Phi Kappa Pi, the ASME, and Co-Editor of the Villanova Engineer. He also was a member of the 1944 tennis team.

Joe was discharged in January of 1945 and immediately returned to Villanova to finish his studies.

At the present time Joe is a member of more organizations and holds more offices than any other man in the school.

A Busy Man

He is President of the Student Council and, under his guidance, the Council is rapidly regaining its former position on the campus. Joe is also president of Phi Kappa Pi, the largest and most active fraternity on the campus.

Last spring Joe took time out from all of his other activities to write Cat Capers for the Villanovan. He is also a charter member of the Sanctuary Society.

After graduation in June Joe is looking forward to entering the field of air conditioning.

OUR second subject for today is Richard E. Somers. Dick is a tradition about Villanova. Wherever sports are mentioned, Dick is certain to be found, either as a manager or recorder.

Dick is a local boy. He was born in Essington, Pa., August 31, 1921. At the present time he is residing in Upper Darby. He attended high school here and started his long association with sports at the time. While there he managed football in the Junior High School and baseball when he entered senior high.

Accounting Major

Dick entered Villanova with the stalwart frosh contingent of 1941. His major is Accounting and he expects to stay in that field after graduation in the spring.

Almost immediately after matriculation Dick took on a full schedule of outside activities. He became manager of the basketball team in his freshman year and, as far as I can tell, he is the first man to ever hold that position for four years in the history of Villanova.

RICHARD SOMMERS

He also managed basketball for three years, and track for one.

Belle Air Sports Editor

In 1944 Dick was appointed sports editor of the Belle Air. A better man couldn't have been picked and the results were excellent.

In the pre-war days, when everything was in full swing, Dick was a member of one of the hottest dance bands in this section, The Villanovans. He played trombone with them for two years. He also was a member of the now defunct Symphony Orchestra composed of Villanova men and the girls from over the hill.

Wrote for Paper

Dick also wrote for the Villanovan for two years. He was sports columnist and ran the sportlight that gave so much valuable information concerning the members of the different teams representing the college.

The next man to be scrutinized by your columnist is Joseph A. Centrone. He started out deep in West Philadelphia on the 6th of June 1923. He went through grammar school and entered St. Thomas More high. During his stay at St. Tommie's he played a very good brand of football for two years and was a member of several of the campus societies.

JOSEPH CENTRONE

In September of 1941 Joe entered Villanova. He took up a course of study in Civil Engineering.

Back on 150's

For two years Joe labored under the tutelage of Doc Jacobs and Father Sullivan and turned out to be one of the most versatile backs to ever play for the 150 lb. football team. The 150's, now inactive, played some of the best football seen in this section of the country. Joe

Continued on Page Seven

'Neath the Spires

Last Sunday we entered the Lenten season proper, since the ancient "Quadragesima" began only on the first Sunday of Lent. The Spirit of Lent is summarized in the words of the Preface of Sunday's Mass: "By the fasting of the body Thou doth curb our vices, doth lift up our minds, doth give us strength and reward." Consequently it is a time for rejuvenation of the soul.

The liturgical idea underlying this season is the conflict of the soul, the conflict between light and darkness. We can distinguish two aspects of this conflict: the defensive and the offensive.

During the first two we see Christ and His Church on the defensive; during the next two weeks they become aggressive. The Gospels of the first and third Sundays of Lent are typical of these two aspects: on the first Sunday Christ is assaulted by the devil, but vanquishes him; on the third Sunday Christ is the aggressor: the stronger attacks and overcomes the strong. Likewise on the battlefield of the soul, the defensive policy must yield to open attack on the enemy.

The Gospel of last Sunday portrays Christ in a double role: as Penitent and as Combatant. We are now following the Penitent into the wilderness of mortification to fast with Him for forty days. But Christ also goes before us, our Champion. We see the Divine Hero conquer in a triple encounter. Here the two champions are pitted one against the other: The Prince of this world and the King of Heaven. They engage in conflict; the Prince of the world marshals forth his whole army for the attack; the world with its enticements, the powers of Hell, the "ego" with its insatiable desires. Christ is the Victor.

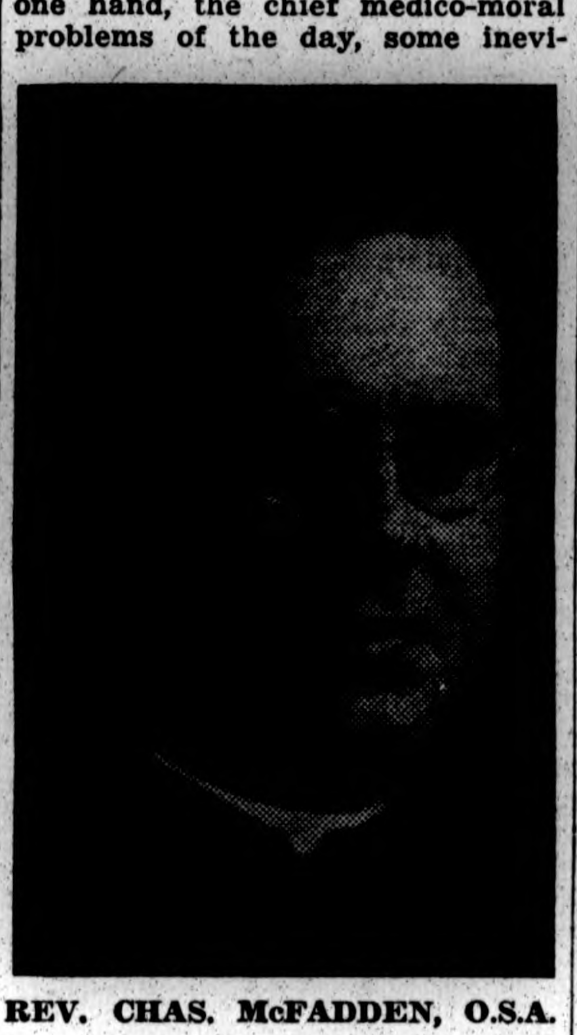
The Introit of Sunday's Mass is the battle cry for the whole Lenten conflict. It arms us with the most powerful of all weapons: trust in God.

In ancient times the Second Sunday of Lent was a liturgical day; the ordination service of Ember Saturday night extended into the early hours of Sunday morning. Later on when the ordination service was transferred to Saturday morning a special Mass was composed from various texts used during the preceding week—the chant parts from Wednesday and the Gospel from Saturday. When the change was introduced at Rome, the Basilica of St. Mary in Dominica was chosen as the station. This church was attached to an old Roman "diaconium," an alms-house, which tradition associated with St. Lawrence.

Fr. McFadden's Book Reviewed by Fr. Regan

In his recent work, "Medical Ethics for Nurses," Father Charles McFadden of the Villanova College faculty, after the manner of the scribe mentioned in Sacred Scripture, brings forth from the treasury of his mind "new things and old." The "old things" are the pertinent principles of Christian ethics, hoary with age but changeless and resplendent because based upon God Himself.

The "new things" are, on the one hand, the chief medico-moral problems of the day, some inevitable and some man-made, and, on the other hand, a singularly clear, vigorous, and fearless application of the old principles to the new problems.



REV. CHAS. McFADDEN, O.S.A.

Of the need for such a work in the secular field, no thoughtful person can doubt. By a degenerative process set in motion four centuries ago, ethical principles in some professions, including medicine, have become largely a subjective affair. In solving medicomoral problems, feeling not infrequently usurps the place of reason, and expediency often enough supplants the Creator's commands as a form for right and wrong. The formal statements of such principles in the common manuals in this field will be found, on examination, to be statements of medical "etiquette" than of medical "ethics."

With reference to the texts published under Catholic auspices, the need for a new text, while less urgent, is nonetheless real. Some texts are not sufficiently comprehensive Others do not study the latest moral problems in medicine. Still others are not abreast of the newest findings in medical science which, while not altering ethical principles, do call for new applications of those principles. Father McFadden's text fills all these gaps. But even apart from any special need for a new text, this work would command serious attention for the clear and masterly manner in which it expounds principles and applies them.

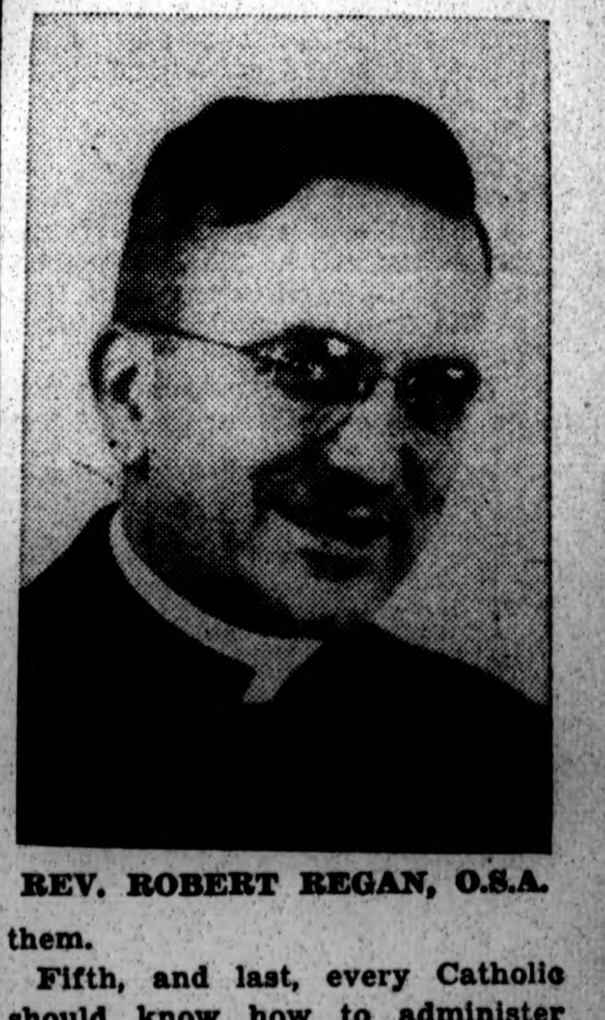
The restrictive clause in the title of the book is likely to prove deceptive. The book merits a much wider audience than that made up of the members of the nursing profession. Five reasons suggest themselves why it should prove of interest and service to the students of Villanova College.

First, the book is a "must" for every pre-medical student. It may be only in medical school that the need for such a guide will dawn on the student, but sooner or later the need will be felt; and this book is bound to be a helpful companion to the moral-minded physician in solving the multiple and complex medico-moral problems that arise.

Second, it should prove of service as collateral reading in the field of Special Ethics.

Third, if it is part of a cultured person's mental equipment to know where certain knowledge is to be obtained, the Villanova student will be in a position to recommend a suitable text to such as may inquire about questions pertaining to medical ethics.

Fourth, the book deals in most scientific fashion with a number of moral problems (viz., contraception, sterilization, abortion, etc.) which, however unfortunately, affect the conduct of many individuals, and which, however unseemingly, are widely discussed both in print and by word of mouth. The Catholic college student has a duty to know the true nature of such problems and the true answer to them.



REV. ROBERT REGAN, O.S.A.

Fifth, and last, every Catholic should know how to administer spiritual first-aid to the sick and dying. The chapters in this book on Baptism and the Last Sacraments, as well as an appendix on Assisting Dying Non-Catholics, will provide this very necessary knowledge.

Father McFadden's book is not the first word to have been written on the subject of medical ethics from the Catholic viewpoint; but, in this writer's opinion, it will be the last word for many years to come.

Fr. R. E. Regan, O.S.A.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATTHEW J. KEARNEY, '47 .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Arthur R. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Herman J. Diesel, '50
John White, USNR
Donald Fox, '50
James G. Mudd, '50
David I. Ryan, '48

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
George O'Neill, '47
Milton Clemati, '49
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
William Mansell, '50
Emile Meyer, '50

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
Joseph Braezler, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Francis Linsulata, '49
Roland Higgs, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Charles J. McCarthy, '49

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - FEBRUARY 12, 1946

Our Policy

PERHAPS THIRTY years from now the editorial staff of a twenty page weekly Villanovan will thumb through this present edition. "One thousand students and an eight pager, ye gods!"

This is an apology to the future. Here are the facts. Veterans are returning to school with the intention of making the most of their time—study is foremost. Future issues will demonstrate the caution these veterans are employing. It will be their duty to feel their way around until they know they can cope with both study and extra activities. That is noble.

Need For Good Writers

It is true, the Villanovan staff needs writers, and it needs good writers. We are asking for your support if you can give it, but we respect your prudent judgment if you can't.

At present the industrial world is at a standstill. Flash bulbs are unobtainable; our photographers haven't seen a single "fast" cut film for the past month. This has hindered us to an extreme.

However, this will be our policy: Whenever possible, and we hope it will be weekly, we intend to run an eight page issue. We will cover and back all activities that come to our attention. We will welcome all criticisms of the style, make-up, features and editorials of the Villanovan. Good stories and good pictures will be our goal.

If we fail in the above, the blame rests with us. Still, we will ask the help of all the organizations on the campus. If there is news in your particular fraternity, club or society, let us know about it.

It is your paper, and we are your servants. Help us make the Villanovan a real power on the campus.

Campus Beautiful

THE STUDENTS of Villanova College may justly take pride in their campus. Those who have visited other college campuses marvel at the God-given beauty of Villanova campus. But that God-given beauty does require cooperation from man. The student can do a great deal to help keep the campus beautiful. Walking on the paths does seem an extra bother when you are hurrying to catch a train, and after all what harm will come of one person walking on the grass? The difficulty is that one thousand men get the same idea and it doesn't take long for unsightly paths to be worn in the grass. A little thoughtfulness on the part of students will go a long way to prevent such damage being done. Throwing litter around the campus, of course, should not even be thought of on a college campus.

An important part of the campus is the interior appearance of the buildings. Here, too, a little more care about the disposal of papers and food containers will do much to help keep up the appearance of classrooms and corridors.

Attention to details of this kind does require a bit of sacrifice on the part of the students. But it is the student who stands to reap the most benefit from such care. A general improvement in campus appearance will make his stay here more pleasant. Furthermore, the high opinion that outsiders have of the campus will reflect in their attitude toward students and graduates of Villanova.

A Screeching Halt

ONE LOOK at the front page of any leading newspaper and the reader is convinced that the United States faces the most serious period of internal strife in twenty-five years. Work stoppages have occurred in practically every industry and utility in the nation. The causes of these strikes vary, but they center about the proposition of higher hourly wages to combat the advanced cost of living. The answers to these problems will not be attempted here but we do wish to indicate the entity whose capacity and responsibility make it the sole agent of a rapid, just and permanent settlement.

We said before that this was the most strike-bound time in twenty-five years. In a manner this is the limit, in another it is not. True, more corporations were picketed, true, also, the number of strikers exceeds that of today, but never in their history have the American people been so handcuffed or so deterred from their hopes and expectations. In the decade following the first world war industrial dependence had not assumed the universal and iron like grip which it has today. The telephone, the automobile, the radio, modern appliances, even electricity itself had not participated so importantly or generally in the American domestic scene and today the bloodstream of corporate enterprise reaches and nourishes every American and any poison injected into it enervates and affects every member.

When such a large portion of the public is in any way afflicted, it is the duty of the federal government to seek out and forcefully to eradicate the cause. Explicitly in the preamble to our constitution the government has been organized to insure tranquility—to promote the general welfare. Certainly the difficulties which now assail our nation constitute a disruption of domestic tranquility and a detriment to the general welfare. In the constitution itself Congress is empowered to regulate interstate commerce. The current difficulties threaten even the existence of interstate commerce or commerce at all.

Moreover Washington is the only well capable of pouring oil to calm industry's troubled waters. The executive power to bring labor and management to a suitable agreement for the public good lies only in the federal government. Unions will fight their bitter, hungry battle and capital their desultory, annoyed one at the general expense until the one is brought to its knees.

In the government we, of our own volition, vested the power to destroy these blocks; we, for our own good, expect them to be destroyed. —Donald M. Collins.

The Labor Problem

DURING AND shortly after the first world war, a major revolution shook Russia and produced not only a new ruler but also a totally new form of government. For over ten years this new government was not recognized by any world power. Then the United States decided to exchange ambassadors with that nation, now called the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Until 1940 the relations between the two nations was indifferent but the acts of the year before and the years to follow were to bring about a great change in reciprocal policy. Russia's seizure of the Polish East was officially overlooked with a grunt of disapproval, and the signing of the Russo-German pact caused real alarm in our State Department. Then with 1941 came the Eastern Europe reversal and our own entry into war, with the subsequent mutual overtures between Stalin and Roosevelt.

The war years saw Russia hold and throw back the invaders while the United States sprang across two oceans to fight and win two antipodal battles. This triumph of arms was carried out by three nations but it rolled to completion on American wheels. The tremendous economic, moral and logistic efforts of the United States lent sinews to all the fighting men facing the Axis. History cannot forget Stalingrad, but it must not forget the enormous quantities of American equipment flown in American planes which succored and strengthened the valiant Russians who fought there. Men look with wonder at the Russian advance across the Ukraine and Poland, but they must peer more closely and notice the tank label: 'Made in Detroit.'

While the American military industry was thus engaged where was our diplomacy? Not halfway, but extended. We went to Teheran, we went to Yalta, we yielded this and we accepted that, where is the parallel? But of course this was war and unity was necessary.

Comes the peace, and the world boasts flowers on its bosom, yet there grows a weed. Russia says correspondents can't go here, Russia orders military visits curtailed and conducted, Russia enters Iran, Russia won't ebb from Eastern Europe, Russia won't recede from Manchuria, the Red Sea is bubbling over. But this is not enough, Russia wants to know why Greece isn't completely evacuated, Russia wants African bases, and, Russia wants one and one half billion American dollars.

While the USSR was thus engaged where was our diplomacy? We are yielding at San Francisco, we are yielding at London, we get out of Iran, we get out of Manchuria, we yield this and we accept that. And, oh yes, we have the atomic bomb spied upon.

At last, this week Secretary of State James Byrnes called the screeching halt. Things must stop somewhere and Byrnes said where. Let us hope that this is the end of the perpendicular parallel, maybe we have called the bluff of the diplomatic "Red Menace."

—Donald M. Collins.

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEILL

POET'S PATTER

An amoeba named Joe and his brother
Were out drinking toasts to each other
And, as they sat quaffing,
They split themselves lafling
Now each one of them is a mother.

—Northeastern News.

The beautiful harvest moon beamed down into her sparkling eyes, a scintillating piquant nose elfishly turned up at the end, and her beautiful long tresses curled lazily about her shoulders as she looked up into the rapt eyes of her dashing Romeo:

"John—John darling, do you love me?"

"So what's it to you, you slob?"

—The Santa Clara.

The clique men are the ones who strut about any campus with their noses riding on a cloud. They won't look at "outsiders" and won't speak to them because they think they're too good for others. When they do endeavor to speak, their condescending attitude speaks for itself.

—Excerpt from an editorial, The St. Bona Venture.

One uninitiated V-5 going through the chow line wanted to know: "What is this stuff they keep giving us for breakfast?" "I think they call it Philadelphia schrapnel" was the knowing answer.

—The Ursinus Weekly.

Prof (to a sleepy frosh): "Well what's your excuse this time?"

Frosh: Well, er, you see there are eight of us in the family, and the alarm clock was only set for seven, this morning." (Maybe we had better pause for thirty seconds silence to the memory of that one.)

—Northeastern News...

The "back to college" trend among discharged veterans of the nation was reflected in the registration figures released by the registrar which showed a 100 percent increase in the student body of St. John's College for the Spring term.

—The Torch,
St. John's College.

A real estate salesman of Loyola Village: "How do you like our little town?"

Prospective Buyer: "It's the first cemetery I've seen with lights in it."

—The Loyolan...

In reply to the landlord's demand to vacate, knowing his rights under OPA regulations, a tenant wrote:

"Dear Sir:
I remain
Truly Yours."

—The Santa Clara.

"Say, Dad, what keeps us from falling off the earth when we are upside down?"

"Why, the law of gravity, of course."

"Well, how did folks stay on before the law was passed?"

—The Tatler.
New Rochelle College.

I'm through with all women
They cheat and they lie
They prey on us males
Till the day we die
They tease us, torment us
And drive us to sin
Say, who was that blonde that just walked in?

—The Plainsman.

The train halted for a moment at the station and the traveler reached out, called a small boy, and said:

"Son, here's fifty cents. Get me a twenty-five cent sandwich and get one for yourself. Hurry up."

Just as the train pulled out the boy ran up to the window. "Here's a quarter mister," he shouted. "They only had one sandwich."

—The Tatler,
New Rochelle College.

The recent allocation by the FPHA of additional family dwellings for erection on the Auburn campus to accommodate students with families, is learned through the Plainsman, Auburn College tabloid. The paper points out the housing shortage and steps that are being taken to alleviate the situation.

"Can you help me select a gift for my aunt? She's awfully weak and very rich."

"How about some floor wax?"

—The Loyolan.

There have been times when I, and certainly you, have felt the same as the little boy who return-

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Eight

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

With the curtain call for a new year resounding over the dressing room of the Villanovan, and many of Villanova's fast steppers still wishing they had studied for that last exam instead of seeing the dream gal, this column would inform the Class of '49, a new group of Main Line campus future pill rollers, pencil pushers, bar barkers and punchy engineers, that herein is published in like manner (your guess is as good as ours) . . . our reportorial snoopings. We are interested in knowing what's been done, when it's been done, where it's been done and "WHO DID IT" . . . In other words, "what's the story."

That dreamy part of the year—Spring . . . made an early arrival on the campus last week and was welcomed with open arms by all love the sick bugs, Bill Altenphol in particular. This was made evident at Rosemont's Tea Dance last week when Bill was noticed strolling arm in arm with a certain gal. . . The more ambitious lads such as Joe Brogan and Larry Fallon are again taking up the national past time of baseball, while the Spring fever boys are lying about the campus wishing they had a low-slung convertible with tires and a cute damsel to go with it . . . But as Don Collins would say, at a time like this who cares about the convertible."

John "Lovey" Quinn's return seemed to make quite a hit with all his Rosie friends at the tea dance last week. A familiar quotation when they met John was "Oooh! John, you're back!!" Then they fainted.

Tom "What's the other guy's name" McCarthy is considering the removal of one of his courses because the prof doesn't speak the same language.

Well!! Well!! For the benefit of Bill Diana and Jack Mallick who have been trying so hard to get their name in print here it is.

Donald Panccaszo, God's gift to the women, has returned to reserve his place at Villanova. Look out fellows, he's got a terrific way with other fellow's gals.

Frank Greco has suddenly taken to art. He was noticed entering the Art Museum last week and, after spending four hours looking over the situation, he was heard saying "I'd rather buy an Esquire!!"

Aristides Scarpa, a frosh, was asked what was his impression of Villanova during his first few days—and we quote "Book store line, dining hall line—lines—lines—I'm going mad!!"

Lou DiGiacomo made it known to us that we had better write nice things about him from now on—he writes a gossip column too!! Yipe!! Just give us the dirt boys.

John Masson was asked the following question in English class. "When was the English language originated?"—After a short period of mental starvation John answered—"I really don't know, but it must have been a long time ago." Yes sir, our boys know all the answers.

Immaculatans "Mackies" have informed us that Bob Walcovy has been circulating quite a bit around their campus lately. We hope that you are taking more of the boys with you.

Bob "Shorty" Manske seems to have made Rosemont his second home. He tells us that he really enjoyed his first girls' basketball game last Thursday night when the Rosies trounced Bryn Mawr College.

What we want to know is 'what is Lou Selzer doing around 69th Street on the weekends.' Is she nice, Lou?

Bill Lillienthal was seen trying to get back into the swing of social life at the recent Rosemont Tea Dance. We're wondering how you made out Big Bill so we can make a longer report the next time.

Meet the Boys

By JAMES M. BONNER

A NEW semester — and we introduce a new crop of prospective graduates. This will be the first group to contain a sizable number of veterans.

The first victim of the current season will be Joseph H. Hoffman. Joe is one of the old boys. Prior to the war he was seen traveling about the halls and gave the impression of being a very solid citizen. Studies, a host of extracurricular activities, and a host of friends go with him.

JOSEPH HOFFMAN

Edits School Paper

Joe put in his appearance on the 19th of December 1922 in Lykens, Pennsylvania. He grew, as we all do, and entered St. Mary's High. While there he posted very creditable marks and was editor of the school paper in his senior year. It was at this time that he first gave evidence of his remarkable versatility. He was a member of the dramatic society for four years and participated in intramural sports throughout his stay in high school.

Worked Six Months

After leaving high school Joe spent six months getting a bit of business training at the Central Pennsylvania Business School in Harrisburg. In March of 1941 he left here and went out into the field and gathered valuable practical experience in engineering.

After about a year Joe decided to enter Villanova. He took up his studies in the fall of 1942 in the field of Mechanical Engineering. At the end of his freshman year Joe received a singular honor. He was granted the Dean Humphries award. This award is made by Phi Kappa Pi and is presented to the outstanding freshman engineer of the year.

They Got Him

In July of '43, Joe went on active duty with the Navy and was assigned to Villanova as a member of the V-12 unit. During this time he was a member of Phi Kappa Pi, the ASME, and Co-Editor of the Villanova Engineer. He also was a member of the 1944 tennis team.

Joe was discharged in January of 1945 and immediately returned to Villanova to finish his studies.

At the present time Joe is a member of more organizations and holds more offices than any other man in the school.

A Busy Man

He is President of the Student Council and, under his guidance, the Council is rapidly regaining its former position on the campus. Joe is also president of Phi Kappa Pi, the largest and most active fraternity on the campus.

Last spring Joe took time out from all of his other activities to write Cat Capers for the Villanovan. He is also a charter member of the Sanctuary Society.

After graduation in June Joe is looking forward to entering the field of air conditioning.

OUR second subject for today is Richard E. Somers. Dick is a tradition about Villanova. Wherever sports are mentioned, Dick is certain to be found, either as a manager or recorder.

Dick is a local boy. He was born in Essington, Pa., August 31, 1921. At the present time he is residing in Upper Darby. He attended high school here and started his long association with sports at the time. While there he managed football in the Junior High School and baseball when he entered senior high.

Accounting Major

Dick entered Villanova with the stalwart frosh contingent of 1941. His major is Accounting and he expects to stay in that field after graduation in the spring.

Almost immediately after matriculation Dick took on a full schedule of outside activities. He became manager of the basketball team in his freshman year and, as far as I can tell, he is the first man to ever hold that position for four years in the history of Villanova.

RICHARD SOMMERS

He also managed basketball for three years, and track for one.

Belle Air Sports Editor

In 1944 Dick was appointed sports editor of the Belle Air. A better man couldn't have been picked and the results were excellent.

In the pre-war days, when everything was in full swing, Dick was a member of one of the hottest dance bands in this section, The Villanovans. He played trombone with them for two years. He also was a member of the now defunct Symphony Orchestra composed of Villanova men and the girls from over the hill.

Wrote for Paper

Dick also wrote for the Villanovan for two years. He was sports columnist and ran the sportlight that gave so much valuable information concerning the members of the different teams representing the college.

The next man to be scrutinized by your columnist is Joseph A. Centrone. He started out deep in West Philadelphia on the 6th of June 1923. He went through grammar school and entered St. Thomas More high. During his stay at St. Tommie's he played a very good brand of football for two years and was a member of several of the campus societies.

JOSEPH CENTRONE

In September of 1941 Joe entered Villanova. He took up a course of study in Civil Engineering.

Back on 150's

For two years Joe labored under the tutelage of Doc Jacobs and Father Sullivan and turned out to be one of the most versatile backs to ever play for the 150 lb. football team. The 150's, now inactive, played some of the best football seen in this section of the country. Joe

Continued on Page Seven

'Neath the Spires

Last Sunday we entered the Lenten season proper, since the ancient "Quadragesima" began only on the first Sunday of Lent. The Spirit of Lent is summarized in the words of the Preface of Sunday's Mass: "By the fasting of the body Thou doth curb our vices, doth lift up our minds, doth give us strength and reward." Consequently it is a time for rejuvenation of the soul.

The liturgical idea underlying this season is the conflict of the soul, the conflict between light and darkness. We can distinguish two aspects of this conflict: the defensive and the offensive.

During the first two we see Christ and His Church on the defensive; during the next two weeks they become aggressive. The Gospels of the first and third Sundays of Lent are typical of these two aspects: on the first Sunday Christ is assaulted by the devil, but vanquishes him; on the third Sunday Christ is the aggressor: the stronger attacks and overcomes the strong. Likewise on the battlefield of the soul, the defensive policy must yield to open attack on the enemy.

The Gospel of last Sunday portrays Christ in a double role: as Penitent and as Combatant. We are now following the Penitent into the wilderness of mortification to fast with Him for forty days. But Christ also goes before us, our Champion. We see the Divine Hero conquer in a triple encounter. Here the two champions are pitted one against the other: The Prince of this world and the King of Heaven. They engage in conflict; the Prince of the world marshals forth his whole army for the attack; the world with its enticements, the powers of Hell, the "ego" with its insatiable desires. Christ is the Victor.

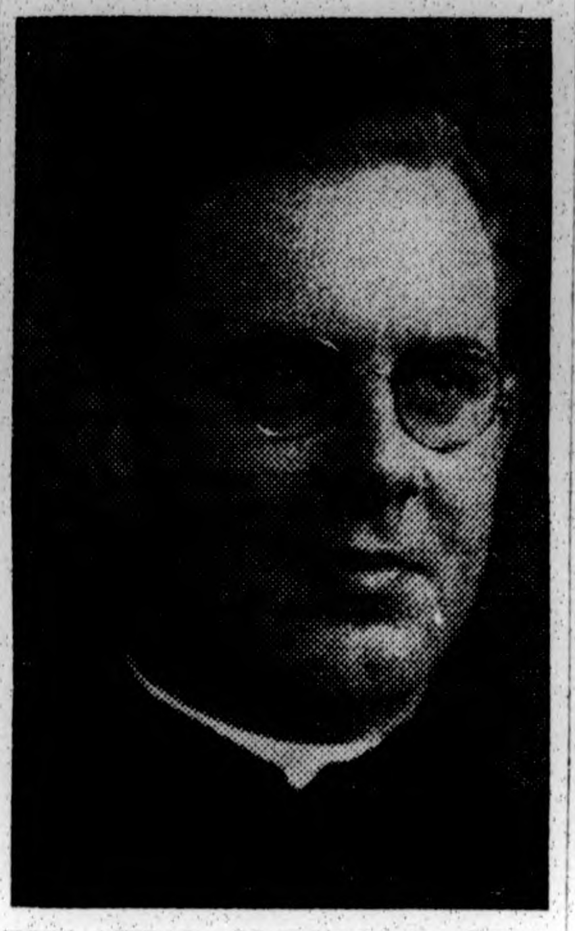
The Introit of Sunday's Mass is the battle cry for the whole Lenten conflict. It arms us with the most powerful of all weapons: trust in God.

In ancient times the Second Sunday of Lent was a liturgical day; the ordination service of Ember Saturday night extended into the early hours of Sunday morning. Later on when the ordination service was transferred to Saturday morning a special Mass was composed from various texts used during the preceding week—the chant parts from Wednesday and the Gospel from Saturday. When the change was introduced at Rome, the Basilica of St. Mary in Dominica was chosen as the station. This church was attached to an old Roman "diaconium," an alms-house, which tradition associated with St. Lawrence.

Fr. McFadden's Book Reviewed by Fr. Regan

In his recent work, "Medical Ethics for Nurses," Father Charles McFadden of the Villanova College faculty, after the manner of the scribe mentioned in Sacred Scripture, brings forth from the treasury of his mind "new things and old." The "old things" are the pertinent principles of Christian ethics, hoary with age but changeless and resplendent because based upon God Himself.

The "new things" are, on the one hand, the chief medico-moral problems of the day, some inevitable and some man-made, and, on the other hand, a singularly clear, vigorous, and fearless application of the old principles to the new problems.



REV. CHAS. McFADDEN, O.S.A.

Of the need for such a work in the secular field, no thoughtful person can doubt. By a degenerative process set in motion four centuries ago, ethical principles in some professions, including medicine, have become largely a subjective affair. In solving medico-moral problems, feeling not infrequently usurps the place of reason, and expediency often enough supplants the Creator's commands as a form for right and wrong. The formal statements of such principles in the common manuals in this field will be found, on examination, to be statements of medical "etiquette" than of medical "ethics."

With reference to the texts published under Catholic auspices, the need for a new text, while less urgent, is nonetheless real. Some texts are not sufficiently comprehensive Others do not study the latest moral problems in medicine. Still others are not abreast of the newest findings in medical science which, while not altering ethical principles, do call for new applications of those principles. Father McFadden's text fills all these gaps. But even apart from any special need for a new text, this work would command serious attention for the clear and masterly manner in which it expounds principles and applies them.

The restrictive clause in the title of the book is likely to prove deceptive. The book merits a much wider audience than that made up of the members of the nursing profession. Five reasons suggest themselves why it should prove of interest and service to the students of Villanova College.

First, the book is a "must" for every pre-medical student. It may be only in medical school that the need for such a guide will dawn on the student, but sooner or later the need will be felt; and this book is bound to be a helpful companion to the moral-minded physician in solving the multiple and complex medico-moral problems that arise.

Second, it should prove of service as collateral reading in the field of Special Ethics.

Third, if it is part of a cultured person's mental equipment to know where certain knowledge is to be obtained, the Villanova student will be in a position to recommend a suitable text to such as may inquire about questions pertaining to medical ethics.

Fourth, the book deals in most scientific fashion with a number of moral problems (viz., contraception, sterilization, abortion, etc.) which, however unfortunately, affect the conduct of many individuals, and which, however unseemingly, are widely discussed both in print and by word of mouth. The Catholic college student has a duty to know the true nature of such problems and the true answer to them.

REV. ROBERT REGAN, O.S.A.

Fifth, and last, every Catholic should know how to administer spiritual first-aid to the sick and dying. The chapters in this book on Baptism and the Last Sacraments, as well as an appendix on Assisting Dying Non-Catholics, will provide this very necessary knowledge.

Father McFadden's book is not the first word to have been written on the subject of medical ethics from the Catholic viewpoint; but, in this writer's opinion, it will be the last word for many years to come.

Fr. R. E. Regan, O.S.A.

Rosemont Host To Dr. Haenisch

Professor of Chemistry Lectures To Forum On Atomic Energy

Dr. Edward L. Haenisch, Professor of Chemistry at Villanova, addressed the Science Forum of Rosemont College in their auditorium on Thursday evening, March 7th. Dr. Haenisch was the guest of the Science Forum, which is the campus organization for all students majoring in Chemistry and Physics at Rosemont.

E. L. HAENISCH, Ph.D.

Outline Development

The topic of Professor Haenisch's discussion was atomic energy. He outlined the history of the scien-

DR. HAENISCH
Continued on Page Seven

Debating Group Calls Mid-Week Meeting

Annapolis, St. Joseph's, Rosemont and Rider On Tentative Schedule

The Villanova Debating Society on Wednesday, March 13 will reorganize and begin planning its first debating season since 1942 at a meeting in Mendel Hall at 12:45. The Society, with offers for debates from Boston University, Annapolis, and Loyola College, as well as tentative engagements with Penn, Temple, Rosemont, St. Joseph's and Rider College, expects a highly successful first season.

Reorganization

The meeting, to be held in Room 210 Mendel, is expected to last only about 25 minutes. Its purpose is to bring together all those Villanova students who are interested in debating and to organize them into an efficient society.

Present at the meeting will be Father Sullivan and Father Krupa as moderators and a small committee which has been working for the past month to pave the way for the gathering.

Navy and Civilians

This Wednesday's meeting is the result of much pressure on the part of the student body to bring Villanova College back into the debating picture. Many students, both Civilian and Navy, have repeatedly made known their desire to join such an organization and finally last term, shortly after Christmas Bob Conway and a group of ROTC students got together with Father Sullivan in an attempt to schedule debates for the end of the term. They were too late in the term to

DEBATING GROUP
Continued on Page Eight

All Girl Concert Brilliantly Presented Monday Evening

Combined Orchestras Of Girl's High Schools Thrill Audience

By BILL WESCOTT

The third annual music festival of the Catholic Girls' High School was presented last evening at the Villanova College Field House before an overwhelming throng of music lovers.

The company was composed of 300 girls representing West Catholice, Hallahan, and Little Flower Catholic Girls' High School. It was divided into four groups: a Concert Band conducted by Benjamin A. d'Amelio; a glee club under the direction of Jeno Donath; a verse speaking group directed by Margaret Mary Kearny; and a symphony orchestra conducted by Jeno Donath.

Will Repeat Program

This year's musical, the third presented at Villanova, was longer in extent and scope than those of preceding years. The performance will be repeated in the near future at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia.

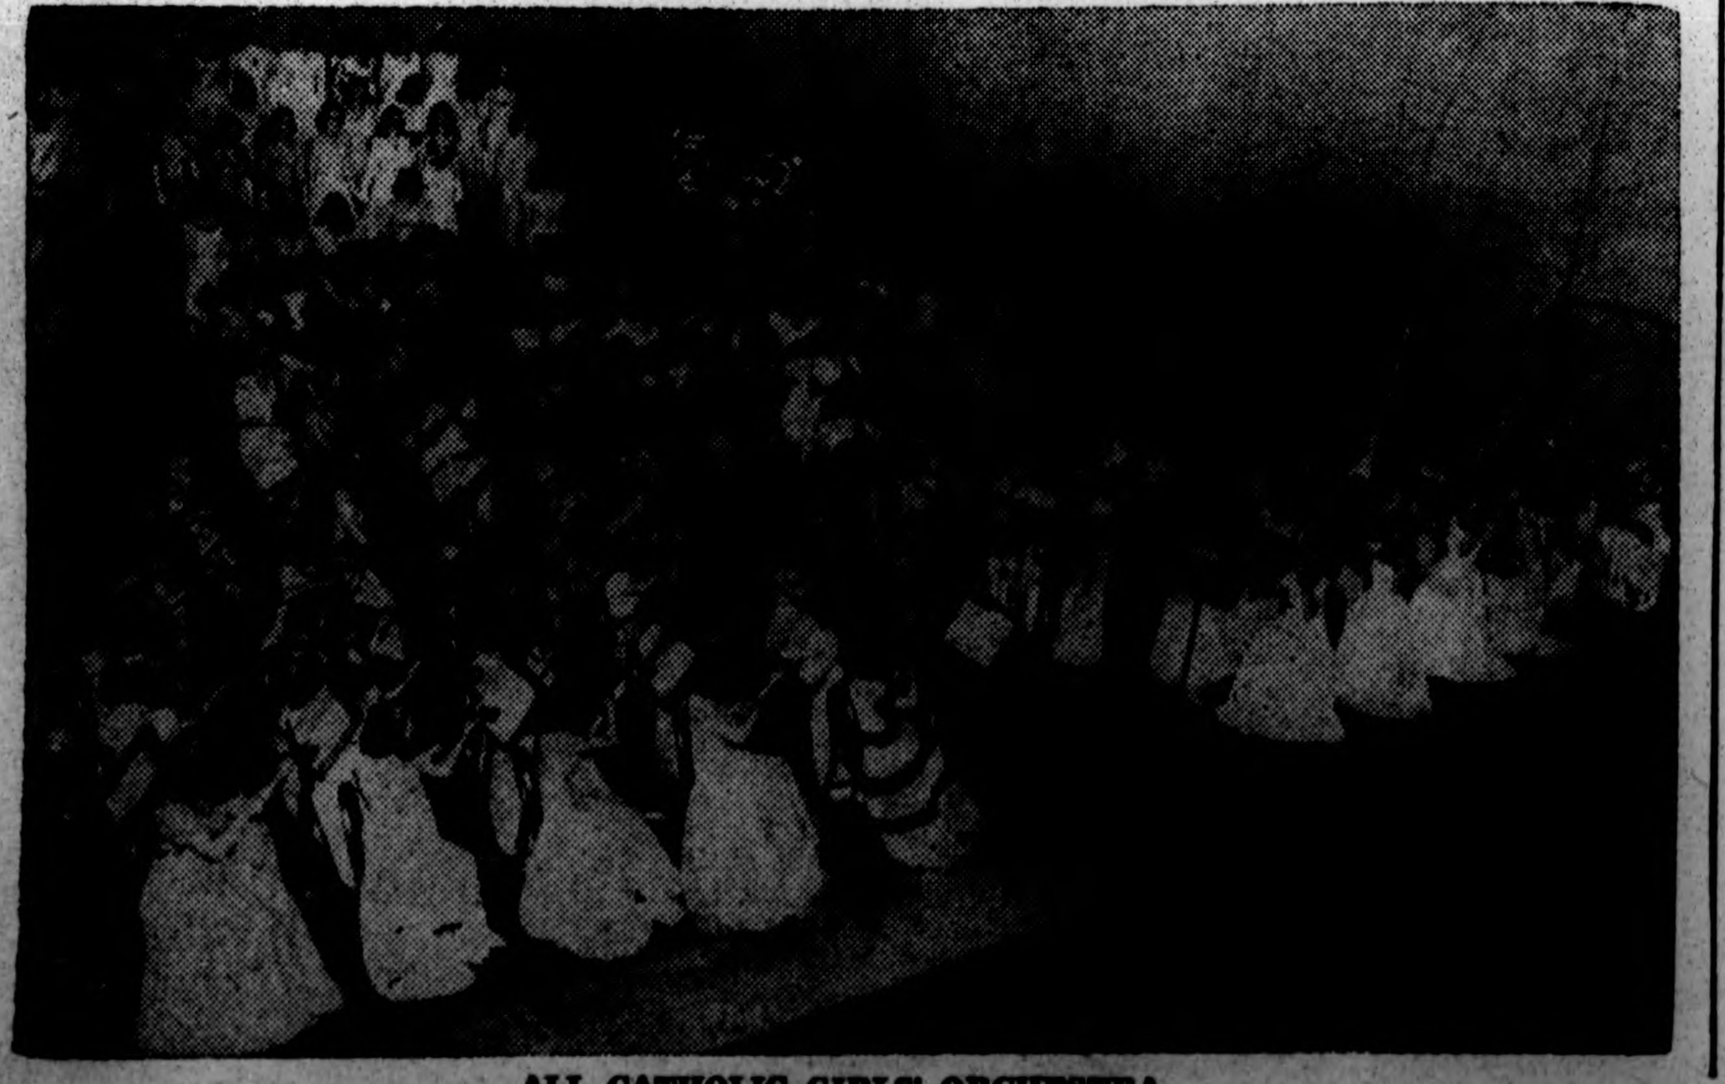
The program presented at Villanova was as follows: Concert Band, Benjamin A. d'Amelio Conductor; "Overture, Youth Triumphant" by Henry Hadley, "Kashmiri Song" by Amy Woodforde Finden, Jaime Texidor's "Amparito Roca," the "Melody in F" by Anton Rubinstein-Donath, and Excerpts from the Operetta, "Songs of Norway" by Edward Grieg.

Glee Club: conducted by Jeno Donath; "Salutation" by S. R. Gaines, Choral Prologue "On Wings of Living Song." H. Lane Wilson's "Carmena," the "Largo" (Teach Us, Oh Lord) by G. F. Hanel dedicated to Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Bonner, D.D., and Carl Senobes "The Raindrop's Story."

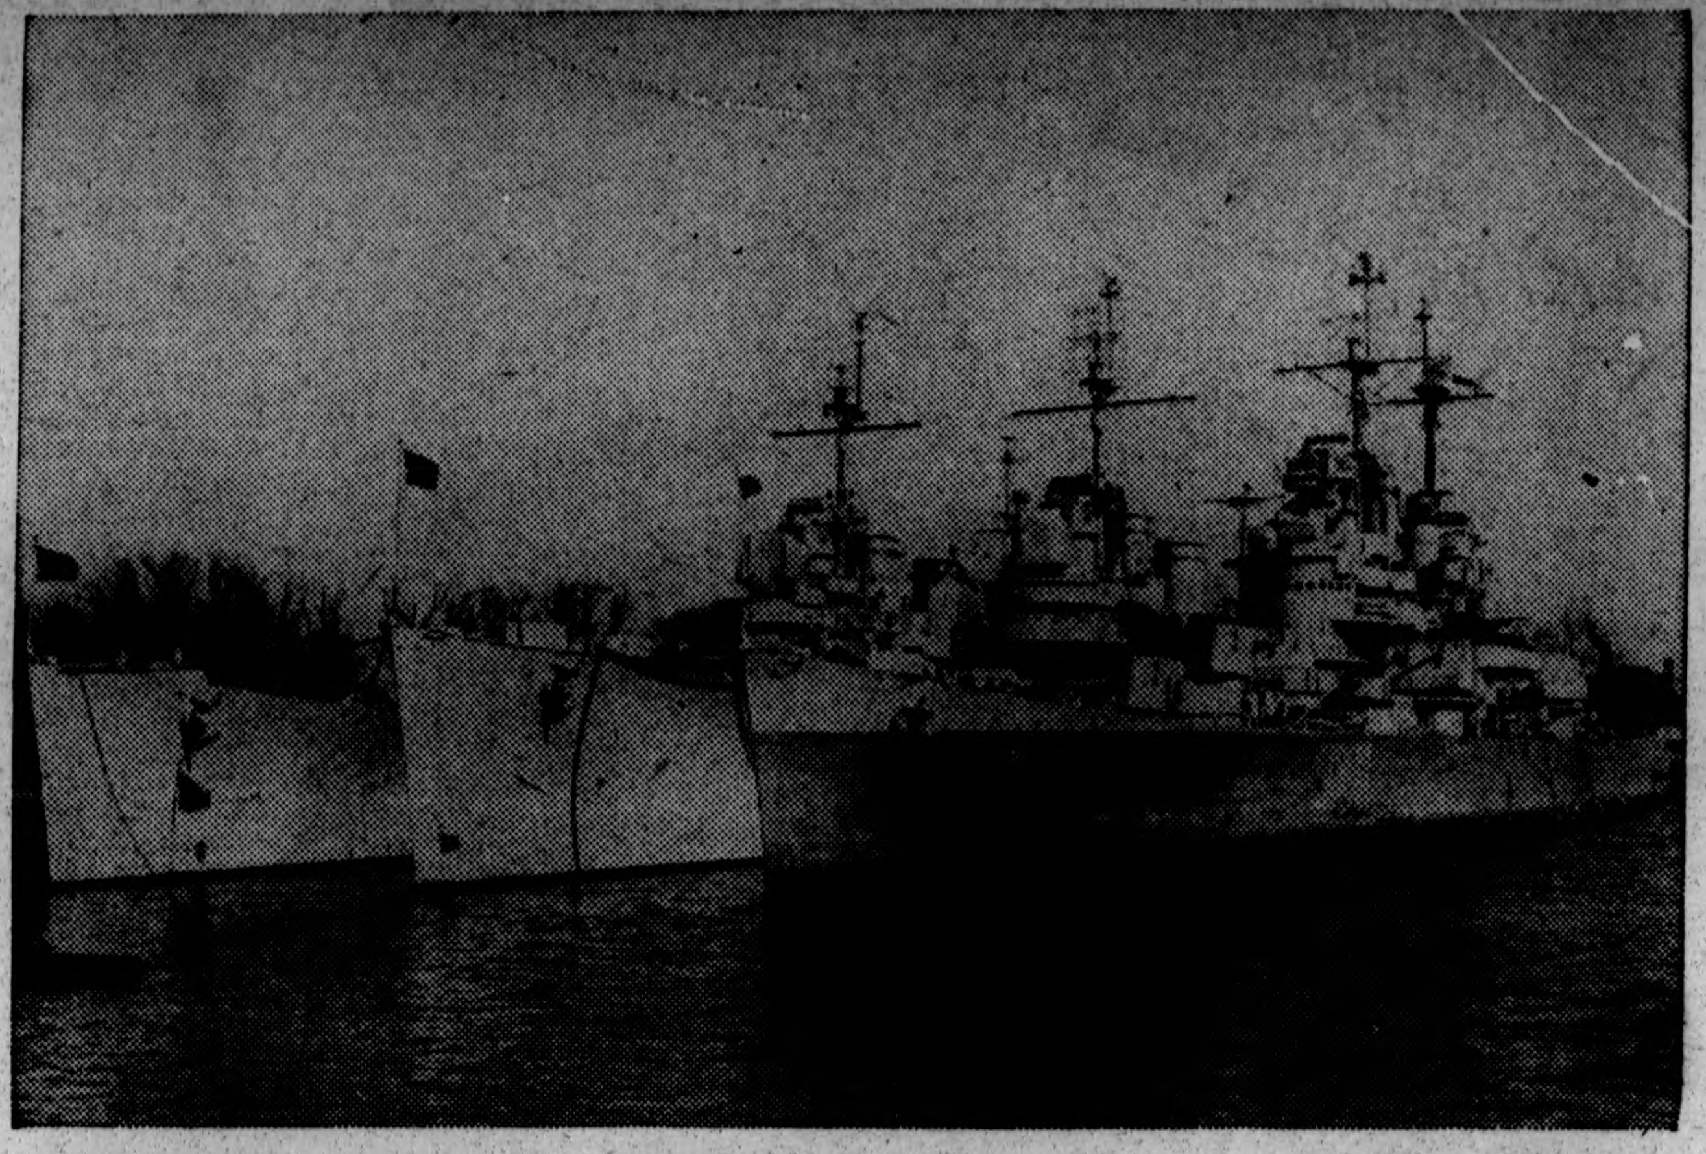
Verse Speaking Choir, under the direction of Margaret Mary Kearney; Fishermen's Wives, Traditional, Belloc's Tarentella, The Fool's Prayer by Sill and the Antiseptic Baby by Guiterman.

Donath Conducting

Symphony Orchestra, Jeno Donath, Conductor; Il Guarany Overture, A. Carlos Gomez, Music of the Orient arranged by Jeno Donath, A Musical Snuff Box by Anatole Liadow, El Relicario by Jose Padilla, Memories of Erin arranged by the conductor and The Merry Widow Fantasy of Franz Lehar.



ALL CATHOLIC GIRLS' ORCHESTRA



NROTC Cruise Aboard U. S. S. Columbia

160 Navy Trainees Spend Busy and Eventful Week Cruising Along the Atlantic Coast Aboard Battle Tested Cruiser

Saturday, February 23, 1946 saw one hundred sixty trainees of the Villanova College Naval Training Unit embark upon a seven day training cruise, the first cruise of this type to be undertaken by any Navy unit since the beginning of the war. The trainees were accompanied by the Executive Officer of the Unit, Commander J. W. Whaley, three officer instructors, the unit's medical officer, and six members of the ship's company. The unit left for the Philadelphia Navy Base at 1430 traveling by chartered bus to the pier where the U.S.S. Columbia was docked.

Fought Numerous Engagements

The U.S.S. Columbia (CL56) is a 10,000 ton cruiser; a lightweight; fast and tricky. She fought at Guadalcanal, Munda, Bougainville, Leyte, Mindoro, Lingayen Gulf and in half a dozen other engagements. After returning to the States the Columbia was ordered to the Philadelphia Navy Base for repairs in October.

The trainees were divided into five groups or divisions; one composed of the engineering students, the other four being made up of R.O.T.C. and V-5 students. Each of these divisions was assigned to a berthing compartment according to the usual ship board custom. The divisions were assigned to the same quarters for muster as the ship divisions to which they belonged.

Duties Assigned

The first afternoon aboard was spent assigning berthing compartments, bunks and lockers to the trainees. Compartment and head cleaning details were assigned for the facilities utilized by the trainees.

Sunday morning reveille was sounded at 0600 and the usual hour was devoted to ship's work. No religious services were held due to the absence of the Chaplain. At the 0800 muster the N.R.O.T.C. men were assigned General Quarters and general drill stations as per Watch, Quarter, and Station Bill of the ship. This bill included battle, fire, abandon ship, and collision stations. At 0930 the ship got under way. The remainder of the day was spent doing ship's work and holding drills of various types to acquaint the crew with their respective duties. At about 1700 the ship anchored off the Delaware Capes.

Hampered By Weather

Due to the foul weather the ship did not get under way Monday but the daily drills and ship's work were not overlooked. The N.R.O.T.C. tarinees took the first department tour of the cruise Monday morning. Three hour long tours, one each morning and afternoon served to acquaint the trainees with their different major departments of activity on board i.e. Gunnery, Navigation and Communication, Engineering, and construction and repair.

Reached Cape Henry

The usual plan of the day was followed Tuesday. However at 1300 all work parties were secured and all hands turned topside to witness the launching of the ship's plane a Curtiss SC1, from the catapult. This was accomplished skillfully under rather adverse sea and air conditions. The ship anchored off Cape Henry, Virginia, late in the afternoon. This was the most southerly water the ship passed through.

The Columbia remained anchored all of Wednesday while preparations were made for the operational run on Thursday. These preparations included special instruction and listing of all ordnance equipment. A part of the

NROTC CRUISE
Continued on Page Seven

Newsmen Return

Former Sports Editor And Columnists Aid In The Reorganization

Welcome back! The opening of this semester saw four former staff members of the Villanovan returning to finish their education after very extensive war service.

Sam Canning, recently appointed Sports Feature Editor of the Villanovan, was a member of the the centenial class, the class of '43. He served as a sports writer on the paper for two and a half years and was preparing to take over the sports editor position that he now holds when he withdrew to enter the Army.

Served In Pacific

Sam served as an officer with an anti-aircraft unit that saw action in New Guinea, the Philippines and a number of other hot spots in the Pacific.

Ed Reardon, who also returned this semester, left Villanova in the great purge, February 1943. At that time all members of the Army Enlisted Reserve were called to active duty. Ed worked as a tower operator and spent quite a few months in Africa before being returned to the States late in '45. Ed has re-entered the commerce and finance school to finish his work for a degree.

Wrote Gossip Column

Prior to the war Ed did the column currently being run under the title of "Cat Capers." Many of the returning Vets have felt

NEWSMEN RETURN
Continued on Page Six

Use Your Library

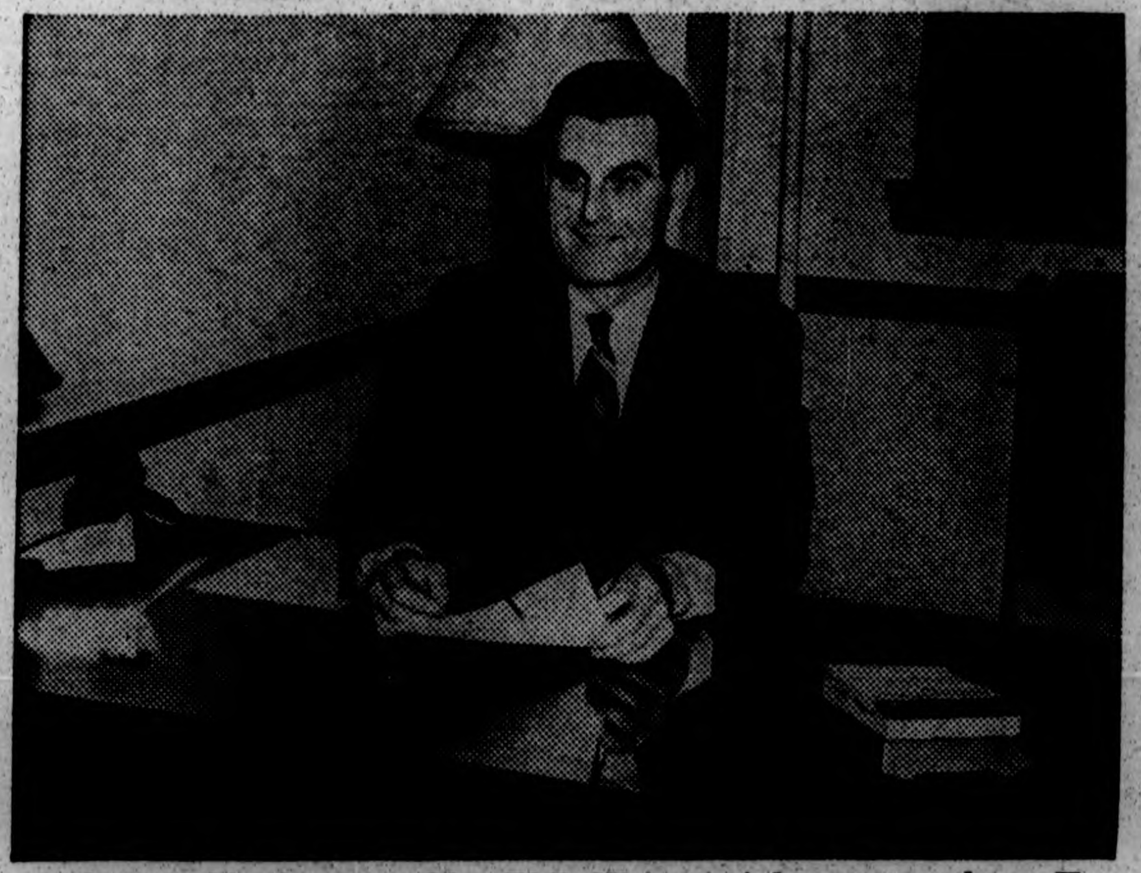
The following is a selected list of books recently received in the Library:

FICTION—
Costain, T	The Black Rose
Edwards, E.	This Night Called Day
Gay, L.	The Unspeakables
Keyes, F. P.	River Road
Marquand, J.	Repent in Haste
Nordhoff, C.	The High Barbaree
Waugh, E.	Brideshead Revisited
NON-FICTION—
Auger, P.	What are Cosmic Rays?
Blied, B.	Catholics and The Civil War
Bourke, V.	Thomistic Bibliography
Broderick, J.	Willis Rodney Whitney
Brown, F.	One America
Bulman, D., ed.	Molders of Opinion
Calhoun, A.	Social History of the American Family
Chernick, J.	Guaranteed Annual Wages
Durkin J.	John Dooley, Confederate Soldier
Geiringer, K.	Musical Instruments
Gibbings, R.	Lovely Is the Lea
Harrold, C.	John Henry Newman
Houselander, C.	The Flowering Tree
Love, A.	Mathematical Theory of Elasticity
McMahon, F.	A Catholic Looks at the World
Moody, J.	John Henry Newman
Myrdal, G.	An American Dilemma
Pratt, F.	The Navy's War
Randall, J.	Lincoln the President
Sharkey, D.	After Bernadette
Turner, W., ed.	Romance of English Literature
Van Hoek, K.	Pope Pius XII
Ward, L.	Ourselves, Inc.
Ward, M.	Splendor of the Rosary
White, N.	Portrait of Shelley
Woodgate, M	Pascal and His Sister Jacqueline

Cats Sign 22 Games for First Post-War Season

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcats' New Baseball Mentor



A former big leaguer, Mr. Phil Weinert takes over where Fr. McCarthy left off as head baseball coach of the Villanova varsity nine. Mr. Weinert saw service with the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs under Joe McCarthy as well as doing stretches with other major and minor league teams.

PhilWeinertAppointed Head Baseball Coach

Veteran of Major and Minor League Campaigns; Saw Service With Yankees and Cubs Under Joe McCarthy

By DICK SOMERS

The appointment of Philip (Lefty) Weinert as Villanova baseball coach was announced by Rev. Edward S. McKee, O.S.A., moderator of athletics, just before the beginning of the semester. Mr. Weinert saw service in the major leagues with the Phillies, Chicago Cubs, and New York Yankees as well as several minor league teams.

Mr. Weinert began his pitching career at West Philadelphia High School. After graduating in 1919, he was signed by the Phillies and sent to Reading of the International League.

He returned to the Phillies in 1920 and remained with them until 1924 when he was traded to the Vernon club (Los Angeles) of the Pacific Coast League. Mr. Weinert did not play in 1925 or 1926 but did report when the franchise was transferred to San Francisco in 1927.

Played Under Joe McCarthy

That season Mr. Weinert posted 17 victories against 11 defeats with the Missions and was sold to the Cubs in August. Two more victories were added while in Chicago uniform that season. He remained under Joe McCarthy until 1928, when he was traded to Memphis. His 1928 record was 19 and 8.

Louisville obtained Mr. Weinert's services from Memphis in 1930 and he contributed 18 victories against 11 defeats as the Colonels won the American Association pennant. Drafted by the Yankees in 1931, he again played under Joe McCarthy.

He returned to Louisville in August, 1931 and, except for a short period with Columbus in 1932, remained there until 1934. Mr. Weinert remained out of baseball during 1935 but joined St. Paul in 1936. He moved to Minneapolis in 1937, retiring at the end of the season.

Moving back to the Philadelphia area Mr. Weinert became manager of the Manoa team in the Main Line League and piloted the team to the loop title. He retired again in 1939 but took a final fling for Manoa in 1940. Mr. Weinert was engaged in war work from 1941 until his recent appointment as head baseball coach.

Gene Weinert, pitcher on the 1943 and 1944 Villanova teams, is his eldest son. He is now a Navy ensign attached to a carrier.

Football Squad Starts Practice

Coaches Olivar and Neri Pleased At First Workout Yesterday Afternoon

This is the time of the year that all football aspirants turn their minds to Goodreau Stadium and Spring Football. Coach Jordan Oliver has issued the call for the eleventh of March, but a few of the early birds have been working out the kinks for the past week.

Training will last to the end of April, a total of six weeks, with the first two spent conditioning before the boys put on the heavy uniforms.

If present plans go through the team will play a few scrimmage games with the University of Pennsylvania.

About sixty men are expected out this Spring. This is a bigger squad than last year and will give Jordan Oliver a greater supply of men from which to choose the first string team.

Back at Villanova after a tour of duty with the Armed Forces are Tom McCarthy from Springfield, Mass.; Mill Lilienthal, Ridgefield, N. J.; Art Alois of Minersville, Pa.; Al Barker of Kulpmont, Pa.; Jack Rothenhausler, Easton, Pa., and Norm Restaine of Pittsburgh.

McCarthy will be remembered by many of the old Villanova fans for his fine performances here in the past. Tom was a dream fullback for two years on the varsity eleven.

Among men back from last year, Romeo Capriotti leads the field along with Vince McPeak, Dave Generalli, Lou Ferry and many others much to the delight of Coach Olivar.

Passing Parade

By MATT KEARNEY, A.S.
Sports News Editor

Villanova is fast returning to her pre-war strength and prestige in the Sports World! The gratifying resurgence of sports greats at Villanova who have completed their excellent service in defense of our country gives every reason for Villanovans of the past and present to look forward to banner years on the fields of collegiate athletic competition. This year's Freshman class is indeed fortunate by virtue of their entering Villanova when she is well on the way to becoming her old self! We heartily welcome them and strongly encourage them to realize that sports is an essential part of college life. Likewise we congratulate and thank our returning servicemen for a job well done.

—V—

Graduation and Navy transfers found many established sportsmen leaving our ranks. Burton Cox, Jr., a Marine trainee, leaves us after gaining the honor of a National Champion in the Hop, Step and Jump event. Burt, during his four year stay here, was always tops as a track man. Bill Burr and Don Robertson, two members of the 1945-46 basketball team, have gone, leaving us memories of two fine team players, who kept the Wildcats going when things looked dark. Another gap left in our sports lines is the one formerly filled by Ken Robertson, another stalwart track man who has been commissioned in the Naval Reserve. Villanova extends all its best wishes to these athletes who have turned in their fine performances to live in the annals of Villanova sports fame.

—V—

To whom it may concern: A long time has passed since Villanova has had swimming meets. To add to the trend of return to normalcy, why not begin Intramural Swimming Meets? Many men have inquired about this and all seem interested and eager to get going, so how about it?

—V—

With the advent of spring, the tennis courts are drying and soon will be in shape for enthusiasts of that sport. Of interest to them might be the announcement that Russel Welch, Editor-in-Chief, is formulating plans for another Tennis Tournament sometime this spring. No details are available as yet, but complete plans wil be forthcoming soon.

—V—

Track prospects look mighty bright from here. Under the able coaching of Mr. "Jumbo" Elliot, veteran cindermen Tom Short, Danny Redmond and Joe Beals are coming along in fine style. The addition to the squad of Old Timer John DiCarlo really helps. Look for Villanova wins on the cinderpaths this spring because to our way of thinking, Coach Elliot is working with an up and coming outfit.

—V—

When the daylight lasts longer and Daylight Saving Time comes along, the Spring Intramural Softball League will get into full swing under the able guidance of Fathers Kemme and Girolami, the intramural moderators. No plans have been made with regard to the schedule or number of teams competing, but shortly we should have all the "info" on the subject. The moderators have done a fine job with the Intramural Sports program to date, and with war-time pressure off spectators this Spring should see some firebrand competition on the Mendel field diamonds.

—V—

As a closing note, I would add, that while it is evident that Villa-

PASSING PARADE
Continued on Page Six

Philadelphia Phils Booked; For Campus Game with Team

Three Ivy League Teams Head Impressive Schedule; Navy And Army Also Slated

By DAVID MARANO

Baseball returned to the Villanova campus this week when coach "Lefty" Weinert called the battery out for their initial warm-up tosses. It is expected that the infielders and outfielders will start next week. This year's schedule calls for 22 games, including a home and home series with Georgetown, Princeton, Bucknell, Penn and Valley Forge General Hospital. With a revised team taking the field, the Wildcats hope to avenge the defeats suffered last season.

The 15th of April will bring the Philadelphia Phils here for an exhibition game. This will be the first time in recent years that a major league team has played on the campus. Single games are also scheduled with the Philadelphia Naval Base, Navy, Lehigh, Penn State, Army, U. S. Coast Guard, Lafayette and Fordham, with the wind-up a week's trip to New England facing Holy Cross, Boston College and Yale.

There are forty-five candidates for the 1946 team and among these are many former stars of Villanova's great ball teams.

Heading the list of returning veterans is Dan Casey who will be remembered by former students for his brilliant .394 batting average with the 1941 team. Also expected in the initial line-up is Joe Lord who just completed a practically solo basketball season along with setting a new college scoring record of .303.

Catcher Joe Nunan is also back after a tour of duty with the U. S. Army along with Bob McDonnell, a prospective battery mate.

Another former regular and one quite sure to be a starter is Tom McCarthy, 1943 first baseman who is contemplating a switch to the outfield.

April

3—Valley Forge Gen. Hospital
6—Phila. Naval Base
10—Navy (away)
11—Georgetown (away)
15—Phillies
17—Lehigh
24—Princeton
26—Bucknell (away)
27—Penn State (away)

May

1—Army (away)
4—Valley Forge (away)
8—U. S. Coast Guard
11—Princeton (away)
15—Penn (away)
18—Bucknell
22—Lafayette
25—Fordham
29—Penn

June

1—Georgetown
5—Holy Cross (away)
6—Boston College (away)
8—Yale (away)

'Cats Run Fourth In K. of C. Meet

After A Poor Showing Last Saturday The Blus And White Trackmen Look Forward To The Outdoor Season

Winding up their indoor season with an inglorious fourth in the Knights of Columbus games Saturday night, the Villanova trackmen are now looking forward to a strenuous outdoor season with Navy and the Penn relays, the two toughest meets on an incomplete schedule.

Running against New York University, Rhole Island and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Tom Short, Bob Regan, Dan Redmond and John Di Carlo failed to provide any serious competition to the powerful Violet team. However, Dan Redmond, a newcomer to the quarter-mile, reminded old-timers of Bob O'Sullivan, one of the smoothest runners ever to wear the Blue and White. Danny chalked up a beautiful third leg and showed promise of some real running this spring.

The colorful K of C meet provided many thrills even though only one of the top heavy favorites failed to come through. In the two mile handicap, Forest Efaw, previously undefeated in this specialty, was nipped a few yards from the tape by Brownie Ross, a last minute entrant. Ross, running unattached, led all but the last two laps, was passed by Efaw and then outsprinted him to the tape.

As usual Mao Mitchell, not really pressed, ran just hard enough to win despite one or two momentary threats.

Joe Beals, a Navy trainee, slated to run in the past meet, was sorely missed. Joe has been sick the past week and was unable to run. However, Reagan was sent in his place and turned in a good job on the last minute notice.

A note by way of diversion, this July will mark the end of a two year stretch on the track team of Tom Short, and Joe Beals. Both boys entered here in the Navy program in July of 1944 and were welcomed by a war-torn track squad. They reported for the team and turned in performances gaining them starting berths for the next year and a half. These boys, along with the old-timers who were still on hand, never failed to put in a good showing for the Blue and White. In fact, the team took several firsts and seconds in various meets.

Starstudded and Rarin' To Go!

Coach Phil "Lefty" Weinert giving baseball candidates the dope at the first Wildcat practice session .Many returned vets as well as four men from last year's squad give Coach Weinert high hopes for a successful season.

Rosemont Host To Dr. Haenisch

Professor of Chemistry Lectures To Forum On Atomic Energy

Dr. Edward L. Haenisch, Professor of Chemistry at Villanova, addressed the Science Forum of Rosemont College in their auditorium on Thursday evening, March 7th. Dr. Haenisch was the guest of the Science Forum, which is the campus organization for all students majoring in Chemistry and Physics at Rosemont.

E. L. HAENISCH, Ph.D.

Outline Development

The topic of Professor Haenisch's discussion was atomic energy. He outlined the history of the scien-

DR. HAENISCH
Continued on Page Seven

Debating Group Calls Mid-Week Meeting

Annapolis, St. Joseph's, Rosemont and Rider On Tentative Schedule

The Villanova Debating Society on Wednesday, March 13 will reorganize and begin planning its first debating season since 1942 at a meeting in Mendel Hall at 12:45. The Society, with offers for debates from Boston University, Annapolis, and Loyola College, as well as tentative engagements with Penn, Temple, Rosemont, St. Joseph's and Rider College, expects a highly successful first season.

Reorganization

The meeting, to be held in Room 210 Mendel, is expected to last only about 25 minutes. Its purpose is to bring together all those Villanova students who are interested in debating and to organize them into an efficient society.

Present at the meeting will be Father Sullivan and Father Krupa as moderators and a small committee which has been working for the past month to pave the way for the gathering.

Navy and Civilians

This Wednesday's meeting is the result of much pressure on the part of the student body to bring Villanova College back into the debating picture. Many students, both Civilian and Navy, have repeatedly made known their desire to join such an organization and finally last term, shortly after Christmas Bob Conway and a group of ROTC students got together with Father Sullivan in an attempt to schedule debates for the end of the term. They were too late in the term to

DEBATING GROUP
Continued on Page Eight

All Girl Concert Brilliantly Presented Monday Evening

Combined Orchestras Of Girl's High Schools Thrill Audience

By BILL WESCOTT

The third annual music festival of the Catholic Girls' High School was presented last evening at the Villanova College Field House before an overwhelming throng of music lovers.

The company was composed of 300 girls representing West Catholice, Hallahan, and Little Flower Catholic Girls' High School. It was divided into four groups: a Concert Band conducted by Benjamin A. d'Amelio; a glee club under the direction of Jeno Donath; a verse speaking group directed by Margaret Mary Kearny; and a symphony orchestra conducted by Jeno Donath.

Will Repeat Program

This year's musical, the third presented at Villanova, was longer in extent and scope than those of preceding years. The performance will be repeated in the near future at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia.

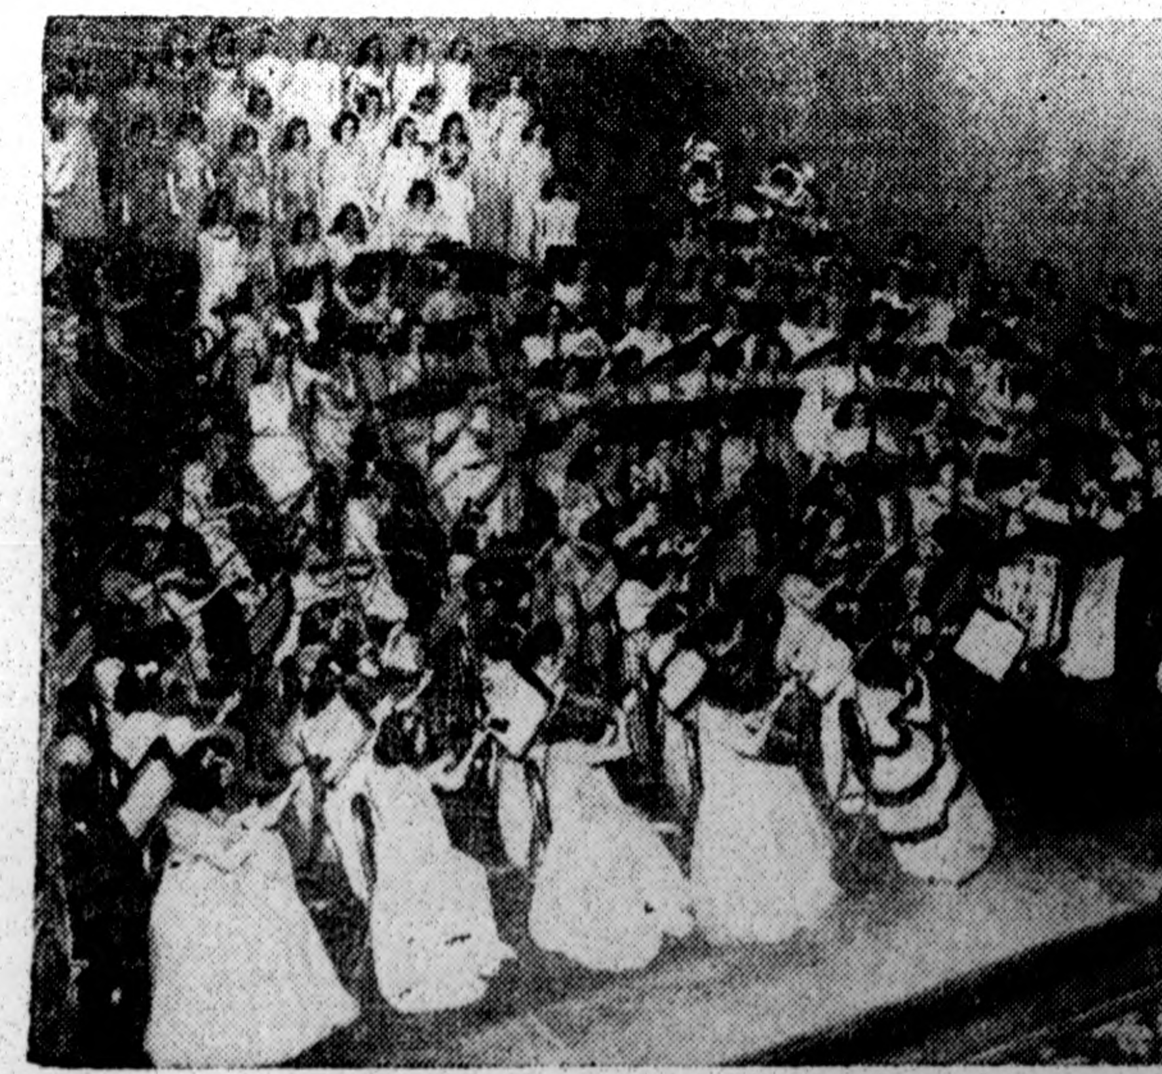
The program presented at Villanova was as follows: Concert Band, Benjamin A. d'Amelio Conductor; "Overture, Youth Triumphant" by Henry Hadley, "Kashmiri Song" by Amy Woodforde Finden, Jaime Texidor's "Amparito Roca," the "Melody in F" by Anton Rubinstein-Donath, and Excerpts from the Operetta, "Songs of Norway" by Edward Grieg.

Glee Club: conducted by Jeno Donath; "Salutation" by S. R. Gaines, Choral Prologue "On Wings of Living Song." H. Lane Wilson's "Carmena," the "Largo" (Teach Us, Oh Lord) by G. F. Hanel dedicated to Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Bonner, D.D., and Carl Senobes "The Raindrop's Story."

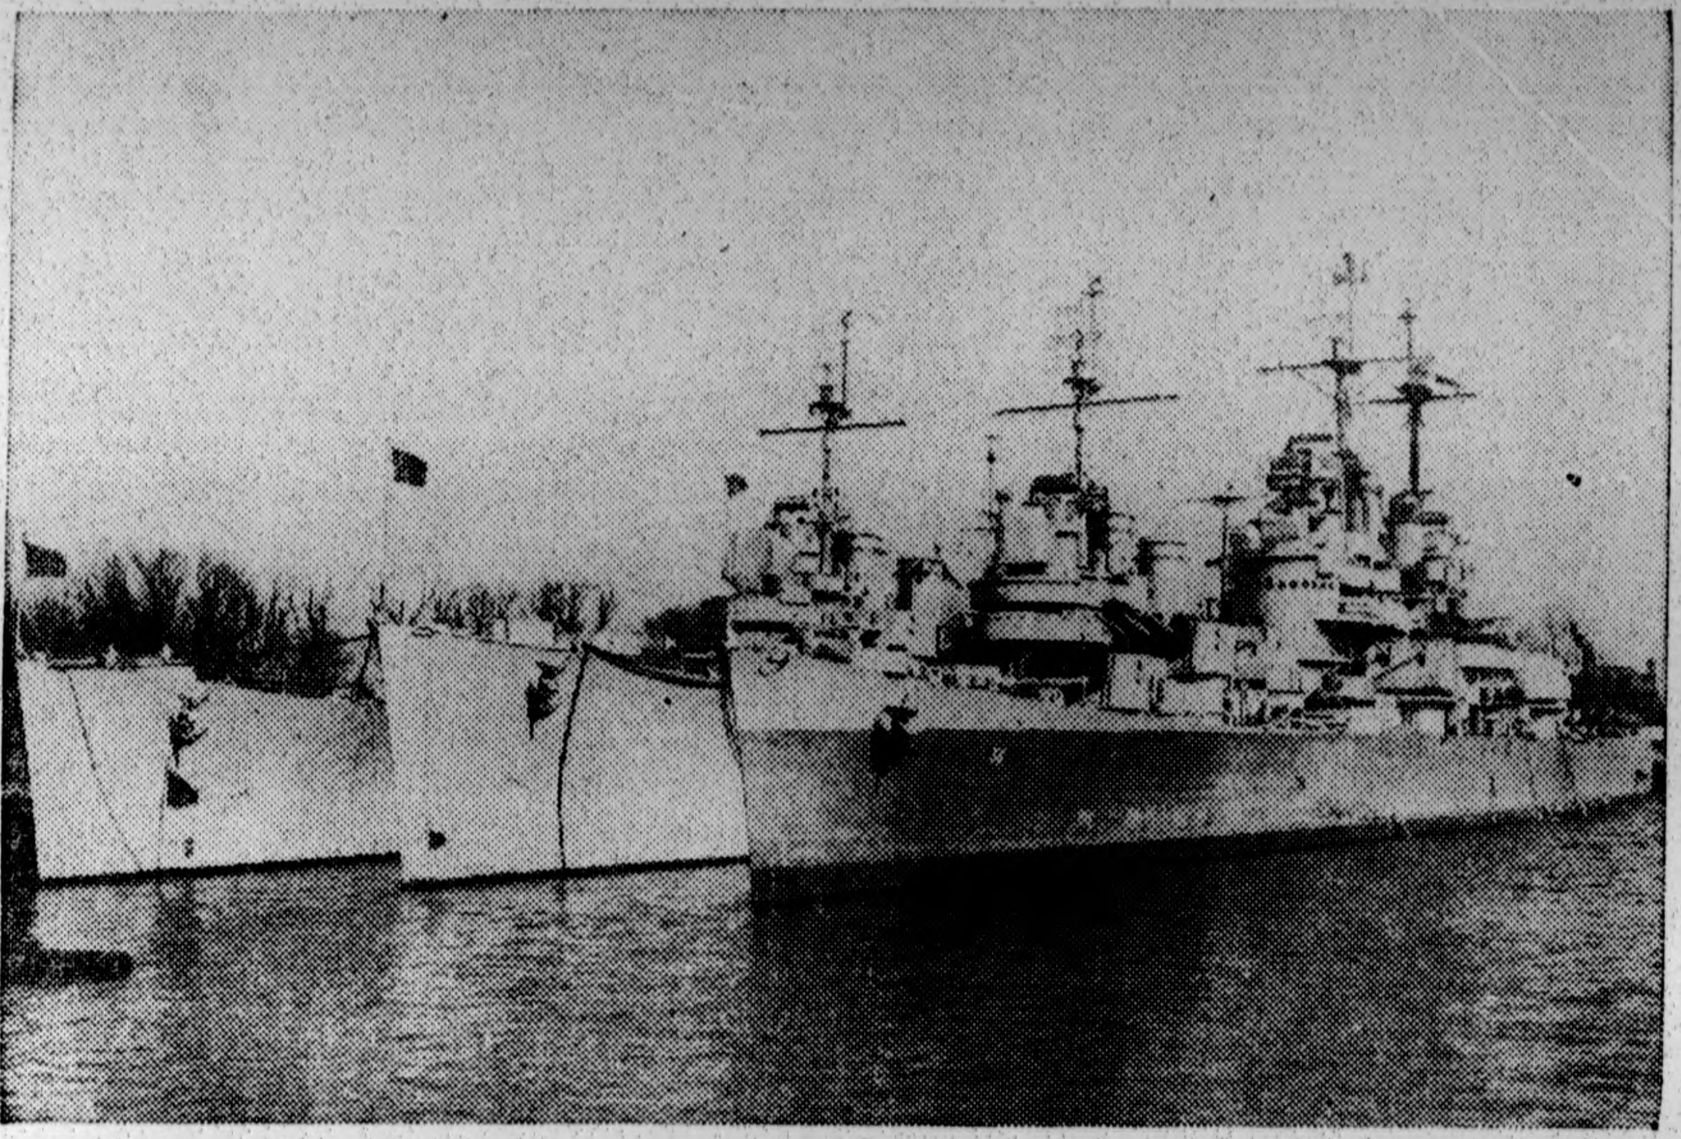
Verse Speaking Choir, under the direction of Margaret Mary Kearney; Fishermen's Wives, Traditional, Belloc's Tarentella, The Fool's Prayer by Sill and the Antiseptic Baby by Guiterman.

Donath Conducting

Symphony Orchestra, Jeno Donath, Conductor; Il Guarany Overture, A. Carlos Gomez, Music of the Orient arranged by Jeno Donath, A Musical Snuff Box by Anatole Liadow, El Relicario by Jose Padilla, Memories of Erin arranged by the conductor and The Merry Widow Fantasy of Franz Lehar.



ALL CATHOLIC GIRLS' ORCHESTRA



NROTC Cruise Aboard U. S. S. Columbia

160 Navy Trainees Spend Busy and Eventful Week Cruising Along the Atlantic Coast Aboard Battle Tested Cruiser

Saturday, February 23, 1946 saw one hundred sixty trainees of the Villanova College Naval Training Unit embark upon a seven day training cruise, the first cruise of this type to be undertaken by any Navy unit since the beginning of the war. The trainees were accompanied by the Executive Officer of the Unit, Commander J. W. Whaley, three officer instructors, the unit's medical officer, and six members of the ship's company. The unit left for the Philadelphia Navy Base at 1430 traveling by chartered bus to the pier where the U.S.S. Columbia was docked.

Fought Numerous Engagements

The U.S.S. Columbia (CL56) is a 10,000 ton cruiser; a lightweight; fast and tricky. She fought at Guadalcanal, Munda, Bougainville, Leyte, Mindoro, Lingayen Gulf and in half a dozen other engagements. After returning to the States the Columbia was ordered to the Philadelphia Navy Base for repairs in October.

The trainees were divided into five groups or divisions; one composed of the engineering students, the other four being made up of R.O.T.C. and V-5 students. Each of these divisions was assigned to a berthing compartment according to the usual ship board custom. The divisions were assigned to the same quarters for muster as the ship divisions to which they belonged.

Duties Assigned

The first afternoon aboard was spent assigning berthing compartments, bunks and lockers to the trainees. Compartment and head cleaning details were assigned for the facilities utilized by the trainees.

Sunday morning reveille was sounded at 0600 and the usual hour was devoted to ship's work. No religious services were held due to the absence of the Chaplain. At the 0800 muster the N.R.O.T.C. men were assigned General Quarters and general drill stations as per Watch, Quarter, and Station Bill of the ship. This bill included battle, fire, abandon ship, and collision stations. At 0930 the ship got under way. The remainder of the day was spent doing ship's work and holding drills of various types to acquaint the crew with their respective duties. At about 1700 the ship anchored off the Delaware Capes.

Hampered By Weather

Due to the foul weather the ship did not get under way Monday but the daily drills and ship's work were not overlooked. The N.R.O.T.C. tarinees took the first department tour of the cruise Monday morning. Three hour long tours, one each morning and afternoon served to acquaint the trainees with their different major departments of activity on board i.e. Gunnery, Navigation and Communication, Engineering, and construction and repair.

Reached Cape Henry

The usual plan of the day was followed Tuesday. However at 1300 all work parties were secured and all hands turned topside to witness the launching of the ship's plane a Curtiss SC1, from the catapult. This was accomplished skillfully under rather adverse sea and air conditions. The ship anchored off Cape Henry, Virginia, late in the afternoon. This was the most southerly water the ship passed through.

The Columbia remained anchored all of Wednesday while preparations were made for the operational run on Thursday. These preparations included special instruction and listing of all ordnance equipment. A part of the

NROTC CRUISE
Continued on Page Seven

Newsmen Return

Former Sports Editor And Columnists Aid In The Reorganization

Welcome back! The opening of this semester saw four former staff members of the Villanovan returning to finish their education after very extensive war service.

Sam Canning, recently appointed Sports Feature Editor of the Villanovan, was a member of the the centenial class, the class of '43. He served as a sports writer on the paper for two and a half years and was preparing to take over the sports editor position that he now holds when he withdrew to enter the Army.

Served In Pacific

Sam served as an officer with an anti-aircraft unit that saw action in New Guinea, the Philippines and a number of other hot spots in the Pacific.

Ed Reardon, who also returned this semester, left Villanova in the great purge, February 1943. At that time all members of the Army Enlisted Reserve were called to active duty. Ed worked as a tower operator and spent quite a few months in Africa before being returned to the States late in '45. Ed has re-entered the commerce and finance school to finish his work for a degree.

Wrote Gossip Column

Prior to the war Ed did the column currently being run under the title of "Cat Capers." Many of the returning Vets have felt

NEWSMEN RETURN
Continued on Page Six

Use Your Library

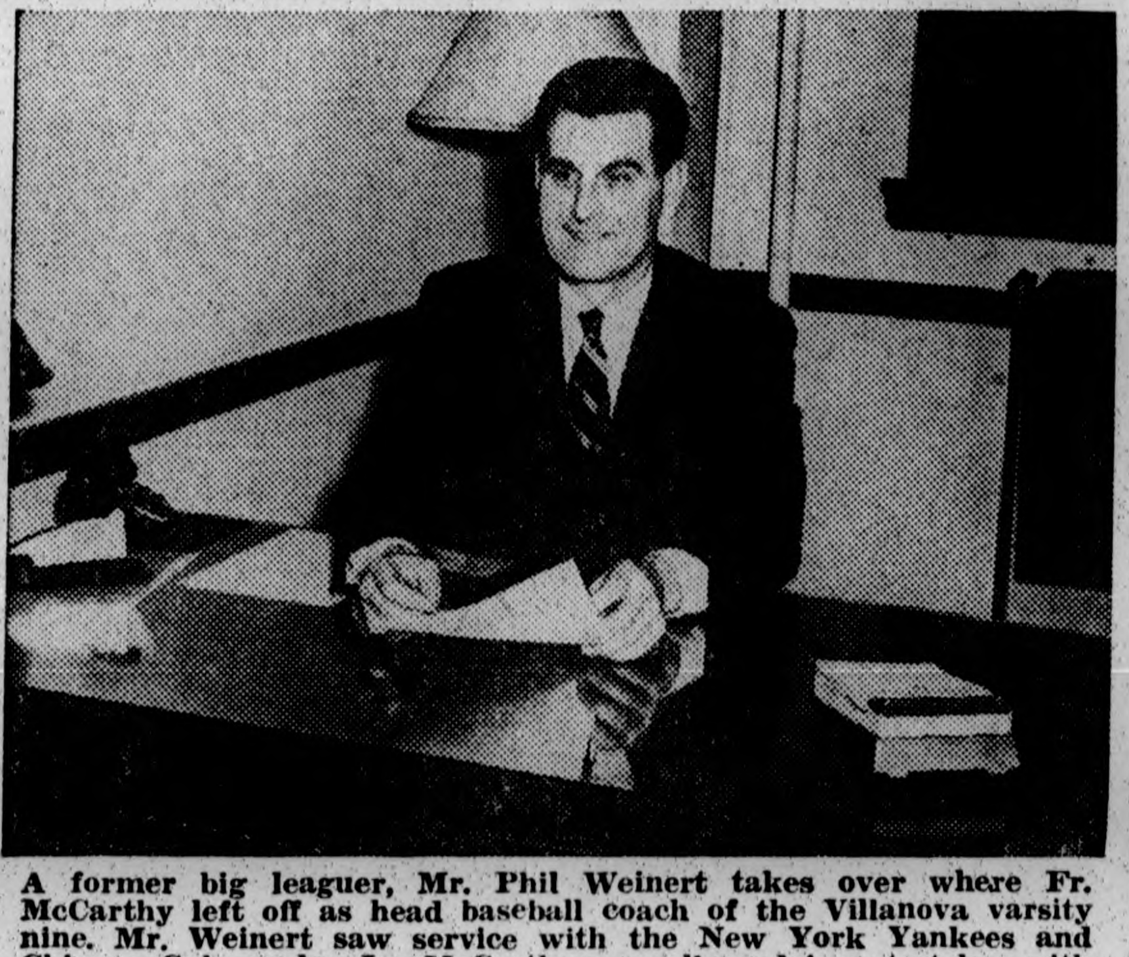
The following is a selected list of books recently received in the Library:

FICTION—
Costain, T	The Black Rose
Edwards, E.	This Night Called Day
Gay, L.	The Unspeakables
Keyes, F. P.	River Road
Marquand, J.	Repent in Haste
Nordhoff, C.	The High Barbaree
Waugh, E.	Brideshead Revisited
NON-FICTION—
Auger, P.	What are Cosmic Rays?
Blied, B.	Catholics and The Civil War
Bourke, V.	Thomistic Bibliography
Broderick, J.	Willis Rodney Whitney
Brown, F.	One America
Bulman, D., ed.	Molders of Opinion
Calhoun, A.	Social History of the American Family
Chernick, J.	Guaranteed Annual Wages
Durkin J.	John Dooley, Confederate Soldier
Geiringer, K.	Musical Instruments
Gibbings, R.	Lovely Is the Lea
Harrold, C.	John Henry Newman
Houselander, C.	The Flowering Tree
Love, A.	Mathematical Theory of Elasticity
McMahon, F.	A Catholic Looks at the World
Moody, J.	John Henry Newman
Myrdal, G.	An American Dilemma
Pratt, F.	The Navy's War
Randall, J.	Lincoln the President
Sharkey, D.	After Bernadette
Turner, W., ed.	Romance of English Literature
Van Hoek, K.	Pope Pius XII
Ward, L.	Ourselves, Inc.
Ward, M.	Splendor of the Rosary
White, N.	Portrait of Shelley
Woodgate, M	Pascal and His Sister Jacqueline

Cats Sign 22 Games for First Post-War Season

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcats' New Baseball Mentor



A former big leaguer, Mr. Phil Weinert takes over where Fr. McCarthy left off as head baseball coach of the Villanova varsity nine. Mr. Weinert saw service with the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs under Joe McCarthy as well as doing stretches with other major and minor league teams.

Phil Weinert Appointed Head Baseball Coach

Veteran of Major and Minor League Campaigns; Saw Service With Yankees and Cubs Under Joe McCarthy

By DICK SOMERS

The appointment of Philip (Lefty) Weinert as Villanova baseball coach was announced by Rev. Edward S. McKee, O.S.A., moderator of athletics, just before the beginning of the semester. Mr. Weinert saw service in the major leagues with the Phillies, Chicago Cubs, and New York Yankees as well as several minor league teams.

Mr. Weinert began his pitching career at West Philadelphia High School. After graduating in 1919, he was signed by the Phillies and sent to Reading of the International League.

He returned to the Phillies in 1920 and remained with them until 1924 when he was traded to the Vernon club (Los Angeles) of the Pacific Coast League. Mr. Weinert did not play in 1925 or 1926 but did report when the franchise was transferred to San Francisco in 1927.

Played Under Joe McCarthy

That season Mr. Weinert posted 17 victories against 11 defeats with the Missions and was sold to the Cubs in August. Two more victories were added while in Chicago uniform that season. He remained under Joe McCarthy until 1928, when he was traded to Memphis. His 1928 record was 19 and 8.

Louisville obtained Mr. Weinert's services from Memphis in 1930 and he contributed 18 victories against 11 defeats as the Colonels won the American Association pennant. Drafted by the Yankees in 1931, he again played under Joe McCarthy.

He returned to Louisville in August, 1931 and, except for a short period with Columbus in 1932, remained there until 1934. Mr. Weinert remained out of baseball during 1935 but joined St. Paul in 1936. He moved to Minneapolis in 1937, retiring at the end of the season.

Moving back to the Philadelphia area Mr. Weinert became manager of the Manoa team in the Main Line League and piloted the team to the loop title. He retired again in 1939 but took a final fling for Manoa in 1940. Mr. Weinert was engaged in war work from 1941 until his recent appointment as head baseball coach.

Gene Weinert, pitcher on the 1943 and 1944 Villanova teams, is his eldest son. He is now a Navy ensign attached to a carrier.

Football Squad Starts Practice

Coaches Olivar and Neri Pleased At First Workout Yesterday Afternoon

This is the time of the year that all football aspirants turn their minds to Goodreau Stadium and Spring Football. Coach Jordan Oliver has issued the call for the eleventh of March, but a few of the early birds have been working out the kinks for the past week.

Training will last to the end of April, a total of six weeks, with the first two spent conditioning before the boys put on the heavy uniforms.

If present plans go through the team will play a few scrimmage games with the University of Pennsylvania.

About sixty men are expected out this Spring. This is a bigger squad than last year and will give Jordan Oliver a greater supply of men from which to choose the first string team.

Back at Villanova after a tour of duty with the Armed Forces are Tom McCarthy from Springfield, Mass.; Mill Lilienthal, Ridgefield, N. J.; Art Alois of Minersville, Pa.; Al Barker of Kulpmont, Pa.; Jack Rothenhausler, Easton, Pa., and Norm Restaine of Pittsburgh.

McCarthy will be remembered by many of the old Villanova fans for his fine performances here in the past. Tom was a dream fullback for two years on the varsity eleven.

Among men back from last year, Romeo Capriotti leads the field along with Vince McPeak, Dave Generalli, Lou Ferry and many others much to the delight of Coach Olivar.

Passing Parade

By MATT KEARNEY, A.S.
Sports News Editor

Villanova is fast returning to her pre-war strength and prestige in the Sports World! The gratifying resurgence of sports greats at Villanova who have completed their excellent service in defense of our country gives every reason for Villanovans of the past and present to look forward to banner years on the fields of collegiate athletic competition.

This year's Freshman class is indeed fortunate by virtue of their entering Villanova when she is well on the way to becoming her old self! We heartily welcome them and strongly encourage them to realize that sports is an essential part of college life. Likewise we congratulate and thank our returning servicemen for a job well done.

—V—

Graduation and Navy transfers found many established sportsmen leaving our ranks. Burton Cox, Jr., a Marine trainee, leaves us after gaining the honor of a National Champion in the Hop, Step and Jump event. Burt, during his four year stay here, was always tops as a track man. Bill Burr and Don Robertson, two members of the 1945-46 basketball team, have gone, leaving us memories of two fine team players, who kept the Wildcats going when things looked dark. Another gap left in our sports lines is the one formerly filled by Ken Robertson, another stalwart track man who has been commissioned in the Naval Reserve. Villanova extends all its best wishes to these athletes who have turned in their fine performances to live in the annals of Villanova sports fame.

—V—

To whom it may concern: A long time has passed since Villanova has had swimming meets. To add to the trend of return to normalcy, why not begin Intramural Swimming Meets? Many men have inquired about this and all seem interested and eager to get going, so how about it?

—V—

With the advent of spring, the tennis courts are drying and soon will be in shape for enthusiasts of that sport. Of interest to them might be the announcement that Russel Welch, Editor-in-Chief, is formulating plans for another Tennis Tournament sometime this spring. No details are available as yet, but complete plans wil be forthcoming soon.

—V—

Track prospects look mighty bright from here. Under the able coaching of Mr. "Jumbo" Elliot, veteran cindermen Tom Short, Danny Redmond and Joe Beals are coming along in fine style. The addition to the squad of Old Timer John DiCarlo really helps. Look for Villanova wins on the cinderpaths this spring because to our way of thinking, Coach Elliot is working with an up and coming outfit.

—V—

When the daylight lasts longer and Daylight Saving Time comes along, the Spring Intramural Softball League will get into full swing under the able guidance of Fathers Kemme and Girolami, the intramural moderators. No plans have been made with regard to the schedule or number of teams competing, but shortly we should have all the "info" on the subject. The moderators have done a fine job with the Intramural Sports program to date, and with war-time pressure off spectators this Spring should see some firebrand competition on the Mendel field diamonds.

—V—

As a closing note, I would add, that while it is evident that Villa-

PASSING PARADE
Continued on Page Six

Philadelphia Phils Booked; For Campus Game with Team

Three Ivy League Teams Head Impressive Schedule; Navy And Army Also Slated

By DAVID MARANO

Baseball returned to the Villanova campus this week when coach "Lefty" Weinert called the battery out for their initial warm-up tosses. It is expected that the infielders and outfielders will start next week. This year's schedule calls for 22 games, including a home and home series with Georgetown, Princeton, Bucknell, Penn and Valley Forge General Hospital. With a revised team taking the field, the Wildcats hope to avenge the defeats suffered last season.

The 15th of April will bring the Philadelphia Phils here for an exhibition game. This will be the first time in recent years that a major league team has played on the campus. Single games are also scheduled with the Philadelphia Naval Base, Navy, Lehigh, Penn State, Army, U. S. Coast Guard, Lafayette and Fordham, with the wind-up a week's trip to New England facing Holy Cross, Boston College and Yale.

There are forty-five candidates for the 1946 team and among these are many former stars of Villanova's great ball teams.

Heading the list of returning veterans is Dan Casey who will be remembered by former students for his brilliant .394 batting average with the 1941 team. Also expected in the initial line-up is Joe Lord who just completed a practically solo basketball season along with setting a new college scoring record of .303.

Catcher Joe Nunan is also back after a tour of duty with the U. S. Army along with Bob McDonnell, a prospective battery mate.

Another former regular and one quite sure to be a starter is Tom McCarthy, 1943 first baseman who is contemplating a switch to the outfield.

April
3—Valley Forge Gen. Hospital
6—Phila. Naval Base
10—Navy (away)
11—Georgetown (away)
15—Phillies
17—Lehigh
24—Princeton
26—Bucknell (away)
27—Penn State (away)
May
1—Army (away)
4—Valley Forge (away)
8—U. S. Coast Guard
11—Princeton (away)
15—Penn (away)
18—Bucknell
22—Lafayette
25—Fordham
29—Penn
June
1—Georgetown
5—Holy Cross (away)
6—Boston College (away)
8—Yale (away)

'Cats Run Fourth In K. of C. Meet

After A Poor Showing Last Saturday The Blus And White Trackmen Look Forward To The Outdoor Season

Winding up their indoor season with an inglorious fourth in the Knights of Columbus games Saturday night, the Villanova trackmen are now looking forward to a strenuous outdoor season with Navy and the Penn relays, the two toughest meets on an incomplete schedule.

Running against New York University, Rhole Island and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Tom Short, Bob Regan, Dan Redmond and John Di Carlo failed to provide any serious competition to the powerful Violet team. However, Dan Redmond, a newcomer to the quarter-mile, reminded old-timers of Bob O'Sullivan, one of the smoothest runners ever to wear the Blue and White. Danny chalked up a beautiful third leg and showed promise of some real running this spring.

The colorful K of C meet provided many thrills even though only one of the top heavy favorites failed to come through. In the two mile handicap, Forest Efaw, previously undefeated in this specialty, was nipped a few yards from the tape by Brownie Ross, a last minute entrant. Ross, running unattached, led all but the last two laps, was passed by Efaw and then outsprinted him to the tape.

As usual Mac Mitchell, not really pressed, ran just hard enough to win despite one or two momentary threats.

Joe Beals, a Navy trainee, slated to run in the past meet, was sorely missed. Joe has been sick the past week and was unable to run. However, Reagan was sent in his place and turned in a good job on the last minute notice.

A note by way of diversion, this July will mark the end of a two year stretch on the track team of Tom Short, and Joe Beals. Both boys entered here in the Navy program in July of 1944 and were welcomed by a war-torn track squad. They reported for the team and turned in performances gaining them starting berths for the next year and a half. These boys, along with the old-timers who were still on hand, never failed to put in a good showing for the Blue and White. In fact, the team took several firsts and seconds in various meets.

Starstudded and Rarin' To Go!

Coach Phil "Lefty" Weinert giving baseball candidates the dope at the first Wildcat practice session .Many returned vets as well as four men from last year's squad give Coach Weinert high hopes for a successful season.

Joe Lord Breaks Score Record for College

Ex-Bombardier Beats Duzminski's Record By Seven Points; Brehmer Second With 159

By DAN REDMOND

Although Villanova's basketball team didn't break any records this year, the Wildcats' Joe Lord garnered 303 points to surpass the college standard for one seaon, according to official figures released last week. The old mark of 296, held by George "Duke" Duzminski, was hung up during the 1937-38 season

Needing ten points to break Duzminski's record, the Norristown sharpshooter peppered the cords for 16 points in the final game against Albright. A twenty-one point spree against Muhlenberg four days prior to this made his task a little lighter than it would have been with an average performance. Lord's twenty-three game aggregate of 303 points gave him runner-up honors for the Philadelphia scoring title won by LaSalle's Bob Walters, the top scorer of the State.

Beats Duzminski by Seven

While Joe needed but twenty-three games to amass his record-smashing sum, Duzminski had a thirty-game schedule over which he spread his 296 point total. At the time, this latter figure was a Philadelphia District record, but, after standing for a few years, it was subsequently broken by two St. Joseph's scoring aces, Larry Kenny and All-American George Senesky.

Lord's consistent scoring efforts throughout the season may be evidenced by the fact that he was held to less than ten points on only six occasions. The ex-Army Air Force bombardier registered a high of twenty-four points against England General Hospital, while his low point performance amounted to twenty points less against Bucknell in the third game of the season. In the latter contest both his efficiency and playing time were lessened by a pair of bad feet. Incidentally, this was the only encounter in which he failed to chalk up eight points or better.

Comparing Joe's total with those of his teammates it may be noted that he just about doubled the productivity of each of the next three scorers, Joe Brehmer, Joe Hannan, and Ed Reybitz. The totals of the latter three, 159, 156, and 151, respectively, were very close together at the end of the schedule, but they were not that way throughout the season.

Brehmer Second

Brehmer, after a slow start, suddenly caught fire with ten games remaining. His great floor play and 12.4 scoring average over this period were greatly responsible for the 'Cats' five victories in their last six home games. His 27-point total against Scranton was the Wildcat one game high for the year.

Hannan was perhaps the most consistent of the trio. After a half dozen fair games, "Toad" inaugurated a series of frequent visits to the double-figure bracket with a slambang 25-point scoring spree at Rhode Island State. After playing in eighteen contests and averaging 8.7 points, Joe was simultaneously greeted by Uncle Sam and bade farewell by Villanova.

Ed Reybitz gathered his 151-point total with a succession of unpredictable hot and cold performances. The big pivotman, however, began a short but consistent scoring streak at the end of the season when he racked up 47 points in the last four engagements. Even though a few of his appearances were brief, he played in every game — a distinction which he shared with Lord. Bull Burr, diminutive forward and passer par excellence, also saw plenty of service, missing only the second game of the season.

Main Line League Star

Returning to Lord, this was Joe's third season under basketball mentor Al Severance. If present eligibility rules are maintained he will be eligible for court competition again next year. At present he is playing basketball with Norristown in the Main Line League, an amateur circuit. However, his talents are not limited to basketball. As soon as the call for infielders on the baseball nine is issued, Lord will be out at the keystone position that he held down prior to the war, trying to match his basketball brilliance on the diamond.

	Games	G.	F.	F.M.	T.
Lord	23	125	89	53	303
Brehmer	20	56	66	47	159
Hannan	18	63	45	30	156
Reybitz	23	55	80	41	151
Robertson	19	29	48	29	87
McDonnell	19	22	28	18	84
Doherty	14	30	18	10	70
Burr	22	14	37	11	39
Gonglefski	13	7	19	5	19
Rice	6	2	3	2	6
Kline	9	2	4	1	5
Fuglestad	8	0	3	1	1
Tone	2	0	1	0	0
Totals	23	416	441	248	1080
Opponents	23	463	417	231	1157

Cage Squad Picks All-Opponents

Four college court stars and one former service team player have been named on the all-opponent team selected by the Villanova College basketball squad, Richard Somers, team manager, announced today.

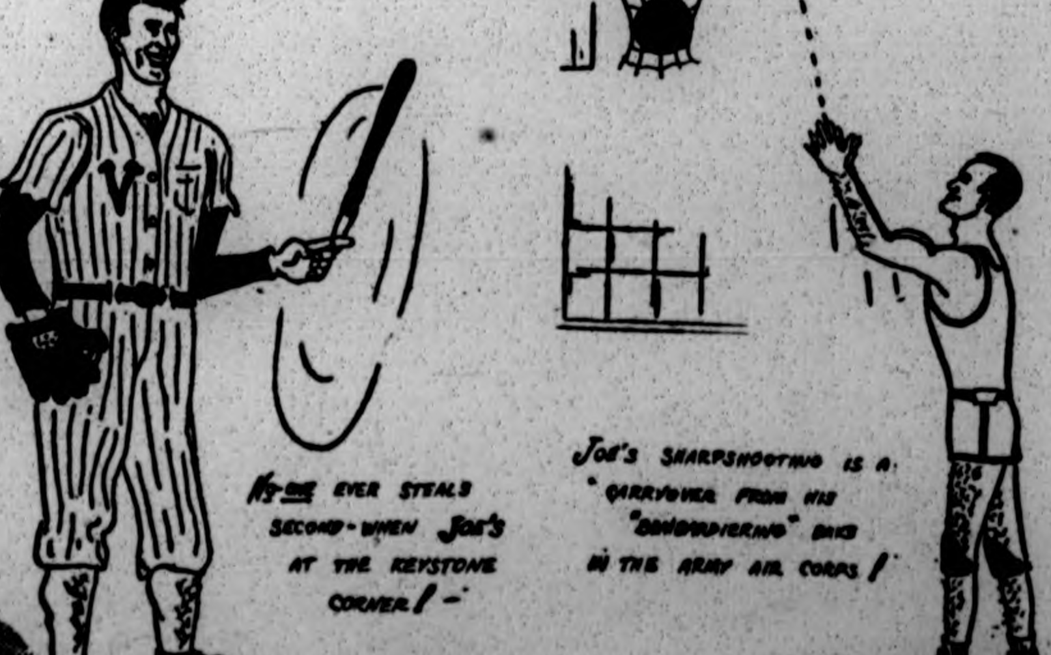
Players representing Yale, Syracuse, Rhode Island State and Muhlenberg led the collegiate group. Johnny Niemura, ex-Valley Forge General Hospital ace, got the nod as the lone service selection.

Niemura and Harry Donovan, Muhlenberg's star freshman player, were picked as forwards. The Wildcat squad members named Yale's Tony Lavelli, another yearling, as the unaimous choice for the center post. Lavelli scored 23 points against Villanova.

Ernie Calverly, brilliant Rhode Island State point-getter, and Ed Gabor, Syracuse, were named to the guard posts.

But the service teams did get the nod over the collegiate opposition in the second team selections. Bob Metcalf of Bainbridge, Dick Duden, Navy and Johnny Craddock, Valley Forge, all gained positions. Dick Duden, Navy, Carl Braun, Colgate and Red Baldwin, Muhlenberg, also were selected.

JOE LORD - - - - - - - - - by Meyer



No one ever steals second - when Joe's at the keystone corner! -
Joe's sharpshooting is a carryover from his "bombardiering" days in the army air corps!

Returned Vets

Familiar faces are reappearing on the campus these days as Villanova's war veterans, whose college careers were interrupted by service in the nation's armed forces, are returning once more to complete their education. Among these is Johnny DiCarlo one of the Blue and White's greatest track stars.

Early in his freshman year Johnny exhibited the qualities of a great runner and was soon averaging twenty points per meet. Running in national competition in the Penn Relays of 1941 he placed second in the 400 meter hurdle, an event in which he had never participated. Later in this season he won the Junior National 400 meter championship, in less time than the senior event was won. Through a mistake he was not entered in the senior event.

JOHN DiCARLO

Upon entering his senior year, John found himself coach, captain, and member of the track team; a singular achievement we venture has never happened before in college track circles.

On February 23, 1943 John DiCarlo's college career was interrupted by a call to active duty. Having received his pilot's license at Villanova he enlisted in the Air Corps as a cadet. However this was in no way the end of John's track career for he coached and ran on two cadet teams, both of which were winners.

Later he went to gunnery school and while on the Lowry Field team he participated in the Rocky Mountain national A.A.U. competition winning the quarter mile event in 50.6 seconds. Qualified as a physical training instructor, Johnny served in that capacity at various times.

Last Summer, while awaiting orders to go overseas as a central fire control gunner, Victory came for the allies and John's orders were cancelled.

Discharged from the army on February 27 of this year, John is now back at Villanova and, although now a married man, he intends to carry on his track activities and undoubtedly will hit the national spot light again. After graduation in June he plans to complete his studies at the University of Pennsylvania Law School.

Newsmen Return

Continued From Page Four

the sting of his pen time and again.

Harry Binder, the other half of the Reardon-Binder combination, whipped into school for the present semester close on the heels of Ed. In pre-war days one was never seen without the other. It's a welcome sight to see them ambling up from C and F again after three years absence.

Devine Returns

Bill Devine completes the quartet for today. Bill served for two years on the staff and pulled up stakes in '43 in answer to his service call. He's back now and looks none the worse for the extensive wear.

Again the Villanovan welcomes their former staff members and looks forward to many more of them in subsequent semesters.

Spring Practice Finds Cats' Baseball Outlook Promising

Weinert Pleased With Large Turnout and Array Of Talent

Yesterday Villanova's prospective varsity baseball players went through their first paces. The pitchers and catchers had been out for a week loosening kinks in their baseball wings, but yesterday the whole crew turned out to inaugurate another season of the grand old American game.

The squad composed of both old and new, servicemen and civilians, met their new coach, Mr. Phil 'Lefty' Weinert. The drills held were primarily loosening up exercises to condition the men for the grueling training period ahead.

Five From Last Year's Team

Among familiar faces there, was Dave Marano, the smooth and sparkling third baseman from the '45 team who rapped out the apple to the tune of .394 last year. Don Boos, Dave's running mate down on second base, now boasts a discharge, and would be mighty welcome if he can return to his '45 ability at the keystone sack. Ike Eisenhardt, first string catcher of '45, still looks at that short right field and wonders what he'll do to it with his powerful lefthand swing this year. Emil J. "Bull" Matas, a hurler who in his time has seen service with the world famous House of David team, was likewise on hand and hoping his arm will come through this year. "Bull" was hampered all through last year's season by sore arm trouble. Paul Wiedenhaefer constitutes the last of these men and should be plenty useful in the receiving department this year.

One man prominently missing was Dick Naslund, side arm hurler and bell-cow of last year's mound corps. Dick has since been discharged and is living in Wisconsin.

Passing Parade

Continued From Page Five

nova will put many fine athletes on the field of play this year, something more is needed. Every team needs and deserves the backing and the traditional school spirit of the Villanova Way. Let's make this a two-sided affair, follow and support the fellows who are representing you and your school in Collegiate sports.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Dick Gray, former varsity basketball captain here, has been playing basketball with the Trenton Tigers in the American professional Loop. Gray, recently discharged from the service, will be remembered by all Villanova fans who saw his flashy play on the court here. Before entering the service, Dick was coaching Trenton Catholic High School's court five.

• • •

Nick Etten, another Wildcat baseball great, will have his hands full fighting for his first base job with the New York Yankees this year. Nick has to contend with Johnny Sturm and Buddy Hassett, who are both now out of the service and are vying for their old position.

• • •

Hank Ward, Sports Editor of last semester, after an eleven day leave reports to Memphis Naval Air Station, in Tennessee, where he will take up studies in Pre-Flight School there. Hank, before his transfer, had been Sports Editor since August of 1945.

• • •

Jerry DeMuro, first string center on the Villanova 1945 eleven, entered the United States Army last week. Jerry played bang-up football throughout last season and the team will really miss this smooth pivot man. Best of luck, wherever you may go, Jerry!

• • •

Keen Reeher, basketballer with Al Severance's 1944-45 combine, has returned to the campus to resume studies after his discharge from the Navy. Ken, who hails from Sharon, Pa., left here in 1945, received his commission in the USNR and, after spending time at sea, was discharged this Winter.

Alex Colman, guard on the 1944 edition of the Wildcat football team, has likewise returned for continuation of his studies. Al was stationed here in the Marine V-12 Program and since then has received his Honorable discharge much to the delight of Ollie.

In The Sportlight

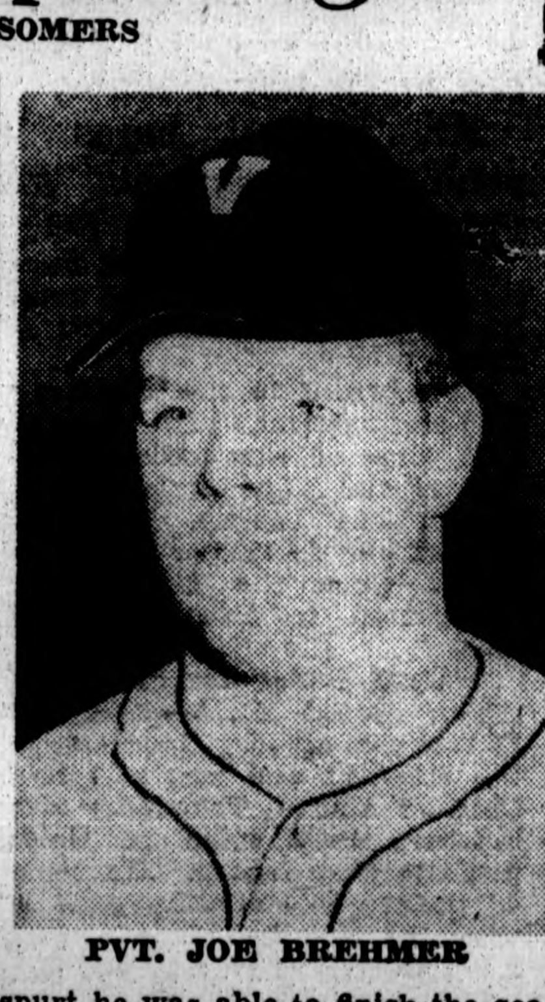
By DICK SOMERS

Pvt. Joseph Brehmer, U. S. Merines. Joseph hails from East St. Louis, Missouri, where he has resided for some twenty years. (Seems he is a little shy when pinned down to the exact number). In high school (E. St. Louis Catholic) he was a three letter man, participating in football, basketball, and baseball.

Mr. Brehmer donned his Marine uniform after receiving a letter from his Draft Board with the customary greetings. This event took place in October, 1942 when he became a member of the Reserves.

California beauty and ideal weather were enjoyed as Joe took his boot training at San Diego. He played with the Base team which won the Naval District Basketball Championship.

Next stop on Pvt. Brehmer's itinerary was Camp LeJeune, North Carolina. Main purpose of this stop was Radar School. As a sideline he played on the Camp basketball team which ended its season with a record of 21 and 4, good enough to win the Southern Service Championship. During the spring, Joe played with the Signal Battalion baseball team as the Camp did not have an official team.



PVT. JOE BREHMER

Villanova welcomed Joe in July, 1945. By putting on a late season spurt he was able to finish the season with 159 points to place second to Joe Lord for individual scoring honors. At present you can find him practicing with the baseball team on which he is a candidate for the catcher berth.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE
Longines

THE OBSERVER

By LOU DiGIACOMO and MILT CLIMATI

With the advent of a new semester we bring you an entirely new gossip column. The purpose of this column is to keep the student body informed as to the activities of their fellow students and the nearby colleges (especially the feminine institutions). It will be our policy to bring the news as we see and hear it. So beware, Now we come to the goings on of the last two weeks.

ODDS 'N ENDS:

The D.P.E. Dinner Dance was a great success. The food was good and everyone had a swell time . . . Speaking of the Dinner Dance where was Bob Manske all night? . . . Is Jack Devine becoming a bookworm? He's been visiting the University of Pennsylvania Library very frequently in the last few weeks. However, the attraction could be a little number by the name of Celine . . . We all feel sorry for Ed Peterson of Alumni Hall. Maybe "Miss Philadelphia" won't let you down. Anyway, "we soldier so." . . . It's rumored about that Joe Sweeney of Simpson Hall is renewing his "friendship" with Lennie . . . John Burke of O'Dwyer Hall is going to have a tough time getting transportation now that Rick Frey has graduated . . . Warning to pedestrians: Arnold Keene has just gotten his driver's license . . . Certain parties around the campus have been asking why Jack (get that yearbook out!) Selfridge was not in attendance at the last Misericordia Hospital Dance . . . So-o, like the good little boys that we are, we did a little snooping on our own, and came up with the startling information that Nursie and he had a little misunderstanding . . . (We hope it's not permanent) . . . The new love of Jack Wagner's life is a certain girl named Helen, and to prove his fond affections, Jackie boy has adorned his desk with her lovely (he says) picture . . . John Ciotola and his little shadow Bill Ferguson are now looking around for a new place to call home, since their old abode up the line became unpopular. Have any ideas? . . . They would appreciate them if you do...

With the departure of (Senator) Murray, we are wondering who George O'Neil of Simpson Hall will get to be his his partner now . . . Ed Keller's car sounds so much like a speed boat that he is thinking of launching it any day now . . . Tom Scanlon of Alumni Hall is having head nurse trouble. Every Saturday night he can be seen slinking out of Misericordia Hospital . . . Congratulations to Arthur Masiello of Mendel Hall on his engagement. He writes a charming letter to his fiancee daily . . . Hal Varani has been regularly visiting a little hamlet in Philly known as the "Grotto." . . . Joe Brogan and John Martin attended the Immaculata-Penn basketball game. It must have been Joe's presence that caused his date to score 25 points . . . After five semesters of chemistry Ray Stone still can't boil water without having it spout all over the lab . . . Bernie Crumb of O'Dwyer Hall is still going strong with Betty Doyle of Penfield . . . We understand that Dave Ryan and Bill Altenpohl had dates with two lovely ditties in Washington.

ATTENTION IMMACULATA COLLEGE. Eddie Narcum has returned to Villanova . . . For the first time since the beginning of the war there were more fellows than girls at the Rosemont Tea Dance . . . Flavia of Rosemont seems to have become quite popular with many of the Villanova boys. Competition is becoming keener and keener.

VACATION NEWS: We hear that Paul O'Brien of Alumni Hall returned rather late from a terrific party in Long Island . . . It was reported to us that Bill Brennan of Simpson Hall was parked on the Inlet in Atlantic City. Get this; He said he was watching "submarines." It's possible, but not probable . . . Bill Koerner of Delury Hall seems to have returned to Villanova a day earlier in vain. "Miss Devon" already had a date.

PROFS AND PREFECTS: What is this we hear about Fr. Grimes' mal-treating Augie, his canary? Canaries weren't meant to be sparring partners . . . The semester is new, but Fr. Hammond's jokes are still the same . . . It seems that Fr. Touhey is having trouble with long distance telephone calls over in O'Dwyer Hall . . . The fire escapes of Alumni Hall are proving to be quite a headache to Fr. Hannan . . . It was a wonderful sight to see Mr. Dougherty waltzing around with Mrs. Dougherty at the D.P.E. Dinner Dance . . . Fr. Krupa's demonstration of proper posture for public speaking almost ended in a calamity when he took one backward step too many from the top of a desk on which he was standing.

So until next week we leave you with this financial prophecy: When better money is made the College student will write home for it.

Dr. Haenisch

Continued From Page Four

tific development of atomic energy and explained further that this development made possible the evolution of the atomic bomb. At this juncture in the discussion Dr. Haenisch explained the scientific mode of operation of the atom bomb. His step by step explanation of the process gave a clear depiction of the reactions that take place in the bomb.

No Real Secret

Dr. Haenisch then expressed the opinion that there was no real secret as to how the bomb operates. One of the main points stressed was that the key to the bomb lay in the country having the industrial capacity to build this weapon. It was further explained that the United States excels in this important capacity, but that continuous experimentation is necessary to keep us in this position. On this point the doctor did not stress international complications.

Peacetime Uses

The next point discussed was the possible peace time uses of atomic energy. Dr. Haenisch expressed the opinion that Atomic Energy would not be used as a fuel for automobiles or on the railroads, because of the great need of experimentation in this particular field.

The lecture was well attended by the Science Forum; the faculty and student body attended as guests.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
835 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Rifle Team Wins

On 16th of February the Rifle Team of the Villanova NROTC Unit scored a resounding victory over ROTC rifle teams from the University of Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania State University. This took place at a rifle competition held in the Rifle Range of the Marine Barracks at the Philadelphia Naval Base. The team's reward will be a trophy offered by the Commandant of the Fourth Naval District, which will be presented to the team soon by Captain Thomas.

Credit To Williams

The six man team composed of Apprentice Seamen Yates, coach, Starer, Captain, Wineman, Syvertson, Farnsworth, Madara, plus an alternate, Greenberg, had but four weeks to train for the tourney. The team entered the competition, part of a NROTC Tournament, as the "Dark Horse" and were highly elated at winning.

The score was as follows: Villanova—1352; Pennsylvania State—1329; and the University of Pennsylvania—1208.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5¢ a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Three

alternated at quarter and right half his first year and settled down to the right half slot his second year on the team.

In May of 1944, as to all men, the Navy came to Joe. After completing boot training he was assigned to radio technicians school in Washington, D. C. In January of 1945 Joe returned to civilian life.

At that time he took over his father's business and stayed there until September of 1945 when he re-entered school to finish his work for a degree.

Married!

Last October 8th Joe took that long walk and emerged a happily married man.

As for activities, Joe doesn't have to doff his hat to anyone. He was president of the ASCE in 1943 and 1944.

He was a member of the orientation committee last semester and a four year member of Phi Kappa Pi. In 1944 Joe was a member of the senior dance committee.

Joe leaves school with his Bachelor of Civil Engineering degree in June and at that time expects to rejoin his father and go in the contracting business.

Graduation

Continued From Page One

minican House at Cambridge University.

Commencement Marks 103rd Year

Father Gilby, serving with the Battle Cruiser Squadron "H" of the Royal Navy, saw a great deal of action. This squadron, one of the most famous in the English Navy, included H.M. Ships Renown and Ark Royal, saw action in the Mediterranean and later the Arctic Ocean. In 1943 the English Chaplain was attached to the Royal Marine Landing Group in the Sicilian and Italian invasions. As a clergyman Father Gilby is known as a lecturer, author, and editor and at present is acting editor of the English Dominican review "Blackfriar." He is best known for his work on the publications "Poetic Experience" and "Morals and Marriage."

This commencement exercise marked the 103rd year in the history of the college.

Dave Ryan

Continued From Page One

Quaker City. His next occupational venture brought him into the newspaper business, which has been his first love ever since. For a while he was employed by the Philadelphia Bulletin as an assistant in the picture department. At a later date he was associated with the Philadelphia Record and Inquirer as a correspondent covering collegiate baseball and scholastic football games in the Philadelphia area. Dave is still connected with the two papers as a correspondent but has been on inactive status for about the past year. During the 1945 football season, Ryan found time to act as a line coach with the football squad at his alma mater, Malvern Prep.

Pres. Address

Continued From Page One

ans: "Do your best to get the best out of your education—both academically and morally." Father reminded the students that it would take a lot of patience to fall into the flow of eager study.

The talk was concluded with the reminder that no student ever successfully graduated from Villanova without the help of God.

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
The Campus Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

NROTC Cruse

Continued From Page Four

afternoon was spent by the anti-aircraft batteries tracking planes from the Norfolk Naval Air Station.

Fired Main Batteries

The ship got underway Thursday at 0600 for the operating area where a radar equipped target was launched. The main battery guns 6 inches bag type guns, were fired in the forenoon. The secondary Battery, 5 inch semi-fixed ammunition type guns, and the anti-aircraft batteries, 40 mm and 20 mm guns were fired in the afternoon. At dusk the ship was anchored in the operational area. 0600 Friday saw the ship once more under way, heading north along the coast.. By 0900 the ship got up full steam and this full run lasted for about five hours. The speed at which the ship traveled during this run was 32.5 knots. This high speed afforded ample oportunity to test the sea-worthiness of both the legs and the stomachs of all hands. By evening the ship was once again off the Delaware Capes and here was anchored for the night.

Delayed By Fog

Saturday was the most anxiously awaited day of the week for the ship expected to dock at the Navy Base at 1415. However due to a very dense fog, which rendered movements up the river very dangerous it was decided not to get under way until 1230. This trip up the Delaware was made at a rather slow speed since visibility was definitely impaired by the fog. At 1800 the ship was met by two Navy tugs and was guided by these into her berth at the base. At 1900 the trainees disembarked, boarded chartered buses and headed for Villanova and a week end liberty.

Enrollment Of College Reaches Thousand Mark

Veterans Make Up The Largest Group; Engineering School Leads Other Departments

Villanova College is starting the spring semester with the largest enrollment in its history, according to the Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., in his Monday morning press release. "The student body has reached the unprecedented number of 1075 men, an increase of 25% over last semester," said Vice-President Fr. McKee. The bulk of the students are veterans, with 600 returned G.I.'s on the campus as compared with 200 last term.

The service is still represented at the college by 225 NROTC and Marine Officer Candidates. Broken down into separate schools, the figures show that Engineering leads that field with 500 men, of which forty percent are mechanical engineers. Commerce and Finance follows with 300 students and Science per usual, trails the field with

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

The Shortest Distance Between Two Points.. LONG DISTANCE

From the moment he steps down from the transport, Long Distance is a soldier's dream-come-true.

But a busy circuit may mean a dream de-railed. Let's help the returning servicemen get their calls through with the least delay.

Yes, we're still asking you to keep Long Distance conversations brief. But it won't be for long. A thousand fingers of new telephone cable are stretching through the land . . . soon to bring better-than-ever Long Distance service to everybody.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Joe Lord Breaks Score Record for College

Ex-Bombardier Beats Duzminski's Record By Seven Points; Brehmer Second With 159

By DAN REDMOND

Although Villanova's basketball team didn't break any records this year, the Wildcats' Joe Lord garnered 303 points to surpass the college standard for one seaon, according to official figures released last week. The old mark of 296, held by George "Duke" Duzminski, was hung up during the 1937-38 season

Needing ten points to break Duzminski's record, the Norristown sharpshooter peppered the cords for 16 points in the final game against Albright. A twenty-one point spree against Muhlenberg four days prior to this made his task a little lighter than it would have been with an average performance. Lord's twenty-three game aggregate of 303 points gave him runner-up honors for the Philadelphia scoring title won by LaSalle's Bob Walters, the top scorer of the State.

Beats Duzminski by Seven

While Joe needed but twenty-three games to amass his record-smashing sum, Duzminski had a thirty-game schedule over which he spread his 296 point total. At the time, this latter figure was a Philadelphia District record, but, after standing for a few years, it was subsequently broken by two St. Joseph's scoring aces, Larry Kenny and All-American George Senesky.

Lord's consistent scoring efforts throughout the season may be evidenced by the fact that he was held to less than ten points on only six occasions. The ex-Army Air Force bombardier registered a high of twenty-four points against England General Hospital, while his low point performance amounted to twenty points less against Bucknell in the third game of the season. In the latter contest both his efficiency and playing time were lessened by a pair of bad feet. Incidentally, this was the only encounter in which he failed to chalk up eight points or better.

Comparing Joe's total with those of his teammates it may be noted that he just about doubled the productivity of each of the next three scorers, Joe Brehmer, Joe Hannan, and Ed Reybitz. The totals of the latter three, 159, 156, and 151, respectively, were very close together at the end of the schedule, but they were not that way throughout the season.

Brehmer Second

Brehmer, after a slow start, suddenly caught fire with ten games remaining. His great floor play and 12.4 scoring average over this period were greatly responsible for the 'Cats' five victories in their last six home games. His 27-point total against Scranton was the Wildcat one game high for the year.

Hannan was perhaps the most consistent of the trio. After a half dozen fair games "Toad" inaugurated a series of frequent visits to the double-figure bracket with a slambang 25-point scoring spree at Rhode Island State. After playing in eighteen contests and averaging 8.7 points, Joe was simultaneously greeted by Uncle Sam and bade farewell by Villanova.

Ed Reybitz gathered his 151-point total with a succession of unpredictable hot and cold performances. The big pivotman however, began a short but consistent scoring streak at the end of the season when he racked up 47 points in the last four engagements. Even though a few of his appearances were brief, he played in every game — a distinction which he shared with Lord. Bull Burr, diminutive forward and passer par excellence, also saw plenty of service, missing only the second game of the season.

Main Line League Star

Returning to Lord, this was Joe's third season under basketball mentor Al Severance. If present eligibility rules are maintained he will be eligible for court competition again next year. At present he is playing basketball with Norristown in the Main Line League, an amateur circuit. However, his talents are not limited to basketball. As soon as the call for infielders on the baseball nine is issued, Lord will be out at the keystone position that he held down prior to the war, trying to match his basketball brilliance on the diamond.

	Games	G.	F.	F.M.	T.
Lord	23	125	89	53	303
Brehmer	20	56	66	47	159
Hannan	18	63	45	30	156
Reybitz	23	55	80	41	151
Robertson	19	29	48	29	87
McDonnell	19	22	28	18	84
Doherty	14	30	18	10	70
Burr	22	14	37	11	39
Gonglefski	13	7	19	5	19
Rice	6	2	3	2	6
Kline	9	2	4	1	5
Fuglestad	8	0	3	1	1
Tone	2	0	1	0	0
Totals	23	416	441	248	1080
Opponents	23	463	417	231	1157

Cage Squad Picks All-Opponents

Four college court stars and one former service team player have been named on the all-opponent team selected by the Villanova College basketball squad, Richard Somers, team manager, announced today.

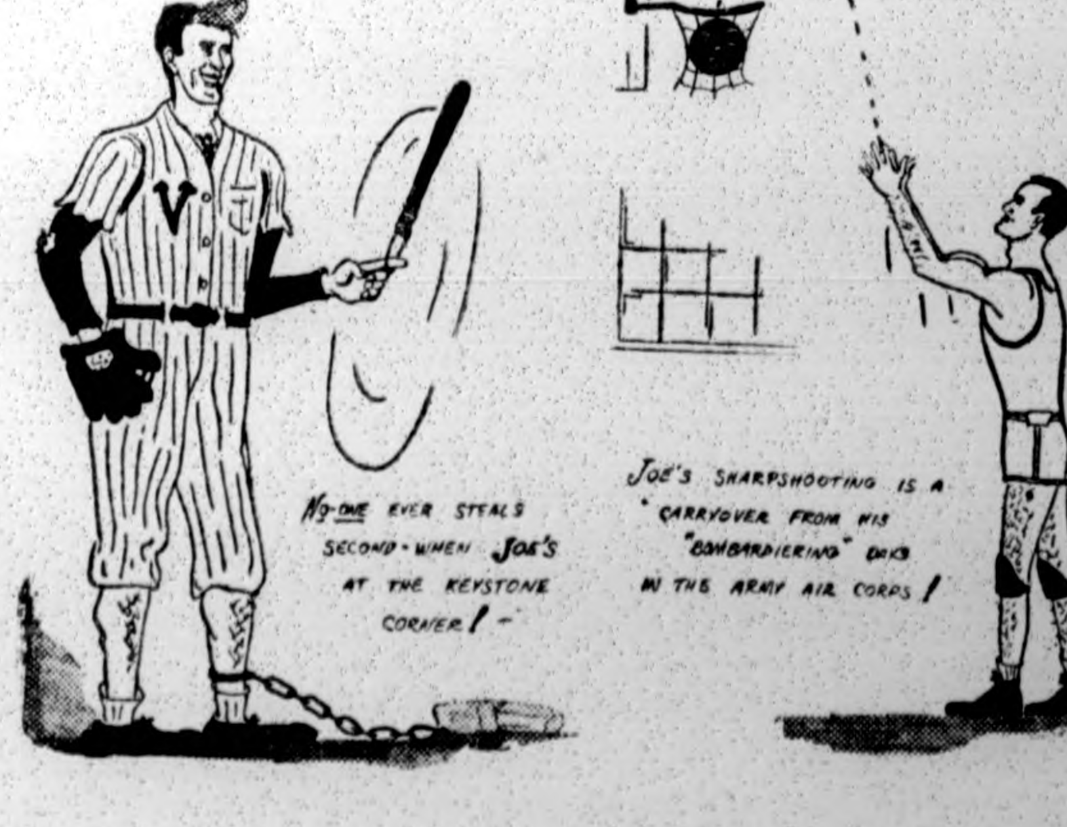
Players representing Yale, Syracuse, Rhode Island State and Muhlenberg led the collegiate group. Johnny Niemura, ex-Valley Forge General Hospital ace, got the nod as the lone service selection.

Niemura and Harry Donovan, Muhlenberg's star freshman player, were picked as forwards. The Wildcat squad members named Yale's Tony Lavelli, another yearling, as the unaimous choice for the center post. Lavelli scored 23 points against Villanova.

Ernie Calverly, brilliant Rhode Island State point-getter, and Ed Gabor, Syracuse, were named to the guard posts.

But the service teams did get the nod over the collegiate opposition in the second team selections. Bob Metcalf of Bainbridge, Dick Duden, Navy and Johnny Craddock, Valley Forge, all gained positions. Dick Duden, Navy, Carl Braun, Colgate and Red Baldwin, Muhlenberg, also were selected.

JOE LORD . . . . by Meyer



No-one ever steals second - when Joe's at the keystone corner! -
Joe's sharpshooting is a carryover from his "bombardiering" days in the army air corps!

Returned Vets

Familiar faces are reappearing on the campus these days as Villanova's war veterans, whose college careers were interrupted by service in the nation's armed forces, are returning once more to complete their education. Among these is Johnny DiCarlo one of the Blue and White's greatest track stars.

Early in his freshman year Johnny exhibited the qualities of a great runner and was soon averaging twenty points per meet. Running in national competition in the Penn Relays of 1941 he placed second in the 400 meter hurdle, an event in which he had never participated. Later in this season he won the Junior National 400 meter championship, in less time than the senior event was won. Through a mistake he was not entered in the senior event.

JOHN DiCARLO

Upon entering his senior year, John found himself coach, captain, and member of the track team; a singular achievement we venture has never happened before in college track circles.

On February 23, 1943 John DiCarlo's college career was interrupted by a call to active duty. Having received his pilot's license at Villanova he enlisted in the Air Corps as a cadet. However this was in no way the end of John's track career for he coached and ran on two cadet teams, both of which were winners.

Later he went to gunnery school and while on the Lowry Field team he participated in the Rocky Mountain national A.A.U. competition winning the quarter mile event in 50.6 seconds. Qualified as a physical training instructor, Johnny served in that capacity at various times.

Last Summer, while awaiting orders to go overseas as a central fire control gunner, Victory came for the allies and John's orders were cancelled.

Discharged from the army on February 27 of this year, John is now back at Villanova and, although now a married man, he intends to carry on his track activities and undoubtedly will hit the national spot light again. After graduation in June he plans to complete his studies at the University of Pennsylvania Law School.

Newsmen Return

Continued From Page Four

the sting of his pen time and again.

Harry Binder, the other half of the Reardon-Binder combination, whipped into school for the present semester close on the heels of Ed. In pre-war days one was never seen without the other. It's a welcome sight to see them ambling up from C and F again after three years absence.

Devine Returns

Bill Devine completes the quartet for today. Bill served for two years on the staff and pulled up stakes in '43 in answer to his service call. He's back now and looks none the worse for the extensive wear.

Again the Villanovan welcomes their former staff members and looks forward to many more of them in subsequent semesters.

Spring Practice Finds Cats' Baseball Outlook Promising

Weinert Pleased With Large Turnout and Array Of Talent

Yesterday Villanova's prospective varsity baseball players went through their first paces. The pitchers and catchers had been out for a week loosening kinks in their baseball wings, but yesterday the whole crew turned out to inaugurate another season of the grand old American game.

The squad composed of both old and new, servicemen and civilians, met their new coach, Mr. Phil 'Lefty' Weinert. The drills held were primarily loosening up exercises to condition the men for the grueling training period ahead.

Five From Last Year's Team

Among familiar faces there, was Dave Marano, the smooth and sparkling third baseman from the '45 team who rapped out the apple to the tune of .394 last year. Don Boos, Dave's running mate down on second base, now boasts a discharge, and would be mighty welcome if he can return to his '45 ability at the keystone sack. Ike Eisenhardt, first string catcher of '45, still looks at that short right field and wonders what he'll do to it with his powerful lefthand swing this year. Emil J. "Bull" Matas, a hurler who in his time has seen service with the world famous House of David team, was likewise on hand and hoping his arm will come through this year. "Bull" was hampered all through last year's season by sore arm trouble. Paul Wiedenhaefer constitutes the last of these men and should be plenty useful in the receiving department this year.

One man prominently missing was Dick Naslund, side arm hurler and bell-cow of last year's mound corps. Dick has since been discharged and is living in Wisconsin.

Passing Parade

Continued From Page Five

nova will put many fine athletes on the field of play this year, something more is needed. Every team needs and deserves the backing and the traditional school spirit of the Villanova Way. Let's make this a two-sided affair, follow and support the fellows who are representing you and your school in Collegiate sports.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Dick Gray, former varsity basketball captain here, has been playing basketball with the Trenton Tigers in the American professional Loop. Gray, recently discharged from the service, will be remembered by all Villanova fans who saw his flashy play on the court here. Before entering the service, Dick was coaching Trenton Catholic High School's court five.

• • •

Nick Etten, another Wildcat baseball great, will have his hands full fighting for his first base job with the New York Yankees this year. Nick has to contend with Johnny Sturm and Buddy Hassett, who are both now out of the service and are vying for their old position.

• • •

Hank Ward, Sports Editor of last semester, after an eleven day leave reports to Memphis Naval Air Station, in Tennessee, where he will take up studies in Pre-Flight School there. Hank, before his transfer, had been Sports Editor since August of 1945.

* * *

Jerry DeMuro, first string center on the Villanova 1945 eleven, entered the United States Army last week. Jerry played bang-up football throughout last season and the team will really miss this smooth pivot man. Best of luck wherever you may go, Jerry!

• • •

Keen Reeher, basketballer with Al Severance's 1944-45 combine, has returned to the campus to resume studies after his discharge from the Navy. Ken, who hails from Sharon, Pa., left here in 1945, received his commission in the USNR and, after spending time at sea, was discharged this Winter.

• • •

Alex Colman, guard on the 1944 edition of the Wildcat football team, has likewise returned for continuation of his studies. Al was stationed here in the Marine V-12 Program and since then has received his Honorable discharge much to the delight of Ollie.

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS

Pvt. Joseph Brehmer, U. S. Merines. Joseph hails from East St. Louis, Missouri, where he has resided for some twenty years. (Seems he is a little shy when pinned down to the exact number). In high school (E. St. Louis Catholic) he was a three letter man, participating in football, basketball, and baseball.

Mr. Brehmer donned his Marine uniform after receiving a letter from his Draft Board with the customary greetings. This event took place in October, 1942 when he became a member of the Reserves.

California beauty and ideal weather were enjoyed as Joe took his boot training at San Diego. He played with the Base team which won the Naval District Basketball Championship.

Next stop on Pvt. Brehmer's itinerary was Camp LeJeune, North Carolina. Main purpose of this stop was Radar School. As a sideline he played on the Camp basketball team which ended its season with a record of 21 and 4, good enough to win the Southern Service Championship. During the spring, Joe played with the Signal Battalion baseball team as the Camp did not have an official team.

Villanova welcomed Joe in July, 1945. By putting on a late season spurt he was able to finish the season with 159 points to place second to Joe Lord for individual scoring honors. At present you can find him practicing with the baseball team on which he is a candidate for the catcher berth.

PVT. JOE BREHMER

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE
Longines

THE OBSERVER

By LOU DiGIACOMO and MILT CLIMATI

With the advent of a new semester we bring you an entirely new gossip column. The purpose of this column is to keep the student body informed as to the activities of their fellow students and the nearby colleges (especially the feminine institutions). It will be our policy to bring the news as we see and hear it. So beware, Now we come to the goings on of the last two weeks.

ODDS 'N ENDS:

The D.P.E. Dinner Dance was a great success. The food was good and everyone had a swell time . . . Speaking of the Dinner Dance where was Bob Manske all night? . . . Is Jack Devine becoming a bookworm? He's been visiting the University of Pennsylvania Library very frequently in the last few weeks. However, the attraction could be a little number by the name of Celine . . . We all feel sorry for Ed Peterson of Alumni Hall. Maybe "Miss Philadelphia" won't let you down. Anyway, "we soldier so." . . . It's rumored about that Joe Sweeney of Simpson Hall is renewing his "friendship" with Lennie . . . John Burke of O'Dwyer Hall is going to have a tough time getting transportation now that Rick Frey has graduated . . . Warning to pedestrians: Arnold Keene has just gotten his driver's license . . . Certain parties around the campus have been asking why Jack (get that yearbook out!) Selfridge was not in attendance at the last Misericordia Hospital Dance . . . So-o, like the good little boys that we are, we did a little snooping on our own, and came up with the startling information that Nursie and he had a little misunderstanding . . . (We hope it's not permanent) . . . The new love of Jack Wagner's life is a certain girl named Helen, and to prove his fond affections, Jackie boy has adorned his desk with her lovely (he says) picture . . . John Ciotola and his little shadow Bill Ferguson are now looking around for a new place to call home, since their old abode up the line became unpopular. Have any ideas? . . . They would appreciate them if you do . . .

With the departure of (Senator) Murray, we are wondering who George O'Neil of Simpson Hall will get to be his his partner now . . . Ed Keller's car sounds so much like a speed boat that he is thinking of launching it any day now . . . Tom Scanlon of Alumni Hall is having head nurse trouble. Every Saturday night he can be seen slinking out of Misericordia Hospital . . . Congratulations to Arthur Masiello of Mendel Hall on his engagement. He writes a charming letter to his fiancee daily . . . Hal Varani has been regularly visiting a little hamlet in Philly known as the "Grotto." . . . Joe Brogan and John Martin attended the Immaculata-Penn basketball game. It must have been Joe's presence that caused his date to score 25 points . . . After five semesters of chemistry Ray Stone still can't boil water without having it spout all over the lab . . . Bernie Crumb of O'Dwyer Hall is still going strong with Betty Doyle of Penfield . . . We understand that Dave Ryan and Bill Altenpohl had dates with two lovely ditties in Washington.

ATTENTION IMMACULATA COLLEGE. Eddie Narcum has returned to Villanova . . . For the first time since the beginning of the war there were more fellows than girls at the Rosemont Tea Dance . . . Flavia of Rosemont seems to have become quite popular with many of the Villanova boys. Competition is becoming keener and keener.

VACATION NEWS: We hear that Paul O'Brien of Alumni Hall returned rather late from a terrific party in Long Island . . . It was reported to us that Bill Brennan of Simpson Hall was parked on the Inlet in Atlantic City. Get this; He said he was watching "submarines." It's possible, but not probable . . . Bill Koerner of Delury Hall seems to have returned to Villanova a day earlier in vain. "Miss Devon" already had a date.

PROFS AND PREFECTS: What is this we hear about Fr. Grimes' mal-treating Augie, his canary? Canaries weren't meant to be sparring partners . . . The semester is new, but Fr. Hammond's jokes are still the same . . . It seems that Fr. Touhey is having trouble with long distance telephone calls over in O'Dwyer Hall . . . The fire escapes of Alumni Hall are proving to be quite a headache to Fr. Hannan . . . It was a wonderful sight to see Mr. Dougherty waltzing around with Mrs. Dougherty at the D.P.E. Dinner Dance . . . Fr. Krupa's demonstration of proper posture for public speaking almost ended in a calamity when he took one backward step too many from the top of a desk on which he was standing.

So until next week we leave you with this financial prophecy: When better money is made the College student will write home for it.

Dr. Haenisch

Continued From Page Four

tific development of atomic energy and explained further that this development made possible the evolution of the atomic bomb. At this juncture in the discussion Dr. Haenisch explained the scientific mode of operation of the atom bomb. His step by step explanation of the process gave a clear depiction of the reactions that take place in the bomb.

No Real Secret

Dr. Haenisch then expressed the opinion that there was no real secret as to how the bomb operates. One of the main points stressed was that the key to the bomb lay in the country having the industrial capacity to build this weapon. It was further explained that the United States excels in this important capacity, but that continuous experimentation is necessary to keep us in this position. On this point the doctor did not stress international complications.

Peacetime Uses

The next point discussed was the possible peace time uses of atomic energy. Dr. Haenisch expressed the opinion that Atomic Energy would not be used as a fuel for automobiles or on the railroads, because of the great need of experimentation in this particular field.

The lecture was well attended by the Science Forum; the faculty and student body attended as guests.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Rifle Team Wins

On 16th of February the Rifle Team of the Villanova NROTC Unit scored a resounding victory over ROTC rifle teams from the University of Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania State University. This took place at a rifle competition held in the Rifle Range of the Marine Barracks at the Philadelphia Naval Base. The team's reward will be a trophy offered by the Commandant of the Fourth Naval District, which will be presented to the team soon by Captain Thomas.

Credit To Williams

The six man team composed of Apprentice Seamen Yates, coach, Starer, Captain, Wineman, Syvertson, Farnsworth, Madara, plus an alternate, Greenberg, had but four weeks to train for the tourney. The team entered the competition, part of a NROTC Tournament, as the "Dark Horse" and were highly elated at winning.

The score was as follows: Villanova—1352; Pennsylvania State—1329; and the University of Pennsylvania—1208.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5¢ a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Three

alternated at quarter and right half his first year and settled down to the right half slot his second year on the team.

In May of 1944, as to all men, the Navy came to Joe. After completing boot training he was assigned to radio technicians school in Washington, D. C. In January of 1945 Joe returned to civilian life.

At that time he took over his father's business and stayed there until September of 1945 when he re-entered school to finish his work for a degree.

Married!

Last October 8th Joe took that long walk and emerged a happily married man.

As for activities, Joe doesn't have to doff his hat to anyone. He was president of the ASCE in 1943 and 1944.

He was a member of the orientation committee last semester and a four year member of Phi Kappa Pi. In 1944 Joe was a member of the senior dance committee.

Joe leaves school with his Bachelor of Civil Engineering degree in June and at that time expects to rejoin his father and go in the contracting business.

Graduation

Continued From Page One

minican House at Cambridge University.

Commencement Marks 103rd Year

Father Gilby, serving with the Battle Cruiser Squadron "H" of the Royal Navy, saw a great deal of action. This squadron, one of the most famous in the English Navy, included H.M. Ships Renown and Ark Royal, saw action in the Mediterranean and later the Arctic Ocean. In 1943 the English Chaplain was attached to the Royal Marine Landing Group in the Sicilian and Italian invasions. As a clergyman Father Gilby is known as a lecturer, author, and editor and at present is acting editor of the English Dominican review "Blackfriar." He is best known for his work on the publications "Poetic Experience" and "Morals and Marriage."

This commencement exercise marked the 103rd year in the history of the college.

Dave Ryan

Continued From Page One

Quaker City. His next occupational venture brought him into the newspaper business, which has been his first love ever since. For a while he was employed by the Philadelphia Bulletin as an assistant in the picture department. At a later date he was associated with the Philadelphia Record and Inquirer as a correspondent covering collegiate baseball and scholastic football games in the Philadelphia area. Dave is still connected with the two papers as a correspondent but has been on inactive status for about the past year. During the 1945 football season, Ryan found time to act as a line coach with the football squad at his alma mater, Malvern Prep.

Pres. Address

Continued From Page One

ans: "Do your best to get the best out of your education—both academically and morally." Father reminded the students that it would take a lot of patience to fall into the flow of eager study.

The talk was concluded with the reminder that no student ever successfully graduated from Villanova without the help of God.

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
The Campus Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

NROTC Cruse

Continued From Page Four

afternoon was spent by the anti-aircraft batteries tracking planes from the Norfolk Naval Air Station.

Fired Main Batteries

The ship got underway Thursday at 0600 for the operating area where a radar equipped target was launched. The main battery guns 6 inches bag type guns, were fired in the forenoon. The secondary Battery, 5 inch semi-fixed ammunition type guns, and the anti-aircraft batteries, 40 mm and 20 mm guns were fired in the afternoon. At dusk the ship was anchored in the operational area. 0600 Friday saw the ship once more under way, heading north along the coast.. By 0900 the ship got up full steam and this full run lasted for about five hours. The speed at which the ship traveled during this run was 32.5 knots. This high speed afforded ample oportunity to test the sea-worthiness of both the legs and the stomachs of all hands. By evening the ship was once again off the Delaware Capes and here was anchored for the night.

Delayed By Fog

Saturday was the most anxiously awaited day of the week for the ship expected to dock at the Navy Base at 1415. However due to a very dense fog, which rendered movements up the river very dangerous it was decided not to get under way until 1230. This trip up the Delaware was made at a rather slow speed since visibility was definitely impaired by the fog. At 1800 the ship was met by two Navy tugs and was guided by these into her berth at the base. At 1900 the trainees disembarked, boarded chartered buses and headed for Villanova and a week end liberty.

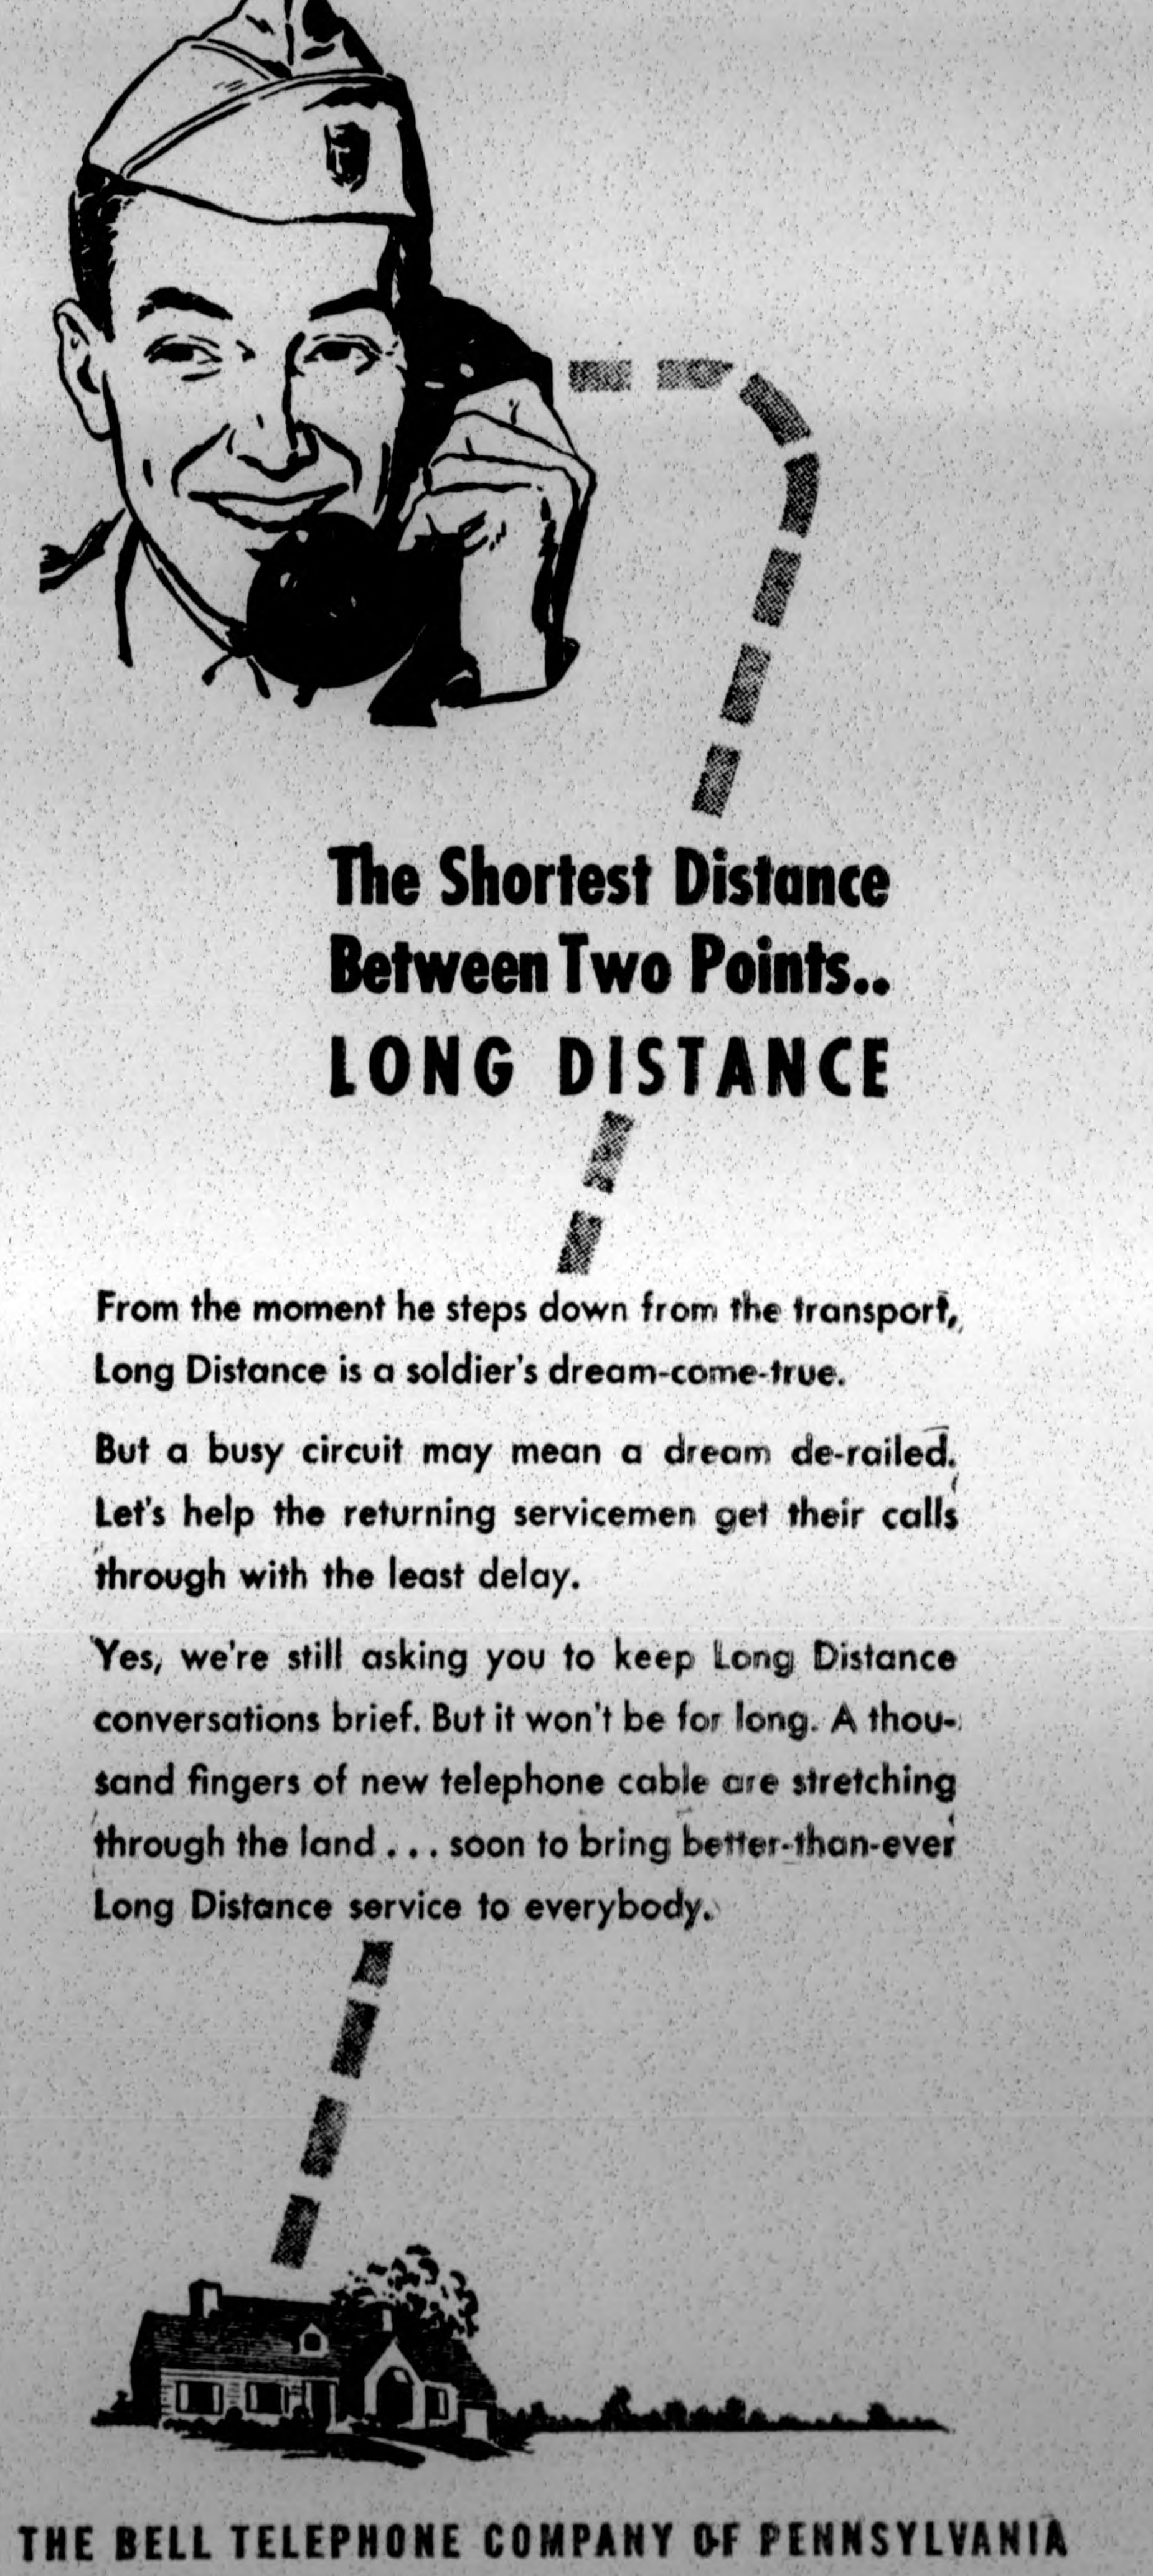
Enrollment Of College Reaches Thousand Mark

Veterans Make Up The Largest Group; Engineering School Leads Other Departments

Villanova College is starting the spring semester with the largest enrollment in its history, according to the Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., in his Monday morning press release. "The student body has reached the unprecedented number of 1075 men, an increase of 25% over last semester," said Vice-President Fr. McKee. The bulk of the students are veterans, with 600 returned G.I.'s on the campus as compared with 200 last term.

The service is still represented at the college by 225 NROTC and Marine Officer Candidates. Broken down into separate schools, the figures show that Engineering leads that field with 500 men, of which forty percent are mechanical engineers. Commerce and Finance follows with 300 students and Science per usual, trails the field with

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570



The Shortest Distance Between Two Points..
LONG DISTANCE

From the moment he steps down from the transport, Long Distance is a soldier's dream-come-true.

But a busy circuit may mean a dream de-railed. Let's help the returning servicemen get their calls through with the least delay.

Yes, we're still asking you to keep Long Distance conversations brief. But it won't be for long. A thousand fingers of new telephone cable are stretching through the land . . . soon to bring better-than-ever Long Distance service to everybody.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Inter-Frat Ball Plans Completed

Elliot Lawrence and Band Return To Campus By Popular Demand

On April 27th the Villanova social season will reopen with the presentation of the Inter-fraternity Ball, the second since its inauguration in 1944. It is to be sponsored by the Delta Pi Epsilon and Phi Kappa Pi fraternities under the direction of co-chairman Steve Gasparovic and Ed Keller. These men will be assisted by six joint committees from the two societies. The Fieldhouse will again be the setting for the dance which will feature that keyboard maestro, Elliot Lawrence, and his orchestra.

ELLIOT LAWRENCE

Tickets have gone on sale at $3.00 a couple and may be obtained from the ticket committee, composed of Thomas Ward, James Lyons, Roland Higgs, William Thompson, David Ryan, Bernard Borschke, Richard Somers and William Monagle.

As many realize, campus social activities during the war were curtailed almost to the extent of nonexistence because of the greatly reduced student body and an accelerated study program. Consequently, the normal receptive attitude toward such affairs weakened considerably.

Lawrence Gathers Honors

Elliot Lawrence, a not too long ago past graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, there achieved musical honors, led the band, sang in the Glee Club, and took part in Mask and Whig productions. His composing, arranging, and piano talents brought him under the influence of such greats as Benny Goodman, Raymond Scott, and Lean Brazin, conductor of the National Orchestra Association. Among his band personnel are men who have played with such names as Miller, Goodman, Barnet, and Lyman. The recond he established at the Belle Air Ball in January bears strong evidence as to his popularity at Villanova. Lawrence's two vocalists, Jack Hunter and Rosalind Patton, both war veterans, are two up and coming stars in the singing field. The next issue of the Villanovan will deal more explicitly with these people along with further information as to the dance.

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

ed from school one day very dejectedly and told his mother he didn't wish to go back.

"Ain't going back tomorrow," he told his mother.

"Why not, dear?

"Well, I can't read, 'n' I can't write, 'n' they won't let me talk — s what's the use?"

—Varsity News,
University of Detroit.

Last month's registration for upperclassmen at Manhattan College saw the return of about 200 veterans and, at the same time, some 260 new Frosh of whom approximately 150 are honorably discharged veterans began their college careers, according to the Manhattan Quadrangle, college paper for the New York institution. The enrollment has soared to 900 students and is expected to reach about 1,000 students before the registration period is over, the college tabloid said.

This about concludes what is new at other colleges and universities so until the next issue I leave you with this thought—Don't believe every thing you read in the newspapers.

Debating Group

Continued From Page Four

be successful, but they laid the groundwork for the present spring semester.

Debates Preparing

Already these ROTCs which include Al Rothwell, Jeffry Warren, Bob Grodinsky and Tom Swan, are preparing debates on military conscription; and the desirability of free trade without tariff barriers, monetary blocks, or high international interest rates.

ICE Aristocrat CREAM

PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Men's Clothes

Made-to-Measure

COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.

57th & MARKET STS.

Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M.
Daily; Except Wednesdays and
Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.

Suits & Topcoats

$29.75

Friendly refreshment
DRINK Coca-Cola
© 1946 The C-C Co.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

A Brilliant Combination
My best wishes Perry Como
Sincerely Jo Stafford

LISTEN TO THE
Chesterfield Supper Club
5 Nights a Week... all NBC Stations
7 P. M. KYW

Chesterfield CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING

THE RIGHT COMBINATION OF THE WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS

Free — Send a post card for large portraits of Perry Como and Jo Stafford. Address: Chesterfield Studio, Box 21, New York 8, N. Y.

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

College Tailor

Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.

2 ARTHUR ROAD

Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266

We do adjustments the way you want them.

Work and Service—Good

Prices Reasonable

For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Vol 21 No 2 =

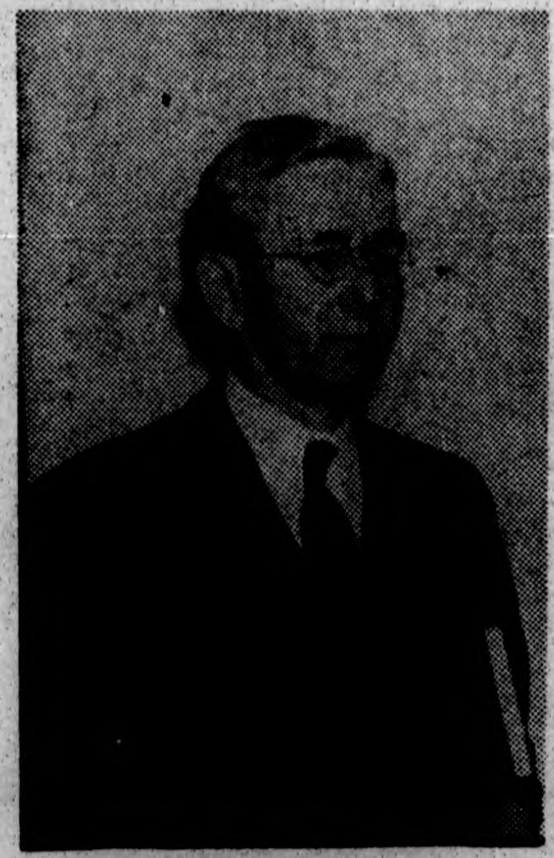
Vol. 20—No. 26 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MARCH 19, 1946

Three Professors Added To Faculty To Bolster Staff For Coming Term

Villanova College Departments of Engineering, Chemistry And Commerce Gain Experienced Instructors

The chemistry department of Villanova has lost Rev. Joseph Paquette, O.S.A., who has left the campus for a vacation from his teaching duties. Replacing Father Paquette in this department is a new professor, Doctor George Norman Quam.

Doctor Quam retired from the faculty of Long Island University to take up his new position at Villanova. He received his undergraduate training at the State Normal School at Aberdine, South Dakota, University of Minnesota and the University of South Dakota where he received his Bachelor's degree.



MR. GEORGE QUAM

MS From Wisconsin

Doctor Quam's vast experience in Chemistry began when he accepted a position as a teacher of high school Chemistry, Physics and mathematics. After the first world war had succeeded in disrupting his further education, he returned to the University of Wisconsin and there received his MS in Chemistry. He received his Doctor's degree in 1924 from Iowa State College.

After receiving his Ph.D. Doctor Quam taught General, Analytical and Organic Chemistry. He later took up new duties at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa and was granted an Honorarium by the state to the University of Iowa.

Taught At L. I. U.

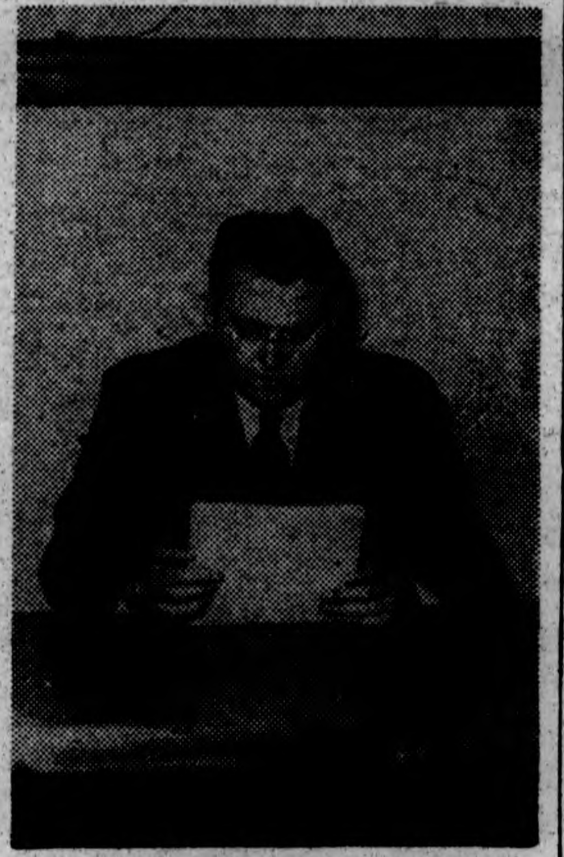
In 1929 Doctor Quam was placed in charge of General Chemistry and Advanced Organic Chemistry at Long Island University. In 1943 he was active in the organization of educational directives for the Army Specialized Training Program in addition to his teaching duties at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn.

MR. JEROME STEFFENS

Another new addition to the engineering faculty in the school of Mechanical Engineering, is Jerome Steffens. Mr. Steffens was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Aeronautical Engineering from the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C. in May, 1944. He acted as a designer of helicopters for the United States Army Air Forces during the war. He is a member of the ASME, and plans to take his Masters Degree in either mathematics or Mechanical Engineering.

Former Student

A new instructor in the Accounting department of the School of Commerce and Finance is Mr. Joseph J. Linsalata. Mr. Linsalata is a graduate of the School of Commerce and Finance of Villanova College. He studied accounting under Professor Shaeffer, associate professor of Business Administration. Mr. Linsalata is a Certified Public Accountant and has had quite a bit of experience in this field, having worked for eight years for two Philadelphia firms.



MR. JOSEPH LINSALATA

During his student days at Villanova Mr. Linsalata was associate editor of the Belle Air staff, a member of the Villanovan staff, manager of the swimming team, a member of the Dramatics and Spanish Clubs.

Cultural Group

Inter-racial Commission Hold Forum With Other Colleges

The Intercollegiate Interracial Commission held its first meeting since January, Sunday, March 10, in the Faculty Room at Mendel Hall.

Miss Elizabeth Lowe of Rosemont College, presided over the meeting at which plans for reorganizing these clubs in the different colleges were discussed. Representatives from Rosemont, LaSalle, and Villanova were present.

At a meeting called by Fr. Lunney, O.S.A., John P. Mallick was elected Acting Chairman, and William H. Diana Acting Seecretary.

Plans Discussed

Plans were discussed for a reorganization meeting which will be held some time next week. The object of this group is to discuss the current racial problem and to spread the Christian ideal of love of neighbor to all students by means of Forums with other colleges. Anyone wishing to join this club who cannot attend this meeting may contact either Fr. Lunney or John P. Mallick.

On Friday, March 22, there will be a meeting of representatives of all colleges in the district at LaSalle College. The purpose of this meeting is to elect officers for the district.

DPE Plans Smoker After Initiation

New Officers Installed In Commerce and Finance Frat

Louis J. DiGiacomo and Richard E. Somers respectively were recently elected to fill the vacated positions of president and vice president of the Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity. They will hold their posts, along with the other executive members of the organization, until the end of the present semester.

The vacancies in these positions were created when Robert Conway graduated and Gerard DeMuro was inducted into the Army. Conway had been president, and DeMuro vice president.

Activities Planned

At the frat's meeting last Friday a general outlay of activities and work for the semester was presented by President DiGiacomo and voted upon by the attending members.

First on the agenda was the matter of initiations. It was decided that Delta Pi will hold two initiations; one directly after Lent and the second one at the end of May.

Initiations

The purposes of these two initiations is to allow pledgees to become full-fledged members of the frat as soon as their probationship is finished. The time of probationship is three months. At present there is only one group of pledgees awaiting admittance, but there will be another group formed as soon as all the recently enrolled Commerce and Finance students, who wish to join, file application.

The annual fraternity smoker has been scheduled for the night of the first initiation. This affair will probably be held in the Blue Room of the gym although at present this is not definite.

Volunteer Committee

A committee of volunteers was approved by the frat to care for both the initiation and smoker. This group is composed of five men with Peter Pallitto acting as chairman.

Two other committees were selected to perform duties which a majority of the members consider imperative if the organization is to continue its rise from its wartime moribund state.

Guest Speakers

Two men were selected to secure guest speakers who will lecture to the fraternity at future meetings.

D.P.E. SMOKER
Continued on Page Seven

Student Council Reconvenes

The Student Council will hold its first meeting of the new semester Thursday, March 21. This term the Council has decided on a new policy, the purpose of which is to insure the Council members' reflection of the opinion of the group which they represent.

In pursuance thereof, that organization herewith presents its agenda for the coming meeting.

Resolutions on which to be voted:

1—Elections of all Council members.

2—Resumption of all the 150-lb. football teams.

3—Use of field house for all students.

If you, the students, wish to present an opinion on these proposals, see your Council representative.

Members and the group they represent:

Joe Hoffman, Senior Class.
Harold Varani, Mendel Hall Day Hops.
Harry Edwards, Junior Class.
R. Leo Welsh, Villanovan.
Larry Fallon, Phi Kappa Pi.
Dante Orazi, Sophmores.
John Selfridge, Year Book.
Q. Montonario, Delta Pi Epsilon.
James Bonner, Senior Class.
Don Collins, Junior Class
William Altenpohl, Junior Class.
William Koerner, Senior Class.
Ed. Keller, C. & F. Day Hops.
Joseph Brogan, Junior Class.

July 1st Terminates Navy, Marine Training Program

Release From Bureau of Naval Personnel Explains Position of Marine and Navy Trainees After Current Semester

By J. EDWARD WHITE

Recently the Navy Department through the Bureau of Naval Personnel put forth the latest administrative information concerning the disposition of the trainees of the various classifications: N.R.O.T.C., V-12, V-5 and Marine. Navy V-12 Bulletins numbered 352 and 353 contain this information and is essentially the following:

Termination Of V-12

Operation of the V-12 Program on the present basis will terminate on 1 July 1946. The NROTC will continue, however, in the fifty-two colleges and universities where it is now established, on a basis which will be determined by legislation now pending in Congress. Future disposition of trainees classified V-5 who are now in the V-12 Program will be the subject of administrative correspondence from the Navy Department.

V-12 Disposition

V-12 Engineers, physics majors and aerology majors completing training on or about 1 July 1946, who desire transfer to the Regular Navy will, if qualified, be commissioned Ensigns, USNR and remain on active duty. Others of this group who desire active duty may request it and will be ordered to active duty if the Navy can usefully instruct or employ the applicant.

Disposition Of NROTC

NROTC trainees completing seven or eight semesters of College, or equivalent quarters, may be recommended to the Bureau of Naval Personnel for commissions. Approval of commissions for trainees completing seven terms will be based on the following general conditions:

1. Completing of the requirements for a degree.

2. Completion of 120 or more credit hours of academic work, including 24 hours of Naval Science.

Trainees of this classification who desire transfer to the Regular Navy will, if fully qualified, be commissioned Ensigns in the Naval Reserve and remain on active duty. Others who desire active duty may request it and will be ordered to active duty if the Navy can usefully instruct or employ them. Any trainee completing seven terms on or about 1 July 1946 who desires not to accept a commission at that time, however, but to continue in the NROTC for an additional term before commissioning will be placed on inactive duty or discharged in order that he may complete his NROTC training on the new peacetime basis.

Other trainees enrolled in the NROTC will be given, on termination of active V-12 training on or about 1 July 1946, the following options:

Legislation Pending

1. Continuation of their enrollment in NROTC on a peacetime basis. Legislation now pending will establish a new peacetime plan. If enacted, this legislation will provide payment of tuition, $50.00 a month and uniform. Trainees who retain their enrollment in the

NAVY STORY
Continued on Page Eight

Fr. Joseph Paquette On Leave Of Absence From The College

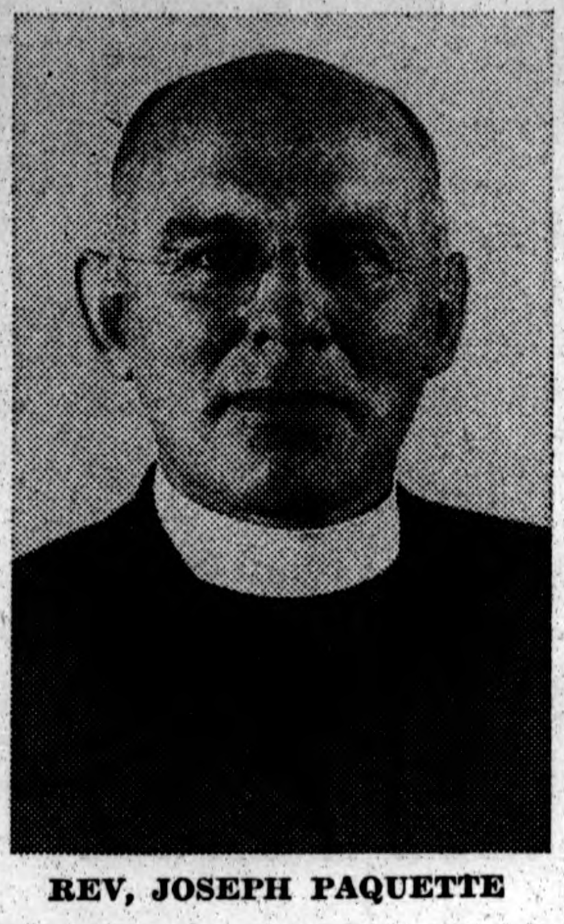
Rev. Joseph W. Paquette, O.S.A., Assistant Professor in Chemistry and Chemical Engineering, left Villanova last week on a leave of absence from the college. He will report to the Province of Our Mother of Good Counsel of the Augustinian Order. This Province includes the mid-Western houses of the Order, and its headquarters are in Detroit, Michigan.

Taught At Malvern

Fr. Paquette came to Villanova ten years ago, in 1936, after a three year stay at Malvern Preparatory School. During his stay at Villanova, Fr. Paquette completed his studies for a Master's degree from the Massachusetts Institute in Technology. He received his M.S. degree in 1941. In that year he was also elected in the honor society, Sigma Xi, joining the M. I. T. Chapter.

Born in Boston, Massachusetts in 1895, Fr. Paquette was received into the Augustinian Order in 1917.

Leaves Campus



REV, JOSEPH PAQUETTE

He graduated from Villanova in 1920 and was ordained to the Sacred Priesthood in 1923. The following year he received the degree Master of Arts from Catholic University of America, majoring in Chemistry. After a brief stay at St. John's Parish in Schaghticoke, New York, Fr. Paquette spent his time in education, teaching in high schools in San Diego, California; Ojai, California; Aurora, illinois, where he spent six years; and Malvern Prep, in Malvern, Pa.

Raymond W. Richardson Chosen President Of ASME Of Villanova

The Villanova branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers held their first meeting of the current semester last Wednesday to make plans for the coming year.

Raymond W. Richardson, A.S., the newly elected president, presided.

Members were told of a proposed trip to Pratt Institute in New York to attend a district meeting of the collegiate branches of the ASME.

LENTEN SCHEDULE

Residents

Daily Mass: 7:00, 7:30 and 8:00 A. M.

Confessions during all Masses

Monday evening: Benediction

Tuesday evening: Stations of the cross

Wednesday evening: Sermon and Confessions

Thursday evening: Benediction

Day Students

Daily Mass: 8:00 A. M.

Wednesday at 1:20 P. M.: Benediction followed by Confessions

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47	Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48	Managing Editor
MATTHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC	Sports Feature Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47	Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46	Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48	Picture Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46	Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48	Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Arthur R. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
Herman J. Diesel, '50
J. Edward White, NROTC
Donald Fox, '50
James G. Mudd, '50
David I. Ryan, '48

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Clemati, '49
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
Joseph Braezler, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Francis Linsulata, '49
Roland Higgs, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Charles J. McCarthy, '49

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office Decembe 17, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - MARCH 19, 1946

Commentators' War

RECENTLY, some of America's better-known news commentators have become quite disturbed over Russia's actions in the East. These men have even gone so far as to predict a third world war in three to four months. When the facts behind these news stories originating from our Eastern correspondents are analyzed, the prospect of another world conflagration in the near future is very poor indeed.

In the first instance, though it is known that Russia has twelve million men under arms at the present time, it is also known that the Soviet has been very greatly weakened industrially by participation in the recent war. She, like the rest of the countries who fought the horrible battle, has neither the energy nor the materials to carry on another large-scale war.

In the second instance, we must realize, that, as after the first world war, the nations who participated in the conflict are again setting up spheres of influence to protect their interests in various regions. This seems only natural since the nations of the world have not yet realized the foolhardiness of such operations. Russia's actions in the East, particularly with respect to Iran and Turkey, are no more than "scare policies" instituted by the "Communists" to create a disruption in the organization and efficiency of the governments existing in those countries in order to permit left wing groups to seize power and to create situations more favorable for dealings with the Soviet. Of course, such actions can readily be seen to be direct parallels to England's own colonial policies. Hence, there is no reason whatsoever why that nation should be creating such a furor at seeing her own policies in use, except for the fact that these policies are rapidly backfiring, cutting England out of control in the East. This, no doubt, is the very reason why Mr. Churchill has recently advocated an Anglo-American alliance.

It is quite safe to predict that there will be no third world war for at least a few more years. This is just a building-up process, so to speak; the foundation stone for our next war. It is very true that the setting up of spheres of influence will undoubtedly lead us to our next war. However there is no reason at the present date for such wild speculations as we have recently heard from such men as Walter Winchell and Drew Pearson.

Our future war is now in the making, and it seems that there will be nothing done unless the members of the World Security Council awaken from the cradle of greed and distrust in which they are sleeping, and cry out for unity and harmony to save humanity.

Plastic Diplomacy

WHENEVER we consider the advisability of a plan or of an existing condition we should, of course, refer both to the morality and to the expediency of the proposition. Oftentimes, however, when we view the long-range effects of a proposal or a position we find that good ethics lead to the most propitious outcome.

This editorial is based upon the application of the above principles, but before we attempt our thesis we would like to introduce an analagous, though simplified, situation.

Fifteen years ago we built a home in the outskirts of Philadelphia which we believed would stand the test of many years.

In six months large cracks appeared along the cellar walls, in two years it had to be replaced. Despite the use of the finest of materials this structure crumbled before three years had elapsed. A third wall was proposed, but an engineer took the situation in hand and found the root of the difficulty. The cause of our trouble lay in the poor drainage of the land on which the house was built. When that factor was corrected, the wall was again erected and from that time on the results were all we had hoped for.

The House We Live In

The world we live in has a crumbling wall, but unsightly and unscientific and unreasoned patches maintain its structure for longer time periods. Then, despite slabs of plastic diplomacy, power politics shoring, and alliance glue, the edifice crashes down, killing or crushing its occupants, smashing and burying its storerooms, rendering the living homeless or insecure.

If we were ants who lived in a colony beneath this wall, it wouldn't matter much if we were crushed by the plaster, indeed it would be inevitable. The point remains however, that we are men. We own this house and this wall and we can reason our way to a staunch and time-defying solution.

What were the causes of the World War? An archduke being shot, a tank crossing the Polish border, a bomb on a Pearl Harbor battleship? Actually, but not really. Was it then an expansionist doctrine promulgated and prompted by mad dictators and international bankers? Really, but not fundamentally. We all can see that the overt acts which opened war were caused by more general forces but peeled the lid from these general forces.

Geosociology

What's here is fundamental, men's faces blur and their names fade; units and these units' needs stand in their places. This is a foreign, abstract and yet simple world. It is the province of a philosopher. Psychology, economics, geography, history and geneology convert the problems into compatible units. Understanding this world with a view to control it would be called geopolitics; understanding it with a view to correct it would be geosociology.

Japan attacked Pearl Harbor because their militaristic politicians told them to do so. Why did they order a war whose outcome at best could only be doubtful? Brain tumors, maybe. No, the United States had warned Nippon that we would consider any further expansion in Southeastern Asia a hostile act.

Was Japan looking for a war? We doubt it. Most probably the need in that nation for expansion was so real and so pressing that even the risk of chaos couldn't forestall the gamble. What were the reasons behind this need, why was war better than the status quo?

The Roof Off

That hostile plane buzzed over the Polish border because Hitler told the pilot to do so. Why did Germany once more plunge itself and the world into a bath of blood? Hitler's dreams of world conquest? Maybe that was a partial pressure in that great fury which blew the roof off Europe and sent its burning embers around the world, but was there no long standing rottenness whose decomposition built up the German pressure until it burst its borders?

Germany had all the symptoms of a thriving peaceful nation; a strong well-educated race, an advanced industry, a key commercial location, well exploited resources, a history of military prowess. And yet something was wrong, and a man like Hitler seized control and helped to bring about the inescapable outcome. Why couldn't Germany remain stable without war?

The answers to these problems would show how madmen like Hitler and Tojo could arise and seize control of a nation. They would show why their rabid and baseless propaganda fell upon hearing ears. Perhaps investigation in this manner would lay open the economic and social strains which snap the equilibrium of the world. Perhaps the wall's collapse would be averted.

Until now peace treaties have been a combination of suppression and greed. Expediency in all diplomatic dealing was the desired object. A thorough, objective search for the causes of past wars and a just and equitable removal of them would not only be ethical but would achieve ultimate expediency in that the strains of the past could no longer jerk war back from its ever-deepening pit of oblivion.

—Donald M. Collins

'Neath the Spires

Editor's note: During the season of Lent this column will be dedicated to the explanation of the liturgy of the Sunday Masses. As you well know, the liturgy is the public official work of the Church, and the highest position in the liturgy is occupied by the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

Next Sunday we enter upon the second stage of the Lenten conflict. During the initial days of the penitential season, the Church acquainted us with her spirit and practice of mortification. Then, on the First Sunday of Lent we enrolled in the school of Christ's service.

At first we assumed a defensive attitude; we had to ward off the attacks of the Prince of this world. Armed with the weapons of self-denial we fought our way to the Mount of the Transfiguration. But now we advance from the defensive to the offensive tactics: Christ is the "Stronger" — He must vanquish the "Strong One" in us.

At the height of the Lenten conflict, we assemble again together with the candidates for Baptism, around the great Champion and Conqueror, the patron of catechumens, St. Lawrence. In his Church were formerly performed the exorcisms of the evil spirits. Sunday this takes place for the first time in the liturgical cycle. In the texts of the "Missa Catchumenorum" they refer to this rite. St. Lawrence, who vanquished the devil so courageously by his martyrdom, should be taken as our patron and defender during the second stage of the Lenten conflict.

The Catchumens (those being indoctrinated into the Christian faith) advanced another step nearer the Church on this "Scrutiny Sunday." The probation of the candidates for Baptism now began; the faithful were called upon to give testimony regarding the conduct of the catechumens. In all, seven scrutinies were held, the most important one being conducted on the Wednesday of the fourth week of Lent.

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEILL

(Henceforth it will be the primary purpose of this column to present the current happenings on other college campuses throughout the country which may be of interest to Villanova students. This does not mean that we intend to dispense with the jokes. Not by a long shot.)

A veteran should have his subsistence check within 30 days after the Veterans Administration receives his certification of enrollment from the university, Samuel Rosenfeld told the Eastern Conference of the National Veterans Collegiate Association last month at a meeting of the organization held at Temple University. Mr. Rosenfeld is Chief of Registration and Research of the Philadelphia office of the Veterans Administration.

• • •

Delegates and veteran coordinators from 50 college veterans clubs attended the session and student delegates adopted the following resolutions: that terminal pay be granted to enlisted men; that all colleges operate under the accelerated program; that no school refuse admission because of race, color or creed and that the Wyatt National Housing Report recommending priority for veterans housing should be made a law.

—Temple University News.

• • •

The Setonian, Seton Hall College's paper, informs us that last month's registration was the largest in the history of the institution. In one year the enrollment has risen from 140 to 902, 95 per cent of which are veterans, thereby giving Seton Hall a larger amount of veterans than any other school in New Jersey. Congratulations, Setonia.

• • •

One hundred Auburn students will don caps and gowns Friday, March 15, for the winter quarter graduation in Langdon Hall. The commencement exercises will begin at 2 P. M. and the seniors will be

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Seven

SMEARS 'n CHEERS

LOU DI GIACOMO

MILT CLIMATI

Miz Tattersall is in Reno, Diet Smith is in the hospital, Li'l Abner is in New York and everybody is getting around except us. Here we are still at Villanova writing another column. We are turning commercial and starting off this week with a want ad.

WANTED:

One Bird trainer to housebreak a canary.

LADS 'N LASSIES

It seems that Jack McNamara after six dates with Betty of Rosemont is still making very little progress. Maybe he's a little too shy . . . Jack Mallick is certainly not trying to keep his girl a secret. He posted a picture of himself and his girl in one of the P.T.C. cars . . . We hear that Jack Levin spent an enjoyable afternoon showing a little brunette the Villanova campus . . . If you should like to have someone go to the post office for you, see "Norm" Kline. He goes to the P.O. daily at 5:15. By the way, Norm, don't you think that girl can get the train unless you see her off every day?

It seems Fred Desel is working on a new angle at Rosemont. He took her to dinner last week . . . It's always Tony Cocco who pays. The other fellow goes free. (To the Immaculata Soph. Cotillion) . . . "Teddy" Falgiatore has a new blonde flame in Philly . . . Bob Mills of O'Dwyer Hall has been seen around quite often, lately with Barbara of Bryn Mawr. However, he hasn't entirely neglected Helen either . . . Dick McKinley is now making time with a Rosemont Lass . . . We wish that Bernie Cleary would let us in on the name of his "Mystery Blonde" . . . Walt Little has been making regular visits to Union City. What's her name Walt?

Now that football season is coming into stride once more we all hope Gene Alvarez will settle down and get that "Babe" from Philadelphia off his mind . . . Why is John Sankey so eager to head for Atlantic City every weekend? And why is he always singing "I wonder whats become of Sally?" . . . "Tito Mendez says he goes to New York every weekend to see his father. However, could the real reason be to see an Opera Singer by the name of Frances . . .

WELL DONE:

Congratulations to Hallahan, West Catholic, and Little Flower High Schools for the wonderful concert they presented last week. All the Villanova boys enjoyed themselves both during and after the concert.

ODDS 'N ENDS:

Bill Bradley is going to send Lou Ferry a bill for soap, toothpaste and shaving cream at the end of the semester . . . Why does Alex (Curley) Colman part his hair on the right side when he goes out with Priscilla, but on the left when out with any other girl. We don't know, maybe you can help us to solve the mystery . . . We wish that Ed. Walsh of Delury Hall would make up his mind whether he will spend his time at Chestnut Hill College or the Nurse's Home.

Don't be surprised if you see Jim Mackey of Simpson Hall walking around in a daze. He's still sleeping from Saturday Nite . . . We wonder when Anthony Vincent Caruso III, the socialite of Delurey Hall, is going to have his coming out party??? . . . We understand from certain sources that the hardest thing in the world is to make Joe (Infallible) Jaskula see the light in any argument . . . We have been advised that Hank Tait is now having Nursie (Peggy) do his Psychology homework. Now is that nice, Hank? . . . Anyone interested in learning how to dance Spanish Numbers just contact Marty Minerva. He's had plenty of practice . . . How come Pete Chaplinisky knows so many nurses from Bryn Mawr? He's really never been sick.

CHEERS AND SMEARS
Continued on Page Seven

Fr. Donnellon Reviews Fr. Dougherty's Book

By REV. JAMES A. DONNELLON, O.S.A., Ph.D.

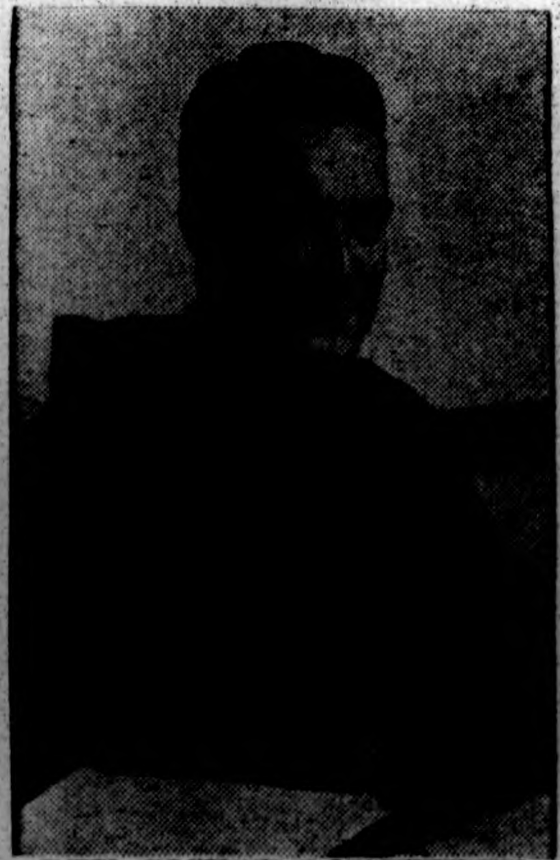
IT HAS always been difficult for me to understand why anyone should want to write a book. In the preface of their book, "A Textbook of Bacteriology and Immunoloy," Father Dougherty and Mr. Lamberti offer a satisfactory explanation. After eighteen years of teaching these subjects, Father Dougherty states that he was driven to write this book in order to meet the needs of his own students.

The texts on bacteriology and immunology which are now available do not represent the field as he would like to define it, nor do they offer an adequate summary of existing literature. For a long time he has not been happy with them, and so, following the old rule of camp life that requires anyone who complains about the cooking to take on the duties of cook himself, he decided finally to write a book which would suit his own need in the classroom.

I am not a bacteriologist myself, but from conversations with those engaged in teaching that subject in other institutions, there seems to me to be an urgent need for a new text in that field, and I am sure that Father Dougherty's book will adequately meet that need.

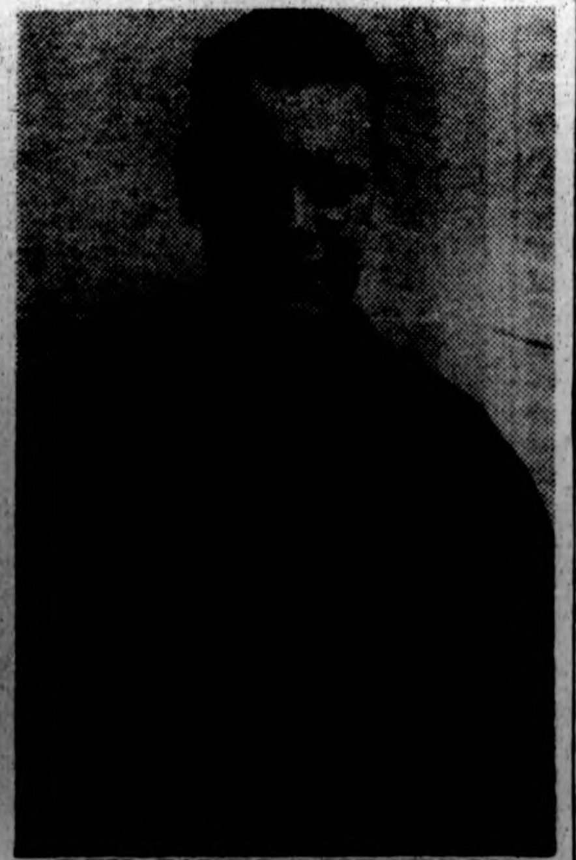
In the preparation of this book, the authors have endeavored to keep in mind two guiding principles: first, the importance of simplicity and lucidity in the presentation of the facts and theories, and, second, the need of a judicious

Author



REV. JOSEPH DOUGHERTY

Reviewer



REV. JAMES DONNELLON

BOOK REVIEW
Continued on Page Seven

Meet the Boys

By WARREN G. SEXTON

With the second edition of the Villanovan for this semester we find the circulation staff writing and the writers circulating. Now to get down to work. First we find the character in question namely Ray Stone. This didn't prove too hard as Ray can be found in either the Pie Shop or Joe Sweeney's room at most any hour of the day or night.

Well, now to get on with the story. The time was February 11th, 1924, the day cold and snowy, the place Conshohocken, Pa. A nurse rushed up to a worried father, thrust a squalling bundle into his arms and thus introduced Mr. Stone to his son. And so under these dramatic conditions Raymond F. Stone got his start in life. After spending six devilish years at home Ray entered St. Matthews Grammar School in Conshohocken.

RAYMOND STONE

Eight years later we find Ray beginning his high school training in West Catholic. Not content with waiting four years for a didiploma, he decided to embark into the cruel world with only two years of high school. He entered a business school in Phila. which promptly folded up after his matriculation. Ray will tell you he had nothing to do with the school's failing but that's hard to believe, knowing Ray as we do. His next move (he gets around a lot doesn't he) was to Malvern Prep to complete his interrupted high school education.

Formed Orchestra

While at Malvern Ray became the sage of the campus. He was literary editor of the year book and wrote editorials for the school paper. Just to fill in his spare time Ray started an orchestra at Malvern. So finally in 1942, in order to give the other fellows on the campus a chance to study, Ray was given his diploma.

Leaving high school Ray worked (a lie if I ever heard one) in a manufacturing firm in Conshohocken. He labored over an automatic screwing machine and to this day doesn't know what he produced. Tiring of this job Ray hooked up with a jewelry firm in Phila. He spent nine-tenths of his day in an elevator taking valuables from the store to the repair shop. This life presented too many ups and downs so Ray went in search of more fertile fields. Before he could think of an alibi he found himself in the Army. But after a while the Army considered Ray too much of a responsibility and declared him surplus.

Returned Vet

What the Army lost Villanova gained (so Ray says). He matriculated to Villanova in November, 1943 to major in Biology. Besides being the Pie Shop wit Ray 'worked' on the circulation staff of the Villanovan for three semesters, was active in the Veterans Club and a member of the Senior Ball committee. After graduating in June Ray plans (and they come in this order) to go surf fishing in Maine, get married, and do graduate work in Biology.

The next character in our hit parade is Joseph Russell Sweeney. Joe first saw the light of day in Pottsville, Pa., on February 16, 1926. At the tender age of two weeks he journeyed to his home town of Tamaqua, Pa. He was enrolled at St. Jerome School in Tamaqua more as a safety measure than anything else. It seems that even at that early age Joe was bothering the patients in his father's office with those famous stories of his.

JOSEPH SWEENEY

JAMES MACKEY

J. R. really enjoyed St. Jeromes so he stayed for high school also. When he wasn't busy chasing girls all over town (all two blocks of it) he found time to edit his high school year book and was chairman of the Senior Prom. Joe worked hard on this Senior Prom, so hard in fact he forgot to get a date. Now in a town like Tamaqua this can be a serious thing because there are one and one-half girls for every boy. Things worked out O.K. for Joe though. About 8:30 he found two stray halves (at least that what he said she looked like) and had an enjoyable evening.

Biology Major

After graduating from high school his parents pointed Joe in the direction of Villanova and told him to blow. He matriculated to our fair campus in November 1943 taking a major in Biology. While on the campus Joe found time to work on the Villanovan and be active in the German Club. He is also a member of the interracial organization and takes an active part in their meetings. Joe plans to go to the Harvard graduate school next year to take a Ph.D in Biology and teach in college.

Last but not least we come to James Thomas Mackey. Jas T., as he is affectionately known to all, was born on November 25, 1925 in Hague Town (Jersey City, N. J. that is). After three uneventful years in Jersey City Jas T. was deported to Verona, N. J. Jim liked Verona but I'm afraid we can't say that the feeling was mutual, so in order to keep him out of everyone's hair, his parents put him in Our Lady of the Lake Kindergarten.

English Honor Student

As with most of us Jim had to get some book larnin' so he then entered the Lacordaire Grammar School. He stayed here until the fourth grade, then felt it was time for a change so he went to Montclair Academy. Jas T. remained here until the seventh grade, but broke down and returned to the Lady of the Lake for eighth grade.

Upon graduation he again returned to Montclair Academy (they ought to be tired of seeing him by now) for high school. After pleading on bended knee the editor finally got Jim to work on the school paper. Jas T. was active in the school debating club and a member of the English honor course. He also attempted football and baseball but was forced to give it up because of a trick knee. This knee wasn't always a detriment to Jim though, he collected the coin of the

Continued on Page Eight

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

Once again we're at the keys of our weary typewriter but this time with a feeling of moonlight walks along the beaches of a South Sea Isle, with the rumbling of the ocean breeze, and the added attraction of a beautiful sarong filled with feminity, accessories and all. But as we awaken from our dream we find ourselves in this crowded Villanovan office with the rumbling sounds of the staff and the breezes from Lou's Pie Shop.—Oh yes, there's nothing like Spring.

Tom Smith wants it known that he's wearing a new pair of trousers this semester. Last year's finally took a walk out powder in the form of a split seam.

Jim Bonner's after effects from visiting the General Wayne finally caught up with him. Jim is having difficulty keeping his eyes open while being photographed.

Harry Edwards had to appear in Court last week . . . Harry claims his appearance was due to an automobile accident. What we can't understand Harry is—why did the detective have you handcuffed to him?

John Dougherty (Doc for short) has been wearing a new tie referred to as the "paint brust splash." The only trouble that John has run into is keeping the paint off his shirts.

Lou Ferry had a bit of trouble last week escorting a certain painless partner back to Villanova. We had the same trouble recognizing the partner due to his change of hair style—It looked like Tony Cocco.

"Smiling Jack" Martin (of the 4 o'clock tea boys) was noticed buying a cake for Alice (his dream gal). . . . He claims this was a refund for some sugar he bummed from her previously. Now isn't that sweet ! ! !

Teddy Falgiatore alias "Teddy Ryan" to the girls, has found a new number to chase around. He seems to enjoy the Trans-Lux on Sunday evenings with Babette.

We hear Ed Flood is still trying to figure out who the girl is that is writing to him and recently sent her picture signed "Remember me, Irish."

Everyone has been wondering where or who Dick Ambrose has been entertaining lately. Why don't you let your friends in on it, Dick? They seem to be very worried about the situation.

Familiar scenes on Friday afternoons created by a couple of the married boys are Bob "Ace" keeping in condition for track meets by racing for the train to spend the weekend with his wife—and John Ciotola giving up pinochle for the weekend to see his one and only.

George O'Niel really seems to miss his old buddy Bob Conway for he is now seen alone at Pete's. He has to buy his own now that he doesn't have a shuffleboard partner.

Matty Pastell says that he bought that pair of nylons for his mother but s ome of his friends think differently since he had a date last weekend with a Chestnut Hiller.

We hear that Jack Wagner is trying to date a girl from Hallahan. It was a result of the All-Girl concert last week.

Another mishap which occurred last week at the All-Girl concert was the way in which Tom Hanratty eased Joe Brogan out of his date. Tom is quite the lover. After all, it was only Joe's sister.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 ....Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 ....Managing Editor
MATTHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC ....Sports Feature Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 ....Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 ....Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 ....Picture Editor
WARREN G. SENTON, '46 ....Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48..............................Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Arthur R. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
Herman J. Diesel, '50
J. Edward White, NROTC
Donald Fox, '50
James G. Mudd, '50
David I. Ryan, '48

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Koerner, '46
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
Joseph Braezler, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Francis Linsulata, '49
Roland Higgs, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Charles J. McCarthy, '49

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.

Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office Decembe 17, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.

Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Asso ciation and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - MARCH 19, 1946

Commentators' War

RECENTLY, some of America's better-known news commentators have become quite disturbed over Russia's actions in the East. These men have even gone so far as to predict a third world war in three to four months. When the facts behind these news stories originating from our Eastern correspondents are analyzed, the prospect of another world conflagration in the near future is very poor indeed.

In the first instance, though it is known that Russia has twelve million men under arms at the present time, it is also known that the Soviet has been very greatly weakened industrially by participation in the recent war. She, like the rest of the countries who fought the horrible battle, has neither the energy nor the materials to carry on another large-scale war.

In the second instance, we must realize, that, as after the first world war, the nations who participated in the conflict are again setting up spheres of influence to protect their interests in various regions. This seems only natural since the nations of the world have not yet realized the foolhardiness of such operations. Russia's actions in the East, particularly with respect to Iran and Turkey, are no more than "scare policies" instituted by the "Communists" to create a disruption in the organization and efficiency of the governments existing in those countries in order to permit left wing groups to seize power and to create situations more favorable for dealings with the Soviet. Of course, such actions can readily be seen to be direct parallels to England's own colonial policies. Hence, there is no reason whatsoever why that nation should be creating such a furor at seeing her own policies in use, except for the fact that these policies are rapidly backfiring, cutting England out of control in the East. This, no doubt, is the very reason why Mr. Churchill has recently advocated an Anglo-American alliance.

It is quite safe to predict that there will be no third world war for at least a few more years. This is just a building-up process, so to speak; the foundation stone for our next war. It is very true that the setting up of spheres of influence will undoubtedly lead us to our next war. However there is no reason at the present date for such wild speculations as we have recently heard from such men as Walter Winchell and Drew Pearson.

Our future war is now in the making, and it seems that there will be nothing done unless the members of the World Security Council awaken from the cradle of greed and distrust in which they are sleeping, and cry out for unity and harmony to save humanity.

Plastic Diplomacy

WHENEVER we consider the advisability of a plan or of an existing condition we should, of course, refer both to the morality and to the expediency of the proposition. Oftentimes, however, when we view the long-range effects of a proposal or a position we find that good ethics lead to the most propitious outcome.

This editorial is based upon the application of the above principles, but before we attempt our thesis we would like to introduce an analagous, though simplified, situation.

Fifteen years ago we built a home in the outskirts of Philadelphia which we believed would stand the test of many years.

In six months large cracks appeared along the cellar walls, in two years it had to be replaced. Despite the use of the finest of materials this structure crumbled before three years had elapsed. A third wall was proposed, but an engineer took the situation in hand and found the root of the difficulty. The cause of our trouble lay in the poor drainage of the land on which the house was built. When that factor was corrected, the wall was again erected and from that time on the results were all we had hoped for.

The House We Live In

The world we live in has a crumbling wall, but unsightly and unscientific and unreasoned patches maintain its structure for longer time periods. Then, despite slabs of plastic diplomacy, power politics shoring, and alliance glue, the edifice crashes down, killing or crushing its occupants, smashing and burying its storerooms, rendering the living homeless or insecure.

If we were ants who lived in a colony beneath this wall, it wouldn't matter much if we were crushed by the plaster, indeed it would be inevitable. The point remains however, that we are men. We own this house and this wall and we can reason our way to a staunch and time-defying solution.

What were the causes of the World War? An archduke being shot, a tank crossing the Polish border, a bomb on a Pearl Harbor battleship? Actually, but not really. Was it then an expansionist doctrine promulgated and prompted by mad dictators and international bankers? Really, but not fundamentally. We all can see that the overt acts which opened war were caused by more general forces but peeled the lid from these general forces.

Geosociology

What's here is fundamental, men's faces blur and their names fade; units and these units' needs stand in their places. This is a foreign, abstract and yet simple world. It is the province of a philosopher. Psychology, economics, geography, history and geneology convert the problems into compatible units. Understanding this world with a view to control it would be called geopolitics; understanding it with a view to correct it would be geosociology.

Japan attacked Pearl Harbor because their militaristic politicians told them to do so. Why did they order a war whose outcome at best could only be doubtful? Brain tumors, maybe. No, the United States had warned Nippon that we would consider any further expansion in Southeastern Asia a hostile act.

Was Japan looking for a war? We doubt it. Most probably the need in that nation for expansion was so real and so pressing that even the risk of chaos couldn't forestall the gamble. What were the reasons behind this need, why was war better than the status quo?

The Roof Off

That hostile plane buzzed over the Polish border because Hitler told the pilot to do so. Why did Germany once more plunge itself and the world into a bath of blood? Hitler's dreams of world conquest? Maybe that was a partial pressure in that great fury which blew the roof off Europe and sent its burning embers around the world, but was there no long standing rottenness whose decomposition built up the German pressure until it burst its borders?

Germany had all the symptoms of a thriving peaceful nation; a strong well-educated race, an advanced industry, a key commercial location, well exploited resources, a history of military prowess. And yet something was wrong, and a man like Hitler seized control and helped to bring about the inescapable outcome. Why couldn't Germany remain stable without war?

The answers to these problems would show how madmen like Hitler and Tojo could arise and seize control of a nation. They would show why their rabid and baseless propaganda fell upon hearing ears. Perhaps investigation in this manner would lay open the economic and social strains which snap the equilibrium of the world. Perhaps the wall's collapse would be averted.

Until now peace treaties have been a combination of suppression and greed. Expediency in all diplomatic dealing was the desired object. A thorough, objective search for the causes of past wars and a just and equitable removal of them would not only be ethical but would achieve ultimate expediency in that the strains of the past could no longer jerk war back from its ever-deepening pit of oblivion.

—Donald M. Collins

'Neath the Spires

Editor's note: During the season of Lent this column will be dedicat[illegible]o the explanation of the liturgy of the Sunday Masses. As you well know, the liturgy is the public official work of the Church, and the highest position in the liturgy is occupied by the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

Next Sunday we enter upon the second stage of the Lenten conflict. During the initial days of the penitential season, the Church acquainted us with her spirit and practice of mortification. Then, on the First Sunday of Lent we enrolled in the school of Christ's service.

At first we assumed a defensive attitude; we had to ward off the attacks of the Prince of this world. Armed with the weapons of self-denial we fought our way to the Mount of the Transfiguration. But now we advance from the defensive to the offensive tactics: Christ is the "Stronger" — He must vanquish the "Strong One" in us.

At the height of the Lenten conflict, we assemble again together with the candidates for Baptism, around the great Champion and Conqueror, the patron of catechumens, St. Lawrence. In his Church were formerly performed the exorcisms of the evil spirits. Sunday this takes place for the first time in the liturgical cycle. In the texts of the "Missa Catchumenorum" they refer to this rite. St. Lawrence, who vanquished the devil so courageously by his martyrdom, should be taken as our patron and defender during the second stage of the Lenten conflict.

The Catchumens (those being indoctrinated into the Christian faith) advanced another step nearer the Church on this "Scrutiny Sunday." The probation of the candidates for Baptism now began; the faithful were called upon to give testimony regarding the conduct of the catechumens. In all, seven scrutinies were held, the most important one being conducted on the Wednesday of the fourth week of Lent.

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEILL

(Henceforth it will be the primary purpose of this column to present the current happenings on other college campuses throughout the country which may be of interest to Villanova students. This does not mean that we intend to dispense with the jokes. Not by a long shot.)

A veteran should have his subsistence check within 30 days after the Veterans Administration receives his certification of enrollment from the university, Samuel Rosenfeld told the Eastern Conference of the National Veterans Collegiate Association last month at a meeting of the organization held at Temple University. Mr. Rosenfeld is Chief of Registration and Research of the Philadelphia office of the Veterans Administration.

• • •

Delegates and veteran coordinators from 50 college veterans clubs attended the session and student delegates adopted the following resolutions: that terminal pay be granted to enlisted men; that all colleges operate under the accelerated program; that no school refuse admission because of race, color or creed and that the Wyatt National Housing Report recommending priority for veterans housing should be made a law.

—Temple University News.

• • •

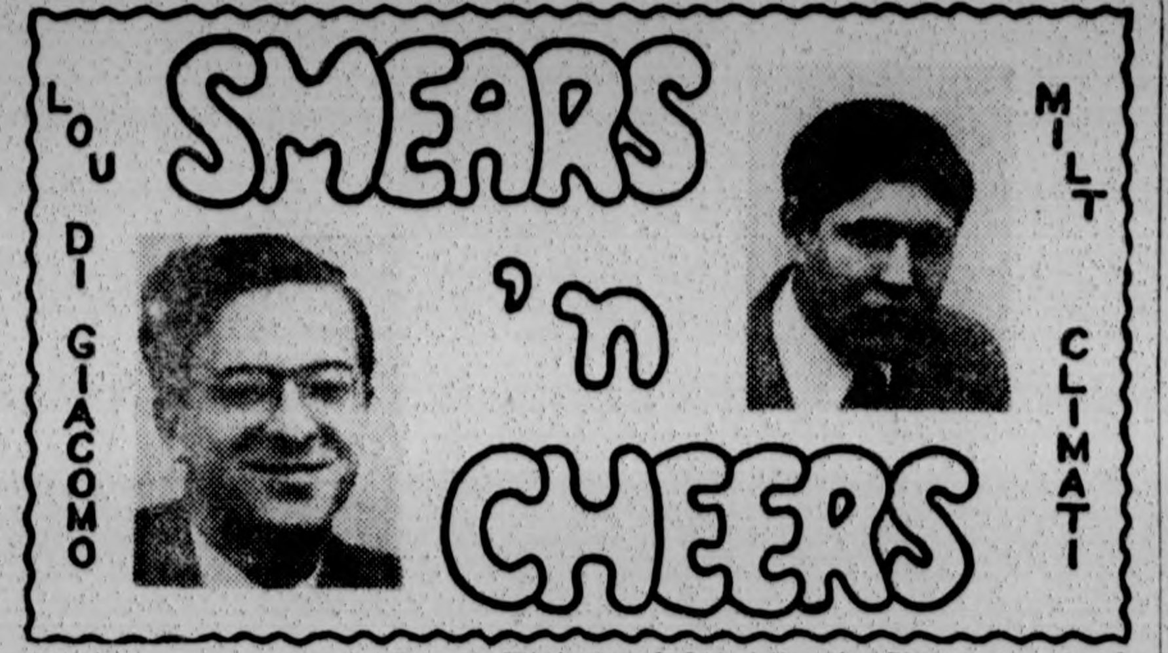
The Setonian, Seton Hall College's paper, informs us that last month's registration was the largest in the history of the institution. In one year the enrollment has risen from 140 to 902, 95 per cent of which are veterans, thereby giving Seton Hall a larger amount of veterans than any other school in New Jersey. Congratulations, Setonia.

• • •

One hundred Auburn students will don caps and gowns Friday, March 15, for the winter quarter graduation in Langdon Hall. The commencement exercises will begin at 2 P. M. and the seniors will be

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Seven

SMEARS 'n CHEERS



Miz Tattersall is in Reno, Diet Smith is in the hospital, Li'l Abner is in New York and everybody is getting around except us. Here we are still at Villanova writing another column. We are turning commercial and starting off this week with a want ad.

WANTED:

One Bird trainer to housebreak a canary.

LADS 'N LASSIES

It seems that Jack McNamara after six dates with Betty of Rosemont is still making very little progress. Maybe he's a little too shy . . . Jack Mallick is certainly not trying to keep his girl a secret. He posted a picture of himself and his girl in one of the P.T.C. cars . . . We hear that Jack Levin spent an enjoyable afternoon showing a little brunette the Villanova campus . . . If you should like to have someone go to the post office for you, see "Norm" Kline. He goes to the P.O. daily at 5:15. By the way, Norm, don't you think that girl can get the train unless you see her off every day?

It seems Fred Desel is working on a new angle at Rosemont. He took her to dinner last week . . . It's always Tony Cocco who pays. The other fellow goes free. (To the Immaculata Soph. Cotillion) . . . "Teddy" Falgiatore has a new blonde flame in Philly . . . Bob Mills of O'Dwyer Hall has been seen around quite often, lately with Barbara of Bryn Mawr. However, he hasn't entirely neglected Helen either . . . Dick McKinley is now making time with a Rosemont Lass . . . We wish that Bernie Cleary would let us in on the name of his "Mystery Blonde" . . . Walt Little has been making regular visits to Union City. What's her name Walt?

Now that football season is coming into stride once more we all hope Gene Alvarez will settle down and get that "Babe" from Philadelphia off his mind . . . Why is John Saukey so eager to head for Atlantic City every weekend? And why is he always singing "I wonder whats become of Sally?" . . . "Tito Mendez says he goes to New York every weekend to see his father. However, could the real reason be to see an Opera Singer by the name of Frances . . .

WELL DONE:

Congratulations to Hallahan, West Catholic, and Little Flower High Schools for the wonderful concert they presented last week. All the Villanova boys enjoyed themselves both during and after the concert.

ODDS 'N ENDS:

Bill Bradley is going to send Lou Ferry a bill for soap, toothpaste and shaving cream at the end of the semester . . . Why does Alex (Curley) Colman part his hair on the right side when he goes out with Priscilla, but on the left when out with any other girl. We don't know, maybe you can help us to solve the mystery . . . We wish that Ed. Walsh of Delury Hall would make up his mind whether he will spend his time at Chestnut Hill College or the Nurse's Home.

Don't be surprised if you see Jim Mackey of Simpson Hall walking around in a daze. He's still sleeping from Saturday Nite . . . We wonder when Anthony Vincent Caruso III, the socialite of Delurey Hall, is going to have his coming out party???. . . We understand from certain sources that the hardest thing in the world is to make Joe (Infallible) Jaskula see the light in any argument . . . We have been advised that Hank Tait is now having Nursie (Peggy) do his Psychology homework. Now is that nice, Hank? . . . Anyone interested in learning how to dance Spanish Numbers just contact Marty Minerva. He's had plenty of practice . . . How come Pete Chaplinisky knows so many nurses from Bryn Mawr? He's really never been sick.

CHEERS AND SMEARS
Continued on Page Seven

Fr. Donnellon Reviews Fr. Dougherty's Book

By REV. JAMES A. DONNELLON, O.S.A., Ph.D.

IT HAS always been difficult for me to understand why anyone should want to write a book. In the preface of their book, "A Textbook of Bacteriology and Immunoloy," Father Dougherty and Mr. Lamberti offer a satisfactory explanation. After eighteen years of teaching these subjects, Father Dougherty states that he was driven to write this book in order to meet the needs of his own students.

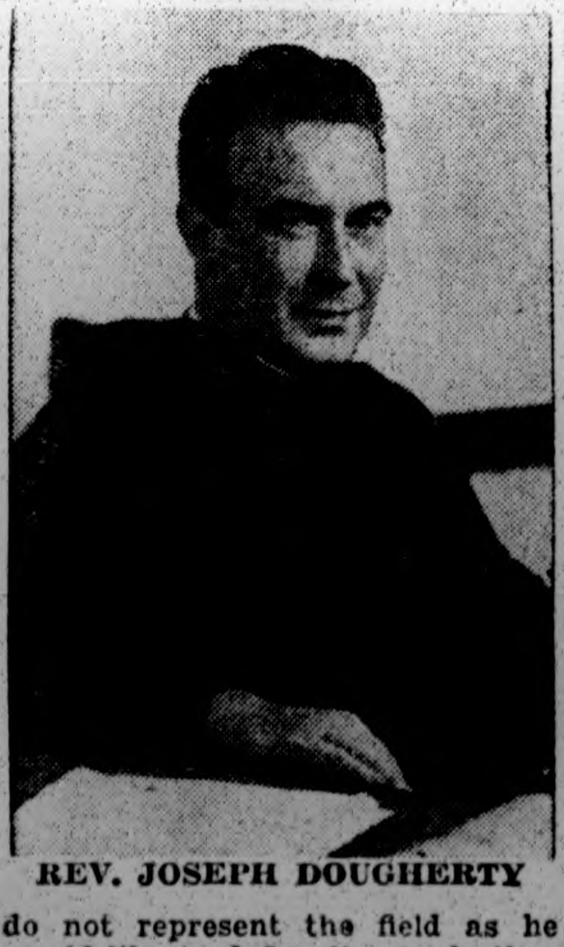
The texts on bacteriology and immunology which are now available do not represent the field as he would like to define it, nor do they offer an adequate summary of existing literature. For a long time he has not been happy with them, and so, following the old rule of camp life that requires anyone who complains about the cooking to take on the duties of cook himself, he decided finally to write a book which would suit his own need in the classroom.

I am not a bacteriologist myself, but from conversations with those engaged in teaching that subject in other institutions, there seems to me to be an urgent need for a new text in that field, and I am sure that Father Dougherty's book will adequately meet that need.

In the preparation of this book, the authors have endeavored to keep in mind two guiding principles: first, the importance of simplicity and lucidity in the presentation of the facts and theories, and, second, the need of a judicious

BOOK REVIEW
Continued on Page Seven

Author



REV. JOSEPH DOUGHERTY

Reviewer

REV. JAMES DONNELLON

Meet the Boys

By WARREN G. SENTON

With the second edition of the Villanovan for this semester we find the circulation staff writing and the writers circulating. Now to get down to work. First we find the character in question namely Ray Stone. This didn't prove too hard as Ray can be found in either the Pie Shop or Joe Sweeney's room at most any hour of the day or night.

Well, now to get on with the story. The time was February 11th, 1924, the day cold and snowy, the place Conshohocken, Pa. A nurse rushed up to a worried father, thrust a squalling bundle into his arms and thus introduced Mr. Stone to his son. And so under these dramatic conditions Raymond F. Stone got his start in life. After spending six devilish years at home Ray entered St. Matthews Grammar School in Conshohocken.

RAYMOND STONE

Eight years later we find Ray beginning his high school training in West Catholic. Not content with waiting four years for a di diploma, he decided to embark into the cruel world with only two years of high school. He entered a business school in Phila. which promptly folded up after his matriculation. Ray will tell you he had nothing to do with the school's failing but that's hard to believe, knowing Ray as we do. His next move (he gets around a lot doesn't he) was to Malvern Prep to complete his interrupted high school education.

Formed Orchestra

While at Malvern Ray became the sage of the campus. He was literary editor of the year book and wrote editorials for the school paper. Just to fill in his spare time Ray started an orchestra at Malvern. So finally in 1942, in order to give the other fellows on the campus a chance to study, Ray was given his diploma.

Leaving high school Ray worked (a lie if I ever heard one) in a manufacturing firm in Conshohocken. He labored over an automatic screwing machine and to this day doesn't know what he produced. Tiring of this job Ray hooked up with a jewelry firm in Phila. He spent nine-tenths of his day in an elevator taking valuables from the store to the repair shop. This life presented too many ups and downs so Ray went in search of more fertile fields. Before he could think of an alibi he found himself in the Army. But after a while the Army considered Ray too much of a responsibility and declared him surplus.

Returned Vet

What the Army lost Villanova gained (so Ray says). He matriculated to Villanova in November, 1943 to major in Biology. Besides being the Pie Shop wit Ray 'worked' on the circulation staff of the Villanovan for three semesters, was active in the Veterans Club and a member of the Senior Ball committee. After graduating in June Ray plans (and they come in this order) to go surf fishing in Maine, get married, and do graduate work in Biology.

The next character in our hit parade is Joseph Russell Sweeney. Joe first saw the light of day in Pottsville, Pa., on February 16, 1926. At the tender age of two weeks he journeyed to his home town of Tamaqua, Pa. He was enrolled at St. Jerome School in Tamaqua more as a safety measure than anything else. It seems that even at that early age Joe was bothering the patients in his father's office with those famous stories of his.

JOSEPH SWEENEY

JAMES MACKEY

J. R. really enjoyed St. Jeromes so he stayed for high school also. When he wasn't busy chasing girls all over town (all two blocks of it) he found time to edit his high school year book and was chairman of the Senior Prom. Joe worked hard on this Senior Prom, so hard in fact he forgot to get a date. Now in a town like Tamaqua this can be a serious thing because there are one and one-half girls for every boy. Things worked out O.K. for Joe though. About 8:30 he found two stray halves (at least that what he said she looked like) and had an enjoyable evening.

Biology Major

After graduating from high school his parents pointed Joe in the direction of Villanova and told him to blow. He matriculated to our fair campus in November 1943 taking a major in Biology. While on the campus Joe found time to work on the Villanovan and be active in the German Club. He is also a member of the interracial organization and takes an active part in their meetings. Joe plans to go to the Harvard graduate school next year to take a Ph.D in Biology and teach in college.

Last but not least we come to James Thomas Mackey. Jas T., as he is affectionately known to all, was born on November 25, 1925 in Hague Town (Jersey City, N. J. that is). After three uneventful years in Jersey City Jas T. was deported to Verona, N. J. Jim liked Verona but I'm afraid we can't say that the feeling was mutual, so in order to keep him out of everyone's hair, his parents put him in Our Lady of the Lake Kindergarten.

English Honor Student

As with most of us Jim had to get some book larnin' so he then entered the Lacordaire Grammar School. He stayed here until the fourth grade, then felt it was time for a change so he went to Montclair Academy. Jas T. remained here until the seventh grade, but broke down and returned to the Lady of the Lake for eighth grade.

Upon graduation he again returned to Montclair Academy (they ought to be tired of seeing him by now) for high school. After pleading on bended knee the editor finally got Jim to work on the school paper. Jas T. was active in the school debating club and a member of the English honor course. He also attempted football and baseball but was forced to give it up because of a trick knee. This knee wasn't always a detriment to Jim though, he collected the coin of the

Continued on Page Eight

'Cat Capers

By BILL KOERNER and HAL VARANI

Once again we're at the keys of our weary typewriter but this time with a feeling of moonlight walks along the beaches of a South Sea Isle, with the rumbling of the ocean breeze, and the added attraction of a beautiful sarong filled with feminity, accessories and all. But as we awaken from our dream we find ourselves in this crowded Villanovan office with the rumbling sounds of the staff and the breezes from Lou's Pie Shop.—Oh yes, there's nothing like Spring.

Tom Smith wants it known that he's wearing a new pair of trousers this semester. Last year's finally took a walk out powder in the form of a split seam.

Jim Bonner's after effects from visiting the General Wayne finally caught up with him. Jim is having difficulty keeping his eyes open while being photographed.

Harry Edwards had to appear in Court last week . . . Harry claims his appearance was due to an automobile accident. What we can't understand Harry is—why did the detective have you handcuffed to him?

John Dougherty (Doc for short) has been wearing a new tie referred to as the "paint brust splash." The only trouble that John has run into is keeping the paint off his shirts.

Lou Ferry had a bit of trouble last week escorting a certain painless partner back to Villanova. We had the same trouble recognizing the partner due to his change of hair style—It looked like Tony Cocco.

"Smiling Jack" Martin (of the 4 o'clock tea boys) was noticed buying a cake for Alice (his dream gal). . . . He claims this was a refund for some sugar he bummed from her previously. Now isn't that sweet ! ! !

Teddy Falgiatore alias "Teddy Ryan" to the girls, has found a new number to chase around. He seems to enjoy the Trans-Lux on Sunday evenings with Babette.

We hear Ed Flood is still trying to figure out who the girl is that is writing to him and recently sent her picture signed "Remember me, Irish."

Everyone has been wondering where or who Dick Ambrose has been entertaining lately. Why don't you let your friends in on it, Dick? They seem to be very worried about the situation.

Familiar scenes on Friday afternoons created by a couple of the married boys are Bob "Ace" keeping in condition for track meets by racing for the train to spend the weekend with his wife—and John Ciotola giving up pinochle for the weekend to see his one and only.

George O'Niel really seems to miss his old buddy Bob Conway for he is now seen alone at Pete's. He has to buy his own now that he doesn't have a shuffleboard partner.

Matty Pastell says that he bought that pair of nylons for his mother but some of his friends think differently since he had a date last weekend with a Chestnut Hiller.

We hear that Jack Wagner is trying to date a girl from Hallahan. It was a result of the All-Girl concert last week.

Another mishap which occurred last week at the All-Girl concert was the way in which Tom Hanratty eased Joe Brogan out of his date. Tom is quite the lover. After all, it was only Joe's sister.

NEW VILLANOVAN EDITORS

Editor-in-Chief

RUSSELL LEO WELSH

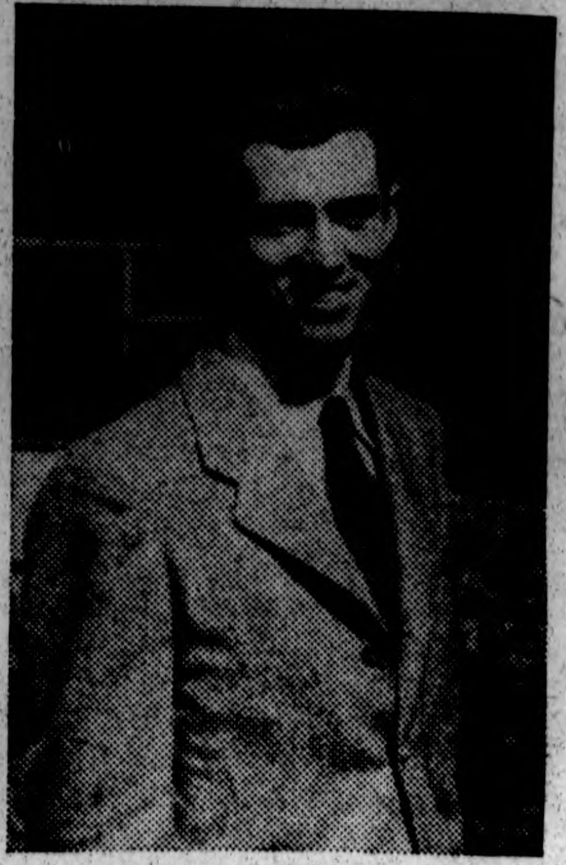
Managing Editor

DONALD M. COLLINS

Sports News Editor

MATTHEW KEARNEY

Sports Feature Editor



SAMUEL CANNING

Copy Editor

JAMES M. BONNER

Picture Editor

WILLIAM ALTENPOHL

Circulation Manager

WARREN G. SEXTON

Business Manager

WILLIAM WESTGATE

New Staff Appointed; Welsh Editor-in-Chief

By GEORGE O'NEIL

A revision of the managing personnel of the Villanovan and the addition of four staff men to key posts in the paper's various departments was disclosed last week by Russell Leo Welsh, recently appointed Editor-In-Chief.

Donald M. Collins has been assigned the duties of Managing Editor and Warren Sexton fills the post of Circulation Manager. The staff members elevated to higher positions include William Altenpohl, Picture Editor; William Wescott, Business Manager; Samuel Canning, Co-Sports Editor and James Bonner, Copy Editor.

Welsh Editor

The new Editor-in-Chief, Russell Welsh attended Villanova College during the war years as a Navy V-12 trainee. Russ was formerly a student at St. Meinrad College in Indiana before his entry into the service. He served with the Fleet Marine Forces eleven months before entering Villanova to continue his pre-med studies.

At St. Meinrad prep school Russ competed in track contests as a pole-vaulter, was a member of the Symphony Orchestra, concert band and swing band, playing the clarinet and sax.

Served In California

During his service with the Fleet Russ became a Pharmacists Mate second class and was stationed at the Naval Hospital in San Diego. He was later transferred to Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, California, from which station he was transferred to Villanova College.

Welsh lists among his other extracurricular activities, intramural basketball, the Navy band, chairman of the Sophomore Cotillion, member of the Sanctuary Society, and the tennis tournament.

The new Managing Editor, who hails from Philadelphia, is a graduate of St. Joseph's Prep where, besides playing varsity football, he edited the school year-book, participated in dramatics, was vice-president of the senior class, associate editor of the school magazine and headed the Booster Club, an organization whose purpose it was to enliven pep rallies.

Marine Corps Vet

Collins entered Villanova in July, 1944, and has been associated with the Villanovan since that time. A major in Chemistry, Don is a member of the Student Council and the Orientation Committee and was a delegate to the Intercultural Committee of the United Nations Organization of Philadelphia. His education was interrupted in July, 1944 when he joined the U. S. Marine Corps and he served with that branch of the armed forces until June, 1945. He returned to Villanova in November of last year.

Matthew Kearney, A/S, USNR, is the new co-editor of the Sports Department and will work with Sam Canning who also is a co-editor of that section of the paper. Matt came to Villanova with a V-12 Unit in July, 1944 shortly after his enlistment in the service.

Finalist In Contest

He graduated from Trenton Catholic High School and while there he was a member of the Forum Club, participated in school plays for three years and was a finalist in the State Humorous Declamation Contest. He has taken part in several plays here, is a member of the Spanish Club and was Sports Editor of the Villanovan during last summer's session. Matt's home is at Morrisville, Pa.

Samuel Canning, who returned to Villanova this semester after four years with the army, is the new Sport Co-Editor. A resident of New York City, he enrolled in the college in the fall of 1939 in the Commerce and Finance School.

Active On Campus

Sam graduated from Cranford High School, in Cranford, N. J., where he lived until recently when his family moved to New York. While in high school, he was sports editor of the school paper, class officer for four years, president of the student council, chairman of the assembly program committee and played varsity basketball and baseball. His extracurricular activities at Villanova have included, besides the Villanovan, the Belle Air yearbook, vice-president of Junior Class, Secretary of the DPE, vice-

NEW EDITORS
Continued on Page Seven

Lou's Pie Shop Marks 25th Year

Mr. Chips of Villanova Has Been Known and Loved By All Classes

"Hi ya Gallagher!" is a familiar intonation heard daily amid the hubbub of the Villanova College Emporium or General Store, more familiarly known to Villanovans as the "Pie Shop." Louie, the general manager of the Pie Shop, in family life bears the name of Louis Ciamaichela, quite a confusing name when one tries to pronounce it correctly from inspection of the spelling. However, since it is too much of a mental strain to expect college students to remember his surname, Mr. Ciamaichela prefers to be called "Louie."

Left Italy In 1911

"The All-American College Barber," as he is fondly remembered by the students of the classes of '23 to '27, left Italy when he was 17 years old (that was in 1911), to find his fortune in the new world. He traveled around, worked at his trade in his own barber shop, until in August of 1922 he decided to try his hand at being College Barber at Villanova.

The Pie Shop as it is known today, did not have its beginnings in the basement of Mendel Hall, but rather had its origin close to the site of the present students' cafeteria. In 1923 the students of the college opened up a small store in order to sell snacks to the students at certain specified hours during the day. Louie came along, and since it was found that his management was successful in this field, he was allowed to continue in his work as both barber and new manager of the college store, by the college authorities.

Moved To Mendel

Since the Pie Shop began to expand rapidly, adding new merchandise to its shelves, a new site was selected, the basement of Mendel Hall. Here the Pie Shop has remained for the past 23 years, serving the customers of every class which has entered Villanova since that time.

The history of Louie and the Pie Shop is almost like reading the Centennial Issue of the Belle Air. The Pie Shop has seen the administrations of six college presidents, namely, Rev. Francis Driscoll O.S.A., Rev. Joseph Hickey O.S.A., Rev. Mortimer Sullivan O.S.A., Rev. James Griffin O.S.A., Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O.S.A., and the present president, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A.

Louie still remembers the worst football team that Villanova ever had. He says they were known as "The scoreless wonders." However, he remarks, "They didn't lose every game. They played a few scoreless ties and succeeded in holding Muhlenberg, their archrivals that year to a 0-0 score." This team played its very unsuccessful season in 1923.

The Pie Shop has grown along with the college. When the store was in its incipiency, Villanova College consisted of two main buildings. One, now known as Alumni Hall, was the prep school, the other was Mendel Hall, then known as College Hall, Austin Hall, Fedigan Hall, the Commerce and Finance building, the Field House and the Stadium were all built during Louie's stay here.

We Saved The Cash

During the two fires of 1929 and 1932 which were quite costly ones for Villanova, Mendel Hall, among the other buildings, suffered quite a bit of damage. The fire of 1929, Louie says, illustrates best the loyalty and integrity of Villanova men. Father Daniel Driscoll saved Louie's cash box in the midst of the fire, the boys from Saint Mary's Hall saved all the cartons of cigarettes, and one of the men the football team snatched the cash register away from some designing person in the nick of time.

"So It's An Antique"

Despite the fact that almost both wings of Mendel Hall were burnt to cinders, the center part remained standing. Louie says. "The Pie Shop and Alumni Hall are the only two original antiques left on the campus."

Reminiscing back to the days before the beginning of this war, the padrone of the College Store remarks, "Boys, those were the days of real college spirit. The classes which have remained in closest contact throughout their alumni days are the classes of 1926 and 1927. Maybe you fellows might learn a lesson from them. These classes used to collect small weekly dues from the members, and they put on the best dances and the biggest and most successful Senior Ball that this college has ever had.

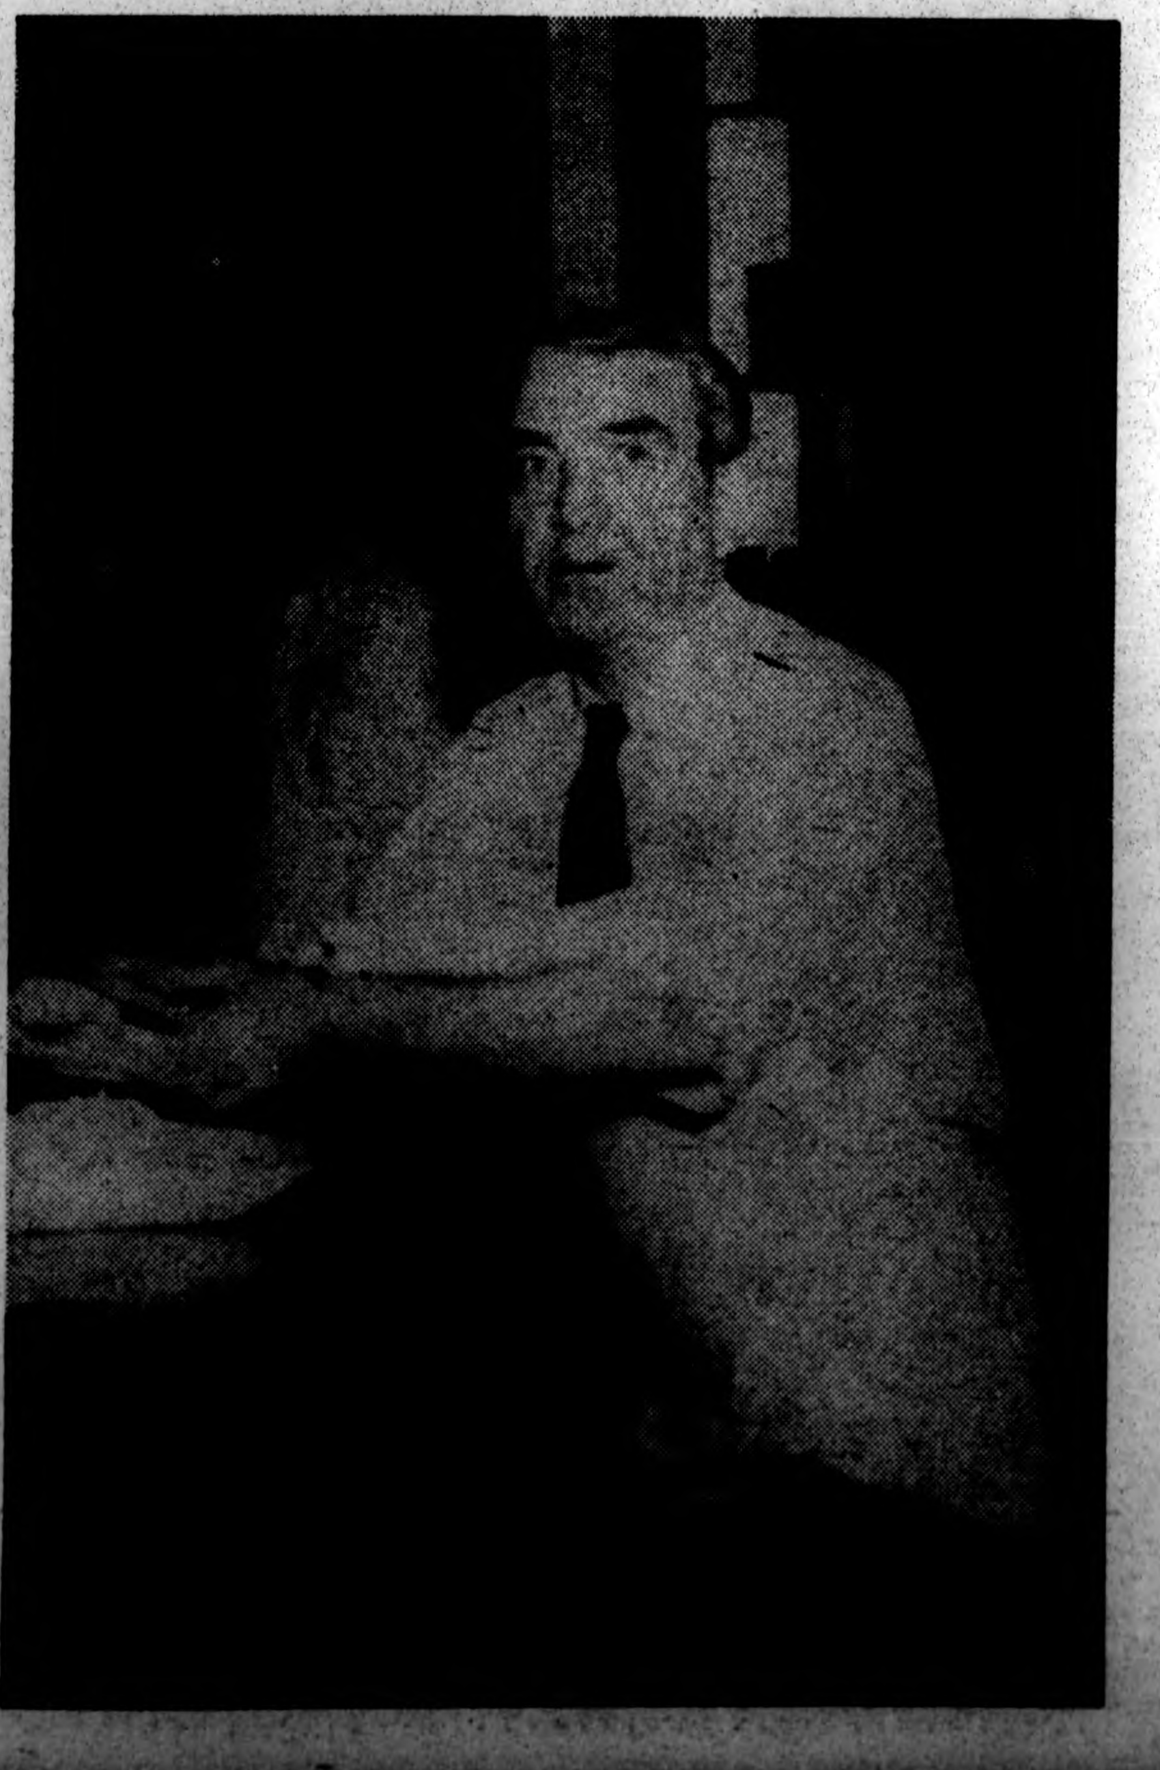
Molasses & Pajamas

"Initiations in those days were quite the things too. Of course, it would be a bit rough on the boys today to go through what those old timers took. Those poor fellows used to get a molasses bath and would have to march to Bryn Mawr in pajamas and were made to do plenty of crazy things, such as the peanut race. I'll never forget the time when the Freshmen were taken to Bryn Mawr and then blindfolded, and each man had to push a peanut along the ground with his nose. The man who passed the finish line first won the first prize. The first prize turned out to be a good paddling from the upperclassmen. When the tired Freshmen returned home to the halls after a hard day, they found that all the water was shut off so that they coudn't even wash off the molasses they were smeared with.

"Basketball and baseball were

PIE SHOP LOUIE
Continued on Page Eight

The Gold-Dust Twins



VILLANOVAN SPORTS

The Long And Short Of It!

Joe Donovan, 6'5½" pitcher sets a great contrast to diminutive Bob "Major" McDonnell, 5'7", at Spring drills here. The difference, however, lies only in height, for both men are fine hurlers and are expected to relieve some of Coach Weinert's mound worries.

Rest Of Baseball Squad Joins Battery Men As Practice Starts

Wind, rain, and cold weather sums up the report for Villanova's Spring baseball practice during the past week. This weather condition has hampered the pitching staff, with several members sporting "ailing flippers". Despite this temporary handicap, the pitching corps is rounding out to be one of the strongest assets to the team. It consists of Emil Matas, a hold-over from last year's team, Henry "Jigger" Donahue, Robert "Major" McDonnell, and Joe Brehmer. Donahue and McDonnell both played on the 1941 and 1942 squads when the Cats were playing real baseball. The "Major" will be remembered for his two no-hitters during these seasons. The very versatile Joe Brehmer, has put away his mask and chest protector and is now training for the other end of the battery. Joe's the type of athlete that can pull this stunt and make the starting line up "to boot."

Among the new-comers is Joe "Slim" Donovan, who is a mere 6'5½ tall, a veteran of the South Pacific and a former star in amateur leagues around Boston. Slim looks quite at home on the mound; his speed and form during batting practice duty show great promise.

In addition to the above mentioned candidates, Coach Weinert has six additional new men whom he claims will bear watching, for several of these could very easily jump into a starting assignment.

A great deal of interest is being given to the red hot competition connected with the catching position. Charles "Ike" Eisenhart is going to have to really "put out" in order to refill this position that he held last year. It seems that Joe Nunan and Frank O'Neil are quite determined to regain this post which they held before going into the armed forces. In addition, Bill Kelly and Paul Weidenhaefer claim they're not wearing the mask and protector as part of the Navy P.T. program. They have definite designs on "Ike's" favorite position. At present O'Neil appears to be the leading contender—but don't overlook Joe Nunan.

Although the diamond is in very bad shape right now, a glimpse of the possible infield looks like Marano, switching from third to short, Boos switching from second to third, Lord playing second, and Comerford or Schleicher playing first.

With the exception of Dan Casey's position in the outfield, the other two vacancies are wide open, with a crew of exservice men looking for a berth. Among the most promising are George Famiglietti, John Henry, Carl Armas, Albert Sirazo, and John Saffo.

Just about the time that Coach Weinert has a fair idea about who's going to play where, the Spring football practice will be over and three additional ball players will be making their bids for positions.

With this large array of talent, Villanova's new baseball coach should have a victorious first season.

Batting Practice

Mac Stuart taking his cuts at the horsehide during the baseball team's first batting practice session. Stuart, an infielder, is among the candidates for the starting line-up against Valley Forge Hospital on April 3rd.

Forming Of A 150 Lb. Team Rests On Students Vote

(An Editorial On The Return of a 150 Pound Football Team To Campus)

By JIM McNAMARA

Villanova is again back to normalcy, and with the varsity prospects becoming brighter every day, a wave of optimism in the field of sports is settling over the campus. When coaches forfeit their professionally pessimistic outlook, the material must be there. In every major varsity sport Villanova will again demand the acclaim which established it as one of the greatest in collegiate sports circles in the East in the "ante-bellum" days.

Every sports-minded student should grab the opportunity to perform for his school in varsity games, but many, because of inexperience or other handicaps, are unable to make the grade. To this end Intramurals and Junior Varsities are dedicated. With the war, one of the most popular sub-varsity teams—the 150 pound football team—was discontinued. This outlet for men who love the sport, but could not compete on the varsity, always found favor at Villanova.

The Reverend Edward V. McKee, O.S.A., at present is weighted down with problems concerning the preparations for the extensive sports program ahead, but he nevertheless is considering the rebirth of a 150 pound football team. Nothing definite can be assured until the meeting at the IC4A Outdoor Track Championship at Annapolis, Md. on May 4, at which time plans for the proposed league will be discussed. It is then that Villanova's representative will voice his decision as to whether or not Villanova will participate as it did in previous years.

Yale, Cornell, Princeton, Rutgers, Lafayette and Villanova will exchange slants on the subject and plans for a league will be drafted. George Little, of Rutgers, will arrange the schedule if a sufficient number of schools indicate they will field a team. New York University and U. S. Military Academy have already expressed their desire to be recognized as entrants.

At the present time a poll of the campus to find out how many men are interested in playing is the only way the Athletic Board can determine if we can enter a team. The desire to play isn't quite enough. The desire to train hard and long is far more important. In past years the enthusiasm to compete in the games and make the road trips has been overwhelming but the intervening days required for practice showed a decided lack of attendance and spirit.

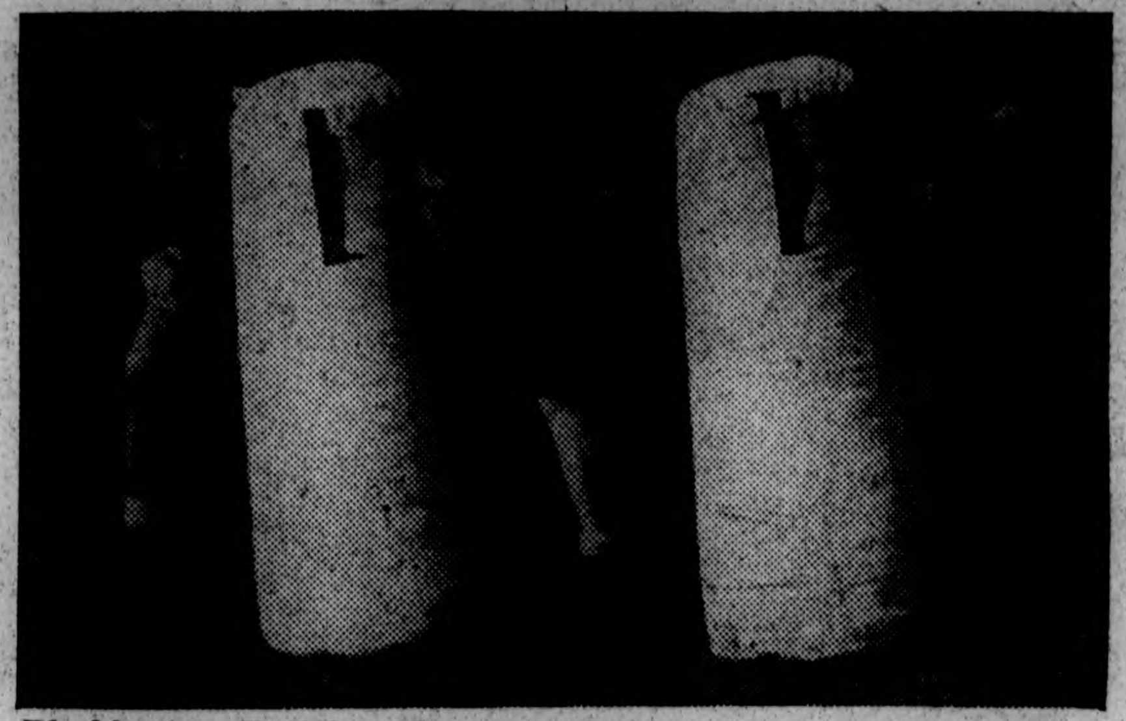
It must be realized that the college incurs a great additional expense for 150 lb. football. A coach must be obtained, uniforms, equipment and road trips.

Unless a large poll of experienced players, who intend to train and practice, is received, our answer on May 4 will be negative.

If you are interested in organizing a team, submit your name and qualifications to Sam Canning or Matt Kearney, co-sport editors this week. Canning will be contacted at O'Dwyer Hall or at the Book-Store. Kearney at Fedigan Hall.

With the prospective rise in other sports categories, don't ignore the opportunity to put this athletic endeavor over for the coming season. Villanova has a tradition to carry on, and this isn't the season to break it. A Blue and White 150 pound football team is in the hands of the student body.

Welcome Home



Blockbusters Restaine, Narcum and McCarthy are working harder than ever to get back in pre-war shape. These boys saw service with the Wildcats before the war and are a pleasing sight to the 1946 edition.

Sixty Footballers Out For Spring Practice

Art Raimo, Former Grid Star Here, With Coaching Staff; Welde, '45 Captain, Returns

By DON FOX

With a total of 60 players on hand Villanova's gridmen climaxed their first week of spring football practice. Coach Jordan Oliver, who is beginning his fourth year as head mentor of the Wildcats, was optimistic over his charges, as he put them through their paces.

"This is the best material we've had since we've been here. We have about 12 boys back from last year's team and prospects seem better than at any time since the war."

Captain Welde Back

Such stalwarts as Ed Lawless; Romeo Capriotti; Milt Komarnicki; Joe Scarcelli; Riley; Cocco; Ferry; Vince McPeak; and captain "Chic" Welde are on hand.

Thus far Ends Bud Kane and Stan Constantino have been performing very impressively, while the punting and passing of Halfback Rothenhauser is another highlight of the daily workouts.

Raimo Assistant Coach

Coach Oliver is ably assisted by Art Raimo and Gerry Neri. Art Raimo, the former Villanova fullback, who is starting his first year as an aide to Oliver had this to say, "This is the best squad since the war. They have size and they possess experience. Things look bright, but you can't really tell until we begin scrimmaging."

Among the newcomers to the team are Frank Kane, West Catholic; Mike Santecroce, Overbrook; John Witsch, All Public center from Northeast; and Anton Zanzinger from Ridley Township.

All in all, the future of Villanova's men in moleskins appears to be on the upward climb, but with such powerhouses as Army and Navy heading a tough schedule, anything can happen.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Nick Etten and Mike Garbarck continue to hold their own at the New York Yankees' Spring training camp where both boys are working out with the Yankee "B" team. Both Mike and Nick are former Villanovan baseball men and performed for the Yanks last year.

• • •

Joe Walters, who for the first half of the season was Philadelphia District leading scorer, is now stationed at Hahnemann Medical School. Joe was the talk of the town with his dead-eye performances for the 1944-45 basketball team.

• • •

Bob Wilson was around the campus this past week decked out in a mighty fine looking suit of "civvies." Bobby was the last word in Intramural sports, playing basketball, football and softball withm the Fedigan Hall Navy team. Wilson was discharged recently from the service.

• • •

Fred Koch, Villanova tennis "ace" and organizer and director of last year's Intramural Tennis Tournament, is currently employed by the Tracy-Wells Co. in Columbus, Ohio. Fred hasn't forgotten school however, for in his spare time he finds time to carry ten credits of work at a local night school.

Back To Form

Romeo Capriotti, who displayed some fine elements last season, certainly looks as though he'll give a repeat peformance this Fall. Cap is cracking the line in Spring Practice.

NEW VILLANOVAN EDITORS

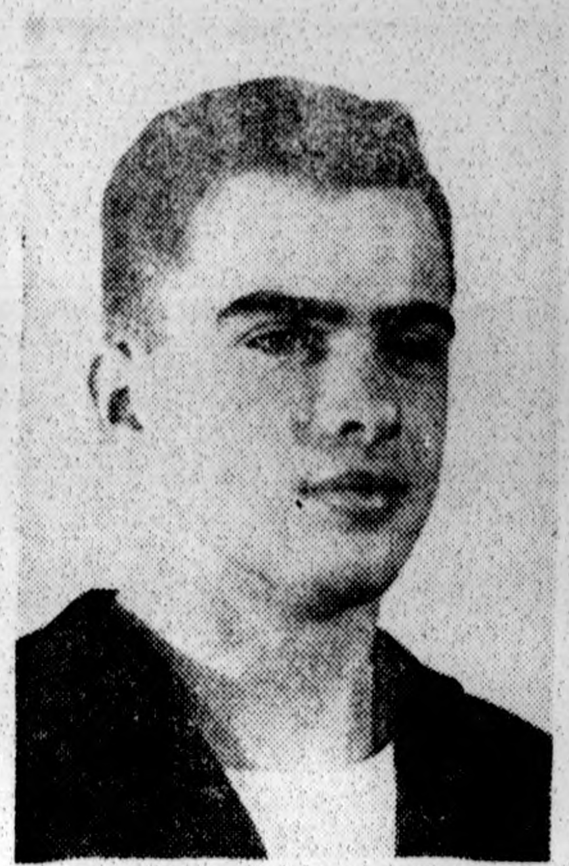
Editor-in-Chief

RUSSELL LEO WELSH

Managing Editor

DONALD M. COLLINS

Sports News Editor



MATTHEW KEARNEY

Sports Feature Editor

SAMUEL CANNING

Copy Editor

JAMES M. BONNER

Picture Editor

WILLIAM ALTENPOHL

Circulation Manager

WARREN G. SEXTON

Business Manager

WILLIAM WESTGATE

New Staff Appointed: Welsh Editor-in-Chief

By GEORGE O'NEIL

A revision of the managing personnel of the Villanovan and the addition of four staff men to key posts in the paper's various departments was disclosed last week by Russell Leo Welsh, recently appointed Editor-In-Chief.

Donald M. Collins has been assigned the duties of Managing Editor and Warren Sexton fills the post of Circulation Manager. The staff members elevated to higher positions include William Altenpohl, Picture Editor; William Wescott, Business Manager; Samuel Canning, Co-Sports Editor and James Bonner, Copy Editor.

Welsh Editor

The new Editor-in-Chief, Russell Welsh attended Villanova College during the war years as a Navy V-12 trainee. Russ was formerly a student at St. Meinrad College in Indiana before his entry into the service. He served with the Fleet Marine Forces eleven months before entering Villanova to continue his pre-med studies.

At St. Meinrad prep school Russ competed in track contests as a pole-vaulter, was a member of the Symphony Orchestra, concert band and swing band, playing the clarinet and sax.

Served In California

During his service with the Fleet Russ became a Pharmacists Mate second class and was stationed at the Naval Hospital in San Diego. He was later transferred to Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, California, from which station he was transferred to Villanova College.

Welsh lists among his other extracurricular activities, intramural basketball, the Navy band, chairman of the Sophomore Cotillion, member of the Sanctuary Society, and the tennis tournament.

The new Managing Editor, who hails from Philadelphia, is a graduate of St. Joseph's Prep where, besides playing varsity football, he edited the school year-book, participated in dramatics, was vice-president of the senior class, associate editor of the school magazine and headed the Booster Club, an organization whose purpose it was to enliven pep rallies.

Marine Corps Vet

Collins entered Villanova in July, 1944, and has been associated with the Villanovan since that time. A major in Chemistry, Don is a member of the Student Council and the Orientation Committee and was a delegate to the Intercultural Committee of the United Nations Organization of Philadelphia. His education was interrupted in July, 1944 when he joined the U. S. Marine Corps and he served with that branch of the armed forces until June, 1945. He returned to Villanova in November of last year.

Matthew Kearney, A/S, USNR, is the new co-editor of the Sports Department and will work with Sam Canning who also is a co-editor of that section of the paper. Matt came to Villanova with a V-12 Unit in July, 1944 shortly after his enlistment in the service.

Finalist In Contest

He graduated from Trenton Catholic High School and while there he was a member of the Forum Club, participated in school plays for three years and was a finalist in the State Humorous Declamation Contest. He has taken part in several plays here, is a member of the Spanish Club and was Sports Editor of the Villanovan during last summer's session. Matt's home is at Morrisville, Pa.

Samuel Canning, who returned to Villanova this semester after four years with the army, is the new Sport Co-Editor. A resident of New York City, he enrolled in the college in the fall of 1939 in the Commerce and Finance School.

Active On Campus

Sam graduated from Cranford High School, in Cranford, N. J., where he lived until recently when his family moved to New York. While in high school, he was sports editor of the school paper, class officer for four years, president of the student council, chairman of the assembly program committee and played varsity basketball and baseball. His extracurricular activities at Villanova have included, besides the Villanovan, the Belle Air yearbook, vice-president of Junior Class, Secretary of the DPE, vice-

NEW EDITORS
Continued on Page Seven

Lou's Pie Shop Marks 25th Year

Mr. Chips of Villanova Has Been Known and Loved By All Classes

"Hi ya Gallagher!" is a familiar intonation heard daily amid the hubbub of the Villanova College Emporium or General Store, more familiarly known to Villanovans as the "Pie Shop." Louie, the general manager of the Pie Shop, in family life bears the name of Louis Ciamaichela, quite a confusing name when one tries to pronounce it correctly from inspection of the spelling. However, since it is too much of a mental strain to expect college students to remember his surname, Mr. Ciamaichela prefers to be called "Louie."

Left Italy In 1911

"The All-American College Barber," as he is fondly remembered by the students of the classes of '23 to '27, left Italy when he was 17 years old (that was in 1911), to find his fortune in the new world. He traveled around, worked at his trade in his own barber shop, until in August of 1922 he decided to try his hand at being College Barber at Villanova.

The Pie Shop as it is known today, did not have its beginnings in the basement of Mendel Hall, but rather had its origin close to the site of the present students' cafeteria. In 1923 the students of the college opened up a small store in order to sell snacks to the students at certain specified hours during the day. Louie came along, and since it was found that his management was successful in this field, he was allowed to continue in his work as both barber and new manager of the college store, by the college authorities.

Moved To Mendel

Since the Pie Shop began to expand rapidly, adding new merchandise to its shelves, a new site was selected, the basement of Mendel Hall. Here the Pie Shop has remained for the past 23 years, serving the customers of every class which has entered Villanova since that time.

The history of Louie and the Pie Shop is almost like reading the Centennial Issue of the Belle Air. The Pie Shop has seen the administrations of six college presidents, namely, Rev. Francis Driscoll O.S.A., Rev. Joseph Hickey O.S.A., Rev. Mortimer Sullivan O.S.A., Rev. James Griffin O.S.A., Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O.S.A., and the present president, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A.

Louie still remembers the worst football team that Villanova ever had. He says they were known as "The scoreless wonders." However, he remarks, "They didn't lose every game. They played a few scoreless ties and succeeded in holding Muhlenberg, their arch-rivals that year to a 0-0 score." This team played its very unsuccessful season in 1923.

The Pie Shop has grown along with the college. When the store was in its incipiency, Villanova College consisted of two main buildings. One, now known as Alumni Hall, was the prep school, the other was Mendel Hall, then known as College Hall, Austin Hall, Fedigan Hall, the Commerce and Finance building, the Field House and the Stadium were all built during Louie's stay here.

We Saved The Cash

During the two fires of 1929 and 1932 which were quite costly ones for Villanova, Mendel Hall, among the other buildings, suffered quite a bit of damage. The fire of 1929, Louie says, illustrates best the loyalty and integrity of Villanova men. Father Daniel Driscoll saved Louie's cash box in the midst of the fire, the boys from Saint Mary's Hall saved all the cartons of cigarettes, and one of the men the football team snatched the cash register away from some designing person in the nick of time.

"So It's An Antique"

Despite the fact that almost both wings of Mendel Hall were burnt to cinders, the center part remained standing. Louie says. "The Pie Shop and Alumni Hall are the only two original antiques left on the campus."

Reminiscing back to the days before the beginning of this war, the padrone of the College Store remarks, "Boys, those were the days of real college spirit. The classes which have remained in closest contact throughout their alumni days are the classes of 1926 and 1927. Maybe you fellows might learn a lesson from them. These classes used to collect small weekly dues from the members, and they put on the best dances and the biggest and most successful Senior Ball that this college has ever had.

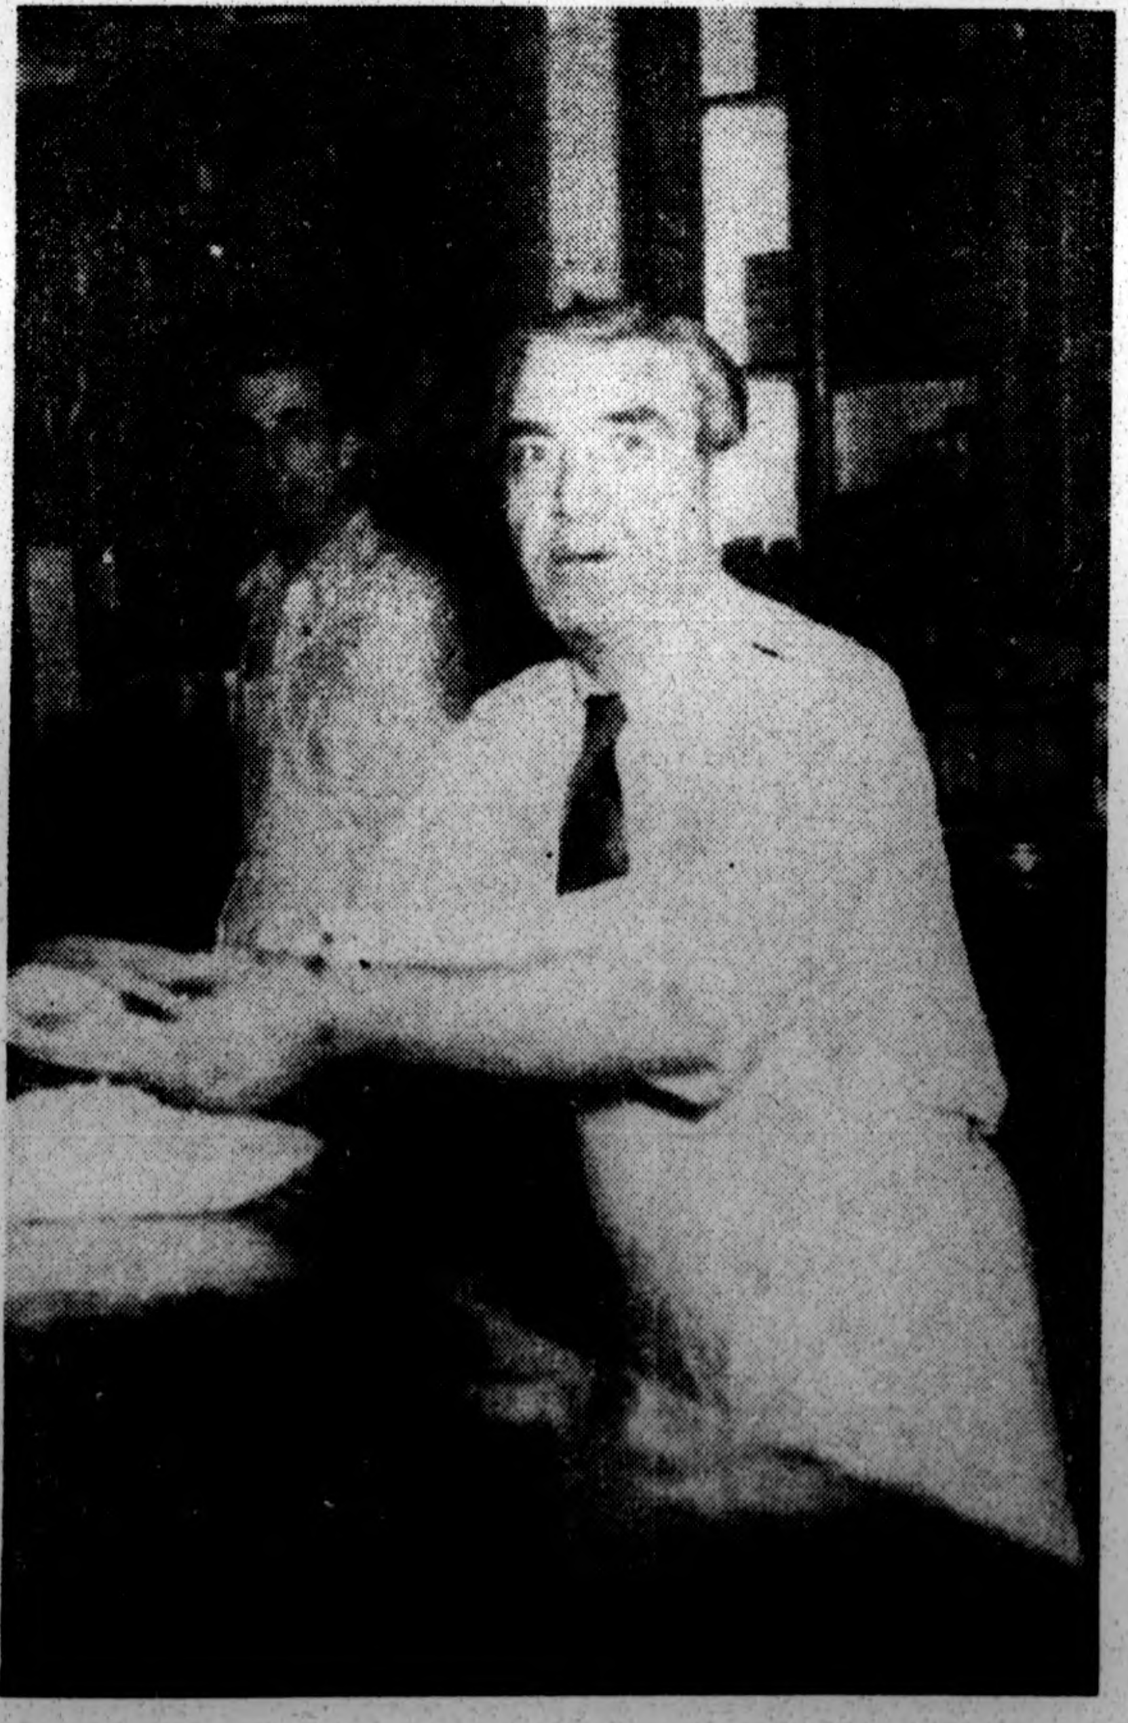
Molasses & Pajamas

"Initiations in those days were quite the things too. Of course, it would be a bit rough on the boys today to go through what those old timers took. Those poor fellows used to get a molasses bath and would have to march to Bryn Mawr in pajamas and were made to do plenty of crazy things, such as the peanut race. I'll never forget the time when the Freshmen were taken to Bryn Mawr and then blindfolded, and each man had to push a peanut along the ground with his nose. The man who passed the finish line first won the first prize. The first prize turned out to be a good paddling from the upperclassmen. When the tired Freshmen returned home to the halls after a hard day, they found that all the water was shut off so that they coudn't even wash off the molasses they were smeared with.

"Basketball and baseball were

PIE SHOP LOUIE
Continued on Page Eight

The Gold-Dust Twins



VILLANOVAN SPORTS

The Long And Short Of It!

Joe Donovan, 6'5½" pitcher sets a great contrast to diminutive Bob "Major" McDonnell, 5'7", at Spring drills here. The difference, however, lies only in height, for both men are fine hurlers and are expected to relieve some of Coach Weinert's mound worries.

Rest Of Baseball Squad Joins Battery Men As Practice Starts

Wind, rain, and cold weather sums up the report for Villanova's Spring baseball practice during the past week. This weather condition has hampered the pitching staff, with several members sporting "ailing flippers". Despite this temporary handicap, the pitching corps is rounding out to be one of the strongest assets to the team. It consists of Emil Matas, a hold-over from last year's team, Henry "Jigger" Donahue, Robert "Major" McDonnell, and Joe Brehmer. Donahue and McDonnell both played on the 1941 and 1942 squads when the Cats were playing real baseball. The "Major" will be remembered for his two no-hitters during these seasons. The very versatile Joe Brehmer, has put away his mask and chest protector and is now training for the other end of the battery. Joe's the type of athlete that can pull this stunt and make the starting line up "to boot."

Among the new-comers is Joe "Slim" Donovan, who is a mere 6'5½ tall, a veteran of the South Pacific and a former star in amateur leagues around Boston. Slim looks quite at home on the mound; his speed and form during batting practice duty show great promise.

In addition to the above mentioned candidates, Coach Weinert has six additional new men whom he claims will bear watching, for several of these could very easily jump into a starting assignment.

A great deal of interest is being given to the red hot competition connected with the catching position. Charles "Ike" Eisenhart is going to have to really "put out" in order to refill this position that he held last year. It seems that Joe Nunan and Frank O'Neil are quite determined to regain this post which they held before going into the armed forces. In addition, Bill Kelly and Paul Weidenhaefer claim they're not wearing the mask and protector as part of the Navy P.T. program. They have definite designs on "Ike's" favorite position. At present O'Neil appears to be the leading contender—but don't overlook Joe Nunan.

Although the diamond is in very bad shape right now, a glimpse of the possible infield looks like Marano, switching from third to short, Boos switching from second to third, Lord playing second, and Comerford or Schleicher playing first.

With the exception of Dan Casey's position in the outfield, the other two vacancies are wide open, with a crew of exservice men looking for a berth. Among the most promising are George Famiglietti, John Henry, Carl Armas, Albert Sirazo, and John Saffo.

Just about the time that Coach Weinert has a fair idea about who's going to play where, the Spring football practice will be over and three additional ball players will be making their bids for positions.

With this large array of talent, Villanova's new baseball coach should have a victorious first season.

Batting Practice

Mac Stuart taking his cuts at the horsehide during the baseball team's first batting practice session. Stuart, an infielder, is among the candidates for the starting line-up against Valley Forge Hospital on April 3rd.

Forming Of A 150 Lb. Team Rests On Students Vote

(An Editorial On The Return of a 150 Pound Football Team To Campus)

By JIM McNAMARA

Villanova is again back to normalcy, and with the varsity prospects becoming brighter every day, a wave of optimism in the field of sports is settling over the campus. When coaches forfeit their professionally pessimistic outlook, the material must be there. In every major varsity sport Villanova will again demand the acclaim which established it as one of the greatest in collegiate sports circles in the East in the "ante-bellum" days.

Every sports - minded student should grab the opportunity to perform for his school in varsity games, but many, because of inexperience or other handicaps, are unable to make the grade. To this end Intramurals and Junior Varsities are dedicated. With the war, one of the most popular sub-varsity teams—the 150 pound football team —was discontinued. This outlet for men who love the sport, but could not compete on the varsity, always found favor at Villanova.

The Reverend Edward V. McKee, O.S.A., at present is weighted down with problems concerning the preparations for the extensive sports program ahead, but he nevertheless is considering the rebirth of a 150 pound football team. Nothing definite can be assured until the meeting at the IC4A Outdoor Track Championship at Annapolis, Md. on May 4, at which time plans for the proposed league will be discussed. It is then that Villanova's representative will voice his decision as to whether or not Villanova will participate as it did in previous years.

Yale, Cornell, Princeton, Rutgers, Lafayette and Villanova will exchange slants on the subject and plans for a league will be drafted. George Little, of Rutgers, will arrange the schedule if a sufficient number of schools indicate they will field a team. New York University and U. S. Military Academy have already expressed their desire to be recognized as entrants.

At the present time a poll of the campus to find out how many men are interested in playing is the only way the Athletic Board can determine if we can enter a team. The desire to play isn't quite enough. The desire to train hard and long is far more important. In past years the enthusiasm to compete in the games and make the road trips has been overwhelming but the intervening days required for practice showed a decided lack of attendance and spirit.

It must be realized that the college incurs a great additional expense for 150 lb. football. A coach must be obtained, uniforms, equipment and road trips.

Unless a large poll of experienced players, who intend to train and practice, is received, our answer on May 4 will be negative.

If you are interested in organizing a team, submit your name and qualifications to Sam Canning or Matt Kearney, co-sport editors this week. Canning will be contacted at O'Dwyer Hall or at the Book-Store. Kearney at Fedigan Hall.

With the prospective rise in other sports categories, don't ignore the opportunity to put this athletic endeavor over for the coming season. Villanova has a tradition to carry on, and this isn't the season to break it. A Blue and White 150 pound football team is in the hands of the student body.

Welcome Home

Blockbusters Restaine, Narcum and McCarthy are working harder than ever to get back in pre-war shape. These boys saw service with the Wildcats before the war and are a pleasing sight to the 1946 edition.

Sixty Footballers Out For Spring Practice

Art Raimo, Former Grid Star Here, With Coaching Staff; Welde, '45 Captain, Returns

By DON FOX

With a total of 60 players on hand Villanova's gridmen climaxed their first week of spring football practice. Coach Jordan Oliver, who is beginning his fourth year as head mentor of the Wildcats, was optimistic over his charges, as he put them through their paces.

"This is the best material we've had since we've been here. We have about 12 boys back from last year's team and prospects seem better than at any time since the war."

Captain Welde Back

Such stalwarts as Ed Lawless; Romeo Capriotti; Milt Komarnicki; Joe Scarcelli; Riley; Cocco; Ferry; Vince McPeak; and captain "Chic" Welde are on hand.

Thus far Ends Bud Kane and Stan Constantino have been performing very impressively, while the punting and passing of Halfback Rothenhauser is another highlight of the daily workouts.

Raimo Assistant Coach

Coach Oliver is ably assisted by Art Raimo and Gerry Neri. Art Raimo, the former Villanova fullback, who is starting his first year as an aide to Oliver had this to say, "This is the best squad since the war. They have size and they possess experience. Things look bright, but you can't really tell until we begin scrimmaging."

Among the newcomers to the team are Frank Kane, West Catholic; Mike Santecroce, Overbrook; John Witsch, All Public center from Northeast; and Anton Zanzinger from Ridley Township.

All in all, the future of Villanova's men in moleskins appears to be on the upward climb, but with such powerhouses as Army and Navy heading a tough schedule, anything can happen.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Nick Etten and Mike Garbarck continue to hold their own at the New York Yankees' Spring training camp where both boys are working out with the Yankee "B" team. Both Mike and Nick are former Villanovan baseball men and performed for the Yanks last year.

• • •

Joe Walters, who for the first half of the season was Philadelphia District leading scorer, is now stationed at Hahnemann Medical School. Joe was the talk of the town with his dead-eye performances for the 1944-45 basketball team.

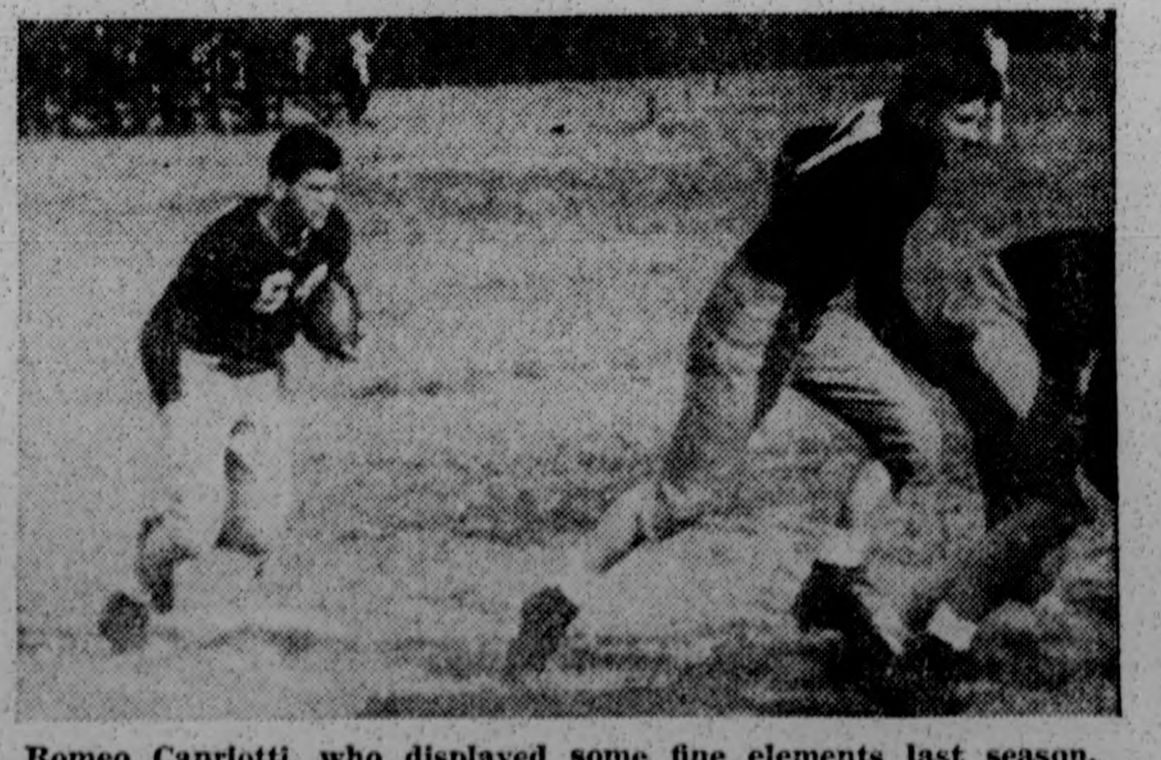
• • •

Bob Wilson was around the campus this past week decked out in a mighty fine looking suit of "civvies." Bobby was the last word in Intramural sports, playing basketball, football and softball withm the Fedigan Hall Navy team. Wilson was discharged recently from the service.

• • •

Fred Koch, Villanova tennis "ace" and organizer and director of last year's Intramural Tennis Tournament, is currently employed by the Tracy-Wells Co. in Columbus, Ohio. Fred hasn't forgotten school however, for in his spare time he finds time to carry ten credits of work at a local night school.

Back To Form



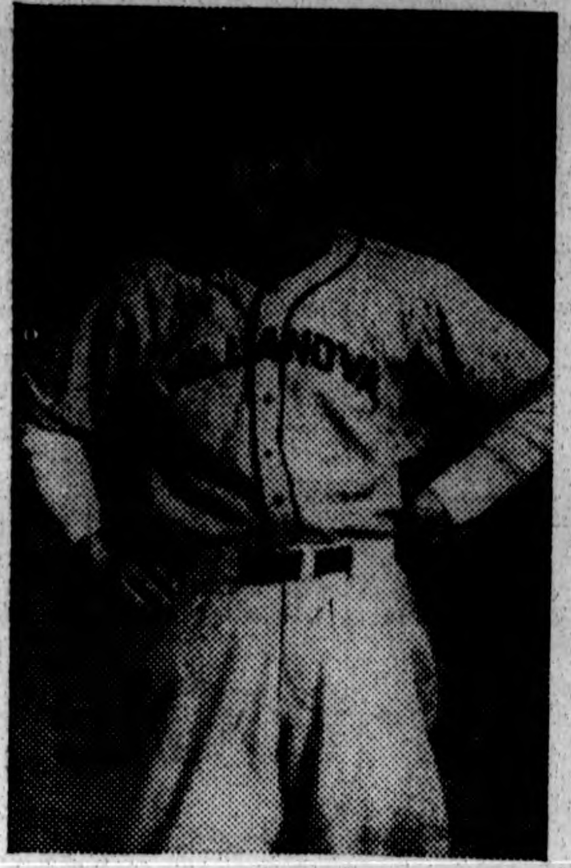
Romeo Capriotti, who displayed some fine elements last season, certainly looks as though he'll give a repeat peformance this Fall. Cap is cracking the line in Spring Practice.

Returned Vets

By BOB MANSKE

When Coach "Lefty" Weinert took over the coaching reigns of Villanova's base ball team this year he found that many a well-seasoned ballplayer from the pre-war diamond setup had returned to the fold here at Villanova after service in the armed forces of the United States.

Besides having played great ball for the glory of the Blue and White many of these young men participated for some of the star-studded service outfits. Included in the above category is the returning veteran, Daniel P. Casey.



DAN CASEY

When a freshman here, in these hallowed halls, Casey immediately showed the form and ability of becoming a truly great athlete and this he most ably did. In 1940 and 1941 when a sophomore and junior respectively, Casey became a two letter man, playing both varsity football and baseball running slightly ahead in honors.

In February 1942 Dan Casey's brilliant college career was interrupted because of his joining the Navy. He was assigned to Great Lakes and in a short while was made a gunnery instructor. Dan, however, did not give up his baseball career for here he played on the Great Lakes nine under the former major leaguer, the never to be forgotten Mickey Cochrane. Casey was the only non-professional ballplayer on this club, the others having already played major and minor league ball.

Before the opening of the '43 season, Casey found himself on the waters of the blue Pacific doing service on aircraft carriers and in PBY squadrons and before long he participated in the Marshall, Gilbert and Marianas campaigns. During his last four months overseas, making a total of twenty-eight months, Casey toured the Pacific with the Navy All Stars which boasted of such names as Virgil Trucks, Connie Ryan and many others.

Canning Says:—

In the process of proof reading the sports section, before publication, I naturally had to read the very kind and encouraging introduction which my fellow editor Matt Kearney wrote in his column on the other side of this page. To you members of Villanova and also you alumni and followers, Matt Kearney doesn't need an introduction, as he has been writing for you for the past two and a half years. It's going to be a great pleasure for me to work with Matt and the other fine writers on the sports staff, and also a pleasure for this staff to bring you sport fans a complete and accurate coverage of the Wildcat activities in the collegiate athletic circles.

—V—

In line with this policy of complete coverage, Father McKee has announced that Villanova's Spring Football practice will be broadcast by Philco's Television on Friday March 22d. It will be part of a program entitled "Events in and around Philadelphia," and will feature Coach Olivar putting the "Cats" through spring conditioning work outs and running a few plays in preparation for Villanova's heavy Fall schedule.

—V—

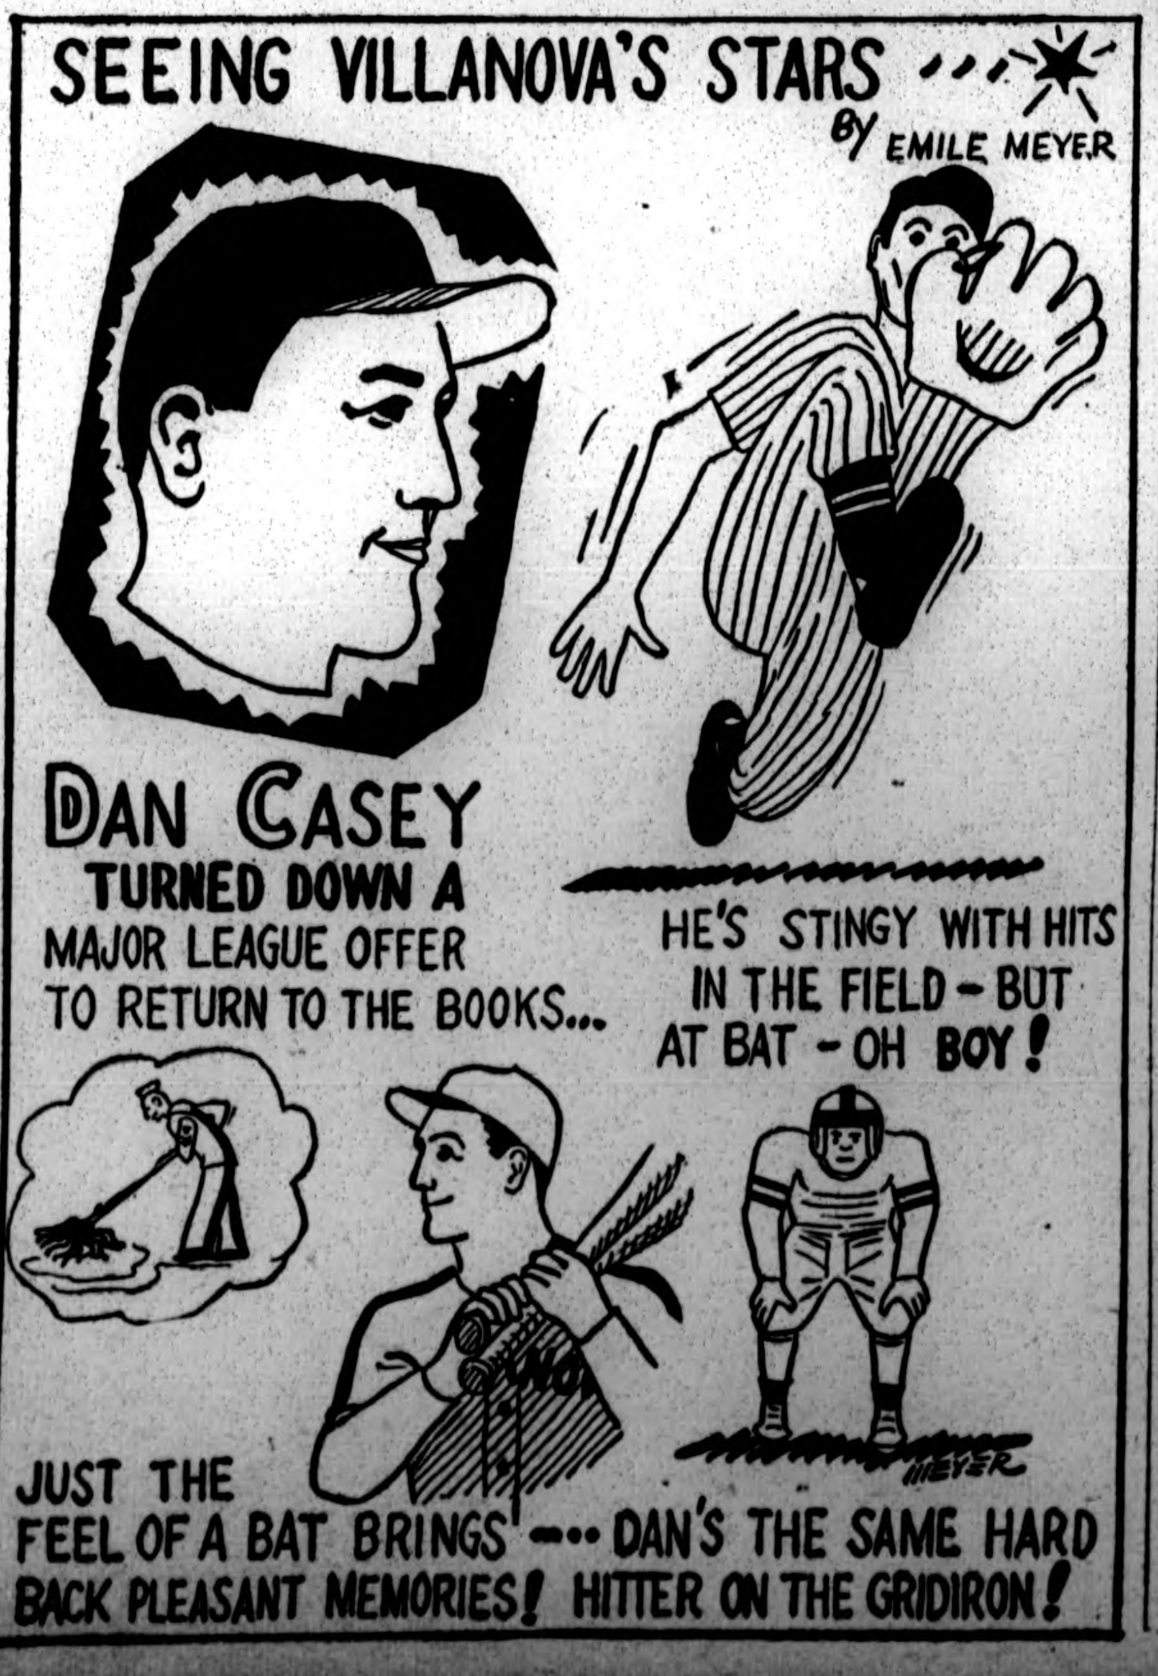
Although Joe Lord's basketball career at Villanova is over and he is now making a bid for baseball honors at second base, he still finds time to play basketball with Norristown in the Philadelphia area amateur league. Joe recently tied the league scoring record with 39 points in one game. It has just been announced that his 303-point record breaking season at Villanova placed him fourth in the State.

—V—

One of the Wildcat nines' great short-stops, Tony Colandra, has just been discharged from the service and was on the campus this week applying for admission for this semester. If Tony makes it, Coach Weinert will have a great combination around second base with Colandra and Lord.

—V—

An interview with Coach Jumbo Elliot disclosed he has twenty prospects for his track team but with the exception of Johnny Di Carlo, and Dan Redmond, they are all complete novices. This entails the job of rebuilding the team to its former high calibre of pre-war days. A very good way of finding hidden talent in the student body is to run an intra-mural track meet. Many varsity stars in all sports and in all colleges have been found in intra-mural competition. How about it Mr. Elliot?



SEEING VILLANOVA'S STARS
BY EMILE MEYER
DAN CASEY
TURNED DOWN A MAJOR LEAGUE OFFER TO RETURN TO THE BOOKS...
HE'S STINGY WITH HITS IN THE FIELD - BUT AT BAT - OH BOY!
JUST THE FEEL OF A BAT BRINGS BACK PLEASANT MEMORIES!
DAN'S THE SAME HARD HITTER ON THE GRIDIRON!
MEYER

Intramurals To Be Resumed; Softball, Swimming Head Program

Overshadowed by the great interest now being shown in varsity sports, Villanova's intramural sports program has been an untested and perhaps forgotten feature of campus life thus far this semester. Despite a number of handicaps, however, its moderators, Fathers Girolami and Kemme, plan to provide the students with plenty to do in the near future.

Softball, a sport which maintained its position in the program throughout the war, will, most likely, top the field once again both in interest and in numbers. As yet, no schedule nor list of teams to compete has been formed.

The main difficulty confronting the moderators is the finding of time in which to play the games. At present the early evening disappearance of Old Sol obviates any possibility of the league getting underway. With the lengthening of the days, however, the small-area version of the National Pastime will, no doubt, force its way into the student's extra-curriculum.

After a brief wartime vacation, swimming plans to re-enter the intramural field. This was formerly a varsity sport at Villanova but the season for collegiate competition has already closed this year. Nevertheless, with the advent of warm weather there should be a large number of tank enthusiasts to turn out for the planned meet.

The tennis tournament, which was such a great success last year, will definitely be held again this year when conditions permit. The courts must be put in shape but that will have to wait until the season arrives. There will be plenty of time for personal conditioning before tournament play begins.

It is hoped that golf, also, will be added to this list. Competition among the linksmen would round out a rather complete program. However, no plans have been made and nothing is definite.

Villanova formerly engaged in outside competition in each of the last three-mentioned sports. Although they are not doing so now, they may within a year or so. It is entirely possible that the stars of intramural competition in these sports will form the nucleus of varsity teams next year.

A Century Ago At Villanova

The following was published from Villanova College in the Summer of 1846:

St. Thomas of Villanova's College, after being closed for nearly two years in consequence of a calamity, the like of which it is hoped, will never again recur is now reopened with every prospect of permanence . . . Each pupil should be provided with three suits for Winter and three for Summer; three pair of shoes and a pair of strong boots; a cloak or overcoat; six towels; the same number of napkins and handkerchiefs, and at least a half dozen of the different articles of under dress which require a frequent washing, and a large silver spoon duly marked . . . The terms are $150 a year, with a discount of 10 percent for prepayment.

McINTYRE'S SHELL SUNK

While working out on the Schuylkill River in a one-man shell, Charles McIntyre, erstwhile college athlete, was thrown overboard when two boys stoned him from the Columbia Ave. bridge.

The pranksters missed McIntyre's head by a few inches and the rock smashed through the stern of his boat. He was forced to leave the shell aand swim to shore in the icey waters. He went to the Vesper Boat Club, of which he is a member, and was treated.

McIntyre, who performed on the Villanova football team last Fall, reported the incident to John B. (Jack) Kelly who was an Olympic champion and is now a member of the Fairmount Park Commission. Mr. Kelly claimed that this sort of thing has happened before and said he was "going to insist that police or park guards be posted on all bridges to prevent these attacks."

NROTC Riflemen Awarded Trophy

Starer Captains Team Of Yates, Syvertson, Wineman, Greenberg, Farnsworth And Madara

On March 14th the NROTC Unit Rifle Team of Villanova was awarded a large silver loving cup representing the rifle championship of the Fourth Naval District.

The presentation was made by Captain Stevens, USN, Director of Training for the Fourth Naval District to the team with the President of Villanova, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, in attendance. The presentation was made in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium.

In the presentation address, Captain Stevens pointed out the sacrifice of the members of the team of their free time to practice on the University of Pennsylvania range. He further stated that the Marine Unit was not permitted to participate but that he hoped the situation would be remedied before the next meet.

Fr. McGuire congratulated the team on its splendid victory and promised a special trophy case for the new NROTC Building.

The six man team was coached by Lt. (jg) Harry Abrahams and Chief Boatswain Mate Williams, who were responsible for the obtaining of the use of the Penn rifle range.

Although it was difficult for the group to find time to practice, they managed to meet three nights a week at the practice range. Incidenetally, the trophy is new and Villanova will always have the honor of being the first district champs. They defeated the NROTC Units of Penn State and the University of Pennsylvania.

Plans are now being formulated for a Pistol Team composed of members of the NROTC Unit here for entrance into the forthcoming Pistol Match of NROTC Units of the Fourth Naval District.

Lt. (jg) Abrahams will coach this team and the same practice hours will be observed.

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS

This week we still have a member of the basketball team in the Sportlight. Daniel Redmond, USNROTC, did not actively participate in the court game but served in the capacity of assistant manager. Observing spectators probably saw him keeping score or running the official clock at home games.

Dan was born some nineteen and three-quarter years ago up the Line in Berwyn. He attended St. Monica's and later West Catholic High School.

Active at West Catholic

Dan's activities at West were varied. He was manager of the basketball team for three years and played intra-mural ball. In his senior year he ran and won the half-mile in the intra-mural meet and gained a place on the track team. As a varsity man the "red-head" ran the 880 and the mile for the 1944 Catholic League Champions. The name Redmond also was signed to several articles that appeared in the 1944 yearbook.

Navy V-12 examinations were given in March of 1944 and Dan passed. This accounts for his presence at Villanova in July of that year in the appropriate blue uniform.

On Mile Relay Team

Track was the first sport to attract his attention and Dan proceeded to win the mile at the Princeton Summer Meet. Running indoors for the first time he placed second in the 100-yds. at the Inquirer Invitation Meet. Since then "Red" has been on the mile-relay team representing Villanova in the Milrose A.A., New York A.C., and Knights of Columbus meets in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Kearney Says:—

Our curtain-raiser today is the informal introduction of our new (yet old) Sports Features Editor, Mr. Samuel J. Canning. I say "yet old" because Sam has been away from Villanova for the past four years doing service with the Army.

Sam left in the middle of his Junior year after working himself up through long hard hours spent on the Villanovan Sports staff. At the time of his departure, Sam was next in line for the Sports Editorship.

Well, now he's back, and he is a Sports Editor. Incidentally, to my way of thinking, Sam is doing a bang-up job after his four year vacation (?). I'd thank Sam, if he now stood up and took a deep and gracious bow. Welcome back, Sam Canning!

—V—

We of the Villanovan have once again come to that difficult transitional time when no varsity team is in action. Basketball is over and baseball hasn't started. It is just as hard a time for us as it is for all the sports fans of the college, for, sports being sparse, our pages tend to become dry and uninteresting. However, we present to you what we have been able to uncover and petition you to bear with us for better times are coming. From all outlooks, things are promising. Baseball, football, tennis and intramurals all give us reason to believe that you will, in a very short time, enjoy the Sports of full scale college calibre.

—V—

We might add that for those of you who are interested in football, the Lunch Bowl has its daily classic now out on Mendel Field. Of course, the teams and line-ups experience a complete turnover everyday and there are no coaches, but the players give their all for the old team. The Sidewalk Stands are filled to overflowing and the sport has many supporters. You, too, are most welcome. All you need for admittance is a free period.

Book Review

Continued From Page Three

limitation of the material selected.

The fundamental facts of bacteriology, its principles and modes of reasoning, have been clearly defined in the text. The obstacle that is most frequently encountered by the student lies in the complexity of the subject — the large number of disconnected facts and theories which must be considered in a discussion of the structure, form and pathological implications of such intricate organisms as bacteria.

The authors have made a very nice selection of those facts and principles of bacteriology and immunology which it is most desirable that the student should know, and have stated these so clearly that they can be comprehended by anyone who possesses a knowledge of the fundamentals of biology.

There does not seem to be any sound reason why a textbook for pre-medical students should aim to present only those conclusions that have crystallized out of the controversies of other times, and ignore the live issues of the day which are of so much interest and importance not only to bacteriology, but to all branches of biology. With this idea in mind the authors have endeavored to make the student realize that bacteriology is a growing subject, continually widening its knowledge and adjusting its theories.

It is important that the student should grasp this conception, because, in the first place it is true; and, in the second place, it may save him later from disappointment and distrust in science if he recognizes that many of our conclusions are not the final truth, but provisional only, representing the best that can be done with the knowledge at our command. To emphasize this point as well as to add somewhat to the interest of the reader a very fine history of bacteriology is included at the beginning of the text.

There is no doubt in my mind but that the authors have made a very definite contribution to the field of bacteriology and immunology and that the book will be gratefully accepted by teachers in that field and widely adapted by other institutions. It is a source of great pride to know that such a contribution has been made by a member of our faculty.

DPE Smoker

Continued From Page One

These speakers may either be members of the faculty or men not directly connected to Commerce and Finance students' courses.

Final revision of the by-laws of the fraternity is expected to be completed by the end of the present term, by members of the By-laws Committee. This work is a sequel to the revision of the organization's constitution which was done during the winter semester.

Inter-Frat Plans

Ed Keller spoke to the frat concerning the progress of plans for the Inter-Frat Ball, which is to be held April 27. He particularly stressed the need for patrons and urged that all members do their bit either by direct subscription or propaganda towards securing the $1 patron fee. The name of the patron, Keller pointed out, will be printed in the dance program.

Informal Report

George O'Neil, treasurer of the fraternity, made an informal financial report at the request of the President. O'Neil reminded all that the fraternity funds are low and requested all members to cooperate by paying their semester dues as soon as possible.

Because of the depleted treasury and the needs for funds to carry on the activities of one of the major extracurricular organizations on the campus, it was voted that stern penalties will be dealt out to members delinquent in their dues payments. These penalties range all the way from a twenty-five cent fine to expulsion from the fraternity.

The Most Famous Inn on the Main Line

The Old Covered Wagon Inn

DANCING NIGHTLY

FINEST OF FOODS

For Reservations Call Wayne 1169

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

addressed by Judge Seybourn H. Lynne, '27, who is district judge for North Alabama and a resident of Alabama.

—The Plainsman.

* * *

A student bank is being opened at Baylor University where students may deposit personal funds at the office and withdraw them as desired, according to the Baylor Lariet, official publication of Baylor University. The service is being offered free to the student body to eliminate the necessity of keeping extra money in rooms or in a local bank account and paying bank service charges.

* * *

Here's one from the Court-jesting column, in the Court Page, Georgian Court College, Lakewood, N. J.

Stern father (sarcastically): "Say, young man, it's past midnight. Do you think you can stay all night?"

"Gosh!" exclaimed the innocent young man, "I'll have to telephone my mother first."

* * *

The appointment of four new faculty members as well as the return to active status of five others at Manhattan College is disclosed to us through the Manhattan Quadrangle, official college tabloid. The increase in the faculty was necessitated by the influx of new students at the February term, according to the dean of the college.

* * *

Editors are a lousy lot, you give them everything you've got,
With drama, humor, punch and plot—
And do they buy it? They do not.
They treat you like a brainless tot, convince you you're a
Mental blot whose mouthings never were so hot,
Editors are a lousy lot.
Then, feeling like a you-know-what, you scrawl some pitiable lot—
They give the thing a featured spot, they should be boiled in oil and shot.
Cretin, fiend, schlemiel and sot; editors are a lousy lot.

—The Brooklyn College Vanguard.

* * *

I had a picture of my cat, egad, it was cute
I had a picture of my dog, egad it was cute
I had a picture of myself. Egad!!!!

—The St. Bona Venture.

* * *

Professor: "I must beg you to give me your undivided attention. It is absolutely impossible that you can form a true idea of this hideous animal unless you fix your eyes on me."

—The Tomahawk.

* * *

The faculty and student body of the College of William and Mary, Va., were hosts to Winston Churchill and General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower last week when the two renowned celebrities and their official parties visited the Williamsburg campus, according to the Flat Hat, official school paper. The visiting group inspected several of the college buildings before their departure the same day.

* * *

The Temple University News informs us that Chuck Gordon and his orchestra have been selected to play for the Senior-Junior Prom which will be held Saturday, April 27. In addition to Gordon's band an authentic rhumba combo will play during intermissions to provide continuous music during the evening.

* * *

A professor of Greek tore his suit and took it to a tailor named Acidopolus from Athens. Mr. Acidopolus examined the suit, and asked "Euripides?" "Yes," said the professor, "Eumendies?"

—The Rambler, Ladycliff College.

Girl Vocalist Is War Veteran

When the curtain rises on the second annual Interfraternity dance a lovely young blonde will take over half of the vocal chores for the evening. She is Miss Rosalind Patton, featured singer with Elliott Lawrence's excellent orchestra.

Former WAVE

Miss Patton, like many students, served during the war. She enlisted in the Waves and was sent to Hunter College, New York, where she received her boot training. Upon completion of duty she was transferred to the Special Service branch of the Navy. She was assigned to an entertainment unit and warbled her way up and down the coast appearing at many Naval Bases throughout this section of the country.

ROSALIND PATTON

Started Early

Miss Patton is five foot two, has brown eyes, is decidedly blonde, and is quite lovely. She is twenty-one now and has been in the entertainment field since the tender age of eight. Rosalind began her career on the Horn and Hardart Children's Hour and gained quite a local following even in those days. She is joining a select group that got their first start on this same Children's program. They include Kitty Kallen, Jimmy Saunders, and Bon Bon.

Hunter A Veteran

Miss Patton is talented and has a marvelous personality. She can interpret almost every type of song. She has several excellent specialties that she does with her partner Jack Hunter. Hunter is also a veteran of this war having recently been returned to civilian life.

Rosalind Patton should go far. She is pretty, possesses personality, is talented and is singing for a band that is rocketing to the top of the ladder in the musical worlld.

The dance will be held April 27th in the Field House. It is open to the members of the different schools. Residents who are interested in purchasing tickets may buy them from: Tom (Newt) Ward-Delurey; Bernard Borschke-O'Dwyer; Jim Lyons-Fedigan; and Bill Thompson-Fedigan.

New Editors

Continued From Page Four

president of the Glee Club, and intramural sports. Canning wrote a sports column in the Villanovan prior to his entry into the army.

The new Copy Editor is James Bonner, a veteran who returned to school last semester after a tour of duty with the Army Air Forces. A major in engineering, he is a Philadelphia resident. After his graduation from St. Joseph's Prep where he participated in tennis, debating, was vice-president of the dramatic club and staff writer on the school paper. Jim entered Villanova in the fall of 1940.

Sports Editor In Camp

Besides the Villanovan, his extracurricular activities include the Student Council, the Belle Masque, the debating society, the Vets Club, 150 lb. football team, the Phi Kappa Pi, A.S.M.E. and the Orientation Committee. While in service, Bonner was sports editor of a army paper at Indianapolis and did public relations work in Washington. He is currently doing part-time work with the Lower Merion Newspapers, Inc.

Bill Altenphorl is our next subject of discussion. A native of Philadelphia, Bill entered Villanova in September, 1941 after his graduation from St. Thomas More High School and enrolled in the engineering school. He left here in February, 1943 to enter the Army Air Corps and served with the Eighth Air Force in Belgium and England until his discharge last fall. He returned to Villanova in November, 1945.

Big Job

Altenpohl, besides his new job as Picture Editor in charge of all pictures and cartoons, manages to write news stories for the paper. His other extracurricular activities include the Orientation Committee and the Student Council.

Another native Philadelphian is Warren Sexton, Circulation Manager, a post which he held last semester. Warren, likewise is a veteran and returned to Villanova in November, 1943 after service with the army. A graduate of Oratory High School, Summit, N. J., where he captained the baseball and basketball teams, worked on the school paper and was valedictorian. Warren entered Villanova in November, 1942. A student in the Arts school, he also is a member of the German Club and the Veterans Club.

The new Business Manager is a scholarship pre-med student in the person of Bill Westcott. A native of Camden, N. J., Bill is no stranger to his new post, having held the same job a few semesters back. A graduate of Camden High School where he was a member of the student court, president of the Science and technical clubs, and baseball manager, Westcott entered Villanova in July, 1944.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

Cheers And Smears

Continued From Page Three

We would like to know why Frank Christenson spent so much time on the floor at that certain party out on Long Island. It's a sure thing that he didn't drop anything . . . It used to be that Al Meluskey of Alumni Hall let the fellows read his mail but now he tears them up as soon as he reads them. Whats the watter Al? Worried? . . . Seen strolling the board walk last Sunday in Atlantic City was Larry Flanellly of Alumni Hall. Who was he with? Why Gloria-be.

Do you need a drawing board? Well, if you do Maurice Labarere is now selling $2.50 drawing boards for the nominal sum of $2.00 (We guess that the last few weekends have been a strain on his pocket book) . . . Mike Ligenfelter of Simpson Hall is all a flutter over a letter from a pretty lass from his home town. Gee whiz Mike, why don't you go home on weekends? . . . Dan Stone gets first prize for getting the most Valentines this year. And all from the same chick. Must be love Huh?

During the noon hour Albert Derr and Phil Richards are now having their own seminars on the front lawn of the Villanova campus. And of all things their discussions are centered about Einstein's theory of relativity . . . who is this girl Borschke is trying to fix everybody up with? He's been trying so hard, that we believe he is getting a 10% commission on all dates.

DEFINITION OF A COLLEGE:

A fountain of knowledge where all go to drink.

This poor excuse for a joke closes the column for this week. N.B. All contributions for this column will be gratefully accepted. We keep the source of all material strictly confidential.

College Tailor

Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.

2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266

We do adjustments the way you want them.

Work and Service—Good

Prices Reasonable

For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

The pause that refreshes

DRINK Coca-Cola

© 1946 The C-C Co.

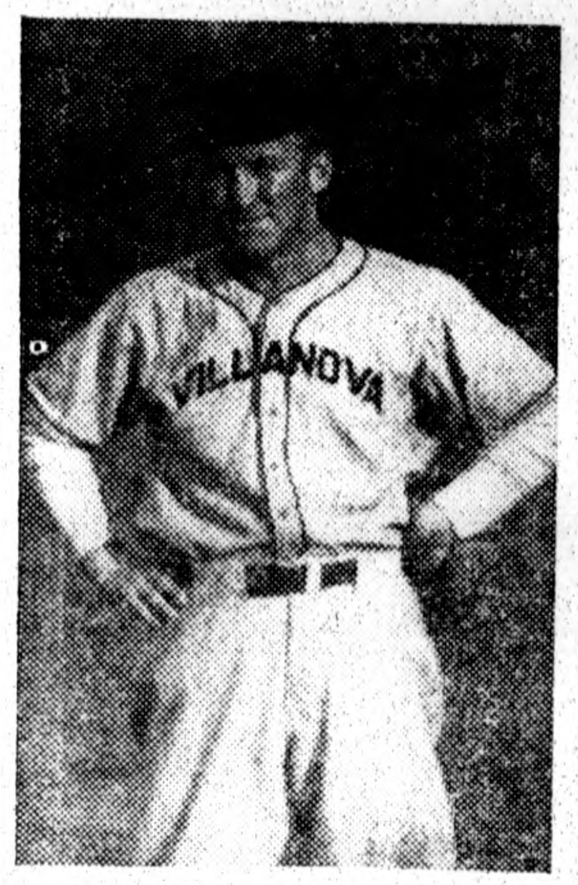
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Returned Vets

By BOB MANSKE

When Coach "Lefty" Weinert took over the coaching reigns of Villanova's base ball team this year he found that many a well-seasoned ballplayer from the pre-war diamond setup had returned to the fold here at Villanova after service in the armed forces of the United States.

Besides having played great ball for the glory of the Blue and White many of these young men participated for some of the star-studded service outfits. Included in the above category is the returning veteran, Daniel P. Casey.



DAN CASEY

When a freshman here, in these hallowed halls, Casey immediately showed the form and ability of becoming a truly great athlete and this he most ably did. In 1940 and 1941 when a sophomore and junior respectively, Casey became a two letter man, playing both varsity football and baseball running slightly ahead in honors.

In February 1942 Dan Casey's brilliant college career was interrupted because of his joining the Navy. He was assigned to Great Lakes and in a short while was made a gunnery instructor. Dan, however, did not give up his baseball career for here he played on the Great Lakes nine under the former major leaguer, the never to be forgotten Mickey Cochrane. Casey was the only non-professional ballplayer on this club, the others having already played major and minor league ball.

Before the opening of the '43 season, Casey found himself on the waters of the blue Pacific doing service on aircraft carriers and in PBY squadrons and before long he participated in the Marshall, Gilbert and Marianas campaigns. During his last four months overseas, making a total of twenty-eight months, Casey toured the Pacific with the Navy All Stars which boasted of such names as Virgil Trucks, Connie Ryan and many others.

Canning Says:—

In the process of proof reading the sports section, before publication, I naturally had to read the very kind and encouraging introduction which my fellow editor Matt Kearney wrote in his column on the other side of this page. To you members of Villanova and also you alumni and followers, Matt Kearney doesn't need an introduction, as he has been writing for you for the past two and a half years. It's going to be a great pleasure for me to work with Matt and the other fine writers on the sports staff, and also a pleasure for this staff to bring you sport fans a complete and accurate coverage of the Wildcat activities in the collegiate athletic circles.

—V—

In line with this policy of complete coverage, Father McKee has announced that Villanova's Spring Football practice will be broadcast by Philco's Television on Friday March 22d. It will be part of a program entitled "Events in and around Philadelphia," and will feature Coach Olivar putting the "Cats" through spring conditioning work outs and running a few plays in preparation for Villanova's heavy Fall schedule.

—V—

Although Joe Lord's basketball career at Villanova is over and he is now making a bid for baseball honors at second base, he still finds time to play basketball with Norristown in the Philadelphia area amateur league. Joe recently tied the league scoring record with 39 points in one game. It has just been announced that his 303-point record breaking season at Villanova placed him fourth in the State.

—V—

One of the Wildcat nines' great short-stops, Tony Colandra, has just been discharged from the service and was on the campus this week applying for admission for this semester. If Tony makes it, Coach Weinert will have a great combination around second base with Colandra and Lord.

—V—

An interview with Coach Jumbo Elliot disclosed he has twenty prospects for his track team but with the exception of Johnny Di Carlo, and Dan Redmond, they are all complete novices. This entails the job of rebuilding the team to its former high calibre of pre-war days. A very good way of finding hidden talent in the student body is to run an intra-mural track meet. Many varsity stars in all sports and in all colleges have been found in intra-mural competition. How about it Mr. Elliot?

Intramurals To Be Resumed; Softball, Swimming Head Program

Overshadowed by the great interest now being shown in varsity sports, Villanova's intramural sports program has been an untested and perhaps forgotten feature of campus life thus far this semester. Despite a number of handicaps, however, its moderators, Fathers Girolami and Kemme, plan to provide the students with plenty to do in the near future.

Softball, a sport which maintained its position in the program throughout the war, will, most likely, top the field once again both in interest and in numbers. As yet, no schedule nor list of teams to compete has been formed.

The main difficulty confronting the moderators is the finding of time in which to play the games. At present the early evening disappearance of Old Sol obviates any possibility of the league getting underway. With the lengthening of the days, however, the small-area version of the National Pastime will, no doubt, force its way into the student's extra-curriculum.

After a brief wartime vacation, swimming plans to re-enter the intramural field. This was formerly a varsity sport at Villanova but the season for collegiate competition has already closed this year. Nevertheless, with the advent of warm weather there should be a large number of tank enthusiasts to turn out for the planned meet.

The tennis tournament, which was such a great success last year, will definitely be held again this year when conditions permit. The courts must be put in shape but that will have to wait until the season arrives. There will be plenty of time for personal conditioning before tournament play begins.

It is hoped that golf, also, will be added to this list. Competition among the linksmen would round out a rather complete program. However, no plans have been made and nothing is definite.

Villanova formerly engaged in outside competition in each of the last three-mentioned sports. Although they are not doing so now, they may within a year or so. It is entirely possible that the stars of intramural competition in these sports will form the nucleus of varsity teams next year.

A Century Ago At Villanova

The following was published from Villanova College in the Summer of 1846:

St. Thomas of Villanova's College, after being closed for nearly two years in consequence of a calamity, the like of which it is hoped, will never again recur is now reopened with every prospect of permanence . . . Each pupil should be provided with three suits for Winter and three for Summer; three pair of shoes and a pair of strong boots; a cloak or overcoat; six towels; the same number of napkins and handkerchiefs, and at least a half dozen of the different articles of under dress which require a frequent washing, and a large silver spoon duly marked . . . The terms are $150 a year, with a discount of 10 percent for prepayment.

McINTYRE'S SHELL SUNK

While working out on the Schuylkill River in a one-man shell, Charles McIntyre, erstwhile college athlete, was thrown overboard when two boys stoned him from the Columbia Ave. bridge.

The pranksters missed McIntyre's head by a few inches and the rock smashed through the stern of his boat. He was forced to leave the shell aand swim to shore in the icey waters. He went to the Vesper Boat Club, of which he is a member, and was treated.

McIntyre, who performed on the Villanova football team last Fall, reported the incident to John B. (Jack) Kelly who was an Olympic champion and is now a member of the Fairmount Park Commission. Mr. Kelly claimed that this sort of thing has happened before and said he was "going to insist that police or park guards be posted on all bridges to prevent these attacks."

Kearney Says:—

Our curtain-raiser today is the informal introduction of our new (yet old) Sports Features Editor, Mr. Samuel J. Canning. I say "yet old" because Sam has been away from Villanova for the past four years doing service with the Army. Sam left in the middle of his Junior year after working himself up through long hard hours spent on the Villanovan Sports staff. At the time of his departure, Sam was next in line for the Sports Editorship.

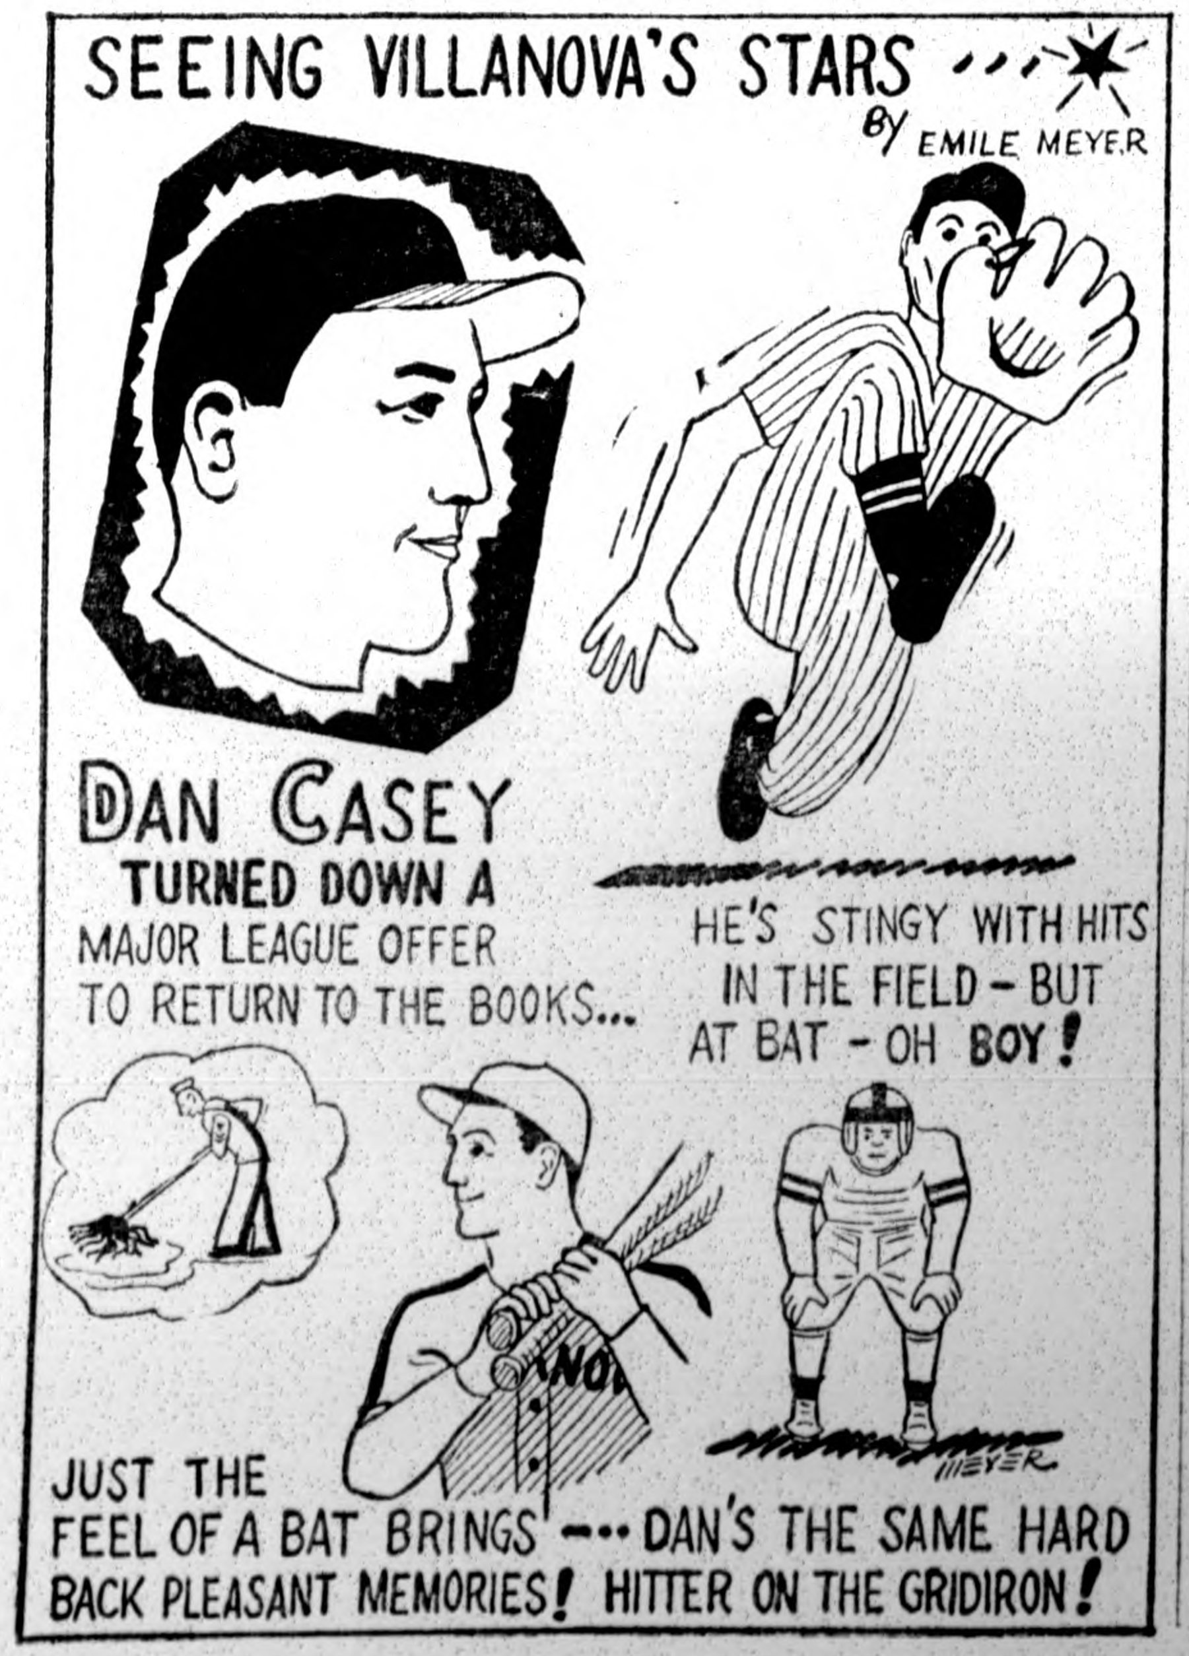
Well, now he's back, and he is a Sports Editor. Incidentally, to my way of thinking, Sam is doing a bang-up job after his four year vacation (?). I'd thank Sam, if he now stood up and took a deep and gracious bow. Welcome back, Sam Canning!

—V—

We of the Villanovan have once again come to that difficult transitional time when no varsity team is in action. Basketball is over and baseball hasn't started. It is just as hard a time for us as it is for all the sports fans of the college, for, sports being sparse, our pages tend to become dry and uninteresting. However, we present to you what we have been able to uncover and petition you to bear with us for better times are coming. From all outlooks, things are promising. Baseball, football, tennis and intramurals all give us reason to believe that you will, in a very short time, enjoy the Sports of full scale college calibre.

—V—

We might add that for those of you who are interested in football, the Lunch Bowl has its daily classic now out on Mendel Field. Of course, the teams and line-ups experience a complete turnover everyday and there are no coaches but the players give their all for the old team. The Sidewalk Stands are filled to overflowing and the sport has many supporters. You, too, are most welcome. All you need for admittance is a free period.



SEEING VILLANOVA'S STARS
BY EMILE MEYER
DAN CASEY
TURNED DOWN A MAJOR LEAGUE OFFER TO RETURN TO THE BOOKS...
HE'S STINGY WITH HITS IN THE FIELD - BUT AT BAT - OH BOY!
NO
JUST THE FEEL OF A BAT BRINGS BACK PLEASANT MEMORIES!
--- DAN'S THE SAME HARD HITTER ON THE GRIDIRON!
MEYER

NROTC Riflemen Awarded Trophy

Starer Captains Team Of Yates, Syvertson, Wineman, Greenberg, Farnsworth And Madara

On March 14th the NROTC Unit Rifle Team of Villanova was awarded a large silver loving cup representing the rifle championship of the Fourth Naval District.

The presentation was made by Captain Stevens, USN, Director of Training for the Fourth Naval District to the team with the President of Villanova, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, in attendance. The presentation was made in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium.

In the presentation address, Captain Stevens pointed out the sacrifice of the members of the team of their free time to practice on the University of Pennsylvania range. He further stated that the Marine Unit was not permitted to participate but that he hoped the situation would be remedied before the next meet.

Fr. McGuire congratulated the team on its splendid victory and promised a special trophy case for the new NROTC Building.

The six man team was coached by Lt. (jg) Harry Abrahams and Chief Boatswain Mate Williams, who were responsible for the obtaining of the use of the Penn rifle range.

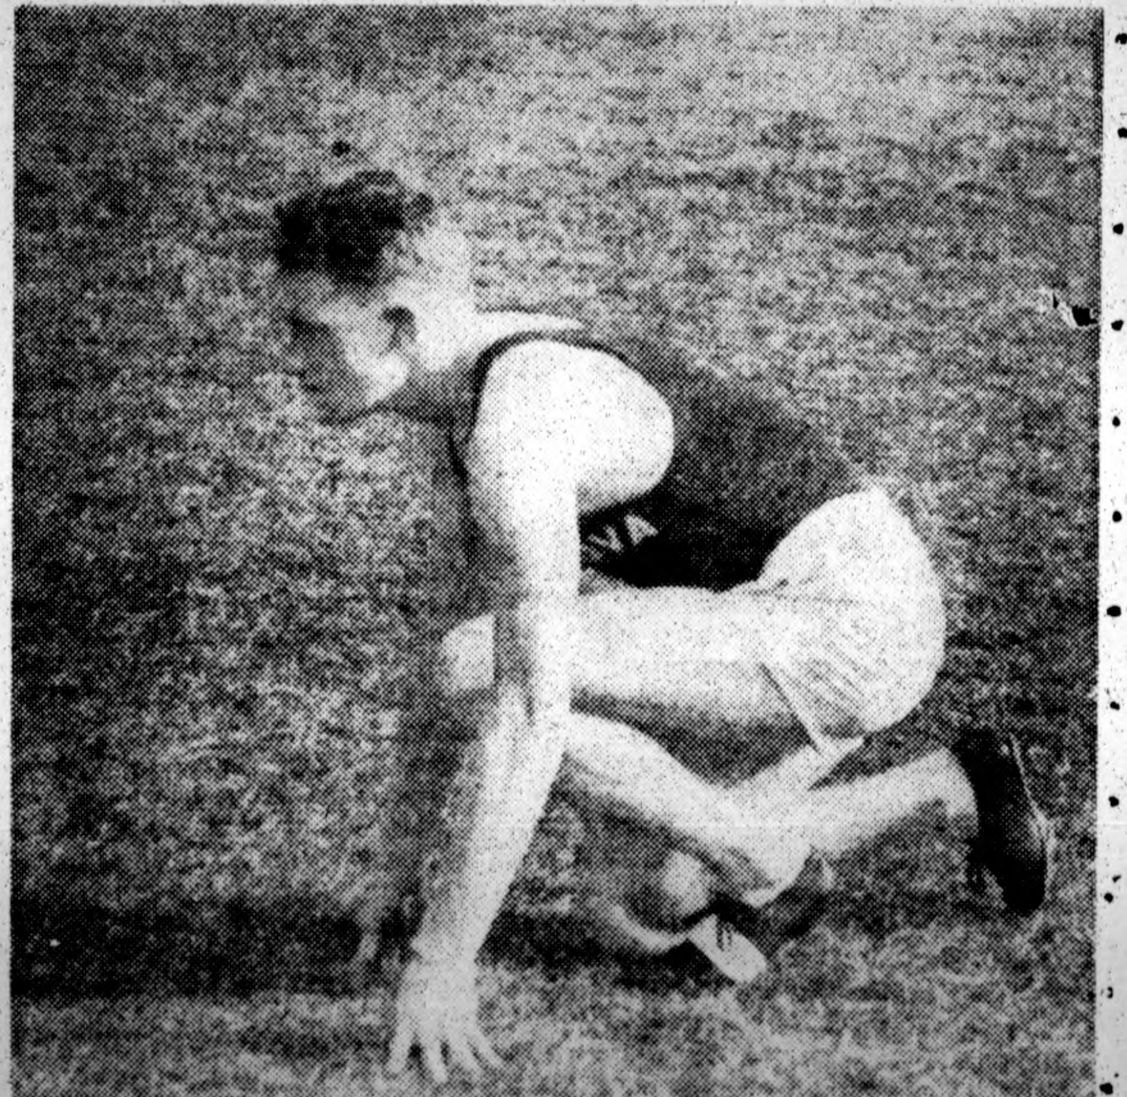
Although it was difficult for the group to find time to practice, they managed to meet three nights a week at the practice range. Incidenetally, the trophy is new and Villanova will always have the honor of being the first district champs. They defeated the NROTC Units of Penn State and the University of Pennsylvania.

Plans are now being formulated for a Pistol Team composed of members of the NROTC Unit here for entrance into the forthcoming Pistol Match of NROTC Units of the Fourth Naval District.

Lt. (jg) Abrahams will coach this team and the same practice hours will be observed.

In The Sportlight

By DICK SOMERS



This week we still have a member of the basketball team in the Sportlight. Daniel Redmond, USNROTC, did not actively participate in the court game but served in the capacity of assistant manager. Observing spectators probably saw him keeping score or running the official clock at home games.

Dan was born some nineteen and three-quarter years ago up the Line in Berwyn. He attended St. Monica's and later West Catholic High School.

Active at West Catholic

Dan's activities at West were varied. He was manager of the basketball team for three years and played intra-mural ball. In his senior year he ran and won the half-mile in the intra-mural meet and gained a place on the track team. As a varsity man the "red-head" ran the 880 and the mile for the 1944 Catholic League Champions. The name Redmond also was signed to several articles that appeared in the 1944 yearbook.

Navy V-12 examinations were given in March of 1944 and Dan passed. This accounts for his presence at Villanova in July of that year in the appropriate blue uniform.

On Mile Relay Team

Track was the first sport to attract his attention and Dan proceeded to win the mile at the Princeton Summer Meet. Running indoors for the first time he placed second in the 100-yds. at the Inquirer Invitation Meet. Since then "Red" has been on the mile-relay team representing Villanova in the Milrose A.A., New York A.C., and Knights of Columbus meets in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Book Review

Continued From Page Three

limitation of the material selected.

The fundamental facts of bacteriology, its principles and modes of reasoning, have been clearly defined in the text. The obstacle that is most frequently encountered by the student lies in the complexity of the subject — the large number of disconnected facts and theories which must be considered in a discussion of the structure, form and pathological implications of such intricate organisms as bacteria.

The authors have made a very nice selection of those facts and principles of bacteriology and immunology which it is most desirable that the student should know, and have stated these so clearly that they can be comprehended by anyone who possesses a knowledge of the fundamentals of biology.

There does not seem to be any sound reason why a textbook for pre-medical students should aim to present only those conclusions that have crystallized out of the controversies of other times, and ignore the live issues of the day which are of so much interest and importance not only to bacteriology, but to all branches of biology. With this idea in mind the authors have endeavored to make the student realize that bacteriology is a growing subject, continually widening its knowledge and adjusting its theories.

It is important that the student should grasp this conception, because, in the first place it is true; and, in the second place, it may save him later from disappointment and distrust in science if he recognizes that many of our conclusions are not the final truth, but provisional only, representing the best that can be done with the knowledge at our command. To emphasize this point as well as to add somewhat to the interest of the reader a very fine history of bacteriology is included at the beginning of the text.

There is no doubt in my mind but that the authors have made a very definite contribution to the field of bacteriology and immunology and that the book will be gratefully accepted by teachers in that field and widely adapted by other institutions. It is a source of great pride to know that such a contribution has been made by a member of our faculty.

DPE Smoker

Continued From Page One

These speakers may either be members of the faculty or men not directly connected to Commerce and Finance students' courses.

Final revision of the by-laws of the fraternity is expected to be completed by the end of the present term, by members of the By-laws Committee. This work is a sequel to the revision of the organization's constitution which was done during the winter semester.

Inter-Frat Plans

Ed Keller spoke to the frat concerning the progress of plans for the Inter-Frat Ball, which is to be held April 27. He particularly stressed the need for patrons and urged that all members do their bit either by direct subscription or propaganda towards securing the $1 patron fee. The name of the patron, Keller pointed out, will be printed in the dance program.

Informal Report

George O'Neil, treasurer of the fraternity, made an informal financial report at the request of the President. O'Neil reminded all that the fraternity funds are low and requested all members to cooperate by paying their semester dues as soon as possible.

Because of the depleted treasury and the needs for funds to carry on the activities of one of the major extracurricular organizations on the campus, it was voted that stern penalties will be dealt out to members delinquent in their dues payments. These penalties range all the way from a twenty-five cent fine to expulsion from the fraternity.

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

addressed by Judge Seybourn H. Lynne, '27, who is district judge for North Alabama and a resident of Alabama.

—The Plainsman.

• • •

A student bank is being opened at Baylor University where students may deposit personal funds at the office and withdraw them as desired, according to the Baylor Lariet, official publication of Baylor University. The service is being offered free to the student body to eliminate the necessity of keeping extra money in rooms or in a local bank account and paying bank service charges.

• • •

Here's one from the Court-jesting column, in the Court Page, Georgian Court College, Lakewood, N. J.

Stern father (sarcastically): "Say, young man, it's past midnight. Do you think you can stay all night?"

"Gosh!" exclaimed the innocent young man, "I'll have to telephone my mother first."

• • •

The appointment of four new faculty members as well as the return to active status of five others at Manhattan College is disclosed to us through the Manhattan Quadrangle, official college tabloid. The increase in the faculty was necessitated by the influx of new students at the February term, according to the dean of the college.

• • •

Editors are a lousy lot, you give them everything you've got,
With drama, humor, punch and plot—
And do they buy it? They do not.
They treat you like a brainless tot, convince you you're a
Mental blot whose mouthings never were so hot,
Editors are a lousy lot.
Then, feeling like a you-know-what, you scrawl some pitiable lot—
They give the thing a featured spot, they should be boiled in oil and shot.
Cretin, fiend, schlemiel and sot; editors are a lousy lot.

—The Brooklyn College Vanguard.

• • •

I had a picture of my cat, egad, it was cute
I had a picture of my dog, egad it was cute
I had a picture of myself. Egad!!!!

—The St. Bona Venture.

• • •

Professor: "I must beg you to give me your undivided attention. It is absolutely impossible that you can form a true idea of this hideous animal unless you fix your eyes on me."

—The Tomahawk.

• • •

The faculty and student body of the College of William and Mary, Va., were hosts to Winston Churchill and General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower last week when the two renowned celebrities and their official parties visited the Williamsburg campus, according to the Flat Hat, official school paper. The visiting group inspected several of the college buildings before their departure the same day.

• • •

The Temple University News informs us that Chuck Gordon and his orchestra have been selected to play for the Senior-Junior Prom which will be held Saturday, April 27. In addition to Gordon's band an authentic rhumba combo will play during intermissions to provide continuous music during the evening.

• • •

A professor of Greek tore his suit and took it to a tailor named Acidopolus from Athens. Mr. Acidopolus examined the suit, and asked "Euripides?" "Yes," said the professor, "Eumendies?"

—The Rambler, Ladycliff College.

Girl Vocalist Is War Veteran

When the curtain rises on the second annual Interfraternity dance a lovely young blonde will take over half of the vocal chores for the evening. She is Miss Rosalind Patton, featured singer with Elliott Lawrence's excellent orchestra.

Former WAVE

Miss Patton, like many students, served during the war. She enlisted in the Waves and was sent to Hunter College, New York, where she received her boot training. Upon completion of duty she was transferred to the Special Service branch of the Navy. She was assigned to an entertainment unit and warbled her way up and down the coast appearing at many Naval Bases throughout this section of the country.

ROSALIND PATTON

Started Early

Miss Patton is five foot two, has brown eyes, is decidedly blonde, and is quite lovely. She is twenty-one now and has been in the entertainment field since the tender age of eight. Rosalind began her career on the Horn and Hardart Children's Hour and gained quite a local following even in those days. She is joining a select group that got their first start on this same Children's program. They include Kitty Kallen, Jimmy Saunders, and Bon Bon.

Hunter A Veteran

Miss Patton is talented and has a marvelous personality. She can interpret almost every type of song. She has several excellent specialties that she does with her partner Jack Hunter. Hunter is also a veteran of this war having recently been returned to civilian life.

Rosalind Patton should go far. She is pretty, possesses personality, is talented and is singing for a band that is rocketing to the top of the ladder in the musical worlld.

The dance will be held April 27th in the Field House. It is open to the members of the different schools. Residents who are interested in purchasing tickets may buy them from: Tom (Newt) Ward-Delurey; Bernard Borschke-O'Dwyer; Jim Lyons-Fedigan; and Bill Thompson-Fedigan.

New Editors

Continued From Page Four

president of the Glee Club, and intramural sports. Canning wrote a sports column in the Villanovan prior to his entry into the army.

The new Copy Editor is James Bonner, a veteran who returned to school last semester after a tour of duty with the Army Air Forces. A major in engineering, he is a Philadelphia resident. After his graduation from St. Joseph's Prep where he participated in tennis, debating, was vice-president of the dramatic club and staff writer on the school paper, Jim entered Villanova in the fall of 1940.

Sports Editor In Camp

Besides the Villanovan, his extracurricular activities include the Student Council, the Belle Masque, the debating society, the Vets Club, 150 lb. football team, the Phi Kappa Pi, A.S.M.E. and the Orientation Committee. While in service, Bonner was sports editor of a army paper at Indianapolis and did public relations work in Washington. He is currently doing part-time work with the Lower Merion Newspapers, Inc.

Bill Altenphorl is our next subject of discussion. A native of Philadelphia, Bill entered Villanova in September, 1941 after his graduation from St. Thomas More High School and enrolled in the engineering school. He left here in February, 1943 to enter the Army Air Corps and served with the Eighth Air Force in Belgium and England until his discharge last fall. He returned to Villanova in November, 1945.

Big Job

Altenpohl, besides his new job as Picture Editor in charge of all pictures and cartoons, manages to write news stories for the paper. His other extracurricular activities include the Orientation Committee and the Student Council.

Another native Philadelphian is Warren Sexton, Circulation Manager, a post which he held last semester. Warren, likewise is a veteran and returned to Villanova in November, 1943 after service with the army. A graduate of Oratory High School, Summit, N. J., where he captained the baseball and basketball teams, worked on the school paper and was valedictorian. Warren entered Villanova in November, 1942. A student in the Arts school, he also is a member of the German Club and the Veterans Club.

The new Business Manager is a scholarship pre-med student in the person of Bill Westcott. A native of Camden, N. J., Bill is no stranger to his new post, having held the same job a few semesters back. A graduate of Camden High School where he was a member of the student court, president of the Science and technical clubs, and baseball manager, Westcott entered Villanova in July, 1944.

Cheers And Smears

Continued From Page Three

We would like to know why Frank Christenson spent so much time on the floor at that certain party out on Long Island. It's a sure thing that he didn't drop anything . . . It used to be that Al Meluskey of Alumni Hall let the fellows read his mail but now he tears them up as soon as he reads them. Whats the watter Al? Worried? . . . Seen strolling the board walk last Sunday in Atlantic City was Larry Flanellly of Alumni Hall. Who was he with? Why Gloria-be.

Do you need a drawing board? Well, if you do Maurice Labarere is now selling $2.50 drawing boards for the nominal sum of $2.00 (We guess that the last few weekends have been a strain on his pocket book) . . . Mike Ligenfelter of Simpson Hall is all a flutter over a letter from a pretty lass from his home town. Gee whiz Mike, why don't you go home on weekends? . . . Dan Stone gets first prize for getting the most Valentines this year. And all from the same chick. Must be love Huh?

During the noon hour Albert Derr and Phil Richards are now having their own seminars on the front lawn of the Villanova campus. And of all things their discussions are centered about Einstein's theory of relativity . . . who is this girl Borschke is trying to fix everybody up with? He's been trying so hard, that we believe he is getting a 10% commission on all dates.

DEFINITION OF A COLLEGE:

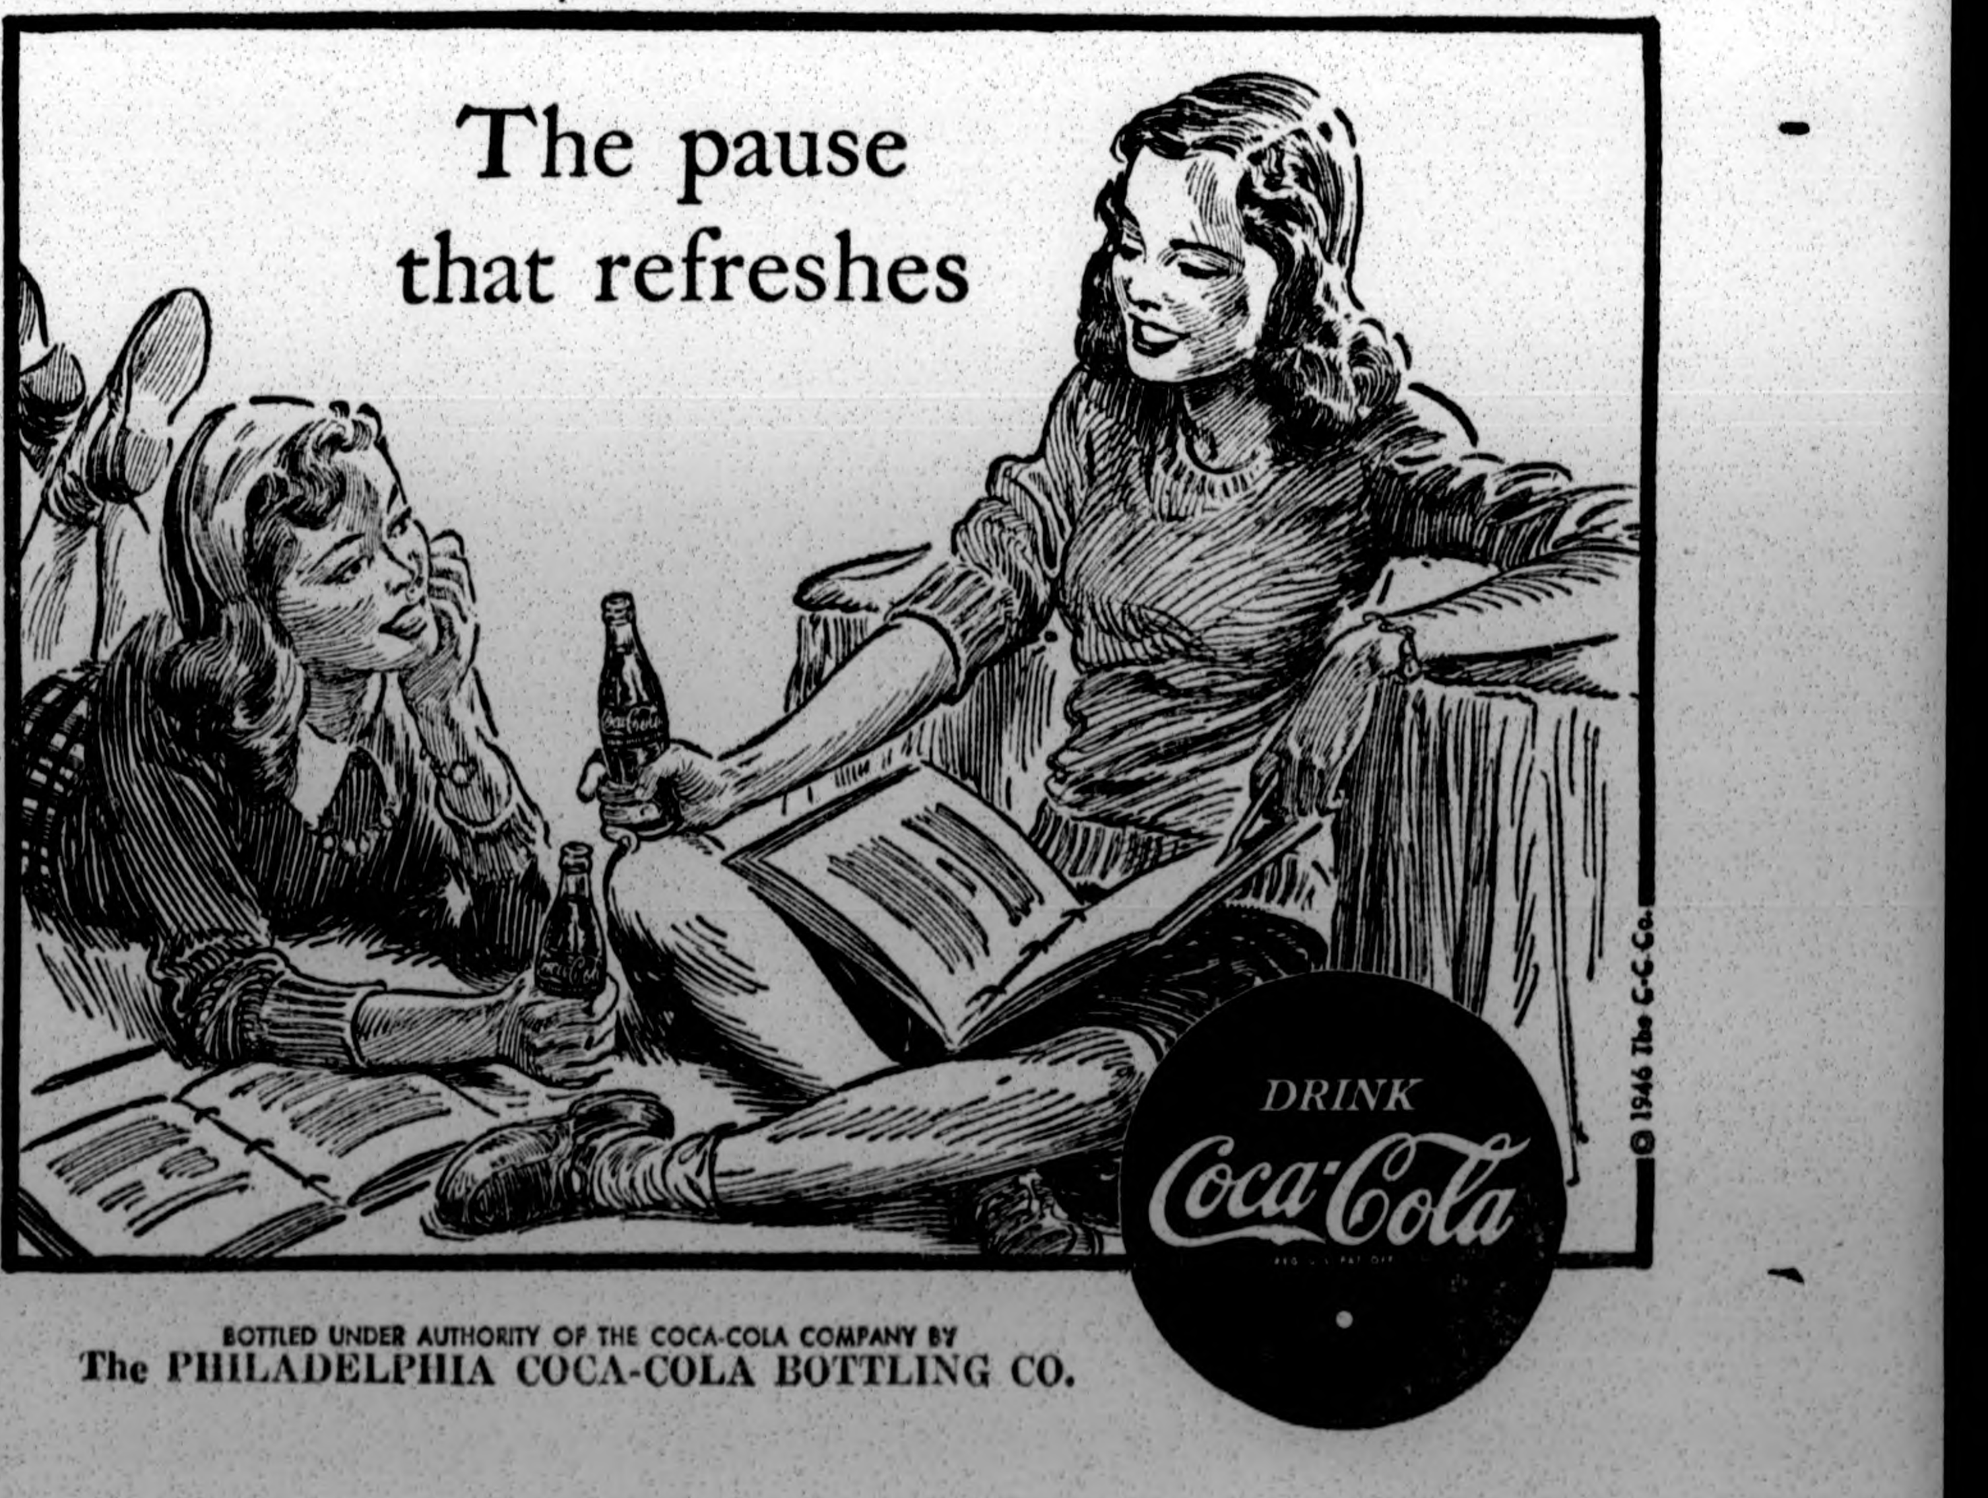
A fountain of knowledge where all go to drink.

This poor excuse for a joke closes the column for this week. N.B. All contributions for this column will be gratefully accepted. We keep the source of all material strictly confidential.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

The Most Famous Inn on the Main Line
The Old Covered Wagon Inn
DANCING NIGHTLY
FINEST OF FOODS
For Reservations Call Wayne 1169



BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Navy Story

Continued From Page One

NROTC under this plan will be appointed Reserve Midshipmen.

They will be responsible for their own housing and messing, and will wear uniforms only at Navy drills and on summer cruises. They will have all the privileges of civilian students, including attendance at the NROTC College or university of their choice, subject to their acceptance by the college. On successful completion of training they will be commissioned Ensigns in the Regular Navy and will be required to serve on active duty for a period of at least fifteen months.

Peacetime Plan

The old peacetime plan will remain in effect if no new legislation is enacted. Whether or not new legislation is passed this spring, it is intended to permit trainees now in the program to complete their college eeducation, if they desire, on the pre-war basis. They will be in civilian status. Enrollment in the NROTC will entitle them to uniforms and during junior and senior years, one commuted ration, the present maximum ration being 65 cents per day.

No Summer Cruise

Summer cruises of long duration will not be required. On completion of training, they will be commissioned Ensigns in the Naval Reserve and immediately placed on inactive duty. No tour of active duty will be required.

2. They may discontinue enrollment in the NROTC, in which event they will be immediately discharged, if eligible under general demobilization policies, or retained in Class V-6 until eligible for discharge, not later than 1 September 1946.

Transfer To V-5

3. Trainees enrolled in the NROTC who will have completed four or more terms, or the equivalent in quarters, at the termination of active NROTC training, may, if fully qualified in all respects, be transferred within established quotas to class V-5 for flight training on active duty.

Disposition Of Marines

The procedure for the termination of the war time V-12 College Training Program on or about 1 July 1946, as it applies to Marine trainees is essentially this. Those men who at that time will have completed successfully seven or eight semesters and are otherwise qualified in all respects, will be commissioned in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve (permanent) and those of the foregoing who are interested in a commission in the Regular Marine Corps will be assigned inactive status, or if they so request, will be commissioned for assignment to active duty.

Graduates of the Basic School will be assigned to active duty pending selection or non-selection to the Regular Marine Corps.

Options

Those men who at that time will have completed successfully less than seven semesters will have the following options:

1. Assignment to inactive enlisted status provided they are found physically qualified for an enrollment in the NROTC Program under the following requirements.

Those enlisted men who will have completed six semesters will be required to complete a total of not more than eighteen semester hours of Naval Science and Tactics by the end of eight semesters.

Semester Requirements

Those enlisted men who will have completed five or less semesters will be required to complete a total of not more than twenty-four semester hours of Naval Science and Tactics. In order to be eligible for such enrollments the enlisted men will be discharged from their present enlisted status "for the purpose of enlisting in the U. S. Naval Reserve," enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserve, and assigned to inactive duty for the purpose of enrolling on their own initiative in the NROTC Program, except that those enlisted men who are serving on an expired enlistment or an expired extension thereof, will be discharged "Expiration of Enlistment."

2. Assignment to general duty or discharge, if eligible.

3. Request for transfer of Marine Trainees to class V-5 will be given individual consideration when received at Headquarters Marine Corps.

General Duty

It is to be noted that those men who desire general duty, or those who are found not physically qualified for enrollment in the NROTC or appointment to commissioned rank (permanent) in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve will be assigned to general duty in a normal enlisted status to remain on active duty until eligible for discharge under general demobilization.

It is to be emphasized that all trainees who remain in College after 1 July 1946 will be required to secure individual acceptance from appropriate College authorities. For this reason trainees are urged by Captain Thomas, the Professor of Naval Science and Tactics at Villanova, to make application as soon as possible to insure acceptance.

Meet the Boys

Continued From Page Three

realm doing tricks with it in a traveling circus in the Summer.

Joins V-12

Finally in July 1943 Jas T. graduated from Montclair Academy. In order to keep in trim James worked trimming the greens on the Montclair Golf Club. In the Fall of '43 he got tired of working, so old James T. entered Seton Hall as a Pre-Med. In March of 1944 James, trick knee and all passed the V-12 test. The Navy considered him one of their better prospects so they sent him to Villanova. The Navy kent him pretty busy so he found no time for extra-cirricular activities.

Jim was discharged with the other Pre-Meds in October 1945. Old Jas. T. immediately returned to Villanova as a civilian in November. He writes for the year book and was on the dance committee of the Belle Air Ball. Jas T. wrote that unforgettable column "Out of the Copy Basket" for the Villanovan. Many was the Friday night he would stroll in, look at the pile of exchanges, then at the typewriter and rush out screaming his resignation as he went. But a little while later he would sneak back and say, "OK fellows I'll write it, if you'll get someone to type it." So with his feet on his desk he would jot down those little anecdotes that made his column such as it was.

As far as things stand now James plans to enter the St. Louis medical school after graduation in June.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

Pie Shop Louie

Continued From Page Four

the real Villanova sports until Harry Stuldreher came to the college in 1925. When Villanova found out it could produce many good teams, football became the big sport.

"Class reunions used to be quite the thing too. All the old Villanova grads would come back, no matter where they were or what they were doing. Boys I once used to know as handsome young men, usually came back to the reunions with a bay window and a bald head, but they still had the Villanova spirit and that's what counts. I hope there will be more big class reunions again."

Cliff Stalker, Lou's "right hand man" is also a part of the Pie Shop fixtures, another one of those original antiques. Cliff began his service in 1929 and has worked for Lou ever since that day. Of course, when everyone thinks of the Pie Shop they can't help think of both Cliff and Louie, the "Gold Dust Twins."

Twenty-fifth Year

Louie is now starting in upon his twenty-fifth year as manager of the Pie Shop. During his stay here, he has made many friends who remember him for his good nature, and especially his ability to understand the young man and his problems. Many a student has been set upon the straight path again after a good man to man talk with the boss. Lou has never had much of a formal education. What he learned, he has learned the hard way. By reason of this fact he has gained much respect from those who know him. He wishes to thank the faculty and administration of Villanova College for all they have done for him and especially the students of Villanova. He has a job here amidst the mirth and tribulations that is (?) youth and he claims that because of this fact he will never grown old in spirit. Congratulations Lou, and may God see you another twenty-five happy years here!

Students Hear Lenten Sermon

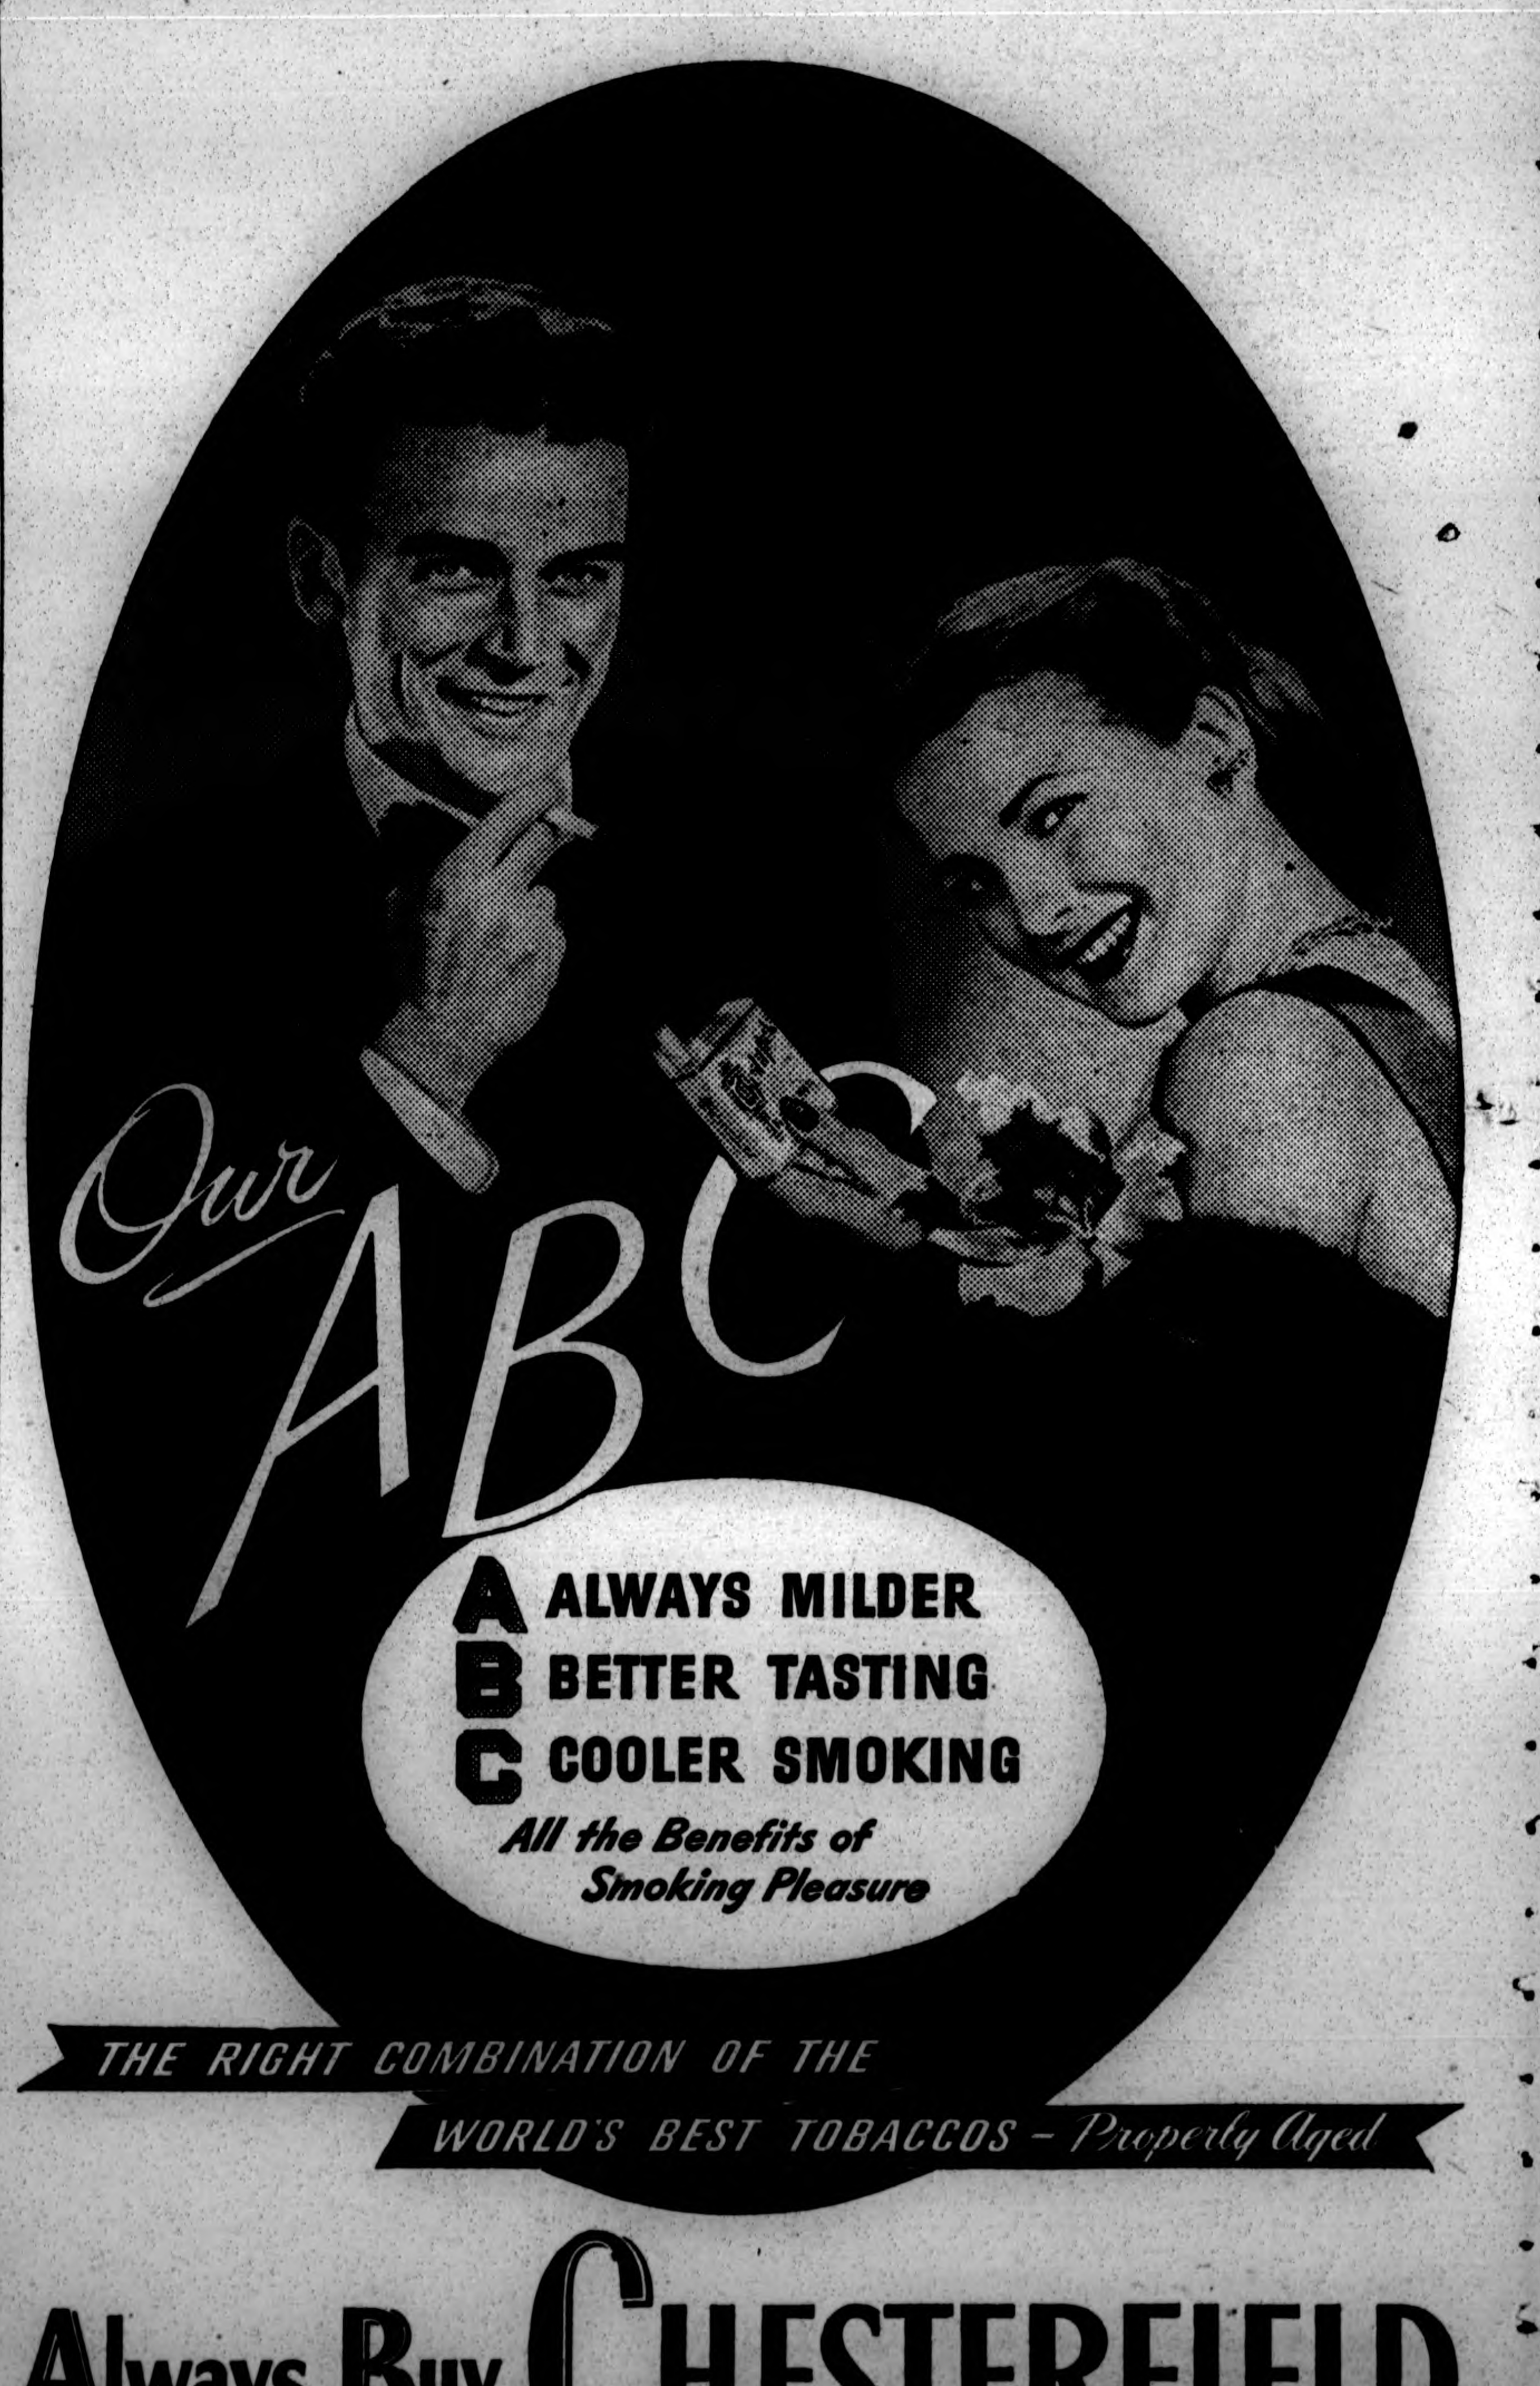
Last Wednesday, the resident students were addressed by Rev. James A. Donnellon, O.S.A., Ph.D., a Science professor on the Villanova faculty. The sermon was focused around the words of our Divine Savior "What profit it a man to gain the whole world, if he suffer the loss of his soul?"

Father Donnellon, replenishing his description with words expressive of scientific appreciation for the creations of the Omnipotent, explained the consideration Almighty God gave to the creation of man, as revealed in the book of Genesis.

The Lenten sermon for next week will be delivered by Rev. Joseph Dougherty, O.S.A., Ph.D.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.
THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS



Our ABC
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
All the Benefits of Smoking Pleasure
THE RIGHT COMBINATION OF THE WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS – Properly Aged
Always Buy CHESTERFIELD

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 3 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MARCH 26, 1946

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Summer Sessions to be Open to Present Freshmen

Elliot Lawrence Spotlights Dance

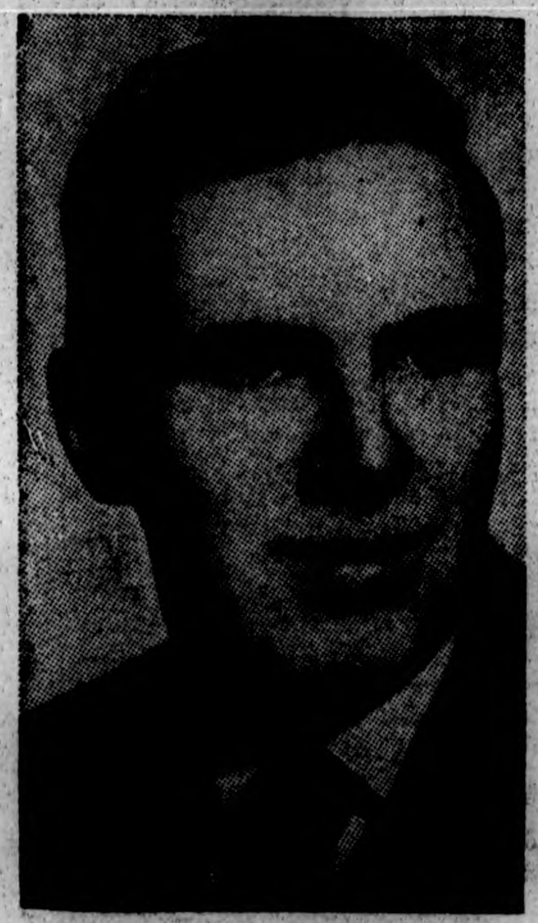
Popular Orchestra Leader Returns To Campus For Second Engagement

By JAMES M. BONNER

April 27th and the 'Young Man at a Piano' will give out again at a Villanova function.

Elliot Lawrence, the impressario of the Interfraternity Dance, has a long and studied background in the field of music. At the age of three Elliot made his radio debut leading the opening song on the Horn and Hardart Children's Hour, the program that has been the stepping stone to success for so many local musicians.

At four our modern Chopin started composing. By the time he was nine he had made his formal radio bow and he was doing arrangements at twelve.



ELLIOT LAWRENCE

Wins State Contest

At Berwyn High School Elliot received his first official acclaim when he took first honors in a statewide contest for high school pianists.

While at Berwyn he organized his first dance orchestra and proceeded to make a name for himself playing at fraternity and school dates.

At the University of Pennsylvania he continued in music. He attained the highest of musical honors, directed the band, sang in the Glee Club, and performed in Mask and Wig productions. The Mask and Wig is recognized as one of the finest collegiate dramatic societies in the country.

As a result of his fine showing in these productions he was elected to permanent membership in the Mask and Wig. This was a distinctive honor.

Furthered Studies

After receiving his degree from The University he continued with his studies working with such people as Harl McDonald, Dean of Music at the University, and Leon Brazin, conductor of the National Orchestra Association.

Lawrence is not a pianist alone. His talents are varied and many. In his career he has arranged for Benny Goodman, collaborated with Raymond Scott on ocoustical effects for radio music, and composed a tone poem which was awarded the Thornton Oakley prize for creative composition. It was premiered by the Philadelphia Orchestra.

At the present time he is musical director of station WCAU and conducts the program "Listen to Lawrence." This has lifted him from local popularity to national prominence.

In spite of his heavy schedule, Mr. Lawrence found time to M.C. at the Stage Door Canteen during the war years.

Lawrence has a formula for suc-

INTER FRAT DANCE
Continued on Page Eight

Council Sets Election Date

Three Points Vigorously Discussed at Student Council Meeting

An all-important Student Council meeting was held on Thursday March 21, at which time important issues were approved. In the order in which they were presented, discussed and sanctioned they were: 1) The extension of the facilities of the Field House to the civilian students; 2) A proposal for the reactivation of the 150 pound Football Team; and 3) The program for the reorganization of classes.

Council President Joseph Hoffman, presided at the meeting and formally presented the three important issues. With an unprecedented attentiveness the council took up the agenda.

At the opening of the discussion the two proposals, the re-use of the facilities of the Field House and the reactivation of the 150 pound Football Team were approved and submitted by a Council Committee to Rev. Edward B. McKee for approval. The committee is now waiting for final approval before action can be taken in carrying out the proposals.

Class Reorganization

The third proposal brought before the council was the program for the reorganization of the classes. After prolonged debate a program under which the classes can be reorganized and new officers elected, was finally approved

During the war years the facilities of the Field House have been limited, and under the Navy program the building has served as a vital link in the training of the V-12 and Marines. Now that the Navy program has been curtailed, a proposal for the civilian use of these facilities is appropriate. Under the system established by the student council a committee has presented a suitable proposal to Father McKee. The final approval of the proposition for the use of the facilities, which include the basketball courts, swimming pool, bowling alleys and pool rooms is now under consideration.

The 150 Pounders

Another step toward the high pre-war standards of activities will be made when the council's proposal for the reactivation of the 150 pound football team is approved. This team was always a focal point of student interest.

STUDENT COUNCIL
Continued on Page Eight

G. McDermott '45 Reported Killed

Lieutenant Gerald R. McDermott, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. McDermott of 145 Cliff Avenue, Pelham, who was listed as missing in action March 13, 1945, is now officially considered dead, according to notice received by the family from the War Department.

The officer, a graduate of Iona School in 1942, was 21 years old. He was bombardier on a Superfortress which did not return to Saipan after a raid on Osaka.

Lieutenant McDermott attended Villanova College before entering the Army Air Forces in February, 1943. He trained at Cincinnati, Ohio, Santa Ana, Cal., and received his gunnery wings at Kingman, Ariz. In July, 1944, he won his bombardier wings and his commission at Deming, N. M., and was stationed at Clovis, N. M. before going overseas two months before he was reported missing.

He was a nephew of Colonel Arthur V. McDermott, former New York City Director of Selective Service. Surviving besides his parents are two brothers, John Richard and Kevin McDermott and a sistea, Dorothy McDermott.

Mass was said last Thursday in memory of McDermott in the Villanova College Chapel.

New Dance Band In The Making

The Formation of a College Dance Band, Under the Old Title of "Villanovans" Nears Completion

With the revival and steady transition of mony of the college extracurricular organizations and student functions back to the peacetime status which existed prior ot the war, word of the reorganization of the Villanova student orchestra and dance band should come as welcome and pleasant news to the student body. Although the reoragnization is in the embryo stage, it is hoped that a sufficient number of musicians can be enlisted from the student body to form a representative group.

Indications are that the new dance band will assume the title "Villanovans," which identified the college musical aggregations in years before the Pearl Harbor disaster. The pre-war "Villanovans" were always held in high regard in the Philadelphia area dance band circles and provided the music for countless student body social functions in the Villanova field house.

Students and the instruments they play who have initiated the band reorganization include Red Reich, saxophone; William Turner, drums; Ted Garcia, piano; James Boyle, trombone and Aurelio Baccino, accordian. A few trumpet players also are expected to join the organization shortly. The above mentioned students are practicing every Tuesday and Thursday evening after chapel in the field house.

Any and all members of the student body who play any musical instrument are urged to apply for membership in the orchestra. All candidates are requested to report to Red Reich in Alumni Hall or Ted Garcia in Mendal Hall as soon as possible to facilitate the reorganizational procedure.

The "Villanovans" of pre-war days featured the music at such social functions as the Sophomore Cotillion and the Spring Hop in addition to other engagements both on and off the college campus. The disbanding of the popular dance band was gradual due to the departure of men to enter the armed forces from 1941 until it was all but out of existence two years later.

Red Reich has announced that many arrangements by leading Orchestras are available to members of the new College band. Says Red: "The Dance band will be one way to help create the old Villanova atmosphere on the Campus, so we want to see as many men as possible apply for admission."

Many Grads Attend Local Club Meeting

Plans for a spring social, with members of the graduating class from the Philadelphia district as guests, were discussed at the regular meeting of the Villanova Club of Philadelphia, Thursday evening.

The meeting attracted a large number of graduates, including many discharged servicemen attending their first meeting of the organization. It was held at the Philopatrian Club, 1923 Walnut St.

Social To Be In May

President H. Bruce Murray, who assumed his post at the meeting, indicated that the social would be held at a suburban country club some time in May. He named Vincent Gordon, Jack McManus and Jacques Mauch to the committee to arrange for the affair.

Following the business session, movies of the highlights of the 1945 football season were shown through the courtesy of the Atlantic Refining Company. Father Vrana handled the arrangements in cooperation with James Lyons, entertainment chairman.

President Announces Schedule for Summer

Veterans Will Now Be Able to Complete Their College Education In at Least Three and One Half Years by Summer Sessions

In a release from the Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova, last Thursday, it was announced that the accelerated program as it is being now run will be brought to a close at the end of the present semester.

Father McGuire stated that "the emergency wartime accelerated program which has been operating at the college since 1942 will be discontinued. In its stead, the college will inaugurate a moderate accelerated program on July 8, 1946. This new program will consist of two eight-week sessions, one in the Summer of 1946 and the other in the Summer of 1947."

SUMMER SESSION 1946
(8 week summer session)

July
5-6—Registration
8—Classes begin
August
3—Mid-term
15—Feast of the Assumption — No classes
13—Term ends

FALL TERM 1946

September
27—Registration (All freshmen)
28—Registration (Non-resident upperclassmen)
30—Registration (Resident upperclassmen)
October
1—Solemn High Mass of the Holy Ghost—Classes begin.

The president announced that the sessions would be limited to students in the following categories:

1. Those who entered as freshmen on Nov. 1, 1945.
2. Those who entered as freshmen on March 1, 1946.
3. Those who will enter as freshmen in July 1946.

Said Father McGuire; "This will permit all veterans who are beginning their college careers to com-

PRESIDENT
Continued on Page Eight

Main Building Repairs Begun

Pointing of the stone work and the constructing of a pole gutter afront and atop of Mendel Hall is expected to be finished by the end of this week, it was announced recently by the Rev. John J. McMenamin, O.S.A., Villanova College Procurator. Upon completion of this work the scaffolding in front of Mendel Hall is to be moved to the rear of building to facilitate repairs of the same order.

The masonry pointing was necessitated by the many cracks in the cement between the stones, and subsequent leakage during rain storms, in the walls of the building. These cracks are a result of varying weather conditions.

Damaged By Snows

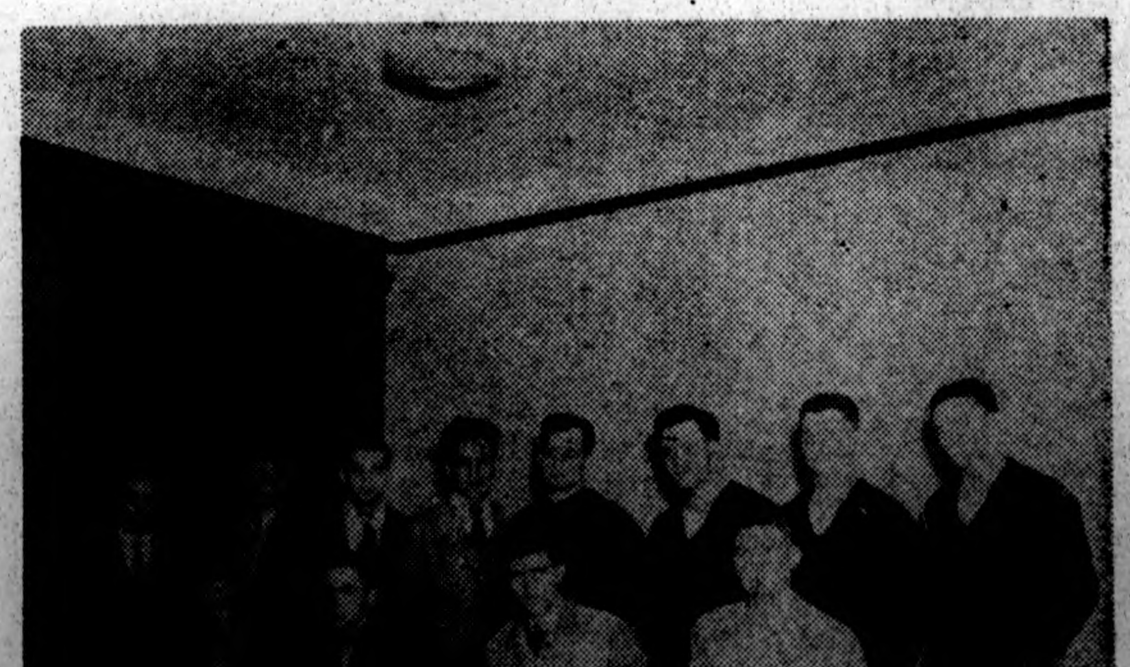
Because of the damage wrought to the hanging gutters as a result of ice and heavy snows during the Winter months the pole gutter system is being constructed. Although it is not known at present exactly how much weather abuse this new gutter will withstand, it is estimated that it will last much longer that the present gutter. Repairs then, will be much more infrequent.

It was discerned just previous to the starting of repairs that copings atop the front wall of Mendel Hall had been moved through the years as much as two inches. The contractors now handling the work on the building estimate that these copings weigh as much as ¾ of a ton.

Under the best conditions which can be expected during a reconver-

MENDEL BUILDING
Continued on Page Eight

DEBATING TEAM HOST TO ANNAPOLIS LAST FRIDAY



On Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Mendel ampitheater the Villanova College Debating team played host to the team from Annapolis in a no decision debate. For Villanova this was a return to the debating forum after a three year lapse due to the war.

Annapolis was represented by Midshipmen J. D. Jones and W. J. Crowe and their moderator, Commander R. D. Bass, U.S.N. The Villanova team, moderated by Fr. Krupa, consisted of Geoffrey Warren NROTC and Albert Rothwell NROTC. The chairman for the evening was Robert Grodinsky NROTC and the timer James Weaver NROTC.

The topic for the evening was "Resolved—that the United States should adopt a permanent policy of one year of military training for every male citizen." Villanova's first speaker on the affirmative was Warren. He stressed the point that training now was a peace sacrifice and would be better than

DEBATING TEAM
Continued on Page Eight

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATTHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC .... Sports Feature Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Arthur R. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
Herman J. Diesel, '50
J. Edward White, NROTC
Donald Fox, '50
James G. Mudd, '50
David I. Ryan, '48

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC

Columnists
William Golden, '48
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Clemati, '49
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
Joseph Braezler, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Francis Linsulata, '49
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office Decembe 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - MARCH 26, 1946

The Pie Shop

AS YOU ALL KNOW, labor is scarce and materials more so. Floor space in Mendel Hall is urgently needed for classrooms, offices, and laboratories. Therefore the only practical idea is to erect some sort of new building. Owing to the two conditions advanced above, the only immediately fruitful and feasible plan would be to contract for the purchase of Government surplus equipment suitable for our purposes.

Surplus Property Board

In pursuance of that plan, the Surplus Property Board was contacted and our case was taken under consideration. Through them the authorities hoped to buy two Neissen huts of four thousand square feet floor space to serve as a new Pie Shop location. As an alternate proposal, the College was willing to buy a fully standard Army mess barracks. All this was done many months ago, before many of the students now criticizing the conditions were even out of the service.

What has come of it? The Surplus Property Board has not been able to secure the equipment we desire. Father McGuire has made repeated applications to that group explaining the necessity of our obtaining the property, but until now it seems to have been in vain. Nothing is yet seen as forthcoming, but everything possible is being done.

On this page there is a cartoon which seems to epitomize the adverse criticism directed to by the undergraduate body against the present size and condition of the Pie Shop. Since that place serves as the only available eating place for the day students and the only convenient refreshment center for the residents, the students feel justified in their complaints.

We, of the Villanovan have pledged ourselves to serve as a communications center for student proposals, so that the Student Council might become acquainted with, judge, and act upon any general gripes. Now the Council is the only body organized and authorized to do this and thereby this paper's power is limited. However, it is our duty as an agent to get the facts on any proposal before giving assurance of its necessity and practicality to the Council.

The Facts

In the case of the Pie Shop we have done just that. One of our reporters interviewed Father McGuire and returned with the following facts. The administration is well aware of the difficulties which the students now face. They realize that some discomfort is being borne by the men, especially in the case of the College Store. Nor has this condition come as a surprise to them. The approaching troubles were foreseen and action was taken in order to avoid or mitigate them.

We hear and make a great deal of criticism of the administration, but let us objectively consider the entire situation. The school is now passing through the greatest instantaneous expansion it has ever experienced. The lack of housing, of equipment for classes and food distribution and especially of instructors is a lengthy and difficult problem. The administration has and will continue to labor incessantly on our behalf. Things are improving every day and every opportunity is being exploited to ease the temporary difficulties. Griping is senseless in this affair, our part is patient co-operation and a sincere vote of thanks for all who have labored in our behalf.

—Donald M. Collins

Tonight We Sleep In Gethsemane...

WAR-MONGERS, interventionists, and just plain fools are a few of the gentler epithets that have been showered on those persons who allowed their concern to reach out beyond their own well-being. There is another title for them. It is Christians.

Does it concern us that thousands of Greeks are starving? That millions move across a shattered Europe seeking non-existent homes? That China is torn by bloody faction? Is it any of our business that Russia has concentration camps? That the Paris Peace Parley will be held in secret? You bet it concerns us. You bet its our business. And who is this vague "us". Is it the government? Is it the Democratic party? No. It is you and I. If we do nothing to alleviate these conditions we are personally and individually guilty of a tremendous crime. A crime not of commission but of ommission. It is true that no human court can convict us of such a crime but there are higher courts.

Today the government of the United States in collaboration with other governments is setting up machinery to improve these matters. Practical men have pointed out that unless something is done to prevent strife between nations you and I may have our well being and our life abruptly ended. The war now terminated was a practical illustration of this fact. Most of the legislation will be carried through on the strength of this example. But it is not enough to legislate for peace. It is not enough to set up agencies to relieve human suffering. The legislation and the agencies must be vigorously supported by us. And we have had practical illustrations before and have promptly forgot all about them. So let's scrap practical consideration. Let's be idealists for a change. Practical considerations are ephemeral but moral considerations are eternal. We are morally responsible for helping our fellow man. History shows that when we forget this and become selfishly insulated in our immediate concerns, tragedy results.

The League of Nations was a sound idea. It typified the highest ethics of an advanced civilization. What destroyed the League? It wasn't Hitler or Mussolini. It wasn't the people of Germany or Italy. That they could flout the League showed that it was already an empty shell. And it was an empty shell because you and I were busily roistering thru the roaring twenties and scrapping up the pieces during the depression years, culpably neglecting to give the league the support that would have prevented World War II.

Take the greatest crime that history records. It was committed by a few Roman soldiers who had no very clear idea what they were doing at the behest of a vociferous minority. The marjority of the world was minding what it considered to be its own business. And we, today, are minding that we consider to be our own business.

The UNO firmly supported by us can prevent future wars. You and I, by supporting the proper relief organizations, can succor suffering Eur-Asia. By definite individual effort we can do a great deal of good. By simply remaining inactive we can do a great deal of harm.

Jesus said, "He that is not with me is against me." Tonight we sleep in Gethsemane. Can't we watch one hour, tomorrow to bring another Calvary?

—George Mather

Dear Editor . . .

Since you have had some dealings with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and since it is very likely that many of the Students in your Commerce and Finance School at Villanova will probably have the misfortune to do likewise, I thought the enclosed would appeal to you and your readers. Omar Hodges, the Manager of the Southwestern Department of the Mill Mutuals, sent the following story to the Bureau in Chicago—it was published in Gene Arms' monthly bulletin "Round Table." I quote!

"A New Orleans lawyer who called the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to arrange a loan for a client was told the loan would be had if the title to the property was proved good and sufficient.

"Returning to New Orleans, the lawyer sent a voluminous communication and the abstract title, running back to the year 1803. Upon being congratulated on the thoroughness of his work, he was told by the RFC officials that it was excellent as far as it went, but he would have to prove the title flawless prior to 1803.

Before 1942

"The lawyer called his secretary and dictated the following letter:

"Gentlemen: Your letter regarding title in case No. 188,156 received. I note that you wish titles to extend further than I have presented them. I was unawaare that any educated man in the world failed to know that Louisiana was bought by the United States from France in 1803.

"'The title to the land was acquired by France by right of conquest from Spain. The land came into the possession of Spain by right of discovery made in 1492 by a Spanish-Portuguese sailor named Christopher Columbus, who had been granted the privilege of seeking a new route to India by the then reigning monarch Queen Isabella.

"'The good queen being a pious woman and careful about titles, almost as careful as the RFC, took the precaution of securing the blessings of the Pope of Rome upon the voyage before she sold her jewels to help Columbus. Now, the Pope, as you know, is the emissary of Jesus Christ, Who is the Son of God, and God, it is commonly accepted, made the world. Therefore, I believe it is safe to presume that He also made that part of the United States called Louisiana, and I hope to h— you're satisfied.'"

Virginia Stephens.

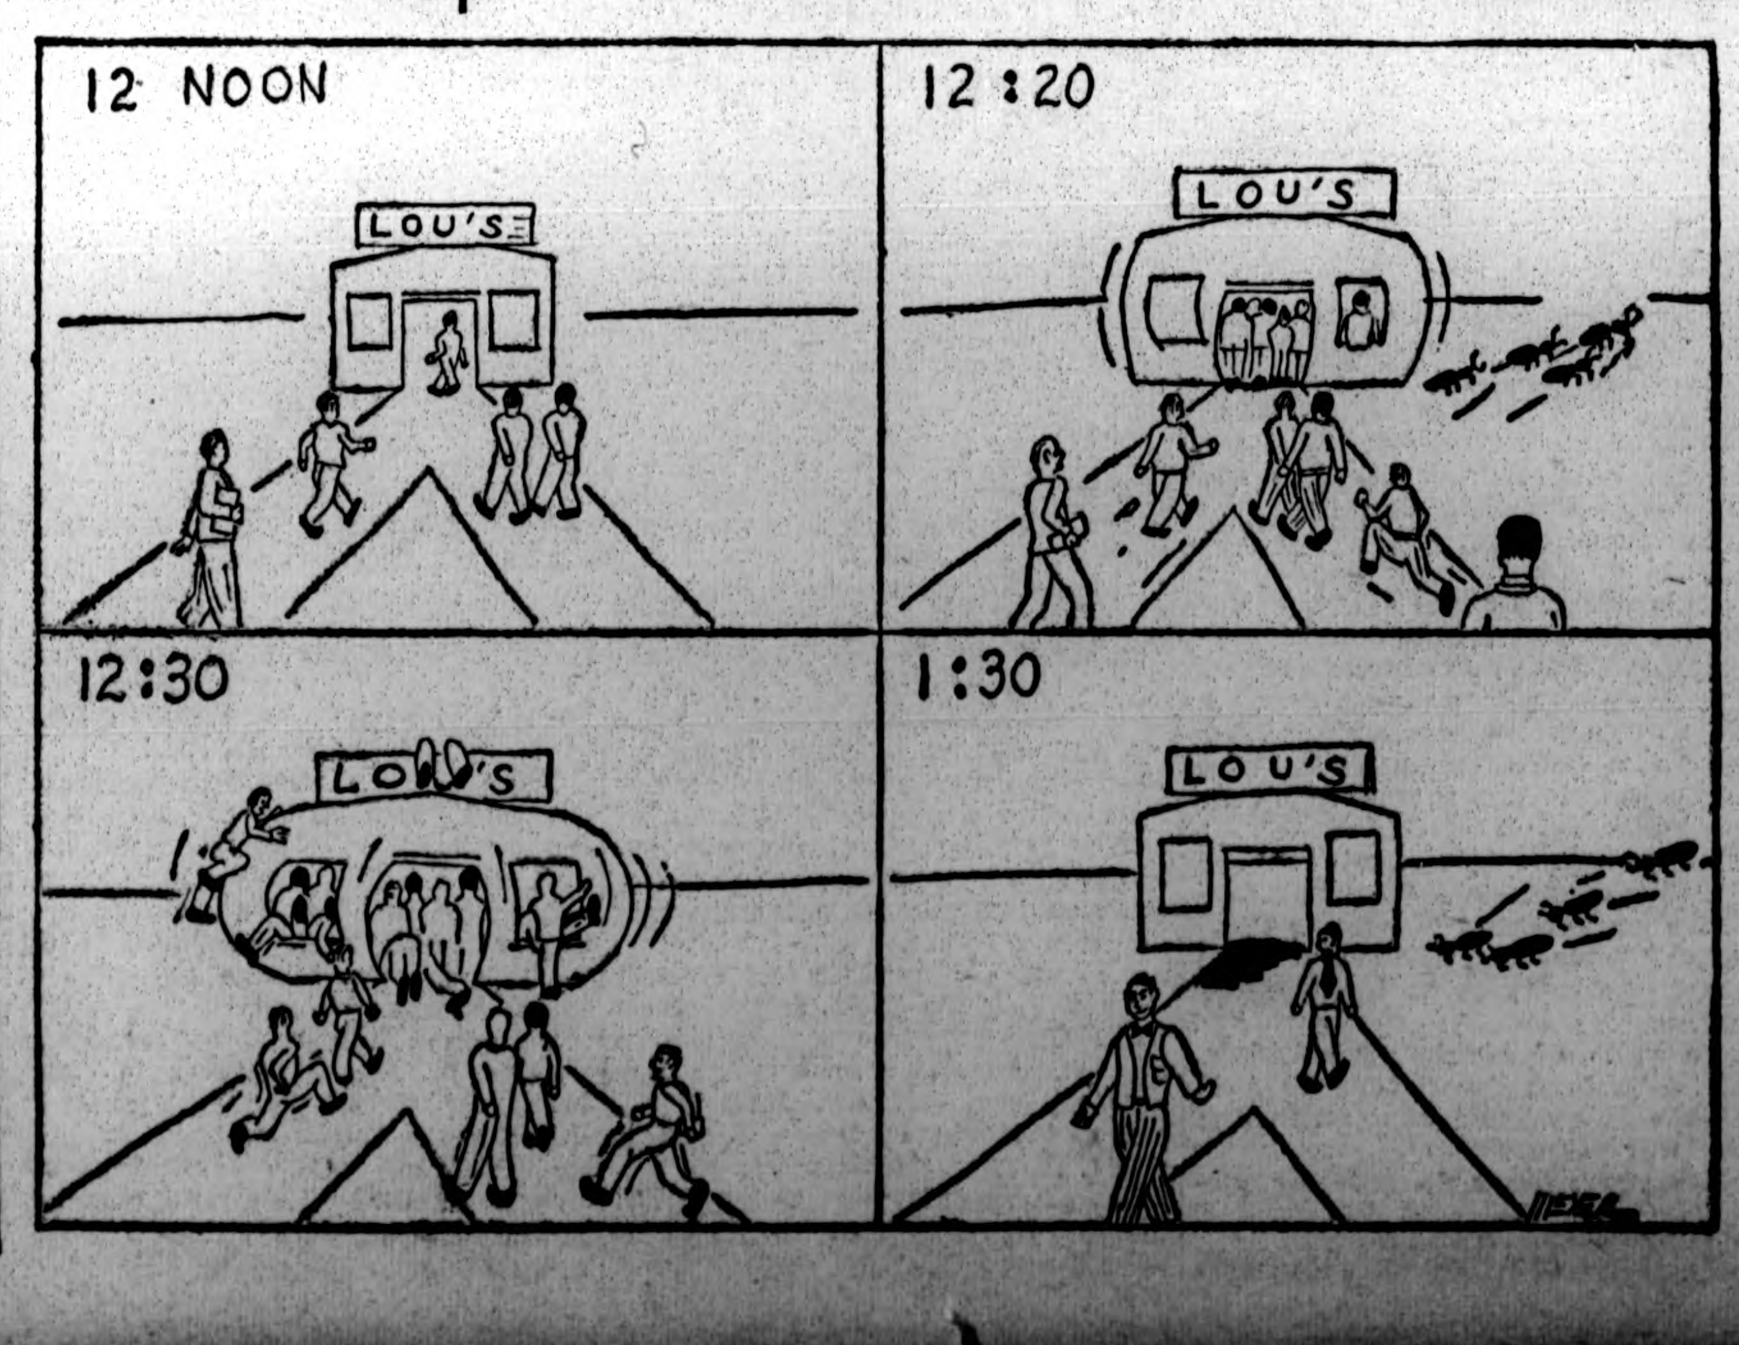
Dear Editor:

I think it would be a good idea for your paper to inaugurate a column—Letters to the Editor.

Ralph DeFlavius.

P.S.—We beat you to it.

The Pie Shop - - - - - - - - By Meyer



Meet The Boys:

By CHARLES McCARTHY

Belle Air and Circulation Continue On Despite Inflation Cheers and Smears Is Extant Too Staged by Warren, Jack and Lou

Some fellows explode like an atomic bomb and accomplish like results; while others exert the same amount of energy and accomplish similar large tasks without attracting very much attention. This week your reporter has one Villanovan to report on in each of the above categories. The atomic bomb, Villanovan style, is our own Lou DiGiacomo while the subtle but potent "man about the campus" in discussion is none other than the dynamic Warren Sexton.

Warren Sexton

First let's look into the dark past of the one and only Warren George Sexton who first made himself known to the unsuspecting world in the dear city of "Brotherly Love" on the night of May 24 back in 1924. Little did the surrounding country side suspect that such an important event was taking place, but it was—you can take Warren's word for it—he tells me that he was there at the time.

In the years that followed young Mr. Sexton managed to keep the family well occupied by getting into everything possible without being heard until it was always too late. Then in an attempt to subdue his investigating tendencies Warren's folks sent him off to the Notre Dame Academy for grammar school. However, from what we hear, this did little more than add to the families worries, for now it was a more clever, more determined Warren they had to deal with.

WARREN SEXTON

Sand Bar State

At this point the Sextons traveled over to the "Sand Bar State" and made their residence at Millbury, N. J. While living here Warren attended the Oratory School in nearby Summit, N. J. It was at the Oratory school that our hero really started to show the world what a terrific man he was, for he played baseball and basketball in a manner that had never before or since been seen by the people of that territory.

Captained Team

As a matter of fact he was so stellar on the sports field that he captained both the baseball and basketball teams while in his senior year. Yes, all this athletic work kept Warren busy; but not too busy to be an important man about the Oratory campus. He was Secretary of the Senior class and wrote for the school paper—the latter was his first big mistake in life. When time came around at the end of the senior year and all the marks were tabulated who do you think was found to be the Valedictorian? That's right—our own Warren Sexten.

Riveter

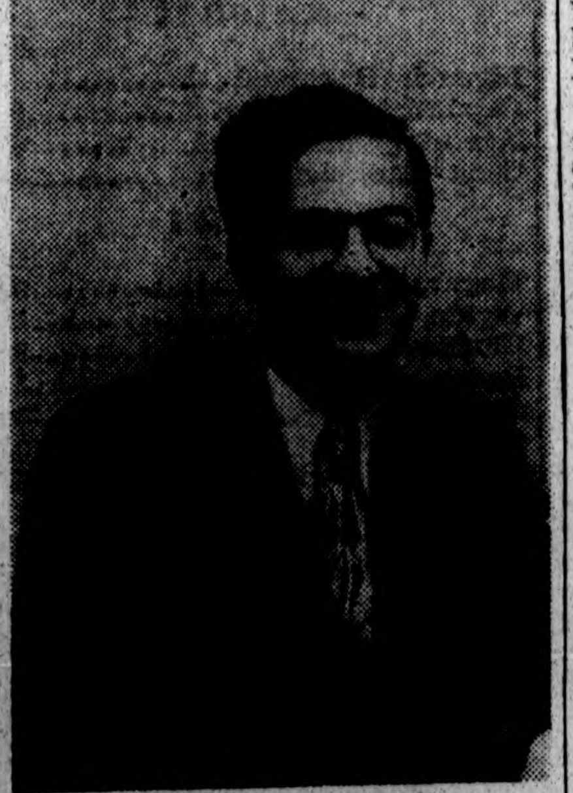
The Summer following his release from high school back in 1942 W.S. went to work in a defense plant in South Orange as a riveter. After a Summer of this rugged work Warrent decided that his talents were more prone to the educational side of life. Therefore, it was off to Villanova where he started in November of 1942. Once again though Warren found it necessary to tear himself away from the scholastic for Uncle Sam desired his service with the Army of the United States. So, in January of 1943 he became Pvt. Warren Sexton.

Once again Villanova was lucky, for in November of 1943 the Army decided to send Warren home. This time it was to college as a day hop, for his family had now taken up residence in Bala-Cynwyd, Penna. Warren worked on the Villanovan for three semesters and now holds down the very important position of circulation manager. Besides seeing to the distribution of the papers he also finds time to write and copy read as well as anything else that is to be done. Warren is also a member of the German Club and the Vets Club.

Leo DiGiacomo

Typically Lou DiGiacomo entered the world with a tremendous howl back on January 20, 1926, in the fair city of Philadelphia. However, shortly after this, his family moved to the other side of the river; and took up residence in Oaklyn which is a suburb of Camden, N. J. Here is where the DiGiacomo family first became aware of the drive and power of young Lou for whatever he did he did it well.

For the first siv years of school Lou attended the Clinton Ave. Grammar School and did a good job of keeping things in a roar.



LOUIS DiGIACOMO

When it came time for Lou to go to sixth grade the folks in Oaklyn found that the grammar school was overcrowded necessitating sending the sixth to Oaklyn Junior High School. So, it was off to junior high for our boy and a spectacular future.

Sport Editor

In junior high there was little that could stop Lou for his talents and potent personality were not to be denied. He was sports editor of the Oaklyn Jr. H. paper, and instrumental in other varied activities about the school. He was also an altar boy for several years — the fact that he out grew all of the cassocks was the only reason that he stopped serving. When he no longer could serve, he started to sing in the church choir. From what we hear he was pretty good in the vocal department, too.

At the end of the ninth grade Lou found that it was time to go on to senior high, but not before he was told that he was the top boy in his class as far as the marks went. Another thing that stands out at this point in Mr. DiGiacomo's history is the fact that he was presented the American Legion Award for exceptional characteristics in scholarship, leadership and courage.

Cheer Leader

Well, after all of this took place Lou traveled to the Collingswood Senior High School and once again started to carve his name in an institutions records. As soon as the students saw Lou they decided that with all of his dynamic energy they had to have him as a cheer leader. Therefore, Villanova's own Lou served the school as cheer leader for the three years that he was in attendance at Collingswood.

Besides cheer leading he also was in the Glee club and the Dramatic club. Being a student at heart Lou naturally was also a member of the National Honor Society. He was in the Junior and Senior Plays in high school and held down that all important role of the Russian in the Senior Play which was "You Can't Take It With You." Over and above all this Lou was selected as the "peppiest boy" in the school while he was in his senior year.

Science Major

Then came the great day when Lou DiGiacomo graduated from Collingswood High, the day by the way, was a fair day in June of 1943. After a week's rest the ambitious Jersey boy came out here to our campus on July 4, 1943 and Villanova gained one of the best that our neighboring state had to offer. Lou entered Villanova as science major specializing in chemistry, but after his sophomore year Lou decided that he would go into law. Thus he entered the C. and F. school as a pre-law student.

Lou is a member of the Interracial Group as well as being a columnist for the Villanovan. President DiGiacomo is what the members of the DPE fraternity call him for after serving as treasurer of the frat during Junior year, Lou was elected to the presidency this year. Lou wrote the constitution for that group this year with the aid of Milt Climati. He is also on the orientation committee and a member of the student council. In the athletic department Lou excels at Intramural Softball.

One of Lou's most valuable contributions to Villanova was his reorganizing of the cheer leaders during his Junior year Lou, as all Wildcats know, is the top cheerleader here abouts. After graduating from Villanova Lou intends to enter law school at either Harvard or Yale.

John Selfridge

Next on the list of important celebrities about the campus is none other than John J. Selfridge who entered Philadelphia as a youth at a date not available. In other words, we do not know when he was born but we know that it happened in Philadelphia several years ago.

John found the need for work and study at an early age when he started to school at St. Gabriel's. While in grammar school young Mr. Selfridge learned to write and manage the affairs at hand well, soon becoming a dominant character in the local marble circle.

Entered Army

Following the successful stay in the lower plane of education John went to Southeast Catholic High School where he established a like notable record as student and executive. Upon completion of his studies at Southeast he went out to St. Narbert College in West De Pere, Wisconsin. John studied there for two years and then entered the Army, serving for a year.

JOHN SELFRIDGE

Selfridge also studied engineering for a short time at the Clarkson College of Technology in Potsdam, New York. Following this he worked in the research lab of the Publicker Commercial Alcohol Company and the Du Pont Company laboratory.

Education Major

Finding the call of education once again too strong to resist, John came out to Villanova in March of 1945 and entered as a student in Education studying for a B.S. When finished here he plans to enter a graduate school in social service.

John is the current Editor-in-Chief of the "Belle Air"—Villanova's yearbook. It is expected that with his guiding hand to mould the book it will be one of the finest to be produced at Villanova. Besides this all important job, John is a member of the Student Council and is on the Orientation Committee.

Prom Committee

The success of the Senior Prom was also in part due to John's work for he was a member of the Prom Committee. He is a member of the Vets Club on the campus as well as the Choir and the Study club. John's talents also flow into the field of drama for he is quite adapt at the art of acting from what we hear.

Truly J. J. Selfridge is one of the College's most outstanding men and when he graduates from Villanova in June the institution will be losing a valuable man.

Attention!

The library will be open until 9:00 P. M. to accommodate the enlarged student body.

Persons who ordered and paid for pictures from the year book which were displayed in Mendel Hall in January may get same by calling at the Belle Air Office in the Commerce and Finance Building.

'NEATH THE SPIRES

The Church announces to us next Sunday joyful tidings: Easter is near. Christ leads His chosen disciples, the neophytes and penitents, into the Heavenly Jerusalem to reveal to them His treasures; the liberty of Divine Sonship and the Holy Eucharist, which He dispenses to the faithful anew.

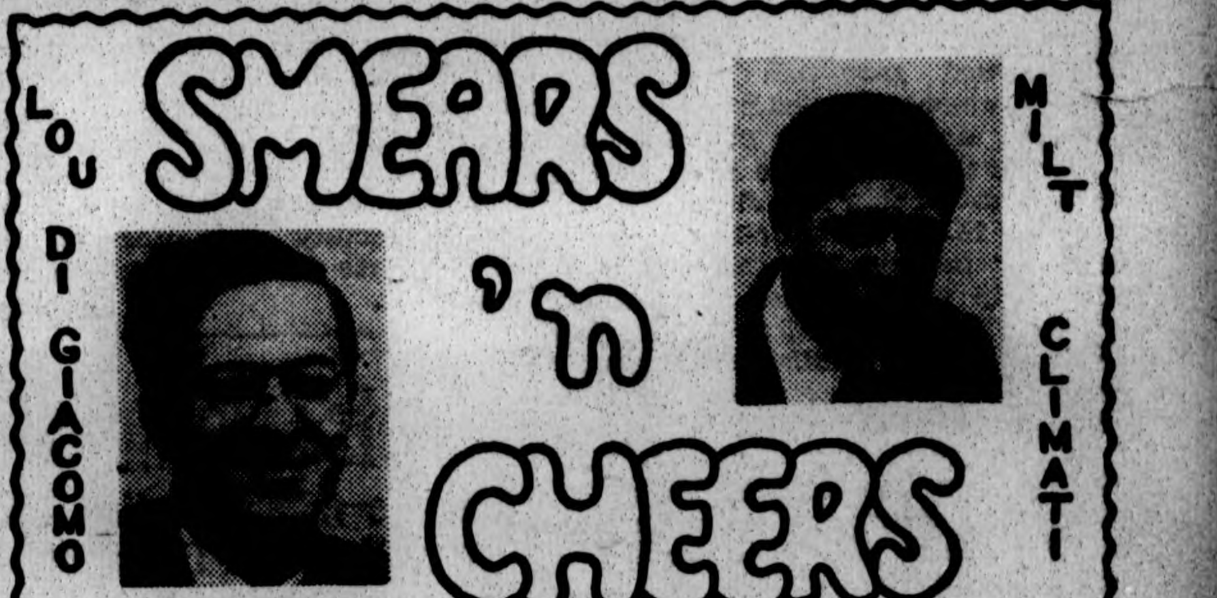
Next Sunday has a unique position in the liturgical year: a Sunday of joy during the sorrowful season of Lent. The priest, deacon and sub-deacon wear rose-colored vestments which are indicative of joy. The organ is played again. All the texts of the Mass ring with the tone of joy; it opens with the joyful cry: "Laetare—Rejoice!" The principal motive for this gladness is the joyful message: Easter is near,—just like the message of the third Sunday of Advent: the Lord is nigh. But the Church has other reasons for rejoicing.

1. The ancient church exulted over the neophytes, who would soon be reborn in Baptism. This maternal joy of the Church over the rebirth of her children lends a note of gladness to the entire ancient liturgy of Lent.

2. The Sunday following Passiontide begins. To throw into relief the sadness of this season the Church celebrates this Sunday of a kind of spiritual carnival. It is an anticipation of Easter, an anticipated joy which we cannot suppress.

3. This is also a celebration of the coming of spring. The Church rejoices over the reawakening of nature, which is a symbol of the Resurrection of Christ and the soul. At Rome the first roses of the season used to be brought to the churches on this day, and Christians, especially the Catechumens, exchanged bouquets of roses as mutual presents. From this practice arose another venerable custom; the Papal blessing of the Golden Rose. The rose is the symbol of the Risen Christ and of Christian joy.

4. Finally, Sunday is also a Eucharistic Sunday. Christ goes forth to found His family. By bloody toil He earns our daily bread, the fruit of His bitter sufferings. Christ is the new Moses (the Patriarch of the Week); He nourishes us with the heavenly manna.



The social front has calmed down a good deal because of Lent, but many of the lads are still going merrily on their way, refusing to slow down or be slowed down. Some of our social lions believe it unthinkable that a weekend should pass without them having a date. It gives them something to talk about on Monday morning. "The Wildcats!"

PICK-UPS:

Congratulations to Marty Minerva, Frank McDonald and Bill Brennan, all of Simpson Hall on being in such fine physical condition, and if you think we're kidding, ask the draft board . . . Anyone wanting swimming lessons just get in touch with Charlie McIntyre. He swims in Summer and in Winter, it seems. (Don't you Charlie)? . . . Mark Weber and Ed Reybitz made a fine team this year. They should get top billing as Mutt and Jeff.

Bob Manske can be seen sweating it out these days. He's a little worried about the draft taking him out of school. Yes Bob, its time to start worrying because you only have another year to go . . . Somebody better wise up Bill Coffey and tell him to be sure there is a chair under him when he sits down . . . Hoot Gibson of O'Dwyer Hall is now doing practice teaching at Radnor High School, and is he having the time. He's telling the dear kiddies all about his war experiences. (Don't you wish he would tell you some? Well, we do) . . . We hear that Stretch Graham has become the new errand boy of Mendel Hall . . . We are glad to see Dante Orazi and Mack Stuart getting along so well these days. Been going together long boys? . . . One of the seven wonders of the Modern Age are Ralph (Emperor) De Flavi's shirts! The wonder of it is how he can wear them. They look like an Alcoholic's DT.'s, on Cloth.

STUFF:

It's rumored that Aurilio (Smaller than me) Baccino's little romance with Mary Faye is still going strong. What we can't figure out is why. . . . Jim McNamara certainly was entertaining a certain little chick down at the nurses home last week. Friend of yours, Jim?. . . How come Frank Nugent can call Pleasantville, N. J. and talk for a half hour to a little lady and not pay a cent? Amazing! . . . It's really a shame that everybody on the campus has at least 2 or 3 girls they can date and Tony Cocco can't even get one . . Bill Koerner is getting quite a toe hold in the O'Brien family. In fact, his girl's father offered him a job in the O'Brien construction company. Isn't he the lucky fellow? Just think, a job, and he also gets Joan.

SPEAKING OF FIGURES

Feminine arithmetic
Is somewhat inexact,
Yet many a girl
Who cannot add,
Can certainly distract.
—S. C. Gamecock

* * *

MORE STUFF:

We hear that Jack Devine who is now vacationing from Villanova, has joined the $20 a week club . . . Why has Joe Besanti been seen on Kent Road so frequently as of late? They're not having any more parties over there Joe . . . We hear that the boys of O'Dwyer Hall had such a nice time the past week that fifteen of them were restricted . . . Charley Weber (Future Villanova Fullback) is going steady with Elizabeth. At least we know for a fact that he can be seen over at Betty's every weekend . . . By the way Bill Bradley has gone and done it again. Yup he's gotten engaged! What is this Bill, the fourth or fifth? We sort of lost track a little ways back. . . Ernesto Smith who is one of the most active and consistent members in the attendance of the Spanish Club, was absent when nominated for president. It seems funny to us that just on this day of days he should be absent. Don't you think so too?

CORRECTION:

We made a mistake in last week's column. Tito Mendes doesn't go to New York to see Frances the Opera Singer, but rather to see her sister, whose name we are informed is Marion. However, maybe he is trying to keep them both happy . . . Don Collins was

CHEERS AND SMEARS
Continued on Page Eight

Joseph Gerngross Serves Aboard Carrier Midway

Severe Pounding Taken By Carrier Ploughing North On Maneuvers

Ensign Joseph J. Gerngross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gerngross of 810 Unruh Ave., Philadelphia, is an engineering officer aboard the USS Midway on an experimental cruise in sub-arctic waters. On March 9th the ship encountered pounding seas which damaged the new super carrier as it ploughed northward for test maneuvers. Great waves smashed in two of the hangar deck's roller curtains and the venetian-blind-like door in the ship's side below the flight deck.

JOSEPH GERNGROSS

The third roller curtain in a hangar bay on the same side of the ship was smashed by another wave. The damaged sections were shored up and similar bracing was ordered for other ports on the hangar deck level.

A driving snow storm cut visibility, resulting in an order for escorting destroyers to steam in single line to lessen the possibility of collision.

Ensign Gerngross is a graduate of Villanova having received his degree on July 1, 1943.

Margie Gerngross a sister is with the Naval Aviation Personnel. A brother Fred, also a graduate of Villanova College, was the only Philadelphia officer aboard the Indianapolis who made the supreme sacrifice in the Pacific Theatre of War on July 30, 1945.

Survey Reveals Frosh 91% Vets

Following the recent national trend in education, over 90% of the new Freshmen class are veterans of World War II, according to the first survey of the freshman to be conducted by the Villanovan.

Eighty of the 226 new fresh are veterans of the Army Air Forces, 80 more of the Ground and Service Forces, and 47 from the Navy and Marines. The 18 non-veterans are not as exclusive a group as the one man who carried the goods with the Merchant Marine.

Villanovan Takes Over

Until 1942, the Freshman Survey of interests, background, and reasons for coming to Villanova was conducted by the Registrar's office. A compilation of the results was made up to supply the moderator's of various activities with the names of interested new students; and it was also used to determine what brought students to the College. Taking of the Survey was discontinued until this term when it was resumed under the auspices of the Villanovan.

About 75% of the new students are interested in sports, most of them in intramural baseball and football. Many of them can swim, and one adventurous frosh can dive well but can't swim.

Musically inclined freshmen number 52, 26 voices and 26 instruments. Eight of the instrumentalists can also sing.

Most men were attracted to Villanova by its Catholic background and its scholastic reputation. A lesser, but still important reason given was the College's athletic reputation. Many of the new men came here on the recommendation of alumni.

NationalVets' Group Meet

75 Colleges Represented at Meeting of Eastern Division in Philadelphia

Harry Edwards, President of the Villanova Veterans' Club attended recently a meeting of the National Veterans College Association, Eastern Division. James Lynch, National President, presided over the affair. Every college from the New England and Middle Atlantic states were sent invitations but only 75 colleges were represented.

The meeting was held in two sessions. The morning session featured the presenting of the various difficulties confronting the returning Vets. Among the more outstanding of these were housing, financial problems, monthly checks, etc., and the obtaining of necessary materials required for the several courses of study taken by Vets.

The afternoon session was spent in making resolutions for alleviating the aforementioned difficulties to be voted upon at the next meeting of the Association. Also some provisions are to be set up in those localities where local colleges can not care for the large influx of Vets desiring to enter college. At this meeting election of officers will take place. Villanova Veterans Club does not expect to attend this meeting however since it has not as yet decided whether it will join the National Association.

Veterans Meeting

This organization has for its principal objective that of procuring the understanding of the world's problems and the way to an everlasting peace by way of giving every vet the opportunity to obtain an education so that he may be properly fitted to take his place in the carrying out of this objective.

Next Wednesday, March 27, there will be a general meeting for all Veterans now at Villanova. It will be held in Room 215 Mendel—the Amphitheatre. This meeting is of greatest importance to Villanova Vets and they are therefore urgently requested to attend. Father McQuade, faculty moderator of the college Vets Club will preside over the affair.

Vets Dilemma

Veterans Administration Letting Veterans Down On College Program

Too many colleges are falling down on the job veteran education, claims Dean Arthur S. Postle of the University of Cincinnati who thinks its high time the Veterans Administration performed its role and really took over the G.I. education program. Veteran education is a far bigger thing in its implication than is generally recogznized, says Dean Postle in Liberty magazine, and the Veterans' Administration has an opportunity to make a tremendous social and educational contribution. To do so, however, it must organize and modernize its V-16 and V-268 program.

Vets Exploited

Among the more obvious shortcomings of the bill providing college education is that of housing. A second charge against the purveyors of higher education is that they are exploiting the veterans, using them to bring in revenue rather than supplying them with an education. Even more important, courses have not been modernized and nineteenth century techniques in teaching are forced on practical-minded veterans who are used to the best of new teaching methods.

Adequate Staffs

The following principles should be put into effect immediately by the Veterans Administration asserts Dean Postle:

1. Demand that colleges meet specified standards if they wish to continue as veteran-training institutions.

2. Overhaul admission system so that the entrance and accrediting of veterans is handled according to recognized national standards and not determined by the whims of college officials.

3. Require that colleges employ adequate staffs and up-to-date teaching techniques.

4. Insist that satisfactory living quarters and food be made available and at reasonable prices.

5 Put payments of tuition, fees and books on a cost basis so that emphasis is shifted from the profit to the institution to education of the veterans.

6 Establish a counseling and directional service with complete

VETS DILEMMA
Continued on Page Eight

Belle Aire To Be Distributed By End Of Term

800 Copies To Reach Campus After Final Proofing and Indexing Are Completed

By the end of May the 1946 edition of the Belle Air will be ready for distribution. To the Belle Air staff this means the accomplishment of a feat not attained since pre-war days; the distribution of the yearbook before the end of the scholastic year, for which it is dated.

In recent years the Belle Air staff, due to well known bottlenecks, the manpower and material shortages, has been unable to distribute the book until after the close of the scholastic year.

Gone to Press

The 1946 edition of the Belle Air has gone to press and will be returned next week. The tasks of proof reading and indexing the book will require only a short time. After these tasks are completed the book will be again in the hands of the printer, the Campus Publishing Company of Philadelphia, with an order for eight hundred copies.

The theme of this edition is "the Catholic College Contribution to a True Peace." This has been worked into the various articles of the book and has been illustrated very expertly by the artistic touches of Eamon Walsh, '48. Walsh in a series of drawings traces the steps of a victim of the war along the rugged road to real peacetime living and learning.

The Zamsky Studio of Philadelphia has again handled the photography for the Belle Air. Many fine shots of extra-curricular activities along with the class and faculty pictures are included. Various new angle pictures of the campus and buildings also have been added.

Larger Edition

. The '46 Edition, though relatively small, is larger than any edition since that of the Centennial year, even though the graduating classes of this year have been very small. The size of the year-book is governed to a certain extent by the size of the class around which it centers. The limited extent of extra-curricular activities is another factor which inhibited the expansion of this edition.

New Writers Needed

The Moderator for the year book, Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., recently voiced a request for new writers; said Father: "The staff of the Belle Air welcomes new members into its midst. Former members are especially urged to take up the pen or camera in the service of the Belle Air. New members may yet witness the final steps toward publishing such a book and profit by experience in future years. Any person interested should inquire at the new Belle Air office in the basement of the Commerce and Finance Building.

DPE Welcomes New Students To Frat

DiGiacomo Clarifies Position of Returning Members and New Students

By ROBERT P. GREENSPAN

Last Tuesday, March 19, the weekly meeting of the Delta Pi Epselon Fraternity was held in Room 213, Mendel Hall.

At this meeting an important stride was taken when a committee was formed to draw up a new set of by-laws for the organization. The committee consists of Climati, Racusin, and Diana, three capable members of the fraternity.

Stresses Membership

President Di Giacomo offers a cordial welcome to any men who have returned to Villanova this term, who are former members of the D.P.E. President Di Giacomo requests however, that these former members submit their names to him by the end of this month in order to give the Organization ample time to reinstate the former members. He also requests that those who submit their names must also present evidence of former membership in D.P.E.

The Frat is now in the midst of a drive for pledges. The drive will terminate on Friday March 29. Any student who is matriculating in a Commerce and Finance Course is eligible as a pledge. All interested men are urged to register before the drive closes.

The organization has decided that the meetings will be held every Monday at one P. M., Room 214, Mendel Hall, for the rest of the semester.

Honor Roll For Fall Term

SENIOR II

	Ave.
Conway, Robert J.	4.00
Bacsik, George	3.78
Andrews, Garroll A.	3.70
Cox, Burton N.	3.63
Kirlin, Clyde B.	3.53
Carey, William B.	3.15
Walker, David S.	3.06
Frey, J. Richard	3.05

SENIOR I

	Ave.
Illgen, Richard	3.82
Selfridge, John	3.37
Winner, James E.	3.33
Christenson, Paul	3.30
Mackey, James T.	3.30
Centrone, Joseph	3.19
Sonner, Kenneth	3.17
Derr, Albert	3.06
Sweeney, Joseph	3.05
O'Neil, George	3.00

JUNIOR II

	Ave.
Liguori, Raymond	3.59
Capuzzi, Alfred	3.42
Northington, Samuel	3.05
Chen See, Jasper	3.00

JUNIOR I

	Ave.
Megna, Vincent	3.84
Wylde, Daniel	3.83
Hanssens, Francis	3.83
Bauer, Robert	3.76
Stahr, James	3.68
Gallagher, Charles	3.67
Wieand, Donald	3.67
Birch, Richard	3.59
Gleysteen, William	3.53
Reist, Benjamin	3.50
Coppa, Anthony	3.43
Mazanek, Alfonso	3.43
Hanratty, Thomas	3.40
Davis, Grant C.	3.33
Lincoln, George	3.33
Mather, George	3.33
Otto, Frederick	3.33
Short, Thomas	3.32
Gourley, Jack	3.29
Goode, Robert	3.21
Lyons, James	3.19
Seamen, Conrad	3.17
Connell, John	3.16
Kokes, Richard	3.16
Lagno, Edward	3.16
Widenfaefer, Paul	3.14
Space, William	3.14
Brogan, Joseph	3.06
Mester, John	3.06
Welsh, Russell	3.06
McDermott, John	3.05
Baumgardner, James	3.00
Branch, Richard	3.00
Conner, William	3.00
Harris, Justin	3.00
Lambie, William	3.00
Livingston, Richard	3.00
Marano, David	3.00
McPeak, Vincent	3.00
Turney, Peter	3.00

SOPHOMORE II

	Ave.
DeMartino, Carl	4.00
Warren, Geoffrey	4.00
Jordan, Samuel	3.71
Collins, Donald	3.58
Brennan, Lawrence	3.50
Bonnes, Edward	3.37
Rothwell, Albert	3.35
Miller, John	3.33
Carroll, Robert	3.33
Bradley, William	3.27
Allison, George	3.24
Gastrock, Joseph	3.21
Hettinger, John	3.17
Kerr, Ronald	3.00
Golden, William	3.00

SOPHOMORE I

	Ave.
Giffin, George	3.81
McInerney, Thomas	3.68
Smith, Robert	3.47
Foster, William	3.27
Colcher, Robert	3.24
Manske, Robert	3.19
Taylor, George	3.17
Eisenhart, Charles	3.17
Healy, Joseph	3.14
Stuart, Markard	3.00

FRESHMEN II

	Ave.
Bonnes, Frank	3.74
Costas, Paul	3.71
Hemler, Paul	3.41
Finnerty, James	3.200
Walsh, Eamon	3.17
McCafferty, Hugh	3.16
Riley, Robert	3.11
Sipa, Nicholas	3.11
Hood, Francis	3.00
Haney, James	3.00
Donnelly, Thomas	3.00

FRESHMEN I

	Ave
Brown, John	4.00
Turner, William	3.80
Gallagher, Joseph	3.76
Mahoney, Richard	3.65
Kelm, Raymond	3.65
Tracy, John	3.59
Flannelly, Lawrence	3.53
Etzel, Alfred	3.53
Suarez, Roberto	3.47
Smith, Ernesto	3.47
Lynch, James	3.47
Gorman, John	3.47
Cummiskey, William	3.47
Brett, John	3.41
Ammann, Louis	3.41
Kelly, Charles	3.35
Shields, John	3.35
Mika, Emil	3.33
Steinhofer, Peter	3.18
O'Mara, John	3.13
Przybylowski, Eugene	3.12
Pozza, Nicholas	3.12
Dodd, Leo	3.12
Berninger, Raymond	3.06
Kline, Henry	3.06
McGonigle, Lawrence	3.06
D'Ambrisi, Joseph	3.05
Minsavage, Edward	3.00
Appleby, Philip	3.00
Andreas, James	3.00

George Harris Completes 35 Years Service to College

Fought In First World War; Returned In 1918 To Old Job

Nowadays most people take too many things for granted and this no doubt applies to one the foremost figures of the Villanova campus. George Harris, whom you've all seen about the grounds at one time or another, came to Villanova in the year 19 and 11.

During his employment here, George performed in various capacities, including driving horses, butchering cattle, cutting campus lawns and driving the college trucks. George also served a period of time as baker in the Villanova kitchen, when cooks were men and the food was edible.

They Call It Slum And Gravy

George can definitely be classed as one of Villanova's heroes for he saw action fighting the disastrous fire which burnt St. Rita's Hall to the ground in 1912. After this year, George answered the call to his country's service and, enlisting in the Army, spent World War I in the service as an Army cook.

George returned to Villanova in 1918 after his discharge and at the same time to his old job. Once more the hero he helped to fight the terrible fires which occurred here in 1928 and 1932.

GEORGE HARRIS

Mr. Harris is married and lives in Havertown, Pennsylvania. He has a son who is now serving overseas in the separation and payroll office in Manila. Harris, Jr. has been in the service for fourteen months and has served eight of those overseas. Previously he was stationed in Alabama, Arkansas and San Francisco, California. He currently holds the rating of corporal.

Interested?

Fill out below and hand in to ballot box on 1st floor Mendel Hall, on Wednesday from 1:00 to 2:00.

I wish to go out for a 150 pound football team, if such a team is formed.

Name ....

Class ....

Weight ....

Experience ....

Position ....

STAFF MEETING

There will be a meeting of all staff members of the Villanovan in the newspaper office on the second floor of Mendel Hall on Wednesday, March 27. The all-important question of circulation will be discussed.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Talking Things Over

Discussing things about the Spring Football Sessions are left to right: Gerry Neri, Art Raimo and Head Coach Jordan Olivar. Ollie is now in his fourth year as varsity coach.

Team In Good Form As Practice Enters 2nd Week

Neri, Raimo and Head Coach Olivar Drill In Fundamentals With Team In Good Physical Shape

BY DAN REDMOND

Villanova's footballers, encouraged by some warm sunny weather, concluded their second week of spring practice last Friday afternoon. Having worked his men lightly the first week, Coach Jorden Olivar directed his squad through slightly more intensive drills this week.

Concentrating on about a half dozen plays, the Wildcats engaged in skeleton scrimmages on the last three days. The usual calisthenics preceded each day's practice. Rounding out a good week's work were blocking exercises, running the gauntlet, and passing drills conducted by assistant Coach Art Raimo.

It is too early to make any predictions or pick out any stars, but the Villanovans have shown real potentiality in the workouts to date. Veteran backs Vince McPeak and Chick Welde plus two newcomers, Jack Rothenhauser and Bob Polidor have been impressive in their departments. Rothenhauser played Freshman ball here before the war, while Polidor was a Temple halfback a few years back.

Returning Vet, Tom McCarthy, has been displaying flashes of his old form. Two backfield candidates from Jersey, Dick Janson and Bill Dost, have displayed amazing speed in running through the mock drills. In the forward wall there should be a real scrap for positions. Probably very few of last years eleven will find themselves in that elect group next Fall.

Center seems to be a well filled spot with Art Alois, a first stringer here as a freshman three years ago; John Witsch, All Public center from Northeast High; and last year's pivot man Milt Komarnicki, all on hand.

On the flanks, Frank "Bud" Kane, erstwhile West Catholic star and Stan Constantino, former Southeast Catholic wingman, have shown. Ed Narcum a pre-war Wildcat, is also available, as are Mike Santocroce and Tony Cocoo. Tackles and guards, those unsung heroes are reporting in droves and it will be a while before the cream rises to the top. However, Tom Smith looks more rugged than ever and should be billeted for plenty of action. Others who have shown up well are Mel Downey, Bill Carlin, Al Zimbra, Lou Ferry and Joe Scarcelli.

About sixty men have been on hand for practice session so far. All told there were about eighty listed, but the injury list, baseball team and late classes have combined to cut this figure.

Working out with the baseball team are Romeo Capriotti, stellar halfback; Bill Doherty, last year's master of the "T"; Roy Schleicher, hard-charging end; and Dan Casey, a fullback with the Blue and White a few years ago.

With the intensity of the work increasing, Villanova's triumvirate coaching staff will be able to get a much better line on what to expect for next season. A few scrimmages are planned so that the grid tutors will not have to lay down the fundamentals nor work with a completely green squad next Fall.

Grid Team Boasts Many New Men

Vets and Last Year's Players Make Practice Brightest Since Pre-War Days

The football talent that has turned out for Pre-Season training is undoubtedy the finest Villanova has had in many years. A compound of veterans, last year's holdovers, and some of the surrounding territory's most brilliant high school stars, should mould the Wild Cats into one of the "threats" in Eastern gridiron competition.

It is the desire of this column to introduce some of the less familiar names on Coach Olivar's roster, but names that we feel will be very prominent when the Fall season rolls around.

Mike Santocroce

One of the outstanding stars ever to don an Overbrook High School uniform, big Michael Santocroce, 1942 All Philadelphia Public High School star, came to Villanova in October, 1946. The gap between high school and college constituted Mike's active duty in the United States Army Air Forces.

The Service was no barrier in Santocroce's career. While a member of the 9th Air Force, Corporal Santocroce captained the European Theater of Operations Championship Team. In the thrilling deciding game, Mike scored the initial touchdown which paved the way for the 12-0 victory over the Second Advanced Aerial Division Area Champs.

Wasting no time after his discharge, Mike came to Villanova and immediately saw action against Army, Tennessee, and Boston College. Against Tennessee Mike earned Villanova's only two points by tackling one of the Volunteers behind the goal.

A strong contender for the quarterback position this year will be Richard "Dick" Janson. This one hundred and seventy pound young-

GRID TEAM
Continued on Page Six

Baseball Nine Prepping For Opening Spring Tilt

Weinert Preparing to Select Opening Line-Up; Mound Staff Improving

One week from tomorrow, or to be exact, Wednesday, April 3, 1946 the inaugeral game of the present baseball season will be played. Starting time of this and subsequent home week-day games will be 3:00 o'clock. Saturday games will start one-half hour earlier.

Coach Weinert had hopped to get a line on his team by staging a practice game last Saturday, but inclement weather delayed work on the infield and it was cancelled. The pitchers mound was not finished until yesterday and balls hit to the outfield were still taking crazy bounces on the rough grass.

Two additions to the squad late last week were Bill Doherty and Romeo Capriotti. Both of them will have to get their eye at the plate and loosen up muscles tightened by Spring football practice in which they had participated for the past two weeks. "Doc" is an infielder and "Cap" has an eye on an outfield berth.

Competition for all positions, except one, is wide open with at least three men fighting for recognition. To facilitate practices the squad was divided into two sections yesterday. This will give all hands an opportunity to get adequate hitting and fielding practice. One group being in back of the field house and the other on the main field.

First base is still and open battle between Charles Comerford and Roy Schleicher. Both are right hand hitters who get plenty of distance on their drives.

Joe Lord and Larry Smyth are toss-up candidates for second. Lord seems to be an improved player despite his long absence from the diamond. Smyth is a product of North Catholic (Phila.) who is also resuming his playing career.

Bill Doherty has moved into the shortstop fight after only three days practice. Mack Stuart, a Lower Merion Boy, is not going to move out without a struggle.

As a result of the above complications Dave Marano is back at third base, the position he held last year. Don Boos, last year's second baseman, seems to have an idea that his name will be associated with "hot-corner" this year.

Anything can happen at any of the infield positions during the coming week. Dark-horse candidates are Baldassano, Carey, Creachen, O'Mara, and Robinson.

The outfield will find Dan Casey in center. Who will flank him is yet to be determined. Contenders are John Henry, George Famiglietti, Romeo Capriotti, and the "Forgotten Boy" from last year, Charles "Ike" Eisenhart.

Elliot Speaks On Track Team

Track Coach Reviews Track History At Villanova; Calls For Candidates

With the coming of Spring Villanova's trackmen can be seen sprinting across the cinders in preparation for the coming season. However, Coach "Jumbo" Elliot is handicapped by a shortage of experienced runners, as he emphasized in his recent talk to the freshmen "day hops." At that time he called for anyone interested in track to come out for the team even though not previously experienced.

"Collegiate track," he remarked, "is a sport in which men can make good without having had previous high school or other experience. I have in mind Billy Hooper," continued Elliot, "who first came out in his Sophomore year in 1939 and developed into a great runner in his Senior year."

The coach, who was once a great Villanova track star himself, then reviewed the history of the sport at Villanova. Although one of the oldest sports at the College, track didn't come into its own until 1932 when the team took top honors in the Freshman American mile at the Penn Relays. The team was on a continual upgrade from 1936 until 1942 when the Blue and White boasted of the second fastest mile relay team in the country. But the war broke up this great combination. In concluding, the coach reiterated his appeal for prospective candidates for the team.

In response to this appeal about twenty-five men have reported.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Jack Heilmann, leftfielder of the 1945 Villanova baseball nine, is a candidate for the outfield of the Bainbridge Naval Training Station team. Jack left for the Navy shortly after the close of the last year's season and is currently stationed at Bainbridge.

• • •

Al Kasulin, big fullback on the 1943 football aggregation of Villanova, is now stationed with the Marines on Guam. Al was in the Marine V-12 here and was commissioned in March of 1944.

Elliot Addresses Students

Villanova track coach, "Jumbo" Elliot is shown during his address to the student body last week in which he called for track candidates. Elliott also gave a brief history of the track team at Villanova.

Canning Says:—

There has been a great deal of talk among the returned veterans about reviving the traditional Alumni Week festivities which were discontinued during the war.

In former days, this was the biggest sporting attraction of the school calendar. It was held in the Fall. Both the students and former grads looked forward to this Home Coming Week with great enthusiasm and excitement.

One of the biggest attractions of the week's activities was the famous Villanova-Temple football classic. This was preceded by a week of frenzied work and preparation by the various halls for the privilege of winning the Connelly Trophy. This award was presented to the residence hall displaying the best outside decoration scheme for its hall. For weeks before actual construction began, the moderators were holding secret meetings with the various committees, drawing up blueprints of their plans; while the Finance Committee was going from room to room, squeezing enough money out of the residents to cover the expected cost of materials to be used.

Although these plans were never discussed openly, the supposedly "inside dope" was passed around concerning each hall's contemplated display. Tension and excitement grew high as the construction date rolled around. The occupants of the various halls rallied to the defense of their intended plan, as jeers and jibes evolved from the groups watching from the side walks as the initial structures covered with sheets or canvas were erected. Native artists were busily painting "Wildcats," ships, battles, etc., all depicting our victory over the Temple Owls. As the week began to draw to a close, the decorations started to take on their intended shapes and forms and the activity around the halls increased by the hour. Work continued by flood lights late into the night while the corridors were strewn with lumber, nails, paint cans, and brushes.

By Thursday night most of the work was completed, as the judging was to take place before the rally on Friday night.

Many cars and visitors crowded the campus at night to view the complete projects which could be seen from the highway as they were brilliantly illuminated with strings of bulbs, neon and flood lights.

Friday evening, the judges viewed the individual displays and cast their votes for originality, workmanship, and theme. The band formed in front of Mendel Hall and led a torch light parade of the alumni and students proudly singing the school songs across the campus to the gym. Torches were planted in the ground outside the gym; then everyone piled in, in high spirits and expectation. Speeches, cheers and songs built the rally up to a pitch of excitement!

The individual dormitories sat in groups and cheered for their group to win the award. The announcement of the winner and presentation of the trophy were followed by the lighting of a huge bonfire in the parking lot across from the field house.

The bonfire was constructed all week by the freshmen under the direction of the orientation committee, and was guarded day and night against attack by the Owls.

The game on Saturday was always the best of the season, due mostly to the stimulating events leading up to it.

Although Temple isn't on our schedule this Fall, the Home Coming Week festivities should be revived for one of our other rivals. It would contribute largely to rebuilding the spirit and esprit de corps of former years!

In The Sportlight

By DON FOX

"Jigger" Donahue is back again on the Villanova campus ready to resume his pitching chores. After three years in the Medics, he's as fit as a fiddle and rarin' to go.

You may remember Jigger as the smooth right handed pitcher with the blazing fast ball who impressed everyone by twirling two no hit games back in 1942; one a seven inning white wash job against Loyola of Baltimore, and the other game he pitched eight and two-thirds innings of hitless ball when his arm went dead, and he was forced to retire from the game.

Hurled In England

While in the service Jigger found some time to do some pitching. He hurled in England for the team that won the United Kingdom championship.

Jigger is a product of St. John's Prep in Boston. He enrolled here in 1941 as a Commerce and Finance student; did his Varsity pitching in 1942 and then left for the service.

Looks For Good Season

His pitching arm which troubled him is now in top shape, so enemy batsmen had better beware. Jigger is optimistic over the team's chances this season. With Villanova fielding a strong team and Jigger Donahue on the mound all points to a successful campaign.

Baseball Coach Interviewed On Local Radio Broadcast

Reviews His Seventeen Years In Major and Minor Leagues

Aside from coaching the baseball team this year. Mr. Phil "Lefty" Weinert finds time to appear on radio programs. Mr. Weinert was interviewed on Stoney McLynn's Sports Program last week. McLynn broadcasts nightly at 6:15 on station WIP.

Phil, on Stoney's program, looked back at seventeen years of baseball as lots of fun and pleasure. He related of how he pitched for the Yankees under Joe McCarthy and also did some mound time for the Chicago Cubs under the same manager, not to mention his numerous activities in the minor leagues.

Coach Weinert stated that he liked college coaching very much and expressed the hope of raising college baseball, in the eyes of sports fans, to its oldtime importance.

Weinert mentioned the names of several of the veteran baseballers returning this year to the campus. Among those he mentioned were Dan Casey, Joe Lord, Bob "Major" McDonnell, Joe Donovan, Charley "Ike" Eisenhardt, Joe Nunan and Frank O'Neill.

When asked as to the system he uses, Phil replied that he actually uses no set system. Rather, he said, he tries "to teach the fundamentals of baseball on the field and at clubhouse meetings."

Coach Weinert is, of course, the new head mentor of baseball for Wildcat team. He thus received his radio introduction to the local fans last week, thanks to Stoney McLynn.

Grid Team

Continued From Page Five

ster comes from Bergenfield, New Jersey, where he started his football career by playing on the Bergenfield High School team. After sparking Bergenfield's backfield, Dick went to Notre Dame. Here he became a member of the Fighting Irish team and he also made the Relay Team.

Arriving at Villanova in the Fall of 1945, Dick saw immediate action. He helped contribute to our victory over Boston College by throwing a twenty five yard touchdown pass to Bill Doherty.

Dick's smooth ball handling, passing ability, and speed, are assets that should make his quest for the quarterback position successful.

Larry LaRose

Continuing on with our parade of new gridmen, we have another Philadelphia All Public High School Star, Larry LaRose.

Lefty, as he is fondly called by his team mates, starred on the South Philadelphia High School team in 1941. While at Southern, he was also a member of the track and baseball teams.

Larry enlisted in the United States Navy immediately after graduating from Southern High. He served two and one half years in the Pacific, participating in eight major landings, including Tarawa, Attu, and Kiska.

Exceptionally fast, the big one hundred and eighty-five pounder should provide Coach Olivar with another contender for the already strongly competited "end" position.

Stephen Romanick

Millville, New Jersey, has provided Villanova's football squad with an excellent contribution in the person of Steven Romanick. This six footer who has to tote a hundred and ninety pounds around, got his start on the varsity of Millville's High School team.

After supporting the Millville backfield, Steve went to the University of Delaware. Uncle Sam's call temporarily interrupted Steve's work at U. of D. but he resumed playing football for the 3d Army in Europe.

With hostilities terminated, Steve intends to resume his football career at Villanova. Very aggressive, and well experienced, Steve should prove a great support to our backfield.

"COACH" TONY LAUDED

Tony Finisdore, who is the big man about the Field House, was publicized this past week in the Philadelphia newspapers. It gave a running summary of Tony's history here and likewise included a short account of his life, and his family.

Our congratulations to Mr. Finisdore for his fine work. We were surprised, however, to find out that Villanova's "unofficial" coach really has quite a sports record behind him.

Returned Vets

By JIM McNAMARA

Villanova students and Wildcat gridiron and diamond followers most eagerly welcomed Tom McCarthy back to the campus after three and a half years in the Marine Corps. Tom was one of the most aggressive fullbacks that Villanova sported in the golden days of civilian-manned teams. To share the ramming role, while in his sophomore year, with captain George Smith gives a preview of his promise. He performed in almost every game in a rugged '42 season and received local recognition as being a great prospective plunger.

Murderous on defense and fast and shifty on offense, Tom is a coach's dream. He is a fullback who looks like a swivel-hipped halfback when he is through the line of scrimmage. An extraordinary change of pace that befuddles opposing secondaries is the Irishman's favorite offensive weapon when he gets in the open field.

Tom was born in Springfield, Mass., on July 25, 1922. His father, a basketball coach in pro and semi-pro ranks, started his son early on an athletic career. When Tom reached high school he thought it natural enough to try out for every major sport and with him it was natural enough to make every varsity. For three years he played football, baseball, and hockey and was captain of the school's eleven in 1939. In the following year as a fullback he made the All City and All Western Massachusetts dream teams.

In September of '41 he matriculated at Villanova and held down first base on the diamond and was blocking back on the Freshman Football squad. In his sophomore year, the New Englander really put out in both sports, but it was then that the Marine urge nudged him off the campus. As a corporal in the Corps he participated in the invasions of Bougainville, Guam, and Iwo Jima. Now back at his familiar duties on the campus, Tom is determined to convince us he is still the great performer we have remembered and waited for.

At present Spring football has a priority on his time, but in about a week Phil Weinert, baseball coach, will welcome him as a candidate. If past performances are a criterion for expected performances, Tom McCarthy will be a standout in both baseball and football. He plays every game as if it were his farewell contribution and this spirit should carry any team through a grueling schedule. The portals of Mendel Hall were wide open for this returning veteran.

Kearney Says:—

Last week we saw the ground keepers down on the baseball diamond for the first time this year giving the infield and outfield a good workout. Their work looks fine, so far, and by the first game the grounds should be in fairly good shape. The backstop boasts a new coat of paint and extensive and much needed repairs. Having had no games there last Summer, the deterioration had gone to quite an advanced stage. It's really amazing how fast a good infield can fall away without upkeep.

This infield's definitely one of the best in the immediate vicinity, and at present, is getting back into prewar shape. We remember last year when help was so scarce that some of the team were down helping to get it in shape. We can assure you, friends, that that won't happen again this year.

So with a fine home field, and high hopes for a successful team, there remains no good reason for not attending most of the home games here this season.

It's true that with football and basketball drawing the crowds, college baseball has quite a fight on its hands to be a contender. But with good weather and a free afternoon, there's nothing more enjoyable than watching a mighty fine team in action.

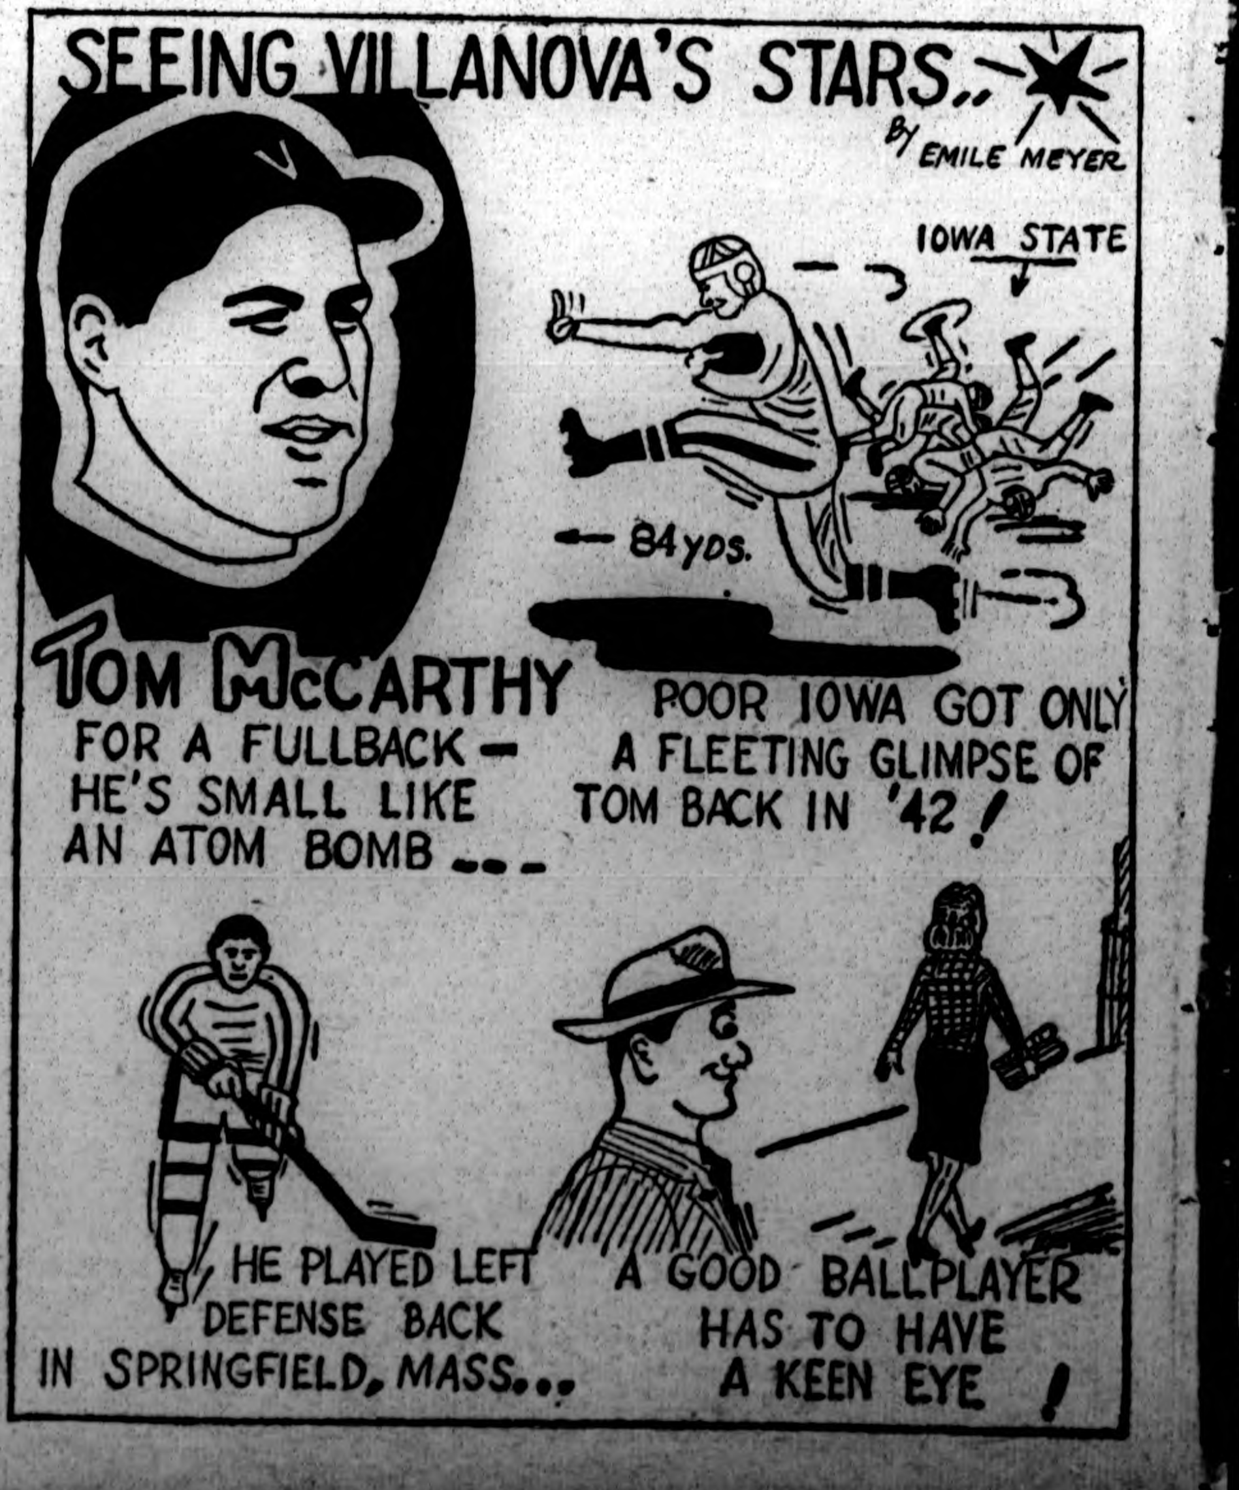
I had the pleasure of witnessing most of last year's games and despite the poor wartime showing, everyone enjoyed themselves. Those games were not dead by any means.

This year, I repeat, things will be different. The prospective infield will be a threat to the best of opposing teams. The receiving department is over-stocked with talent and pitching is getting better day by day.

This is not a plea, but a suggestion. The team gives up every afternoon for hard practice sessions so you can have a few afternoons of enjoyment. Father McKee has arranged a good schedule, so by all means take advantage of free offer to see good baseball.

There has been about the campus a growing sentiment for the free use of the gym and swimming pool on afternoons and weekends. Many students lay the blame upon the Navy Unit here. This is not so. Nor do I say that the College authorities are at fault. Due to the shortage of help during the war, the policy of keeping the fieldhouse closed "after hours" was set up. This is just another wartime inconvenience which has as yet not been done away with.

However, the entire Villanovan staff are working on this for you and proposed arrangements are being made whereby you can utilize your free time playing basketball and swimming in the "grand old Prewar style."



SEEING VILLANOVA'S STARS..
BY EMILE MEYER
IOWA STATE
84 YDS.
TOM McCARTHY FOR A FULLBACK— HE'S SMALL LIKE AN ATOM BOMB ---
POOR IOWA GOT ONLY A FLEETING GLIMPSE OF TOM BACK IN '42!
HE PLAYED LEFT DEFENSE BACK IN SPRINGFIELD, MASS...
A GOOD BALLPLAYER HAS TO HAVE A KEEN EYE!

Faculty Comments

Let's Look Into the "Caste" System

By FATHER SULLIVAN

I really don't know that I should bring this subject up at all. Villanova veterans, whom we can regard as being as typical a group of veterans as can be found anywhere, may very likely not be interested in it at all. And not having been in the armed forces myself, I have very scant right to speak or write with any authority based on experience. The "subject" I have in mind is all this hullaballoo you have seen recently in the headlines about our military "caste" system, and the generally concerted and evidently non-accidental campaign carried on in the newspaper and magazine world which led finally to the appointment of the committee headed by General Doolittle.

When I first noticed the embers of controversy being fed by a series of letters to the editor from disgruntled GI's, and by series of inflammable magazine article on the subject "What's wrong with our Army?" the question naturally came to me: Now WHO started all this?

Well, I've never been able to find out who did begin the thing. The next best thing to do, however, is to watch and see who it is who keeps it going. I think we all ought to do a little checking on the background and affiliations both of authors of critical articles and of editors of papers and journals which feature the criticisms.

Another thing that annoys me, and the answer to it would greatly please me, is the question: WHY was this started? Why all this eagerness to reform a highly successful army and navy which men are being demobilized from by the thousands every day? Are the writers and critics eager to improve the efficiency of our armed might. If so, let's listen to them.

But really, what is it that the bulk of caste system criticisms have consisted of? GI Joe was not allowed to associate with officers; GI Joe never met the Hollywood stars, they (the stars) were too busy being squired by officers; the officers had their own PX; Joe had to stand in line to get to the movies which the officers saw in comfort last week. All of which comes to the general accusation that the Service isnt' (I think we had better say wasn't) democratic. And those who write and those who solicit writings about officers getting all the best of every deal assume the pose of champions of the "average guy," and proponents of the "he's no better than you are" type of democracy.

I suppose that in an Army as in every human organization, authority has been abused and as a result the rights of those not in authority have been disregarded. I suppose to put it more specifically, that some officers have treated their men with disregard for rights.

But specific instances of this kind can be admitted as true, without admitting that the studied attitude and continued policy of all men in authority is to treat all men not in authority as if those men had no democratic rights.

A gripe from a GI about some overbearing officer may be justified. The same gripe turned into an attack on West Point or Annapolis as breeders of enemies of Democracy is a vicious thing damaging to and subversive of unity of purpose and confidence in leadership.

GI Joe was certainly a "terrific guy" during the war. He was always there when the going was toughest. And America laughs at armed threats because she knows what GI Joe can do when he wants. But his Officer is a "terrific guy" too. He's also around when the going is tough. At least the Officer from Villanova is. Your Alma Mater has lost 60 sons in the service; 32 of them were officers. In actual combat she mourns 36 dead; 19 of them were officers.

Group Addressed By Fr. Lunney

The Interracial Commission of Villanova College whose activities have been hindered by the war, held its first meeting since pre-war days last Wednesday. This meeting was attended by several students, some who participated in the activities of the club in pre-war days and others who just started at Villanova.

Rev. William J. Lunney, O.S.A., moderator of the group, gave a short talk on the purpose of this club which is as acquaint men with the racial problem and its solution based upon Catholic principles. This is brought about by discussions and forums with other colleges.

The students agreed to keep the present officers who are John P. Mallick, president and William H. Diana, secretary.

Messrs. Herman Diesel, Roland Higgs and John P. Mallick represented the Villanova College Group at a district meeting held on Friday, March 22 for the purpose of electing officers for the district.

A meeting was called for Wednesday, March 27 at 1 P. M. in 212 Mendel in order to discuss plans for future meetings. All students are cordially invited to attend. If they are unable to be at this meeting they may contact either Fr. Lunney or John P. Mallick.

The group has a few plans which will keep them busy till the end of the present semester, but after the resumption of classes in September the group expects to expand its activities to a pre-war status.

Vets' Guidance Office Of College Moves To New Location

The Veteran's Guidance Bureau of Villanova College will probably be housed in the near future in the room which was formerly occupied by the Belle Air Bookstore. This room is directly opposite the present site of the bookstore.

The office of the bureau administrator for the college, Rev. Vincent McQuade, O.S.A., is now located temporarily in the faculty room, on the first floor of Mendel Hall.

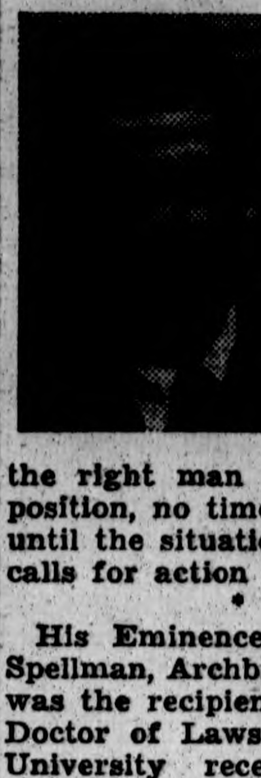
Interracial Group

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEIL

We begin this week's edition of Out of the Copy Basket with a few excerpts from an editorial featured in the Red and Black, Washington and Jefferson College publication which we feel is significant. It reads as follows: "It has been nearly a year now since this college (W&J) has had a president. Possibly for pure psychological reasons, possibly for others, the students at W. & J. are raising an ever-increasing clamor.

"They feel that with the student enrollment promising to hit 700 or more in the near future, the College should be preparing in every possible way to handle the big business which must accompany this enrollment, to be the largest in W. & J.'s long history."



The editorial goes on to state although it is imperative that the right man be chosen for the position, no time should be wasted until the situation is remedied and calls for action not oratory.

* * *

His Eminence Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, was the recipient of the degree of Doctor of Laws from Georgetown University recently, The Hoya, Georgetown paper informs us. After receiving the degree Cardinal Spellman delivered an address to the graduating class of the Medical School.

* * *

A green little chemist on a green summer day
Mixed some green little chemicals in a green little way,
Now the green little grasses tenderly wave
Over the green little chemist's green little grave.

—The Santa Clara.

* * *

The most recent issue of the Tatler of the College of New Rochelle carries the story of that tabloid's silver anniversary publication. Twenty-five years ago marked the first issue of the paper and at that time it was a single sheet of script tacked on the bulletin board. The New York State school now boasts a regular eight page edition each week. We offer our congratulations and good wishes for continued success.

* * *

A divinity student named Fiddle refused to accept his degree
For, he said, 'tis enough to be Fiddle without being Fiddle, D.D.

—The Tatler.

* * *

Censor cracks down on burlesque. Pretty soon the airport will be the only place to watch a takeoff.

—The St. Bona Venture.

* * *

The Temple University News tells of recent Memorial Services to honor Temple's 149 gold star servicemen. Rear Admiral W. N. Thomas, Chief of Naval Chaplains, delivered the address and two veterans called the roll of their comrades being honored. After the services, President Robert L. Johnson presented memorial certificates to the nearest of kin of those killed in service.

* * *

Two cyclists pulled up for the night at a hotel.

"I think," said the host, "that you'll have a comfortable night. It's a feather bed."

At two o'clock in the morning one of the cyclists roused his companion. "Change places with me, Dick," he groaned, "it's my turn to lie on the feather."

—West Catholic News.

* * *

Why is that from yonder tower
The colonel's light is burning still?
Although it's past the midnight hour
And o'er the campus, all is still.
'Tis not the wisdom of the sages,
Nor army lore his mind enchants;
On earthlier task his mind engages;
He's sewing buttons on his pants.

* * *

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, that never to himself has said: "Damit, Murphy, quit blowing that trumpet!"

—Varsity News, U. of Detroit

* * *

Plans for the erection of a gymnasium and the college's first dormitory are under way at Boston College, according to that school's official publication, The Heights. The gymnasium will be dedicated to the 139 Heightsmen who gave their lives in World War II. The announcement of the building plans was made by the Very Rev. William L. Keleher, S.J., President of the college. The financial cost for the erection of the two buildings will be provided for by the fund office.

* * *

Mary had a little lamb, she loved it very well.
She fed it a stick of dynamite and blew it all to—itty, bitty pieces.

—The Setonian.

* * *

We learn from The Tomahawk, Holy Cross College tabloid, that the NROTC program at that institution will return to a peacetime status in September. Senior students having completed seven or eight semesters of college on or about July 1 of this year will be recommended by the Bureau of Personnel of the Navy Department for commissioning.

* * *

Approximately 1500 students, representing high schools in the Philadelphia and surrounding state area attended the 12th Annual Career Conference sponsored recently by Temple University.

—Temple University News.

* * *

The University of Chicago will sever its relations with the Western collegiate athletic conference on July 1, the Chicago Maroon discloses. The director of athletics has informed the Big Ten athletic directors that the University is "no longer capable of providing equal competition and must withdraw from the conference at the end of the academic year." Chicago entered the Big Ten ranks in December, 1939.

* * *

We close this week's column with a pertinent political quotation from the Knickerbocker Weekly, The Netherlands Magazine: "Wanneer ik echter lees, dat politieke waarnemers beweren, dat Henry Kaiser in 1949, 1948 that is, eventueel candidaat voor de republikeinen zal zijn (dus wanneer Presidentsverkiezingen plaats vinden), dan vraag ik me af, uit welk een hoek dat bericht op de schrijftafel van den journalist, journalist that is, gewaaid is."

Foreign Correspondent

This is your foreign correspondent reporting. . .

When initiating a column such as this there are many inherent difficulties and dangers. Politics of the most powerful sort constrain and challenge any adventurer in this peril-packed arena. For the Villanovan feels it has been limited too long to reporting and discussing domestic affairs and has committed itself to a universal outlook in this, our one world.

We have speculated for some time on a suitable title for this feature, weighing all suggestions in order that we might convey the serious character of what we hope to print here. Feeling, however, that too much European blood has already been spilled over title disputes, we decided to let it go as you see above.

Immaculata

Having no reference point from which to inaugurate our news-hungry wanderings we decided to follow the advice of Horace Greely and go West. There in all its blistering glory shone the setting sun and what do you think it was setting on? You guessed it—Immaculata College.

Now I imagine you can see what difficulties and dangers this implies but "Damn the torpedoes, full steam ahead."

The first bit of news to ooze from that College up the line was the startling report that their campus renowned Soph Cotillion had grossed the amazing total of ? ?. However we have it on the most reliable authority that 1500 of those tantalizing little green things were cleared in that event. I know that quite a few of our more knightly brethren will be gratified to know that their pennies aided in the success of so worthy a cause. That's all those girls need, charity. It is a rough estimate, within the limits of statistical accuracy that those witches make off with in the neighborhood of three hundred of our fathers' hard earned dollars every week-end. All kidding aside it was a wonderful affair topped off with Elliot Lawrence's inimitable interpretation of "Goodnight Sweetheart."

Temple Defeated

But enough of these sombre figures and fiscal dealings for the sports world has the floor. Now maybe you Joes aren't acquainted with the position of Temple's girl basketball team, but the word is that they are in their league what Army is to our football, only, of course, their star is a lot easier on the eyes than Doc Blanchard. Well last week the Immac aggregation invaded the confines of the Broad Street institution and dragged off a one point victory in a terrific battle. It seems that the Bissinger dolls, a pair that could give Lord and MacDonnell a run for their money, really turned on the heat and T.U. melted in the stretch.

The cheers of victory roared loud an l long through the halls of Villa Maria and in order to preserve the dignity of that treasured sanctum the good nuns decided to allow the girls to ignore school entirely the following Monday.

That's the past, here's the future. . .

The big news at Immac is junior week. Junior week is a function whose counterpart is not in operation on our campus and a little explanation should be forthcoming. However, your reporter is quite in the dark about the whole affair himself and is in no position to lead. The most I can get out of it is that seven days are to be devoted to the third year class during which they will receive their class rings, their blazers and the run of the campus. Now why they should want the run of that campus or to run at all is not quite clear but who am I to argue with our Immac contact? Speaking of our contact, she is one of the most engaging members of her school's newspaper. That was most engaging, not most engaged. Believe me it's the first time I've got any cooperation from one of them in years.

Junior Prom

But back to Junior week. Parents, faculty, and students then join in a general gesture of comity and good-will before the storm of Senior year beclouds and besmirches their visages. The festivities are topped off with the Junior Prom, famed in song and story. This production will hit the boards of the main ball room of the Hotel Warwick, one of the classiest places in town. When questioned as to the cost of this the girls returned with: "Aw, our dates have got plenty of dough."

The brawl will be presided over by Chuck Gordon and his Band. These boys have a high reputation but then nothing would be too good for the Immac Prom. At least that's what the press release says.

In case the married men among our readers care to estimate what their one and only will be wearing next season, we offer that the Home Economics class of our guest school will hold a fashion show at the Bellevue-Stratford sometime next month.

Pan-Americana

In their agenda the girls have also included a Pan-American celebration at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. This is an annual affair and yearly brings big Inter-American wheels from Alaska to Tierra del Fuego (Fuego that is). Last year the celebration was topped off with a parade of nations which included the school's lovelies attired in varying national dress.

That's about all I could find out from the gentlewoman of the press whom we contacted except her telephone number which cannot be released for publication. And just to prove Immaculata's worth and universal appeal we want you to know that KILROY WAS THERE.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.
THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

Canning Says:—

There has been a great deal of talk among the returned veterans about reviving the traditional Alumni Week festivities which were discontinued during the war.

In former days, this was the biggest sporting attraction of the school calendar. It was held in the Fall. Both the students and former grads looked forward to this Home Coming Week with great enthusiasm and excitement.

One of the biggest attractions of the week's activities was the famous Villanova-Temple football classic. This was preceded by a week of frenzied work and preparation by the various halls for the privilege of winning the Connelly Trophy. This award was presented to the residence hall displaying the best outside decoration scheme for its hall. For weeks before actual construction began, the moderators were holding secret meetings with the various committees, drawing up blueprints of their plans; while the Finance Committee was going from room to room, squeezing enough money out of the residents to cover the expected cost of materials to be used.

Although these plans were never discussed openly, the supposedly "inside dope" was passed around concerning each hall's contemplated display. Tension and excitement grew high as the construction date rolled around. The occupants of the various halls rallied to the defense of their intended plan, as jeers and jibes evolved from the groups watching from the side walks as the initial structures covered with sheets or canvas were erected. Native artists were busily painting "Wildcats," ships, battles, etc., all depicting our victory over the Temple Owls. As the week began to draw to a close, the decorations started to take on their intended shapes and forms and the activity around the halls increased by the hour. Work continued by flood lights late into the night while the corridors were strewn with lumber, nails, paint cans, and brushes.

By Thursday night most of the work was completed, as the judging was to take place before the rally on Friday night.

Many cars and visitors crowded the campus at night to view the complete projects which could be seen from the highway as they were brilliantly illuminated with strings of bulbs, neon and flood lights.

Friday evening, the judges viewed the individual displays and cast their votes for originality, workmanship, and theme. The band formed in front of Mendel Hall and led a torch light parade of the alumni and students proudly singing the school songs across the campus to the gym. Torches were planted in the ground outside the gym; then everyone piled in, in high spirits and expectation. Speeches, cheers and songs built the rally up to a pitch of excitement!

The individual dormitories sat in groups and cheered for their group to win the award. The announcement of the winner and presentation of the trophy were followed by the lighting of a huge bonfire in the parking lot across from the field house.

The bonfire was constructed all week by the freshmen under the direction of the orientation committee, and was guarded day and night against attack by the Owls.

The game on Saturday was always the best of the season, due mostly to the stimulating events leading up to it.

Although Temple isn't on our schedule this Fall, the Home Coming Week festivities should be revived for one of our other rivals. It would contribute largely to rebuilding the spirit and esprit de corps of former years!

Baseball Coach Interviewed On Local Radio Broadcast

Reviews His Seventeen Years In Major and Minor Leagues

Aside from coaching the baseball team this year, Mr. Phil "Lefty" Weinert finds time to appear on radio programs. Mr. Weinert was interviewed on Stoney McLynn's Sports Program last week. McLynn broadcasts nightly at 6:15 on station WIP.

Phil, on Stoney's program, looked back at seventeen years of baseball as lots of fun and pleasure. He related of how he pitched for the Yankees under Joe McCarthy and also did some mound time for the Chicago Cubs under the same manager, not to mention his numerous activities in the minor leagues.

Coach Weinert stated that he liked college coaching very much and expressed the hope of raising college baseball, in the eyes of sports fans, to its oldtime importance.

Weinert mentioned the names of several of the veteran baseballers returning this year to the campus. Among those he mentioned were Dan Casey, Joe Lord, Bob "Major" McDonnell, Joe Donovan, Charley "Ike" Eisenhardt, Joe Nunan and Frank O'Neill.

When asked as to the system he uses, Phil replied that he actually uses no set system. Rather, he said, he tries "to teach the fundamentals of baseball on the field and at clubhouse meetings."

Coach Weinert is, of course, the new head mentor of baseball for Wildcat team. He thus received his radio introduction to the local fans last week, thanks to Stoney McLynn.

Grid Team

Continued From Page Five

ster comes from Bergenfield, New Jersey, where he started his football career by playing on the Bergenfield High School team. After sparking Bergenfield's backfield, Dick went to Notre Dame. Here he became a member of the Fighting Irish team and he also made the Relay Team.

Arriving at Villanova in the Fall of 1945, Dick saw immediate action. He helped contribute to our victory over Boston College by throwing a twenty five yard touchdown pass to Bill Doherty.

Dick's smooth ball handling, passing ability, and speed, are assets that should make his quest for the quarterback position successful.

Larry LaRose

Continuing on with our parade of new gridmen, we have another Philadelphia All Public High School Star, Larry LaRose.

Lefty, as he is fondly called by his team mates, starred on the South Philadelphia High School team in 1941. While at Southern, he was also a member of the track and baseball teams.

Larry enlisted in the United States Navy immediately after graduating from Southern High. He served two and one half years in the Pacific, participating in eight major landings, including Tarawa, Attu, and Kiska.

Exceptionally fast, the big one hundred and eighty-five pounder should provide Coach Olivar with another contender for the already strongly competited "end" position.

Stephen Romanick

Millville, New Jersey, has provided Villanova's football squad with an excellent contribution in the person of Steven Romanick. This six footer who has to tote a hundred and ninety pounds around, got his start on the varsity of Millville's High School team.

After supporting the Millville backfield, Steve went to the University of Delaware. Uncle Sam's call temporarily interrupted Steve's work at U. of D. but he resumed playing football for the 3d Army in Europe.

With hostilities terminated, Steve intends to resume his football career at Villanova. Very aggressive, and well experienced, Steve should prove a great support to our backfield.

"COACH" TONY LAUDED

Tony Finisdore, who is the big man about the Field House, was publicized this past week in the Philadelphia newspapers. It gave a running summary of Tony's history here and likewise included a short account of his life, and his family.

Our congratulations to Mr. Finisdore for his fine work. We were surprised, however, to find out that Villanova's "unofficial" coach really has quite a sports record behind him.

Returned Vets

By JIM McNAMARA

Villanova students and Wildcat gridiron and diamond followers most eagerly welcomed Tom McCarthy back to the campus after three and a half years in the Marine Corps. Tom was one of the most aggressive fullbacks that Villanova sported in the golden days of civilian-manned teams. To share the ramming role, while in his sophomore year, with captain George Smith gives a preview of his promise. He performed in almost every game in a rugged '42 season and received local recognition as being a great prospective plunger.

Murderous on defense and fast and shifty on offense, Tom is a coach's dream. He is a fullback who looks like a swivel-hipped halfback when he is through the line of scrimmage. An extraordinary change of pace that befuddles opposing secondaries is the Irishman's favorite offensive weapon when he gets in the open field.

Tom was born in Springfield, Mass., on July 25, 1922. His father, a basketball coach in pro and semi-pro ranks, started his son early on an athletic career. When Tom reached high school he thought it natural enough to try out for every major sport and with him it was natural enough to make every varsity. For three years he played football, baseball, and hockey and was captain of the school's eleven in 1939. In the following year as a fullback he made the All City and All Western Massachusetts dream teams.

In September of '41 he matriculated at Villanova and held down first base on the diamond and was blocking back on the Freshman Football squad. In his sophomore year, the New Englander really put out in both sports, but it was then that the Marine urge nudged him off the campus. As a corporal in the Corps he participated in the invasions of Bougainville, Guam, and Iwo Jima. Now back at his familiar duties on the campus, Tom is determined to convince us he is still the great performer we have remembered and waited for.

At present Spring football has a priority on his time, but in about a week Phil Weinert, baseball coach, will welcome him as a candidate. If past performances are a criterion for expected performances, Tom McCarthy will be a standout in both baseball and football. He plays every game as if it were his farewell contribution and this spirit should carry any team through a grueling schedule. The portals of Mendel Hall were wide open for this returning veteran.

Kearney Says:—

Last week we saw the ground keepers down on the baseball diamond for the first time this year giving the infield and outfield a good workout. Their work looks fine, so far, and by the first game the grounds should be in fairly good shape. The backstop boasts a new coat of paint and extensive and much needed repairs. Having had no games there last Summer, the deterioration had gone to quite an advanced stage. It's really amazing how fast a good infield can fall away without upkeep.

This infield's definitely one of the best in the immediate vicinity, and at present, is getting back into prewar shape. We remember last year when help was so scarce that some of the team were down helping to get it in shape. We can assure you, friends, that that won't happen again this year.

So with a fine home field, and high hopes for a successful team, there remains no good reason for not attending most of the home games here this season.

It's true that with football and basketball drawing the crowds, college baseball has quite a fight on its hands to be a contender. But with good weather and a free afternoon, there's nothing more enjoyable than watching a mighty fine team in action.

I had the pleasure of witnessing most of last year's games and despite the poor wartime showing, everyone enjoyed themselves. Those games were not dead by any means.

This year, I repeat, things will be different. The prospective infield will be a threat to the best of opposing teams. The receiving department is over-stocked with talent and pitching is getting better day by day.

This is not a plea, but a suggestion. The team gives up every afternoon for hard practice sessions so you can have a few afternoons of enjoyment. Father McKee has arranged a good schedule, so by all means take advantage of free offer to see good baseball.

There has been about the campus a growing sentiment for the free use of the gym and swimming pool on afternoons and weekends. Many students lay the blame upon the Navy Unit here. This is not so. Nor do I say that the College authorities are at fault. Due to the shortage of help during the war, the policy of keeping the fieldhouse closed "after hours" was set up. This is just another wartime inconvenience which has as yet not been done away with.

However, the entire Villanovan staff are working on this for you and proposed arrangements are being made whereby you can utilize your free time playing basketball and swimming in the "grand old Prewar style."

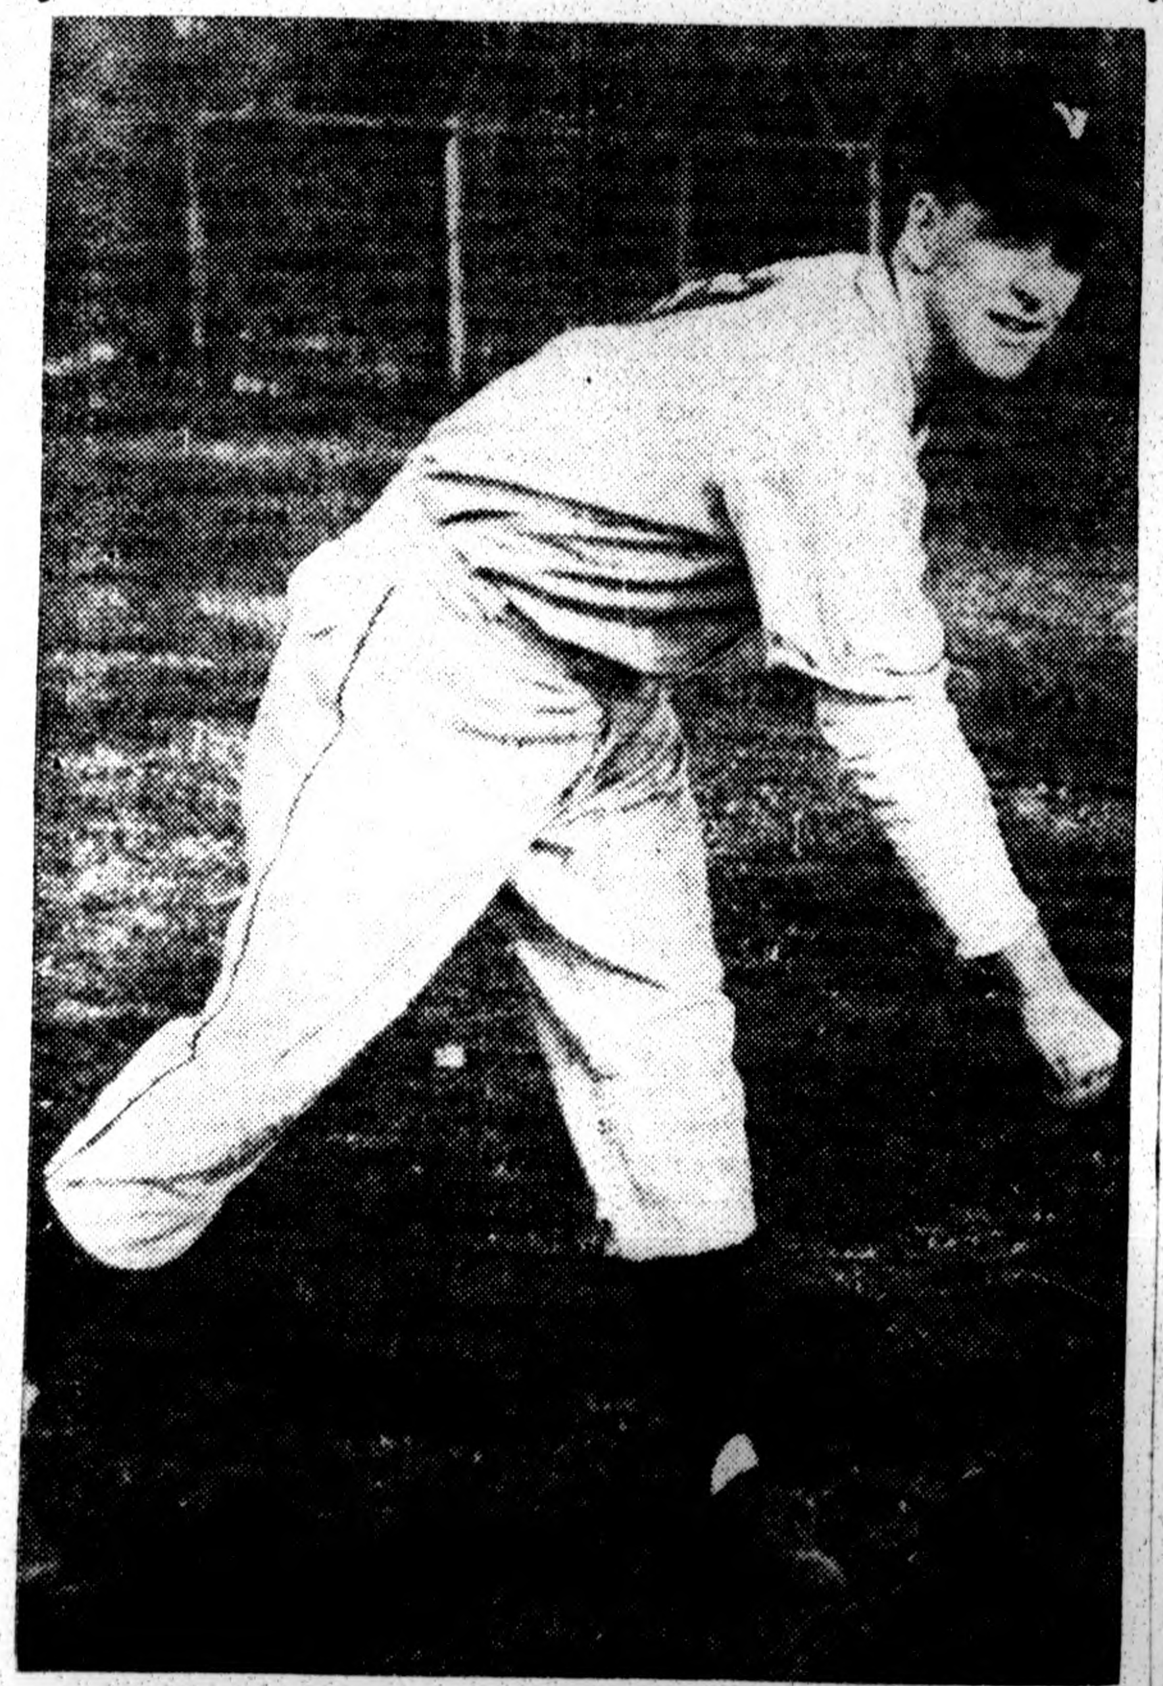
In The Sportlight

By DON FOX



"Jigger" Donahue is back again on the Villanova campus ready to resume his pitching chores. After three years in the Medics, he's as fit as a fiddle and rarin' to go.

You may remember Jigger as the smooth right handed pitcher with the blazing fast ball who impressed everyone by twirling two no hit games back in 1942; one a seven inning white wash job against Loyola of Baltimore, and the other game he pitched eight and two-thirds innings of hitless ball when his arm went dead and he was forced to retire from the game.

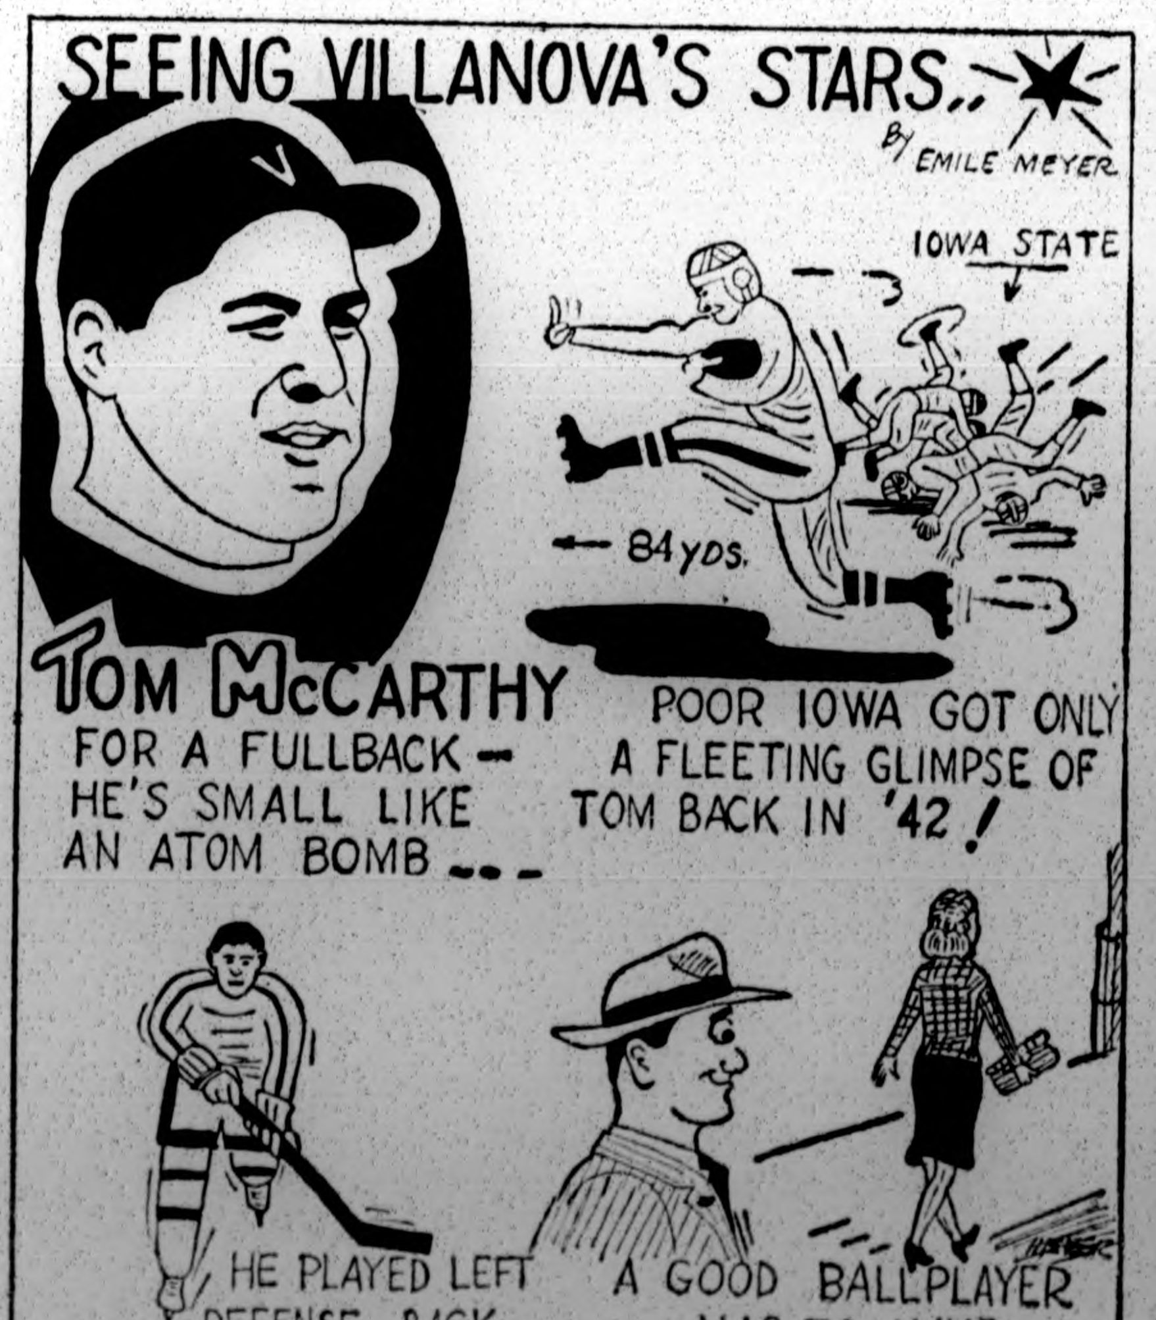
Hurled In England

While in the service Jigger found some time to do some pitching. He hurled in England for the team that won the United Kingdom championship.

Jigger is a product of St. John's Prep in Boston. He enrolled here in 1941 as a Commerce and Finance student; did his Varsity pitching in 1942 and then left for the service.

Looks For Good Season

His pitching arm which troubled him is now in top shape, so enemy batsmen had better beware. Jigger is optimistic over the team's chances this season. With Villanova fielding a strong team and Jigger Donahue on the mound all points to a successful campaign.



SEEING VILLANOVA'S STARS..
By EMILE MEYER
IOWA STATE
84 YDS.
TOM McCARTHY
FOR A FULLBACK — HE'S SMALL LIKE AN ATOM BOMB...
POOR IOWA GOT ONLY A FLEETING GLIMPSE OF TOM BACK IN '42!
HE PLAYED LEFT DEFENSE BACK IN SPRINGFIELD, MASS...
A GOOD BALLPLAYER HAS TO HAVE A KEEN EYE!

Faculty Comments

Let's Look Into the "Caste" System

By FATHER SULLIVAN

I really don't know that I should bring this subject up at all. Villanova veterans, whom we can regard as being as typical a group of veterans as can be found anywhere, may very likely not be interested in it at all. And not having been in the armed forces myself, I have very scant right to speak or write with any authority based on experience. The "subject" I have in mind is all this hullaballoo you have seen recently in the headlines about our military "caste" system, and the generally concerted and evidently non-accidental campaign carried on in the newspaper and magazine world which led finally to the appointment of the committee headed by General Doolittle.

When I first noticed the embers of controversy being fed by a series of letters to the editor from disgruntled GI's, and by series of inflammable magazine article on the subject "What's wrong with our Army?" the question naturally came to me: Now WHO started all this?

Well, I've never been able to find out who did begin the thing. The next best thing to do, however, is to watch and see who it is who keeps it going. I think we all ought to do a little checking on the background and affiliations both of authors of critical articles and of editors of papers and journals which feature the criticisms.

Another thing that annoys me, and the answer to it would greatly please me, is the question: WHY was this started? Why all this eagerness to reform a highly successful army and navy which men are being demobilized from by the thousands every day? Are the writers and critics eager to improve the efficiency of our armed might. If so, let's listen to them.

But really, what is it that the bulk of caste system criticisms have consisted of? GI Joe was not allowed to associate with officers; GI Joe never met the Hollywood stars, they (the stars) were too busy being squired by officers; the officers had their own PX; Joe had to stand in line to get to the movies which the officers saw in comfort last week. All of which comes to the general accusation that the Service isnt' (I think we had better say wasn't) democratic. And those who write and those who solicit writings about officers getting all the best of every deal assume the pose of champions of the "average guy," and proponents of the "he's no better than you are" type of democracy.

I suppose that in an Army as in every human organization, authority has been abused and as a result the rights of those not in authority have been disregarded. I suppose to put it more specifically, that some officers have treated their men with disregard for rights.

But specific instances of this kind can be admitted as true, without admitting that the studied attitude and continued policy of all men in authority is to treat all men not in authority as if those men had no democratic rights.

A gripe from a GI about some overbearing officer may be justified. The same gripe turned into an attack on West Point or Annapolis as breeders of enemies of Democracy is a vicious thing damaging to and subversive of unity of purpose and confidence in leadership.

GI Joe was certainly a "terrific guy" during the war. He was always there when the going was toughest. And America laughs at armed threats because she knows what GI Joe can do when he wants. But his Officer is a "terrific guy" too. He's also around when the going is tough. At least the Officer from Villanova is. Your Alma Mater has lost 60 sons in the service; 32 of them were officers. In actual combat she mourns 36 dead; 19 of them were officers.

Group Addressed By Fr. Lunney

The Interracial Commission of Villanova College whose activities have been hindered by the war, held its first meeting since pre-war days last Wednesday. This meeting was attended by several students, some who participated in the activities of the club in pre-war days and others who just started at Villanova.

Rev. William J. Lunney, O.S.A., moderator of the group, gave a short talk on the purpose of this club which is as acquaint men with the racial problem and its solution based upon Catholic principles. This is brought about by discussions and forums with other colleges.

The students agreed to keep the present officers who are John P. Mallick, president and William H. Diana, secretary.

Messrs. Herman Diesel, Roland Higgs and John P. Mallick represented the Villanova College Group at a district meeting held on Friday, March 22 for the purpose of electing officers for the district.

A meeting was called for Wednesday, March 27 at 1 P. M. in 212 Mendel in order to discuss plans for future meetings. All students are cordially invited to attend. If they are unable to be at this meeting they may contact either Fr. Lunney or John P. Mallick.

The group has a few plans which will keep them busy till the end of the present semester, but after the resumption of classes in September the group expects to expand its activities to a pre-war status.

Vets' Guidance Office Of College Moves To New Location

The Veteran's Guidance Bureau of Villanova College will probably be housed in the near future in the room which was formerly occupied by the Belle Air Bookstore. This room is directly opposite the present site of the bookstore.

The office of the bureau administrator for the college, Rev. Vincent McQuade, O.S.A., is now located temporarily in the faculty room, on the first floor of Mendel Hall.

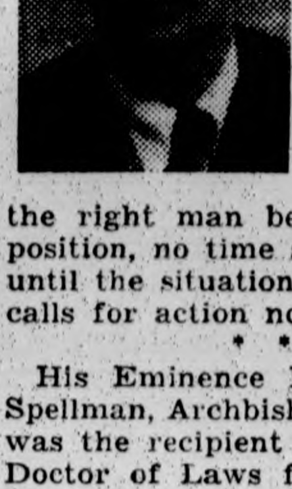
Interracial Group

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEIL

We begin this week's edition of Out of the Copy Basket with a few excerpts from an editorial featured in the Red and Black, Washington and Jefferson College publication which we feel is significant. It reads as follows: "It has been nearly a year now since this college (W&J) has had a president. Possibly for pure psychological reasons, possibly for others, the students at W. & J. are raising an ever-increasing clamor.

"They feel that with the student enrollment promising to hit 700 or more in the near future, the College should be preparing in every possible way to handle the big business which must accompany this enrollment, to be the largest in W. & J.'s long history."



The editorial goes on to state although it is imperative that the right man be chosen for the position, no time should be wasted until the situation is remedied and calls for action not oratory.

* * *

His Eminence Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, was the recipient of the degree of Doctor of Laws from Georgetown University recently, The Hoya, Georgetown paper informs us. After receiving the degree Cardinal Spellman delivered an address to the graduating class of the Medical School.

* * *

A green little chemist on a green summer day
Mixed some green little chemicals in a green little way,
Now the green little grasses tenderly wave
Over the green little chemist's green little grave.

—The Santa Clara.

* * *

The most recent issue of the Tatler of the College of New Rochelle carries the story of that tabloid's silver anniversary publication. Twenty-five years ago marked the first issue of the paper and at that time it was a single sheet of script tacked on the bulletin board. The New York State school now boasts a regular eight page edition each week. We offer our congratulations and good wishes for continued success.

* * *

A divinity student named Fiddle refused to accept his degree
For, he said, 'tis enough to be Fiddle without being Fiddle, D.D.

—The Tatler.

* * *

Censor cracks down on burlesque. Pretty soon the airport will be the only place to watch a takeoff.

—The St. Bona Venture.

* * *

The Temple University News tells of recent Memorial Services to honor Temple's 149 gold star servicemen. Rear Admiral W. N. Thomas, Chief of Naval Chaplains, delivered the address and two veterans called the roll of their comrades being honored. After the services, President Robert L. Johnson presented memorial certificates to the nearest of kin of those killed in service.

* * *

Two cyclists pulled up for the night at a hotel.

"I think," said the host, "that you'll have a comfortable night. It's a feather bed."

At two o'clock in the morning one of the cyclists roused his companion. "Change places with me, Dick," he groaned, "it's my turn to lie on the feather."

—West Catholic News.

* * *

Why is that from yonder tower
The colonel's light is burning still?
Although it's past the midnight hour
And o'er the campus, all is still.
'Tis not the wisdom of the sages,
Nor army lore his mind enchants;
On earthlier task his mind engages;
He's sewing buttons on his pants.

* * *

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, that never to himself has said: "Damit, Murphy, quit blowing that trumpet!"

—Varsity News, U. of Detroit

* * *

Plans for the erection of a gymnasium and the college's first dormitory are under way at Boston College, according to that school's official publication, The Heights. The gymnasium will be dedicated to the 139 Heightsmen who gave their lives in World War II. The announcement of the building plans was made by the Very Rev. William L. Keleher, S.J., President of the college. The financial cost for the erection of the two buildings will be provided for by the fund office.

* * *

Mary had a little lamb, she loved it very well.
She fed it a stick of dynamite and blew it all to—itty, bitty pieces.

—The Setonian.

* * *

We learn from The Tomahawk, Holy Cross College tabloid, that the NROTC program at that institution will return to a peacetime status in September. Senior students having completed seven or eight semesters of college on or about July 1 of this year will be recommended by the Bureau of Personnel of the Navy Department for commissioning.

* * *

Approximately 1500 students, representing high schools in the Philadelphia and surrounding state area attended the 12th Annual Career Conference sponsored recently by Temple University.

—Temple University News.

* * *

The University of Chicago will sever its relations with the Western collegiate athletic conference on July 1, the Chicago Maroon discloses. The director of athletics has informed the Big Ten athletic directors that the University is "no longer capable of providing equal competition and must withdraw from the conference at the end of the academic year." Chicago entered the Big Ten ranks in December, 1939.

* * *

We close this week's column with a pertinent political quotation from the Knickerbocker Weekly, The Netherlands Magazine: "Wanneer ik echter lees, dat politieke waarnemers beweren, dat Henry Kaiser in 1949, 1948 that is, eventueel candidaat voor de republikeinen zal zijn (dus wanneer Presidentsverkiezingen plaats vinden), dan vraag ik me af, uit welk een hoek dat bericht op de schrijftafel van den journalist, journalist that is, gewaaid is."

Foreign Correspondent

This is your foreign correspondent reporting. . .

When initiating a column such as this there are many inherent difficulties and dangers. Politics of the most powerful sort constrain and challenge any adventurer in this peril-packed arena. For the Villanovan feels it has been limited too long to reporting and discussing domestic affairs and has committed itself to a universal outlook in this, our one world.

We have speculated for some time on a suitable title for this feature, weighing all suggestions in order that we might convey the serious character of what we hope to print here. Feeling, however, that too much European blood has already been spilled over title disputes, we decided to let it go as you see above.

Immaculata

Having no reference point from which to inaugurate our news-hungry wanderings we decided to follow the advice of Horace Greely and go West. There in all its blistering glory shone the setting sun and what do you think it was setting on? You guessed it—Immaculata College.

Now I imagine you can see what difficulties and dangers this implies but "Damn the torpedoes, full steam ahead."

The first bit of news to ooze from that College up the line was the startling report that their campus renowned Soph Cotillion had grossed the amazing total of ? ?. However we have it on the most reliable authority that 1500 of those tantalizing little green things were cleared in that event. I know that quite a few of our more knightly brethren will be gratified to know that their pennies aided in the success of so worthy a cause. That's all those girls need, charity. It is a rough estimate, within the limits of statistical accuracy that those witches make off with in the neighborhood of three hundred of our fathers' hard earned dollars every week-end. All kidding aside it was a wonderful affair topped off with Elliot Lawrence's inimitable interpretation of "Goodnight Sweetheart."

Temple Defeated

But enough of these sombre figures and fiscal dealings for the sports world has the floor. Now maybe you Joes aren't acquainted with the position of Temple's girl basketball team, but the word is that they are in their league what Army is to our football, only, of course, their star is a lot easier on the eyes than Doc Blanchard. Well last week the Immac aggregation invaded the confines of the Broad Street institution and dragged off a one point victory in a terrific battle. It seems that the Bissinger dolls, a pair that could give Lord and MacDonnell a run for their money, really turned on the heat and T.U. melted in the stretch.

The cheers of victory roared loud and long through the halls of Villa Maria and in order to preserve the dignity of that treasured sanctum the good nuns decided to allow the girls to ignore school entirely the following Monday.

That's the past, here's the future. . .

The big news at Immac is junior week. Junior week is a function whose counterpart is not in operation on our campus and a little explanation should be forthcoming. However, your reporter is quite in the dark about the whole affair himself and is in no position to lead. The most I can get out of it is that seven days are to be devoted to the third year class during which they will receive their class rings, their blazers and the run of the campus. Now why they should want the run of that campus or to run at all is not quite clear but who am I to argue with our Immac contact? Speaking of our contact, she is one of the most engaging members of her school's newspaper. That was most engaging, not most engaged. Believe me it's the first time I've got any cooperation from one of them in years.

Junior Prom

But back to Junior week. Parents, faculty, and students then join in a general gesture of comity and good-will before the storm of Senior year beclouds and besmirches their visages. The festivities are topped off with the Junior Prom, famed in song and story. This production will hit the boards of the main ball room of the Hotel Warwick, one of the classiest places in town. When questioned as to the cost of this the girls returned with: "Aw, our dates have got plenty of dough."

The brawl will be presided over by Chuck Gordon and his Band. These boys have a high reputation but then nothing would be too good for the Immac Prom. At least that's what the press release says.

In case the married men among our readers care to estimate what their one and only will be wearing next season, we offer that the Home Economics class of our guest school will hold a fashion show at the Bellevue-Stratford sometime next month.

Pan-Americana

In their agenda the girls have also included a Pan-American celebration at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. This is an annual affair and yearly brings big Inter-American wheels from Alaska to Tierra del Fuego (Fuego that is). Last year the celebration was topped off with a parade of nations which included the school's lovelies attired in varying national dress.

That's about all I could find out from the gentlewoman of the press whom we contacted except her telephone number which cannot be released for publication. And just to prove Immaculata's worth and universal appeal we want you to know that KILROY WAS THERE.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.
THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

Over 100 Taken Into Spanish Club

The Spanish Club and its Moderator Father Lozano has started its work for another Semester. The first meeting of the Spanish Club was held in the amphi-theater in Mendel Hall last Wednesday evening.

Over one hundred new members were present at the initial meeting, of which the most important business was the nomination of new officers. Ernesto Smith was elected president. Peter Pallito was chosen vice president. Senor Roberto Suarez was nominated for secretary and Matthew Kearney for treasurer.

It was announced by the Moderator that the annual social event will take place around the end of April. It is customary that this event will be preceded by a literary contest known as the Cervantes. The student who presents the best work of prose on this famous Spanish author will be presented with a diploma and medal from the University of Columbia.

Various activities are planned for later in the year to which will be invited representatives from the nearby colleges.

One of these affairs is a musical in which all of the songs will be sung in Spanish.

Hereafter, for the benefit of the Day-Hops, meetings will be held at one o'clock in the afternoon. These meetings will be held in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium, at a date to be announced later.

President

Continued From Page One

plete their studies and graduate in three and a half calender years."

This move was very necessary. At the present time the professors of Villanova have the doubtful distinction of having gone without a vacation since 1942. These men need a rest. On a curtailed basis they will still be teaching this Summer but still they will receive their well-earned vacation.

Return to Peace-Time

Also the college must return to a normal peace-time schedule. Under the accelerated program new classes of navy and marine trainees were coming in three times a year. This made it necessary to revamp all of thme courses to meet the emergency. This was right and just during the war. All of the resources of the college went towards the winning of the war.

But now the veterans are returning. To some it may seem that the new scheduling is delaying them in moving towards their degree. In the long run this new scheduling will do the most good for the most men.

At the beginning of classes in the Autumn of 1947 every student will be in a distinct class and not between classes as many men are at the present time.

The administration announces the following schedule:

Registration for the Summer term of eight weeks will be held on July 5th and 6th and classes will begin on July 8th.

The Summer session will end on August 31st.

Registration will be held for the Fall term on September 27th, 28th and 30th.

Formal opening of classes will be on October 1st.

Inter Frat Dance

Continued From Page One

cess that can be summed up in one word—thoroughness. He isn't a pianist standing in front of a number of good musicians. He is a composer, arranger, master of ceremonies, theorist, and conductor. The musicians chosen for his band weren't chosen haphazardly. They were painstakingly selected. Men now playing with him include former members of such top-flight organizations as, Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman, Charlie Barnet, Bob Crosby, Abe Lyman, Jimmy Dorsey, and Clyde McCoy.

ICE Aristocrat CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Cheers and Smears

Continued From Page Three

affected by Spring fever last week and was looking for a date. And just think, with all us fellow around too . . . Bill Altenpohl, it seems, was making the rounds of the night spots last weekend, hobnobbing with the Mainline Society no less. (Next time Bill you should take some company along. Does that give you any hints?)

FLASHES:

This coming Sunday, March 31, Chestnut Hill College is holding Open House for all Villanova students. There will be dancing from 2:30 until 5 o'clock P. M. If past affairs at Chestnut Hill are any indication of what Sunday's Open House will be like, we advise you to be there. All the previous affairs have been terriffic, what with plenty of food, and plenty of nice girls!

Jim (Triple Chin) Meehan was back on the campus the other day sporting one of those real track suits. We wonder where he gets them (we mean the suits of course), for he's not working at present. Asked if he thought he would be laboring soon, Jim made the coy little remark that there must be an easier way of making money.

We wish to express are sympathy to John Fitzgibbon on his return to the Hospital, and to say that we hope he will be soon up and around again. Note: If any one would like to run down and see him while he is confined, he is at Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia. Why don't you fellows? He certainly would appreciate it.

Well lads and lasses, this is it. The end of the trail is in sight (at least for this week). But we'll be back next week with more of the same, so be around, won't you? Oh, one more thing. There will be no Chariot race today. With that we take our leave for this week.

Debating Team

Continued From Page One

insurance policy, and that a slight millions of dead in the event of war. Warren admitted that this training had its draw-backs, but outlined a policy whereby these disadvantages would be removed.

Importance Of Industry

J. D. Jones, Annapoli's first speaker for the negative outlined the arguments for his case in general, leaving some points for his colleague to elaborate on. The main point of Midshipman Jones' discussion was that industrial power is of the utmost importance. He contended that training would take men that are vitally necessary for an expanded industrial program.

Rothwell then continued the discussion for the affirmative by carrying home the points expressed by Warren and stressing the advantages that we would have in scientific research.

Midshipman Crowe the final speaker for Navy oriented the debate and then went about outlining a policy that was to prove that a small well trained Army and Navy would be much better than a large group of civilian recruits.

Each of the speakers then gave a five minute rebuttal speech trying their best to tear holes in the arguments of their opponents. After the rebuttal speeches there was a short discussion in which the audience took an active part.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

VILLANOVA
EX-SERVICEMEN
JUST A PENNY POSTCARD
IS ALL WE ASK
DROP US A LINE
TO LET US KNOW WHEN
YOU HAVE BEEN DISCHARGED
The Alumni Secretary
Villanova College,
Villanova, Pa.

Schedule For This Week

TUESDAY

1:10 P.M.—in Commerce and Finance School, Father McGuire will address all upperclassmen.

WEDNESDAY

1:00 P.M.—in Room 215 Mendel, the Veterans Club will hold an important meeting, which will be conducted by Father McQuade.

6:30 P M.—Father O'Leary will deliver a Lenten sermon to Resident Students in the College Chapel.

THURSDAY

1:00 P.M.—in Room 215 Mendel, the members of next year's Senior Class, that is the present Senior I and Junior II, will nominate candidates for Class Offices.

FRIDAY

1:00 P.M.—in Room 215 Mendel, the members of next year's Junior Class, that is, the present Junior I and Sophomore II, will nominate candidates for Class Offices.

SUNDAY

2:30-5:00—Chestnut Hill Sophomores will hold Open House.

Mendel Building

Continued From Page One

sion period, work is progressing favorably on Good Council Hall, work inside the building is nearly finished down to the first floor. It is estimated that the entire job will be completed in time for the next semester.

Strikes Delay Work

Redesigned to house approximately forty students, the building would have been finished much sooner if the project had not been delayed by the Plumbers and Steam Fitters strikes. These strikes held up work from about five to six weeks.

During the final stages of the job, while the inside front section of Good Council Hall is to be under repair, the priests, whose dining room is located in this section, will probably eat in Saint Mary's Hall.

The veranda connecting Mendel Hall with Good Council Hall has been resurfaced and regraded with a layer of concrete.

Student Council

Continued From Page One

Many men played 150 pound football at the college before the war and have asked repeatedly for its return to the campus. Great stars like Joe Carbine who was killed in action will ever live in the minds of all our men. A proposal for the reactivation of the team has also been presented by a committee from the council and is now up for approval.

In pursuance of the third approved motion, next Thunrsday, a general meeting of all present Senior I's and Junior II's will be held by the Student Council for the nomination of class officers. Under the Student Council's ruling, the President of the class can be anyone in the group, while the Vice President and Secretary must be a Junior II.

Junior Prom Discussion

On Friday, all present Junior I's and Sophomore II's — the Junior class of the fall — will nominate officers. The same ruling will apply as in the case of the seniors, i.e., the president can be from either class, while the vice president and secretary must be Sophomore II's at present. Following their meeting, the class will discuss the plans for the coming Junior Prom, tentatively scheduled for May.

Finally on Tuesday, April 5, the present Sophomore I's, Frosh I's, and II's, will meet and nominate officers. They will also follow the same scheme, i.e., the president can be elected from any class, while the vice president and secretary must be present Frosh II's.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
The Campus Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

Vets Dilemma

Continued From Page Four

data at hand on existing and anticipated manpower requirements of the nation in various fields.

7. Tie the college training program with the U.S. Employment Service so that as to secure appropriate placement of veterans graduating or withdrawing.

8. Encourage co-operating colleges to enlarge facilities, utilizing available surplus war plants, building and portable units, and to extend the use of their present facilities through longer hours and staggered shifts.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Now for Coke
DRINK
Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 4 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, APRIL 2, 1946

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Bandstand to Broadcast from Campus

Staff To Attend Dinner Thursday For The Purpose Of Awarding Keys

Second Dinner This Year, 21 Men To Be Awarded Keys

The Villanovan staff will hold its second Social Dinner for this calendar year on Thursday at 7:30 P. M. in the Covered Wagon Inn. This particular date was picked, in order not to interfere with Holy Week, the Interfraternity Dance, or the Junior Prom, the Editor announced.

The purpose of this dinner, as announced by Rev. Klekotka, O.S.A., moderator of the Villanovan, is to award the Villanovan Keys to those men who have served the College paper for at least one year and who will leave by July 1st, 1946.

A letter of invitation sent to men receiving the Key expressed the deep appreciation of the present staff for the efforts spent during the "War" in keeping alive the College Paper.

The following is a list of men receiving the Villanovan Keys: Paul L. Carmichael, David I. Ryan, John J. Burns, Fred J. Koch, Russell L. Welsh, Henry P. Ward, Lemuel Wentling, John W. Coyne, Harry A. Waters, Hal V. Varani, William K. Koerner, Charles D. Cummings, Charles A. Andrews, Richard E. Sommers, Robert E. Conway, George O'Neil, William B. Carey John J. Fitzgibbons, Warren G. Sexton, James T. Mackey and Frank D. Ronan.

Donald M. Collins, Managing Editor of the Villanovan, was appointed Chairman of Arrangements for the Dinner Dance.

The Editor-in-Chief announced that a call from Columbus, Ohio, confirmed the report that Mr. Frederick John Koch, former Managing Editor of the Villanovan, will attend the Dinner.

Meeting Held By Phi Kappa Pi To Nominate Officers

A general meeting of the Phi Kappa Pi was held last Monday in Mendel Hall to nominate members for the offices that will be open at the beginning of the fall semester.

Joseph Hoffman, President of the Phi Kappa Pi, addressed the members and impressed on them the value of nominating men who have been active in the organization and who give promise of continuing their activity into the senior year.

A list of men eligible to run for office was drawn up by the present officers of the organization. Only men who have attended at least 50 per cent of the meetings in the past semester were considered eligible.

The nominations have been sent to the Vice President's office and as soon as they are officially approved the elections will be held. This should be sometime early this week.

At the conclusion of nominations Steve Gasparovic, co-chairman of the Interfraternity dance, was called on for a report on the progress of the dance committee. He mentioned that the tickets were moving slowly now but as the date for the dance nears, the committee looks for a substantial increase in sales.

The decoration committee has already started to plan for their decorations and expect to have their plans completed in a very short time.

Joe Hoffman has announced that the Columbia Broadcasting system will carry a program originating in the Field House, featuring Elliott Lawrence, prior to the Interfraternity Dance. This program will begin at 4:30 Saturday and will end at 5:00.

Veterans Alter Policy of Club

New Constitution Proposed To Bolster Spirit of Campus Club

By DON COLLINS

On Wednesday of last week the Veteran's Club of Villanova called its first meeting of this term. Harry Edwards, club president, welcomed the new ex-servicemen in an introductory speech and broached the purpose of the meeting: to determine whether that organization is to collapse entirely or is to thoroughly reorganize. Father McQuade, moderator, followed, acquainting the members and neophytes with the potentialities of the club and the means of obtaining them.

A show of hands was called to decide the fate of the organized Vets. An overwhelming affirmative was voiced and the details were set upon. Hoping to find the weakness in analysis, Edwards reviewed the club's past activity. "So far," he said, "the principal program has been a social one, attempting to integrate the membership, but these ventures have been failures and something new is in order."

Edwards proposed a new Constitution in line with the present Vet enrollment and the newly altered purpose of the organization. Six men are to be appointed as a Constitutional committee to analyze the situation and to draw up a new set of articles and by-laws. The committee will sit for six weeks, during which time elections will be held and consultative meetings will convene.

The purposes of the group as suggested and outlined are as follows:

1. The club will act as a support to the Veteran in manners which seriously affect his welfare.

2. The club will take on no other function or duty which can be handled by any other organization on the campus.

In the future, the organization will act to communally solve the problems of the Veteran. Housing, the most vital, will be dealt with by cooperative action, each member reporting any news of worth, and the board of control acting as a clearing house for petition and suggestion. The acquisition of clothing, books and automobiles will also receive attention that the above system will obtain.

All questions concerning the G.I. bill and in any of its ramifications or Government insurance will be dealt with by the board, and the answers to questions of general interest will appear in the Villanovan. Petitions for revision of the G.I. Bill or concerning any other legislation would also be initiated and drawn up by the board and sent to Congress or where they would do the most good. The success, even the existence, of the club is fully dependent on member interest, Father McQuade told the assembly. He further made it known that he would act strictly in an advisory capacity, prompting no action. Mr. Edwards closed the meeting by admonishing the body to watch for notices of future meetings in this newspaper or on the bulletin boards.

LENTEN SCHEDULE

Masses: 7:00, 7:30 and 8:00 A. M.
Confessions: During Mass and Wednesday evenings.
Sermon: Wednesday evenings.

Upperclassmen Hear Villanova's Future Discussed

Accelerated Program Stopped Except During Summer Terms. "Hello" Habit Emphasized

Reverend F. X. N. McGuire, President of Villanova College, discussed the beginnings and purpose of the wartime accelerated program, and then went on to discuss plans for the future in an address to the upperclassmen last Tuesday.

The accelerated program was begun in 1942, said Father McGuire, as a wartime emergency measure to give students as much education as possible before they went into the service. "The results," he said, "were good, but that system cannot be maintained with any great degree of profit."

REV. F. X. N. McGUIRE

Maintenance At Standstill

Because of the uninterrupted continual use of buildings and equipment, combined with wartime shortages, maintenance has been at a standstill. The result is a great depreciation in the physical plant of the College that could not be made up until now. The acceleration of schedules resulted in a great time saving, but quality suffered at the expense of quantity. This was particularly true, he said, as regards activities in the social line. Time for extracurricular activities and the widening of acquaintanceships among students was sacrificed in the interest of speeding up the student's education.

Acceleration Stopped

For these many reasons, Father McGuire went on, the accelerated program will be dropped except for one exception. The moderate acceleration in the Summer sessions of 1946 and 1947 will be limited to Freshmen for the purpose of bringing all students back to an even two semester basis.

In answer to an editorial in the Villanovan calling for expansion of the Pie Shop, Father McGuire stated that the administration knew the need and were taking steps to improve the situation. Negotiations are under way for the acquiring of surplus Quonset huts or an Army mess hall to house the Pie Shop. Plans are also under way for the construction of several new buildings, a Naval Science unit, an English unit, and a Laboratory Building.

Student Union Stressed

Father McGuire stressed the need for a student union. He congratulated the Student Council and other organizations on the work that has been done up to now, and asks them to keep pushing. He stressed the importance of friendliness on the campus, emphasizing the need for an increase in the "hello" habit.

Treasury Bond Program To Feature Elliot Lawrence From Field House

Columbia Broadcasting System To Carry Program Originating In Field House Over 180 Station Hook-up On Saturday, April 27

Class Officers Are Nominated

Canning, Redmond and Fallon Seek Appointment To Head Senior Class In the Coming Year

Meetings of the Senior and Junior Classes was held on Thursday and Friday, March 28th and 29th in Mendel Hall.

Joseph Hoffman, President of Student Council, presided at the two meetings. The purpose of these meetings was to nominate the class officers for the fall term. Office of Vice President and Secretary were restricted to present Junior II's and Sophomore II's, while all the other offices were open to men of their respective classes.

Harry Edwards, President of the Junior Class, asked all Juniors to support the class in its plans for the coming Junior Prom. Edwards stressed the importance of immediate action on this subject as the date has not as yet been set.

Nominations for the Senior Class subject to approval by the authorities are as follows:

For the office of President:
Sam. Canning—Junior II
Larry Fallon—Junior II
Dan Redmond—Junior II

For the office of Vice President:
Vince McPeak—Junior II
Joe Brogan—Junior II
Dave Marano—Junior II
John Quinn—Junior II

For the office of Secretary:
John Dougherty—Junior II
James Lyons—Junior II
Jim Conaty—Junior II

For the office of Treasurer:
Jim Murphy—Senior I
Bill Boyle—Senior I
Joe Brogan—Junior II
Bill Nealon—Junior II

For representatives to Student Council (3):
John Burke—Senior I
Bill Boyle—Senior I
Tom Hanratty—Junior II
Ed Reardon—Senior I
Anthony Caruso—Senior I
Harry Edwards—Junior II
Dan Casey—Junior II
Dave Marano—Junior II
Matt Kearney—Junior II

Nominations for the Junior Class subject to approval by the authorities are as follows:

For the office of President:
Steve Gasparovic—Junior I
C. Poletta—Junior I
Don Collins—Junior I

For the office of Vice President:
Bob Manske—Sophomore II
Bill Altenphol—Sophomore II

For the office of Secretary:
Ed Walsh—Sophomore II
Anthony Cocco—Sophomore II
John Burns—Sophomore II

For the office of Treasurer:
Joe Baranti—Sophomore II
Jim Feeney— Sophomore II
Q. Montenaus—Sophomore II
Lou Macariello—Sophomore II

VILLANOVA
EX-SERVICEMEN
JUST A PENNY POSTCARD
IS ALL WE ASK
DROP US A LINE
TO LET US KNOW WHEN
YOU HAVE BEEN DISCHARGED
The Alumni Secretary
Villanova College,
Villanova, Pa.

By JAMES M. BONNER, Jr.

Elliott Lawrence, maestro of the Interfraternity Dance, will broadcast over a 180 station Columbia Broadcasting System hook-up on Saturday afternoon April 27th. The broadcast will emanate from the field house between 4:30 and 5:00 P. M.

The Treasury Department is sponsoring this program in order to promote the sale of Victory Bonds. It is one of the largest of its kind in the country and is being taken all over this area appearing at a different college every week.

Second Broadcast

This is the second such broadcast from Villanova. The First was in the pre-war years when the Coca-Cola Company brought Les Brown and his top-notch aggregation to the campus as the Spotlight band. The broadcast at that time received an excellent reception.

When the Bandstand was set-up it featured a different orchestra every week. Then on February 2nd Elliot Lawrence was featured from Cornell University. The response was so favorable that the Treasury Department received their schedule and the Lawrence band was signed as the permanent band for the program.

Interfraternity Dance

The Bandstand comes to Villanova on the day of the Interfraternity Dance. The decorations will have been completed for the dance in the evening and it will present a very excellent setting for the broadcast. The attendance should be good. Many people will be in town for the evening's festivities and this will give them an excellent opportunity to get a preview of the orchestra. The broadcast is open to all members of the student body and their guests.

This program constitutes another step up for the Lawrence band. Up until the present time

BOND PROGRAM
Continued on Page Eight

Papers Presented At ASME Meeting Last Wednesday

This past Wednesday, the Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers held a meeting at which two interesting and enlightening papers were given. These are two of four papers to be given here. The paper judged best by the judges will be presented at Pratt Institute in New York, where a Regional Contest is being held next month.

The papers given the 27th were on Thread Grinding as related to tap manufacture and the Development of Rasp Bars for Wheat Harvesting Machinery. They were prepared and given by Joe Hoffman and Ray Richardson, respectively. Joe went in to the details of making precision taps used in tapping holes. He pointed out that tolerances of .005 are not uncommon and that tolerances of O are often obtained. Ray gave a brief history of threshing and then went into the details of designing and perfecting a new threshing media —Rasp Bars.

The next meeting of the A. S. M. E. will be held at 7 P. M. April 4 in Room 215 Mendel. Paul Wiedenhaefer will give his paper on Strain Gauges, which during the war have proved so valuable in vibration analysis of any indeterminant mechanical design, especially airplanes. Paul Christenson will present his work pertaining to Gas Turbines and possibly jet engines.

Two field trips are planned and many more are in the offing. An invitation is extended to all students taking work leading to a Degree in Mechanical Engineering whether a member of not.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Arthur R. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
Herman J. Diesel, '50
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
Wharncliffe Bird, '50
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Daniel Fox, '50
Eugene Scarzo, '49
Henry J. Fessler, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50
Robert R. Manske, 48

Columnists
William Golden, '48
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Clematl, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
James J. Brannon, '50
Joseph Braezler, '50
Charles R. Phillips, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Francis Linsulata, '49
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 4000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office Decembe 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - - APRIL 2, 1946

Lest We Forget

MAYBE it's because we have Spring fever—and this time it really is Spring. But anyway it does get to be be a little harder on these lovely, warm days to knuckle down to the routine of study and religious exercises. Now is the time, then, to recall those promises we made to ourselves on Ash Wednesday,—the promises to go to Mass frequently, to be on time for religious exercises, to stop in once in a while for a quiet moment with the Lord, to be more charitable and patient with the other fellows, to get those assignments finished and turned in.

Yes, those promises turned out to be harder to keep than we had bargained for. But it's when the going gets rough that those little sacrifices count most. Just because we have not been faithful to our good intentions is no reason why we should give up the fight altogether. In these last few weeks that remain to the Lenten season let us revive a little of that early fervor that carried us through Ash Wednesday.

Science To Use

SCIENTIA . . . knowledge. From the very dawn of our present-day civilization, man has tried desperately to free himself from the shackles of his environment, and to create a better, more interesting world to live in. To do this he has had to improve upon nature in many ways, learning how to harness its forces and direct them for his own use. He has employed various forms of knowledge to achieve these ends. Knowledge he has garnered through the ages from observation and experimentation.

Science, embracing as it does so many field of learning, has much to offer humanity. It has proven the saviour of man for many generations. However, it has also proven to be man's most destructive enemy. As a result of his own concupiscent nature, man has not yet learned that science, as the men who have nurtured its development in various fields, is meant only to be a servant to man, in a capacity of moral advancement. However, thwarted minds have too often used the means that knowledge has provided to produce destruction and desolation.

Since in all our recent wars the various fields of science have contributed to new methods of annihilation, people have become suspicious of its good ends; they do not believe in the Jekyll and Hyde nature of this technical field. How can it be both devil and angel at the same time? It is a incongruous situation when one ponders the facts of the case, but in the end we must admit that science has given us much to be thankful for in our everyday lives.

From test tubes and mathematical formulae we have been endowed with such priceless gifts as penicillin, television, radar, atomic energy, and a host of other useful discoveries. When directed in the proper channels these new discoveries are undoubtedly a boon to man. They can serve him loyally and faithfully throughout the years.

Man must come to realize that science is not his master, but he as the originator of science, is the master. He must take his servant in hand as a young child and learn to rear it in its special adulthood filled with service to his master.

Science has much to offer man for his own personal advancement in life. It is not a thing to be feared; it is a good thing when used wisely, but when used by perverted individuals it is dangerous. Science is ours, it is our solemn duty to respect it and use it only for our advancement socially and morally.

One Man's Opinion

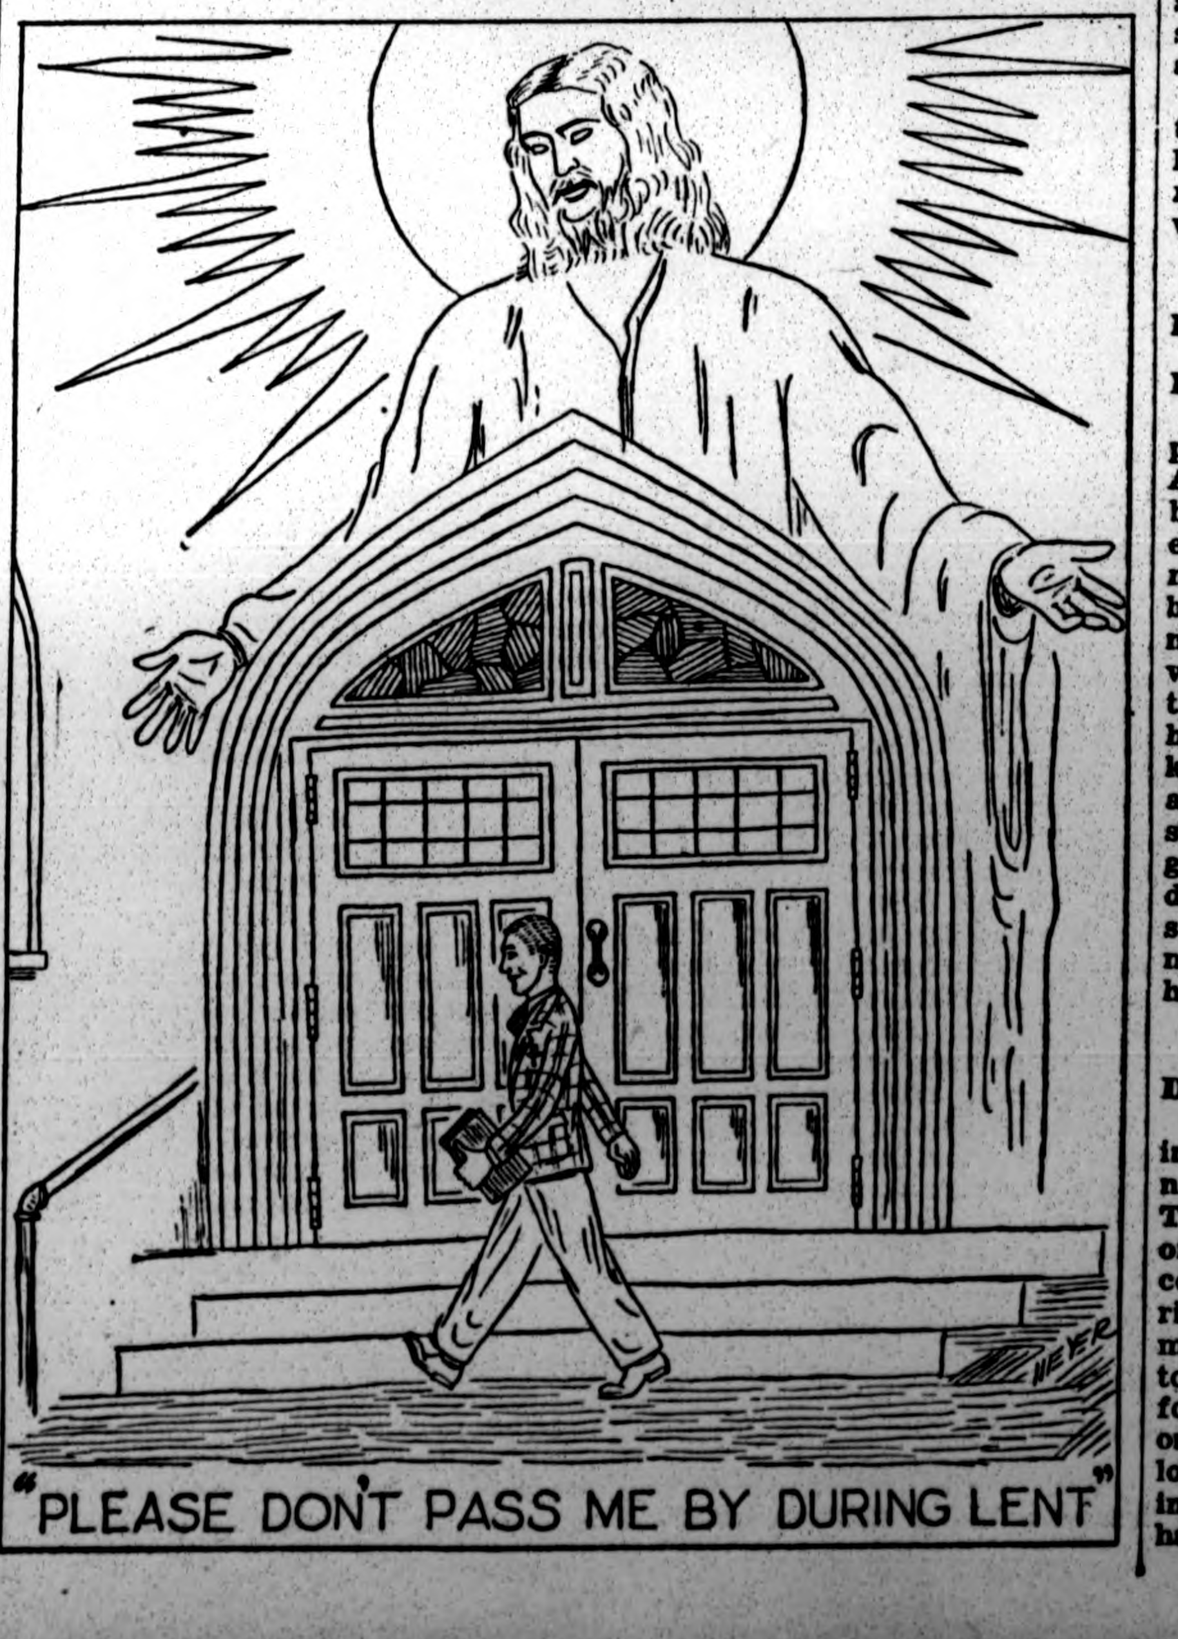
JUST a little while back it was my misfortune to walk into the office of the Villanovan with that 'I want to work' look on my face. The next thing I was folding papers with one hand for the circulation staff and trying to produce masterpieces of literature for the news staff of the sheet with the other. Now don't get the idea that this paper isn't in need for writers and the like, for it is.

During the war years the valiant men here at the dear old Almamammy struggled through managing to put out the Villanovan, but now that peace has come (I don't listen to these radio forecasters nor do I believe everything that I read—Walter Winchell and Drew Pearson take note). Anyway as I was saying, with the return to normalcy (everybody else uses it why shouldn't I) it is the object of all of the current staff members to put the Villanovan back where it should be. Not that it always hasn't been good, but now it should be better with all the new students coming in.

The sports staff seems to have reorganized pretty well, as has the picture staff; but there are still many good positions open. The news staff still has a few vacancies that have not been filled; and the feature department is in need of some ambitious, wide awake, clear writers. If you can write your name we can use you. Another craft is needed also; typists being said craft. Every Friday afternoon and evening the varied staffs of the paper dash not too gracefully to the typing department with their copy to be typed, but, alas, there is no typing department so the poor budding journalists have to sit down and do the work themselves. As you can see this is not very good. Therefore at this point the Villanovan issues a call for men with typing experience to do some typing for their school paper. We not only call, we scream for help!

Seriously, Villanovans, your paper is in need of help. Putting out eight pages is a big job for the few men that are now working hard on the sheet. If any of you have had experience on school papers, local town publications or even if you would like to learn something about newspaper work drop around to the Villanovan office any day after one o'clock. Right at the present time there are many jobs to be done that you may be able to do, so how about lending a helping hand? This is a good chance for you Frosh to become better acquainted with the College and your fellow collegians.

By CHARLES McCARTHY



"PLEASE DON'T PASS ME BY DURING LENT"

Letters to the EDITOR

Editor's Note: Father Sullivan welcomed arguments pro and con on the "Caste" system, and the Villanovan has chosen to carry a few of the letters received in this issue.

• • •

Dear Editor:

I respect Father Sullivan's stand in defending the officers that graduated from Villanova. However, I am of the firm conviction that an officer bears a dual personality. Around those whom he knows, he is a nice Joe, but to those men who are under his command he is a no-good, in almost every instance . . . He eats the best, his quarters are the best, and he begins to feel that he is the best. Humility and goldbraid just don't seem to mix.

For my part, I think Father Sullivan is wrong. He clearly stated that his knowledge was not exactly first hand, and that is probably the reason for what I consider to be his error.

An enlisted man.

Ed: De gustibus non est disputandum.

• • •

Dear Editor:

. . . Let us analyze the statement that out of the sixty sons of Villanova who gave their lives, thirty two of them were officers. Consider also the percentage of officers to the percentage of enlisted men that came out of Villanova. I think there were more officers than enlisted men, especially having an Officer training Program on the Campus.

An ex-Villanovan.

Ed: Sorry, you're wrong. Most of the Villanovans were called into service before they had completed their education, and were not eligible for commissions.

• • •

Dear Editor:

Hurrah! Fr. Sullivan should be in Washington. I served as a gunnery officer in Europe and since my discharge all I've heard are gripes. Didn't the officers do anything in this war but get in the enlisted man's hair. After reading your article I feel a little more human.

S.C.

• • •

Dear Editor:

Thanks for sticking up for the officer, I lost a lot of "shavetail" friends in the Pacific and they didn't ask for any special privileges. Instead of looking into the "Caste System" lets forget it.

D.K.

• • •

Dear Editor:

. . . After reading the comments on the "Caste System," it made me wonder if maybe the people back home are not more to blame than the Officers themselves. Do they have to point and say: See, he's an officer, and he's an enlisted man?

To say the least, I did not enjoy the attitude of the article. Yes, let's give the officers a break, but, more important, let's forget the whole . . . thing.

Name withheld.

Ed: I think you have a good point.

• • •

Dear Editor:

There has been griping on the part of enlisted men ever since Alexander made them shave their beards. In a civilian Army, and especially one of the United States, men don't like to be ordered about by anybody. This natural repugnance finds an outlet in a number of ways, one of which is to yell about the privileges accorded men of higher rank. I have seen privates kick about staff-rated men's clubs, and so on up to gripes about the special accomodations of five star generals by Brigadiers. These difficulties are a natural and good sign of free thinking men. Why make a mountain out of a molehill?

Lieut. J. J. G., U.S.A.

• • •

Dear Editor;

Granted: that the caste system, in some form, is necessary for the needed discipline in the service. This, however, gives no cause for officers treating enlisted men like common gutter rats! Every man, rich or poor, intelligent or weak-minded, was created, by God, equal to his brother. Why should good fortune and a small piece of silver on a man's uniform mean that the lowly enlisted men should grovel in the dirt by his feet? The thing has been carried too far!

Enlisted.

Faculty Comments

Beautiful Villanova

By FATHER CRAWFORD

Of all the big cities of the United States, Philadelphia enjoys the distinction of possessing the most beautiful suburbs. The best known suburban area is called the Main Line, named from the presence of the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad running from New York to Chicago. This area hasbe en well known for years because of the beautiful homes and estates which flank the railroad to the north and to the south. The Main Line has a traditoin of beauty, and in the tradition the campus of Villanova holds a prominent place.

The vast rolling lawns, the shaded walks, the stately trees of the campus, make it one of the beauty spots of a beautiful suburban area. With the coming of Spring the beauties of Villanova will again appeal to the eye of the passerby, as they will rejoice the hearts of those who dwell in their midst. While we enjoy these beauties of nature which surround us, we must not make the mistake of taking them for granted, nor fall into the error of thinking that they are freely bestowed by nature.

It has required no small amount of hard work on the part of many in the past to produce our beautiful campus, and it still requires the work and cooperation of many to preserve it. It is true that in time of stress or emergency many important things have to be neglected. Due to manpower shortages, as well as other contributing factors, perhaps the beauty which is Villanova has suffered during the war years. Now peace has returned, and Villanova, too, is in the midst of reconversion. We are doing our best to return to prewar standards. Among the changes that will be made, is the effort on the part of the proper authorities to restore the campus to its prewar condition. This sort of enterprise is one that requires the cooperation of many people. Among those whose cooperation is sorely needed are the students of Villanova.

Surely anyone with half an eye can see how destructive it is to the beauty of a lawn to have paths crisscrossing it in all directions. With but one or two exceptions, the walks and driveways of the campus are sufficient to enable students to get from one place to another with reasonable speed. It is not necessary to take short cuts in order to get to the post office or the P. & W. station. I wonder what is done with all the time that is saved by taking such short cuts.

It is quite true that any individual can make the claim that his particular crossing of a lawn does not make a path. But when not one, but several hundreds of students travel over the same particular area, not once, but many times a worn path soon results which becomes in wet weather a mass of mud, and destroys the beauty of the lawn.

The campus is only the home of the student for a short span of years. But it is the permanent home, and the personal property of the priests who teach and live at Villanova. Like myself, there are many priests who have known no other home for thiry years and more, and who look forward to many more happy years on this beautiful campus. With the cooperation of all the students, the campus can once more enjoy the position of being the beauty focal point of the beautiful Main Line.

Fr. Crawford

Brideshead . . . A Criticism

By JOSEPH R. SWEENEY

I have been asked to write a column dealing with contemporary fiction. My acceptance calls for, I feel, an apology. Since my interest in literature is chiefly that of a layman, my reviews must be, of a necessity, subjective. Therefore, they will concern themselves chiefly with my personal reactions toward the books in question, rather than with analytical criticism.

Several weeks ago, every major critic in the country was dealing with Evelyn Waugh's Brideshead Revisited. In chorus, they greated the novel with praise and felicitations. At great length they traced Waugh's growth to maturity. They rejoiced in his masterful treatment of character, his objectiveness, his satiric force, his meticulous style, etc. They agreed unanimously on most of these points. However, they were hopelessly muddled when they tried to define the esential theme of the novel. Indeed, some claimed the novel had no true theme. Most agreed that the novel was concerned with Catholicism and faith, but their interpretations were far from the truth.

Brideshead is the magnificent country seat of the wealthy, Catholic Marchmain family. Charles Ryder, the "I" in the story, is stationed there for a short while during the war. The sight of the mansion brings back to him a flood of memories, for he was intimately involved in the Marchmain family history.

Ryder met Sebastian, the younger son, at Oxford during the twenties. They, and their contemporaries, formed the gay set that inspired F. Scott Fitzgerald to dub them The Beautiful And The Damned. As their friendship grew, Ryder was introduced to the Marchmains; to Sebastian's mother, preoccupied with Catholicism; to Julia, his beautiful, unorthodox, older sister; to Bridey, his sincere, unimaginative, older brother; and to Cordelia, his native, younger sister. Later in Venice, he met Sebastian's renegade father. Thus, six members of the family are presented, three of them Catholic in name only.

Destinies Fulfilled

Through Ryder's eyes, we follow them to their destinies. Sebastian, a confirmed drunkard, is content with his lot which places him far from his home. Cordelia, Bridey, and the mother follow their obvious, narrow patterns set by their personalities and characters. The father returns to die at Brideshead, reunited with the Church. Julia, involved in an affair with Ryder, contemplates a divorce from her politician husband, when a sudden reconviction of faith makes her realize that she must return to Catholicism.

This, the barest of bare oulines of the plot of the novel, does grave injustice to Waugh's talent as a novelist. He cannot be imitated successfully by anyone, his genius is totally his own. I can predict with some assurance that pages of the novel will be included in future anthologies as masterful specimens of satire. Waugh's style is exquisite, he must be read to be appreciated.

Forever Filthy

Among other things, this novel treats of many of the stock items of what one wit described as "the Anthony Adversity-Forever Filthy" school of literature. You'll find adultery, debauchery, perversions, and types of intellectual pride, in most of their ramifications contained in Brideshead Revisited. What differentiates this novel from novels such as Forever Amber, is that these things play an intrinsic part in the delineation of the characters of the persons involved in the story, Forever Amber, on the other hand, is "dirt" for "dirt's" sake.

Only one reviewer seemed to know what the true theme of this novel really is. He is Father Gardiner, the critic for America. In replying to the statement that

CURRENT FICTION
Continued on Page Eight

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEIL

Old Colored Mammy: "I want a ticket for Magnolia."

Ticket agent (after ten minutes of weary thumbing over railroad guides): "Where is Magnolia?"

Old Colored Mammy: "She is settin' over der on de bench."

• • •

Veterans of the armed forces entering colleges and universities throughout the country under the educational benefits provided for in the G. I. Bill of Rights are swelling the enrollment of the vast majority of institutions to unprecedented heights.

The Temple University News reveals that twelve hundred applicants were turned away from the University in February and expresses the belief that it will be at least five years before the figure declines and applications return to normal.

One thousand students, both veterans and civilians, entered Temple in February to swell the normal capacity of 2600 to 3300, of whom 1000 are veterans. The Ursinus Weekly discloses that the total of 587 students to enter Ursinus this spring term is the largest in the history of the school.

• • •

David A. Strong, a former collegiate football star and an ex-Navy man, will assume the duties as head coach for the 1946-47 edition of the Albright College football team, we learn from the Albrighton. Strong, after his discharge from the Navy a year ago, was on the athletic staff at the University of Idaho and was backfield coach at the University of Nebraska for the 1945 season.

• • •

Student political organizations at the University of Chicago have been given complete freedom to participate in off-campus activities, provided those activities and the publicity connected with them, do not imply that they are sponsored by the university or the student body as a whole. This item is brought to our attention through the courtesy of the Chicago Maroon, official paper of the university.

• • •

The return of two former members of the law faculty and the addition of another and a law librarian have brought about the revival of freshman law classes at Baylor University. Three freshman classes are being taught now and the law school will offer a full program in September. Law classes were suspended during the war due to the lack of students.

—The Baylor Lariat

• • •

The increased enrollment and vacancies brought about by resignations have prompted the appointment of nineteen new faculty members at the University of Florida. The president of the university explained that the majority of the new staff were named to ease the problems where instructors found their classes too crowded.

—The Florida Alligator

• • •

A fellow carrying a 100-lb. bomb got on a London bus and sat down.

"What's that you've got on your lap?" asked the conductor.

"It's a delayed-action bomb I'm taking to the police station," came the reply.

"Lumme!" exclaimed the conductor. "You don't want to carry a thing like that in your lap. Put it under the seat."

—West Catholic News

• • •

The latest issue of The San Francisco Foghorn, school tabloid of the University of San Francisco, carries the story of "Clipper" Smith's official welcome to the West Coast school. "Clipper," who was varsity football coach at Villanova for a number of years prior to his enlistment in the U.S. Marine Corps in 1943, is the new football coach at the university. He told the school body at the first spring assembly that "what we are striving for is national recognition." The "Clipper" urged the students to get to know him better, and to start by calling him, not by "coach" but by his nick-name.

• • •

From the same edition of the 'Frisco Foghorn we extracted the following:

The young English Lieutenant had just returned from India. While chatting at the bar with some of his cronies from Sandhurst,

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Four

SMEARS 'n CHEERS

LOU DI GIACOMO

MILT CLIMATI

After the usual Monday morning post-mortem of the social weekend, we finally managed to uncover a few tid-bits of choice gossip which are always prevalent on "washday." It seems that it always comes out in the wash!

CUFF NOTES:

Tom Burke of Delurey Hall is still waiting for an answer from that Chick in Connecticut. It seems as if Tom wrote a letter early in February and still hasn't received a reply. Maybe she has you mixed up with some other guy, Tom . . . Who was the pretty lass telling Marty Minerva's fortune the other day? Marty seemed awful interested to . . . We hear that Joe Dwyer's number one song is "How I love the kisses of Dolores." . . . We hear that Ed Sullivan of Alumni is frequenting Rosemont four nights a week of late. And asked what he was doing he said that he was taking night courses in the Romance Languages.

Tom Scanlon of Alumni Hall sure takes long trips on the weekends. Considering he doesn't go home what can be the attraction? . . . Pete Pallitto sure seems to be distracted these days. Any-ybody know why? . . . Bill Brennan of Simpson Hall can't make up his mind on weekends anymore whether to go home to see Bootsie or go to Bryn Mawr to see Teasie. . . . Aurilio Baccino of Simpson Hall claims that he's not worried about what we put in our column last week because he says that Mary Faye didn't see it. So we are printing it again so that she does. Wouldn't you like that Aurilio? . . . Ray Lignori of Delurey Hall definitely approves of the Blumfield type of Chestnut Hill girl. Isn't that right Ray? . . . We hear that Harry "Eyah" Knecht is quite exasperated over the photo of a certain li'l hunk of femininity from Immaculata. Cheer up Harry, maybe she will give you one someday; or at least a reasonable facsimile.

A DEFINITION OF A PORCH SWING:

Happiness on hooks;
A contrivance whereby
Love-making may be suspended,
But by no means stopped,
During the Summer.

PEN POINTS:

If you see a smart looking student on the Campus with a brand new suit, you can bet its Al Melusky of Alumni Hall. He's really going in for fashion you know . . . Anyone interested in learning the Spanish Language consult Matt Kearney of Fedigan Hall. He's now teaching class . . . We hear John Sankey is planning to join the life guards at Atlantic City this Summer. Here's hoping you make lots of rescues, Sank, even if you can't swim . . . We all got a glimpse of Joe Brogan hitting the old softball the other day. All lined rives and all to the catcher.

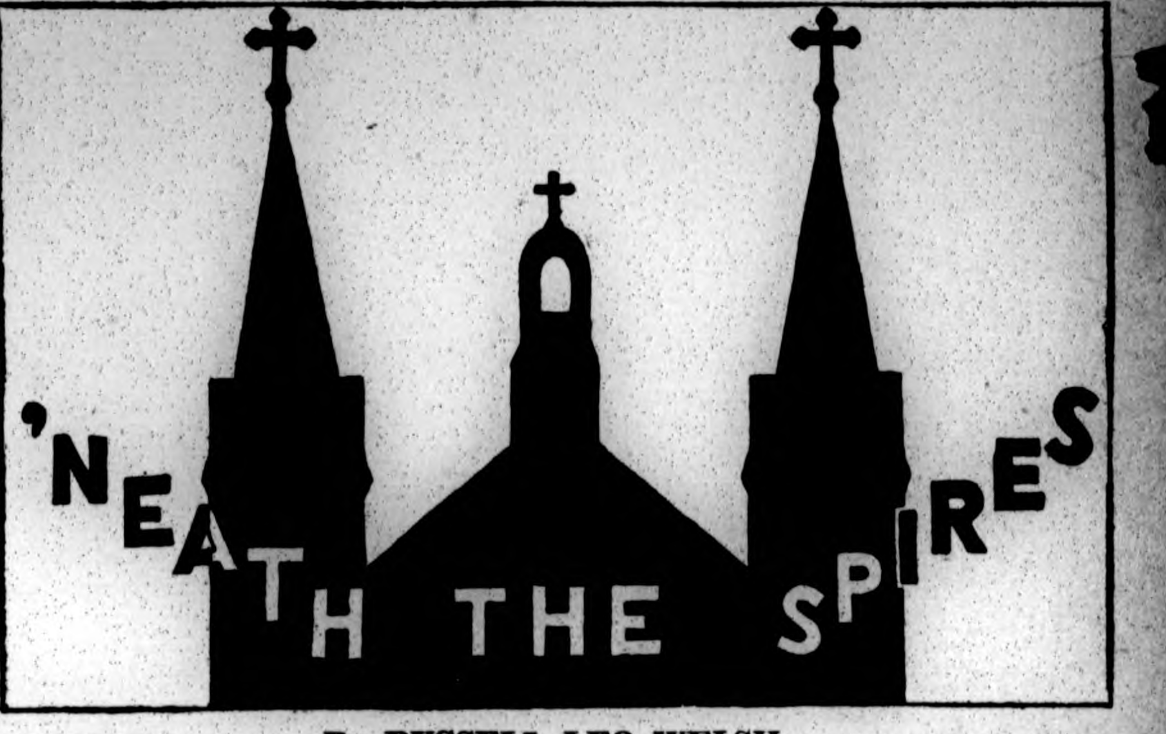
We hear that Anthony Vincent Caruso III went home this weekend and he left quite early too. That's all right though, Anthony, you like class so much you won't have to cut so often now, will you? . . . Somebody ought to tell Pete Chaplinsky that just because Vassar is taking boys now it doesn't mean anybody can go. It's just to ease the shortage of schools, Pete.

Question of the Week: What will become of Lou's cockroaches if the pie shop is moved to the Neissen huts?

GLEANINGS:

The story of the week: Gene Hannon and Bill Quinn of Austin Hall this past weekend went down to Washington D. C. to see about getting into Georgetown University's graduate school. But to their

CHEERS & SMEARS
Continued on Page Eight



'NEATH THE SPIRES

By RUSSELL LEO WELSH
Editor-in-Chief

In the liturgy of Passiontide we enter upon the third stage of our Easter preparation — a period especially devoted to the remembrance of Christ's sufferings. The liturgy expresses this thought in various ways. As the days of the Divine Bridegroom's sorrows approach, His Spouse, the Church, veils herself in mourning attire. Crosses and statues are covered to show the Church's sorrow.

Pictures, statues, and crosses, which are set with costly jewels and overlaid with precious metal (formerly the figure of Christ was not affixed to the Cross) must recede into the background; the image of the suffering Saviour comes more and more to the front. In the Mass the last expressions of joy are silenced. But even more forcefully than all these external signs does the content of the liturgy proclaim the sufferings of our Lord. For the past few weeks the Passion theme has become ever more accentuated; now it alone dominates the entire liturgy.

In the Introit of next Sunday's Mass we hear our Lord in His agony on the Mount of Olives. He is praying for a judicial decision between Himself and the unholy Jewish people and the "unjust and deceitful man" (referring to Judas); in the Gradual and the Tract we hear Christ lamenting in His sorrows. These take us to the pillar of the scourging ("the wicked have wrought upon my back") and to the cross ("Deliver me from my enemies, O Lord").

In the Epistle our Saviour is represented as the sinless High Priest who cleanses us from the guilt of sin with His own blood. In the Gospel it is told how the hatred of the Jews grew to the extent that they accused the Savious of having come to an agreement with Satan, and how they picked up stones to throw at Him. But with a divine dignity He emphasizes His sinlessness and His being from all eternity ("Before Abraham was made, I am"). They cannot prevail against Him, for His time is not yet come. He hides Himself from their eyes.

Many differences of opinion have been expressed for the covering of the crucifixes during passiontide. Dom A. Neugart, O.S.B., offers the following explanation: "Whenever the Church honors a holy mystery, she usually withdraws it from profane eyes by means of a veil. Thus she conceals the chalice and the tabernacle when the Blessed Sacrament is contained therein; likewise the Gospel-book, containing the word of God, at pontifical High Mass; and the covering of the crucifix as a sign of mourning is contrary to the spirit of the liturgy, for especially during these days it proclaims and glorifies the cross in the Divine Office and in holy Mass."

Governm't Limits On Construction May Affect College

Repairs on Mendel and Good Counsel Hall to Continue

Moving to save scarce building materials for veterans housing program the Civilian Production Administration and the National Housing Agency issued a limitation order last Tuesday, effective March 26, 1946, which provides that no new construction or repairs, with certain exceptions, may be undertaken without specific governmental authorization.

The order does not ban construction now being carried on, and for which the materials are already on the site. Therefore, such repair work as is now being carried on at Mendel Hall and Good Counsel Hall will not be interrupted.

The order further permits construction, repair, alteration or installation jobs costing not more than $400 on homes; $1,000 on hotels, resorts, apartment houses or other residential buildings for more than five families, commercial and service establishments, farms, churches, hospitals, schools, public housing and charitable institutions; and $15,000 on factories, plants or other industrial structures used for manufacturing, processing or assembling, and other types of industrial structures.

Structures not covered by these classifications are allowed $200 worth of construction, repair, alteration or installation.

The Civilian Production Administration announced it will open field offices in seventy-one cities to pass on all future building under the order.

Just how this order will affect Villanova's plans for further expansion of the campus with such additions as the future chemical engineering laboratory has not been officially commented upon.

Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova, left for Scranton, Pennsylvania, last Thursday and, therefore, was not available for comment.

Catholic Colleges Meet At La Salle

Inter-Racial Group Elects Temporary Officers At Meeting

Seventeen delegates, representing five of Philadelphia's Catholic colleges, met recently at La Salle College to discuss future plans for the Catholic Intercollegiate Interracial Commission and to hold election for that organization.

Villanova, Rosemont, La Salle, Immaculata and Chestnut Hill are the colleges represented.

Herman Diesel, freshman Electrical Engineering student from Villanova, was elected temporary president. Other delegates from here were Roland Higgs and John P. Mallick.

To Revive Interest

The Commission, guided by Rev. William J. Lunny, O. S. A., Spiritual Advisor, from Villanova, Brother Felix, F.C.S., Moderator, and Brother Augustine, F.C.S., both from La Salle, is now attempting to revive the interest which it commanded in prewar years. During this revivifying period, between now and October of this year, the tenure of the officers is to be temporary.

Miss Vera Coppedge, Rosemont freshman, and John Freiss, LaSalle, are the vice presidents, while Miss Nancy Meehan, a Chestnut Hill junior, and Miss Miriam Conway, Immaculata freshman, are secretary and treasurer respectively.

Purposes Outlined

The prime purposes of the Interracial Commission are to gather information and data concerning the interracial struggle, mainly in this country, and to attempt to solve its many involved problems by discussion and education.

The group is attempting to gain admittance into the National Association of Catholic College Students by having itself duly established as a Commission under the rules and laws of the Association. At present, Rosemont College holds the right to the Commission in the Philadelphia area, but this has not been formally accepted by the National Association.

Due to the fact that two of the representatives from the college which holds the accepted commission must fill the office of president and secretary of the organization, it will be impossible for the Philadelphia group to be formally received into the National Association until after the October elections. The Commission may change from one college to another after one year upon the vote of the colleges following the bid by one or several member institutions for the Commission.

Engineering Prof Arranges ASCE Student Chapter

Oakey Represents Villanova When 27 Colleges Meet In April

From April 17 to 19 some 1000 experts on highways, sanitary engineering, power, soil mechanics, waterways, surveying and mapping and other civil engineering fields will gather at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia to discuss postwar problems at the annual spring meeting of the country's loudest national engineering organization, the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Nine technical sessions and two excusions to points of technical and historical interest in and near Philadelphia are scheduled, in addition to social functions, including a luncheon and dinner dance the opening day, and special entertainment for the wives of members.

Philadelphia to be Host

Members of the 93 year old Socity from all parts of the country will be in attendance when Frank S. Friel, president of the Philadelphia local section, whose members will be hosts, opens the sessions at 10 A. M. Wednesday, April 17. Then the members will be welcomed officially by Mayor Bernard Samuel of Philadelphia, and W. W. Horner, St. Louis consulting engineer, president of the society, will respond.

Topics to be discussed in papers at the technical sessions will range from stream pollution and highway congestion to the value of water for industrial and domestic uses and economic trends in the construction industry. Reconstruction will be discussed from various viewpoints by outstanding engineers, including municipal, state and federal officials. An exhibit of Army and captured enemy survey equipment wlil feature the Society's technical session on surveying and mapping.

Conference Arranged

Mr. John A. Oakey, professor of engineering at Villanova, is a member of the Student's Activity Committee, which has arranged a Student Chapter Conference on Tuesday April 16 in connection with the Spring Meeting of the A. S. C. E.

There are 123 student Chapters throughout the country affiliated with the A. S. C. E., and 27 of these, including Villanova are expected to attend. Students are invited to all the sessions and social functions, and the members of the Villanova Chapter of the A. S. C. E., who recently elected Daniel L. Redmond, president; David Marano, secretary-treasurer, and Thomas Ward, vice president, will attend all the sessions.

Shortage Of Books Looms In Future

In the near future, government aid of some sort may be forthcoming from Washington in the matter of textbooks for colleges. College and universities throughout the country are letting it be known that relief must be had soon from the present shortage of textbooks and other school materials, if they are to carry out the government plan of education of ex-G. I.'s. In addition to these G.I.'s, students coming into college from high school are adding to the problem.

Change Texts

The Rev. John J. McMenamin, O. S. A., Procurator of Villanova College, has stated that "the book situation was never worse." Some professors have had to change the text for use in their classes as much as three and four times because the publishing houses have not been able to fill the original orders.

Government Aid Needed

Whether or not the publishers foresaw the present situation, as they probably did, but were powerless to do anything about it during the war years, cannot be ascertained at the present.

Unless the government steps in with aid, the situation shows signs of growing in acuteness because the number of college students is expected to grow by leaps and bounds within the year.

Internat'al Club Revival Planned

Relations Club Under Direction of Fr. McCarthy Returns After Three Inactive Years

Reorganization of the International Relations Club is awaiting administration approval before plans for the revival of the popular peace-time extracurricular organization are set in motion . The club, disbanded approximately three years ago due to the decline in the civilian student body, probably will be under the direction of the Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, O. S. A., who headed the group in the past.

With the reorganization of the International Relations Club at Villanova, similar groups are being formed in other colleges and universities in the Philadelphia area which will send delegates to the Student Action Committee—a part of the International Committee of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia and vicinity.

Delegates to be Selected

At present Donald M. Collins and Jasper Chen See are faculty delegates to the Action Committee but their status is only temporary pending the revival of the Relations Club when delegates will be selected from that group.

The Student Action Committee is designed primarily to promote understanding between American and foreign students and distribute propaganda building up the United Nations organization, Delegate Collins explained.

The organization his progressed for some time along uniform lines of procedure but it was decided two weeks ago to perpetuate and organize the committee. A constitution for the body was drawn up and is awaiting ratification. When the constitution is ratified, copies of it will be sent to the various schools represented in the organization.

Cooperation Pledged

Delegate Collins disclosed that thus far eleven colleges have pledged cooperation and will send delegates to the Committee. All colleges and universities in the Philadelphia and vicinity area, numbering approximately fifty, have been invited to send representatives to the Committee.

Father McCarthy, former moderator of the Relations Club, explained the purpose and procedure of the group before the war. The Clubs were sponsored by the Carnegie Foundation for Peace in New York City. Books dealing with the various nations and their problems and circulars explaining the current important international problems were sent to the club to further the group's understanding of the international set-up.

The club was conducted along the lines of a seminar group with subjects assigned by the moderator for discussion at meetings Delegates from the Villanova club met once a month with representatives from other college Relations organizations in the Philadelphia section.

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Three

he learned that the wife of Colonel Twillingham, an old Commander of his, had passed away but a few days before. Finding the colonel sipping his brandy and in the Club lounge, the lieutenant started to console him.

"Colonel, I was very sorry to hear that you buried your wife yesterday."

The Colonel took his time at downing the brandy, lit a cigar and turned a morose eye to the youth.

"Eh? . . . Oh yes, yes. Had to . . . Dead, you know."

* * *

The Florida Alligator features in this week's edition an interesting story concerning a "Gator Veteran" cafeteria investigating committee and sets forth its recommendations concerning the expansion of present facilities, preparation of food and hours opening. The recommendations were made as a result of a detailed investigation into the reasons for the high prices and mediocre food reportedly prevailing at the University cafeteria, the story revealed.

One of the eight recommendations is quoted as follows: That eggs be cooked in five different ways: straight-up, over light, medium, hard and scrambled. (Amen.)

* * *

We close this week's column with the following piece of logic:

A bargain is a good buy . . . a good-bye is a farewell . . . a farewell is to part . . . to part is to leave . . . my girl left me without a goodbye . . . she was no bargain anyway.

Featuring - - - - Paul Soentgen Villanova's Own Rembrandt

By DON COLLINS

One of the most popular and familiar faces on the campus is that of Paul the painter. Better known as Rembrandt, Paul's real name is Soentgen, just a big Swede at heart. Paul, as we have just said, is a painter and has been at this profession of the brush and bucket since he was fourteen years old. Working in this capacity, he has been at Villanova since 1932, a bitter year, and a lot of people were driven to do even worse things. For lo, these fourteen years, Paul has painted up and down the whole campus, including (the high point of his career) the lofty dome atop Mendel Hall. Paul says that he is not too old to attempt that height today, and would vaunt it anytime he gets the word.

How did Paul get that way? Well, it all started many years ago in a little town outside Pittsburgh. Paul was born (and not, like MacDuff, from his mother's womb untimely ripp'd). After having nothing to do for thirteen years, he decided to give the wolves of capital a chance to pick at his bones and become employed at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company as a polisher. Whatever it was apples or something else we do not know but the fact remains that he was a polisher. Fed up with looking in the glass, he took off for another Pennsylvania town and another job. This time Paul was feeling rough and took up the noble duty of sweating out the production of steel. Paul the brown giant he was known as in those days.

Came the war (W. W. I) that is, Claghorn speaking. Deciding to assist his nation, he took up the duties of a deck hand in Mr. Roosevelt's Navy. (Hicks pp. 610). Paul faced the brine in National service for two years until the day when the separation center said you do, and he did. What he did was join the Merchant Marine, the salt fairly dripped, as he walked Sailing for forty days and forty nights, tempest-tossed, Paul pulled liberty in every port in South America worthy of his patronage. Then came Europe and the sights and smells of the Old World greeted the senses of our voyager. To hear him talk it was mostly smells. Russia (I wondered what fouled up our relations), England, France, Italy, Germany, nothing was sacred from Paul's sweeping gaze. Then came the mysteries of the Orient, but Paul is silent on this point, lost in reverie of those nights in Singapore. He also reports that he would have helped to keep the door open in China if he could have found it, you know Paul has a big foot.

Rembrandt

PAUL SOENTGEN

Having enough of wandering the Ancient Mariner took the long voyage home. A job in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., was the next stop and Paul put out for many years along the Hudson. And it is said that on summer nights he was found high in the Catskills bowling with 'friends.' How did he like that liquor?

Then Paul departed and did one of the things I've longed all my life to do, he painted at Vassar College. Whether in the beauty shop ir not clear.

Paul married in 1926, and subsequently became the father of three girls and (in order not to ape Eddie Cantor) a boy. These children have grown to be fine young people, his eighteen year old daughter now in technician training at Pennsylvania. His son is only eleven but has dreams of leading the football team of Villanova some day. Paul lost his wife in 1938, a sad chapter in the life of our friend.

Paul has seen a good deal in his stay at the old school, the great monastery fire in which he took part, the erection of new, fine buildings. But most of all Paul remembers the men who schooled here, in part his boys, the kids, the sad, the athletes, the big deals, the little ones. Paul likes Villanova and Villanova likes him.

Lieutenants Corn, Mohmann Join Administrative Staff

Two new faces have been seen around the Navy Office in the past few weeks, Lt. (jg) Corn and Lt. (jg) Mohmann. These new officers are filling vacancies in the administrative staff of the Villanova Navy Training Unit caused by the transfer of two members of the staff by the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

New Supply Officer

Lt. Elmer D. West, USNR, left Villanova on March 4 to return to civilian life. He was detached from his duties as Supply Officer of the Villanova Navy Training Unit and ordered to a separation center.

Filling his post as Supply Officer is Lt. (jg) Heber S. Corn. This new member of the navy staff hails from Jackson, Ohio. Lt. Corn spent three and a half years studying at Rio Grande Teachers College, Rio Grande, Ohio. Here he was a member of the varsity football team for three years. After joining the navy in the fall of 1943, Lt. Corn was ordered to Ohio Wesleyan University for four months as a member of the Navy V-12 Unit. He was next ordered to the Naval Reserve Midshipman's School, Northwestern University, where he was commissioned in May of 1944.

Joins Task Force

Ens. Corn's first orders were to the Naval Amphibious Base at Solomons, Md. Training here lasted till August '44 when he was ordered to Mare Island, California. He shipped out from here and was assigned to an L.C.T., which was one of the cogs in the machinery of a Task Force.

While serving aboard this L.C.T., Lt. Corn participated in the invasion of Balikpapan in the oil fields of Southeastern Borneo — the last combat invasion of the war. During its tour of duty in Borneo, Lt. Corn's L.C.T. was utilized to transport the famed "Rats of Tobruk." Ens. Corn was made a Lt. (jg) in December 1945. While overseas he served in New Guinea, the Halmahara Islands and in the Philippines, before returning to the States early this year.

Lt. Corn was married in February 1946 while on leave. At the termination of his leave, Lt. Corn reported to the Villanova Training Unit via the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

New Officer Instructor

Last week Lt. H. B. Marconi was transferred from this station to a separation center. Taking up the instructorial duties left behind by L. Marconi is Lt. (jg) Albert M. Mohmann, U.S.N.R.

Lt. Mohmann's home is located at Chehalis, Washington. The University of Washington was the scene of his athletic endeavor for the two years previous to his enlistment in the Navy early in 1943. Lt. Mohmann was first ordered to Reserve Midshipman's School where he was commissioned in August of 1943. His first orders as an officer took Lt. Mohmann to the Naval Communications School at Harvard University. After completion of this training he served as Communications Officer at various naval district headquarters until he left the states in March 1944.

Lt. Mohmann was attached to 3rd Fleet and stationed as Communications Officer in the Northern Solomons. His stayed there for ten months.

Served in New Guinea

Lt. Mohmann served in Bougainville, New Guinea, Hollandia, Australia, and in the Philippines. While in the Solomons in December '44 he was made a Lt. (jg). October 1945 saw his return to the states and the

NEW OFFICERS
Continued on Page Eight

Baseball Team Opposes Loyola Tomorrow

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcats' Inner Defense

The infield which will start in tomorrow's game against Loyola. Left to right: Bill Doherty, 3b, Dave Marano, ss, Charley Comerford, 1b and Joe Lord, 2b. Marano is a holdover from last year's team. He slammed out a .324 average for last season.

Terriffic Competition Marks 3rd Week of Spring Practice

By JIM McNAMARA

To find one's self insecure in a station in life is the greatest incentive toward realizing an ambition. Villanova's football hopefuls have found that their designs on particular positions are being shared by others as capable, and for this reason the players are going all out to grab an early berth. The third week of Spring practice gave the impression of a pre-Rose Bowl tune-up. In the mock scrimmages, the line men were charging hard and the backs cracked the line as if they were resigning from this life.

Coach Jordan Olivar has every reason to be optimistic about the coming season judging from the general competitive spirit of his squad. If competition eliminates losers, the Wildcats can expect a successful season.

The length of an article often precludes worthy mention of deserving men so the highlights of the week's work will have to suffice.

In the line, Frank "Bud" Kane at end, Lou Ferry at tackle, Art Alois at center, and Bob Riley another tackle stood out. Ed Lawless and Vince O'Donnell both handled the quarterback position smoothly and displayed hard blocking when they led interference. In the mail carrying department, veterans Vince McPeak and Carl Ungaro have shown the fruits of being pushed for a berth. Both have been going for distance and doing it the hard way

SPRING PRACTICE
Continued on Page Six

The Outer Garden Patrol

Outfielders ready for tomorrow's game. Kneeling are: John Henry and Romeo Capriotti. Standing: Dan Casey, Charley "Ike" Eisenhardt and Al Litwa. Coach Weinert will select his starting outfield from these men.

Change Schedule Before First Game

Loyola and U. S. Submarine Base Added To Twenty-Four Game Schedule

Jim Haughton, Villanova Publicity Manager, released the revised baseball schedule last week. The schedule shows three changes. The United States Navy Submarine Base has been added to the list. We play them away on June 7.

At the last minute Valley Forge was forced to call off their two games with us and fortunately, Loyola had open dates on these two days. They agreed to play us and will be here tomorrow for the season opener.

The revised schedule follows:

April
2—Loyola	Villanova
6—Phila. Naval Base	Villanova
10—U.S. Naval Acad.	Annapolis
11—Georgetown	Washington
12—Loyola	Baltimore
15—Phila. Phillies	Villanova
17—Lehigh	Villanova
24—Princeton	Villanova
26—Bucknell	Lewisburg
27—Penn State	State College
May
1—U.S. Military Acad.	West Point
4—U.S. Marine Corps	Villanova
8—U.S. Coast Guard	Villanova
11—Princeton	Princeton
15—Univ. of Penna.	Philadelphia
18—Bucknell	Villanova
22—Lafayette	Villanova
25—Fordham	Villanova
29—Univ. of Penna.	Villanova
June
1—Georgeton	Villanova
5—Holy Cross	Worcester
6—Boston College	Boston
7—U.S. Sub. Base	New London
8—Yale	New Haven

NAVY YARD NEXT GAME

Villanova's varsity baseball nine will participate in the second game of the 1946 schedule this coming Saturday at 2:30 o'clock at home.

The powerful star-studded Philadelphia Naval Base will oppose them in what should be one of the highlights of this years schedule. As usual all students are allowed in free of charge upon presentation of their matriculation cards.

Wildcats Open First Post-War Season

Emil Reitz, Loyola Coach, Was Athlete Here; Returns With Opposing Team

By FRANK FESSLER

America's favorite pastime comes into its own when the Wildcats open the season at home with Loyola College of Baltimore on Wednesday, April 3rd.

Coach Emil Reitz, Former Villanova athlete, will bring his Loyola Greyhounds to avenge a 27-4 defeat by the Cats in 1942.

Coach Weinert will start a team consisting of returned veterans who starred on the Wildcat nine before the war, last year's holdovers, and several new members. The team has rapidly rounded into shape with the competition still keen for some positions. The opening pitching assignment will go to Henry "Jigger" Donahue, 1942 No-hitter star. Frank O'Neill will have the starting assignment behind the bat, while Joe Nunan enhances the receiving position.

The infield will consist of Dave Marano, one of last year's holdovers, at third; Bill Doherty, a new-comer to the squad, playing short; Joe Lord retaining his prewar position, will be holding down the keystone sack; and tall, lanky Charlie Comeford will cover first.

Roaming the outfield, will be Dan Casey, a former star with the Great Lakes Naval Nine, in center; "Ike" Eisenhart, last year's slugging catcher, in left; and speedy Romeo Capriotti in right.

Loyola will be placing its pitching hope on Sid Roche or Al Barthelme. Roche was a former starter of the Greyhounds before entering the service.

The most dangerous clutch hitter on the Green and Gray team is Ray Bevans, one-armed left fielder. Ray is an all-round athlete, equally adept at lacrosse, soccer, football and basketball. Although he had the lowest earned run average on the pitching staff last year, he prefers left field and will be starting in that position tomorrow. With lightning speed, he snares a fly, tosses the ball up on the run, discards his glove and rifles the ball back to the infield. Last year Bevens was one of the five highest batters on the team.

Another potent stickman is Tom Gandreau, Loyola's big short stop. Tom led the state batters while at Loyola High, with a flat .450.

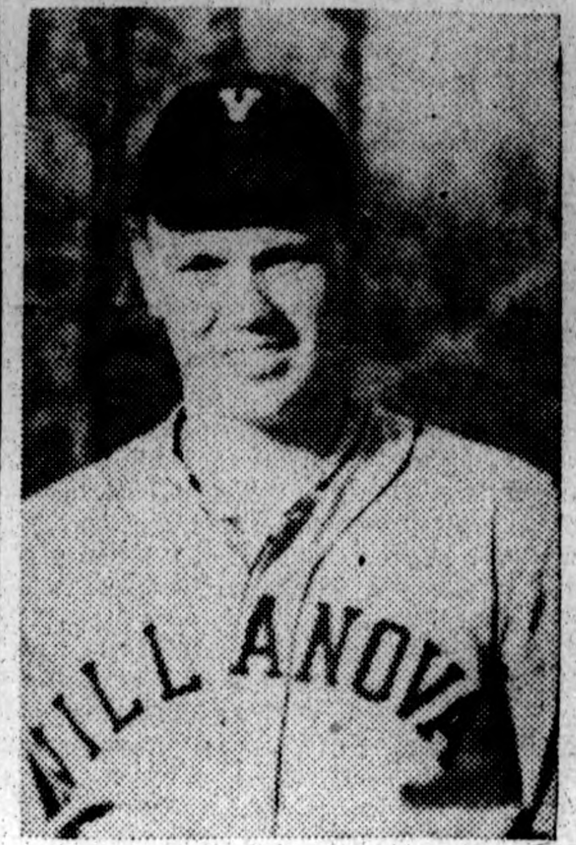
Batting in the clean-up spot and playing third base will be Joe Bronoshus, another holdover from last year's team.

Playing second will be George Bardelman, two year keeper of the keystone sack for the Hounds.

Starting Hurler

"JIGGER" DONOHUE

Starting Catcher



FRANK O'NIELL

Di Carlo Places 2nd To Guida In Meet, Glascott Also Places

Although Villanova did not enter as a team in the Middle Atlantic AAU championships held in Camden's Convention Hall last Saturday night, a trio of Wildcat thinclads entered as individuals and brought home a second and two thirds in the only events in which they competed.

John DiCarlo—sprint ace—was edged out by ex-teammate and exroommate, George Guida, in the 50 yard dash. The winning time was 5.5 seconds.

In addition to taking the dash, Guida, who was the outstanding star of the meet, set a new track record in copping the 600 yard run in 1:17.7. Not content with this performance, George came back to anchor the Collegiate Track and Field Club to victory in the mile relay. In order to do this, he had to make up a 15 yard deficit, but he proved equal to the task as he nipped the Shanahan anchorman just at the tape.

The former Villanova star, who is now an athletic specialist in the Navy, scored enough points himself to put his club in second place in the final team scoring. Shanahan C.C. won the team title with 35 points.

Although the major share of glory was brought to Villanova by Guida's efforts, the work of the three Blue and White representatives was also commendable. Their performance netted them seven points and fourth place in the "team" standings.

Besides Di Carlo, the other Villanovans to place were Marine trainees Jack Glascott, Jr. in the 50 yd. high hurdles and John Sheahan in the high jump. Both captured third places in their respective events.

The high jump, won by Ken Odom of Camphor Memorial A. C. went at 6 ft. 2 in. Sheahan bowed out of competition with bar at the 6 foot mark.

DICARLO PLACES
Continued on Page Eight

Governm't Limits On Construction May Affect College

Repairs on Mendel and Good Counsel Hall to Continue

Moving to save scarce building materials for veterans housing program the Civilian Production Administration and the National Housing Agency issued a limitation order last Tuesday, effective March 26, 1946, which provides that no new construction or repairs, with certain exceptions, may be undertaken without specific governmental authorization.

The order does not ban construction now being carried on, and for which the materials are already on the site. Therefore, such repair work as is now being carried on at Mendel Hall and Good Counsel Hall will not be interrupted.

The order further permits construction, repair, alteration or installation jobs costing not more than $400 on homes; $1,000 on hotels, resorts, apartment houses or other residential buildings for more than five families, commercial and service establishments, farms, churches, hospitals, schools, public housing and charitable institutions; and $15,000 on factories, plants or other industrial structures used for manufacturing, processing or assembling, and other types of industrial structures.

Structures not covered by these classifications are allowed $200 worth of construction, repair, alteration or installation.

The Civilian Production Administration announced it will open field offices in seventy-one cities to pass on all future building under the order.

Just how this order will affect Villanova's plans for further expansion of the campus with such additions as the future chemical engineering laboratory has not been officially commented upon.

Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova, left for Scranton, Pennsylvania, last Thursday and, therefore, was not available for comment.

Catholic Colleges Meet At La Salle

Inter-Racial Group Elects Temporary Officers At Meeting

Seventeen delegates, representing five of Philadelphia's Catholic colleges, met recently at La Salle College to discuss future plans for the Catholic Intercollegiate Interracial Commission and to hold election for that organization.

Villanova, Rosemont, La Salle, Immaculata and Chestnut Hill are the colleges represented.

Herman Diesel, freshman Electrical Engineering student from Villanova, was elected temporary president. Other delegates from here were Roland Higgs and John P. Mallick.

To Revive Interest

The Commission, guided by Rev. William J. Lunny, O. S. A., Spiritual Advisor, from Villanova, Brother Felix, F.C.S., Moderator, and Brother Augustine, F.C.S., both from La Salle, is now attempting to revive the interest which it commanded in prewar years. During this revivifying period, between now and October of this year, the tenure of the officers is to be temporary.

Miss Vera Coppedge, Rosemont freshman, and John Freiss, LaSalle, are the vice presidents, while Miss Nancy Meehan, a Chestnut Hill junior, and Miss Miriam Conway, Immaculata freshman, are secretary and treasurer respectively.

Purposes Outlined

The prime purposes of the Interracial Commission are to gather information and data concerning the interracial struggle, mainly in this country, and to attempt to solve its many involved problems by discussion and education.

The group is attempting to gain admittance into the National Association of Catholic College Students by having itself duly established as a Commission under the rules and laws of the Association. At present, Rosemont College holds the right to the Commission in the Philadelphia area, but this has not been formally accepted by the National Association.

Due to the fact that two of the representatives from the college which holds the accepted commission must fill the office of president and secretary of the organization, it will be impossible for the Philadelphia group to be formally received into the National Association until after the October elections. The Commission may change from one college to another after one year upon the vote of the colleges following the bid by one or several member institutions for the Commission.

Engineering Prof Arranges ASCE Student Chapter

Oakey Represents Villanova When 27 Colleges Meet In April

From April 17 to 19 some 1000 experts on highways, sanitary engineering, power, soil mechanics, waterways, surveying and mapping and other civil engineering fields will gather at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia to discuss postwar problems at the annual spring meeting of the country's loudest national engineering organization, the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Nine technical sessions and two excusions to points of technical and historical interest in and near Philadelphia are scheduled, in addition to social functions, including a luncheon and dinner dance the opening day, and special entertainment for the wives of members.

Philadelphia to be Host

Members of the 93 year old Socity from all parts of the country will be in attendance when Frank S. Friel, president of the Philadelphia local section, whose members will be hosts, opens the sessions at 10 A. M. Wednesday, April 17. Then the members will be welcomed officially by Mayor Bernard Samuel of Philadelphia, and W. W. Horner, St. Louis consulting engineer, president of the society, will respond.

Topics to be discussed in papers at the technical sessions will range from stream pollution and highway congestion to the value of water for industrial and domestic uses and economic trends in the construction industry. Reconstruction will be discussed from various viewpoints by outstanding engineers, including municipal, state and federal officials. An exhibit of Army and captured enemy survey equipment wlil feature the Society's technical session on surveying and mapping.

Conference Arranged

Mr. John A. Oakey, professor of engineering at Villanova, is a member of the Student's Activity Committee, which has arranged a Student Chapter Conference on Tuesday April 16 in connection with the Spring Meeting of the A. S. C. E.

There are 123 student Chapters throughout the country affiliated with the A. S. C. E., and 27 of these, including Villanova are expected to attend. Students are invited to all the sessions and social functions, and the members of the Villanova Chapter of the A. S. C. E., who recently elected Daniel L. Redmond, president; David Marano, secretary-treasurer, and Thomas Ward, vice president, will attend all the sessions.

Shortage Of Books Looms In Future

In the near future, government aid of some sort may be forthcoming from Washington in the matter of textbooks for colleges. College and universities throughout the country are letting it be known that relief must be had soon from the present shortage of textbooks and other school materials, if they are to carry out the government plan of education of ex-G. I.'s. In addition to these G.I.'s, students coming into college from high school are adding to the problem.

Change Texts

The Rev. John J. McMenamin, O. S. A., Procurator of Villanova College, has stated that "the book situation was never worse." Some professors have had to change the text for use in their classes as much as three and four times because the publishing houses have not been able to fill the original orders.

Government Aid Needed

Whether or not the publishers foresaw the present situation, as they probably did, but were powerless to do anything about it during the war years, cannot be ascertained at the present.

Unless the government steps in with aid, the situation shows signs of growing in acuteness because the number of college students is expected to grow by leaps and bounds within the year.

Internat'al Club Revival Planned

Relations Club Under Direction of Fr. McCarthy Returns After Three Inactive Years

Reorganization of the International Relations Club is awaiting administration approval before plans for the revival of the popular peace-time extracurricular organization are set in motion . The club, disbanded approximately three years ago due to the decline in the civilian student body, probably will be under the direction of the Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, O. S. A., who headed the group in the past.

With the reorganization of the International Relations Club at Villanova, similar groups are being formed in other colleges and universities in the Philadelphia area which will send delegates to the Student Action Committee—a part of the International Committee of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia and vicinity.

Delegates to be Selected

At present Donald M. Collins and Jasper Chen See are faculty delegates to the Action Committee but their status is only temporary pending the revival of the Relations Club when delegates will be selected from that group.

The Student Action Committee is designed primarily to promote understanding between American and foreign students and distribute propaganda building up the United Nations organization, Delegate Collins explained.

The organization his progressed for some time along uniform lines of procedure but it was decided two weeks ago to perpetuate and organize the committee. A constitution for the body was drawn up and is awaiting ratification. When the constitution is ratified, copies of it will be sent to the various schools represented in the organization.

Cooperation Pledged

Delegate Collins disclosed that thus far eleven colleges have pledged cooperation and will send delegates to the Committee. All colleges and universities in the Philadelphia and vicinity area, numbering approximately fifty, have been invited to send representatives to the Committee.

Father McCarthy, former moderator of the Relations Club, explained the purpose and procedure of the group before the war. The Clubs were sponsored by the Carnegie Foundation for Peace in New York City. Books dealing with the various nations and their problems and circulars explaining the current important international problems were sent to the club to further the group's understanding of the international set-up.

The club was conducted along the lines of a seminar group with subjects assigned by the moderator for discussion at meetings Delegates from the Villanova club met once a month with representatives from other college Relations organizations in the Philadelphia section.

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Three

he learned that the wife of Colonel Twillingham, an old Commander of his, had passed away but a few days before. Finding the colonel sipping his brandy and in the Club lounge, the lieutenant started to console him.

"Colonel, I was very sorry to hear that you buried your wife yesterday."

The Colonel took his time at downing the brandy, lit a cigar and turned a morose eye to the youth.

"Eh? . . . Oh yes, yes. Had to . . . Dead, you know."

• • •

The Florida Alligator features in this week's edition an interesting story concerning a "Gator Veteran" cafeteria investigating committee and sets forth its recommendations concerning the expansion of present facilities, preparation of food and hours opening. The recommendations were made as a result of a detailed investigation into the reasons for the high prices and mediocre food reportedly prevailing at the University cafeteria, the story revealed.

One of the eight recommendations is quoted as follows: That eggs be cooked in five different ways: straight-up, over light, medium, hard and scrambled. (Amen.)

• • •

We close this week's column with the following piece of logic:

A bargain is a good buy . . . a good-bye is a farewell . . . a farewell is to part . . . to part is to leave . . . my girl left me without a goodbye . . . she was no bargain anyway.

Featuring - - - - Paul Soentgen Villanova's Own Rembrandt

By DON COLLINS

One of the most popular and familiar faces on the campus is that of Paul the painter. Better known as Rembrandt, Paul's real name is Soentgen, just a big Swede at heart. Paul, as we have just said, is a painter and has been at this profession of the brush and bucket since he was fourteen years old. Working in this capacity, he has been at Villanova since 1932, a bitter year, and a lot of people were driven to do even worse things. For lo, these fourteen years, Paul has painted up and down the whole campus, including (the high point of his career) the lofty dome atop Mendel Hall. Paul says that he is not too old to attempt that height today, and would vaunt it anytime he gets the word.

How did Paul get that way? Well, it all started many years ago in a little town outside Pittsburgh. Paul was born (and not, like MacDuff, from his mother's womb untimely ripp'd). After having nothing to do for thirteen years, he decided to give the wolves of capital a chance to pick at his bones and become employed at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company as a polisher. Whatever it was apples or something else we do not know but the fact remains that he was a polisher. Fed up with looking in the glass, he took off for another Pennsylvania town and another job. This time Paul was feeling rough and took up the noble duty of sweating out the production of steel. Paul the brown giant he was known as in those days.

Came the war (W. W. I) that is, Claghorn speaking. Deciding to assist his nation, he took up the duties of a deck hand in Mr. Roosevelt's Navy. (Hicks pp. 610). Paul faced the brine in National service for two years until the day when the separation center said you do, and he did. What he did was join the Merchant Marine, the salt fairly dripped, as he walked Sailing for forty days and forty nights, tempest-tossed, Paul pulled liberty in every port in South America worthy of his patronage. Then came Europe and the sights and smells of the Old World greeted the senses of our voyager. To hear him talk it was mostly smells. Russia (I wondered what fouled up our relations), England, France, Italy, Germany, nothing was sacred from Paul's sweeping gaze. Then came the mysteries of the Orient, but Paul is silent on this point, lost in reverie of those nights in Singapore. He also reports that he would have helped to keep the door open in China if he could have found it, you know Paul has a big foot.

Rembrandt

PAUL SOENTGEN

Having enough of wandering the Ancient Mariner took the long voyage home. A job in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., was the next stop and Paul put out for many years along the Hudson. And it is said that on summer nights he was found high in the Catskills bowling with 'friends.' How did he like that liquor?

Then Paul departed and did one of the things I've longed all my life to do, he painted at Vassar College. Whether in the beauty shop ir not clear.

Paul married in 1926, and subsequently became the father of three girls and (in order not to ape Eddie Cantor) a boy. These children have grown to be fine young people, his eighteen year old daughter now in technician training at Pennsylvania. His son is only eleven but has dreams of leading the football team of Villanova some day. Paul lost his wife in 1938, a sad chapter in the life of our friend.

Paul has seen a good deal in his stay at the old school, the great monastery fire in which he took part, the erection of new, fine buildings. But most of all Paul remembers the men who schooled here, in part his boys, the kids, the sad, the athletes, the big deals, the little ones. Paul likes Villanova and Villanova likes him.

Lieutenants Corn, Mohmann Join Administrative Staff

Two new faces have been seen around the Navy Office in the past few weeks, Lt. (jg) Corn and Lt. (jg) Mohmann. These new officers are filling vacancies in the administrative staff of the Villanova Navy Training Unit caused by the transfer of two members of the staff by the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

New Supply Officer

Lt. Elmer D. West, USNR, left Villanova on March 4 to return to civilian life. He was detached from his duties as Supply Officer of the Villanova Navy Training Unit and ordered to a separation center.

Filling his post as Supply Officer is Lt. (jg) Heber S. Corn. This new member of the navy staff hails from Jackson, Ohio. Lt. Corn spent three and a half years studying at Rio Grande Teachers College, Rio Grande, Ohio. Here he was a member of the varsity football team for three years. After joining the navy in the fall of 1943, Lt. Corn was ordered to Ohio Wesleyan University for four months as a member of the Navy V-12 Unit. He was next ordered to the Naval Reserve Midshipman's School, Northwestern University, where he was commissioned in May of 1944.

Joins Task Force

Ens. Corn's first orders were to the Naval Amphibious Base at Solomons, Md. Training here lasted till August '44 when he was ordered to Mare Island, California. He shipped out from here and was assigned to an L.C.T., which was one of the cogs in the machinery of a Task Force.

While serving aboard this L.C.T., Lt. Corn participated in the invasion of Balikpapan in the oil fields of Southeastern Borneo — the last combat invasion of the war. During its tour of duty in Borneo, Lt. Corn's L.C.T. was utilized to transport the famed "Rats of Tobruk." Ens. Corn was made a Lt. (jg) in December 1945. While overseas he served in New Guinea, the Halmahara Islands and in the Philippines, before returning to the States early this year.

Lt. Corn was married in February 1946 while on leave. At the termination of his leave, Lt. Corn reported to the Villanova Training Unit via the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

New Officer Instructor

Last week Lt. H. B. Marconi was transferred from this station to a separation center. Taking up the instructorial duties left behind by L. Marconi is Lt. (jg) Albert M. Mohmann, U.S.N.R.

Lt. Mohmann's home is located at Chehalis, Washington. The University of Washington was the scene of his athletic endeavor for the two years previous to his enlistment in the Navy early in 1943. Lt. Mohmann was first ordered to Reserve Midshipman's School where he was commissioned in August of 1943. His first orders as an officer took Lt. Mohmann to the Naval Communications School at Harvard University. After completion of this training he served as Communications Officer at various naval district headquarters until he left the states in March 1944.

Lt. Mohmann was attached to 3rd Fleet and stationed as Communications Officer in the Northern Solomons. His stayed there for ten months.

Served in New Guinea

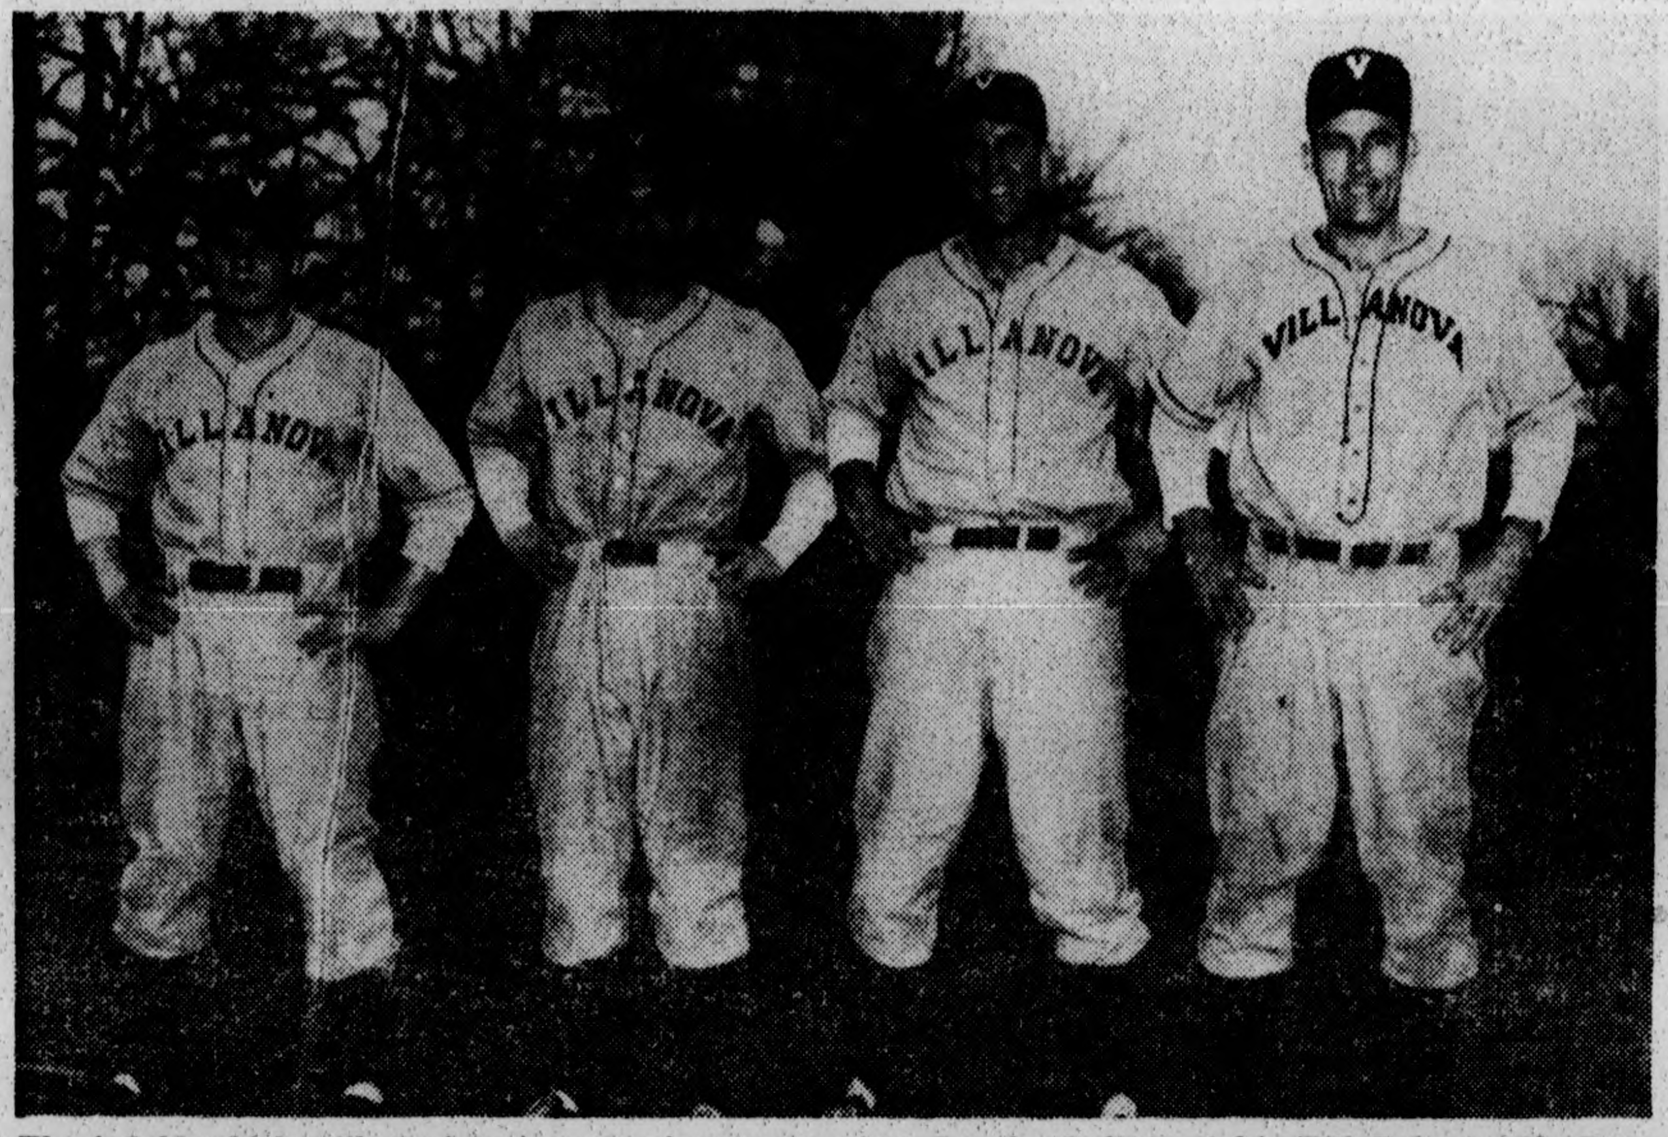
Lt. Mohmann served in Bougainville, New Guinea, Hollandia, Australia, and in the Philippines. While in the Solomons in December '44 he was made a Lt. (jg). October 1945 saw his return to the states and the

NEW OFFICERS
Continued on Page Eight

Baseball Team Opposes Loyola Tomorrow

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Wildcats' Inner Defense



The infield which will start in tomorrow's game against Loyola. Left to right: Bill Doherty, 3b, Dave Marano, ss, Charley Comerford, 1b and Joe Lord, 2b. Marano is a holdover from last year's team. He slammed out a .324 average for last season.

Terriffic Competition Marks 3rd Week of Spring Practice

By JIM McNAMARA

To find one's self insecure in a station in life is the greatest incentive toward realizing an ambition. Villanova's football hopefuls have found that their designs on particular positions are being shared by others as capable, and for this reason the players are going all out to grab an early berth. The third week of Spring practice gave the impression of a pre-Rose Bowl tune-up. In the mock scrimmages, the line men were charging hard and the backs cracked the line as if they were resigning from this life.

Coach Jordan Olivar has every reason to be optimistic about the coming season judging from the general competitive spirit of his squad. If competition eliminates losers, the Wildcats can expect a successful season.

The length of an article often precludes worthy mention of deserving men so the highlights of the week's work will have to suffice.

In the line, Frank "Bud" Kane at end, Lou Ferry at tackle, Art Alois at center, and Bob Riley another tackle stood out. Ed Lawless and Vince O'Donnell both handled the quarterback position smoothly and displayed hard blocking when they led interference. In the mail carrying department, veterans Vince McPeak and Carl Ungaro have shown the fruits of being pushed for a berth. Both have been going for distance and doing it the hard way

SPRING PRACTICE
Continued on Page Six

The Outer Garden Patrol

Outfielders ready for tomorrow's game. Kneeling are: John Henry and Romeo Capriotti. Standing: Dan Casey, Charley "Ike" Eisenhardt and Al Litwa. Coach Weinert will select his starting outfield from these men.

Change Schedule Before First Game

Loyola and U. S. Submarine Base Added To Twenty-Four Game Schedule

Jim Haughton, Villanova Publicity Manager, released the revised baseball schedule last week. The schedule shows three changes. The United States Navy Submarine Base has been added to the list. We play them away on June 7.

At the last minute Valley Forge was forced to call off their two games with us and fortunately, Loyola had open dates on these two days. They agreed to play us and will be here tomorrow for the season opener.

The revised schedule follows:

April
2—Loyola	Villanova
6—Phila. Naval Base	Villanova
10—U.S. Naval Acad.	Annapolis
11—Georgetown	Washington
12—Loyola	Baltimore
15—Phila. Phillies	Villanova
17—Lehigh	Villanova
24—Princeton	Villanova
26—Bucknell	Lewisburg
27—Penn State	State College
May
1—U.S. Military Acad.	West Point
4—U.S. Marine Corps	Villanova
8—U.S. Coast Guard	Villanova
11—Princeton	Princeton
15—Univ. of Penna.	Philadelphia
18—Bucknell	Villanova
22—Lafayette	Villanova
25—Fordham	Villanova
29—Univ. of Penna.	Villanova
June
1—Georgeton	Villanova
5—Holy Cross	Worcester
6—Boston College	Boston
7—U.S. Sub. Base	New London
8—Yale	New Haven

NAVY YARD NEXT GAME

Villanova's varsity baseball nine will participate in the second game of the 1946 schedule this coming Saturday at 2:30 o'clock at home.

The powerful star-studded Philadelphia Naval Base will oppose them in what should be one of the highlights of this years schedule. As usual all students are allowed in free of charge upon presentation of their matriculation cards.

Wildcats Open First Post-War Season

Emil Reitz, Loyola Coach, Was Athlete Here; Returns With Opposing Team

By FRANK FESSLER

America's favorite pastime comes into its own when the Wildcats open the season at home with Loyola College of Baltimore on Wednesday, April 3rd.

Coach Emil Reitz, Former Villanova athlete, will bring his Loyola Greyhounds to avenge a 27-4 defeat by the Cats in 1942.

Starting Hurler

"JIGGER" DONOHUE

Coach Weinert will start a team consisting of returned veterans who starred on the Wildcat nine before the war, last year's holdovers, and several new members. The team has rapidly rounded into shape with the competition still keen for some positions. The opening pitching assignment will go to Henry "Jigger" Donahue, 1942 No-hitter star. Frank O'Neill will have the starting assignment behind the bat, while Joe Nunan enhances the receiving position.

The infield will consist of Dave Marano, one of last year's holdovers, at third; Bill Doherty, a new-comer to the squad, playing short; Joe Lord retaining his prewar position, will be holding down the keystone sack; and tall, lanky Charlie Comeford will cover first.

Starting Catcher

FRANK O'NIELL

Roaming the outfield, will be Dan Casey, a former star with the Great Lakes Naval Nine, in center; "Ike" Eisenhart, last year's slugging catcher, in left; and speedy Romeo Capriotti in right.

Loyola will be placing its pitching hope on Sid Roche or Al Barthelme. Roche was a former starter of the Greyhounds before entering the service.

The most dangerous clutch hitter on the Green and Gray team is Ray Bevans, one-armed left fielder. Ray is an all-round athlete, equally adept at lacrosse, soccer, football and basketball. Although he had the lowest earned run average on the pitching staff last year, he prefers left field and will be starting in that position tomorrow. With lightning speed, he snares a fly, tosses the ball up on the run, discards his glove and rifles the ball back to the infield. Last year Bevens was one of the five highest batters on the team.

Another potent stickman is Tom Gandreau, Loyola's big short stop. Tom led the state batters while at Loyola High, with a flat .450.

Batting in the clean-up spot and playing third base will be Joe Bronoshus, another holdover from last year's team.

Playing second will be George Bardelman, two year keeper of the keystone sack for the Hounds.

Di Carlo Places 2nd To Guida In Meet, Glascott Also Places

Although Villanova did not enter as a team in the Middle Atlantic AAU championships held in Camden's Convention Hall last Saturday night, a trio of Wildcat thinclads entered as individuals and brought home a second and two thirds in the only events in which they competed.

John DiCarlo—sprint ace—was edged out by ex-teammate and exroommate, George Guida, in the 50 yard dash. The winning time was 5.5 seconds.

In addition to taking the dash, Guida, who was the outstanding star of the meet, set a new track record in copping the 600 yard run in 1:17.7. Not content with this performance, George came back to anchor the Collegiate Track and Field Club to victory in the mile relay. In order to do this, he had to make up a 15 yard deficit, but he proved equal to the task as he nipped the Shanahan anchorman just at the tape.

The former Villanova star, who is now an athletic specialist in the Navy, scored enough points himself to put his club in second place in the final team scoring. Shanahan C.C. won the team title with 35 points.

Although the major share of glory was brought to Villanova by Guida's efforts, the work of the three Blue and White representatives was also commendable. Their performance netted them seven points and fourth place in the "team" standings.

Besides Di Carlo, the other Villanovans to place were Marine trainees Jack Glascott, Jr. in the 50 yd. high hurdles and John Sheahan in the high jump. Both captured third places in their respective events.

The high jump, won by Ken Odom of Camphor Memorial A. C. went at 6 ft. 2 in. Sheahan bowed out of competition with bar at the 6 foot mark.

DiCARLO PLACES
Continued on Page Eight

Canning Says:—

It has been announced that the rebirth of Alumni Homecoming Week will take place this September. Provisions are being made for the Alumni to live on the campus, September 13 and 14, to attend the Kings Point football game on Saturday the 14th. It is unfortunate that another date could not have been chosen for the occasion as the main part of the student body will still be on Summer vacation and will not be able to compete for the Connolly Decoration Trophy. As mentioned before, in this column, this trophy was formerly presented at the Friday night rally before the Home Coming Game, to the hall on the campus displaying the most original and colorful decorations. It is hoped that this tradition will be brought back to the campus this Fall, regardless of the early scheduling of Home Coming Week.

If this activity can be held without the awarding of the Connelly Trophy, there seems to be no reason why the award can't be made on the eve of another of our home games.

It would be regrettable during this back-to-normalcy program, to pass up an old and cherished tradition as is the Connelly Award.

—V—

The sports department's call to the student body for candidates to revive the 150-lb football team was the first test of Villanova's post-war spirit. We are proud to announce that seventy Villanovans filed applications for the team.

If this display of enthusiasm is an indication of the support and backing that all Villanova teams are going to receive, an additional grandstand will be needed to seat the students when Villanova opens its seventy-seventh baseball season tomorrow.

Of the seventy applicants, fifty-six have had previous experience. Eight have former college experience, four of these having played at Villanova, three at Ursinus, and one at Muhlenberg. The forty-eight others have an average of two years of high school ball. We're not overlooking those fourteen not claiming previous experience as many an unknown and untried athlete has won a starting birth on the best of teams. We admire these fourteen for their show of animated interest in building up the Wildcat minor sports.

The positions are all well manned with the half-backs being largest in number with twenty-five prospects. Four quarterbacks and two full backs comprise the backfield. The line includes fourteen ends, six tackles, four guards, two centers and thirteen just plain line men.

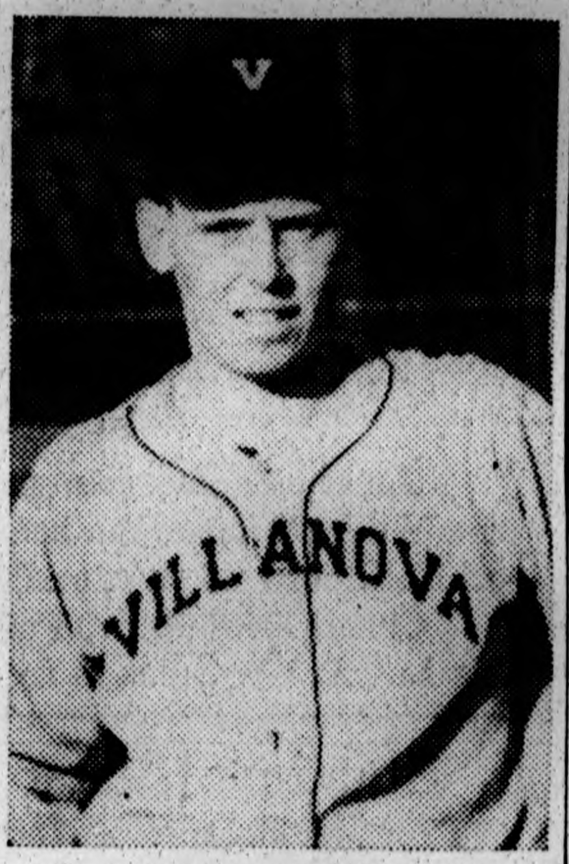
A summary of the results of this call for the 150-lb. team will be presented this week to Fr. McKee, director of athletics to assist him in making his decision for or against Villanova's invitation to join the Eastern 150-lb. Football League which is holding its meeting at Annapolis on May 4 of this year.

Returned Vets

By DAN REDMOND

This week another diamond star who can claim the title of "returned vet" is welcomed back to Villanova. Joe Nunan, peppery catcher of the Wildcat nine merits that epithet through his three years of experience in the Army and previous baseball experience at Villanova.

Joe is a Main Line boy, having been born and raised in South Ardmore, Pa. After graduating from elementary school, he entered Haverford High. It was here that Joe got his start in athletics.



JOE NUNAN

Concentrating on baseball, he became first string receiver for the high school nine in his junior year. In that season, 1939, he and his teammates walked off with the Suburban Section I championship. During the Fall season Joe was a back on the Haverford soccer team, but he admits that baseball was, and still is his real love.

Returning for the 1940 campaign as a seasoned backstopper, the amiable redhead was one of the main reasons for Haverford's retention of the Section I crown. At the close of his high school career Joe played in the Main Line League with Gladwyne.

Matriculating at Villanova in the Fall of 1940, he absorbed all the knocks that the typical yearling had to, throughout his Freshman year. At that time, Frosh were ineligible for varsity competition, so when baseball season rolled around Joe returned to the Main Line League to get in his base hits. In this circuit he was playing in the shadow of his father, who had performed so capably as a flychaser in the league in its earlier days. The younger Nunan gained valuable experience there however, and in the 1942 season he was on the baseball squad at Villanova.

It was shortly after this that Joe received his Army call. During his tour of duty he served in the campaigns at Leyte and at Okinawa, among others. Naturally his baseball activities were restricted during this time, but he did manage to get in a few diamond licks in the Regimental Tournament at Oahu. With Joe operating at third base, the Main Line boy's outfit played eight games, losing out in the semi-finals of the eliminations competition.

This semester marks Joe's return to Villanova. Tomorrow will mark his formal return to the college playing field. He hopes to be in shape to provide Coach Phil "Lefty" Weinert with some experienced talent that will be so necessary for a successful log for Villanova's first post-war season.

District Champs

Winners of the Rifle Match of the 4th Naval District, the Villanova NROTC Rifle Team are pictured with their trophy. Kneeling, left to right are: Madara, Yates, Starer and Greenberg; standing: Chief Boatswain's Mate Williams, Wineman, Syvertson and Lt. (jg) Abrahams, the coach.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sam,

I received the Villanovan for March 19 and saw the editorial by Jim McNamara on the return of a 150-lb. football team to the Villanova campus. This item prompted me to write immediately.

As you may know, I was a member of the 150-lb. football team in my last two years at Villanova, and I can truthfully say that those two seasons were the most enjoyable I ever spent there! On that team we had such material as Joe Corbine, George Famiglietti, Tony Paruta, Stan Kozior, and many other well remembered Villanova men.

Although all of us were well meaning, there were many defects in our team, both on the part of its members and its administration (If I may use such a word). First of all, although we all had good team spirit, there were not enough of us, and this lead to a second evil, the fact that we had to rely on some men who considered practice as something to be avoided (this was very well brought out in Jim McNamara's article); secondly, we did not get enough encouragement from the students, the faculty, or the alumni; and this, I believe, is very important. Thirdly, we did not have a stable coaching staff. By this, I don't want to simply say that the coaching by Fr. Sullivan or Stan Eusko in my time was deficient—on the contrary—but that, as the school did not bother much with the 150-lb. football team, a permanent coaching staff was never obtained, and the coaches (as well as the plays, etc.) change practically every year.

All of these things don't go to make a winning team, and if you keep losing long enough, people lose interest in you. So it would have been that the 150-lb. football team would have been discontinued in a few years if it hadn't been that the war stopped it even more abruptly. This, in a way, is probably a good thing, for it stopped the decline of the 150's, whereas this can now be turned into a steady climb toward the formation of a successful winning team.

I hope this is not the only letter you receive from an alumnus in encouragement of the 150's, for a lot of encouragement is needed. If I haven't put you to sleep by now, I would like to make a few suggestions: One: Continue your publicity for the 150's in the Villanovan or any other manner possible; two: Encourage the faculty and the sports committee, and tell them of the interest of the alumni in the 150's; third — Give an annual banquet for the 150's where all the members would be present, with awarding of sweaters or (and) letters, as well as other prizes, such as the most valuable player award, etc.; fourth—a permanent coaching staff.

Well, Sam, that's all for now. Thanks a lot for listening, and give my regards to everybody in Villanova.

Very sincerely yours,
Jose L. Silva.

Spring Practice

Continued From Page Five

. . . right up the middle. Others who promise to see action in the backfield next Fall include Joe Rogers, Tom McCarthy, Jack Rotherhauser, Bill Dost, Bob Polidor, and Art Montano. From early glimpses, it might be figured we can have two first string backfields who can be alternated like Army's powerhouses.

Bill Doherty and "Cap" Capriotti, last years' backfield regulars have reported for baseball practice. They will be out for football again in the Summer.

To date, the workouts have consisted in running plays through a full team at one end of the field. On the other end of the field, Assistant Coach Jerry Neri conducts blocking drills. The players in dummy scrimmage are rotated to give everyone a chance.

The scrimmage with Delaware University, scheduled for last Saturday, was called off because of bad weather.

Positions are open for Frosh and Upperclassmen as managers for the varsity baseball team. Candidates report to Dick Somers, the Senior Manager.

Kearney Says:—

When the umpire shouts, "Play Ball'" tomorrow, the 1946 Baseball season will officially open for the Wildcat baseball nine. Taking the field for the Blue and White will be one of the finest line-ups that Villanova has produced in a long time. Phil Weinert will begin his reign as head coach, under fire. After the first pitch has been thrown, it's all up to the nine men which Phil has selected to take the field. The Villanovan sports staff wishes Mr. Weinert and the Ball Club a very successful season.

—V—

The diamond is in near-perfect condition for the game tomorrow, and those left-handed batters will be reaching for that short right field wall for the automatic double. For the information of all, the team is opposing Loyola and the starting time is at 3:00 P. M. Emil Reitz, the Loyola coach was formerly a student here, and he returns bringing with him an opposing nine. With all due respect, we welcome Mr. Reitz back to Villanova.

—V—

In addition to repairs on the backstop and the infield, the stands now contain a press box for newsmen who will cover our home games. The reporters are destined to see quite a bit out there this season, as the team boasts many top-notch ball-players. We intend to run a poll and publish the Player of the Week on the Sports page throughout the season. This feature will start with the next issue.

—V—

The returns on the 150 pound football poll have indeed been gratifying. In all probability Villanova will field a team in this class next Fall.

—V—

Repetition is boring, but we close, once again, with the petition and suggestion that as many as possible attend the baseball game tomorrow. It's your team composed of your fellow students. Give them the support they deserve.

In The Sportlight

By ALBERT SCARZO

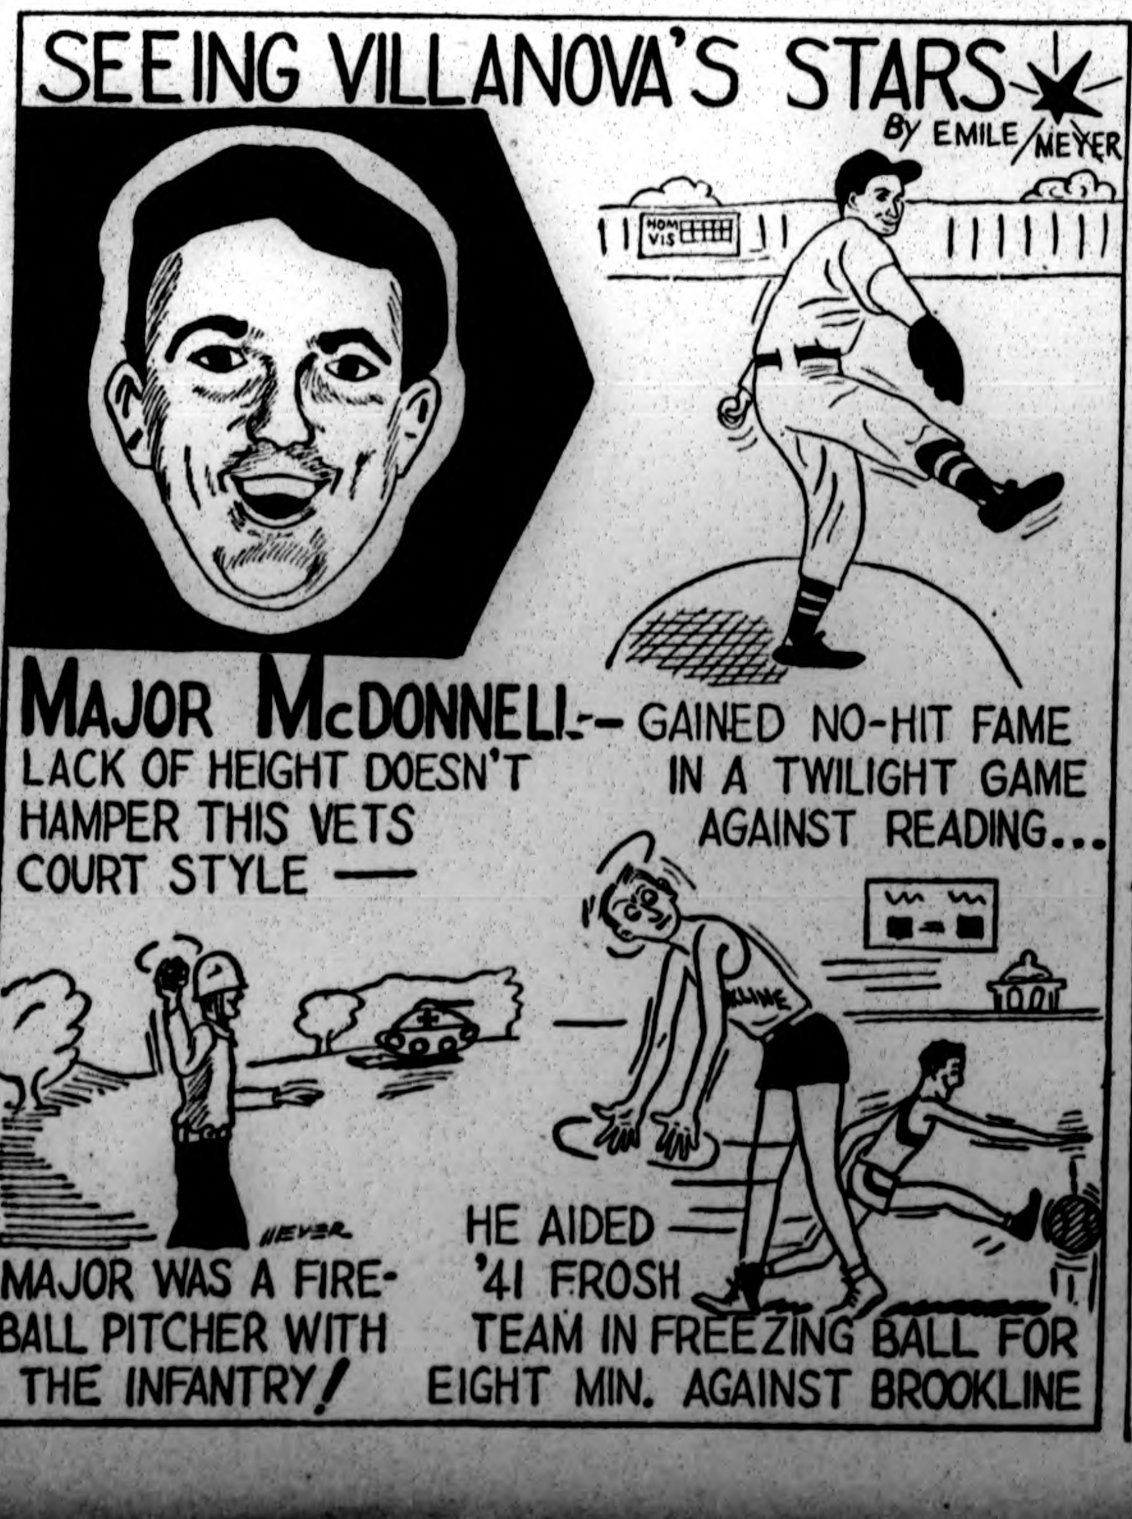
David Marano, N.R.O.T.C., comes to Villanova from the nearby city of Brotherly Love. A quiet shy fellow, wearing a friendly smile, gained his early education at Southern. Although this school is noted for winning athletic championships, Dave didn't participate in athletics.

He was called to Uncle Sam's colors in December 1942; started his naval career at Sanford, Florida Naval Air Station, and transferred to Norfolk Naval Hospital Corps School. Dave could not say "no" to the Navy's requests, so they shifted him to Naval Hospital Corps School, Memphis, Tennessee. This was by no means the end of Marano's travels! He switched to the Fleet Marine Forces, Camp Elliot, San Diego and the Fourth Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, Ocean Side. Dave went overseas with the Fourth Division.

During his trip overseas, he spent time at Hawaii and Kwajalein, being one of the ten marines and eight corpsmen selected out of his division for the Navy V-12 Program.

Villanova became the next stop, where he started his V-12 studies. A strenuous scheduled faces Dave, but like many other V-12 athletes, he succeeds in finding time to play baseball. Baseball requires a great amount of time for practice, but he utilizes his limited time to the utmost, and succeeds in holding down his varsity position.

Marano was the leading hitter of the 1945 team, with a lusty .324 batting average. Dave made this achievement while playing the "hot corner," a difficult position. You can bet many fans this spring will take notice when he takes his position at third base!



SEEING VILLANOVA'S STARS
BY EMILE MEYER
HOM
VIS
MAJOR McDONNELL—
LACK OF HEIGHT DOESN'T HAMPER THIS VETS COURT STYLE — — GAINED NO-HIT FAME IN A TWILIGHT GAME AGAINST READING...
MEYER
MAJOR WAS A FIRE-BALL PITCHER WITH THE INFANTRY!
HE AIDED '41 FROSH TEAM IN FREEZING BALL FOR EIGHT MIN. AGAINST BROOKLINE

Meet The Boys:

Al Derr - - - - - - - Violin
Jimmy Winner "Chimes"
George O'Neil - "Basket"

By CHARLES McCARTHY

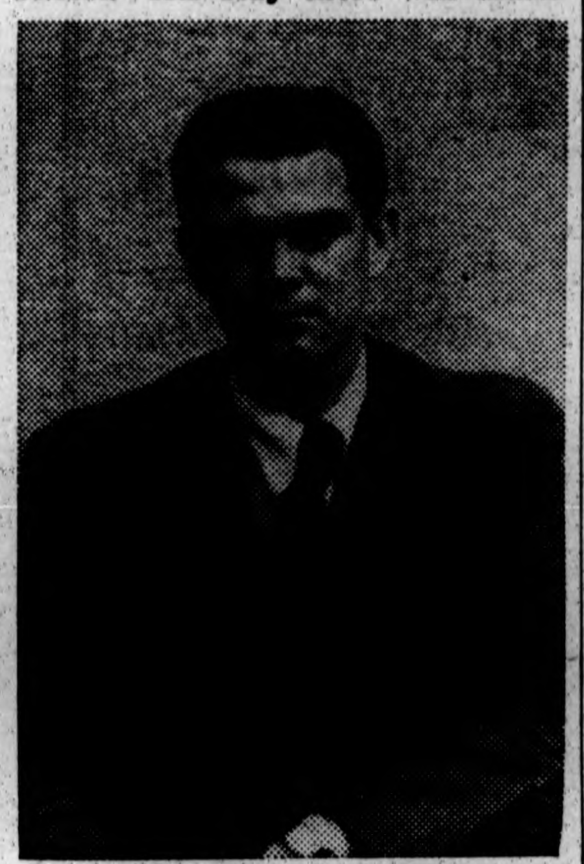
This week the column will dig into the lives of three of the most modest students in the senior class. These fellows were extremely shy when being interviewed.

First man on the list is none other than the Villanovan's own George O'Neil. Around the campus you might hear his fellow students refer to him as Genial George.

The story all began back in the year 1921 when, on the second day of June, Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil became the father and mother respectively of one George O'Neil. All this took place in the huge city of Binghamton, N. Y. (Pop. 78,309.)

Friends of the family offered their congratulations and assured the parents that their son no doubt would be both handsome and brilliant. True to those promises, George is brilliant.

After the usual beating about of childhood, George started to school attending St. Mary's Grammar school. His stay there was marked by much pulling of hair and smashing of teeth for George was active in the affairs of bothering girls and getting into scraps with the fellows.



GEORGE O'NEIL

When eight years had been served out at St. Mary's George was off to a new field, that of junior high. At East Junior High young Mr. O'Neil was noticed as an outstanding student and just as outstanding a wit. These traits were carried over with him to St. Paul's Senior High where his suave personality made him the natural president of his senior class. Not only was he a student of books, men and women but he was also the athlete playing varsity basketball as well as many intramural sports.

As in the case of many good men George decided to come to Villanova following his graduation from St. Paul's in 1940 and entered as a student in the Commerce and Finance School as a pre-law student.

After several terms here Uncle Sam called to George as he did so many other American men and George was off to the Army, in March of 1943. After serving with the Infantry George managed to get that all important paper — the H. D.—and started to work. However, after several months of work George once again joined the throngs of Villanova.

At the present time George is treasurer of the DPE frat and is a member of the Spanish and Vets clubs. Perhaps the greatest contribution George has made to the school is the interesting column which he writes for this paper—"Out of the Copy Basket."

George tells me that the most interesting job he has ever had was that of police reporter for the Binghamton Sun. Really, George, what was so interesting about that?

Next man to fall victim of this column is James E. Winner who is now a 'sub ensign' or as they are normally known, a United States Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps Trainee.

Jim was born in Brownsville, Penna., on December 2, 1945, at the tender age of whatever age you are just born. Followed several years which Jimmy had no recollection of, so he stated. However from what has been pulled from the past we learn that signs of genius were evident in young Mr. Winner while he was still very young. As a matter of fact it is believed that he learned to talk by his sixth birthday.

With such a stupendous start in life Jimmy naturally made the usually hard first years of school even harder. After a hard fight to get through grammar school Jimmy learned that he had to go on to High School. This came as a hard blow to the poor unsuspecting youth and caused a complete change in his mental attitude.

Realizing that he had to go to school Jimmy decided to make the best of it and started to work hard at St. Vincent's Prep in Latrobe, Pa. Before long Jimmy Winner was just about the most popular boy in the school and his true talents started to force their way to the fore. Athletic skill shoved its way into his life and he starred on the football team. Then musical talents started to show and Jimmy became a member of the dance band and orchestra. With all these diversified features one would think that that would be enough for one man, but not so in the case of Jimmy Winner. Literary ability was also added to his many good points and without much trouble at all Jimmy became Editor-in-Chief of the St. Vincent's Prep yearbook which was known as the "Chimes."

JAMES WINNER

At the end of the prep school years Jimmy decided to remain at St. Vincent's and took freshman year of college there. Then in March of 1944 the NROTC attracted Jimmy and he entered Villanova under the Navy. Now two years later Jimmy is a senior too and will graduate in June.

Jimmy intends to return to Brownsville when he is finally released from the Navy and enter the jewelry business with his father. With such a broad scope of talent Jimmy should do well in this field or almost any other that he should care to enter.

The last of our victims for today is Albert Derr of the Philadelphia Derr's. Al came into the world quietly on January 5, 1926, but he has been making his presence felt ever since.

ALBERT DERR

Al gave the nuns at St. Helen's Grammer School a break by entering their school for elementary education. After eight uneventful years Al was ready for his secondary education. For this he went to Northeast Catholic High School. While in high school he really got on the ball and set a pace that few could follow. He won 1st prize for his math class and topped off his scholarly achievements by winning an academic scholarship to Villanova.

Knowing that all work and no play would make Al a dull boy he rowed on the Northeast crew team and played the piano and violin in the school orchestra. Al really likes music, but after the neighbors heard that fiddle of his, he was requested to take to the woods. This he took seriously and joined forces with the Boy Scouts. After proving to the rest of his troop at St. Helen's that he could build the best fire by rubbing two sticks together, and hike the furthest, he was made assistant scout master.

To this day Al still holds this high position and is very active in the scouts taking care of his charges on hikes and serenading them to sleep at nights with his violin.

After graduation from Northeast he came to Villanova to major in Chemistry. While on our fair campus Al has been active as a photographer for the Villanovan and a conscientious follower of the music seminar. After June there is two things Al wants, first, a masters degree and second, to be Scout Master.

Foreign Correspondents

Good afternoon ladies and gentlemen of our reading public (just as if anyone in our following could read). Once more your foreign correspondents bring you the news of the world.

We hope you notice the plural on correspondents above, we figured it would be better for two men to write this, at least we can fight back to back. Speaking of our back it's really achin' with adverse comment concerning our style, our taste, our literary ability, and someone even went so far as to say that anyone who writes like that must need Colgate.

But back to our story. And who do you think has been pointed out this week, impaled on the crooked finger of fate? A little bit of Heaven fell from out the stars one day, and nestled in the ocean in a place not far away. Or so the song goes as well as our story. For Rosemont College is the target for today.

Yes, Rosemont College. Just let that name roll over your tongues once more. Good isn't it? Well so we found out what's news over there.

The big Interclass play contest went over well, no it didn't fall in, especially for the Sophomore who carried off the honors. Good old Peggy Jacobson let her stardom gleam on the boards in a gracious little production called White Iris. This prize winner was directed by the inimitable Anne Gahagan. Now we don't know Anne and are only slightly acquainted with the lovely Peggy, but those girls really did themselves proud. Remember boys at the next dance the corsages are to be White Iris.

In keeping with the sombre season of Lent now upon us, Rosemont is holding their annual retreat. Father Murphy, a Jesuit, is preaching to the girls the Way, the Truth, and the Light. Fr. Murphy is from the Jesuit Major Seminary at Weston, Massachusetts.

The forensic defenders of the honor and glory of the Rosies moved into the Arena last week with the girls from the Halls of Mary Mount. Our legman, correction, leg-girl (that doesn't sound so good, but it really is) didn't let out the final result so you can draw your own conclusions.

The girls will have a chance to retrieve the honors they were robbed of during the basketball season when the tennis team takes to the courts late this month. Five or six matches have been arranged with the neighboring colleges not including, unfortunately, our own Alma Mater. Charlotte Bevan is the big racketeer at the old school and possibly she'll lead their aggregation into the field. She usually goes under the name of Char but if she did become captain, the team members would become Char-women. That's a joke son.

Soon the dollies are to be our guests at an International meeting. They have a very active group over there that takes quite an interest in extra-curricular affairs (besides dates). Ellen Belle and her girls shine in the local UNO circles, while similar activities also receive wide support.

As an inducement to enjoy the Spring Zephyrs, the school is holding a giant Spring weekend after Lent. On May fifth the Juniors are also tossing their Junior Prom (I could have said ball but the Editor would object). This massive affair is to take place in their magnificent??? gymnasium. Not that we have anything against their gym, in fact we saw one of our favorite basketball teams roll up the score there, that wasn't kind. However our correspondent says that the Gym will receive a face lifting, face, she says. Alex Bartha will sponsor the music for the night in the manner to which the Rosies are accustomed.

The next day (gad, what a whirl) the Gym will house the Soph Tea Dance. The news hound says that it's not exactly a Tea Dance but what else can you call something in the afternoon? It seems that the second year women are still too young to be allowed out at night. A special orchestra drafted from way down south (Georgetown to be specific) is to play on that fateful Sunday, so bring your tea along boys or you will get in the stew.

The Rosemont Philadelphia Club is blowing itself to a dinner-dance at the Whitemarsh Country Club on May 29 and following this up with a dinner (that's all those girls ever do) for the Senior Class. The Sophomores are also throwing a dinner for the Seniors, while the Juniors are going to give them the works.

That's about all from our friends down the line except perhaps that they are having 10 days off for Easter; are you ready for that string of parties? Our leg-girl says that if you want to find out more about them, why don't you come up and see them sometime? KILROY WAS HERE TOO.

Starting Line-Up For Tomorrow

Villanova	Loyola
Capriotti, rf.	Bardelman, 2b.
Lord, 2b.	Filbert, cf.
Casey, cf.	Karwacki, rf.
Eisenhart, lf.	Gaudreau, ss.
O'Neill, c.	Cole, 1b.
Comerford, 1b.	Bevans, lf.
Marano, 3b.	Pipitone, cf.
Doherty, ss.	Roche, p.
Donahue, p.	Barthelme, p.

CURRENT RECORDS

By PETER F. McMANUS

Due to recovery from wartime difficulties recording companies are rapidly increasing their output of new selections. Columbia offers Bizet's Symphony in C Minor played by the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra of New York under the direction of Artur Rodzinski. This work has long been neglected and only ten years ago was discovered. Although written when Bizet was only seventeen, the Symphony has a great deal of charm and will become a fast favorite with many listeners.

In a Columbia album Paul White, composer and conductor has combined three sea songs, "Blow the Man Down," "Tommy's Gone Forever" and "When Johnnie Comes Down to Hilo." Eugene Ormandy is the able conductor for this lively three-movement suite for harp and strings.

Marian Anderson Scores

Victor has recorded Marian Anderson's rich contralto in Haydn's "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair" and the Shakespeare-Haydn "She Never Told Her Love." The remarkable range of Miss Anderson's voice is much in evidence on this recording . Also for Victor, Vladimir Golschmann and the St. Louis Symphony perform "Swan Lake," the beautiful Ballet Suite of Tchaikovsky.

In the popular vein Victor offers a Showpiece of Duke Ellington's "Black, Brown and Beige." His inimitable piano playing sets the pace for his orchestra throughout the entire record. Tommy Dorsey has a combination of "The Moment I Meet You," vocal by the Sentimentalists, and the novelty "That Went Out With Button Shoes," vocal by Pat Brewster, the Sentimentalists and Tommy Dorsey. The ballad "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows" is agreeably sung by the popular male vocalist, Perry Como. This recording has on the reverse side "You Won't Be Satisfied."

Crosby and Dorsey

Decca has the best selling combination of Bing Crosby and Jimmy Dorsey in the playful "Give Me the Simple Life" and the sentimental "It's The Talk of The Town." That popular trio, the Andrews Sisters, combining with Guy Lombardo sing the unusual "Money Is The Root of All Evil." Stan Kenton and his orchestra display their clever originality in the recording of "Artistry Jumps" backed by "Sittin' and a-rockin.'"

Same to you
DRINK Coca-Cola
© 1946 The C-C Co.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Traditional Alumni Reunion Revived

The Alumni of Villanova announced that on September 13 and 14, the members will live on the campus for two days. During this time, there are to be a number of sports contests including baseball and tennis. Climax of these two days will be a game with Kingston, when the Alumni will play host to the ball team in the stadium.

Tradition Revived

It will be the revival of a traditional reunion, which, along with many other activities of the school, had been temporarily discontinued during the wartime period. At present the members are looking forward hopefully to this get-together which isn't too far in the future. Said the Alumni's president:

"This reunion will be the beginning of an annual affair which will reach far into the future, keeping the former students of the school in close contact with the activities of the present, and keeping alive in men the spirit of Villanova long after they have left the Campus."

Bond Program

Continued From Page One

the orchestra has played all types of college dates and has appeared in some of the most famous spots in this section of the country. One of the bands Summer dates was in the crystal Ballroom of the World-famed Steel Pier in Atlantic City, New Jersey. Another was their appearance at Sunnybrook Ballroom, a famous dance rendezvous, that has featured such top-flight organizations as Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller, and Jimmy Dorsey.

Heard Over CBS

It is being rumored about that Elliot Lawrence may be taking his gang into a New York spot sometime in the very near future.

At the present time they are appearing over several Columbia programs. They may be heard at 4:45 every day; on Monday nights from ten-thirty to eleven; on Tuesdays and Thursdays at twelve-five; and, of course, every Saturday from 4:30 to 5:00 over the Bandstand.

The Elliot Lawrence band need no introduction to Villanovans. Lawrence, backed up by Rosalind Patton and Jack Hunter, played for the Senior Ball held in the field house in January. They also appeared at the Rosemont College Senior Prom last December.

Top Flight Musicians

"The Young man at a Piano" heads one of the best aggregations of its kind in the country. The band has been recruited from men who have played with such great orchestras as Tommy Dorsey's, Glenn Miller's, Benny Goodman's, Clyde McCoys's, and Bob Crosby's. Red Rodney, a former member of Lawrence's band, left after the Villanova Senior Ball to join Gene Krupa on the west coast.

Vocalists

In the vocal department they can't be topped. The Lawrence orchestra features two veterans. Jack Hunter, the male vocalist, was recently discharged from the service. Rosalind Patton, who handles the other half of the vocal chores, served in the Waves as a member of one of the special service units entertaining at different naval bases throughout the east. Miss Patton is a member of a very select group of young women. Very few of our top-notch female vocalists can look back on a naval service record.

Recording For Columbia

On April 8th the band is taking one more step on their rapid climb to success. They are making their first recording for Columbia records. As yet the name of the piece to be recorded has not been released.

Cheers & Smears

Continued From Page Three

dismay it seems that George's office was closed on Saturday afternoon and the boys made the trip in vain. But don't give up boys, you know the old saying if at first you don't succeed try and try again . . . Herb (Drifty) Sentner also of Austin Hall, is now working in the library printing letters, and he seems to be having trouble making G's, which Father Falvey claims "resemble two doughnuts, one on top of the other". . . . Bob Walcovy writes from Camp Meade that he is doing fine and wants Father Lazano to know that he's teaching all the soldiers Spanish . . . We hear from the grapevine that Bill Foster has taken up the art of cooking. So if you wish to taste good pies just see Foster . . .

Edward Walsh and Johnny Cadden of Delurey Hall went to a High school party up at Conshohocken the other night and had a grand time playing paddy cake and drinking grapefruit juice. Aren't you a little old for that sort of thing boys? Or are you on the wagon? . . . Bob Conway was back on the campus this past weekend. And what he told us really startled us. He's gone and turned republican (that's if he wants to keep his job). Will miracles ever cease! . . . We hear from Peggy Smith (of Immaculata) that the boys like school so much, that after they are finished here, they go to Immaculata where they join the girls in their classes. It's all right fellows to fraternize, but lets not carry it to far.

Well this it it, another column has come to an end, and undoubtedly a lot of fellows who find that they again have not made this rag are now sitting back and relaxing. But beware, fellows and students, your turn will come, maybe not next week, but the week after. With that pleasant little thought we leave you. Oh, don't forget, there will be no Christian slaughter today!

Current Fiction

Continued From Page Three

the novel indicates that Catholicism is decadent and dying, he wrote, "It is not Catholicism that has decayed, it is the social stratum and discipline and fervor of some Catholics, and it is precisely the might and not the decay of the Faith that makes its stern and insistent demands heard and obeyed after years of self-indulgence, self - delusion, and evasion. That I take to be a theme of regeneration, not of corruption."

New Officers

Continued From Page Four

beginning of a well earned leave. After his leave expired Lt. Mohmann reported to the N.R.O.T.C. Unit at the University of Minnesota as a communications instructor. Last week he reported to this unit to not only instruct the communication course but also a course in naval law. In addition to his teaching duties Lt. Mohmann is the advisory officer for the NROTC students. His stay at Villanova will be a short one for he is eligible for discharge on May 2.

STAFF MEETING

There will be a meeting of all staff members that plan on attending the Villanovan dinner Wednesday at 1:00 P. M. in the Newspaper Office.

The purpose of this meeting is to make arrangements for travel to the Covered Wagon Inn on Thursday evening. The men who have automobiles available are requested to share their rides with others.

Di Carlo Places

Continued From Page Five

Glascott placed third in the qualifying heat of the high hurdles and duplicated this in the final. The winner, Rai Okamoto of Shanahan C.C. was clocked in 6.8 seconds.

This was the final indoor meet of the season. Villanova's cindermen can now begin to concentrate on conditioning for the annual Penn Relays on the 26th and 27th of this month.

Coach Elliot seems pleased with the roster of competent trackmen who are now working out and are available to him. Both returned vets and last year's men are in fine shape and should display some fine running.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.
CAMPUS

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

"By far OUR LARGEST SELLING CIGARETTE"
SHERMAN BILLINGSLEY'S — FAMOUS STORK CLUB IN NEW YORK
Chesterfield CIGARETTES
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
The RIGHT COMBINATION of the WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS—PROPERLY AGED

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 5 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, APRIL 9, 1946

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Villanovan Keys Awarded By Fr. J. A. Klekotka, OSA

Dinner Held To Honor Staff Members For Services Rendered

A Villanovan Dinner was held on Thursday April 4th at the Covered Wagon at which time keys were presented to honored members of the staff.

Rev. John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., moderator of the college newspaper awarded the keys to the members of the staff who had shown leadership, ability and ardent interest in the publication. Father Klekoka gave a few words of praise to those receiving keys and to all staff members present when he said "I certainly appreciate all the work you men have done for the Villanovan."

Keys Awarded

Concluding his talk the Villanovan moderator awarded keys to Paul Carmichael, John Burns and David Ryan—three former editors who had kept the paper going during the war years. He presented additional keys to Fred Koch, former managing editor; Russ Welsh, present Editor - in - Chief; Dick Somers, sports columnist; Hal Varani, columnist; George O'Neil, columnist; and Warren Sexton, circulation manager.

The dinner was attended by approximately 25 members of the staff and their guests. The dinner was capably handled by Don Collins, managing editor of the Villanovan.

Frosh Nominate Future Leaders

Meeting of the Freshman Class was held on Tuesday, April 2nd in Mendel Hall to nominate Frosh for the Sophomore class offices that will be open at the beginning of the fall semester. The class was greeted by Father Burke who expressed his disappointment in the number of Freshmen who failed to attend the meeting.

Eligibility Explained

Joseph Hoffman, President of the Student Council, addressed the class and stipulated the prerequisites needed for nominational eligibility for the various offices. Office of the Vice President and Secretary were open to both Freshmen I's and II's, whereas the offices of the President, the Treasurer and the Representative to the Student Council were restricted to Freshmen II's only.

Nominations for the Freshman Class are as follows:

For the office of President:
- Robert Powers—Freshman II
- Joseph D'Auria—Freshman II
- Steve Fenning—Freshman II
- Edward Sullivan—Freshman II

For the office of Vice President:
- Joseph Tracy—Freshman I
- Earl Moser—Freshman II
- Joseph Cadden—Freshman II
- Richard Rice—Freshman II
- Joseph McCoy—Freshman II
- John Norton—Freshman I

FROSH NOMINATE
Continued on Page Eight

ASME Society Presented Final Contest Papers

The Student A.S.M.E. gathered last Wednesday to hear Paul Christenson's paper on "Gas Turbines" and Paul Wiedenhaefer's study of "Vibration Recording Instruments." Christenson summarized the reciprocating engine vs. gas turbine as related to modern aircraft. He pointed out that the reciprocating engine has practically reached its limit in aircraft and that for the high performance required in new designs the turbine is the only solution.

Much research is yet to be done in order that the gas turbine can be used in commercial airlines. With the perfection of the much simpler gas turbine, airlines will be able to fly at higher and thus safer altitudes and at much greater speeds. The cost of operating and maintaining aircraft equipped with turbines will be greatly reduced as compared with the present reciprocating engine. The result of this development will be to improve service and provide the service at a much lower rate than is now possible.

Vibration Analysis

Widenhaefer's work covered the study of four phases of vibration analysis. They are frequency, type of wave-simple or complex, amplitude, and stress. He vividly

Continued on Page Four

Inter-American Meets April 13

Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, O.S.A., Ph.D., professor of history at Villanova College will preside over the meeting of the Foreign Policies Association which is to be held in the Bellevue - Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia, on April 13.

Father McCarthy will open the meeting with an address dealing with the Inter-American System. After this he will act as chairman of the meeting which will be attended by many of the high schools of the Philadelphia and suburban districts.

The group will discuss many of the perplexing problems which are involved in handling foreign affairs and forming foreign policies. Students from both public and Catholic high schools will take part in the talks, and will have the opportunity to hear authoritative comments on their subjects.

Following this meeting Father McCarthy will sit in on a discussion to be held in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel will have as a subject problems dealing with Pan-American Relations. This meeting is being sponsored by the students of Immaculata College.

New Government Agency Formed To Aid Building

Civilian Production Administration Has Recently Been Organized To Ease Restrictions

The Very Reverend Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A, President of Villanova College has announced that Villanova will be able to receive limited aid from the government in its new program of expansion to accommodate the enlarged student body of the college.

A new government agency known as the Civilian Production Administration, which is a quasi-substitute for the W.P.B. has recently been organized. It is a branch of the new Interagency Committee on Veterans Affairs named by John W. Snyder, Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion. All the members of this new agency head groups which in some manner or other have authority over programs that may be diverted to aid the education and training program of veterans.

Six Fields of Actions

John W. Snyder has outlined six specific fields of action for his new committee and most of these are now being carried out. The first activity is concerned with housing for student veterans. It provides for 300,000 dwelling units for student veterans this year.

The second activity concerns Villanova's expansion program directly. "The Civilian Production Ad-

Continued on Page Eight

Debate Team Downs Rosies

Peacetime Military Training Subject Under Fire

Last Thursday night the Villanova debating team disproved the old saying that it is impossible to defeat a woman in an argument.

Taking the negative on the topic, "Resolved: The United States should adopt a universal peacetime military training program," Fr. Krupa's Villanova team composed of three N.R.O.T.C. men Turney, Rothwell, and Warren soundly trounced Rosemont's team represented by Fadden, McAnulty, and Shean.

Oregon Style

The debate was conducted in the "Oregon Style." In this system two men each from the negative and affirmative alternately state their arguments and then cross-question each other. This form of debate ends with a rebuttal by a third man from each team.

Jean Fadden and Peggy McAnulty defended the affirmative by stating that universal peacetime military training is absolutely necessary to keep the United States in a state of preparedness. They added that military training is a benefit to American youth from a psychological and physical viewpoint. Turney and Rothwell proved that universal training is useless inasmuch as too many men are required as instructors, the cost of such a program would be too high, and the short training provided would soon be obsolete and forgotten. Instead Turney and Rothwell advocated a small corp of highly trained technical reservists backed by a government controlled industrial reserve.

Waste Of Money

Warren initiated the first rebuttal pointing out that 3 billion dollars was too much money to squander on a reserve of uninterested, haphazardly trained men. Pat Sheen tried to sew up

DEBATE TEAM
Continued on Page Four

Flying Club Planned By Winged Wildcats

Big Meeting Will Be Held Wed. in Mendel Hall To Organize Birdmen Into Social Club; Bill Altenpohl to Preside

Airminded students of Villanova College have taken a first step towards organizing a flying club here on the campus for the furthering of their aviation ambitions. This group, informally known as the "Winged Wildcats", will meet Wednesday at one o'clock in room 215 Mendel Hall.

The purpose of tomorrow's meeting will be to discuss further ideas so far proposed at the several informal meetings which took place this past week. Plans for organizing an official club, and initial problems dealing with methods and objects will also be taken into consideration.

WILLIAM ALTENPOHL

This organization will have a six-fold program. First, to provide an opportunity to all to learn to fly; second, to provide an opportunity for all pilots to continue to fly; third, to provide opportunity for all to learn the ground work of flying; fourth, to aid former service pilots to obtain their Civil Aeronautics Administration Pilots' Certificates; fifth, to aid civilian flyers to obtain their pilots' certificates; and sixth, to foster a greater interest in aviation.

College Backs Program

Bill Altenpohl, a veteran P-51 pilot from the 8th Air Force, who has been named chairman of the temporary organization, asked that all men interested in aviation, either as a career or as a hobby, come

AVIATION CLUB
Continued on Page Eight

Fr. McGuire, Dr. Hartmann Attend Forum

American Academy of Political and Social Sciences Meet At Benjamin Franklin

The American Academy of Political and Social Sciences held its fiftieth annual meeting the fifth and sixth days of this month at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa. The academy presented a program of six sessions, each debating the ways and means of "Making the United Nations Work." Over one-hundred Colleges and Universities located over the entire globe were represented as were over one-hundred and fifty social, economic, political and cultural societies from all lands. Villanova College was represented by Doctor Harold F. Hartmann, Professor of History. Reverend Francis X. McGuire, college president was a delegate, representing the Association of American Colleges.

"The Present and Past"

The six sessions and their individual topics were introduced by Ernest Minor Patterson, president of the Academy. The first session, the topic of which was "The Present and Past," was addressed by Mrs. Eleanore Roosevelt, Carter Goodrich, and Arthur Sweetser. The second session, the topic of which was "Settling Disputes in a Confused World," was addressed by Louis E. Browne, Nicholas J. Doman and Clyde Eagleton. "Belgium, France and Poland," was delineated upon by Baron Robert Silverccruys, Henri Bonnet and Oscar Lange at the third session.

The UNO

The second half of the meeting, held Saturday, was opened by Galo Plaza, Owen Lattimore and Eddy Asirvatham speaking on the subject "Asia, Latin America and the UNO". In the afternoon, "Liberal Ideas and the UNO" was discussed by Quincy Wright, Arthur N. Holcombe and Clair Wilcox. At the final session P. C. Chang, William E. Rappard, and Herbert Feis, talked on "The Great Powers and the UNO."

Professor Hartmann has been a delegate to the Academy for 10 years, ever since he began to teach at Villanova.

Jewish Holidays

Jewish Church Leaders announce that ceremonies for the Jewish Passover begin at sunset, April 15th and end the 23rd of April, at sunset. Official holidays in this period are set (1), from sunset of April 15th, to sunset, the 17th; (2), sunset of the 21st of April to sunset, the 23rd.

Set by lunar calendar, the Jewish Holidays are in commemoration of the delivery of the first-born children of the Isrealites, when the angel of death passed over Egypt more than three thousand five hundred years ago. The elaborate services attendant to the Passover have remained substantially the same for two millenia.

Alumni Dinner Dance Announced As First Postwar Activity

Bruce Murray, President of the Philadelphia Alumni Club, announced the appointment of a committee to organize the first postwar social function of the Club, a dinner dance to be held at the Bala Country Club on May 17.

The committee is made up of Jack McManus '43, Vince Gordon '42, Charles Jones '42, Don Hoby '42, and Luke Mouch '42. Bruce Murray is a graduate of the V-12 training program at Villanova and has been recently discharged from the Navy.

Social Emphasis

The dance will be the first affair in the program of post-war rejuvenation of Alumni activities, which lapsed during the war years. Emphasis will be on purely social activities, looking forward to more colorful football seasons with increased Alumni participation.

Attendance will be by invitation only; and will be limited to the 500 active members of the Club in Philadelphia and suburban areas. No orchestra has yet been selected for the occasion.

Traditional Alumni Reunion Revived

The Alumni of Villanova announced that on September 13 and 14, the members will live on the campus for two days. During this time, there are to be a number of sports contests including baseball and tennis. Climax of these two days will be a game with Kingston, when the alumni will play host to the ball team in the stadium.

Tradition Revived

It will be the revival of a traditional reunion, which, along with many other activities of the school, had been temporarily discontinued during the wartime period. At present the members are looking forward hopefully to this get-together which isn't too far in the future. Said the Alumni's president:

"This reunion will be the beginning of an annual affair which will reach far into the future, keeping the former students of the school in close contact with the activities of the present, and keeping alive in men the spirit of Villanova long after they have left the Campus."

Bond Program

Continued From Page One

the orchestra has played all types of college dates and has appeared in some of the most famous spots in this section of the country. One of the bands Summer dates was in the crystal Ballroom of the World-famed Steel Pier in Atlantic City, New Jersey. Another was their appearance at Sunnybrook Ballroom, a famous dance rendezvous, that has featured such top-flight organizations as Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller, and Jimmy Dorsey.

Heard Over CBS

It is being rumored about that Elliot Lawrence may be taking his gang into a New York spot sometime in the very near future.

At the present time they are appearing over several Columbia programs. They may be heard at 1:45 every day; on Monday nights from ten-thirty to eleven; on Tuesdays and Thursdays at twelve-five; and, of course, every Saturday from 4:30 to 5:00 over the Bandstand.

The Elliot Lawrence band need no introduction to Villanovans. Lawrence, backed up by Rosalind Patton and Jack Hunter, played for the Senior Ball held in the field house in January. They also appeared at the Rosemont College Senior Prom last December.

Top Flight Musicians

"The Young man at a Piano" heads one of the best aggregations of its kind in the country. The band has been recruited from men who have played with such great orchestras as Tommy Dorsey's, Glenn Miller's, Benny Goodman's, Clyde McCoy's, and Bob Crosby's. Red Rodney, a former member of Lawrence's band, left after the Villanova Senior Ball to join Gene Krupa on the west coast.

Vocalists

In the vocal department they can't be topped. The Lawrence orchestra features two veterans. Jack Hunter, the male vocalist, was recently discharged from the service. Rosalind Patton, who handles the other half of the vocal chores, served in the Waves as a member of one of the special service units entertaining at different naval bases throughout the east. Miss Patton is a member of a very select group of young women. Very few of our top-notch female vocalists can look back on a naval service record.

Recording For Columbia

On April 8th the band is taking one more step on their rapid climb to success. They are making their first recording for Columbia records. As yet the name of the piece to be recorded has not been released.

Cheers & Smears

Continued From Page Three

dismay it seems that George's office was closed on Saturday afternoon and the boys made the trip in vain. But don't give up boys, you know the old saying if at first you don't succeed try and try again . . . Herb (Drifty) Sentner also of Austin Hall, is now working in the library printing letters, and he seems to be having trouble making G's, which Father Falvey claims "resemble two doughnuts, one on top of the other". . . . Bob Walcovy writes from Camp Meade that he is doing fine and wants Father Lazano to know that he's teaching all the soldiers Spanish . . . We hear from the grapevine that Bill Foster has taken up the art of cooking. So if you wish to taste good pies just see Foster . . .

Edward Walsh and Johnny Cadden of Delurey Hall went to a High school party up at Conshohocken the other night and had a grand time playing paddy cake and drinking grapefruit juice. Aren't you a little old for that sort of thing boys? Or are you on the wagon? . . . Bob Conway was back on the campus this past weekend. And what he told us really startled us. He's gone and turned republican (that's if he wants to keep his job). Will miracles ever cease! . . . We hear from Peggy Smith (of Immaculata) that the boys like school so much, that after they are finished here, they go to Immaculata where they join the girls in their classes. It's all right fellows to fraternize, but lets not carry it to far.

Well this it it, another column has come to an end, and undoubtedly a lot of fellows who find that they again have not made this rag are now sitting back and relaxing. But beware, fellows and students, your turn will come, maybe not next week, but the week after. With that pleasant little thought we leave you. Oh, don't forget, there will be no Christian slaughter today!

Current Fiction

Continued From Page Three

the novel indicates that Catholicism is decadent and dying, he wrote, "It is not Catholicism that has decayed, it is the social stratum and discipline and fervor of some Catholics, and it is precisely the might and not the decay of the Faith that makes its stern and insistent demands heard and obeyed after years of self-indulgence, self - delusion, and evasion. That I take to be a theme of regeneration, not of corruption."

New Officers

Continued From Page Four

beginning of a well earned leave. After his leave expired Lt. Mohmann reported to the N.R.O.T.C. Unit at the University of Minnesota as a communications instructor. Last week he reported to this unit to not only instruct the communication course but also a course in naval law. In addition to his teaching duties Lt. Mohmann is the advisory officer for the NROTC students. His stay at Villanova will be a short one for he is eligible for discharge on May 2.

STAFF MEETING

There will be a meeting of all staff members that plan on attending the Villanovan dinner Wednesday at 1:00 P. M. in the Newspaper Office.

The purpose of this meeting is to make arrangements for travel to the Covered Wagon Inn on Thursday evening. The men who have automobiles available are requested to share their rides with others.

Di Carlo Places

Continued From Page Five

Glascott placed third in the qualifying heat of the high hurdles and duplicated this in the final. The winner, Rai Okamoto of Shanahan C.C. was clocked in 6.8 seconds.

This was the final indoor meet of the season. Villanova's cindermen can now begin to concentrate on conditioning for the annual Penn Relays on the 26th and 27th of this month.

Coach Elliot seems pleased with the roster of competent trackmen who are now working out and are available to him. Both returned vets and last year's men are in fine shape and should display some fine running.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.
THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

"By far OUR LARGEST SELLING CIGARETTE'
SHERMAN BILLINGSLEY'S— FAMOUS STORK CLUB IN NEW YORK
Chesterfield
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
The RIGHT COMBINATION of the WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS—PROPERLY AGED

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

College Tailor
Coladonato Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 5 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, APRIL 9, 1946

Villanovan Keys Awarded By Fr. J. A. Klekotka, OSA

Dinner Held To Honor Staff Members For Services Rendered

A Villanovan Dinner was held on Thursday April 4th at the Covered Wagon at which time keys were presented to honored members of the staff.

Rev. John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., moderator of the college newspaper awarded the keys to the members of the staff who had shown leadership, ability and ardent interest in the publication. Father Klekoka gave a few words of praise to those receiving keys and to all staff members present when he said "I certainly appreciate all the work you men have done for the Villanovan."

Keys Awarded

Concluding his talk the Villanovan moderator awarded keys to Paul Carmichael, John Burns and David Ryan—three former editors who had kept the paper going during the war years. He presented additional keys to Fred Koch, former managing editor; Russ Welsh, present Editor - in - Chief; Dick Somers, sports columnist; Hal Varani, columnist; George O'Neil, columnist; and Warren Sexton, circulation manager.

The dinner was attended by approximately 25 members of the staff and their guests. The dinner was capably handled by Don Collins, managing editor of the Villanovan.

Frosh Nominate Future Leaders

Meeting of the Freshman Class was held on Tuesday, April 2nd in Mendel Hall to nominate Frosh for the Sophomore class offices that will be open at the beginning of the fall semester. The class was greeted by Father Burke who expressed his disappointment in the number of Freshmen who failed to attend the meeting.

Eligibility Explained

Joseph Hoffman, President of the Student Council, addressed the class and stipulated the prerequisites needed for nominational eligibility for the various offices. Office of the Vice President and Secretary were open to both Freshmen I's and II's, whereas the offices of the President, the Treasurer and the Representative to the Student Council were restricted to Freshmen II's only.

Nominations for the Freshman Class are as follows:

For the office of President:
Robert Powers—Freshman II
Joseph D'Auria—Freshman II
Steve Fenning—Freshman II
Edward Sullivan—Freshman II
For the office of Vice President:
Joseph Tracy—Freshman I
Earl Moser—Freshman II
Joseph Cadden—Freshman II
Richard Rice—Freshman II
Joseph McCoy—Freshman II
John Norton—Freshman I

FROSH NOMINATE Continued on Page Eight

ASME Society Presented Final Contest Papers

The Student A.S.M.E. gathered last Wednesday to hear Paul Christenson's paper on "Gas Turbines" and Paul Wiedenhaefer's study of "Vibration Recording Instruments." Christenson summarized the reciprocating engine vs. gas turbine as related to modern aircraft. He pointed out that the reciprocating engine has practically reached its limit in aircraft and that for the high performance required in new designs the turbine is the only solution.

Much research is yet to be done in order that the gas turbine can be used in commercial airlines. With the perfection of the much simpler gas turbine, airlines will be able to fly at higher and thus safer altitudes and at much greater speeds. The cost of operating and maintaining aircraft equipped with turbines will be greatly reduced as compared with the present reciprocating engine. The result of this development will be to improve service and provide the service at a much lower rate than is now possible.

Vibration Analysis

Widenhaefer's work covered the study of four phases of vibration analysis. They are frequency, type of wave-simple or complex, amplitude, and stress. He vividly

Continued on Page Four

Inter-American Meets April 13

Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, O.S.A., Ph.D., professor of history at Villanova College will preside over the meeting of the Foreign Policies Association which is to be held in the Bellevue - Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia, on April 13.

Father McCarthy will open the meeting with an address dealing with the Inter-American System. After this he will act as chairman of the meeting which will be attended by many of the high schools of the Philadelphia and suburban districts.

The group will discuss many of the perplexing problems which are involved in handling foreign affairs and forming foreign policies. Students from both public and Catholic high schools will take part in the talks, and will have the opportunity to hear authoritative comments on their subjects.

Following this meeting Father McCarthy will sit in on a discussion to be held in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel will have as a subject problems dealing with Pan-American Relations. This meeting is being sponsored by the students of Immaculata College.

New Government Agency Formed To Aid Building

Civilian Production Administration Has Recently Been Organized To Ease Restrictions

The Very Reverend Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A, President of Villanova College has announced that Villanova will be able to receive limited aid from the government in its new program of expansion to accommodate the enlarged student body of the college.

A new government agency known as the Civilian Production Administration, which is a quasi-substitute for the W.P.B. has recently been organized. It is a branch of the new Interagency Committee on Veterans Affairs named by John W. Snyder, Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion. All the members of this new agency head groups which in some manner or other have authority over programs that may be diverted to aid the education and training program of veterans.

Six Fields of Actions

John W. Snyder has outlined six specific fields of action for his new committee and most of these are now being carried out. The first activity is concerned with housing for student veterans. It provides for 300,000 dwelling units for student veterans this year.

The second activity concerns Villanova's expansion program directly. "The Civilian Production Ad-

Continued on Page Eight

Debate Team Downs Rosies

Peacetime Military Training Subject Under Fire

Last Thursday night the Villanova debating team disproved the old saying that it is impossible to defeat a woman in an argument.

Taking the negative on the topic, "Resolved: The United States should adopt a universal peacetime military training program," Fr. Krupa's Villanova team composed of three N.R.O.T.C. men Turney, Rothwell, and Warren soundly trounced Rosemont's team represented by Fadden, McAnulty, and Shean.

Oregon Style

The debate was conducted in the "Oregon Style." In this system two men each from the negative and affirmative alternately state their arguments and then cross-question each other. This form of debate ends with a rebuttal by a third man from each team.

Jean Fadden and Peggy McAnulty defended the affirmative by stating that universal peacetime military training is absolutely necessary to keep the United States in a state of preparedness. They added that military training is a benefit to American youth from a psychological and physical viewpoint. Turney and Rothwell proved that universal training is useless inasmuch as so many men are required as instructors, the cost of such a program would be too high, and the short training provided would soon be obsolete and forgotten. Instead Turney and Rothwell advocated a small corp of highly trained technical reservists backed by a government controlled industrial reserve.

Waste Of Money

Warren initiated the first rebuttal pointing out that 3 billion dollars was too much money to squander on a reserve of uninterested, haphazardly trained men. Pat Sheen tried to sew up

DEBATE TEAM Continued on Page Four

Flying Club Planned By Winged Wildcats

Big Meeting Will Be Held Wed. in Mendel Hall To Organize Birdmen Into Social Club; Bill Altenpohl to Preside

Airminded students of Villanova College have taken a first step towards organizing a flying club here on the campus for the furthering of their aviation ambitions. This group, informally known as the "Winged Wildcats", will meet Wednesday at one o'clock in room 215 Mendel Hall.

The purpose of tomorrow's meeting will be to discuss further ideas so far proposed at the several informal meetings which took place this past week. Plans for organizing an official club, and initial problems dealing with methods and objects will also be taken into consideration.

WILLIAM ALTENPOHL

This organization will have a six-fold program. First, to provide an opportunity to all to learn to fly; second, to provide an opportunity for all pilots to continue to fly; third, to provide opportunity for all to learn the ground work of flying; fourth, to aid former service pilots to obtain their Civil Aeronautics Administration Pilots' Certificates; fifth, to aid civilian flyers to obtain their pilots' certificates; and sixth, to foster a greater interest in aviation.

College Backs Program

Bill Altenpohl, a veteran P-51 pilot from the 8th Air Force, who has been named chairman of the temporary organization, asked that all men interested in aviation, either as a career or as a hobby, come

AVIATION CLUB Continued on Page Eight

Fr. McGuire, Dr. Hartmann Attend Forum

American Academy of Political and Social Sciences Meet At Benjamin Franklin

The American Academy of Political and Social Sciences held its fiftieth annual meeting the fifth and sixth days of this month at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa. The academy presented a program of six sessions, each debating the ways and means of "Making the United Nations Work." Over one-hundred Colleges and Universities located over the entire globe were represented as were over one-hundred and fifty social, economic, political and cultural societies from all lands. Villanova College was represented by Doctor Harold F. Hartmann, Professor of History. Reverend Francis X. McGuire, college president was a delegate, representing the Association of American Colleges.

"The Present and Past"

The six sessions and their individual topics were introduced by Ernest Minor Patterson, president of the Academy. The first session, the topic of which was "The Present and Past," was addressed by Mrs. Eleanore Roosevelt, Carter Goodrich, and Arthur Sweetser. The second session, the topic of which was "Settling Disputes in a Confused World," was addressed by Louis E. Browne, Nicholas J. Doman and Clyde Eagleton. "Belgium, France and Poland," was delineated upon by Baron Robert Silvercruys, Henri Bonnet and Oscar Lange at the third session.

The UNO

The second half of the meeting, held Saturday, was opened by Galo Plaza, Owen Lattimore and Eddy Asirvatham speaking on the subject "Asia, Latin America and the UNO". In the afternoon, "Liberal Ideas and the UNO" was discussed by Quincy Wright, Arthur N. Holcombe and Clair Wilcox. At the final session P. C. Chang, William E. Rappard, and Herbert Feis, talked on "The Great Powers and the UNO."

Professor Hartmann has been a delegate to the Academy for 10 years, ever since he began to teach at Villanova.

Jewish Holidays

Jewish Church Leaders announce that ceremonies for the Jewish Passover begin at sunset, April 15th and end the 23rd of April, at sunset. Official holidays in this period are set (1), from sunset of April 15th, to sunset, the 17th; (2), sunset of the 21st of April to sunset, the 23rd.

Set by lunar calendar, the Jewish Holidays are in commemoration of the delivery of the first-born children of the Isrealites, when the angel of death passed over Egypt more than three thousand five hundred years ago. The elaborate services attendant to the Passover have remained substantially the same for two millenia.

Alumni Dinner Dance Announced As First Postwar Activity

Bruce Murray, President of the Philadelphia Alumni Club, announced the appointment of a committee to organize the first postwar social function of the Club, a dinner dance to be held at the Bala Country Club on May 17.

The committee is made up of Jack McManus '43, Vince Gordon '42, Charles Jones '42, Don Hoby '42, and Luke Mouch '42. Bruce Murray is a graduate of the V-12 training program at Villanova and has been recently discharged from the Navy.

Social Emphasis

The dance will be the first affair in the program of post-war rejuvenation of Alumni activities, which lapsed during the war years. Emphasis will be on purely social activities, looking forward to more colorful football seasons with increased Alumni participation.

Attendance will be by invitation only; and will be limited to the 500 active members of the Club in Philadelphia and suburban areas. No orchestra has yet been selected for the occasion.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 .... Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Arthur R. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
Herman J. Diesel, '50
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
Wharncliffe Bird, '50
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Daniel Fox, '50
Eugene Scarzo, '49
Henry J. Fessler, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50
Robert R. Manske, 48

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
James J. Brannon, '50
Joseph Braezler, '50
Charles R. Phillips, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '4
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Francis Linsulata, '49
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office Decembe 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - - - - April 9, 1946

Joe Brown, Inc.

TODAY more than ever before, there is a great need for intelligent discussions on the topics of the time. It is only through careful deliberation and adequate debate that one can ascertain the validity of his arguments. No more can you afford to recede into the embraces of an armchair and leave the problems of the people in the laps of the legislators. After all, the legislators are only the officers of a government of which the individual is a member.

As part of the government, therefore, you must bear your share of the burden in seeking out the causes of and the solutions to the problems of your people. You can no longer live independently of your fellow being, as the case of Joe Brown pointedly emphasized.

Joe Brown lived in the Ozark mountains. Perhaps he had never heard of Hitler before the war. Perhaps he did not give one tinker's dam if he had heard of the little man across the ocean. Yet it was that little man who was the cause of Joe Brown going to Germany. Joe Brown did not come back with the rest of the men. He never will. No matter what is the crisis, no matter where it is, you cannot afford to stand aside and wait for it to spread its venom across the face of the earth. There is an interdependency between all mankind in this game of life.

With the advancement of science, the new discoveries, and with a world knitted closer together by an efficient and far reaching transportation system, men are turning more and more to the universities to equip themselves with the tools with which to pave a path through a confused and competitive existence. These institutions are filled to capacity, and both the faculty and the student are laboring under abnormal conditions with thousands more waiting to enter.

This is indeed great evidence testifying to the importance of education. Yet has anyone taken the pains to ask himself why is he seeking a higher education? Is it for the sole purpose of becoming an engineer, a chemist, a doctor, or a lawyer? Or are there some other equally important objects of education? What about the moral and religious training? All these are questions that are of vital importance to you. You cannot look at them superficially and then pass judgment upon them. It requires a great deal of reading, or a large source of information, to warrant us to put forth an opinion on such serious subjects.

Make use of your organizations on the campus. Take these subjects into them and unravel them from their difficulties. They must be taken singly and collectively, studied and reviewed, debated and criticized, and finally placed in their proper order on the table, ready to be digested.

—By JASPER CHEN SEE.

UNO or Duck

THIS editorial favors internationalism. Indeed it is written by a rabid internationalist. Those to whom this viewpoint appears hopelessly warped had better go on to more congenial reading. If the whole course of history and its recent culmination has not shaken their isolationism this editorial will hardly be sufficient to do so. They may as well join the other ostriches and bury their heads in the sand. BUT THEY ARE GOING TO GET THEIR TAIL FEATHERS SCORCHED BY THE ATOM BOMB.

Now the development of atomic energy has been the subject of a lot of sloppy thinking. A disenheartening majority refuse to consider it at all. A muddled minority see in it the unavoidable destruction of mankind. An enlightened group of scientists and statesmen use it as the inconvertible argument for world government.

The atom bomb can hardly wipe out the human race. We are too widely scattered; the possibility of a globe-embracing chain reaction is astronomically remote. Nor is a central control agency the only method of dealing with atomic energy. If we wish to maintain absolute nationalism at the cost of our civilization, we can do so. But understand that, used for warfare, atomic energy does mean the end of our present civilization.

The New Yorker recently pointed out that a feasible way to measure the size of a city is by the number of atom bombs it would take to destroy it. According to their calculations New York is a three-bomb city. The declaration of the next atomic war (and rest assured that declaration will be the sudden and unheralded destruction of several major industrial plants and military installations) will be the signal for an exodus from the cities. Men will no longer dare to group together above the ground. Our industrial and social life is based on centralization. Our high standard of living and cultural achievements are based on the time-freeing and large output principles of mass-production.

There will, of course, be some centralization below the ground, but this will have to be limited to military needs, ie., plants for the manufacture of bombs and launching sites for their use. In short, our civilization will have to adapt itself to the bomb instead of adapting the bomb's principles to its own advancement. If this occurs man will not have mastered atomic energy; he will have become its slave.

The alternative solution offered by the statesmen (as distinguished from politicians) and scientists is to give the bomb into the hands of a world government.

Any nation with the necessary mineral and technical resources (and these range from Belgium to Russia will be able to turn out atomic bombs in approximately two years. If the United States were to destroy the records in its possession, the secret would not be lost. Atomic energy cannot be censored into harmlessness; but, it can be controlled. It is not something that can be fabricated in a cellar. Its development demands the use of an enormous amount of men, machines, and raw material. Agents of a world government would have no trouble keeping tabs on it if they were sufficiently empowered. But to put this power into the hands of a weak organization would be worse than futile.

The UNO is not yet a strong organization. It came very near to being stillborn. It is, however, the only feasible start toward such an organization. It is our best bet because it is our only bet. If UNO can grow strong enough to take control of atomic energy we must give it this control without hesitation. It then will become automatically strong enough to prevent future wars.

In the next few months UNO will pass through the critical period. We must support it with all our loyalty. Its crisis is the crisis of mankind.

If the UNO fails—DUCK!

By GEORGE MATHER.

Ex-GI's Solution

THE Veteran's Club of Villanova was organized in the days when there were only thirty five men on campus benefiting by the GI Bill of Rights and Public Law 16. This handful of men banded together as a means of getting acquainted and helping each other to readjust themselves to campus life.

This term the enrollment of Veterans is over six hundred, with a freshman class that is ninety one percent veterans. Such a large concentration of men has outgrown the type of Veteran's Club seen in the past. As a social organization, the Club would either be competing with the other social organizations on campus or would become a center for a small group of men who might not have other social interests.

Is there then a need for a Veteran's Club? What would be its function? At the last meeting, two hundred members expressed their desire to continue the organization, but not on a strictly social basis. The function, it was decided, must be one of finding solutions to the problems that are peculiar to the veterans who are now going to school.

What are these problems? They can be found in the questions being asked every day by thousands of men throughout the country. Where can I get an apartment, a used car, a pair of shoes? What do I do for clothes when my one suit is at the cleaners and my two shirts in the laundry? Why is it that I can study so hard and still not make good grades? Shall I convert my GI insurance?

There are those who will argue that the technical questions can be taken to Father McQuade, the Vets Administration, and the Vets Advisory Boards; that the scholastic questions should be taken up with professors. But the load of work on these organizations and individuals is very great. Father McQuade is doing a wonderful job of handling all the problems that he can. With the present national shortage of professors, time is lacking everywhere for the individual attention that would be needed to give the large number of veterans all the individual attention they need on their study problems. It is up to the veterans themselves to assist in the solving of their problems; this can be done through a cooperative organization.

With the large number of potential members, the form of such an organization must be one of a series of committees each taking up some special problem. The housing question would be handled by one committee that would make a survey of housing needs amongst the students here. On the basis of this survey, a search would be made for potential housing units, and these would be brought to the attention of the students in need. Help would be sought from community organizations interested in this problem; and information collected would be brought to the attention of the students through the Villanovan and the bulletin boards.

A committee on study problems would arrange for a tutoring service by upperclassmen for new students who have scholastic adjustment difficulties.

Take the problem of each veteran, multiply it by six hundred and you have the veteran problem at Villanova. By working together we can go a long way towards solving that problem. It is up to each veteran to participate in the present activity of determining what form the Veteran's Club on campus will take to best find the answers.

By FRANK DITURI.

'NEATH THE SPIRES

By RUSSELL LEO WELSH Editor-in-Chief

AFTER the Holy Season of Lent, the column will no longer deal exclusively with the Liturgy of the Sunday Masses, but will serve to answer questions regarding religious exercises. Questions received will be presented either to the College Chaplain or other College priests.

Next Sunday ushers in the most solemn and dramatic seven days of the Liturgical year, Holy Week. The three major commemorations are the Institution of the Most Blessed Sacrament — Maundy Thursday, the Crucifixion of Jesus Christ—Good Friday, and the announcement of the Resurrection of Christ from the Dead—Holy Saturday.

Palm Sunday

The liturgy of Palm Sunday is composed of two distinct parts containing sentiments diametrically opposed to each other. The first part, the blessing of the palms and the procession is joyful and triumphant; the blessing of palm denotes our inception as martyrs; the procession is a triumphant march. The second part, the Holy Mass and the reading of the Passion is profoundly solemn and sorrowful.

Palm Sunday is the liturgical anniversary of the solemn entry of Christ into Jerusalem. The liturgy is the triumphal arch for the King and Redeemer, Christ.

In America, the Holy Week services, because of their length, are not carried out in all the Parish Churches. However, in all Religious Seminaries and Monasteries the fulfillment of the Liturgical cycle is presented in all its splendor.

Maundy Thursday

On Holy Thursday, the Pastor, Abbot or Head of the Community humbly washes the feet of twelve of his confreres, commemorating the act described in the Gospel of that day, where Christ washes the feet of his disciples. The institution of the Blessed Sacrament is narrated in the Epistle, having been preceded by the singing of the Gloria, the first time since Ash Wednesday, and last until Holy Saturday.

After the Mass on Holy Thursday, the Celebrant removes the Blessed Sacrament from the tabernacle and places it in a Repository, an altar on the side or outside of the Sanctuary.

Good Friday

The Mass celebrated on Good Friday is called the Mass of the Presanctified. The name Presanctified explains the fact that the Sacred Species were consecrated on Holy Thursday and not during the Mass of that day, which contained only the Mass of the Catechumens, the Offertory and the Communion.

No one but the Celebrant, except in the case of those very sick, receives the Holy Eucharist on Good Friday.

On Holy Saturday, the blessing of the Fire, wrought by the striking of fire from rock, signifies Christ coming from the virginal womb of Mary. It also signifies His coming forth from the sealed tomb.

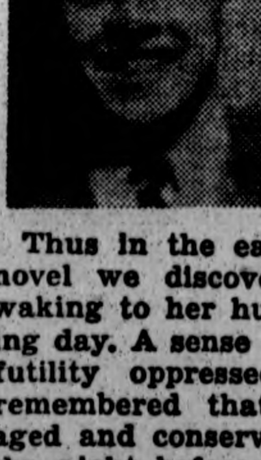
Peculiar characteristics of the Mass on Holy Saturday are the omission of the Introit, Kyrie, Offertory, and Agnus Dei.

In ancient times the Mass on Holy Saturday was said at Midnight, resembling in many respects the first Mass of Christmas.

"Those Other People"

By JOSEPH R. SWEENEY

In My Country and My People, Lin Yutang, the Chinese philosopher-author wrote, "It is when the repressions of society and business are gone and when the goads of money and fame and ambition are lifted, and a man's spirit wanders where it listeth, that we see the inner man, his real self." With an idea, essentially like this, Mary King O'Donnell drew her main character, Leah Webster, for her novel Those Other People. To provide plot, Mrs. O'Donnell utilized human interest in the crowds of unidentified, unknown people we move in and live with all our lives. All of us at one time or another, have stopped to wonder about these people, if only to think, "Where are all these people going?" "Why this eternal rush," and so on.



Thus in the early pages of this novel we discover Leah Webster waking to her humdrum, uninspiring day. A sense of depression and futility oppressed her until she remembered that she, a middle-aged and conservative person, had the night before defied convention by picking up a sailor. Their evening together had been simple and good, and she knew that this incident had made her former life impossible. She knew only that his name was Joe, nothing else, yet she decided to search for him.

So all through the hot day we follow Leah through the French Quarter of New Orleans where she lives and where she met Joe. And where, unknown to her, Joe searches for her.

FAMILY STORY

The novel further concerns itself in minute details with "Those Other People," Leah's family and relatives, her friends and neighbors, her and their chance acquaintances, and all the people one is thrown into contact with on a normal day of social intercourse. To cite just a few examples, we meet the beggar woman Mea Culpa, so named because of the fact that she endlessly atones the sins of her life in the streets. Vanity incongruously dominates her for she is inordinately proud of her beautiful white hair, and this pride makes her stoop to petty theft.

There is John Potowski, the streetcar operator, who, haunted through the day by his mania for alcohol, refused it when it was offered to him, not because of, but in spite of, his pretty flirt of a wife. Another is Mrs. Tarantino, one of Leah's neighbors. Abnormally shy because of a physical deformity, she finds unflagging interest in her neighbor's affairs which she watches while hanging her endless wash on her garage roof.

IDEAS OVERDONE

Mrs. O'Donnell's story is a perfect example of what happens to a novel when a good idea is overdone. Granted that Mrs. O'Donnell's ideas were fresh and engaging, nevertheless she should not have allowed them to dictate her whole story. Coincidence follows coincidence in a stream that defies reality. Everyone is conscious that chance plays a part in our lives, but it is certainly not the sole motivating force. After all, Lady Luck is a goddess of human invention.

Yet, despite these structural faults, I enjoyed reading this novel. Mrs. O'Donnell writes with sympathy and charm about her ordinary, every-day people. Her persuasive and kindly presentation of the Negroes who live in the Quarter under their white neighbors' subjugation is a much more effective and eloquent plea for tolerance than many of the bitter novels treating exclusively of the subject which are flooding the market today. All of her characters possess that three dimensional quality which is one of the chief

CURRENT FICTION
Continued on Page Seven

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEIL

We open this week's edition of the Copy Basket with a news item from Santa Clara University concerning summer sessions. The Santa Clara, the university's official paper, informs us that plans have been completed by all colleges of the university to operate a 12-week special summer session for the benefit of veterans who registered in January. The various schools will run on a 12-week schedule commencing in May and ending in August. No classes will be conducted for upper classmen in any of the colleges.

* * *

Short Week

An old lady kept a parrot which was always swearing. She could put up with this till Saturday, but on Sunday, she kept a cover over the cage—removing it on Monday morning. This prevented the parrot from swearing on Sunday.

One Monday afternoon she saw the minister coming toward the house, so she again placed the cover over the cage. As the reverend gentleman was about to step into the parlor, the parrot remarked: "This has been a damned short week."

—The Dakota Scientist.

* * *

An old planter and one of his faithful workers were discussing the hereafter.

"Sam," said the boss, "If you die first, I want you to come back and tell me what it's like over there. If I die first, I'll come back and tell you what it's like."

"Dat suits me fine, sah," replied the old Negro, "but effen you dies first, Ah wants you to promise me that you'll come back in the daytime."

—West Catholic News.

* * *

And now we give forth with an impressive poem from the Tomahawk, Holy Cross College school paper.

Last night I held a lovely hand,
A hand so soft and neat,
I thought my heart would burst
with joy,
So wildly did it beat.
No other hand unto my heart
Could greater solace bring
Than that dear hand I held last night—
Four aces and a king.

* * *

The St. Bonaventure offers us the following comparison of a newspaper and a woman:

—They have forms.
—They always have the last word.
—Back numbers are not in demand.
—They have a great deal of influence.
—They are well worth looking over.
—You cannot believe everything they say.
—They carry the news wherever they go.
—Every man should have one and not borrow his neighbor's.

* * *

This week's issue of the St. Bonaventure discloses plans for the building of a stadium which will accommodate from twenty to twenty-five thousand spectators and will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. The stadium will be presented to the college by Fred W. Forness, thrice mayor of Olean, and will be called Forness Stadium, according to the college authorities. The announcement of the presentation was made by Mr. Forness at the Hugh Devore Testimonial Banquet held recently at St. Bonaventure.

* * *

It isn't the can that annoys the dog,
It's the fact that it's tied to his tail.
It isn't your subjects that make life hard,
It's the number of them that you fail.

* * *

On a Crowded Bus

"Madam, would you like me to get you a strap?"

"No, thank you, I have one."

"Then would you mind letting go of my necktie?"

—The Tatler.

* * *

At recent ground breaking ceremonies at Northeastern University in the intial step toward the erec-

Continued on Page Seven

Faculty Comments

"Buddy" And Spirit

By FATHER TUOHY

With the opening of the present semester here at Villanova, a most pleasant phenomena seemed to envelop the campus. Oldtimers took on an expression of hopefulness; newcomers assumed their place with confidence. A spirit of good-fellowship and earnestness was in evidence at the very beginning. The task of the Orientation Committee automatically resolved itself and the students went to work. Even the weather seemed to order itself in harmony with the tacit resolution of all to put Villanova well on its way towards its glorious peace-time status. She had done her war-time job well. Now she must do her peace-time job just as well.

Men have come home from war with a burning ambition and seriousness to make a place for themselves. They came back with a different outlook on life. They have gone through a hard school of reality that brought them together with the realization of what it means to depend on each other in a common cause. They have "grown up." They have taken the other fellow for what he is. They have adapted themselves to every situation that came their way. There grew up among them a feeling of comradeship that is always the result of centralized effort. Going through the same schools of hard knocks of our military services, in good times and rough times, they gave the bloom to that affectionate term, "Buddy." Just what it means, only those who have known its necessity can tell you. However, it is contagious. It is bound to take effect when contacted on a large scale.

An epidemic of this sort of thing has come to Villanova. Veterans swarm into the classroom, into the chapel, onto the athletic field, into every extra-curricula activity. The enthusiasm is dynamic. Those of the younger element and who have not received Uncle Sam's greeting —yet—have been engulfed by it. Except for the absence of mature appearance, it is difficult to tell just who is and who is not a veteran. All have been infected by the pleasant feeling of "belonging."

Carrying this spirit over to civilian life should be a blessing for a Villanovan. It is not something new on the campus. It has been a tradition that was very evident before the war. It had to diminish somewhat because of the national emergency in view of a more pressing atmosphere. However, it has come back with added intensity and it should make for a bigger and better Villanova. The ball has been given its proper impetus. Everything about the campus indicates that it will continue to roll faster and faster, religiously, scholastically, athletically and—with your indulgence — Villanovanly. With a sincere and conscious effort, this cannot fail. The determination of all to get behind every effort, regardless of its importance, makes for that adhesive unity of strength called "spirit." The students have seen its results on other fields of action. Now it remains for them to make it work and see it here at Villanova.

LOU DI GIACOMO
SMEARS 'n CHEERS
MILT CLIMATI

Last week's biggest social affair was the Villanovan Dinner. Everybody had a good time, and everything went along smoothly until John Brinjac attempted to take pictures. He had a hard time of it trying to take photos because of flash bulbs not flashing and forgetting altogether to put a flash bulb in his camera.

The second important social function of the week was the dance at the Bryn Mawr fire house. Villanova was well represented by paid admissions and by admissions via the fire escape.

PERSONAL QUESTIONS: Bernie Crumb says that he doesn't like Betty, yet he continues to date her. Why the apparent contradiction, Bernie? . . . What or should we say who made Dave Ryan's trip to Concordville seem so short, when it is in reality quite a long trip? . . . What is there so embarrassing in Jack Elliot's letters from his girl that makes him blush when questioned about it? . . . Why doesn't Al (All American Honorable Mention) Berkowitz stay around the campus for the weekend? Could it be the attraction of a hometown nursie by the name of Helen? . . . Why have Ed Walsh and Frank Nugent refused to attend the movies anymore? Could it be that their faith in certain stars has been shattered? . . . Why has Bill Bradley been going around the campus singing "onesie, twosie, threesie, foursie"?

SIGHT OF THE WEEK: Charlie Cuttone attempting to give a euglena a cathartic.

BASEBALL NOTE: Jim Comerford played a swell game against Loyola in spite of the fact that he kept tripping over first base.

ODDS 'N ENDS: Bill Brennan's status with "Bootsie" is becoming rather doubtful because Tracy is expected home soon . . . It seems that Bill Chester had a swell time at a party in Media given by a group of Temple lassies. For further details see Bill . . . Charlie Feehan informs us that he doesn't like the girls in his section of the country. We think you will find a lot of opposition to that statement, Charlie . . . The new interest of Bill Loftus at the Greek's is Marian . . . George O'Neil and Jim Conaty have resorted to flipping a coin to decide who is going to take out which girl on a double date. George won the toss the last time and got his choice of the girls . . . There is very intimate correspondence going on between Bud O'Neil and Jim Riley. You could save a lot of postage, fellows, by walking over to one another's hall and talking to each other in person . . . Anyone who wishes to learn the finer arts of cricket or golf, see Eddie Narcum. He is reputed to be quite the expert . . . It seems that Bernie Borschke's girl had to break her dates with him for the last three weeks because of a "sore throat." Bernie is now in the market for new telephone numbers . . . Mark Weber has become, "The Man with the Hoe", of Villanova College . . . If Jim Mackey doesn't keep his dates straight, a certain weekend party may never occur. Now you wouldn't want to ruin a party for the "boys" would you, Jim? . . . Tony Cocco has been delving into the field of culture. He is busily engaged in the study of English literature in order to carry on an intelligent conversation with his Rosemont girl . . . Art Montane must have an awful time trying to study with three pictures of his girl on his desk . . . We have been told to warn all students to be careful of their arms when eat-

SMEARS AND CHEERS
Continued on Page Seven

Nominees Speak On Class Futures

Candidates For Office Express Confidence; Thanks: Elections In Near Future

The meetings of the Senior and Junior Classes in Mendel Hall on Thursday and Friday, March 28 and 29, and the meeting of the Freshman Class in Mendel Hall on Tuesday, April 2, were held for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various class offices which will be open at the beginning of the Fall semester. The lists of nominees have been sent to the Office of the Vice President for official approval. When this is received, elections will be held.

In the meantime, we thought it wise to print comments of the various nominees so that the student body may know for whom and for what they are voting when the big day rolls around. Unfortunately, all nominees could not be contacted in time to meet the deadline, and therefore, their comments will be published in the next issue.

Following are comments of nominees:

Sam Canning, Junior II, for the office of President of the Senior Class: "I believe the Senior Class should be the leaders in the 'back-to-normalcy' program. We are mostly former Villanovans who have returned to the campus to obtain our degrees and assist in reviving the traditions and spirit of former years. It will be a pleasure for me, if elected to this office, to lead our class in sponsoring the return of Junior Week, the Blazer Ball, Freshman Initiations, Mother's Day at Villanova, The Senior Dinner Dance, the 150-pound Football team, the Villanova Glee Club, and Decoration Week for the Connelly Trophy."

* * *

Dan Redmond, Junior II, for the office of President of the Senior Class: "I am very grateful for having been accorded the honor of nomination for this office. I sincerely hope that our class, through cooperation among those elected, will be capable of reviving the spirit and customs typical of Villanova's ante-bellum days."

* * *

Dave Marano, Junior II, for the office of Vice President of the Senior Class (also, for representative to Student Council): "I am grateful for the confidence expressed by the nomination which has given me the honor of running for Vice President of next term's Senior Class. With return to the normal schedule in October, I feel confident that with efficient class management and the cooperation of the student body, the old Villanova spirit will be revived."

* * *

Joe Brogan, Junior II, for the office of Vice President of the Senior Class (also for the office of Treasurer): Being a student here before the war, and knowing the Villanova of old, I'd like to do my share in bringing back those joyous days."

* * *

James Lyons, Junior II, for the office of Secretary of the Senior Class: "I feel honored to be nominated for this position. If elected, I will do everything in my power to engrave the memory of the Class of '47 in the glorious traditions of Villanova."

* * *

Matt Kearney, Junior II, for representative to the Student Council, Senior Class: "All for the good of the students. With appreciation and thanks for the nomination."

* * *

Bob Manske, Sophomore II, for the office of Vice President of the Junior Class: "Being a person who worships the unities of time and place I, as a true Villanovan, would like to see Villanova attain even greater heights of fame than it did before the war."

* * *

Joseph D'Auria, Freshman II, for the office of President of the Sophomore Class: "I don't like campaign promises, but I would like to see our class become the most active in Villanova. Thanks to my classmates for even considering me as a candidate."

* * *

Joseph Cadden, Freshman II, for office of Vice President of the Sophomore Class: "To be chosen by by classmates as a nominee for the office of Vice President is a great privilege."

* * *

Joseph Tracy, Freshman I, for the office of Vice President of the Sophomore Class: "I feel greatly honored by my classmates' interest."

* * *

Richard Rice, Freshman II, office of the Vice President of the Sophomore Class: "A great honor to run for office."

* * *

Lou Rabaut, Freshman I, office of the Secretary of the Sophomore Class: "I consider the nomination a great honor. If elected, I hope to prove worthy of the office."

* * *

John Carney, Freshman II, office of the Treasurer of the Sophomore Class: "If I am elected to the office of Treasurer, I will do everything within my power to perform to the best of my ability the duties entailed by this position."

* * *

Jerry Connors, Freshman II, representative to the Student Council, Sophomore Class: "This is a great privilege."

* * *

Don Collins, Junior I, for the office of President of the Junior Class: "Having spent last semester as a member of the Student Council, I feel that I am well enough acquainted with Villanova's parliamentary procedure to more than adequately represent the Junior Class. As a member of the Villanovan I believe I am in a position to give the Junior Class functions the publicity they need and deserve."

Spanish Club Plans Dinner

Banquet To Honor Memory of Cervantes; Spanish Songs To Be Presented

In honor of the Cervantes, the "William Shakespeare" of Spanish literature, the annual Spanish Club banquet will be held the night of April 25.

The following men were named to a committee in charge of arrangements for the banquet, Raymond Kelm, Edward Sullivan, Frank Christenson, John Courtin and William Mahoney. At the banquet, which in the past has been the peak social function of the Spanish Club, awards will be presented to students submitting the best literary papers on Cervantes.

Practice sessions for learning Spanish songs to be sung at the banquet will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 1 P. M. in the Commerce and Finance auditorium, it was announced during a recent meetnig. All members are urged to attend the sessions which will be conducted by the Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A., moderator of the Spanish Club.

Comedy Planned

Plans for the presentation of a Spanish comedy, tentatively scheduled for the latter part of May, were discussed at the meeting. The possibility of having members of the Rosemont College Spanish Club participate in the play was discussed by the members.

The financial status of the club was explained to the group by the Treasurer, Matthew Kearney. The active membership in the Spanish Club now numbers more than two hundred, making it one of the largest organizations on the campus.

A. S. M. E. Papers Presented At Meeting

Continued From Page One

described the equipment used and illustrated its application to wartime problems.

By the decision of the judges, Dean Morehouse, Prof. Auth, and Fathers Sullivan and Gildea, the paper given by Raymond Richardson on Rasp Bars for Wheat Harvesting Equipment will be prepared for presentation at Pratt Institute in New York.

Morehouse To Speak

A meeting to be held Thursday April 11 during the noon hour is being held expressly to help the Mechanical Engineers on this campus to get acquainted with each other and to learn of the opportunities that are offered in the Society. Dean Morehouse will give a short talk on the merits of the organization and how the Student Branch is integrated with the National Society.

A short film will be given which will be of interest to all Engineers. Watch the Bulletin Board for the hour and place.

A field trip to the Atlas Metal Stamping Co. is planned after the meeting. All M.E.'s are invited,—including freshmen.

Prof. Dougherty Addresses DPE

Regular Meeting Held In Mendell Hall Hears Moderator

Professor Patrick J. Dougherty, moderator of the D.P.E. addressed that group at a regular fraternity meeting last Monday in Mendel Hall. This inaugurated the program proposed by the Frat of having a guest speaker at least once a month at their meetings. President Lou DiGiacomo stressed the importance of the meeting in so far as the new bylaws were discussed. These were prepared by William Diana and Melvin Racusin, members of the committee appointed by Di Giacomo.

This meeting was the deadline for the payment of unpaid dues and those men who have not paid up have been docked fifty cents. If the dues plus fines are not paid in full by the end of the month those members found wanting will be dropped from the club roll. Monday was also the deadline for registration of former members whose College activities were interrupted by induction. Those men who did not make known their intention to rejoin the organization cannot be reinstated without initiation.

Membership Limited

The Constitution of the D.P.E. limits the membership of that organization to 65 men subject to expansion only upon revisal of the constitution. President DiGiacomo said, "The limitation placed on memberships was inaugurated in order to define and integrate the men, a necessary condition for the club's return to peacetime force and functioning. The limitation will also allow the more care in the choice of pledges."

Hunter Featured With Lawrence

Joins With Rosalind Patton To Handle Vocal Chores For "Bandstand"

Jack Hunter, featured vocalist with Elliot Lawrence, is a veteran, having served with the marines during the war.

Hunter has been in the field of music for many years. At one time or another he has been featured on every major network. His work has not been restricted entirely to the radio field. He has sung in theaters and at numerous college proms throughout the east.

Joined Marines

When the war came along, Jack Hunter tossed his career aside and enlisted in the marines. Due to a serious injury he was hospitalized and eventually discharged.

After he put his uniform aside Hunter immediately re-entered the entertainment field and returned to his first love—singing. His first engagement after being discharged was an assignment as a staff vocalist with the National Broadcasting System. He had his own show and was featured coast to coast.

Hunter has received numerous offers from "Name" bands, but he turned them down to continue in radio which he feels is the most lucrative field for a vocalist. He received offers from Jan Garber and Blue Barron among others.

Joins Lawrence

When Elliot Lawrence took over as musical director at station WCAU, he was looking for a singer whose voice and style would fit radio requirements. He also had to make a good appearance in front of Lawrence's top-notch band. Hunter was the choice.

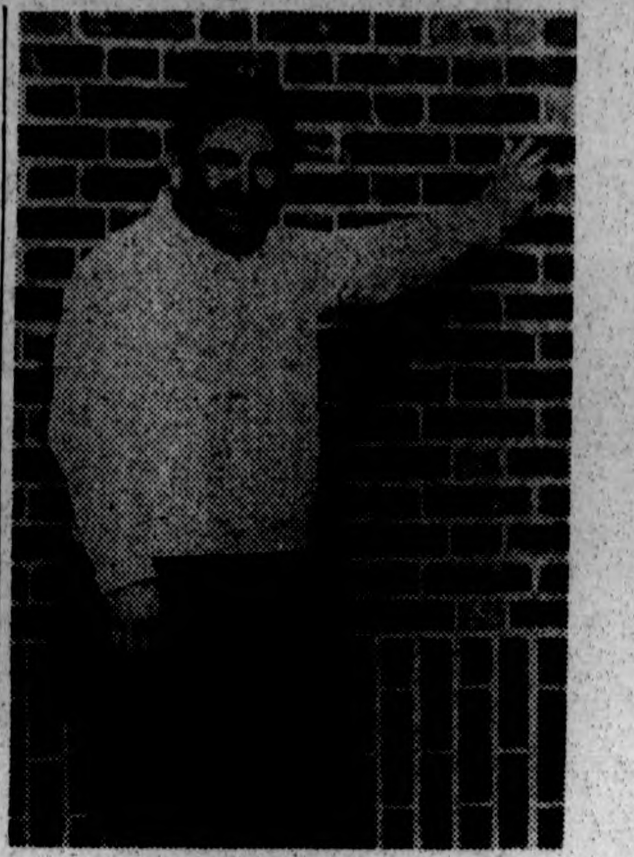
Jack Hunter has sung under some strange circumstances but the strangest situation that he ever found himself in occurred at the Villanova Senior Ball in January. Due to defective wiring the mike in front of the band went dead. The engineers were unable to activate it and Hunter was scheduled for a song.

Instead of giving up and waiting for the trouble to be discovered he went up on the stage and sang from the microphone there. The orchestra was across the floor from the stage. His effort was a decided success.

Patton and Hunter

Hunter's co-worker on the vocal chores is Rosalind Patton. Miss Patton also served a tour with the armed forces during the war singing with a navy special service unit.

Featuring..Tony Finisdore Wildcat's Unofficial 'Coach'.



TONY FINISDORE

One of the institutions around the Field House is Tony Finisdore, better known to the habitues of that Temple of Sport as the "Coach." Tony came to Villanova in 1932 to take charge of the equipment room. Through hard work and a pleasant personality he rose to his present job of manager of the Field House, with the responsibility of keeping the playing fields and gym in shape, and working with dance and show committees in preparing the Field House for social events. That is his official job; but in an unofficial capacity Tony is unofficial coach of the Villanova teams. In that capacity he has worked with Harry Stuhldreher, Clipper Smith, and the present coach Jordan Oliver.

World War I Vet

Coach Finisdore claims Port Richmond in Philadelphia as his birthplace, but at the age of three he talked his family into moving to Wayne so he could be closer to his adopted Alma Mater, Villanova. He attended Radnor High and did a little post graduate work in the U.S. Navy where he spent the years 1917-19. Tony is married and the father of six, three of each. The oldest boy, Joseph, has just come out of the Navy after 33 months service.

Tony's Choice

As an authority on Villanova's ball teams, Tony's reminiscences of the past sixteen years were written up two weeks ago on the Inquirer's sport page. He considers the 1937 and 1938 undefeated football teams as the best he has seen here. The two best tackles in his opinion were Jordan Oliver and Johnny Mellus. The two best backs, Andy Stopper and the late Nick Basca.

But Tony's interest in sports is not just academic. He pitched for many years or the Wayne Men's Club of the Main Line League. The game he remembers best is the one he pitched against the ICBU from Ardmore, that went 11 innings for a score of 4-3.

Helps With Dances

In the many dances that he has helped to organize down at the Field House, Tony has had the opportunity to meet the leaders of all the name bands that have played here. He reels off the well known names of Glenn Gray of Casa Loma fame, the late Hal Kemp, Horace Heidt, Clayton Noble, and many others. The present incumbent, Elliot Lawrence is a neighbor of his from Berwyn.

Students will come and go at Villanova, but the "Coach" expects to stay on as sports historian, greeter of bands, and number one rooter for Wildcat ball teams for as many years as he can take it. He likes the school and the men he works with; to him, his position is not only a job but a vocation.

State Department Offers Openings For Veterans Of World War II

Additional Foreign Service Officers are needed by the Department of State. The need for such officers has become increasingly urgent since the end of the war. Many new men are needed to fill vacancies caused by losses during the war and by the expansion of the Foreign Service Officer of the Department of State.

The State Department has decided that those men who are Veterans or who are still serving in the Armed forces will be best equipped to perform the duties which will be assigned to them and, therefore men of those classifications are being given first chance to apply and to be considered for these positions.

Eligibility Requirements

To be eligible to take the examinations for these appointments one must meet the following requirements:

1. Age: The applicant must have been born between July first 1915 and July first, 1925.
2. Citizenship: The applicant must have been a citizen for at least fifteen years prior to July, 1946.
3. Marital Status: The applicant may not be married to an alien.
4. Education: The applicant must have received a bachelor's or equivalent degree from an accredited College or University; or if his course in such a College or University was interrupted by induction into the Armed Forces, he must, at the time of submitting his application, have completed approximately three-fourths of the course required for a bachelor's or equivalent degree.
5. Language: The applicant must be able to read with reasonable facility one of the following languages: French, German, Spanish.
6. Military Service: The applicant must be a member of the Armed Forces in active or inactive Status or have been honorably discharged from the Armed Forces.

An applicant must study the eligibility qualifications in order to ascertain that he fulfills the requirements. A candidate who meets these qualifications should fill out an application blank and forward it promptly to the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service, P.O. Box 592, Princeton, N. J. In order to receive consideration, blanks must be received before June 17, 1946.

Applications will be examined by the Department of State and the applicants who are designated to take the written examinations will be notified of the centers at which these examinations will be held. The written examinations will be held September 30th and October 1st, 1946. Candidates who attain an average grade of 70 or higher on the written examination will take an oral test, after which the final selections are to be made.

Forms Available

Application blanks are available at the Department of State, Civil Service Regional Offices, offices of the Veteran's administration, or, in case of Veteran's at College, at the office of the Dean. Applicants on active duty in the Armed Forces may obtain application blanks through appropriate channels.

Additional information and literature giving the needs and opportunities of the Foreign Service of the United States are available at any of the offices where the applications blanks are secured.

President Truman in a letter to the Secretary of State James F. Byrnes on January 8th, 1946, expressed his opinion on the plan. The letter stated in part, "It is my understanding that the forthcoming examination is being held primarily for qualified Veterans and members of the Armed Forces, particularly those whose military duties prevented them from taking part in the previous examinations. This plan has my full approval. I can think of no group of young Americans who possess to a greater extent the loyalty, integrity, and ability demanded of our Foreign Service Officers."

Debate Team

Continued From Page One

loose ends claiming that one year's training is sufficient and that the main benefit of universal training would be nationwide preparedness.

The highlight of the debate all agreed was Rothwell's contribution to the negative. Rothwell's speech was outstanding for its clearness and also for the sound proof and evidence submitted.

Confident, that with a little time to brush up they will be able to even up the score, the girls challenged the Villanova team to a return debate at Villanova next Fall.

Phillies To Play Wildcat Nine Here Monday

Baseball Team Travels For Three Games

Joe Lord Tallies For Cats

Joe Lord crosses the plate with another Villanova run in last Wednesday's game against Loyola. The Wildcats won, 9-0. Trying for a putout is Loyola catcher Johnny Pipitone.

Two Scrimmages Held; Footballers Toughen Up

Squad Tilt and University of Delaware Contest Mark Middle of Spring Practice

By N. TEDDY FALGIATORE

With a brisk April wind chilling the few scattered spectators, Villanova's football squad participated in their initial intercollegiate scrimmage against a well co-ordinated University of Delaware football eleven.

Considering that their opposition was the same undefeated 1941-42 University of Delaware team, and that most of Villanova's gridmen have not been active on the gridiron for as many as three years, the Wildcats looked fairly impressive. However, there is room for vast improvement. The defense was rather weak at times with Delaware taking advantage of the many gaps in the line. Offensively, the Villanova's were much more effective. Some of their plays were very deceptive and kept the Blue and Gold guessing. Running and plunging seemed to be the Wildcat's predominating weapons, but Lawless and O'Donnell passed effectively and kept the Monday morning quarterbacks talking about their ability to back up the "T." Rogers, Welde and McCarthy were very aggressive in the running department.

A brief resume of the scoring follows: Operating from a double-wing formation, Delaware scored its first touchdown after a few minutes of play with Gerald Doherty, a brother of Villanova's three-letter star, carrying the ball.

Villanova evened things up when Rogers ran 20 yards for pay dirt after Chick Welde, obdurate halfback, drove hard for two first downs.

In the would-be second quarter, Tom McCarthy, an ex-1942 gridman, gave those present a thrill when he galloped around end, running 15 yards for another Villanova touchdown.

The score was again tied when Doherty, persistent Delaware halfback, scampered thirty yards for Delaware's second tally.

Neither team scored until the final period. Meanwhile both squads

SCRIMMAGE Continued on Page Eight

SEEN From the Sidelines

Dan Casey, hard-hitting Villanova outfielder, was the only college player on Mickey Cochrane's 1943 Great Lakes Navy team. Dan hit .300 with the Sailors.

* * *

Coach Phil Weinert, Villanova baseball coach, has real training for handling collegians. He is the father of nine children. His son, Gene, pitched for Villanova in 1943 and 1944.

* * *

The University of Miami, 1946 Orange Bowl champions, and Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy are the newcomers on the Villanova College football slate this Fall.

* * *

Jordon Olivar, Villanova head football coach, is also a member of the college faculty. Olivar teaches Spanish. He also speaks the language fluently.

* * *

Coach Phil Weinert of Villanova played under Manager Joe McCarthy in both the National and American Leagues. Phil hurled for the Cubs under McCarthy and later saw duty with the Yankees.

* * *

Art Raimo, recently named assistant football coach at Villanova, is no newcomer to the Main Line campus. Art starred at fullback under Harry Stuhldreher and Clipper Smith.

* * *

Bill Doherty may be the first three-letter man at Villanova in several seasons. He quarterbacked the grid squad, played basketball and looms as a strong candidate for shortstop on the baseball team.

* * *

Villanova's opening football game with Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy, Sept. 14, has been designated as Homecoming Game. It will be the first Homecoming since 1941.

* * *

Hen Donohue and Bob McDonnell, Villanova pitching stars, bear such a striking resemblence

SIDELINES Continued on Page Six

Weinert Writes Instruction Book

Coach Gives Baseball Team Booklet On "Do's and Don't's"

Borrowing a tip from the educators, Phil Weinert, Villanova baseball coach, has issued a two-page booklet of do's and don'ts on baseball strategy to members of the Wildcat squad.

"If you follow the rules and think about them, I know you will be smarter and more aggressive ball players," the Villanova coach advised his players.

First and foremost on Weinert's list is the order that players should not argue with the umpires. "Dan Casey, your field captain, will handle any differences of opinion wtih the officials."

'The pitcher is not to deliver any ball to the catcher when he is on the mound unless he is sure of the sign," the booklet urges. He also advises pitchers to field ground balls hit near the mound. However, he warns, "pitchers should not try to catch high fly balls, but should call the nearest infielder."

He has instructed that the second sacker is the player to take relay throws from the right fielder. When a runner is trapped off base, infielders are instructed to chase him toward the base he previously occupied to make the final play.

"An outfield should call out if he can make the catch when there are two fielders chasing a ball hit between them," the booklet advises.

Phil, having spent seventeen years playing with both major and minor league teams, is in a good position to pass on all he has learned to the up and coming ballplayers of tomorrow.

Among the things he emphasized, by virtue of his experience, was the extreme necessity of team play. Every player must play with the other to achieve a smooth-functioning machine composed of nine men as one.

Navy, Georgetown, Loyola Are Team's Road Opponents

Chapman Brings Phils To Campus

By DON FOX

On Tuesday, April 15, Ben Chapman and his rejuvenated Blue Jays will invade the Villanova campus. Since last year when Chapman took over the coaching reins the club has been striving forward by leaps and bounds. They've changed so much in fact, that when the Umpire cries, "Play Ball," only one member of last year's starting array will be present.

Let's start with the infield. That's what the Blue Jay management did when they procured some of the best infield talent around. First, smooth Frank McCormack, was obtained from the Cincinnati Reds. Then hard hitting Jim Tabor and Skeeter Newsome were acquired from the Boston Red Sox. Along came Roy Hughes of the Cubs and the Phils kissed their infield troubles goodbye.

The outfield situation is pleasing, too. Such powerhouses as Ron Northy, Vince DiMaggio (the lone holdover) and Rollicking Lou Novikoff, the Mad Russian will patrol the outer garden. Couple this with the pitching of Raffensberger, Hughes, Rowe and you have a strictly big league combination.

Villanova students will have the opportunity to see their team perform against these diamond luminaries on April 15 at 3:00 P. M.

Chapman Versatile

Ben Chapman, who brings his Phillies team to Villanova next Monday, boasts a record in the majors and minors which few men have. Ben has played every position on the diamond, with the exception of catching.

Chapman was active even last season when he won three and lost three for the Phils for a good .500 average. In 1944 he turned in 15 wins for a Phil farm team.

Weinert's Charges Invade Capitol Area In 3 Day Road Trip

The United States Naval Academy Baseball team will play host to the Wildcat nine at Annapolis, Md., Wednesday April 10th. Navy who has ranked as one of the top college teams for the past few years, should provide the Cats with some of their best competition of the season.

The Annapolis boys under Coach Max Bishop have developed a very impressive squad, made up largely of holdovers from last year's team.

Duden Starter

Although the definite starting lineup has not been released as yet by Coach Bishop, the team taking to the field will most likely follow in this order! First Class cadet Wirt Thayer, left field; Dick Duden of last yer's erstwhile football team, in center; and Andy Frahler will play right. Last season Frahler hit .375 and drove in 25 runs; last week he homered against Fordham to give his team a one run winning margin.

Looking over the infield, we find the longball hitter Bob Hill holding down first. while Eddie Armstrong and Hal Curry, who led the team at bat last season, will hold down second and third base respectively.

Captain Jay McKie will be back at shortstop—a good leader and a polished fielder with a great arm.

Ronald Burton will most likely draw the pitching assignment and the other half of the battery will be made up in the person on Ken Woods. In case Burton does not hold up, Bishop has capable reserves in Robert Raysinger and Bob Bryan.

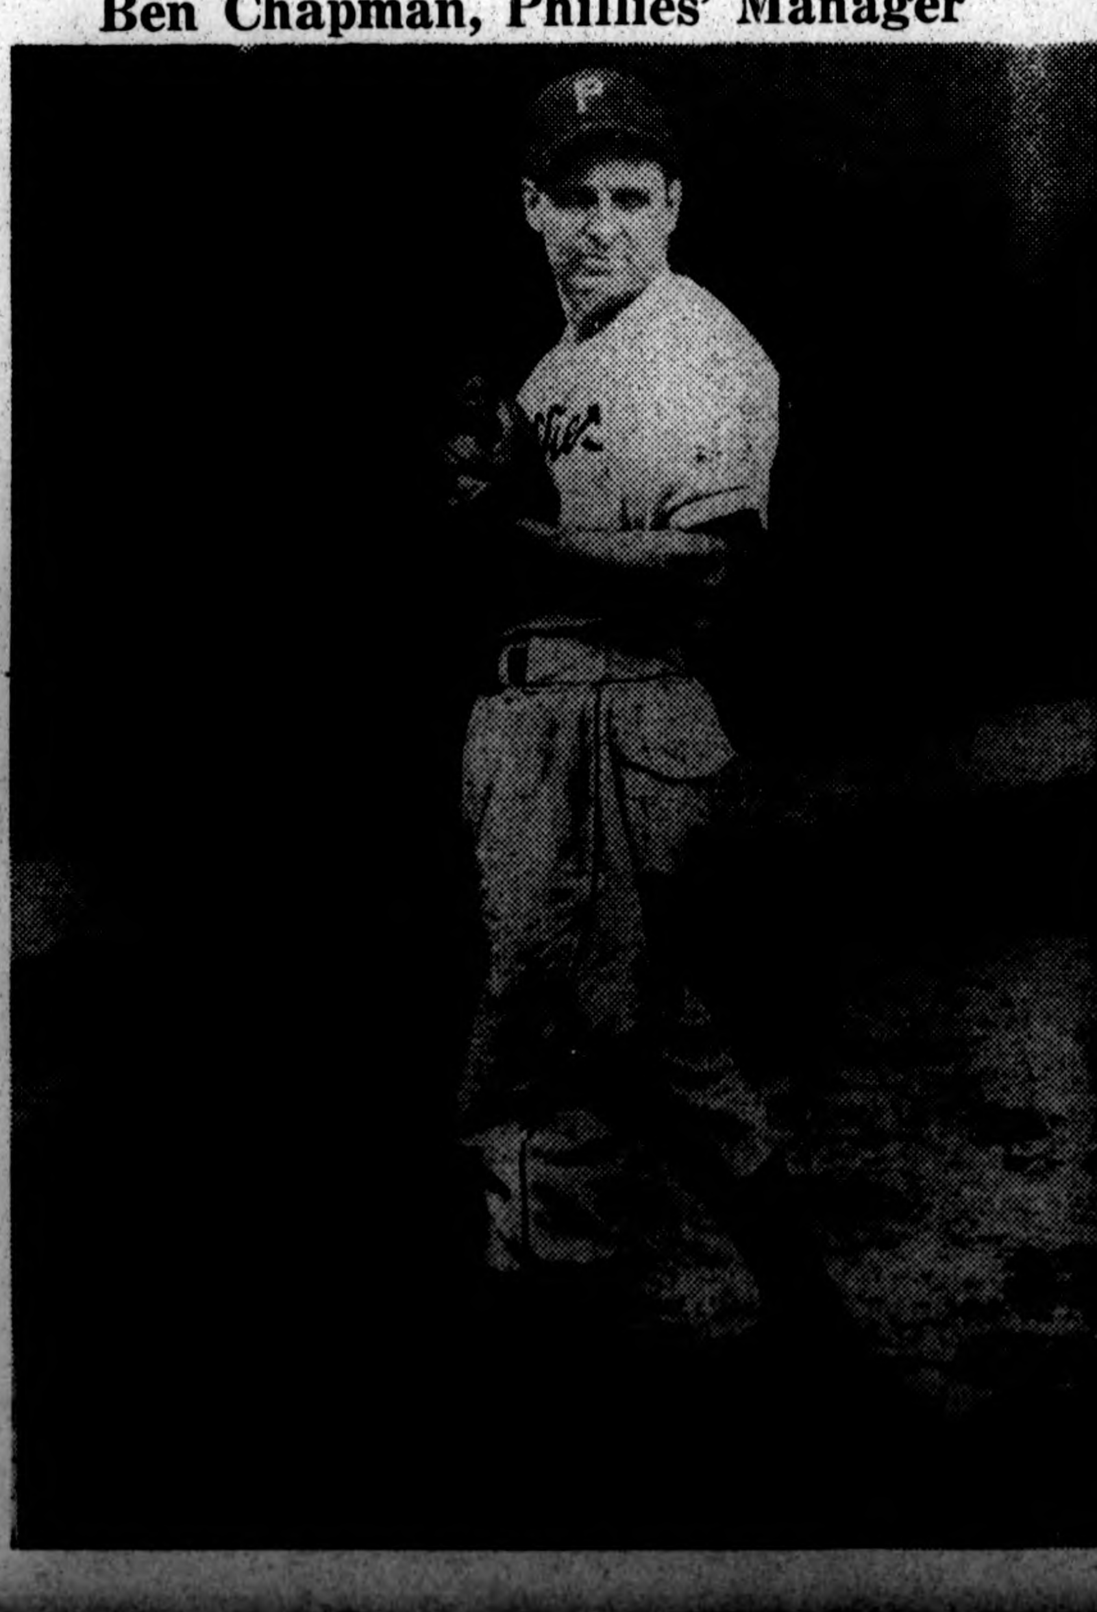
Villanova's line-up will probably be the same as it has been for the last two games with "Jigger" Donahue most likely drawing the start pitching assignment.

Georgetown Follows

After playing the Navy, the Wild-

BASEBALL Continued on Page Six

Ben Chapman, Phillies' Manager



Canning Says:—

The response of the student body to the opening games of the Wildcat's 77th baseball season was great. We actually needed two more grandstands as predicted in this column last week.

The team appreciated your all-out support and knowing you're behind them, win or lose, they're going to be fighting all the way and bringing victories for you to be proud of.

Coach Weinert wishes to extend his appreciation for the marvelous turn-out, and asks only that you refrain from calling out criticism on any errors that may be made. Errors aren't intentional. Usually they are caused by trying too hard. Calling out criticisms tends to make the individual nervous, and may affect his whole game. Instead, cheer out encouragement and support, as a true sportsman does.

—V—

Although the football squad didn't look very impressive in its scrimmage against the University of Delaware last Friday, this isn't any indication that the team isn't going to be a winning outfit. Scrimmages are held for the express purpose of ironing out the "bugs" that infect the functioning of a smooth working club and coach Olivar is capable of this assignment.

The main defect was in the tackling department. The Cats were hitting too high. They were being shaken off. — We're sure you'll see a different brand of defense in the next engagement.

On the offense, the team looked much better. That flat pass worked perfectly, while several of the running plays were very deceptive, going for long gains.

I say, that in the next scrimmage with Delaware, the Villanova Wildcats are going to be a different team—a much better one, —one that will be quite capable of taking-on any team in its heavy Fall schedule.

Sidelines

Continued From Page Five

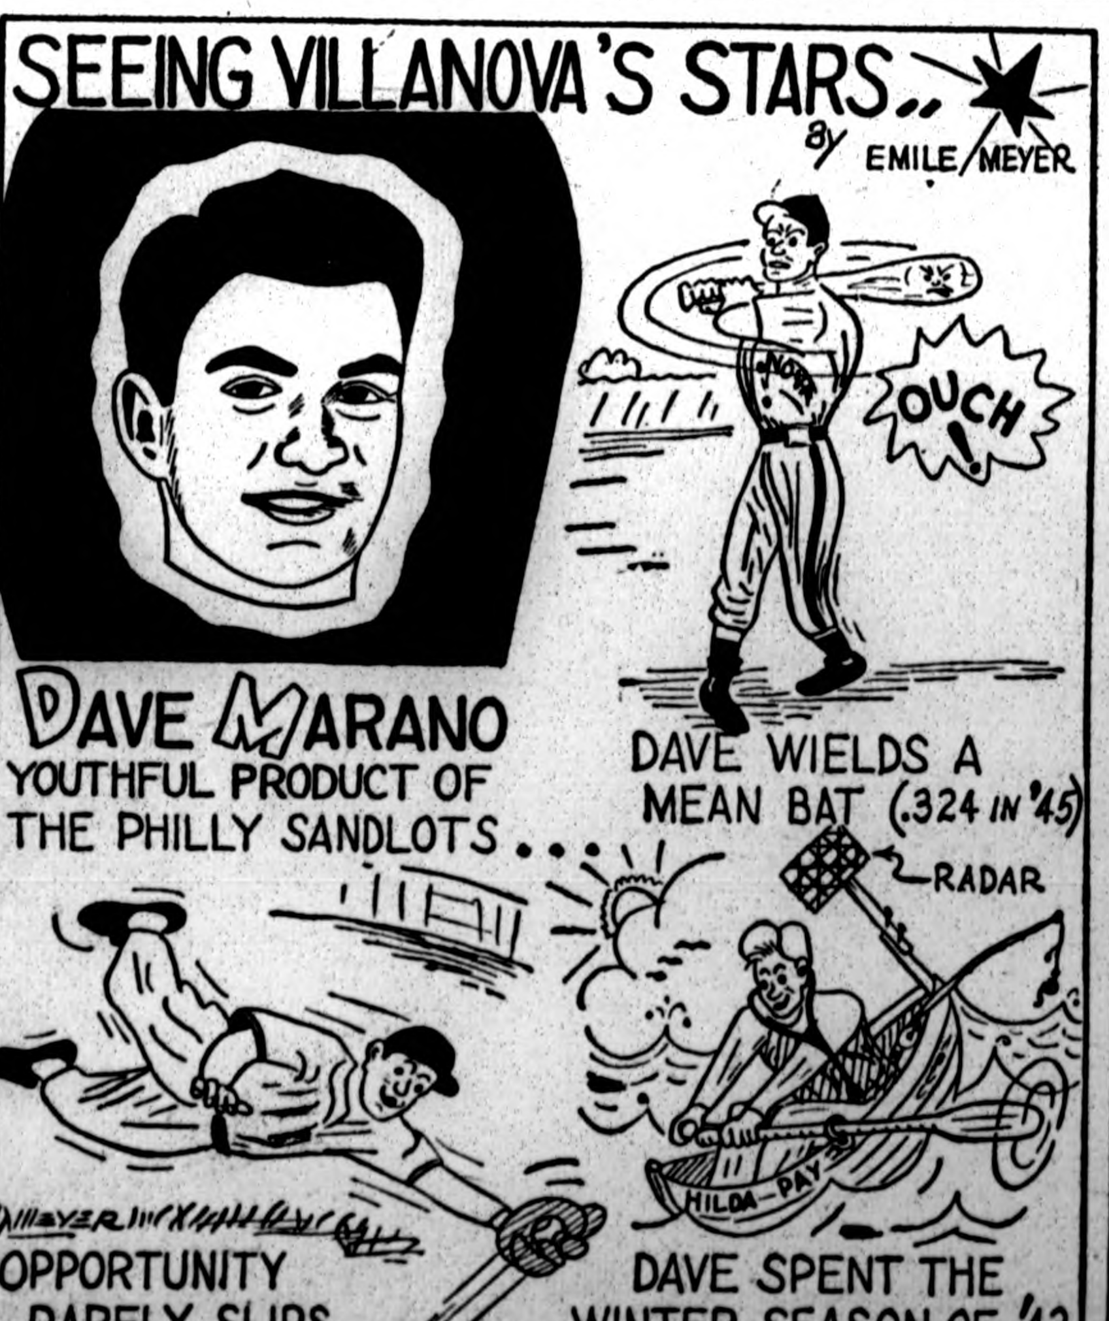
that people think they are brothers. They are roommates. McDonnell hails from Philadelphia and Donohue lives in Roxbury, Mass.

* * *

When Art Alois, Villanova football center, finished a tour of combat duty with the Army in Italy, he enrolled at the University of Milan for several courses. He also played football on an informal basis.

* * *

Villanova is playing his 77th consecutive season of intercollegiate baseball. It is one of the oldest records in America.



SEEING VILLANOVA'S STARS..
By EMILE MEYER
DAVE MARANO
YOUTHFUL PRODUCT OF THE PHILLY SANDLOTS...
DAVE WIELDS A MEAN BAT (.324 IN '45)
OUCH!
RADAR
HILDA-PAY
OPPORTUNITY RARELY SLIPS THRU HIS FINGERS...
DAVE SPENT THE WINTER SEASON OF '43 IN THE FLEET MARINES.

Charley Comerford Doubles

In the second inning of the Loyola game, lanky first baseman, Charley Comerford lashed a long ball into deep center field for two bases. He scored later in the inning with run No. 2.

Team Takes First Two Behind Good Pitching

By DAN REDMOND

Behind a neat six-hit pitching effort by Stan Chojnacki and "Jigger" Donahue, Villanova's diamond forces chalked up their second straight victory of the season by scoring a 3-2 win over the Phila. Naval Base on the Main Line field last Saturday.

The Wildcats led from the start, scoring single runs in each of the first two innings. They scored their third and game-deciding run in the fifth inning when Charlie Comerford, lanky first sacker, singled Al Litwa home. Comerford, incidentally, led the Blue and White attack with two hits.

Chojnacki and Donohue, with the exception of the innings in which the sailors scored, were never in trouble. Donohue's seven strikeout victims gave him a total of nineteen for the nine innings he has worked this year.

Phila. Naval Base

Player	AB	R	H	PO	A
Diprima, ss	3	1	1	1	3
Bugni, lf	2	0	0	1	0
Boldt, cf	3	1	0	0	0
Gregory, 1b	3	0	2	5	1
Backo, c	4	0	0	14	0
Muth, rf	2	0	0	0	0
Banins, 2b	4	0	0	0	0
Bahr, 3b	3	0	1	0	1
Koecher, p	0	0	0	0	0
Amey, p	0	0	0	0	0
Robinson, p	0	0	0	0	0
McCoy, rf	2	0	1	1	0
	29	2	6	24	6

Villanova

Player	AB	R	H	PO	A
Capriotto, rf	5	0	0	1	0
Lord, 2b	5	0	0	2	1
Casey, cf	3	1	1	0	0
Litwa, lf	4	1	1	0	0
O'Neill, c	4	0	1	9	1
Comerford, 1b	4	0	2	13	0
Marano, 3b	2	0	0	1	6
Doherty, ss	3	1	1	1	2
Chojnacki, p	2	0	1	0	4
Donohue, p	0	0	0	0	0
Boos, 3b	1	0	0	0	1
Eisenhart, lf	1	0	0	0	0
	34	3	7	27	15

Phila. Naval Base. 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 0—2
Villanova .... 1 1 0 0 1 0 0 0 x—3

By JIM McNAMARA

Last Wednesday Villanova opened its 77th baseball season with a onesided 9-0 victory over Loyola College on the home field. "Jigger" Donohue and "Major" McDonnell handled the mound duty for the Wildcats and limited the Greyhounds to six hits.

Donohue Fans 12

Donohue started and struck out the side the first three innings. He gave up a double in the third and two singles in the fifth, but both times recovered and fanned the next batter. In all, 12 batters went down via the strike out route against "Jigger's" baffling offerings in the five inning stretch. McDonnell was equally effective as he retired 6 in the last four innings. In the eighth "Major" fanned two batters with the bases loaded to insure a shutout.

In the interim the Wildcats were registering 10 safeties, including doubles by Comerford and Doherty and a double and triple by Casey. The Blue and White scored in every inning except the third.

Loyola

Player	AB	R	H	PO	A
Bardelman, 2b	3	0	0	2	2
Parr	1	0	0	0	0
Filbert, cf	3	0	1	3	0
Karwacki, cf	2	0	0	0	0
Bronushas, 3b	3	0	1	3	2
Gaudreau, ss	4	0	0	1	1
Bevans, lf	4	0	0	2	1
Cole, 1b	2	0	0	3	0
Bangs, 1b	2	0	0	4	2
Pepitone, c	3	0	3	4	0
Cahill, c	1	0	0	1	0
Roche, p	2	0	0	0	2
Barthelme, p	0	0	0	0	1
Barrett, p	0	0	0	0	0
Spurrier, rf-cf	2	0	1	0	1
Ostendorf, cf	1	0	0	1	0
	33	0	6	24	10

Villanova

Player	AB	R	H	PO	A
Capriotti, rf	3	1	1	0	0
Lord, 2b	4	2	0	4	1
Casey, cf	4	2	2	1	0
Eisenhart, lf	3	0	1	0	0
Litwa, lf	1	0	1	0	0
O'Neill, c	4	0	0	15	0
Comerford, 1b	4	1	2	2	0
Marano, 3b	4	1	1	0	1
Doherty, ss	5	2	2	1	1
Donohue, p	1	0	0	0	0
McDonnell, p	0	0	0	0	1
Nunan, c	1	0	0	4	0
Henry	1	0	0	0	0
	35	9	10	27	14

Baseball

Continued From Page Five

cats move into the Capital City, Washington, for an afternoon game with Georgetown University. Georgetown's coach has not as yet released a starting line-up, but his nine will be a hard one to beat. Villanova, of course, will be striving to boost their win column and Georgetown will, beyond the shadow of a doubt, be trying for the same objective. The Wildcats have a two-sport sweep staring them in the face if they overcome the Washington team because the Cat Basketball squad took two games from the Capital City men last Winter.

On Friday, April 12th, the Wildcats' baseball team will travel to Baltimore, Md. to engage Loyola College in the second game of the home and home series. The Weinertmen defeated the Greyhounds in the first game here at Villanova behind the superb pitching of "Jigger" Donahue and "Major" McDonnell by the score 9-0.

Loyola will have the advantage in this game as it will be played on Loyola's home diamond. Coach Weinert will start the same team with probably a different pitching combination.

In The Sports News 10 Years Ago At Villanova

Browsing through the sports-pages of yesterday we find that in February, 1935 our present track coach, "Jumbo" Elliot, was making track history for Villanova as captain of the team—runing so close a second in the 600 yard dash that he actually drove his opponent, Hornbostel, on to a record finish. In the National A.A.U. a few weeks later he finished but two seconds off the winning time in the 600 yard event.

Another name of that day was Tony Sala who while representing the Blue and White in boxing defeated an Army mittman to capture the intercollegiate boxing crown. In the following year, 1936, he successfully defended that title. Not only did Sala star in boxing, for he was also captain of the Wildcat footballers.

Topping the list of Blue and White Court stars for '35 was Mike O'Meara who finished the season with 136 points and one year later missed that mark by only five points.

Just as successful were the Frosh teams of those days, winning 21 out of 23 games in '35, and 17 out of 17 in '36.

During Spring training of 1936, Coach Stuhldreher ended his eleven year career as Wildcat Football mentor. Doc Jacobs was getting his baseballers in shape for a heavy schedule which included such teams as Navy, Penn, Harvard, Fordham, and Temple.

Keen competition existed between Villanova and Temple in every sport, especially football—the Temple-Villanova game being the classic of the season.

Intramural sports were very prominent in the college life of ten years ago. Keen rivalries existed between the various residence halls and the Mendel "day hops." Alumni Hall defeated Mendel to take basketball honors for '35 and came back the next year to beat the Austinites for the intramural crown. They later took over Temple's intramural champs to the tune of 33-30.

Kearney Says:—

War veterans would have done well to witness the performance of one Ray Bevans on the Villanova baseball diamond last Wednesday. It would have been a gratifying sight to those men who have been permanently, or even temporarily handicapped through wounds received in action.

Ray, unfortunately, lost his right arm in his childhood and ever since then has been carrying on with an indominable spirit. He played left field with the Loyola ball team and made a beautiful pair of plays in the outfield. During batting practice, Ray made three fine hits, and held his own with the rest of the team.

By far the most amazing part of this story is the fact that Ray was a right hander by nature and despite his handicap still does everything righthanded. He bats, unlike Pete Gray and other one-armed ball-players, with his left arm facing the pitcher while he stands on the third base side of the plate. He manages to get surprising amount of power into his swing.

Ray doesn't confine his ability to the baseball diamond, but also performs equally well in football, soccer, lacross and basketball. He was the fifth highest batter on the squad last year. Furthermore, he turned his talents to pitching for a while and ended up with the lowest earned run average for the Loyola moundsmen.

Yes, Ray Bevans rates a 4.0 in courage and spunk and gets more than that. Ray has managed to become a successful athlete despite his great hindrance. We really can appreciate the fact that "you can't keep a good man down," thanks to fellows like Ray Bevans, Pete Gray, Bert Shepherd, Jack Sanders, Monty Stratton and many others like them. They are, in their own field, the best athletes, the finest sports and the greatest soldiers in the world. Our hats are off to them.

In The Sportlight

By JIM MUDD

Francis O'Neill claims as his hometown, Philadelphia, where he was born on June 2, 1923. He completed his elementary education at St. Francis de Sales Parochial School and from there went to West Catholic High. Here he starred on the varsity basketball team. As West had no baseball squad, Frank joined the McCall post, American Legion team. He matriculated at Villanova in 1941 and went out for the freshman baseball nine where he made good as a catcher.

A call to active duty in the Army Air Forces interrupted O'Neill's college career in February, 1943, and he was off to San Antonio as an air cadet. While in training, his skill behind the plate gained him a berth on the S.A.A.C.C. team which claimed such major leaguers as Enos Slaughter, Howie Pollet, and Del Wilbur. This team won the playoffs in the Texas League.

After graduating from the cadet school as a pilot, Frank was attached to the Eighth Air Force in England in December, 1944. He completed twenty-five missions, piloting B-24's, with the 466th Bombardment Group in his seven months of overseas duty. For three months after returning to the states, he was an instructor.

Discharged on October 22, 1945, he returned to Villanova to continue his education. Presently Frank is proving true to form in holding down his backstop position for the Blue and White nine as well as slugging those long balls to the outfield.

Meet the Boys

By CHARLES J. McCARTHY

This week your history seeking reporter managed to dig up a few interesting facts from the past of Jim Riley, J. E. White and Joe Pezelski.

A glimpse at my note book shows that one James Power Riley was born in Belle Harbor, Long Island, New York, on the night of November 10, 1924. Yes, that is when Jim first started to make himself known to the world.

Grammar school was Jim's first stop in the travels of education and the School was St. Augustine's Parochial School in Larchmont, N. Y. Along about the fifth grade Jim started to wield the tennis racket. Football and baseball also drew Jim's attention, and St. Augustine's sports teams were bolstered by young Mr. Riley.

Excelled in Tennis

When Jimmy went to Iona Prep in New Rochelle, N. Y., his sports agility was soon noticed by the powers in charge. The result was that he became an intrinsic part of the football and baseball teams. However, it was not in these two sports that Jim was 'player perfect'. It was in tennis that our hero excelled. In his senior year at Iona Jim was selected to captain his team, and did an excellent job of it.

JAMES RILEY

Literary ability was present in Mr. Riley as well as sports talent. So, he became a member of the school newspaper contributing much to that journalistic endeavor.

Joins Army Ski Troops

In October of 1942 Villanova became Jim Riley's Alma Mater. Jim was enrolled in the School of Commerce and Finance as a pre-law student, and played a considerable bit of intramural sports. But alas, in the following February, it was off to the Army Ski Troops for Jim. For a year the Army managed to keep him busy, but in March of 1944 our boy managed to get out of the Army and returned to Villanova.

Vice President of D. P. E.

As Vice President of the D. P. E. frat, Jim has been active about the campus since his return, and has served on the orientation committee and in the Spanish club.

Following graduation in June, Jim hopes to enter either Columbia or St. John's College of New York to study for his intended career as a lawyer.

J. Edward White, a member of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps, is the next man on the list. J. E. was born in Carrick, Penna., which is a suburb of Pittsburgh on the twenty-second day of January 1926.

Ed, as he prefers to be called, spent the first years of life playing gayly in his southwestern suburb of the Smoky City attending St. Basils grammar school when he became of school age. From St. Basils he went to Carrick Senior High School.

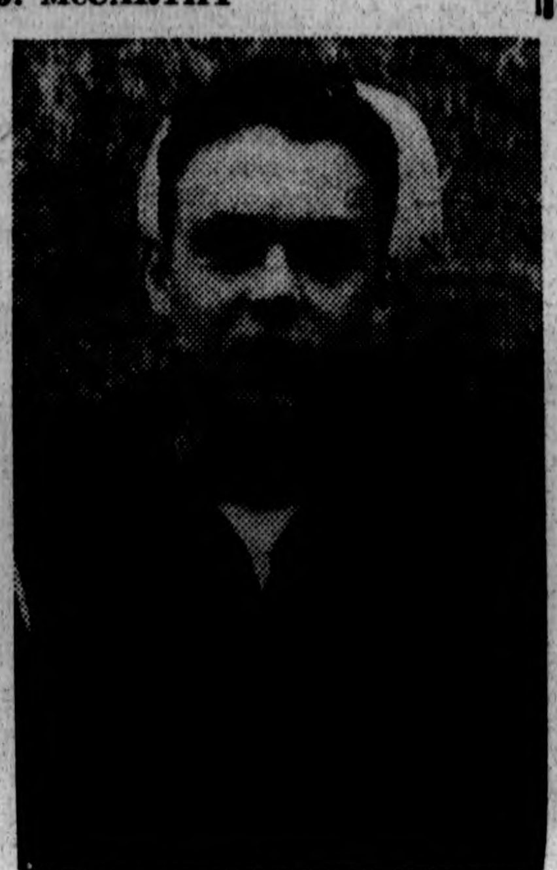
Excelled in Swimming

"Captain White" is what the members of the Carrick High swimming team called him, for J. E. took to water like a duck and was the natural to lead the school mermen in battle. However, splashing his way to fame was not good enough for Mr. White. So he added soccer to his sporting activities playing center forward.

As in the case of so many of the great men in the world the ability to write was dominant in J. Edward. For this reason he became an intricate part of the "Carrickulum" which is the yearbook at Carrick High. He also graduated with honors from Carrick.

Priesthood Candidate

Following graduation from high school, J.E. entered St. Vincents College as a candidate for the priesthood. He remained there for a year, and then he decided that he should enter the V-5 Naval Aviation program. Therefore, in the Fall of 1943 he entered Bloomsburg State Teachers College where he spent four months. Then in July of 1944 when the Navy decided to curtail their flying training program, J. Edward was transferred into V-12 and sent to Villanova.



J. EDWARD WHITE

Member of Villanova

While here Ed has been a member of both the Villanovan Staff and the Yearbook staff. He is majoring in Naval Science now. However, Ed would like to get out of the Navy and return to St. Vincent's to continue his study for the priesthood. This is impossible right now though for his life for the next few years has been planned by the Navy.

The last man in the column this week is far from the least for his past, present and future make him one of Villanova's most outstanding students. He is none other than Joseph Charles Pezelski. Joe started on his merry way through life on June 7, 1920 in Mt. Carmel, Penna.

To Play Pro Football

This Fall the name of Joe Pezelski no doubt will appear quite often in the Buffalo papers, for Joe is now under contract to the Buffalo Bisons to play pro football in the newly formed All-American League.

JOE PEZELSKI

Joe will play halfback, and will have another former Wildcat on the team with him in the person of Sammy Bray, '39.

Joe's signing a pro contract is no surprise, for all the way back in Joe's history he has been a standout ball player. When he was still quite small Joe used to play ball with the teams in Mt. Carmel. However, it was not until he started at Kulpmont High School that he started to polish into a stellar player.

Stars As Halfback

At Kulpmont High Joe starred as halfback on the football team and played forward on the basketball team. Besides this, he also ran sprints for the track team and did some broad jumping.

In September of 1940 Joe entered Villanova taking Accounting in the C and F School. In the 1941 and 1942 seasons headlines throughout this section of the country acclaimed Joe Pezelski as one of the best backs in the east. Then in July of 1943 Joe started a new life which led to a trip to the Pacific.

In Okinawa Invasion

Joe was a Marine Lieutenant and took part in the invasion of Okinawa as well as many of the other battles in the Pacific. His duties carried him to many of the islands including the Philippine Islands and the Islands of Japan.

In January of this year Joe was discharged from the Marines and returned to Villanova to finish out his last term of college. In June Joe Pezelski will leave Villanova and in the Fall he will join the pro ball players of the nation.

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Three

tion of a new $1,000,000 building, President Carl S. Ell of the institution disclosed that the finished building will be ready for occupancy during the summer of 1947. The Northeastern News, the university's official tabloid, explained that although the building is designed for large-scale use by the students and activities groups, there will be additional classroom space. The main feature of the building will be an auditorium with a seating capacity of twelve hundred people.

* * *

Old Slow Poke: "Mr. Jackson, er—that is, I would like to er—that is, I mean, I have been going with your daughter for five years."

Mr. Jackson: "Well, whadda ya want? A pension?"

* * *

"So you're setting your college graduate son up in the bakery business?"

"Yes, he's so keen for dough and such a swell loafer it looks as if he will rise."

—West Catholic News.

* * *

Pat: "Have you christened the new baby yet?"
Mike: "We have."
Pat: "An' what did ye call it?"
Mike: "Hazel."
Pat: "Shure an' with 223 saints to name it after you have to go and name it after a nut!"

* * *

Waiter, trying to help customer order his meal: "The potatoes are very good, Sir."
Customer: "Oh, really?"
Waiter: "No, au gratin."

—The Tatler.

* * *

"What have you done," St. Peter asked,
"That I should admit you here?"
"I was an editor," the guy replied.
"At my college one long year."
St. Peter pityingly shook his head
And gravely touched the bell.
"Come in, poor thing, select a harp;
"You've had your share of hell!"

—The Varsity News.

* * *

The Varsity News, University of Detroit publication, supplies, this column with the following definition of the meanest guy in the world (excluding professors, restaurant proprietors, and income tax collectors): the guy who put the tack on the electric chair.

* * *

It's easy enough to look pleasant
When spring comes along with a rush,
But the fella worthwhile
Is the one who can smile
When he slips and goes down in the slush.

—Salem Green-and-White.

Have you heard about the Scotsman who died of apoplexy? He was tossing pennies from his window and the string broke.

* * *

Once I knew a little girl
Who was ten, going on eleven.
Now that dame is thirty-eight
And going on twenty-seven.

—St. Ignatius "Red and Blue.

Current Fiction

Continued From Page Three

criterions used in evaluating the talent of an author. Occasionally Mrs. O'Donnell's prose slipped into a sort of prose-poetry which I do not like, but on the whole her writing is clear and to the point.

AUTHOR'S TALENT INDICATED

It has long been my opinion that the worth of a book is not to be found in the first few chapters, but in the last. Many novels end so ineffectively that one can almost visualize the author, bored with his task, dashing off the last chapters in a half-hearted manner. Even the writing and style deteriorate. The result, of course, is a letdown for the reader. Despite the natural culmination of her novel in the end of Leah's day, Mrs. O'Donnell must have experienced difficulty in finishing it since it deals not so much with a single situation as with singular portions of her many character's lives. The fact that she was able to end her novel gracefully and cleanly under these exceptional circumstances is a further indication of the author's talent as a writer.

Foreign Correspondent

By BILL GOLDEN

Your correspondent has been having himself a nutz of a good time this week. Contacted ChestNUT Hill and took out an "Almond." She was candy coated (sweet, what I mean!, believe me. Bubbling over with information re her Alma Mater . . . took a little squeezing (figuratively speaking, gentlemen, figuratively speaking!) to get it out of her, though. But once she got started . . . ! "Sally" is the first name, fellas. Sorry, we can't give out that information. Might try the phone book . . . better yet, ask Don Collins (He's got an in with the mothers).

Sally's school hit the limelight when her Sophomore class invited KILROY and his Villanova buddies out to the Sunday 'Open House'—2:30 to 5:30 (tea time) March 31. The inside info, men, is that the gals were "sim-pa-ly tha-rilled" that we gave them a break. (Getting tired of St. Joe's and La Salle, don't you know.) I understand I missed a very enjoyable afternoon by not tagging along.

Adorning the campus grounds that afternoon were several of the Hill's artistic beauties doing artistry. No one could figure out exactly what they were sketching, but they made pretty pictures . . . and besides, Dali's doing all right for a living! The hatcheck girls were very courteous and the dancing dollies managed to escort almost every guest over the dance floor. All were introduced to the center of attraction, the refreshment table (that old saying, "the way to a man's heart. . ."!) Only two objections to the whole affair—shortage of women and shortage of liquor . . .er, uh, coke. Otherwise, the dance was a huge success!

Sal's class received their caps and gowns last Thursday which is a nice way the faculty has for saying:

We're proud of you young lassies;
You've done well in all your classies.

Those brainy belles of the Hills, called "Seniors," proved they were real pedigreed Chestnuts (just nutz) when, for their annual Senior Entertainment Night last week they presented "Dial Delights," a parody on popular radio programs, such as "Don's Other Wife," "Childrens Hour," and so forth. Fred Waring's "Pennsylvanians" soothed the audience and Spike Jones' "Chloe" woke 'em up again. For those among the audience who couldn't speak English, the belles very considerately presented "The Spanish Hour" . . . which was just what it sound like, and, incidently, reminds me of a story . . . if you'll bear with me (By the way, "Dial Delights" was a huge success):

A young Chinese student came to New York to study at Columbia University. He had the proper credentials, but he was told that he could not enter Columbia until he had learned the language of the country. Accordingly he secured a job on the lower East Side and waited patiently.

A year later he returned to Columbia and announced that he could now speak the language of the country.

But, much to his surprise, the secretary could understand not a word of what he was saying. Turning to one of the students who happened to be in the office, she asked, "Are you able to make him out?"

"Of course," laughed the student. "This isn't English he talking, it's Yiddish!"

(That's a joke, Son!)

Well, now that that's over with, let's hike back to Chestnut Hill. In the field of sports the Mounties really shine. (The "sweet things" are sometimes referred to as "Mounties" because Chestnut Hill College was once known as Mount Saint Josephs.) Last week they winged a 5-0 victory over Swarthmore in Badminton, and a little before that they forced our neighbors, the "Rosies of Rosemont" into yielding four out of five matches. So far the shuttlecock squad have lost only two games and won four. But this isn't the only sport they excel in. The Mounties' basketeers wound up the season with four wins against three loses. In the last twelve seconds of a game with Rosemont (again!) March 15 they topped the Rose and Grey 45-43. In athletics, these gals are a huge success.

To while away their numerous leisure hours at the college, the Hillers take to the "Tobacco Road" or the Cafe, light up their pipes and cigars and reminisce about their latest tangles with Villanova gentlemen. Those who don't care to discuss those matters, bring along a deck of cards and play a little poker . . . er, uh, bridge. The Mounties are going to pick eight of these card sharks to represent them in the Intercollege Bridge Tournament sponsored by the Intercollege Bridge Association.

These eight will be selected by means of a "duplicate bridge" arrangement. (This process consists of arranging the cards ahead of time so that the cards at each table are distributed in just the same way. Then, whichever table makes the most of the hand, owes it to skill, not luck . . . you may be sure.) Through this same system the fifteen highest scorers from the various men's and women's colleges entered in the tournament will meet in New York to play the finals sometime in April. If one of these eight Mounties is picked she will go to New York, stay at the Ritz-Carlton, and have all expenses paid, and get a charm bracelet and gold loving cup, to boot. Why hasn't Villanova been introduced to this before? Perhaps we're not the card sharks the Mounties are! Maybe they could answer O. Henry's question which he put to a friend who was just about as good a card player as they are:

"Tell me, Jim," said O! Henry, "when you play poker, does a good deal depend on luck, or does luck depend on a good deal?" Anyway, as card players these female gems are a huge success.

To prove they're honest to goodness females, they live up to woman's fame of always getting the better of the man in an argument. Someone once said, Eve was the first loud-speaker. Anyhow, last week the Chestnut Hill Debating Society defeated St. Josephs in a terrific tongue duel. Topic of debate was "Resolved that the System of Permanent Membership in the Security Council should be abolished." (Take note, Beta Gamma.) As honest to goodness women, those females are a huge success.

And so, dear reader (hope you're still with us), if you've learned anything new and more interesting about Chestnut Hill by reading this column, you have only to thank Sal. In fact, I wish to thank her myself.

In spite of Don's "efficiency" we had a swell time at the Villanovan Dinner, didn't we? Regards to "Hobie" (believe it or not, that's the model '31 Chevie which saved me a little over two—I said t-w-o—hours from Sally's to the Covered Wagon, and back). As a date and a pal, Sal, you a . . . that's right . . . A HUGE SUCCESS!

Smears And Cheers

Continued From Page Three

ing with Art Alois "Tiger" Moonan it seems has decided to become a detective . . . Rosemont has been monopolizing a great deal of Phil Appleby's time. We are told that he has become quite the rave of Rosemont . . . Don Collins was seen at the Academy of Music with (as it was reported to us) a very beautiful girl . . . Ted Garcia has been spending an awful lot of time going to see his "uncle". (Well, at least that's a new excuse) . . . Stan Kuschick's girl came all the way down from her home in Brooklyn just to see him. Isn't that sweet? . . . Tony Menalis has been getting packages regularly from a little nurse. The Mendel Hall boys certainly do appreciate the victuals found therein . . . Lou Ammon has been dating the daughter of a prominent telephone magnate . . . Ray (Captain) Kelm disappears every weekend. Nobody seems to know where he goes. However, we can tell you that he returns every Sunday evening with battle scars . . . If you happen to be looking for Jack McNamara some afternoon and you can't find him on the Villanova campus, try Rosemont. Need we say more? . . . Richard La Morte plans to become a statistician. At least he has been deeply engrossed in studying the statistics of one particular institution on the campus . . . John Ciotola was rather annoyed the other night at the P.I.A.A. semi-finals when a native Pennsylvanian asked him what Hazelton was, and if it is in Pennsylvania . . . "Douggie" Dwyer of Alumni hall still has the flame burning for Pat MacD. We wonder if she is still delivering telegrams.

So for another week we—30—our copy and head home for Hoffman's.

STAFF MEETING

A meeting of the Villanovan staff will be held in the paper's Office tomorrow at 12:45 P. M.

The important question of Circulation will again be discussed and all suggestions for accelerating the mailing will be considered.

Ex-Editors Back To Haunt Paper

An Attempt To Explain Their Rise To Obscurity

"We three, we're all alone, living in our memories," D.R., J.B. and P.C. Excuse us for butting in like this, but it seems that Russ Welsh had some space left over this week and someone heard him remark is despair, "Put any old crummy thing in, I don't care!"

So here we are, three crummy . . . whoops! That's not right. The three names, Dave Ryan, John Burns and Paul Carmichael, which all appeared at various intervals gloriously shining at the top of the masthead and labeled editor-in-chief are no longer there. Look down at the list of staff writers and notice our rise to success. Yes, we've finally made the staff, we told everybody that, but they wouldn't believe us.

The secret of promotion to the Villanovan staff is a simple one. You see, quoting John Burns, "They made us editors because we couldn't write." Now that we've learned the essentials of news writing, we've been de-promoted to the hall of fame.

No longer plagued by a deadline which hangs heavy like the sword of Damocles over the editor's head, we sit home and snicker every Monday evening, wondering how Russ will look with a depilatory dome.

Not satisfied that we made such a great success (?) of our own scandal sheets, we have now become the office drones, appearing and disappearing at specified times telling Russ and the boys what a terrible sheet he's editing. "Why when I was editor . . ." is a famous phrase that Russ Welsh, by now, has memorized to the point of distraction. Of course, this is nothing more than a fifth column inaugurated to discourage any attempt at better things. But we're really not that mean.

Frosh Nominate

Continued From Page One

For the office of Secretary:
  Michell Budzilowicz — Freshman II
  Lou Rabaut—Freshman I
For the office of Treasurer:
  Bob Suarez—Freshman II
  Frank Doyle—Freshman II
  Jerry Carney—Freshman II
For Representative to Student Council:
  Edward Flood—Freshman II
  Jerry Connors—Freshman II
  Frank Cole—Freshman II

The above nominations have been sent to the Vice President's office. As soon as they are officially approved the elections will be held.

VILLANOVA EX-SERVICEMEN
JUST A PENNY POSTCARD
IS ALL WE ASK
DROP US A LINE
TO LET US KNOW WHEN
YOU HAVE BEEN DISCHARGED
The Alumni Secretary
Villanova College,
Villanova, Pa.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

For Expert Convenient
Attention
The Campus
Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

Government Eases Limits On Material

Continued From Page One

ministration will assist schools in obtaining scarce materials and equipment to enlarge inadequate existing facilities."

State Offices to Aid

Thirdly, the Office of Education and Retraining and Reemployment Administration will sponsor State and regional offices to guide prospective students to vacancies in schools and colleges.

The fourth activity will see to it that laboratory materials and all other equipment needed by schools and colleges will be distributed to these organizations as speedily as possible.

To Expand Facilities

Previous to these new government directives Father McGuire was told by the Regional Director of the CPA that Colleges and Universities would be granted permission by the CPA to expand their facilities. However the CPA would not promise assistance in obtaining priorities on scarce materials to be used in construction work. The new ruling will probably supercede the old one, and Villanova will no doubt be granted full permission and assistance in its undertakings.

Aviation Club

Continued From Page One

to the meeting in Mendel Hall today. He pointed out during an interview that one need not have any flying experience to become a member of this group, for membership is open to all interested in aviation regardless of experience.

When asked whether or not the college authorities would back such an organization, Vice-President Rev. Edward B. McKee said: "If enough of the boys are interested in a club of this sort and if an official club would help the boys reach their objectives, we will be glad to assist them."

Today twenty-five former Army, Navy, Marine and Civilian pilots have voiced their approval of the idea of having an official club here on the campus to aid all those interested in learning how to fly to do so.

To Discuss Schedule

The men who attended the few meetings held last week are expected to be just the first of the many men who will later join in this program. They are: W. A. Altenpohl,, C. J. McCarthy, A. J. Mehan, J. Murphy, S. Gasparovic, D. Blake, J. Doley, J. Bonner, J. C. DeMartino, W. Overbeck, J. Gattuso, F. L. McDonald, J. J. O'Shea, E. M. Mazurkiewicz, E. Conway, W. Dougherty, E. Pfiefer, D. Fisher, J. W. McCarthy, J. Dilaney, P. P. Dever, H. J. Datte, and LaMort.

There are many problems which will have to be solved before the club may swing into action—problems such as: where to fly, whether it would be possible for the club to own a plane, and how to schedule flying time. They are but a few of the many complex features of such an undertaking.

If for any reason a student interested will not be able to attend the meeting, he may contact Bill Altenpohl, any day in the Villanovan Office between 1:00 and 1:40.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

Student Council Elections Soon

Council Announces All Class Nominations Are Approved By Administration In Full

The election of Student Council officers for next semester was held Monday afternoon. President Joe Hoffman admonished the men to give special attention to the voting so that only men who have shown by past performance their capacity and energy would be elected to carry on the all-important job of collegiate reconversion. Only those men who served on the Council last semester will be eligible either to vote or to be elected.

In an announcement last week, Mr. Hoffman stated that the nominations for the officers of the respective classes were approved "in toto" by the administration and that the election dates would be announced sometime next week. The Student Council as usual will be in complete control of the elections.

Election of officers will be the first step in class reorganization. When the results of the elections are known, there will be class meetings called at which the classes will be formally presented to their officers and to their moderators who are to be chosen by Father McKee. It is planned that the classes will be resumed on their old basis, including an official bank account to underwrite class functions.

Scrimmage

Continued From Page Five

exhibited some excellent plays, and were a little stronger defensively. Tom Smith and Lou Ferry were exceptionally noticeable linemen. Art Alois, Milt Kormanicki, and John Witsch, centers and line backers, still make this position a toss-up. Alvarez, Downey, Kane, Santocroce, Zimba, and others too numerous to mention all looked good in their respective positions.

It is still too early to predict just what the 1946 season holds for the Wildcats. The scrimmage cannot allow us to be dogmatic, for the purpose of a scrimmage is to find the weak spots. Jordon Olivar, Coach, kept sending in full team substitutions, plus individual subs, but it is doubtful if he considered any of the combinations his regulars. Instead, no doubt, the coach will have to make a composite of the groups.

Starting Lineup

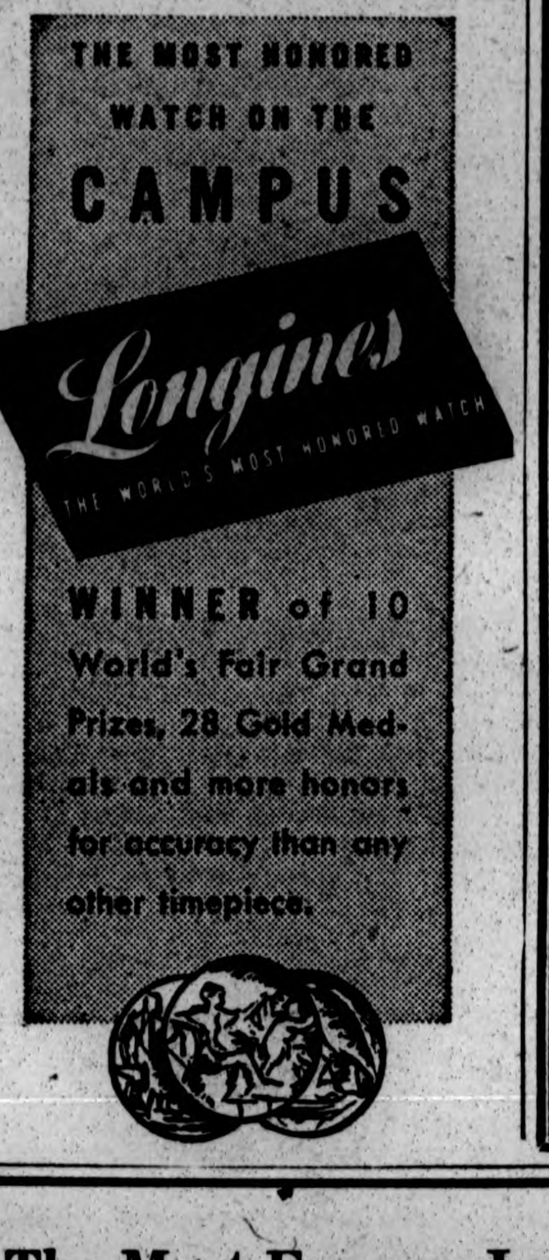
Delaware		Villanova
Zink	LE	Kane
Staloni	LT	Downey
Mettenct	LG	Barker
Glisson	C	Alois
Coulter	RG	Smith.
Campbell	RT	Carlin
Jones	RE	Berrang
Hearn	QB	Lawless
Doherty	LHB	Welde
Spizato	RHB	Rogers
Hart	FB	McPeak

Substitutions

Villanova: Line—Riley, Kormanicki, Witsch, Santocroce, Coleman, Zimba, Ferry, Serkerchak. Backs—McCarthy, Dost, Janson, Graziani, Polidor, Sweeney, O'Donnel.

Delaware: Line—Greaneki, Adelyotte, Papy, Northwood, Lockerman, Staloni, Line, Isaac, Livizos, Jeriminski, Rothrock. Backs — Walls, Griffith, Cain, Dantinni, McAllister, Cathaldi, Jones, D.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.



THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS
Longines
THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER of 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

The Most Famous Inn on the Main Line
The Old Covered Wagon Inn
DANCING NIGHTLY
FINEST OF FOODS
For Reservations Call Wayne 1169

ICE
Aristocrat
CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Presenting the new and greater Coca-Cola
SPOTLIGHT BANDS
WIP
9:30 P. M.
MUTUAL NETWORK
Ask your friends over for Coke and Music
Music that's tops by three top bands—the same big three every week.
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.
© 1946 The C-C Co.

EVERY MON.
GUY LOMBARDO
EVERY WED.
XAVIER CUGAT
EVERY FRI.
HARRY JAMES
DRINK Coca-Cola

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 6 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, APRIL 16, 1946

Cardinal Tien Visits Campus

Junior Class To Sign Lee Castle For Formal Prom In Late May

Tickets Will Go On Sale Easter Monday; All Students Urged To Support Formal Dance

Villanova, gearing itself by leaps and bounds to the demands for peace-time extracurricular activities and social functions, will present the Junior Prom on Friday night, May 24, in the Field House. This dance, following close on the heels of the Inter-Frat Ball, scheduled for April 27, in the Field House, will mark the high-spot of the current semester's social season.

Following the precedent of former years, the prom will feature the music of one of the outstanding name bands in popular music circles. Although the formal contract agreement will not be signed until sometime tomorrow, it is expected that Chairman of the Orchestra Committee, Ed Keller, will have procured the services of Lee Castle. Known for his excellent radio performances, Castle is now playing out an engagement in New York City. He formerly was a member of Tommy Dorsey's band as a trumpet player.

Larry Fallon, Chairman of the Ticket Committee, has advised all "promenaders" to purchase their tickets early in order to take advantage of the flat $5.00 charge which will prevail up to and including May 18. After that date the charge will be raised fifty cents to $5.50.

Tickets will officially go on sale on Easter Monday, and may be purchased from any member of the Ticket Committee, or its aides, at any time until the day of the dance. However, Fallon has asked for the cooperation of students, Alumni, and friends of Villanova to purchase their tickets early in order to facilitate matters for the various prom committees.

Don Collins, Prom Chairman, in releasing the news of the Prom, emphasized the need for full student support of the affair. He pointed out that the members of the various committees have worked

JUNIOR PROM
Continued on Page Four

Frats Will Folic In Pre-War Style On April 27th

Lawrence and Ezra Stone Here With Treasury Bandstand For Dance

Villanova is about ready for another dance. The Interfraternity dance is all set to roll and Elliot Lawrence will be in the Field house on Saturday, April 27 to thrill the guests with his excellent music.

Elliot Lawrence; a lot has been written about Mr. Lawrence and his band in the last few weeks. Here is a brief recapitulation of what may be expected the night of the dance.

Lawrence is to bring one of the finest bands in the country to Villanova for the Interfraternity dance. A few months ago his orchestra was a good band waiting for a break. They've had that break now and are ready to move. Sometime in the near future look for Elliot Lawrence appearing nightly at one of New York's more-glittering supper clubs.

His orchestra is made up of top flight musicians from all over the country. He has recruited his men from the best in the country. His vocalists may be matched but never topped. Rosalind Patton is refreshing and an excellent singer. Jack Hunter, an ex-marine, sings it slow and hot and can be expected to do some very delightful specialties with Miss Patton.

The afternoon of the dance will see Elliot Lawrence giving the men of Villanova a preview of his music. He is coming to the campus as the featured band on the Treasury Department's "Treasury Band-

INTERFRAT BALL
Continued on Page Seven

Guild Sponsors Annual Benefit

Seminarians To Present 13th Annual Card Party and Dance

Once again the Augustinian Seminary Guild will present it annual card party and dance Friday evening May 10. As in previous years the popular social affair will be held at the Villanova Field House.

This is the thirteenth annual function which has been sponsored by the Guild. Rev John J. Coffey, O. S. A., who has successfully headed these socials in previous years will once more do so. Last year's Guild function was a dance attended by over 1600 people. These affairs have been very successful in the past, and Father Coffey expects that this year the party will be as good, if not better, than those in previous years.

This year each committee is trying to surpass last year's performance and a special endeavor is being made to secure original and valuable prizes which are to be awarded during the evening. It is planned to have tables for Bridge, Pinochle, "500," Euchre and Radio, and for any other card games for which there are sufficient requests.

The games will begin at 8:30 P. M. and will terminate 11:30 P. M. From 11:30 P. M. to 1:00 A. M. there will be dancing as at previous affairs. Music will be furnished by recordings.

Campus Swing Band Under Joe Bisanti Forms At Villanova

Strange noises have been reported coming from the Commerce and Finance auditorium the last few nights. At first the rumor was that the ghosts of the men who sweated out exams under its roof had returned to haunt the scene of their scholastic disaster. Fortunately, investigation proved otherwise. The noise was discovered to be first musical attempts of the newly organized Villanova Swing Band.

Under the leadership of Joe Bisanti, who not only waves the baton but also handles the vocals, the outfit is slowly becoming a top notch group. Joe claims they are still rough in spots but with the cooperation and work the boys are giving him it won't be long until we can hear the finished product.

The band is slated to play for the Seminary Guild sometime during the first week in May. Any of you boys who have some spare time are welcome to drop in on the rehearsals and watch the boys beat out the music.

Class Suspended While Faculty And Students Welcome Chinese Prelate

THOMAS CARDINAL TIEN
Leaving Villanova Campus.

Making his initial visit to Philadelphia last Tuesday, Thomas Cardinal Tien, China's first Cardinal, made a whirlwind tour of Catholic institutions within the vicinity. This was followed by a colorful welcome extended by Chinatown and a luncheon in his honor attended by many distinguished citizens of this city, including Mayor Bernard Samuel and Judge Vincent A. Carroll.

The Cardinal arrived in Philadelphia at 10:30 Monday night as a guest of Dennis Cardinal Dougherty. He arose at five o'clock Tuesday morning, celebrated Mass, and began his tour at 7:45. He visited the Sisters of Raven Hill Convent, Saint Charles Seminary at Overbrook, the Convent of Mercy at Merion and Rosemont College before he was received here at ten o'clock.

The second period class was suspended to enable the entire student body to form on the campus where an impromptu reception was tendered the Cardinal. The Cardinal's two-car, police-escorted retinue halted before the chapel and he alighted amid the students. He proceeded to the Monastery driveway where he was received by Father Hickey, O.S.A., Provincial General of the Augustinian Order, Father M. A. Sullivan, O.S.A., Provincial, Father Dougherty, O.S.A., the Prior of the Monastery, and other priests. Then he was conducted through the college, passed the Navy and Marine Units to the entrance of Mendel Hall, where the college staff was assembled to greet him. Father Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., president of the college, welcomed him on its behalf and introduced Captain Thomas C. Thomas, U.S.N., and members of the faculty. At this point Jasper Chen See, representing the students, greeted His Eminence in Chinese. However, Jasper speaks the Canton-

CARDINAL TIEN
Continued on Page Eight

Chinese Orphan Boy Becomes First Oriental Elevated to Cardinal Rank

By JAMES LYONS

Thomas Tien was born at Changtsin, China in 1891 and orphaned as a small boy. He was raised in the Divine Word Orphanage at Puoli, first settlement of the Divine work missionaries at Shantung.

In early youth he entered the Society's Minor Seminary at Yenchowfu and completed his studies at the Major Seminary there. Ordained there in 1918, he taught mission schools for three years and then was assigned to various missions in Shantung. Even when advised that he had developed tuberculosis and had better leave the seminary he persisted in continuing his studies and entered the Divine Word Novitiate in 1929; made his religious profession in 1931 and took his final vows in 1934.

Fr. Tien became first Apostolic Prefect of the newly erected Yanghu Prefecture. Called to Rome in 1939 he travelled by horse cart 200 miles through Chinese and Japanese battlelines. He was consecrated Vicar Apostolic of Yanghu by His Holiness Pope Pius XII on the feast of Christ the King. He was named Titular Bishop of Ruspe and Vicar Apostolic of Tsingtao in 1942. As bishop of this

CHINESE ORPHAN
Continued on Page Seven

Interracial Group Meets To Formulate Future Activities

A recent meeting of the officers of the Interracial Committee was called for the purpose of formulating future plans and discussing past activities in the light of improving the future activities of the Committee. President John Mallick presided over the affair. Rev. William J. Lunney, O.S.A., moderator, was present.

Mr. Mallick reviewed the activities of the group since it appeared on campus in March. Then he presented a short history of the group and went over the purposes for which it was originated. In October, it was announced, the Committee would begin to carry out all the objectives planned. On April 16th two meetings are to take place. At one o'clock the day students who are interested will assemble in room 215 Mendel. Those resident students interested will meet in the Seminar Room of Simpson Hall at 6:30 or immediately after evening chapel. Father Lunney will be present at both meetings to talk on the purposes of the Committee and its proposed activities. It is urged upon all who want to join to be present.

Graduate Of 1902 Succumbs In N. Y.

Alfred L. Marilley, a well-known lawyer of New York City and graduate of Villanova College in the class of 1902, died last Tuesday in the Harkness Pavilion, Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center after a long illness.

Practiced Forty Years

The late Mr. Marilley was a resident of 40 East Sixty-second St., N. Y. He was 65 years old and died after a very long illness. He had practiced law in the city for forty years prior to his death.

The deceased is survived by three brothers, Ralph, who played first base for the Villanova baseball team in 1911; Anselm, class of 1913 who is the president of the New York Chapter of the Villanova Alumni Club; and Constant, the class of 1915. He is survived by three sisters, Sisters Cecelia and Anna Claire of the Order of St. Joseph and Sister Marie Christine of the Convent of Visitation, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Former President Addresses House

Father Stanford Speaks Before Military Affairs Committee

The Very Reverend Edward V. Stanford, O.S.A., former President of Villanova College and present rector of the Augustinian College in Washington, D. C., has just finished testifying before the House Military Affairs Committee concerning Peacetime Military Conscription.

Father Stanford has established four points which would contraindicate peacetime conscription: it would be harmful 1) to the morale of our youth; 2) to the vocations and careers of our youth; 3) to the religions and morals of our youth, and 4) to our domestic, political and social institutions.

A few weeks ago Father Stanford appeared before the Military Affairs Committee to lend support to a resolution introduced by Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, House Minority Leader, to defer approval of compulsory military training pending efforts to outlaw it everywhere.

The situation of the moral degeneration of our youth today is a very serious one, one which Father Stanford wishes to correct before it is too late. The shocking truth is that some army divisions have sactioned the participation of our youth in the ways of perverted practices. Father Stanford is right. Continuance of peacetime conscription may lead to a great moral upheaval in our present generation which would be disastrous in any sense.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 .... Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Robert P. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
Herman J. Diesel, '50
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
Wharncliffe Bird, '50
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Daniel Fox, '50
Albert Scarzo, '49
Henry J. Fessler, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50
Robert R. Manske, 48

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
James J. Brannon, '50
Joseph Braezler, '50
Charles R. Phillips, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Francis Linsulata, '49
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office Decembe 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - - - - - APRIL 16, 1946

It Goes to Britain

MANY competent men have advised against the writing of this editorial, but then many competent men have advised against underlings thinking.

The United States today stands at many crossroads, and fear and shallow judgment befog the horizon. We have emerged from the war the most powerful, economically sound, and normally resilient people on earth and our destiny is the world's destiny.

Great Britain has besought the United States to lend them three and three-quarter billion dollars. The gauntlet is down; the sabres are drawn.

In this nation there are many whose fires flare and whose souls writhe when the very name of Britain is mentioned. To them we can say nothing; to them we can prove nothing; the intellect withers in emotion's storm. But there are those who do reason, and who, from lofty eyries of logic, nod their disapproval. They are our audience.

Three and three-quarter billion dollars is a great deal of money and a great deal more to borrow. The United States has just won a war. In dollars it has cost us more than it would to lose it. Our national debt is titanic. Taxes are heavy and they probably will remain so. That's true...

Britain has not written off her previous debts to us. The World War made us her creditor, lend-lease more so. There is much evidence to support the premise that the loan now under consideration would never be repaid. Not directly . . .

What then could we gain from such action? Would we receive return? and how?

The heart of that enormous amorphous mass which is the British Empire beats in England. And that heart has been ravaged by six years of terror and destruction. The lion of England is pierced by new-won grief and its soul cringes under the force of forecast sorrow.

England is in tatters. The domestic economy is probably at its nadir. Production is hindered, inhibited, and represented by destroyed or obselete capital goods, the lack of raw materials, and the absence of consumer buying power. England cannot sell; cannot make, and, most importantly, cannot buy.

We know this and the Britons know this, and the Britons can see a way out. They can throw the iron ring of empire preference across the world and they can vaunt the bastions and towers of tariff about their dominons. Or their pump can be primed by American dollars and equilibrium once more established.

The problem is not do we want to lend the money, it is shall we lend it now or give it later. Give to the unemployed who will make mockeries of our production system whose welfare will become a public care and whose lives will founder on economic reefs. When our post-war boom has burst its bubble, when the benzedrine has worn off, will we again take up the dismal burden of overproduction? Or will our trade be floating garlands on the seven seas, long lanes of ships bearing the fruit of advanced technology gleaming in the sun of free trade?

We can produce. We may not always be able to sell. With stable economics throughout the world, we may never be forced to again plow up crops and feed a bread line; to let pigs rot and support a WPA.

We must keep world markets open. An England which can buy our machines to be reborn, which can buy our consumer goods to fill hungry mouths and barren storehouses, which above all is not forced to the restriction of trade is a big foot in the door of those world markets.

The two lanes lie forthwith. One leads to our own eventual economic collapse, to world privation, and to its ugly spawn, a new war.

The other means a future security and a consequent bump on the mountain of debt. The price of peace and welfare is high; a wealthy America can pay for it.

—DON COLLINS.

F. D. R. In Retrospect

LAST Friday, Franklin Roosevelt was dead one year.

When a man dies, sorrow fills your hearts that a man should leave the world, when Roosevelt died we were happy that God had let him be born.

We may not have always agreed with his policies, but admiration of his courage and resolution was inescapable.

Whatever our late President may have done wrong, whatever he may have lacked in perfection, his power as a speaker, statesman and leader has far outshone.

Roosevelt was the doctor when the nation lay gasping on the edge of death, when our land was smashed by enemy steel. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Doctor of Economy, Doctor of Victory, Doctor of America.

Bookstore Platform

Remarks heard around the campus indicate that a certain amount of confusion exists in the minds of some veterans as to just what the College Bookstore is to issue to them. A few comments on quotations from the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 will tend to clarify the procedure of the Bookstore with the veteran.

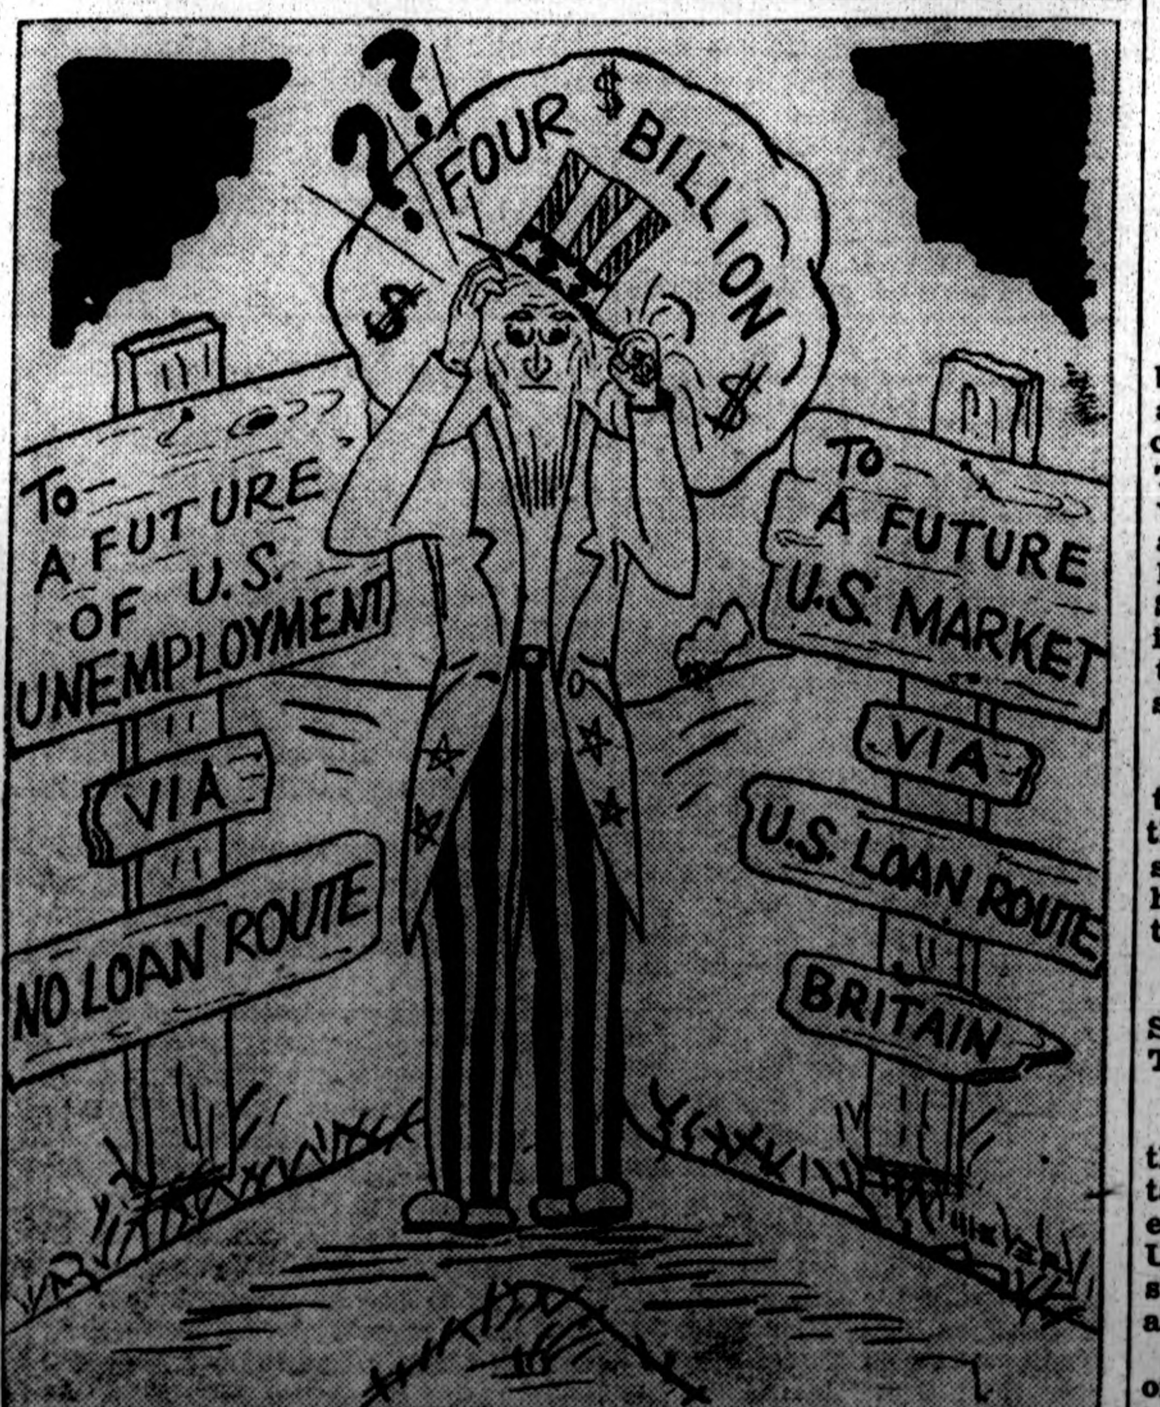
The Veteran's Administration has provided colleges teaching veterans with a book of "instructions." The tenor of the pamphlet is that the government wants every veteran attending college to have what he needs: he is not to be handicapped in comparison with other students. What they require he is to have.

The Act states: "such items will consist only of those which are required of other students pursuing the same or comparable courses and in no instance will be greater in variety, quality or amount than are required of other students. Items which are commonly used for personal purposes, such as fountain pens, brief cases, typewriters, etc. although also used in connection with the course of education or training will not be provided by the Veteran's Administration." Hence, the veteran may have whatever textbooks and classroom supplies, such as lab. folders and drawing paper, any other student is required to have for the course he is taking. Over and above textbooks, classroom and laboratory supplies, a student needs such stationery items as ink, paper, notebooks, pencils. To cover this need $1.50 per term has been considered sufficient.

The Veteran is asked to sign a Bookstore receipt for whatever he receives. This receipt is the College's certification that the veteran has received the items listed thereon, and only for those items actually handed the veteran and signed for by him will the College be reimbursed. Meanwhile, the College must keep "on hand and available for inspection by the Veteran's Administraton evidence of such delivery and expenditures."

To summarize: The veteran may have whatever is "required" for his course; his limits are placed by the Veterans Administration itself and finally, the College is paid for only what he receives and after he has received it.

Rev. John F. McMenamin.



"Lend It Now, or Give It Later?"

Letters to the EDITOR

Dear Editor:

My next door neighbor in Manila before the war and subsequent fellow co-chairman of the Grounds Planning department of the Santo Tomas Internment Camp was Mr. L. P. Croft a Park Engineer loaned to the Philippine Government by the U. S. Department of the Interior. Mr. Croft is a graduate of the University of Utah and of Harvard and his duties in the States took him to many of the college campuses.

Your editorial, "Campus Beautiful" in the March 12, 1946 issue of the Villanovan, reminded me that when I first met Mr. Croft he remarked that he had a clear recollection of Villanova and considered her campus one of the most beautiful in the United States. He remained in the Philippines after the liberation to assume charge of the design of the new Manila that will arise from the ruins. An interesting sidelight on the way families have been separated since our homes were destroyed is the fact that Mrs. Croft is teaching in Salt Lake City and the only child is a coed as Swarthmore (Pa.) College.

With best wishes for the continued success of the Villanovan, I remain

Sincerely yours,
J. R. Koch, '16

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEIL

Here is the latest in the lost and found notifications we see posted in the various buildings on the campus. This particular one we noticed on the bulletin board in Austin Hall. "Dental bridge found on the third deck. Owner may reclaim same if he will call at Room——" Apparently the owner recovered his property as the notice was not posted the following day.

* * *

Villanova students may be interested to learn that tuition rates in other colleges throughout the country are on the increase. At Detroit University, for example, revised tuition rates which will affect all colleges of the University will become effective June 1, 1946. Also at Detroit, we learn that veteran enrollment is six times the past enrollment during 1945.

* * *

Intercepted Letters

Dear Dad,

Gue$$ what I need most of all? That's right. Plea$e $end it right along. Be$t wihe.

Your daughter.

Dear Daughter,

NOthing ever happens here. Write aNOther letter aNOn. NOw we have to say goodbye.

Your father.

—The Varsity News

* * *

Our former arch rival in football, Temple University, has added a new undergraduate school. In cooperation with Station WFIL, Temple School of Radio and Television will open next September and will offer a four-year course leading to a degree of Bachelor of Science with major in Radio. This information is given us through the courtesy of the Temple University News.

* * *

The Florida Alligator tells us that when a fellow gets a haircut three times in a Palm Beach barber shop he has paid for the chair and has it named after him. Is that the truth, Lou?

* * *

Sign in a shoe repair shop: "We Save Your Soles and Heel You Too."

SCENT SENSE ....

Every day new scents arrive on the market du parfum. Each contain certain ingredients that are especially for a definite type. The Ursiline, college publication of Ursuline College, offers the latest additions:

L'Amour Toujours Odor—Years of scientific experimentation have brought to light this superb blend of stale beer and lanolin, for the

Continued on Page Seven

SMEARS 'n CHEERS

LOU DI GIACOMO

MILT CLIMATI

A week from this Saturday one of the major social functions of the year will take place. Of course, we're referring to the INTERFRATERNITY DANCE. Get your dates now! With Elliot Lawrence supplying the music you can't fail to have a good time. Don't wait until the last minute to buy your ticket. There is a limited number and you may be out of luck. Tickets are only $3.00 and the dance is informal. Don't miss it.

Next month the Junior class is presenting their annual Junior Prom. It will be the first formal affair of the semester. So start saving your money now. Tickets will be $5.50 and the band will be Lee Castle.

Now that we have plugged the forthcoming dances we shall get down to business. (Everybody's business but our own.)

ENGLISH CLASS:

Question: Who was the worst king England has had in the last two centuries?

Answer: George III.

Question: Does anybody have any further information about George III?

Answer: Yes. He's dead.

BRILLIANT OBSERVATION: Upon looking into the miror Tony Paruta is reported to have said, 'Mi, gosh, with this face I should go on the stage.

MYSTERY OF THE WEEK: Who broke the monastery window with a golf ball?

ODDS 'N ENDS: After a futile attempt at photography Ed Minsavage has decided to become a record collector. Don't give up so easily Ed . . . Dick Demidovitch has bought himself a set of darts. He is trying to improve his game . . . Villanova was well represented at the Bryn Mawr formal by Bill Golden and a few other of the Austin Hall boys . . . Sam Canning was wolfing it up at the Villanovan Dinner with a gal named Sal from Chestnut Hill . . . Bill Lilienthat likes to go dancing, but, oh, that ankle! . . . Bob Riley of Alumni Hall must be having a very dull stay here at Villanova. He says that we can get nothing on him because (and we quote) "I lead a very secluded life." Can't you fix him up, fellows? . . . Room 7 of Simpson Hall, resided in by Mike Lingenfelter, Aurelio Baccino, Jim Mackey, and Marty Minerva, is setting the style for men's toiletries. Their paraphernalia consists of pine bath salts, talcum by Yardley of London, Cologne 44 by Monique, and tooth paste by Elizabeth Arden . . . Is Dick Eidam losing interest in "Nursie" Bonner? We haven't heard him rave about her lately . . . Ed "Socialite" Narcum is taking up the fine art of music. He says that he took his girl to the OPERA last week . . . Chick Welde, Ed Sullivan (the Boston Strong Boy) and Willie Bertram went to see a "movie?" at Rosemount under the auspices of the Spanish Club . . . Austin Hall is well supplied with food by packages sent to Lou Gilbert from his mother. Well, HE says they're from his mother . . . A one dollar bill doesn't go far on a date. Bill Ferguson knows! . . . John Brinjac received a lovely birthday present from his girl in return for the beautiful picture of himself that he sent her. . . . Will someone, please, tell Gene Alvarez that breakfast is served in the cafeteria every morning? We don't think that he has ever gotten up early enough to discover this fact . . . Hugh O'Neil of Austin Hall has found a new home—across the road from Vilanova. Also, Hugh's girl from back home was down here last weekend just checking up we suppose . . . Jack Dowd's favorite song is "I Want a Girl, Just Like the Girl that Married Dear Old Dad" . . . Al White is faithfully writing the little woman and patiently waiting for her to come to Philly to live. If anyone knows where Al can get an apartment near Villanova for his wife and Al Jr., please let him know . . . Matt Pastell has been so lonely for femine companionship that he has bought a copy of "Seventeen" . . . What is Newt Ward going to do for clothes now that his roommate, Tom Burke, has gone into the army? Especially those bow ties! . . . We wonder what Nurse Peggy thinks of Hank Talt's haircut. It's a miracle if she will still go out with him . . . Bill O'Neil chaperoned Bill Koerner and his date last week. We rather doubt his capabilities as a chaperon . . . Archie Gunshor was making time with Adeline, an old flame, on the

SMEARS AND CHEERS
Continued on Page Six

'NEATH THE SPIRES

By RUSSELL LEO WELSH Editor-in-Chief

THE VILLANOVAN extends best wishes to its readers on the coming celebration of the Resurrection.

This evening at 6:15, a Sacred Concert of Holy Week Music will be presented by the "Schola Cantorum" of St. Mary's Hall, under the direction of James J. Cain, O.S.A., in the College Chapel.

The music to be presented will be rendered in the official tenor of the Church. The liturgical music of the Church has a wealth of beauty and religious meaning which profane music cannot rival. It treasures the masterpieces of most of the world's great musicians. It has a background of history and tradition that stretches back to the earliest days of Christianity.

Believing that many Villanova students are not familiar with the Liturgical music of the Church, this program will be presented through the kindness of the Augustinian Scholastics, that you may have an insight into the beauty and character of the strictly Church music.

In order that you may witness how well the music portrays the thoughts expressed by words, translations from the Latin will be distributed before the service.

The program will be as follows:

Christus Factus Est, Florentini.

Jerusalem Surge, Orestes Ravanello.

Prayer of Jeremiah the Prophet, Cornell.

In Monte Oliveti, Florentini.

Aestimatus Sum, Orestes Ravanello.

Psalm L-Miserere, Orestes Ravanello.

Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will follow:

Adoro Te, St. Thomas Aquinas.

Tantum Ergo, Gregorian Chant.

Laudate Dominum, Gregorian Chant.

Recessional—Magne Pater Augustine, H. Thunder.

Meet The Boys:

GEORGE ....Texas
"LEM" ....Penna.
WHITEY..You Figure It Out

By CHARLES McCARTHY

"My mind lets go a thousand things,
Like dates of wars and deaths of kings,
And yet recalls the very hour—
'Twas noon by yonder village tower,
And on the last blue moon in May—
When George started briskly on his way."

Yes it was on May 1, 1925 that George Scharnberg was born way down in the Lone Star State of Texas—Port Arthur to be exact. He spent the usual younger years and then started Lincoln Grammar School.

GEORGE SCHARNBERG

After many years in the lone little state of Texas, the Scharnberg's found that Pennsy was the state to live in, sooo, they moved to Pittsburgh. Here George attended Mt. Lebanon High School and was one of the school's most active men. He took the science course and was an honor student.

Played Football

Being such a brain one would hardly expect much of this little man in the way of athletics. Ah, but that is where George is different. While at Mt. Lebanon he was on the basketball and football teams. He also swung a sturdy stick on the golf team.

With a state appropriation behind him, George started off to college with a selected group of brilliant students before he had finished high school. After a short time at the University of Pittsburgh he decided to join the Marines. This took place in March of 1943. George stayed on at Pitt under the V-12 program. Then the big moment in his life came. Of course we mean the time when he was transferred to Villanova. This took place after one semester at Pitt. Thus he started here in July of 1943.

K. WHITE SONNER

Member of V-12

While in the V-12 setup here he was in the ASME and played in many of the intramural sports. He was also on numerous dance committees.

George had to leave Villanova before getting his diploma and went to Lejeune down in North Carolina to Marine Officers Candidate School. He fought his way through this and received his commission on November 10, 1945. Shortly after this he was discharged, as was his entire OCS class. Therefore, he came back to Villanova to finish off that last part of his college life. In June George Scharnberg will graduate from the Engineering school and he hopes to go right to work as a sales engineer or to school for business courses.

WALTER WENTLING

"The woods stretch wild to the mountain side, and the brush is deep where a man may hide.

They have brought the bloodhounds up, and they have taken the trail to the mountain way.
And their deep-mouthed bay is a pulse of fear
In the heart of the wood that the man must hear."

Thus, we take up the trail that winds its way across this vast country of ours, and dig deep into the past of this second Villanovan who has spent most of his life traveling.

K. White Sonner is what they call him. He was born on May 18, 1926 in Delaware, Ohio. After enjoying a normal start in life Whitty started to Clifton Junior School and spent exactly one-half of a year there. Then he moved down to Atlanta, Ga., where he spent another year in school. This was followed by a trip to Buffalo, New York, where he spent another year in school. Then it was to Elizabeth, N. J., for a year.

Off To Marion

Once again a change of state was required and Mr. Sonner found himself in Marion, Ohio. Now he thought that all was settled, but 'twas not so, for his folks went down Texas way to Brownsville, with their son following them. Here he studied at St. Joe's Academy.

If you are not confused at this point we will continue on our merry way in this gay travelog in the life of Sonner. K. W. now went to T. N. Page school for the rest of grammar school in San Antonio, Texas. After a year at Alamo Heights High, he traveled out to Glendale, California, where he finished high school.

Went To Antioch College

Whitey took a job driving a truck after high school, but found that higher education was calling so he started school at Antioch College in Yellowsprings, Ohio. While there he played on all of the intramural teams and worked as an assistant Chemist in a lab in Columbus. In his summers he worked in a forest fire lookout in Northern Idaho.

In November of 1943 he started to work for the Civil Aeronautics Board. This job lasted until March, 1944 when he was forced to leave Washington and start school. He was under the Navy and came to Villanova in March of 1944.

Intramural Star

While here he has taken a very active part in intramural sports excelling in basketball. He was high scorer of the intramural

MEET THE BOYS
Continued on Page Four

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI
and JOE BROGAN

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! 'Cat Capers is back and the Villanovan's got 'em. For the benefit of all you young men who may have felt that we had fallen prey to some libel suit, we have been merely gathering our strength for a more efficient coverage of the spring doin's about these parts. He who has ears to hear, you're on your own, brother!! And now for the news as decency will permit. . .

Question: What gentleman from these hallowed halls of learning has at least three ladies of Rosemont breathlessly awaiting his slightest nod in their direction?

Answer: No one that we know, but isn't it a peachy idea? Rrrr-ouf!

Had owners of the Hot Shoppe only known it, they could have economized by turning off the grill and using the fevered brow of our own "Little Boy Blue" Fallon to cook their choicest tidbits on a certain Saturday evening not so long ago. We will now sing one chorus of that stirring ballad, "You're not the only pebble on the beach." Aa-ah, temper—temper.

The School of Commerce and Finance indeed lost a votary when Danny Ryan's interests were directed elsewhere. Anyone who could fast-talk Joe Gallagher and John Martin so easily into blind-dates could stand the business world on its ear. Not bad engineering bud. Incidentally what form of anesthesia was used on John? In the words of the Dutch philosopher, "Dot's Alice!"

It has come to the attention of this pillar of truth that an interesting event took place in the cellar of the Kiefer menage a short time ago. Tom Kennedy was seen laughing through his tears (wasn't it too bad about Len E. Ross). What a Pagliacci. But isn't it nice that he has taken a turn for the nurse. Needless to say we wish to extend our congrats to Rosemont, Immaculata and Chestnut Hill on each placing a player on the All-District Girl's Basketball Teams. Move over Nada we want to play too.

What young Villanovan is seriously considering presenting a certain dreamy-eyed maiden from Immaculata with a diamond? Didn't think we knew did didja? . . . All our news is printed to fit, but nearly nobody at Villanova reads "Smears 'n Cheers."

Upon his arrival in Philly, one of Hank Scanlon's first appointments was at Chestnut Hill, it seems that he had an old score to settle with one of the lassies . . . Joe Costello, a noble character in his own right, went along to render moral support . . . Paul Simpson, former Villanovan, was a recent visitor to the campus upon his discharge from the Army. Paul now resides in Chicago.

Keller has discovered a new fad in transportation! He comes to school in a motor scooter . . . "Yes you would look sweet upon the seat of a motor scooter built for two!"

Last week the Villanovan "social bugs" presented keys to those Senior members of the Villanovan staff who worked and toiled during endless hours to better our paper . . . ahem! (thank you followers . . . no reflection on our competitors) . . . of course there was a slight fee of five dollars, but it was worth it. (O. K. Russ Welsh, you can stop twisting our arms). Sam Canning had the most charming date of the evening . . . John Brinjac . . . They go well together. The dinner was supposed to have started at 7:30 P. M., but thanks to Russ Welsh and Gloucester, and Carmichael's car, and Burns' kibitzing, the honored guest, Father Klekotka (great moderator) didn't arrive until 9:00 P. M. We were almost driven to drink . . . weren't you . . . Ah! Ah! Musn't mention any names.

Dave Ryan had a bit of trouble

CAT CAPERS
Continued on Page Eight

Council Elects Future Leaders

Jim Bonner Chosen President; Don Collins and Joe Brogan Assume Assistant Posts

Jim Bonner senior engineer was elected president of the Student Council at that organization's semesterly elections last week. Don Collins, Junior I, was named Vice-President, and Joe Brogan, Senior I, was posted as Secretary-Treasurer. Joe Hoffman, present president, congratulated the officers-elect and exhorted them to give serious consideration to the duties which they will face as the leaders of the student policy forming group. Hoffman said, 'It will be your job to put into practice the plans laid down by the incumbents. To discharge your multitudinous duties will demand your full attention and energy.'

Return To Normalcy

Jim Bonner, when reached after the returns were made know, said, 'I would like to thank the members of the Student Council for the confidence shown in me.

"Villanova has traveled a long way towards normalcy. Next year will see the College back to a peace-time schedule. I will endeavor to follow the excellent example set by the retiring president, Joe Hoffman, carry out the plans already made, and aid in any way I possibly can the rise of Villanova to the position she so richly deserves."

St. Joe's Graduate

The newly elected president attended St. Joseph's Prep and was graduated in 1940. He entered Villanova College in September of that year, and left in 1943 to enter the Army Air Corps. In that organization Jim attained the rank of Sergeant.

In December of 1945, he returned to Villanova, where his activities have included playing on the 150 pound football team, membership in Phi Kappa Pi, the dramatic society, and in the Student Council during his sophomore year and last semester. Jim has been a member of the Villanovan staff for four years, and now holds the position of Copy Editor.

Vice-president elect Donald Collins made this statement when contacted: "I was gratified to learn that my associates thought me qualified for this post. In order to justify their confidence in me, I will do my utmost to execute the duties of my office. As dean of orientation, I will strive to imitate my predecessor, and hope that my success will approach his."

Like the president elect, Don was also a graduate of St. Joseph's Prep, class of 1943. He matriculated at Villanova in June of that year, and left the college in July, 1944, to enlist in the Marine Corps. The new vice-president returned to the college last November, and since then his activities have included playing football, representing Villanova on the Inter-Cultural Committee, and being Managing Editor of the Villanovan.

Brogan Elevated To Presidency Of Phi Kappa Pi

Phi Kappa Pi, the largest fraternity on the campus, held election of officers last Friday, Joe Brogan was chosen president, while Jim Murphy moved into the position of vice-president. The other men elevated to office were Steve Gasparovic, secretary; Jim Feeney, treasurer; John Dougherty, representative to the student council; and Bill Loftus, Sgt. at arms.

In Infantry

Brogan, a member of the present Junior class, has been very active throughout his college career. He is the present vice-president of the Junior class, and is scheduled to take over the post of secretary-treasurer of the Student Council in the Fall. Brogan, a discharged vet, served with the infantry during the war.

Air Corps Vet

Jim Murphy, the vice-president-elect was a member of the class of 1944 before the war. He withdrew from college in February 1943 to enter the Army Air Forces. He was a pilot flying in the European Theater. At the present time Murphy is a member of the Senior class and will graduate in February 1947.

Steve Gasparovic is another ex-pilot. Formerly of the class of '43, Steve left early, soon after the war broke out. Steve is a Sophomore II and at the present time is co-chairman of the interfraternity dance.

Campaign Comments Made By Nominees Re Elections

List of nominees for the Sophomore, Junior and Senior Class offices has been approved by the Vice President, and now only the elections remain. Last week we published comments from many of the students whose names appeared on that list so that the student body would know for whom and for what they were voting when election day rolled around. Several others in the same status have sent in their comments which we are justly proud to publish.

Jim Conaty, Junior II, for the office of Secretary of the Senior Class: "I'm mighty appreciative to those who nominated me for the office of Secretary of the Senior Class."

* * *

Bill Nealon, Junior II, for the office of Treasurer of the Senior Class: "Villanova's activities must keep pace with the increase of the student enrollment and the mounting prestige of our athletic teams. The most opportune moment is right now. I would consider it a great privilege to share in this responsibility."

* * *

Peter Pallitto, Sophomore II, for the office of President of the Junior Class: "Thanks for the nomination, I'll give it everything I have."

* * *

Bill Altenpohl, Sophomore II, for Representative to the Student Council: "I appreciate the nomination, and if elected I hope to fulfill the duties of the office efficiently."

* * *

Ed Walsh, Sophomore II, for the office of Secretary of the Junior Class: "Upon our return to Villanova this September, we will be greeted by the normal schedule and all the activities contained therein. The junior class should give their full support to those elected and thus mark these events with success."

* * *

Anthony Cocco, Sophomore II, the office of Secretary of the Junior Class: "When I assume the position of Secretary of the Junior Class, following the coming elections, I shall pursue the duties of this office to the limit of my abilities.

"During my tenure of office, the revivification of all former Villanova extracurricular activities and the founding of those new ones which will aid in fostering and expanding the interests of all students will command my energies.

"In appreciation I would like to extend my thanks to my fellow students who nominated me. I promise that my record, upon the completion of my term in office, will vindicate their faith in my capabilities."

* * *

Lou Meccariello, Sophomore II, for the office of the Treasurer of the Junior Class: "I wish to thank the members of the Sophomore Class for the nomination to the office of Treasurer. If elected, I hope to discharge the duties of my office to the best of my ability."

* * *

John Ciotola, Sophomore II, for Representative to the Student Council: "If elected I will do my utmost toward the fulfilment of the desires and wants of the Junior class. I wish to extend my thanks and appreciation to those who nominated me for office."

* * *

Bob Powers, Freshman II, for the office of President of the Sophomore Class: "Although I was a student here at Villanova for a short time before the war, I fell that I'm still a little green with regards to the "True Villanova Spirit." However, if given the opportunity, I will do my best with and four our class."

* * *

Steve Fenning, Fresman II, for the office of President of the Sophomore Class: "Campaign speeches are like radio commercials—if you want it, you buy it. So, I'll forget ballyhoo. My appreciation of this nomination is acknowledged."

* * *

Ed Sullivan, Freshman II, for the office of President of the Sophomore Class: "Here at Villanova we all have one goal, i.e., to keep her one of the best colleges in the country. If my fellow students see fit to elect me, I will do my job as President as well as I can."

* * *

Bob Suarez, Freshman II, for the office of Treasurer of the Sophomore Class: "I am greatly honored by the nomination and if I am elected I will bear the responsibilities which the office of treasurer carries to the best of my abilities."

* * *

Frank Doyle, Freshman II, for the office of Treasurer of the Sophomore Class: "All my beliefs are those of Honest Abe's, and I appreciate the honor and will uphold my beliefs if elected."

* * *

Ed Flood, Freshman II, for Representative to the Student Council: "It is indeed a privilege to run for the office of Student Council."

* * *

Frank Cole, Freshman II, for Representative to the Student Council: "If I am elected, I intend to justify this honor by putting forth my best ability in all matters concerned. Where veterans are concerned, there is a special tie. My thanks for everyone's support in the future election."

* * *

Dave Ryan, Junior I, for Representative to the Student Council: "The most pressing problems now confronting the Student Council are those dealing with the reactivating and reestablishing of various extracurricular activities on the Villanova campus. It may be that in the near future entirely new organizations may petition for recognition by both the Council and school authorities.

"As a former member of the Student Council, I saw that organization emerge from its moribund state into its present position. It should be of prime concern to every member of the Junior class that the Council continue, if not accelerate, its present rate of progress. That, however, will only come about if the Juniors select with discretion the members of their class who represent them.

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank my class mates who nominated me for the Council. I hope that I am able to come up to their expectations."

Business Hours

STUDENTS ARE REMINDED THAT THE BUSINESS OFFICE HOURS ARE:
DAILY — 9:00 AM to 10:00 AM
1:00 PM to 2:30 PM
SATURDAY —
9:00 AM to 11:00 AM

Junior Prom

Continued From Page One

long and hard in organizing the dance and that the success of the affair will be the reward of their labors.

"On the basis of their work so far completed, and the promise they hold of following through, these committemen are certainly deserving of the satisfaction of a job well done. But that satisfaction will only be forthcoming if the rest of the students support this Junior Prom whole-heartedly," added Collins.

Harry Edwards, performing a double role, speaking as President of the Junior Class and of the Veterans Club, called on all members of the Junior Class, to a man, to aid actively in the promotion of the Prom by volunteering for any one of the several committees. He especially pointed out that Chairmen Joe Brogan and Larry Fallon, of the Decorations and Ticket Committees respectively, will be in particular need of manpower.

While stating that this will probably be the first formal affair for many of the veterans, now attending Villanova, since leaving the armed services, Edwards urged this group to make every possible effort to attend the Prom. Reflecting that for some of the veterans this will be their first opportunity to wear a Tux to any formal affair in several years, he added that the prospect of donning formal attire will not produce a distasteful aspect, but rather should make many men eager to get into the "swing of things."

The Junior Prom is second only to the Senior Ball in importance of events on the Villanova social calendar. It has been pointed out that this Prom should equal, if not excel, many previous Seniors Balls because of the fact that so many of the men running this affair have had much practical experience in the running of other dances. The list of committeemen, and their aides, is substantially the same as that of those who successfully promoted the Soph Cotillion last Fall.

"We Take The Cake"

Left to Right: James Bonner, Don Collins, Phillipa Beatty, Annita Morales, Russell Welsh, Paul Carmichael and Warren Sexton.

Immaculatans Present Cake To Villanovan Staff Members

A baker's dream in the form of a chocolate cake has fixed the friendship between Immaculata and Villanova.

Staff members from the Girl's College formally presented this big surprise to the astonished Villanovan staff last Friday night in appreciation of the write-up given Immaculata in the Wildcats' Foreign Correspondent column. The cake was installed in the Villanovan Office for a brief period as a decoration and was finally put to better use.

Thanks was expressed by the Editor-in-Chief for the thoughtfulness of Sister Marie Eugenie, Moderator of the Immaculatan, who was the author of the idea. Said Welsh: "To know that the Immaculatans are interested in our paper, is satisfaction enough; such a surprise really touches our hearts."

Meet The Boys

Continued From Page Three

league during the 1944, '45 and '46 seasons. He is also a member of the dramatic club and the Belle Air.

After graduation in June he intends to serve with the Navy (a lot he has to say about that) and then perhaps if all goes well he will remain in the Regular Navy.

"The ebb slips from the rock, the sunken
Tide-rocks lift streaming shoulders
Out of the slack, the slow west
Sombering its torch; a ship's light
Shows faintly, far out,
Over the weight of the prone ocean
On the low cloud."

And deep into the past beneath rock and fallen tree we search for the light that will lead us to the life history of Walter J. Wentling.

The first fact in this book of life shows one Walter born to Mr. and Mrs. Wentling on the eighth day of July in the year 1925. This took place in the city of Reading, Penna. He went to St. Joseph Grammar School in Reading then to Reading Catholic High School.

Studied At Malvern

When it came time for "Lem" to start his last year of high school he decided to go to Malvern Prep. While at Malvern he played on the line of the football team and was assistant editor of the sports staff of the year book. He was also sports editor of the newspaper at Malvern.

Election Of Junior Officers To Take Place At Noon Today

Joe Hoffman, President of the Student Council, disclosed on Friday further plans for reactivation of student body activities, beginning with the elections for class officers to be held this week.

Plans for the class elections to take place this week were completed at the Student Council meeting held last Thursday. The election of Senior Class officers took place yesterday in Room 103 Mendel Hall from 12:30 to 1:40. The results will be posted as soon as an official count of votes is made.

Elections of Junior Class officers will take place today and those for officers of the Sophomore Class will be held tomorrow. In both instances balloting will go on from 12:30 to 1:40 in Room 103, Mendel Hall. All members of the class will be eligible to vote during the hour. Election officials will be on hand with lists of eligible voters to check them off as they receive their ballots. As soon as official counts have been made, the results will be posted on the bulletin boards.

After all the elections are completed, plans are under way to hold meetings of each class. At these times, the moderators and new class officers will be introduced, and future class activities will be discussed.

Joe Hoffman urged all students to participate in the class elections, saying 'It will take only a few minutes of your lunch hour to go into Room 103 Mendel and mark your ballots; but that action will make your class officers really representative of the whole class."

Veteran Pilots Plan Aero Club

Altenpohl and McCarthy Address Group On Pressing Problems

Villanova's airminded undergraduates met last Wednesday afternoon in Mendel Hall to discuss the proposed organization of an Aeronautics Club here on the campus.

Bill Altenpohl opened the meeting with a few introductory remarks regarding the organization's aims and then introduced Charlie McCarthy who explained some of the many intricate problems in forming such an organization.

Following the initial remarks the forty-odd assembled students, both pilots and non-pilots, wholeheartedly discussed the plans for the organization of an official club. From the activity of the discussion which filled the better-part of an hour, it was obvious that there is great interest on the campus for such a club.

Another meeting will be held this coming Wednesday at one o'clock in room 215 eMndel Hall. At this meeting the findings of a committee which has been investigating the local airfields and the possibility of obtaining a plan for the group will be presented. The men will also form several committees to start work of forming the organization into an official club so that an application may be submitted to the Student Council in the near future.

During the discussion period of the meeting last week it was pointed out that the proposed club would not only be opened to men who have pilots certificates, but also to men who are interested in learning to fly.

Notice

There will be an important meeting of the Sanctuary Society today, at 6:45 P. M. in Room 215, Mendel. All members must be present.

The membership roster is to be revised, and those not present (unless excused by the chaplain) will be automatically dropped from membership.

Donohue Hurls One-Hitter Over Loyola

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Phillies Squeeze Out 8-7 Win In Seventh

McDonnell Fans Five; Eisenhart Triples Off Schanz

By SAM CANNING

Villanova's Wildcats batted, fielded and ran the bases like the New York Yankees, yesterday, as they held the Philadelphia Phillies to an 8-7 victory.

The "Cats" were fighting all the way, staging the most exciting and colorful game ever seen at Villanova during its 77 years of organized college baseball.

Bob "Major" McDonnell, Villanova's diminutive hurler, got off to a poor start in the first inning as the first two men to face him, O'Neill and Danny Murtaugh, singled and Joe Marty homered over the left field wall scoring three runs.

Cats' Double Play

This enraged the Cats and they settled down for a battle, picking Vance Dinges off a second and ending the inning with a smooth double-play started by Doherty to Lord to Comerford.

Villanova failed to score in the first inning and the Phils came back in the second bunching a walk and two hits for the fourth run. But the Blue and White were not taking this sitting down, and, after blanking the big leaguers in the third, they bounced back into the game with two runs.

Marano walked to open the inning. Lord and McDonnell struck out. Then young Bill Doherty came up with the Main Liners' first hit of the game. Not to be outdone, Bill Smith followed with another sharp single into right field, scoring Dave Marano with the first run.

Doherty Outsmarts Phils

Litwa then drew a walk, filling the bases. Comerford came to bat and on the first pitch, Phil catcher, Hal Spindel, tossed to first, catching Litwa between first and second. But firstbaseman Dinges tried to trap Doherty between third and home. In the tricky run-down, "Doc" bumped Spindel, knocking the ball out of his hand and scoring on the error.

The major leaguers came back with two more tallies in the first half of the fourth on two walks and three hits to make the score 6-2 in their favor.

But the Wildcats came up with a thrilling five-run rally in the top half of the fourth to take the lead at 7-6. Four hits, two walks and two errors accounted for the five.

"Doc" Scores

Once again it was Bill Doherty's heads up base running that sparked the attack. After walking, to fill the bases, "Doc" drew a throw from Spindel again, which wound up in right field, sending Lord in to score. Crawford fumbled the ball in the field and McDonnell came sliding in head first, to score the tying run. When the dust had cleared, wing-footed Doherty was standing on third and Litwa's single brought him home to put the Cats in the lead, 7-6.

The Cats displayed all the color and spectacular play of the Brooklyn Dodgers as they cut the Phils to one run in the sixth inning although the major leaguers had a double, two singles and a walk. Again it was heads up ball-playing that did the trick. With the bases loaded and no outs, the Mad Russian, Lou Novikoff, blasted a hard drive to Marano who ran down Dinges between third and second. Marano returned the ball to McDonnell and Crawford having advanced to second, pretended to

PHILLIES GAME
Continued on Page Six

Jitters Cause Cats' First Loss

By JIM McNAMARA

The Annapolis jinx is still working. Last Wednesday the Middies humbled our Wildcats 12-5 in a loosely played game on the Academy field. Villanova could comb opposing hurler, Phil Thom, for only three hits, and in the field managed to boot seven chances to make Navy's task easier. All seven bobbles figured in Navy scoring.

One of those reminiscent 7 run innings exploded for the Middies in the third when three errors, four walks and three singles did the trick. Behind 9-0 going into the fourth, Villanova took advantage of Thom's wildness and registered 3 runs on one hit in that frame.

Dependable "Jigger" Donohue, the Wildcat's ace moundsman, couldn't appreciate the Al Schact tactics behind him and he lost his poise and stuff. Jigger can blame himself because in previous games he deprived his teammates of fielding opportunities by striking out 19 men in 9 innings.

"Major" McDonnell relieved the mound with two out in the third and handcuffed the sailors the rest of the way. He yielded 2 runs in the fourth and another in the eighth and with that disastrous third out of the way Major could have discarded that impeccable jinx. The mighty mite doled out only three hits.

The Midshipmen weren't having as good a time as the score might indicate. Phil Thom issued 10 walks in his 6 innings on the firing line to tempt and dare the Wildcats to do something about it. "Chuck" Comerford, first sacker, continued to set the batting pace with two hits. Joe Nunan got the other.

Villanova	R	H	O	A	E
Doherty, ss	0	0	2	3	0
Litwa, lf	0	0	3	0	0
Casey, cf	1	0	0	0	0
Eisenhart, rf	1	0	3	0	1
Comerford, 1b	1	2	8	0	0
O'Neill, c	1	0	1	0	1
Lord, 2b	1	0	2	0	0
Boos, 3b	0	0	1	1	2
Donohue, p	0	0	0	2	0
McDonnell, p	0	0	0	2	0
Capr'te, 3b	0	0	1	1	3
Nunan, c	0	1	3	0	0
Henry, 3b	0	0	0	2	0
Totals	5	3	24	11	7

Navy	R	H	O	A	E
Smith, 3b	1	0	1	0	0
Thayer, cf	2	1	1	0	0
Hill, 1b	1	1	6	0	0
Frahler, lf	1	1	1	0	0
McKie, ss	3	2	8	2	0
Duden, rf	2	0	0	0	0
Armstrong, 2b	0	0	1	6	1
Woods, c	1	2	9	0	0
Thom, p	1	0	0	2	0
Baysinger, p	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	12	7	27	10	1

Villanova ....0 0 0 3 0 0 2 0 0—5
Navy ....1 1 7 2 0 0 0 1 x—12

Two-base hit — Woods. Three-base hits—Frahler, McKie. Stolen bases—Duden, Frahler. Sacrifice hits—Armstrong, Duden. Double play—Armstrong to McKie to Hill. Left on bases—Villanova, 7; Navy, 5. Bases on balls—Off Thom, 10; Donohue, 6; Baysinger, 1; McDonnell, 2. Struck out—By Thom, 5; McDonnell, 2; Baysinger, 2. Hits—Off Donohue, 4 in 2 2-3 innings; off McDonnell, 3 in 5 1-3; Thom, 3 in 6 1-3; Baysinger, 0 in 2 2-3.

Lehigh Opposes Cats Tomorrow

Blue and White Nine Face Engineers On Villanova Diamond

By DAN REDMOND

Lehigh's Engineers, victors over Villanova on the Main Line diamond last year, will attempt to duplicate that feat tomorrow afternoon in a contest scheduled to begin at 3 P. M. The boys from Bethlehem will bring with them a 1-1 record for this season's efforts.

Leading off with a 4-1 victory over the University of Connecticut, they were in turn defeated by Princeton, 7-4, to give them an even .500 percentage. This is somewhat overshadowed by the Wildcats' 4-1 record but the play of the latter has been rather unsteady of late so it should be anybody's ball game.

Last year, the 'Cats came back to beat the Engineers 3-1 and thereby even up matters for the season. In doing so, the Main Liners beat Lehigh's ace hurler, Sam Wilson, who has since been signed by the Boston Red Sox.

Leading this year's Lehigh attack is right fielder Bill Gold. He packs most of the power in Coach "Ebb" Caraway's line-up, but he is accustomed to hitting support from catcher Joe Kramer, veteran shortstop George Molnar, and third sacker George Harris. These four performed notably in the Engineers' opening day victory over Connecticut.

Slated for mound duty are Granville Custer and Bill Greenamoyer. Coach Caraway may use either or both in an attempt to keep Villanova's recently silent bats just that way. Phil "Lefty" Weinert, Wildcat mentor, hasn't decided which of his busy twirlers will get the starting assignment. Because of the fielding flaws and poor stickwork which started to plague the Villanovans on their southern swing, he has shuffled his line-up daily. The batting order has seen considerable changes, while at third base Don Boos, Romeo Capriotti, and Jim Henry have all been tried.

His worries at the third base position may be over tomorrow, however, for hot corner guardian Dave Marano, who has been shelved with a hand injury received in the second game, should be ready for action. Prior to his mishap Marano was the sparkplug of the infield, gobbling up virtually everything to the left of the mound and leaving shortstop Bill Doherty with few fielding chances.

Once again the Blue and White offensive will be led by field captain Dan Casey and first baseman Charlie Comerford. The latter has been hitting consistently of late, and as a reward, has been shoved into the clean-up slot. The biggest improvement has been shown by catcher Joe Nunan who should push burly Frank O'Neill to the limit in their battle for the first string receiver's position.

The keystone combination of Doherty and Lord is fairly certain of starting roles and flychaser Al Litwa's performances merit the same distinction. Coach Weinert's choice for the other outfield berth will, most likely, depend on who pitches for the invaders.

After meeting four opponents in the last six days, the Wildcat nine will have only this game to play before begining a well-earned vacation. The Weinertmen will take up their bats again a week later when they entertain Princeton's Tigers. Two days after this they begin a two-day up-State excursion, playing Bucknell and Penn State before returning home for their annual visit to West Point.

Jigger Fans 12 as Team Downs Loyola, Georgetown

Team Wins 11-8 Slugfest Over Georgetown Univ.

By DICK SOMERS

Second stop on the Villanova baseball team's trip to the freezing South was Washington, D. C., where the fifth game in the Georgetown series was played last Thursday. The Blue and White regained its winning stride by taking the Hoyas for the first time by an 11-8 count.

Ingredients used to gain the victory were fourteen walks, three errors, three wild pitches, and eight timely hits. Stan Chojnacki's pitching in the clutch was also an important factor.

Hitting honors for the day went to three Georgetown boys, John Burke, Charles Miller, and Elmer Oberto. John had a triple, double and two singles; Charles and Elmer each had a double and two singles.

For the Blue and White Frank O'Neill, Al Litwa and Bill Doherty had two hits apiece. Frank pulled a "Comerford" by stretching a home run into a triple in addition to a single. Al contributed a double with the bases loaded in the big first inning and a single. "Doc" was content with two one-basers good for two rbi's.

Villanova started fast with five runs in the first on three walks, Litwa's double, O'Neill's triple, an error, and a wild pitch. Georgetown got three of them back on three singles, Oberto's double and two errors. The Hoyas tied the score in the second on Miller's single and triples by Burke and Baker.

Litwa scored the winning run in the third when he singled, moved to second when O'Neill walked and scored when Trussel threw wildly to first trying for a double play on Henry's grounder to short. Two more Villanova runs came over in the fourth on a walk to Chojnacki,

GEORGETOWN GAME
Continued on Page Six

4-0 Shutout Marks Close of Road Trip

By JIM MUDD

Turning in their fourth victory of the season, the Wildcats downed Loyola College for the second time in as many weeks by the score of 4-0. It was a one-hit triumph for Hen Donohue. He chalked up 12 strike-outs in nine innings, giving up only three walks. Opposing Donohue on the mound was Sid Roche, who, while fanning ten and giving up only five hits, paved the way for his defeat by committing three errors.

Leading in the batting department for Villanova was McCarthy—scoring two runs on two hits. Nunan was close behind with one run on two hits.

This game marked the first appearance of Tom McCarthy, erstwhile football player. Tom played back in 1942 at first base for the Wildcats. Joe Nunan, aggressive catcher, smashed out two hits for four times at bat.

The box score:

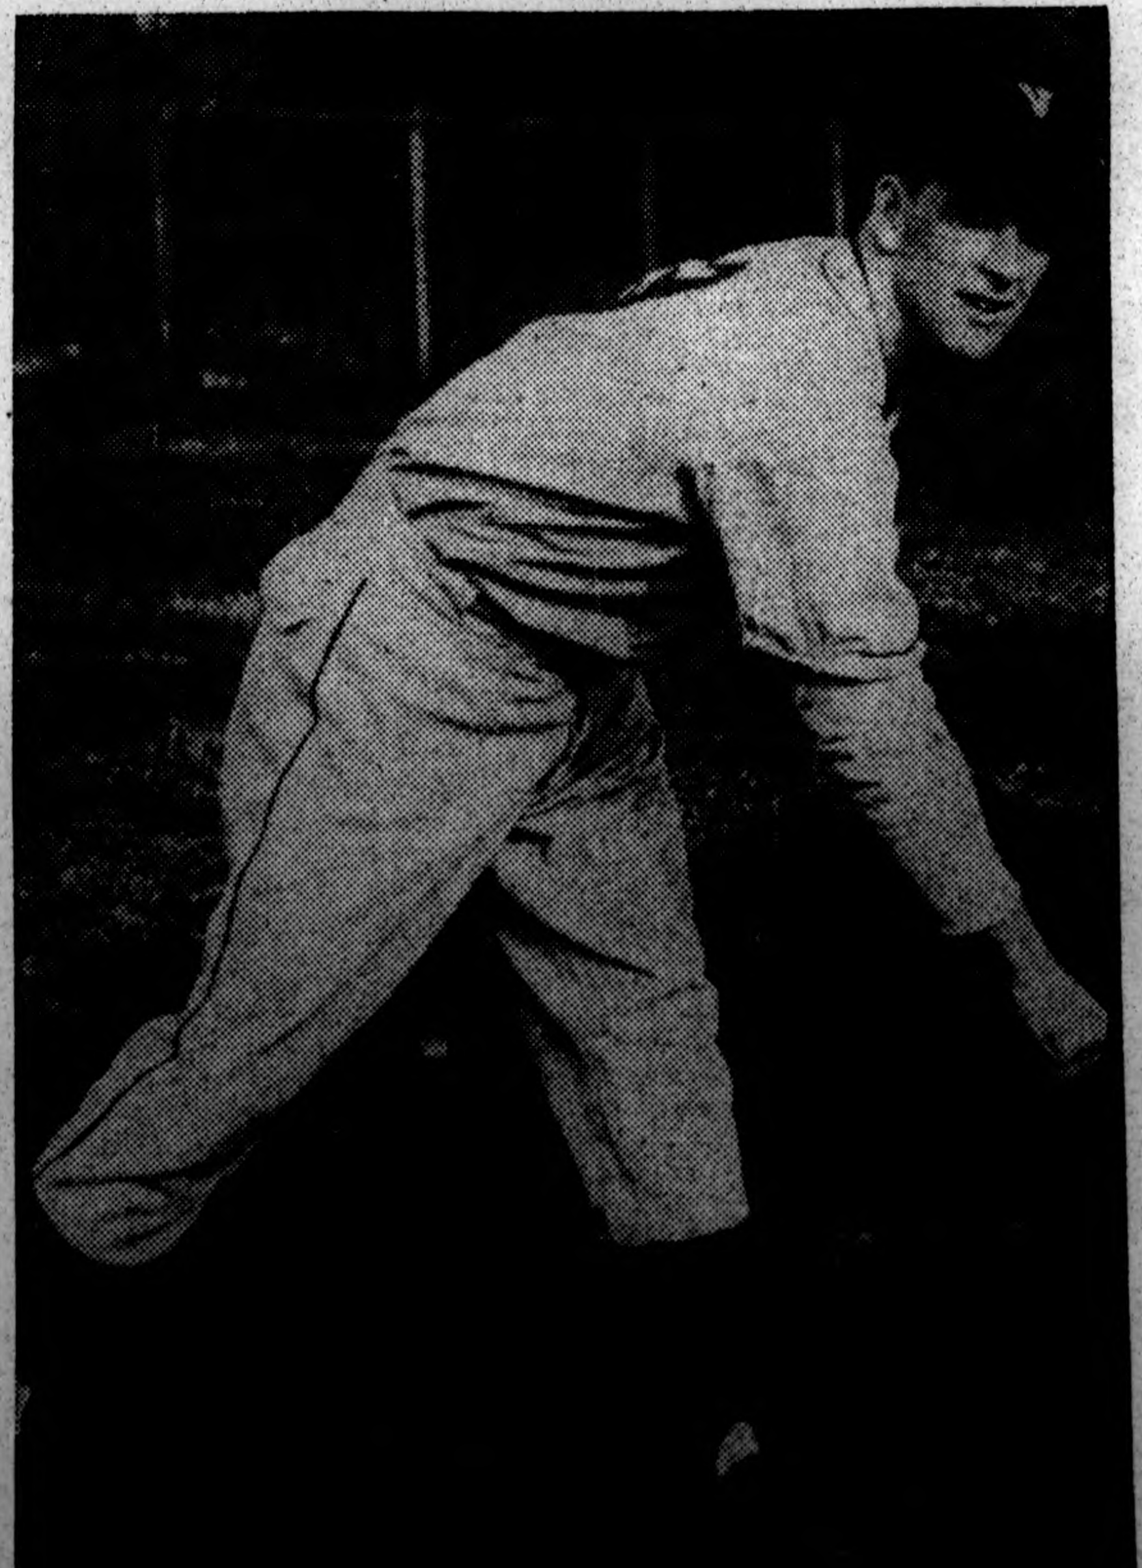
Villanova	AB	R	H	O	A
Doherty, ss	5	0	0	0	1
Smith, lf	4	1	0	1	0
Litwa, cf	4	0	0	0	0
Comerford, 1b	4	0	0	10	1
McCarthy, rf	2	2	2	2	0
Nunan, c	4	1	2	10	2
Boos, 3b	3	0	0	1	2
Lord, 2b	4	0	1	2	1
Donohue, p	4	0	0	1	5
Totals	34	4	5	27	12

Loyola	AB	R	H	O	A
Bardigan, 2b	4	0	0	1	3
Spurrier, lf	4	0	0	0	0
Karw'ki, rf	4	0	0	1	0
Bron'h's, 3b	4	0	1	2	2
Gaudreau, ss	2	0	0	1	2
ilbert, cf	3	0	0	2	0
Bangs, 1b	2	0	0	9	0
Pipitone, c	1	0	0	11	0
Roche, p	3	0	0	0	2
Totals	27	0	1	27	9

Villanova ....0 0 0 0 0 1 1 2—4
Loyola ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0

Errors—Gaudreau 3, Roche 3. Runs batted in—Lord. Sacrifices—Boos, Donohue, Gaudreau. Stolen bases—Smith, McCarthy 2, Nunan, Lord. Left on bases—Villanova 6, Loyola 4. Struck out—by Donohue 12, Roche 10.

Hurls One-Hitter



Canning Says:—

If you're a tennis enthusiast you no doubt have noticed the nice job being done on the tennis courts. The contractors have been working steadily for over a month and the work is just about completed. Fr. Kemme intends to start intramural tennis after the Easter vacation but the courts should be open for play this week.

There have been many questions asked about the formation of a varsity tennis team but I'll tell you, the chances are not too good. The opinion seems to be that the varsity reservations on the courts for daily practice sessions and for games prevents the student body from the opportunity of playing. You must admit the varsity monopoly, although justified, does cause a great deal of resentment.

The answer seems to be quite simple. While we have the contractors here, why not open the back section which was formerly used? There is ample room for enough courts so the varsity practice will not tie-up the students section.

—V—

Coach Jordan Olivers' release of Tom McCarthy from Spring football practice to make the trip with the baseball team this week, proved very timely. Playing his first game of the season against Loyola McCarthy teamed up with Joe Nunan to lead the batting attack with two hits, stealing two bases and scoring two runs. Nunan batting right behind McCarthy banged out two hits, stole one base and scored one run. So between them they accounted for three of the four runs, four of the five hits and three of the four stolen bases. A combination like that is what our team has been needing and we're sure glad to see Tom McCarthy and Joe Nunan in the starting line up.

—V—

Dave Marano's wrist injury received in the Phila. Naval Base game was a bad break for the Cats as it left a big hole at third base during the recent road trip. But luck sure is playing a hard game with our team. Just as Marano gets back into the line up, Dan Casey, star center fielder, goes to bed sick. We hope Dan isn't seriously ill and that he'll be in uniform in a few days. All that's needed now is for Jigger, "no-hit," Donohue to break his right arm.

—V—

Jack Rothenhauser, sidelined with injuries for a few weeks, is back on the field enhancing the excellent backfield material.

Ollie Ironing Out Gridmen's Weak Spots

Calisthenics, Passing Drills and Scrimmage Comprise Strenuous Workouts

Light showers curtailed the football practice during the early part of last week, but lost time was more than made up when Coach Jordan Olivar sent his squad through an extra strenuous workout.

The team is definitely looking better. As a matter of fact, it improves with each performance. But the head coach is still far from satisfied. During the week, he, and his two assistant coaches, Art Raimo and Jerri Neri, have censured the men in their every move. This scrutinizing and correcting is exactly what is needed to bring the men to perfection.

In case you have not as yet been able to watch the Wildcats in an afternoon practice, their training sums up as follows:

When the majority of the squad has turned out they are lined up for a passing drill. The ends and linemen form on both sides of the backfield candidates and run diagonally from their position as the backs "sling" the ball into the air. Vince McPeak and Red O'Donnell have a beautiful flat pass, but Janson and Rothenhouser also pass for potential paydirt. Berrang, Santocroce, Kane, and Constantino stab the pigskin out of the air if it is anywhere in their general direction. All of these boys are excellent ends, and the job of picking out the regulars increases with each drill.

Coach Jerri Neri interrupts the passing session with his familiar cry, "The circle men, let's get into a circle." This command brings out the groans, but if you have ever watched Coach Neri put these boys through calisthenics, you will realize how football players get into shape for the rugged pounding they take during a game. The exercises consist of push-ups, quarter, half, and full knee bends done to a cadence count, back strengthening, leg hardening, bicycling, and other purposely chosen muscle toughening exercises.

The squad is then split into two. The linemen race down the field with Coach Olivar, while Art Raimo and Jerri Neri take over the backfield tutoring. The linemen usually run the gauntlet, tackle one another, and receive practical tips from their coach. The backs initiate new plays and perfect old ones.

The above goes on for a half hour. Then Coach Olivar unites with his assistants to put the boys through a semi scrimmage. Two teams are chosen. The defense has an entire line but no backs, while the offense has a full team. The offensive now effectuates the plays they were taught, while the defense tries everything in their power to stop them. Don't think for a moment that the boys show mercy on one another. It's hard to believe that they all go to the same school, but it is this type of training what is needed to mold the men into a winning team.

Those players not involved in the scrimmage, run around the track, continue on in some various phase of the training until the coach allows them, along with those scrimmaging, to retire for the day. Whew!

SEEN From the Sidelines

Art Mahan, recently appointed manager of the Providence, R. I., entry in the New England League, played at Villanova. He was a regular outfielder under Doc Jacobs.

* * *

Tennis and golf are being conducted on an intramural basis at Villanova this Spring. The sports will be resumed in 1947.

* * *

When Villanova and Detroit clash in football this Fall, it will mark the first time they have met in the Motor City in several years. Last season they played in Philadelphia.

* * *

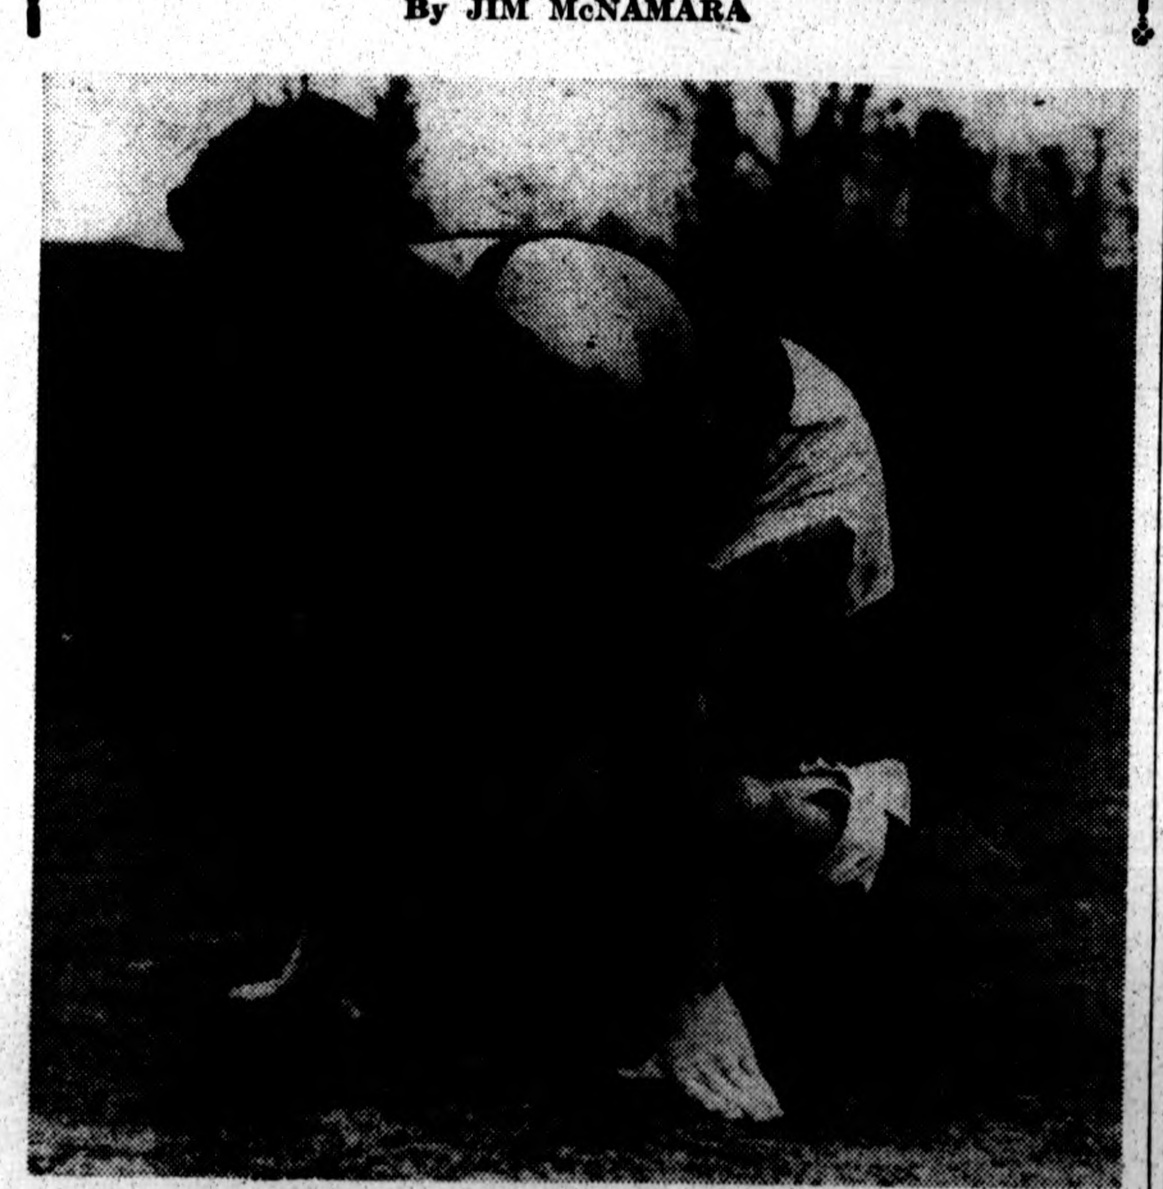
Villanova alumni from all parts of the United States are expected to attend the Homecoming Game with Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy. It will be played Sept. 14.

* * *

Al Skaf, Villanova catcher in 1940 and '41, is completing his law studies at Columbia University after serving in the Coast Guard. He lives in Asbury Park, N. J.

In The Sportlight

By JIM McNAMARA



The Sportlight this week focuses on Joe Beals, who came to Villanova in the Summer of 1944 heralded as a great middle distance runner. Joe was active in athletics in high school, making the track, football, swimming, and cross country varsities.

Varsity track claimed Joe for four years and he anchored the 880 and mile relay teams in his junior and senior years at Deerfield High, Massachusetts. Running 51 second quarters made sensational news so his name was known around these parts even before the Navy favored Villanova by sending him here. When Joe and his mates captured the Mount Hermon Interscholastic Meet Championship, college scholarships proved an anticlimax because Joe was already ear marked for V-12.

Since coming to Villanova, Mr. Mercury has been plagued by misfortune and missed an entire indoor season just when he was needed the most. In the 1945 K of C meet at New York this speed merchant closed a fifteen yard gap on his second leg sprint to give Villanova the lead and the race. In the Princeton Invitation last Summer he finished second in the 220 and 440 to teammates Cox and Short. On January 25 of this year Joe was unofficially clocked at 52 seconds for the quarter leg he ran in the College Mile Relay event of the Inquirer Invitation Meet. We placed in that event.

Ambitious for a Naval career, this speedster will enter the Naval Academy in July. Eligibility rules will favor him for four years service at Annapolis.

Phillies Game

Continued From Page Five

take off for third while McDonnell had the ball. But the "Major" wasn't playing this "pretending baseball' and rifled the ball to Joe Lord at second to nail Crawford diving into the bag head first.

Hamrick singled, moving Novikoff to third with the tie-breaking run, but Doherty, playing a spectacular game, knocked down Spindel's hard drive to deep short and in a kneeling position threw out Hamrick at second for the final out.

Despite the Blue and White's valiant efforts, the Phillies edged over the winning run in the seventh as Hodkey walked, Murtaugh banged out the fourth of his five hits and Dinges drove in the winning run with his fourth hit of the day.

SHORT SHORTS

Villanova has a two-year grid agreement with the University of Miami. The Wildcats journey to Florida in 1947.

* * *

Lieut. Bill Sullivan, varsity end under Clipper Smith and Jordon Olivar at Villanova, was a recent campus visitor, Bill expects his Navy discharge shortly.

A Short Time Ago

By N. TEDDY FALGIATORE

'SMATTER OF FACT:

Football was introduced at Villanova in 1894. It was probably only in its experimental stage at that time, because only two teams were engaged . . . Both teams, Rogan AC and Manual Training School, were beaten.

Football was actually inaugurated the following year, 1895. Because enthusiasm ran so high, a full schedule was proposed with the Wildcats capturing four of their six games. Their outstanding victories were over Philadelphia Dentals, and Hahnemann Medicals, while their defeats were sustained at the hands of Delaware College and West Chester.

Villanova started its trend towards national recognition by winning the Catholic College Championship of the East in 1907. Fordham University was on the losing end of the 15-11 deciding game.

During the same year, 1907, Villanova held the mighty Carlisle Indians to a 10-0 score. More remarkable was the fact that Jim Thorpe, considered by many as the outstanding athlete of all times, could do no more than kick successfully the extra point after the touchdown.

Villanova has only beaten Army and Navy once. They upset the Navy in 1909 to the tune of 11-6, and downed Army in 1915, score 16-13.

Villanova's first undefeated season was in 1928, with victories over Loyola, Catholic University, Gettysburg, Lebanon Vally, Bucknell, Temple, Grove City and Davis Elkins . . . There have only been two other undefeated seasons; 1937 and 1938 respectively.

Villanova was once coached by one of the original four horsemen from Notre Dame, Harry Stuhldreher, 1925-36.

REMINISCING:

April 16, 1936, ten years ago today, Villanova played St. John's of Brooklyn, defeating them in a slug fest affair, 10 to 9. The Wildcats came from behind a 9 to 5 score in the eighth inning scoring five runs, enough to put them ahead and to win the ball game. Ed Vaughn and Joe McGovern shared pitching honors for the winners.

Georgetown Game

Continued From Page Six

Doherty's single, Bill Smith's sacrifice, a wild pitch and Casey's infield out.

Georgetown took advantage of Chojnacki's second, and last, walk in the fourth and scored two runs. Bregman scored from first on a double by Burke who followed a moment later on Lord's error. The last Hoya run came in the sixth on Miller's two-baser and Burke's singleton.

In the meantime the 'Cats greeted Gora, second enemy pitcher, in the fifth with singles by O'Neill and Doherty. With two walks sandwiched in between the combination was good for two runs. The final run for the Blue and White came with two out in the sixth. Eisenhart singled and moved around on three walks.

Villanova

	AB	R	H	O	A
Doherty, ss	5	2	2	0	1
Smith, rf-lf	3	1	0	2	0
Casey, cf	4	1	0	0	0
Comerford, 1b	5	0	0	10	0
Litwa, lf	2	2	2	1	0
Eisenhart, rf	2	1	1	0	0
O'Neill, c	2	2	2	10	1
Henry, 3b	2	1	0	0	1
Lord, 2b	3	0	1	4	4
Chojnacki, p	4	1	0	0	3
Totals	32	11	8	27	10

Georgetown

	AB	R	H	O	A
Miller, 3b	5	2	3	2	1
Burke, ss	5	3	4	2	4
Baker, 1b	5	0	2	9	1
Trussel, 2b	5	1	1	2	1
Oberto, lf-rf	5	1	3	4	0
Dugan, cf	5	0	2	2	0
Byers, rf-lf	4	0	0	0	0
Bregman, c	3	1	0	6	1
Klaric, p	1	0	0	0	2
Gora, p	2	0	0	0	0
x-Struvak	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	41	8	15	27	10

x-Batted for Klaric in 4th

Villanova ....5 0 1 2 2 1 0 0 0—11

Georgetown .....3 2 0 2 0 1 0 0 0— 8

Starting Line-Up

Lehigh	Villanova
Harris, 3b	Doherty, ss
Danielson, 1b	Smith, lf
Molnar, ss	Litwa, cf
Gold, rf	Comerford, 1b
Kramer, c	McCarthy, rf
Emmerich, lf	Nunan, c
McIntyre, cf	Marano, 3b
Patrick, 2b	Lord, 2b
Custer or Greenamoyer, p	Chojnacki or McDonnell, p

Kearney Says:—

One might title this week's column of gab "In Defense of A Sports Writer," but call it what you like, it remains the story behind the stories and features which you see (I hope) every week on page five and page six.

Many have the belief that all sports writers are thwarted athletes and Sunday morning quarterbacks. Believe me, there is as much sport in compiling our stories and items every week as one man can handle in a year round season.

We do manage to get a little work done when Sam Canning and myself are not locked in mortal combat about how each of us think the way the sports page should be. Sam thinks it should be run the way he ran it back when he was working for the paper four years ago and I'm continually "snowing him" on how we did it during those "long war years."

The people we have to contact about different stories are perenially "not in" or "busy at the moment." Our writers never make their deadlines. Our photographers take pictures of little or no value. In fact, I would go so far as to say that both Sam and myself could do better with Baby Brownies. We jealously watch the news staff compose a masterpiece while we sit with our empty page and plan our weekends.

We have to dig deep for news about the dormant tennis team, the dormant intramurals, the dormant swimming and golf groups. We even have trouble getting a few lines on the games the baseball team wins.

However, we stumble on, wasting our precious evenings, free periods and what have you, to bring you campus sports news. My friends(?) Sam's friends (!) laugh at us, jeer us, mock us, deride us, but we're proud. Our mothers will still read it! Or will they?

Really, revoking all I have said about the men on the Sports staff, it is a privilege and a pleasure to try to keep you all up to date on sports happenings at Villanova. We welcome any and all criticism and suggestions that you might have to make.

Getting out two pages of sports news, however, is not as hectic as we've made it sound. It's a lot of fun and a world of experience. We thank personally, Jimmy Haughton, publicity manager, for his help and the coaching staff for their extraordinary cooperation. We thank the men who write for us for thinking enough of Villanovan sports to give up free time without remuneration, as well as the photography and cartoon men who help us fill these two pages.

Coming to the "30" mark (a newspaper term, as if you didn't know) we leave with the dire hope that you might drop this copy into the wastebasket more gently after you have scanned it. Thanks.

Smears And Cheers

Continued From Page Three

train the way from Philly to Hazleton.

WARNING TO WOMEN: All females be on the alert. Monk Restaine has got the marriage bug.

VETERAN REVERIES: The ex-G.I.'s here at Vilanova seem to miss the old gatherings at the Greeks. In the good old days half of Villanova used to be jammed in there. The good Fathers always knew where to look for the old boys. Many of the vets who are no longer attending Villanova have married girls whom they met in the Greeks, among these are Frank Chaplar and Bill Prohovich.

You may have noticed (but if you didn't, you haven't missed anything) that Cat Capers is back to plague the pages of the Villanovan. Since the editor couldn't keep that column out without hurting the feelings of the columnists, he decided to leave it in. However, maybe after three weeks of rest those (would-be) columnists have gathered enough news to fill a whole column . . . at least with quantity if not quality. Anyhow, good luck, Hal and Joe.

N.B.—Don't for the INTER-FRATERNITY DANCE!

Foreign Correspondent

By BILL GOLDEN

Between the freakish weather and the odor of garlic which fumed from our new-mown campus last week, that Spring bite of the love-bug withered away . . . in fact, it died! "Women are nice to have around when the flowers bloom in May," were KILROY's words of wisdom. So he suggested that I give the "sweet things" a break this week . . . and not see them.

"What about my column?" I asked the famous traveller. "So long as we can't get 'Ads' we've got to fill up the space somehow!" The old boy packed the bags under his eyes, grabbed my little finger, tossed me on the train and remarked:

"Wipe yo tears from off dat
face
And blow yo big red nosee.
We're gwanna fill dat empty
space
Wif words 'bout dear Saint
Joe's."

East Is East?

Before I could get the pink back into my cheeks, we were at Overbrook. According to our map, that was just west of the college . . . so, naturally, we headed west. A half hour later, on the following day, we discovered the error. KILROY pulled out his compass, shot an azimuth (a little trick he learned in the Army) and we made a direct reversal in our course. Finally (came sun up, an hour before "dead-line"), we opened our bloodshot eyes to the beautiful Collegiate Gothic buildings of St. Joseph's . . . a sight for sore eyes (I mean, we were glad to see it.) No pretty "Immac's", "Rosies" or "Mounties" adorning the campus green painting bluebirds . . . but, it was still a pleasant sight to behold.

Animated Tennis Court

As we stood on City Line, two buildings glared at us. One said his name was Administration, the other cried "Lonegran." Scared (naturally!), we ducked behind them and tripped over Finnesey Stadium. Tennis courts started throwing balls at us and yelling 'till we couldn't stand the racket. Yeow!!! . . . I'll stop!)

Knowing you dear readers wanted the information, we decided to count the acres. I had bigger feet than my colleague, so we used my shoe to do the measuring. We counted twenty-three acres before being pinched for trespassing. After explaining the purpose of our visit, we were ushered into the Administration building and introduced to a "day-hop".

Lovers vs. Lovers

This all-male body of intelectuals has been giving Villanova's flock of "lovers" a good deal of competition around the neighboring "Deb" schools. Not that they bother our boys too much, but just to test their ego, I asked this fascinating fellow the "secret" of St. Joe's success. "We owe it all to the fact that the darlings just can't resist our good looks and personality, coupled with our wit and intellect," was his immediate reply.

Meet Horstmann

Then he went on to tell us about the return of the famous man-about-town Horstmann. According to him . . . let's call him "Eveningstar," short for "Day-hop" . . . according to Eveningstar, you haven't lived unless you've met Horstmann. It is even said that Shakespeare turned in his grave the day Horstmann was born. While John Barrymore lived, he was a second "Hortstmann". Horstmann is an actor. Horstmann is a great guy! But enough about Horstmann. Says I to Eveningstar, "Surely, there must be someone else keeping the good Jesuits busy besides you and Horstmann?"

Ah! Brew

Eveningstar curled the last remaining hair on his well-polished dome and burpped out the name "Miller". (I better explain that "Burp." You see, when the boys at St. Joe's can sneak from under a watchful Jesuit eye they dash down to the MAIN LINER BAR . . . in fact, some of them drink their lunch down there. Someone stole the cork off Eveningstar's dinner, he went looking for it, and that's why the bedraggled, fascinating man was roaming the corridors when we got "pinched".) Anyway, to get back to "Miller." Miller is the only fellow living who can give Horstmann a measure of competition. A lover of the stage himself, he finally consented to act opposite his rival in an original musical entitled, "I Shall Return" . . . May 2nd, May 3rd, and May 4th, St. Joseph's College, City Line, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (I ought to get 10% for that plug! . . . that gives me an idea!)

Plug—Plug

Also during the first week in May the Junior Class of St. Joe's (same address as above) is giving its annual "Blazer Ball." Then on May 8th, at Immaculata College (how did they get in here?), located near Frazer, Pennsylvania, St. Joe's "lovers" and the beautiful "Immacs" are putting on a joint concert . . . I understand "Frankie" is flying in from the coast to hear some good singing. Then again on May 15th, but this time at St. Joe's (still the same address), the "lovers" and the "Immacs" are giving another concert. (Those girls sure have courage!)

Let me see now, at 10% for each plug . . . I guess I've written enough to retire. Get your compass out, KILROY, and let's head for home. HAPPY EASTER, all!

Interfrat Ball

Continued From Page One

stand." This is a program that is monitored over a 180 station CBS hook-up and will be short waved over the U. S. Army overseas network.

The program will be broadcast from 4:30 until 5:00. The Interfraternity Dance will get under way at nine.

As an added treat Elliot Lawrence is bring Ezra Stone with him. Ezra Stone is famous throughout the country for his radio program "Henry Aldrich." Prior to the war it was one of the biggest shows in radio and Ezra Stone has now returned to take up where he left off. He will act as master of ceremonies during the broadcast.

A good turnout is expected by the dance committee. The final plans are being made as far as decorations and refreshments are concerned. The decorations will be completed before the broadcast and will give the band an excellent background for their coast-to-coast jamboree.

This is the first dance of the current semester. Due to the number of veterans currently enrolled in the school it is expected that the backing of the dance will approach or surpass the pre-war dances of the college.

It has been announced by the presidents of Phi Kappa Pi and Delta Pi Epsilon that the proceeds of the dance will be split four ways. The four way split is planned to give Lamba Kappa Delta and the arts fraternity some money to aid in their reorganization. The dance itself is being given under the sponsorship of the Commerce Fraternity and the Engineering Frat.

Eleven more days and the dance is on!

Chinese Orphan

Continued From Page One

diocese he often pontificated at Mass for American servicemen. At the Feast of Christ the King last year over four thousand American servicemen attended Mass in St. Michael's Cathedral and Bishop Tien addressed them in English. The thousands of men who came to effect the liberation of Tsingtar Vicariate learned to love and respect this self sacrificing Bishop, whose territory had borne the brunt of the Japanese invasion and Cardinal Tien will not soon forget them.

By February 1st Cardinal-designate Tien had crossed the broad Pacific to San Diego, California aboard the transport U.S.S. Wakefield in the company of six thousand Marines. Then he proceeded by air to Chicago, where some of the robes of the late Cardinal George Mundelain of the Archdiocese of Chicago were presented to him. Later in New York other robes, those of the late Cardinal William O'Connell, were presented to him by by the Archdiocese of Boston. These gifts complete the ecclesiastical raiment. From New York Cardinal Designate Tien flew to Rome as a fellow passenger of Cardinals-designate Glennon and Spellman of this country.

There, in the Eternal City, on the twenty-first day of February this year, the Chinese orphan boy became a Prince of the Catholic Church, the first Cardinal of China, when the Supreme Pontiff, amid the beautiful setting of the Bascilica of Saint Peter, conferred to him the Red Hat, the symbol of Cardinalship.

Because there is no Chinese equivalent for the word cardinal, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek coined one for Cardinal Tien. It is Hu I Chiau Kiao, which can be translated freely as "red-robed bishop."

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

girls who are not engaged, no lovely and use Tag soap.

La Goon A—An exotic potion brewed under a dutchoven. Extract of vanilla and kerosene are combined for those who long to be domesticated.

Checker Bored—Mystic madness from a secret formula by Lady McBeth; candlegrease and wine. For the variated personality, now that Vitalis is back.

Bovine Bivouac—The cream of the crop, axle grease and evaporated milk. For those who like the open spaces and plenty of air.

Untouchable—The third dimensional perfume that raises you to a higher plane. The formula is cod liver oil and DDT. Only the persons who wish to "go out of this world" may try.

* * *

The approximate three hundred exservicemen and women at St. Bonaventure College met recently to form a VeXterans' Club on the campus. At the session officers for the new club were elected. The moderator of the new organization said the club's main purpose is to assist and serve the veterans at all times and in every possible way. A future aim of the club is to sponsor a substantial memorial to honor former students of St. Bonaventure who gave their lives in World War II.

* * *

A Boston man was spending his vacation in a New England village and went to the local barber shop for a shave. The barber was suffering from a hangover and let the razor slip several times, and after each slip, he would paste a small piece of paper over the cut to stop the bleeding. When he had finished, the man gave him a dollar. The barber started to make change, but was stopped by his customer with the remark:

"Keep the change. It is worth a dollar to be shaved by such a gifted man. Why, you are a barber, butcher and paper-hanger combined in one."

—Dakota Scientist

* * *

The Florida Alligator informs us that the Florida State Board of Control has been authorized to release $377,000 for immediate start of construction at the University. Preliminary plans for $2,627,000 building program will get under way in the near future. The sums of money will be expended as follows: a $1,200,000 combined gymnasium, armory and auditorium, a $327,000 classroom building. Whew!

* * *

An American in London was having a terrible time with his pronunciation. It was bad enough to learn that Worcester was pronounced "Wooster," and that "Chumley" was spelled as Cholmondeley. Then he saw a marquee on a picture house. It read: A Revival of Cavalcade: Pronounced Success."

"That settles it," said the American. "I'm going home."

Schulman . . . on the Cob

By JOE SWEENEY

If you missed the first two of Max Shulman's books, don't be discouraged, because a third has recently been published called The Zebra Derby, and the author promises us eleven more in the same series. After all fourteen have been published, a consideration limited to three pages is to be printed in The Reader's Digest under the title HERNIA CAN BE CURED. The latter is particularly illuminating for it proves that the books do have a proper objective other than merely chronicling the foibles of our times without further interpretation.

The book opens on a note of triumph when Asa Hearthrug, the zaniest hero I have ever encountered in fiction, embraces his mother and cries, "I have come home from the wars to live and prosper in a new world of peace, opportunity, and universal plumbing facilities." But the farm was not for Asa. His "finely chiseled, wind swept head" was filled with ideas of how to succeed in the atomic world.

His first stop was to bid farewell to Lodestone La Toole, his sweetheart. Lodestone has the dubious distinction of being the world's most unromantic lover. This time her one-track mind was totally centered upon a new house. Among her dreams, "a Murphy bath — a bathtub when it's horizontal; fold it and you got a shower" to say nothing of "an Alarm-O-Mattress that shakes you awake in the morning and an electric closet that gives moths the trauma."

Leaving Lodestone on her knoll surrounded by her pet rabbits, Asa boarded the Cannon Ball bound for Minneapolis. On the train Asa met Nebbice Upcharles, an ex-sand hog. Despite her rather grimy past, Nebbice exhibited all the normal instincts of a healthy American girl. That is to say her chief concern was getting a man and since her tastes were not fastidious, Nebbice chose Asa. Needless to say Asa was not consulted.

Nebbice, a victim of environment —"her parents were classically middle class, they lived in a six-room house in which five separate eras of furnishings vied for prevalence . . . had an iron deer on the lawn . . . read one book a month chosen for them by four strangers, and never took the jacket off a book," dragged the unsuspecting Asa home with her to meet her brother Alaric.

Since Alaric was a fine business man, he graduated cum laude from the neighborhood pool room, and since Asa had the capital, a business merger was inevitable. This lead to cooky cutters made of Moron, the only plastic containing Vitamin A, which Asa tried to sell to housewives all of whom were exmachinists. The result of this experiment is obvious. Two more brilliant ventures were equally disastrous.

Beaten in business, Asa was distracted by his old flame, Yetta Samovar. This distraction was composed of equal parts of Lenin and Marx, as the name implies. Their communistic community was a tragic failure in the very best tradition.

Undismayed, Asa applied at the University of Minnesota for admission. Emerging undaunted from a confusing session with the Veteran's Advisors, he met his undoing in the person of a lady psychiatrist. So Asa returned to whistlestop and Lodestone. Finding her on her knoll, he asked her if she ever left it. With a brilliant flash of inspiration, she answered, "What for?"

If you have read either of Shulman's previous books, don't bother reading this one, for you will find the story too familiar to be amusing or even mildly interesting. This seems to be another case of the author's capitalization on an originally fresh and amusing idea. This time we are threatened with eleven more volumes in the same vein. The person faced with condensing these fourteen books will have a remarkably easy time of it, for the best of Shulman can be easily condensed to three pages.

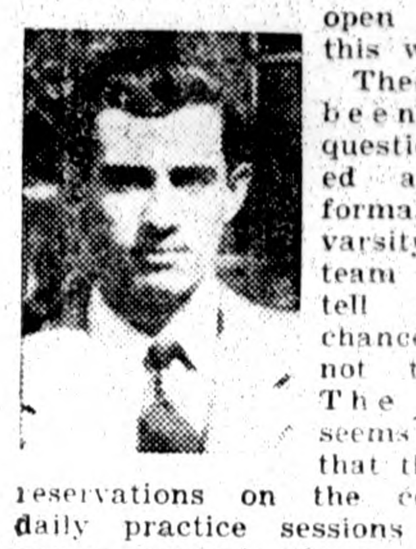
Shulman's best writing is in the last third of this book. The second third is a perfect example of how to pad a novelette to the propórtions of a novel. I cannot sincerely join the ranks of Shulman fans, for while I found some of the book funny in the outrageous manner made famous by H. Allen Smith, most of it is "pretty corny" besides being sometimes downright irreverent.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.
THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

It's a party...Have a Coke
DRINK
Coca-Cola
© 1946 The C-C Co.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Canning Says:—

If you're a tennis enthusiast you no doubt have noticed the nice job being done on the tennis courts. The contractors have been working steadily for over a month and the work is just about completed. Fr. Kemme intends to start intramural tennis after the Easter vacation but the courts should be open for play this week.



There have been many questions asked about the formation of a varsity tennis team but I'll tell you, the chances are not too good. The opinion seems to be that the varsity reservations on the courts for daily practice sessions and for games prevents the student body from the opportunity of playing. You must admit the varsity monopoly, although justified, does cause a great deal of resentment.

The answer seems to be quite simple. While we have the contractors here, why not open the back section which was formerly used? There is ample room for enough courts so the varsity practice will not tie-up the students section.

—V—

Coach Jordan Olivers' release of Tom McCarthy from Spring football practice to make the trip with the baseball team this week, proved very timely. Playing his first game of the season against Loyola McCarthy teamed up with Joe Nunan to lead the batting attack with two hits, stealing two bases and scoring two runs. Nunan batting right behind McCarthy banged out two hits, stole one base and scored one run. So between them they accounted for three of the four runs, four of the five hits and three of the four stolen bases. A combination like that is what our team has been needing and we're sure glad to see Tom McCarthy and Joe Nunan in the starting line up.

—V—

Dave Marano's wrist injury received in the Phila. Naval Base game was a bad break for the Cats as it left a big hole at third base during the recent road trip. But luck sure is playing a hard game with our team. Just as Marano gets back into the line up, Dan Casey, star center fielder, goes to bed sick. We hope Dan isn't seriously ill and that he'll be in uniform in a few days. All that's needed now is for Jigger, "no-hit," Donohue to break his right arm.

—V—

Jack Rothenhauser, sidelined with injuries for a few weeks, is back on the field enhancing the excellent backfield material.

Ollie Ironing Out Gridmen's Weak Spots

Calisthenics, Passing Drills and Scrimmage Comprise Strenuous Workouts

Light showers curtailed the football practice during the early part of last week, but lost time was more than made up when Coach Jordan Olivar sent his squad through an extra strenuous workout.

The team is definitely looking better. As a matter of fact, it improves with each performance. But the head coach is still far from satisfied. During the week, he, and his two assistant coaches, Art Raimo and Jerri Neri, have censured the men in their every move. This scrutinizing and correcting is exactly what is needed to bring the men to perfection.

In case you have not as yet been able to watch the Wildcats in an afternoon practice, their training sums up as follows:

When the majority of the squad has turned out they are lined up for a passing drill. The ends and linemen form on both sides of the backfield candidates and run diagonally from their position as the backs "sling" the ball into the air. Vince McPeak and Red O'Donnell have a beautiful flat pass, but Janson and Rothenhouser also pass for potential paydirt. Berrang, Santocroce, Kane, and Constantino stab the pigskin out of the air if it is anywhere in their general direction. All of these boys are excellent ends, and the job of picking out the regulars increases with each drill.

Coach Jerri Neri interrupts the passing session with his familiar cry, "The circle men, let's get into a circle." This command brings out the groans, but if you have ever watched Coach Neri put these boys through calisthenics, you will realize how football players get into shape for the rugged pounding they take during a game. The exercises consist of push-ups, quarter, half, and full knee bends done to a cadence count, back strengthening, leg hardening, bicycling, and other purposely chosen muscle toughening exercises.

The squad is then split into two. The linemen race down the field with Coach Olivar, while Art Raimo and Jerri Neri take over the backfield tutoring. The linemen usually run the gauntlet, tackle one another, and receive practical tips from their coach. The backs initiate new plays and perfect old ones.

The above goes on for a half hour. Then Coach Olivar unites with his assistants to put the boys through a semi scrimmage. Two teams are chosen. The defense has an entire line but no backs, while the offense has a full team. The offensive now effectuates the plays they were taught, while the defense tries everything in their power to stop them. Don't think for a moment that the boys show mercy on one another. It's hard to believe that they all go to the same school, but it is this type of training what is needed to mold the men into a winning team.

Those players not involved in the scrimmage, run around the track, continue on in some various phase of the training until the coach allows them, along with those scrimmaging, to retire for the day. Whew!

SEEN From the Sidelines

Art Mahan, recently appointed manager of the Providence, R. I., entry in the New England League, played at Villanova. He was a regular outfielder under Doc Jacobs.

• • •

Tennis and golf are being conducted on an intramural basis at Villanova this Spring. The sports will be resumed in 1947.

• • •

When Villanova and Detroit clash in football this Fall, it will mark the first time they have met in the Motor City in several years. Last season they played in Philadelphia.

• • •

Villanova alumni from all parts of the United States are expected to attend the Homecoming Game with Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy. It will be played Sept. 14.

• • •

Al Skaf, Villanova catcher in 1940 and '41, is completing his law studies at Columbia University after serving in the Coast Guard. He lives in Asbury Park, N. J.

Phillies Game

Continued From Page Five

take off for third while McDonnell had the ball. But the "Major" wasn't playing this "pretending baseball" and rifled the ball to Joe Lord at second to nail Crawford diving into the bag head first.

Hamrick singled, moving Novikoff to third with the tie-breaking run, but Doherty, playing a spectacular game, knocked down Spindel's hard drive to deep short and in a kneeling position threw out Hamrick at second for the final out.

Despite the Blue and White's valiant efforts, the Phillies edged over the winning run in the seventh as Hodkey walked, Murtaugh banged out the fourth of his five hits and Dinges drove in the winning run with his fourth hit of the day.

SHORT SHORTS

Villanova has a two-year grid agreement with the University of Miami. The Wildcats journey to Florida in 1947.

• • •

Lieut. Bill Sullivan, varsity end under Clipper Smith and Jordon Olivar at Villanova, was a recent campus visitor, Bill expects his Navy discharge shortly.

In The Sportlight

By JIM McNAMARA

The Sportlight this week focuses on Joe Beals, who came to Villanova in the Summer of 1944 heralded as a great middle distance runner. Joe was active in athletics in high school, making the track, football, swimming, and cross country varsities.

Varsity track claimed Joe for four years and he anchored the 880 and mile relay teams in his junior and senior years at Deerfield High, Massachusetts. Running 51 second quarters made sensational news so his name was known around these parts even before the Navy favored Villanova by sending him here. When Joe and his mates captured the Mount Hermon Interscholastic Meet Championship, college scholarships proved an anticlimax because Joe was already ear marked for V-12.

Since coming to Villanova, Mr. Mercury has been plagued by misfortune and missed an entire indoor season just when he was needed the most. In the 1945 K of C meet at New York this speed merchant closed a fifteen yard gap on his second leg sprint to give Villanova the lead and the race. In the Princeton Invitation last Summer he finished second in the 220 and 440 to teammates Cox and Short. On January 25 of this year Joe was unofficially clocked at 52 seconds for the quarter leg he ran in the College Mile Relay event of the Inquirer Invitation Meet. We placed in that event.

Ambitious for a Naval career, this speedster will enter the Naval Academy in July. Eligibility rules will favor him for four years service at Annapolis.

A Short Time Ago

By N. TEDDY FALGIATORE

'SMATTER OF FACT:

Football was introduced at Villanova in 1894. It was probably only in its experimental stage at that time, because only two teams were engaged . . . Both teams, Rogan AC and Manual Training School, were beaten.

Football was actually inaugurated the following year, 1895. Because enthusiasm ran so high, a full schedule was proposed with the Wildcats capturing four of their six games. Their outstanding victories were over Philadelphia Dentals, and Hahnemann Medicals, while their defeats were sustained at the hands of Delaware College and West Chester.

Villanova started its trend towards national recognition by winning the Catholic College Championship of the East in 1907. Fordham University was on the losing end of the 15-11 deciding game.

During the same year, 1907, Villanova held the mighty Carlisle Indians to a 10-0 score. More remarkable was the fact that Jim Thorpe, considered by many as the outstanding athlete of all times, could do no more than kick successfully the extra point after the touchdown.

Villanova has only beaten Army and Navy once. They upset the Navy in 1909 to the tune of 11-6, and downed Army in 1915, score 16-13.

Villanova's first undefeated season was in 1928, with victories over Loyola, Catholic University, Gettysburg, Lebanon Vally, Bucknell, Temple, Grove City and Davis Elkins . . . There have only been two other undefeated seasons; 1937 and 1938 respectively.

Villanova was once coached by one of the original four horsemen from Notre Dame, Harry Stuhldreher, 1925-36.

REMINISCING:

April 16, 1936, ten years ago today, Villanova played St. John's of Brooklyn, defeating them in a slug fest affair, 10 to 9. The Wildcats came from behind a 9 to 5 score in the eighth inning scoring five runs, enough to put them ahead and to win the ball game. Ed Vaughn and Joe McGovern shared pitching honors for the winners.

Georgetown Game

Continued From Page Six

Doherty's single, Bill Smith's sacrifice, a wild pitch and Casey's infield out.

Georgetown took advantage of Chojnacki's second, and last, walk in the fourth and scored two runs. Bregman scored from first on a double by Burke who followed a moment later on Lord's error. The last Hoya run came in the sixth on Miller's two-baser and Burke's singleton.

In the meantime the 'Cats greeted Gora, second enemy pitcher, in the fifth with singles by O'Neill and Doherty. With two walks sandwiched in between the combination was good for two runs. The final run for the Blue and White came with two out in the sixth. Eisenhart singled and moved around on three walks.

Villanova	AB	R	H	O	A
Doherty, ss	5	2	2	0	1
Smith, rf-lf	3	1	0	2	0
Casey, cf	4	1	0	0	0
Comerford, 1b	5	0	0	10	0
Litwa, lf	2	2	2	1	0
Eisenhart, rf	2	1	1	0	0
O'Neill, c	2	2	2	10	1
Henry, 3b	2	1	0	0	1
Lord, 2b	3	0	1	4	4
Chojnacki, p	4	1	0	0	3
Totals	32	11	8	27	10

Georgetown	AB	R	H	O	A
Miller, 3b	5	2	3	2	1
Burke, ss	5	3	4	2	4
Baker, 1b	5	0	2	9	1
Trussel, 2b	5	1	1	2	1
Oberto, lf-rf	5	1	3	4	0
Dugan, cf	5	0	2	2	0
Byers, rf-lf	4	0	0	0	0
Bregman, c	3	1	0	6	1
Klaric, p	1	0	0	0	2
Gora, p	2	0	0	0	0
x-Struvak	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	41	8	15	27	10

x-Batted for Klaric in 4th

Villanova ....5 0 1 2 2 1 0 0 0—11

Georgetown ......3 2 0 2 0 1 0 0 0— 8

Starting Line-Up

Lehigh	Villanova
Harris, 3b	Doherty, ss
Danielson, 1b	Smith, lf
Molnar, ss	Litwa, cf
Gold, rf	Comerford, 1b
Kramer, c	McCarthy, rf
Emmerich, lf	Nunan, c
McIntyre, cf	Marano, 3b
Patrick, 2b	Lord, 2b
Custer or Greenamoyer, p	Chojnacki or McDonnell, p

Kearney Says:—

One might title this week's column of gab "In Defense of A Sports Writer," but call it what you like, it remains the story behind the stories and features which you see (I hope) every week on page five and page six.

Many have the belief that all sports writers are thwarted athletes and Sunday morning quarterbacks. Believe me, there is as much sport in compiling our stories and items every week as one man can handle in a year round season.

We do manage to get a little work done when Sam Canning and myself are not locked in mortal combat about how each of us think the way the sports page should be. Sam thinks it should be run the way he ran it back when he was working for the paper four years ago and I'm continually "snowing him" on how we did it during those "long war years."

The people we have to contact about different stories are perenially "not in" or "busy at the moment." Our writers never make their deadlines. Our photographers take pictures of little or no value. In fact, I would go so far as to say that both Sam and myself could do better with Baby Brownies. We jealously watch the news staff compose a masterpiece while we sit with our empty page and plan our weekends.

We have to dig deep for news about the dormant tennis team, the dormant intramurals, the dormant swimming and golf groups. We even have trouble getting a few lines on the games the baseball team wins.

However, we stumble on, wasting our precious evenings, free periods and what have you, to bring you campus sports news. My friends(?) Sam's friends (!) laugh at us, jeer us, mock us, deride us, but we're proud. Our mothers will still read it! Or will they?

Really, revoking all I have said about the men on the Sports staff, it is a privilege and a pleasure to try to keep you all up to date on sports happenings at Villanova. We welcome any and all criticism and suggestions that you might have to make.

Getting out two pages of sports news, however, is not as hectic as we've made it sound. It's a lot of fun and a world of experience. We thank personally, Jimmy Haughton, publicity manager, for his help and the coaching staff for their extraordinary cooperation. We thank the men who write for us for thinking enough of Villanovan sports to give up free time without remuneration, as well as the photography and cartoon men who help us fill these two pages.

Coming to the "30" mark (a newspaper term, as if you didn't know) we leave with the dire hope that you might drop this copy into the wastebasket more gently after you have scanned it. Thanks.

Smears And Cheers

Continued From Page Three

train the way from Philly to Hazleton.

WARNING TO WOMEN: All females be on the alert. Monk Restaine has got the marriage bug.

VETERAN REVERIES: The ex-G.I.'s here at Vilanova seem to miss the old gatherings at the Greeks. In the good old days half of Villanova used to be jammed in there. The good Fathers always knew where to look for the old boys. Many of the vets who are no longer attending Villanova have married girls whom they met in the Greeks, among these are Frank Chaplar and Bill Prohovich.

You may have noticed (but if you didn't, you haven't missed anything) that Cat Capers is back to plague the pages of the Villanovan. Since the editor couldn't keep that column out without hurting the feelings of the columnists, he decided to leave it in. However, maybe after three weeks of rest those (would-be) columnists have gathered enough news to fill a whole column . . . at least with quantity if not quality. Anyhow, good luck, Hal and Joe.

N.B.—Don't for the INTER-FRATERNITY DANCE!

Foreign Correspondent

By BILL GOLDEN

Between the freakish weather and the odor of garlic which fumed from our new-mown campus last week, that Spring bite of the love-bug withered away . . . in fact, it died! "Women are nice to have around when the flowers bloom in May," were KILROY'S words of wisdom. So he suggested that I give the "sweet things" a break this week . . . and not see them.

"What about my column?" I asked the famous traveller. "So long as we can't get 'Ads' we've got to fill up the space somehow!" The old boy packed the bags under his eyes, grabbed my little finger, tossed me on the train and remarked:

"Wipe yo tears from off dat
face
And blow yo big red nosee.
We're gwanna fill dat empty
space
Wif words 'bout dear Saint
Joe's."

East Is East?

Before I could get the pink back into my cheeks, we were at Overbrook. According to our map, that was just west of the college . . . so, naturally, we headed west. A half hour later, on the following day, we discovered the error. KILROY pulled out his compass, shot an azimuth (a little trick he learned in the Army) and we made a direct reversal in our course. Finally (came sun up, an hour before "dead-line"), we opened our bloodshot eyes to the beautiful Collegiate Gothic buildings of St. Joseph's . . . a sight for sore eyes (I mean, we were glad to see it.) No pretty "Immac's", "Rosies" or "Mounties" adorning the campus green painting bluebirds . . . but, it was still a pleasant sight to behold.

Animated Tennis Court

As we stood on City Line, two buildings glared at us. One said his name was Administration, the other cried "Lonegran." Scared (naturally!), we ducked behind them and tripped over Finnesey Stadium. Tennis courts started throwing balls at us and yelling 'till we couldn't stand the racket .Yeow!!! . . . I'll stop!)

Knowing you dear readers wanted the information, we decided to count the acres. I had bigger feet than my colleague, so we used my shoe to do the measuring. We counted twenty-three acres before being pinched for trespassing. After explaining the purpose of our visit, we were ushered into the Administration building and introduced to a "day-hop".

Lovers vs. Lovers

This all-male body of intelectuals has been giving Villanova's flock of "lovers" a good deal of competition around the neighboring "Deb" schools. Not that they bother our boys too much, but just to test their ego, I asked this fascinating fellow the "secret" of St. Joe's success. "We owe it all to the fact that the darlings just can't resist our good looks and personality, coupled with our wit and intellect," was his immediate reply.

Meet Horstmann

Then he went on to tell us about the return of the famous man-about-town Horstmann. According to him . . . let's call him "Eveningstar," short for "Day-hop" . . . according to Eveningstar, you haven't lived unless you've met Horstmann. It is even said that Shakespeare turned in his grave the day Horstmann was born. While John Barrymore lived, he was a second "Hortstmann". Horstmann is an actor. Horstmann is a great guy! But enough about Horstmann. Says I to Eveningstar, "Surely, there must be someone else keeping the good Jesuits busy besides you and Horstmann?"

Ah! Brew

Eveningstar curled the last remaining hair on his well-polished dome and burpped out the name "Miller". (I better explain that "Burp." You see, when the boys at St. Joe's can sneak from under a watchful Jesuit eye they dash down to the MAIN LINER BAR . . . in fact, some of them drink their lunch down there. Someone stole the cork off Eveningstar's dinner, he went looking for it, and that's why the bedraggled, fascinating man was roaming the corridors when we got "pinched".) Anyway, to get back to "Miller." Miller is the only fellow living who can give Horstmann a measure of competition. A lover of the stage himself, he finally consented to act opposite his rival in an original musical entitled, "I Shall Return" . . . May 2nd, May 3rd, and May 4th, St. Joseph's College, City Line, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (I ought to get 10% for that plug! . . . that gives me an idea!)

Plug—Plug

Also during the first week in May the Junior Class of St. Joe's (same address as above) is giving its annual "Blazer Ball." Then on May 8th, at Immaculata College (how did they get in here?), located near Frazer, Pennsylvania, St. Joe's "lovers" and the beautiful "Immacs" are putting on a joint concert . . . I understand "Frankie" is flying in from the coast to hear some good singing. Then again on May 15th, but this time at St. Joe's (still the same address), the "lovers" and the "Immacs" are giving another concert. (Those girls sure have courage!)

Let me see now, at 10% for each plug . . . I guess I've written enough to retire. Get your compass out, KILROY, and let's head for home. HAPPY EASTER, all!

Interfrat Ball

Continued From Page One

stand." This is a program that is monitored over a 180 station CBS hook-up and will be short waved over the U. S. Army overseas network.

The program will be broadcast from 4:30 until 5:00. The Interfraternity Dance will get under way at nine.

As an added treat Elliot Lawrence is bring Ezra Stone with him. Ezra Stone is famous throughout the country for his radio program "Henry Aldrich." Prior to the war it was one of the biggest shows in radio and Ezra Stone has now returned to take up where he left off. He will act as master of ceremonies during the broadcast.

A good turnout is expected by the dance committee. The final plans are being made as far as decorations and refreshments are concerned. The decorations will be completed before the broadcast and will give the band an excellent background for their coast-to-coast jamboree.

This is the first dance of the current semester. Due to the number of veterans currently enrolled in the school it is expected that the backing of the dance will approach or surpass the pre-war dances of the college.

It has been announced by the presidents of Phi Kappa Pi and Delta Pi Epsilon that the proceeds of the dance will be split four ways. The four way split is planned to give Lamba Kappa Delta and the arts fraternity some money to aid in their reorganization. The dance itself is being given under the sponsorship of the Commerce Fraternity and the Engineering Frat.

Eleven more days and the dance is on!

Chinese Orphan

Continued From Page One

diocese he often pontificated at Mass for American servicemen. At the Feast of Christ the King last year over four thousand American servicemen attended Mass in St. Michael's Cathedral and Bishop Tien addressed them in English. The thousands of men who came to effect the liberation of Tsingtar Vicariate learned to love and respect this self sacrificing Bishop, whose territory had borne the brunt of the Japanese invasion and Cardinal Tien will not soon forget them.

By February 1st Cardinal-designate Tien had crossed the broad Pacific to San Diego, California aboard the transport U.S.S. Wakefield in the company of six thousand Marines. Then he proceeded by air to Chicago, where some of the robes of the late Cardinal George Mundelain of the Archdiocese of Chicago were presented to him. Later in New York other robes, those of the late Cardinal William O'Connell, were presented to him by by the Archdiocese of Boston. These gifts complete the ecclesiastical raiment. From New York Cardinal Designate Tien flew to Rome as a fellow passenger of Cardinals-designate Glennon and Spellman of this country.

There, in the Eternal City, on the twenty-first day of February this year, the Chinese orphan boy became a Prince of the Catholic Church, the first Cardinal of China, when the Supreme Pontiff, amid the beautiful setting of the Bascilica of Saint Peter, conferred to him the Red Hat, the symbol of Cardinalship.

Because there is no Chinese equivalent for the word cardinal, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek coined one for Cardinal Tien. It is Hu I Chiau Kiao, which can be translated freely as "red-robed bishop."

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

girls who are not engaged, no lovely and use Tag soap.

La Goon A—An exotic potion brewed under a dutchoven. Extract of vanilla and kerosene are combined for those who long to be domesticated.

Checker Bored—Mystic madness from a secret formula by Lady McBeth; candlegrease and wine. For the variated personality, now that Vitalis is back.

Bovine Bivouac—The cream of the crop, axle grease and evaporated milk. For those who like the open spaces and plenty of air.

Untouchable—The third dimensional perfume that raises you to a higher plane. The formula is cod liver oil and DDT. Only the persons who wish to "go out of this world" may try.

• • •

The approximate three hundred exservicemen and women at St. Bonaventure College met recently to form a VeXterans' Club on the campus. At the session officers for the new club were elected. The moderator of the new organization said the club's main purpose is to assist and serve the veterans at all times and in every possible way. A future aim of the club is to sponsor a substantial memorial to honor former students of St. Bonaventure who gave their lives in World War II.

• • •

A Boston man was spending his vacation in a New England village and went to the local barber shop for a shave. The barber was suffering from a hangover and let the razor slip several times, and after each slip, he would paste a small piece of paper over the cut to stop the bleeding. When he had finished, the man gave him a dollar. The barber started to make change, but was stopped by his customer with the remark:

"Keep the change. It is worth a dollar to be shaved by such a gifted man. Why, you are a barber, butcher and paper-hanger combined in one."

—Dakota Scientist

• • •

The Florida Alligator informs us that the Florida State Board of Control has been authorized to release $377,000 for immediate start of construction at the University. Preliminary plans for $2,627,000 building program will get under way in the near future. The sums of money will be expended as follows: a $1,200,000 combined gymnasium, armory and auditorium, a $327,000 classroom building. Whew!

• • •

An American in London was having a terrible time with his pronunciation. It was bad enough to learn that Worcester was pronounced "Wooster," and that "Chumley" was spelled as Cholmondeley. Then he saw a marquee on a picture house. It read: A Revival of Cavalcade: Pronounced Success."

"That settles it," said the American. "I'm going home."

Schulman . . . on the Cob

By JOE SWEENEY

If you missed the first two of Max Shulman's books, don't be discouraged, because a third has recently been published called The Zebra Derby, and the author promises us eleven more in the same series. After all fourteen have been published, a consideration limited to three pages is to be printed in The Reader's Digest under the title HERNIA CAN BE CURED. The latter is particularly illuminating for it proves that the books do have a proper objective other than merely chronicling the foibles of our times without further interpretation.

The book opens on a note of triumph when Asa Hearthrug, the zaniest hero I have ever encountered in fiction, embraces his mother and cries, "I have come home from the wars to live and prosper in a new world of peace, opportunity, and universal plumbing facilities." But the farm was not for Asa. His "finely chiseled, wind swept head" was filled with ideas of how to succeed in the atomic world.

His first stop was to bid farewell to Lodestone La Toole, his sweetheart. Lodestone has the dubious distinction of being the world's most unromantic lover. This time her one-track mind was totally centered upon a new house. Among her dreams, "a Murphy bath — a bathtub when it's horizontal; fold it and you got a shower" to say nothing of "an Alarm-O-Mattress that shakes you awake in the morning and an electric closet that gives moths the trauma."

Leaving Lodestone on her knoll surrounded by her pet rabbits, Asa boarded the Cannon Ball bound for Minneapolis. On the train Asa met Nebbice Upcharles, an ex-sand hog. Despite her rather grimy past, Nebbice exhibited all the normal instincts of a healthy American girl. That is to say her chief concern was getting a man and since her tastes were not fastidious, Nebbice chose Asa. Needless to say Asa was not consulted.

Nebbice, a victim of environment —"her parents were classically middle class, they lived in a six-room house in which five separate eras of furnishings vied for prevalence . . . had an iron deer on the lawn . . . read one book a month chosen for them by four strangers, and never took the jacket off a book," dragged the unsuspecting Asa home with her to meet her brother Alaric.

Since Alaric was a fine business man, he graduated cum laude from the neighborhood pool room, and since Asa had the capital, a business merger was inevitable. This lead to cooky cutters made of Moron, the only plastic containing Vitamin A, which Asa tried to sell to housewives all of whom were ex-machinists. The result of this experiment is obvious. Two more brilliant ventures were equally disastrous.

Beaten in business, Asa was distracted by his old flame, Yetta Samovar. This distraction was composed of equal parts of Lenin and Marx, as the name implies. Their communistic community was a tragic failure in the very best tradition.

Undismayed, Asa applied at the University of Minnesota for admission. Emerging undaunted from a confusing session with the Veteran's Advisors, he met his undoing in the person of a lady psychiatrist. So Asa returned to whistlestop and Lodestone. Finding her on her knoll, he asked her if she ever left it. With a brilliant flash of inspiration, she answered, "What for?"

If you have read either of Shulman's previous books, don't bother reading this one, for you will find the story too familiar to be amusing or even mildly interesting. This seems to be another case of the author's capitalization on an originally fresh and amusing idea. This time we are threatened with eleven more volumes in the same vein. The person faced with condensing these fourteen books will have a remarkably easy time of it, for the best of Shulman can be easily condensed to three pages.

Shulman's best writing is in the last third of this book. The second third is a perfect example of how to pad a novelette to the proportions of a novel. I cannot sincerely join the ranks of Shulman fans, for while I found some of the book funny in the outrageous manner made famous by H. Allen Smith, most of it is "pretty corny" besides being sometimes downright irreverent.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH

Longines

WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.

THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

It's a party . . . Have a Coke

DRINK
Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Cardinal Tien

Continued From Page One

ese dialect and the Cardinal, who is from Tsingtao Province, could not understand him, so they conversed in English.

In his conversation with Father McGuire, the prelate said that it was pleasing to see such a large enrollment at a Catholic College and that he was very interested in the possibility of some students from China continuing their education at Villanova.

Other members of the Cardinal's party included Doctor Mao, his secretary, who was a fellow student of Father McGuire at Propaganda Fide in Rome, Lucy Eu, a Rosemont student, who is returning to China shortly, and a member of the Chinese Embassy in Washington, who acted as interpreter for the prelate.

Other pressing engagements shortened the ecclesiastical dignitary's stay here and, after proving himself an affable guest, he was whisked to the Church of the Holy Redeemer in Chinatown. There, he and Dennis Cardinal Dougherty received a great ovation amid the fluttering of Chinese and American flags and decorations. Then after Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, the Cardinal, speaking in Chinese, thanked the parish for their gift of $2000.00 and thanked America for her help to China. He concluded his address with a promise to better China's educational system and left these people, whose hearts he had captured, to attend a luncheon at St. John's Rectory. Immediately after this luncheon Cardinal Tien boarded a train for the nation's capital.

Philadelphia will long remember this humble but dignified personage, for his unselfish efforts to greet and please everyone during his visit.

Notice

The next issue of the Villanovan will be printed May 7. The Easter recess and the Mid-Term exams will necessitate this intermission.

Cat Capers

Continued From Page One

eating his roast beef (a new name for "Red Heart"). Everytime Dave took a bite, it barked back at 'im.

According to the last issue of the Villanovan, Don "she speaks highly of you" Collins did a fine job of arranging for the dinner (my, my, those white lies again) even though he claims he was there on time. Yes Don, Yes Don, Yes, yes, yes, I'll have your shoes shined by noon). It's amazing what a little columnist has to take from an editor.

As the fellow said when he handed me the soldering iron, here's a hot tip . . . The last thing to happen before this rag was thrown to the printers was that the moderator of the 'Immaculatan' had presented to the ever lovin' members of this staff a gleaming mountain of culinary magnificence in return for the Foreign Correspondent's report of his journey up the Pike. . . Thanks a lot Sister Marie Eugenie I. H. M.

With no further gossip to thrive on . . . (thrive, that's the word given to what Bill Koerner does on his love life weekends) we'll close this chatter for awhile looking forward to better days. . .

Senior Elections

There was a very poor representation of the Senior voters yesterday. It is estimated that one-third of the Class came late or did not show up at the polls. Remember: Junior and Sophomore this week.

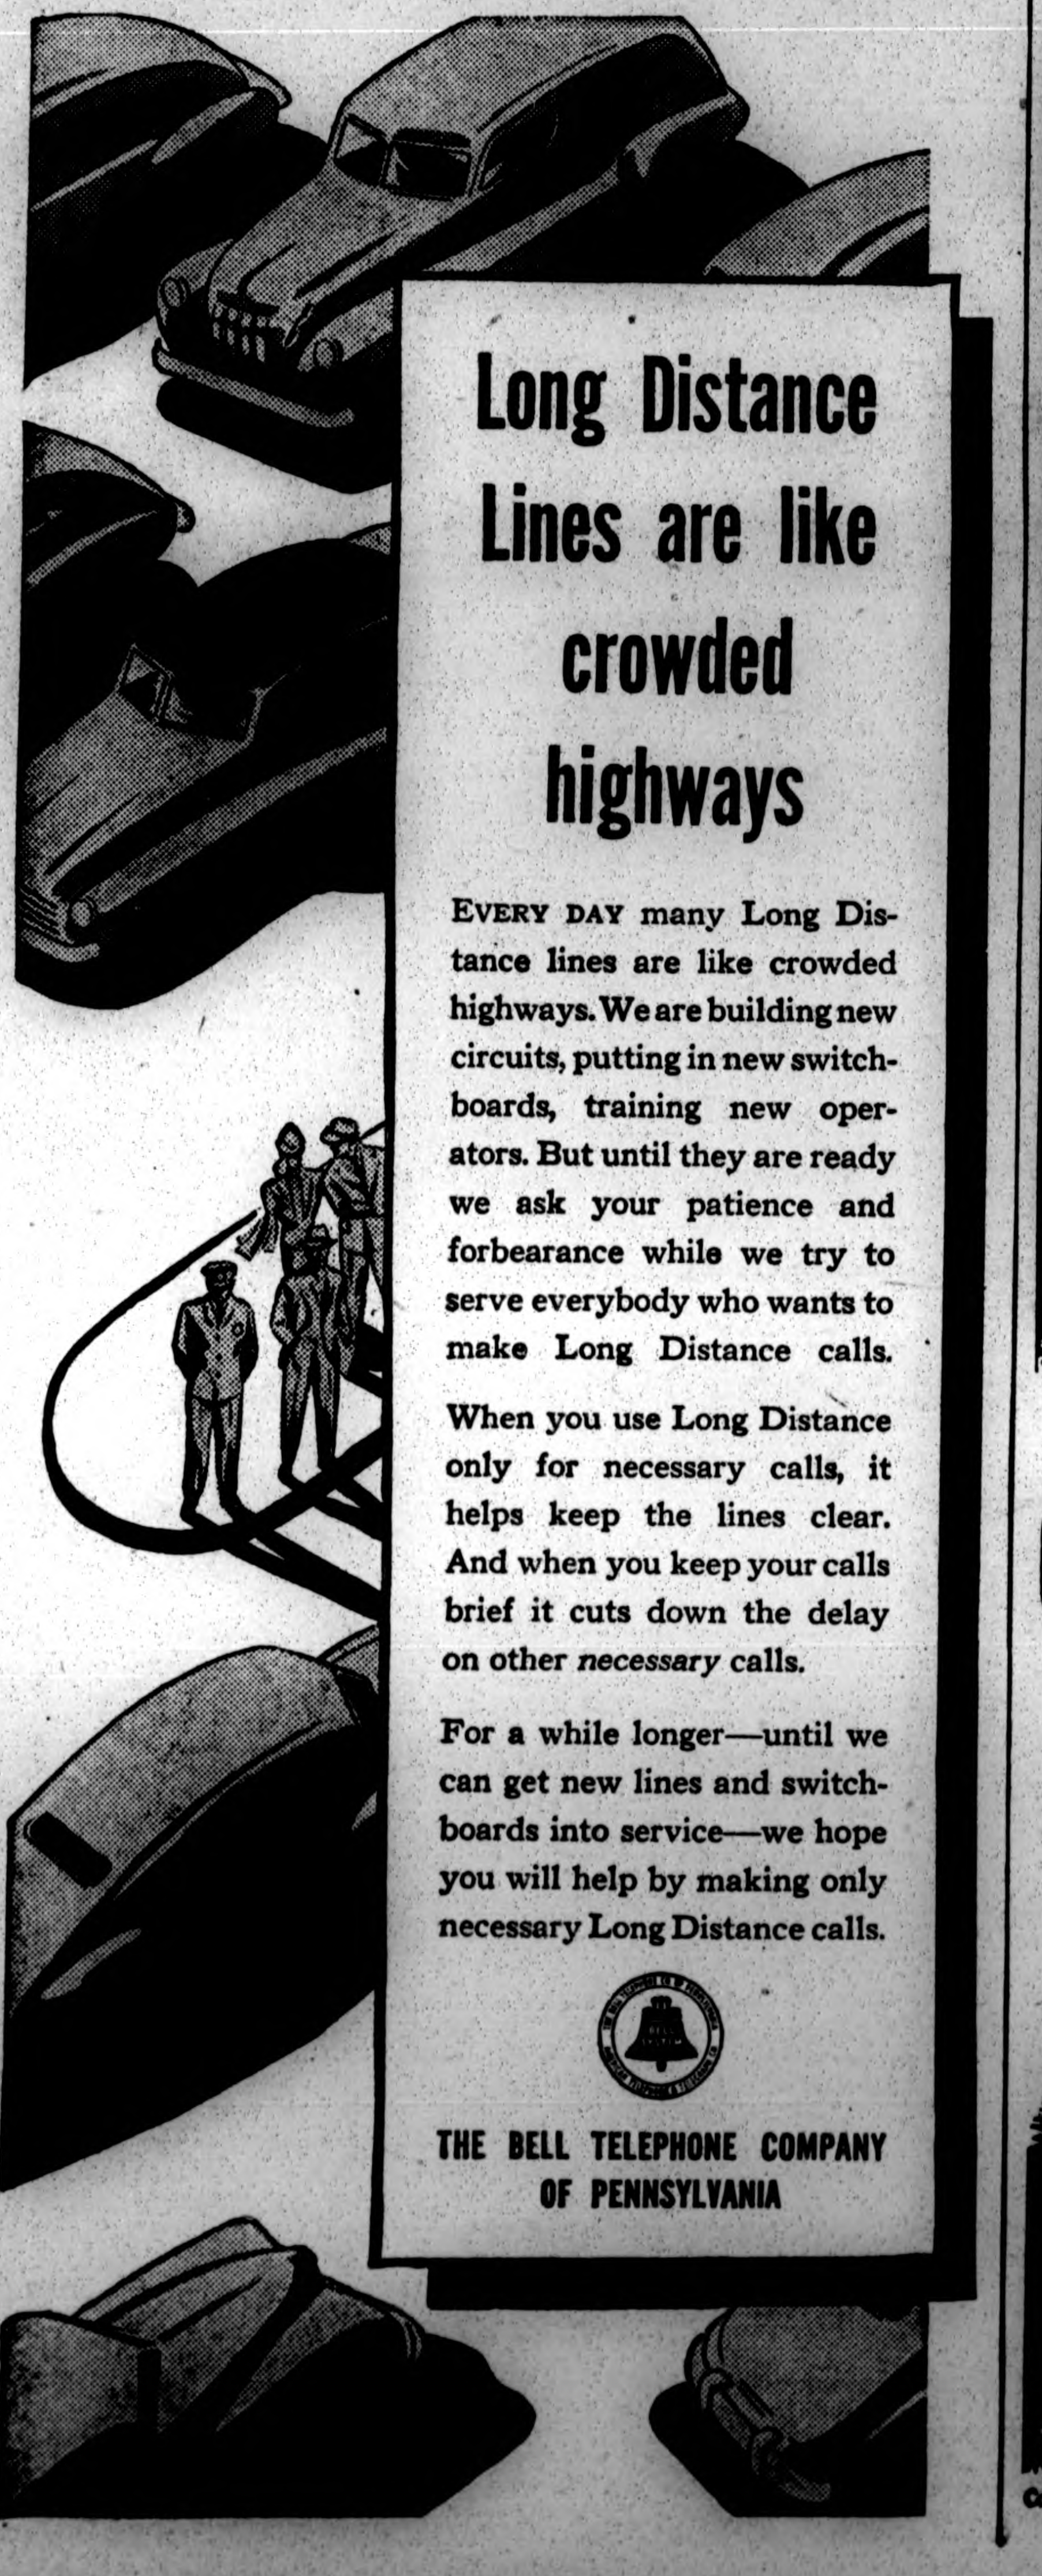
KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75



Long Distance
Lines are like crowded highways

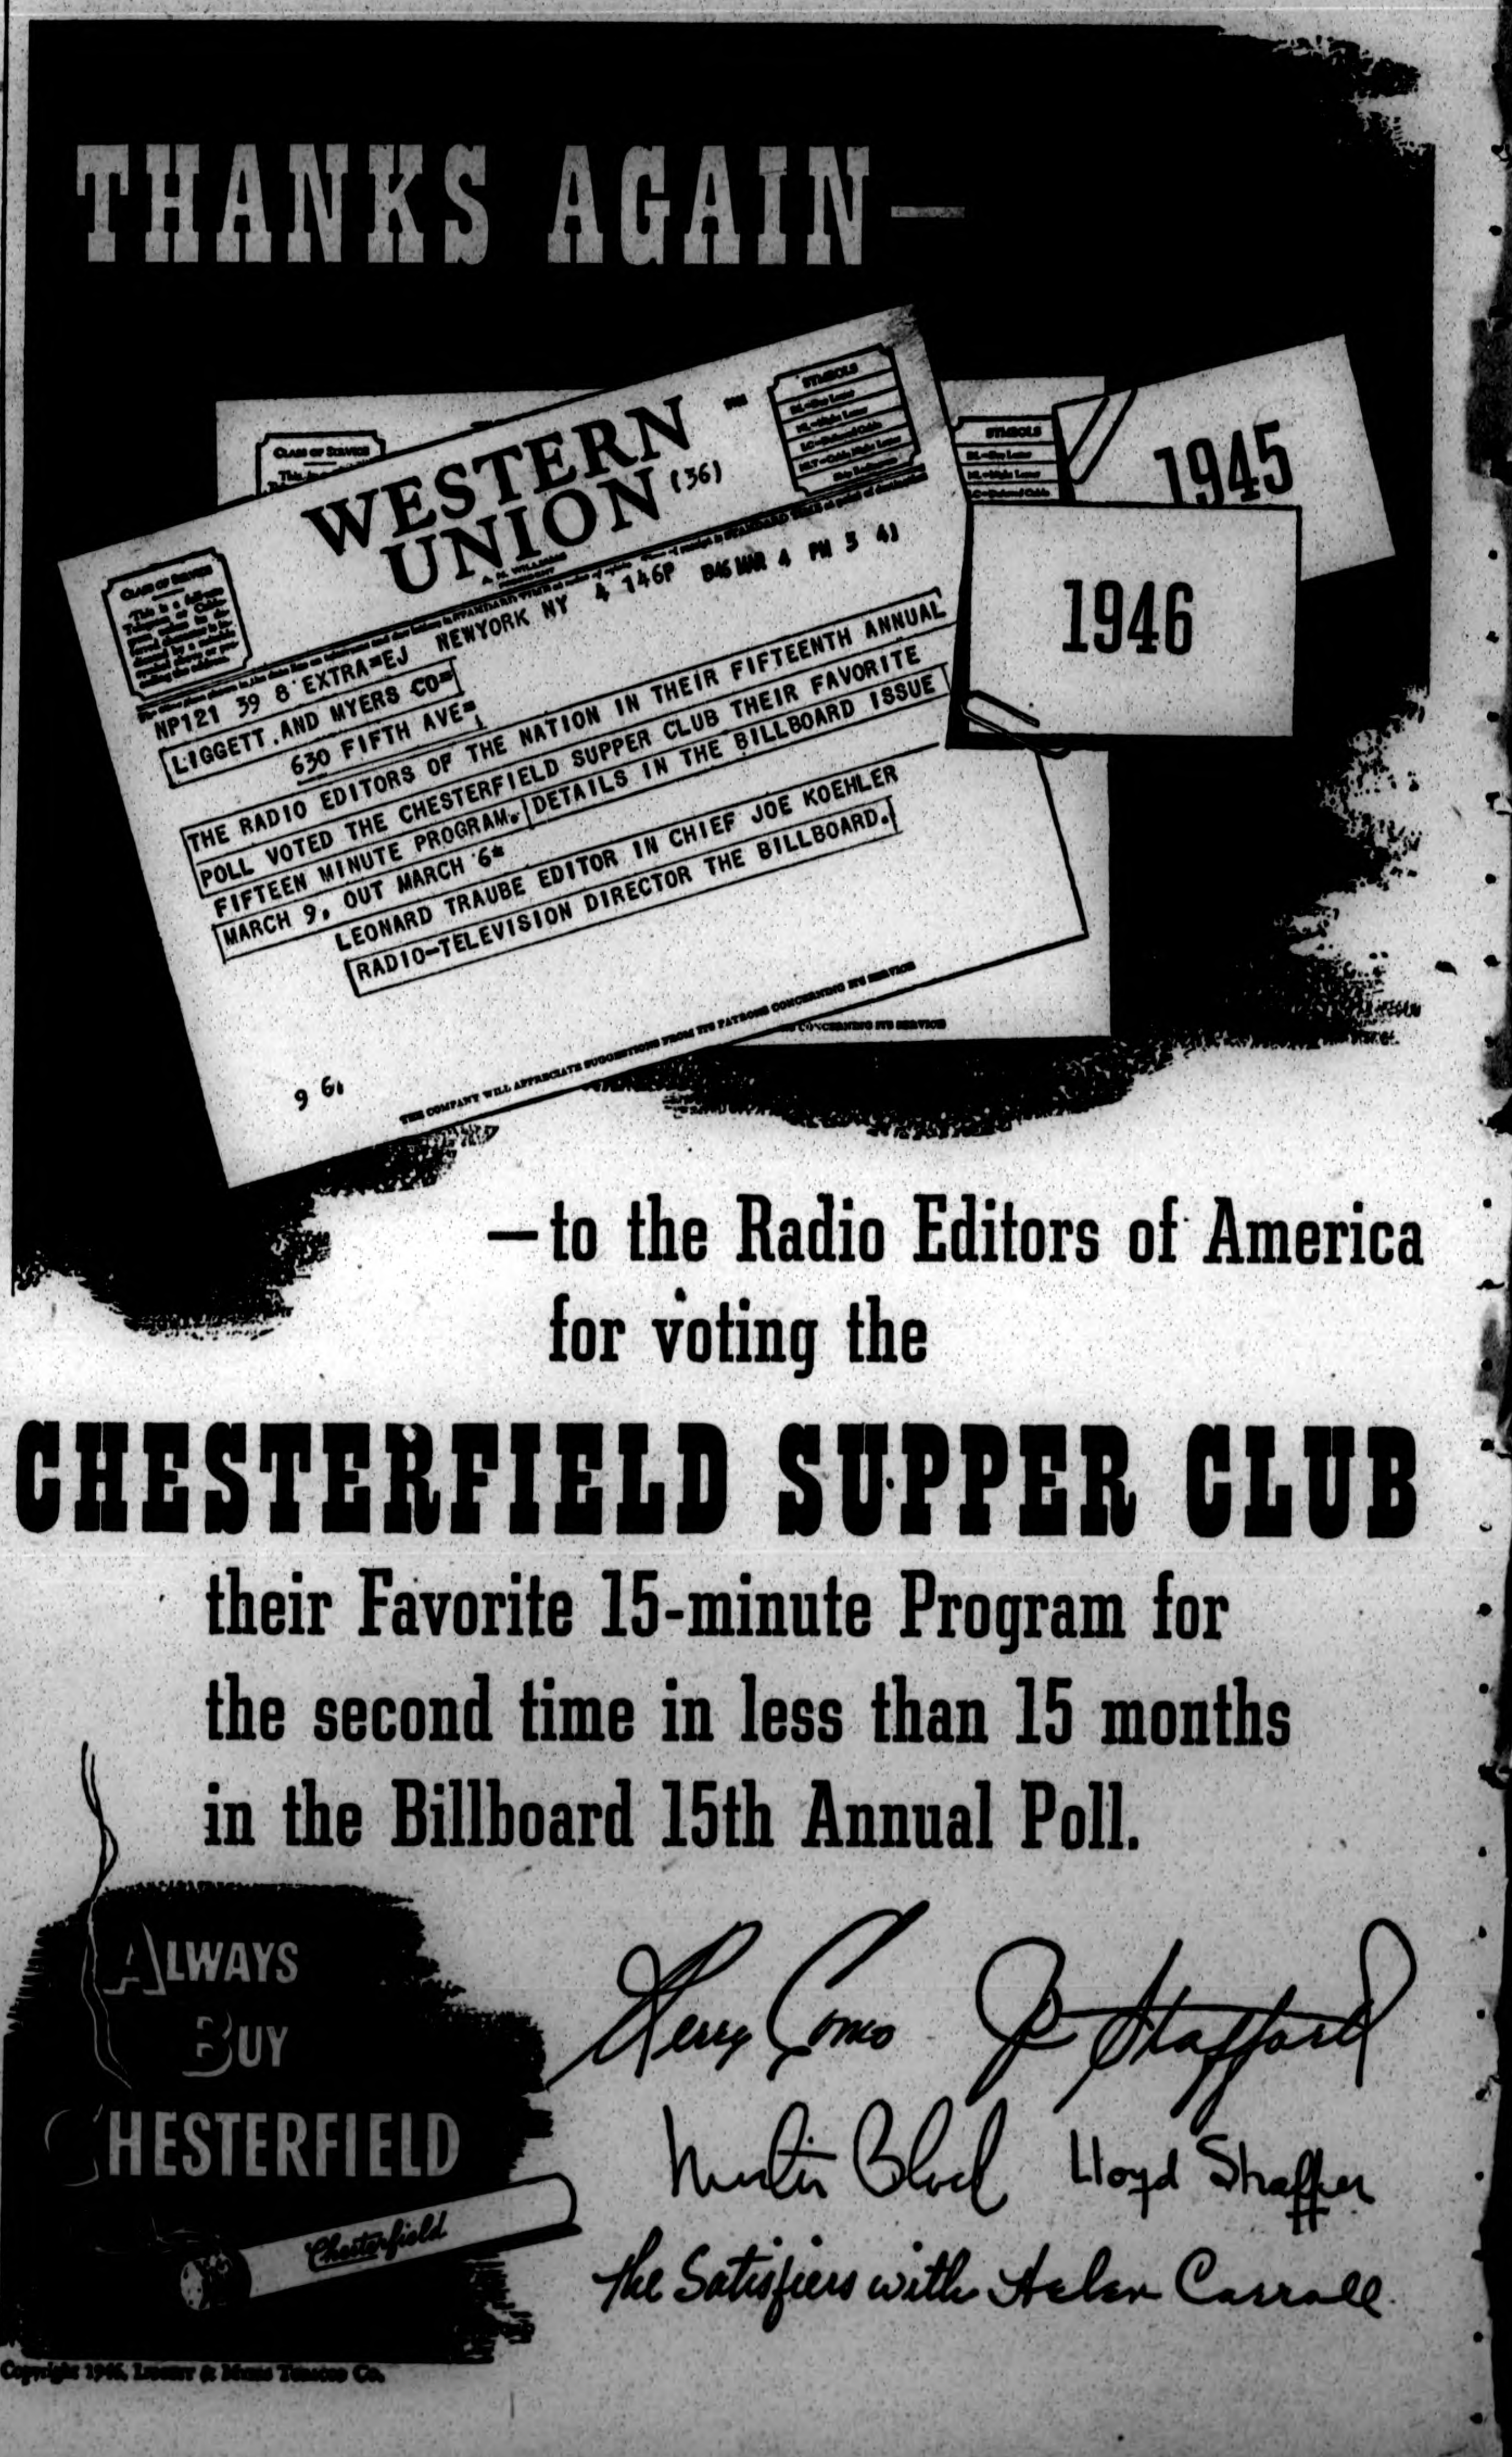
EVERY DAY many Long Distance lines are like crowded highways. We are building new circuits, putting in new switchboards, training new operators. But until they are ready we ask your patience and forbearance while we try to serve everybody who wants to make Long Distance calls.

When you use Long Distance only for necessary calls, it helps keep the lines clear. And when you keep your calls brief it cuts down the delay on other necessary calls.

For a while longer—until we can get new lines and switchboards into service—we hope you will help by making only necessary Long Distance calls.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
OF PENNSYLVANIA



THANKS AGAIN—

WESTERN UNION
NP121 39 8 EXTRA=SJ NEWYORK NY
LIGGETT AND MYERS CO=
630 FIFTH AVE=
THE RADIO EDITORS OF THE NATION IN THEIR FIFTEENTH ANNUAL POLL VOTED THE CHESTERFIELD SUPPER CLUB THEIR FAVORITE FIFTEEN MINUTE PROGRAM. DETAILS IN THE BILLBOARD ISSUE MARCH 9, OUT MARCH 6=
LEONARD TRAUBE EDITOR IN CHIEF JOE KOEHLER RADIO-TELEVISION DIRECTOR THE BILLBOARD.

1945
1946 —to the Radio Editors of America for voting the

CHESTERFIELD SUPPER CLUB
their Favorite 15-minute Program for the second time in less than 15 months in the Billboard 15th Annual Poll.

ALWAYS BUY
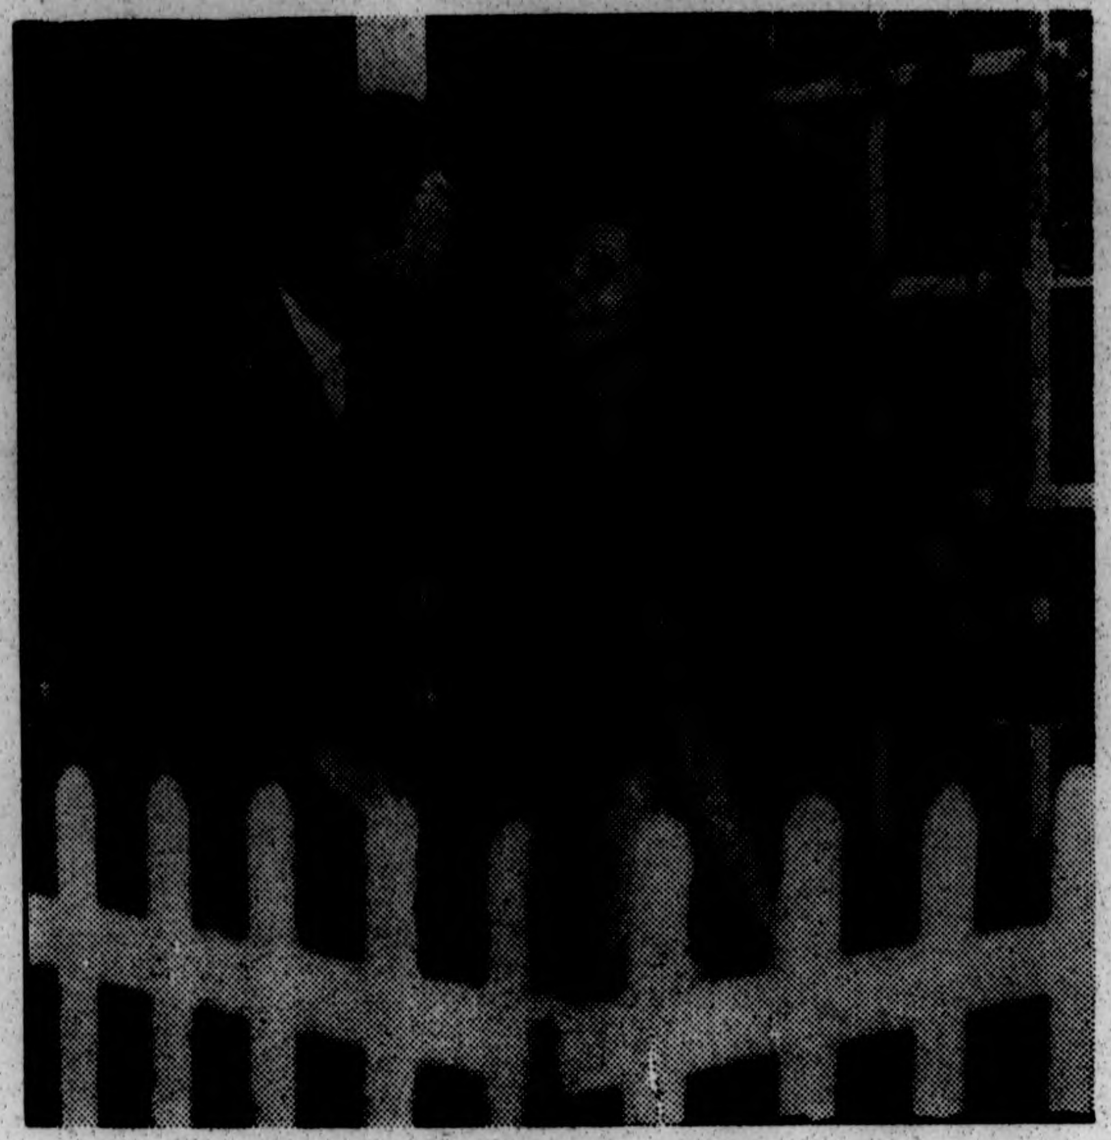
CHESTERFIELD

Perry Como Jo Stafford
Martin Block Lloyd Shaffer
The Satisfiers with Helen Carroll

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 7 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MAY 7, 1946

VILLANOVA COLLEGE
LIBRARY
VILLANOVA, PA.



He Gave Three Bucks . . .

Combined Fraternities Sponsor Final Affair

Inter-Frat Ball Huge Success; Is Last Dance To Be Presented Under Allied Committees

Well over five hundred and fifty couples filled the Villanova Field House for the Inter-Frat Ball Saturday night, April 27th. Elliot Lawrence and his orchestra played for the record crowd. With the advent of daylight saving time that night the dance managed to last from 9 to 2, another record for the Villanova Campus. The informal affair was the initial event of the Spring social season in collegiate circles.

The dance was also distinguished in that it was the final appearance of the Inter-Frat ball, a war-time substitute for the individual "Hops" of the several Fraternities. The emergency-caused decrease in the general Collegiate enrollment and especially in the Fraternity membership had necessitated recourse to this amalgamation, but a return to peacetime practice is now both possible and desired. The Phi Kappa Pi will return to its Owl Hop, the D.P.E. to its Financiers Frolic, and the L.K.D. and Arts Frat will again assume their campus activities.

Broadcast From Campus

The affair was preceded by the Victory Bond Bandstand Broadcast featuring Mr. Lawrence and his band playing from our Field House. This program was presented over the Columbia Broadcasting System from 4:30 to 5:00 and was sponsored by the Treasury Department.

Steve Gasparovic and Ed Keller, co-chairman of the dance, were very gratified at the surprising turn-out, and, to quote Mr. Keller, "From the reports we've received I'm sure everyone thoroughly enjoyed the Ball and that was all we were striving for." Joe Brogan and his committee handled the decorations, and received a note of thanks from all the subscribers.

The profit from the affair will be divided among the four Fraternities to support the greatly expanded programs which they plan for next semester.

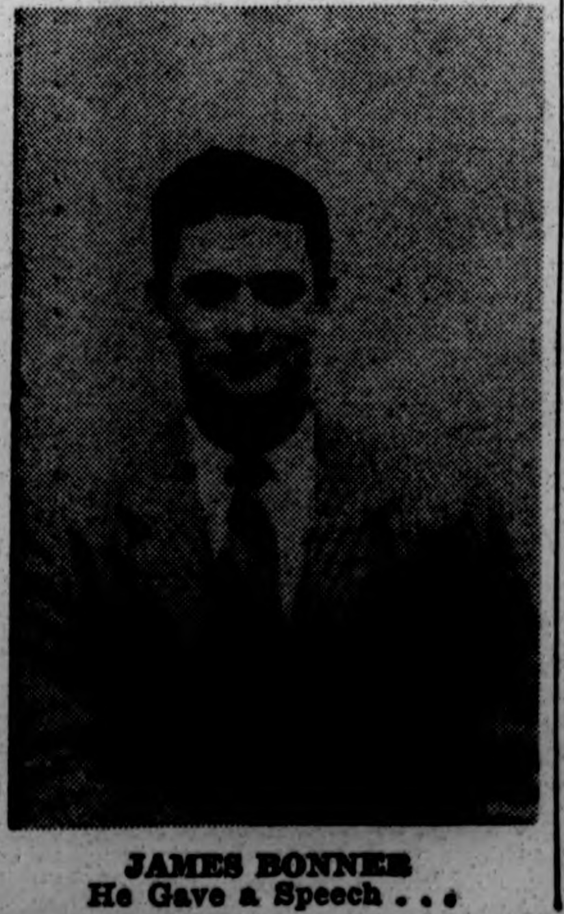
Student Council Officers For Coming Year Take Over Reins Of Student Policy Group

Last week saw the installation of the newly elected Student Council Officers. The meeting was called by Joseph Hoffman, retiring chief of the student group.

Following a brief discussion of old business, Hoffman introduced the vice-chairman and secretary-treasurer to the council.

Thanks Members

Prior to relinquishing the chair to his successor, Hoffman said a few words to the retiring council.



JAMES BONNER
He Gave a Speech . . .

"I want to thank you for your excellent cooperation throughout the last year. Without it, many of the projects accomplished would not have been possible. My best wishes go to the recently elected council and I am sure that they will carry out the projects already instituted. I am looking for great things from Villanova in the forthcoming year."

New Chairman

At the conclusion of his address Hoffman stepped down and turned over the council to Jim Bonner, the new chairman.

Bonner thanked the council for the confidence shown in him and said, "Next year will see Villanova returning to normal. The dances will be on a regular schedule and many of the former organizations will be reactivated. I ask for, and I am sure I will get, the wholehearted cooperation of the council."

The subject of dance dates for the coming year was discussed. The advisability of setting up the social calendar for next year before the end of the present semester was agreed upon and the class officers for next year were instructed to have their bids in before the end of next week. The reasons advanced for planning so far ahead was that all Villanova dances must be coordinated with the surrounding girls colleges so that there will be no conflicts.

The meeting was adjourned and all other business held in abeyance pending a meeting of the recently elected council.

Alumni To Hold Informal Dance

Bala Country Club Will Be Scene of May 17th Frolic; Father McGuire and P. F. Banmiller To Speak

The Philadelphia Club of the Alumni Association will hold an informal Spring Dance at the Bala Country Club on Friday evening, the 17th of May. Tickets may be purchased for $2.50 per couple from the committee members, the Alumni Secretary at the College, or at the door. Dancing will be from nine to one.

Chairman Jack McManus, '44, has arranged to have Nat Sine and his orchestra for the evening's entertainment. Working with Jack are Ed Jones, '42, Jake Mauch, '43, Vince Gordon, '42, and Don Haley, '42. The committee planned the dance as a time and place for the grads to get together and talk over the past. Also proposed are other social functions which will be announced later.

Father McGuire To Speak

The Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, president of the college, and P. F. Banmiller, president of the Alumni Association, will be guest speakers at the monthly meeting of the Villanova Club of New York on May 9. The meeting place is the St. George Hotel, Brooklyn.

Later in the month the committee will make a full report to the Board of Governors, and at that time the Board and the Relations Committee will draw up final plans for the Class Reunion to be held September 13 and 14. Already planned is the Stag party to be held on the evening of the 13th, and the Home Coming Football game with the United States Merchant Marine Academy of Kings Point, New York on the 14th.

J. F. Koch Donates Tennis Trophies

J. Frederick Koch, who attended Villanova College from March 1944 until December 1945 sent a beautifully mounted trophy to the College this past week. The trophy is inscribed "Villanovan Intramural Tennis."

Fred was Managing Editor of the Villanovan, and was a great lover of tennis while in College.

J. FREDERICK KOCH
He Gave a Trophy . . .

He stated in a letter that he desired the trophy to be given in the name of the Villanovan.

More Trophies Soon

Five smaller trophies will be sent by Fred. They will be awarded to the winners of the Villanovan Tournament throughout the next five years. The large trophy will be encased in the Field House, and will bear the names of those who will have won the tournaments.

The Villanovan will conduct the tournament, which is scheduled to begin within the next 2 weeks. The sports section will carry the details of the tournament next week.

Castle Out for May Prom Juniors Get George Auld

Junior Prom to Feature Popular New York Band; Reduced Ticked Rate Prevails Before May 18

Lee Castle and his orchestra, originally invited to play at the Junior Prom, has not been signed for the dance due to a previous commitment. In his place the Prom committee has been able to get George Auld, saxaphone virtuoso and his band. Auld was last seen by swing fans in Philadelphia at the Academy of Music.

The Junior Prom Committee has announced that tickets for the Prom are already on sale at the Information Booth. Every day at lunch time, from 12:30 P. M. until 1:30 P. M. a member of the Ticket Committee will be on hand at the Booth for the sale of Prom tickets.

New Prices

Larry Falon, Chairman of the Ticket Committee, has announced that a new and reduced subscription range has been established. Formerly the tickets were priced at $5.00 for those sold before May 18, and $5.50 for those sold after that date. The rate has now been dropped fifty cents, so that before May 18 the cost will be only $4.50, and the flat $5.00 charge will prevail thereafter.

This change, was brought about because it was thought that expenses for the Prom can be met well enough despite the drop, and because the Committeemen wish to reduce as much as possible the expenses of the promenaders for the night of the dance.

Aid Asked

Fully aware that the preparation and promotion of the highly successful Inter-Frat Ball, held last Saturday a week ago, were demanding of both the time and energies of many members of the Junior class, who are also members of the fraternities, Don Collins, Prom Chairman, has asked that these men now turn their attention towards the Junior Prom. Because the extremely praiseworthy results of the Ball reflect the capabilities of the frat members, the various Prom Committees would like to secure the services of these men.

Particularly in need of added assistance are the Decoration and the Ticket Committees.

At present it is not known how many men will be needed to assemble the decorations for the Field House, but with enough men on

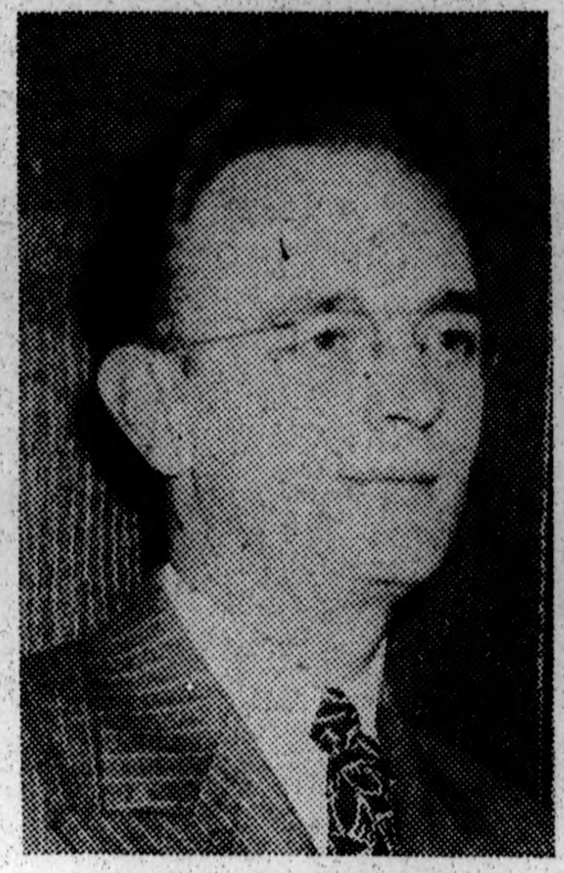
JUNIOR PROM
Continued on Page Four

Friel In Post As New Alumni Secretary Head

Veteran of Pacific Campaign Selected to Fill Position; Worked Under Slaughter in '35

Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., College President, has confirmed the appointment of William Friel III of the class of 1943 to the Office of Alumni Secretary-Treasurer.

Friel took over the office on April 22 on a full time salary basis as part of the college administration, succeeding Rev. R. M. Sullivan, O.S.A., who had in turn succeeded Rev. R. E. McGrath, O.S.A. recently transferred to the Parish of Our Mother of Good Counsel in Hollywood, California.



WILLIAM FRIEL III
He Gave His Talents . . .

Friel's appointment was made by Father McGuire at the request of and on recommendation of Paetrus Banmiller, '35, president of the National Alumni Association of Villanova, John Keffer, '26 and Rev. E. B. McKee, O.S.A., acting for a sub-committee appointed by the Post War Planning Committee of the Board of Governors of the National Alumni Association of Villanova College at the March Meeting of the Board of Governors. The appointment is the first important move made by the College administration in cooperation with the Alumni Board of Governors toward post war reorganization of the Alumni clubs throughout the nation.

Duties Outlined

The duties of the new secretary, recently released from Pacific duty with the U. S. Army involve: maintenance of correspondence with all Alumni clubs and with individual Alumni members; editing the Alumnus Quarterly; recording Alumni contributions to the Maintenance and Loyalty Fund and supervising expenditure from it; and putting in order the Personnel Index with a view to the final establishment of a full time Placement Bureau to be conducted by the Alumni Association.

Friel's name was offered by Mr. Banmiller's committee from among a number of applicants for the job because of his former experience in the office. He had served as an assistant to Bill Slaughter, '35, who was Alumni Secretary before the War.

Cat Airmen Make Plans For An Early Start To Flying

Action was the keynote of the meeting of the flying club held last Wednesday. Plans were discussed by the group of airminded students to investigate the facilities and equipment of airfields in the area. In conjunction with these investigations, attention was primarily focused on the new Veterans' Flying Association recently inaugurated in the midwest.

The Veterans Flying Ass., in which the members of the club were extremely interested, is a non-profit organization started by former service pilots with the purpose of keeping veterans flying. Under the national program, that they offer it would be possible to form a local chapter and thus make it possible for all former service pilots and those interested in flying to fly at reasonable rates. An attractive advantage of this organization is the fact that it would be possible to purchase a plane for the club. Now committees have been assigned to look into the various plans, and perhaps before long the club wil take to the air.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 .... Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Robert P. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
Herman J. Diesel, '50
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
Wharncliffe Bird, '50
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Daniel Fox, '50
Albert Scarzo, '49
Henry J. Fessler, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50
Robert R. Manske, '48

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
James J. Brannon, '50
Joseph Braezler, '50
Charles R. Phillips, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Francis Linsulata, '49
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - MAY 7, 1946

Test for Democracy

THE war has left the governments of many countries in a chaotic, highly plastic condition. Some regimes have been forcibly dissolved by military defeat; others, failing to keep pace with changing conditions, have departed to the limbo of history. The governments that have replaced them are far from stable. The type of government these nations achieve will be the measure of man's political progress.

Many profess to see in the future a battle between capitalism and socialism but that is purely a question of economics. Our government more closely resembles that of socialistic England than that of capitalistic Argentine. The essential antagonism is between two broader concepts for in practice there are only two types of government: Representative and Non-representative.

The people of the United States cannot understand why nations faced with this choice should hesitate. Democracy has brought us to the leadership of the world while assuring us the maximum in domestic happiness; but, had we been a different people, shadowed with an Absolutist past, living in a poverty-stricken country, the results might have been different. Democracy failed tragically in the Germany of the Weimar Republic; it has become a ludicrous figure-head in many Latin American countries. The United States and, to a lesser extent, Great Britain are stable with the government in the hands of the people; but Russia and, to a lesser extent, Spain have reached stability under a dictatorship. The unstabilized countries have good reason for being uncertain which is the better choice. Yet all of us who believe in man—his ability to distinguish between right and wrong and to prefer the former—must also believe in representative government and hope that the other nations of the earth come to share our belief.

Now it is not to be thought that these battered and uncertain peoples are going to come to a decision on any high intellectual plane. They are in no condition to do anything but seek blindly after stability. They will drift with the forces of History. What will these forces be?

For at least the next two years the principal force at work in Eur-Asia will be Hunger. Europe, China, India, are starving. Their vote will not be cast for Democracy or Dictators; their vote will be cast for bread. If the United States helps to alleviate this situation it will win many converts to its way of life. That is merely incidental. In common humanity we must do everything in our power to conquer famine.

But as the pangs of hunger abate another force will become increasingly important. This force, acting as it will on those in influential positions, will determine the dominant governmental form during the next historical era. This force is the United Nations.

U. N. is the epitome of representative government. Leaders from both liberal and totalitarian nations will, thru their association with this world government, learn the advantages and disadvantages of its political form. U. N. has all the disadvantages. It is slow, clumsy, lacking in unity. It is called upon to do a terrific job. If it fails most of those leaders who have watched its failure will steer their countries toward a totalitarian state. If it succeeds, representative government will have passed its definitive test.

—GEORGE MATHER.

Keep Out! Athletes Only!

WISE up, ye Campus "high school heroes"! This is a lesson that may do you some good. If you're too proud to be caught reading this in public, take it of the confines of your room and carefully lip through it.

When you're so enraptured by your very greatness that you can't say "hello" to anyone but your teammates, don't kid yourself, you're not a hero—at most, you are a fool. Heroism and humility go hand in hand. Look around you; the men that have made a name for themselves never pass up a "hello."

You can be either your 250 pounds in real man or your equivalent weight in "ham". Actually the outstanding College athlete has a wonderful opportunity to make friends—indeed, a priceless opportunity. Every man is to some degree a hero worshipper. When you hear a "Howdy, Joe!" cherish it. You may need it later when College Days are just a dream.

Remember: If you stay "one of the boys" and loose every game on the schedule, you can still look around and find your friends.

How about it? Climb out of your shells, and let someone else be proud of you.

MOTHER'S DAY

THERE is probably nothing as hackneyed as a Mother's Day editorial. But using that word in the same sense there is nothing as hackneyed as loving one's Mother or honoring her.

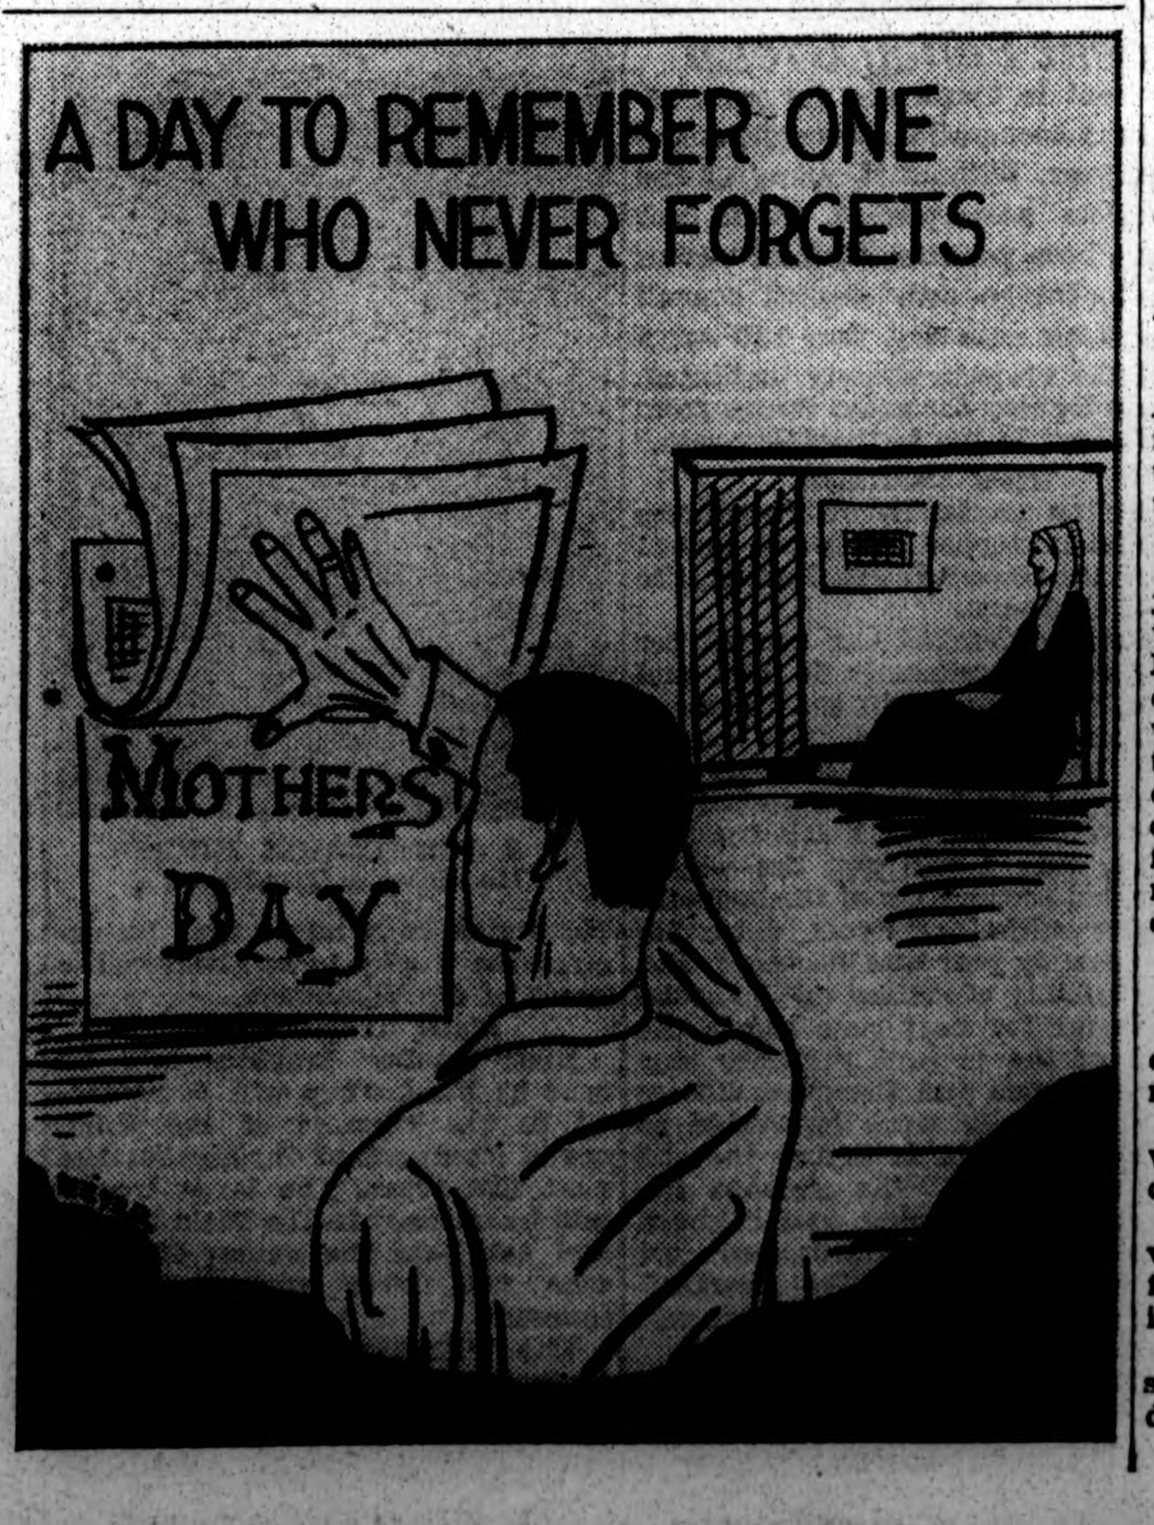
This writing is to serve as a memorandum, as an analysis, and as a tribute.

In the beginning of things, God, in His infinite wisdom, could have utilized any medium through which to bring men into the world. But God, in His infinite love, chose Motherhood. He gave to us a state of life through which we could know perfect altruism, in which we could perceive the shadow of His beneficence. It was ordained that a woman should bear us in violent pain, nurture us by her own frail strenghth, and raise us in strained anxiety, with love for us her only reward.

There is a nobility in human being, but there is a majesty in Motherhood.

What more can we say about one to whom our lives are so dear that she was willing to risk her own to give them to us? About one whose smile will always be a promise of Heaven, and her arms our only home.

—DON COLLINS.



A DAY TO REMEMBER ONE WHO NEVER FORGETS
MOTHER'S DAY

Mom's Battle

By WILLIAM M. GOLDEN

(This poem, written by our feature editor during the war, and dedicated to all the mothers of sons in battle, was syndicated in newspapers and periodicals throughout the country and read over several radio networks. The Villanovan reprints this in honor of Mother's Day.)

Mom's battle is the toughest one,
'Cause it's the kind that's never won.
It's not a fight with fire and gun.
It's all day wond'ring, "Where's my son?

It's not a war. It's a fight within.
It's where I'm at and where I've bin.
Am I gaining weight? Am I getting thin?
Am I steering clear of hell and sin?

Do I pray to God to see me through
My every day, like I used to do?
Am I still the carefree boy she knew?
It's been so long . . . a year, or two.

It's rememb'ring back when I was small
How 'round the house I used to crawl.
And the day that I began to walk,
And later when I learned to talk.

The things I said, the things I did,
When I was nothing but a kid.
It's all these things that haunt Mom's mind.
It's a battle of a different kind.

A day ne'er starts, day ne'er ends,
Without a prayer that dear Mom sends
To the Heavenly Father up above
That he'll watch o'er her fondest love.

She has no defense against attack.
Just prays to God he'll send me back.
She fights her battle for her son
With prayer, her weapon . . . not a gun.

But I guess that's what a Mom is for,
To guide the son she proudly bore,
Whether he's home, or off to war,
A guy can't ask his God for more.

Out of the Copy Basket

First, we must ask your indulgence. Due to circumstances beyond our control, the "Copy Basket" is being edited by, shall we say, guest artists.

The latest and most interesting story to come out of Georgetown University concerns a group of veterans who solved the problems of money, housing, and studies in one motion.

Last January, five veterans, led by an ex-Navy pilot applied for admission at the Foreign Service School of Georgetown. They were accepted. The first problem was finding in a place to live, and the second problem was finding the money to do it with. They finally were able to find a house and rented it. They now do all their own cooking, cleaning, and other household duties that arise.

For several months they thought of a hundred ways for making money to augment their government subsistance allowance. They had to reject them all. Finally they decided on a baby sitters service and at this writing have more business than they can handle. Just recently a picture of one of the boys appeared in the Washington papers and the Veterans Administration is planning on making a short movie of their project to show in veterans hospitals throughout the country.

* * *

The Auburn "Plainsman" tells just how far a man's love of food will take him. Their Home Economics Department now boasts of a male student. Tom O'Grady, who served as a crew chief with the Eighth Air Force, returned to college and forsook a career in chemical engineering to satisfy his first love; the love of a well-cooked meal. "For heavens sake, Tom, don't burn the bacon."

* * *

A Little Light on the Subject

The old sarge was bawling out one of the soldiers for using so many flashlight batteries.

"What do you use them for, anyway?" demanded the sarge. "It can't be in the line of duty."

"No it ain't," answered the private. "To tell the truth I take my flashlight with me when I go courting, just in case of a blackout."

"Well, I'll be—," exploded the sergeant, "you young guys sure are dumb. Why when I went courting,

Continued on Page Three

'NEATH THE SPIRES

By RUSSELL LEO WELSH Editor-in-Chief

"Let Women Be Subject To Their Husbands . . ."

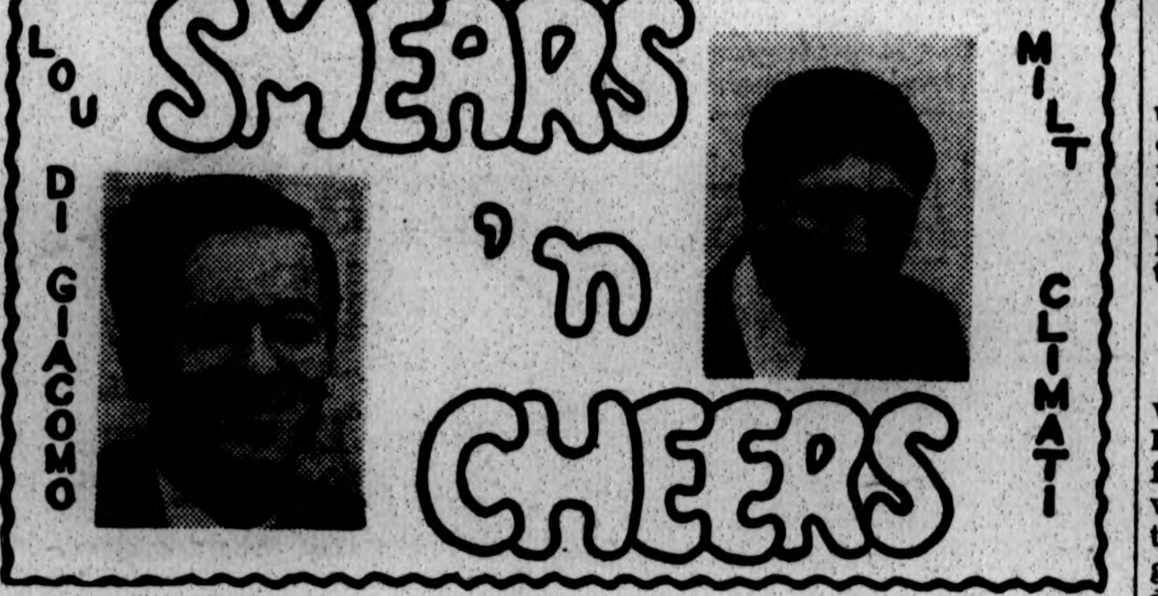
I was asked to be a witness recently at a mixed marriage. Not knowing either the bride or bridegroom, I capitalized on a little "make-believe."Whether it was the eloquence of the officiating priest or the personal equation that encompassed me, I cannot say; but, I must admit, the Church's admonition to the brotherhood is powerful and profound.

". . . Truly, then, these words are most serious. It is a beautiful tribute to your undoubted faith in each other, that recognizing their full import, you are nevertheless, so willing and ready to pronounce them . . . Henceforth you belong entirely to each other; you will be one in mind, one in heart, and one in affections. And whatever sacrifices you may hereafter be required to make to preserve this common life, always make them generously . . . No greater blessing can come to your married life than pure conjugal love, loyal and true to the end."

With these words the wisdom gained by the Church over a period of nineteen centuries unfolds the duties of both husband and wife. Later in the ceremony the Church becomes more specific in her admonition.

In the Epistle of the Nuptial Mass and included as an exhortation after the Marriage Ceremony: "Let women be subject to their husbands, as to the Lord; for the husband is the head of the wife, as Christ is the head of the Church . . . Therefore, as the Church is subject to Christ, so also let the wives be to their husbands in all things . . . So also ought men to love their wives as their own bodies."

The question has often arisen among conscientious women — in what things must the woman be subject? That answer is the same as all answers regarding subordination. The subject must obey only when such obedience does not contradict the laws of God. Being one in mind, one in heart and one in affections calls for no subjugation —merely love.



The Inter-Frat dance proved to be the most successful social event of the last few years on the Villanova Campus. We would like to congratulate and thank the student body and the alumni for their swell support. It looks like the old Villanova spirit is really coming back. Keep up the good work, fellows, and you can be sure that bigger and better times are in store for Villanova.

Joe Sweeney was at the Inter-Frat dance with his girl, Lennie. Joe, however, was having a hard time melting her cold, but oh-so-nice, shoulder. When we get through with it, you may borrow our ice-pick, Joe . . . Doc. Eidam was dishing out cokes. Of course, he had a new shine which almost blinded the people. But it wasn't from his shoes . . . James T. Mackey was gliding to the smooth rhythm with his present heart-throb, the farmer's daughter, or, none other than Rosemary of Immaculata. From the look in his eyes, we think that Cupid has been up to his old tricks again. (And we always thought that the "RM" stood for Rigor Mortis).

LITERARY NOTE: The following poem is dedicated to and written by Tony Paruta:

My friends all call me "Cue-ball."
The girls all shy away.
My hair, from head, just had to fall;
It would not God-placed stay.

I'd brush it every morning
And give a stiff massage,
And saw new roots there forming;
But that was a mirage.

At length I fought no longer,
Resigned to dismal fate.
I found the hairs were stronger
On the side of my bald pate.

I nursed these hairs so carefully.
But oh, they were so few.
A gust of wind came swiftly
And from my head they blew.

But now I am determined
My hair on head to stay.
I solved the whole darn problem
By buying a toupee.

* * *

ODDS AND ENDS

Who was the Priest in Simpson Hall who told the boys to put their clocks ahead an hour while he proceeded to put his back on hour? The biggest feature about this is how anyone can get up at 6:20 and be late for the 8:20 Mass . . . Ray "Captain" Helm and Jack Carney are having a contest to see who can sleep the most. Each fellow has already worn out one mattress this semester, and both are going strong on their seconds. Our bets are on "Captain" Helm.

Jasper Chen See seems to be in dire need of a belt. A necktie doesn't really serve the purpose, does it, Jasper? . . . 'Tis rumored that Jack McNamara's girl from Rosemont, is going to be Queen of the May this year . . . Huey "Charles Atlas" Maquire can be found attempting to build up a few muscles, with a set of weights, in his leisure time . . . We hear that Mike Gaffney has taken his entrance examination for the United States Naval Academy. So we thought we would take time out to wish Mike good luck.

We hear that Joe D. is now taking walks to the drug store in his pajamas and bathrobe. Must be too much studying for the boy . . . Ray Liguori has been so busy at Bryn Mawr Hospital (or is it Conshohocken?) that he didn't have time to go home to a dance at the Newark Hospital last weekend . . . Lorraine of Norristown seems to be giving Martin Minerva of Simpson Hall a hard time of late. How about that, Marty? . . . "Tiger" Moonan, the detective of Alumni Hall, has sent away for a G-boy REPEATING CAP PISTOL.

Villanova was well represented in the Easter Parade at Atlantic City last weekend. Pete Pallitto and John Sankey were carrying the V. C. colors. Of course, they were not doing it alone. There were

SMEARS & CHEERS
Continued on Page Eight

Meet The Boys: Paul Christenson Joe Mahoney Bill Thompson

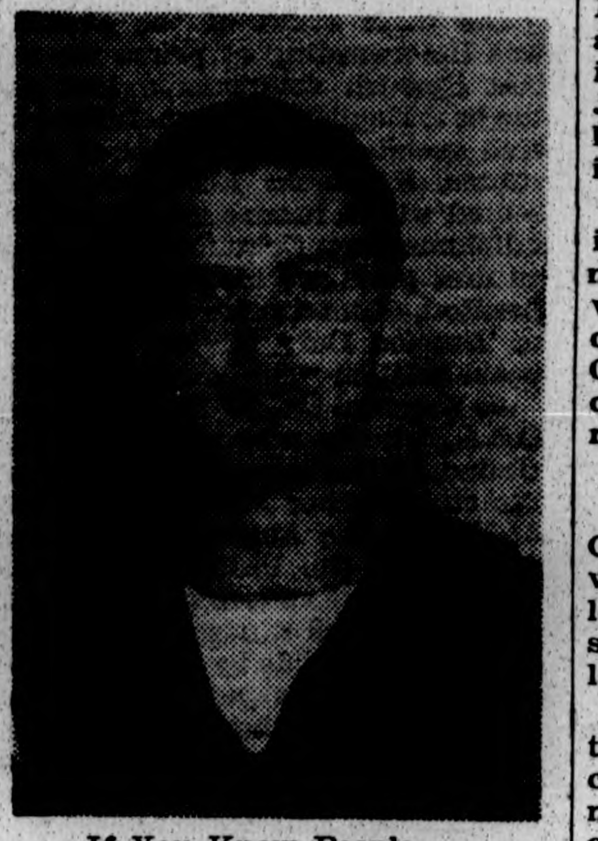
By CHARLES McCARTHY

A medium build on a frame standing in the six foot neighborhood, topped by a head, faced with a smile, is what you will encounter when seeing Paul H. Christenson, Erie's contribution to Vilanova.

Paul is one of the more serious type men attending Villanova with plenty of good sense and humor always on tap ready to flow into the proper place at the proper time. He is a senior studying Mechanical Engineering under the Navy Program.

Future Looks Bright

After graduation in June, Paul has elected to go on inactive duty with a reserve ensigns rating. At the present time he has not definitely decided what he will do in the way of a job. However, he has connections with both Westinghouse and General Electric; and he will more than likely go to work for one of these companies. According to Paul, a job with either one of these companies would be extremely valuable in his plans for further education. He would start as a Testing Engineer and go to school in either the Pittsburgh or Schenectady plants operated respectively by the two national organizations.



If You Know People . . .

Might do Graduate Work at Carnegie Tech

Graduate work is something which Paul hopes he will eventually be able to get around to, but for the present he believes that working in industry is the best thing. When the time comes for graduate work he plans to take up design engineering most probably at Carnegie Tech.

Before coming to Villanova, Paul studied Mechanical Engineering at Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh. Before that time, he was a student at Academy High School in Erie.

Paul Christenson's ability to meet the serious and the light moment in life with intelligence and calmness undoubtedly will make him an asset to whomever he deals with in the future just as he has here at Villanova.

The next gentleman whom we would like to introduce to you is in no need of an introduction for he is the dapper man who has been a prominent man about school ever since his entry here back in 1939. He is Joseph F. Mahoney of Philadelphia.

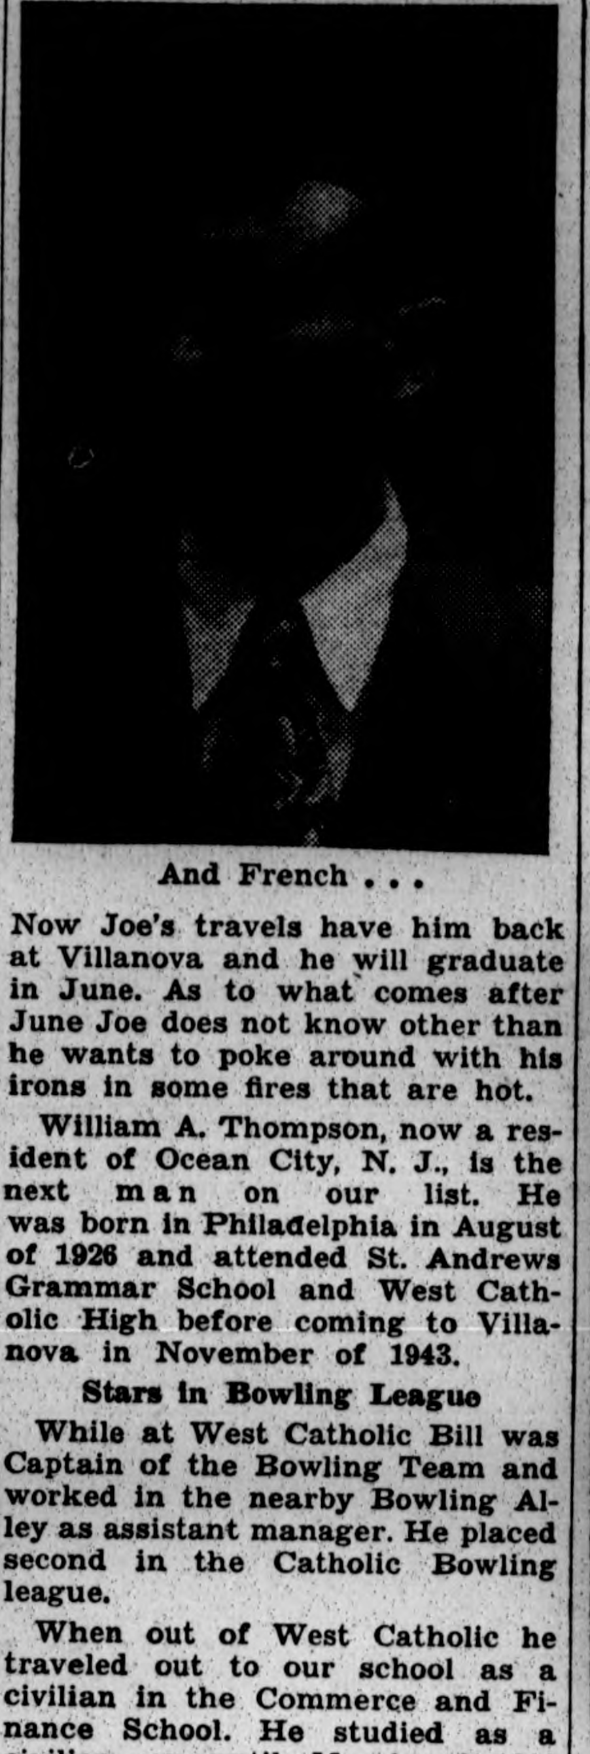
Entered Villanova in 1939

Joe came to Villanova back in 1939 immediately after he graduated from St. Thomas Moore High School in Philadelphia. Soon after his arrival he became an active member in the Debating Society and the Student Council as well as the Belle Air and the Villanovan.

With the war and the need for men came an interruption in Mr. Mahoney's education as in the case of so many others. Joe went to New Cumberland with Joe Lord and MacDonald. As Joe says: "My only claim to fame in the Army is that I pulled K. P. once."

Was an Interpreter in Military Intelligence

After taking infantry basic training Joe was shifted into the Military Intelligence section and studied to be a French interpreter. True to Army order and SOP Joe was sent out to the Pacific on a three man interpreting team. The other two men were Greek and German interpreters and Joe was a French interpreter so they naturally found their job in the Pacific theater an easy one with no one speaking any one of their three languages. Even though they were handicapped by their lack of preparation this team of Joe's went through the Pacific covering a wide range of territory. They started in New Guinea, moved up to the Philippines and ended up in Japan.



And French . . .

Now Joe's travels have him back at Villanova and he will graduate in June. As to what comes after June Joe does not know other than he wants to poke around with his irons in some fires that are hot.

William A. Thompson, now a resident of Ocean City, N. J., is the next man on our list. He was born in Philadelphia in August of 1926 and attended St. Andrews Grammar School and West Catholic High before coming to Villanova in November of 1943.

Stars in Bowling League

While at West Catholic Bill was Captain of the Bowling Team and worked in the nearby Bowling Alley as assistant manager. He placed second in the Catholic Bowling league.

When out of West Catholic he traveled out to our school as a civilian in the Commerce and Finance School. He studied as a civilian up until March of 1944 when he entered the V-5 program. He continued in the business course and is now ready to graduate.

In June Bill intends to enter the Navy and go into the supply corps, if he can get into the supply school. If he can do this he will go to school in the Navy for about six months and then go on active sea duty as a supply officer.

May Find Career in Navy

In regards to later life Bill is not sure. He leans toward the Navy and should he like the work he may plan a life career of it. However, if he finds that this is not his life's work he plans to enter Harvard Business School after he gets out of the Navy. Then upon graduation he wants to enter business and make his fortune.

While here at Villanova, Bill was a member of the Frat League and the DPE. He also played the drums for the band during seven semesters. He was also Company Commander this past semester.

Stay In The Navy.

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

I lived on a farm and never even carried a lantern."

Yeh, Sarge," replied the private, "and look what you got!"

The Dakota Scientist

* * *

Here
With my beer
I sit,
While golden moments flit;
Alas!
They pass
Unheeded by:
And as they fly,
I,
Being dry,
Sit idly sipping here
My beer.

The Setonian

* * *

The Florida Alligator reports that 75 percent of their student body are employed this semester. The Self Help Committee places 65 percent of these students, and another 10 percent get jobs on their own hooks.

* * *

Just Corn

Sign on a slot machine in a tavern:

"In case of an air raid crawl under this machine — it's never been hit."

The Dakota Scientist.

* * *

Holy Cross College has stepped into the big time by scoring a huge success with their presentation of "A Bell for Adano", the play that enjoyed a lengthy run on Broadway. They played to capacity audiences throughout the run and received a tremendous ovation.

* * *

The Epic

There was a young fellow from Wheeling
Endowed with such delicate feeling.
"When he read on the door
"Don't spit on the floor,"
He jumped up and spit on the ceiling.

The Notre Dame Scholastic.

* * *

Santa Clara stands with bowed heads as they mourn the passing of a new friend. It seems that the engineering department picked up a B-25 bomber. The students, under the supervision of a mild mannered instructor, were dismantling the plane to study the various parts. Things went fine until March 25. On that fateful day, this mild mannered instructor happened to let his hand slip over near one of the gas tanks. This would have been fine except for the fact that he was holding a blow torch in it.

When the smoke cleared and the fire engines had wended their way home, hope was gone. Benny was cooked.

* *

Little Jack Horner
Sat in a corner
With crib notes in his lappa.
He opened his book
And took a quick look.
Now he's a Phi Beta Kappa.

The Santa Clara.

Headline from the Auburn Plainsman.

AT LAST! AUBURN BOOKS NAME BAND—

* * *

Here's to the four hinges of friendship,
To swear, to steal, to lie, and to drink.
If you must swear, swear by your country's good name,
If you must steal, steal away from bad company,
If you must lie, lie on a sunny beach,
If you must drink, drink with me.

* * *

The Florida Alligator adds a refreshing bit of news this week. They are joining the ranks of those colleges sponsoring Aeronautical engineering departments. Congratulations, 'Gators!

* * *

1st student: What is youth?

2nd student: I'm a Thopmore. What ith youth?

Detroit Varsity News.

* * *

The following is an eight column streamer from the Irish News "EIRE MODERNIZING RESORTS PREPARING FOR TOURISTS."

Now ain't that sumpin?

* * *

So for another week we bring this hodge-podge of jotting from here and there to an end. This week we would like to borrow a bit from the Prospector, publication of Carroll College, Helena, Montana.

Yes sir, cows may come and cows may go, but the bull goes on forever.

ATTENTION GRADS

If you have any newspaper articles or information about the College or the Alumni, please send them to the Alumni Secretary at the College.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 ..... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 ..... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC ..... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 ..... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 ..... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 ..... Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 ..... Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 ..... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 ..... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Robert P. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
Herman J. Diesel, '50
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
Wharncliffe Bird, '50
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Daniel Fox, '50
Albert Scarzo, '49
Henry J. Fessler, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50
Robert R. Manske, '48

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
James J. Brannon, '50
Joseph Braezler, '50
Charles R. Phillips, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Francis Linsulata, '49
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office Decembe 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - - MAY 7, 1946

Test for Democracy

THE war has left the governments of many countries in a chaotic, highly plastic condition. Some regimes have been forcibly dissolved by military defeat; others, failing to keep pace with changing conditions, have departed to the limbo of history. The governments that have replaced them are far from stable. The type of government these nations achieve will be the measure of man's political progress.

Many profess to see in the future a battle between capitalism and socialism but that is purely a question of economics. Our government more closely resembles that of socialistic England than that of capitalistic Argentine. The essential antagonism is between two broader concepts for in practice there are only two types of government: Representative and Non-representative.

The people of the United States cannot understand why nations faced with this choice should hesitate. Democracy has brought us to the leadership of the world while assuring us the maximum in domestic happiness; but, had we been a different people, shadowed with an Absolutist past, living in a poverty-stricken country, the results might have been different. Democracy failed tragically in the Germany of the Weimar Republic; it has become a ludicrous figure-head in many Latin American countries. The United States and, to a lesser extent, Great Britain are stable with the government in the hands of the people; but Russia and, to a lesser extent, Spain have reached stability under a dictatorship. The unstabilized countries have good reason for being uncertain which is the better choice. Yet all of us who believe in man—his ability to distinguish between right and wrong and to prefer the former—must also believe in representative government and hope that the other nations of the earth come to share our belief.

Now it is not to be thought that these battered and uncertain peoples are going to come to a decision on any high intellectual plane. They are in no condition to do anything but seek blindly after stability. They will drift with the forces of History. What will these forces be?

For at least the next two years the principal force at work in Eur-Asia will be Hunger. Europe, China, India, are starving. Their vote will not be cast for Democracy or Dictators; their vote will be cast for bread. If the United States helps to alleviate this situation it will win many converts to its way of life. That is merely incidental. In common humanity we must do everything in our power to conquer famine.

But as the pangs of hunger abate another force will become increasingly important. This force, acting as it will on those in influential positions, will determine the dominant governmental form during the next historical era. This force is the United Nations.

U. N. is the epitome of representative government. Leaders from both liberal and totalitarian nations will, thru their association with this world government, learn the advantages and disadvantages of its political form. U. N. has all the disadvantages. It is slow, clumsy, lacking in unity. It is called upon to do a terrific job. If it fails most of those leaders who have watched its failure will steer their countries toward a totalitarian state. If it succeeds, representative government will have passed its definitive test.

—GEORGE MATHER.

Keep Out! Athletes Only!

WISE up, ye Campus "high school heroes"! This is a lesson that may do you some good. If you're too proud to be caught reading this in public, take it of the confines of your room and carefully lip through it.

When you're so enraptured by your very greatness that you can't say "hello" to anyone but your teammates, don't kid yourself, you're not a hero—at most, you are a fool. Heroism and humility go hand in hand. Look around you; the men that have made a name for themselves never pass up a "hello."

You can be either your 250 pounds in real man or your equivalent weight in "ham". Actually the outstanding College athlete has a wonderful opportunity to make friends—indeed, a priceless opportunity. Every man is to some degree a hero worshipper. When you hear a "Howdy, Joe!" cherish it. You may need it later when College Days are just a dream.

Remember: If you stay "one of the boys" and loose every game on the schedule, you can still look around and find your friends.

How about it? Climb out of your shells, and let someone else be proud of you.

MOTHER'S DAY

THERE is probably nothing as hackneyed as a Mother's Day editorial. But using that word in the same sense there is nothing as hackneyed as loving one's Mother or honoring her.

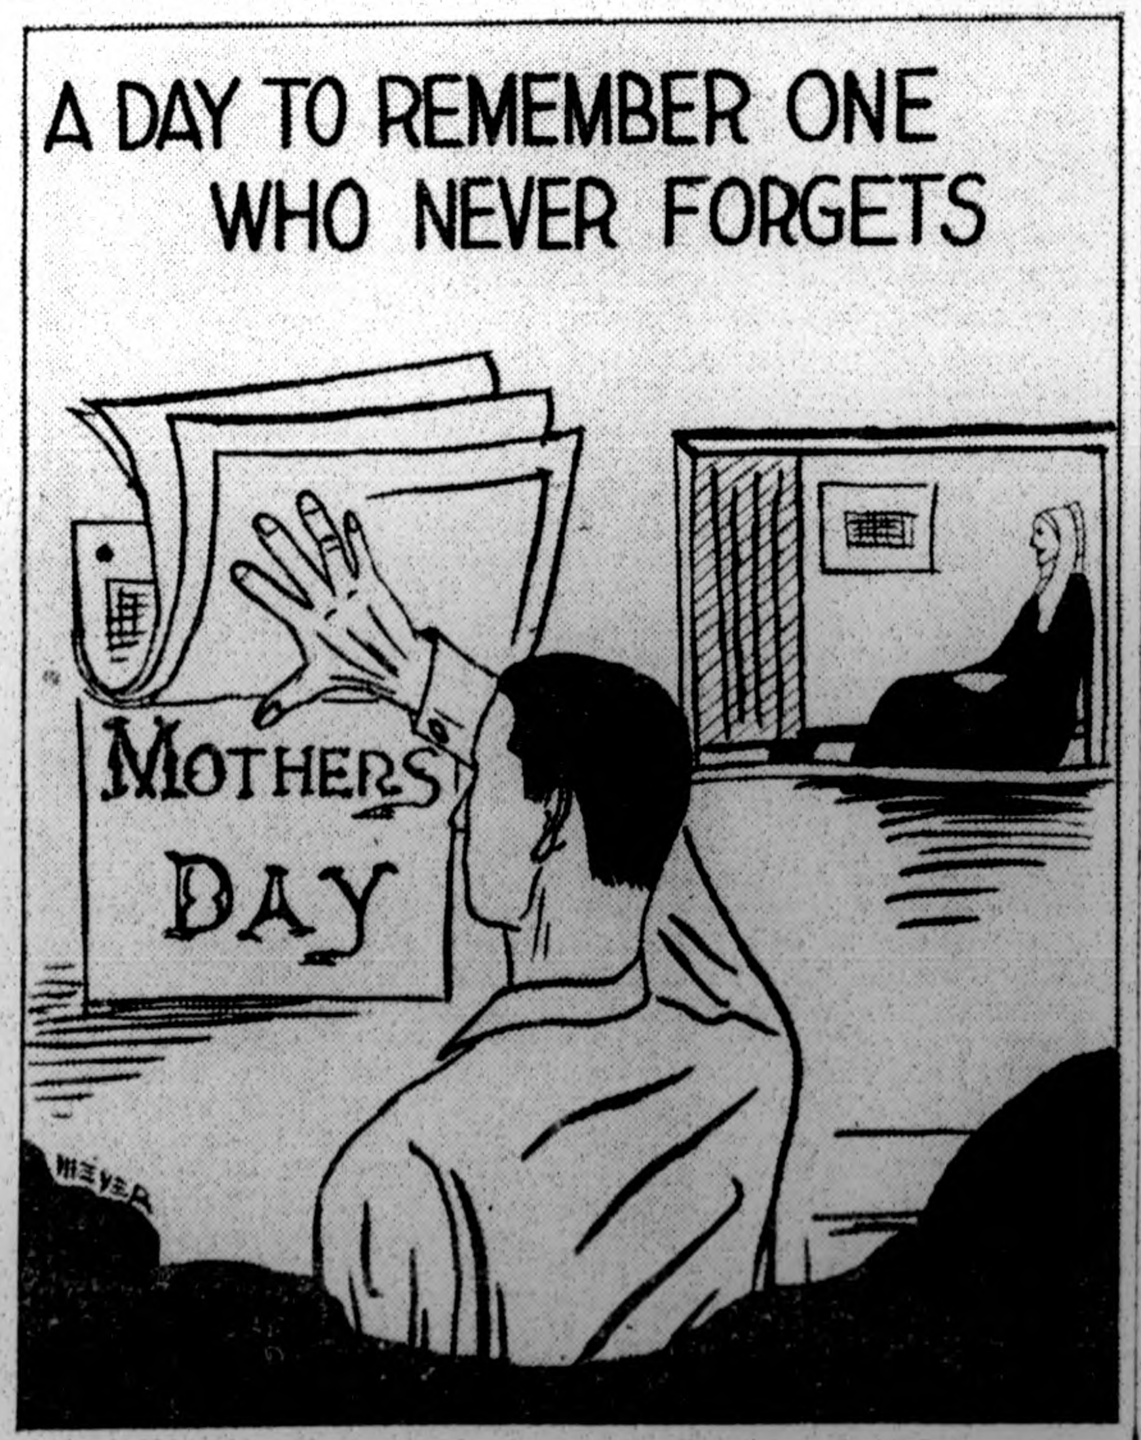
This writing is to serve as a memorandum, as an analysis, and as a tribute.

In the beginning of things, God, in His infinite wisdom, could have utilized any medium through which to bring men into the world. But God, in His infinite love, chose Motherhood. He gave to us a state of life through which we could know perfect altruism, in which we could perceive the shadow of His beneficence. It was ordained that a woman should bear us in violent pain, nurture us by her own frail strenghth, and raise us in strained anxiety, with love for us her only reward.

There is a nobility in human being, but there is a majesty in Motherhood.

What more can we say about one to whom our lives are so dear that she was willing to risk her own to give them to us? About one whose smile will always be a promise of Heaven, and her arms our only home.

—DON COLLINS.



A DAY TO REMEMBER ONE WHO NEVER FORGETS
MOTHERS DAY
MEYER

Mom's Battle

By WILLIAM M. GOLDEN

(This poem, written by our feature editor during the war, and dedicated to all the mothers of sons in battle, was syndicated in newspapers and periodicals throughout the country and read over several radio networks. The Villanovan reprints this in honor of Mother's Day.)

Mom's battle is the toughest one,
'Cause it's the kind that's never won.
It's not a fight with fire and gun.
It's all day wond'ring, "Where's my son?

It's not a war. It's a fight within.
It's where I'm at and where I've bin.
Am I gaining weight? Am I getting thin?
Am I steering clear of hell and sin?

Do I pray to God to see me through
My every day, like I used to do?
Am I still the carefree boy she knew?
It's been so long . . . a year, or two.

It's rememb'ring back when I was small
How 'round the house I used to crawl.
And the day that I began to walk,
And later when I learned to talk.

The things I said, the things I did,
When I was nothing but a kid.
It's all these things that haunt Mom's mind.
It's a battle of a different kind.

A day ne'er starts, day ne'er ends,
Without a prayer that dear Mom sends
To the Heavenly Father up above
That he'll watch o'er her fondest love.

She has no defense against attack.
Just prays to God he'll send me back.
She fights her battle for her son
With prayer, her weapon . . . not a gun.

But I guess that's what a Mom is for,
To guide the son she proudly bore,
Whether he's home, or off to war,
A guy can't ask his God for more.

Out of the Copy Basket

First, we must ask your indulgence. Due to circumstances beyond our control, the "Copy Basket" is being edited by, shall we say, guest artists.

The latest and most interesting story to come out of Georgetown University concerns a group of veterans who solved the problems of money, housing, and studies in one motion.

Last January, five veterans, led by an ex-Navy pilot applied for admission at the Foreign Service School of Georgetown. They were accepted. The first problem was finding in a place to live, and the second problem was finding the money to do it with. They finally were able to find a house and rented it. They now do all their own cooking, cleaning, and other household duties that arise.

For several months they thought of a hundred ways for making money to augment their government subsistance allowance. They had to reject them all. Finally they decided on a baby sitters service and at this writing have more business than they can handle. Just recently a picture of one of the boys appeared in the Washington papers and the Veterans Administration is planning on making a short movie of their project to show in veterans hospitals throughout the country.

* * *

The Auburn "Plainsman" tells just how far a man's love of food will take him. Their Home Economics Department now boasts of a male student. Tom O'Grady, who served as a crew chief with the Eighth Air Force, returned to college and forsook a career in chemical engineering to satisfy his first love: the love of a well-cooked meal. "For heavens sake, Tom, don't burn the bacon."

* * *

A Little Light on the Subject

The old sarge was bawling out one of the soldiers for using so many flashlight batteries.

"What do you use them for, anyway?" demanded the sarge. "It can't be in the line of duty."

"No it ain't," answered the private. "To tell the truth I take my flashlight with me when I go courting, just in case of a blackout."

"Well, I'll be—," exploded the sergeant, "you young guys sure are dumb. Why when I went courting,

Continued on Page Three

'NEATH THE SPIRES

By RUSSELL LEO WELSH Editor-in-Chief

"Let Women Be Subject To Their Husbands . . ."

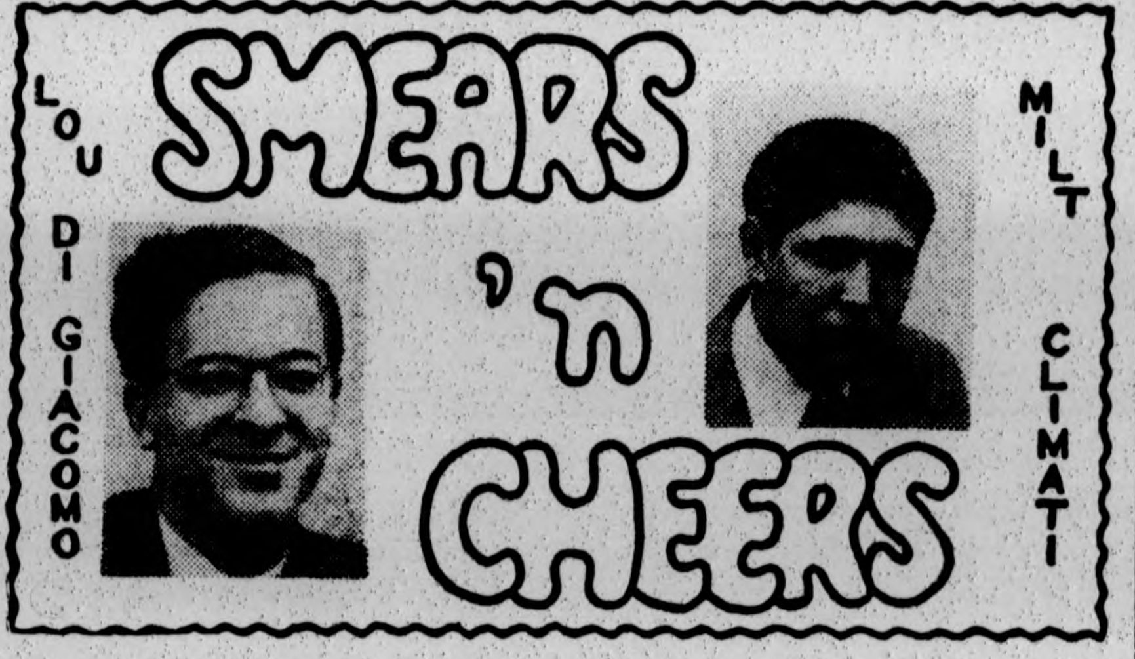
I was asked to be a witness recently at a mixed marriage. Not knowing either the bride or bridegroom, I capitalized on a little "make-believe."Whether it was the eloquence of the officiating priest or the personal equation that encompassed me, I cannot say; but, I must admit, the Church's admonition to the brotherhood is powerful and profound.

". . . Truly, then, these words are most serious. It is a beautiful tribute to your undoubted faith in each other, that recognizing their full import, you are nevertheless, so willing and ready to pronounce them . . . Henceforth you belong entirely to each other; you will be one in mind, one in heart, and one in affections. And whatever sacrifices you may hereafter be required to make to preserve this common life, always make them generously . . . No greater blessing can come to your married life than pure conjugal love, loyal and true to the end."

With these words the wisdom gained by the Church over a period of nineteen centuries unfolds the duties of both husband and wife. Later in the ceremony the Church becomes more specific in her admonition.

In the Epistle of the Nuptial Mass and included as an exhortation after the Marriage Ceremony: "Let women be subject to their husbands, as to the Lord; for the husband is the head of the wife, as Christ is the head of the Church . . . Therefore, as the Church is subject to Christ, so also let the wives be to their husbands in all things . . . So also ought men to love their wives as their own bodies."

The question has often arisen among conscientious women — in what things must the woman be subject? That answer is the same as all answers regarding subordination. The subject must obey only when such obedience does not contradict the laws of God. Being one in mind, one in heart and one in affections calls for no subjugation —merely love.



The Inter-Frat dance proved to be the most successful social event of the last few years on the Villanova Campus. We would like to congratulate and thank the student body and the alumni for their swell support. It looks like the old Villanova spirit is really coming back. Keep up the good work, fellows, and you can be sure that bigger and better times are in store for Villanova.

Joe Sweeney was at the Inter-Frat dance with his girl, Lennie. Joe, however, was having a hard time melting her cold, but oh-so-nice, shoulder. When we get through with it, you may borrow our ice-pick, Joe . . . Doc. Eidam was dishing out cokes. Of course, he had a new shine which almost blinded the people. But it wasn't from his shoes . . . James T. Mackey was gliding to the smooth rhythm with his present heart-throb, the farmer's daughter, or, none other than Rosemary of Immaculata. From the look in his eyes, we think that Cupid has been up to his old tricks again. (And we always thought that the "RM" stood for Rigor Mortis).

LITERARY NOTE: The following poem is dedicated to and written by Tony Paruta:

My friends all call me "Cue-ball."
The girls all shy away.
My hair, from head, just had to fall;
It would not God-placed stay.

I'd brush it every morning
And give a stiff massage,
And saw new roots there forming;
But that was a mirage.

At length I fought no longer,
Resigned to dismal fate.
I found the hairs were stronger
On the side of my bald pate.

I nursed these hairs so carefully.
But oh, they were so few.
A gust of wind came swiftly
And from my head they blew.

But now I am determined
My hair on head to stay.
I solved the whole darn problem
By buying a toupee.

* * *

ODDS AND ENDS

Who was the Priest in Simpson Hall who told the boys to put their clocks ahead an hour while he proceeded to put his back on hour? The biggest feature about this is how anyone can get up at 6:20 and be late for the 8:20 Mass . . . Ray "Captain" Helm and Jack Carney are having a contest to see who can sleep the most. Each fellow has already worn out one mattress this semester, and both are going strong on their seconds. Our bets are on "Captain" Helm.

Jasper Chen See seems to be in dire need of a belt. A necktie doesn't really serve the purpose, does it, Jasper? . . . 'Tis rumored that Jack McNamara's girl from Rosemont, is going to be Queen of the May this year . . . Huey "Charles Atlas" Maquire can be found attempting to build up a few muscles, with a set of weights, in his leisure time . . . We hear that Mike Gaffney has taken his entrance examination for the United States Naval Academy. So we thought we would take time out to wish Mike good luck.

We hear that Joe D. is now taking walks to the drug store in his pajamas and bathrobe. Must be too much studying for the boy . . . Ray Liguori has been so busy at Bryn Mawr Hospital (or is it Conshohocken?) that he didn't have time to go home to a dance at the Newark Hospital last weekend . . . Lorraine of Norristown seems to be giving Martin Minerva of Simpson Hall a hard time of late. How about that, Marty? . . . "Tiger" Moonan, the detective of Alumni Hall, has sent away for a G-boy REPEATING CAP PISTOL.

Villanova was well represented in the Easter Parade at Atlantic City last weekend. Pete Pallitto and John Sankey were carrying the V. C. colors. Of course, they were not doing it alone. There were

SMEARS & CHEERS
Continued on Page Eight

Meet The Boys: Paul Christenson Joe Mahoney Bill Thompson

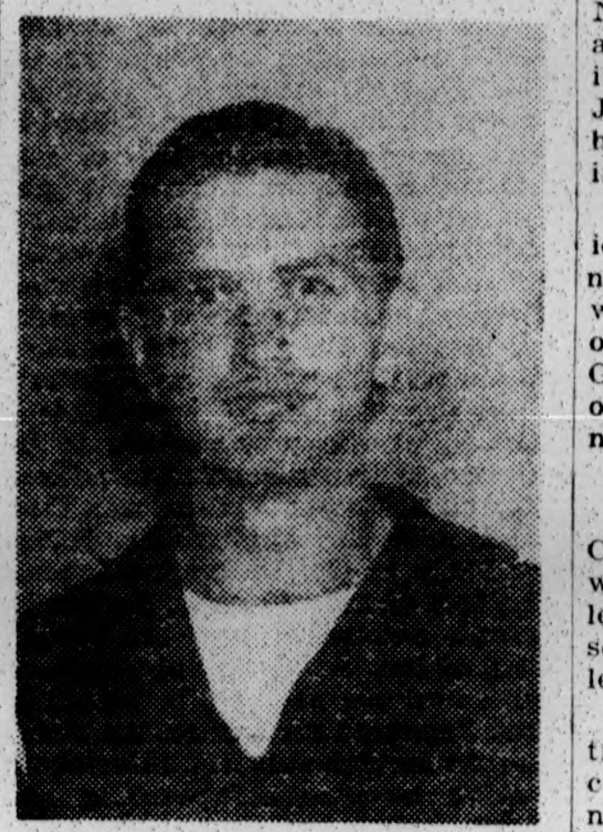
By CHARLES McCARTHY

A medium build on a frame standing in the six foot neighborhood, topped by a head, faced with a smile, is what you will encounter when seeing Paul H. Christenson, Erie's contribution to Vilanova.

Paul is one of the more serious type men attending Villanova with plenty of good sense and humor always on tap ready to flow into the proper place at the proper time. He is a senior studying Mechanical Engineering under the Navy Program.

Future Looks Bright

After graduation in June, Paul has elected to go on inactive duty with a reserve ensigns rating. At the present time he has not definitely decided what he will do in the way of a job. However, he has connections with both Westinghouse and General Electric; and he will more than likely go to work for one of these companies. According to Paul, a job with either one of these companies would be extremely valuable in his plans for further education. He would start as a Testing Engineer and go to school in either the Pittsburgh or Schenectady plants operated respectively by the two national organizations.



If You Know People . . .

Might do Graduate Work at Carnegie Tech

Graduate work is something which Paul hopes he will eventually be able to get around to, but for the present he believes that working in industry is the best thing. When the time comes for graduate work he plans to take up design engineering most probably at Carnegie Tech.

Before coming to Villanova, Paul studied Mechanical Engineering at Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh. Before that time, he was a student at Academy High School in Erie.

Paul Christenson's ability to meet the serious and the light moment in life with intelligence and calmness undoubtedly will make him an asset to whomever he deals with in the future just as he has here at Villanova.

The next gentleman whom we would like to introduce to you is in no need of an introduction for he is the dapper man who has been a prominent man about school ever since his entry here back in 1939. He is Joseph F. Mahoney of Philadelphia.

Entered Villanova in 1939

Joe came to Villanova back in 1939 immediately after he graduated from St. Thomas Moore High School in Philadelphia. Soon after his arrival he became an active member in the Debating Society and the Student Council as well as the Belle Air and the Villanovan.

With the war and the need for men came an interruption in Mr. Mahoney's education as in the case of so many others. Joe went to New Cumberland with Joe Lord and MacDonald. As Joe says: "My only claim to fame in the Army is that I pulled K. P. once."

Was an Interpreter in Military Intelligence

After taking infantry basic training Joe was shifted into the Military Intelligence section and studied to be a French interpreter. True to Army order and SOP Joe was sent out to the Pacific on a three man interpreting team. The other two men were Greek and German interpreters and Joe was a French interpreter so they naturally found their job in the Pacific theater an easy one with no one speaking any one of their three languages. Even though they were handicapped by their lack of preparation this team of Joe's went through the Pacific covering a wide range of territory. They started in New Guinea, moved up to the Philippines and ended up in Japan.

And French . . .

Now Joe's travels have him back at Villanova and he will graduate in June. As to what comes after June Joe does not know other than he wants to poke around with his irons in some fires that are hot.

William A. Thompson, now a resident of Ocean City, N. J., is the next man on our list. He was born in Philadelphia in August of 1926 and attended St. Andrews Grammar School and West Catholic High before coming to Villanova in November of 1943.

Stars in Bowling League

While at West Catholic Bill was Captain of the Bowling Team and worked in the nearby Bowling Alley as assistant manager. He placed second in the Catholic Bowling league.

When out of West Catholic he traveled out to our school as a civilian in the Commerce and Finance School. He studied as a civilian up until March of 1944 when he entered the V-5 program. He continued in the business course and is now ready to graduate.

In June Bill intends to enter the Navy and go into the supply corps, if he can get into the supply school. If he can do this he will go to school in the Navy for about six months and then go on active sea duty as a supply officer.

May Find Career in Navy

In regards to later life Bill is not sure. He leans toward the Navy and should he like the work he may plan a life career of it. However, if he finds that this is not his life's work he plans to enter Harvard Business School after he gets out of the Navy. Then upon graduation he wants to enter business and make his fortune.

While here at Villanova, Bill was a member of the Frat League and the DPE. He also played the drums for the band during seven semesters. He was also Company Commander this past semester.

Stay In The Navy.

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

I lived on a farm and never even carried a lantern."

Yeh, Sarge," replied the private, "and look what you got!"

The Dakota Scientist

* * *

Here
With my beer
I sit,
While golden moments flit;
Alas!
They pass
Unheeded by:
And as they fly,
I,
Being dry,
Sit idly sipping here
My beer.

The Setonian

* * *

The Florida Alligator reports that 75 percent of their student body are employed this semester. The Self Help Committee places 65 percent of these students, and another 10 percent get jobs on their own hooks.

* * *

Just Corn

Sign on a slot machine in a tavern:

"In case of an air raid crawl under this machine — it's never been hit."

The Dakota Scientist.

* * *

Holy Cross College has stepped into the big time by scoring a huge success with their presentation of "A Bell for Adano", the play that enjoyed a lengthy run on Broadway. They played to capacity audiences throughout the run and received a tremendous ovation.

* * *

The Epic

There was a young fellow from Wheeling
Endowed with such delicate feeling.
"When he read on the door
"Don't spit on the floor,"
He jumped up and spit on the ceiling.

The Notre Dame Scholastic.

* * *

Santa Clara stands with bowed heads as they mourn the passing of a new friend. It seems that the engineering department picked up a B-25 bomber. The students, under the supervision of a mild mannered instructor, were dismantling the plane to study the various parts. Things went fine until March 25. On that fateful day, this mild mannered instructor happened to let his hand slip over near one of the gas tanks. This would have been fine except for the fact that he was holding a blow torch in it.

When the smoke cleared and the fire engines had wended their way home, hope was gone. Benny was cooked.

* *

Little Jack Horner
Sat in a corner
With crib notes in his lappa.
He opened his book
And took a quick look.
Now he's a Phi Beta Kappa.

The Santa Clara.

Headline from the Auburn Plainsman.

AT LAST! AUBURN BOOKS NAME BAND—

* * *

Here's to the four hinges of friendship,
To swear, to steal, to lie, and to drink.
If you must swear, swear by your country's good name,
If you must steal, steal away from bad company,
If you must lie, lie on a sunny beach,
If you must drink, drink with me.

* * *

The Florida Alligator adds a refreshing bit of news this week. They are joining the ranks of those colleges sponsoring Aeronautical engineering departments. Congratulations, 'Gators!

* * *

1st student: What is youth?
2nd student: I'm a Thopmore. What ith youth?

Detroit Varsity News.

* * *

The following is an eight column streamer from the Irish News "EIRE MODERNIZING RESORTS PREPARING FOR TOURISTS."

Now ain't that sumpin?

* * *

So for another week we bring this hodge-podge of jotting from here and there to an end. This week we would like to borrow a bit from the Prospector, publication of Carroll College, Helena, Montana.

Yes sir, cows may come and cows may go, but the bull goes on forever.

ATTENTION GRADS

If you have any newspaper articles or information about the College or the Alumni, please send them to the Alumni Secretary at the College.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 .... Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Robert P. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
Herman J. Diesel, '50
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
Wharncliffe Bird, '50
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Daniel Fox, '50
Albert Scarzo, '49
Henry J. Fessler, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50
Robert R. Manske, 48

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
James J. Brannon, '50
Joseph Braezler, '50
Charles R. Phillips, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 7, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - - - - - - - MAY 14, 1946

In Union There Is ? ?

THE working man needs a union. This has been proved time and again, both in the past and even in our own times. The unions as they exist today were primarily founded to protect the rights of the working man, to give him a just wage and insure his position as a laborer.

Fundamentally, there can be no argument that the unions are good in principle. They are a boon to the working man. They are his sole source of bargaining power with the capital that employs him. They insure his right to a livelihood, a decent wage, and proper working conditions.

During the six or seven decades that strong unions have existed in our nation, we have seen their progress in the direction of a "square deal" for labor. We have admired them in the past for their ability to protest effectively against dangerous working conditions and their participation in discussions demanding a living wage for the worker. We have learned to respect their principles and ideals.

Today, however, the unions are alienating themselves from the respect of the public. It seems that they have become too big even for themselves. They are slowly destroying everything they have worked for over a number of years. It seems that unions are no longer run by the working man, nor is his participation seriously considered. There are a few men who head these unions, who are clearly in "the racket" strictly as a money-making proposition. Does this shock you? Remember, there are a lot of dues paid by union members, and there are certainly many pockets lined with silver for no good reason.

The men who head these unions have become nothing more than dictators. When they call a strike, the working man has no say. For instance, in the recent General Motors strike, many workers who were starving wanted to return to work to support their families. However, when they made their intentions known, the union hired professional pickets to double the picket lines thereby preventing the workers from returning to their jobs, while the "big-wigs" argued over a ½-cent-an-hour increase, which didn't mean that much to the workers.

The American public and the government is "fed-up" with all the quibbling. Since the unions don't want to compromise on any points at issue, the fair-play rule which once existed has disappeared. A tyrant rule has been assumed, and John Q. Public and Mr. Government has had enough. If the leaders of the unions do not keep a closer watch on themselves they will bring down upon themselves an avalanche of restrictions which will stifle them completely, and the working man, who has struggled so hard for his rights, will be lost without any representation.

—PAUL CARMICHAEL.

It Doesn't Jibe

DURING the past four or five years a majority of us Villanovans have spent some time serving with the armed forces. Very noticeable to all of us upon our entry into the service was the "loose talk," and profanity, which marked the conversations of our comrades. We were at war then, and our commanders did not discipline our speech as they had disciplined our bodies, for at that time everything was focused on the toughening of killers and instilling in their hearts hatred for their brothers. "Kill or be killed" was the password, the emblem, the slogan, the motto of all those fighting for the cause. "Kill or be killed" was what we were being trained for. "Kill or be killed" was uppermost in our minds and all else was subordinated.

But those days have past; those days when most of us were weakened morally, to a greater or lesser degree, depending on the shield of character we carried with us, the shield which we had made for ourselves during our earlier lives with the tools of religious activity, education, and environment. Only by the Grace of God, the prayers of those waiting for us at home, the good works of the Chaplains who followed us into battle, and the inspiration from our comrades, were some of us able to subdue the tempter. And now we have returned to a normal life once more and have come back to Villanova to continue the strengthening of our shield through religious activity, education, and environment, and to prepare ourselves for a fuller and more successful life in the future.

During our years in the service our ears, and even some of our tongues, had grown somewhat accustomed to the ever prevalent "loose talk" and profanity, and some of it had found its way into our depleted vocabularies to be transported by us to our campus. Today as we journey across the campus lawn, or stroll down to the athletic field, or walk through the school corridors, or saunter through the domitories, yes, or even stand in front of the Chapel, we hear uncouth expressions and profane utterances.

A poverty-stricken vocabulary is a breeding place for profanity and "loose talk", and, therefore, as students of higher learning, our speech should not be infected with the germs of this sin. As college men living in a religious environment such as ours, we should rid ourselves and our campus of the stains of this ignorant and un-Christian form of speech. Certainly it should be with sympathy and unrest that we should listen to such talk, for it should be fairly easy for anyone of us to find words that will express our feelings and emotions without having to borrow from the vocabulary of the ignorant.

There may be some excuse for the ignorant man, with no opportunity for learning, to lean towards profanity or "loose talk" when expressing a deep emotion, but twelve or more years of schooling gives no man that excuse. As Catholic men, and as college men, Gentlemen, there is no excuse! Our speech is like unto a mirror which reflects our intellect and character. Be watchful of it.

WILLIAM M. GOLDEN.

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEIL

The prospective housing which will accommodate a student body of 5,000 students at the University of Florida, seems to be the highlight news this week from other campuses throughout the country. The Florida Alligator says indications are that housing units are no longer a possibility but a probability. The State Improvement Commission, the tabloid continues, has offered the University 150 additional demountable houses to add to the 100 which have been erected on the campus and the 75 promised. The new units will be for the use of "veterans with families.

The same edition of the Florida Alligator informs us that as the winter term is nearing its end, surveys disclose that during the past two semesters the veteran students are doing better academic work than the student body has done in any period during the past 15 years. In the highest honor society on the campus, the percentage of veterans is between 80 and 90 percent.

• • •

The enrollment figures at Auburn University are expected to exceed the 4200 mark, having already broken the record of 3,865 for 1940-41, according to The Plainsman, official paper of the school.

• • •

The following we extracted from the same issue of The Plainsman.

A train robber was holding up a Pullman car. "Out with your dough or I'll drill all the men without money, and kiss all the women."

An elderly man said: "You shall not touch these ladies."

An old maid in an upper berth shouted: "You leave him alone; HE'S robbing this train."

• • •

From the two latest editions of The Dakota Scientist, student paper of the North Dakota State School of Science, we offer you the following jokes or what you will.

Fussy Lady: "Does your mother know you smoke?"

Small Boy: "Does your husband know you speak to strange men on the street?"

• • •

Before you put your tongue into high gear—make sure your brain's turning over.

• • •

Two men were brought into court for fighting and the first one took the witness stand. "What is your

Continued on Page Three

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

This is the first of 'letters to the editor' that I have ever written. What prompts it is a kind of shock.

The shock comes from your editorial in the May 7th issue of the Villanovan, which I thought was very un-Villanovan in its tone. I very much regret this first (to my knowledge) public manifestation of a 'group' attitude on the part of men who claim to be representatives of Villanova opinion. If the opinion of your writer is truly reflective of a student attitude dividing men here into groups and attacking student failures by identifying the failures with certain groups, then post-war Villanova is a poorer Villanova than the pre-war college.

Everyone will admit that there are individuals on the campus who have not responded to the friendliness of Villanova life, just as there are individuals who haven't enough gentlemanliness to dress decently in the dining hall. But, for my personal part (and this letter is a reflcetion of purely personal opinon) I have never noticed that friendliness or unfriendliness, gentlemanliness or ungentlemanlines, as the characteristic of any special group for the simple reason that it has not been the Villanova way to divide the college student body into 'social' groups.

I hope that in writing this I reflect the traditional attitude of all real Villanovans for whom there exists only one student group —the aggregate of names in the administration offices filed under 'Current Students', each one a 'loyal son of Alma Mater.'

With this letter goes the fond hope that the attitude of your writer will die as immaturely as it was born, for it has small chance of ever reaching a full manly growth on this campus. I hope we have no place here for 'group attitudes.'

Sincerely,
—Father Sullivan.

Dear Editor:

Congratulations! We're glad to see that the "Villanovan" has as last asserted itself. Until last week's edition we were afraid that the "Freedom of the Press" was a dead issue here at Villanova.

We are referring to last week's Editorial, "Keep Out, Athletes Only," in which was expressed a custom that has become increasingly prevalent on the campus . . . that of cliques. Cliques always lead to disrupted organization. We thank the "Villanovan" for having the courage to at last print the truth, instead of being influenced by the censorship imposed upon it in the past. Continuance of this policy will make the "Villanovan" a true student newspaper!

Yours without bitterness or prejudice,

—Two Students.

BITTER! VERY MUCH SO.

Dear Editor:

"Wise up," you tell us! . . . "Wise up" to what? You said we might be too proud to read your childish editorial in public. We weren't. In fact we made every effort to read it in public . . . and to laugh loudly at it in public. A child should be humored to a certain extent, but that extent has been passed. We cannot, and will not, ignore this asinine accusation.

You infer that we consider ourselves "heroes" and that we are "fools". We know that we are not "heroes" and so do you. As for the "fools" . . . that may be true. We practice day in and day out doing the same things over and over again, time after time, until it is next to perfect. Even then it is not good enough; for sometimes we lose. It is no fun to lose after months of continual practice, and yet we must practice to win. Practice . . . the damnation of any sport . . . is more than rewarded when he win. But we do not always win. Yes, perhaps we are "fools."

You say that we do not speak to our fellow students . . . just to our fellow teammates. What a wild statement. We are not even going to argue this point with you since it would be useless to try to defend ourselves against this charge . . . a charge made by a bigoted, bitter, stupid bundle of frustrated athlete. What team didn't you make son??? You accuse us of being guilty of the biggest faux pas in colleges life . . . snobbery to our classmates. We say that we are not guilty and will continue to believe this until otherwise proved by a student poll. Conduct it if you dare!

We have been and will continue to be "one of the boys." If we win . . . we ride high. If we lose . . . we take a riding. If we lose every game on the schedule, we will look around and find our friends. Real friends . . . friends that console us and do not criticize us by tearing our smallest mistakes apart. They are our friends.

Climb out of your cradle, baby . . . you're SUPPOSED to be a big boy now.

—Athletes of the Campus.

Dear Sir:

I am a transfer student to Villanova. I was assigned here as a student while in the Marine Corps. My first impression was over-

Continued on Page Four

Faculty Comments

GENTLEMEN BE SEATED!

By FATHER KLEKOTKA

IT happened on Market Street Subway during the evening rush hour. As the train pulled out of 15th Street Station it was packed to the doors with riders. In appearance it is just like the usual rush hour trains—the harried business men sitting behind the Evening Bulletins, the young working girls and the older shopping women chatting endlessly as they hang on to the straps deftly balancing themselves and their packages while the train sways and lurches along in its path. But actually, this time it is different. Behind one of those newspapers beats a male heart that belongs to the days of old—to the days of chivalry. He is not content to sit there unconcerned while the women stand. Lowering his newspaper he whispers to the woman hovering over him: "Psst! Be alert when we get to 40th St., that's where I get off."

This is not an erroneous picture of modern chivalry. It is not only in jest that the modern gentleman is defined as the man who points out the seat in the trolley car to a woman—and then races her for it. There is basis in fact for these stories and it is repeated every day in the elemental struggles for first place in line and first seats in subways. But if this is a sign that woman has been dragged down from the pedestal of honor, by no means does it follow that man has taken her place on that pedestal. If there has been a battle of the sexes and woman has lost that battle, it cannot yet be said that man has emerged the triumphant victor. In toppling woman from her high place man has only managed himself to be caught and crushed by her fall. It is man who is left broken and starving in the wake of the battle that woman has lost.

It is only idle folly to protest that woman has not been pulled down from her pinnacle but has herself stepped down. Both man and woman have been responsible. Likewise it is folly to protest that the modern girl either does not need or does not deserve the many considerations that were given to her grandmother. For need or merit never were the conditions for true chivalry. Nor is it a defense for the young man to plead that he is properly gallant to his own girlfriend or other women of his acquaintance. For disrespect or dishonor for any woman taints the honor of the dearest woman.

The true gentleman in any age is notably respectful and courteous to all women, regardless of their age, beauty, station in life, race or creed. And though the cost in personal inconvenience might seem great, the gentleman gains by far the best of the bargain. He is the one who is ennobled and enriched by his generosity towards women. What he gains in friendship no money could buy. What he gains in polish and personality no school could teach. What he learns about woman is a guarantee of his enduring happiness with the woman he loves best.

The Catholic College student has many motives for paying due honor to woman. He will remember above

Continued on Page Four

'Cat

Capers

By HAL VARANI
and JOE BROGAN

As the first buds of this new Spring appear, as the birds blissfully run their trills o'er the scale, as the days become longer (with a little help from Daylight Saving Time), thus enabling us to be able to enjoy the wonders of Spring's re-creation, as all of the above appear, along with them comes this second issue of the bigger and better "Cat Capers." And let it be added here and now that "No other column can make that statement." Especially a certain hackneyed, amateurish, ancient pillar whose description could very well end with the first word of its title, since no one has ever used its second word with respect, except the editors, those who might be unfortunate enough to be financially indebted to them and the relatives of said would-be scriveners.

Since there should be at least one source of information available to the Villanovan's readers, let us proceed to the task at hand.

Thomas Hanratty (boy, the gags that last name suggests), was a recent patron at a Chinese Restaurant where, he tells us, he had a fine spaghetti dinner (don't ask us how he got it, brother, we only work here). Anyway, it was good, except for the fact that he knitted two sweaters before he had anything to eat!

John Burns (the engineers' nemesis) is up to his old tricks again. He hankers to get at least four more notches on his slip stick before the semester's end. His prize target is none other than Larry (You don't have to calculate "C") Fallon.

John Dougherty's sporting a new car to school these days, but his enthusiasm is apparently dying away, since he's washing it only three times a week now. If you're not careful, John, you'll rub that gaudy "Hawaiian Tan" right off the body.

Bill Boyle has become a "Thurston" overnight. He claims to be the only man who can cause things to disappear from one's person . . . His specialty is nylons.

Next issue, dear reader, if you have seconds to spare, turn to that unmentionable column we have already referred to and look at the face on Climati; then read some of the tripe in his column and you'll understand why.

And we do wish the guy with the diamond for the lass at Immaculata would stop looking daggers at us and stop trying to find out how we discovered his secret. If he doesn't, we'll publish his name along with some highlights of his other romances. Can we put it any plainer!

This column has received word that Lou DiGiacomo was quite angry over not receiving credit for the Interfrat Ball decorations. . . . O. K., Lou, take the blame, see if we care.

Harlequinade of the Week:

Bill Koerner, Villanova's jerk extraordinary (soda, that is), made a date with Roseland's Joanne O'Brien to meet at 2:30 at Rosemont one afternoon last week. Bill arrived early and waited a while. He then took off for Bryn Mawr to call Joanne. She wasn't home. Natch, Joanne was at Rosemont waiting for Koerner. Confused? You should have seen Koerner. Moral: When hunting a Rosie, look ahead!

Bill Brady seems to be in a bit of a dilemma . . . before the Rosie last weekend he had one date for the Junior Prom . . . now he has two. Ruff! Soft music . . . soft lights . . . moon . . . spoon . . . how could he resist? In addition he is thinking of polishing up his oft-used engagement ring.

Harry "Cookie" Edwards makes all the important decisions in his household. Of course, there hasn't been an important decision made in four years of bliss. Nance sees to that!

This column would like to close its doors this week by extending congratulations to the newly elected officers for the coming year. Let's get the ball rolling, fellows. We're all with you.

Remember May 24th . . . the JUNIOR PROM.

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

name?" asked the examining lawyer.

"Pzhylinctoski Jylotty," was the response.

"Will you repeat that, please?" requested the attorney patiently.

"Pzhylinctoski Jylotty," was again the answer.

"Will the witness stop making funny noises and give his name?" thundered the magistrate.

• • •

Mrs. Chatley — My dear, I just hate to tell you this, but everyone is talking about it. They say your husband leads a dog's life.

Mrs. Rockley—Well, to tell the truth, it's somewhat similar. He comes into the house with muddy feet, settles down by the fire and growls for something to eat.

• • •

Doctor's Bride—Darling, isn't the sky and moon beautiful tonight?

Groom (dreamily)—Yes dear, that cloud poised over the mountain peak is exactly the color of a diseased liver.

• • •

At a recent meeting of the Veterans Club of Albright College, plans were set forth for a system of tutoring whereby any veteran having difficulty with academic work could be assisted by a qualified student who has satisfactorily completed the courses in which he was tutoring. Special attention was directed at languages and social sciences for it was reasoned that the veterans, having been away from school for so long, would encounter difficulty in these fields.

—The Albrightian.

• • •

In one of the more recent editions of the Temple University News we notice that the Veteran's Club of that institution also has arranged special tutoring for all veterans desiring assistance. In the same issue of the paper, it is disclosed that a program of concentration in Dramatic Arts is being incorporated into the College of Liberal Arts at the University.

• • •

This story concerns a lawyer who was very stern about observing every facet of every law. One day he came home and found his wife walking on the ceiling.

"What?" he blurted out brusquely and coldly in his best cross-examining manner, "do you think you're doing?"

"Walking on the ceiling," his wife replied, "and enjoying it very much."

"You can't do that," he barked icily. "It's breaking the law of gravity."

Boom! . . . and his wife immediately fell to the floor with a dull thud. She sat there rubbing herself, and burst into angry tears. "You had to open your big mouth."

—Dakota Scientist.

• • •

A summer term of eight weeks will be offered in July to students at Ursinus College. Courses are so planned that a student can complete a full semester's work in one-half the normal number of classes.

—The Ursinus Weekly.

• • •

Chicago Maroon, school paper for the University of Chicago, tells us that enrollment for the spring quarter has topped all previous records. Total paid registration at the end of the first week reached 8,179. Included in the enrollment are 2,470 veterans, most of whom attended the University prior to entering the service.

• • •

Two high former naval and military figures have been named as new vice-presidents at Temple University, The Temple University News tells us. They are Rear Admiral Milo F. Draemel, former commandant of the Fourth Naval District and Brigadier General Davies N. Hauseman, director of the Readjustment Division of the Army Service Forces until his recent retirement. General Hauseman will begin his duties as administrative vice president on June 1. Admiral Draemel will head the University's planning commission when he joins the university on August 1.

Foreign Correspondent

For the past five issues of Villanovan, this column has been giving you glimpses into the intimate lives of our neigboring colleges. Comments have been received from our readers asking us to get a little more "intimate" . . . while other comments have been received from our neighboring friends informing us that we are getting a little "too intimate." So to satisfy everyone, and kill two mice with one mousetrap, we have opened our column to guest writers. Therefore, it is with great pleasure that we present, as our first real Foreign correspondent, that Immaculata Bombshell: Anita Morales.

Understand, we, as guest writer, don't like to say that the hitherto zealous Villanova lads are going lazy on us, but that's the way things appear. For, not so long ago, the Editor of this very sheet that you're hiding behind, babbled happily from the confines of his padded cell. "We (editorial "we" includes his keeper and himself) have a wonderful idea! From now on, we'd like our Foreign Correspondent column to be written by the inmates (a one-track mind) of the surrounding colleges!" We smiled, a lamb about to be ensnared by the wolf; but the idea didn't hit us in the face till aforementioned wolf stuffed a typewriter and a ream of paper through the bars to us. We were flung into another cell, and have been there since, typing madly. And this is what we typed.

She's A Junior!

Now, just because we go to Immaculata, and belong to the junior class, you'll probably think we're prejudiced if we begin the resume of that school's activities by raving about Junior Week. This poor man's Mardi Gras took place from May 5 to 11, inclusive. We began the orgiastic week on Sunday with Blazer Investiture and Parents' Tea. Blazer Investiture no doubt sounds like a fire insurance policy to you but this is the real scoop. All the juniors received Navy Blue jackets (we were afraid you men wouldn't know what blazers are), and were invested with them by Dr. Furey (which doesn't mean that he bought them but that he put them on us). Navy Blue skirts and white blouses completed our Junior Week ensembles. Festivities also included the Junior Banquet ("No, I can't hold your seams together; I've got my hands full holding my breath!"), Faculty Day (need more be said?), and Little Sister Day, under the direction of those matchless (they don't carry them 'cause they don't smoke) Bergen twins, who certainly look like somebody's little sisters. This affair included more food, and a skit presented by the juniors—after which the entire class was expelled cum laude. Of course the climax of the week was the Junior Prom at the Warwick, which featured Chuck Gordon's orchestra. Chairman Marge McCafferty and her committees did a wonderful job on the dance. The big wheel, Terry McCoog, who was Junior Week chairman, is much to be congratulated, and is recuperating nicely in the Quiet Ward.

But There Are Juniors

Is there any other class in the school, you ask? Yes, I think I heard something about their installing some seniors, sophomores and freshmen. Speaking of freshmen, our little sisters put on a wonderful entertainment for us during Junior Week (see—there's no getting away from it).

No kidding though—now we're going to sober up and talk about the terrific Fashion Show sponsored by the Home Eccers on May 4. It was held in the main ballroom of the Bellevue with a runway (don't be getting the wrong idea, boys) that was miles long—or so it felt to the lasses who had to walk the plank. This festivity of fashionable finery was called "Spring Silhouette", and all the gowns were made and modelled by our I. C. seamstresses. But they tell me that you men don't get delirious over ladies styles, so we'd better move on to something else with alacrity.

To Attend Junior Prom

Never let it be said that any local college is getting ahead of us "Mackies" when it comes to having dances. Our seniors will hold a private graduation dance at the Llanerch Country Club on May 17. The orchestra for the evening is a local up-and-coming outfit—Asher Humes and his Stardusters.

On June 1 at the Barclay, the alumnae will present a formal dance at which the entire graduating class will be the guests of honor. However, we undergrads are also expecting to flock to that one. The war years were never like this! Another affair we're hoping to flock to is the Junior Prom of your own institution, even if we have to sneak down the chimney of the Field House.

What About A Junior?

You fellows asked for it, so we're back at our old job of census-taking. "What do girls look for in the boys they date?", your staff asked us. So we climbed into our roving reporter outfit, complete with slouch hat and, horn-rimmed glasses, and breached the ever-timely question to some of the whacky "Mackies". And this is what they said: Flip Beatty, a well-known (no, I didn't say notorious) member of the Immaculatan staff rates highest a sense of humor, but not one that's carried to the extent of practical jokes. She also appreciates consideration and good conversation. Mary Levery says intelligence comes first on her list —then in descending order — a sense of humor, variety of interests and good looks. Those Bergen twins, of whom we've spoken before, want enough for two (that's a joke, son). Besides the aforementioned qualities, including that ever-lovin' sense of humor, they like men who are good dancers too. It looks as though we girls like to laugh, so if you want to be the most sought-after man on the campus, run out and buy yourself a joke book. Now, I just happen to be selling a handy little pocket edition—what, no commercials, Editor? Okay—back to the subject. Myself, I just like fellows who are tall, dark, handsome, rich and intelligent (and you can tell I have a sense of humor).

Thank You, Junior

Well, now that we've fouled up inter-collegiate relations for good, we'll roll this copy into a ball and toss it between the bars of your editor's padded (and padded in blue satin, mind you) cell. Sobering up for an instant, though (me and Don Birnam)—I've really enjoyed being your guest Foreign Correspondent this issue. The invitation was highly complimentary, and I only hope you can read through the nonsense and get a glimpse of Immaculata's recent and forthcoming activities. Thanks again, Villanovans.

P. S. KILROY was up here again! Not only that, but he brought his whole family and stayed for three weeks. Then one morning we awoke to find them gone. And so at dawning, with his pack upon his back and his family tottering after him, KILROY was on his way again. Look for him and his in your broom closet.

Food for Europe Drive to Begin

This week the food to Europe drive starts at Villanova. Under the direction of the Student Council collections will be made throughout the remainder of May. Posters will be erected at collection sites and next week this paper will explain the program in detail.

This is all part of a general relief drive over the nation which started last Sunday. The UNRRA has not been able, in itself, to relieve the starvation conditions which hover over the erstwhile battlefields. Practically all humanitarian societies in the United States have joined in this campaign and the Colleges of the nation are united behind the drive.

It is necessary to say nothing about the European situation. Other publications have covered this issue more graphically than we possibly could.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 ....Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 ....Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC ....Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 ....Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 ....Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 ....Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 ....Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 ....Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 ....Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
James G. Dale, '50
Robert P. Greenspan, '50
Joseph Barrett, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
Herman J. Diesel, '50
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
Wharncliffe Bird, '50
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
Daniel Fox, '50
Albert Scarzo, '49
Henry J. Fessler, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50
Robert R. Manske, '48

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Edward Healey, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48
James J. Brannon, '50
Joseph Braezler, '50
Charles R. Phillips, '50

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Robert Brown, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 7, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - - - - - - - MAY 14, 1946

In Union There Is ? ?

THE working man needs a union. This has been proved time and again, both in the past and even in our own times. The unions as they exist today were primarily founded to protect the rights of the working man, to give him a just wage and insure his position as a laborer.

Fundamentally, there can be no argument that the unions are good in principle. They are a boon to the working man. They are his sole source of bargaining power with the capital that employs him. They insure his right to a livelihood, a decent wage, and proper working conditions.

During the six or seven decades that strong unions have existed in our nation, we have seen their progress in the direction of a "square deal" for labor. We have admired them in the past for their ability to protest effectively against dangerous working conditions and their participation in discussions demanding a living wage for the worker. We have learned to respect their principles and ideals.

Today, however, the unions are alienating themselves from the respect of the public. It seems that they have become too big even for themselves. They are slowly destroying everything they have worked for over a number of years. It seems that unions are no longer run by the working man, nor is his participation seriously considered. There are a few men who head these unions, who are clearly in "the racket" strictly as a money-making proposition. Does this shock you? Remember, there are a lot of dues paid by union members, and there are certainly many pockets lined with silver for no good reason.

The men who head these unions have become nothing more than dictators. When they call a strike, the working man has no say. For instance, in the recent General Motors strike, many workers who were starving wanted to return to work to support their families. However, when they made their intentions known, the union hired professional pickets to double the picket lines thereby preventing the workers from returning to their jobs, while the "big-wigs" argued over a ½-cent-an-hour increase, which didn't mean that much to the workers.

The American public and the government is "fed-up" with all the quibbling. Since the unions don't want to compromise on any points at issue, the fair-play rule which once existed has disappeared. A tyrant rule has been assumed, and John Q. Public and Mr. Government has had enough. If the leaders of the unions do not keep a closer watch on themselves they will bring down upon themselves an avalanche of restrictions which will stifle them completely, and the working man, who has struggled so hard for his rights, will be lost without any representation.

—PAUL CARMICHAEL.

It Doesn't Jibe

DURING the past four or five years a majority of us Villanovans have spent some time serving with the armed forces. Very noticeable to all of us upon our entry into the service was the "loose talk," and profanity, which marked the conversations of our comrades. We were at war then, and our commanders did not discipline our speech as they had disciplined our bodies, for at that time everything was focused on the toughening of killers and instilling in their hearts hatred for their brothers. "Kill or be killed" was the password, the emblem, the slogan, the motto of all those fighting for the cause. "Kill or be killed" was what we were being trained for. "Kill or be killed" was uppermost in our minds and all else was subordinated.

But those days have past; those days when most of us were weakened morally, to a greater or lesser degree, depending on the shield of character we carried with us, the shield which we had made for ourselves during our earlier lives with the tools of religious activity, education, and environment. Only by the Grace of God, the prayers of those waiting for us at home, the good works of the Chaplains who followed us into battle, and the inspiration from our comrades, were some of us able to subdue the tempter. And now we have returned to a normal life once more and have come back to Villanova to continue the strengthening of our shield through religious activity, education, and environment, and to prepare ourselves for a fuller and more successful life in the future.

During our years in the service our ears, and even some of our tongues, had grown somewhat accustomed to the ever prevalent "loose talk" and profanity, and some of it had found its way into our depleted vocabularies to be transported by us to our campus. Today as we journey across the campus lawn, or stroll down to the athletic field, or walk through the school corridors, or saunter through the domitories, yes, or even stand in front of the Chapel, we hear uncouth expressions and profane utterances.

A poverty-stricken vocabulary is a breeding place for profanity and "loose talk", and, therefore, as students of higher learning, our speech should not be infected with the germs of this sin. As college men living in a religious environment such as ours, we should rid ourselves and our campus of the stains of this ignorant and un-Christian form of speech. Certainly it should be with sympathy and unrest that we should listen to such talk, for it should be fairly easy for anyone of us to find words that will express our feelings and emotions without having to borrow from the vocabulary of the ignorant.

There may be some excuse for the ignorant man, with no opportunity for learning, to lean towards profanity or "loose talk" when expressing a deep emotion, but twelve or more years of schooling gives no man that excuse. As Catholic men, and as college men, Gentlemen, there is no excuse! Our speech is like unto a mirror which reflects our intellect and character. Be watchful of it.

WILLIAM M. GOLDEN.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

This is the first of 'letters to the editor' that I have ever written. What prompts it is a kind of shock.

The shock comes from your editorial in the May 7th issue of the Villanovan, which I thought was very un-Villanovan in its tone. I very much regret this first (to my knowledge) public manifestation of a 'group' attitude on the part of men who claim to be representatives of Villanova opinion. If the opinion of your writer is truly reflective of a student attitude dividing men here into groups and attacking student failures by identifying the failures with certain groups, then post-war Villanova is a poorer Villanova than the pre-war college.

Everyone will admit that there are individuals on the campus who have not responded to the friendliness of Villanova life, just as there are individuals who haven't enough gentlemanliness to dress decently in the dining hall. But, for my personal part (and this letter is a reficetion of purely personal opinon) I have never noticed that friendliness or unfriendliness, gentlemanliness or ungentlemanlines, as the characteristic of any special group for the simple reason that it has not been the Villanova way to divide the college student body into 'social' groups.

I hope that in writing this I reflect the traditional attitude of all real Villanovans for whom there exists only one student group—the aggregate of names in the administration offices filed under 'Current Students', each one a 'loyal son of Alma Mater.'

With this letter goes the fond hope that the attitude of your writer will die as immaturely as it was born, for it has small chance of ever reaching a full manly growth on this campus. I hope we have no place here for 'group attitudes.'

Sincerely,
—Father Sullivan.

Dear Editor:

Congratulations! We're glad to see that the "Villanovan" has as last asserted itself. Until last week's edition we were afraid that the "Freedom of the Press" was a dead issue here at Villanova.

We are referring to last week's Editorial, "Keep Out, Athletes Only," in which was expressed a custom that has become increasingly prevalent on the campus . . . that of cliques. Cliques always lead to disrupted organization. We thank the "Villanovan" for having the courage to at last print the truth, instead of being influenced by the censorship imposed upon it in the past. Continuance of this policy will make the "Villanovan" a true student newspaper!

Yours without bitterness or prejudice,

—Two Students.

BITTER! VERY MUCH SO.

Dear Editor:

"Wise up," you tell us! . . . "Wise up" to what? You said we might be too proud to read your childish editorial in public. We weren't. In fact we made every effort to read it in public . . . and to laugh loudly at it in public. A child should be humored to a certain extent, but that extent has been passed. We cannot, and will not, ignore this asinine accusation.

You infer that we consider ourselves "heroes" and that we are "fools". We know that we are not "heroes" and so do you. As for the "fools" . . . that may be true. We practice day in and day out doing the same things over and over again, time after time, until it is next to perfect. Even then it is not good enough; for sometimes we lose. It is no fun to lose after months of continual practice, and yet we must practice to win. Practice . . . the damnation of any sport . . . is more than rewarded when he win. But we do not always win. Yes, perhaps we are "fools."

You say that we do not speak to our fellow students . . . just to our fellow teammates. What a wild statement. We are not even going to argue this point with you since it would be useless to try to defend ourselves against this charge . . . a charge made by a bigoted, bitter, stupid bundle of frustrated athlete. What team didn't you make son??? You accuse us of being guilty of the biggest faux pas in colleges life . . . snobbery to our classmates. We say that we are not guilty and will continue to believe this until otherwise proved by a student poll. Conduct it if you dare!

We have been and will continue to be "one of the boys." If we win . . . we ride high. If we lose . . . we take a riding. If we lose every game on the schedule, we will look around and find our friends. Real friends . . . friends that console us and do not criticize us by tearing our smallest mistakes apart. They are our friends.

Climb out of your cradle, baby . . . you're SUPPOSED to be a big boy now.

—Athletes of the Campus.

Dear Sir:

I am a transfer student to Villanova. I was assigned here as a student while in the Marine Corps. My first impression was over-

Continued on Page Four

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEIL

The prospective housing which will accommodate a student body of 5,000 students at the University of Florida, seems to be the highlight news this week from other campuses throughout the country. The Florida Alligator says indications are that housing units are no longer a possibility but a probability. The State Improvement Commission, the tabloid continues, has offered the University 150 additional demountable houses to add to the 100 which have been erected on the campus and the 75 promised. The new units will be for the use of "veterans with families.

The same edition of the Florida Alligator informs us that as the winter term is nearing its end, surveys disclose that during the past two semesters the veteran students are doing better academic work than the student body has done in any period during the past 15 years. In the highest honor society on the campus, the percentage of veterans is between 80 and 90 percent.

* * *

The enrollment figures at Auburn University are expected to exceed the 4200 mark, having already broken the record of 3,865 for 1940-41, according to The Plainsman, official paper of the school.

* * *

The following we extracted from the same issue of The Plainsman.

A train robber was holding up a Pullman car. "Out with your dough or I'll drill all the men without money, and kiss all the women."

An elderly man said: "You shall not touch these ladies."

An old maid in an upper berth shouted: "You leave him alone; HE'S robbing this train."

* * *

From the two latest editions of The Dakota Scientist, student paper of the North Dakota State School of Science, we offer you the following jokes or what you will.

Fussy Lady: "Does your mother know you smoke?"

Small Boy: "Does your husband know you speak to strange men on the street?"

* * *

Before you put your tongue into high gear—make sure your brain's turning over.

* * *

Two men were brought into court for fighting and the first one took the witness stand. "What is your

Continued on Page Three

Faculty Comments

GENTLEMEN BE SEATED!

By FATHER KLEKOTKA

IT happened on Market Street Subway during the evening rush hour. As the train pulled out of 15th Street Station it was packed to the doors with riders. In appearance it is just like the usual rush hour trains—the harried business men sitting behind the Evening Bulletins, the young working girls and the older shopping women chatting endlessly as they hang on to the straps deftly balancing themselves and their packages while the train sways and lurches along in its path. But actually, this time it is different. Behind one of those newspapers beats a male heart that belongs to the days of old—to the days of chivalry. He is not content to sit there unconcerned while the women stand. Lowering his newspaper he whispers to the woman hovering over him: "Psst! Be alert when we get to 40th St., that's where I get off."

This is not an erroneous picture of modern chivalry. It is not only in jest that the modern gentleman is defined as the man who points out the seat in the trolley car to a woman—and then races her for it. There is basis in fact for these stories and it is repeated every day in the elemental struggles for first place in line and first seats in subways. But if this is a sign that woman has been dragged down from the pedestal of honor, by no means does it follow that man has taken her place on that pedestal. If there has been a battle of the sexes and woman has lost that battle, it cannot yet be said that man has emerged the triumphant victor. In toppling woman from her high place man has only managed himself to be caught and crushed by her fall. It is man who is left broken and starving in the wake of the battle that woman has lost.

It is only idle folly to protest that woman has not been pulled down from her pinnacle but has herself stepped down. Both man and woman have been responsible. Likewise it is folly to protest that the modern girl either does not need or does not deserve the many considerations that were given to her grandmother. For need or merit never were the conditions for true chivalry. Nor is it a defense for the young man to plead that he is properly gallant to his own girlfriend or other women of his acquaintance. For disrespect or dishonor for any woman taints the honor of the dearest woman.

The true gentleman in any age is notably respectful and courteous to all women, regardless of their age, beauty, station in life, race or creed. And though the cost in personal inconvenience might seem great, the gentleman gains by far the best of the bargain. He is the one who is ennobled and enriched by his generosity towards women. What he gains in friendship no money could buy. What he gains in polish and personality no school could teach. What he learns about woman is a guarantee of his enduring happiness with the woman he loves best.

The Catholic College student has many motives for paying due honor to woman. He will remember above

Continued on Page Four

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI
and JOE BROGAN

As the first buds of this new Spring appear, as the birds blissfully run their trills o'er the scale, as the days become longer (with a little help from Daylight Saving Time), thus enabling us to be able to enjoy the wonders of Spring's re-creation, as all of the above appear, along with them comes this second issue of the bigger and better "Cat Capers." And let it be added here and now that "No other column can make that statement." Especially a certain hackneyed, amateurish, ancient pillar whose description could very well end with the first word of its title, since no one has ever used its second word with respect, except the editors, those who might be unfortunate enough to be financially indebted to them and the relatives of said would-be scriveners.

Since there should be at least one source of information available to the Villanovan's readers, let us proceed to the task at hand.

Thomas Hanratty (boy, the gags that last name suggests), was a recent patron at a Chinese Restaurant where, he tells us, he had a fine spaghetti dinner (don't ask us how he got it, brother, we only work here). Anyway, it was good, except for the fact that he knitted two sweaters before he had anything to eat!

John Burns (the engineers' nemesis) is up to his old tricks again. He hankers to get at least four more notches on his slip stick before the semester's end. His favorite target is none other than Larry (You don't have to calculate "C") Fallon.

John Dougherty's sporting a new car to school these days, but his enthusiasm is apparently dying away, since he's washing it only three times a week now. If you're not careful, John, you'll rub that gaudy "Hawaiian Tan" right off the body.

Bill Boyle has become a "Thurston" overnight. He claims to be the only man who can cause things to disappear from one's person . . . His specialty is nylons.

Next issue, dear reader, if you have seconds to spare, turn to that unmentionable column we have already referred to and look at the face on Climati; then read some of the tripe in his column and you'll understand why.

And we do wish the guy with the diamond for the kiss at Immaculata would stop looking daggers at us and stop trying to find out how we discovered his secret. If he doesn't, we'll publish his name along with some highlights of his other romances. Can we put it any plainer!

This column has received word that Lou DiGiacomo was quite angry over not receiving credit for the Interfrat Ball decorations. . . . O. K., Lou, take the blame, see if we care.

Harlequinade of the Week:

Bill Koerner, Villanova's jerk extraordinary (soda, that is), made a date with Roseland's Joanne O'Brien to meet at 2:30 at Rosemont one afternoon last week. Bill arrived early and waited a while. He then took off for Bryn Mawr to call Joanne. She wasn't home. Natch, Joanne was at Rosemont waiting for Koerner. Confused? You should have seen Koerner. Moral: When hunting a Rosie, look ahead.

Bill Brady seems to be in a bit of a dilemma . . . before the Rosie' last weekend he had one date for the Junior Prom . . . now he has two. Ruff! Soft music . . . soft lights . . . moon . . . spoon . . . how could he resist? In addition he is thinking of polishing up his oft-used engagement ring.

Harry "Cookie" Edwards makes all the important decisions in his household. Of course, there hasn't been an important decision made in four years of bliss. Nance sees to that!

This column would like to close its doors this week by extending congratulations to the newly elected officers for the coming year. Let's get the ball rolling, fellows. We're all with you.

Remember May 24th . . . the JUNIOR PROM.

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

name?" asked the examining lawyer.

"[illegible]," was the response.

[illegible]

Mrs. Chalfey — My dear, I just hate to tell you this, but everyone is talking about it. They say your husband leads a dog's life.

Mrs. Rockley—Well, to tell the truth, it's somewhat similar. He comes into the house with muddy feet, settles down by the fire and growls for something to eat.

* * *

Doctor's Bride—Darling, isn't the sky and moon beautiful tonight?

Groom (dreamily)—Yes dear, that cloud poised over the mountain peak is exactly the color of a diseased liver.

* * *

At a recent meeting of the Veterans Club of Albright College, plans were set forth for a system of tutoring whereby any veteran having difficulty with academic work could be assisted by a qualified student who has satisfactorily completed the courses in which he was tutoring. Special attention was directed at languages and social sciences for it was reasoned that the veterans, having been away from school for so long, would encounter difficulty in these fields.

—The Albrightian.

* * *

In one of the more recent editions of the Temple University News we notice that the Veteran's Club of that institution also has arranged special tutoring for all veterans desiring assistance. In the same issue of the paper, it is disclosed that a program of concentration in Dramatic Arts is being incorporated into the College of Liberal Arts at the University.

* * *

This story concerns a lawyer who was very stern about observing every facet of every law. One day he came home and found his wife walking on the ceiling.

"What?" he blurted out brusquely and coldly in his best cross-examining manner, "do you think you're doing?"

"Walking on the ceiling," his wife replied, "and enjoying it very much."

"You can't do that," he barked icily. "It's breaking the law of gravity."

Boom! . . . and his wife immediately fell to the floor with a dull thud. She sat there rubbing herself, and burst into angry tears. "You had to open your big mouth."

—Dakota Scientist.

* * *

A summer term of eight weeks will be offered in July to students at Ursinus College. Courses are so planned that a student can complete a full semester's work in one-half the normal number of classes.

—The Ursinus Weekly.

* * *

Chicago Maroon, school paper for the University of Chicago, tells us that enrollment for the spring quarter has topped all previous records. Total paid registration at the end of the first week reached 8,179. Included in the enrollment are 2,470 veterans, most of whom attended the University prior to entering the service.

* * *

Two high former naval and military figures have been named as new vice-presidents at Temple University, The Temple University News tells us. They are Rear Admiral Milo F. Draemel, former commandant of the Fourth Naval District and Brigadier General Davies N. Hauseman, director of the Readjustment Division of the Army Service Forces until his recent retirement. General Hauseman will begin his duties as administrative vice president on June 1. Admiral Draemel will head the University's planning commission when he joins the university on August 1.

Foreign Correspondent

For the past five issues of Villanovan, this column has been giving you glimpses into the intimate lives of our neighboring colleges. Comments have been received from our readers asking us to get a little more "intimate" . . . while other comments have been received from our neighbors [illegible] with one [illegible] writers. Therefore, it is with great pleasure that we present, as our first real Foreign correspondent, that Immaculata Bombshell: Anita Morales.

Understand, we, as guest writer, don't like to say that the hitherto zealous Villanova lads are going lazy on us, but that's the way things appear. For, not so long ago, the Editor of this very sheet that you're hiding behind, babbled happily from the confines of his padded cell. "We (editorial "we" includes his keeper and himself) have a wonderful idea! From now on, we'd like our Foreign Correspondent column to be written by the inmates (a one-track mind) of the surrounding "colleges!" We smiled, a lamb about to be ensnared by the wolf; but the idea didn't hit us in the face till aforementioned wolf stuffed a typewriter and a ream of paper through the bars to us. We were flung into another cell, and have been there since, typing madly. And this is what we typed.

She's A Junior!

Now, just because we go to Immaculata, and belong to the junior class, you'll probably think we're prejudiced if we begin the resume of that school's activities by raving about Junior Week. This poor man's Mardi Gras took place from May 5 to 11, inclusive. We began the orgiastic week on Sunday with Blazer Investiture and Parents' Tea. Blazer Investiture no doubt sounds like a fire insurance policy to you but this is the real scoop. All the juniors received Navy Blue jackets (we were afraid you men wouldn't know what blazers are), and were invested with them by Dr. Furey (which doesn't mean that he bought them but that he put them on us). Navy Blue skirts and white blouses completed our Junior Week ensembles. Festivities also included the Junior Banquet ("No, I can't hold your seams together; I've got my hands full holding my breath!"), Faculty Day (need more be said?), and Little Sister Day, under the direction of those matchless (they don't carry them 'cause they don't smoke) Bergen twins, who certainly look like somebody's little sisters. This affair included more food, and a skit presented by the juniors—after which the entire class was expelled cum laude. Of course the climax of the week was the Junior Prom at the Warwick, which featured Chuck Gordon's orchestra. Chairman Marge McCafferty and her committees did a wonderful job on the dance. The big wheel, Terry McCoog, who was Junior Week chairman, is much to be congratulated, and is recuperating nicely in the Quiet Ward.

But There Are Juniors

Is there any other class in the school, you ask? Yes, I think I heard something about their installing some seniors, sophomores and freshmen. Speaking of freshmen, our little sisters put on a wonderful entertainment for us during Junior Week (see—there's no getting away from it).

No kidding though—now we're going to sober up and talk about the terrific Fashion Show sponsored by the Home Eccers on May 4. It was held in the main ballroom of the Bellevue with a runway (don't be getting the wrong idea, boys) that was miles long—or so it felt to the lasses who had to walk the plank. This festivity of fashionable finery was called "Spring Silhouette", and all the gowns were made and modelled by our I. C. seamstresses. But they tell me that you men don't get delirious over ladies styles, so we'd better move on to something else with alacrity.

To Attend Junior Prom

Never let it be said that any local college is getting ahead of us "Mackies" when it comes to having dances. Our seniors will hold a private graduation dance at the Llanerch Country Club on May 17. The orchestra for the evening is a local up-and-coming outfit—Asher Humes and his Stardusters.

On June 1 at the Barclay, the alumnae will present a formal dance at which the entire graduating class will be the guests of honor. However, we undergrads are also expecting to flock to that one. The war years were never like this! Another affair we're hoping to flock to is the Junior Prom of your own institution, even if we have to sneak down the chimney of the Field House.

What About A Junior?

You fellows asked for it, so we're back at our old job of census-taking. "What do girls look for in the boys they date?" your staff asked us. So we climbed into our roving reporter outfit, complete with slouch hat and horn-rimmed glasses, and breached the ever-timely question to some of the whacky "Mackies". And this is what they said: Flip Beatty, a well-known (no, I didn't say notorious) member of the Immaculatan staff rates highest a sense of humor, but not one that's carried to the extent of practical jokes. She also appreciates consideration and good conversation. Mary Levery says intelligence comes first on her list—then in descending order — a sense of humor, variety of interests and good looks. Those Bergen twins, of whom we've spoken before, want enough for two (that's a joke, son). Besides the aforementioned qualities, including that ever-lovin' sense of humor, they like men who are good dancers too. It looks as though we girls like to laugh, so if you want to be the most sought-after man on the campus, run out and buy yourself a joke book. Now, I just happen to be selling a handy little pocket edition—what, no commercials, Editor? Okay—back to the subject. Myself, I just like fellows who are tall, dark, handsome, rich and intelligent (and you can tell I have a sense of humor).

Thank You, Junior

Well, now that we've fouled up inter-collegiate relations for good, we'll roll this copy into a ball and toss it between the bars of your editor's padded (and padded in blue satin, mind you) cell. Sobering up for an instant, though (me and Don Birnam)—I've really enjoyed being your guest Foreign Correspondent this issue. The invitation was highly complimentary, and I only hope you can read through the nonsense and get a glimpse of Immaculata's recent and forthcoming activities. Thanks again, Villanovans.

P. S. KILROY was up here again! Not only that, but he brought his whole family and stayed for three weeks. Then one morning we awoke to find them gone. And so at dawning, with his pack upon his back, and his family tottering after him, KILROY was on his way again. Look for him and his in your broom closet.

Food for Europe Drive to Begin

This week the food to Europe drive starts at Villanova. Under the direction of the Student Council collections will be made throughout the remainder of May. Posters will be erected at collection sites and next week this paper will explain the program in detail.

This is all part of a general relief drive over the nation which started last Sunday. The UNRRA has not been able, in itself, to relieve the starvation conditions which hover over the erstwhile battlefields. Practically all humanitarian societies in the United States have joined in this campaign and Colleges of the nation are united behind this drive.

It is necessary to say nothing about the European situation. Other publications have covered this issue more graphically than we possibly could.

Featuring . . . Francis Hanna Minister of the Interior

By PAUL CARMICHAEL

Hear ye all that suffer from headaches, backaches and corns! Don't take chances! See your nurse immediately! Even Kilroy does it! Why don't you?

At last we Villanovans have been assured of constant solace and care, like that of our own mothers, in the person of our new infirmarian Mr. Francis Hanna. Mr. Hanna is a registered nurse, and is on duty daily in the infirmary to see that our manly physiques do not suffer any serious damages. After all, we've got to keep in shape for the young damsels from I.C.,R.C., and C.H.C.

MR. FRANCIS HANNA

Mr. Hanna is a Philadelphia boy (bless his noble heart!). North Philadelphia claims him as one of her many sons. Despite this fact, it seems he has had an awakening, for now he lives in the good part of our brotherly-love town . . . West Philadelphia.

North Catholic Grad

Besides having his Philadelphia origin to his credit, Frank has another star beside his name, he's a graduate of Northeast Catholic High School. While attending Northeast he was active in intramural sports, and on the side he managed to tend a paper route which kept him "in the chips." He was also a member of his neighborhood sandlot team.

Frank Hanna started in the nursing profession by entering St. Joseph's Hospital Training School for Nurses in 1939. He graduated from this institution in 1942. He practiced alternately in St. Joseph's Hospital and Mt. Hope hospital for the mentally diseased.

Enters Navy

After spending two months on private duty, Mr. Hanna was called into the Navy and given the rating of Chief Pharmacist's Mate. While in the service, Frank did a lot of travelling around this globe. All his pleasure cruises were taken on luxury liners provided by the United States Navy. His tour included nine trips across the Pacific, and four trips apiece in both the Atlantic and Panama Canal war zones.

Plenty of action and practice came Frank's way when he was assisting on Hospital Ships during the invasions of Saipan, Tinian and Okinawa. He was discharged from the Navy December 1, 1945.

Mr. Hanna is a married man, and he says he doesn't envy the life of a bachelor. He is the proud pappa of two lovely children, one of whom arrived just three weeks ago. Your reporter failed to ask him if he paces the floor just like any other father.

Frank came to Villanova on March 18th, just at the beginning of the present semester. From the time of his discharge from the service until the time of his arrival on the Blue and White campus, he was engaged in a private capacity.

Buzzer Exposed By Alert Press

An amazing bit of news reached the Villanovan office recently in that the plane that has been buzzing the campus has been identified. To anxious students and ROTC men the plane showed all the qualities of a tactical aircraft in the performance of its varied maneuvers. By former airmen the ship was described as "fast and well designed."

The plane has made several passes at the campus in recent days and has been "cuttin' the grass" in back of St. Mary's Hall.

Recently a reporter from the staff managed to bring in the news that its owners have been identified. At first reluctant to admit ownership to the swift craft, Bill Grant, Dave Cushma, and George Lincoln, all ROTC men, broke down under pressure and owned up. To the reporter from the paper they described their craft as a Buckner-48 with a powerful aircooled Olsen 23 engine. Technically and aerodynamically speaking, the ship is a fast model and has been under construction for over three years.

Alumni Meeting

Continued From Page One

saying that "any effort made to push Villanova forward is not made in behalf of individuals or groups, but in behalf of the entire organization."

The President of the College recommended full support of the Alumni body to the advancement of the College in every field. He gave a brief resume of current activities at Villanova, pointing out problems involved by the great number of students applying for admission. He stated that Villanova expects the greatest enrollment in its history this September. Father also described the plans now close to completion for the physical development of the College, that is, the expansion program. These include the erection of the Chemical Engineering building, Naval Science Building and the Library.

Memorial To War Dead

Father McGuire suggested as a practical expression of Alumni cooperation a proposal whereby one of the buildings to be erected would be dedicated as a Memorial to Villanova's War dead and would be financed either wholly or partially by the Alumni.

The New York club has held three meetings in the past few months; Thursday's attendance more than tripled the meeting held last Winter. Another meeting has been called for Thursday, June 20th, and the attendance is expected to double the last.

LETTERS

Continued From Page Two

whelming. The air of friendliness among students, Athletes and faculty was remarkable. The "hello" habit was practiced faithfully, and a new student could acclimate himself immediately.

Upon returning after discharge, it was very obvious that this habit had been discontinued. I felt obtrusive when I said "hello" and received a blank stare in return. This is not applicable to all athletes, since many have been more than friendly.

We should try to curb this trend immediately, and I think your editorial accomplished its purpose. i.e. to pave the way for a more spirited and closely knit student body.

I don't think any athlete should take offense to that editorial but should realize that it was an earnest effort to snap the students out of their lethargy before it was too late.

—Student.

Dear Editor:

At last the Villanovan has become a paper which expresses the views of the students. Your editorial about the athletes who roam about with their hands in the air and who seem to expect the rest of the student body to bow before them . . . certainly took them down a peg. They're not the only athletes in the school. Some of us are pretty good in our own right, but because of various conditions are unable to participate in varsity athletics.

Having good athletes is something which every school should be proud of, but our athletes should ery to be good sports as well as good at sports. Let's hope the Villanovan will continue in its efforts to make Villanova a better place in which to live and study.

—Student.

SeminaryCard Party Success

Villanovans Make Hit on Initial Appearance at Guild Dance

Tuesday evening, May 7th ushered in the annual Seminary Guild Card Party and Dance. Direction of the affair, in the able hands of Rev. John Coffey, O.S.A., was handled with energetic ease from beginning to end. A short talk by Fr. Coffey on the purposes of the event and in appreciation of the great attention given to the affair started off the evening.

At his request the various games were begun and almost immediately everything was in full swing. Hundreds of people set to, with what amounted to a vengence, on the many games that were offered for their pleasure. Beginner's luck gave to the few a chance to win; but the many who had experience won the greater share. Card games of all sorts were in operation at every table. Roulette wheels spun to the tune of the betters' fancied winnings and the more adventurous tried their luck at Over and Under. This game featured a large pair of dice enclosed in a cylinder attached to a spindle and turned round by a handler. The prizes for the card game winners were attractively-designed table cloths of various colors.

At the conclusion of the games the M. C., Mister Cavery, anounced the start of the drawing for the main prizes of the evening. First prize included a choice among a trip to Bermuda, to Cuba, or a retrigerator, it went to a Mary Littlefield of Philadelphia. She, however, scôrned all the attractive choices and chose the five hundred dollar order in any store in Philadelphia instead. To say the least she was surprised and "did not know what to say and just could not believed it." Second and third prizes went to Marry Heffernen and Mary Bismire respectively, both of the Main Line. These two winners are not present but their awards will be presented to them as soon as possible. The one discordant note of the evening, according to Father Coffey, was that no one from Massachusettes even placed in the final. Better luck next year.

Following the drawings the Villanovans Dance Band supplied the music for the dancing from 11:30 to 1 P. M. This was the first such appearance of the college band since the war began and under the capable management of Joe Bisanti it did a grand job.

Various attractive door prizes were offered to those holding the selected numbers. Seven of these were given and one, a smart-looking handbag, went to our own Betty Reilly. Another prize offered was a gaily colored umbrella adorned with 15 one-dollar bills.

Faculty Comments

Continued From Page Three

all that when the Almighty Father elected to send His Son upon this earth, he chose a woman to bring him forth. And to that woman He has given the top rank among all His creatures. She it is who stands for the best and noblest dreams of mankind. Love, devotion, purity, courage—all the highest virtues we admire are found in her in an eminent degress. Her life has been an inspiration to countless men as well as women, scholars, statesmen, and soldiers, professional men and laborers. The Catholic finds it a joy and a privilege to honor her and for her sake to honor all women.

Another woman who inspires a young man with gallantry towards the fair sex is his own mother. The sacrifices she made for him he can never fully repay. But he can make a good beginning by his well-bred conduct towards the womanhood of which she is an outstanding example. For she is after all another one of a long line of women who have by their selfless devotion done so much to make the world we live in good and worthwhile.

Men and women were never made for competition with each other. They are in every way complementary one to the other. Where man has strength, woman has beauty; where he gives his intellect, she gives her heart; where he is king, she is queen. Let her have the highest place, the place of honor. She will not stand there alone, but in her own firm but gentle way will raise man up to stand ever beside her, so that both may enjoy the happiness for which they were destined.

School Purchases Surplus Property

Engineering Department And Library Benefit By Purchase From W.A.A.

Villanova College last week purchased some surplus property from the War Assets Administration which have benefited both the Engineering School and the College Library. Engineering equipment included motors, machines, and allied material. Books which were purchased concerned sciences of general scope and will soon be on the Library shelves for student and faculty use.

Regularly the War Assets Administration publishes a list of surplus government property which is being offered for sale. From this list colleges and business houses select the items they desire, and then submit their orders. The WAA works on a 'first come, first served" basis, so it is never certain whether all orders will be filled.

Little Cost

The property that is purchased, however, is practically given away from the standpoint of price paid and value received. For example, some of the equipment included in the college's recent purchase was priced between one dollar and three dollars, but was worth anywhere from $400 to $500. Villanova is purchasing a supercharger which will probably be received next week at a cost of $13, and which is valued at more than $2700.

Some of the property received here last week cost the college only the packing and shipping charge. Most of the surplus equipment was received from the Army. Following is a list of the new property which will replace some of the college's older equipment now being used in the Engineering School: Fractional H. P. Motors; Bench Drill Press; Milling Machines, Shaper, and Grinder; Parallel Bars; Tensioning Machine; Special Spinning Motors; Generator; Down Draft Carburetor; Pilot Compass Assembly; Oil Cooler Assembly; Fuel Pressure Gauges; Manifold Pressure Gauge; Oil Pressure Gauges; Section Pressure Gauges; Air Speed Indicator Assembly; Gyro Horizon Indicator Assembly; Bank and Turn Indicator; Directional Gyro Indicator; Rate of Climb Indicator; Remorte Indicating Compass; Oil Thermometers; Inverters—Rotary; Magnetos; Anti-icer Pump; Booster Pump; Engine-driven Hydraulic Pump; Vacuum Pumps, and Electric Tachometer Assemblies. Most of the above equipment is brand new, but the government no longer has need of it.

More To Come

Mr. J. Stanley Morehouse, Dean of Engineering, stated that this was only the beginning. The college is expecting to continue purchasing surplus property from the Government as long as they are selling the material it needs, which may be for the next two years. Mr. Morehouse mentioned that following World War I, Villanova purchased over $30,000 worth of equipment from the Navy, including a Packard and Liberty motor.

Books

Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., Librarian, stated that the College bought three hundred books through WAA covering the Sciences in general scope. They are all practically new and the latest editions, and their subjects cover Chemistry; Engineering, including Mechanical, Electrical and Chemical; Medicine; and Physics. The books are now being made ready for the college library.

"Though this may seem a great deal, in comparison to purchases made by other institutions," said Dean Morehouse, "this is but a drop in the bucket."

Father Daley

Continued From Page One

N. Y., and remained there until he entered the service in 1943.

Stationed At Pearl Harbor

Commissioned a Lieutenant in the Naval Reserve, Father Daley took his indoctrination course at William and Mary College; and was then assigned to the Naval Air Station at Norfolk, Va. In November of 1944, he was sent to Pearl Harbor where he was assigned to Headquarters Squadron of Fleet Air Wing TWO located at Kaneohe, Oahu, T. H. He was promoted to Lt.-Commander Nov. 1, 1945.

Returned to the States in March of this year, Father Daley was separated from the service on March 22. After a short leave, he came to Villanova and began his classes in Spanish.

GoldenNamed Feature Head

Editorial Staff Enlarged by Return of Song Writing War Vet

By WARREN SEXTON

William M. Golden was named Feature Editor of the Villanovan at a recent meeting of the editorial staff. Previous to his appointment he was a columnist and feature writer.

The position of Feature Editor was formerly handled by the Managing Editor and Editor-in-Chief. In his new position, Bill handles the assignment of all features, copy reading and assists in the make-up of the paper.

From Iowa To Connecticut

Bill Golden was born December 18, 1920, in Burlington, Iowa. He went to the North Hill Grammar School in Burlington and later to St. Pauls in the same city. When Bill was 8 years old the family made the first of many moves around the country. Their first stop was Grand Rapids, Michigan where he went to the St. Stevens Grammar School. At twelve Bill was again in Burlington now attending the Oakstreet Junior High School. The next move was to Haddonfield, New Jersey when he was thirteen years old. He went to school in nearby Haddon Heights at the St. Rose Grammar School. A year later the family moved to Moorestown, N. J. where Bill went to Our Lady of Good Counsel and Moorestown High School. William's start in high school was again interrupted with a move to La Grange, Illinois. While in La Grange he went to Lyons Township High School. After a short time in Illinois Bill moved to New York, where he just got started in the Bronxville High School when he made his final move to West Hartford, Conn.

WILLIAM GOLDEN

After graduating from the William H. Hall High School in Hartford, Bill entered the Hartford Art Institute to study commercial art. After one year of this he was advised by his doctor to withdraw because of the strain on his eyes. William then went to the Morse Business College for one year. He then went to work for the Eastern Motor Freight Conference, Inc., as sales and distribution manager. While employed here Bill started a direct mail advertising business on the side. Upon deciding to become a lawyer he leased his business and entered Villanova College.

Worked With Generals

After completing his Freshman year Bill was drafted into the Army. Before entering Army service he sold his advertising business outright. William's Army career began at Ft. Devans, Massachusetts and continued with basic training at Camp Croft, South Carolina. There he was assigned as company clerk and later sent to Camp Blanding, Florida as chief clerk of the officers section. His next transfer was to Washington, D. C. where he worked in the G-3 section of the Army Ground Forces under Generals Donovan, Jenkins and Huebner in the Pentagon.

On January 26, 1946r, Bill was released from the Army after three and one half years of service. He returned to Villanova on March 1 to continue his pre-law studies after vacationing in Miami.

Wrote Poems And Songs

With all these moves about the country Bill found time to write poems and songs which he has been doing since he was fourteen. One song "I Built My Heaven On a Dream" was sent to Hollywood by the Southern Music Publishing Company for a picture. The song

BILL GOLDEN
Continued on Page Seven

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Triple Threat . . .

Frank O'Niell, Henry "Jigger" Donohue, and Bill "D oc" Doherty, who are currently sparking the Wildcats in their baseball endeavors. Donohue is Wei nert's ace hurler, O'Niell, No. 1 receiver and fine hitter and Doherty, along with Litwa, Smith and O'Niell is pacing the hitting attack while holding down a good shortstopping job.

Wildcat Nine to Meet Penn, Bucknell Next

Having First Game Called, Villanova Plays Host to Bisons; Also Meet U. of P.

By JIM McNAMARA

The Wildcat nine will carry a record of six victories and four setbacks to the University of Pennsylvania's River Field tomorrow to start the second half of a heavy schedule. Penn is the second of three power laden Ivy League call upon either of their eighteen teams the Cats face this season.

The Blue and Red will probably year old mound aces, Dave Gurthie or Conrad Mackel to hurl. Both men are righthanders and are plenty good. Mackel won on his last time out, turning back Princeton, 6-3.

Charley Bednarik, 220 pound backstop, will handle the receiving chores. In addition to being an excellent catcher, Chuck packs power at the plate.

The infield from third to first will read: Bob Evans, Tom Upton, Joe DellaMonica and Frank Cooney. This inner defense should prove the tightest the Cats will have to face this season.

Evans is the same sparkplug on the diamond that he was on the gridiron last Fall, when he completed eleven touchdown passes among other great feats. Upton, last year's basketball captain, is considered by the Quaker coach, Horace Hendrickson, as the most skilled fielder on the club.

DellaMonica, the keystone custodian, is the best prospect Penn has had for that position in twenty-five years. First base will be covered by another footballer, Frank Cooney, who will bat in the clean-up spot.

In the outer garden, Penn will field Don Schneider in left, Jim Smith in center, and George Sternad or Larry Barnharst in right.

The Princeton game was won by Schneider, who hit a three run homer, which proved to be the margin of victory. Last year Don batted .364 and led the team in stolen bases.

This is Smith's first year on the squad and, besides covering a lot of territory and having a wonderful throwing arm, little is known of him. Sternad and Barnharst are good fielders, but tend to be weak at the plate.

Penn in her last outing was defeated by Annapolis, 9-5. The Crabtown team also handed the Wildcats one of their first defeats and tomorrow's game will be the acid test of which team "just had a bad day."

By BOB MANSKE

On next Saturday, May 18th, the hard-fighting Villanova baseball team will meet the Bucknell Bisons on the Villanova diamond for the second game of a home and home series, the first game of which was never played. Game time on Saturday is 2:30.

The first game to be played against Bucknell was called on account of inclement weather.

Bucknell, under the leadership of William Lane for the first time, has shown up well under their moderately heavy schedule and has developed into a steady fielding and timely hitting club.

Four Holdovers

As is the case in most colleges, the Bison nine is made up of eighteen veterans on a twenty-three man squad. There are four holdovers from last year's team and these men make Lane's prospect very bright.

The official starting line-up has not been released as yet, but judging from past performances it will probably include last year's captain, Mike McGuire, on first base with Mart Paige, Bill Doebler and Bill Camao rounding out the defense at second, third and short respectively. The outfield is made up of such long ball hitters as Rick Atherly of last year's squad, Frank Walk and Howie Hubbell, who, incidently, claims no relationship to old King Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants.

Hubka Catching

The mound duties will probably fall on the shoulders of Herman Bloom who saw a little service last year and who has since become a mainstay on this year's hurling corps. Directing the Bisons from behind the plate will be team captain Gene Hubka, a veteran receiver with a loud and strong bat.

Coach Phil Weinert will probably use the same line-up that played against Princeton away last week. The boys are rejuvenated and looking for a blazing finish for the last half of their first post-war season.

Fans have every reason to expect a terrific show from the Cats on next Saturday, for they are really bouncing with spirit after setting the Princeton Tigers down 11-0 in an avenging match last Saturday.

Norm Kline, who had a perfect day at the plate in his first game on Saturday will most likely start at third again this Saturday and will ease Coach Phil's worries if he plays like he did last week.

Cat Trackmen Lose Triangular Meet to Middies

John DiCarlo Places in 100-Yd. Dash; Navy Runners Brilliant

In a vain effort in their first meet after the Penn Relay Carnival, Jumbo Elliot and his Wildcat track men took one on the chin down at the Annapolis Triangular Meet on Saturday afternoon.

University of Maryland, Annapolis and Villanova were the three schools competing and from the first event it was Navy all the way. The Middie cindermen were practically unstoppable as they went on to take first in most of the events.

Maryland came in second with twenty-eight points and Villanova by virtue of two third places by Glasscott and DiCarlo could not manage to place any higher than last.

Johnny DiCarlo, who took a National Collegiate championship at the Penn Relays last Saturday, took a third place in the hundred yard dash in which he pressed his opponents on to a good finish.

Jack Glasscott, a Marine trainee at Villanova, gained Villanova's other place by finishing third in the two hundred and twenty meter hurdles.

Both of these men put on a fine show, but were completely out of the running as the Middies continued to go wild.

The only logical explanation for the showing of the Wilcat team was the fact that the long trip to Maryland took all the tone and balance out of their performance.

The University of Maryland managed to scrape the Middies heels with a second place by the fine work turned in by some of their men in the various heats.

Of particular interest was the fact that Dick Ambrogi, who played football for the Tarheels and hails from Upper Darby, was a thorn in the side of the Cats and Maryland all afternoon.

All the members of the squad have turned out for long and hard workouts this week already and are driving themselves to avenge their defeat by pointing eagerly to the next meet.

This meet happens to be another big show, the I-C AAAA met to be run on May 25. Last year, as you will remember, the Cat team really went great guns in that meet and everyone is looking for and expecting a repeat performance this season.

Stan Chojnacki Blanks Tigers With 4-Hitter

Norm Kline Collects Triple, Three Singles for Perfect Debut at Third

By DICK SOMERS

Villanova finally clicked. Backing up Stan Chojnacki's four-hit pitching with an eleven hit attack, the 'Cats triumphed over Princeton 11-0 on the losers field last Saturday afternoon.

Chojnacki held Princeton at bay with his fast ball. His control was good as only one man received free transportation, but he did hit two bats men. Six men went down on strikes.

Norm Kline made an auspicious debut at third base by handling three chances flawlessly and getting a triple and three singles as well as a walk in five trips to the plate, scoring three times and batting in three of his mates. Charlie Comerford had four rbi's with a single and triple. Frank O'Neill also hit one far enough to allow his "extra luggage" to reach third and Bill Doherty had a double.

Kline's triple, a walk to Doherty and his steal of second, followed by Comerford's single to center gave the 'Cats a two run lead in the second. Bob Slocum, starting Tiger pitcher, left the premises after walking the first two men in the third inning. Dave Supplee, his relief, filled the bases with a pass to O'Neill. Kline smashed a single off Fairchild's chest but he recovered in time to trap Casey off third. Comerford followed with his triple to left and scored when Fairchild missed the relay from McDonald.

Singles by Casey and Kline, with O'Neill's three-ply swat, sandwiched in between accounted for two more runs in the fifth. Walks to Litwa and O'Neill and Kline's single sent Slocum to the showers in the sixth. Bob Gallagher, third Tiger hurler, passed Doherty to load the sacks and then committed a balk to send home the second marker of the inning.

Doherty's double sent Kline over with the eleventh run in the eighth inning. Thus ended the scoring as Princeton suffered its ninth loss of the season against five victories.

Villanova

	AB	R	H	PO	A
Smith, lf	5	0	1	0	0
Litwa, cf	3	2	0	3	0
Casey, rf	4	1	1	2	0
O'Neill, c	3	3	1	8	1
Kline, 3b	4	3	4	1	2
Doherty, ss	3	1	1	3	1
Comerford, 1b	5	1	2	9	0
Lord, 2b	4	0	0	1	2
Chojnacki, p	4	0	1	0	3
Totals	35	11	11	27	9

Princeton

	AB	R	H	PO	A
Meeker, 2b	3	0	0	2	2
Bush, cf-lf	3	0	2	4	1
Zundel, c	4	0	0	8	0
Jaeggi, rf-1b	4	0	0	3	0
Franke, lf-rf	4	0	0	1	0
Klinefelter, 1b	2	0	0	5	0
Gray, cf	1	0	0	1	1
Fairchild, 2b	3	0	0	2	3
McDonald, ss	2	0	1	0	2
Skolnick, ss	0	0	0	0	1
Supple, p	2	0	0	1	0
Gallagher, p	1	0	0	0	0
xPeck	1	0	1	0	0
Totals	30	0	4	27	10

Tennis Tourney, Swimming Meet Will Be Held

Plans For Both Events In Final Drafting By Moderators

With the acquisition of trophies and awards from Fred Koch, former director of Intramural Tennis, plans are being formulated for the Tennis Tournament to be held in the near future. Fred, who arranged and directed the first post-war tennis meet here on the Campus, has not forgotten what he started and presented a trophy which will be presented to the winners by the Villanovan.

Under the capable direction of Revs. Joseph W. Kemme, O.S.A., and Dante Girolami, O.S.A., who are at present heading the Intromural Softball Schedule, this meet will became an actuality within a period of two or three weeks.

As plans stand, each individual hall will enter one or two teams and the hall winning, of course, will be awarded the loving cup. The individual winners will be presented with the medals.

Work on the courts has been completed and now a large contingent of tennis loving students daily frequent the courts. New surfaces have been added to the courts and two additional courts have been renovated and put into action.

We will relay to you, through this medium, all the dope as soon as the completed rules and plans are released.

In addition to the already heavy schedule of Intramural Activities, an intramural swimming meet is in the offing. Under the same directors, Fathers Kemme and Girolami, plans for an early swimming meet are being made. The cargo nets, formerly used in Naval swimming classes have been removed and the tentative date for the meet is May 23rd.

All of this information is rather sketchy, as yet, but within a week or two definite information on all of the above will be forthcoming.

When these events take place, it will be the first post-war appearance of swimming in a meet. Tennis, of course, was called back last year. With the advent of an intramural swimming meet, a longing in many hearts has grown for the return of Inter-Collegiate Swimming Teams.

Possibly next semester should bring back to the campus this "out for duration" sport.

All Set . . .

The recently renovated tennis courts. The scene-to-be of the tennis tournament to be held in the near future.

Canning Says:—

It is a known fact that athletics in colleges and universities today is strictly a publicity affair. Sports are no longer played for the pleasure and physical development of the student body but rather for the national fame attributed to the college for its prowess in one of the major sports, football, basketball, track and baseball.

The whole idea seems to be to obtain the best athletes, coaches and publicity agents and then sign the most famous teams in the country so that win or lose the college makes the headlines. The more the school's name appears in print the greater its reputation grows.

This is all well and good but we are of the opinion that colleges could obtain a great deal of additional fame by obtaining outstanding athletes in the minor sports also, such as boxing, golf, tennis and swimming. It has been proven here at Villanova on numerous occasions that minor sports bring national publicity to the campus. One of the most outstanding examples was Villanova's boxing teams of former years. In 1935 Tony Sala won the national intercollegiate boxing crown and successfully defended it in 1936. This feat was highly publicised and widely printed. The team as a whole was excellent but the sport was abandoned in 1938 and has never been revived.

We are in favor of including a boxing team in Villanova's post war plans for minor sports. There are many outstanding boxing stars in high schools today that can be obtained under the same conditions that other campus stars are obtained and not nearly as many would be needed. In a year or so an excellent team could be built up to once again bring the national intercollegiate ring crown to Villanova and quite possibly the Golden Glove Crown, and with these titles as much or more fame and publicity as a major sport.

Whiff . . . ! ,

Bernie Borshke, of the Doms creates quite a breeze as he bites for one of Jack Miller's fast ones. Jim "General" Chenot is the catcher. Fedigan went on to win.

Austin Moves Into 1st Place in Intramurals

O'Neill, Haley and Pezelski Hit Homers as Teams Win

By HANK FESSLER

The Intramural Softball League, swinging into the second week of competition, proved true to all expectations by providing many thrills for the fans who saw the games.

Austin coming through with two victories last week took over the league lead with three wins against one loss. The Doms, by winning one and losing one, dropped into second place followed closely by Alumni.

Monday night Alumni took advantage of the costly errors made by the Doms infield in the early innings and built up a big lead, coasting to an easy 10-6 victory over the Doms. Demitavitch's homer aided "Pete" Steinhoffer gain his first victory of the season.

As Alumni was beating the Doms, Fedigan hung up its second win by downing the Mendelites 11 to 6 in a better game than the score indicates.

On Wednesday night action was resumed after a day's rest and both games were won by high scores. Lou DiGiacomo aided by "Bud" O'Niell's circuit clout with two mates aboard beat Fedigan 10 to 5. The Doms had to come from behind after the Sailors had built up a four run lead in the first inning in order to pull this game out of the fire.

Austin put on their hitting shoes and beat Alumni 17-7 with Joe Pezelski and Frank Haley hitting homers to lead the attack.

A rejuvenated Mendel team took the field on Thursday night and threw a scare into Alumni by holding them to a 3-3 tie for two innings. However, Alumni batsmen got their eye on the ball and put across two runs to win 5-3.

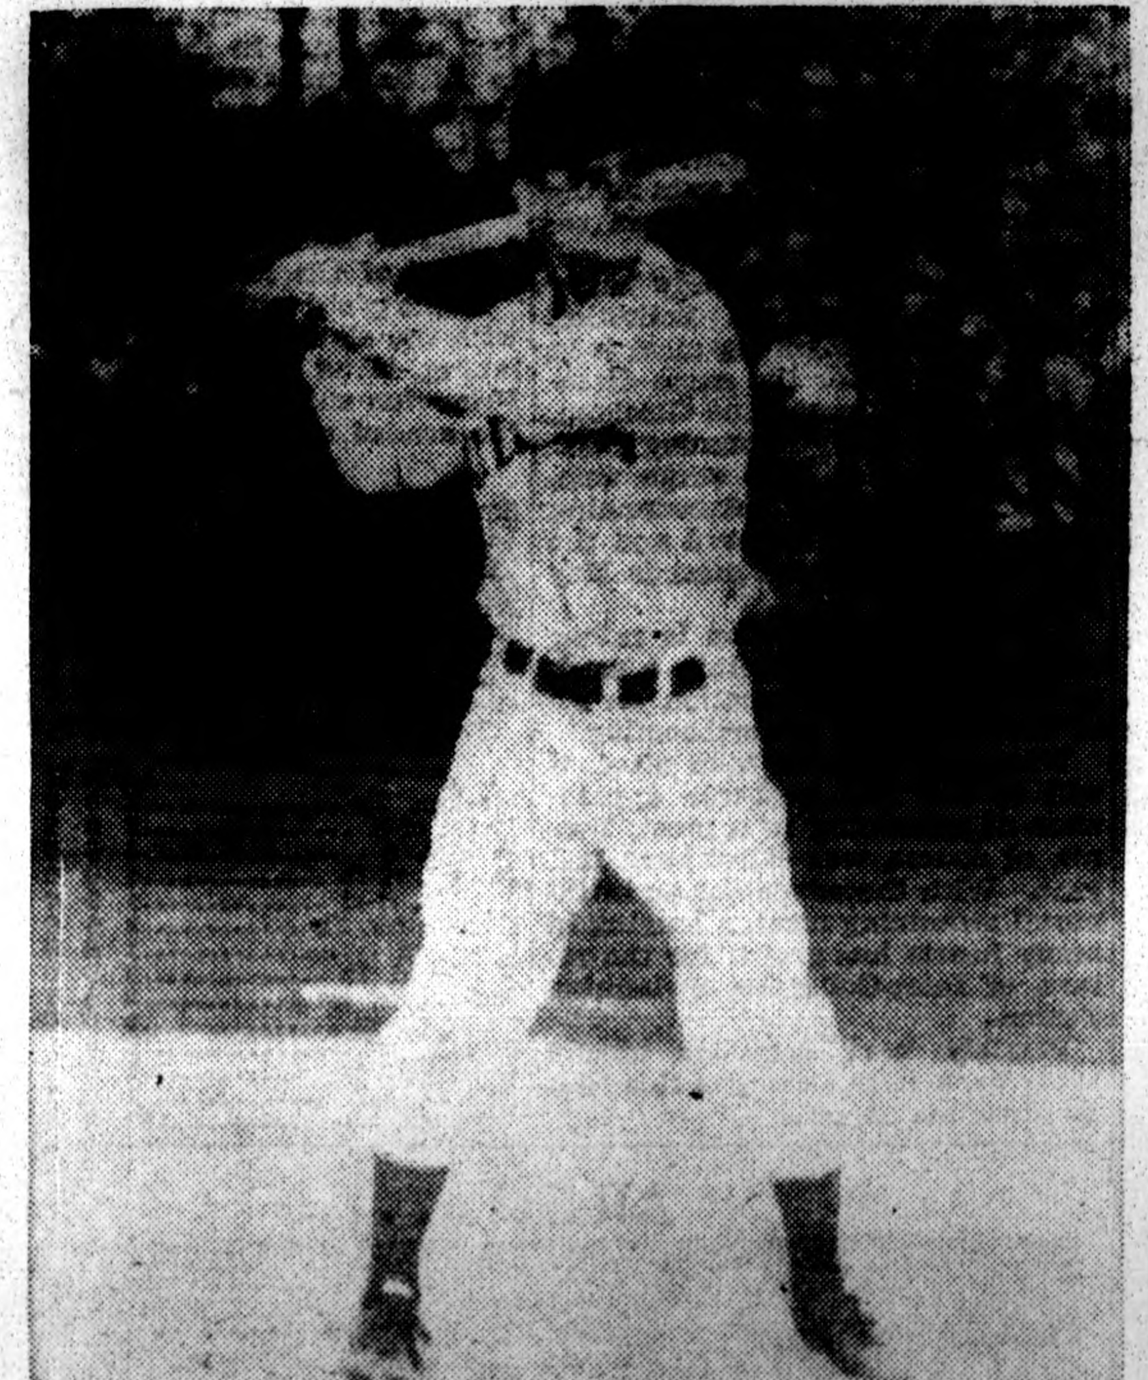
Austin's "Red" Nealon bested the Marines' "Jack" Jackman in a slugfest 13-9. Jackman, trying to hold on to a five run lead which his teammates built up for him, struck a streak of wildness, walking six men coupled with several hits, which enabled Austin to overcome the deficit and go on and win the game.

The Standings

	W	L	T	Pct.
Austin	3	1	0	.750
Doms	2	1	1	.625
Alumni	3	2	0	.600
Fedigan	2	2	0	.500
Marines	1	1	1	.500
Mendel	0	4	0	.000

In The Sportlight

By JIM MUDD



"In the Sportlight" this week we have William Smith. Having returned in April after three years service in Uncle Sam's Army, Bill is again patrolling the outer garden for the Wildcat nine, as well as doubling as a pitcher.

Bill comes to Villanova from nearby Manoa where he was born in 1922. While attending Haverford High School, he captained the baseball and soccer teams and also played basketball. By far his biggest thrill was that no-hitter he pitched back in his Junior year. And just as sensational was his batting average for that year—.640!

During his summer vacations he played for Narberth of the Main Line League and later on for Norristown. Incidentally the Phils and Dodgers thought enough of his playing ability to give him tryouts several years ago.

Matriculating at Villanova in 1941, Bill's efforts on the diamond were rewarded by a position on the varsity squad in his second year.

But March 1943 found him en route to Texas and the Army Medical Corps. Here he played on the Camp Wolter team and later for the Waco Air Force team. After two years in Texas, Smith was transferred to Alaska from which station he was discharged.

Slightly rusty in spots after being away from the game for some time, Bill is rapidly regaining his old form. Presently a Junior in the Commerce and Finance school, he hopes to enter professional baseball as a player or coach after graduation.

Graduate Clubs Plan Activities

Philadelphia Unit Plans Dance; Boston Grads to Publicize New England Trip

The Trenton Club will hold a meeting on Wednesday, May 22. The place of meeting has not yet been decided. The purpose of the meeting is the election of officers.

The Philadelphia Club will hold its informal Spring Dance at the Bala Golf Club on Friday evening, the 17th of May. Tickets may be purchased for $2.50 per couple from the committee members, the Alumni Secretary at the College, or at the door. Dancing will be from nine to one.

The Boston Club has announced that it will give the College baseball team on its New England trip newspaper publicity, and will send cards out to the members requesting their attendance at the game on June 6th. The Club has also announced that they are making arrangements for a Summer or September meeting at which plans will be laid for a mammoth football rally when Villanova clashes with Boston College.

Homecoming Game With Kings Point On Schedule

Two Open Dates Mark Possibility For Eleven Game Card

The initial football game of the 1946 season against King's Point Merchant Marine Academy eleven on September 14th, has been designated as Homecoming Day for all Villanova Alumni.

It is the big day when all the alumni gather to watch their old Alma Mater in action and then renew old college acquaintances. With the opening of the season, in a typically collegiate atmosphere, Villanova will start into one of the toughest schedules ever facing a Wildcat team.

Army and Navy follow each other on successive weekends in away games and then the Cats return to Shibe Park to tangle with Marquette. The nine game schedule runs without a breather as the Blue and White will travel to Worcester, Massachusetts to meet the Crusaders of Holy Cross on the following Sunday, October 20th.

From then on, Georgetown, Boston College, University of Miami and the University of Detroit will test the calibre of our highly touted grid warriors in that order.

One more game might be added to the schedule as already announced.

1946 VILLANOVA FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

September

14—Kings Point M. M. Academy, Villanova, Pa.
21—Army, West Point, New York.
28—Navy, Annapolis, Maryland.

October

4—Marquette, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa., (night).
12—Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass.
20—Georgetown, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa., (Sunday).
26—Boston College, Boston, Mass., (night).

November

1—U. of Miami, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa., (night).
8—U. of Detroit, Detroit, Mich., (night).
16—Open.
23—Open.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Bob David, fullback on the 1944 edition of the Villanova football team, has penned his name to a contract to play Pro Ball in the newly formed All-American Conference. Bob led the Wildcats in their brilliant defeat of Sampson Naval Base during the first half of the '44 season. In the middle of the year, he was transferred and commissioned.

• • •

Bob Wilson, who made a big name for a little fellow in Intramural Sports here under the Navy Program, returned to the campus yesterday. Wils also was with the 1944 football team and saw no mean action while a member of the squad.

• • •

Jack Connell, fast lefthanded pitcher on the varsity baseball squad, is by no means new at the hurling job. Johnny won seven games for Ursinus College last season and, in pitching beautiful ballgames, become the leader of the Collegeville mound corps.

• • •

Joe Lord, second baseman on the Wildcat team, has emphatically broken his early season batting slump. Joe has really moved up in the batting leaders of the team and is currently among the first six leading hitters on the team.

• • •

In last week's issue, the engravers for the Villanova Sports Page made Joe Lord a switch hitter. Our apologies go to Joe for an error that was just one of those things. The picture, through some freak at the engraving plant, made Joe a lefthander and at the same made Princeton catcher, Niell Zundel, a rarity in baseball, a left-handed catcher.

• • •

Jim Yates and Don Barrett, two trainees here, became casualties last week when both fellows sustained injuries in a soccer game during PT period. Barrett suffered a broken wrist, while Yates got away with a cracked rib. Both men, however, returned the following day and, save for bandages, looked none the worse for the experience.

Kearney Says:—

Sadness and regret are the feelings one might experience when viewing the once proud, now humbled Villanova Goodreau Stadium. Thoughts might turn to dreams of great things and memories of noble teams which performed there through the years. But, alas, now in quiet, decadent rest lies the once great stadium. Maybe someday we will see this edifice rise out of its pathetic condition of today and once again become the "home field" of Wildcat teams of the future.

At present the practically unused stadium will hold in the neighborhood of 10,000 people. (This is a rough guess, as no statistics are immediately available.) If alterations could be made to complete the stands around into a horseshoe affair, opening only toward where the present scoreboard stands, a crowd of approximately 20,000 or 25,000 could be accomodated.

The playing field, with a fair amount of work, would rate high in comparison with other colleges. As it is now, save for grass, it is in comparatively fine condition. I believe almost every student here will agree that it would be a grand sensation to attend football games played here at Villanova on our own home field.

If you will allow your imagination to conjure further on this dream that could come true, you would see many things. First, a home football stadium with rich green grass and fairly good facilities. Second, a swell cinder track for track teams of the future. Third, and finally, an ideal set-up for field events in track competition. The "bowl" could also be used for rallies, mass meetings and many other affairs which would call for such space.

It would be ideal, if such a project could be executed, to name the "bowl" in memory of all the Villanovan athletes, as well as the former students, who gave their lives for their country during World War II. It's a good idea and, I hope that I can see the day when our dreams come into their wonderful reality.

—V—

During these past few weeks, I have had the opportunity to speak, to a few of the football players and discuss many things with them. Among their chief hopes was the possibility of having the field in the rear of the Field House smoothed. Reasonable examination would prove to the casual observer that the surface of this playing field is unduly rough and pocketed with several nasty holes. The team seems to think that these irregularities are the cause of many a twisted ankle plus other injuries.

This plot, too, could serve doubly. It would make a fine "second practice field" for the football players. By the same token, it might serve as another softball field for the students who take to that sport as off time diversion. So how about it, authorities concerned. Not that we want to appear as discontented and ungrateful receivers of the fine work in repairs and alterations being conducted at the present time on the campus, but these "small" items are justly important.

—V—

Enough can't be said about the generosity of Fred Koch, former Managing Editor of the Villanovan who donated the trophy and medals to be awarded in the Intramural Tennis Meet to be held soon on the campus. Fred has placed his name in our annals as the originator and director of the first Post-War Tennis Tournament here. I had the pleasure of working with Fred on that activity and you can be safely assured that his long hours of hard work did not go unrewarded. Congratulations, Fred, and the thing that you started has not been forgotten.

—V—

Another item which comes to our attention is the fact that through the Springtime the Navy boys in the fourth period and the sixth period PT classes have been really working on soccer teams. The boys from the fourth period have challenged the sixth period class.

There would be nothing that would please us more than to see these two teams meet at a prearranged time. Both classes claim to have stellar soccer players and such a game would end all contention on the feuding subject.

SNAKE PIT . . . Reviewed

JOSEPH R. SWEENEY

Back in the Victorian Age, Charles Dickens, incensed by the conditions he found in state institutions in England, wrote novels vividly exposing the existing scandals. Since his time his influence has been widespread. Especially here in America do we find, for the most part, model prisons, orphanages and the like.

Apparently, however, one type of state institution is almost no better than it was in the days when Dickens colorfully described the conditions he found there. Here Dickens' influence stopped for he ran up against a solid wall formed by centuries of popular prejudice against the insane.

Last week Life showed its picture-conscious subscribers a series of almost unbelieveable phohographs of what life is like in the state insane asylums in the United States. Coupled with the condensation of The Snake Pit in The Reader's Digest and numerous newspaper articles, a nation-wide campaign seems to be taking shape to shock the people into awareness of the scandalously incompetent system the state maintains for the care of the insane. This campaign is long overdue.

The fastest climbing book on the best seller lists at the moment is The Snake Pit, Mary Jane Ward's novel of an insane girl, which she wrote from actual experience. At first I was lead to believe that this was merely another writer's attempt to cash in on the interest currently shown for psychopathic characters.

But this is no ordinary novel. It is a sincere and extremely successful attempt on Mary Jane Ward's part to make her readers understand and sympathize with the insane.

Her heroine, Virginia Stuart Cunningham, was an inmate of Juniper Hill, a typical institution for the insane. It is her story which is told and from her point of view, that is, it is a series of recollections as Virginia tries to fit together the broken pieces of her life, hampered always by her affliction.

Virginia was ill for almost a year and during most of it she suffered an amnesia concerning her illness, but many times she was aware of the present and her life before her illness.

First came the elaborate escape mechanisms which her mind set up to avoid the reality of her insanity. When these failed and disappeared and reality was not to be denied, she was crushed with shame and fear. Though her mind passed fragments of conversation she had heard in her former life concerning various cases of insanity she had known. She was forced to realize that people were now whispering like stories about her. Memories of her friends and her husband, her ambitions as a novelist, and all of her former life haunted her.

The present was even more horrifying. She was an educated woman of superior abilities and her illness had reduced her to the level of a child. She could not even recognize from day to day the patients she was in intimate contact with, much less remember the plans of the building she lived in. Her days were spent pushing a heavy polisher up and down the wards and corridors. At other times she mopped the floors and was chastised for confusing the wet and dry mops. Later in the sorting rooms, counting up to ten was a mental task beyond her powers of concentration. And yet she was aware that she had published two novels and had belonged to an intellectual literary set before her illness.

There were days when she was told not to join the line for breakfast and she was led off to receive electric shock therapy. Nightly she was forced to drink paraldehyde, as were most of the inmates. A relapse sent her through the horrors of hydrotherapy.

Finally she was discharged, not yet a well woman, but she considered herself fortunate, for her recovery had been accomplished largely through the efforts of her husband and the help of a sympathetic doctor.

While at Juniper Hill, Virginia was completely denied any sense of prison privacy. Normally a fastidious woman, she was forced to wear dirty clothes, deprived even of simple niceties like a handkerchief. Her food was inadequate and improperly prepared. During her rest periods she slept curled up on the floor for there was nothing else to do. Her sole relaxation were the visits her husband was permitted to pay her. The nurses and attendants were largely incompetent and always overworked.

This novel is admirably written. The prose is tense and is perfectly keyed to the theme of the story. Many an otherwise excellent novel has been spoiled because the author kept his style of writing a thing apart from the story. The effect is like hearing good music, expertly played on a hopelessly out of tune piano.

Mary Jane Ward deserves fully the success her novel has achieved for her. Perhaps now we will move to clean up our dated and brutal system for the care of the insane, and put their treatment and care on a par with that given to our other institutional inmates.

Bill Golden

Continued From Page Four

wasn't used because it was a post-war song and the picture was a war-time musical. Last August another son, "What Makes Me Want To Say No," was sent to Paramount but the picture was cancelled due to the end of the war. Elliot Lawrence now has this number. Another tune "Fighting Men of Infantry" was written for the Army Ground Forces while Bill was in the service.

"Mom's Battle" which was printed in the Villanovan last week was written by Bill after the Battle of the Bulge when his brother's outfit, the 106th Division, was wiped out, and he was taken prisoner. It was published and syndicated in newspapers throughout the country.

Junior Prom Sales Increase

Continued From Page One

directly before the date of the dance, May 24, Fallon reported.

McPeak Appointed

The Decorations Committee was substantially strengthened last week when Vincent McPeak was appointed as co-chairman. McPeak will work in conjunction with Joe Brogan.

The general motif of the decorations has not as yet been definately decided upon and the co-chairmen are open for suggestions. A request has been issued for a few more volunteers to help assemble the decorations on the day before and the date of the Prom.

George Auld and his orchestra, who have been invited to supply the Prom music, will feature Lynn Stevens as vocalist. Auld's own solo tenor sax renditions will also play an important part in the evening's musical entertainment.

Played For Artie Shaw

Auld starred with the late Bunny Berigan for two years, then joined Artie Shaw just as the latter began his rise to fame at New York's Lincoln Hotel. As the Shaw band grew in prominence, Auld's tenor sax solos became more outstanding. When Shaw left for Mexico, the boys in the band turned to Auld, and under his leadership the group toured the country as a cooperative band.

He later joined Benny Goodman and his orchestra and was featured with them for a full year. Goodman, in commenting on Auld's masterly technique, said, "George never has a bad night. In my opinion, he's one of the finest young musicians in the country."

The maestro of the Junior Prom made many tenor solo recordings with the Shaw and Goodman orchestras and these have become famous with musicians and public alike throughout the country.

In polls conducted by Downbeat, Metronome and Orchestra World, all musical publications, Auld has always been among the top ranking stars.

Played In Academy

His last personal appearance in the Philadelphia area was at the Swing Festival in the Academy of Music. On various other occasions he has played on the Earle Theatre stage in Philadelphia and on the Steel Pier, in Atlantic City.

In forming his new band, Auld has rounded up a brilliant young aggregation of musicians. Led by the experienced George Auld, this band pomises to become one of the great musical units of the country. At present it is rated among the first of the up-and-coming bands.

Meet The Boys: Doctor Airman Businessman

By CHARLES McCARTHY

Two "Swabbies" and one Civilian—that is the schedule for this week's column with three of Villanova's outstanding seniors as the subject.

One William George Halm, United States Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps Trainee, who was born in Saganaw, Michigan, in 1923 is the first man to step into the spotlight. Bill is the tall blond-headed ruggedly built ROTC boy who can be seen taking off for Bryn Mawr College just about every night in the week. Upon questioning in regard to these trips to the local college it was found that knowledge is not the object of the mission. On the contrary there is another objective. As a matter of fact there are two of them—one Jean, by name, and the other is known as "project Ann."

WILLIAM HALM

W.G.H. is on his last leg as a trainee here now, but his time at Villanova is not through as far as he is concerned, for upon graduation from the ROTC program Bill hopes to go on inactive duty and return to Villanova as a pre-med student. Following completion of that course he hopes to go back to Michigan and study to be a doctor at Michigan.

Bill Halm is a happy sort of fellow and has led a happy sort of life. While attending St. Peter and Paul high school back in Michigan he took life easy and made a fine name for himself. He practically ran the school. That was a hard thing to find out though for he is a very modest man. Anyway while at high school Bill was a member of the Dramatics and Arts Society, sports editor of the "Sentinel," the student weekly publication, and was delegate for Northeastern Michigan to the SSS convention. What the SSS stands for we can't understand, but it was an enormous honor. To top off all of his other outstanding achievements, he won a medal for attending every class in his freshman year.

Once out of high school he was off to college, there in Michigan. He stayed in school from 1941 to 1943 when it was off to Great Lakes Naval Training Station. After boot training he attended a hospital school and finally was shipped to a Naval Hospital where he was an elevator boy and a typist. With his outstanding work in these fields growing his commanding officer decided to send him off to V-12. Thus to school once more.

This time Bill went to the V-12 unit at Villanova where he stayed till now. Bill asked for Villanova because he read in a listing of colleges that our school was co-ed. It came as a big surprise to him to find that it is not.

"Valiant Saint Michael, be my guide
As through the clouds I swiftly glide.
My silver wings keep firm and strong;
Make sure my motor's droning song.
Keep through the star-lit paths of night
Smooth as an angel's wing my flight.
Perils of air, of sea, of land,
Help me, Saint Michael, to withstand.
Grant me a safe, swift flight, and then
A happy landing home. Amen."

Such should be the plea of Bernard Poppert who is now a senior in Mechanical Engineering here at Villanova. Bernard, who served with the Navy Air Corps, plans to return to the air upon graduation this June. He also hopes to find a job with one of the leading light-plane manufacturers.

BERNARD POPPERT

Bernard was born in Philadelphia on April 2, 1926. After the usual pre-high school education at the neighborhood parochial school, he was off to St. Tommy's where he studied in a college prep science course. While at high school he partook of the normal activities and fostered a special ambition in the field of aeronautics.

In February of 1943 Bernard started at Villanova as a civilian. Then in March of 1944 he entered the Navy V-5 program and remained at Villanova until March of 1945 when he went to Pre-flight. While here under the Navy he played in the V-12 band and was a member of the ASME.

In June, Bernard will leave Villanova once more, this time for good. He hopes that he will be able to fly this summer under the G.I. Bill, and then in the fall find employment with one of the nation's leading light plane companies. As yet he has not made any definite contracts, but both Piper and Taylor look good to him.

Last man this week is another member of the Reserve Officers Training Corps. He is George Farrell of Woodbury, N. J. George was born over in Jersey on July 10, 1926. He attended elementary school in Haddonfield and then went on to Haddonfield High School where he was sports editor of the school paper.

GEORGE FARRELL

He graduated from Haddonfield High in June of 1943 and went on to Rutgers College where he studied Business Administration until March of 1944 when he switched from civilian life to navy life. He was put into the V-12 program and sent to Villanova where he has been ever since. George will graduate from the Navy unit here in June with a Naval Science certificate behind him. He will receive his reserve commission and go on active duty. He hopes that this will take him to the Navy Supply School for six months and then a year of sea duty.

Upon completion of his tour of duty with the Navy George plans to return to Rutgers and finish up his course in Business Administration.

While at Villanova George has been active about the campus in many of the doings of the school, but his favorite pastime is the intramural softball league in which he is a vigorous participant.

"I'll bring the Coke"
Serve Coca-Cola at home

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

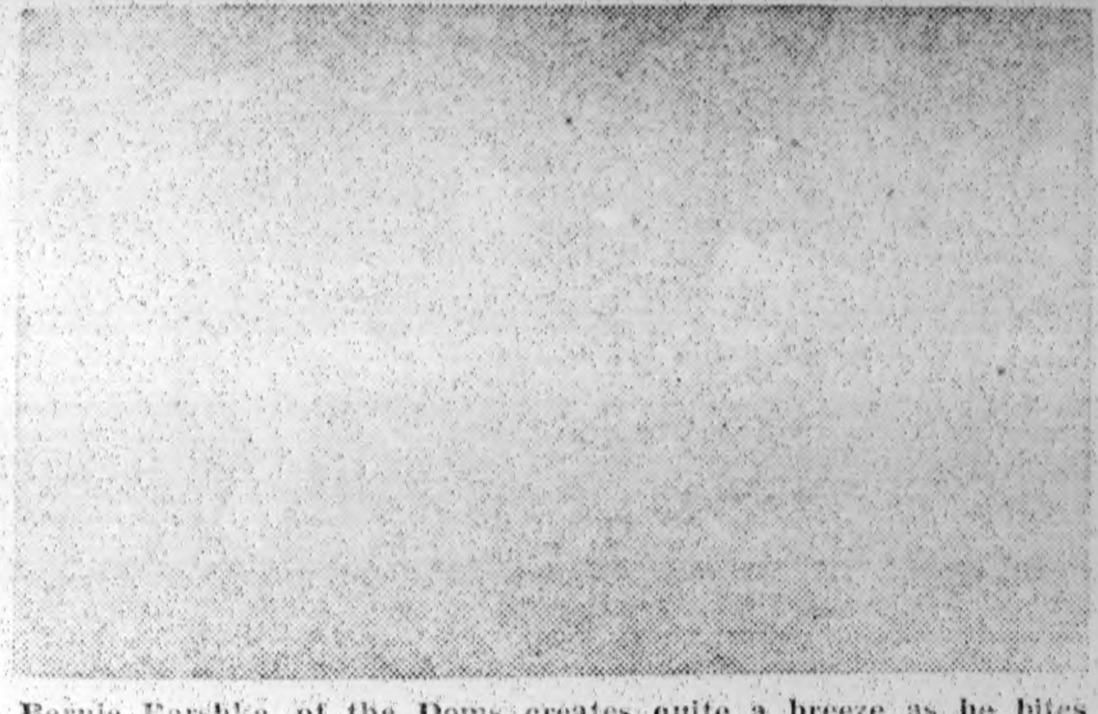
Canning Says:—

[illegible] The whole idea seems to be to obtain the best athletes, coaches and publicity agents and then sign the most famous teams in the country so that win or lose the college makes the headlines. The more the school's name appears in print the greater its reputation grows.

This is all well and good but we are of the opinion that colleges could obtain a great deal of additional fame by obtaining outstanding athletes in the minor sports also, such as boxing, golf, tennis and swimming. It has been proven here at Villanova on numerous occasions that minor sports bring national publicity to the campus. One of the most outstanding examples was Villanova's boxing teams of former years. In 1935 Tony Sala won the national intercollegiate boxing crown and successfully defended it in 1936. This feat was highly publicised and widely printed. The team as a whole was excellent but the sport was abandoned in 1938 and has never been revived.

We are in favor of including a boxing team in Villanova's post war plans for minor sports. There are many outstanding boxing stars in high schools today that can be obtained under the same conditions that other campus stars are obtained and not nearly as many would be needed. In a year or so an excellent team could be built up to once again bring the national intercollegiate ring crown to Villanova and quite possibly the Golden Glove Crown, and with these titles as much or more fame and publicity as a major sport.

Whiff . . . !



Bernie Borshke, of the Doms creates quite a breeze as he bites for one of Jack Miller's fast ones. Jim "General" Chenot is the catcher. Fedigan went on to win.

Austin Moves Into 1st Place in Intramurals

O'Neill, Haley and Pezelski Hit Homers as Teams Win

By HANK FESSLER

The Intramural Softball League, swinging into the second week of competition, proved true to all expectations by providing many thrills for the fans who saw the games.

Austin coming through with two victories last week took over the league lead with three wins against one loss. The Doms, by winning one and losing one, dropped into second place followed closely by Alumni.

Monday night Alumni took advantage of the costly errors made by the Doms infield in the early innings and built up a big lead, coasting to an easy 10-6 victory over the Doms. Demitavitch's homer aided "Pete" Steinhoffer gain his first victory of the season.

As Alumni was beating the Doms, Fedigan hung up its second win by downing the Mendelites 11 to 6 in a better game than the score indicates.

On Wednesday night action was resumed after a day's rest and both games were won by high scores. Lou DiGiacomo aided by "Bud" O'Niell's circuit clout with two mates aboard beat Fedigan 10 to 5. The Doms had to come from behind after the Sailors had built up a four run lead in the first inning in order to pull this game out of the fire.

Austin put on their hitting shoes and beat Alumni 17-7 with Joe Pezelski and Frank Haley hitting homers to lead the attack.

A rejuvenated Mendel team took the field on Thursday night and threw a scare into Alumni by holding them to a 3-3 tie for two innings. However, Alumni batsmen got their eye on the ball and put across two runs to win 5-3.

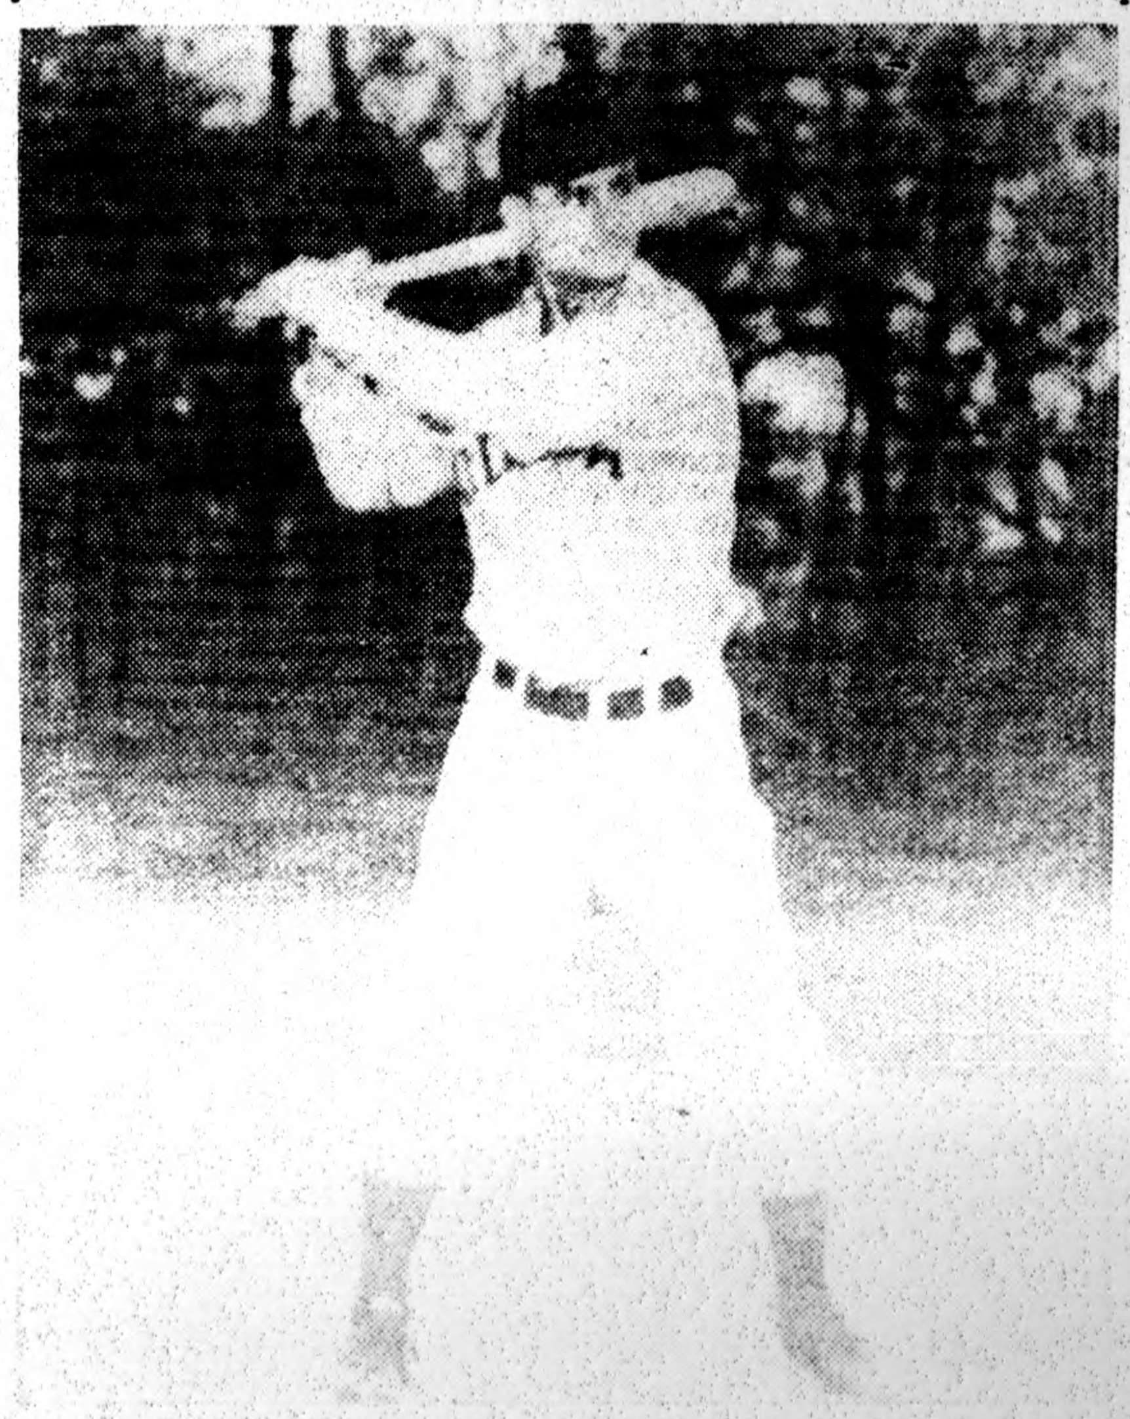
Austin's "Red" Nealon bested the Marines' "Jack" Jackman in a slugfest 13-9. Jackman, trying to hold on to a five run lead which his teammates built up for him, struck a streak of wildness, walking six men coupled with several hits, which enabled Austin to overcome the deficit and go on and win the game.

The Standings

	W	L	T	Pct.
Austin	3	1	0	.750
Doms	2	1	1	.625
Alumni	3	2	0	.600
Fedigan	2	2	0	.500
Marines	1	1	1	.500
Mendel	0	4	0	.000

In The Sportlight

By JIM MUDD



"In the Sportlight" this week we have William Smith. Having returned in April after three years service in Uncle Sam's Army, Bill is again patrolling the outer garden for the Wildcat nine as well as doubling as a pitcher.

Bill comes to Villanova from nearby Manoa where he was born in 1922. While attending Haverford High School, he captained the baseball and soccer teams and also played basketball. By far his biggest thrill was that no-hitter he pitched back in his Junior year. And just as sensational was his batting average for that year .640!

During his summer vacations he played for Narberth of the Main Line League and later on for Norristown. Incidentally the Phils and Dodgers thought enough of his playing ability to give him tryouts several years ago.

Matriculating at Villanova in 1941, Bill's efforts on the diamond were rewarded by a position on the varsity squad in his second year.

But March 1943 found him en route to Texas and the Army Medical Corps. Here he played on the Camp Wolter team and later for the Waco Air Force team. After two years in Texas, Smith was transferred to Alaska from which station he was discharged.

Slightly rusty in spots after being away from the game for some time, Bill is rapidly regaining his old form. Presently a Junior in the Commerce and Finance school, he hopes to enter professional baseball as a player or coach after graduation.

Graduate Clubs Plan Activities

Philadelphia Unit Plans Dance; Boston Grads to Publicize New England Trip

The Trenton Club will hold a meeting on Wednesday, May 22. The place of meeting has not yet been decided. The purpose of the meeting is the election of officers.

The Philadelphia Club will hold its informal Spring Dance at the Bala Golf Club on Friday evening, the 17th of May. Tickets may be purchased for $2.50 per couple from the committee members, the Alumni Secretary at the College, or at the door. Dancing will be from nine to one.

The Boston Club has announced that it will give the College baseball team on its New England trip newspaper publicity, and will send cards out to the members requesting their attendance at the game on June 6th. The Club has also announced that they are making arrangements for a Summer or September meeting at which plans will be laid for a mammoth football rally when Villanova clashes with Boston College.

Homecoming Game With Kings Point On Schedule

Two Open Dates Mark Possibility For Eleven Game Card

The initial football game of the 1946 season against King's Point Merchant Marine Academy eleven on September 14th, has been designated as Homecoming Day for all Villanova Alumni.

It is the big day when all the alumni gather to watch their old Alma Mater in action and then renew old college acquaintances. With the opening of the season, in a typically collegiate atmosphere, Villanova will start into one of the toughest schedules ever facing a Wildcat team.

Army and Navy follow each other on successive weekends in away games and then the Cats return to Shibe Park to tangle with Marquette. The nine game schedule runs without a breather as the Blue and White will travel to Worcester, Massachusetts to meet the Crusaders of Holy Cross on the following Sunday, October 20th.

From then on, Georgetown, Boston College, University of Miami and the University of Detroit will test the calibre of our highly touted grid warriors in that order.

One more game might be added to the schedule as already announced.

1946 VILLANOVA FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

September

14—Kings Point M. M. Academy, Villanova, Pa.
21—Army, West Point, New York.
28—Navy, Annapolis, Maryland.

October

4—Marquette, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa., (night).
12—Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass.
20—Georgetown, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa., (Sunday).
26—Boston College, Boston, Mass., (night).

November

1—U. of Miami, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa., (night).
8—U. of Detroit, Detroit, Mich., (night).
16—Open.
23—Open.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Bob David, fullback on the 1944 edition of the Villanova football team, has penned his name to a contract to play Pro Ball in the newly formed All-American Conference. Bob led the Wildcats in their brilliant defeat of Sampson Naval Base during the first half of the '44 season. In the middle of the year, he was transferred and commissioned.

* * *

Bob Wilson, who made a big name for a little fellow in Intramural Sports here under the Navy Program, returned to the campus yesterday. Wils also was with the 1944 football team and saw no mean action while a member of the squad.

* * *

Jack Connell, fast lefthanded pitcher on the varsity baseball squad, is by no means new at the hurling job. Johnny won seven games for Ursinus College last season and, in pitching beautiful ballgames, became the leader of the Collegeville mound corps.

* * *

Joe Lord, second baseman on the Wildcat team, has emphatically broken his early season batting slump. Joe has really moved up in the batting leaders of the team and is currently among the first six leading hitters on the team.

* * *

In last week's issue, the engravers for the Villanova Sports Page made Joe Lord a switch hitter. Our apologies go to Joe for an error that was just one of those things. The picture, through some freak at the engraving plant, made Joe a lefthander and at the same made Princeton catcher, Niell Zundel, a rarity in baseball, a left-handed catcher.

* * *

Jim Yates and Don Barrett, two trainees here, became casualties last week when both fellows sustained injuries in a soccer game during PT period. Barrett suffered a broken wrist, while Yates got away with a cracked rib. Both men, however, returned the following day and, save for bandages, looked none the worse for the experience.

Kearney Says:—

Sadness and regret are the feelings one might experience when viewing the once proud, now humbled Villanova [illegible] Stadium. Thoughts might turn to dreams of great [illegible] and memories of noble teams which performed there through the years. But, alas, now in quiet, decadent rest lies the once great stadium. Maybe someday we will see this edifice rise out of its pathetic condition of today and once again become the "home field" of Wildcat teams of the future.

At present the practically unused stadium will hold in the neighborhood of 10,000 people. (This is a rough guess, as no statistics are immediately available.) If alterations could be made to complete the stands around into a horseshoe affair, opening only toward where the present scoreboard stands, a crowd of approximately 20,000 or 25,000 could be accomodated.

The playing field, with a fair amount of work, would rate high in comparison with other colleges. As it is now, save for grass, it is in comparatively fine condition. I believe almost every student here will agree that it would be a grand sensation to attend football games played here at Villanova on our own home field.

If you will allow your imagination to conjure further on this dream that could come true, you would see many things. First, a home football stadium with rich green grass and fairly good facilities. Second, a swell cinder track for track teams of the future. Third, and finally, an ideal set-up for field events in track competition. The "bowl" could also be used for rallies, mass meetings and many other affairs which would call for such space.

It would be ideal, if such a project could be executed, to name the "bowl" in memory of all the Villanovan athletes, as well as the former students, who gave their lives for their country during World War II. It's a good idea and, I hope that I can see the day when our dreams come into their wonderful reality.

—V—

During these past few weeks, I have had the opportunity to speak to a few of the football players and discuss many things with them. Among their chief hopes was the possibility of having the field in the rear of the Field House smoothed. Reasonable examination would prove to the casual observer that the surface of this playing field is unduly rough and pocketed with several nasty holes. The team seems to think that these irregularities are the cause of many a twisted ankle plus other injuries.

This plot, too, could serve doubly. It would make a fine "second practice field" for the football players. By the same token, it might serve as another softball field for the students who take to that sport as off time diversion. So how about it, authorities concerned. Not that we want to appear as discontented and ungrateful receivers of the fine work in repairs and alterations being conducted at the present time on the campus, but these "small" items are justly important.

—V—

Enough can't be said about the generosity of Fred Koch, former Managing Editor of the Villanovan who donated the trophy and medals to be awarded in the Intramural Tennis Meet to be held soon on the campus. Fred has placed his name in our annals as the originator and director of the first Post-War Tennis Tournament here. I had the pleasure of working with Fred on that activity and you can be safely assured that his long hours of hard work did not go unrewarded. Congratulations, Fred, and the thing that you started has not been forgotten.

—V—

Another item which comes to our attention is the fact that through the Springtime the Navy boys in the fourth period and the sixth period PT classes have been really working on soccer teams. The boys from the fourth period have challenged the sixth period class.

There would be nothing that would please us more than to see these two teams meet at a prearranged time. Both classes claim to have stellar soccer players and such a game would end all contention on the feuding subject.

SNAKE PIT . . . Reviewed

JOSEPH R. SWEENEY

Back in the Victorian Age, Charles Dickens, incensed by the conditions he found in state institutions in England, wrote novels vividly exposing the existing scandals. Since his time his influence has been widespread. Especially here in America do we find, for the most part, model prisons, orphanages and the like.

Apparently, however, one type of state institution is almost no better than it was in the days when Dickens colorfully described the conditions he found there. Here Dickens' influence stopped for he ran up against a solid wall formed by centuries of popular prejudice against the insane.

Last week Life showed its picture-conscious subscribers a series of almost unbelieveable phohographs of what life is like in the state insane asylums in the United States. Coupled with the condensation of The Snake Pit in The Reader's Digest and numerous newspaper articles, a nation-wide campaign seems to be taking shape to shock the people into awareness of the scandalously incompetent system the state maintains for the care of the insane. This campaign is long overdue.

The fastest climbing book on the best seller lists at the moment is The Snake Pit, Mary Jane Ward's novel of an insane girl, which she wrote from actual experience. At first I was lead to believe that this was merely another writer's attempt to cash in on the interest currently shown for psychopathic characters.

But this is no ordinary novel. It is a sincere and extremely successful attempt on Mary Jane Ward's part to make her readers understand and sympathize with the insane.

Her heroine, Virginia Stuart Cunningham, was an inmate of Juniper Hill, a typical institution for the insane. It is her story which is told and from her point of view, that is, it is a series of recollections as Virginia tries to fit together the broken pieces of her life, hampered always by her affliction.

Virginia was ill for almost a year and during most of it she suffered an amnesia concerning her illness, but many times she was aware of the present and her life before her illness.

First came the elaborate escape mechanisms which her mind set up to avoid the reality of her insanity. When these failed and disappeared and reality was not to be denied, she was crushed with shame and fear. Though her mind passed fragments of conversation she had heard in her former life concerning various cases of insanity she had known. She was forced to realize that people were now whispering like stories about her. Memories of her friends and her husband, her ambitions as a novelist, and all of her former life haunted her.

The present was even more horrifying. She was an educated woman of superior abilities and her illness had reduced her to the level of a child. She could not even recognize from day to day the patients she was in intimate contact with, much less remember the plans of the building she lived in. Her days were spent pushing a heavy polisher up and down the wards and corridors. At other times she mopped the floors and was chastised for confusing the wet and dry mops. Later in the sorting rooms, counting up to ten was a mental task beyond her powers of concentration. And yet she was aware that she had published two novels and had belonged to an intellectual literary set before her illness.

There were days when she was told not to join the line for breakfast and she was led off to receive electric shock therapy. Nightly she was forced to drink paraldehyde, as were most of the inmates. A relapse sent her through the horrors of hydrotherapy.

Finally she was discharged, not yet a well woman, but she considered herself fortunate, for her recovery had been accomplished largely through the efforts of her husband and the help of a sympathetic doctor.

While at Juniper Hill, Virginia was completely denied any sense of prison privacy. Normally a fastidious woman, she was forced to wear dirty clothes, deprived even of simple niceties like a handkerchief. Her food was inadequate and improperly prepared. During her rest periods she slept curled up on the floor for there was nothing else to do. Her sole relaxation were the visits her husband was permitted to pay her. The nurses and attendants were largely incompetent and always overworked.

This novel is admirably written. The prose is tense and is perfectly keyed to the theme of the story. Many an otherwise excellent novel has been spoiled because the author kept his style of writing a thing apart from the story. The effect is like hearing good music, expertly played on a hopelessly out of tune piano.

Mary Jane Ward deserves fully the success her novel has achieved for her. Perhaps now we will move to clean up our dated and brutal system for the care of the insane, and put their treatment and care on a par with that given to our other institutional inmates.

Bill Golden

Continued From Page Four

wasn't used because it was a post-war song and the picture was a war-time musical. Last August another son, "What Makes Me Want To Say No," was sent to Paramount but the picture was cancelled due to the end of the war. Elliot Lawrence now has this number. Another tune "Fighting Men of Infantry" was written for the Army Ground Forces while Bill was in the service.

"Mom's Battle" which was printed in the Villanovan last week was written by Bill after the Battle of the Bulge when his brother's outfit, the 106th Division, was wiped out, and he was taken prisoner. It was published and syndicated in newspapers throughout the country.

Junior Prom Sales Increase

Continued From Page One

directly before the date of the dance, May 24, Fallon reported.

McPeak Appointed

The Decorations Committee was substantially strengthened last week when Vincent McPeak was appointed as co-chairman. McPeak will work in conjunction with Joe Brogan.

The general motif of the decorations has not as yet been definately decided upon and the co-chairmen are open for suggestions. A request has been issued for a few more volunteers to help assemble the decorations on the day before and the date of the Prom.

George Auld and his orchestra, who have been invited to supply the Prom music, will feature Lynn Stevens as vocalist. Auld's own solo tenor sax renditions will also play an important part in the evening's musical entertainment.

Played For Artie Shaw

Auld starred with the late Bunny Berigan for two years, then joined Artie Shaw just as the latter began his rise to fame at New York's Lincoln Hotel. As the Shaw band grew in prominence, Auld's tenor sax solos became more outstanding. When Shaw left for Mexico, the boys in the band turned to Auld, and under his leadership the group toured the country as a cooperative band.

He later joined Benny Goodman and his orchestra and was featured with them for a full year. Goodman, in commenting on Auld's masterly technique, said, "George never has a bad night. In my opinion, he's one of the finest young musicians in the country."

The maestro of the Junior Prom made many tenor solo recordings with the Shaw and Goodman orchestras and these have become famous with musicians and public alike throughout the country.

In polls conducted by Downbeat, Metronome and Orchestra World, all musical publications, Auld has always been among the top ranking stars.

Played In Academy

His last personal appearance in the Philadelphia area was at the Swing Festival in the Academy of Music. On various other occasions he has played on the Earle Theatre stage in Philadelphia and on the Steel Pier, in Atlantic City.

In forming his new band, Auld has rounded up a brilliant young aggregation of musicians. Led by the experienced George Auld, this band pomises to become one of the great musical units of the country. At present it is rated among the first of the up-and-coming bands.

Meet The Boys: Doctor Airman Businessman

By CHARLES McCARTHY

Two "Swabbies" and one Civilian—that is the schedule for this week's column with three of Villanova's outstanding seniors as the subject.

One William George Halm, United States Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps Trainee, who was born in Saganaw, Michigan, in 1923 is the first man to step into the spotlight. Bill is the tall blond-headed ruggedly built ROTC boy who can be seen taking off for Bryn Mawr College just about every night in the week. Upon questioning in regard to these trips to the local college it was found that knowledge is not the object of the mission. On the contrary there is another objective. As a matter of fact there are two of them one Jean, by name, and the other is known as "project Ann."

WILLIAM HALM

W.G.H. is on his last leg as a trainee here now, but his time at Villanova is not through as far as he is concerned, for upon graduation from the ROTC program Bill hopes to go on inactive duty and return to Villanova as a pre-med student. Following completion of that course he hopes to go back to Michigan and study to be a doctor at Michigan.

Bill Halm is a happy sort of fellow and has led a happy sort of life. While attending St. Peter and Paul high school back in Michigan he took life easy and made a fine name for himself. He practically ran the school. That was a hard thing to find out though for he is a very modest man. Anyway while at high school Bill was a member of the Dramatics and Arts Society, sports editor of the "Sentinel," the student weekly publication, and was delegate for Northeastern Michigan to the SSS convention. What the SSS stands for we can't understand, but it was an enormous honor. To top off all of his other outstanding achievements, he won a medal for attending every class in his freshman year.

Once out of high school he was off to college, there in Michigan. He stayed in school from 1941 to 1943 when it was off to Great Lakes Naval Training Station. After boot training he attended a hospital school and finally was shipped to a Naval Hospital where he was an elevator boy and a typist. With his outstanding work in these fields growing his commanding officer decided to send him off to V-12. Thus to school once more.

This time Bill went to the V-12 unit at Villanova where he stayed till now. Bill asked for Villanova because he read in a listing of colleges that our school was co-ed. It came as a big surprise to him to find that it is not.

"Valiant Saint Michael, be my guide
As through the clouds I swiftly glide.
My silver wings keep firm and strong;
Make sure my motor's droning song.
Keep through the star-lit paths of night
Smooth as an angel's wing my flight.
Perils of air, of sea, of land,
Help me, Saint Michael, to withstand.
Grant me a safe, swift flight, and then
A happy landing home. Amen."

Such should be the plea of Bernard Foppert who is now a senior in Mechanical Engineering here at Villanova. Bernard, who served with the Navy Air Corps, plans to return to the air upon graduation this June. He also hopes to find a job with one of the leading light-plane manufacturers.

BERNARD FOPPERT

Bernard was born in Philadelphia on April 2, 1926. After the usual pre-high school education at the neighborhood parochial school, he was off to St. Tommy's where he studied in a college prep science course. While at high school he partook of the normal activities and fostered a special ambition in the field of aeronautics.

In February of 1943 Bernard started at Villanova as a civilian. Then in March of 1944 he entered the Navy V-5 program and remained at Villanova until March of 1945 when he went to Pre-flight. While here under the Navy he played in the V-12 band and was a member of the ASME.

In June, Bernard will leave Villanova once more, this time for good. He hopes that he will be able to fly this summer under the G.I. Bill, and then in the fall find employment with one of the nation's leading light plane companies. As yet he has not made any definite contacts, but both Piper and Taylor look good to him.

Last man this week is another member of the Reserve Officers Training Corps. He is George Farrell of Woodbury, N. J. George was born over in Jersey on July 10, 1926. He attended elementary school in Haddonfield and then went on to Haddonfield High School where he was sports editor of the school paper.

GEORGE FARRELL

He graduated from Haddonfield High in June of 1943 and went on to Rutgers College where he studied Business Administration until March of 1944 when he switched from civilian life to navy life. He was put into the V-12 program and sent to Villanova where he has been ever since. George will graduate from the Navy unit here in June with a Naval Science certificate behind him. He will receive his reserve commission and go on active duty. He hopes that this will take him to the Navy Supply School for six months and then a year of sea duty.

Upon completion of his tour of duty with the Navy George plans to return to Rutgers and finish up his course in Business Administration.

While at Villanova George has been active about the campus in many of the doings of the school, but his favorite pastime is the intramural softball league in which he is a vigorous participant.

"I'll bring the Coke"
Serve Coca-Cola REG. U. S. PAT. OFF. at home
© 1946 The C-C Co.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
The PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Ehhhh . . . . What's Up, Doc?

Many rumors have flooded the campus concerning the experiments being performed on the above rabbits. Some say they're dandruff experiments, some claim they're malnutrition experiments. To date, observation by our best reporters, discloses the following results: 7 bunnies—dead.

Engineers Reform National Groups

Wartime Restrictions Relaxed On Three Campus Societies

Commencing with the large scale return of veterans to the campus, Villanova's three student chapters of the National Engineering Societies have undergone a series of growing pains. All of the fellowships—the AIEE, the ASCE, and the ASME—have experienced the recovery from their war-riddled memberships and semi-inactivity.

War Curtailed Activities

The war, which depleted student bodies and caused accelerated scholastic programs, curtailed the activities of these bodies to a mere existence level. Now the returning veteran, with his thirst for knowledge, appreciates these societies and the reason for their being, i. e., to disseminate to interested students news of advances made in the various engineering fields.

However, one of the consequences of this unnatural growth was a delay in the return to the normal functions of the societies, while the new members were indoctrtrinated and new officers were elected.

New Activities Expected

Having overcome most obstacles each group contemplate envigorated activities. The AIEE set the pace when eighty percent of the members, including the Chapter's Adviser, Mr. John A. Oakey, Professor of Civil Engineering, and President Daniel Redmond, are satisfied with the enthusiasm and initiative displayed by the members.

The ASME recently underwent a change in officers and President Paul Wiedenhaefer is assuring everyone that the chapter will be on a pre-war basis.

CONGRATULATIONS!

The wife of Professor John Gallon gave birth last week to a baby boy. Mr. Gallon is on the Engineering School faculty.

LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
Where Old Friends Meet and
New Ones Get Acquainted

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL
CARS UNTIL USED
5¢ a Ride, including Special
Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban
Transportation Co.

Schedule for the Week

Tuesday, May 14

Meeting Phi Kappa Pi—Room 202, Mendel Hall. 1:00 P. M.

Meeting D.P.E. — Room 214, Mendel Hall. 1:00 P. M. Nominations for next year's officers.

Wednesday, May 15

Meeting of Junior Class—Room 202 Mendel Hall. 1:00 P. M.

Meeting of Sophomore 1, Sophomore 2, and Junior 1 Classes. Room 215, Mendel Hall. 2:45 P.M.

Baseball — VILLANOVA vs. Penn, at Penn.

Meeting of Senior Class, Room 203 Mendel Hall. 1:00 P. M.

Friday, May 17

Meeting of Interracial Committee—215 Mendel Hall. 1:00 P. M.

Saturday, May 18

Baseball — VILLANOVA vs. Bucknell, at home. 3:15 P. M.

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

The Most Famous Inn on the Main Line
The Old Covered Wagon Inn
DANCING NIGHTLY
FINEST OF FOODS
For Reservations Call Wayne 1169

Entrance Exams Taken By 300

The examinations to determine those men eligible to enter Villanova in the succeeding terms are now being held intermittently in Mendel Hall. Two examinations have already been held, and the third will take place June 7th. Two hundred and eighty-five men were at the school for the first test, and 125 showed up for the second. Despite these numbers there are still 300 men on the list for the next bout.

The startling feature of this process is that it is not competitive and any man who makes the grade is in line to come here. This is especially remarkable insofar that the prospective students include both Veterans and High School seniors. The only limitations placed on the men will be that they did achieve a good rating in their secondary school class and that they had at least 15 Carnegies units.

Ratio To Be Maintained

In pursuance of its all out program the administration plans to maintain the ratio between the number of High School students applying and the number of High School students accepted at the pre-war level. This is the way things are going to be, despite the overwhelming number of Veterans acceped. The fact that makes this possible is the unprecedented expansion of all Villanova's facilities in order to accept as many men as possible.

Although enrollment is well over normal now, the College expects its heaviest inflow in October. Those men accepted, and they will be in the majority, will have the option of entering school either in June or in October and predictions are now that the preponderance of the boys will choose the latter.

The Summer school will utilize all the facilities of the campus as it has in the past few years. This will necessitate the shifting of the Summer extenion course to Rosemont's Campus once again.

Good Counsel To Be Ready

As to housing, Reverend Joseph Boyle says that the old men will have first choice for the units available on the campus. Good Counsel Hall will be ready to handle forty-five new men in October and the expansion of the other halls will accommodate more veterans. Villanova will strive to place all men that need housing in a nearby spot if the campus itself is unable to serve them.

Concerning the whole situation, Father Boyle said, "our prime consideration is of former students who were forced to withdraw for their nation's service and secondly we will consider new students. It is our purpose to make opportunities at Villanova available to as many students as we can possibly handle."

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M.
Daily; Except Wednesdays and
Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

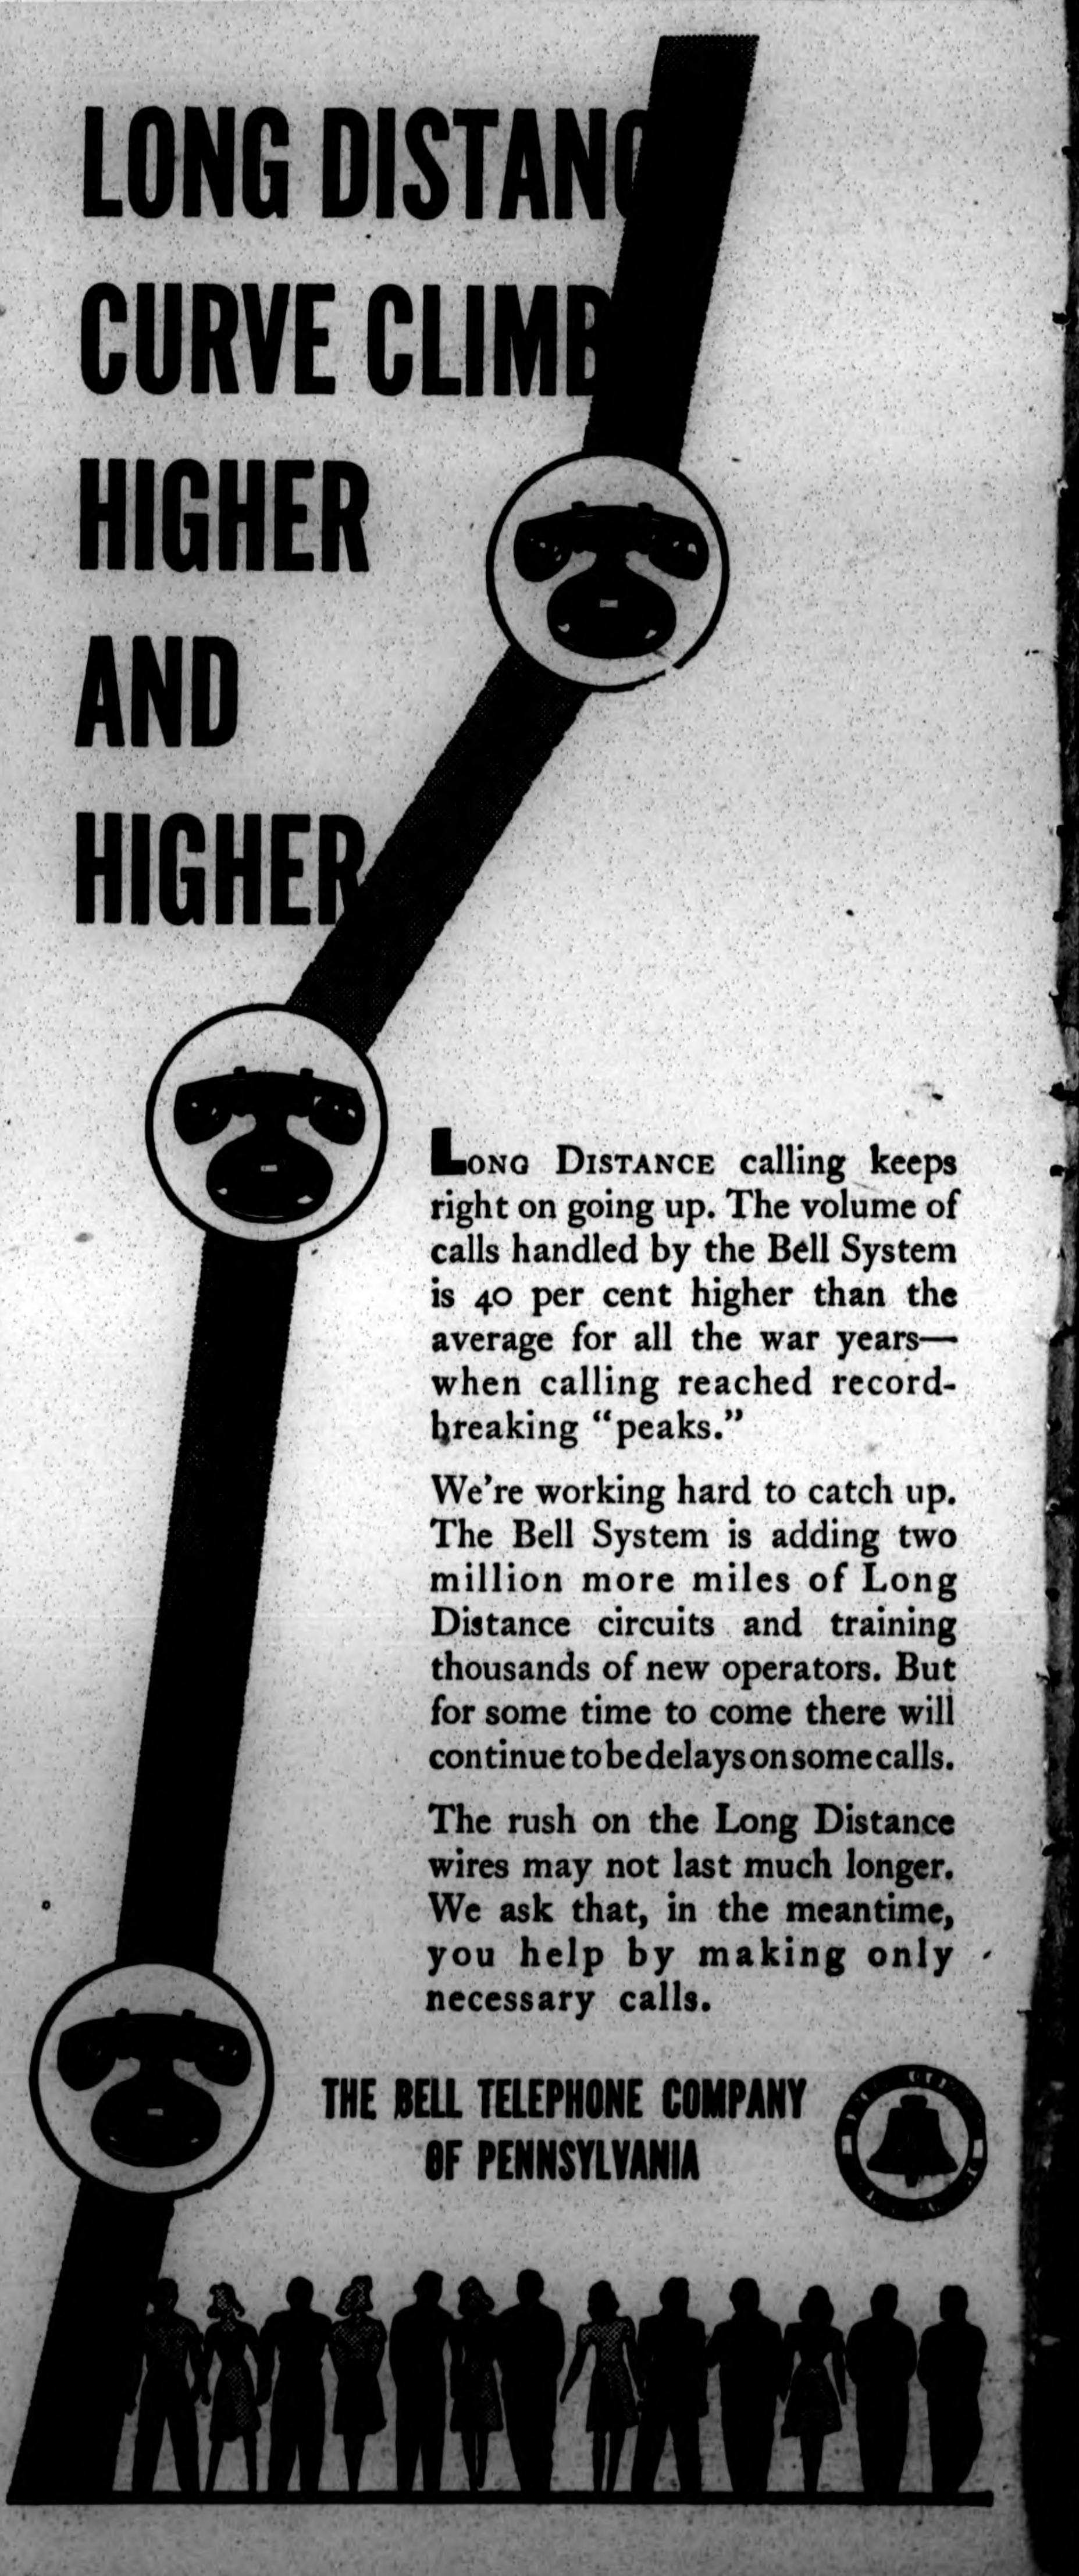
Students Compete In Villanova's Annual Scholarship Exams

Saturday, April 20th, Villanova held its annual scholarship examinations in Mendel Hall. Over one hundred and twenty-five High School students from the surrounding area underwent the trials, the cream of the secondary school's crop. The contests were open to any High School senior in the nation who was a Catholic and who was recommended by his headmaster.

Three one thousand dollar tuition payments were the prizes in this contest. The test was a standard intelligence and aptitude examination, consisting of four parts.

"These men," said Reverend Joseph Boyle, registrar, "showed exceptional scholarship and ability and Villanova would be proud to have them on our registration roles."

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE
Longines



LONG DISTANCE
CURVE CLIMB HIGHER
AND HIGHER

LONG DISTANCE calling keeps right on going up. The volume of calls handled by the Bell System is 40 per cent higher than the average for all the war years—when calling reached record-breaking "peaks."

We're working hard to catch up. The Bell System is adding two million more miles of Long Distance circuits and training thousands of new operators. But for some time to come there will continue to be delays on some calls.

The rush on the Long Distance wires may not last much longer. We ask that, in the meantime, you help by making only necessary calls.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
OF PENNSYLVANIA

Student Council Opens Food Drive on Campus Tomorrow

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 9 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MAY 21, 1946

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Juniors Present Annual Ball Friday Evening

Combat Chaplain Returns Home

Veteran of Twenty-six Months Overseas Campaigned from New Guinea to Japan

Bedecked with the Meritorius Achievement Unit Citation, five campaign ribbons and four battle stars, Major John R. Dunne, who returned to the Philippines with MacArthur has now returned to Villanova after twenty-six months in the Pacific and three and a half years in the Army.

REV. JOHN R. DUNNE

Entering the service as a first lieutenant in March 1943, Father Dunne was assigned as Chaplain of the Army Air Base at Richmond, Virginia, and then joined the 1897th Engineer Aviation Con-

COMBAT CHAPLAIN
Continued on Page Eight

Council Releases Prom Dates For Coming Semester

A tentative social calendar has been released by the Student Council governing the semester starting in October.

Several weeks ago the newly-elected officers of the various classes were asked to submit dates for their social functions of the coming year. Class meetings were held and finally the dates were submitted for approval. This was given last week.

The Senior Ball is scheduled to take place on January 17, 1947. The Senior Ball takes precedence over all other functions on the campus and the Senior class has the choice of dates. It has been traditional in January and the next year's will follow that pattern.

Junior Week Returns

Junior week is returning to Villanova for the first time since 1942 when the Centennial class sponsored it. The Juniors met with their officers and moderator and decided on an eight day Junior Week beginning on the 3d of May and carying through until the 10th.

The week was discussed and presented to the class as a whole. The expenses are expected to run between $125 and $150 for a Junior resident. The Juniors were advised to start saving now. It will be a

Continued on Page Four

Alumni Dance

This occasion marked the happiness and pleasure in renewing acquaintances which had been interrupted by the war. The attendance indicated both a social as well as financial success.

Philadelphia Club Marks First Post-War Activity

Alumni Club Hears Music of Nat Sine at Informal Spring Dance Last Friday

Last Friday evening the first post-war dance of the local clubs was held at the Bala Golf club. The informal Spring Dance was given by the Villanova club of Philadelphia under the chairmanship of Jack McManus, '44 and Vincent Gordon, '42.

Music for the evening was supplied by Nat Sine and his orchestra. Dancing was from nine until one, and refreshments were served during the course of the evening.

The dance was well attended by the Alumni, and from all indications it was a social as well as a financial success. This occasion also marked the happiness and pleasure in renewing acquaintances which had been interrupted by the war.

"It is hoped," said the Alumni Secretary, "that this affair, conducted so well by the Philadelphia Club, will be an incentive for the Alumni at large to become active members of the local clubs in their respective areas and give their full support and cooperation to the activities planned by their clubs."

There will be a meeting of the Philadelphia Club this coming Thursday evening at 1923 Walnut St., at which meeting the financial report of the dance will be read and discussed. The time set for the meeting is 8:30 P. M.

Landscape Engineers Move Evergreens And Dogwoods On Campus

One of the many projects recently inaugurated at Villanova is the removal of the closely planted evergreen and dogwood trees that extend in a twenty yard wide strip from Ithan Avenue for approximately two hundred yards along Lancaster Pike.

Years ago these trees were planted in this fashion to substitute for a snow fence which would have sullied the beauty of the campus. Now it is possible for landscape engineers to weave a snow fence and a few well placed and carefully selected trees into a picturesque scene.

Many of these trees will be replanted at more favorable positions throughout the campus. To date the work has progressed favorably and over one hundred of the trees have been uprooted.

Student Action Committee Ends Semester's Work

Expansion of International House Main Topic of Discussion at Friday Meeting

Friday night the 17th, the Student Action Committee of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia held its last meeting of this semester. The final appearance of this group for the Spring term took place in the Bond Hall of Swarthmore College. Seven of the eleven colleges represented took part in the affair.

Villanova College was represented by four delegates: Collins, Doyle, Quinn and Stanley. This group informed the Council that the Constitution had the approval of the International Relations Club, the organization on the campus to which they are affiliated. With the exception of Collins these men were all new to the proceedings of the formal meeting, but expressed satisfaction with the progress of the club and its general purpose.

The meeting was opened by Roy Meninger of Swarthmore who read the program for the fall exercises prepared by Jasper Chen See of Villanova. When the program had received the approval of those present and voting, the main business of the night was taken up.

The International House of Philadelphia is badly in need of expansion since the termination of the war brought so many foreign students to colleges and universities in the Philadelphia area. The financial backing of this enterprise will be taken care of by The United Nations Council and a group of business organizations whose foreign trade position make this project of particular interest. However before anything can be done, the UNC wishes to have the support of all the college students in the area. Just how this would be acomplished was up to the Student Action Committee and many proposals were advanced.

The International House although little known by the average student is one of the more important educational functionaries in the Philadelphia scene. It serves as a dormitory for students of all nations and as a clearing house for all foreign students in the city. Through association and mutual discussion this House does much to

Continued on Page Four

Council Elects To Support UNO Relief Program

"Share The Food" Certificates Will Go on Sale Soon; Don Collins Appointed Committee Chairman

At 11 A. M. tomorrow the students of Villanova will be given an opportunity to contribute to a deserving cause, the United Nations Emergency Relief Program. At this time Villanova will perform its part in the "Philadelphia Plan."

This is the name that has been assigned to a unique project to aid the Emergency Food Collection being made by the Philadelphia Committee of the United Nations.

Sale of Food Certificates

This program calls for the sale of Share the Food Certificates to the churches, schools, clubs and other institutions and associations of this type throughout the area. Each certificate is a receipt and assurance that its face value of vitally needed canned milk, meat, vegetables, baby foods, fish and fruit will be shipped overseas promptly on behalf of the purchaser from the Philadelphia food stocks.

The fact that this food would be ordinarily consumed by the people of this vicinity makes it a double sacrifice by the contributor, but this is in keeping with the spirit of the project, and it is believed that such spirit will result in the real success of the collection.

Advantages of Plan

The noteworthy advantages of this plan are: more food will be made available per dollar contributed than if canned goods were actually solicited; considerable expenses, labor, confusion, misunder-

FOOD DRIVE
Continued on Page Four

Engineers' Society Spring Meeting

170 Deans and Professors of Engineering and Chemistry from the Middle Atlantic States attended the Spring Meeting of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education on Sat. May 11, at the Engineer's Club of Philadelphia. Among those present were the following department heads and professors from Villanova: Dean J. S. Morehouse, who was chairman of the Program Cimmittee, Dr. E. L. Haenisch, chairman of the Registration Committee, and Professors Bueche, Oakey, Amelotti, Auth, Greyson, and Steffens. Hosts to the session were the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia, and the Philadelphia sections of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Tour Of Penn

The morning program consisted of conducted tours of the Moore School of Electrical Engineering and the Towne Scientific School at the University of Pennsylvania. Included in this was an inspection of the Electronic Numerical Integrator and Computer at the Moore School.

In the afternoon there was a general session on the subject of "Mutual Objectives of Engineering Faculties, Students, Societies, and Industry". Speakers were Dr. John M. Fogg, Jr. of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. A. R. Stevenson, Jr. of General Electric, and Mr. Harry W. Pierce of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation. The meeting concluded with a dinner at 6 P. M

Spring Theme To Dominate As Auld Plays

Spring "will bust out all over" the Field House on Friday night when the Junior Class presents its annual Prom. Not ony is the dance to be a springtime affair, but the Decorations Committee, as well, has chosen Spring to be the motif of the decorations.

Centerpiece of the decoration will be a water fountain located in the middle of the dance floor. From this fountain will emanate beams of vari-colored lights aimed at producing a softening effect on the floor and sidewalks of the gym. Inside the bower will be a mechanical device which will cause a disk of glasses of various colors to pass over the light bulbs, thus producing an apparent change in the hue of the water. This centerpiece is built along the same lines as that water fountain which is located in front of the Claridge Hotel, in Atlantic City and which yearly draws much

LYNN STEVENS

Continued on Page Four

Friel Addresses Senior Class at Recent Meeting

The relationship of the graduate to his central alumni office at Villanova and his connections with his local alumni club and placement service were the main topics of the informal address delivered to the members of the Senior Class of Villanova College last Wednesday afternoon. Mr. William Friel, recently appointed alumni secretary of the main offices, stressed especially the importance of the Villanova College Alumni Placing Service, a service rendered by the association to all members who are in search of a position or who want to better themselves in a position they already maintain. It seeks to provide all bona-fide members with contacts in the business world, in order that they might have a springboard for their ambitions in industry and other fields.

Complete Reorganization

The future alumni were given a brief account of the efforts of Mr. Friel and his associates to drasticcally reorganize the Villanova College Alumni Association throughout the United States. One of the main features of this new reorganization plan is the partition of the main office into a group of local clubs which will be distributed geographically throughout the country. This plan, according to

Continued on Page Four

Ehhhh . . . . What's Up, Doc?

OPERATION TCHISTOVITCH DANGER! KEEP OUT

Many rumors have flooded the campus concerning the experiments being performed on the above rabbits. Some say they're dandruff experiments, some claim they're malnutrition experiments. To date, observation by our best reporters, discloses the following results: 7 bunnies—dead.

Engineers Reform National Groups

Wartime Restrictions Relaxed On Three Campus Societies

Commencing with the large scale return of veterans to the campus, Villanova's three student chapters of the National Engineering Societies have undergone a series of growing pains. All of the fellowships—the AIEE, the ASCE, and the ASME—have experienced the recovery from their war-riddled memberships and semi-inactivity.

War Curtailed Activities

The war, which depleted student bodies and caused accelerated scholastic programs, curtailed the activities of these bodies to a mere existence level. Now the returning veteran, with his thirst for knowledge, appreciates these societies and the reason for their being, i. e., to disseminate to interested students news of advances made in the various engineering fields.

However, one of the consequences of this unnatural growth was a delay in the return to the normal functions of the societies, while the new members were indoctrinated and new officers were elected.

New Activities Expected

Having overcome most obstacles each group contemplate envigorated activities. The AIEE set the pace when eighty percent of the members, including the Chapter's Adviser, Mr. John A. Oakey, Professor of Civil Engineering, and President Daniel Redmond, are satisfied with the enthusiasm and initiative displayed by the members.

The ASME recently underwent a change in officers and President Paul Wiedenhaefer is assuring everyone that the chapter will be on a pre-war basis.

CONGRATULATIONS!

The wife of Professor John Gallon gave birth last week to a baby boy. Mr. Gallon is on the Engineering School faculty.

Schedule for the Week

Tuesday, May 14

Meeting Phi Kappa Pi—Room 202, Mendel Hall. 1:00 P. M.

Meeting D.P.E. — Room 214, Mendel Hall, 1:00 P. M. Nominations for next year's officers.

Wednesday, May 15

Meeting of Junior Class—Room 202 Mendel Hall. 1:00 P. M.

Meeting of Sophomore 1, Sophomore 2, and Junior 1 Classes. Room 215, Mendel Hall. 2:45 P.M.

Baseball — VILLANOVA vs. Penn, at Penn.

Meeting of Senior Class, Room 203 Mendel Hall. 1:00 P. M.

Friday, May 17

Meeting of Interracial Committee—215 Mendel Hall. 1:00 P. M.

Saturday, May 18

Baseball — VILLANOVA vs. Bucknell, at home. 3:15 P. M.

Entrance Exams Taken By 300

The examinations to determine those men eligible to enter Villanova in the succeeding terms are now being held intermittently in Mendel Hall. Two examinations have already been held, and the third will take place June 7th. Two hundred and eighty-five men were at the school for the first test, and 125 showed up for the second. Despite these numbers there are still 300 men on the list for the next bout.

The startling feature of this process is that it is not competitive and any man who makes the grade is in line to come here. This is especially remarkable insofar that the prospective students include both Veterans and High School seniors. The only limitations placed on the men will be that they did achieve a good rating in their secondary school class and that they had at least 15 Carnegies units.

Ratio To Be Maintained

In pursuance of its all out program the administration plans to maintain the ratio between the number of High School students applying and the number of High School students accepted at the pre-war level. This is the way things are going to be, despite the overwhelming number of Veterans acceped. The fact that makes this possible is the unprecedented expansion of all Villanova's facilities in order to accept as many men as possible.

Although enrollment is well over normal now, the College expects its heaviest inflow in October. Those men accepted, and they will be in the majority, will have the option of entering school either in June or in October and predictions are now that the preponderance of the boys will choose the latter.

The Summer school will utilize all the facilities of the campus as it has in the past few years. This will necessitate the shifting of the Summer extenion course to Rosemont's Campus once again.

Good Counsel To Be Ready

As to housing, Reverend Joseph Boyle says that the old men will have first choice for the units available on the campus. Good Counsel Hall will be ready to handle forty-five new men in October and the expansion of the other halls will accommodate more veterans. Villanova will strive to place all men that need housing in a nearby spot if the campus itself is unable to serve them.

Concerning the whole situation, Father Boyle said, "our prime consideration is of former students who were forced to withdraw for their nation's service and secondly we will consider new students. It is our purpose to make opportunities at Villanova available to as many students as we can possibly handle."

Students Compete In Villanova's Annual Scholarship Exams

Saturday, April 20th, Villanova held its annual scholarship examinations in Mendel Hall. Over one hundred and twenty-five High School students from the surrounding area underwent the trials, the cream of the secondary school's crop. The contests were open to any High School senior in the nation who was a Catholic and who was recommended by his headmaster.

Three one thousand dollar tuition payments were the prizes in this contest. The test was a standard intelligence and aptitude examination, consisting of four parts.

"These men," said Reverend Joseph Boyle, registrar, "showed exceptional scholarship and ability and Villanova would be proud to have them on our registration roles."

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
WINNER OF 10 WORLD'S FAIR GRAND PRIZES, 28 GOLD MEDALS AND MORE HONORS FOR ACCURACY THAN ANY OTHER TIMEPIECE
Longines
THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

College Tailor

Coladonato Tailor Shop, Inc.

2 ARTHUR ROAD

Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266

We do adjustments the way you want them.

Work and Service—Good

Prices Reasonable

For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

Men's Clothes

Made-to-Measure

COLEBY Tailoring Inc.

57th & MARKET STS.

Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.

Suits & Topcoats

$29.75

LA DOW'S PHARMACY

On the Edge of the Campus
Where Old Friends Meet and
New Ones Get Acquainted

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH SCHOOL TICKETS
RED ARROW

GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5¢ a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM

"Deliciously Different"

PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

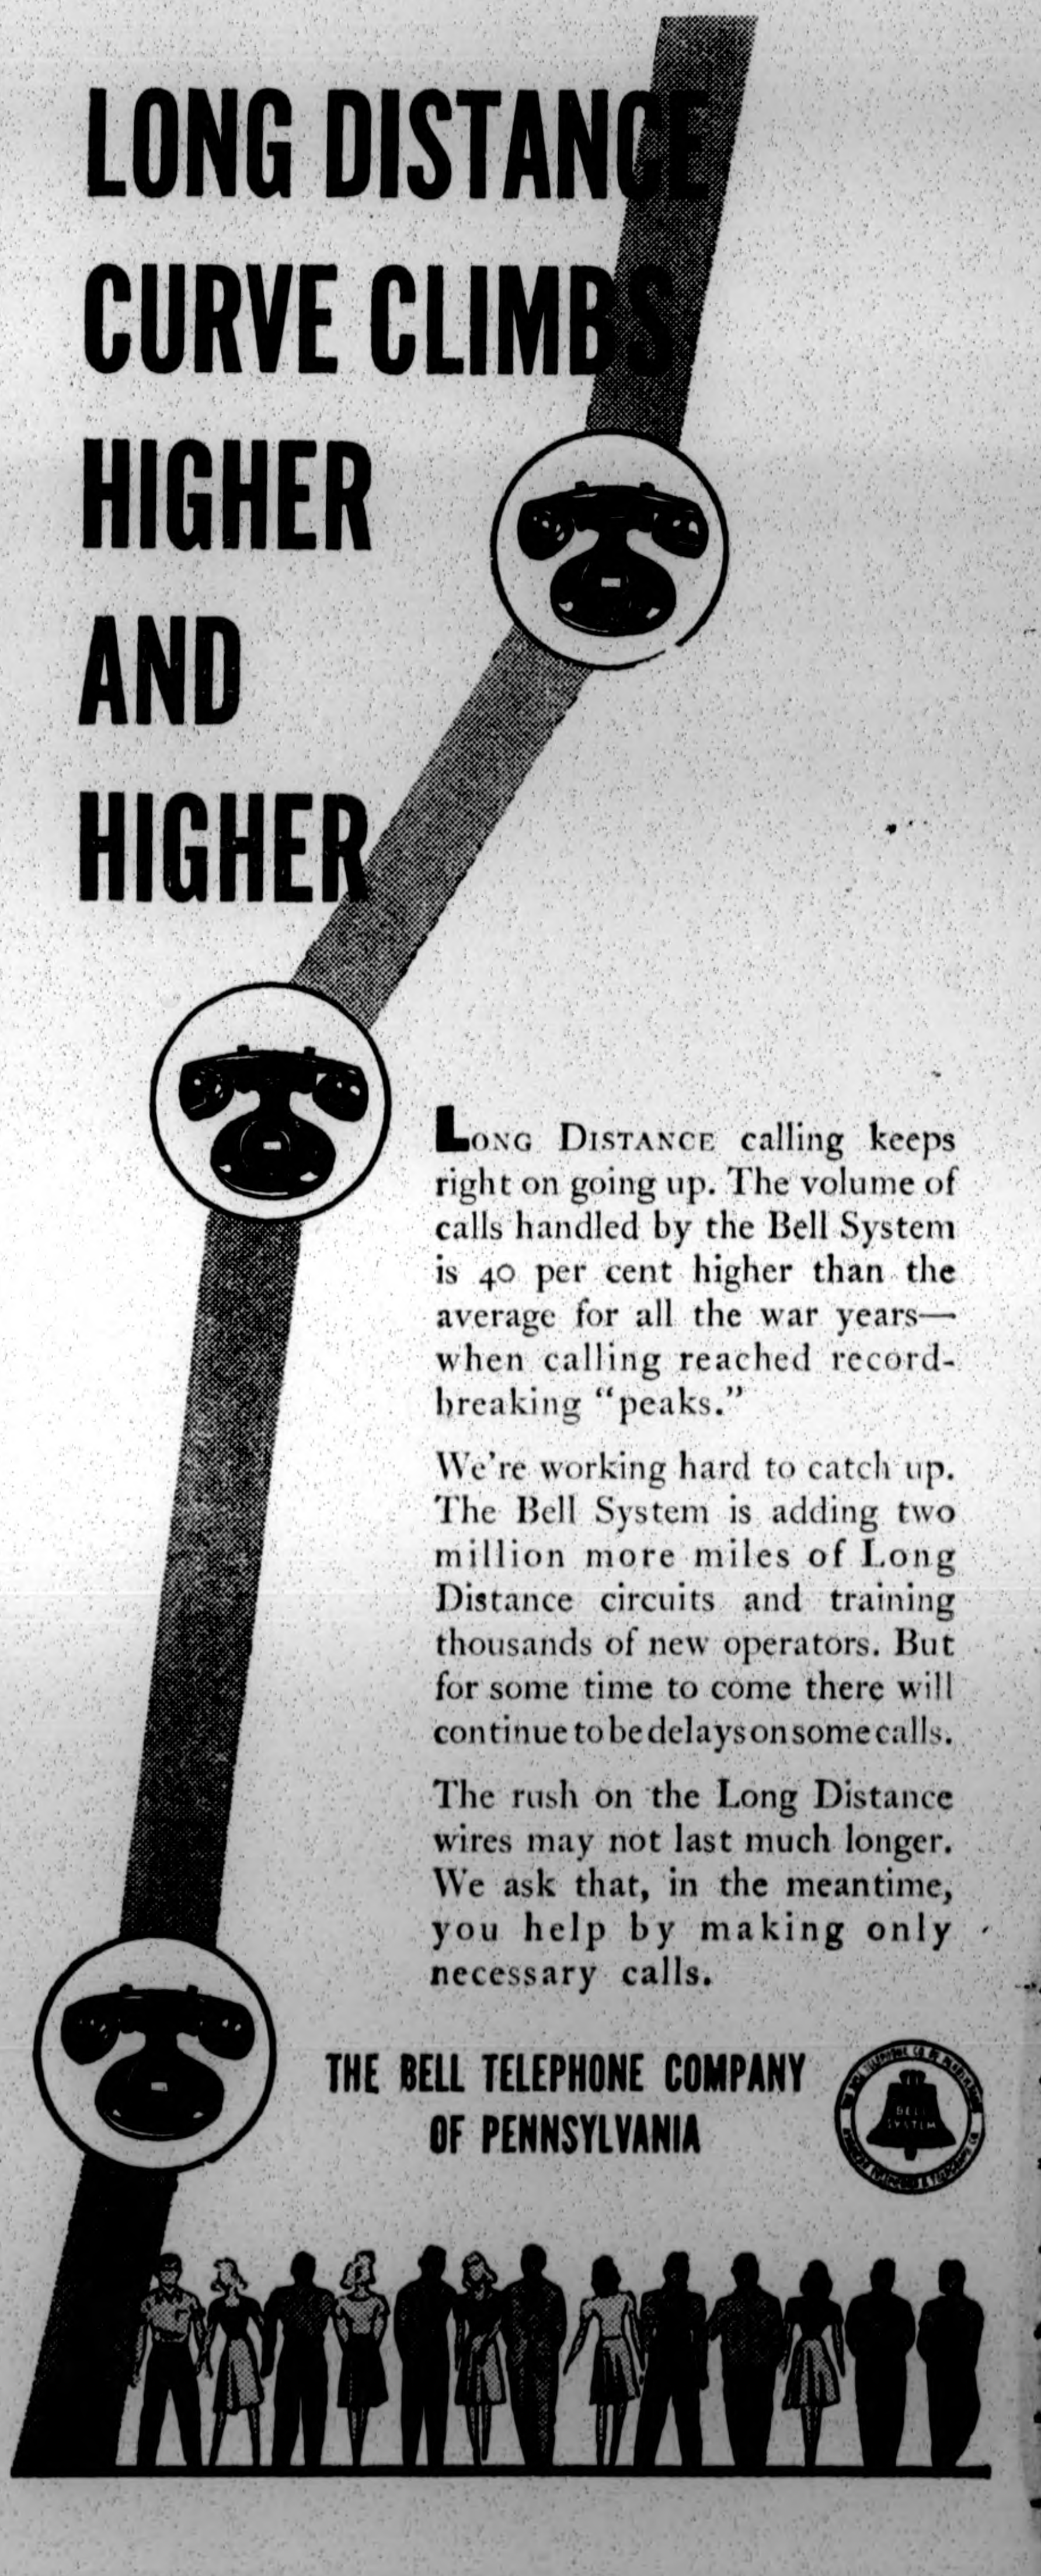
The Most Famous Inn on the Main Line

The Old Covered Wagon Inn

DANCING NIGHTLY

FINEST OF FOODS

For Reservations Call Wayne 1169



LONG DISTANCE CURVE CLIMBS HIGHER AND HIGHER
BELL SYSTEM

Long Distance calling keeps right on going up. The volume of calls handled by the Bell System is 40 per cent higher than the average for all the war years—when calling reached record-breaking "peaks."

We're working hard to catch up. The Bell System is adding two million more miles of Long Distance circuits and training thousands of new operators. But for some time to come there will continue to be delays on some calls.

The rush on the Long Distance wires may not last much longer. We ask that, in the meantime, you help by making only necessary calls.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Student Council Opens Food Drive on Campus Tomorrow

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 9 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MAY 21, 1946

Juniors Present Annual Ball Friday Evening

Combat Chaplain Returns Home

Veteran of Twenty-six Months Overseas Campaigned from New Guinea to Japan

Bedecked with the Meritorius Achievement Unit Citation, five campaign ribbons and four battle stars, Major John R. Dunne, who returned to the Philippines with MacArthur has now returned to Villanova after twenty-six months in the Pacific and three and a half years in the Army.

Entering the service as a first lieutenant in March 1943, Father Dunne was assigned as Chaplain of the Army Air Base at Richmond, Virginia, and then joined the 1897th Engineer Aviation Con-

REV. JOHN R. DUNNE

COMBAT CHAPLAIN
Continued on Page Eight

Council Releases Prom Dates For Coming Semester

A tentative social calendar has been released by the Student Council governing the semester starting in October.

Several weeks ago the newly-elected officers of the various classes were asked to submit dates for their social functions of the coming year. Class meetings were held and finally the dates were submitted for approval. This was given last week.

The Senior Ball is scheduled to take place on January 17, 1947. The Senior Ball takes precedence over all other functions on the campus and the Senior class has the choice of dates. It has been traditional in January and the next year's will follow that pattern.

Junior Week Returns

Junior week is returning to Villanova for the first time since 1942 when the Centennial class sponsored it. The Juniors met with their officers and moderator and decided on an eight day Junior Week beginning on the 3d of May and carying through until the 10th.

The week was discussed and presented to the class as a whole. The expenses are expected to run between $125 and $150 for a Junior resident. The Juniors were advised to start saving now. It will be a

Continued on Page Four

Alumni Dance

This occasion marked the happiness and pleasure in renewing acquaintances which had been interrupted by the war. The attendance indicated both a social as well as financial success.

Philadelphia Club Marks First Post-War Activity

Alumni Club Hears Music of Nat Sine at Informal Spring Dance Last Friday

Last Friday evening the first post-war dance of the local clubs was held at the Bala Golf club. The informal Spring Dance was given by the Villanova club of Philadelphia under the chairmanship of Jack McManus, '44 and Vincent Gordon, '42.

Music for the evening was supplied by Nat Sine and his orchestra. Dancing was from nine until one, and refreshments were served during the course of the evening.

The dance was well attended by the Alumni, and from all indications it was a social as well as a financial success. This occasion also marked the happiness and pleasure in renewing acquaintances which had been interrupted by the war.

"It is hoped," said the Alumni Secretary, "that this affair, conducted so well by the Philadelphia Club, will be an incentive for the Alumni at large to become active members of the local clubs in their respective areas and give their full support and cooperation to the activities planned by their clubs."

There will be a meeting of the Philadelphia Club this coming Thursday evening at 1923 Walnut St., at which meeting the financial report of the dance will be read and discussed. The time set for the meeting is 8:30 P. M.

Landscape Engineers Move Evergreens And Dogwoods On Campus

One of the many projects recently inaugurated at Villanova is the removal of the closely planted evergreen and dogwood trees that extend in a twenty yard wide strip from Ithan Avenue for approximately two hundred yards along Lancaster Pike.

Years ago these trees were planted in this fashion to substitute for a snow fence which would have sullied the beauty of the campus. Now it is possible for landscape engineers to weave a snow fence and a few well placed and carefully selected trees into a picturesque scene.

Many of these trees will be replanted at more favorable positions throughout the campus. To date the work has progressed favorably and over one hundred of the trees have been uprooted.

Student Action Committee Ends Semester's Work

Expansion of International House Main Topic of Discussion at Friday Meeting

Friday night the 17th, the Student Action Committee of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia held its last meeting of this semester. The final appearance of this group for the Spring term took place in the Bond Hall of Swarthmore College. Seven of the eleven colleges represented took part in the affair.

Villanova College was represented by four delegates: Collins, Doyle, Quinn and Stanley. This group informed the Council that the Constitution had the approval of the International Relations Club, the organization on the campus to which they are affiliated. With the exception of Collins these men were all new to the proceedings of the formal meeting, but expressed satisfaction with the progress of the club and its general purpose.

The meeting was opened by Roy Meninger of Swarthmore who read the program for the fall exercises prepared by Jasper Chen See of Villanova. When the program had received the approval of those present and voting, the main business of the night was taken up.

The International House of Philadelphia is badly in need of expansion since the termination of the war brought so many foreign students to colleges and universities in the Philadelphia area. The financial backing of this enterprise will be taken care of by The United Nations Council and a group of business organizations whose foreign trade position make this project of particular interest. However before anything can be done, the UNC wishes to have the support of all the college students in the area. Just how this would be acomplished was up to the Student Action Committee and many proposals were advanced.

The International House although little known by the average student is one of the more important educational functionaries in the Philadelphia scene. It serves as a dormitory for students of all nations and as a clearing house for all foreign students in the city. Through association and mutual discussion this House does much to

Continued on Page Four

Council Elects To Support UNO Relief Program

"Share The Food" Certificates Will Go on Sale Soon; Don Collins Appointed Committee Chairman

At 11 A. M. tomorrow the students of Villanova will be given an opportunity to contribute to a deserving cause, the United Nations Emergency Relief Program. At this time Villanova will perform its part in the "Philadelphia Plan."

This is the name that has been assigned to a unique project to aid the Emergency Food Collection being made by the Philadelphia Committee of the United Nations.

Sale of Food Certificates

This program calls for the sale of Share the Food Certificates to the churches, schools, clubs and other institutions and associations of this type throughout the area. Each certificate is a receipt and assurance that its face value of vitally needed canned milk, meat, vegetables, baby foods, fish and fruit will be shipped overseas promptly on behalf of the purchaser from the Philadelphia food stocks.

The fact that this food would be ordinarily consumed by the people of this vicinity makes it a double sacrifice by the contributor, but this is in keeping with the spirit of the project, and it is believed that such spirit will result in the real success of the collection.

Advantages of Plan

The noteworthy advantages of this plan are: more food will be made available per dollar contributed than if canned goods were actually solicited; considerable expenses, labor, confusion, misunder-

FOOD DRIVE
Continued on Page Four

Engineers' Society Spring Meeting

170 Deans and Professors of Engineering and Chemistry from the Middle Atlantic States attended the Spring Meeting of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education on Sat. May 11, at the Engineer's Club of Philadelphia. Among those present were the following department heads and professors from Villanova: Dean J. S. Morehouse, who was chairman of the Program Cimmittee, Dr. E. L. Haenisch, chairman of the Registration Committee, and Professors Bueche, Oakey, Amelotti, Auth, Greyson, and Steffens. Hosts to the session were the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia, and the Philadelphia sections of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Tour Of Penn

The morning program consisted of conducted tours of the Moore School of Electrical Engineering and the Towne Scientific School at the University of Pennsylvania. Included in this was an inspection of the Electronic Numerical Integrator and Computer at the Moore School.

In the afternoon there was a general session on the subject of "Mutual Objectives of Engineering Faculties, Students, Societies, and Industry", Speakers were Dr. John M. Fogg, Jr. of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. A. R. Stevenson, Jr. of General Electric, and Mr. Harry W. Pierce of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation. The meeting concluded with a dinner at 6 P. M

Spring Theme To Dominate As Auld Plays

Spring "will bust out all over" the Field House on Friday night when the Junior Class presents its annual Prom. Not ony is the dance to be a springtime affair, but the Decorations Committee, as well, has chosen Spring to be the motif of the decorations.

Centerpiece of the decoration will be a water fountain located in the middle of the dance floor. From this fountain will emanate beams of vari-colored lights aimed at producing a softening effect on the floor and sidewalks of the gym. Inside the bower will be a mechanical device which will cause a disk of glasses of various colors to pass over the light bulbs, thus producing an apparent change in the hue of the water. This centerpiece is built along the same lines as that water fountain which is located in front of the Claridge Hotel, in Atlantic City and which yearly draws much

LYNN STEVENS

Continued on Page Four

Friel Addresses Senior Class at Recent Meeting

The relationship of the graduate to his central alumni office at Villanova and his connections with his local alumni club and placement service were the main topics of the informal address delivered to the members of the Senior Class of Villanova College last Wednesday afternoon. Mr. William Friel, recently appointed alumni secretary of the main offices, stressed especially the importance of the Villanova College Alumni Placing Service, a service rendered by the association to all members who are in search of a position or who want to better themselves in a position they already maintain. It seeks to provide all bona-fide members with contacts in the business world, in order that they might have a springboard for their ambitions in industry and other fields.

Complete Reorganization

The future alumni were given a brief account of the efforts of Mr. Friel and his associates to drastically reorganize the Villanova College Alumni Association throughout the United States. One of the main features of this new reorganization plan is the partition of the main office into a group of local clubs which will be distributed geographically throughout the country. This plan, according to

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 .... Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
Robert P. Greenspan, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
William B. Wiswell, '46
Robert R. Manske, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office Decembe 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Assc ciation and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - - MAY 21, 1946

Bored Big-Dealism

AMERICA has come a long way since the Erie Canal. It has come a long way since the six-shooter and the silver dollar bar. Our civilization now spans a continent. Strong silver needles of rails have sewn up the patchwork quilt of our nation; intangible radio fingers stretch into every home.

Yes, America has come a long way, but maybe it has gone a long way too. Engineers have put steel into our national budget but it may come from our spirits. It is not physical courage that we mean nor is it strength of back. It is something a little more insidious, something less shameful because its less noticeable.

It certainly isn't news that the frontier is gone. Any History Prof will hold forth in lengthy discourse at the mention of it. Our physical frontier is gone and 'si requiris monumentum, perspice'. But the physical frontier isn't all that's gone. Culture's growth and inbreeding are the scouts of decay in nations as well as families.

It can't happen here, from the book of the same vein.

It happened in Greece and in Rome and in France and in China and perhaps in England. Are we inviolable?

Someone says it is a little early to talk this way. We hope it's early enough. Culture's frame isn't swept away by a torrent, it is rotted with numberless droplets of cynicism and despair. Are the symptoms present? Are they spreading? Again, look around you. Confidence and faith are precious substances and engineers will tell you that their vapor pressures are high. They are drying up in America's heart.

Our nation has followed false flags and our hearts have cherished vain hopes, but the determination of purpose and the vitality of hope need not sink with our follies. We must reaffirm our confidence in our great nation, we must again pledge ourselves to tomorrow.

What can one guy do, you ask. Sure, the nation has grown. Sure, its organization has become more complex, its problems more difficult. Political bosses control the nation, maybe, but if true it is not the fault of the bosses it is the fault of the nation. Aspiration is laughed at as unfashionable or unfeasible, in either case cynicism wouldn't allow it.

Where is this cynicism most rampant? It is nestling in the ivory towers of Collegiate education. The heart and hope of the nation is infected with this psuedo-intellectualism that dictates the policy of bored big-dealism. School spirit. Don't be childish. Plans for the future? It's so juvenile. What's the use, the cards are all against you. It wouldn't be sophisticated to believe in yourself.

The last redskin has hit the dust and Wells Fargo has closed up shop; but the courage, confidence and determination that made their dreams realities is needed once more today.

—Don Collins

Passing Thoughts

By ANTHONY P. COPPA, NROTC.

I oft reflect upon the things I see,
The things which meaningless before
In the present thought expound themselves to be
The sources of emotions, some pronounced, some obscure,
Emotions like the everchanging wind
Whose tenderness gives the infant flower breath,
Whose anger wills the noble tree to death.

For when I walk among the children,
Skipping, dancing, laughing at their play,
Happy that the clouds don't cast the sun away,
My heart in gladness beats a melody light
That heals the sadness of the lonely night.

Of when I see the earnest youth,
Questing for knowledge of the vast unknown,
Who doggedly struggles on to find the truth,
I hear the strong heroic tone
Whose notes by God Himself were sown
And which, divinely born, has grown
The Anthem of the striving soul.

Or when perchance mine eyes discern
The sight of soiled weary men
Who by honest toil seek to learn
The reason why their pride condemns
The poverty bequeathed to them,
The tears that make my vision dim
Present themselves, and not for shame,
For men like these will always win
The praise of all the great—who are the same.

And when I walk the dark and ugly path
Whereon the sins of man reside,
Where decadent life at shining virtue laughs
And withered souls all love despise,
I know the low and tragic strain
That spurns my every sinew to disdain
And quickens every effort on to claim
A victory over life so vain.

I oft reflect upon the things I see,
The many varied things that are a part of me,
The many visions of Ideals I love,
The stalwart virtues that I place above
The wealthy wages of this selfish earth
Where tragedy has run e'er since its birth,
And righteous men strive on to give it worth.

It is these particles of mortal life,
These common scenes that clothe humanity's stage
On which is played Life's never-ending theme,
A classic symphony whose complex scheme
Reveals a beauty real, powerful, serene,
And whose resonant tones enswathe
The world of ways of human kind,
That fill the moments of each passing day
With glimpses of Life's grand array. . .
The joy, the sadness, the loss, and victory,
That gives the soul a weather-beaten strength
To stand before the gales of Evil's trend
And shout above the fury of its voice
The principle it loves and will defend.

Attention Poets!

The Villanovan invites students to submit their poetic efforts for publication. Whether they are dramatic, romantic, spiritual, or humorous, they will be considered.

The judgment of the Editorial staff is the determining factor, so it may be wise for the student to first present it to an English professor for criticism. Otherwise, a poem may be printed which will later embarrass the poet's literary standing.

All poetry should be placed on the Feature Editor's desk in the Villanovan Office, second floor Mendel Hall.

Hunger and the Beast

HUNGER is not new. It is in fact as old as the human race and even older, but we as humans are chiefly concerned with the hunger of ourselves. We all have seen pictorials in newspapers and magazines of people slowly starving to death, but only few have ever experienced for any length of time the pangs of hunger. Starvation is not a pretty sight and it is not a pleasant experience. It is not a disease but it is just as painful a way to die. Even more so because unlike certain deadly diseases there is for it a certain cure called food, of which there is an abundance if the suffering could only get it. Ironical is it not? One half of the peoples of this earth lack the life sustaining food of which the other half has more than enough.

To the men, women, and children who are in the throes of famine, hunger is not a metaphysical reality. It is an actuality as sure as they can see their skin tightening around their bones. Their sunken eyes are deep pools of evidence as their bloated abdomen is prominent in testifying to their pitiful plight. Theirs is the lot of the condemned. Truly they are not being led to the gallows by order of a government; but just as effectively they are dying, in the streets and in the homes, in the fields and in the hills. They are wearied in mind and in what is left of their body. They mill around and wander like cattle crossing a desert, moving in a lethargic state towards an uncertain destination, and only to be stirred by a mirage into frenzied motion that can only spell their own doom.

Yes, starvation does strange things to humans. They reach a point where they will think only in terms of bread. Can you blame them? Life is sweet to men full of vigor and even sweeter to those who are dying. The preservation of life is innate in man, and in his bid for existence, weakened as he is by famine, he is not only at the mercy of the dreadful little bacteria but he is also at the mercy of the dreadful power-crazy men.

After starvation and diseases have taken their toll, the rest of the people become tools of national and international politics. Little Caesers spring up like toadstools, casting their dark shadows over the soil that supports them. In fact the poisons that these little Caesers are spreading are not of their own origin. They have their source from the Steppes clear up to the Kremlin, with their common trade name as Communism. Have you ever heard that brand of politics before? Why, it has become today almost a key to Europe and Asia! They hold that their system of government is one of the people . . . the Proletariats; and in order that the Proletariats may rule, their government must be centralized with all oppositions oppressed.

Yet, in spite of all this they are offering to their victims freedom from fear and from want. Freedom from what fear? Ask the men in the salt mines of Siberia. Freedom from want? Yes, to a certain degree. Their agrarian plan sounds promising to a starving people to whom a promise of food is a promise of life. But must we forget that the nature of man is twofold? That man possesses not only a physical entity but also a spiritual? Must one forget that the individual rights which mean private ownership, freedom of expression and of belief and worship are the basic requirements of our nature even in times of crisis? Perhaps the collectivism of the Bolshevists might seem to be the only hope to a people ravished by famine, but we who have that which Communism seeks to destroy can easily conceive of the tortures of a world in the fangs of that social evil.

That the people in their desperation embrace Communism is to some extent our fault. We cannot expect people who are dying of hunger to resist the invasion of Communism under the guise of help while waiting for our passive assistance. Dying men cannot afford to wait. The situation is critical, and we must not for a moment tolerate the idea that we can live here in America as a free people if Europe and Asia which have already been impregnated, become Communistic. We must act, and act now!

—Jasper ChenSee

Boy Meets Girl

Villanova students have a wonderful opportunity to meet Catholic College girls We're not proposing a "Date Bureau" but we would like to point out the benefits of closer harmony with the nearby Girl schools.

Naturally, some feel that fate will take care of planting the right one, the future ONLY ONE, in their path. However, stealing from Louis Pasteur, CHANCE FAVORS THE PREPARED. It is best to look over the field, learn women, and decide whether the College type is for you.

At present, most of the girls residing at local Colleges are restricted to short date hours, since most girls have to be back on the campus by midnight. Be this at it may, you will be doing justice to them and to yourself by taking them out.

'NEATH THE SPIRES

By RUSSELL LEO WELSH Editor-in-Chief

There are probably few students at Villanova who do more arguing on problems religious and moral than the Junior Chemical Engineering student, William Space. Hardly a night passes when there is a crowd numbering less than ten squeezed into his room in Fedigan Hall, flooring and being floored by this young artist of argument. There follows in bold print a few questions presented by Bill. The answers are products of student thought, not strictly dogmatic, but they are answers.

What arguments have you for the morality of Capital punishment?

The state has the right to inflict capital punishment in the same degree that a person has the right to kill an unjust aggressor, when no other efficacious means exists to save his own life. This authority is social, and those crimes that gravely threaten the well-being of society may be punished by death when less severe punishment proves insufficient for their control. God sanctioned this law in Hebrew society.

A death sentence is complete punishment, how is this justified for crimes other than murder?

The state as the agent of society was given the authority by God to inflict death as a sentence for a capital crime. The agents of society, therefore, determine the gravity of the crime committed. It is not always an "eye for an eye"; the penalties for capital crimes are drawn up by legislative proceedings whereby the criminal should know beforehand the consequences of the crime. A complete punishment often serves as a warning not to commit a capital crime.

Injustices occuring by such complete punishment cannot be righted. I believe that it is much better for a guilty man to go unpunished than have an innocent man convicted.

Injustices occurring on this earth can be righted by God, and we believe that they will. The fact that authority should make a mistake by convicting an innocent man does not deny them the power to pass judgment. When a man is convicted, he is believed to have been guilty of crime. Mistakes are the dangers of all judgment.

I claim that capital punishment is just a carryover from Feudal times when 'might' made 'right.' As modern governments gradually developed they assumed the powers of the Feudal lord, including his right to punish by death, merely as a symbol of authority.

That development may be correct, but in this country the people elect their leaders, who make the laws. They represent society; they have the authority to change the law. If life imprisonment could completely protect society, i.e. become more appalling to potential criminals than capital punishment, or insure criminal separation from society, then the state would do well to change its laws regarding this. However, even this would not take from them the authority, God-given, to inflict capital punishment.

The EGG and SWEENEY

Being six months late, last week I decided to make an effort to keep up with the Jones' by reading Betty MacDonald's The Egg and I. I started the book prejudiced by the terrific pressure of the publicity campaign it has been receiving. As a matter of fact the book has become so popular and has headed the non-fiction best selling list for so long that most people can discuss it intelligently whether they have read it or not.

The Egg, as the publisher fondly call it, is an autobiographical account of a young married woman's struggle with chicken farming. Mrs. MacDonald was born Betty Bard in Boulder, Colorado. Her father was a mining engineer with but one vice, he sporadically insisted that the whole family should keep fit with calisthenics. Of course, the entire family immediately relapsed into blissful sloth as soon as he left on one of his frequent business trips which took him all over the United States. Her mother was one of the last preachers of that unfortunately almost obsolete philosophy that a woman's first duty is to be her husband's helpmate. Then there was an array of dazzling brothers and sisters, each an outstanding social success. Betty disgraced them by needing braces on her teeth and receiving good marks in school.

"Gammy"

By far the most interesting person in this fantastic household was Gammy, the children's grandmother. It was Gammy who solved the problem of what to do with leftover Hollandaise sauce by incorporating it into her infamous cookies, and it was Gammy whose bed was stocked with articles ranging from a Bible, through candies, to patent medicines, making it a fascinating haven for the children. Gammy is not to be confused with "Deargrandmother" whose occasional visits from the East were times of trial and tribulation for everyone concerned.

The household was completed by a continuous and never ending stream of visitors. Evidently everyone Mr. Bard met was invited to visit his home. They did visit the Bard's and they loved it.

Married at Eighteen

Despite the braces and good marks, Betty was married at eighteen to Bob MacDonald, a man with definite ideas on chicken farming. Innocently following her mother's philosophy to the letter, she followed her husband blindly into the wilds of the Olympic Mountains in the state of Washington. Their very first move was to build a house . . . for the chickens. From that point on the chickens came first and foremost no matter how they fared themselves.

Betty's social life disappeared. Her nearest neighbors were the Kettles and the Hicks and both families lived miles away. The Kettles were lazy, shiftless, and consequently dirt poor but they were happy and had a sense of humor matched only by the bigness of their hearts. The Hicks farm, on the other hand, was ruled by the antiseptic hand of Mrs. Hicks. Mr. Hicks, the house, and the farm were all impeccable, indeed they dared be nothing else.

Happy Medium

Betty managed to achieve the happy medium. There were days but not many, when her laziness knew no bounds, and then there were days when she cleaned so thoroughly that she picked the dust out of nail holes with a needle.

Among other things besides the inevitable chickens, Betty had to contend with Indians with impossible names like Geoduck, cougars, lunatics, drunkards, a garden

CURRENT FICTION
Continued on Page Seven

Meet The Boys: Swimming Artillery Track

By CHARLES McCARTHY

"I was born on the second floor of a gin factory in Havana, Cuba, on February 20, in the year 1926." So states Charles Maurice Labarrere, one of Villanova's more colorful seniors who is enrolled in the Chem. Engineering department.

Maurice is a medium built, dark-haired fellow and has a wealth of gaiety that should make him well liked in the business world as it has here at Villanova. Balanced against this lighter side, however, is a mind that is quick to grasp the more important things in life.

Swimming Team Star

In the early years of education as far as Maurice was concerned school was the Belen grammar school and the Baldor Academy, both of which are located in Havana, Cuba. While at the Academy he was the star of the swimming team and captained his fellow water men to their most successful season in years.

We are told that when it came time to go to college Maurice was quick to choose Villanova. The fact that his mother and the local priest had already talked the entire situation over, did, however, influence him in a slight way.

MAURICE LaBARRERE

In October of 1942 Mr. Labarrere joined the happy throngs at school here and started on his way toward becoming a Chemical Engineer. Now three and a half years later he is about ready to graduate and take his place in the life in Cuba.

To Return to Cuba

Maurice plans to return to Cuba and enter one of their many industries just so long as it is not the sugar industry. He has not made any definite plans as to the future with the exception of getting out of college.

While here at Villanova Maurice has been active about the campus participating in many of the school's activities. He is a member of the Choral Group, the Spanish Club and the music seminar. Sports have not been neglected by this versatile student either, for he has been very energetic in intramural sports. When the swimming team was active he was one of the outstanding members. Football also was placed in his life and we are told that he was knocked out of the league in two games.

Maurice closed out the interview with the following words of wisdom: "I hope to keep out of marriage for about eight years. Most men get married and have four kids before they make their money. As for me—well—I plan to make my money when I can still enjoy it."

Bernie Crumb

Bernard Crumb, one of the college's older men is the next man in the spotlight. He was born in Westmoreland, New York, on 1, June, 1919 and spent his early years in the local Westmoreland schools finally attending Westmoreland Central High School.

While at Central, Bernard was editor of the Echo, the student weekly as well as being active in sports. He played guard on the basketball team, shortstop on the basketball team and guard on the soccer team. He was also president of the Junior class and was vice-president of the sophomore and freshman classes.

In September of 1938 Bernard came to Villanova and matriculated in the school of Commerce and Finance. He remained here in this course until June of 1941, when he left for military service.

Served in Field Artillery

Crumb reported to New Cumberland as so many other Villanovans did at that time and was assigned to the Field Artillery. From Cumberland, he was sent South for basic training and then overseas where he remained for the next 39 months. Bernard spent his time on a tour of Europe. He first went to England then to Ireland. From there he shipped to Africa taking part in the Tunisian campaign. After that he went on to Italy landing at Salerno.

BERNARD CRUMB

Upon his discharge as a T/4 from the F.A., he returned to Villanova to finish. At the present time he is not sure of what he is going to do following graduation, but he does intend to go into some type of sales promotional work.

Active on Campus

While Bernard was here the first time he was very active. He worked on the Blazer Picnic, the Soph Cotillion Committee and the C and F Frolic. He was circulation manager of the Villanovan and played both basketball and baseball in the intramural league. He was also a student council representative just before he left for the Army.

John DiCarlo

One of Villanova's outstanding athletes is John DiCarlo, the last man to take the stage this week. John was born in Ardmore, Pa., on 16, April, in 1920.

Little need be said at this time regarding John's track record for his name is prominent in the cinder circle around the East. However, it is hard to realize that this tall, quiet man is so good for he carries his success very well.

Grammar school days were spent at St. Colmans' in Ardmore. Then he went to Lower Merion Senior High where he was on the Student Council and ran on the track team. He was also captain of the track team in the 1938 season. Following this he transferred to West Catholic where he finished high school.

Pre-Law Student

In the fall of 1939, John entered Villanova as a pre-law student. Soon after his arrival here he became liked and known about the campus. He was in the DPE and a member of the Student Council and chairman of the C and F Dance before he left for the service.

Naturally his track work has been the most outstanding of his extra curricular activities here at school. This year's track team has virtually been built around him.

JOHN DiCARLO

This fall when John enters Penn as a law student, Penn will acquire an excellent student and a fine man.

Band To Reorganize For Football Season

Another milestone passed in Villanova's rapid return to pre-war standing in extra-curricular activities will be the College Band scheduled to make its appearance next Fall.

The popular musical organization, dormant for the past four years, will effect its reorganization in time for the 1946 football season and will be on hand to musically cheer the comrades on the field during both home games and at contests on foreign gridirons.

All students are eligible to become members of the band. The Villanovan will announce the time and place of their initial meeting and all those interested can join at that time.

With the return of the football rallies and other activities the new band is expected to take an active part in college life.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
Where Old Friends Meet and New Ones Get Acquainted

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
The Campus Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Brogan Installed As Engineering Fraternity Chief

Humphries Award Committee Appointed; Interfrat Dance Report Read

Phi Kappa Pi installed officers for the 1946-47 scholastic year last Tuesday in Mendel Hall. Joseph Brogan, infantry veteran and Junior Electrical engineer was installed as president of the fraternity. He succeeds Joseph Hoffman who also served as President of the Student Council.

Murphy Vice President

James Murphy was elevated to the position of vice president of the frat. Jim, formerly a member of the class of '44 is a senior mechanical engineer. He left college in 1943 to enter the Army Air Forces. He attained the rank of 1st Lieutenant and flew C-47's in the European Theater of Operations.

Steve Gasparovic took over the duties of secretary. He was originally of the class of '43 and also flew '47s in Europe.

John Dougherty, former Navy pilot has assumed the duties of Representative to the student council.

Jim Feeney took over as treasurer and Bill Loftus as sergeant-at-arms.

Brogan brought up the Carl T. Humphries award that prior to the war was awarded to the outstanding student in the freshman class. It has been awarded by the Phi Kappa Pi for many years. A committee headed by Jim Murphy and Bill Foster was appointed to contact the engineering school chiefs to aid in the selection of the man to receive the award.

A financial report of the interfraternity dance was read to the members present and the method used to divide the proceeds was explained in detail. Joe Hoffman, retiring president, thanked the committee members for the time and energy that they put into the dance. It was due to this work and effort that the dance was such an overwhelming success.

The matter of dues was brought up at the end of the meeting. All members were asked to straighten them out before the end of the current semester.

Student Action Committee Ends

Continued From Page One

wipe out the mistrust and misunderstanding between nations directed as it is to the younger, more intelligent population group. The House has now a capacity of 800 but the new enrollment has brought the applications up to 1600.

It is especially important that these men get the right impression of the American public since they obviously are the more energetic young men of their respective nations and undoubtedly will assume positions of importance in their respective governments. As they have studied in the United States they may return in a diplomatic capacity and a good impression of our country as well as a deep understanding of our people would be of untold value.

It is just this which forms the purpose of the International House. A boy with no command of the language in a strange land is a target for any sort of racket. Without the aid that an organization of this type can offer, the student is confused and depressed with his host nation and his memories will not be conducive to good relations.

At the meeting it was also suggested that the men of the SAC should be made more aware of the purpose and the affairs of the UNESCO, the United Nations educational, social and cultural organization. This group is formed along the same line of the SAC itself and it would be to the latter organization's gain that this were done.

The question of propaganda dissemination was brought up with the general purpose of instructing the 50,000 college students of this area in the progress and function of the SAC. The close contact of this organization and the school publications was advocated and Drexel Institute advanced the plan that the colleges of the area should form an amateur radio group which would broadcast programs beamed to the other organizations advertising the SAC.

Since it was deemed too late to get the entire Student body behind the drive before the end of the semester, it was decided that the Student Councils of the member schools be addressed by the representatives and influenced to support the drive.

Near the end of the meeting the plans of the Council for the summer semester were discussed. Since there was a different procedure for all schools it was decided that any business which was to be transacted would be on an informal basis and that the next official meeting would be held the first Friday of October.

Racial Society Meets to Discuss Group's Program

Father Lunney Reads Pledge of Association to Members at Meeting

The Inter-racial Club of Villanova met last Friday to discuss the suggested program for Catholic Intercollegiate Interracial Groups and to make added comments and suggestions as to other ways of carrying out the program.

The program follows the principles of the Catholic Inter-racial Movement stressing those points which are most compatible with the obligations and opportunities of Catholic College Students as based on "The Race Question and the Negro" by Father John LaFarge, S.J., and Interracial "Review." The objective of the program is twofold: the combatting of race prejudices and the attainment of social justice for the entire group regardless of race. "Catholic principles maintaining the equality of all men and upholding the sanctity of the Negro's natural rights impose upon all Catholics a rule of conduct which must be followed, regardless of any temporary inconveniences, apprehensions or difficulties that may be encountered."

Interracial Action Described

Catholic Interracial Action is described as "The work of so bringing to bear the influence of Catholic teaching and institutions upon society as to secure just and charitable relations between the various racial or ethnic groups." This would be fulfilled by the actions of: Prayer (personal prayer or participation in the Liturgy); Preparation i.e. thorough study of interracial justice and teachings of the Church, and regular reading, and the holding of periodic conferences; example or the practice of fundamental Christian charity; work for the Apostolate or catechetical work and mission help; and Operation by the development of trained speakers, debates on interracial topics, articles and editorials in school publications, interracial pamphlets, use of bulletin boards and displays, poster and essay contests, and co-operation with other Catholic Interracial Groups.

Organize Individual Groups

The program is tentative and sketchy but every possible suggestion will be accepted. Individual groups, it is thought, would better profit if each were to concentrate on some particular phase of the program until it was clear that the collegiate interest would be sufficient to support the other phases. And when each has completed its respective charge the combined efforts of all will then enable a full motion toward the common goal.

One suggestion at the meeting was to propagandize the program by writing to the "Letters to the Editor" columns of the various outside newspapers and magazines. Father Lunney, moderator of the organization, read a pledge which reiterated the objects and ends of the club in eight points. This pledge will be mimeographed and distributed to all members at the next meeting to be held May 31st in Mendel Hall.

Food Drive

Continued From Page One

standing, and suspicion will be greatly eliminated; a better and more practical assortment of foods will be made available for shipment to distressed countries; an account of all money contributed will be possible. The Philadelphia Plan is being hailed nationally as a most practicable, smooth-running, effectual plan.

The Student Council Villanova, which will purchase these certificates on behalf of the school and display them in the library, has appointed Don Collins the Chairman of the committee to solicit funds from the students. This committee has devised a plan whereby the entire student body will be canvassed at one time. By this plan no one will be annoyed or embarrassed by recurring solicitations.

Juniors Present Annual Ball Fri.

Continued From Page One

acclaim from visitors to that resort.

Garden Effect

Hung from the ceiling will be the usual drapes, used to shut off from sight the grandstands, windows and girders near the roof of the gym. For a cooling effect, many greens, probably consisting of palms and ferns, will be placed at effective spots close by the walls and doorways of the Field House floor.

For the sake of both acoustics and appearance, George Auld and his orchestra, who will supply the musical entertainment for the night, will be located next to the east wall of the gym. This arrangement has been found to be the most popular and most effective of all the locations tried out for the orchestra locations at former Villanova dances.

Stage to be Lounge

Joe Brogan and Vincent McPeak, Co-Chairmen of the Decorations Committee, are now working on a plan to make the stage into a lounge for the promenaders. In all probability, there will be two sets of stairs leading up from the dance floor to the stage. Many chairs and several couches will be provided.

In the event that the stage is made into a lounge, the co-chairmen pointed out, no one will be allowed to smoke there. "Because of fire prevention laws and regulations, insurance rules and in the interest of the safety of all attending the Prom, we must see to it that no one smokes on stage if we should turn it into a lounge for the dance. The school authorities are most insistent upon this and we are trying to do our best to cooperate with them in everything.

The real danger in smoking on the stage lies in the fact that the curtains and so much of other materials behind the stage are so inflamable. Should any of these catch fire, in short order, we could easily have our hands full of trouble," reported the chairmen in commenting upon the probable use of the stage as a lounge.

Refreshments Served

Refreshments in the form of soft drinks, and its concomitants of pretzels, potato chips and cookies will be served, as usual, in the Blue Room, located to the left of the stage. Replacing straws will be special sanitary cups for the drinks.

Reduced Subscription

Today is the last date that the $4.50 fee for tickets will be in effect, and Larry Fallon, Chairman of the Ticket Committee, has urged that all those interested in taking advantage of the fifty cents saving to contact one of the members of the ticket committee before 5 P. M. today.

Starting tomorrow morning the subscription fee for Prom tickets will be increased, and the flat $5.00 charge will prevail thereafter. There will be no increase of admission price at the door on the night of the Prom.

George Auld, hailed as "America's Brilliant Tenor Sax Star," and his orchestra will provide the music for the Junior Prom, starting at 9 P. M. and ending at 1 A. M. Only one short intermission at about 11 P. M. is contemplated. Thus the guests will enjoy some of the very best in dance music for the major part of the evening.

The Canadian-born Auld will feature some of his own solos on the tenor sax. The quality of his solos is not disputed by any who have heard them, and, in fact, they have been acclaimed by music critics and enthusiasts as among the best.

Lynn Stevens Vocalist

As Auld and his orchestra have received many a favorable nod of approval from the cognoscenti of the music world, those contemplating attending the Prom can allay any doubts they may have concerning the abilities of this young band to produce good music for the dance.

Lynn Stevens, who has been with Auld and his orchestra for quite some time will be the featured vocalist.

MEET THE NEW BOY

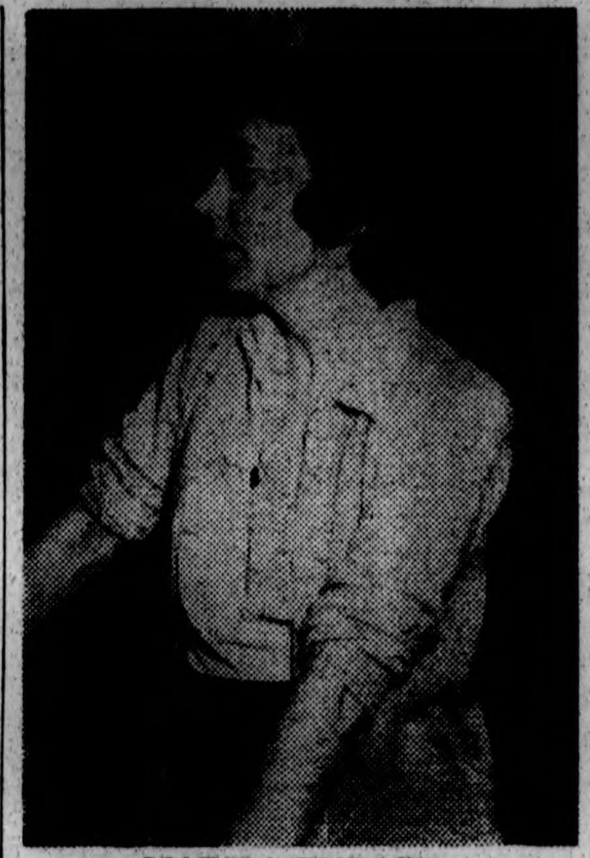
To many of the students now in attendance at Villanova the name "Birdlegs" brings back memories of Jim Halpin who sweated it out with the class of '42.

Jim at the present time is very proud of the fact that his wife, the former Dorothy Reese, who attended Rosemont College, presented him with a son on May 6th.

While is college Jim managed the 150 pound football team. Jim and his wife were members of a now defunct organization, the Rosanova club.

Featuring . . . Our Globe Trotting, Music Loving, College Librarian

Very familiar to all of us here at Villanova is the smiling face and ever helpful personality of Miss Margaret Mary Henrich, of the college library. She has been on our campus for the past four years serving all of us and aiding many an earnest student and faculty member in finding sources of knowledge.



MARY HENRICH

Miss Henrich was born and raised in the city of brotherly love and in January 1942 she was brought to Villanova. As a result of the war. . .gas rationing and all . . .she was forced to move to her present residence in Narberth six months later.

Trinity Alumna

After graduating from the Academy of Notre Dame on Rittenhouse Square, Miss Henrich entered Trinity College in Washington, D. C. where she received her Bachelor of Arts degree. Still not satisfied to stop there, she enrolled at Drexel Institute of Technology, and there was awarded her Bachelor of Science Degree in Library Science.

But all of Miss Henrich's deep rooted education did not spring from the black and white leaves of well-worn books, nor from the tongues of intellectual profs. On the contrary, some of the credit must necessarily be attributed to her cultural hobby of traveling.

Travelled Extensively

At an early age this charming lady took several pleasure trips across the country to the West Coast, the Canadian Rockies, and other points of interest. After "seeing America first" she sailed with her parents for Europe in 1924 and travelled to England, Scotland, France, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Germany, Austria and Poland. She enjoyed the trip so much that three years later she made another extensive tour abroad. "My biggest disappointment was Paris," commented Miss Henrich, "it was much too dirty. To me, Berlin was the most attractive and by far the cleanest city that I visited."

Besides travelling, other hobbies have found their way into the heart of our feature lady which have influenced her life greatly. These are, namely: studying music, attending concerts, collecting silhouettes, and reading.

Music Lover

For twelve years Miss Henrich studied the piano, and her love for music has led her to be a regular patroness of the Philadelphia Symphonies. Her hobby of collecting silhouettes which she started years ago, gives additional proof of her fond appreciation for the fine arts. Like most librarians, however, she has found little time to devote to her hobby of reading.

It is a comforting thought for both students and faculty members to know that whenever they visit the college library someone as willing and as capable as Miss Henrich is on hand to help them if the need arises.

Placement Service Featured In Address

Continued From Page One

Mr. Friel, should provide a greater unity for the entire organization. The purpose for this reorganization is to rebuild the association into a more active one than now exists, and to keep all alumni in constant contact with their alma mater. Although it will take a few years for the plan to become really effective, in time it will show its worth.

Questionnaires

At the meeting, the members of the senior class were presented with placement questionnaires which contained data with regards to scholastic achievements and extra-curricular activities which had to be filled out by the graduates. The seniors were requested to fill in these questionnaires as soon as possible and to return them to the alumni office, so that they may be put on file in the Alumni Placement Service.. There will be no need to attach pictures to these questionnaires, for the photographs will be supplied through the courtesy of the Villanovan and the Belle Air. The information recorded upon these data cards will be used as reference aids for alumni desiring jobs. All seniors who have not received copies of the placement questionnaire may obtain them at any time at the alumni office.

Firms Contacted

With respect to the Placement service, the alumni office has arranged for the personnel heads of various Philadelphia firms to be on the campus at specified intervals to interview members of the present graduating class for positions in their respective establishments.

Mr. Spangler of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company of Philadelphia will be on hand to address members of the graduating class of the school of Commerce and Finance in the auditorium of the Commerce and Finance building on Wednesday May 22, at 2:30 P. M. Next week there will also be a representative of the Philadelphia Brewing Company here to interview members of the graduating class who will receive the degrees of Bachelor of Science in Biology with regards to obtaining a position with the firm. Proctor and Gamble will also contact all seniors who are interested in obtaining positions in the sales field in the very near future.

Social Calendar For New Year Released By Student Council

Continued From Page One

very big week for them and unless they start getting ready for it well in advance, many of them will be caught short.

Contract Signed for Rings

The officers of the class have signed a future contract on the rings. They have been quoted prices ranging from about $32 up to $52.50 for the most expensive rings. Any increase in ring prices will not take the cost up for Villanovans, but they will gain on any reductions.

Another heavy cost that Juniors will have to bear is the cost of the blazers. These should run about $25. It has been suggested that the future Juniors order their rings before the end of the current semester to insure early delivery.

Mothers' Day

Monday, May 5 will be Mothers' Day at Villanova. The Mothers will be presented with corsages, attend mass in the chapel, and be served breakfast. They will then be conducted on a tour of the campus.

Tuesday May 6 will see the return of open house. All departments of the college are opened to visitors.

Wednesday starts the social functions for the Juniors. The Blazer Ball, a closed dance that may be attended only by Juniors, will be held in the field house. Thursday is still open and some function will be scheduled for that day.

Two Dances on Weekend

Friday night will see the Junior Prom in the field house. Saturday is the night that the Juniors will hold their dinner dance at one of Philadelphia's better hotels.

Father McKee has promised to do all that he can to insure an attractive athletic schedule for that week.

Savings Plan

Pete Pallito, president of the Junior Class, addressed the Juniors. He explained a plan that has been worked out with Jim Feeney, treasurer of the class, whereby a fund will be started for the class. Each man will have a savings account and by adding a bit to it each week it will make it a lot easier when Junior Week rolls around.

The Sophomore Cotillion, one of the oldest functions on the campus, will be held on October 18. The dance is already past the formative stage.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Bucknell Game Called Off by Bad Weather

Cats Fifth Cancelled Game of Season; Varsity Sees Phils-Card Double Bill

Well, it happened again! The weatherman decided that the Villanova varsity baseball team was not going to play its scheduled contest with Bucknell here Saturday and to assure this, he provided plenty of rain.

This called contest will mark the fifth game on the schedule which was cancelled on poor weather's account. Penn State, Philadelphia Marine Base, Lehigh (away) and Bucknell home and home series games were all rained out.

With the Wildcats now going better than ever with seven wins under their belt, the weather would be nice to give us a break and allow some of our remaining games to be played.

Team Sees Cards-Phils

On Sunday, May 19th, the baseball team was the guest of the Philadelphia Phillies for the doubleheader with the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals. The Phillies office admitted the ball team as a body free.

After almost a week's lay-off, the boys resume work tomorrow when they meet Lafayette here, with game time being 3:00. Coach Weinert hasn't selected his starting hurler as yet, but the line-up will be the same as that which defeated Princeton May 11 by the amazing score of 11-0, behind the four-hit pitching of big Stan Chojnacki.

Chojnacki, incidently, now holds the place of the team's leading pitcher. Stan boasts a perfect record with four wins and no losses. Chojnacki started out as a relief. hurler, but came a long way and started games. He came into his own with his fine performance against' the Tigers from Nassau last week.

Kline Sparkles

Another brilliant outburst on the field play was the introduction of Norm Kline into the Cat infield. Kline, a catcher by nature as well as a hitter by nature, played first string ball at third base for the Blue and White men in the Princeton game. His biggest feats of the day, however, were a long triple and three timely singles.

Frank O'Neill has been surprising very much of late. Frank got off to a mediocre start this season in the hitting world. Recently Frank has been getting his eyes on the ball with the result that he now smashes quite a few out through the opponents defense. Currently, Frank is among the hitting leaders of the team.

150-Lb. Football?

A few weeks ago the VILLANOVAN staged a campaign for revival of the 150 lb. football team and after conducting a poll for players, running several editorials and the publishing of a letter written by an alumnus who played this sport here a few years ago, there hasn't been anything written concerning the results of this campaign.

The truth is that as yet nothing has been definitely settled and the issue is being brought before the athletic board at its next meeting. Everything possible has been done by the staff of this paper to make your interest and enthusiasm known to the "powers that be."

This Saturday is the dead line for the decision that must be given at the meeting to be held in Annapolis.

Villanovans To Meet Rams of Fordham on 25th

Cats Pointing To Down Rams In Home Contest; Only School To Beat Hank Borowy

Villanova will renew its interrupted baseball series with Fordham when Coach Phil Weinert's nine opposes the Rams Saturday on the Main Line diamond. The first pitch is scheduled for 2:30 P. M.

This game should be a real test for the Cats. Fordham, coached by Jack Coffey, Graduate Manager of Athletics, has fielded one of its perenially strong teams as evidenced by its second place standing in the New York Metropolitan League. Further, the Rose Hill aggregation holds a victory over N. Y. U., the league leaders.

Comparative scores don't provide much of a story on the relative strengths of the two teams. The only team that has been met by both schools this year is Navy. Using the Annapolis games as a standard of judgment the Rams enjoy a definite advantage, having lost to the Middies by only one run.

The Villanovans, on the other hand lost to the future admirals by seven runs. However the Wildcats usually manage to make their worst showing of the year against Navy no matter what the sport. In the light of this the Fordham edge on comparative scores must be disregarded.

If past meetings between the Blue and White and New York's Jesuit College are any criterion, Saturday's encounter should be a ding-dong battle. The Fordham-Villanova series is filled with many close games, upsets and star competitors who have since graduated into the big time.

Back in 1937 when both Fordham and its ace pitcher, Hank Borowy, were among the best in collegiate circles, Villanova was conceded little chance in its meeting with the New Yorkers. However, the Wildcats played inspirationally behind the fine southpaw hurling of Frank Escott and walked off the field winners over Borowy. Thus Villanova became the only school to hold a win over Fordham Hank who in his three years of varsity pitching won twenty games in twenty one decisions.

The next year—Borowy's last—Villanova and Escott almost duplicated but the latter weakened in the tenth inning and the Rose Hillers eked out a 4-3 verdict. Although he allowed 11 hits, two more than his teammates got, Borowy was tough with men on base and left

FORDHAM ON 25TH
Continued on Page Six

Leg Injury Shelves DiCarlo, Track Ace Will Miss IC4A Meet

Villanovas chances in the ICA4A Track Championship at Annapolis, Md., next Saturday seemed to dissolve when coach "Jumbo" Elliot announced the loss of his ace, John Di Carlo. Di Carlo suffered a pulled leg muscle in the triangular meet with Navy and Delaware two weeks ago.

Trainer Nevin said the injury would keep Di Carlo off the cinders for the remainder of the season. Winner of the 220 yard low hurdles in the Penn Relays, John would be sure of being Villanova's highest scorer in the meet. This will definitely bring an end to the brilliant career of one of Villanova's finest track stars who staged a fine come back after his long stretch in the service.

Team Hitting Shows Well In First 11 Games

Smith, O'Neill and Litwa Tops In Team Hitting; Fielding Highlight

By BOB MANSKE

Having completed eleven games of the current season at the time of writing, we find the Blue and White hitting at a rather lowly 216 average, and fielding at a hearty 946.

Even though the club is a little weak with the stick, they have won seven and lost four. This is rather noteworthy, if one would think over their heavy schedule.

Smith Bats .375

The records show that five men are hitting over the .300 mark, with Frank O'Neill and Bill Smith on top. Smith has collected more hits than anyone else on the club, even though he hasn't participated in three of the scheduled games. Norm Kline, who has played in only two games so far, is showing up in great form, and as soon as he gets enough hits, he should be pressing the present leaders.

In the fielding department, big Charles Comerford, Joe Lord, and Frank O'Neill are sporting the best averages, considering the number of chances that have been given them.

Chojnacki Has Perfect Record

Freshman Stan Chojnacki is leading the pitching staff with the perfect record of four wins and no losses; however "Jigger" Donohue and McDonnell have shown great form, but both haven't been blessed too readily by lady luck as yet. The "Jigger," though, seemed to be hitting his old form again, when he set Penn down last Wednesday.

Pitching Records

	W.	L.	Avg.
Chojnacki	4	0	1.000
Donohue	3	2	.600
McDonnell	0	1	.000
Smith	0	1	.000
	7	4	.636

Individual Batting and Fielding Averages

	GA	B	R	H	AVG	PO	A	E	AVG
McCarthy	2	2	3	2	1.000	2	0	0	1.000
Kline	2	8	3	5	.625	5	3	1	.888
Smith	8	32	9	12	.375	13	3	1	.941
O'Neill	10	29	8	10	.344	70	5	1	.986
Nunan	4	9	1	3	.333	19	2	0	1.000
Litwa	11	35	8	10	.285	12	2	2	.875
Doherty	11	46	8	11	.239	15	24	3	.907
Casey	8	30	7	7	.233	3	0	0	1.000
Chojnacki	7	13	1	3	.230	1	13	0	1.000
Comerford	11	45	5	9	.200	93	2	1	.989
Eisenhart	8	22	5	4	.181	18	1	0	1.000
Lord	11	40	4	7	.175	28	16	2	.956
Capriotti	5	12	1	2	.166	2	1	3	.500
McDonnell	4	6	1	1	.166	0	7	0	1.000
Marano	5	18	3	2	.111	4	14	3	.857
Donohue	8	8	1	0	.000	2	13	3	.833
Boos	4	6	1	0	.000	3	6	2	.818
Henry	3	3	1	0	.000	0	3	2	.600
	11	366	70	88	.216	290	115	25	.941

Diamond Men Look For Win No. 8 Over Lafayette

Cats Take on Lafayette Team Tomorrow; Varsity Hitting Improved

By JIM McNAMARA

Villanova's revamped baseball nine will put its impressive record on the line tomorrow afternoon when it engages Lafayette College, one of the top teams in the East. Coach Charley Gelbert, former member of the St. Louis Cardinals before a hunting accident ended his playing days in the majors, will bring a commendable record of 8 wins against 3 losses into the contest. Such power houses as Army, Penn State and Muhlenberg are listed among the invader's victims. The Wildcats will have to play in the same flashy style that was required to humble Penn last week, in their quest for victory over this famed Lafayette team.

News of Villanova's play of late has reached Lafayette and Coach Gelbert is expected to counter with his ace moundsman, Bob Allard. Allard, a native of Bridgeport, Conn., has notched seven of his team's eight victories and he has lost only twice in the current campaign. Behind the plate will be Frank Stanczak, clean up batter and runs-batted-in leader. The infield will have Jack Nemes at the hot corner, Tony Contini at short, Connie Villante at second and Bill Ash at first. The New York Yankees are very much interested in Contini. He possesses a rifle arm and is terrific in the "middle-man" role on double plays. Villante and Ash are long ball hitters besides being better than average at digging those hard, low ones out of the dirt.

The trio that will shag them in the outfield should be Bill Kuts in left, Jack Milne, center, and Marty Zippel in right. Milne is a speed merchant and a collegiate version of the graceful Tris Speaker in the spacious center field. He can really go get them. He is a steady hitter and this coupled with his speed makes him an ideal lead-off man.

Against this array of hitters, Coach Phil Weinert is expected to start Stan Chojnacki, leading Wildcat hurler. Stan has yet to taste of defeat as he fast-balled his way to four straight victories. The rest

DIAMOND MEN FACE
Continued on Page Six

Wildcats Down Penn Nine, 3-2; on Fine Play

Jigger Donohue Racks Up Third Win as Team Hits, Fields

Smith, Litwa and Doherty Pace Attack on Crushed Blue and Red

By DICK SOMERS

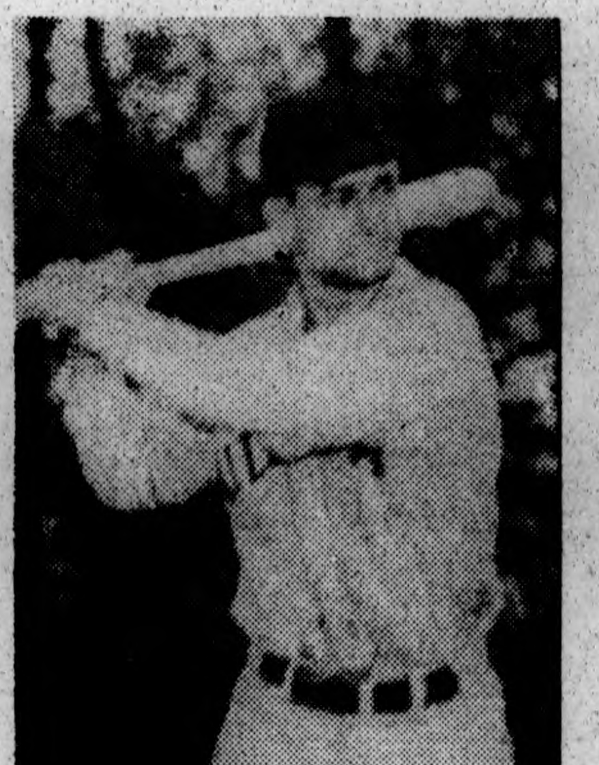
Playing their most brilliant game of the season, the Villanova Wildcats baseball team defeated the University of Pennsylvania Quakers 3-2 at Penn's River Field last Wednesday.

Winning his third game of the year, Henry "Jigger" Donohue held the Quakers to nine scattered hits. Although "Jigger" was in trouble during the entire game, he received splendid support from the entire team, and then clinched the game in Dick Merriwell style in the ninth, by striking out Penn's pinch hitter with the tying run on base, for the final out.

Bill Smith and Al Litwa each threw out Penn runners trying to advance to third base on singles. Joe Lord produced the best play of the game by dashing behind second to make a bare-handed stop and throw on Frank Cooney's grounder in the eighth. Norm Kline snagged a burning line drive over third. Bill Doherty also made a quick throw on Tom Upton's slow roller which eluded Norm Kline. Frank O'Neill handled "Jigger" flawlessly and in addition threw Frank Jenkins out at second, and put the ball on Tommy Upton when he attempted to steal home in the sixth.

Paces Team



BILL SMITH

After Irv Antoni dropped his twisting foul in the first meeting Bill Smith singled to center, moved to second on a walk to Al Litwa, and scored when Dan Casey dropped a single in left field. Penn quickly tied the score on walks to

WILDCATS DOWN PENN
Continued on Page Six

Villanova

	AB	R	H	PO	A
W. Smith, lf	3	2	2	3	1
Litwa, cf	4	0	1	0	1
Casey, rf	3	0	1	0	0
O'Neill, c	4	0	1	7	1
Kline, 3b	4	0	1	4	1
Doherty, ss	3	0	2	1	3
Comerford, 1b	4	0	0	10	0
Lord, 2b	2	0	0	1	3
Donohue, p	3	1	0	0	2
Totals	30	3	8	x26	12

Penn

	AB	R	H	PO	A
Upton, ss	4	1	1	2	3
Blood, 1b	2	0	0	5	1
J. Smith, lf	0	0	0	0	0
DellaMonica, 2b	4	0	0	5	3
Cooney, lf-1b	4	1	2	1	0
Evans, 3b	4	0	1	1	1
Barnhorst, rf	4	0	2	2	0
Jenkins, cf	2	0	1	1	0
Antoni, c	3	0	1	9	2
McCunney, p	3	0	0	1	3
a-Stearnad	1	0	0	0	0
b-J. Stack	1	0	0	0	0
c-Bednarik	1	0	1	0	0
d-F. Stack	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	33	2	9	27	13

x-Della Monica bunted foul on third strike a-Batted for Jenkins in 9th
b-Batted for Antoni in 9th
c-Batted for McCunney in 9th
d-Ran for Bednarik in 9th

Villanova .... 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0—3
Penn .... 1 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—2

Canning Says:—

In the May 7th issue of this sport page and in this issue, Matt "Boats" Kearney, co-sport editor, expressed his views on the present attempt to unionize pro baseball. From these articles you readers might think Matt is "Bitter." Really he isn't. He's still in the service and one doesn't get bitter while in the service. (?)

In regard to unionizing baseball, the big step was taken last week at Pittsburgh and negotiations are said in regard to monopolies on trade, "not all combinations in restraint of trade are "bad." In a way unions are monopolies on the services of their members and not all unions are bad, Mr. Kearney!

One of the reasons Mr. Murphy's union is receiving such bitter resentment is that he has broken his story at a time when the nation is facing a major crisis as a result of Lewis' coal strike. Immediately this new union is associated with the Coal Miners Union and black balled before any one knows what the object of the union is.

The American Baseball Guild, as it is called, is trying to obtain a yearly minimum wage of $7500 for all players, an arbitration board of two members from management and two from the players on grievances, and a 50 percent slice of each sale going to the player who is sold.

The professional life of a baseball player as an average is very short. Once he makes the big time after sweating out four or five years in the minors he may play a year or so and all of a sudden his arm goes bad, he loses his eye for batting, his legs give out, or he's just too old to keep up with the new crop of kids that are pushing him. So he's out of a job, the best years of his life gone and he has to start all over, as no other club wants him. He hasn't made any money in the minors and is just getting a nice salary when he fails.

With the Guild's salary proposal the players will be able to put something aside for a new start when the last club gives them the old "Kiss-off."

The players will also benefit by the "50 percent slice clause" when they are sold back and forth from one club to the other like horses as a county fair.

The "reserve clause" in all baseball players contracts amounts to almost enforced servitude for a ball player. The "owning" club has a complete monopoly on his services and he is forced to accept any salary fixed by the club or remain out of organized baseball. These conditions in our estimation can't be much worse than the conditions a union might impose on the "owners" of their members.

We say to give the American Baseball Guild a chance. It may do a great deal for baseball.

Austin Maintains Lead In Hot Softball Race

Day Hops Enter a Team as League Goes Into Third Thrilling Week

The Intramural softball league had its first no hit game of the year, when Strobel of Mendel Hall hurled his mates to a 9-1 victory over Doms, last Wednesday. Facing only 24 men in seven innings, Strobel was never in any real trouble, but was denied the thrill of a no-hit shut out, when the Doms third base man Knect reached first on Knapp's error. He promptly stole second and third and raced home on Mill's long fly to left field. Steinke, Center fielder of Mendel, gave his chucker a lot of help with a single in the fifth, and a home run in the first with three men on. By showing hitting power and pitching of this caliber, it gives us much to be expected of Mendel in future games.

On Monday night, Fedigan literally handed the Marines a 6-5 victory when the sailors booted five chances at inopportune times. Leading 5-3, going into the fifth, Fedigan saw its third loss coming, when Bob Carroll cleaned all bases with a booming triple to give the leathernecks a 6-5 win.

At the other corner of the ball park, the pace-setting Austinites rallied in the late innings to score eight runs and down the Doms 8-6. Batting honors go to Joe Burns with his three-bagger, home run, and walk.

Austin didn't fare quite as well Wednesday night, when Fedigan's sailors on the rebound from Monday night's close loss to the Marines, ran wild and downed the league leaders 15-11.

The results of this week shook up the standings enough to move Alumni into second place and push Doms from second to fourth.

STANDINGS

Austin	4	2	0	.667
Alumni	3	2	0	.600
Fedigan	3	3	0	.500
Doms	2	3	1	.400
Marines	1	2	1	.333
Mendel	1	4	0	.200

Wildcats Down Penn

Continued From Page Five

Upton and Blood followed by Cooney's single over short.

Penn went ahead in the fourth on singles by Cooney and Antoni with an error and and fielders choice in between.

Villanova tied the count in the sixth when Donohue walked and moved around on a sacrifice by Smith and Litwa's line double to right. The winning run scored in the eighth, as Bill Smith took advantage of slow fielding by Cooney to stretch his single into a double. Litwa sent a fly to deep right and Bill moved to third. Frank O'Neill then supplied the winning hit with a single to center.

Fordham on 25th

Continued From Page Five

15 Wildcats stranded on the base paths.

Playing for the Main Liners at that time were catcher Mike Garbark and shortstop Lenny Merullo, both of whom have since been teammates of Borowy in the big leagues. Big Hank and Mike were battery mates with the Yankees during the first part of last year, but a midseason trade sent Borowy out to Chicago to join Merullo and the ultimate pennant winners of the National League.

Future big leaguers may or may not grace the diamond back of Goodreau Stadium next Saturday afternoon, but regardless, the fur should fly when these two clubs get together in their post-war meeting.

SEEN From the Sidelines

Tom Short and Dan Redmond, members of the Wildcat Relay team, will run for Shanahan A. C. next month.

—V—

Fred J. Koch, former tennis ace at Villanova, will be on the campus sometime during the first week of June. Fred lives in Columbus, Ohio. The purpose of the visit is unknown. Fred is the donor of the Villanovan Intramural Tennis trophies.

—V—

Bob Williams, regular short-stop on the 1945 Wildcat baseball nine, is expected to be up for a tryout with the Pittsburgh Pirates next Spring. Bob was recently discharged from the Marine Corps reserve.

—V—

George McFadden, former member of Villanova's tennis team visited the campus this past week to make application for entrance in September. George was an accounting major before his induction in the Navy.

D.P.E. Nominates Officers For Fall

At a meeting of the D.P.E. last Tuesday, May 14, Louis DiGiacomo, president, outlined a program for the Fall term. Nominations for the coming term follow: President—E. Keller, Q. Montinario; Vice-President — R. Manske, R. Calle; Secretary—E. Alverez; Treasurer—J. Mikolaitis, J. Doody; Sergeant-at-Arms—C. Welde.

Elections will take place on Wednesday, May 22, in 212 Mendel between 12:30 and 1:30.

Before the end of the present semester three softball games will be played against Phi Kappa Pi. These games are an annual affair and the winner will receive a plaque. The fraternity is also planning a smoker and initiations during the latter half of May.

Plans are also being drawn up for the Financier's Frolic which will take place during the second or third week of February next year.

Intramural Meet In Tennis Opens Here Tomorrow

Twenty-Seven Entries Are Signed To Date; Welsh Space and Brizetti Leading Contenders

Preliminaries for the 1946 Intramural Tennis Tournament begin tomorrow afternoon on the Lancaster Pike courts, under the direction of Fathers Joseph Kemme, O.S.A. and Dante Girolami, O. S. A.

At the close of last week twenty-seven entries had already been received with many more hopefuls holding off for a few days. The directors of the tournament will be the final deciders on the pairing and seeding of contestants.

Awards by Villanovan

Awards and trophies, which, as we have mentioned, were donated by Fred Koch of Columbus, Ohio, will be given in the following manner: The individual winner from each student dormitory will be presented with one of the Villanovan awards. The hall which wins in the finals of the meet will be awarded the possession of the Villanovan Cup until they are dethroned from the Campus championship.

Pace-Setters Enter

Among the entries to date there are many stellar courtmen who are tops in their racket. Among these are Russ Welsh, one of the finalists in last year's matches and Bill Space, Fedigan Haller, who made his serve and form feared by fine play last year.

Mendel Hall has high hopes with Leo Brizetti as a member of their team. Leo is also a mighty smooth performer on the earthern court. Other halls have players that are not to be sneezed at and to all appearances the tournament will be a wide open affair.

Entries Still Open

While you read this it is not yet too late to place an entry. Information on the meet has been forwarded to the authorities in each hall and rules for the game are available from the moderators. Your entry will be accepted by either of the two directors.

All students are looking forward to a good and thrill-packed tournament and if it turns out to be any race like the last one was, there'll be plenty of excitement and fine tennis playing in line for all concerned.

Diamond Men Face

Continued From Page Five

of the team will be the same that defeated Penn in the last outing.

It should prove interesting to see how Charley Gelbert has infused his own indomitable fire into his fine team. A few years ago Gelbert was presented with the Most Courageous Athlete award at the annual Sportswriters Banquet.

Kearney Says:—

Although I received no written comments on the editorial on unionization of major and minor league baseball I did receive many verbal theories on the subject. Many had the idea that the commentary was entirely out of place and it wasn't even a question for discussion because no moves had been made to try such an experiment.

The latter refutation was promptly ripped to shreds as last week the Pittsburgh Pirates signed as members of the American Baseball Guild almost unanimously. There is definitely a place for such an article even in a strictly college newspaper. After all, these affairs might eventually influence some of our own athletes.

The Sporting News, the newspaper of American sports, came out the same Tuesday as did the Villanovan containing our story on the unions. In this issue of the Sporting News there was an article by Billy Jurges, former star who played with the New York Giants. He if anybody should know through his some twenty years of experience in organized baseball, Welsh knows just what effect a union would have on baseball.

Jurges scoffs at the idea. He goes through case after case where the unionization of baseball would mean its obvious ruin. Throughout the aforementioned newspaper, which has gained no mean prominence in American sports, are comments of the various sports writers, who should know the "inside dope" on the game if anybody does. These along with Jurges put in their negatives to any such an assinine plan.

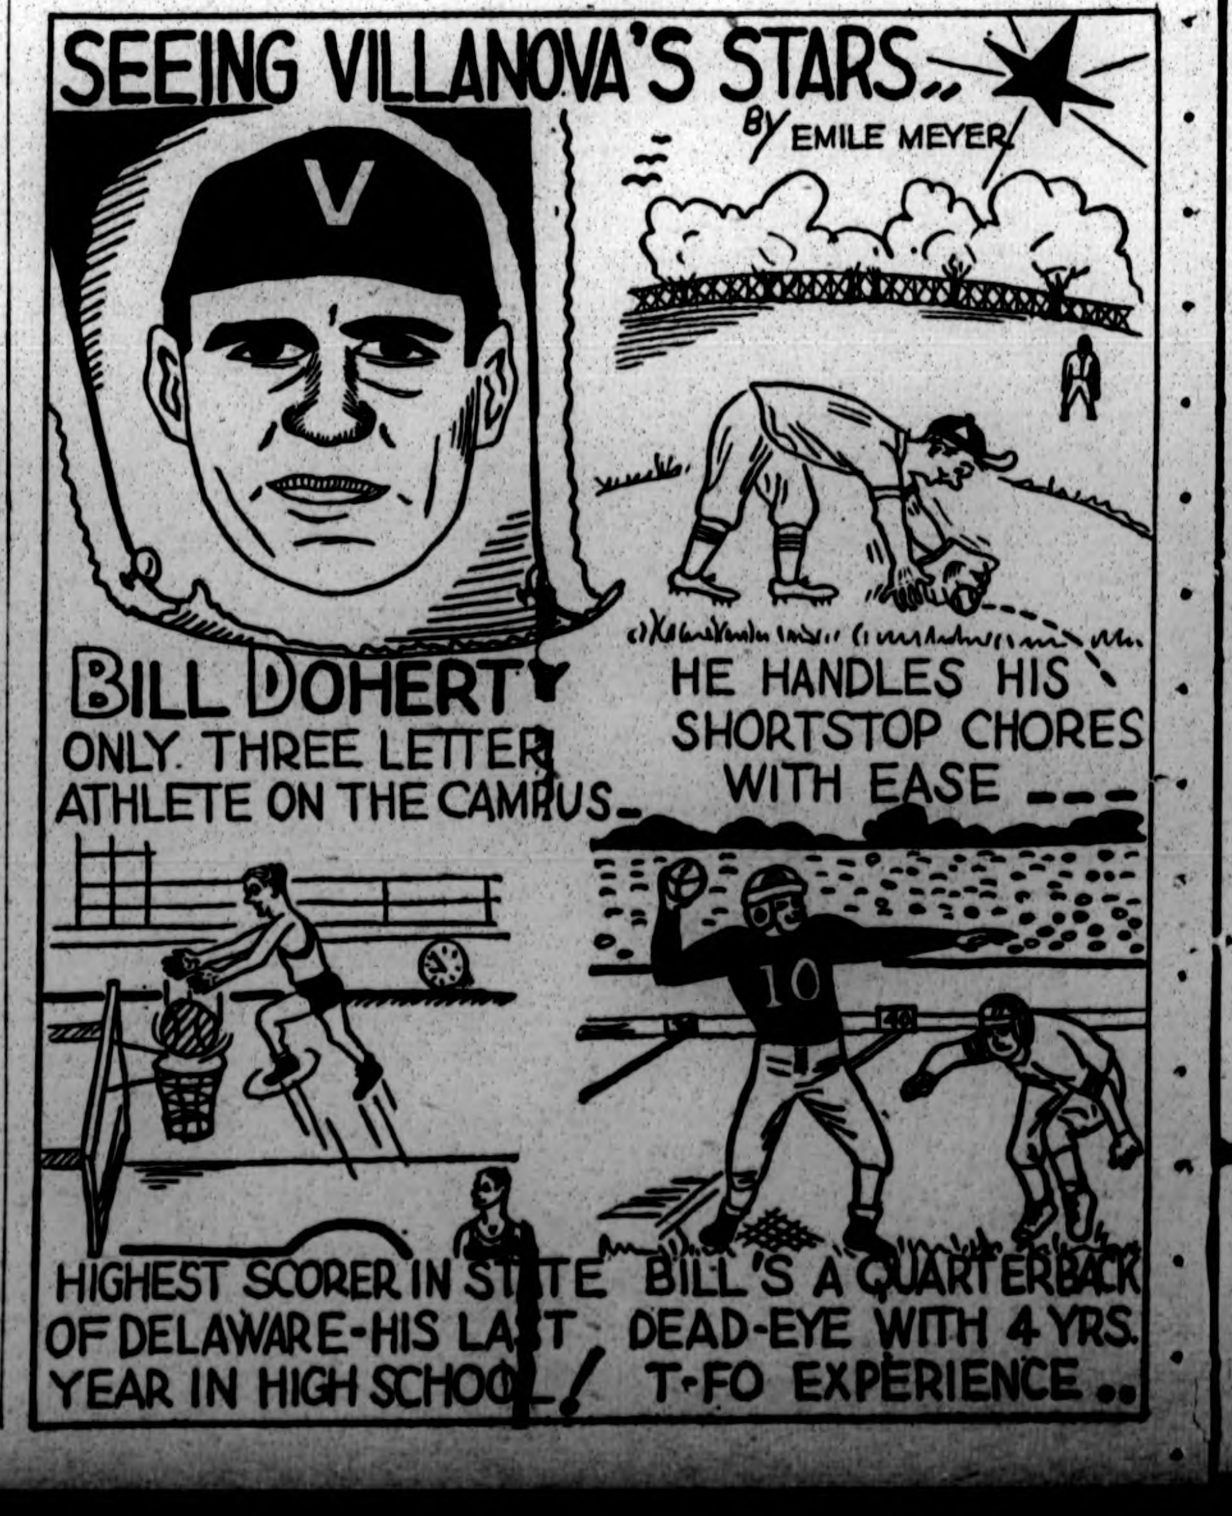
One of the members of the Pittsburgh team who didn't sign was veteran catcher Al Lopez, who certainly ought to know his onions too. Al has kicked around for quite a few years himself and has seen all the ups and downs of the baseball business.

This may seem to be a bitter story and the opening of a very festered wound, but the imminent "Guildization" of such a thorough and fine American sport brings on a sports lover a nausea of a type.

In sports the players have to produce! Their actions are before the spectators. Baseball unions invite lackadaisical play, loafing and other disgusting practices for obvious monetary reasons.

Once they feel secure that they cannot be fired there will be a general let-down and baseball will be lowered to the level of professional wrestling. To be blunt, it will be a big farce!

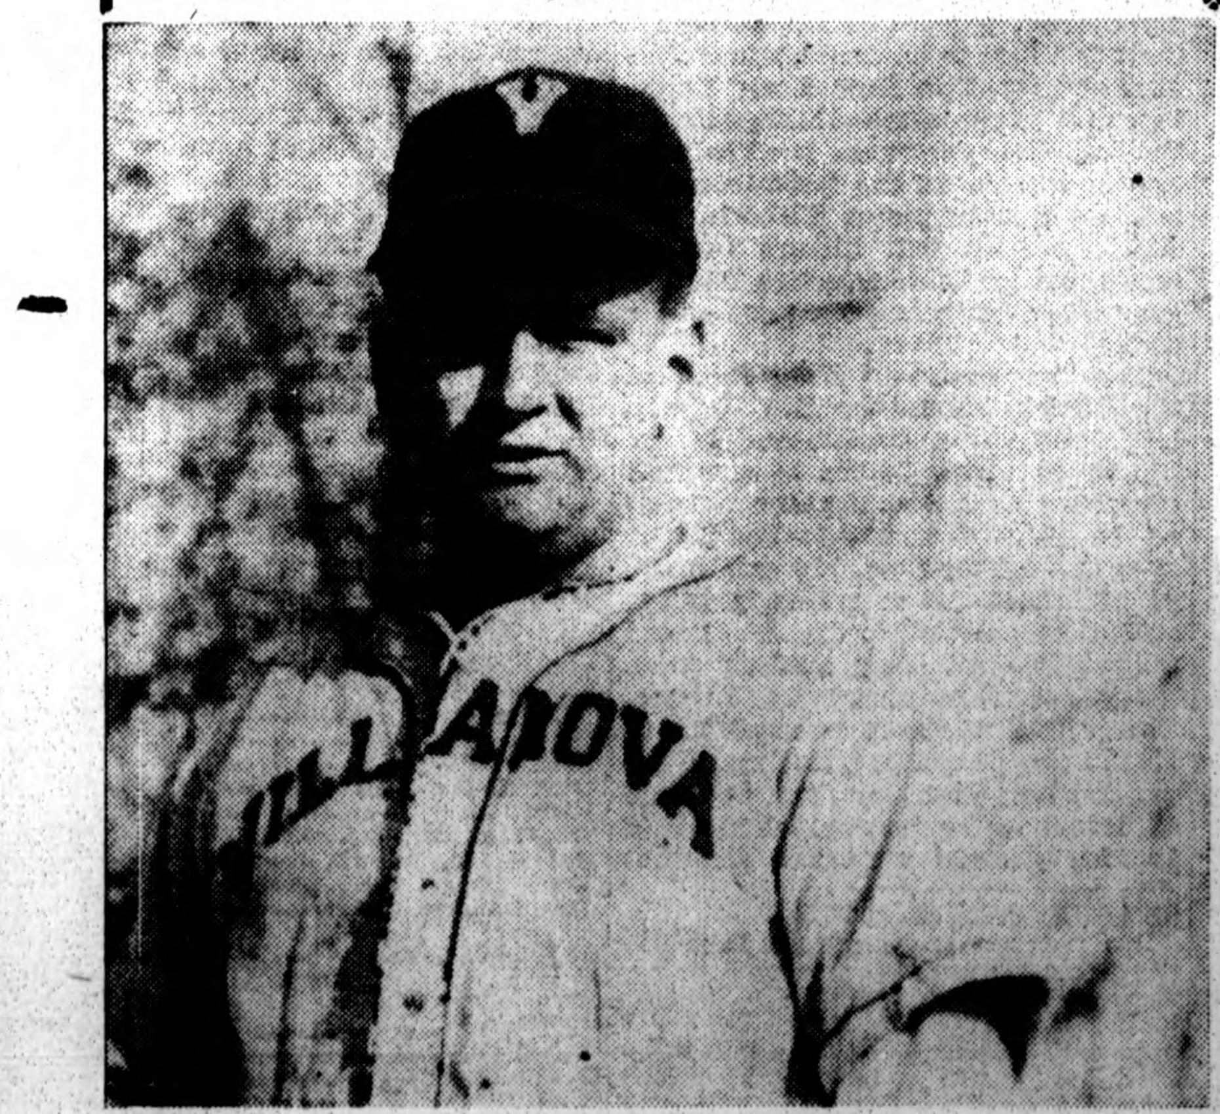
Change the slogan, "It Can't Happen Here" to "Don't Let It Happen Here."



SEEING VILLANOVA'S STARS..
BY EMILE MEYER
BILL DOHERTY
ONLY THREE LETTER ATHLETE ON THE CAMPUS
HE HANDLES HIS SHORTSTOP CHORES WITH EASE
10
HIGHEST SCORER IN STATE OF DELAWARE-HIS LAST YEAR IN HIGH SCHOOL!
BILL'S A QUARTERBACK DEAD-EYE WITH 4 YRS. T-FO EXPERIENCE..

In The Sportlight

By JIM MUDD



Al Litwa, currently starring—and we mean starring—on the Villanova nine, is a resident of the neighboring Jersey town of Camden. Playing three major sports at Camden High, Litwa captained the baseball team to the South Jersey Championship in both 1941 and 1942, batting well over .400 in both seasons.

As a freshman at Fordham University, his playing abilities were rewarded with varsity positions on the baseball and football squads.

This splendid start on an athletic career was breached by a two and a half year hitch in the combat engineers. During twenty-six long months in the Pacific, Al took part in two major campaigns, those of Hollandia and Leyte.

Returning to the States this year, Mr. Litwa decided he had been away from home long enough and preferred the closeness of Villanova to Camden rather than the lure of Fordham and the "big city."

Presently majoring in education, Al hopes to make a career of coaching in professional baseball.

Faculty Comments

Prepared For Success?

By GILBERT MACBETH, Ph. D.

Since college students are preparing themselves for success in their future careers, they are likely to be interested in suggestions having to do with self-improvement. One of the leading elements in the making of a successful man, whatever the field of his activity—an element that is as vital as his amount of native talent and his education—is what may be described as self-dependence. A young man who has high aspirations learns before long that he generally has to depend upon his own judgment rather than upon that of the great majority; that situations constantly arise where he feels obliged to follow one line of conduct while his associates follow another; that many times he must choose between pursuing the lonely path marked out by his own principles and purposes on the one hand and proceeding gaily, though perhaps uneasily, along the primrose path with carefree companions on the other. The aspiring youth knows that to go with the crowd is to remain with the crowd, and that this is not the way to achievement.

This is an old truth, but it has more bearing now in this country than it has had in other lands. In America we have a tradition of equality which, if understood rightly, is all for the good, but which makes the American citizen inclined to certain leveling tendencies that are unfortunate. The founders of our democratic tradition believed in equality of political privilege and of social oportunity, but were completely opposed to the idea that all men are equal in their capabilities and that a democratic society is one without differentiation of any kind among its members. On the contrary, they believed that equality under the law would aid the development of each personality according to its potentialities and requirements. The leveling influences that we observe represent a misunderstanding of true democracy and are irreconcilable with it. An American can and should draw a clear line between the ideal of justice to all and the idea of reducing our culture to a common denominator whereby nobody would be above or below anybody else in personality, intellectual interests, or achievement.

It is sad to contemplate the extent to which the mass of inhabitants in our land are subject to the psychology that is best illustrated by the conduct of a flock of sheep. Everywhere one turns one sees examples of this crowd psychology as regards tastes, habits of thought and action, and ideals or the absence of them. At any one time almost everybody from one end of the country to the other is humming the same songs, seeking the same amusements, and, if reading at all, reading the same books, the same magazines, and the same comic strips. The extreme commercialization of our economy, to the extent that most manifestations of our culture, even strictly artistic ones such as the novel, the drama, and music, are unduly affected by the profit motive, has only made worse a condition that would have been bad enough anyway. As for the motion picture and the radio, in these two cultural

FACULTY COMMENTS
Continued on Page Eight

SMEARS 'n CHEERS

LOU DI GIACOMO

MILT CLIMATI

We wish to thank the writers of "Cat Capers" for the fine publicity they gave us in the last issue of the Villanovan. It isn't often that we have half a column written about us and our column. The next time that Hal and Joe need something to fill their column, they should come to us. We can give them enough material to write four of theirs. In case the aforementioned "columnists?" have any doubts about this claim we should like to present a few statistics. In the weeks issue they had news concerning exactly TEN fellows. Our SHORTEST column included TWENTY ONE fellows, and our average column contains gossip about THIRTY or more. (For verification check the back issues of the Villanovan.) Now that we have pointed out the inferiority of "Cat Capers" we shall proceed with the news of the week.

Some of the Simpson Hall boys had a wonderful time at a farm (?) last weekend. It wasn't a "Lost" weekend, but nobody could find it . . . Vince McPeak knows who the best baseball player in the the major league is. He can sing the proof to you, too . . . We would like to offer our condolences to Bill Bradley of Alumni Hall. Everybody seems to want to steal his girl friends. Why, we don't know, (they only range from 14 to 16 years of age.)

Joe "we'll beat them next week fellows" Dwyer has sure been showing some big league form in the outfield for Alumni Hall lately. Good going Joe . . . Why does Marty Minerva get sick when he hears the name "Lopez?" . . . Watch out zoot suiters, Pete Chaplinsky has a new suit. How are things in South Philly, Pete? . . . We wish it known here and now that Dante Orazi has more initiative than any other student on the campus. If you don't believe us, ask him . . . Everyone is anxiously waiting for Mach Stuart to show up at a meeting. Hang up, Mach, you graduate in "48" you know.

FLASH!!! Gene Alvarez was seen out of bed before noon one day last week. The report was confirmed by Al Meluskey who awoke just in time to see him.

We would like to announce that the rumors that have been circulated about Tony Minyon and Don Padgett are false . . . Dave Ryan is having a tough time keeping track of his tux. The Alumni boys are making good use of it . . . "Romeo" Capriotti is doing research work in "human relations" at Rosemont . . . Fred Disel was awfully worried about a formal that he wasn't invited to. Don't cross your bridges before you come to them . . . Why does Anthony Cocco run around at night yelling "Mercy," "Mercy?" Or is that spelled "Merci?" . . . Frank Nugent seems sad lately its just because his girl friend is thinking of getting married to him . . . We are glad to hear that Dan Stone had a good time at the dance at Immaculata last week. In fact, he wants more . . . Ask Bob Manske what the letters M. W. P. mean. Then get out of the way.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: Will Tracy get shipped out and Brennan get the girl or will Brennan get shipped out and Tracy get the girl?

Who were the cute 12 year old kids that Larry Fallon and Hank Hanratty were dancing with at the Seminary Guild Card Party?"

SMEARS AND CHEERS
Continued on Page Eight

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEIL

We begin this week's edition of the "Basket" with some advice concerning the important subject of worry. So, chronic worriers please take note.

Why Worry

There are only two things to worry about, either you are well, or you are sick. If you are well, then there is nothing to worry about, but if you are sick, there are two things to worry about, to worry about. Either you will get well, or you will die. If you die there are only two things to worry about. Either you will go to Heaven or Hell. If you go to to Heaven there is nothing to worry about, but if you go to Hell, you'll be so darn busy shaking hands with friends, you won't have time to worry.

—Anonymous.

* * *

A member of the student body, with a poetic soul, recently finished his latest work which has not yet been released for the general public. He has been kind enough to permit this column the honor of first presenting the poem in publication form. The composer informed this writer that all royalties and revenue received from the poem's publication will be turned over to the Mesapotomian Society for the Prevention of Cruelty and Inhumaneness to Veterans of the Hundred Years War. Without further ado we shall present "Smoke From a Burning Ulcer" by anonymous. The composer has requested that his identity remain unknown for reasons which will be obvious after you read the poem.

It's always a mess when you leave the caress of a sweet, loving, kind little gal.

There are letters to burn, and the ring to return and the drunk to go on with your pal.

There's returned invitations and long explanations to relatives, family, and friends.

There's re-orientation, perhaps a vacation to help you forget when it ends.

There's some sighing to do and a tear drop or two for the thing that is over and past.

There's the feeling inside that you're trying to hide while you're wond'ring how long it will last.

There are presents you gave that she'd much rather save than "risk getting lost in the mail."

And the "can't we be friends" that one party extends in a parting like this without fail.

And then when it's done and you try to have fun, there's a period still to befall.

Sometimes it lasts long, it's the feeling you were wrong and that she was "the girl" after all.

* * *

Napoleon had his Waterloo
The great of great their fizzes
So pity the college student
When he faces surprise quizzes.
—The Aquinas, U. of Scranton.

* * *

From one of the more recent editions of "The Stylus," school paper of Brockport State Teachers College, we offer the following:

"I love you—Ouch."
"I love you—Ouch."

And there you have the conversation of two porcupines necking. (Ouch).

* * *

Bill Bradley, the sage of Alumni Hall suggests "He who lives a thousand lives — must die a thousand deaths." What's the significance there, Bill?

* * *

"Does yo' take this woman for thy lawfully wedded wife?" asked the colored parson, glancing at the diminutive, watery-eyed, bowlegged bridegroom, who stood beside two hundred and ten pounds of feminine assurance.

"Ah takes nothin'," gloomily responded the bridegroom, "Ah's bein' tooked."

—The Dakota Scientist.

* * *

There once was a boy in Quebec
Who was buried in snow to his neck
When asked, "are you Friz?"
He replied, "Yes I is,
But we don't call this cold in Quebec."
—Hammer & Tongs,
State Teachers College at California, Penna.

* * *

"Smile that way again."

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Eight

Foreign Correspondent

From the smoke-filled den of the Rosemont RAMBLER room comes the following literary concoction brewed in the delicate brains of two beautiful flowers from Roseland, to whom we owe our thanks . . .

Shirley Keiss and Do Kane

We've knocked on your door for twenty years
Our faces are stained with dust and tears,
Our loafers are shabby; our soles are thin,
But at last Villanova has let us in!

Here we are, carpet bags, heavy with Rosemont propaganda, portables ready, and an invitation from Foreign Correspondent to fill one hundred and ten lines of Villanovan space. We're mighty thirsty after the long trek from "Roseland" (to steal a Cat Caperism) to the V. C. WELCOME mat, so put another nickel in the coke machine, pass the straws around and we'll pull up a chair for a chat.

Nicotine Nerves

Perhaps you've noticed a strange atomic atmosphere about campus (ours) of late. The last nineteen days (and we refuse to subdivide that into seconds) are packed to the brim with activity . . . Seniors, the little bundles of nicotine and nerves, have finally hurdled their comprehensives in noble fashion. For weeks we've been watching them wander through the dogwood muttering fantasy, formula and French. Now they have passed with a cum laude smile and can face graduation "with distinction."

This and That

Juniors are bending the corners of their texts for finals, still counting prom profits (and thinking of absconding with the funds.) However, the real medal of the week goes to the Frosh and Sophs who have been conducting a spirited campaign for class elections . . . with wonderful results! The Rambler staff will have journalistic jaundice when they learn we've given our scoops to the Villanovan. They're busy working on a (raise the flag) ten pager to wind up the year.

Traditional Junior and Sophomore-Senior dinners, usually held at swank spots, are making way for "coke-and-smoke" parties to be held on campus. The expense saved will go into the Relief Fund in an all out effort to help the European food situation. Running in close competition with your Junior Prom, this Friday night will feature our Philadelphia club's dinner dance. Prom-trotters and the dinner set will be torn between the Barclay and the Field House. A propos of dances . . . support is tops these days judging by mutual representatives at the Inter-Frat Ball and the Rosemont Spring weekend. Statistics prove that 72% of the Junior Prom escorts came from down the road a piece (and we don't mean Haverford). Thanks to Pat Knox, our new Student Council President by the way, the "Street of Dreams" was perfect with one exception . . . someone suggested that we have Brinjac Photos Inc., for some really good shots of our next formal dance. Yes? . . . Yes.

Serenade—Ah!

While Seniors are packing their bags and preparing for Baccalaureate Sunday, the eager groups will have to tidy up the old homestead for Monsignor Sheen's arrival. Would-be Johnny Mercers are trying to scare up lyrics for two new hit tunes to be introduced on Serenade night. (If the Feature Editor would lay down the whip he might help us). We don't expect to make the Hit Parade but we do expect to see the Blue and White on hand to help catch old shoes, hats, and perhaps a doll or two.

Bermuda

Thoughts of June third make that last lap so much shorter. While you slave away we'll be enjoying Old King Sol while working on a tan or a man. The travel bug is biting many of us . . . beautiful Bermuda is calling! He's conducting a ten day trip to the land of coral, sand, and swim. The price of the tour will be announced later and those who have the purse will sail on June fifth. The vacation will include meals, bike tours, taxies, tennis, Bouganville (get out your pocket dictionary) and hibiscus. All this and a tropical moon too!

Again Kilroy!

KILROY (you know we'd bring him in here somewhere) is conducting a survey! It seems he was wondering exactly what the girls on our side think of the guys on your side. Well . . . from all indications the good neighbor policy is back to stay. Just take a look behind the "T" house any morning, noon or night . . . the green benches are crowded with you lads and strains of "College Days" are replacing wartime "corn-fed and hustling up and down." Our veranda is covered with your weekly every Wednesday; in fact, you might set up a news stand and start selling copies (we really meant "giving" but the Circulation Manager has already started to solicit subscriptions). And while we are on the subject of the Villanovan we really enjoyed that recent article on our fair college. No, the Editor isn't threatening with a club. We really mean it! So, add it up, KILROY, and there's your answer.

The Glamour Man

As for the ideal Villanova man (did someone ask for that or are we dreaming this up?) . . . at any rate, let's say that the ideal Villanova man is an ideal man, and an ideal man is just an ideal. Who wants an ideal? Let's just discuss the man. He has personality, effervescent, placid or subtle, as the case may be; he has charm, no matter what the case may be; he has looks, as the taste may be; and he has intelligence, and that may or may not be. He has a firm handshake, and a hearty laugh; he's always considerate (with special commendation to the Wildcat Taxi Service). Not being good judges of male fashion we'll probably murder the next comment, but we do have our preferences in what the Vilanova Van Johnsons (yes he's our favorite) should wear. Sport jackets, ties, white shirts (if you need them, we have them, too), and well-creased trousers. Plaid shirts for the knockabouts, shorts for the court hounds, and shoes for all. KILROY, take a bow!!

Goodbye And "30"

But enough of this idle chatter, we really should head for home. The coke machine reads "Tilt" no-one has a nickel and the editor has put away the whip. Seriously enough, posing as guest correspondents has been a real treat and we've enjoyed every minute of it. This has been a bit of collegiate review and a good excuse to drop in and say "hello." And just to make sure we have an excuse to come back soon, we'll leave the empty coke bottles with KILROY and pick up the deposits later.

Current Fiction

Continued From Page Three

which grew so fast that she spent most of her time preserving the produce, and in conjunction with this last a pressure cooker which finally exploded giving her blissful days of peace. Not to be overlooked are "Stove," whose pampering came second only to the chickens, and of course her baby.

Betty was not doomed to spend the rest of her life on that isolated chicken farm. No indeed, a time soon came when the farm was comfortable and up-to-date and they sold it, and moved on to a bigger, better chicken farm where no doubt they are raising bigger, better chickens which lay bigger and better eggs cheaper.

Ingenuity and Zest

This book is written with such ingenious charm and with such zest for life that it is hard to criticise it. All the stock items of the ordinary humorous writing are present but they are handled in such a way that one forgets that all of it has been done before.

The best and the funniest part of this book is in the first few chapters which chronicle Betty's childhood. This is true not because the humour is inferior in the later chapters, but because in the later chapters Mrs. MacDonald allowed her writing to run away with her. The result is a lot of rapturous scenery description and so forth which form the dry spots which spoil the pace of the book.

American Colleges Out of Date, Says Look Editor

American education today lags far behind the pace being set by modern science, according to Harlan Logan, editor of Look Magazine. In his article, The Failure of American Education, appearing in the current issue, he launches a campaign for the complete reform of educational administration and revision of present curricula. He asserts that our schools and colleges, with a few notable exceptions, are habit-ridden and tradition-bound, and that they fail to prepare their students to meet the widening complications of modern civilization.

In his charges, Mr. Logan brings not only educators, but parents and citizens, within the range of his fire. Teachers, for the most part, are exonerated as being helpless in a system not of their own making; but he blasts the administrators—superintendents, principals, presidents, deans and department heads—who could bring about many necessary improvements, but who fail to act, he claims, through fear of upsetting the status quo and thereby endangering their own positions and salaries.

Blames Parents

Although he accuses State Legislatures and Congress of consistent failure to provide more adequate funds for education, the bulk of the blame falls upon parents, citizens and taxpayers, in Mr. Logan's opinion. In the last analysis, it is they who permit appropriations for war, roads, dams, post offices and pork barrels to take precedence over school budgets. Ignorant, indifferent or bewildered, they have made too little use of their power as voters to demand educational reforms.

In outlining the present weaknesses of American education, LOOK's editor attacks old-fashioned and inefficient teaching techniques; outdated methods of grading; and classrooms slow-paced within an arbitrary framework of terms and semesters. He charges our educational leaders with laziness, stating that many of our teaching methods "haven't changed in hundreds of years . . . haven't taken advantage of even so ancient a development as the printed drawing or the more recent photograph, or moving pictures or phonograph or radio." The revolutionary improvements developed by the Armed Forces in the teaching of languages, mathematics, and a dozen other subjects, could be adopted by our schools and colleges, he believes, to the immediate advantage of their students.

Low Pay

The low pay of teachers and college instructors is scored as another great weakness of our educational system, causing reduced efficiency, frustration and bitterness on the part of otherwise able, sincere and hard-working men and women. In this connection Mr. Logan cites the national average salary for college instructors in 1942 as $1,872; for high school teachers as $1902; for grade school teachers as $1366; and for rural school teachers as $1018. These, he points out, are considerably below the incomes of shipbuilders, petroleum refiners, printers, and cannot today be called a decent living wage.

Mr. Logan, himself an educator and a former professor on the faculty of New York University before his appointment as editor of LOOK, expresses the belief that our outmoded, inadequately financed educational system will gravely affect the future competence of the nation. From the ill-equipped and ill-taught children of today, the community will reap a grim harvest of socially maladjusted, bewildered and broken adults.

Combat Chaplain

Continued From Page One

struction Battalion, with which he went overseas.

First Campaign

After short duty at Oro Bay and Finchhoffen, Major Dunne participated in his first major campaign in the landings at Moffen Bay. His next move was New Guinea, where his outfit built a bomber strip and aided in construction of a fighter strip.

Continuing his island-hopping campaign, the Chaplain joined General Douglas McArthur's forces on the invasion of the Philippines, landing at Duloc, where his outfit built another airstrip. The battle was on in full force at this time, and while Father Dunne was saying Mass at Dulog, the Japs combined a counter-attack by land and a parachute attack in which they held several Air-strips for a few days and did a great deal of damage. Major Dunne finished his Mass, Jap attack or no.

It was for the splendid work on the Palo airstrip under the most trying of conditions at Leyte, that the 1897th was awarded the unit citation.

Headed For Tokyo

Palowan was the next stop on the road to Tokyo and Villanova's chaplain was taking this route. The Battalion constructed an all-weather strip which featured in the raids on Borneo and South China.

Not wishing to miss any of the show the 1897th moved into Okinawa where they built a huge B-29 strip.

The termination of hostilities prevented Major Dunne and his outfit from participation in the biggest show in the Pacific, the invasion of Japan. Occupation forces were needed for construction work on the battered airstrips in Japan, and this outfit was one picked for the job.

"Imperial Sooner"

While in Japan, Chaplain Dunne obtained "Imperial Sooner." What is "Imperial Sooner?" It's a dog!—just a plain mut, but a real pal, so the Major stuffed him in his "A" bag, and brought him home.

Another of his prize possessions is the Samurai sword belonging to the Japanese Commander at Palowan. This treasured souvenir was given to him by a Filipino Chaplain, and will be placed on display in the library along with Father's flags and numerous other possessions.

Alumni Hall Looks Good

The most pleasing sight to Father Dunne in his return to Villanova was the interior decoration of Alumni Hall. There never has or ever will be a better hall than Alumni in Father's estimation. For those of you who are new on the campus, he was prefect of Alumni for many years and heartily defended his boys in every intramural encounter especially against his arch-rival, Father McKee and Austin Hall. Those who are former students of pre-war days will well remember Father Dunne's attempt to transform old Alumni into a battleship for the Connolly Decoration trophy. Much to his consternation a storm blew up the night before the judging and blew down the whole hideous structure—much to the glee of the entire student body and Father McKee.

At the end of his terminal leave Major Dunne will resume his former chores as professor in History, Religion and prefect.

We welcome Father John R. Dunne back to Villanova and to the faculty.

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Seven

She blushed and dimpled sweetly. "Just as I thought—you look like a chipmunk."

—The Plainsman.

• • •

First Old Maid: I shiver every time I think of a handsome man kissing me.

Second Old Maid: And here I've been thinking you had St. Vitus dance all these years.

—The Plainsman.

• • •

First: Whatcha looking for?
Second: My pocketbook.
First: Where'd you lose it?
Second: Down the street.
First: Why ya looking for it here?
Second: More Light.
First: Oh.

—The Plainsman.

• • •

We couldn't resist the following from the same issue of the "Plainsman."

Sweet Young Thng—We've been waiting a long time for that mother of mine.

Young Man—Hours, I should say.

Sweet Young Thing — Oh! Jack, this is so sudden!

Relations Group Discuss Charter

Last Monday, May 13th the International Relations Club of Villanova met in Simpson Hall under the guidance of its moderator, Father McCarthy. The topic of the day was "World Affairs in Regard to Movements for Peace."

The subject up for consideration was the comparison of the United Nations' and League of Nations' charters and their relative merits and demerits. Discussion was spirited on the validity of the claims of both works to fulfill the requirements necessary to insure peace in the world. The disadvantages of the League of Nations Covenant to bring peace were stressed and those of the United Nations with regard to individual powers of veto, etc. were likewise pointed out.

Smears and Cheers

Continued From Page Seven

Come now, boys, you should be able to get girls at least 14 or 15 years old. . . . Congratulations to Bernie Borschke on the four Visitors he had at the softball game last week. Friends of yours Bernie? . . . Ray Kelm and Joe Donovan have been playing golf every Sunday. "Capt." Kelm must be getting old, because he comes back to College and sleeps after every match, or maybe he is just trying to win the "battle of the mattresses" . . . Art Alois, Lou Ferry, and Sam Constantino have been giving blood so often at the Bryn Mawr Hospital that people are beginning to think that they work there. By the way where are they getting their blood?

A DATE TO REMEMBER: May 16, 1946, Tom Smith wore a necktie to class, and he didn't borrow it from Ed Sullivan.

Bob Mills can now play the pin ball machine again, and John Burke can go on his merry way. Their bet ended Saturday, with neither one making any money on the deal . . . The Newly elected President of the Junior Class, Peter Pallitto made this statement when addressing a meeting of that class. "The Blazer Ball will be formal, and all the girls will wear gowns. However the only thing the fellows have to wear are their blazers." Don't you think that might embarass the boys a little Pete?

JOKE?

Young Lady (on first ocean trip)—"Could I see the captain?

Steward—"He's forward Miss."

Young Lady—"I am not afraid, I've been out with college boys."

Thus we conclude this weeks column.

P.S.—"Cat Capers" please note there are over THIRTY students names mentioned in this week's issue.

Bolivian Missionary Is Former Student

Father Joseph Hahn, who belonged to the class of 1933 at Villanova, hopes to establish a mission air line in Bolivia.

While at Villanova, Father Hahn was an engineering student; he was also a member of Phi Kappa Pi. He attended St. Thomas the Apostle School, De La Salle, Seton Hall and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Father Hahn won a fellowship to the Guggenheim Airship Institute before he decided to join the Maryknoll Fathers. He is the only priest member of the American Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, an organization made of the leading designers and scientists of the aircraft industry. Father Hahn was formerly a professional airplane designer who has made a special research in the field of dirigibles.

Father,s family resides at 138-09 78th Drive, Flushing, N. Y.

Faculty Comments

Continued From Page Seven

avenues we have a combination of commercialization and leveled popular taste resulting frequently in a delirium of vulgarity and ridiculousness.

A student who intends to make something of himself is not satisfied with popular standards such as these. As he matures he finds that he must lean more and more upon himself rather than follow the example of those about him. He learns from others too—from those he recognizes as worthy of emulation. But he never does what others do merely because they are doing it. He never yields to the natural inclination to act and think like the "gang" so that he may maintain in himself the sense of "belonging." He will be restrained and considerate in his actions and in the voicing of his convictions, but he will never conform for the sake of conformity. He will not make mountains out of molehills in his adherence to his principles and goals, but neither will he minimize the importance of critical matters in order to avoid the appearance of singularity.

Such a student will take his studies seriously when others are content with a minimum of effort. He will use some of his spare time in profitable reading when his companions prefer to pass the time with cards, aimless talk, or indifferent play. At the same time he will find a place for recreation, and will have room for the theater, sports and dates; but he will not allow any of these to assume the importance of a major interest rather than his studies, his main business. He will see that extreme absorption in college sports or any other extra-curricular activity is only an evasion of the responsibilities of the intellectual life that every student should be leading. His ideal student will not be a slack-minded lounger with a cigaret but a thoughtful, earnest seeker after excellence of every kind. He will thus be on the road, the only road, to genuine success.

In order to live thus it is not necessary to live apart from one's fellows. It would be a great mistake to do so. A man can hold his deeper self apart from and above the existences of those about him and at the same time be one of them as far as he may see fit. The greatest of men—Shakespeare and Lincoln, for example—have found it possible to share the lives of ordinary people and still hold fast to their own ideals and dreams. Nor should any person permit an attitude of superiority and conceit to corrupt his desire to excel. He should regard his endowments, whether great or little, as having been given him in trust and as a responsibility rather than a ground for vanity and self-congratulation. Let each be faithful to his trust and use his talents for his own good and for the good of humanity.

Alumni To Elect Future Officers

Officers for the Alumni Association of Villanova College for 1946-47 will be elected in the near future. Ballots have already been prepared for these elections and, according to the by-laws of the organization, will be in the mail one month before the elections are scheduled to take place.

The ballots will be sent to all active members who have paid their dues, thus making them eligible to cast a ballot. The "tickets" will be in the mail by May 23. All those alumni members who have not paid their dues, but who wish to cast a ballot, may contact Mr. William Freil and arrange to reinstate themselves in the good graces of the organization. The election results will be announced at graduation on June 23.

SCHEDULE FOR THE WEEK

Tuesday, May 21:
Student Council Meeting, Room 212 at 12:45 P. M.

Wednesday, May 22:
D.P.E. Meeting, Room 215 at 1:00 P. M.
Food Drive—11:00 A. M.
Baseball game at home with LaFayette.

Thursday, May 23:
A.S.M.E. Meeting.

Friday, May 24:
Junior Prom, dancing from 9 to 1.

Saturday, May 25:
Baseball game at home with Fordham.

College Tailor

Coladonato Tailor Shop, Inc.

2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266

We do adjustments the way you want them.

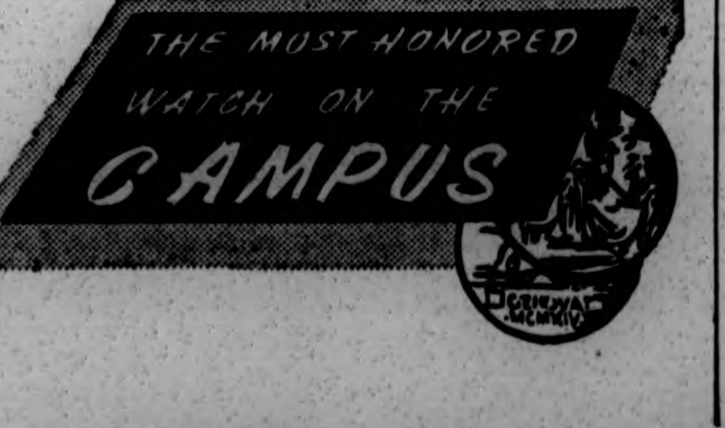
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable

For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH

Longines

WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.



THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

ICE
Aristocrat
CREAM

PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Buy your Junior Prom corsage from

John R. Doley and David I. Ryan

CAMPUS AGENTS FOR

Albrechts Flowers

Wayne, Ardmore, Narberth

Main Line and City Deliveries

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 21—No. 10 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MAY 28, 1946

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Surgeon Alumnus Reported Killed

Anthony C. Gugino '33 Reported Dead in Auto Accident in Belgium

Anthony Charles Gugino, '33, was killed in an automobile accident in Belgium in July of 1945. Captain Gugino was a pre-medical student at Villanova and went on to the School of Dentistry of the University of Buffalo. At the time of his death Captain Gugino was with the 1st Army, serving as Chief Surgeon of the 1128th Engineers Combat Group.

Dr. Gugino practiced dentistry in Geneva, New York from 1936 until his enlistment in the Army in 1942.

After induction he served at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey as a 1st Lieutenant. In a short time he was transferred to the Carlisle Medical School, Carlisle Barracks, Pa. In December of 1943 Dr. Gugino was shipped overseas and took up his duties in England.

In England Dr. Gugino was promoted to the rank of Captain. In June of 1944 he participated in the invasion of France, assaulting the Normandy beaches with the Combat Engineers. During the battle of Europe he received five battle stars having served in Normandy, Northern France, Germany, at the Bulge, and at the crossing of the Rhine.

Villanova's Food Drive Continues

Students and Faculty Contributed Over $120 Last Wednesday

Having initiated its campaign to collect funds for the Emergency Food Collection of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia, the Student Council received $122 in contributions from the students and teachers of Villanova last Wednesday, when all classes were canvassed during the morning.

Certificate To Be Awarded

This money will be turned over to the local organization in line with the Philadelphia Plan. In recognition of the contribution, a Share the Food Certificate will be sent to the Student Council. The Council will put it on display in the library.

Throughout the month of May the campaign will continue under the auspices of the Student Council, and contributions will be accepted by any member of this organization. Jasper Chen See, one of the two Villanova delegates to the United Nations Council of Philadelphia, will also personally accept donations.

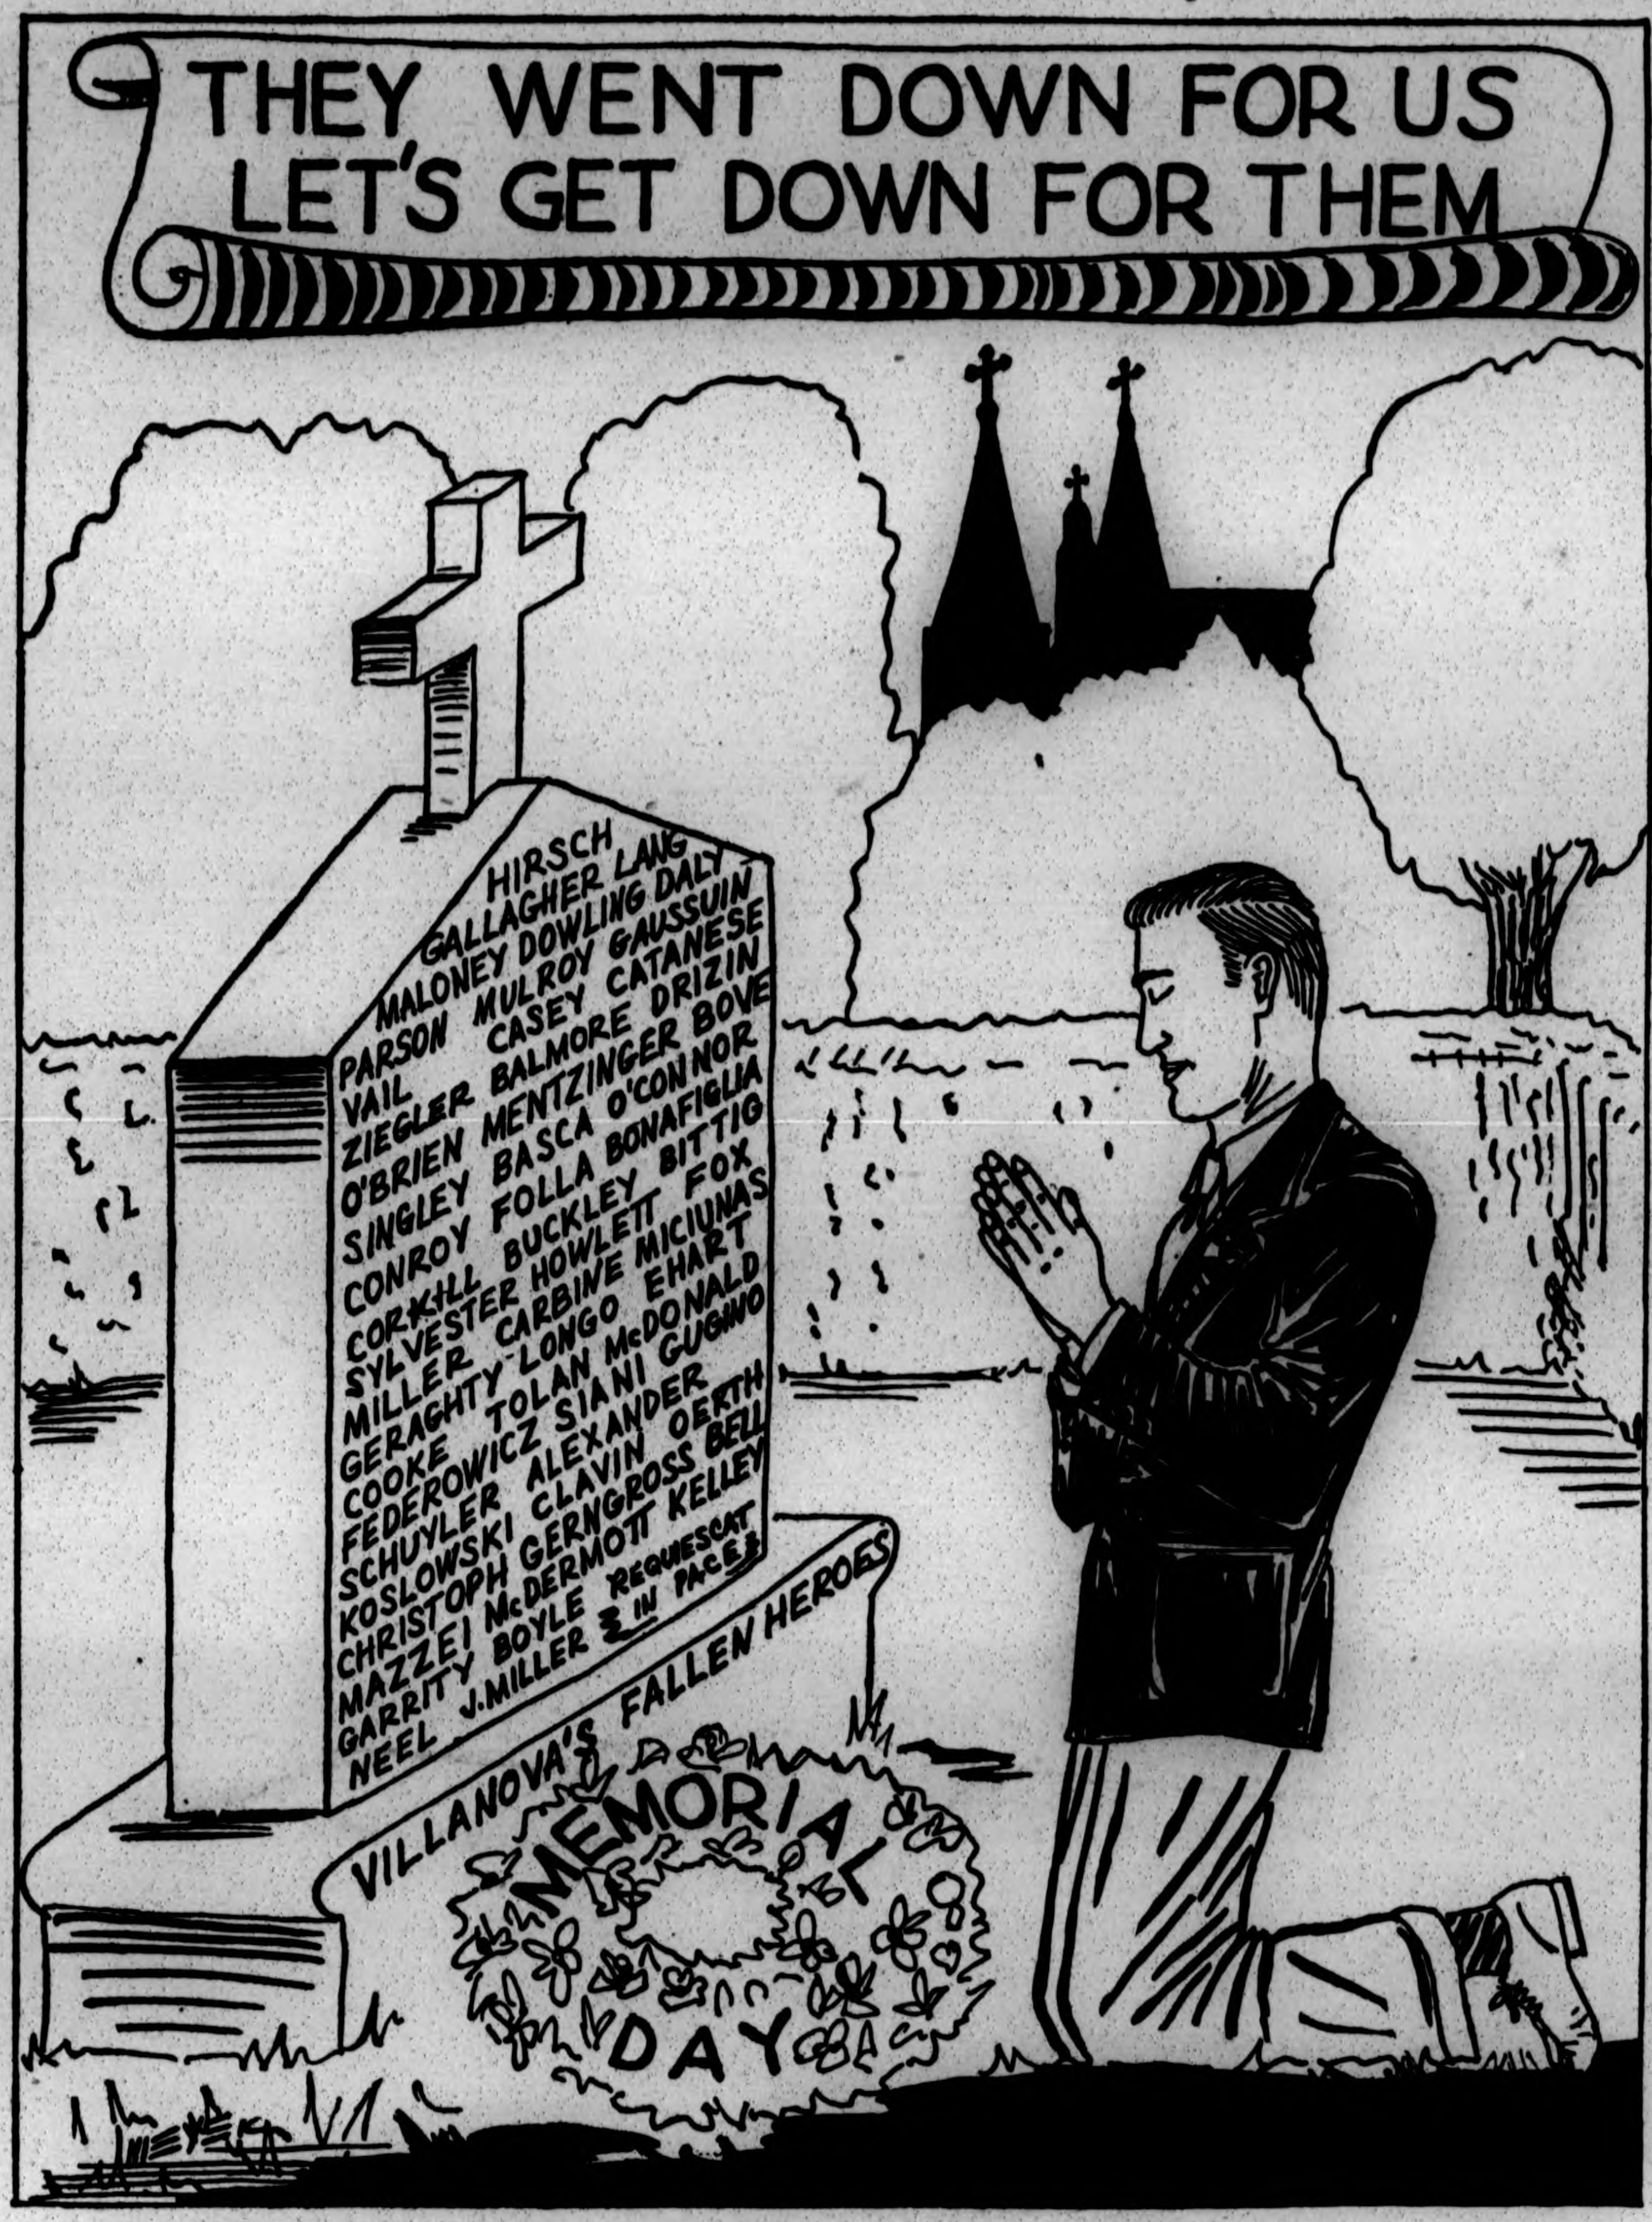
Drive to Continue

Boxes will be placed in the Pie Shop and in the Cafeteria for the convenience of those who may wish to contribute to the Emergency Food Collection at any time during the month.

"The pressing need of food all over the world is one of the real post-war problems faced by the nations who have incurred the responsibility of victory," said Donald Collins, Chairman of the Food Drive at Villanova. "The diplomatic and economic implications of the impending famine are fully as important as the humanitarian aspect, and I expect the drive to appeal to men of reason as well as to men of heart," added Collins.

Problem of Supply

The problem of supplying food to the hunger-stricken areas of Europe and Asia must be solved as soon as possible. This can best be done by the whole-hearted cooperation of the people of the United States, who have at their disposal the means and resources which will help aid in the solution, it has been stressed by those directly connected with the problems.



What It Means To Love

EVERY day can be a day of memories. Memorial Day is a day of especial memories. It is a day dedicated by the Nation to the memory of its loyal sons who have offered their lives on the national altar of sacrifice in defense of America's sacred principles. Memorial Day bids all Americans stop and remember the immeasurable price paid for the coveted democracy in which such freedom and security are found.

Memorial Day of 1946 is the first since the battle smoke of World War II has vanished from the scene. Villanova is overjoyed at the sight of her returning heroes. Her sons answered the nation's call by the thousands. Thousands have returned safely. The earth holds firmly the mortal remains of fifty-seven gallant heroes. God, we trust, has received their souls.

On this Memorial Day of 1946, Villanovans will remember the deeds of these heroic dead. However, we shall remember more than any other the final act of their lives. "Greater love no man hath than that he lay down his life for a friend." Sacrifice has always been the measure of love. The supreme sacrifice is the final test of supreme love. Our memories of these noble men on this day will enable us to grasp what it means to love Truth and Justice and Freedom; what it means to love America.

Americans have enjoyed success, glory, and peace through the freedom won by those who have fallen in battle. These gifts must be maintained by the daily sacrifices of those who live to enjoy them. The memory of their fallen brothers will inspire Villanova men everywhere to live, at whatever sacrifice is demanded, by the principles for which they died.

Memorial Day of 1946 brings a tribute to the memory of our fifty-seven dead; a pledge that they shall not have died in vain; a prayer to God for the eternal rest of their souls.

Requiescant in Pace!

—REV. FRANCIS X. N. McGUIRE, O.S.A.
President of Villanova College

Dr. Hubbard To Be Medal Recipient

Johns Hopkins Authority on Ultrasonics Honored by College

Dr. John C. Hubbard, an authority on ultrasonics, the science of high frequency sounds, and professor of physics at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, is the 1946 winner of the Mendel Medal awarded by Villanova College.

Announcement of his selection was made otday by Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., president of Villanova College. The award will be presented at a dinner to be held here June 13.

The Mendel Medal was founded by Villanova College in 1928 in honor of Gregor Mendel, abbot of the Augustinian Monastery at Brunn, Austria, whose scientific research gave the world the Mendelian Laws of Heredity.

It is awarded to outstanding Catholic scientists who by their work have advanced the cause of science and have demonstrated by their actions that there is no conflict between true science and religion. It is not conferred annually.

Dr. Hubbard is the first recipient of the award since 1943, when Dr. George Speri Sperti, of Cincinnati, received it. Other winners include Dr. John Kolmer, professor of medicine at Temple University; Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the U. S. Public Health Service; Dr. Hugh S. Taylor, chairman of the chemistry department, Princeton University, and Dr. Petrus J. W. Debye, professor of chemistry, Cornell University.

Dr. Hubbard, chairman of undergraduate physics at Johns Hopkins University and a member of the faculty for 18 years, has gained

MENDEL AWARD
Continued on Page Eight

Last Semester's Paper Rated High By College Press

With 800 out of a possible 1000 points the Villanovan for the fall semester of the 1945-46 academic year, received a rating of First Class, Excellent, from the All-American Critical Service of the Associated Collegiate Press.

Semi-Annual Competition

Judging in the semi-annual competition is on the basis of examining all the papers in the groups, which are based on method of publication and enrollment of the school. The Villanovan was included in the group of weeklies with a school enrollment of 1000-2499. Points are scored for News Values, News Writing, Typography and Makeup, Features, and Sports. With the scores are sent recommendations for improvement.

The Villanovan received about 80% of the possible points in all departments and a general rating First Class, second to the highest rating of All-American, superior.

Rubin Receives Year's Memorial Scholarship

Award of the William G. Wellhofer Memorial Scholarship at Villanova College to Emanuel Rubin of 16 Belle Haven Court, Atlantic City, N. J., was announced today by Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O.S.A., registrar, and Emmett S. Dugan of Atlantic City, chairman of the scholarship committee.

Rubin, a senior at Atlantic City High School, won out over seven other candidates from the two Atlantic City high schools in a special examination conducted here. The scholarship, valued at $4000, was founded by the New Jersey Licensed Beverage Association in honor of the late William G. Wellhofer, former president of the group.

The scholarship will be presented at a dinner June 6 at the Strand Hotel, Atlantic City. The four-year award includes tuition, room, board, books and general supplies. It will be awarded annually by the Licensed Beverage Association.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 .... Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
Robert P. Greenspan, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
William B. Wiswell, '46
Robert R. Manske, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - - MAY 28, 1946

They Throw Pennies

"AND here stands the Memorial to all the Villanova men who gave their lives in the service of their country. On the walls hang fifty-seven plaques, each bearing the name of one of our heroes. That Vigil light has been burning continuously before Our Mother, Queen of Peace, since way back in 1946."

Yeh, it would be pretty nice if the above could be told in years to come. But I'm afraid we're going to forget all about THEM. Maybe it's too inconvenient. There are a lot of things that have to be done around school—new library, chemical engineering building, and others. We can pray for them without having a monument built. Can we? No, I think not. Our nature demands a reminder.

The fallen Villanovans are a real part of the spirit of our school. They brought honor to Villanova, honor which every real American must respect. We can't repay them; we know that. But, we must remember them. They're our own special heroes.

Here is a proposal which I sincerely hope the Student Council will act upon: Let a memorial be built to them. If seen fit, the grotto behind Alumni Hall, dedicated to the Queen of Peace, could be renovated (for at present it is in very poor condition) and made into a shrine.

Then, I think Memorial Day would mean a lot more on Villanova's campus. Memorial Day would be every day. Few would walk past the shrine without offering an ejaculation in THEIR behalf.

Many of America's outstanding Colleges have built their tradition around some statue or shrine, where pennies are thrown for good luck. They call that tradition. How well-founded, how solid and deep rooted our tradition can be sown, if we throw prayers—at our honored fifty-seven.

Personal Inspection

VILLANOVA has made great strides on the road to normalcy. During the war years the civilians were almost a rarity on the campus; the uniforms commonplace. Today the number of uniforms about is but a fraction of those that were on the campus during the long war years. The civilians have taken over again. Yes the civilians have taken over. They are civilians and veterans. They are a little older and a bit more serious than the general run of college students prior to the war. Nevertheless they are Villanova men.

Villanova men: what does that mean? It means a man who will do anything for a fellow student or a fellow human being. It means a man who will look back on Villanova in many years to come and say with pride in his voice, "I'm a Villanova man." It means a man whose fellow students can point to with pride.

Many of us served long tours in the army, navy, or marine corps. We saw regimentation from the time we rolled out of bed in the morning until we were allowed to knock off and crawl back into bed at night. We saw it in the mess halls; we saw it on the drill field; yes, we even saw it during off duty hours.

Many men have come out of the service with one idea; to get as far from regimentation as possible. We don't want to be told what to wear or how to wear it. The services dictated our garb too long.

One thing that a man must remember, though, is that certain conventions must be observed. There are many girls' colleges situated in the surrounding area and the relations between Villanova and these colleges have always been very amiable. A very few men can ruin this for the whole student body.

These colleges expect a man when he visits their campus to be garbed in conventional attire. i.e., tie, shirt, and jacket. These girls are used to that and have a perfect right to expect it. Any man that feels his individuality is being infringed upon should make other arrangements and not make a nuisance of himself around these campuses.

A man is judged not only on what he knows, and whom he knows, but also on how he dresses.

—JAMES BONNER.

Take Less

THE Students of Villanova came through pretty generously last week when members of the Student Council went from class to class passing the box. The remainder of the drive will be made in different forms.

Here is a suggestion: Cut down on waste in the Cafeteria. What you cannot eat, don't take. That means that less food will be ordered by the Manager, and more will be abailable on the market for overseas.

It is a little more inconvenient to return to the Hot Table for a second helping, but that effort can avert the possibility of wasting the food, which in these times is so precious.

So Soon Forgotten

By ANTHONY P. COPPA, NROTC

Already we forget the storm of war,
The clouds of which, not dissipated yet,
Blemish Peace's hopeful new-born dawn,
At present dance in mocking threat,
That martial tides, though for the moment gone,
Have not fore'er their rampant revels ceased.

And we forget, calloused as we are,
The deep eternal gratitude that is due
The gallant men who answered from afar
The call that Duty calls when summoning the true,
Who placed upon the human altarstone
Their ordinary habits, the luxuries they knew
Along with the deepest devotion known,
Went forth to tell the world their heartfelt cause,
Went forth to hurl themselves against the foe,
Went forth without a pause — for no applause,
For theirs was not their welded might to show,
Went forth upon the hostile foreign path,
Went forth onto the battlefield to sow
Their drops of sweat together with the blood
That from them might a righteous vict'ry grow,
That from them a flower of freedom bud,
It's pleasant fragrance o'er the earth to flow.
And to the hearts of hopeless men bestow
A hope, a vision of a fair free day
Beyond the ever clearing way.

And now the stars of patriotism fade
Before the brilliance of Security's sun.
No longer does the flag each scene invade,
For we have felt the joy of Vict'ry won.
It lies in death within the darkened tomb,
Which by the "patriot's" hand was made,
And with it in sullen solitary gloom
The spirit of the fallen soldier wades.
Upon his head no leafy laurel rests
And at his feet no petal of mem'ry lies.
Mention of him only history bequests,
But even this with Time's coldness dies.

Somewhere upon a foreign countryside
The grass grows tall from the fertile ground,
Between the many mounds wherein abide
Our ill remembered dead in sleep unsound,
Between the mounds which side by side
Present the age old scene a look profound
And add to Spring's fresh youthful face a tear
Where formerly was a gleam of gladness there.
The withered flow'r upon the weeded grave
Declares the truth of our forgetfulness,
Whose substance does no Path of Honor pave.

Upon each grave the watching cross
Proclaims their quest for memory,
"Oh but a softy whispered prayer,
Born of lips to the nocturnal air.
Oh, but a simple shread of thought,
Composed by mind and to their mem'ry wrought
Or now and then a soft warm tear,
Out of a heart which holds them dear.
Or firm resolve spread o'er the earth,
That those unborn shall not at birth
Be born but for a soldier's death.
But let them live to taste the breath
Of playful Spring's fresh verdant air,
To feel the love within them flare
For all the beauty God has made,
And every joy and sadness braid
Into the wreath that was not placed Upon the head of him who faced
The unknown countenance of Fate
And fell amidst a world of hate.
Herein he lies, Nature's own
Far off, forgotten and alone.

Letters to the EDITOR

Kilroy?

Dear Editor:

I would like to use this means of correcting a few errors in your May 14 issue. In that issue of the Villanova it was stated that I was president of a Foreign Relation group here on campus and that in that capacity I gave the Club's decision in favor of the charter of the Student Action Committee at one of their meetings.

This is not entirely true. To my knowledge there is no Foreign Relation Club in existence here at Villanova and I am not a president of a non-existing group. As regards the ratification of the Student Action Committee's charter, I had the permission of Fr. McKee, the Vice President of the college, to do so. I had a talk with Father McKee some time ago about the necessity of Villanova participating in the joint action of colleges in and around Philadelphia and it was seen advisable that we take our stand with the other Catholic colleges in such a group.

At present, considerations are in progress for the International Relations Club of Villanova to take care of our part in such an action. In conclusion I would like to add that I was quoted without having said anything. Thanks.

Sincerely,
Jasper Chen See.

WE thank Mr. Chen See for calling out attention to this error. Probably a Friday evening nightmare!

Not So Sad

Dear Editor:

I read Dr. Macbeth's article in the Villanovan last week. It was very interesting and enlightening. I do agree with Dr. Macbeth in many of the things that he says but I feel that he put them rather strongly.

He said that almost all America is affected by "crowd psychology." Everyone sings the same songs, sees the same pictures, reads the same books, and follow each other like a flock of sheep. So they do! Is that so terrible? Happiness is not something that you can say goes to a man because he likes one thing or another. A lone road may appeal to the writer, but it isn't fair to imply that American youth with their love for the same songs, books, and pictures are headed for failure and unhappiness.

To me happiness is success. The man with $35.00 a week, a lovely family, and interests that occupy his spare time is a success.

On the other hand the millionaire that walks alone can become lost in his mansion and face dispair without friends. A friendless world is not very lovely to face.

These young Americans, who a few short years ago were talked of as a problem generation with their jitterbugging, "Jive," and sloppy clothes, managed to come up and protect America in her hour of need.

Sincerely,
A Student.

Out of the Copy Basket

The last issue of the St. Bona Venture until next September supplies us with quite a bit of news of activities on that campus. The Very Rev. Thomas Plassmann, O.F.M, president of the college, has left by plane for Europe where he will visit each friar and monastery in Saxony and Westphalia, Germany to obtain a first-hand report of conditions in that section of Europe.

Father Plassmann has been appointed Visitor - General of the Holy Cross Franciscan Province located in the above-mentioned territories. In this capacity as personal representative of the highest official in the Franciscan Order, the president will make his survey abroad.

• • •

At presstime the Bonnies biggest event was the Junior Prom and the

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Seven

Foreign Correspondent

Guest writer for this week, and truly a very attractive and charming foreign correspondent, is Jeanne Grant, resident student at Chestnut Hill College. And in this issue KILROY speaks! . . .

You know that information you fellows wanted about Chestnut Hill? Well, uh, guess who went over there and got it for you? That's right, KILROY, uh . . . that's me.

Straight and Double

I went to the Caf first, and met all the girls majoring in Bridge—they really put a lot of time in on that subject. I got down there about four o'clock Thursday afternoon and some of the Seniors were beginning to drag themselves in from thei rcomprehensives. They'd sort of crawl through the swinging door, just about make it to the end of the room, and gasp with their last breath, "I'll take mine, straight" and "Make it double." (Straight coke, and double malted—natch!)

Campus Beautiful

The campus over there is so beautiful in the Spring I decided to wander around and see what else I could learn. Over on Tobacco Road I heard some of the kids talking about the Jitterbug Contest, the Wheelbarrow Race, and the Three-legged Race on A. A. Day (Athletic Association Day), and how they had to hold everything in the gym this year because of the rain. But that didn't faze the Mounties—they had a huge picture of the sun on one wall, pictures of flowers and grass all over the place, and even a shady tree where they could find some relief from the terrific sunburn they were getting!

Speaking of sunbathing, I sort of meandered over to the park across from the college, and—you know, I've often wondered how college girls get such nice tans—well, —is this all going to go into the paper? . . .

Well, as I was saying, I went into the Dining Room—they really have good food over there, especially on Tuesday Nights when the Senior Home Ec Majors plan and prepare the entire meal, and on Feast Days when the menu is turkey and perhaps a sundae for dessert.

While I was in there I heard some of the girls talking about the Publications Dinner at Kugler's, with Dr. Leddihn and Rosemary McCarron as guest speakers. It's the first time they've had anything like that, and they're trying to think up some ideas for making it bigger and better next year.

Ah, Love

I decided to go down to the tennis courts to see what I could learn there; I didn't learn so much, but it was lots of fun (big grin). Come to think of it—I did learn something of interest—there's no restriction of fellows on the tennis courts, so if you want to have a game with any of the girls, you're welcome. There was a couple attempting to play while I was down there—definitely a Love Match—the score, that is.

I followed the path along the Wissy and ended up by the boathouse. Two of the girls were just about to take a canoe out, so I hopped in and went along with them. The big topic of the day was the Junior Prom, "Springtime Symphony." Each one was so busy telling the other what a wonderful time she had that neither of them heard what the other was saying, and I nearly went mad trying to figure out just what happened. This is sort of how it sounded:

"—and then I said to him—"
"I thought it was so cute when—"
"—and then he said to me—"
"—when Natalie sang "Sweethearts" and dedicated it to—"
"—so I said NO!"
"—and dedicated it to Madelin Rice and Dick Duprey, who had just become engaged."

At this point the girls were trying to get the canoe back in the boathouse without taking the bottom and the sides off, but from where I sat, it didn't look as though they were going to make it, so I left.

Rules and Regulations

I went back to the Caf again, 'cause that's where everyone always winds up. The two main conversations going on there were about May Day and, once again, the dance—(well, I thought—here we go again!) 'cept this time they were talking about the regulation speech given by the Social Dean, the day before the Prom. A few of her more interesting remarks were, that she hoped we would all be in high spirits, but not too high—(what could she have meant?)—that we were not to go down to the Caf, because it really wouldn't be very interesting, because there wouldn't be any lights on, and after all, what can you do when there aren't any lights on?—(is she kidding?)—and that if we got irritated not to light up on Old Gold, but to take a drink—of punch, (natch!)

I left that, and snuk (how do you spell that?) into the middle of a big May Day discussion. Peggy Weithoff is going to be May Queen, (and will she make a beautiful one!—Boinnng!!)

News from Fournier News

I went up to the Publications Room and sort of borrowed — I didn't really take it—an article for the Fournier News about May Day—

"The traditional ceremony begins at eight-thirty in the morning with an Academic Procession to the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes, where the Blessed Virgin is crowned, then Mass in the Convent Chapel for the entire Student Body. In the afternoon there is to be a May-Pole Dance by the Sophomores, a Daisy-Chain Procession by the Juniors, and the May Court Procession by the Seniors. May Day is the end of school for the underclassmen, but the beginning of Senior Week for the graduating class. During this week there is to be a luncheon at the Burgundy Room of the Bellevue-Stratford given by the Juniors, while the Sophomores will fete their "big sisters" with a Nautical Party and a Serenade. Class Day and Baccalaureate Tea follow this, and finally Graduation—that day of days. An added attraction this year is a boat trip up the Hudson the day after graduation sponsored by Dr. Leddihn. The trip was initiated last year, and everyone had such a good time, they couldn't resist doing it again."

The Important Question

Let's see now—what else was I supposed to report on?

Oh, yes, what kind of boys do these Chestnut Hill girls like?

I asked the girl whose typewriter I'm using, but she gave me such a detailed answer I knew right away she must have someone definite in mind(so then I sort of inquired around, and the general answer is "the fellow with the personality." He doesn't have to be "tall, dark, and handsome," but he does have to know how to talk—sort of helps, too, if he knows when words aren't necessary—

I went back to that girl with the typewriter, and after a little collaboration she came up with this:

We don't want an Einstein,
We don't want a Gable,
We don't want a hep cat
Who'll whistle "Hey, Mabel!"

We don't choose our mister
By the cut of his tie
We just want a fellow
Who's a regular guy.

Jeanne Grant,
Class of '47.

Campus Pilots Beat Train Tie-Up

Villanova's own Air Corps held regular scheduled flights regardless of the transportation strike. Pilots Murphy and Hubbar of the NROTC Corps took their Sopwith Camel up on Wednesday night in the back of Commerce and Finance auditorium.

Seriously, several interesting demonstrations have been given by the Fedigan Hall model plane builders recently. Two or three of their planes have gasoline engines to power them through the air, while some are motorless gliders.

For time and place to see a gasoline powered model plane in action, you might try any Wendesday or Friday night that's clear, down in the rear of the C & F building, near the Seminarians baseball diamond.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
Save a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Meet The Boys: Scholar Athlete Magnate

By CHARLES McCARTHY

As the present school year runs out your writer finds that it is becoming extremely difficult rounding up the few remaining seniors who are to graduate this June so that I can use them as a column bait. This week's trio makes up the last of the men who have made themselves available. There are a few others left but they have failed to respond to the requests for info.

This week Frank Vincent Moscariello of Philadelphia is the top man in the column. Frank was born in 1922 on 15 June right in the City of Brotherly Love. His early years were spent getting used to the oddities of the fair city. When old enough to go to school, Frank was off to E. H. Fitler Grammar School.

FRANK MOSCARIELLO

Following grammar school he was off to Gillespie Junior High School where his ardent interest in student affairs made him one of the school's most influential students.

Big Wheel in High School

Frank then went on to Simon Gratz Senior High where he further developed his leadership abilities. He was class treasurer and held many other posts of importance. The name of Moscariello become synonymous with hard work and accomplishment.

In September 1940, Frank matriculated here at Villanova in the School of Commerce and Finance as an accounting major. During his first two years here he played the sax in the Villanova Band and was active in many other societies. He was in the DPE, the Spanish Club and played intramural ball.

Then in 1942 he signed up in the Navy V-1. He was one of the first men to enter into this program and in July of 1943 he was a member of the first V-12 class to train at Villanova. Frank then was transferred to Northwestern U. in Chicago where he studied until he was commissioned as an ensign in the Navy. This took place March 17, 1944, and twelve other ex-Villanova men also graduated with him.

Wounded During Invasion

He was assigned to duty on an LCI and went over to Europe. He was serving as an officer there when he was wounded during the invasion of Southern France. He then returned to the United States as a Lieutenant Junior Grade and was discharged from the Navy.

Following his discharge Frank returned to Villanova to finish his course in Accounting. Now he is a Senior II and intends to finish in June and go to work as an accountant.

While at Villanova, Frank proved to be a very good student. During his first year here he was an honor student, and during the rest of the time he was on and off the honor list.

• • •

The second man to appear in print this week is also of Philadelphia origin; however he no longer resides there. He is George William Famiglietti who was born, as we said, in Philadelphia on 28 June in the year 1921. He lived in the big city until he was four. Then he accompanied his family to Upper Darby where they made their new residence.

Famous in High School

He went to Bywood School which was an elementary school and then proceeded on to Upper Darby Junior High where he was active in sports, participating in both football and baseball. Then it was to high school for George. So, he went on to Upper Darby Senior High where his name at once became famous. His active sports work, as well as his keen interest in student affairs, made him, without a doubt, one of the school's all time notables.

George played football, being one of the better guards to play at UD and he also played catcher on the baseball team the three years that he attended high school.

However, sports were not all that he managed to do. He was a member of the school's student government organization called the Tribunal and served on many of the class committees. He was also one of the school's monitors. These monitors acted more or less as a judicial group to take care of offenders of school regulations.

GEORGE FAMIGLIETTE

On Athletic Scholarship

George was also voted the peppiest boy in the school before he left to come to Villanova on a football scholarship in 1939. He entered the Commerce and Finance School in the Fall of 1939 and started in a course of Accounting.

In January 1943 he enlisted in the Marines and took his boot training at Parris Island. Then he went to OCS and received his commission. He was assigned to the Anti-Aircraft Artillery and shipped over to the Pacific. There he served for two years in the Midways, the Hawaiian Islands and the Johnson Island group. He was then discharged in October as a First Lieutenant and returned to Villanova in March to finish his Senior year.

Active in Intramurals

While here at Villanova George was active in the intramural sports program as well as the many activities down at C. and F. He was on the Summer Hop committee and is a member of the DPE.

After graduation George is not sure of what will happen, but he has a few irons in some pretty hot fires.

• • •

Last man this week is William C. Dillon who was born in Devon, Penna., on 23 December 1920. He was raised under a severe disadvantage. . .that of having a birthday just two days before Christmas.

Bill went to St. Patrick's Grammar School in Malvern, and then to St. Katherine's High in Wayne. While there he was on the basketball team playing center. In his senior year he was captain of the basketball team.

To Villanova in 1939

In September of 1939 Bill matriculated at Villanova and started to study in C and F. He was a marketing major and made out rather well. He came to Villanova because it was close to home and it was easy to get to school in the morning.

In March of 1943 he left school to join the Army and traveled to New Cumberland, as did many others, and then took basic training down in the deep South. Alabama, that is. Bill made two trips overseas both of which were to the European theaters. Upon his return from the second trip he was assigned to Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland and was discharged later as a Staff Sergeant.

Hopes to Make Millions

He is a member of the DPE and is a day hop. When he graduates he hopes to get into Sun Oil Company and make millions for his little family. At the present time his family consists of a 13 month old daughter, Barbara Ann, and his pretty wife, Mary. He has been married for two years now and plans on having a normal, happy family life once he gets out of school.

WILLIAM DILLON

Well there they are for this week. Now I'm off again to see if I can round up the few remaining seniors for the next few issues of this literary masterpiece.

Villanovan Keys Being Mailed Soon

The Business Manager of the Villanovan has been instructed to mail the Keys to those men who were eligible, but who were unable to attend the Diner Dance at which the Keys were distributed.

Among those men to receive the Keys are several Ensigns in the Naval Reserve, now overseas, and graduates who live far from Villanova. The Keys should be on their way in a day or so.

If any corrections must be made in the engraving, the Moderator has requested that the recipient return the Key, and the Villanovan will see that the change is made.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.
THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 3:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

Junior Prom Closes Social Season With George Auld

The genial, dignified Junior Prom doffed his top-hat once more last Friday night at Villanova's Field House. With the glory of tradition and the sparkle of spontaniety the old fellow welcomed over 500 people to his birthday party.

Guest of honor was the young man with the horn from North of the Border, Georgie Auld. In his regal robes of "zoot suit" gray and flamboyant tie, Mr. Auld swung his baton-scepter and cooked joys forever out of his men of the horn and drums.

The Field House itself, not to be outshone by the pseudo Brummels and Antoinettes was accoutred in its best bib and tucker. Villanova's seal swayed gently above the stage mutely acknowledging the approval of the authorities and of old Mr. Prom himself. But the real show sprawled in front of the footlights where the patience and prestidigitation of Joe Brogan, decorations chairman and Mr. Wolfe, professional adviser, amazed the guests and even Mr. P. whose parties have seen some real finery in their time.

G.E. Holds the Limelight

Man-made and G.E. illuminated bowers were posted down the sides of the Hall and a rose arbor tubed the newcomers. In the center of the floor was a paramounted garden heavy with Spring's perfume and ablaze with blossoms and bulbs alike.

Coming back to the band there was a great deal of comment on the way the Auldmen handled themselves. Initiating the evening with the hot blast of a Bessemer Converter, the band gave promise of an evening the like of which hasn't been had since Louie Armstrong was bitten by a bee.

However, with time and a small admonition by the committee the music softened into a smooth combination mindful of the Dorsey brothers at their dorseyest. All agreed that the boy at the piano either had some trouble with reading the music or was trying to hide behind his instrument. However, the assembled were lavish with praise when Georgie stopped batting 4 for 4 in the jive league.

Free Lunch by Higgs

Roland Higgs and his boys held out in the "Blue Room" dispensing the soft kind to all customers who dropped their dimes on the counter. His "free lunch" went the way of all free lunches early, but the perennial holdout of pretzels finished the evening in grand style.

When Mr. Prom saw Don Collins, chairman, after the Ball was over, he congratulated him on a social success.

Thus ended a very successful social season at Villanova for another term. The dances were over but the memory lingers on.

Year Book To Be Distributed

Selfridge Announces Plan For Belle Air Distribution

John Selfridge, Editor-in-Chief of the Belle Air, anounced today that the yearbook will be distributed in the very near future. All students who have paid matriculation fees for the past two semesters will receive a copy free. Students who have paid for only one semester must pay $2.00 for their issue. All others must pay the fee of $5.00.

Following the traditional colors of blue and white, the volume will be larger than war issues. The yearbook will be based on the theme of the world's return to peace and tranquility after the recent devasting war. It will also present the Catholic College student and how he can contribute to the worlds peace.

Throughout the book will be drawings by Eamon Walsh.. These drawings will add to the quality of the volume.

In commenting upon the volumes of the Belle Air which were produced during the war years, Selfridge paid the tribute to the men who worked on these books. He pointed out that these men were working under many handicaps, including a shortage of man-power, accelerated schedules, a lack of the proper materials and also extreme time demands by the engravers, and printers.

Book

JOHN SELFRIDGE

Due to the fact that many of these trying conditions have been alleviated, to an appreciable degree, the Editor expressed the opinion that the coming volume will be superior to previous editions of the Belle Air. It will be larger, and much emphasis has been placed upon improving the content, cuts and general make-up.

Issues of the year book will be distributed from the Belle Air Office located in the basement of the Commerce and Finance building. Notices will be posted when these books are available.

Featuring . . . MR. ADAM BALISKIS Dean Emeritus of Subsistence

Food! Food! Wonderful stuff!! Webster says, "Food is the nutritive material taken into an organism for growth, work, or repair and for maintaining the vital processes." The Encyclopedia Britannica says, "Food is the general term for what is eaten by man and other creatures for the sustenance of life."

The Villanova day-hops tell us, "Food is any healthy, delicious substance served in exquisite china, spread across clean white linen, which gives off an appetizing odor and is extremely palatable." And then to carry our research a little further we learn from "Louie" that food is anything he's got in Ye Pie Shoppe between two hunks of bread.

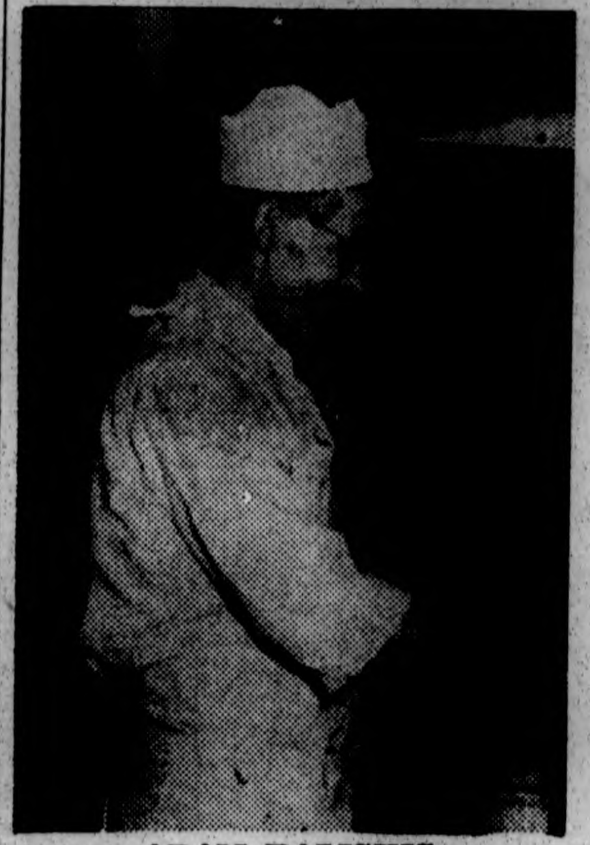
But for the benefit of some of the very few students here at Villanova who have never tasted food, and don't know how wonderful the stuff really is, we have asked the Chef of our College Cafeteria for a comment on this vital question. To some, perhaps he needs an introduction.

Baliskis And Son

Adam Baliskis, by name, is the Chef de Cuisine of the Villanova Kitchen. He was born in Lithuania in the year 1888. At the age of nineteen he crossed the great Atlantic and nestled in the city of brotherly love. Most of his happily married life has since been spent in South Philadelphia where he has raised both a son and a daughter. His son, known as "Pete", is now second cook in the College Kitchen.

Adam has had years and years of cooking experience behind him. He tossed his first egg into the frying pan over forty years ago. For eighteen years he cooked at the Reading Terminal in Philadelphia. He spent eight years as chef at the Greens Hotel, once located at 8th and Chestnut Streets where a garage now stands. But all of his time as a professional cook was not spent solely in Philadelphia. At the Chalfont-Haddon Hall in Atlantic City, New Jersey, Adam cheffed for two years.

Cook



ADAM BALISKIS

Ten Years At Villanova

In the year 1936 Mr. Baliskis came to Villanova. For ten years now he has been cooking for the resident students and faculty members. He enjoys his cooking profession . . . and especially here at the college. That's why he has been here so long, and why, also, his son has joined him in his work.

Commenting on food, Adam Baliskis says: "I'm just a chef . . . not a magician. I can't make fillet mignon out of a sow's ear."

Student Council Reports on First Food Drive

Plans for Coming Year Discussed by Vice President and Council

Don Collins, Vice-Chairman of the Student Council and Junior Prom Chairman, gave the report of the Junior Prom to the Student Council at yesterday's meeting in Mendel Hall.

The Council holding one of its last meetings of the current semester, was addressed by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., Vice-President of the college, on plans that are being made for the coming year.

Food Drive

Collins, in addition to his Junior Prom report, gave a report on the current food drive. The proceeds of the one day drive exceeded $120 and were very gratifying to the members of the Council who gave up their time and lent their efforts to the drive. The drive will continue until the end of the month.

A petition was submitted by Don Collins urging support of the International House in Philadelphia. It was pointed out that the International House is the clearing house for all foreign students in the city and is worthy of the support of Villanova. The Council backed up the petition unanimously.

Jim Bonner, Chairman of the Council, released tentative plans for the fall term.

Normal in Fall

During the war the council did a tremendous job against all manner of difficulties. It has been decided that the Council will get back to normal completely in September. Meetings will be held on a bi-monthly basis. Compulsory attendance will be required. The minutes of the Council will be taken and kept in a permanent form in order that they may serve as a

STUDENT COUNCIL
Continued on Page Eight

Mr. Schaefer To Preside At Forum Today

The Philadelphia Accounting Forum, sponsored by the Philadelphia Chapter of the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants, will hold their accounting forum at the University of Pennsylvania today. The committee has planned to make this year's meeting one of the most significant accounting meetings of recent years.

The general meeting to start off the activities will commence at 1:45 P. M. The site of the opening session has not been determined, but will be held in either Logan or Houston Halls at the University. After the general assembly, twelve technical sessions, arranged so that four sessions will run concurrently each hour, will be held for the convenience of those attending the convention. Under this arrangement all may have ample opportunity to choose the particular meeting that is of special interest.

Prof. Schaefer to be Chairman

Mr. Leo H. Schaefer, Assistant Professor of Business Administration, has been designated chairman of one of the technical sections. He is very enthusiastic about his appointment to the chairmanship and his thorough knowledge of accounting will assure a deft handling of his position. Special rate student tickets for the banquet to be held in the evening may be procured from Mr. Schaefer at any time before Thursday the 23d. The dinner meeting, starting at 6:30 P. M., will be the highlight of the convention. It will be attended by officials of the American Institute of Accountants, The Pennsylvania Institute, and other organizations.

The main address of the dinner meeting will be delivered by Capt. J. S. Seidman, USNR, of New York City. Mr. Schaefer assures all prospective accountants and businessmen from Villanova College that this meeting will be both entertaining and educational.

Harkins Returns To Villanova

The spires of Villanova once more welcome James Harkins to the safety of their shadows. He left Villanova in September of 1943 for his indoctrination course at Northwestern University in Chicago. Upon receiving his commission from this school in March of 1944 Harkins shipped out to sea aboard an LCT and saw service in the Mediterranean theater. He participated in engagements in Italy and then went to Elba and Southern France.

When the war in Europe was over Harkins was transferred to the South Pacific and there served upon an LSI in the waters around the Philippines.

Following the Japanese surrender he returned to the United States to be discharged. He received his release from the Navy in San Francisco on Tuesday, May 13, 1946. Since his discharge he has acquired the ownership of a restaurant in Philadelphia. Its name is The Tally Ho and is located at 1607 Moravian St.

Harkins is planning to return to Villanova in the Fall to complete his studies. While here he hopes to regain the position of tackle on the football team which he held for two years before going into the service.

Profits of Interfrat Dance Split Among Four Fraternities

Jim Bonner, Student Council Chairman, has announced the final distribution of the profits from the Interfraternity Ball. The proceeds were originally to be divided between the two fraternities that sponsored the dance. These were the Phi Kappa Pi and Delta Pi Epsilon.

After the dance it was suggested that some of the money be given to the two inactive fraternities on the campus to give them a start in their reorganization.

The money was divided into three parts. One third went to the Phi Kappa Pi, one third to Delta Pi Epsilon, and the two inactive fraternities were given one sixth of the proceeds apiece.

This money is to be used for their reorganization in the coming year. If they are not completely reorganized and in full swing this money will revert to the two fraternities that gave the dance. The reorganization must be accomplished by June of '47.

The Student Council will check these organizations periodically and make a report to the fraternities involved. The final decision as to their reorganization rests with the Student Council.

Traning Officer To Inspect NROTC

At one o'clock today on Mendel Field, the NROTC, V-12 and Marine units here at Villanova will stand an inspection by the District Training Officer from the Fourth Naval District. After this inspection, accompanied by Captain Thomas C. Thomas, Commanding Officer of the Navy Unit here, the Training Officer will witness a review by the unit.

The Navy Unit band will march and furnish the music both for the inspection and review, and the uniform for the day has been prescribed as forest greens with blouses for the Marines. The V-5 and V-12 Units will wear dress blues with leggings and duty belts.

The NROTC trainees will be attired in officer-type blues with leggings. All hands will be equipped with rifles.

During the morning, the Training Officer will inspect the Navy and Marine living quarters, the PT facilities and program, the rifle range and other activities of the Navy here at Villanova.

Recently, the Navy Detail Office issued an order whereby trainees are given the option of wearing either whites or blues on campus and wearing either blue or khaki for off station liberty.

Lancaster Pike Scene of Crash

Thursday afternoon a truck speeding down Lancaster Pike towards Philadelphia crashed into the P and W bridge just west of Spring Mill Road. The truck, of the cabin-trailer variety, was carrying a massive seventeen ton fly-wheel when the disaster occurred. The flywheel was in the ointment, as it were, since the girth of it so raised the overall height of the truck that it exceeded the clearance of the bridge.

The flywheel was knocked off the truck and the bridge was violently shaken by the blow. Engineers however decided that the trestle was not seriously or permanently damaged and that the trains could continue using it.

Traffic was tied up on the Pike for several hours while the damage was being taken care of. The huge flywheel was finally lifted onto a carrier and the broken truck removed. Traffic was back to normal at about 7:00 P. M. and the difficulty passed.

Students Asked Not To Bother Rabbits

Last Thursday the Bacteriology Class reported that one of the rabbits which they are using for experimental purposes was found roaming around the third floor of Mendel Hall, when it should have been in the patio outside that Hall.

According to reports the rabbit had been injured while making his tour of the Hall. The Bacteriology instructors have requested the Villanovan to warn students against such action as removing these animals from their cages.

Now that injections with virulent bacteria are being given the rabbits, students must be more careful.

Cats Hosts To Penn, Georgetown This Week

Team Downs Lafayette, 7-1; Bows To Rams, 13-5

Wildcats Powerless Against New Yorkers

Well Balanced Fordham Club Give Cats Prom Hangover; McDonnell Good in Relief

That old feeling on the day-after-the-night-before was a contributing factor in the debacle at Villanova last Saturday afternoon. With perfect weather conditions prevailing, Fordham came down from Rose Hill to win its tenth game of the season by a 13-5 count.

The Rams touched up a trio of 'Cat hurlers for sixteen safeties. Tony Camera, Jim Quinn, and Joe Ososki made three apiece. Tom Cusmano and Dorm Parella each had a pair.

"Major" McDonell, with a single and double, Charley Comerford and Bill Smith, the latter two with a pair of singles, did the bulk of Villanova's hitting. The infield contributed six errors to ease Fordham's path to the plate.

"Jigger" Donohue left the premises with the bases full and none out in the third. Jack Rothenhouser finally stopped the rally after 3 runs crossed the plate. Bill Kay, Fordham southpaw, was chased in the fourth when three Villanova runners scored.

Fordham added two unearned runs in the fifth. Three more enemy runs crossed in the sixth and brought McDonnell into the scene.

Single Villanova runs scored in the sixth and eighth. In the ninth a trio of Fordham runs made the final count 13-5.

Fordham	AB	R	H	PO	A
Camera, 3b	5	2	3	2	4
Quinn, ss	5	3	3	2	1
Ososki, cf	6	2	3	0	1
Cusmano, lf	5	1	2	3	0
St. Germain, rf	3	0	0	1	0
x-Powers, rf	2	1	1	0	0
Kozol, c	4	1	0	6	0
Pickett, 1b	5	1	1	9	0
Parella, 2b	5	1	2	3	2
Kay, p	2	1	0	1	0
Arbucho, p	3	0	1	0	0
Totals	45	13	16	27	8

Villanova	AB	R	H	PO	A
Smith, lf	4	0	2	1	1
Litwa, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Henry, rf	3	0	0	0	1
Casey, cf	5	0	0	3	0
O'Neill, c	5	0	1	15	1
Kline, 3b	5	1	1	0	0
Doherty, ss	4	1	1	2	0
Comerford, 1b	4	2	2	5	0
Lord, 2b	3	1	0	0	1
Donohue, p	0	0	0	0	1
Rothenhauser, p	1	0	0	0	1
McDonnell, p	2	0	2	1	1
Totals	36	5	9	27	7

x-Batted for St. Germain in 6th

Fordham ....0 0 5 0 2 3 0 0 3—13
Villanova ....0 0 0 3 1 1 0 1 0— 5

O'Neill Crosses Plate!

Frank O'Neill comes home with run number one, of a three run rally in the fourth inning of the Lafayette game. O'Neill, who caught a fine game for the Cats, opened the inning with a single. Henry singled, and Billy Doherty scored him with a timely base blow. Grassey, Lafayette catcher, looks ..futilly for the ball.

Big Stan Chojnacki Hurls Brilliantly For Fifth Win

Stan Hits Two Doubles; Casey, O'Neill, Doherty, Lord Also Get Extra Bases

By BOB MANSKE

Stan Chojnacki's four hit pitching and the tremendous plugging of his teammates featured the Wildcat's victory over Lafayette College last Wednesday at Villanova.

Taking his fifth straight win of the season, Stan set a heated pace by striking out twelve enemy batsmen and by walking only one. He fell into trouble only in the sixth inning when the only walk he distributed occurred. This was followed by a single and an error allowing the only Lafayette run of the afternoon to be scored.

One of the highlights of the game was Villanova's hitting, which of late seems to be improving by leaps and bounds. In the first three innings of play, they exploded for three extra base hits, but these did not produce any of those all important runs until the fourth. Three singles in a row by O'Neill, Henry and Doherty, followed by Comerford's grounder and Joe Lord's timely two bagger, produced three runs. These were enough to win the game.

In the fifth, Frank O'Neill once again led the attack, by singling to center and scoring on Bill Henry's single and Charley Comerford's fly to left. Once again in the sixth, the Cats scored on singles by Smith, Kline and Casey, which led Coach Charley Gelbert to relieve his starting hurler, Stanzack, with reliever Johnny Moon; however Moon was relieved in the seventh by Kadzow, when he was touched for another two runs, as Chojnacki laced out a two bagger with two on.

Lafayette	AB	R	H	PO	A
Contini, ss	4	0	0	1	3
Milne, cf	3	0	1	2	0
Villante, 2b	4	0	0	3	1
Ash, 1b	4	0	2	10	0
Stanzack, p-c	4	0	0	2	5
Kuti, rf	3	0	0	1	0
Zipple, lf	3	0	1	2	0
Grassey, c	1	1	0	2	0
Moon, p	0	0	0	0	0
Kadzow, p	1	0	0	0	0
Nemes, 3b	3	0	0	1	2
Totals	30	1	4	24	11

Villanova	AB	R	H	PO	A
Smith, lf	5	1	2	2	0
Kline, 3b	5	0	1	2	3
Casey, cf	5	0	2	1	0
O'Neill, c	4	2	3	10	2
Henry, rf	4	1	2	0	0
Doherty, ss	4	1	2	0	1
Comerford, 1b	4	0	0	10	0
Lord, 2b	4	1	1	1	1
Chojnacki, p	3	1	2	0	4
Totals	38	7	15	27	9

Lafayette ....0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—1
Villanova ....0 0 0 3 1 1 2 0 x—7

Let's Take a Swim

Did you know the field house has a swimming pool? Well it does and its opened for student use from 3:30 P. M. to 4:30 P. M. every day from Monday through Friday.

The pool is 70 ft. long and 30 ft. wide and the deepest point is 10½ ft. under the diving boards. This information is provided for those of you who have never bothered to take a look, least of all to take a swim.

With the coming of the Intra-Mural Swimming Meet those of you who intend to enter had better drop in and get a few of those winter kinks out of your muscles and fine out what this steady diet of cigarettes has done to your wind.

If you don't intend to enter the Meet but are just looking for something to do besides hit the books why don't you drop in for a dip some of these nice afternoons? It's your pool and there for your use.

Penn Here Tomorrow; Cats Play Hoyas Saturday

Varsity Downed Blue and Red, 3-2, and Georgetown, 11-8, in Previous Games

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova's steadily improving baseball team will meet one of its previous victims tomorrow afternoon, when the Weinertmen play host to the University of Pennsylvania. Two weeks ago the Wildcats edged the Red and Blue in a close 3-2 ball game.

Quakers Record .500

Since then, the Quakers have made one addition to both their won and lost columns. Their loss, coming three days after the Villanova contest was another 3-2 verdict, Columbia being the winner this time. The win, a 8-4 decision over Princeton, was Penn's second triumph over the Tigers this year, and made the seasons log for the Quaker City representatives read three up and three down at this writing.

The activity of the Villanovans has been limited to one game since their last meeting with the Penns —but Oh how active the Wildcats were that day. They lambasted the offerings of three Lafayette hurlers for fifteen hits and seven runs, to allow freshman Stan Chojnacki to add win No. Five to his unblemished record.

Prior to the game, the Leopards were heralded as one of the best teams in the East. Villanova, with an 8-3 record in collegiate competition, was now ready to defend its rights to the same acclamation.

McCunney Probable Pitcher

Coach Horace Hendrickson, Penn diamond mentor, plans to field virtually the same team that opposed the Main Liners two weeks ago. He most likely will give pitcher Dick McCunney a chance to avenge his earlier defeat

PENN PREVIEW
Continued on Page Six

By JIM McNAMARA

The Georgetown Hoyas will invade the Villanova Stadium field next Saturday to complete the second half of a home and home arrangement. In the first game, played at Washington, Stan Chojnacki turned back the Hoyas in a free-hitting 11-8 contest. Both teams are essentially the same, with a few changes.

The Washingtonians will have Charley Miller, John Burke, Trussel and Baker in the infield from third to first. These four men collected 10 of Georgetown's 15 hits against the 'Cats the last time. Burke had four hits—a triple, double, and two singles—and Miller had three—a double and two singles. Burke also handled 6 chances without an error that day. Trussel is the clean-up batter and always a dangerous man to face. Baker contributed a triple and single in the melee at the capital city. Defensively, this quartet is good but not as tight as a few of Villanova's recent opponents—namely Penn and Lafayette.

The boys we hope will get a good workout tomorrow will be: Oberto in left, Dugan in center, and Byers in right. Elmer Oberto collected three hits in the last slugging duel, including a double.

It is doubtful who will get the starting assignment on the hill for the Hoyas. Klaric and Gora went the last time and held the Villanovans to 8 hits, but were extremely wild. Now in warmer weather they should be very effective. Either of these two men might get the call. Behind the plate ArtBregman will direct his team. Handling pitchers and throwing out runners are Art's main assets. He is weak at the plate.

GEORGETOWN
Continued on Page Six

Marines Move Into League Lead In Softball Race

Alumni Downs Austin, Knocking Them Out of First; Day Hops Lose Debut

By DAVE MARANO

With rain washing out half this week's schedule, intra-murals were limited to three games. The most thrilling game of the trio was on Tuesday night when the pace-setting Austin gang dropped a close one to Alumni 3-2. After scoring two runs in the second on an error, two walks, and a base hit by Conway, the Austin batsmen were rendered helpless by Durney, pitcher for Alumni, who allowed only five hits throughout the evening. At the end of the fourth inning, with the score all tied up at 2-2, Alumni pushed over the winning run on singles by O'Neill and McCluskey. An infield out by Norton pushed O'Neil to third. Later, he scored on Boyle's long fly to left field. This was enough lead for pitcher Durney, who set the rivals down in order, except for a 7th inning single by Menchini.

Alumni Trims Mendel

On Wednesday night, Alumni came through with it's second victory of the week, by swamping Mendel 14-8. Highlighting this game was Mehler's last inning home-run with two on, which turned out to be in vain.

Fedigan Laces Day-Hops

While this slaughter was taking place, the Day-hops were making a very disastrous debut. After scoring two in the first, the day-hoppers lost all life, and wound up on the short end of a 14-2 count. Although losing by such a one-

INTRAMURALS
Continued on Page Six

INTRA-MURAL SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIP
Wednesday, June 5 at 8 P. M.
Events

1. 50 yards—Free Style
2. 100 yards—Free Style
3. 50 yards—Breast Stroke
4. 50 yards Back Stroke
5. Fancy Dives
   Required Dives (3)
   a) Front Dive (Swan)
   b) Back Dive
   c) Front Jack-knife
   Optional Dives (2)
   May not repeat any of the above required dives.
6. Relay—(100 yards) Each man swims 25 yards (one length).
7. Medley Relay—(75 yards)
   First Man: 25 yards—Back Stroke
   Second Man: 25 yards — Breast Stroke
   Last Man: 25 yards — Free Style

N.B. No contestant may participate in more than two events exclusive of the relays.

Junior Prom Closes Social Season With George Auld

The genial, dignified Junior Prom doffed his top-hat once more last Friday night at Villanova's Field House. With the glory of tradition and the sparkle of spontaniety the old fellow welcomed over 500 people to his birthday party.

Guest of honor was the young man with the horn from North of the Border, Georgie Auld. In his regal robes of "zoot suit" gray and flamboyant tie, Mr. Auld swung his baton-scepter and cooked joys forever out of his men of the horn and drums.

The Field House itself, not to be outshone by the pseudo Brummels and Antoinettes was accoutred in its best bib and tucker. Villanova's seal swayed gently above the stage mutely acknowledging the approval of the authorities and of old Mr. Prom himself. But the real show sprawled in front of the footlights where the patience and prestidigitation of Joe Brogan, decorations chairman and Mr. Wolfe, professional adviser, amazed the guests and even Mr. P. whose parties have seen some real finery in their time.

G.E. Holds the Limelight

Man-made and G.E. illuminated bowers were posted down the sides of the Hall and a rose arbor tubed the newcomers. In the center of the floor was a paramounted garden heavy with Spring's perfume and ablaze with blossoms and bulbs alike.

Coming back to the band there was a great deal of comment on the way the Auldmen handled themselves. Initiating the evening with the hot blast of a Bessemer Converter, the band gave promise of an evening the like of which hasn't been had since Louie Armstrong was bitten by a bee.

However, with time and a small admonition by the committee the music softened into a smooth combination mindful of the Dorsey brothers at their dorseyest. All agreed that the boy at the piano either had some trouble with reading the music or was trying to hide behind his instrument. However, the assembled were lavish with praise when Georgie stopped batting 4 for 4 in the jive league.

Free Lunch by Higgs

Roland Higgs and his boys held out in the "Blue Room" dispensing the soft kind to all customers who dropped their dimes on the counter. His "free lunch" went the way of all free lunches early, but the perennial holdout of pretzels finished the evening in grand style.

When Mr. Prom saw Don Collins, chairman, after the Ball was over, he congratulated him on a social success.

Thus ended a very successful social season at Villanova for another term. The dances were over but the memory lingers on.

Student Council Reports on First Food Drive

Plans for Coming Year Discussed by Vice President and Council

Don Collins, Vice-Chairman of the Student Council and Junior Prom Chairman, gave the report of the Junior Prom to the Student Council at yesterday's meeting in Mendel Hall.

The Council holding one of its last meetings of the current semester, was addressed by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O.S.A., Vice-President of the college, on plans that are being made for the coming year.

Food Drive

Collins, in addition to his Junior Prom report, gave a report on the current food drive. The proceeds of the one day drive exceeded $120 and were very gratifying to the members of the Council who gave up their time and lent their efforts to the drive. The drive will continue until the end of the month.

A petition was submitted by Don Collins urging support of the International House in Philadelphia. It was pointed out that the International House is the clearing house for all foreign students in the city and is worthy of the support of Villanova. The Council backed up the petition unanimously.

Jim Bonner, Chairman of the Council, released tentative plans for the fall term.

Normal in Fall

During the war the council did a tremendous job against all manner of difficulties. It has been decided that the Council will get back to normal completely in September. Meetings will be held on a bimonthly basis. Compulsory attendance will be required. The minutes of the Council will be taken and kept in a permanent form in order that they may serve as a

STUDENT COUNCIL
Continued on Page Eight

Mr. Schaefer To Preside At Forum Today

The Philadelphia Accounting Forum, sponsored by the Philadelphia Chapter of the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants, will hold their accounting forum at the University of Pennsylvania today. The committee has planned to make this year's meeting one of the most significant accounting meetings of recent years.

The general meeting to start off the activities will commence at 1:45 P. M. The site of the opening session has not been determined, but will be held in either Logan or Houston Halls at the University. After the general assembly, twelve technical sessions, arranged so that four sessions will run concurrently each hour, will be held for the convenience of those attending the convention. Under this arrangement all may have ample opportunity to choose the particular meeting that is of special interest.

Prof. Schaefer to be Chairman

Mr. Leo H. Schaefer, Assistant Professor of Business Administration, has been designated chairman of one of the technical sections. He is very enthusiastic about his appointment to the chairmanship and his thorough knowledge of accounting will assure a deft handling of his position. Special rate student tickets for the banquet to be held in the evening may be procured from Mr. Schaefer at any time before Thursday the 23d. The dinner meeting, starting at 6:30 P. M., will be the highlight of the convention. It will be attended by officials of the American Institute of Accountants, The Pennsylvania Institute, and other organizations.

The main address of the dinner meeting will be delivered by Capt. J. S. Seidman, USNR, of New York City. Mr. Schaefer assures all prospective accountants and businessmen from Villanova College that this meeting will be both entertaining and educational.

Year Book To Be Distributed

Selfridge Announces Plan For Belle Air Distribution

John Selfridge, Editor-in-Chief of the Belle Air, anounced today that the yearbook will be distributed in the very near future. All students who have paid matriculation fees for the past two semesters will receive a copy free. Students who have paid for only one semester must pay $2.00 for their issue. All others must pay the fee of $5.00.

Following the traditional colors of blue and white, the volume will be larger than war issues. The yearbook will be based on the theme of the world's return to peace and tranquility after the recent devasting war. It will also present the Catholic College student and how he can contribute to the worlds peace.

Throughout the book will be drawings by Eamon Walsh.. These drawings will add to the quality of the volume.

In commenting upon the volumes of the Belle Air which were produced during the war years, Selfridge paid the tribute to the men who worked on these books. He pointed out that these men were working under many handicaps, including a shortage of man-power, accelerated schedules, a lack of the proper materials and also extreme time demands by the engravers, and printers.

Book

JOHN SELFRIDGE

Due to the fact that many of these trying conditions have been alleviated, to an appreciable degree, the Editor expressed the opinion that the coming volume will be superior to previous editions of the Belle Air. It will be larger, and much emphasis has been placed upon improving the content, cuts and general make-up.

Issues of the year book will be distributed from the Belle Air Office located in the basement of the Commerce and Finance building. Notices will be posted when these books are available.

Harkins Returns To Villanova

The spires of Villanova once more welcome James Harkins to the safety of their shadows. He left Villanova in September of 1943 for his indoctrination course at Northwestern University in Chicago. Upon receiving his commission from this school in March of 1944 Harkins shipped out to sea aboard an LCT and saw service in the Mediterranean theater. He participated in engagements in Italy and then went to Elba and Southern France.

When the war in Europe was over Harkins was transferred to the South Pacific and there served upon an LSI in the waters around the Philippines.

Following the Japanese surrender he returned to the United States to be discharged. He received his release from the Navy in San Francisco on Tuesday, May 13, 1946. Since his discharge he has acquired the ownership of a restaurant in Philadelphia. Its name is The Tally Ho and is located at 1607 Moravian St.

Harkins is planning to return to Villanova in the Fall to complete his studies. While here he hopes to regain the position of tackle on the football team which he held for two years before going into the service.

Featuring . . . MR. ADAM BALISKIS Dean Emeritus of Subsistence

Food! Food! Wonderful stuff!! Webster says, "Food is the nutritive material taken into an organism for growth, work, or repair and for maintaining the vital processes." The Encyclopedia Britannica says, "Food is the general term for what is eaten by man and other creatures for the sustenance of life."

The Villanova day-hops tell us, "Food is any healthy, delicious substance served in exquisite china, spread across clean white linen, which gives off an appetizing odor and is extremely palatable." And then to carry our research a little further we learn from "Louie" that food is anything he's got in Ye Pie Shoppe between two hunks of bread.

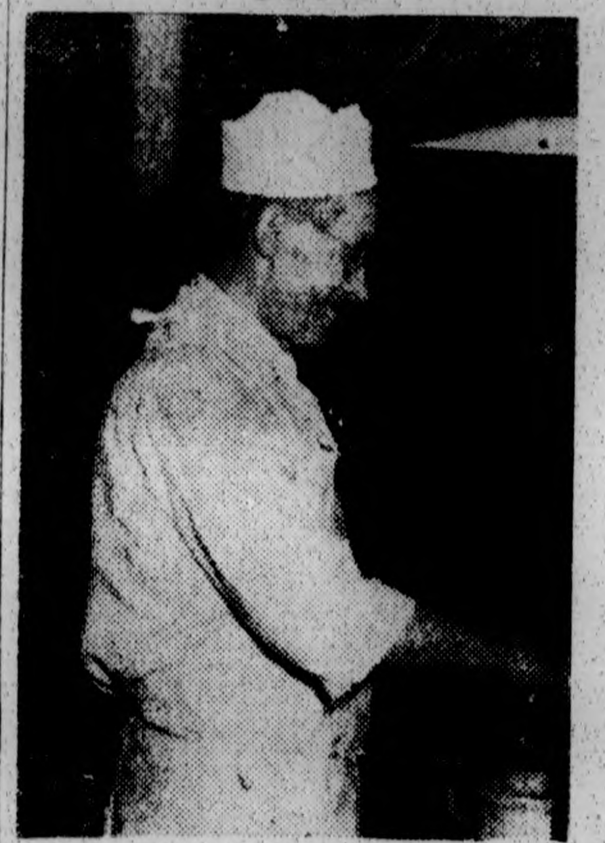
But for the benefit of some of the very few students here at Villanova who have never tasted food, and don't know how wonderful the stuff really is, we have asked the Chef of our College Cafeteria for a comment on this vital question. To some, perhaps he needs an introduction.

Baliskis And Son

Adam Baliskis, by name, is the Chef de Cuisine of the Villanova Kitchen. He was born in Lithuania in the year 1888. At the age of nineteen he crossed the great Atlantic and nestled in the city of brotherly love. Most of his happily married life has since been spent in South Philadelphia where he has raised both a son and a daughter. His son, known as "Pete", is now second cook in the College Kitchen.

Adam has had years and years of cooking experience behind him. He tossed his first egg into the frying pan over forty years ago. For eighteen years he cooked at the Reading Terminal in Philadelphia. He spent eight years as chef at the Greens Hotel, once located at 8th and Chestnut Streets where a garage now stands. But all of his time as a professional cook was not spent solely in Philadelphia. At the Chalfont-Haddon Hall in Atlantic City, New Jersey, Adam cheffed for two years.

Cook



ADAM BALISKIS

Ten Years At Villanova

In the year 1936 Mr. Baliskis came to Villanova. For ten years now he has been cooking for the resident students and faculty members. He enjoys his cooking profession . . . and especially here at the college. That's why he has been here so long, and why, also, his son has joined him in his work.

Commenting on food, Adam Baliskis says: "I'm just a chef . . . not a magician. I can't make fillet mignon out of a sow's ear."

Profits of Interfrat Dance Split Among Four Fraternities

Jim Bonner, Student Council Chairman, has announced the final distribution of the profits from the Interfraternity Ball. The proceeds were originally to be divided between the two fraternities that sponsored the dance. These were the Phi Kappa Pi and Delta Pi Epsilon.

After the dance it was suggested that some of the money be given to the two inactive fraternities on the campus to give them a start in their reorganization.

The money was divided into three parts. One third went to the Phi Kappa Pi, one third to Delta Pi Epsilon, and the two inactive fraternities were given one sixth of the proceeds apiece.

This money is to be used for their reorganization in the coming year. If they are not completely reorganized and in full swing this money will revert to the two fraternities that gave the dance. The reorganization must be accomplished by June of '47.

The Student Council will check these organizations periodically and make a report to the fraternities involved. The final decision as to their reorganization rests with the Student Council.

Traning Officer To Inspect NROTC

At one o'clock today on Mendel Field, the NROTC, V-12 and Marine units here at Villanova will stand an inspection by the District Training Officer from the Fourth Naval District. After this inspection, accompanied by Captain Thomas C. Thomas, Commanding Officer of the Navy Unit here, the Training Officer will witness a review by the unit.

The Navy Unit band will march and furnish the music both for the inspection and review, and the uniform for the day has been prescribed as forest greens with blouses for the Marines. The V-5 and V-12 Units will wear dress blues with leggings and duty belts.

The NROTC trainees will be attired in officer-type blues with leggings. All hands will be equipped with rifles.

During the morning, the Training Officer will inspect the Navy and Marine living quarters, the PT facilities and program, the rifle range and other activities of the Navy here at Villanova.

Recently, the Navy Detail Office issued an order whereby trainees are given the option of wearing either whites or blues on campus and wearing either blue or khaki for off station liberty.

Lancaster Pike Scene of Crash

Thursday afternoon a truck speeding down Lancaster Pike towards Philadelphia crashed into the P and W bridge just west of Spring Mill Road. The truck, of the cabin-trailer variety, was carrying a massive seventeen ton fly-wheel when the disaster occurred. The flywheel was in the ointment, as it were, since the girth of it so raised the overall height of the truck that it exceeded the clearance of the bridge.

The flywheel was knocked off the truck and the bridge was violently shaken by the blow. Engineers however decided that the trestle was not seriously or permanently damaged and that the trains could continue using it.

Traffic was tied up on the Pike for several hours while the damage was being taken care of. The huge flywheel was finally lifted onto a carrier and the broken truck removed. Traffic was back to normal at about 7:00 P. M. and the difficulty passed.

Students Asked Not To Bother Rabbits

Last Thursday the Bacteriology Class reported that one of the rabbits which they are using for experimental purposes was found roaming around the third floor of Mendel Hall, when it should have been in the patio outside that Hall.

According to reports the rabbit had been injured while making his tour of the Hall. The Bacteriology instructors have requested the Villanovan to warn students against such action as removing these animals from their cages.

Now that injections with virulent bacteria are being given the rabbits, students must be more careful.

Cats Hosts To Penn, Georgetown This Week

Team Downs Lafayette, 7-1; Bows To Rams, 13-5

Wildcats Powerless Against New Yorkers

Well Balanced Fordham Club Give Cats Prom Hangover; McDonnell Good in Relief

That old feeling on the day-after-the-night-before was a contributing factor in the debacle at Villanova last Saturday afternoon. With perfect weather conditions prevailing, Fordham came down from Rose Hill to win its tenth game of the season by a 13-5 count.

The Rams touched up a trio of 'Cat hurlers for sixteen safeties. Tony Camera, Jim Quinn, and Joe Ososki made three apiece. Tom Cusmano and Dorm Parella each had a pair.

"Major" McDonell, with a single and double, Charley Comerford and Bill Smith, the latter two with a pair of singles, did the bulk of Villanova's hitting. The infield contributed six errors to ease Fordham's path to the plate.

"Jigger" Donohue left the premises with the bases full and none out in the third. Jack Rothenhouser finally stopped the rally after 3 runs crossed the plate. Bill Kay, Fordham southpaw, was chased in the fourth when three Villanova runners scored.

Fordham added two unearned runs in the fifth. Three more enemy runs crossed in the sixth and brought McDonnell into the scene.

Single Villanova runs scored in the sixth and eighth. In the ninth a trio of Fordham runs made the final count 13-5.

Fordham

	AB	R	H	PO	A
Camera, 3b	5	2	3	2	4
Quinn, ss	5	3	3	2	1
Ososki, cf	6	2	3	0	1
Cusmano, lf	5	1	2	3	0
St. Germain, rf	3	0	0	1	0
x-Powers, rf	2	1	1	0	0
Kozol, c	4	1	0	6	0
Pickett, 1b	5	1	1	9	0
Parella, 2b	5	1	2	3	2
Kay, p	2	1	0	1	0
Arbucho, p	3	0	1	0	0
Totals	45	13	16	27	8

Villanova

	AB	R	H	PO	A
Smith, lf	4	0	2	1	1
Litwa, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Henry, rf	3	0	0	0	1
Casey, cf	5	0	0	3	0
O'Neill, c	5	0	1	15	1
Kline, 3b	5	1	1	0	0
Doherty, ss	4	1	1	2	0
Comerford, 1b	4	2	2	5	0
Lord, 2b	3	1	0	0	1
Donohue, p	0	0	0	0	1
Rothenhauser, p	1	0	0	0	1
McDonnell, p	2	0	2	1	1
Totals	36	5	9	27	7

x-Batted for St. Germain in 6th

Fordham ....0 0 5 0 2 3 0 0 3—13
Villanova ....0 0 0 3 1 1 0 1 0— 5

O'Neill Crosses Plate!

Frank O'Neill comes home with run number one, of a three run rally in the fourth inning of the Lafayette game. O'Neill, who caught a fine game for the Cats, opened the inning with a single. Henry singled, and Billy Doherty scored him with a timely base blow. Grassey, Lafayette catcher, looks ..futilly for the ball.

Big Stan Chojnacki Hurls Brilliantly For Fifth Win

Stan Hits Two Doubles; Casey, O'Neill, Doherty, Lord Also Get Extra Bases

By BOB MANSKE

Stan Chojnacki's four hit pitching and the tremendous plugging of his teammates featured the Wildcat's victory over Lafayette College last Wednesday at Villanova.

Taking his fifth straight win of the season, Stan set a heated pace by striking out twelve enemy batsmen and by walking only one. He fell into trouble only in the sixth inning when the only walk he distributed occurred. This was followed by a single and an error allowing the only Lafayette run of the afternoon to be scored.

One of the highlights of the game was Villanova's hitting, which of late seems to be improving by leaps and bounds. In the first three innings of play, they exploded for three extra base hits, but these did not produce any of those all important runs until the fourth. Three singles in a row by O'Neill, Henry and Doherty, followed by Comerford's grounder and Joe Lord's timely two bagger, produced three runs. These were enough to win the game.

In the fifth, Frank O'Neill once again led the attack, by singling to center and scoring on Bill Henry's single and Charley Comerford's fly to left. Once again in the sixth, the Cats scored on singles by Smith, Kline and Casey, which led Coach Charley Gelbert to relieve his starting hurler Stanzack, with reliever Johnny Moon; however Moon was relieved in the seventh by Kadzow, when he was touched for another two runs, as Chojnacki laced out a two bagger with two on.

Lafayette

	AB	R	H	PO	A
Contini, ss	4	0	0	1	3
Milne, cf	3	0	1	2	0
Villani, 2b	4	0	0	3	1
Ash, 1b	4	0	2	10	0
Stanzack, p	4	0	0	2	5
Kuti, rf	3	0	0	1	0
Zipple, lf	3	0	1	2	0
Grassey, c	1	1	0	2	0
Moon, p	0	0	0	0	0
Kadzow, p	1	0	0	0	0
Nemes, 3b	3	0	0	1	2
Totals	30	1	4	24	11

Villanova

	AB	R	H	PO	A
Smith, lf	5	1	2	2	0
Kline, 3b	5	0	1	2	3
Casey, cf	5	0	2	1	0
O'Neill, c	4	2	3	10	2
Henry, rf	4	1	2	0	0
Doherty, ss	4	1	2	0	1
Comerford, 1b	4	0	0	10	0
Lord, 2b	4	1	1	1	1
Chojnacki, p	3	1	2	0	4
Totals	38	7	15	27	9

Lafayette ....0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—1
Villanova ....0 0 0 3 1 1 2 0 x—7

Penn Here Tomorrow; Cats Play Hoyas Saturday

Varsity Downed Blue and Red, 3-2, and Georgetown, 11-8, in Previous Games

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova's steadily improving baseball team will meet one of its previous victims tomorrow afternoon, when the Weinertmen play host to the University of Pennsylvania. Two weeks ago the Wildcats edged the Red and Blue in a close 3-2 ball game.

Quakers Record .500

Since then, the Quakers have made one addition to both their won and lost columns. Their loss, coming three days after the Villanova contest was another 3-2 verdict, Columbia being the winner this time. The win, a 8-4 decision over Princeton, was Penn's second triumph over the Tigers this year, and made the seasons log for the Quaker City representatives read three up and three down at this writing.

The activity of the Villanovans has been limited to one game since their last meeting with the Penns —but Oh how active the Wildcats were that day. They lambasted the offerings of three Lafayette hurlers for fifteen hits and seven runs, to allow freshman Stan Chojnacki to add win No. Five to his unblemished record.

Prior to the game, the Leopards were heralded as one of the best teams in the East. Villanova, with an 8-3 record in collegiate competition, was now ready to defend its rights to the same acclamation.

McCunney Probable Pitcher

Coach Horace Hendrickson, Penn diamond mentor, plans to field virtually the same team that opposed the Main Liners two weeks ago. He most likely will give pitcher Dick McCunney a chance to avenge his earlier defeat

PENN PREVIEW
Continued on Page Six

By JIM McNAMARA

The Georgetown Hoyas will invade the Villanova Stadium field next Saturday to complete the second half of a home and home arrangement. In the first game, played at Washington, Stan Chojnacki turned back the Hoyas in a free-hitting 11-8 contest. Both teams are essentially the same, with a few changes.

The Washingtonians will have Charley Miller, John Burke, Trussel and Baker in the infield from third to first. These four men collected 10 of Georgetown's 15 hits against the 'Cats the last time. Burke had four hits—a triple, double, and two singles—and Miller had three—a double and two singles. Burke also handled 6 chances without an error that day. Trussel is the clean-up batter and always a dangerous man to face. Baker contributed a triple and single in the melee at the capital city. Defensively, this quartet is good but not as tight as a few of Villanova's recent opponents—namely Penn and Lafayette.

The boys we hope will get a good workout tomorrow will be: Oberto in left, Dugan in center, and Byers in right. Elmer Oberto collected three hits in the last slugging duel, including a double.

It is doubtful who will get the starting assignment on the hill for the Hoyas. Klaric and Gora went the last time and held the Villanovans to 8 hits, but were extremely wild. Now in warmer weather they should be very effective. Either of these two men might get the call. Behind the plate ArtBregman will direct his team. Handling pitchers and throwing out runners are Art's main assets. He is weak at the plate.

GEORGETOWN
Continued on Page Six

Marines Move Into League Lead In Softball Race

Alumni Downs Austin, Knocking Them Out of First; Day Hops Lose Debut

By DAVE MARANO

With rain washing out half this week's schedule, intra-murals were limited to three games. The most thrilling game of the trio was on Tuesday night when the pace-setting Austin gang dropped a close one to Alumni 3-2. After scoring two runs in the second on an error, two walks, and a base hit by Conway, the Austin batsmen were rendered helpless by Durney, pitcher for Alumni, who allowed only five hits throughout the evening. At the end of the fourth inning, with the score all tied up at 2-2, Alumni pushed over the winning run on singles by O'Neill and McCluskey. An infield out by Norton pushed O'Neil to third. Later, he scored on Boyle's long fly to left field. This was enough lead for pitcher Durney, who set the rivals down in order, except for a 7th inning single by Menchini.

Alumni Trims Mendel

On Wednesday night, Alumni came through with it's second victory of the week, by swamping Mendel 14-8. Highlighting this game was Mehler's last inning home-run with two on, which turned out to be in vain.

Fedigan Laces Day-Hops

While this slaughter was taking place, the Day-hops were making a very disastrous debut. After scoring two in the first, the day-hoppers lost all life, and wound up on the short end of a 14-2 count. Although losing by such a one-

INTRAMURALS
Continued on Page Six

Let's Take a Swim

Did you know the field house has a swimming pool? Well it does and its opened for student use from 3:30 P. M. to 4:30 P. M. every day from Monday through Friday.

The pool is 70 ft. long and 30 ft. wide and the deepest point is 10½ ft. under the diving boards. This information is provided for those of you who have never bothered to take a look, least of all to take a swim.

With the coming of the Intra-Mural Swimming Meet those of you who intend to enter had better drop in and get a few of those winter kinks out of your muscles and fine out what this steady diet of cigarettes has done to your wind.

If you don't intend to enter the Meet but are just looking for something to do besides hit the books why don't you drop in for a dip some of these nice afternoons? It's your pool and there for your use.

INTRA-MURAL SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIP
Wednesday, June 5 at 8 P. M.
Events

1. 50 yards—Free Style
2. 100 yards—Free Style
3. 50 yards—Breast Stroke
4. 50 yards Back Stroke
5. Fancy Dives
   Required Dives (3)
   a) Front Dive (Swan)
   b) Back Dive
   c) Front Jack-knife
   Optional Dives (2)
   May not repeat any of the above required dives.
6. Relay—(100 yards) Each man swims 25 yards (one length).
7. Medley Relay—(75 yards)
   First Man: 25 yards—Back Stroke
   Second Man: 25 yards — Breast Stroke
   Last Man: 25 yards — Free Style

N.B. No contestant may participate in more than two events exclusive of the relays.

Canning Says:—

Although the new Day Hop softball team took quite a beating in their initial game Wednesday evening, we would like to commend them for their spirit in coming out to participate in intra-sports. This is a great step in our "Back to Normalcy" program. It shows the Day Hops are doing their best to be an active and prominent part in all activities on the campus.

In former years the Day Hops always had a strong contingent in the softball league as well as other intra-mural sports and we hope that this start will not peter out but will build up to a powerful threat to the intra-mural crown.

You resident students may not realize the inconvenience involved for these men who live quite a distance from the campus, a majority as far as Philadelphia. It meant going home for dinner, for those who couldn't bear to eat on the campus twice in one day, and then borrowing the old man's car or catching a public conveyance and dashing back out here to play ball. This may seem just like one extra trip to you non-commuters but don't forget that these students had to get out of the "sack" an hour and a half before you this morning in order to get dressed, eat and catch a train, bus or trolley and probably a combination of them in order to get to school for eight-thirty class. Having ridden the Paoli Local, none of you will envy them that leg of the trip.

By the time classes are over and they make this journey back home you can be sure there has to be a lot of school spirit in these fellows to make another trip out here to play softball and then tramp home to hit the books.

We say that Hall Varani and his Day Hop softball team have exhibited the first real show of school spirit on the campus so far this semester. This is the kind of spirit that was prevelant in every activity on the campus before the war and made what's known as the good old "College Spirit."

This writer is behind you Day Student athletes one hundred percent and we're sure the entire student body admires your spunk and interest in campus sports.

As a parting note we would like to extend our congratulations to Coach Phill Weinert for the splendid job he has done in building up the Wildcat baseball team into being one of the outstanding clubs in the East. Coach Wienert has brought Villanova a winning team in his first season here, a team that can be a match against the best, a team you can brag about and be proud of.

The student body is proud of you Coach Wienert and your fine team and wishes you continued success in the few remaining games of the season.

Penn Preview

Continued From Page Five

but if the latter is not ready, big Conrad Mackel will assume the mound chores.

The Penn inner defense will take the field with Bob Evans, brilliant football star, at third base; Tom Upton, last year's basketball captain as shortstop; Joe Della Monica, veteran of last year's play at second; and Frank Cooney, ex-West Catholic athlete, around the initial sack.

Outfield positions will most likely be manned by Frank Jenkins, Jim Smith, and Larry Barnhorst, the order being the usual left to right. Coach Hendrickson may make one change in this line-up. If Don Schneider, leading ground gainer for Penn last football season, has fully recovered from his injury, he will replace Jenkins in left field. The inclusion of Schneider in the batting order would add plenty of punch to the Red and Blue offensive.

Litwa May Be Ready

Villanova's line-up is expected to be the same at it was for the Lafayette game, except for the right field spot where Al Litwa will return and replace Jack Henry if his leg is all right. Coach Weinert's pitching choice for the game is not as yet known. Whoever it is, he may be reassured that his receiver will be Frank O'Neill. The big red head has been improving with every game and is showing the fans the reason for

Chojnacki Tops Team Hurling

Stan Chojnacki continues to be the leading pitcher on the team. He has appeared in eight games, three complete and has a record of five victories and no defeats. Four of the wins were in starting roles.

Opposing batters have touched Stan for 37 hits in 44 innings but have scored only 12 runs. Georgetown got eight runs on fifteen hits in his worst game of the season to date. His earned run average is 1.63.

Control has been Chojnacki's main forte in the clutch. Only nine men have received gratis transportation to first base, seven on passes and two were hit. On the other hand 37 have taken the long walk back to the bench.

"Jigger" Donohue has received indifferent support in three of the nine games in which he has appeared. Thus his record of three and three is easily explained.

Henry has worked 37 2/3 innings. In this period 29 hits good for 24 runs have been made off his delivery. However, only 9 of these runs were earned. "Jigger" is the leading strikeout artist on the team with 47. On the other hand he is also the wildest with 25 passes issued.

Bob McDonnell has appeared on the mound in five games for a total 27 1-3 innings worked. The opposition has solved his delivery for 33 hits (15 by the Phillies), good for 20 runs, of which 16 have been earned. "Major" has fanned 28 and passed 10.

Bill Smith made a three inning mound appearance in the Army game. The Cadets scored five runs on a combination of four hits, three walks, and a hit batter. Two men retired on strikes.

Jack Rothenhauser became the fifth pitcher to see action during the season. During his three inning trek nine hits were collected by the opposition. Seven men also went down on strikes.

On the batting side of the picture, Charlie Comerford appears to be the most dangerous man at the plate for the Blue and White. Despite his .207 average he has chased eleven of his team mates over the plate to lead in this department. Joe Lord, Al Litwa, and Frank O'Neill are next with seven apiece.

Bill Smith leads in total hits with 16 and also has the highest average, .390. Frank O'Neill and Bill Doherty are next in hits with 14 apiece. Comerford, with 11, and Litwa, with 10, are the others who have reached the double figures.

Player	G	AB	R	H	RBI	AVE	PO	A	E	AVE
McCarthy	2	2	3	2	0	1.000	2	0	0	1.000
Smith	10	41	10	16	2	.390	16	4	2	.909
Kline	4	18	4	7	3	.388	7	6	4	.765
McDonnell	5	8	1	3	3	.375	1	8	0	1.000
O'Neill	12	38	10	14	7	.368	95	8	3	.970
Nunan	4	9	1	3	0	.333	19	2	0	1.000
Chojnacki	8	16	2	5	4	.312	1	17	0	1.000
Litwa	12	35	8	10	7	.285	12	2	2	.875
Doherty	13	54	10	14	5	.259	17	25	5	.893
Casey	10	40	7	9	5	.225	7	0	0	1.000
Comerford	13	53	7	11	11	.207	108	2	1	.998
Henry	5	10	2	2	0	.200	0	4	2	.666
Eisenhart	8	22	5	4	0	.181	18	1	0	1.000
Lord	13	47	6	8	7	.170	29	18	3	.940
Capriotto	5	12	1	2	1	.166	2	1	3	.500
Marano	5	18	3	2	0	.111	4	14	3	.857
Donohue	9	8	1	0	0	.000	2	14	3	.842
Boos	4	6	1	0	0	.000	3	6	2	.818
Schliecher	2	1	0	0	1	.000	0	0	0	.000
Brehmer	1	1	0	0	0	.000	0	0	0	.000
Rothenhauser	1	1	0	0	1	.000	0	1	0	1.000
	13	440	82	112	57	.254	343	131	33	.954

Player	G	CG	IP	R	H	ER	ERA	W	SO	HB
Chojnacki	8	3	44	12	37	8	1.63	7	37	2
Donohue	9	2	37 2-3	24	29	9	2.13	25	47	0
McDonnell	5	0	27 1-3	20	33	16	5.33	10	28	0
Smith	1	0	3	5	4	1	3.00	3	2	1
Rothenhauser	1	0	3	6	9	3	9.00	0	7	0
			115	67	112	37	2.89	45	131	3

Florida U. Signed For Fall Football Schedule

Palmlanders Have Lost to Cats on Two Previous Meetings; A Home Game

Florida University has been signed to the football schedule for this coming Fall to round out a ten game schedule the Sports Department announced last Friday.

This game, to be played on November 16 at Shibe Park, will mark the third meeting of these two teams. In 1940, the Wildcat eleven defeated them up here at Shibe Park and in 1941 Villanova travelled south to take the second game of the series, before the second largest crowd ever to assemble at a University of Florida home again.

Father McKee, who has been negotiating to fill two open dates on a tentative eleven game schedule, was pleased to fill the first of these dates. He is currently working to bill game eleven for one of the largest Mainliner schedules in recent years.

This team is the second Southland team to play up here this Fall. The University of Miami, which team downed Boston College last year in the Orange Bowl, is the other Wildcat opponent to come North for a game here.

Four night games mark the list for this year. Two of these are at home. These, plus three day games, will give the returning Villanovans plenty of opportunity to see their home team in action.

The schedule as it stands to date, is as follows:

1946 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

September

14—Kings Point M.M. Academy, Villanova, Pa.

21—Army West Point, New York.

28—Navy, Annapolis, Maryland.

October

4—Marquette, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa. (night Game)

12—Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass.

20 — Georgetown, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa. (Sunday)

26—Boston College, Boston, Mass. (night)

November

1 — U. of Miami, Shibe Park, Phildelphia, Pa. (night)

8—of Detroit, Detroit, Mich. (night)

16—U. of Florida, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa.

23—Open.

Sports Alumni In Headlines

Villanova's Alumni continued to make the head linees this week as Mickey Vernon moved into top dog position in the American League batting averages, Mike Garbarck rejoined the Yanks after a short illness and Len Merullo was tossed out of the Dodger-Cub game after a brawl with Eddie Stanky. The slug fest was described by Tom Meany of P.M. News paper, "Outdoor boxing not scheduled for Ebbetts Field until mid-June, opened somewhat prematurely at the recent Cub-Dodgers game there. The contestants were Eddie Stanky, Dodger second sacker, and Len Merullo (Former Villanova College Star), Cub Short stop who upended Stansky as the latter pivoted in a double play which closed the 10th.

Stankey hit the deck and Merullo fell atop of him. The Dodger threw the first punch, but Merullo didn't beg the question. He returned and in no time the boys were going to it. Pee Wee Reese, leaning over the scrambling antagonists, took a gratuitous belt at Merullo, by which time the milling pair was surrounded by the squads of both teams.

The umpires restored order after a few minutes, but not until Hal Gregg, Dixie Walker and Howie Schultz had postured belligerently against unidentified Cubs, none of whom seemed particularly awed. Stanky and Merullo were given the afternoon off and the game went on to a 2-1 victory for the Dodgers in the 13th."

Georgetown

Continued From Page Five

As for Villanova the positions seem solidified now. The same team that was running up such an impressive record until bumped by the Fordham Rams will take the field. The starting pitcher should be Stan Chojnacki unless he goes against Penn tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Weinert's confidence in him during the early part of the season.

Swimming Meet To Be Held in June

After a three year interruption due to the war, the Villanova Intra-Mural Swimming Meet will be resumed this semester on June 5th at 8:00 P. M. at the college swimming pool in the Field House. There will be seven events including four races, two relays and a diving event.

A large turn-out is expected for the meet and the edge seems to be in favor of Fedigan and Austin Halls. Both these Halls have the Marine and Navy contingents who have been actively participating in swimming activities as part of their Physical Training Program.

All rules of the National Swimming Championships will be used in the meet with one local rule being inserted. This local rule is that no contestant may participate in more than two events exclusive of the relays.

Intramurals

Continued From Page Five

sided score, the fellows showed lots of talent, and will undoubtedly win their share before the season is over.

Sheddon lead the Marine attack with four hits out of five attempts and Hal Varani paced the Day Hops with two for three. Orazi of the Commuters played an execllent game in left field making some spectacular running catches.

The Marines featured a new addition to their team in Ike Eisenhart former member of the varsity baseball team in the first half of this season. Ike is playing short stop for the Mariners.

SOFTBALL STANDINGS

	W	L	T
Marines	3	1	1
Alumni	5	2	0
Austin	4	3	0
Fedigan	3	3	0
Doms	2	3	1
Mendel	2	4	0
Day Hops	0	1	0

Managers Needed

Coach Jordan Oliver wishes to announce that there are a number of positions open for managers of the varsity football team this year. These positions have always been held with high respect on the campus as they carry with them the privilege of traveling with the varsity on all its trips. This year in particular will be excellent for managers as the team will be traveling to Annapolis, West Point, Boston College, Holy Cross, Detroit, and possibly Florida.

Any men interested in taking advantage of these openings and have the spirit to stick by the job, are requested to submit their names to Manager Frank Mauk in Room 203 Alumni Hall or to either of the two Sport Editors.

Kearney Says:—

"One of the finest college baseball games I've seen in thirty years," was one of the many comments received after the 1946 Villanova baseball team had downed the University of Pennsylvania, 3-2, at Penn's River Field.

This statement was made by one of the leading sports officials in the East, and, boys, we're proud of you. You all played a magnificent game and came through with a coveted victory.

The fact of the matter is, gang, that too little credit has been given college baseball in recent years. Time was, when this campus sport rated equal to, or far above college football.

Some of the major league's greatest stars have come from campus nines. Nick Etten, Hank Borowy and Lou Gerhig are among the multitude who have been picked from the fruitful college vine.

Comparing the attendance at campus games with that of last year, things look really bright. I don't think many minor league games could compare with last Wednesday's game here with Lafayette, which we won 7-1.

Under azure blue skies, and surrounded by a crystal clear day, conditions could not be made to order any better. There was something tingling about the freshly-cut grass on the deep green infield and the blinding white lines on the infield dirt made to match the horsehide.

The above setting set to the tune of Stan Chojnacki's singing fast ball, and the crack of the bat as Dan Casey and the rest lashed out their extra base hits made for a completely satisfying day of college baseball. The turnout at this game last week seemed to nod assurance to Coach Phil Weinert that he is accomplishing his wish and really bringing baseball to a high quality here at Villanova.

Phil, and his team have given us something to cheer about. They have knocked off two Ivy league teams and, at present, are playing far above .500 ball.

By far, the standout game of the year was the exhibition game with the Philadelphia Phillies. Our boys held them heroically as the "major leaguers" eked out an 8-7 victory. Things like that don't happen every day on college diamonds.

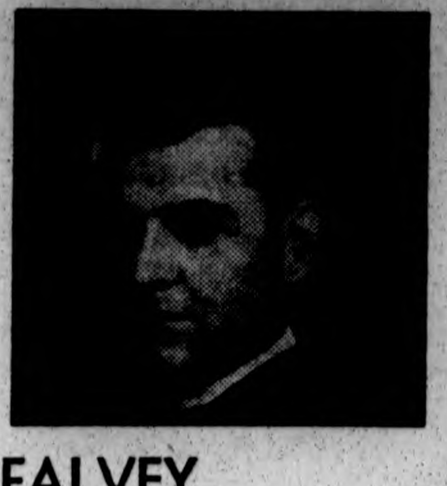
Yes, our vote of confidence and that of the student body is behind Coach Phil and his men. We feel sure that they are doing their part in boosting collegiate baseball to its deserved position in the field of sports. May they continue on to a sparkling finish to the first year of post-war baseball at Villanova.

O'Neill At Third . . .

Frank O'Neill sliding into third safely against Lafayette. O'Neill played a bang-up game against Lafayette. Joe Lord drove O'Neill, in with the first Cat run with a double, shortly after this play.

Faculty Comments

THE GROWTH OF A LIBRARY



By FATHER FALVEY

The Library at Villanova has continued to develop and progress with the college itself. The history of the institution is not only preserved but it is also reflected in the library.

When Villanova opened in 1842, the college consisted of one building for the faculty and students. This building, the Rudolph Mansion, which became known as St. Rita's Hall was destroyed by fire in 1912. During the early days the library was housed on the third floor of this building until the East wings of the college hall, now Alumni, was constructed in 1849. The college and monastery libraries were one until 1874 when the West wing of Alumni Hall was added to the main building. With the opening of the new wing the college library was separated from the monastery and placed on the second floor. The poet, T. A. Daly, who was visiting the campus on Sunday April 28th, told about his use of the library during the years 1880-1887 when it was housed on the second floor of Alumni Hall.

Once It Was Like This

The library regulations of that time prove very interesting today:

1. Every member over twelve, shall pay ten cents each month; those under 12, six cents.

2. Each new member shall pay 25 cents for the first month, including Initiation Fee: those under 12, 12½ cents.

3. No member will be allowed to get two Books at a time.

4. Books are to be distributed on Thursdays and Sundays, only.

5 Every member will be held responsible for the book which he takes out.

6. Strict Silence and order, to be observed in the Reading Room.

7. Newspapers must, on no account, be taken from the Reading Room.

8. Those who belong not to the Library Association, will not be allowed to read any of the Books or Papers.

9. Monthly Subscriptions taken up on the first Thursday of each month.

10. Any person may become a member, by applying to the President, Treasurer or Librarian.

11. Donations of Books, Periodicals, Papers, etc. will be thankfully received.

FINES

1. Any person injuring a book, will have to pay damages.

2. Any member, lending a book to one who does not belong to the Society, will be fined six cents.

3. Any one found talking aloud, or in any way disturbing others will be fined six cents.

4. Any one tearing or destroying any of the Newspapers will be fined three cents.

5. Any one leaving his Library-Book about the Orchard or College, will be fined six cents.

6. All new Books must be covered by those who take them under penalty of three cents.

Then Villanova Expanded

A new group of stone buildings, the Monastery and Mendel Hall, were completed in 1901. At that time the college library was moved to the South East corner of the second floor of Mendel and the library for the faculty was moved to the second floor of the Monastery.

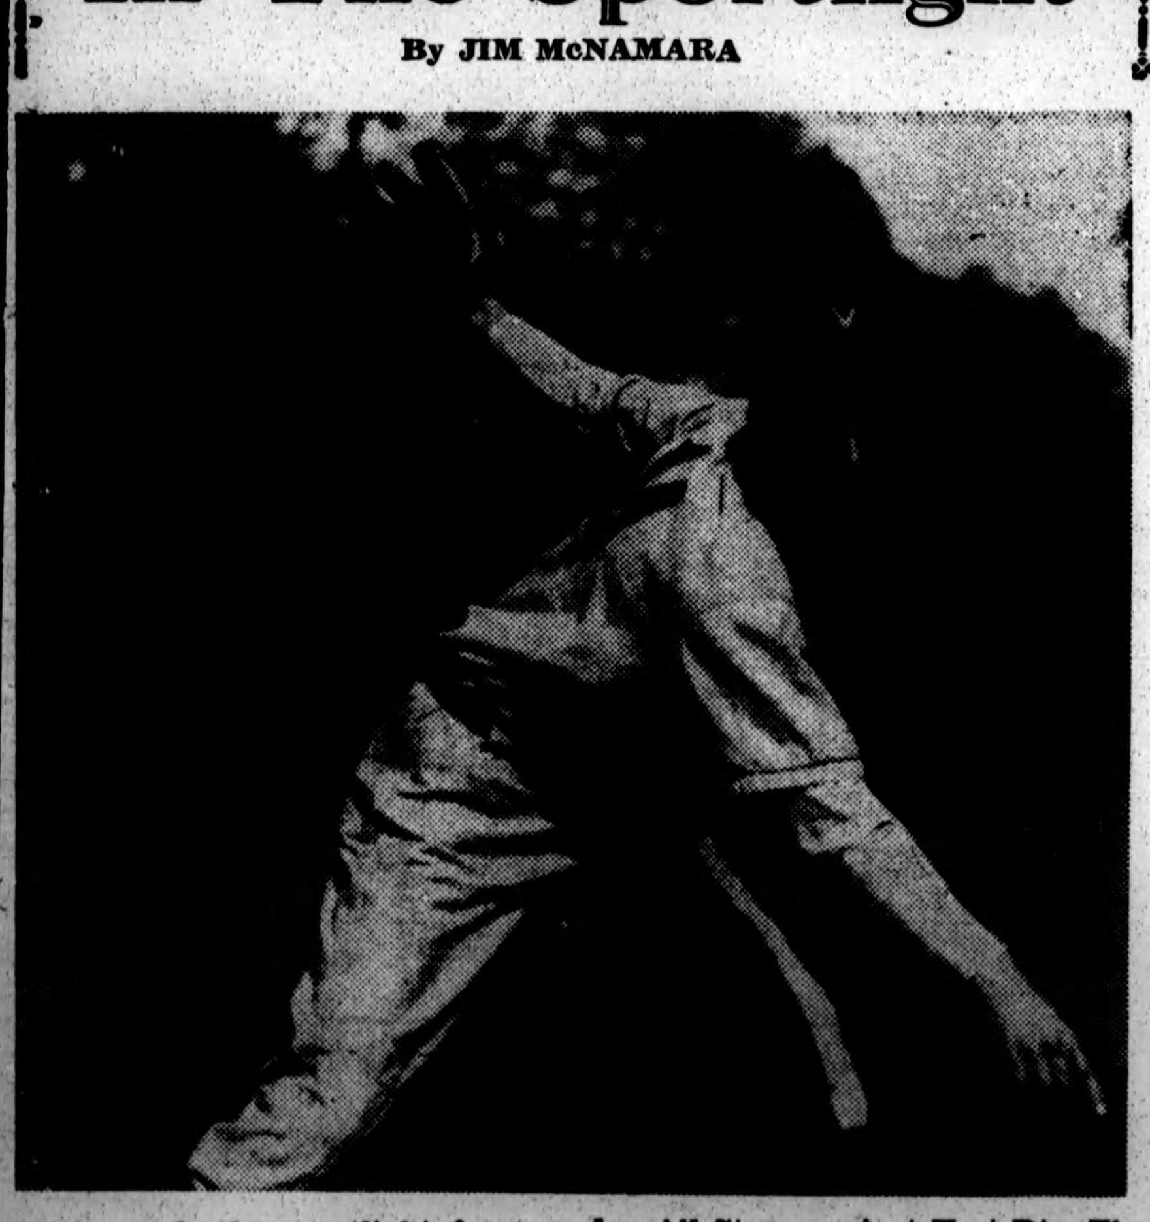
The college and Monastery libraries were combined, when Austin Hall was completed in 1925, and placed in the East wing of that building where the books were in less danger of destruction by fire.

During the past twenty years that library has so expanded that

FACULTY COMMENTS Continued on Page Eight

In The Sportlight

By JIM McNAMARA



This week the sportlight focuses on Villanovas ace moundsman — freshman Stan Chojnacki. To date Stan has won five straight games without a loss, and in the last 24 innings he has given up only one run. His last two games have been 1-hitters against Princeton and Lafayette. Stan is also a dangerous man at the plate, collecting 5 hits in 15 trips—including 3 doubles—for a lusty .333 average.

Pitching for four years at Camden High, Stan had a record of 22 and 5. In his junior and senior years he pitched his team to the S. Jersey Championship. By winning seven games without a loss, including a no-hitter in 1942, Stan was selected to pitch for the Camden All Stars against Fort Dix. The soldiers boasted of a line-up of professional players. The Camdenite's biggest thrill in baseball came in this game when he struck out Jack Wallaesa, now of the Athletics, twice and Pellegrini, of the Red Sox, once.

Stan's athletic talents don't go under wraps with the final baseball game. He was an All City selection at guard on Camden's basketball dream team and will be a good prospect for Al Severance's five next winter.

After graduating from high school, Stan waded through his scholarship offers and decided on

SPORTLIGHT Contmued on Page Eight

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

Ten Commandments for the Prom was something we couldn't pass up. They are as follows:

1—I am the Junior Prom. Thou shalt not hold past proms before me.

2—Thou shalt not comment on thy roomie's girl. He probably thinks the same of yours.

3—Remember thou shalt not check in later than 7 A. M. on the Sabbath.

4—Honor they father and thy mother. They're paying for it.

5—Thou shalt not kill the last of the coke. Keep to the straight and narrow path.

6—Thou shalt not adulterate the Scotch with soda.

7—Thou shalt not swipe thy roomie's shirt. It's probably the last one he has.

8—Thou shalt not tell any lies about thy roomie. But don't tell the truth, either.

9—Thou shalt not covet the honor of having thy girl picked as Prom Queen. The judges' decision is purely biased.

10—Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's car. It's probably the only one he can borrow.

* * *

The Scotchman awoke one morning to find that his wife had passed away during the night. He leaped out of bed, ran out in the hall, and called downstairs to the cook:

"Mary, come to the foot of the stairs quick!"

"What is it?" she cried.

"Don't boil but one egg for breakfast," said the Scotchman.

* * *

Trudy, aged four, was entertaining the visiting clergyman while her mother was upstairs dressing.

"Do you say your prayers every night, little one?" asked the clergyman.

"Oh no, Mummy says them for me," answered Trudy.

"Indeed, and what does she say?" queried the minister.

"Thank God you're in bed," was the prompt reply.

* * *

"Ah wins."
"What yuh got?"
"Three aces."
"No you don't . . . Ah does."
"What yuh got?"
"Two eights and a razor."
"Yuh sho do. How come yuh so lucky?"

* * *

"Porter, get me another glass of ice water."

"Sorry, suh, but if I takes any mo' ice, dat cawpse in de baggage cah ain't goin' to keep."

—The Santa Clara

Most of the country's great men sprang from the farm—and generally as far from it as possible.

* * *

Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes dislike Kaltenborn because he's just a commentator.

—The Santa Clara

* * *

Attendance at the summer session at the University of Chicago is expected to reach approximately 1400 students according to the university's school paper, The Chicago Maroon. Returned veterans, anxious to complete their preliminary work or to finish courses left suspended at their departure, will form the bulk of those who will attend classes during July and August. The fall registration is estimated to be in excess of 2,500.

* * *

Guess who: so round, so firm, so free and easy on the draw—Pistol packing mama.

* * *

"If you refuse me," he swore, "I shall die."

She refused him.

Sixty years later he died.

* * *

Professor: "It gives me great pleasure to mark you 85 on your exam."

Student: "Why not make it 100 and give yourself a real thrill."

* * *

Joe: "What's that cute little academy girl's name?"

Bill: "Schmuggs."

Joe: "I know, but what's her name?"

—The Santa Clara

* * *

Student: Your dog likes to watch you cut hair, doesn't he?"

Barber: "It ain't that. Sometimes I snip off a bit of ear."

* * *

"Nice dog you got there. What kind is it?"

"Oh, I dunno, just dog."

"Spitz?"

"No, but he drools a little."

I would like to end this column with a little story about Villanova Chow, but since at least three other columns have done likewise, I'll—see you in the Infirmary.

'NOW AND THEN'

By JOE SWEENEY

At 72 Somerset Maugham has, at his own admission, written his last novel. Even now he is on his way back to Europe to his villa at Cap Ferrat where he plans to live for the rest of his days.

Throughout his life he has been deeply interested in the Italian Renaissance. One of his earliest novels, The Making of a Saint (1898) had such a setting. Now, 48 years later, he has turned again to history and this time he has written of a particularly colorful, often exaggerated, part of Renaissance lore.

In 1502 Niccolo Machiavelli, a native of the republic of Florence, was chosen to be special envoy to Caesar Borgia, Duke of Valentinois, then in residence at Imola. Italy at the time was in turmoil. Florence, under the protection of France, had refused Caesar Borgia, or Il Valentino as he was known, the money and troops he demanded to defend himself against his revolting mercenary captains, all petty barons in their own right. The Duke, by fair or foul means, was on his way to power and Florence sent Machiavelli, an intelligent person, but one not endowed with any particular powers of state to temporize with the Duke.

Machiavelli was, to say the least, self-confident and conceited. In Imola he fell in love with Aurelia, wife of a respectable citizen. Developing immensely complicated plans to win her, Machiavelli felt himself by all odds in full control of the situation. However the Duke, Aurelia, his friends and even Piero, his page boy, were far ahead of him and duped him with an adroitness that even he, when he later found them out, was as astonished as he was furious.

Meanwhile Machiavelli turned his full charm on the Duke but met with rebuff after rebuff. Through a complicated plan equalled only in intricacy with Machiavelli's attempt to capture Aurelia, the Duke overcame his enemies and found himself stronger than ever. This was accomplished by an array of deceits, lies, assassinations, broken treaties, etc., large enough to stock several novels with villainy.

Finally Machiavelli realized that he was no match for the Duke and asked the Signory to recall him. Due to a love for his native land as well as a wise suspicion of the Duke's motives, Machiavelli refused the Duke's glittering offer to become governor of Imola. So Machiavelli returned to Florence a badly frustrated but a much wiser man.

Since this novel's chief pace maker is a sort of surprise ending I have purposely omitted all but the barest details in summarizing the plot. As a matter of fact the surprise ending falls rather flat but the novel is saved by an excellent epilogue chronicling the fall of Caesar Borgia. Maugham in writing this novel has treated of some of the most notorious characters in church history. To ignore that they existed is impossible and I feel that in his treatment of them Maugham has been very fair. The Borgia legend has in the past grown to such grotesque proportions that fact is hardly to be distinguishable from fancy. We can be grateful that today there is a general demand for authenticated facts and that nothing more is being tolerated.

At all odds Machiavelli is a fascinating character for he, fanatically devoted to the Republic of Florence, was nevertheless capable of writing a book like The Prince (1559) inspired by Caesar Borgia's

Continued on Page Eight

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI
and JOE BROGAN

Yes, you poor news starved people, we're back (no cracks), so ring out the weekend, put out the welcome mat, raise the mainsail and make ready for "news what is news." But before we proceed to that very pleasant function we must needs publish Lesson No. 2 in our course for budding journalists, which course is being given for the benefit of the writer (so called by those who don't know any better) of a column whose presence in the noble journal is tolerated every other week (why, we'll never know).

Lou and Milt (better known as "Smears" look closely and you'll see why) you did very well in your first assignment. It was really refreshing to see a "paragraph" in your column. You know, there are other forms of construction other than the simple declarative sentence (we're not going to fast for you, are we?). We're really sorry that we had to speak so harshly to you but after all our sole purpose was to improve this journal at the spot where it sorely needs improvement. Never mind thanking us, we were glad to do it—anytime!!!

Now for the news:

Roland Higgs made the bellow laughs last week when he called on Pepsi-Cola and ordered 15 cases of Coco-Cola. How was Roland to know they aren't related? That's a joke, son.

A Last Minute Flash:

This column has just received word that Al Dumsa, better known as H. P. (one of Villanova's recent graduates) was seen strolling on Rosemont's campus . . . Could it be that Al has returned to resume his old job as dean of women at Rosemont? . . . Could be! . . . But what we can't understand is why Al still works socially from Harcum! . . . Could be Pat Frey?

Note to Smilin' Jack (spelled Jerk) DiGiacomo and his companion in literary blunders, Milton Clamati: Lay off Hanratty and Fallon; they're our property. And we don't blame Hank and Larry for grabbing something young after seeing the hungry looks on your faces . . . they felt those kids needed protection from you wolves.

During the Villanova-Lafayette game the pitcher of the opposing team was noticed delaying the game . . . Spankey Brown soon took care of the situation by shouting, and we quote, "Okay, let them delay the game—we'll make 'em eat in our chow hall." The game soon took on a fast tempo . . . Maybe they know!

Villanova has finally discovered their Ned Brant—he is none other than our own Edwin Keller. Ed pitched for the Mendel Day Hops last week and he was terrific—for the opposing team, that is. Going into the first inning Ed had a "No hit no run game," BUT "Oh that first inning" . . . Yes, we've decided to become residents. . . .

Paul Carmichael (Lou of the Pie Shop's son) . . . the only Medical Student back at Villanova for a few extra courses is getting more experience diagnosing his father's meats than he's had all through his freshman year in Medical school. Take note, Villanova, there's a good start for your future Medical College.

Bill Monagle, Villanova conception of Shakespeare's poor man's Romeo, has lost his romantic touch (almost, that is) — Tondelayo of Springfield, Pa. finally agreed to attend the Junior Prom with Bill. Look out for the grass skirt, fellows, it's inflammable.

Warren Sexton took another stab driving a Hydromatic Oldsmobile; this time without the help of Bob Manske . . . The idea is to take a driver's test first . . . You didn't know?

Matt Kearney (he's the one that "Says"—that's all, folks, just phone "Says," he's a Junior) was seen strolling around Bay Shores a

CAT CAPERS Continued on Page Eight

Canning Says:—

Although the new Day Hop softball team took quite a beating in their initial game Wednesday evening, we would like to commend them for their spirit in coming out to participate in intra-sports. This is a great step in our "Back to Normalcy" program. It shows the Day Hops are doing their best to be an active and prominent part in all activities on the campus.

In former years the Day Hops always had a strong contingent in the softball league as well as other intra-mural sports and we hope that this start will not peter out but will build up to a powerful threat to the intra-mural crown.

You resident students may not realize the inconvenience involved for these men who live quite a distance from the campus, a majority as far as Philadelphia. It meant going home for dinner, for those who couldn't bear to eat on the campus twice in one day, and then borrowing the old man's car or catching a public conveyance and dashing back out here to play ball. This may seem just like one extra trip to you non-commuters but don't forget that these students had to get out of the "sack" an hour and a half before you this morning in order to get dressed, eat and catch a train, bus or trolley and probably a combination of them in order to get to school for eight-thirty class. Having ridden the Paoli Local, none of you will envy them that leg of the trip.

By the time classes are over and they make this journey back home you can be sure there has to be a lot of school spirit in these fellows to make another trip out here to play softball and then tramp home to hit the books.

We say that Hall Varani and his Day Hop softball team have exhibited the first real show of school spirit on the campus so far this semester. This is the kind of spirit that was prevelant in every activity on the campus before the war and made what's known as the good old "College Spirit."

This writer is behind you Day Student athletes one hundred percent and we're sure the entire student body admires your spunk and interest in campus sports.

As a parting note we would like to extend our congratulations to Coach Phill Weinert for the splendid job he has done in building up the Wildcat baseball team into being one of the outstanding clubs in the East. Coach Wienert has brought Villanova a winning team in his first season here, a team that can be a match against the best, a team you can brag about and be proud of.

The student body is proud of you Coach Wienert and your fine team and wishes you continued success in the few remaining games of the season.

Penn Preview

Continued From Page Five

up if the latter is not ready big Conrad Mackel will assume the mound chores.

The Penn inner defense will take the field with Bob Evans, brilliant football star, at third base; Tom Lupton, last year's basketball captain as shortstop; Joe Della Monica, veteran of last year's play at second; and Frank Cooney, ex-West Catholic athlete, around the initial sack.

Outfield positions will most likely be manned by Frank Jenkins, Jim Smith, and Larry Barnhorst, the order being the usual left to right. Coach Hendrickson may make one change in this line-up. If Don Schneider, leading ground gainer for Penn last football season, has fully recovered from his injury, he will replace Jenkins in left field. The inclusion of Schneider in the batting order would add plenty of punch to the Red and Blue offensive.

Litwa May Be Ready

Villanova's line-up is expected to be the same at it was for the Lafayette game, except for the right field spot where Al Litwa will return and replace Jack Henry if his leg is all right. Coach Weinert's pitching choice for the game is not as yet known. Whoever it is, he may be reassured that his receiver will be Frank O'Neill. The big red head has been improving with every game and is showing the fans the reason for Coach Weinert's confidence in him during the early part of the season.

Chojnacki Tops Team Hurling

Stan Chojnacki continues to be the leading pitcher on the team. He has appeared in eight games, three complete and has a record of five victories and no defeats. Four of the wins were in starting roles.

Opposing batters have touched Stan for 37 hits in 44 innings but have scored only 12 runs. Georgetown got eight runs on fifteen hits in his worst game of the season to date. His earned run average is 1.63.

Control has been Chojnacki's main forte in the clutch. Only nine men have received gratis transportation to first base, seven on passes and two were hit. On the other hand 37 have taken the long walk back to the bench.

"Jigger" Donohue has received indifferent support in three of the nine games in which he has appeared. Thus his record of three and three is easily explained.

Henry has worked 37 2/3 innings. In this period 29 hits good for 24 runs have been made off his delivery. However, only 9 of these runs were earned. "Jigger" is the leading strikeout artist on the team with 47. On the other hand he is also the wildest with 25 passes issued.

Bob McDonnell has appeared on the mound in five games for a total 27 1-3 innings worked. The opposition has solved his delivery for 33 hits (15 by the Phillies), good for 20 runs, of which 16 have been earned. "Major" has fanned 28 and passed 10.

Bill Smith made a three inning mound appearance in the Army game. The Cadets scored five runs on a combination of four hits, three walks, and a hit batter. Two men retired on strikes.

Jack Rothenhauser became the fifth pitcher to see action during the season. During his three inning trek nine hits were collected by the opposition. Seven men also went down on strikes.

On the batting side of the picture, Charlie Comerford appears to be the most dangerous man at the plate for the Blue and White. Despite his .207 average he has chased eleven of his team mates over the plate to lead in this department. Joe Lord, Al Litwa, and Frank O'Neill are next with seven apiece.

Bill Smith leads in total hits with 16 and also has the highest average, .390. Frank O'Neill and Bill Doherty are next in hits with 14 apiece, Comerford, with 11, and Litwa, with 10, are the others who have reached the double figures.

Player	G	AB	R	H	RBI	AVE	PO	A	E	AVE
McCarthy	2	2	3	2	0	1.000	2	0	0	1.000
Smith	10	41	10	16	2	.390	16	4	2	.909
Kline	4	18	4	7	3	.388	7	6	4	.765
McDonnell	5	8	1	3	3	.375	1	8	0	1.000
O'Neill	12	38	10	14	7	.368	95	8	3	.970
Nunan	4	9	1	3	0	.333	19	2	0	1.000
Chojnacki	8	16	2	5	4	.312	1	17	0	1.000
Litwa	12	35	8	10	7	.285	12	2	2	.875
Doherty	13	54	10	14	5	.259	17	25	5	.893
Casey	10	40	7	9	5	.225	7	0	0	1.000
Comerford	13	53	7	11	11	.207	108	2	1	.998
Henry	5	10	2	2	0	.200	0	4	2	.666
Eisenhart	8	22	5	4	0	.181	18	1	0	1.000
Lord	13	47	6	8	7	.170	29	18	3	.940
Capriotto	5	12	1	2	1	.166	2	1	3	.500
Marano	5	18	3	2	0	.111	4	14	3	.857
Donohue	9	8	1	0	0	.000	2	14	3	.842
Boos	4	6	1	0	0	.000	3	6	2	.818
Schliecher	2	1	0	0	1	.000	0	0	0	.000
Brehmer	1	1	0	0	0	.000	0	0	0	.000
Rothenhauser	1	1	0	0	1	.000	0	1	0	1.000
	13	440	82	112	57	.254	343	131	33	.954

Player	G	CG	IP	R	H	ER	ERA	W	SO	HB
Chojnacki	8	3	44	12	37	8	1.63	7	37	2
Donohue	9	2	37 2-3	24	29	9	2.13	25	47	0
McDonnell	5	0	27 1-3	20	33	16	5.33	10	28	0
Smith	1	0	3	5	4	1	3.00	3	2	1
Rothenhauser	1	0	3	6	9	3	9.00	0	7	0
			115	67	142	37	2.89	45	131	3

Sports Alumni In Headlines

Villanova's Alumni continued to make the head linees this week as Mickey Vernon moved into top dog position in the American League batting averages, Mike Garbarck rejoined the Yanks after a short illness and Len Merullo was tossed out of the Dodger-Cub game after a brawl with Eddie Stanky. The slug fest was described by Tom Meany of P.M. News paper, "Outdoor boxing not scheduled for Ebbetts Field until mid-June, opened somewhat prematurely at the recent Cub-Dodgers game there. The contestants were Eddie Stanky, Dodger second sacker, and Len Merullo (Former Villanova College Star), Cub Short stop who upended Stansky as the latter pivoted in a double play which closed the 10th.

Stankey hit the deck and Merullo fell atop of him. The Dodger threw the first punch, but Merullo didn't beg the question. He returned and in no time the boys were going to it. Pee Wee Reese, leaning over the scrambling antagonists, took a gratuitous belt at Merullo, by which time the milling pair was surrounded by the squads of both teams.

The umpires restored order after a few minutes, but not until Hal Gregg, Dixie Walker and Howie Schultz had postured belligerently against unidentified Cubs, none of whom seemed particularly awed. Stanky and Merullo were given the afternoon off and the game went on to a 2-1 victory for the Dodgers in the 13th."

Georgetown

Continued From Page Five

As for Villanova the positions seem solidified now. The same team that was running up such an impressive record until bumped by the Fordham Rams will take the field. The starting pitcher should be Stan Chojnacki unless he goes against Penn tomorrow afternoon.

Florida U. Signed For Fall Football Schedule

Palmlanders Have Lost to Cats on Two Previous Meetings; A Home Game

Florida University has been signed to the football schedule for this coming Fall to round out a ten game schedule the Sports Department announced last Friday.

This game, to be played on November 16 at Shibe Park, will mark the third meeting of these two teams. In 1940, the Wildcat eleven defeated them up here at Shibe Park and in 1941 Villanova traveled south to take the second game of the series, before the second largest crowd ever to assemble at a University of Florida home again.

Father McKee, who has been negotiating to fill two open dates on a tentative eleven game schedule, was pleased to fill the first of these dates. He is currently working to bill game eleven for one of the largest Mainliner schedules in recent years.

This team is the second Southland team to play up here this Fall. The University of Miami, which team downed Boston College last year in the Orange Bowl, is the other Wildcat opponent to come North for a game here.

Four night games mark the list for this year. Two of these are at home. These, plus three day games, will give the returning Villanovans plenty of opportunity to see their home team in action.

The schedule as it stands to date, is as follows:

1946 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

September

14—Kings Point M.M. Academy, Villanova, Pa.
21—Army West Point, New York.
28—Navy, Annapolis, Maryland.

October

4—Marquette, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa. (night Game)
12—Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass.
20 — Georgetown, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa. (Sunday)
26—Boston College, Boston, Mass. (night)

November

1 — U. of Miami, Shibe Park, Phildelphia, Pa. (night)
8—of Detroit, Detroit, Mich. (night)
16—U. of Florida, Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa.
23—Open.

Swimming Meet To Be Held in June

After a three year interruption due to the war, the Villanova Intra-Mural Swimming Meet will be resumed this semester on June 5th at 8:00 P. M. at the college swimming pool in the Field House. There will be seven events including four races, two relays and a diving event.

A large turn-out is expected for the meet and the edge seems to be in favor of Fedigan and Austin Halls. Both these Halls have the Marine and Navy contingents who have been actively participating in swimming activities as part of their Physical Training Program.

All rules of the National Swimming Championships will be used in the meet with one local rule being inserted. This local rule is that no contestant may participate in more than two events exclusive of the relays.

Intramurals

Continued From Page Five

sided score, the fellows showed lots of talent, and will undoubtedly win their share before the season is over.

Sheddon lead the Marine attack with four hits out of five attempts and Hal Varani paced the Day Hops with two for three. Orazi of the Commuters played an execllent game in left field making some spectacular running catches.

The Marines featured a new addition to their team in Ike Eisenhart former member of the varsity baseball team in the first half of this season. Ike is playing short stop for the Mariners.

SOFTBALL STANDINGS

	W	L	T
Marines	3	1	1
Alumni	5	2	0
Austin	4	3	0
Fedigan	3	3	0
Doms	2	3	1
Mendel	2	4	0
Day Hops	0	1	0

Managers Needed

Coach Jordan Oliver wishes to announce that there are a number of positions open for managers of the varsity football team this year. These positions have always been held with high respect on the campus as they carry with them the privilege of traveling with the varsity on all its trips. This year in particular will be excellent for managers as the team will be traveling to Annapolis, West Point, Boston College, Holy Cross, Detroit, and possibly Florida.

Any men interested in taking advantage of these openings and have the spirit to stick by the job, are requested to submit their names to Manager Frank Mauk in Room 203 Alumni Hall or to either of the two 'Sport Editors.

Kearney Says:—

"One of the finest college baseball games I've seen in thirty years," was one of the many comments received after the 1946 Villanova baseball team had downed the University of Pennsylvania, 3-2, at Penn's River Field.

This statement was made by one of the leading sports officials in the East, and, boys, we're proud of you. You all played a magnificent game and came through with a coveted victory.

The fact of the matter is, gang, that too little credit has been given college baseball in recent years. Time was, when this campus sport rated equal to, or far above college football.

Some of the major league's greatest stars have come from campus nines. Nick Etten, Hank Borowy and Lou Gerhig are among the multitude who have been picked from the fruitful college vine.

Comparing the attendance at campus games with that of last year, things look really bright. I don't think many minor league games could compare with last Wednesday's game here with Lafayette, which we won 7-1.

Under azure blue skies, and surrounded by a crystal clear day, conditions could not be made to order any better. There was something tingling about the freshly-cut grass on the deep green infield and the blinding white lines on the infield dirt made to match the horsehide.

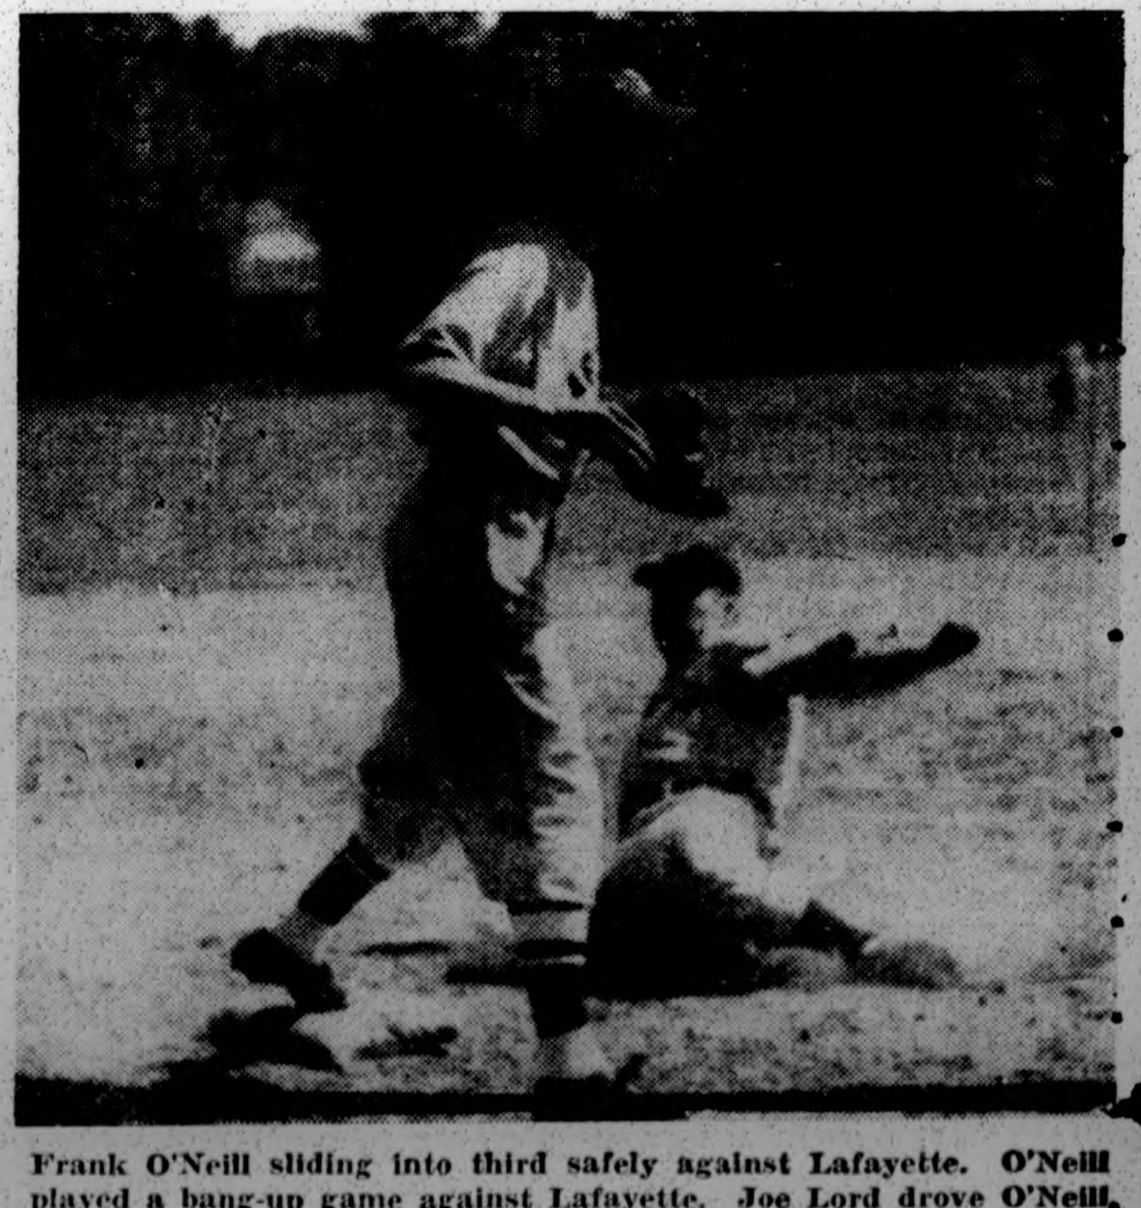
The above setting set to the tune of Stan Chojnacki's singing fast ball, and the crack of the bat as Dan Casey and the rest lashed out their extra base hits made for a completely satisfying day of college baseball. The turnout at this game last week seemed to nod assurance to Coach Phil Weinert that he is accomplishing his wish and really bringing baseball to a high quality here at Villanova.

Phil, and his team have given us something to cheer about. They have knocked off two Ivy league teams and, at present, are playing far above .500 ball.

By far, the standout game of the year was the exhibition game with the Philadelphia Phillies. Our boys held them heroically as the "major leaguers" eked out an 8-7 victory. Things like that don't happen every day on college diamonds.

Yes, our vote of confidence and that of the student body is behind Coach Phil and his men. We feel sure that they are doing their part in boosting collegiate baseball to its deserved position in the field of sports. May they continue on to a sparkling finish to the first year of post-war baseball at Villanova.

O'Neill At Third . . .



Frank O'Neill sliding into third safely against Lafayette. O'Neill played a bang-up game against Lafayette. Joe Lord drove O'Neill in with the first Cat run with a double, shortly after this play.

Faculty Comments

THE GROWTH OF A LIBRARY

By FATHER FALVEY

The Library at Villanova has continued to develop and progress with the college itself. The history of the institution is not only preserved but it is also reflected in the library.

When Villanova opened in 1842, the college consisted of one building for the faculty and students. This building, the Rudolph Mansion, which became known as St. Rita's Hall was destroyed by fire in 1912. During the early days the library was housed on the third floor of this building until the East wings of the college hall, now Alumni, was constructed in 1849. The college and monastery libraries were one until 1874 when the West wing of Alumni Hall was added to the main building. With the opening of the new wing the college library was separated from the monastery and placed on the second floor. The poet, T. A. Daly, who was visiting the campus on Sunday April 28th, told about his use of the library during the years 1880-1887 when it was housed on the second floor of Alumni Hall.

Once It Was Like This

The library regulations of that time prove very interesting today:

1. Every member over twelve, shall pay ten cents each month; those under 12, six cents.
2. Each new member shall pay 25 cents for the first month, including Initiation Fee: those under 12, 12½ cents.
3. No member will be allowed to get two Books at a time.
4. Books are to be distributed on Thursdays and Sundays, only.
5 Every member will be held responsible for the book which he takes out.
6. Strict Silence and order, to be observed in the Reading Room.
7. Newspapers must, on no account, be taken from the Reading Room.
8. Those who belong not to the Library Association, will not be allowed to read any of the Books or Papers.
9. Monthly Subscriptions taken up on the first Thursday of each month.
10. Any person may become a member, by applying to the President, Treasurer or Librarian.
11. Donations of Books, Periodicals, Papers, etc. will be thankfully received.

FINES

1. Any person injuring a book, will have to pay damages.
2. Any member, lending a book to one who does not belong to the Society, will be fined six cents.
3. Any one found talking aloud, or in any way disturbing others will be fined six cents.
4. Any one tearing or destroying any of the Newspapers will be fined three cents.
5. Any one leaving his Library-Book about the Orchard or College, will be fined six cents.
6. All new Books must be covered by those who take them under penalty of three cents.

Then Villanova Expanded

A new group of stone buildings, the Monastery and Mendel Hall, were completed in 1901. At that time the college library was moved to the South East corner of the second floor of Mendel and the library for the faculty was moved to the second floor of the Monastery.

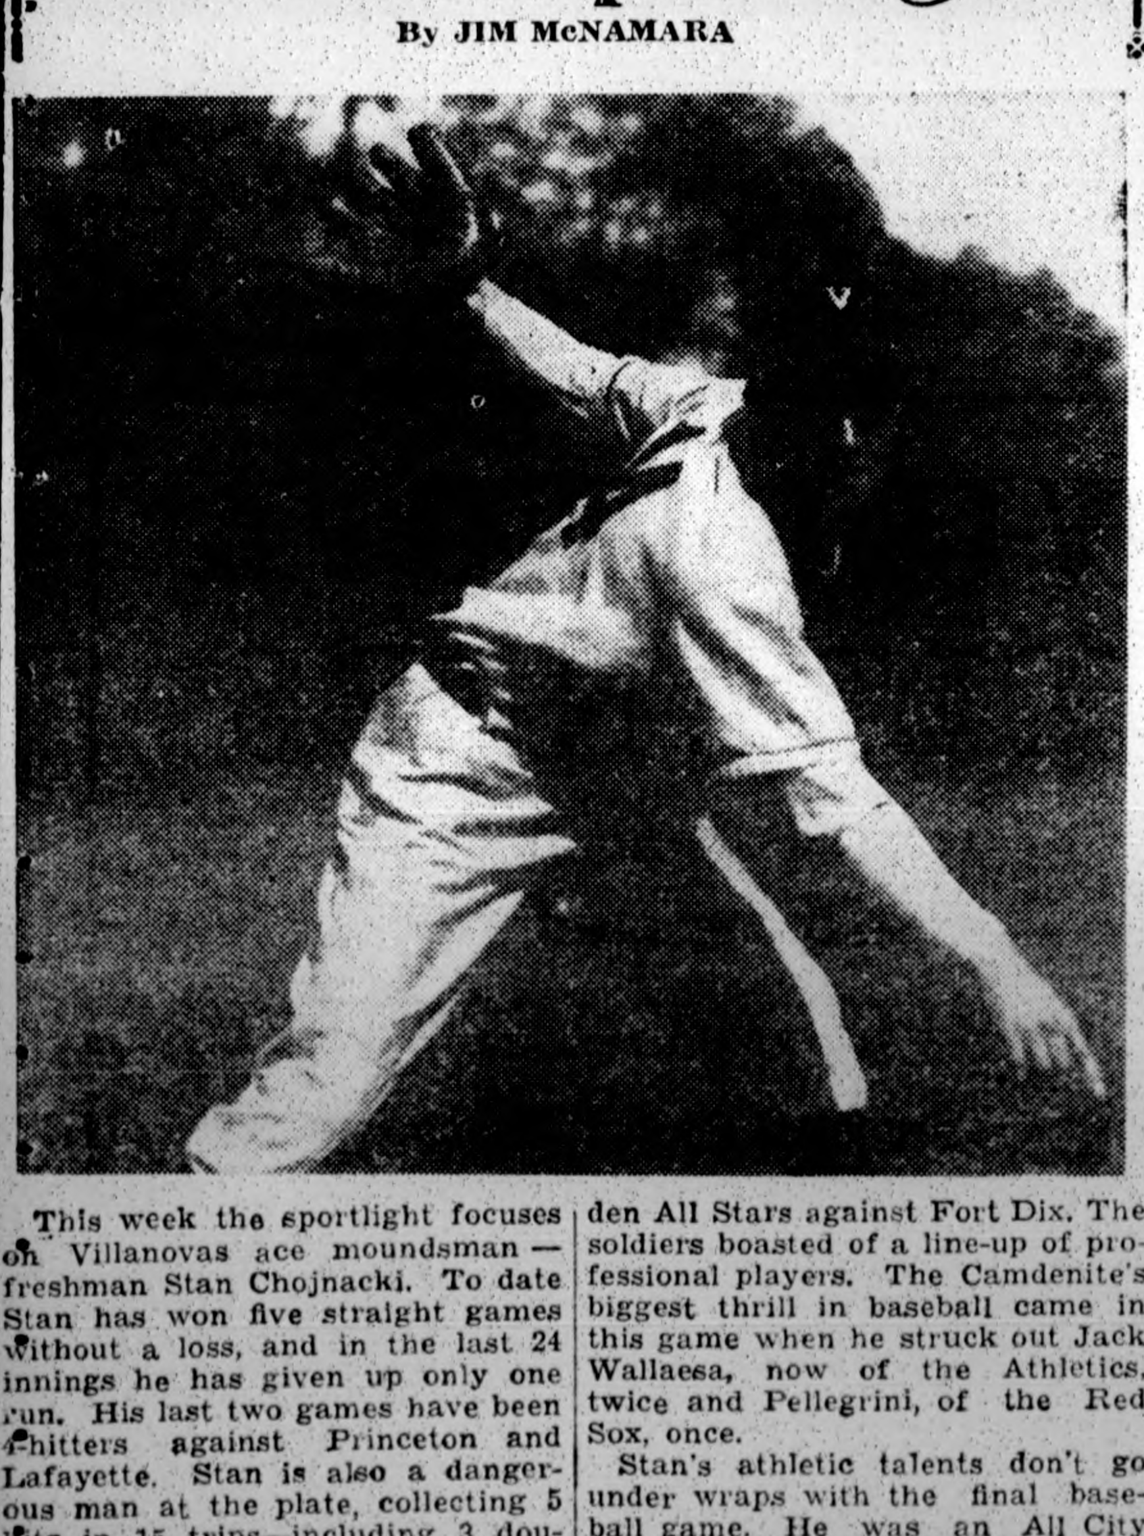
The college and Monastery libraries were combined, when Austin Hall was completed in 1925, and placed in the East wing of that building where the books were in less danger of destruction by fire.

During the past twenty years that library has so expanded that

FACULTY COMMENTS Continued on Page Eight

In The Sportlight

By JIM McNAMARA



This week the sportlight focuses on Villanovas ace moundsman — freshman Stan Chojnacki. To date Stan has won five straight games without a loss, and in the last 24 innings he has given up only one run. His last two games have been 4-hitters against Princeton and Lafayette. Stan is also a dangerous man at the plate, collecting 5 hits in 15 trips—including 3 doubles—for a lusty .333 average.

Pitching for four years at Camden High, Stan had a record of 22 and 5. In his junior and senior years he pitched his team to the S. Jersey Championship. By winning seven games without a loss, including a no-hitter in 1942, Stan was selected to pitch for the Camden All Stars against Fort Dix. The soldiers boasted of a line-up of professional players. The Camdenite's biggest thrill in baseball came in this game when he struck out Jack Wallaesa, now of the Athletics, twice and Pellegrini, of the Red Sox, once.

Stan's athletic talents don't go under wraps with the final baseball game. He was an All City selection at guard on Camden's basketball dream team and will be a good prospect for Al Severance's five next winter.

After graduating from high school, Stan waded through his scholarship offers and decided on

SPORTLIGHT Continued on Page Eight

Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

Ten Commandments for the Prom was something we couldn't pass up. They are as follows:

1—I am the Junior Prom. Thou shalt not hold past proms before me.

2—Thou shalt not comment on thy roomie's girl. He probably thinks the same of yours.

3—Remember thou shalt not check in later than 7 A. M. on the Sabbath.

4—Honor they father and thy mother. They're paying for it.

5—Thou shalt not kill the last of the coke. Keep to the straight and narrow path.

6—Thou shalt not adulterate the Scotch with soda.

7—Thou shalt not swipe thy roomie's shirt. It's probably the last one he has.

8—Thou shalt not tell any lies about thy roomie. But don't tell the truth, either.

9—Thou shalt not covet the honor of having thy girl picked as Prom Queen. The judges' decision is purely biased.

10—Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's car. It's probably the only one he can borrow.

* * *

The Scotchman awoke one morning to find that his wife had passed away during the night. He leaped out of bed, ran out in the hall, and called downstairs to the cook:

"Mary, come to the foot of the stairs quick!"

"What is it?" she cried.

"Don't boil but one egg for breakfast," said the Scotchman.

* * *

Trudy, aged four, was entertaining the visiting clergyman while her mother was upstairs dressing.

"Do you say your prayers every night, little one?" asked the clergyman.

"Oh no, Mummy says them for me," answered Trudy.

"Indeed, and what does she say?" queried the minister.

"Thank God you're in bed," was the prompt reply.

* * *

"Ah wins."
"What yuh got?"
"Three aces."
"No you don't . . . Ah does."
"What yuh got?"
"Two eights and a razor."
"Yuh sho do. How come yuh so lucky?"

* * *

"Porter, get me another glass of ice water."

"Sorry, suh, but if I takes any mo' ice, dat cawpse in de baggage cah ain't goin' to keep."

—The Santa Clara

Most of the country's great men sprang from the farm—and generally as far from it as possible.

* * *

Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes dislike Kaltenborn because he's just a commentator.

—The Santa Clara

* * *

Attendance at the summer session at the University of Chicago is expected to reach approximately 1400 students according to the university's school paper, The Chicago Maroon. Returned veterans, anxious to complete their preliminary work or to finish courses left suspended at their departure, will form the bulk of those who will attend classes during July and August. The fall registration is estimated to be in excess of 2,500.

* * *

Guess who: so round, so firm, so free and easy on the draw—Pistol packing mama.

* * *

"If you refuse me," he swore, "I shall die."

She refused him.

Sixty years later he died.

* * *

Professor: "It gives me great pleasure to mark you 85 on your exam."

Student: "Why not make it 100 and give yourself a real thrill."

* * *

Joe: "What's that cute little academy girl's name?"

Bill: "Schmuggs."

Joe: "I know, but what's her name?"

—The Santa Clara

* * *

Student: Your dog likes to watch you cut hair, doesn't he?"

Barber: "It ain't that. Sometimes I snip off a bit of ear."

* * *

"Nice dog you got there. What kind is it?"

"Oh, I dunno, just dog."

"Spitz?"

"No, but he drools a little."

I would like to end this column with a little story about Villanova Chow, but since at least three other columns have done likewise, I'll—see you in the Infirmary.

'NOW AND THEN'

By JOE SWEENEY

At 72 Somerset Maugham has, at his own admission, written his last novel. Even now he is on his way back to Europe to his villa at Cap Ferrat where he plans to live for the rest of his days.

Throughout his life he has been deeply interested in the Italian Renaissance. One of his earliest novels, The Making of a Saint (1898) had such a setting. Now, 48 years later, he has turned again to history and this time he has written of a particularly colorful, often exaggerated, part of Renaissance lore.

In 1502 Niccolo Machiavelli, a native of the republic of Florence, was chosen to be special envoy to Caesar Borgia, Duke of Valentinois, then in residence at Imola. Italy at the time was in turmoil. Florence, under the protection of France, had refused Caesar Borgia, or Il Valentino as he was known, the money and troops he demanded to defend himself against his revolting mercenary captains, all petty barons in their own right. The Duke, by fair or foul means, was on his way to power and Florence sent Machiavelli, an intelligent person, but one not endowed with any particular powers of state to temporize with the Duke.

Machiavelli was, to say the least, self-confident and conceited. In Imola he fell in love with Aurelia, wife of a respectable citizen. Developing immensely complicated plans to win her, Machiavelli felt himself by all odds in full control of the situation. However the Duke, Aurelia, his friends and even Piero, his page boy, were far ahead of him and duped him with an adroitness that even he, when he later found them out, was as astonished as he was furious.

Meanwhile Machiavelli turned his full charm on the Duke but met with rebuff after rebuff. Through a complicated plan equalled only in intricacy with Machiavelli's attempt to capture Aurelia, the Duke overcame his enemies and found himself stronger than ever. This was accomplished by an array of deceits, lies, assassinations, broken treaties, etc., large enough to stock several novels with villainy.

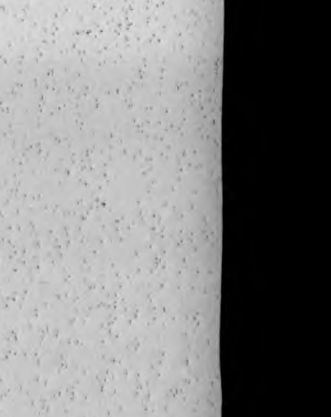
Finally Machiavelli realized that he was no match for the Duke and asked the Signory to recall him. Due to a love for his native land as well as a wise suspicion of the Duke's motives, Machiavelli refused the Duke's glittering offer to become governor of Imola. So Machiavelli returned to Florence a badly frustrated but a much wiser man.

Since this novel's chief pace maker is a sort of surprise ending I have purposely omitted all but the barest details in summarizing the plot. As a matter of fact the surprise ending falls rather flat but the novel is saved by an excellent epilogue chronicling the fall of Caesar Borgia. Maugham in writing this novel has treated of some of the most notorious characters in church history. To ignore that they existed is impossible and I feel that in his treatment of them Maugham has been very fair. The Borgia legend has in the past grown to such grotesque proportions that fact is hardly to be distinguishable from fancy. We can be grateful that today there is a general demand for authenticated facts and that nothing more is being tolerated.

At all odds Machiavelli is a fascinating character for he, fanatically devoted to the Republic of Florence, was nevertheless capable of writing a book like The Prince (1559) inspired by Caesar Borgia's

Continued on Page Eight

'Cat Capers



By HAL VARANI
and JOE BROGAN

Yes, you poor news starved people, we're back (no cracks), so ring out the weekend, put out the welcome mat, raise the mainsail and make ready for "news what is news." But before we proceed to that very pleasant function we must needs publish Lesson No. 2 in our course for budding journalists, which course is being given for the benefit of the writer (so called by those who don't know any better) of a column whose presence in the noble journal is tolerated every other we (why, we'll never know).

Lou and Milt (better known as "Smears" look closely and you'll see why) you did very well in your first assignment. It was really refreshing to see a "paragraph" in your column. You know, there are other forms of construction other than the simple declarative sentence (we're not going to fast for you, are we?). We're really sorry that we had to speak so harshly to you but after all our sole purpose was to improve this journal at the spot where it sorely needs improvement. Never mind thanking us, we were glad to do it—anytime!!!

Now for the news:

Roland Higgs made the bellow laughs last week when he called on Pepsi-Cola and ordered 15 cases of Coco-Cola. How was Roland to know they aren't related? That's a joke, son.

A Last Minute Flash:

This column has just received word that Al Dumsa, better known as H. P. (one of Villanova's recent graduates) was seen strolling on Rosemont's campus . . . Could it be that Al has returned to resume his old job as dean of women at Rosemont? . . . Could be! . . . But what we can't understand is why Al still works socially from Harcum! . . . Could be Pat Frey?

Note to Smilin' Jack (spelled Jerk) DiGiacomo and his companion in literary blunders, Milton Clamati: Lay off Hanratty and Fallon; they're our property. And we don't blame Hank and Larry for grabbing something young after seeing the hungry looks on your faces . . . they felt those kids needed protection from you wolves.

During the Villanova-Lafayette game the pitcher of the opposing team was noticed delaying the game . . . Spankey Brown soon took care of the situation by shouting, and we quote, "Okay, let them delay the game—we'll make 'em eat in our chow hall." The game soon took on a fast tempo . . . Maybe they know!

Villanova has finally discovered their Ned Brant—he is none other than our own Edwin Keller. Ed pitched for the Mendel Day Hops last week and he was terrific—for the opposing team, that is. Going into the first inning Ed had a "No hit no run game," BUT "Oh that first inning" . . . Yes, we've decided to become residents. . . .

Paul Carmichael (Lou of the Pie Shop's son) . . . the only Medical Student back at Villanova for a few extra courses is getting more experience diagnosing his father's meats than he's had all through his freshman year in Medical school. Take note, Villanova, there's a good start for your future Medical College.

Bill Monagle, Villanova conception of Shakespeare's poor man's Romeo, has lost his romantic touch (almost, that is) — Tondelayo of Springfield, Pa. finally agreed to attend the Junior Prom with Bill. Look out for the grass skirt, fellows, it's inflammable.

Warren Sexton took another stab driving a Hydromatic Oldsmobile; this time without the help of Bob Manske . . . The idea is to take a driver's test first . . . You didn't know?

Matt Kearney (he's the one that "Says"—that's all, folks, just phono "Says," he's a Junior) was seen strolling around Bay Shores a

CAT CAPERS Continued on Page Eight

N.F.C.C.S Elect New President For Coming Year

Student Association Outlines Plans for Next Semester's Meetings

Last Sunday, May 20, in the Seminar Room of Simpson Hall, the Executive Council of the Philadelphia District of The National Federation of Catholic College Students held its final meeting for the present semester.

Among those present were: Miss Mary Ellen Quinn of Immaculata, chairman, Miss Margret Ward of Immaculata, Secretary, Miss Marie Rhinehart of Chestnut Hill College, Miss Rita Ayerle of Chestnut Hill College, Mr. Herman Diesel and Mr. John P. Mallick, both of Villanova, and Mr. Fred Dougherty of La Salle College.

Doctor Furey of Immaculata, Moderator of the NFCCS of the Philadelphia District was assisted by Fr. McCarthy and Fr. Lunney both of Villanova.

Dougherty Elected President

Mr. Fred Dougherty of La Salle College was elected president of the District for the coming school year, and Miss Marie Rhinehart was elected Publicity Editor.

Several suggestions took place on the plans for the organization for the coming school year. Among those suggested were; the writing to local newspapers giving a Catholic viewpoint on National and International affairs; and on the election of delegates to represent the different Colleges at Council meetings, and an amendment was passed on the attendance of these delegates.

One of the purposes of the NFCCS is that it is directly concerned with the unification of the entire field of Catholic college student activity. Another purpose is a great need for national collaboration in very practical fields, which at present are almost untouched: national organizations of information concerning scholarships and fellowships; vocational and professional guidance; exchange of students with foreign countries, especially with South America; collaboration with international Catholic organizations; giving a more comprehensive Catholic outlook to certain scholastic activities which offer special opportunities of fostering Catholic activity such as tours of debating teams, and other scholastic organizations.

Before the meeting closed, the Inter-racial Group of Villanova was granted the Temporary Commission for the District. The selection of this group was made possible by the excellent program of this group for the coming semester, submitted by Fr. Lunney, moderator.

Then and Now

Continued From Page Seven

career, in which morality is completely divorced from politics.

Whether or not you care for his choice of topics either in this novel or in his other works, it must be admitted that Maugham's writing is excellent. Past master of narrative, I can think of no author who can spin a story with exactly his "Lucidity, simplicity and euphony." These factors are his self-set ideals as he admits in The Summing Up, which is itself a unique piece of literature. Then and Now is neither the best nor the worst Maugham has done. It might be termed "typically Maugham" and this is in comparison to ordinary novelists, is indicative that it is very good indeed.

'Cat Capers

Continued From Page Seven

couple of weeks ago with his buddies, Dick Branch and Spade Kessler saying—"the ship rocks like mad"—It wasn't a ship that was rocking; we can't print words like Bar or Lappie.

Pete McManus (hungry boy) spends more time feeding his face than all the 500,000,000 starving foreigners — Aren't you ashamed? Don Collins and Jasper Chen See, food drive magnets, paid well for this plug. We have to live, too.

Tony Cocco claims to be the only one in Philly who hasn't felt the sugar shortage—Her name's Mercy; we couldn't get the last name, he's bigger than we are.

Tony Caruso has been making fast trips to Beaver College lately. Tony insists it's only for the ride. What's the matter with Roseland?

Tom (Whet-whew) Kennedy cuts quite a figure in his new suit, the rumor-mongers have it that he's been doing quite well at the race track the past two weeks.

Yes, Tom Smith did it again, another tie. Slipping aren't you, Chuggy? That makes twice in the same month; seems Jeanie H. is becoming quite an influencing factor.

Bob McNamara had quite a time keeping tabs on Margie, that dolly won't stay put. John Martin's the boy you want to see, Bob, he knows oodles about women and their treatment. He's the strong, stern type. It says here. Too bad that the outdoor festivities were rained out at Chestnut Hill, Sunday, but the fluff had a good time anyway. Wasn't Ed Sullivan there?

Paul Conney waited on tables, and apparently he liked it; anything to please a certain freshie.

Hope everyone had as fine a time at the Junior Prom as did Hen Donahue, and buddies; yes, sir, a fine looking body of men . . . Billy Woods, former Villanova Great, was also on hand for the occasion. Major McDonnell was accompanied by the sweet and "Oh, so lovely Mildred." Roland Giggs, Figgs, (or is it Higgs?) was in there pitching in the Blue Room; cuts a mean figure in an apron.

Several of the former big-wheels about the campus were on hand Friday night, among them J. T. Glancey, Neal McGee and Frank Rosalia. McGee seemed to be the most popular, however . . . ask Al Dumsa.

In closing the column for this week, we would like to draw the attention of those two potential "Pewlitzer" Prize winners in journalism to page 288 of the Suburban Philadelphia Telephone Directory. Got it? Now if you get Arn Keene to count the names on this page for you, you'll discover that there are 337 thereon. That's ten times as many names as you have in your column, and it's ten times more interesting reading. Quality's the thing, lads.

ASME Visits Naval Base During Trip

Professor Greyson Heads Group of 14 on Tour of USS Des Moines

Senior class members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at Villanova College have begun another series of field trips in association with the curriculum of their course in Naval Machinery. This series of trips was inaugurated at Villanova College with the advent of the Naval V-12 Program on the College Campus. The main purpose of such field trips is to correlate classroom work with actual outside experience.

Tuesday afternoon fourteen men, led by Professor Joseph Grayson traveled to the Philadelphia Naval Base and were permitted to board the Light Cruiser Des Moines, the newest cruiser in the United States Fleet.

Cruiser Has Enviable Record

The Des Moines, although it is a comparatively new ship has achieved quite an enviable and colorful record during its Naval service. It was the cruiser that pulled along side the U.S.S. Franklin to aid that burning aircraft carrier after she was hit by the suicide kamikazis off the invasion coast of Okinawa. The crew of the craft removed several hundred wounded from the Franklin and remained with the injured ship to aid the battle against the conflagrations which were raging above and below the decks of the ill-fated carrier.

The main purpose of the trip was to acquaint the Mechanical Engineering Students with the apparatus and conditions which are to be found in actual practice. A unit such as that contained aboard the U.S.S. Des Moines is the most complete and compact propulsion unit that can be found today anywhere. It is an achievement in the field of Navy Engineering.

Three Tours Made

The trip was divided into three separate tours of the ship. The first tour was taken through the power plant, the fire room, boiler rooms and the propulsion chamber. The second part of the tour was conducted through the living quarters of the personnel. The third portion of the tour was conducted by the gunnery department. The visitors were taken through the gun turrets, the central fire control room, and were given a very enlightening lecture on the methods used by Naval gunners to achieve such startling gunnery records in the Pacific theater of operations.

Staff Meeting

Tomorrow at 1:00 P. M. in the Villanovan Office a meetin of the staff members will be held. The subject of next year's paper will be discussed.

Mendel Award

Continued From Page One

world-wide fame for his research in high frequency sound waves. He has developed instruments capable of measuring precision distances as small as one hundred-millionth of an inch.

The Johns Hopkins physicist has also investigated many of the unusual biological and chemical effects produced by high frequency sound waves. He devised a method to homogenize milk and olive oil, improving the health and saving the lives of thousands of new born infants.

Dr. Hubbard was born in Boulder, Colo. He graduated from the University of Colorado in 1901 and received his doctor of philosophy degree at Clark University. He began his teaching career at Simmons College and taught at New York University and Clark University before going to Johns Hopkins University in 1927.

Student Council

Continued From Page Four

basis for future policy groups to plan their activities.

Orientation Committee

The Sophomore members of the Council were instructed to join with their other officers and draw up a list of prospective names for the Orientation Committee for this summer and for the fall semester. After this list is drawn up it will be submitted for approval to the authorities and the members informed so that they will be prepared to go early in the fall.

Freshman Regs

The question of the freshmen regulations was proposed and a three man committee was appointed by the chairman. The committee will be composed of Gerry Connors, Sophomore Representative, Joe D'Auria, Sophomore class President, and Hal Varani, retired Vice-Chairman of the Student Council. These revised regulations will be submitted to the Council sometime before the end of the semester.

The wearing of the hats was brought up and vigorously discussed. No decision was reached as to whether incoming freshmen will be required to wear the traditional "dinks" of Villanova.

Sportlight

Continued From Page Seven

Duke. He went there for three weeks before entering the Army in March 1943. In two years overseas he had little time for baseball, but did manage to pitch four wins in as many starts for the 633rd A.A. unit.

To pitch in organized ball is Stans' professed ambition, but his roommate, Al Litwa, claims his secret desire is to have Gert in the stands when he pitches his no-hitter for Villanova.

His amazing success as a first year man is a comforting thought to Coach Phil Weinert, who will have his services for three more seasons. Rival coaches, usually inclined to chalk up a loss to bad breaks, have been lavish in their praise of this right hander. At present he rides atop the heap of local college hurlers.

Faculty Comments

Continued From Page Seven

it now occupies the entire first floor of Austin with some 15,000, less used books, in the Commerce and Finance building.

Library Aided By Donations

During the century of the libraries existance its book collection has been increased frequently through large donations. The first donation of books came from the Library at St. Augustines Church in Philadelphia. This Church which was started in 1796 was the first home of the Augustinian Fathers in the United States. The priests who served this parish, during the early years of its existance, had developed their library to such proportions that contemporary authorities claimed it to be "the best eccleciastical library in the country."

The existence of this church and library was very short. On May 6, 1844 the "Know Nothings" set a fire that destroyed the church and library. People who were passing by tried to salvage the library by throwing many of the rare and valuable tomes to the street. The destruction of the library at that time was placed at 13,000 dollars. The books that were salvaged from the fire were transferred to the college library. This was the first large donation of books to the library.

A valuable and large collection of books and pamphlets was donated to the college in 1940 when it received Joseph McGarrity collection of Irish American Literature. Now a friend of the library is donating the Dictionnaire de Theologic Catholique, an encyclopedic work on Catholic theology and philosophy consisting of more than twelve volumes.

Future Looks Bright

The future of Villanova's library is very bright and encouraging. There is a strong probability that a new library will be started this year and the building will be completed before many of the present students receive their sheepskins. The proposed library will be 130 feet long, 100 feet wide, and 45 feet or three stories high. It will comfortably seat 500 students and provide for 400,000 books. Before the end of this term plans will be announced as to how the students can assist in realizing the new library.

Notice!

The College Chaplain, Father Edwin T. Grimes, has announced that the Mass on Memorial Day will be offered for those Villanovans who gave their life in the service of their country.

Attention A.I.E.E.

Meeting Wednesday, May 29th, at 7:00 P. M. in E. E. Laboratory. Television and lecture and demonstration by Professor Beuche.

All members invited to attend.

LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
Where Old Friends Meet and
New Ones Get Acquainted

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

MIMEOGRAPHING
Birth, Marriage and Graduation
Announcements
Postcards - Blotters - Circular Letters
Tickets - Chances
Any Mimeographing Job You Want Done
CHARLES McCARTHY
200 WOODSIDE AVE. NARBERTH, PA.
Call any evening after 6:00 — Narberth 3811

VILLANOVA
CLEANERS
ARE PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE
THEY ARE OPEN WITH
A COMPLETE VALET SERVICE
Cleaning - Dyeing - Tailoring
Laundering
Shoe Repairing Hat Cleaning
4 Day Service on Laundering and Cleaning
NO. 2 LANCASTER AVE., VILLANOVA, PA.
(Next Door to LaDow's Pharmacy)

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 11 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JUNE 4, 1946

VILLANOVA ... LIB

Harold Tait, C. and F. Student, Dies Suddenly

Veteran of Three Years' Service in Army Air Corps Succumbs in Fitzgerald-Mercy Hospital

Harold Tait, member of the Junior Class, and one of Villanova's best-known and most active Commerce and Finance students, passed away last Thursday in Fitzgerald-Mercy Hospital, Darby.

Harold entered Villanova in September, 1944, and during his two years on the campus participated in many college activities. He was a member of Delta Pi Epsilon, Vice-President of the Veterans Club, Junior Class representative on the Student Council, and a member of several dance comittees.

HAROLD TAIT

Tait was born in Brooklyn, New York, in 1922, and at the time of his death was living with his aunt and uncle in Drexel Hill. He was

HAROLD TAIT
Continued on Page Three

Alumni Elect New Leaders

Ballots To Be Counted at Special Meeting Commencement Day

The National Alumni Association of Villanova College will hold its annual election on Commencement day, June 23. The ballots will be counted at a special meeting after 5 P. M. The prime purpose in having the election at this time is to make sure the new officers will have time enough to prepare adequately for the annual reunion in September.

Ballots will be collected from the active members of the National Association who have contributed to the Alumni maintenance fund. If there are any members who have not brought their dues up to date they may secure their voting franchise by mailing checks to cover their arrears to the Alumni secretary, Bill Friel, before the date of elections.

Nominees Announced

The nominees for the presidency were as follows: Paetrus F. Banmill, '35, John Jones, and Anselm Merrily. The latter two men declined the nomination because of business pressure and Banmiller stands unopposed. Martin L. Bill, '32, Joseph F. Bedard, '26, and James

ALUMNI ASSN.
Continued on Page Four

J. M. McGranery Dies in Pacific

Lt. John J. McGranery, who entered Villanova in 1941, crashed to his death in an Army P-51 April 25th on Palawan Island in the Philippines.

Lt. McGranery graduated from St. Joseph's Prep in 1941 and entered Villanova the following fall. In 1942 he received an appointment to West Point. Lt. McGranery graduated from West Point in June 1945. He married the former Miss Anne Daly soon after graduation. He then went to the west coast to finish his pilot training.

John went overseas in January 1946 and served with the Air Corps in the Philippines sector. He is survived by his wife Anne and his parents of 3748 Manayunk Ave., Roxborough, Pa.

Commencement Plans Released

Bishop Hugh L. Lamb of the arch diocese of Philadelphia will be the guest speaker at Villanova's 103 Annual Commencement, it was announced last Friday by Very Reverand Francis X. N. McGuire, President of Villanova College. Bishop Lamb is an outstanding churchman and one of Philadelphia's best known and best loved Prelates.

Although the figures are not yet final pending the examinations the Registrar has released a tentative list of forty-six men.

A Baccalaureate Mass will precede the actual conferring of degrees and will begin at 11:45 A. M. After the degrees are conferred the prizes for outstanding students will be awarded.

IN MEMORIAM

The faculty and students of Villanova College offer their condolences:

To the parents and friends of HAROLD TAIT, a Commerce and Finance Student, who died May 30 at Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital. Harold was 24 yrs. old.

To Professor Leo Schaffer of the Commerce and Finance School on the death of his beloved mother, who died May 27 at Muscada, Wisconsin. Mrs. Schaffer was 93 years old.

To Nicholas Albano, a Pre-Medical student, on the death of his beloved sister, Alice Helene Albano, who died in the Jersey City Medical Center May 28. Alice was 20 years old.

To the family and friends of Lt. John J. McGranery, who was reported killed in the Philippines April 25th.

REQUIESCANT IN PACE

Fr. Falvey Names New Editors

Thomas Schubert Will Head New Belle Air Staff for 1947

Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., Moderator of the Belle Air, announced the appointment of Thomas Schubert as the Editor-in-Chief of the 1947 Belle Air. The announcement was made at a dinner held at the Covered Wagon Inn to celebrate the appearance of the 1946 edition and to welcome the new editor.

Started in 1942

Thomas Schubert came to Villanova in 1942 as a student of Mechanical Engineering. He later entered the U. S. Navy in the V-12 Program.

THOMAS SCHUBERT

Tom was recently discharged from the Navy and will return to Villanova in September.

Tom follows in the footsteps of his brother William who edited, some years ago, a fine edition of the Belle Air. Tom gained his experience on the staffs of both high school and college, having held the post of College Editor and Managing Editor of the Villanovan.

Scholarship Student

Coming to Villanova on a scholarship from Roman Catholic High School in Philadelphia, Schubert enrolled in the Liberal Arts School. He remained in this curriculum for only one year, then switched to the Engineering School.

Schubert was Treasurer of Phi Kappa Pi and a member of the College branch of the ASME. He was a member of the staff of the Belle Air in 1942.

DPE Welcomes New Pledges

A new and rejuvenated Delta Pi Epsilon, the Commerce and Finance fraternity, is expected to arise from the ranks of the new officers and pledges of the coming year. Now possessing adequate funds for the sponsorship of a formal initiation as a result of the funds received from the recent Interfraternity Ball, the fraternity is now able to go "all out" on their indoctrination plans for next semester.

In preparation for the formal initiation there will be an indoctrination period for all pledges extending over a three day period from June 11th to June 13th. During this period the peldges must suffer the traditional "regs" torture and other indignities suited only to aspiring members of the organization. An initiation committee has been formed and is composed of Peter Pallito, Bernie Borske, and Bob Mills.

The results of the recent elections held by the Delta Pi Epsilon show that Ed Keller has been elected to succeed Lou Di Giacomo as President of the organization. The other offices have been filled as follows: Vice Praesident — Robert Manske; Secretary—Gene Alvarez; Treasurer — Joe Doody; Student Council Representative—John Ciotola; Sergeant-at-Arms — Charles Welde.

Half Million Dollar Library To Be Erected on Campus

Subscription Plans Announced by William J. Gilligan, Chairman of Friends of Villanova's College Library

At a meeting in the Faculty room here May 27, 1946 Mr. William J. Gilligan, of Collingdale, New Jersey, Refinery Manager of the Franklin Sugar Refining Company in Philadelphia, was named Chairman of the Friends of Villanova's College Library. Mr. Gilligan is the father of William J. Gilligan Jr., who, just having completed his Junior year in the school of Engineering at Villanova, was drowned during the summer of 1939. In memory of their son, Mr. and Mrs. Gilligan have given an award each year at Commencement time to the outstanding Villanova graduate excelling in Religion.

The F of VCL is made up of all those people who have manifested good will and generosity to the college library over a period of years. The purpose of their meeting last week was to discuss plans for realizing Villanova's new Memorial Library. For the past five years the college authorities and their architect have pondered over the proposed library, and it is estimated that the cost will be somewhere around a half million dollars.

Open to Students

It was decided that a huge campaign would be started whereby subscriptions would be open to students, faculty members, alumni and friends of Villanova. There will be twenty-two tickets per book, each book selling for fifty cents.

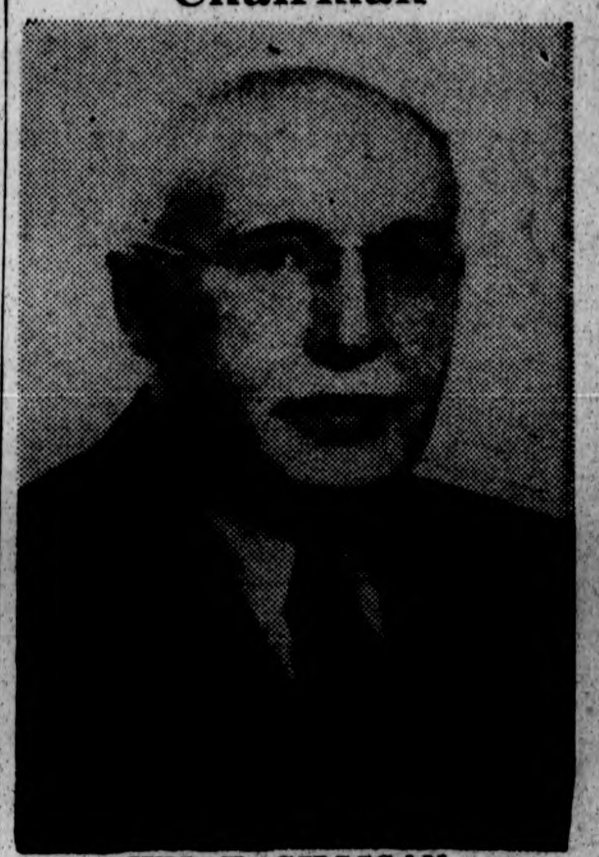
A drawing will take place next Thanksgiving Eve in the Field House at which time sizable cash prizes and other gifts will be awarded to the Library Club members holding the lucky subscriptions. The activity which will be conducted at this time will probably be a dance sponsored by the Friends of Villanova's College Library.

This campaign is to be conducted

Continued on Page Four

Proposed Library

Chairman



WM. T. GILLIGAN

Ex-Villanovan Appointed Coach

With Frank Skaff's appointment as manager of Montgomery, Ala., in the Southeastern League, two former Villanova College baseball stars are directing minor league clubs and approximately 12 ex-Wildcat performers are with major and minor league teams.

Art Mahan, a teammate of Skaff's, is guiding the Cranston, R. I., entry in the New England League. Both New England products, Skaff and Mahan starred under Doc Jacobs and later played with major league clubs. Skaff was with the Athletics and Mahan played with the Phillies.

Last season Skaff was with Baltimore of the International League and led the circuit in home runs. Mahan served several years as a Navy officer and assumed the Cranston post on his release from service.

Villanova to Honor Valiant Warriors Slain in Action

Following up the proposal contained in last issue's editorial, "They Throw Pennies," the editors of the Villanovan are drawing up definite plans, which will be submitted to the Student Council, concerning the erection of a Memorial on the campus to the Villanova War dead.

The proposed plan is that the grotto behind Alumni Hall, which is dedicated to our Mother, Queen of Peace, be converted into the Memorial. It was also suggested that plaques, containing the names of all the Villanova heroes, be made to be placed around the walls of the grotto.

Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O.S.A., College Chaplain, suggested that this movement be taken over by the Sanctuary Society. Father also suggested that since this drive will be conducted by the students, it would be practical to designate one night a week, in which the students would leave offerings in the Chapel.

Further developments after this proposal reaches the Student Council will be published in the Villanovan.

"Dink" to Reappear on Campus During October Term

The 'Dink' is back at Villanova! At a recent meeting of the Student Council it was decided to bring back the freshman hat in full force.

During the war years the freshman hat and freshman regulations were curtailed due to the few civilian students on the campus. At the beginning of the last semester the dink was used but did not prove too practical due to the fact that its debut occurred in the middle of the school year.

Next year will see Villanova returning to a normal scholastic year. The social calendar will be scheduled as in pre-war years. The subject of the hats was vigorously discussed. Some members thought that due to the prevalence of veterans in the school that they should not bring back the freshman hats for another year. The final unanimous decision rendered was that since the college was determined to go back to a pre-war schedule the dinks could be delayed no longer.

When the freshmen hit the blue and white campus in October the dink will be prominent atop the heads of the incoming class.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-In-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 .... Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
Robert P. Greenspan, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
William B. Wiswell, '46
Robert R. Manske, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 17, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - - JUNE 4, 1946

The Depth of Height

IN A SHORT time one of the most important pages of history will by typeset and inked in, for the atomic bomb has gone to a water laboratory.

As in all laboratory experiments the full significance of the event will not be known until it has transpired. Just how far the bomb will light the corridors of time must be calculated by the strength of its beam.

However, there are many things which we can and should know concerning the Bikini test beforehand. We should know that this undoubtedly will revolutionize marine design and naval warfare. We should know that the results of these tests could force a new equilibrium in our national economy. We should know that the debris of Bikini could form a firm basis on which to build a new foreign policy.

Just how the censorship of the Atomic explosion will be handled, we don't know, but whatever news comes through should be lengthily considered.

When the pictures are released, look not for the height of the wave, but for the depth of its meaning. In that split second, the second industrial revolution may become a reality.

The possibilities that the test suggests are far more difficult to ascertain than its physical power. Relieved of their war haste burden, scientists and engineers are now in a position to control conditions with the accuracy demanded by scientists and economists alike. The shattered rock of that atoll may be the sibylline leaves that spell tomorrow.

It is clearly evident what tremendous effects the invention of gunpowder and the application of steam to industry had upon every field of human endeavor. Transportation, Communication, Housing, Earning, the very methods of gaining food have all been reborn by the industrial revolution. A new form of power made a new way of living.

The form of power incorporated in the atomic bomb has no parallel in human history, we may say a new way of living has come into being. As college men, as youths, we are interested in the future, we must choose our vocation to determine our lives. This test may have a great effect on our choice.

Food Drive

THE Students of Villanova will be again reminded this week of the continuation of the food drive. Receptacles for offerings will be placed in the corridors of Mendel and C and F Halls.

The money received from this drive will be used to purchase canned food from wholesale houses in Philadelphia from which places it will be sent directly overseas to the starving millions. What seems like so little to us may mean the saving of a human life.

Service and Harmony

A NEW library for a new Villanova! Something new will be added to our beautiful campus, the result of an idea that had its inception well over five years ago

An expanding institution, realizing the need of facilities to acommodate its expanding student body, had planned before the beginning of the war, not only to erect new experimental laboratories aand classrooms but also to undertake the construction of a new library to house the books, journals and other scientific data needed for student research in various fields of study. Villanova had conceived the ideas and the plans for the erection of the new library and was prepared to put these plans into effect during the celebration of the centennial year at Villanova. However, the war upset the plans of the college for its new building program, and the hope for the erection of a library was abandoned for the time being. Now, after five years of discussion, inspection and planning, Villanova is at last prepared to erect a library that will be of practical service to the institution and one that will harmonize with the present buildings on the campus.

The library which Villanova has at present is not adequate to supply the student need. It is now overcrowded and understocked. The books can be purchased, but there is now no room to house them. The new library will provide space for 500 students at a time and will contain many modern conveniences such as are found in the more well equipped libraries.

A new library is a grave student need. The students of this institution are being asked to help participate activeely in its erection by aiding in the contribution of funds for the building. The Library Friends' Association has decided that the best means for raising such funds would be to ask those interested, both students and friends who have a true love for alma mater, to support a subscription fund.

The drive for subscriptions will begin shortly. You, as men of Villanova, are asked to contribute as generously as possible, and as much as your means will allow. We realize that there are many reasons why today you cannot contribute as much as you would like. However, only your most serious effort is required of you. It is your duty as students at this college. It is a means of providing a greater convenience and a broader education for all.

Give a Little

TO OUR READERS:

This is the second to the last issue of the Villanovan for this school year. During the summer months, the paper will not be printed.

Since the last issue will be dedicated to the Navy, the Editorial staff takes this opportunity to give an account of the semester's work. Needless to say, the paper made no money; instead, the expenses of printing and engraving far exceeded the returns of advertising and subscription.

The question now is: Was it worth the expense? Some, we know, can answer that negatively, and they will be honest. But, it didn't cost them any money or any time, so they lost nothing. The people that we are interested in are those who showed some interest in the paper.

To Father McGuire, President of the College, we owe our sincere thanks for the fullest cooperation possible. Father contributed several scoop stories which helped the paper serve its purpose; his editorial on Memorial Day is considered the best item to have entered the paper this semester.

To Warren Sexton, more than to any other student, the Villanovan is indebted. As circulation Manager, Warren worked on the paper from Monday to Monday. Beyond his duties as circulation head, Warren gave up his Friday nights to rewrite stories, proof read and write heads. Without doubt, Warren has been the most valuable man on the staff.

To those readers who were deeply perturbed by some of our editorials and who wrote and corrected us we are indeed grateful. It is they who made us feel that our paper was being read.

Finally, to all the members of the staff, who have cooperated so generously with us, we offer our thanks.

Yes, to these at least, I think the paper was worth the expense. It was worth the expense because they got something out of it.

This editorial was not intended as a consolation to the staff writers who have given their time to the paper. It is rather a warning to the students of the coming year. If they want to reap any benefits from their school paper, they must give to it just a little.

In order to keep the Villanovan going in the right direction, we suggest that you get behind it next September and make it really a paper to be proud of. If you can't write, join another line, such as business or circulation. THEN the Villancvan will mean a lot to you.

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'NEIL

Our big question at this time: Who are the two clowns, residents in one of the college dorms, who thought KILROY was a staff writer for the Villanovan until someone explained to them that the above-mentioned character is fictitious? "Oh yeah!" Kilroy.

• • •

And now for some news about the happenings in other colleges and universities whose tabloids we peruse each week in constructing this column. We notice in THE PLAINSMAN that Carolyn Self (a lovely lass if she is anything like her picture) was Queen of the May Day festivities recently held on the Auburn campus.

• • •

We learned in the FLORIDA ALLIGATOR that seven Florida colleges, Tampa, Miami, Rollins, St. Petersburg Junior College, FSCW and the University of Florida have indicated unanimously that they favor coeducation for Florida state universities at a recent joint meeting of the Florida Student Government Association and the Florida Intercollegiate Press Association at Stetson University. (This writer also votes in the affirmative.)

• • •

Little Jane walked into the corner drug store and said her mother wanted tissue paper. The clerk wrapped up three rolls and handed them to her.

"Charge them please," she said.

"Certainly," said the clerk, "but who are they for?"

"All of uth," sighed the little girl as she walked out.

• • •

You can't kiss a girl unexpectedly. The nearest you can come to it is to kiss her sooner than she expected you would.

• • •

"Pilot to tower, pilot to tower. Plane out of gas. Am 8000 feet in air and 30 miles over Atlantic Ocean. What shall I do?"

"Tower to pilot, tower to pilot. Repeat after me . . . 'Our Father, who art in heaven. . .'"

• • •

Their cars having collided on the avenue, Pete and Bill were surveying the wreckage. Pete tugged out a flask and offered Bill a drink. Bill took a long pull on it and returned the bottle to Pete who put it back in his pocket.

"Thanks," said Bill, "I'm glad there's no hard feelings. But aren't you going to have a shot yourself?"

"Yeah," replied Pete, "but not before the cops have been here."

• • •

THE HOYA, school paper of Georgetown University, carries an interesting item in one of its recent editions. Imagine arising tomorrow morning and finding the flag of Soviet Russia flying over the campus? Well, this actually was what greeted the faculty and student body at Georgetown a few weeks ago. According to the story, some "joker" hoisted the hammer and sickle flag to the top of the flag pole in front of one of the halls. It took a lawnful of ladders and firemen to get it down. One of the college campus guards remarked: "It wouldn't have happened if I'd been on duty."

• • •

Daffynitions:—

Crooner: A vocalist who has his sinuses wired for sound.

Night Club: A night spot thru whose portals the finest people in town pass out.

• • •

In the latest issue of the CHICAGO MAROON we learn that plans of the Inter-Organizational Council to send a student from Chicago University to the International Student Conference which will be held in Prague in August, are progressing with the formation of a faculty committee to pass on the nominations. The University has appropriated $200 to help defray the expenses of the student who is chosen to represent the school. Any further expenses will be met by a collection of funds from the students.

The Prague conference will provide the opportunity for students to discuss ways in which to use their special skills for helping to build understanding between na-

COPY BASKET
Continued on Page Three

Faculty Comments

HOPE FOR THE FUTURE

By FATHER EAGAN

Strikes, war - threats, famine, starvation. Every time we pick up the newspaper we read of these things. So-called radio commentators fill the air with stories about the gigantic national debt, world unrest, atomic power. Divorces, immoralities and crimes mount daily, public officials tell us.

In the wake of the most terrible and violent war perhaps some effects such as these are to be expected. But certainly we hope and pray that they end and real peace comes soon. For when such conditions continue overlong a disturbed situation arises. There is a feeling on the part of some that violence alone is the solution to the world problems; that might makes right. A pessimism comes over men and they begin to ask themselves "If others can get away with it why can't I?"

And what does this mean to the man of Villanova? It means he must be on his guard against false principles and teaching. It means he must be on his guard against false principles and teaching. It means that during his stay here at Villanova he should school himself and prepare himself to go out into a disturbed post-war world. It means that he will learn not only the latest up-to-the-minute developments in his particular field or profession, but will practice his religion — he will look to his Church to help him get the answers to the problems of life. It means he will look to his Religion classes, to the advice and example of his teachers here at Villanova to help him meet the everyday economic and social problems of life.

Our Powerful Army Failed

We have an example of the detrimental effect of modern influences in an incident that happened just after the war. Our victorious armies in Italy had but recently concluded fighting. Ours was the most powerful army in the world. We can allow for a certain amount of rejoicing over victory — yet how many soldiers thought that the town in which they celebrated was really theirs? This account illustrates that belief.

Some soldiers went on a sightseeing tour of a certain city. In an old church a guide showed them a sanctuary lamp. He told them, "This lamp has been burning for a thousand years." A Yank stepped forward "Oh yeah" and bending over the lamp — poof — he blew it out! Perhaps he was thoughtless, irresponsible, but that account has been passed around as a huge joke!

"Oh, but this was a prank, an isolated incident, not so very bad," some will insist. But no, the real

FACULTY COMMENTS
Continued on Page Seven

Cook's Characters

By JOE SWEENEY

At the present moment the book market is flooded with novels dealing with Southern life. They range from the bitter, brilliantly written novels of Negro life by Richard Wright to the stilted, artificial efforts of Erskine Caldwell. Mr. Caldwell's latest novel House In The Uplands is ridiculous from every standpoint.

Recently a novel appeared which treats of an often discussed, seldom novelized part of Negro life. This novel is Mrs. Palmer's Honey by Fannie Cook. It has won for Mrs. Cook the George Washington Carver Award for literature. Mrs. Cook's characters the intelligent, often well educated Negroes who fought so hard for their rightful place in industry during the war years.

The story's central character is Honey Hoop, one time maid to the Palmer family and during the war a defense worker and union member. She lived with her large family in Ville, the colored quarter in St. Louis, Missouri. Her family includes "Big Mama," her mother, a disillusioned, fretful matriarch who cannot understand her children's ambitions and desires, and Papa, headwaiter at a fashionable country club and a Republican by association with the richest men of St. Louis. Her sisters are Carmen, a schoolteacher, bitterly ashamed of being colored, and Eulatha, a never-do-well always in "man-trouble." Second in importance only to Honey is Lamb, her younger brother, who is typical of the intelligent young Negro leader.

Then there is Ben, Honey's fiance and eventually her husband, who is typical of the professional Negro, to say nothing of Snake, bitter, evil, and in love with Honey, and Emery, his brother, a soldier and inspiration to Lamb.

The white faction is represented on one hand by Mr. Palmer whose sympathy and understanding of the Negro problem is prematurely cut short when Snake indirectly murders whim while he is addressing the people of St. Louis on the Negro's behalf, but whose work is eventually carried on by Dorothy Jane, his debutante daughter. On the other hand the prejudiced white group is represented by a collection of white bussinessmen with whom Honey and her friends had to fight to gain the recognition in industry they demanded.

Character's Lack Naturalness

Mrs. Cook has tried to present objectively a broad panorama of the American Negro's struggle for his rights. Mrs. Cook, while an excellent writer, does not posses the genius which inspired Leo Tolstoy's masterpiece, the fascinating and all-encompassing novel of Russian life, War and Peace. Thus Mrs. Cook has had to resort to creating rigid typees which can never have the spontaneity and naturalness of real people. It is hard to fell real sympathy for her characters as they are presented. One is constantly aware that it is Mrs. Cook's mind which manipulates her characters through the story rather than the to-be-desired effect of having her characters act and do for themselves ,naturally and realistically. The novel loses much of its potential impact by trying to say too much within its limitations.

Some Parts Are Excellent

There are compensations for these defects though. There are sections in the book which are really excellent, such as the satirically treated conversations of the wealthy white women concerning their Negro maids. There are episodes cleverly devised to show the fatuousness of the white man's prejudice. Once, for example, Lamb had to attend a labor meeting at a large hotel. Realizing that Negroes were not permitted in the hotel lobby, not even just to attend a meeting, he evaded segregation by drawing a lavender tinged turban from his pocket ,putting it on his head, lowering his eyes in saintly aloofness and pulling down his Negroid lips into a pious pucker. Then folding his hands into opposite cuffs, he walked calmly through the lobby and boarded the elevator without mishap.

Above all, the Negroe's determination to gain his rights, fortified by his intelligence and integrity, dominate the story.

Everyone, no matter what their feelings are about the Negro situation, should read this novel for it exemplifies the fact that it isn't so much the Negro who needs to be educated in the ways of right living as the white man himself.

First Swimming Meet in 2 Years Tomorrow Night

Seven Teams Enter Campus Intra-Mural Competition; Fathers Kemme, Girolani Direct

Returning to the campus after a lapse of two years, the annual Intramural swimming meet will be held in the college pool tomorrow night, at 8:00 P. M. Co-moderators Father Kemme and Father Girolami have announced that seven teams have been entered. Non-competitors are invited to attend and cheer their respective teams.

The captains of the various halls do not have all of their entries in yet, nor have they decided upon who will form their relay teams. With the exception of the favorite V-5 outfit led by Alan Nye, all teams had skeleton squads, at this writing bt the captains hoped to have full squads by tomorrow.

Expected to provide most of the competition to their V-5 hallmates, are the Marines. Organized by Hank Maygers, they are potentially the best balanced team. However, just as with the other teams, all depends on the number that turn out. It was mainly depth that enabled Austin Hall to cop the championship three out of the four years, 1939-42.

If freestyler Jack McDermott, captain of Fedigan Hall's natators, can interest enough of the sailors in the meet, they could easily be stamped as dark horses. The Fediganites will be out to regain the championship which they lost to Mendel in the second of two meets held in 1944.

Mendel's defending champs will be led by Gene McFarland, winner of diving honors in his last intramural meet, and this year's favorite. Another former winner in intramural competition will be in action in the person of the captain Pete Hin of Austin's civilians. It was largely through the efforts of Pete and his brother Leo, that Austin ruled intramural aquatics during the aforementioned four year span.

Rounding out the seven team competition are the Doms, directed by Jack Quinn, and Alumni Hall under the able tutelage of Father Burke. The former are not only new entrants in the swimming meet but have been making their debut in each of the intramural sports played this year. The latter's talents are unknown even to Father Burke, so no predictions can be made.

There are five individual championships and two relay titles to be decided. Emphasis is often placed on the relay events, since the winner of these is usually the meet winner. Individual honors may be attained in the 50 to 100 yard back stroke and fancy diving.

Attention is brough to the fact that no contestant may participate in more than two events, exclusive of the relays. For further rules or information about the meet, reference is made to last week's Villanovan. and the bulletin board notices.

Harold Tait

Continued from Page One

a veteran of three years' service in the Army Air Corps, and was honorably discharged in 1944 with the heart condition which ultimately caused his death.

Though conscious of the seriousness of his condition, "Hank" nevertheless had always a bright and cheerful word for his many friends here. His death was therefore quite unexpected by those who had known him on the campus, few suspecting that his illness was as serious as it was.

Hal was out of school for two weeks prior to his death and entered the hospital on Tuesday, May 21, where he was apparently improving steadily when death came quietly at 2:30 on Ascension Thursday morning. Since Thursday was also Memorial Day and a holiday, the news was not generally known on the campus until Friday.

The funeral was held yesterday morning at the Church of the Guardian Angel in New York City. He was buried with full military honors at the Gates of Heaven Cemetery, 38 miles outside of New York.

Among the faculty members who attended the wake and funeral were Father Grimes, college chaplain, Father Jenkins, and Father Touhy, moderator of the Class of 1948. The college authorities and the organizations of which he was a member tendered their sympathies to the family on behalf of the student body.

SMEARS 'n CHEERS

LOU DI GIACOMO

MILT CLIMATI

All good things must come to an end although this has no bearing on "Cat Capers" (they will be back next week filling space); this will be our last column until the first October issue. That is if our dear editor will permit us to come back. But never fear; we aren't worried. That's more than the other two so-called columnists can say, for they can see the handwriting on the wall, which spells FINISH for them.

We wish to thank our readers for reading our column every week. Although it might not have been the best written in the paper, (we can think of one that was worse, can't we Varani?) it did serve its purpose.

Right about now we usually would be turning our attention to the news of the week. But this week before we do, we would like to make a few cracks to a couple of "Cats" (Capers, that is, son). We enjoyed reading your criticism last week, in fact, we feel that if you keep up the good work people will have something to laugh at; besides the picture of Varani, which reminds us of the high man on a totem pole. But enough of this abuse to a couple of hams (and they're not Southern), lets get on with the news.

Jim Murphy's flashy physique was seen coming with Vitamin D behind O'Dwyer Hall. Carol thinks a darker skin would better match the color of his wavy hair . . . Frank Nugent sure has a bad memory. He can never remember his girls's address. Maybe the reason is that he is trying to forget it . . . John Sankey sure obeys the rule about not having cars on the campus. He parks his half way to Atlantic City. . . . We understand Mike Lingenfelter had a terrfiic time over the weekend. "Brother can you spare a dime" . . . Dick Janson is still trying to round up a team to play Ciro's A.C. Any good prospects lately Jack? . . . Everyone would like to know where this "Dreamland" is that Louie Alvarez was in, at the Junior Prom. We think the password is "Rosemary."

Bernie Borschke is at it again. Beating the path to a certain baseball magnate house. Claims he is only taking her out because she too loves to talk baseball. Who are you trying to kid . . . Why does Jack Mallick get so excited at the nickname 'Woody.' Nothing personal Jack, to be sure . . . We hear that at graduation Harold Varani will receive a third degree, and the honorary title of "Cum Lousy."

If any of the hops have a car please get in touch with Charlie Feehan. Everytime his girl comes down from Asbury Park he has a terrible time getting lifts. Maybe you and Joe Doody can get cheaper rates from Philadelphia hacks if you tried Charlie . . . John Ciatola sure had long weekend of last. Was that a weekend, or just a week John? . . . Tony Cocco is really interested in the Spanish Language now. In fact, he's got a private teacher,—from Rosemont . . . We hear that Gene Alvarez is wearing Babe's ring again and proud of it too.

Right about now would be a good time for something funny. (No! not you Brogan.)

The Evils Of Drink

As members of the Temperance League we would like to point out the many dangers of liquors.

For example, let's take a typical night in the life of Hal (sorry, we mean Willie) Gurgle. At about seven, Willie lays out his new suit, and clean shirt. While tying his tie he sneaks in a few short shots of gin. By the time he completes his wardrobe he is as they say in Madagascar, "half in the bag."

Latin Refernce

He walks (does not run) to the nearest exit. As his nose senses the foul smell (there's that column again) of fresh air, he turns up his collar. It's only a few blocks to the nearest bar, but to Willie it seems as though he must cross the Alps to reach his destination (Like Hannibal, he brought his elephant with him).

He enters the bar and orders a glass of beer. To you and me its just another glass of beer, but not to Willie. The salivary glands of his mouth yearn for the thirst quencher. His hands sweat as he impatiently grasps the bar rail, while waiting for the bartender to pour the beer. Finally he observes the tall, cool, foamy glass with its golden contents. He reaches—ah, pardon us, please, while we go down to join Kilroy (we mean Willie!)

THE ST. BONA VENTURE
With a few changes.

We have heard from numerous sources that Ed Keller wanted to see his name in this column—so— here it is. Anyway, congratulations Ed on being elected president of the Delta Pie Epsilon Fraternity . . . Steve Gasparovic has lost no time with a very cute chick from N. J. Members of Steve's hall have nothing but good reports . . . Pete Chaplinsky was seen down at the golf course last weekend. No he wasn't golfing—it seems as if he was carrying someone else's clubs . . . We understand that Jim Feeney has been having a lot of trouble with the "Hills" lately. (Chestnut and Garrett) . . . What is Jack McNamara's bow tie for? Going fishing Jack . . . Bill Coffey's car is really rolling along fine now. It would be perfect if he only had some tires . . . George O'Neil was seen sporting a new raincoat last week. Really rocked the old bank account, huh George? . . . Why is it Bill Bradley wanted to leave the Prom at 10:30? Girl trouble Bill? . . . Note to Phil Appleby: The Tea house at Rosemont is for the girls only. If you want to chat Phil, Mother Basil suggests that you take a walk instead.

The Sun is setting and we must now leave you. It's with a weary hand that we finally bring our final column to an end. It's been fun! and we hope to do it again next year. But until then this must be fond Hello and Farewell.

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

tions. They will discuss how students can work together in ensuring sound educational policies the world over, in fostering international student exchanges, and in providing relief for universities devastated by the war. They will attempt to set up a strong organization through which students can unite to keep the peace. Nominations for the representative are being accepted by the school paper, THE MAROON.

• • •

Don't get puffed up, and brag every day. The world could survive should you pass away.

• • •

Two hill billies who had never been on a train before had been drafted and were on their way to camp. A food merchant came through the train selling bananas. The two mountaineers had never seen bananas and each bought one. As one of them bit into his the train entered a tunnel. His voice came to his companion in the darkness:

"Jed, have you eaten yours yet?"

"Not yet," answered Jed, "Why?"

"Well don't touch it. I've taken one bite and gone stone blind."

• • •

"How kind of you," said the girl, "to bring these lovely flowers. They are so beautiful and fresh. I believe there is still some dew on them yet."

"Yes," stammered the young man in great embarrassment, "But I am going to pay it off tomorrow."

• • •

Myrtle: "She told me you told her what I told you not to tell her."

Pearl: "Oh, isn't she mean? I told her not to tell you I told her."

Myrtle: "Well, don't you tell her I told you she told me."

• • •

This about winds up another column, and in parting, at least you can smile when you read these jokes . . . your grandfather did!

Tuition, Fees To Increase

Board of Trustees Authorize Increase to Cope with High Cost of Materials and Maintenance

At a meeting held by the Board of Trustees of Villanova College on May 21, authorization was given for an increase in tuition and fees. This increase amounts to $15.00 per student, per semester.

Tuition and fees hitherto in existence are noted in the 1945 catalogue. Effective with the new fiscal year beginning on July 1, the following rates per semester will be in operation:

For Liberal Arts, Education, Commerce and Finance: Non-resident—$180.00, Resident—$430.00; for Biology (Pre-Medical and Pre-Dental): Non-resident—$190.00, Resident — $440.00; for Engineering, Chemistry and Physic majors: Non-resident—$200, Resident—$450.00.

During the Summers of 1946 and 1947 the college will maintain an eight week accelerated program. The rates for this eight week program will be as follows:

For Liberal Arts, Education, Commerce and Finance: Non-Resident—$90.00, Resident—$215.00; for Biology (Pre-Medical and Pre-Dental): Non-Resident—$95.00, Resident — $220.00; for Engineering, Chemistry, and Physics majors: Non-resident — $100.00; Resident — $225.00.

Cahill Outlines Veteran Plans

This week veterans' meetings are being held at the C and F auditorium by Mr. Frank A. Cahill, training officer for the Veterans' Administration at Villanova. The purpose of these meetings is twofold: first, that all veterans who will not be in school this summer make known their intentions and give their prospective dates for re-enrollment; and second, that the subsistence program might be explained to them. The meetings will also serve to spot those men who are not receiving subsistence and to make their claims effective.

Those men who will not return for the summer will be required to fill out form 1908, a new facet on the many-sided veteran bureaucracy. This will ascertain the dates of education interruption and of resumption, and any discontinuation or change of course that the veteran might be approaching. The questionnaire will also include a statement by the veteran that he realizes that any subsistence time he receives will be deducted from his total length of authorized education.

It is very important that every man who wants to complete his education either at Villanova or at graduate school report at the meeting to which he is assigned. It will also be necessary that the veteran know his VA claim number so that the classification may be made more rapidly.

The program which will obtain as regards subsistence while on leave is as follows. Things will be handled much as they were in the service, authorized leave being granted for 30 days per year non-cumulative. Each man will be granted two and one-half days subsistence for each month spent at school, the total subsistence time to be deducted from the authorized G.I. Bill period. Since the latter paragraph will strictly apply, it is advisable that only those men with long G.I. time and a short period of training to undergo accept subsistence. The subsistence plan may be refused. Public Law 16 covers men will receive their regular pension and have the option of the subsistence as well.

The course now being pursued by any trainee may be resumed at any time within nine years from the end of the year or from his discharge from service, whichever is later.

Mr. Cahill has now been officially appointed Training Officer for Villanova College and will be at school every day henceforth. He has issued a notice that all men who saw service in any Army or Navy training program report to his office to straighten out their eligibility time. The ruling covering some of these men is now in the following form: "Any student in training in a Navy or Army program taking a course in Pre-Med, Pre-Dent, Pre-Vet, or Pre-Theology are not entitled to schooling under the G.I. Bill if that schooling was a continuation of their peacetime pursuits or that training was pursued to completion. If a student under the program elected to be discharged, said election constitutes completion."

Special Event

Dick Livingston, NROTC, has challenged the pool underwater swimming record of 216 ft. established in 1941.

Dick claims that he has travelled three lengths or 275 feet in the college pool. This challenge has been placed before Fr. Kemme, who is arranging the Intramural Swimming Meet tomorrow, and Livingston will be given a chance to break the record in a special event.

Navy Base Visited By ASME Students Led by Mr. Greyson

Continuing their series of field trips in conjunction with the curriculum of their course in Naval Machinery, the senior class members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at Villanova College again visited the Philadelphia Naval Base last week.

Fifteen men, accompanied by Professor Joseph Greyson, were to be permitted by the naval authorities to board and inspect the submarine COD. Due to unforseen circumstances the COD was not available for public inspection; instead the students were permitted to view the machinery of the submarine TENCH. The TENCH has seen almost two years of action with the fleet.

The TENCH is built along the same lines as the COD, and the latter underseas dreadnaught has a record of fifty-four Japanese craft sunk during the Pacific campaign. It achieved the incredible record of having sunk three ships within the space of eighty seconds. Among its victims are listed one ten-thousand-ton and one one-hundred-fifteen-thousand-ton tanker.

By means of radar installations on the undersea craft, a torpedo can be fired from the bow tubes to sink a ship one hundred fifty degrees from a straight course. During the tour excellent discussions were presented on torpedo firing methods and their accuracy.

Next week the group will be permitted to inspect the battleship North Dakota.

Alumni Assn.

Continued from Page One

V. Hartnett, '26 were named for the post of first vice-president. The second vice-presidency will be filled by either John Cramer, '43 or J. Bradley McManus, '40 as John J. Sykes the third nominee was forced again by business pressure, to give up his post.

The present National officers are Paetrus F. Banmiller, president, the first vice-president is John J. Gallen, '27, and the second vice-president is Frank X. Robinson, '21. The Chaplain, appointed by the president is Rev. J. F. Conner, '28 and William F. Friel, III is secretary. The officers of the Association are elected annually with the exception of the Secretary.

The Alumni group although depleted by the war and its dislocation has now 526 subscribers and hopes to gain a great many more as the pressure of service is diminished. To rejoin the Asociation all that is necessary is to send your dues and a notice of your present address to the Villanova College Alumni Association in care of Bill Friel.

The fourth quarterly meeting of the group will immediately precede elections on June 23. The Alumnus magazine will be sent out before then, probably within the next week.

First Meeting Since War

The Alumni reunion shows promise of its old form in the plans already drawn up by the planning committee. It will be the first meeting of this type since the war. The dates set for the event are the 13, 14 and 15 of September. On Friday evening the men will meet and have their rooms assigned them, then they will proceed to the Field House where an old fashioned Jamboree will take place. On Saturday afternoon will be the big event when the homecoming game with Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy is run off. The stadium will be expanded to its full capacity for the event and there will be plenty of space for all. On Saturday night there is a dinner-dance tentatively planned. The full details of the entire weekend will be unfolded in the August edition of the Alumnus.

School Drops Debate Meet

Beta Gamma Places 5th in Ben Franklin Tournament

The Ben Franklin Debating League held its first post war tournament Saturday, May 18 at the University of Pensylvania. Eight schools participated in this debate. Each college entered two teams, one debating negative and the other debating affirmative.

The topic of this debate was Resolved—"That the Foreign Policy of the United States should be directed toward the establishment of free trade among the nations of the world."

Villanova's affirmative team consisted of Albert Rothwell and Robert Grodinsky. The negative team was represented by Ben Reist and Geoffry Warren.

The individual records of the colleges have not yet been announced but the teams have been placed according to the record they made. The results of the tournament were as follows:

1. Swarthmore; 2. A three - way tie for 2d between Ursinus, Temple and Princeton; 5. Villanova; 6. Pennsylvania; 7. Rutgers; 8. Rider.

The Villanova debating club will have a reorganization meeting on Thursday, June 6 at 12:50 P. M. in room 212 Mendel Hall. At this meeting officers will be elected for the coming semester. The discussion will also take up the question of trips to New York, Annapolis, Princeton and New England. Anyone interested in debating or public speaking is invited to attend this meeting.

Belle Air Now Available at C&F

World's Return to Peace Is Theme of New Year Book

Distribution of the Belle Air, the college yearbook, was begun last Wednesday and will continue throughout this week. All those on campus entitled to receive a copy have been urged by Circulation Manager, Maurice Wilhere, to secure one as soon as posible at the office of the publication, in the basement of the Commerce and Finance Building, since the supply is limited.

It has been pointed out that the Belle Air editors and managers cannot hold themselves responsible for the failure of anyone on campus not getting a copy. Several books, of necessity, have to be reserved for the college archives and library and for the various former students who left orders with the Belle Air before graduation.

The cover of the book is much the same as that of the past several editions, featuring the impressive engraving of the Villanova Monastery done in silver with a blue background.

Theme of Peace

Based on the theme of the world's return to peace after many war years, the Belle features six striking drawings, covering in all eleven pages, done by Eamon Walsh. All of these drawings are complimented by appropriate commentary.

Most striking of all the drawings, however, is the two page vivid portrayal of the wanton waste and destruction of war and of the suffering and death which are war's counterpart.

Other of the drawings include depictions of a battleweary soldier; a war veteran's return to his Alma Mater, Villanova; a student at work at his books in a typical college dormitory; a day-dreaming student looking to the cities of tomorrow; and a two-page cartoon of a formal dance, which serves to introduce the activities section of the volume.

The book throughout is conspicuous by its excellence of content. The quality of the pictures and engravings, which are well balanced and distributed, adds to the value of the publication.

This year's edition of the Belle Air marks the tewnty-fifth year of uninterrupted publication of the college yearbook. It was first published in 1922. Fathers Hyson, Crawford and McCall served at various times as the yearbook's faculty moderator. At present, and for the past several years Fathers Sullivan and Falvey have been co-moderators.

Several times the Belle Air has received AllAmerican awards from the various rating and press asociations. It now holds the position as one of the outstanding college yearbooks in the country.

Featuring . . . Charles J. Farnan Villanova's Checker and Dispenser

"Check your valuables! Check your wallet! Check your glasses! Want a towel? Need new baseballs? What about a pitcher's mitt? Need any sports equipment? Want some soap? We've got everything but fingernail polish and lipstick. And if that don't satisfy you, then let's just shoot the bull." So says Charles J. Farnan from behind his ungilded cage way down yonder in the Field House.

Charlie was born in Rosemont, Pennsylvania, wherever that may may be, in the year . . . he refused to divulge his secret. Anyway, in Rosemont Charlie grew to manhood, and there he decided to spend the rest of his life . . . as a bachelor . . . much to the displeasure of the millions and millions of girls in his little black book, for they all have their good eyes on our boy.

Lands Masterful Job

Looking for the missing link one day, Chucky boy found himself on the eighteenth hole of the Valley Forge Country Club, right next to the club house. Immediately the Pro was drawn to Charles by his magnetic personality, suave manner and eagle eyes, and offered him a job. "What! A job!!" says Charlie, blood boiling, muscles tensing, and fists folding.

"Well, not exactly a job," snaps the Pro quickly, "Let's call it a position. You seem the masterful type, so I'd like you to be our Caddy Master . . . and Registration Clerk."

"How much?" says Charlie, blood cooling, muscles relaxing, and fists unfolding.

"About $$$$$$$ to start."

"Sounds good," smiles Chuck. "I'll take it."

To Villanova in 1940

Growing steadily tired of golf, and looking for new horizons, C. J. Farnan packed his golf bag one fine day and left for the North American Insurance Company where he landed another position in the statistical department. His eagle eyes were just what those figures needed.

Then Villanova got wind of this energetic young fellow, and enticed him into coming to our Alma Mater way back in 1940 . . . and he's been here ever since . . . private office and all.

Charley,

IS YOU THERE?

Charlie likes Villanova and her athletes . . . he being no slouch himself when it comes to athletics. He even played catcher at one time in the Main Line League, with a batting average of close to .333 . . . how close, he didn't say. However, during the four years he played, his biggest game was with Wayne which featured that All-Star player, Tony Finisdore who also now works at the Field House. Charlie loves Tony. Boy, how he loves that man! His favorite sport is getting Tony's goat . . . and that he can do! (Ask Tony!)

Names Football Idols

C. J. recalls with pleasure such grid stars as George Smith whom he considers one of Villanova's all-time best fullbacks, and Bill Sullivan whom he considers one of Villanova's ablest ends. Both George and Bill played here in 1939-42. "And I'll never forget Tom McCarthy's beautiful 75 yard run against Iowa State in 1942," recalled Charlie.

As for Villanova's next grid team, "I'm looking forward to an exceptionally successful season this Fall. I'll even wager we defeat Navy. I think we have a good chance to make a terrific showing." So says Charles J. Farnan . . . and we hope you're right, Charlie.

Gilligan Appointed F of VL Chairman

Continued from Page One

as soon as all arrangements have been made for the printing of the subscriptions, awarding of the prizes, and the necessary committees formed. Subscriptions will probably be mailed out sometime this summer, and it is hoped that all will cooperate.

To Be Located Below Grotto

The proposed library will be in the shape of a rectangle, three stories high. It will be 130 feet in front which will be adjacent and parallel to the walk to the Pennsylvania Railroad. It will be 100 feet on the sides and about 50 feet high. It will be placed below the grotto between the walk and St. Mary's Hall. Although this site is not the physical center of the cmpus, nevertheless, it will be in the center of activities. It will be constructed of native rock with the entrance a few steps above the ground and a person will enter the building at a half pace, that is, half way between the basement and the first or main floor.

The basement will contain a machine room with ample space necessary for operating the building. A photo room will house the equipment necessary for microphotography which was so valuable during the war and is rapidly being used in libraries today.

Seminar rooms will have folding doors between them so that they may provide for gatherings that will be of various sizes, or in an emergency, as at present, be converted to small classrooms. During the summer sessions these seminars will be used as classrooms for Library Science. A browsing room will contain light literature in an atmosphere conducive to relaxation where students may read the type of literature that is more pleasing to their fancy.

Lavatories for men and women will also be located in the basement with necessary space outside to put coats, hats, etc., during inclement weather. In the rear of the building to the right will be the shipping room where books will be received, repaired, and stored, and the quarters for the library staff.

Large Reading Room

On entering the building one will have to ascend a half flight of stairs to reach the first or main floor. There in a spacious lobby will be the main charging desk, large display shelves for various exhibitions, and the only public entrance to the book stacks, providing proper control and supervision of the building. To the left of this charging desk will be a large reading room of approximately 3,000 sq. ft. which will contain the reference books and bound periodicals. This room will comfortably seat 120 students, and around the walls will be shelving seven feet high. To the right, a cataloging room will provide spacious quarters for the staff which prepares books for the shelves and interprets library material for the students.

Between the cataloging room and the reserve book room, the librarians office will be located. The reserve book room will contain books that are required reading for various courses. This room will seat about 50 students. A periodical room will be provided which will contain the current issues of all the magazines received in the library.

The second floor of the building will not be used as frequently as the lower floors. It will contain the Villanovan room which will provide for material such as books, periodicals, pictures, etc., pertaining to the college, its history and its students; the music room will have special acoustic treatment, as it is planned to use this room for the playing of records, classical and semi-classical; the seminar rooms which will be used to provide for special collections, museum, study groups, or even classrooms; and the faculty reading room which will be used by the faculty, clerical and lay, for reading during leisure hours. The corridor in the front of this floor will be wide enough for display cases to house special exhibitions which a library ordinarily has from time to time.

The entire building will comfort-

NEW LIBRARY
Continued on Page Eight

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Headin' Home . . .

Holy Cross First Road Opponent

By DAN REDMOND

Villanova's diamond forces, after sticking close to home during the past month, invade historical New England tomorrow to engage Holy Cross. The Crusaders will be the first of four teams to be played on consecutive days in that area.

Always one of the strongest teams in the East, "the Cross" has once again fielded a nice-looking aggregation. Although they have dropped decisions to Army and to Boston College, their play has been top-notch all season. This, coupled with the fact that the Wildcats are currently playing their worst ball of the year, means that the Blue and White will definitely have to hustle if they want to cop this one.

With Jack Barry, formerly one-fourth of Connie Mack's $1,000,000 infield, at the helm, the Worcester club has attracted enough attention to land several of its players in the big time. Among the most recent of their alumni to fill a big leaguer uniform is George Woods, Boston Red Sox hurler.

This year Barry has another pitching find who is acclaimed as one of the best prospects in New England. His name, Huck Geary, may sound familiar to Pittsburgh baseball fans, but this lad is not related to the infamous shortstop of a few years ago. No doubt the Wildcats will be viewing his slants when they meet the Purple and White tomorrow.

Coach Weinert may make several changes in his line-up in an effort to snap the Cats out of their lethargy. Their work afield has

HOLY CROSS
Continued on Page Eight

Blue and White Takes GeorgetownGame, 10-3

Team Closes Home Season as Donohue Hurls Win with Help from McDonnell

Combining a tight defense and timely hitting, Villanova won its home finale 10-3. It was also the second victory of the year over Georgetown.

Henry Donohue pitched shut-out ball until the heat got him in the sixth. Bob McDonnell finished up and was touched for three runs.

Bill Smith, with a triple and single, continued his hitting streak to eleven games. Frank O'Neill and Charlie Comerford each had a double and single. Bill Doherty had two singles. Tony Beyers, Georgetown, was high man with a triple and two singles.

FIRST INNING

Miller struck out. Burke topped in front of the plate and was thrown out by O'Neill. Baker grounded a single past Doherty. Oberto grounded to Lord. No runs, one hit.

Smith reached second when Miller made a wild throw to first. Litwa grounded to Burke, Smith holding second. Casey struck out. O'Neill grounded a single into left scoring Smith but was out stealing, Bregman to Ayres. One run, one hit, one error.

SECOND INNING

Golas singled to third. Ayres whiffed. Bregman bunted into a double play Donohue to Comerford. No runs, one hit.

Kline flied to Golas in deep left. Doherty sent Dzugan back for his drive to center. Comerford grounded to Burke. No runs, no hits.

THIRD INNING

Dzugan grounded a single past Lord. Klaric struck out and O'Neill's peg to Lord doubled Dzugan. Miller fanned. No runs, one hit.

Lord walked. Donohue sacrificed,

GEORGETOWN
Continued on Page Six

. . . Marano Scores!

In upper picture: Davey Marano, second baseman, kicks up dust around the hot corner as he heads for home. He crosses home a second later, with Bill Smith, left fielder, hot on his heels. Irwin Antoni, Penn catcher, watches parade as Villanova scores two of six runs against the Pennsylvanians. Penn won, 14-6.

Penn Downs Cats On Errors, 14-6

Fine Game Until Fifth, When Team's Slippery Fingers Proves Costly; Casey, Smith Hit Well

By DICK SOMERS

For the second straight game Villanova's infield resembled a sieve. As a result, Penn took an easy 14-6 victory, to avenge an early season defeat, last Wednesday on the Stadium Field.

Dick McCunney and Bill Mackel divided the pitching assignment for the Quakers. The Cats touched them for 11 hits but left 10 men on base.

Stan Chojnacki, "Major" McDonnell, and "Bull" Matas were the victims of erratic defense. Only four of the Penn runs were earned.

Larry Barnhorst was the best hitter of the day with four singles in five trips to the plate. Jim Smith made his three blows good for as many rbi's. Frank Cooney also made two hits.

For the losing cause, Dan Casey had three singles and made a beautiful running catch in deep center field. Bill Smith hit in his 10th straight game. His two singles raised his average to .400 for the season.

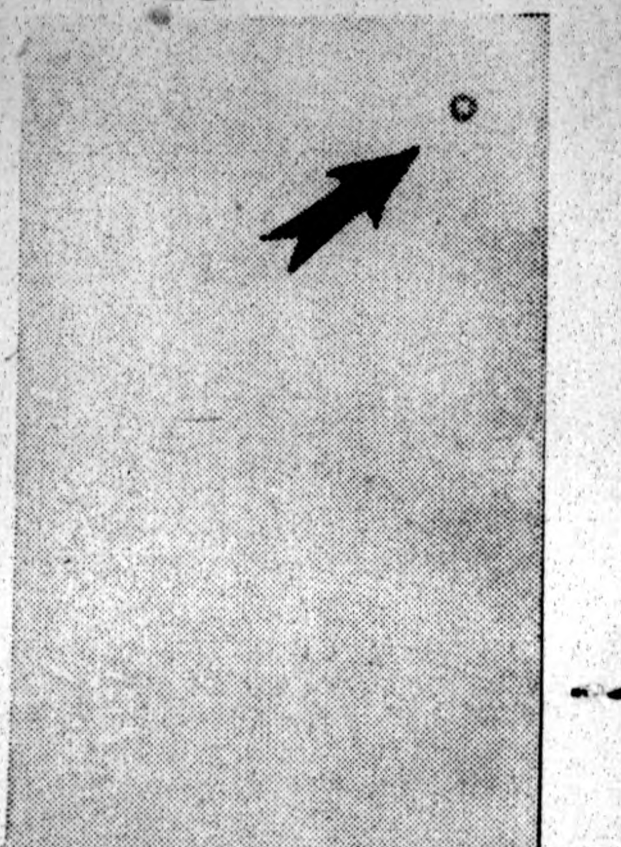
Penn scored in the first when Tom Upton walked, moved to second when Frank Jenkins hit back to Chojnacki and continued home when Comerford threw wildly to catch him at third base. Villanova tied the score in the second. Kline walked but was forced at second by Doherty. Comerford singled Bill to third. On a double steal Doherty scored when Della Monica threw the ball over Antoni's head at the plate.

Chojnacki opened the home half of the third with a single to center, and moved around on a walk, an infield out, and a single. Penn quickly went ahead in the fourth. Upton opened with a double to center. Cooney singled to right and when Litwa fumbled the ball Upton scored. Barnhorst followed with a single, Cooney moving to third. Jim Smith's single sent the second run over the plate. The third one scored on Doherty's error. The Cats got one back in the last half of the inning when Doherty reached first on an error and continued around on singles by Marano and Smith.

Penn chased Chojnacki in the sixth inning. Singles by Jenkins, Cooney, Barnhorst, Smith and

PENN GAME
Continued on Page Six

Diggin' Hard!



Yale, Boston College On Cat's New England Card

By BOB MANSKE

Villanova will put its impressive record on the limb this coming Saturday when it plays Yale University at the Bulldog's home field. This is the last game of the season for Coach Phil Weinert's nine as well as the last game of their New England tour.

Matched against a club with a record, as of this writing, of ten wins and two defeats, and with the Blue and White with their eyes on that last one, this game should be one of the highlights of this season's campaign.

When reviewing comparative scores it looks like the Yale squad has a definite advantage since they have twice downed the U. S. Military Academy to whom the Cats lost by a margin of five runs; however, Villanova was not up to its usual par in the Army game and with the fellows looking forward

YALE PREVIEW
Continued on Page Sixteen

On the second leg of their New England trip the Villanova Wildcats will invade the Boston College campus to lock talents with the already well proven Bostonian boys.

With Freddie Maguire, former Braves second baseman, at the helm, the Eagles have built up the creditable record of ten wins and two defeats. Such powerhouses as Harvard, Tufts, Brown and Providence are listed as their victims and their two defeats came at the hands of Northeastern and New Hampshire. Before falling to New Hampshire they had been riding on the crest of a ten game winning streak.

The main reason for the Eagles well formed record has been the pitching of the 18 year old righthander, Gerry Levinson, and the timely hitting of Jerry Daunt and Tom Maloney, and second third sackers respectively have been hitting to the tune of the high three

BOSTON COLLEGE
Continued on Page Eight

Frank O'Neill goes after a pop-up in last Wednesday's game with Penn. The foul came off the bat of Bob Evans, Penn third baseman, also shown.

Canning Says:—

The Villanovan's campaign for revival of 150 lb. football this September came to a victorious close last Saturday at the United States Naval Academy. Fr. McKee, Director of Athletics announced that Villanova would compete once again in the league which opens on Oct. 19th.

Although the league will only have five teams this season, instead of the usual seven, it is a good start and we are proud that Villanova will be represented. The other two teams which formerly were in the league, are Yale and Lafayette, both of whom will be entered in 1947.

The campaign for lightweight football was started in the March 19th issue of the Villanovan with a call to the student body for a poll of all men with experience in high school or college football who could meet the weight requirements. The poll was answered by over seventy applicants all of whom had high school experience and eight with former college experience.

The statistics of this very gratifying response were presented to Fr. McKee who presented the facts to the college athletic board and resulted in Villanova's entrance in the Intercollegiate League.

We are grateful to Fr. McKee and the Athletic Board for their interest and desire to provide a sport that the average student can participate in and enjoy. We hope the other minor sports such as boxing, swimming, tennis and golf will meet with the same success in the post war plans for athletics.

The matter of a coach for the team has not been decided yet but the rumors, and we mean rumors, have it that the coach may be picked from one of three possible candidates, Frank Bukowski, Joe Pezelski, or Tony Paruta. Bukowski was a former star end for Villanova under Clipper Smith and is now assisting Coach Olivar in coaching the varsity ends. Pezelski also starred in Clipper Smith's backfield and is finishing his senior year this June. Paruta formerly played 150 lb. ball here and was one of the best backs in the league. Tony coached a high school team this season before coming to Villanova and was very successful.

There is a chance that one of these prospects will be chosen but we feel a coach from the outside will be signed to perform the job.

But the main point is that Villanova is going to play and we hope that the seventy men who registered in the poll conducted will show as much enthusiasm and spirit when the Fall practice starts as they did this Spring in signing up for the team.

If the 150 lb. team is not a success it will probably spell the downfall for the other minor sports.

150 Pound Football Gets Green Light

Athletic Board Gives OK; Schedule Released; Rutgers, Princeton, Cornell, Penn Form 5-Team League

Villanova will be entered in the 1946 Intercollegiate 150 lb. Football League this Fall, it was announced at Annapolis May 25th. Father McKee, director of Athletics, was present at the meeting and expressed Villanova's desire to participate in the revival of the lightweight league.

Oct. 19—Penn vs. Cornell at Ithaca; Rutgers vs. Villanova at Villanova; Princeton idle.
Oct. 26—Villanova vs. Penn at Philadelphia; Cornell vs. Princeton at Princeton; Rutgers idle.
Nov. 2—Villanova vs. Princeton at Princeton; Penn vs. Rutgers at New Brunswick; Cornell idle.
Nov. 9—Rutgers vs. Cornell at Ithaca; Princeton vs. Penn at Philadelphia; Villanova idle.
Nov. 16—Cornell vs. Villanova at Villanova; Princeton vs. Rutgers at New Brunswick; Penn idle.

Five teams will play for the championship instead of the usual seven. Yale and Lafayette will not compete this year, but are expected to join in 1947.

The Kittens will play two home games these being on October 19th against Rutgers and November 16th against Cornell. They will play at Pennsylvania on October 26 and travel to Princeton on November 2.

The schedule presents two opportunities for twin football victories as the varsity will play Boston College at Boston on the day the 150's will meet Penn at Philadelphia. The other dual bill will be November 16th, when the Wildcats meet Florida and the Kittens will take on Cornell at Villanova.

The coaching position has not been filled as yet, but an announcement should be forthcoming soon.

Georgetown

Continued From Page Five

Bregman to Baker. Smith beat out a slow roller to first, Lord scoring. Burke was thrown out of the game for disagreeing wtih the umpire's decision. Beyers went to left and Golas moved to short for Georgetown. Litwa sent a sharp single over second, Smith taking third. Casey walked loading the bases. O'Neill walked forcing Smith home. Gora replaced Klaric. Litwa scored on a wild pitch. Kline fanned. Doherty singled to left scoring Casey and O'Neill, then was trapped off first, Gora to Baker to Golas to Baker. Five runs, three hits.

FOURTH INNING

Beyers tripled to left center. Baker and Oberto went down on strikes. Golas grounded to Kline. No runs, one hit.

Comerford reached second when Beyers was slow fielding the ball. Lord fouled deep to left and Comerford took third after the catch. Donohue grounded to Baker. Comerford scored when Baker threw past third trying to trap him. Smith tripled to left. Litwa grounded to Miller. One run, two hits.

FIFTH INNING

Ayres lifted to Casey. Bregman hit to Comerford. Dzugan walked. Gora fanned. No runs, no hits.

Casey rolled to Baker. O'Neill doubled to left. After pitching one ball to Kline, Gora was replaced by Friesen. Kline walked. Kline was trapped off first but Baker threw the ball into left field allowing O'Neill to score. Doherty singled to short left, Kline stopping at third. Comerford and Lord flied to Dzugan. One run, two hits.

SIXTH INNING

Henry robbed Miller by making a running backhand catch of his line drive to right. Beyers singled to center. Baker fanned, Oberto walked. Gola struck out. No runs, one hit.

Robinson batted for Donohue and flied to center. Oberto, playing out of position, robbed Smith of a double past the stands in right. Henry lined to Friesen.

SEVENTH INNING

McDonnel pitching, Robinson at second, and Marano at third for Villanova. Ayres walked, stole second, and went to third on a wild pitch. Bregman fanned and O'Neill threw him out. Dzugan grounded to Robinson as Ayres scored. Friesen singled to center. Miller whiffed. One run, one hit.

Casey walked. O'Neill fouled to Miller. Marano skied to Dzugan. Friesen took Doherty's pop in front of the plate. No runs, no hits.

EIGHTH INNING

Beyers singled to short and Baker to center. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Beyers scored on Oberto's single to center. Baker scored on Brehmer's low throw to third as Oberto stole second. Golas fanned. Ayres flied to Casey.

GEORGETOWN Continued on Page Eight

CORRECTION

Last week on this page we printed a story on the signing of the University of Florida for a game with the Wildcats on November 16th, next Fall. We stated that this game would be played at Shibe Park.

Due to some misunderstanding, we were wrong in our word. The game is an away game. This game will be played at the Floridan's home field in Gainesville, Fla.

This marks the second game which will take the Cats to the South. The other game will be with the University of Miami next season.

In The Sportlight

By JIM MUDD

A dangerous man at the plate—that's Charlie Comerford, Wildcat first sacker. Though his batting average isn't tops, he makes every hit count, as is verified by the fact that Charlie leads the team in runs batted in. Playing in every game this season, he has racked up 11 R.B.I.'s. As for play afield, he rightfully claims the top fielding average for the squad. His finest performance of the season was the recent clash with Princeton in which he collected two hits, driving four mates across the plate.

Charlie's career in sports began back at Germantown High. Captain of the baseball squad, he also played basketball and soccer. The tall, slim first baseman paced the baseball team in hitting and was leading scorer in basketball for 1940. In recognition of his ability he received the Findiessen Memorial Award for athletic and scholastic activities.

After graduating from high school, Charlie played for the champion General Electric baseball and basketball teams in the National Industrial league.

Having entered the Army in August, 1941, Charlie graduated from cadet school at Seymour, Ind., as a pilot. He had little time for sports after that, for he was winging his way back and forth between the West Coast and many points in the South Pacific on hospital evacuation duty. Discharged in February of this year, Charlie chose Villanova for continuing his education.

His main ambition is to play professional baseball, but before that ambition is realized, we can count on three more years service for the Blue and White nine.

Tennis Tourney Ends First Week

Weilly, Defending Champ, Beats Walsh; Canning, Halm, Deemer, Space, Post, MacNamara Take First Matches

The annual intra-mural tennis tournament was off to a slow start this week with Fedigan Hall's sailors and The Doms starting the competition off with seven matches — all of them indicating hard-fought battles.

Frank Weilly, defending champion, advanced by defeating Ed Walsh also of Delurey Hall (7-5, 6-2) as Sam Canning downed Bill "Red" McEntee (6-0, 6-0). Canning is the only entry from Odwyer Hall and McEntee is one of the representatives from Delurey.

Although Weilly isn't in his usual form he definitely is the outstanding player to take the courts so far this season and is undoubtedly the favorite to win the trophy for the Doms tournament and also to be the first to have his name inscribed on the large trophy to be kept at the college.

In the first match for Fedigan Jerry Post fought a nip-and-tuck duel with Neinaber, and came up a close victor in two sets, 8-6, 6-4.

Halm and Deemer Win

On the side court, in the meantime, Bill Halm was giving Matt Kearney a 6-1, 6-0 lacing. The closest match was played between Bob Deemer and Tom Daly. After what seemed like hours of dueling, Deemer won out 10-8, 3-6, 6-0. See-sawing back and forth with the score at deuce six times, Bobby Deemer finally blasted a long drive into the deep right corner out of Tom's reach, to give him the first set 10-8. It was the same story in the second set, but not quite to the same degree. Daly, using a hard overhand smash, took this one 3-6. Entering the rubber set, both boys looked slightly tired, but Deemer mustered enough drive to win set and match 10-8, 3-6, 6-0.

Fedigan's top seeded Bill Space, with little exertion, showed he still has his old form, when he trimmed Bill Carlin in two sets, 6-3, 6-3. Much credit is due Bill Carlin for

TENNIS Continued on Page Seven

Penn Game

Continued From Page Five

Chuck Bednarik and O'Neill's high throw to second accounted for four more runs. Villanova got two of these back. Marano reached first on the catcher's interference, Smith was safe on Upton's error and both men advanced when Mackel threw the ball into center field trying to pick Dave off second. Litwa's double scored them.

Two gift runs were added to the Quaker total in the eighth. Barnhorst singled, Smith reached second when Marano threw his double play grounder into left field, Bednarik was given an intentional pass but Doherty proceeded to toss Mackel's easy roller into right field to allow the runs to score. The Cats also picked up another gift run in their half. With two out, Smith singled, stole second and scored on Della Monica's error.

The final four runs crossed the plate in the ninth inning. Singles by Barnhorst and Smith combined with three errors were the ingredients. Thus endeth Villanova's fifth loss to a collegiate opponent.

Penn	AB	R	H	PO	A
Della Monica, 2b	5	0	1	6	3
Upton, ss	4	2	1	4	7
Jenkins, lf	5	1	1	1	0
Cooney, 1b	5	3	2	6	0
Barnhorst, rf	5	4	4	3	0
Evans, 3b	5	1	0	3	0
J. Smith, cf	5	3	3	1	0
Antoni, c	2	0	0	1	2
xBednarik, c	1	0	1	2	0
McCunney, p	2	0	0	0	0
Mackel, p	2	0	0	0	0
ySternad	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	42	14	13	27	12

Villanova	AB	R	H	PO	A
W. Smith, lf	4	2	2	1	0
Litwa, rf	5	0	1	1	1
Casey, cf	5	0	3	1	0
O'Neill, c	4	0	0	9	2
Kline, 3b	4	0	1	3	2
Doherty, ss	4	2	1	4	1
Comerford, 1b	5	0	1	7	0
Marano, 2b	2	1	1	0	2
Chojnacki, p	2	1	1	0	3
McDonnell, p	1	0	0	0	1
Matas, p	0	0	0	0	0
aMcCarthy	1	0	0	0	0
bRothenhauser, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	37c	6	11	26d	12

x-Batted for Antoni in 6th
y-Batted for McCunney in 6th a-Batted for McDonnell in 8th
b-Ran for Litwa in 8th
c-Marano safe on catchers interference
d-Evans bunted foul on third strike

Penn .... 1 0 0 3 0 4 0 2 4—14
Villanova .... 0 1 1 1 0 2 0 1 0— 6

Kearney Says:—

Spikes and uniforms have been handed in and, apparently, once again, Villanova track has bowed quietly out of the picture. But, remember, the men who gave their all for the track team this year and any year, are not to be dropped from any semblance of praise or a "well done" from you and me.

Surviving excellently the pains of transition to a full time peace time track program, the cindermen turned in a laudable job this year. They sure had their share of tough luck. In fact, Johnny DiCarlo, who came up injured recently missed his chance to represent Villanova in the I-C AAAA Collegite Meet and will miss participating in the National Collegiate Meet in San Antonio, Texas, later this year.

Burt Cox, who also gained a National Championship in the Hop, Step and Jump event last year, was taken from their ranks by graduation. The Marine trainee turned in some mighty smooth exhibitions. Furthermore, Joe Beals, who had a leg injury thrown on top of a bad cold, missed the entire outdoor season.

Turning, however, to the bright spots of a mediocre track season, we were proud to welcome home a National champion from the Penn Relays in the person of the brilliant John DiCarlo. Danny Redmond, Tom Short and Ed Fitzgerald rounded out a mile relay team that held its own in tough competition. They took second in the Penn Relays Carnival, beating out such teams as Army, NYU and other big names on the cinders.

Bill Lilienthal on the discus, Johnny Sheahan in the high jump and Bill Dost with the shot-put brought back into action, field events for the Wildcat squad. Sheahan placed in the Annapolis Triangular meet last month.

Jack Glascott, another Marine here, leaped the hurdles for the Blue and White for the past season and we have nothing but good words for Jack's running.

Bob Regan, Al Scarzo and Tony Minyon rounded out a plugging outfit who deserve much more credit than theyre ceived. You know, keeping in condition for track activities is about the hardest job in the field of athletics. Day after day is required and the public little notes what these boys do.

When I say public, I do not mean those who really followed the team throughout the season, but I mean the students who have no idea that Villanova even has a track team. It was gratifying, though, to receive several letters from alumni men and those in the service asking for more complete coverage of the track events of the school. We have strived to achieve that through the course of the past year.

Mr. James "Jumbo" Elliot, recently returned from the Naval service, is now looking forward to an excellent 1946-47 season. Some of the men returning next year are members of the team which boasted the best Mile Relay quartet in the East. Most of his team from this year are slated to return.

We wish to join the many others who have stood by your noble work during the past year and give you our solid praise and thanks for a job well done. More power to you for the hours you've spent in practice. Our heartiest wishes for a banner season next year as Villanova returns to the spotlight in the world of college sports!

Yale Preview

Continued From Page Five

to that last one, that comparative score edge must be disregarded.

The coach of the Bulldogs, Ethan Allen, who was a former great with such major league clubs as Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, has received word of Villanova's hard hitting as of late and with this in mind he is countering with his ace righthander Walter Guthman, who has the impressive record of five wins as against nary a setback. Doing the signal calling from behind the plate will be "Bolt" Elwell, who because of his size presents a wonderful target.

The infield will show Frank O'Brien at third base, Art Maher at shortstop, Captain Mike Stimola at second and George Bush at first. O'Brien is one of the heavy men with the wood on the club and so far well exceeding the .350 mark

Meet the Boys

By CHARLES J. McCARTHY

Heavy set, dark complexion d medium height are the out-rd appearances of Edward Fran- Grote, one of Villanova's out-nding seniors, who will graduate s June from the course in pre-w which he is now studying.

Ed was born in Yonkers, N. Y. August 1, 1922. He studied at Joseph's Grammar School and en went to Fordham Prep in w York City. While at Ford-m Prep he was active in the orts circles and played on sev-al of the athletic teams. He play- left halfback for the football am and third base for the base-ll team. Besides his athletic ilities Ed was active on the de-ting team and proved himself be a hard man to beat.

EDWARD GROTE

After graduating from Fordham ep, Ed decided to study pre-law Villanova. Therefore he started re in the fall of 1939. In his eshman year, he starred on the en freshman football team. He so played in the other intramural agues about the campus.

Infantryman in Europe

In February of 1943, Ed entered e Army and was trained in the fantry. He was assigned to the th Infantry Division and sent to e European Theater of Opera-ons where he saw action in the ttle of the Bulge, along the Sieg-ied Line and the crossing of the hine with the British 2nd Army Holland. Ed was discharged in ovember as a staff sergeant.

Ed modestly added — almost as after-thought — that he picked a few pieces of shrapnel and s in a field hospital for four eeks while he was overseas.

After graduation in June Ed ans to go to Fordham Law hool to study for his bar exam d then set up practice as a law-r.

• • •

The future students of the coun-y will be led by men who have, a whole, a wider experience an the teachers of today, if Alex-der Lukacs is an example of the ture prof of the land.

Alex was born in Fords, N. J., June 10, 1922 and attended the rds Grammar School. After at he attended Woodbridge High ich is also in New Jersey. After ending four eventful years in gh school which entailed exten-ve activities in various organiza-ons about the campus, Alex decided to matriculate at Villanova and did this in the fall of 1939. He entered the School of Education as a major in English and remained around the campus in that capacity until November of 1942 when he left on a leave of absence to join the Army.

He went to Camp Lee, Virginia, and took basic training. Following basic he entered the Enlisted Specialists School, and trained for the next job the Army would dish out. Then he transferred to the Personnel Replacement Depot at Shenango, Pa. Then he went to Camp Shanks, N. Y. After that he started on a long trip that took him over thousands of miles of the Pacific area.

Served in C.B.I. Theater

He went to China by way of India and spent the following two and a half years traveling the China-India-Burma Theater. He served as a liaison agent for the Chinese Army during this time. He then started to retrace his steps and finally ended up at Fort

ALEXANDER LUKACS

Monmouth, N. J., where he was discharged on December 11 of last year in the rank of sergeant.

He then returned to Villanova at the end of January. In February Alex began practice teaching at Radnor High School where he has been teaching for the past four months.

After graduation Lukacs intends to teach at one of the local schools or perhaps return to China to teach in the forming educational system of the ancient country of the Orient.

Tennis

Continued From Page Six

the fine fight he put up against his superior opponent.

The surprise performance of the whole show was put on by Jim "Dimples" McNamara. In spite of his extreme modesty in the tennis field before the night's competition, "Jaime" showed terrific form. Combining a powerful forehand, smooth backhand, and a dazzling spin, he swarmed all over Proesel 6-3, 6-1.

With the second round pitting the winners of the first round against each other, many close matches are expected.

Faculty Comments

Continued From Page Three

shock is the supposition that because it was easy to blow out the lamp it was as easy to blow out what it stands for. And no matter how we might try to stretch a point and call it a prank it was inexcusable.

No one would sneer or jeer at the photo of a man's wife only approximately beautiful. Still less would we approve of one tearing up the photo in front of him. And so a military discipline which produced a great and powerful army failed — in this case — to produce devotion, or at least a respect, for religion and morality. Nay, perhaps by its brutalizing and its dulling the sensibilities to the finer things in life it may in some way have caused the desecration. The soldier, a member of a powerful army which crushed an enemy thought that for this reason he could crush anything.

Moral Training Omitted

The ex-GI in school should reflect on this. He should realize that for years he has been under a discipline that has consisted in the well-measured tread of marching feet — a discipline which welded masses of men into one unit. He lived under oppression from without — a force, usually the commands of a top sergeant. That was the job of the military training, and it was done well. But this might have been a harm for the soldier — for many it was.

The military authorities wanted one, on the spot, in condition for fighting, and what went on in town on a furlough was up to the individual. The authorities were interested only in what a man did in town to the extent that the military machine might not be impaired.

Every man can judge for himself. Let each ex-GI ask himself whether he is better spiritually and morally for having been in the service? Did he or did he not see others do things merely because "he could get away with it" — and not consider that it might have been against God's law and the rights of others?

Everyone will admit that there are many service men now not better but worse after their time in the service — they have picked up bad habits, are less industrious, and so on. That there are many many thousands who are better now after their military experience than before, cannot be denied. But are they better because of their military training or in spite of it? The record of military training seems to indicate that they were not particularly interested in making a man a better man but a better soldier.

It is man's deep moral and spiritually religious convictions and training that are directly concerned with making him a better man morally. If the ex-GI is a better man now after the war than he was before, this is because he used that circumstance to greater sanctify himself.

College Discipline Differs

But now an ex-GI at Villanova — or any man here for that matter — is living under a discipline different from that of war training—the discipline of school work. This discipline or education gives an opportunity for all to develop what is noble and best in man. It is something that comes from within and depends on the indi-

FACULTY COMMENTS Continued on Page Eight

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
The Campus Barber Shop
First Class Work
Popular Prices

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
Where Old Friends Meet and
New Ones Get Acquainted

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

ICE Aristocrat CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Foreign Correspondent

We feature for today another neighboring school just East of our Alma Mater and North of Lancaster Pike, by name of Bryn Mawr College. We have asked our Ambassador of good-will to that school to see what info he could uncover for us. As usual, Lou Rabaut came through . . .

Brother, this is a job I like . . . visiting girl schools, and writing about them. Going to Bryn Mawr, down the road a bit, was a treat . . and the work (if you want to call it that) was a pleasure. Since KILROY was on vacation, I had to do much of the road work myself.

Strolling over to Denbigh Hall I saw Ed Kernan (the Stan Laurel of Austin Hall) talking to Jane Ann Hauze (Girl voted most likely to succeed as Villanova co-ed). Just then Hazel Nelson came dripping in from the Bryn Mawr pool and commenced to drown out, with the aid of her shrieking falsetto voice, Nan Garton's rendition of "Chopsticks" in C# minor, which is her best musical accomplishment, (culture, that is).

Sudden Departure

Saw Miss Whitmore, the warden of Denbigh Hall, coming my way. Not knowing whether it was Nan's playing, Hazel's dripping (or singing. . . if that what it was), Jane and Ed's spooning, or my presence that drew her attention, I thought it best to make a quick exit.

Walked out on the lawn and stumbled over Phil (lantern jaw) Barrett holding hands with debutante Sheila Parker. Couldn't tell whether sumpin' was cookin', maybe! . . . or whether Sheila was reading palms. Getting the usual "Shoe, fly, fly," I departed, and made my way to Radnor Hall.

Must admit, I didn't have much luck at Radnor. The hostess "Lulu" Sheldon and her cohorts were hiding behind their books and refused to be seen by a man (dot's me, keed) while they were in skirts and blouses. No Bryn Mawr girl dares to be looked upon until properly attired in blue jeans (it says here).

Ran into better luck at Rockefeller Hall where Sally (just call me) Darling, Ann McKee and Frankie Marvin were busily consuming a bottle of coke and kindly offered me the fourth straw. But I still couldn't get a story. They were too engrossed in a heated game of bridge for high stakes. . .The one that lost had to invite a Haverford youth to their prom. (Not enough Villanova men to go around, you know).

At Last, the Info

Just as I was becoming discouraged Mickey Malaret rhumba'd in from the patio and consented to divulge the college's most intimate secrets.

Each year the belles of Bryn Mawr present two Glee Club concerts. . .one with Princeton, the other with Yale. Noted for their hospitality, the girls move out of one of their dorms the evening of the concert to allow the lucky fellows a place to rest their weary bones (not dice). These concerts are really wonderful (I know. . . I attended the last one). After the program is over, a formal dance is given in the gym. . . featuring an orchestra and a punch bowl. . . with real punch (gingerale and all).

May Day Celebration

Other affairs like the Junior Prom that are to be found at almost every school are also to be found at Bryn Mawr (natch!). But the big day of the year is May Day. It is traditional that it should be celebrated on the first day of May (and the sun better be out) each year.

At 5:30 in the morning the gals roll out of their sacks, ascend to the Rockefeller tower and serenade the rising sun. About seventy-three and a half minutes later they run like dash (only lady-like) to the breakfast table and devour a hearty meal. After downing their coffee and ry-krisp they beat it outside to chase each other around a May pole. . .This is called a "Maypole Dance." They top this off with their famous hoop race. . .the winner is the first to be married after graduation. The seniors then present their hoops to the freshmen . . .and call it a day.

A big time is going to be had at Bryn Mawr June 8th. That's the date of their Junior Prom. Some of the Villanova men have already received their bids. . .(I'm still waiting!).

Cementing Relations

Two weeks ago some of the Bryn Mawr girls gave a big picnic out in the country at a barn furnished by the college. Notables from Villanova cementing our relations were Jack (the Count) Stanley, Wild Bill Newman and Lou (lady killer) Selzer. Molly Darling, Betty Shelton and Mickey Malaret seemed to hold a good deal of their attention.

After the picnic was over the sweet things took us (I vas dere, Charlie) to see "Belle of Bagdad" at Goodhart Hall. This was a play put on by the maids and porters of the college, and was very enjoyable.

The type of fellow that is preferred by the Bryn Mawr girl must have a certain amount of intelligence, understanding, a sense of humor, and be a good conversationalist. Realizing I didn't even come close in measuring up to those qualifications, I thought it best to take my leave.

Incidentally fellows (or wolves, if you prefer) the three favorite hangouts of these college belles. . .for Villanova's information only . . . are the "Greeks," the Hamburg Hearth, and the Bryn Mawr College Inn.

Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Sophomores I and II and the Junior I today in Room 214 Mendel Hall at 12:45 P. M. "Junior Week" for next year will be discussed.

VILLANOVA CLEANERS
ARE PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE
THEY ARE OPEN WITH
A COMPLETE VALET SERVICE
Cleaning - Dyeing - Tailoring
Laundering
Shoe Repairing Hat Cleaning
4 Day Service on Laundering and Cleaning
NO. 2 LANCASTER AVE., VILLANOVA, PA.
(Next Door to LaDow's Pharmacy)

Tennis Trophies

The above trophies were donated by Frederick J. Koch, who left Villanova last December. Fred gave the trophies for the Villanovan Intramurals. The large trophy will be kept in the trophy room, and the small trophies (five of them) will be awarded annually to the winner of the Intramurals.

Holy Cross

Continued From Page Five

been entirely too sloppy and it is on this department that he has been concentrating his attention.

This past week he's been using an infield combination of Kline, Doherty, Marano and Comerford. Smith and Casey are set in the outer garden and it is hoped that Al Litwa's ankle will allow him to join them.

Interest in the games is at fever pitch. Evidence of this may be obtained from the fact that the starting time has been pushed back to 5:00 P. M. so that the workers may see the game.

Yale

Continued from Page Five

hundreds and seem to be improving steadily.

Completing the infield will be John Spinner, former Corsair pilot, at first and John Yurewich at short. Behind the plate will be big Bob Fitzgerald who leads his team in the important run producing department.

The outfield will include Bernie Lanoue in left, Bob Lynch in center and John Buckley in right field.

With perhaps the exception of the third base slot the 'Cats lineup will remain the same with either Stan Chojnacki or Henry Donohue drawing the pitching assignment.

Faculty Comments

Continued From Page Seven

vidual. It is the growth of the soul under the guidance and sponsorship of Religion. Men were schooled under military training . . . here they school themselves.

The most vital thing that Villanova offers besides the courses in the professions is a Catholic atmosphere which offers ample opportunity for self-improvement under the guidance and support of Religion. Here a man may learn his secular studies and, at the same time, strengthen himself and his conviction by learning more of his religion and fortifying himself with the Sacraments. Even if a man has picked up some bad traits before, he may correct them here and now, and prepare himself for the future. There is much gloom and pessimism about the future. The only way to put down these fears and doubts is to face it realistically — to face it in the light of the only future that counts — Eternal life after death.

If there is any one place in the world where the future does look extremely difficult, if there is any place that has suffered most of all from war, that place is probably Berlin. It was the center of bombing for years; its buildings are half destroyed, its population decimated. It is in the clutches of famine — being ruled by four foreign powers. When someone recently asked Cardinal Von Preysing, the Bishop of Berlin, what he thought of the prospects for the future, he gave a surprising reply.

"I rejoice that things are as they are. .Admittedly things are difficult; the future does look dark. But things did not look so good for the early Christians either. Evidently God wants us to rise again from the ashes. This is a chance to merit a greater reward than if things had gone on unchanged. We have to start from scratch like the early Christians."

A man with such faith and hope in God and the future, with the hot breath of atheistic communism on his neck, certainly is a remarkable example for all. And certainly we who are ever so much better off materially than the unfortunate people in Europe have less occasion to be fearful of the future. A man's hope for the future today lies in preparing himself for it, by learning a profession; but also, and most important, by living his faith and strengthening his spiritual life thru the channels of grace the Sacraments.

New Library

Continued From Page Four

ably seat 500 students and provide for 400,000 books. It will be one of the buildings on the campus used by all students regardless of course or time of study. The library is necessary for seminarians, Sisters during summer school, engineers, C&F, science, and arts. It is believed that this library will adequately provide for the Villanovans during the years of future development.

Students, faculty members, alumni, fraternity organizations on campus, and friends of Villanova may, through contributions, donate rooms in the new library as special memorial to groups or individuals. This would be a fitting manner to perpetuate their memory of loved ones and at the same time assist all Villanovans, the faculty, and the students through the years.

Georgetown

Continued From Page Six

Bregman hit to Marano. Two runs, three hits.

Comerford grounded a single through the middle. McDonnell lined a single to right. Robinson sacrificed and was knocked out by Friesen's tag. Smith's fly to left admitted Comerford. Henry lined a single to left and McDonnell crossed. Casey lifted to Oberto in right. Two runs, three hits.

NINTH INNING

Boos playing second for Villanova. Dzugan struck out. Friesen fouled to Smith. Mendelson batted for Miller and fanned. No runs, no hits.

Georgetown

	AB	R	H	PO	A
Miller, 3b	4	0	0	1	1
Burke, ss	1	0	0	1	2
Beyers, lf	3	1	3	1	0
Baker, 1b	4	1	2	7	1
Oberto, rf	3	0	1	2	0
Golas, lf-ss	4	0	1	1	1
Ayres, 2b	3	1	0	1	0
Bregman, c	4	0	0	2	2
Dzugan, cf	3	0	1	5	0
Klaric, p	1	0	0	0	0
Gora, p	1	0	0	0	1
Friesen, p	2	0	1	3	0
xMendelson	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	34	3	9	24	8

Villanova

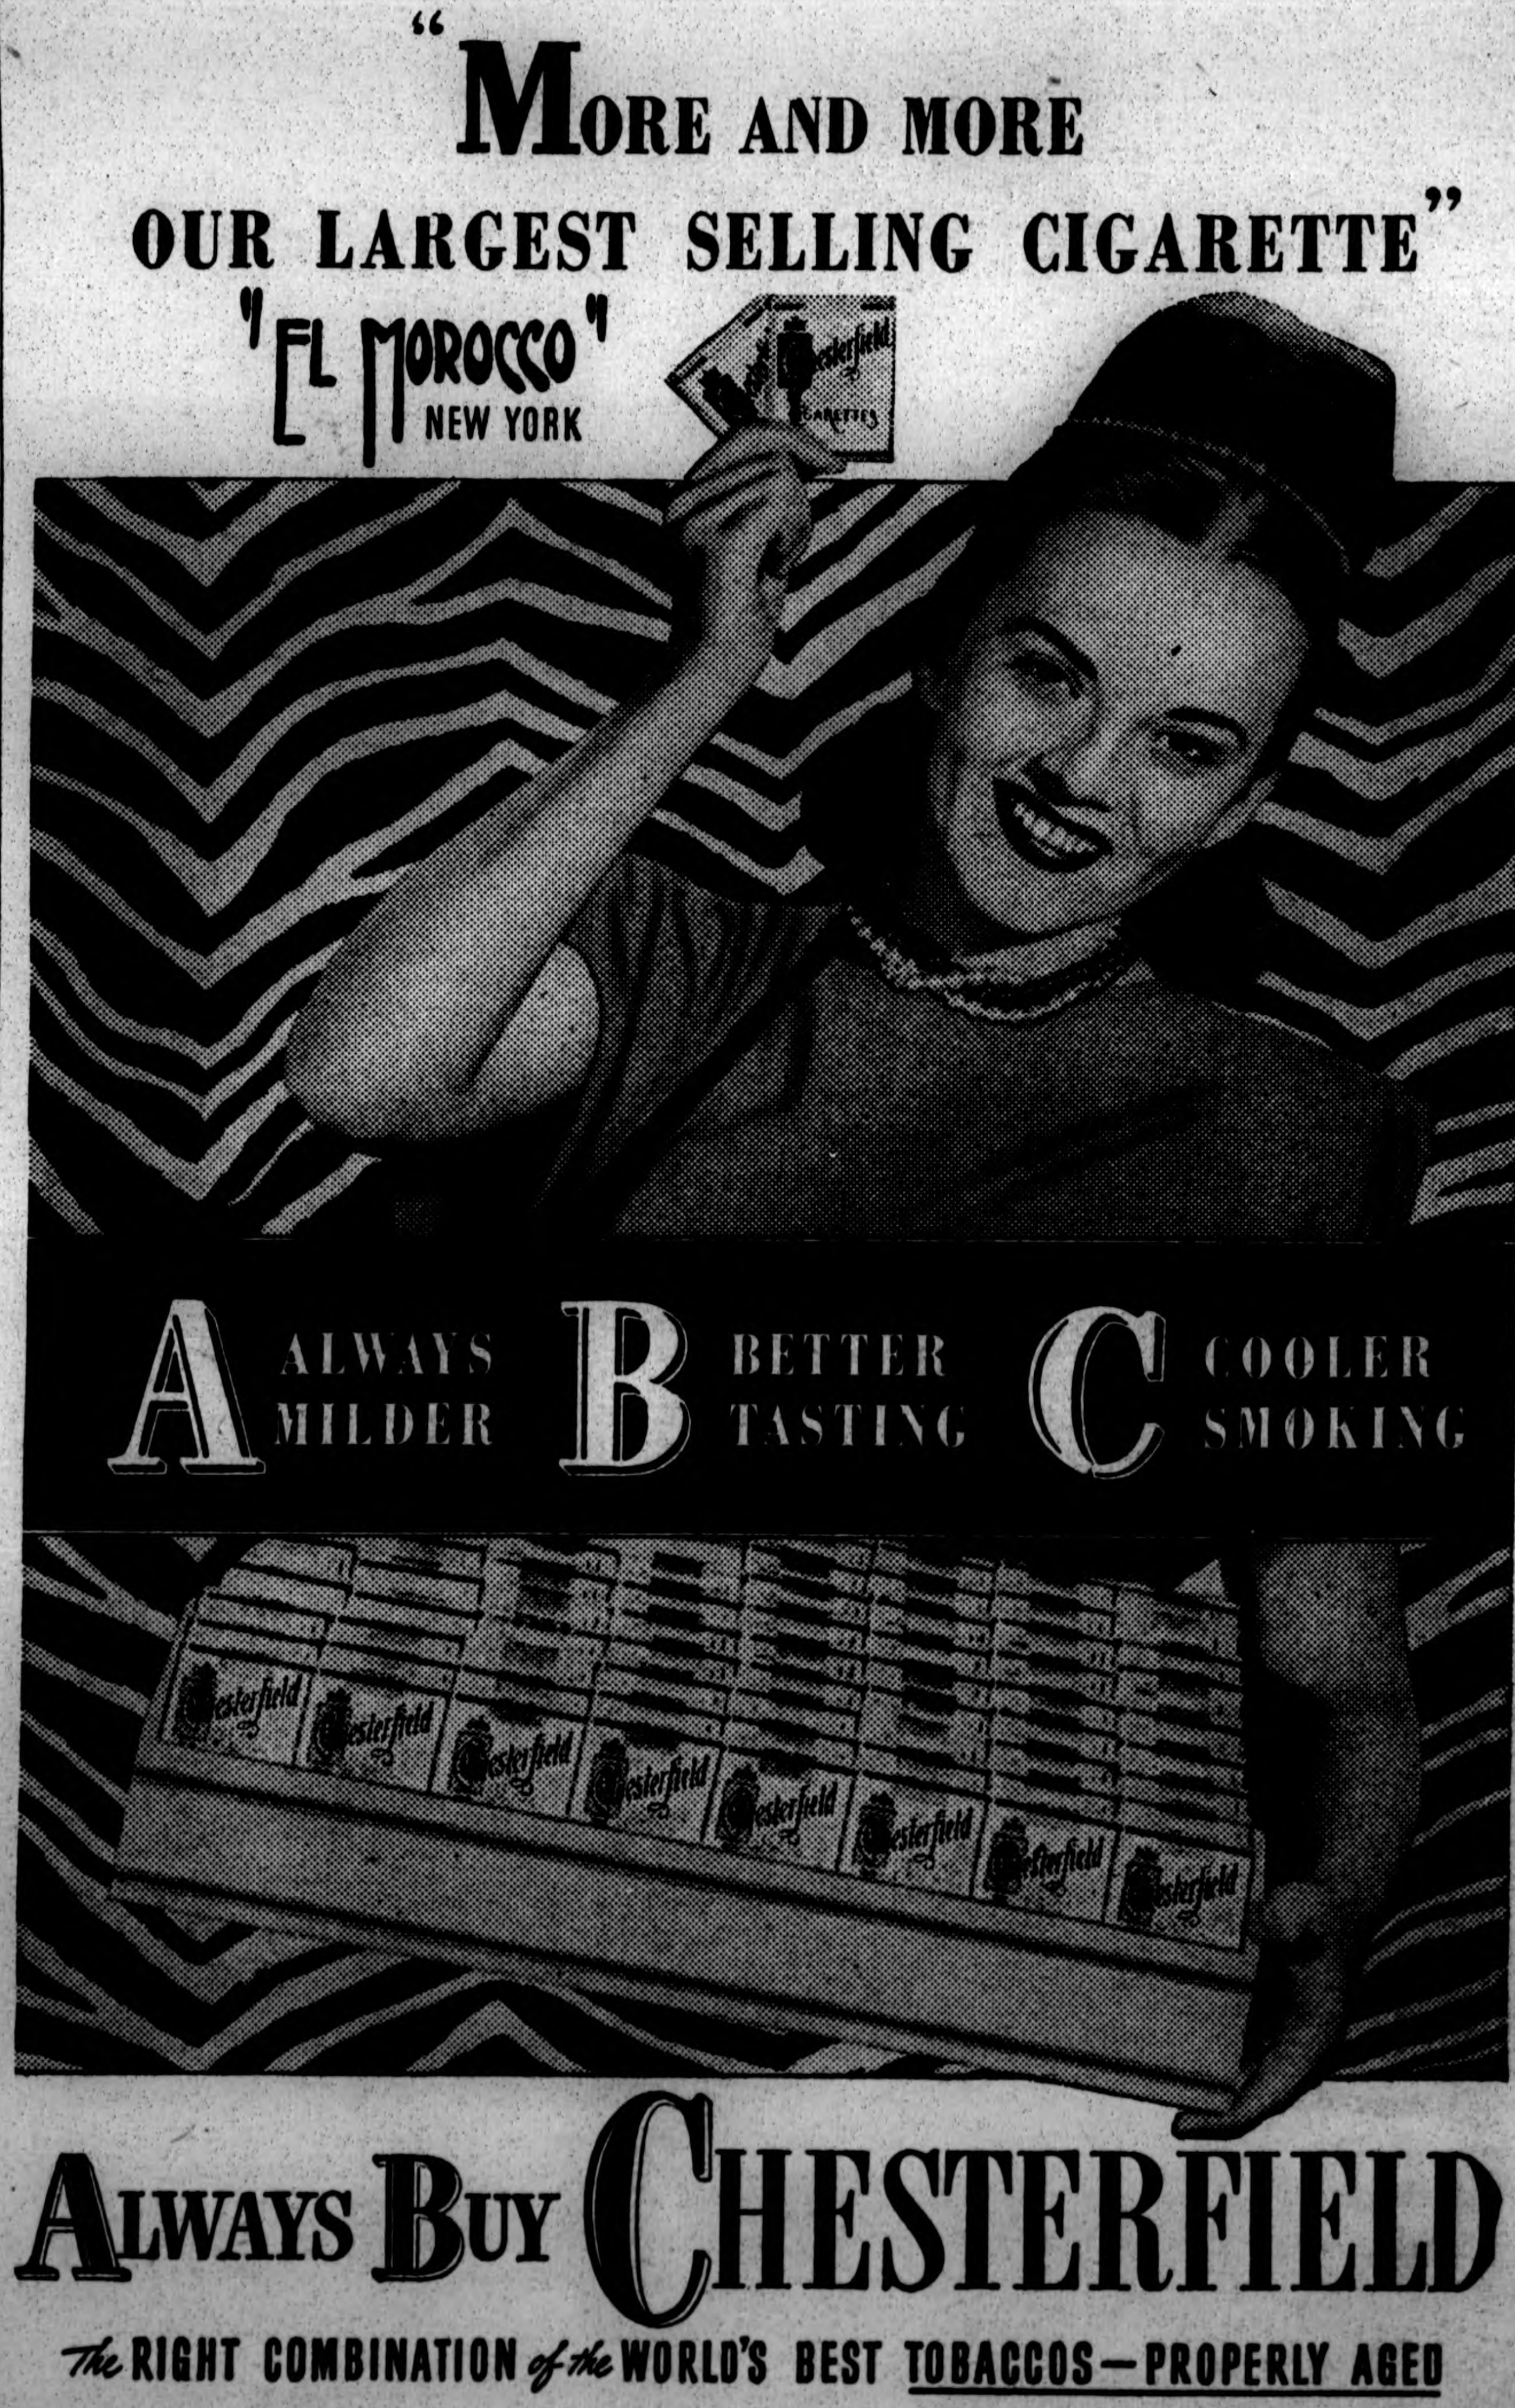
	AB	R	H	PO	A
Smith, lf	5	2	2	1	0
Litwa, rf	3	1	1	0	0
Henry, rf	2	0	1	1	0
Casey, cf	3	1	0	2	0
O'Neill, c	3	2	2	10	3
Brehmer, c	0	0	0	3	0
Kline, 3b	2	0	0	0	1
Marano, 3b	1	0	0	0	1
Doherty, ss	4	0	2	0	0
Comerford, 1b	4	2	2	8	0
Lord, 2b	2	1	0	1	1
McDonnell, p	1	1	1	0	0
Donohue, p	1	0	0	1	1
yRobinson, 2b	1	0	0	0	1
Boos, 2b	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	32	10	11	27	8

x-Batted for Miller in 9th
y-Batted for Donohue in 6th

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. Daily; Except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get Your Clothes Tailor Made

The Most Famous Inn on the Main Line
The Old Covered Wagon Inn
DANCING NIGHTLY
FINEST OF FOODS
For Reservations Call Wayne 1169



"MORE AND MORE
OUR LARGEST SELLING CIGARETTE"
"EL MOROCCO" NEW YORK
ALWAYS MILDER BETTER TASTING COOLER SMOKING
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
The RIGHT COMBINATION of the WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS—PROPERLY AGED
Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 12 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JUNE 11, 1946

VILLANOVA COLLEGE LIBRARY VILLANOVA, PA.

Naval and Marine Units to Leave Campus

Graduating Class to Hear Most Rev. Hugh Lamb, DD

Exercises to Begin at 11:30 A. M.; Baccalaureate Mass To Be Celebrated by Very Rev. F. X. N. McGuire

By FRANK DI TURI

His excellency, the Most Reverend Hugh L. Lamb, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop and Vicar General of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia will confer degrees on forty-five graduates of Villanova College at the 103rd annual commencement to take place in the Villanova Chapel on Sunday morning June 23rd.

The exercises, beginning at 11:30 A. M. with the Baccalaureate Mass, will be marked by all the pomp and tradition of the centuries—old ceremony of commencement. The officers of the Solemn High Mass of Thanksgiving will be the Very Reverend Francis X. N. McGuire, President of Villanova College, Celebrant; Rev. Edward B. McKee, Vice-President of the college, Deacon; Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, Dean, Sub-Deacon; and Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, Chaplain, Master of Ceremonies. Professed clerics from the Seminary will assist at the Mass.

After the Mass, commissions as Ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve will be awarded to those candidates for commission who have requested immediate active duty. Commissions will be awarded by Thomas N. Thomas, Captain, USN, Commanding Officer of the V-12 unit to the following: Albert Fisler Dagit Jr., Duilio D'Albora, George Farrell 3d, Kenneth White Sonner, William Aloysious Thompson Jr. and John Edward White.

Bishop Lamb Presides

Degrees in course will be awarded following the awarding of commissions in a ceremony presided over by Bishop Lamb. Candidates will come forward to receive their hoods from Fr. McKee, Vice- President of the College. Diplomas will be given by Bishop Lamb, and the candidates will then kiss the episcopal ring.

The following degrees will be awarded at this time:

Bachelor of Arts: James Joseph Cain, Roderick James, Cameron, William Bernard Connolly, Norman William Galloway, Edward Vincent Griffin, Wilbur Francis Labadie, Joseph Francis Mahoney, James

COMMENCEMENT
Continued on Page Seven

In the Best Traditions . . .

AT THE end of this term the Navy's vast wartime college training program, known as V-12, "folds up." This program, for furthering the education and the training of undergraduates to be naval officers, has been a successful project. From colleges all over the land emerged V-12 graduates who donned ensign's uniforms and became integral parts of the greatest navy the world has ever known.

Before the war the Navy had about 10,000 officers. The contemplated expansion of the Navy called for naval officers in excess of 300,000. How to obtain this number of officers without lowering the standards was a problem of the first magnitude. In 100 years the U. S. Naval Academy had turned out only 18,000 graduates!

Many reserve officers were obtained by giving commissions to a carefully selected group of college graduates. Many more were secured through the various college training programs, of which the V-12 was the largest. The reserve officers obtained by these means made up more than 90% of the Navy's officer strength. The splendid performance of duty by these naval reserve officers made possible the complete elimination of the Japanese navy as a fighting force.

The peacetime Navy will be a sizable force. The annual requirements for young officers are far in excess of those that can be supplied by the Naval Academy. Naval Reserve Officer's Training Corps Units established in 52 of the leading colleges throughout the nation will hereafter supply the bulk of the officers required by the fleet. Thus, the NROTC mission has changed a little. We are not training men to be officers during an emergency . . . we are training men who will be regular naval officers. While some of these young ensigns will later return to inactive duty, others will continue to serve with the regular Navy.

Now we have a challenge! The midshipmen who receive the NROTC training will be carefully selected. The quality of the raw material, the entering freshman, will be about the same throughout the nation. The quality of the graduate, four years later, depends largely upon the college. In training, in professional knowledge, and in character, the quality of the graduate will largely reflect the quality of the school. Here is our challenge! It is not enough that our graduates meet the admittedly high standards of the fleet. Our aim must be to so train and prepare the Villanova midshipmen that they will be outstanding officers, possessing the qualities that make for intelligent, inspired leadership.

T. C. THOMAS, Captain, U.S. Navy,
Professor of Naval Science and Tactics.

Chaplain Ends Navy Career

Father Handran Returns After Distinguished Combat Service Aboard Cowpens

Last Wednesday saw the return of Lieutenant Ralph E. Handran, Chaplain's Corp, USNR. Father Handran, who taught at Villanova prior to his entry into t[illegible] service, has returned after more [illegible]n three years of the toughest type of service. Lieutenant Handran wears the Pacific Theater Ribbon with eight battle stars and the Philippine Liberation ribbon with two stars.

Commissioned As J. G.

Father Handran left Villanova in March 1943 and was commissioned a Lieutenant (jg) in the Chaplain's Corps. His first duty was at the Sampson Naval Training Station. From there he was transferred to the Chaplain's School at William and Mary in Williamsburg,, Virginia.

REV. RALPH HANDRAN

Upon completion of his course there he was assigned to the Wave Training Center at Norman, Oklahoma. Working with girls was

FR. HANDRAN
Continued on Page Seven

NROTC To Be Reorganized Next Fall Under Peace Time Regulations

Navy Men May Choose Active or Inactive Service; Marine Trainees May Transfer to Naval ROTC; V-5 Return to Campus Under New Program

After graduation ceremonies, the Naval Unit at Villanova College will be re-established under the peacetime Naval Reserve Officer Training Program. Recruits for this program will be taken from freshmen and upperclassmen who are found qualified during the coming semesters.

Since requested legislation for the peacetime NROTC has not yet been enacted, it was necessary to issue instructions relative to the disposition of NROTC—V-12 trainees without being able to promulgate specific information relative to the peacetime NROTC.

Trainees To Be Discharged

Acordingly, men desiring to complete their NROTC will be sent to the appropriate Enlisted Personnel Separation Center for discharge. Other NROTC men who wish to resume their standing upon being discharged will, after completing the requirements, be given a commission in the Regular Navy or in the Naval Reserve.

Three Groups

Disposition of those men now under the NROTC Program will fall into three groups. NROTC students who wil graduate at the end of this semester can request active or inactive duty in the U. S. Navy. Those specifying inactive duty will be sent to separation centers where they will be given an honorable discharge. Also those who do not wish to continue with the NROTC training will be sent to the nearest discharge center.

Uniforms Once A Week

There are many students now under the program who will continue under peacetime NROTC here at Villanova. Uniforms will not be worn by the students except at drill on Saturday mornings. It will also be necessary for the NROTC trainees to take several Naval Science subjects as specified by the Navy Department. A bill will soon be introduced in the Congress granting some form of sub-

NAVY STORY
Continued on Page Three

Fr. McCarthy Leaves School

Former Coach to Assume New Duties in Cuba

Reverend Edward McCarthy, O.S.A., Ph.D., will be transferred at the end of this semester to the University of Saint Thomas of Villanova in Havana, Cuba. Father McCarthy has taught history and political science at Villanova College since September of 1941, and has been very active in extra-curricular affairs. From 1941 to 1943 he headed the International Relations Club and when wartime conditions hit the coaching staff he stepped in as baseball coach during the 1944 and 1945 seasons.

Father McCarthy was born in Troy, New York in 1912 and was a resident of Troy when he entered the novitiate of Saint Augustine in 1930. He graduated from Villanova's Saint Rita's Hall in 1934. While here Father McCarthy became interested in History and at graduation was permitted to follow his studies at a graduate school. At Catholic University he studied Latin American History and received his doctorate from that institution in 1943.

First Trip Out of States

This will be Father McCarthy's first trip out of the United States. The entire lay faculty of the St. Thomas of Villanova is of Cuban nationality and a corresponding number of the faculty is composed

FR. McCARTHY
Continued on Page Eight

Taps - - - A Job Well Done

From July, 1943 until July, 1946 the Navy placed their Officer trainees under the guidance of the professors, both Naval and Civilian, of Villanova College. Finally, the day has come when the Navy as a service unit will leave the campus. However, Villanova will continue to serve as a training base for civilian NROTC.

Tennis Trophies

The above trophies were donated by Frederick J. Koch, who left Villanova last December. Fred gave the trophies for the Villanovan Intramurals. The large trophy will be kept in the trophy room, and the small trophies (five of them) will be awarded annually to the winner of the Intramurals.

Holy Cross

Continued From Page Five

been entirely too sloppy and it is on this department that he has been concentrating his attention.

This past week he's been using an infield combination of Kline, Doherty, Marano and Comerford. Smith and Casey are set in the outer garden and it is hoped that Al Litwa's ankle will allow him to join them.

Interest in the games is at fever pitch. Evidence of this may be obtained from the fact that the starting time has been pushed back to 5:00 P. M. so that the workers may see the game.

Yale

Continued from Page Five

hundreds and seem to be improving steadily.

Completing the infield will be John Spinner, former Corsair pilot, at first and John Yurewich at short. Behind the plate will be big Bob Fitzgerald who leads his team in the important run producing department.

The outfield will include Bernie Lanoue in left, Bob Lynch in center and John Buckley in right field.

With perhaps the exception of the third base slot the 'Cats lineup will remain the same with either Stan Chojnacki or Henry Donohue drawing the pitching assignment.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 5:30 P. M.
Daily; Except Wednesdays and
Saturdays. Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

The Most Famous Inn on the Main Line
The Old Covered Wagon Inn
DANCING NIGHTLY
FINEST OF FOODS
For Reservations Call Wayne 1169

Faculty Comments

Continued From Page Seven

vidual. It is the growth of the soul under the guidance and sponsorship of Religion. Men were schooled under military training . . . here they school themselves.

The most vital thing that Villanova offers besides the courses in the professions is a Catholic atmosphere which offers ample opportunity for self-improvement under the guidance and support of Religion. Here a man may learn his secular studies and, at the same time, strengthen himself and his conviction by learning more of his religion and fortifying himself with the Sacraments. Even if a man has picked up some bad traits before, he may correct them here and now, and prepare himself for the future. There is much gloom and pessimism about the future. The only way to put down these fears and doubts is to face it realistically — to face it in the light of the only future that counts — Eternal life after death.

If there is any one place in the world where the future does look extremely difficult, if there is any place that has suffered most of all from war, that place is probably Berlin. It was the center of bombing for years; its buildings are half destroyed, its population decimated. It is in the clutches of famine — being ruled by four foreign powers. When someone recently asked Cardinal Von Preysing, the Bishop of Berlin, what he thought of the prospects for the future, he gave a surprising reply.

"I rejoice that things are as they are. .Admittedly things are difficult; the future does look dark. But things did not look so good for the early Christians either. Evidently God wants us to rise again from the ashes. This is a chance to merit a greater reward than if things had gone on unchanged. We have to start from scratch like the early Christians."

A man with such faith and hope in God and the future, with the hot breath of atheistic communism on his neck, certainly is a remarkable example for all. And certainly we who are ever so much better off materially than the unfortunate people in Europe have less occasion to be fearful of the future. A man's hope for the future today lies in preparing himself for it, by learning a profession; but also, and most important, by living his faith and strengthening his spiritual life thru the channels of grace the Sacraments.

New Library

Continued From Page Four

ably seat 500 students and provide for 400,000 books. It will be one of the buildings on the campus used by all students regardless of course or time of study. The library is necessary for seminarians, Sisters during summer school, engineers, C&F, science, and arts. It is believed that this library will adequately provide for the Villanovans during the years of future development.

Students, faculty members, alumni, fraternity organizations on campus, and friends of Villanova may, through contributions, donate rooms in the new library as special memorial to groups or individuals. This would be a fitting manner to perpetuate their memory of loved ones and at the same time assist all Villanovans, the faculty, and the students through the years.

Georgetown

Continued From Page Six

Bregman hit to Marano. Two runs, three hits.

Comerford grounded a single through the middle. McDonnell lined a single to right. Robinson sacrificed and was knocked out by Friesen's tag. Smith's fly to left admitted Comerford. Henry lined a single to left and McDonnell crossed. Casey lifted to Oberto in right. Two runs, three hits.

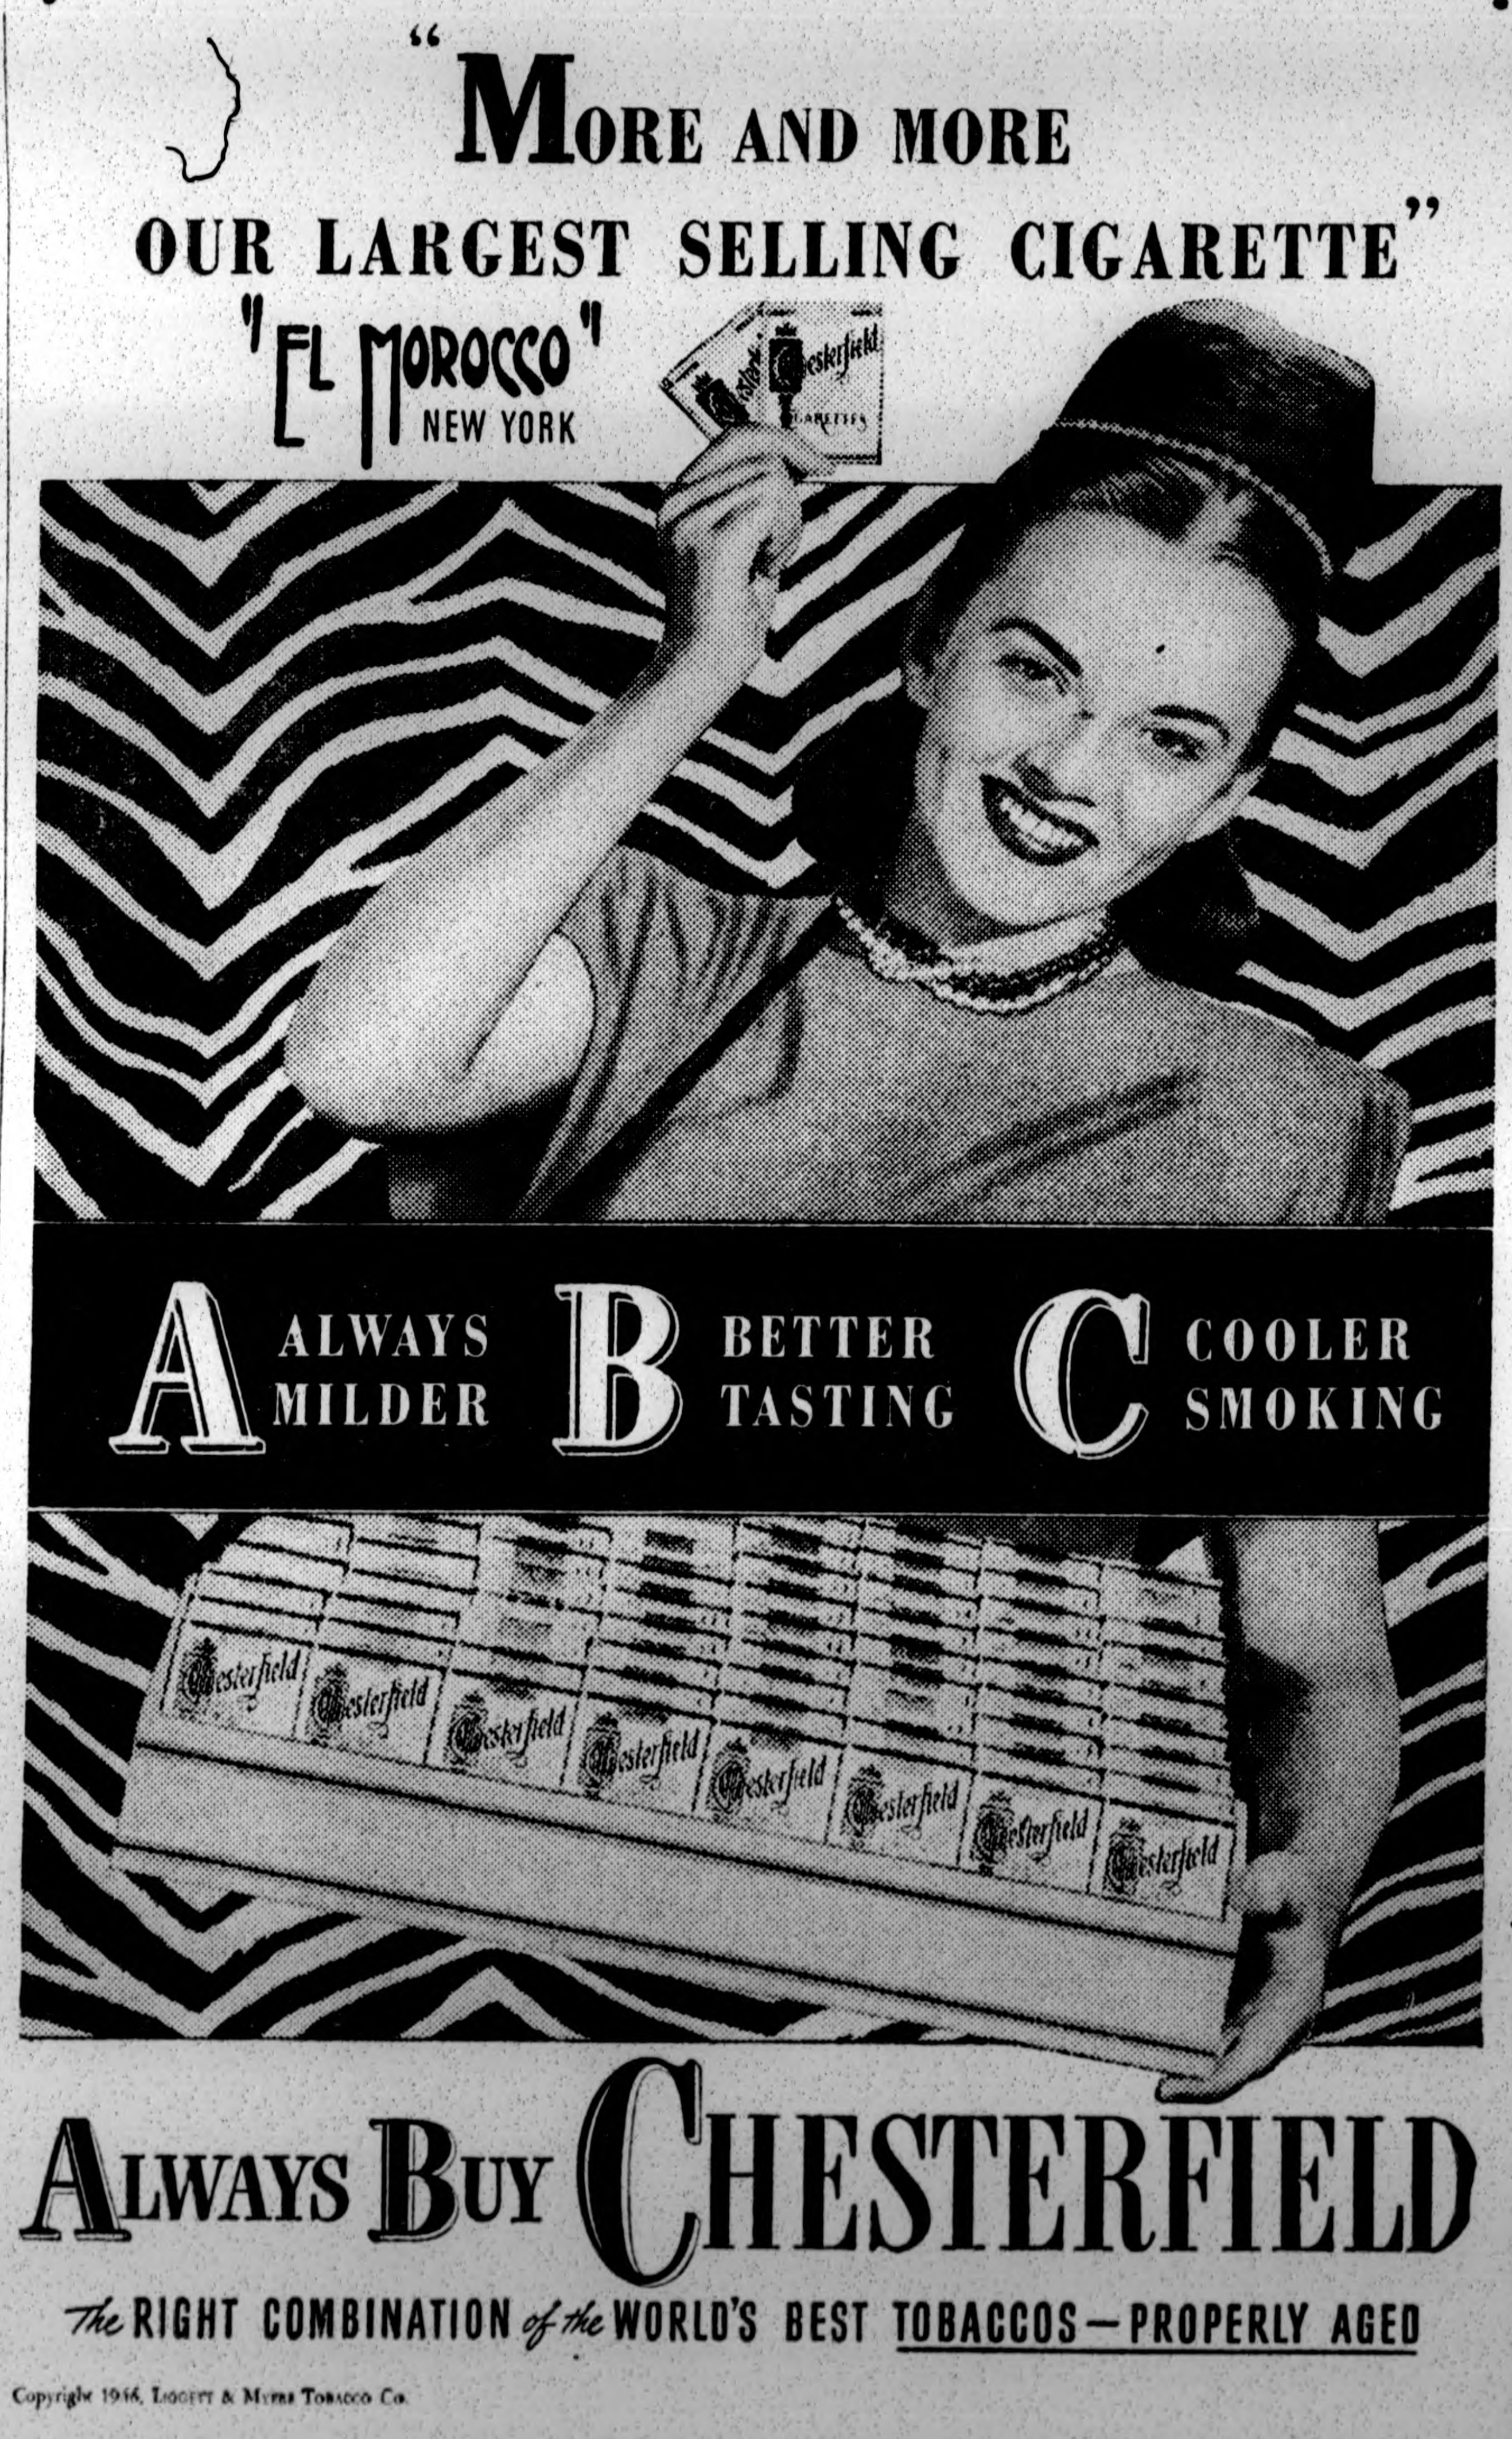
NINTH INNING

Boos playing second for Villanova. Dzugan struck out. Friesen fouled to Smith. Mendelson batted for Miller and fanned. No runs, no hits.

Georgetown	AB	R	H	PO	A
Miller, 3b	4	0	0	1	1
Burke, ss	1	0	0	1	2
Beyers, lf	3	1	3	1	0
Baker, 1b	4	1	2	7	1
Oberto, rf	3	0	1	2	0
Golas, lf-ss	4	0	1	1	1
Ayres, 2b	3	1	0	1	0
Bregman, c	4	0	0	2	2
Dzugan, cf	3	0	1	5	0
Klaric, p	1	0	0	0	0
Gora, p	1	0	0	0	1
Friesen, p	2	0	1	3	0
xMendelson	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	34	3	9	24	3

Villanova	AB	R	H	PO	A
Smith, lf	5	2	2	1	0
Litwa, rf	3	1	1	0	0
Henry, rf	2	0	1	1	0
Casey, cf	3	1	0	2	0
O'Neill, c	3	2	2	10	3
Brehmer, c	0	0	0	3	0
Kline, 3b	2	0	0	0	1
Marano, 3b	1	0	0	0	1
Doherty, ss	4	0	2	0	0
Comerford, 1b	4	2	2	8	0
Lord, 2b	2	1	0	1	1
McDonnell, p	1	1	1	0	0
Donohue, p	1	0	0	1	1
yRobinson, 2b	1	0	0	0	1
Boos, 2b	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	32	10	11	27	8

x-Batted for Miller in 9th
y-Batted for Donohue in 6th



"MORE AND MORE OUR LARGEST SELLING CIGARETTE"
"EL MOROCCO" NEW YORK
Chesterfield
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
THE RIGHT COMBINATION of the WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS—PROPERLY AGED
Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN
VERITAS UNITAS CARITAS
Vol. 21—No. 12 N. A. S. S. X-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JUNE 11, 1946

Naval and Marine Units to Leave Campus

Graduating Class to Hear Most Rev. Hugh Lamb, DD

Exercises to Begin at 11:30 A. M.; Baccalaureate Mass To Be Celebrated by Very Rev. F. X. N. McGuire

By FRANK DI TURI

His excellency, the Most Reverend Hugh L. Lamb, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop and Vicar General of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia will confer degrees on forty-five graduates of Villanova College at the 103rd annual commencement to take place in the Villanova Chapel on Sunday morning June 23rd.

The exercises, beginning at 11:30 A. M. with the Baccalaureate Mass, will be marked by all the pomp and tradition of the centuries—old ceremony of commencement. The officers of the Solemn High Mass of Thanksgiving will be the Very Reverend Francis X. N. McGuire, President of Villanova College, Celebrant; Rev. Edward B. McKee, Vice-President of the college, Deacon; Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, Dean, Sub-Deacon; and Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, Chaplain, Master of Ceremonies. Professed clerics from the Seminary will assist at the Mass.

After the Mass, commissions as Ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve will be awarded to those candidates for commission who have requested immediate active duty. Commissions will be awarded by Thomas N. Thomas, Captain, USN, Commanding Officer of the V-12 unit to the following: Albert Fisler Dagit Jr., Duilio D'Albora, George Farrell 3d, Kenneth White Sonner, William Aloysious Thompson Jr. and John Edward White.

Bishop Lamb Presides

Degrees in course will be awarded following the awarding of commissions in a ceremony presided over by Bishop Lamb. Candidates will come forward to receive their hoods from Fr. McKee, Vice-President of the College. Diplomas will be given by Bishop Lamb, and the candidates will then kiss the episcopal ring.

The following degrees will be awarded at this time:

Bachelor of Arts: James Joseph Cain, Roderick James, Cameron, William Bernard Connolly, Norman William Galloway, Edward Vincent Griffin, Wilbur Francis Labadie, Joseph Francis Mahoney, James

COMMENCEMENT
Continued on Page Seven

In the Best Traditions . . .

AT THE end of this term the Navy's vast wartime college training program, known as V-12, "folds up." This program, for furthering the education and the training of undergraduates to be naval officers, has been a successful project. From colleges all over the land emerged V-12 graduates who donned ensign's uniforms and became integral parts of the greatest navy the world has ever known.

Before the war the Navy had about 10,000 officers. The contemplated expansion of the Navy called for naval officers in excess of 300,000. How to obtain this number of officers without lowering the standards was a problem of the first magnitude. In 100 years the U. S. Naval Academy had turned out only 18,000 graduates!

Many reserve officers were obtained by giving commissions to a carefully selected group of college graduates. Many more were secured through the various college training programs, of which the V-12 was the largest. The reserve officers obtained by these means made up more than 90% of the Navy's officer strength. The splendid performance of duty by these naval reserve officers made possible the complete elimination of the Japanese navy as a fighting force.

The peacetime Navy will be a sizable force. The annual requirements for young officers are far in excess of those that can be supplied by the Naval Academy. Naval Reserve Officer's Training Corps Units established in 52 of the leading colleges throughout the nation will hereafter supply the bulk of the officers required by the fleet. Thus, the NROTC mission has changed a little. We are not training men to be officers during an emergency . . . we are training men who will be regular naval officers. While some of these young ensigns will later return to inactive duty, others will continue to serve with the regular Navy.

Now we have a challenge! The midshipmen who receive the NROTC training will be carefully selected. The quality of the raw material, the entering freshman, will be about the same throughout the nation. The quality of the graduate, four years later, depends largely upon the college. In training, in professional knowledge, and in character, the quality of the graduate will largely reflect the quality of the school. Here is our challenge! It is not enough that our graduates meet the admittedly high standards of the fleet. Our aim must be to so train and prepare the Villanova midshipmen that they will be outstanding officers, possessing the qualities that make for intelligent, inspired leadership.

T. C. THOMAS, Captain, U.S. Navy,
Professor of Naval Science and Tactics.

Chaplain Ends Navy Career

Father Handran Returns After Distinguished Combat Service Aboard Cowpens

Last Wednesday saw the return of Lieutenant Ralph E. Handran, Chaplain's Corp, USNR. Father Handran, who taught at Villanova prior to his entry into the service, has returned after more than three years of the toughest type of service. Lieutenant Handran wears the Pacific Theater Ribbon with eight battle stars and the Philippine Liberation ribbon with two stars.

Commissioned As J. G.

Father Handran left Villanova in March 1943 and was commissioned a Lieutenant (jg) in the Chaplain's Corps. His first duty was at the Sampson Naval Training Station. From there he was transferred to the Chaplain's School at William and Mary in Williamsburg,, Virginia.

REV. RALPH HANDRAN

Upon completion of his course there he was assigned to the Wave Training Center at Norman, Oklahoma. Working with girls was

FR. HANDRAN
Continued on Page Seven

NROTC To Be Reorganized Next Fall Under Peace Time Regulations

Navy Men May Choose Active or Inactive Service; Marine Trainees May Transfer to Naval ROTC; V-5 Return to Campus Under New Program

After graduation ceremonies, the Naval Unit at Villanova College will be re-established under the peacetime Naval Reserve Officer Training Program. Recruits for this program will be taken from freshmen and upperclassmen who are found qualified during the coming semesters.

Since requested legislation for the peacetime NROTC has not yet been enacted, it was necessary to issue instructions relative to the disposition of NROTC—V-12 trainees without being able to promulgate specific information relative to the peacetime NROTC.

Trainees To Be Discharged

Acordingly, men desiring to complete their NROTC will be sent to the appropriate Enlisted Personnel Separation Center for discharge. Other NROTC men who wish to resume their standing upon being discharged will, after completing the requirements, be given a commission in the Regular Navy or in the Naval Reserve.

Three Groups

Disposition of those men now under the NROTC Program will fall into three groups. NROTC students who wil graduate at the end of this semester can request active or inactive duty in the U. S. Navy. Those specifying inactive duty will be sent to separation centers where they will be given an honorable discharge. Also those who do not wish to continue with the NROTC training will be sent to the nearest discharge center.

Uniforms Once A Week

There are many students now under the program who will continue under peacetime NROTC here at Villanova. Uniforms will not be worn by the students except at drill on Saturday mornings. It will also be necessary for the NROTC trainees to take several Naval Science subjects as specified by the Navy Department. A bill will soon be introduced in the Congress granting some form of sub-

NAVY STORY
Continued on Page Three

Fr. McCarthy Leaves School

Former Coach to Assume New Duties in Cuba

Reverend Edward McCarthy, O.S.A., Ph.D., will be transferred at the end of this semester to the University of Saint Thomas of Villanova in Havana, Cuba. Father McCarthy has taught history and political science at Villanova College since September of 1941, and has been very active in extra-curricular affairs. From 1941 to 1943 he headed the International Relations Club and when wartime conditions hit the coaching staff he stepped in as baseball coach during the 1944 and 1945 seasons.

Father McCarthy was born in Troy, New York in 1912 and was a resident of Troy when he entered the novitiate of Saint Augustine in 1930. He graduated from Villanova's Saint Rita's Hall in 1934. While here Father McCarthy became interested in History and at graduation was permitted to follow his studies at a graduate school. At Catholic University he studied Latin American History and received his doctorate from that institution in 1943.

First Trip Out of States

This will be Father McCarthy's first trip out of the United States. The entire lay faculty of the St. Thomas of Villanova is of Cuban nationality and a corresponding number of the faculty is composed

FR. McCARTHY
Continued on Page Eight

Taps - - - A Job Well Done

From July, 1943 until July, 1946 the Navy placed their Officer trainees under the guidance of the professors, both Naval and Civilian, of Villanova College. Finally, the day has come when the Navy as a service unit will leave the campus. However, Villanova will continue to serve as a training base for civilian NROTC.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 .... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 .... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC .... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 .... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 .... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 .... Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 .... Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 .... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 .... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
Robert P. Greenspan, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
William B. Wiswell, '46
Robert R. Manske, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office Decembe 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - JUNE 11, 1946

Smoke Gets in Their Eyes

SOCIETY involves itself in some strange webs of logic in its efforts to distinguish between right and wrong. We wonder what a man from Mars possessing a strictly logical mind would have made of the affair of the Bikini pyromaniacs.

It seems that two U. S. servicemen were arrested on that coral island for setting brush fires. Their reason—according to an Operations Crossroads spokesman — was that they wanted to see them burn. They are now lodged in the military calaboose probably getting closs-eyed from gazing at the tips of their cigarettes. So far so good. People that live in inflammable houses are bound to look with disfavor on men who indulge in this form of amusement. But what would the spokesman have said if asked what the army of scientists, brass, goldbraid, reporters, and camera men are coming to Bikini to see?

Our opinion is that the two men erred in lacking sufficient patience. By waiting a bit they could have a box seat at the finest display ever staged by a race that seems rather addicted to pyromania.

—GEORGE MATHER

A Mute Can't Swear

MAN has become heir to a good many thankless but important jobs in his time. It has been necessary to instruct the ignorant, protect the weak, and harm the few to protect the many. A thankless job is a tough assignment, but there is a certain nobility in its execution. There is something exceptionally human and essentially heroic about the man who brings to completion that at which his will rebels, but which duty demands.

There are many tasks that fill this bill, but the most important and at times the most thankless is that of being a father. From the time that we are born—even before—the persistent, nagging obligations of a family head are thrust squarely upon him. The physical needs of the family are his burden; the promulgation, enforcement and judgement of the family's rules of order are his responsibility. Decisions are to be made by him and he must carry them out.

What return does he receive for these exertions? Is there applause, or gratitude? None of the former and very little of the latter. And why does he do it? Some would say he is a slave to society's treadmill; others, that he followed the will of God.

Most college men are mature enough to realize their fathers' position. That snowy night we didn't get the car, that allowance that wasn't raised, that crowd we were forbidden to join. We can look back, and with a sheepish sight admit he was right. 'I guess he's not a bad guy after all.' That quote is as passively creditable as a mute not swearing. It's time that we were actively, positively giving our fathers credit for the sacrifices they made and the burdens they assumed in our behalf.

Maybe Father's Day was initiated by greeting card companies, maybe by tobacco salesmen, even if the devil himself started it for his own purposes, we can make of it a thing as fine and as honorable as we wish. Easter at one time was a pagan holiday, but since the coming of Christ, it is celebrated as the anniversary of our Church's founding. We are old enough, we are intelligent enough, to realize what our fathers have done for us: we should be grateful enough to thank them positively and sincerely.

In Every Way

THIS should be one of those "so long, it's been nice" editorials. Well, it is "so long", but it hasn't been nice. However, don't stop here.

Those of us that are leaving can't help thinking of that October morning when new faces will again appear on the campus; new faces that will carry with them new blood. This blood will be responsible for nourishing the embryo of Villanova's spirit.

Next October the students will be those who have been up against high competition for college entrance. They will appreciate their victory, and falling in line with the School's traditions will be easy. The novelty of the "ruptured duck" will have worn off, and Veteran and Joe College will be one and the same.

In the last few semesters, it was hard to pick up a college paper without finding an editorial that was not thundering to heaven for the return of "that old spirit." Certainly there were not that many college editors who had to fill the space with such dribble. No, there was a definite lack of spirit in the colleges all over America, as there was at Villanova.

There is one organization, however, which can give them some of the benefits of the college life that they have missed. This is the Alumni Association. Like the College, the Association must be injected with new blood. Those who feel that they have missed so much of college life by studying under the accelerated program, must be the donors of that blood.

All information concerning clubs in particular localities can be obtained from the Alumni Secretary, William Friel. Full participation in Alumni Activities will give the graduate a feeling of "belonging."

For some, then, it hasn't been nice For those who have supported extra curricular activities,, it hasn't been so bad. For those who will begin or continue their support by joining the Alumni Association and becoming active members, there is a bright future.

A suggestion: IN EVERY WEY that you can, help make the Alumni Association serve as a continuation of your College life. It may end up by becoming the most important part of Villanova to you personally.

So, if it hasn't been nice, remember: It can be.

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'BRIEN

Commencement exercises and related activities is by far the headline news in the majority of college publications this past week. It is primary news to the extent that the humor and extracurricular departments, which usually have been the main source of information for this column, have been depleted or completely eliminated from the tabloids. Despite the scarcity of "what's cookin'" on the other campuses, we still have a few jokes, puns, etc., in our reference file. Stop me if you've seen it here before.

Colored preacher in a Georgia turpentine camp: "Oh Lawd, give Thy servant dis mawin' de eyes of de eagle, and de wisdom ob de owl; connect his soul wid de gospel telephone in de central skies; 'luminate his brow wid de sun ob heaven; turpentine his imagination; grease his lips wid 'possum oil; loosen his tongue wid de sledge hammer of Thy power; 'lectrify his brain wid de lightning of Thy word; put 'petual motion in his arms; fill him plum full of de dynamite ob Thy glory; 'noint him all over wid de kerosene ob Thy salvation and den, deah Lawd, set him on fire!"

• • •

It was a small, murky bar. A man walked in early and began ordering drinks. All evening long he steadily, not paying for any of the drinks, but assuring the bartender that his friend Joe would be in later with plenty of money.

Twelve o'clock came and Joe still hadn't appeared. "Looks like Joe isn't coming," the now-tipsy customer observed, reaching for his hat.

Infuriated, the bartender grasped a knife from under the bar and began stabbing him.

The inebriate looked hurt for a moment. "Well," he observed, "looks like I'm stuck for the drinks after all."

• • •

"What is the matter with your finger?"

"I was getting some cigarettes yesterday and some clumsy fool stepped on my hand."

• • •

Walking with a friend one day, a professor passed a large fish shop where a catch of codfish with mouths open and eyes staring were arranged in a row.

The professor suddenly stopped, looked at them, and clutching his friend by the arm, exclaimed: "Heavens! That reminds me — I should be teaching a class now."

• • •

"Mister, did you hit that little girl?"

"Yeah. What of it?"

"Gosh, what a wallop."

• • •

A doctor who was superintendent of the Sunday School asked one of the boys, "Willie, what must we do in order to get to Heaven?"

"We must die," said Willie.

"Very true," replied the doctor, "but what must we do before we die?"

"We must get sick and call for you."

• • •

Two students were about to take an exam in English literature.

"Great Scott," said one, "I've forgotten who wrote 'Ivanhoe'!"

"I'll tell you that," replied the other, "if you'll tell me who the

Continued on Page Three

Letters to the EDITOR

Editors of The Villanovan and Veterans:

Some four years ago this week, June 3 to 6 1942 to be exact, American soldiers, sailors and Marines were fighting the first decisive battle of the recent war. We gave the Japs their first good licking in a battle which proved to the American people and the Japs that Uncle Sam was far from through.

But on this wonderful summer afternoon some four years later I wonder how many of us remember the cost we paid for that Victory. You Sailors from the old Yorktown remember, as do crew-members of the Army B-24 Squadrons and Marines of the Sixth Defense Batallion, and M.A.G. Air Wings. Sure you remember and you remember well. But outside of yourself and members of the Families of those lost, how many people will pause this week in their memory and say as much as, "God Forgive Them And Accept Them"?

We who survived the campaigns in the Pacific and in Europe owe these Men more than a pledge to keep the peace for which they fought. We are morally bound to help them attain everlasting peace in their heavenly world. And we can only do this by prayer.

The Editors of the Villanovan are attempting a Sprirtual Memorial to help carry out this pledge on your behalf. Nothing could be more fitting or appreciated. Sure, our fight is over but perhaps for some of them it's still to be won. You would have helped them once, will you do it now? Help erect this Memorial that others will remember and pray. Some have said the Veterans here at Villanova haven't much push. Let's prove them wrong. As a starter I pledge to pay for two Plaques dedicated to the memory of William D. Kelly and Thomas S. Siani.

Perhaps the following statement is a little rough but it still holds. "Any Catholic Veteran who ignores his obligation in contributing to this Memorial is not worthy to walk the halls of Villanova College."

One who will always remember.

In Memoriam

The students and faculty of Villanova College offer their condolences to Thomas Carroll, a Physics Major, on the death of his beloved father. Mr. Carroll was buried from St. Athanasius' Church yesterday.

At the time of his father's death Tom was in the Germantown Hospital suffering from acute appendicitis.

Requiescat in Pace.

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI
and JOE BROGAN

As somebody must have said before this, "All good things must come to an end," and thus 'Cat Capers must reluctantly prepare to go into hibernation for the summer. But before writing finis to this journalistic year, there are a few loose ends, (besides Hanratty and Fallon), which must be cleared up for you, our beloved readers.

PART I—TOPIC I. First of all, we would like to thank our editorial colleagues, Messrs. DiGiacomo and Climati for assisting us in conducting the "feud" of the past few weeks. It was fun while it lasted and you know our motto, "Anything to improve circulation." (It is rumored that the circulation did increase by four copies, bought by the mothers of DiGiacomo, Varani and Brogan, as well as Climati's big brother). So from the editors of "Cat Capers" to those of "Smears 'n Cheers," the hand of journalistic friendship is extended, and incidentally, where would the Villanovan be without the both of us. (Don't answer that, bub!)

PART II— TOPIC II. After being nice (aren't we good fellows though) to "Smears 'n Cheers" and while the milk of human kindness is still with us, an admission of error concerning the Rosemont lass and the Villanova youth who, we told you before, were engaged. It seems as though it was two other schools which were involved. (Wonder if we were really wrong? Oh, time will tell, and if not, we can always blame it on "Mother" Dumsa).

• • •

QUESTION: Does anyone know what class Don Collins was cutting when he was trying in vain to phone a certain Miss McCluskey about 2:00 P.M. on last Thursday afternoon?

Bill Altenpohl's planning his summer defense of his girl, especially since his brother Paul is enroute from the Pacific.

After the above, Warren Sexton's packed and ready to leave the campus. God Speed, Warren, it's a long trip to New York.

Paul Carmichael, who is now paying Al Capuzzi 25c per day to have himself called "handsome" in public, is starting a Philadelphia Branch of the St. Louis "Twenty and Nothing" Club. What little woman has brought this about? For all details of eligibility for membership consult Mr. Carmichael in the Villanovan office.

"Cement Mixer" Koerner and Joane O'Brien were in attendance at the Georgetown game. Paid admission, Bill?

Johnny Brinjac is already planning a Pocono retreat for his intended in August.

Dick Livingston turned into something of a fish last week when he shattered the Field House mark for the under water swim. Nice going Dick!

It's wonderful how much a guy like Jim Kelly can remember in a Religion quiz when Immaculata's Graduation is in the offing.

Jake Powell and "Reds" O'Neill are at it again, this time the prize is named Dotty.

Congratulations are extended to Aldo Liberi on the occasion of his marriage June 1. The event, however, was rather dolefully received by his fellow inmates who lamented the loss of another comrade.

The 52-20 Club is preparing for the avalanche due June 24, when the happy lads are loosed upon the unsuspecting world.

Harry Edwards took the Veteran's exam last week and flunked! (He got thirty days).

A recent addition to the Villanovan's addressograph is the:

U. S. Northeastern Penitentiary, Lewisburg, Pa.

A friend of yours, Hal?

Vince ("you red-headed fool") O'Donnell, flaming swabby, has been gadding about the halls lately showing his hubba-hubba album" of snapshots to a number of his friends. Don't miss the next show fellows!

The most popular part of the daily newspaper at present is the Want-Ad section, even John (Above Reproach) Burns is looking around.

Well, kiddies, ta-ta for now. Try not to get drafted or enlist during the summer months (the editors of this column may be back, they're 4-F now). Hope to see you next year . . .

"The Black Market Newsboys."
—Joe and Hal,

• • •

Dear Joe, Hal, Lou and Milt:

Many's the time we've tried, in vain
To tell you how much you are a pain.
Since all your copy's done in ink,
We haven't the heart to tell you it stinks.

Because of you our women have left,
Of all our honor we are bereft,
And even John Burns, the office card
Has found explaining to Dad's a little hard.

Because of you the ACP
Has told us to go climb a tree,
That with your column and its awful breeze
We couldn't even rate a sneeze!

We've put up with your junk for an entire year,
Thank goodness there's summer . . .you won't be here.
And may this curse rest upon your heirs,
That they be born sans any hairs.

EDITORS' FIELD DAY

We have been reading rot such as this all year long. What a mess! Columns such as "Smears 'n Cheers" and "'Cat Capers" are the biggest headache an editor has. These "calumnists" have hit us too hard and too far below the belt too many times. This is the last chance we can tell them what we think of them. We hope you readers will appreciate this also.

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

dickens wrote 'A Tale of Two Cities'." (In case that is a little too involved for you to figure out, W. B., come around and I'll explain it.)

• • •

"Help your wife," advises one Home Economics editor, "When she washes the dishes, wash the dishes with her. When she mops the floor, mop up the floor with her."

• • •

"I guess I've lost another pupil," said the professor as his glass eye rolled down the kitchen sink.

• • •

Mrs. Smith: "My husband talked in his sleep last night."

Secretary: "Well, what does that make me?"

Mrs. Smith: "His ex-secretary."

• • •

Student: "Why didn't I make a hundred on my history test, Prof?"

Professor: "You remember the question, 'why did the pioneers go into the wilderness?' Well, 'to neck' was the wrong answer."

• • •

Date: "I'm hungry."
Bradley: "What?"
Date: "I said I was hungry.'
Bradley: "Sure, I'll take you home. This car makes so much noise, I thought you said you were hungry."

• • •

Campus B. T. O.: "You know you are not a bad looking sort of a girl."

Coed: "Oh, you'd say so even if you didn't think so."

Campus B. T. O.: "Well, we're squared then. You'd think so even if I didn't say so."

• • •

We have about exhausted the humor department so this winds up another edition of the column. This being the last issue of the Villanovan until next October and my final copy in the capacity of a staff columnist, I would, at this time, like to extend my thanks and best wishes to the Villanovan staff for past cooperation and assistance and to the members of the student body, whose desire for humor and jokes (regardless of vintage) made this column possible.

Postwar ROTC Policy Outlined

The War Department has approved a postwar policy concerning the Reserve Officers Training Corps which makes provision for military training in two divisions, the Junior ROTC at approximately the secondary school educational level and the Senior ROTC at the junior college and college level, according to Colonel Clarence T. Davis, Commanding Officer of the University of Pennsylvania ROTC.

The program is the result of a three-months study by the War Department, during which time a number of civilian educators and military authorities were consulted. Among recommendations adopted was one granting increased emoluments to Senior ROTC students to make the training more attractive.

Basic Training

The mission of the Junior ROTC will be to lay the foundation of intelligent citizenship and give the student basic military training which will benefit himself and the Military Service if he should become a member thereof. The Senior ROTC will carry the mission into the production of junior officers who have qualities and attributes essential to their continued development as officers of the Army of the United States.

Junior ROTC instruction will be given in military school units of high school level and above, which do not grant college degrees, and at regular civilian high schools, and may be given at certain essentially military institutes which do not confer college degrees but are designated as a separate category by the Secretary of War. The course will consist of three hours of formal instruction per week for three academic years of 32 weeks each. Students satisfactorily completing the course will be credited with the completion of the first year of the Senior ROTC, the colonel stated.

Summer Camp

The Senior ROTC program, mostly conducted at the college level, will consist of two parts, known as the elementary course and the advanced course, the latter including a summer camp.

The elementary course will be a minimum of three hours per week for two academic years of 32 weeks each. It will be given at military institutes which offer college courses but do not grant college degrees, junior colleges and civilian and military colleges and universities.

Whereas the Junior ROTC and the elementary course of the Senior ROTC will provide only general military training, the advanced Senior ROTC will be of a specialized branch type, designed to qualify selected students for reserve commissions in the several branches of the service, such as the Infantry, Field Artillery, and others. At present, there are no Air Force ROTC units, establishment of which will require legislative action. Summer camps will also be of a specialized branch type.

5 Hr. Minimum

The advanced course will consist of a minimum of five hours of formal instruction per week for two academic years of 32 weeks each. The summer camp period will be of eight weeks duration instead of 32 weeks each. The summer camp period will be of eight weeks duration instead of the present six, if legislation permitting the extension is enacted. The advanced course will be conducted only at civilian and military colleges and universities offering four-year courses or longer leading to a degree.

Land Grant colleges which have required military training may continue this requirement with the War Department encouraging and assisting. However, all students will not necessarily be formally enrolled in the ROTC and eligible for its proposed emoluments unless they meet prescribed requirements. The War Department will seek passage of enabling legislation to grant emoluments to students in the elementary course of the Senior ROTC of 66 cents per day plus uniforms, and to increase the emoluments to students in the advanced course to 66 cents plus $1.25 per day. The advanced students would be required to buy their own uniforms, Col. Davis. pointed out. Institutions

SENIOR AND JUNIOR
Continued on Page Seven

LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
Where Old Friends Meet and
New Ones Get Acquainted

Priesthood, Its Humanity

By JOE SWEENEY

Six years ago Graham Greene, known to us chiefly by his excellent melodramas such as This Gun For Hire and The Confidential Agent, published a novel titled The Labyrinthine Ways. In January this novel was reissued under its original English title The Power And The Glory.

Having read and enjoyed other novels by Graham Greene, I borrowed this book confident that I would be repaid by a few hours of sheer entertainment. Actually I was not precisely entertained for The Power and The Glory is no ordinary novel. Instead of the usual collection of spies, gunmen, mysterious women and what have you which usually populate Mr. Greene's novels, I discovered a fallen priest and a Mexico stripped of its travel folder type of attraction.

The story revolves around a man-hunt for a stray priest missed by military authorities in their attempt to rid the state of Catholicism. This Mexican priest, addicted to alcohol and without strength enough to overcome the weakness of his body is the central and most important character in the story. As he flees from village to village seeking temporary safety, his defects are displayed pitilessly.

Yet one becomes increasingly aware that this man is truly religious and essentially humble. Realizing his own unworthiness and fighting desperately against indolence and cowardice, he nevertheless manages to bring the comfort of the Church to the peasants who sacrifice everything, even their lives for his safety. This priest exemplifies the fact that priests are human and as such are subject to all the temptations and weaknesses that assail a layman. The true hero of this novel is not this "whiskey priest" but the priesthood itself, and unless this is perceived the novel loses its true theme and meaning.

The minor characters range from a little boy reacting against his pious stuffy family to a gringo dentist typical of the foreign "riff-raff" to be found in any tropical country. The best and most subtly drawn minor character is the malevolent informer whose villainy and warped sense of values are almost unbelievable.

This book reaches greatness by being written in a style which precisely fits the story. Mr. Greene's writing is characterized by economy and powerfulness of imagery. The scene laid in the foul prison is a brilliant presentation of the forces of goodness working in the world. This and other equally good pieces of symbolic writing, written as they are in flat, underkeyed prose, add peculiarly to the novel's effectiveness. True, this book is written in a somber, muted key, but it is not depressing because no substitution is allowed for goodness.

A great deal of fuss has been raised over this novel by people incapable of sensing its real meaning and unable to read it objectively. Readers have condemned both its subject and the manner in which it is written. As regards the subject, there has been a movement during recent years to present Catholicism not only idealistically but also objectively and realistically. Two good effects of this movement have been paradoxically a better understanding of Catholic ideals, and brilliant illustrations of the practicalness of the Catholic philosophy of life.

Another example of a novel of this type is Evelyn Waugh's Brideshead Revisited. As to the manner of presentation, Father Gardiner suggests in America that these objecting people make the mistake of not distinguishing between their own personal tastes and the intrinsic worth of the novel. This brings home the point that not all novels are written merely to provide a pleasant passage of time. From some novels and these are the best, a wider appreciation and knowledge of life, of people, and of their relationships to each other and to God is the reward of reading them carefully and intelligently.

Navy Story

Continued from Page One

sistence to the trainees but at the present time the exact amount is unknown.

Marines who are now under the V-12 program will be permitted to transfer into the peacetime NROTC Program providing they qualify. Naval V-5 trainees will return under a new program which was covered in Navy V-12 Bulletin No. 364 of 24 April 1946.

Attention

Phi Kappa Pi will meet Tuesday afternoon at 1:00, Room 212 Mendel. Plans for next year to be discussed. New members are invited (Pledges included).

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M.
Daily; Except Wednesdays and
Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

VILLANOVAN

Issued thirty-six times a year from
VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA.

RUSSELL LEO WELSH, '47 ... Editor-in-Chief
DONALD M. COLLINS, '48 ... Managing Editor
MATHEW J. KEARNEY, NROTC ... Sports News Editor
SAMUEL CANNING, '47 ... Sports Feature Editor
JAMES M. BONNER, '46 ... Copy Editor
WILLIAM ALTENPOHL, '48 ... Picture Editor
WILLIAM GOLDEN, '48 ... Feature Editor
WARREN G. SEXTON, '46 ... Circulation Manager
WILLIAM L. WESCOTT, '48 ... Business Manager

News Staff
John P. Mallick, '48
James Conaty, '48
Robert P. Greenspan, '50
Frank Dituri, '48
J. Edward White, NROTC
David I. Ryan, '48
Paul L. Carmichael
James Lyons, NROTC

Sports Staff
James McNamara, NROTC
David Marano, NROTC
William B. Wiswell, '46
Robert R. Manske, '48
Richard Somers, '46
Daniel Redmond, NROTC
James G. Mudd, '50

Columnists
George O'Neil, '47
Milton Climati, '49
Joseph F. Brogan, '47
Harold Varani, '46
Louis DiGiacomo, '46
Charles J. McCarthy, '49
Joseph R. Sweeney, '46

Picture Staff
John DiValerio, '50
Eamon Walsh, '49
Emile Meyer, '50
John Brinjac, '46
James Murphy, '46

Business Staff
J. Richard Doley, '48

Circulation Staff
Peter F. McManus, '47
Maurice Wilhere, '47
Louis Macariello, '47
Roland Higgs, '47

Faculty Advisor—Rev. John A. Klekotka, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2 per year. Circulation: 5000.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press, Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - JUNE 11, 1946

Smoke Gets in Their Eyes

SOCIETY involves itself in some strange webs of logic in its efforts to distinguish between right and wrong. We wonder what a man from Mars possessing a strictly logical mind would have made of the affair of the Bikini pyromaniacs.

It seems that two U. S. servicemen were arrested on that coral island for setting brush fires. Their reason—according to an Operations Crossroads spokesman — was that they wanted to see them burn. They are now lodged in the military calaboose probably getting closs-eyed from gazing at the tips of their cigarettes. So far so good. People that live in inflammable houses are bound to look with disfavor on men who indulge in this form of amusement. But what would the spokesman have said if asked what the army of scientists, brass, goldbraid, reporters, and camera men are coming to Bikini to see?

Our opinion is that the two men erred in lacking sufficient patience. By waiting a bit they could have a box seat at the finest display ever staged by a race that seems rather addicted to pyromania.

—GEORGE MATHER

A Mute Can't Swear

MAN has become heir to a good many thankless but important jobs in his time. It has been necessary to instruct the ignorant, protect the weak, and harm the few to protect the many. A thankless job is a tough assignment, but there is a certain nobility in its execution. There is something exceptionally human and essentially heroic about the man who brings to completion that at which his will rebels, but which duty demands.

There are many tasks that fill this bill, but the most important and at times the most thankless is that of being a father. From the time that we are born—even before—the persistent, nagging obligations of a family head are thrust squarely upon him. The physical needs of the family are his burden; the promulgation, enforcement and judgement of the family's rules of order are his responsibility. Decisions are to be made by him and he must carry them out.

What return does he receive for these exertions? Is there applause, or gratitude? None of the former and very little of the latter. And why does he do it? Some would say he is a slave to society's treadmill; others, that he followed the will of God.

Most college men are mature enough to realize their fathers' position. That snowy night we didn't get the car, that allowance that wasn't raised, that crowd we were forbidden to join. We can look back, and with a sheepish sight admit he was right. 'I guess he's not a bad guy after all.' That quote is as passively creditable as a mute not swearing. It's time that we were actively, positively giving our fathers credit for the sacrifices they made and the burdens they assumed in our behalf.

Maybe Father's Day was initiated by greeting card companies, maybe by tobacco salesmen, even if the devil himself started it for his own purposes, we can make of it a thing as fine and as honorable as we wish. Easter at one time was a pagan holiday, but since the coming of Christ, it is celebrated as the anniversary of our Church's founding. We are old enough, we are intelligent enough, to realize what our fathers have done for us: we should be grateful enough to thank them positively and sincerely.

In Every Way

THIS should be one of those "so long, it's been nice" editorials. Well, it is "so long", but it hasn't been nice. However, don't stop here.

Those of us that are leaving can't help thinking of that October morning when new faces will again appear on the campus; new faces that will carry with them new blood. This blood will be responsible for nourishing the embryo of Villanova's spirit.

Next October the students will be those who have been up against high competition for college entrance. They will appreciate their victory, and falling in line with the School's traditions will be easy. The novelty of the "ruptured duck" will have worn off, and Veteran and Joe College will be one and the same.

In the last few semesters, it was hard to pick up a college paper without finding an editorial that was not thundering to heaven for the return of "that old spirit." Certainly there were not that many college editors who had to fill the space with such dribble. No, there was a definite lack of spirit in the colleges all over America, as there was at Villanova.

There is one organization, however, which can give them some of the benefits of the college life that they have missed. This is the Alumni Association. Like the College, the Association must be injected with new blood. Those who feel that they have missed so much of college life by studying under the accelerated program, must be the donors of that blood.

All information concerning clubs in particular localities can be obtained from the Alumni Secretary, William Friel. Full participation in Alumni Activities will give the graduate a feeling of "belonging."

For some then, it hasn't been nice For those who have supported extra curricular activities., it hasn't been so bad. For those who will begin or continue their support by joining the Alumni Association and becoming active members, there is a bright future.

A suggestion: IN EVERY WEY that you can, help make the Alumni Association serve as a continuation of your College life. It may end up by becoming the most important part of Villanova to you personally.

So, if it hasn't been nice, remember: It can be.

Out of the Copy Basket

By GEORGE O'BRIEN

Commencement exercises and related activities is by far the headline news in the majority of college publications this past week. It is primary news to the extent that the humor and extracurricular departments, which usually have been the main source of information for this column, have been depleted or completely eliminated from the tabloids. Despite the scarcity of "what's cookin'" on the other campuses, we still have a few jokes, puns, etc., in our reference file. Stop me if you've seen it here before.

Colored preacher in a Georgia turpentine camp: "Oh Lawd, give Thy servant dis mawin' de eyes of de eagle, and de wisdom ob de owl; connect his soul wid de gospel telephone in de central skies; 'luminate his brow wid de sun ob heaven; turpentine his imagination; grease his lips wid 'possum oil; loosen his tongue wid de sledge hammer of Thy power; 'lectrify his brain wid de lightning of Thy word; put 'petual motion in his arms; fill him plum full of de dynamite ob Thy glory; 'noint him all over wid de kerosene ob Thy salvation and den, deah Lawd, set him on fire!"

• • •

It was a small, murky bar. A man walked in early and began ordering drinks. All evening long he steadily, not paying for any of the drinks, but assuring the bartender that his friend Joe would be in later with plenty of money.

Twelve o'clock came and Joe still hadn't appeared. "Looks like Joe isn't coming," the now-tipsy customer observed, reaching for his hat.

Infuriated, the bartender grasped a knife from under the bar and began stabbing him.

The inebriate looked hurt for a moment. "Well," he observed, "looks like I'm stuck for the drinks after all."

• • •

"What is the matter with your finger?"

"I was getting some cigarettes yesterday and some clumsy fool stepped on my hand."

• • •

Walking with a friend one day, a professor passed a large fish shop where a catch of codfish with mouths open and eyes staring were arranged in a row.

The professor suddenly stopped, looked at them, and clutching his friend by the arm, exclaimed: "Heavens! That reminds me — I should be teaching a class now."

• • •

"Mister, did you hit that little girl?"

"Yeah. What of it?"

"Gosh, what a wallop."

• • •

A doctor who was superintendent of the Sunday School asked one of the boys, "Willie, what must we do in order to get to Heaven?"

"We must die," said Willie.

"Very true," replied the doctor, "but what must we do before we die?"

"We must get sick and call for you."

• • •

Two students were about to take an exam in English literature.

"Great Scott," said one, "I've forgotten who wrote 'Ivanhoe'!"

"I'll tell you that," replied the other, "if you'll tell me who the

Continued on Page Three

Letters to the EDITOR

Editors of The Villanovan and Veterans:

Some four years ago this week, June 3 to 6 1942 to be exact, American soldiers, sailors and Marines were fighting the first decisive battle of the recent war. We gave the Japs their first good licking in a battle which proved to the American people and the Japs that Uncle Sam was far from through.

But on this wonderful summer afternoon some four years later I wonder how many of us remember the cost we paid for that Victory. You Sailors from the old Yorktown remember, as do crew-members of the Army B-24 Squadrons and Marines of the Sixth Defense Batallion, and M.A.G. Air Wings. Sure you remember and you remember well. But outside of yourself and members of the Families of those lost, how many people will pause this week in their memory and say as much as, "God Forgive Them And Accept Them"?

We who survived the campaigns in the Pacific and in Europe owe these Men more than a pledge to keep the peace for which they fought. We are morally bound to help them attain everlasting peace in their heavenly world. And we can only do this by prayer.

The Editors of the Villanovan are attempting a Spriritual Memorial to help carry out this pledge on your behalf. Nothing could be more fitting or appreciated. Sure, our fight is over but perhaps for some of them it's still to be won. You would have helped them once, will you do it now? Help erect this Memorial that others will remember and pray. Some have said the Veterans here at Villanova haven't much push. Let's prove them wrong. As a starter I pledge to pay for two Plaques dedicated to the memory of William D. Kelly and Thomas S. Siani.

Perhaps the following statement is a little rough but it still holds. "Any Catholic Veteran who ignores his obligation in contributing to this Memorial is not worthy to walk the halls of Villanova College."

One who will always remember.

In Memoriam

The students and faculty of Villanova College offer their condolences to Thomas Carroll, a Physics Major, on the death of his beloved father. Mr. Carroll was buried from St. Athanasius' Church yesterday.

At the time of his father's death Tom was in the Germantown Hospital suffering from acute appendicitis.

Requiescat in Pace.

'Cat Capers

By HAL VARANI
and JOE BROGAN

As somebody must have said before this, "All good things must come to an end," and thus 'Cat Capers must reluctantly prepare to go into hibernation for the summer. But before writing finis to this journalistic year, there are a few loose ends, (besides Hanratty and Fallon), which must be cleared up for you, our beloved readers.

PART I—TOPIC I. First of all, we would like to thank our editorial colleagues, Messrs. DiGiacomo and Climati for assisting us in conducting the "feud" of the past few weeks. It was fun while it lasted and you know our motto, "Anything to improve circulation." (It is rumored that the circulation did increase by four copies, bought by the mothers of DiGiacomo, Varani and Brogan, as well as Climati's big brother). So from the editors of "Cat Capers" to those of "Smears 'n Cheers," the hand of journalistic friendship is extended, and incidentally, where would the Villanovan be without the both of us. (Don't answer that, bub!)

PART II— TOPIC II. After being nice (aren't we good fellows though) to "Smears 'n Cheers" and while the milk of human kindness is still with us, an admission of error concerning the Rosemont lass and the Villanova youth who, we told you before, were engaged. It seems as though it was two other schools which were involved (Wonder if we were really wrong? Oh, time will tell, and if not, we can always blame it on "Mother" Dumsa).

• • •

QUESTION: Does anyone know what class Don Collins was cutting when he was trying in vain to phone a certain Miss McCluskey about 2:00 P.M. on last Thursday afternoon?

Bill Altenpohl's planning his summer defense of his girl, especially since his brother Paul is enroute from the Pacific.

After the above, Warren Sexton's packed and ready to leave the campus. God Speed, Warren, it's a long trip to New York.

Paul Carmichael, who is now paying Al Capuzzi 25c per day to have himself called "handsome" in public, is starting a Philadelphia Branch of the St. Louis "Twenty and Nothing" Club. What little woman has brought this about? For all details of eligibility for membership consult Mr. Carmichael in the Villanovan office.

"Cement Mixer" Koerner and Joane O'Brien were in attendance at the Georgetown game. Paid admission, Bill?

Johnny Brinjac is already planning a Pocono retreat for his intended in August.

Dick Livingston turned into something of a fish last week when he shattered the Field House mark for the under water swim. Nice going Dick!

It's wonderful how much a guy like Jim Kelly can remember in a Religion quiz when Immaculata's Graduation is in the offing.

Jake Powell and "Reds" O'Neill are at it again, this time the prize is named Dotty.

Congratulations are extended to Aldo Liberi on the occasion of his marriage June 1. The event, however, was rather dolefully received by his fellow inmates who lamented the loss of another comrade.

The 52-20 Club is preparing for the avalanche due June 24, when the happy lads are loosed upon the unsuspecting world.

Harry Edwards took the Veteran's exam last week and flunked! (He got thirty days).

A recent addition to the Villanovan's addressograph is the:

U. S. Northeastern Penitentiary, Lewisburg, Pa.

A friend of yours, Hal?

Vince ("you red-headed fool") O'Donnell, flaming swabby, has been gadding about the halls lately showing his hubba-hubba album" of snapshots to a number of his friends. Don't miss the next show fellows!

The most popular part of the daily newspaper at present is the Want-Ad section, even John (Above Reproach) Burns is looking around.

Well, kiddies, ta-ta for now. Try not to get drafted or enlist during the summer months (the editors of this column may be back, they're 4-F now). Hope to see you next year . . .

"The Black Market Newsboys."
—Joe and Hal.

• • •

Dear Joe, Hal, Lou and Milt:

Many's the time we've tried, in vain
To tell you how much you are a pain.
Since all your copy's done in ink,
We haven't the heart to tell you it stinks.

Because of you our women have left,
Of all our honor we are bereft.
And even John Burns, the office card
Has found explaining to Dad's a little hard.

Because of you the ACP
Has told us to go climb a tree,
That with your column and its awful breeze
We couldn't even rate a sneeze!

We've put up with your junk for an entire year,
Thank goodness there's summer . . .you won't be here.
And may this curse rest upon your heirs,
That they be born sans any hairs.

EDITORS' FIELD DAY

We have been reading rot such as this all year long. What a mess! Columns such as "Smears 'n Cheers" and "'Cat Capers" are the biggest headache an editor has. These "calumnists" have hit us too hard and too far below the belt too many times. This is the last chance we can tell them what we think of them. We hope you readers will appreciate this also.

Out of the Copy Basket

Continued From Page Two

dickens wrote 'A Tale of Two Cities'." (In case that is a little too involved for you to figure out, W. B., come around and I'll explain it.)

• • •

"Help your wife," advises one Home Economics editor, "When she washes the dishes, wash the dishes with her. When she mops the floor, mop up the floor with her."

• • •

"I guess I've lost another pupil," said the professor as his glass eye rolled down the kitchen sink.

• • •

Mrs. Smith: "My husband talked in his sleep last night."

Secretary: "Well, what does that make me?"

Mrs. Smith: "His ex-secretary."

• • •

Student: "Why didn't I make a hundred on my history test, Prof?"

Professor: "You remember the question, 'why did the pioneers go into the wilderness?' Well, 'to neck' was the wrong answer."

• • •

Date: "I'm hungry."

Bradley: "What?"

Date: "I said I was hungry.'

Bradley: "Sure, I'll take you home. This car makes so much noise, I thought you said you were hungry."

• • •

Campus B. T. O.: "You know you are not a bad looking sort of a girl."

Coed: "Oh, you'd say so even if you didn't think so."

Campus B. T. O.: "Well, we're squared then. You'd think so even if I didn't say so."

• • •

We have about exhausted the humor department so this winds up another edition of the column. This being the last issue of the Villanovan until next October and my final copy in the capacity of a staff columnist, I would, at this time, like to extend my thanks and best wishes to the Villanovan staff for past cooperation and assistance and to the members of the student body, whose desire for humor and jokes (regardless of vintage) made this column possible.

Postwar ROTC Policy Outlined

The War Department has approved a postwar policy concerning the Reserve Officers Training Corps which makes provision for military training in two divisions, the Junior ROTC at approximately the secondary school educational level and the Senior ROTC at the junior college and college level, according to Colonel Clarence T. Davis, Commanding Officer of the University of Pennsylvania ROTC.

The program is the result of a three-months study by the War Department, during which time a number of civilian educators and military authorities were consulted. Among recommendations adopted was one granting increased emoluments to Senior ROTC students to make the training more attractive.

Basic Training

The mission of the Junior ROTC will be to lay the foundation of intelligent citizenship and give the student basic military training which will benefit himself and the Military Service if he should become a member thereof. The Senior ROTC will carry the mission into the production of junior officers who have qualities and attributes essential to their continued development as officers of the Army of the United States.

Junior ROTC instruction will be given in military school units of high school level and above, which do not grant college degrees, and at regular civilian high schools, and may be given at certain essentially military institutes which do not confer college degrees but are designated as a separate category by the Secretary of War. The course will consist of three hours of formal instruction per week for three academic years of 32 weeks each. Students satisfactorily completing the course will be credited with the completion of the first year of the Senior ROTC, the colonel stated.

Summer Camp

The Senior ROTC program, mostly conducted at the college level, will consist of two parts, known as the elementary course and the advanced course, the latter including a summer camp.

The elementary course will be a minimum of three hours per week for two academic years of 32 weeks each. It will be given at military institutes which offer college courses but do not grant college degrees, junior colleges and civilian and military colleges and universities.

Whereas the Junior ROTC and the elementary course of the Senior ROTC will provide only general military training, the advanced Senior ROTC will be of a specialized branch type, designed to qualify selected students for reserve commissions in the several branches of the service, such as the Infantry, Field Artillery, and others. At present, there are no Air Force ROTC units, establishment of which will require legislative action. Summer camps will also be of a specialized branch type.

5 Hr. Minimum

The advanced course will consist of a minimum of five hours of formal instruction per week for two academic years of 32 weeks each. The summer camp period will be of eight weeks duration instead of 32 weeks each. The summer camp period will be of eight weeks duration instead of the present six, if legislation permitting the extension is enacted. The advanced course will be conducted only at civilian and military colleges and universities offering four-year courses or longer leading to a degree.

Land Grant colleges which have required military training may continue this requirement with the War Department encouraging and assisting. However, all students will not necessarily be formally enrolled in the ROTC and eligible for its proposed emoluments unless they meet prescribed requirements. The War Department will seek passage of enabling legislation to grant emoluments to students in the elementary course of the Senior ROTC of 66 cents per day plus uniforms, and to increase the emoluments to students in the advanced course to 66 cents plus $1.25 per day. The advanced students would be required to buy their own uniforms, Col. Davis, pointed out. Institutions

SENIOR AND JUNIOR
Continued on Page Seven

LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
Where Old Friends Meet and
New Ones Get Acquainted

Priesthood, Its Humanity

By JOE SWEENEY

Six years ago Graham Greene, known to us chiefly by his excellent melodramas such as This Gun For Hire and The Confidential Agent, published a novel titled The Labyrinthine Ways. In January this novel was reissued under its original English title The Power And The Glory.

Having read and enjoyed other novels by Graham Greene, I borrowed this book confident that I would be repaid by a few hours of sheer entertainment. Actually I was not precisely entertained for The Power and The Glory is no ordinary novel. Instead of the usual collection of spies, gunmen, mysterious women and what have you which usually populate Mr. Greene's novels, I discovered a fallen priest and a Mexico stripped of its travel folder type of attraction.

The story revolves around a man-hunt for a stray priest missed by military authorities in their attempt to rid the state of Catholicism. This Mexican priest, addicted to alcohol and without strength enough to overcome the weakness of his body is the central and most important character in the story. As he flees from village to village seeking temporary safety, his defects are displayed pitilessly.

Yet one becomes increasingly aware that this man is truly religious and essentially humble. Realizing his own unworthiness and fighting desperately against indolence and cowardice, he nevertheless manages to bring the comfort of the Church to the peasants who sacrifice everything, even their lives for his safety. This priest exemplifies the fact that priests are human and as such are subject to all the temptations and weaknesses that assail a layman. The true hero of this novel is not this "whiskey priest" but the priesthood itself, and unless this is perceived the novel loses its true theme and meaning.

The minor characters range from a little boy reacting against his pious stuffy family to a gringo dentist typical of the foreign "riff-raff" to be found in any tropical country. The best and most subtly drawn minor character is the malevolent informer whose villainy and warped sense of values are almost unbelievable.

This book reaches greatness by being written in a style which precisely fits the story. Mr. Greene's writing is characterized by economy and powerfulness of imagery. The scene laid in the foul prison is a brilliant presentation of the forces of goodness working in the world. This and other equally good pieces of symbolic writing, written as they are in flat, underkeyed prose, add peculiarly to the novel's effectiveness. True, this book is written in a somber, muted key, but it is not depressing because no substitution is allowed for goodness.

A great deal of fuss has been raised over this novel by people incapable of sensing its real meaning and unable to read it objectively. Readers have condemned both its subject and the manner in which it is written. As regards the subject, there has been a movement during recent years to present Catholicism not only idealistically but also objectively and realistically. Two good effects of this movement have been paradoxically a better understanding of Catholic ideals, and brilliant illustrations of the practicalness of the Catholic philosophy of life.

Another example of a novel of this type is Evelyn Waugh's Brideshead Revisited. As to the manner of presentation, Father Gardiner suggests in America that these objecting people make the mistake of not distinguishing between their own personal tastes and the intrinsic worth of the novel. This brings home the point that not all novels are written merely to provide a pleasant passage of time. From some novels and these are the best, a wider appreciation and knowledge of life, of people, and of their relationships to each other and to God is the reward of reading them carefully and intelligently.

Navy Story

Continued from Page One

sistence to the trainees but at the present time the exact amount is unknown.

Marines who are now under the V-12 program will be permitted to transfer into the peacetime NROTC Program providing they qualify. Naval V-5 trainees will return under a new program which was covered in Navy V-12 Bulletin No. 364 of 24 April 1946.

Attention

Phi Kappa Pi will meet Tuesday afternoon at 1:00, Room 212 Mendel. Plans for next year to be discussed. New members are invited (Pledges included).

College Tailor
Coladonato
Tailor Shop, Inc.
2 ARTHUR ROAD
Rosemont, Penna.
Bryn Mawr 1266
We do adjustments the way you want them.
Work and Service—Good
Prices Reasonable
For Fit and Wear Get
Your Clothes Tailor Made

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Open from 9 A. M. to 8:30 P. M.
Daily; Except Wednesdays and
Saturdays, Closed at 6 P. M.
Suits & Topcoats
$29.75

DOLLY MADISON
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA.
DAIRY
PRODUCTS
CO.
4th & Poplar Sts.
Phila., Pa.

Villanova's Navy . . .

Whether Villanova was the school of their choice or not, the Navy and Marine trainees made themselves completely at home. They did not take it as another assignment in the service, but to them it was College life as well as military training. Their role in extracurricular activities show that school spirit was not hindered completely by the required discipline of the Navy.

Was Disciplined and Proud . . .

That feeling of pride while being observed by the inspecting party was the satisfaction received from weeks of marching and drilling. The Navy Unit carried that pride with them to Shibe Park, the scene of many exhibitions of Villanova's Navy on parade. Above — the Officers in charge of the Naval Unit in early 1944 stand ready to observe the Trainees passing in review.

Starting as 'Boots' . . .

About fifty percent of Villanova's Navy men were taken directly from the ranks of Civilian life. For them, College was Boot Camp; a little less of the saltiness of seafaring Bos'ns, but colored by the discipline of a few experienced officers and enlisted men. Indeed, it was an honor to be selected by the Navy for their future officers. A high mental standing, physical perfection and moral integrity were the standards set by the Navy for their future leaders. College environment was given the task of adding and strengthening these qualities.

Three Years of Navy And Marine Program Pass Into Archives

On July 1, 1943, the Navy V-12 program was inaugurated at Villanova College when approximately 400 Naval Reservists and 200 Marine Reservists were placed on active duty to continue their education.

This college was one of the many in the country chosen to further the education of about 80,000 men especially selected as officer candidates. The primary purpose of the program was to give prospective Naval and Marine officers the benefit of a college education.

Milner First Commandant

Commander Edward J. Millner, USN, headed the first contingent of Navy and Marine trainees assigned to Villanova. Captain Robert L. Morgan, USMCR, was assigned to duty as the commanding officer of the Marine Detachment.

Villanova's V-12 program continued until November 1945 when it was supplemented by the NROTC program under the direction of Captain Thomas C. Thomas, USN, who has been in command of the Navy here since October 66, 1945.

Naval Science Major

Under this program Naval Science subjects were taught to trainees as a major with courses in the regular college curriculum being offered as electives. The NROTC planned to give all trainees eight terms of college and, upon successful completion,, a degree plus a commission in the Naval Reserve.

STATISTICS OF NAVY

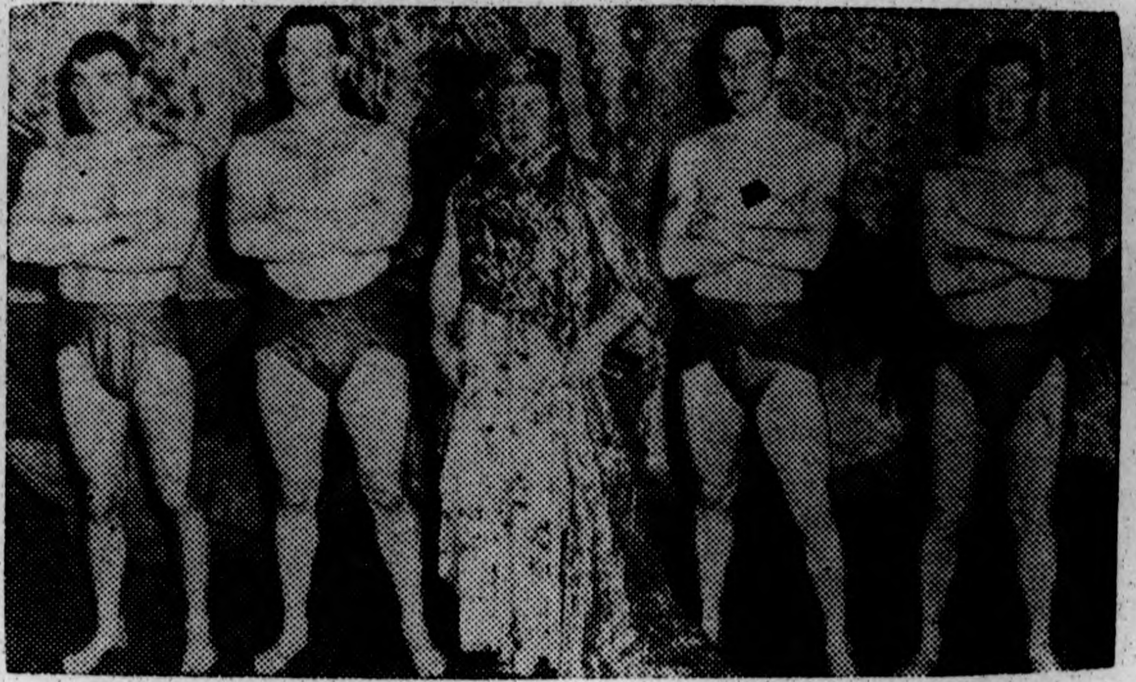
The following number of Navy and Marine personnel have been stationed at Villanova College since the inception of the V-12 program in 1943:

Navy V-12	1,165
Marine trainees	380
Navy Officers (S. C.)	32
Marine Officers (S. C.)	3
Navy enlisted S. C.	37
Marine Ships Co.	15

Seeking Honor . . .

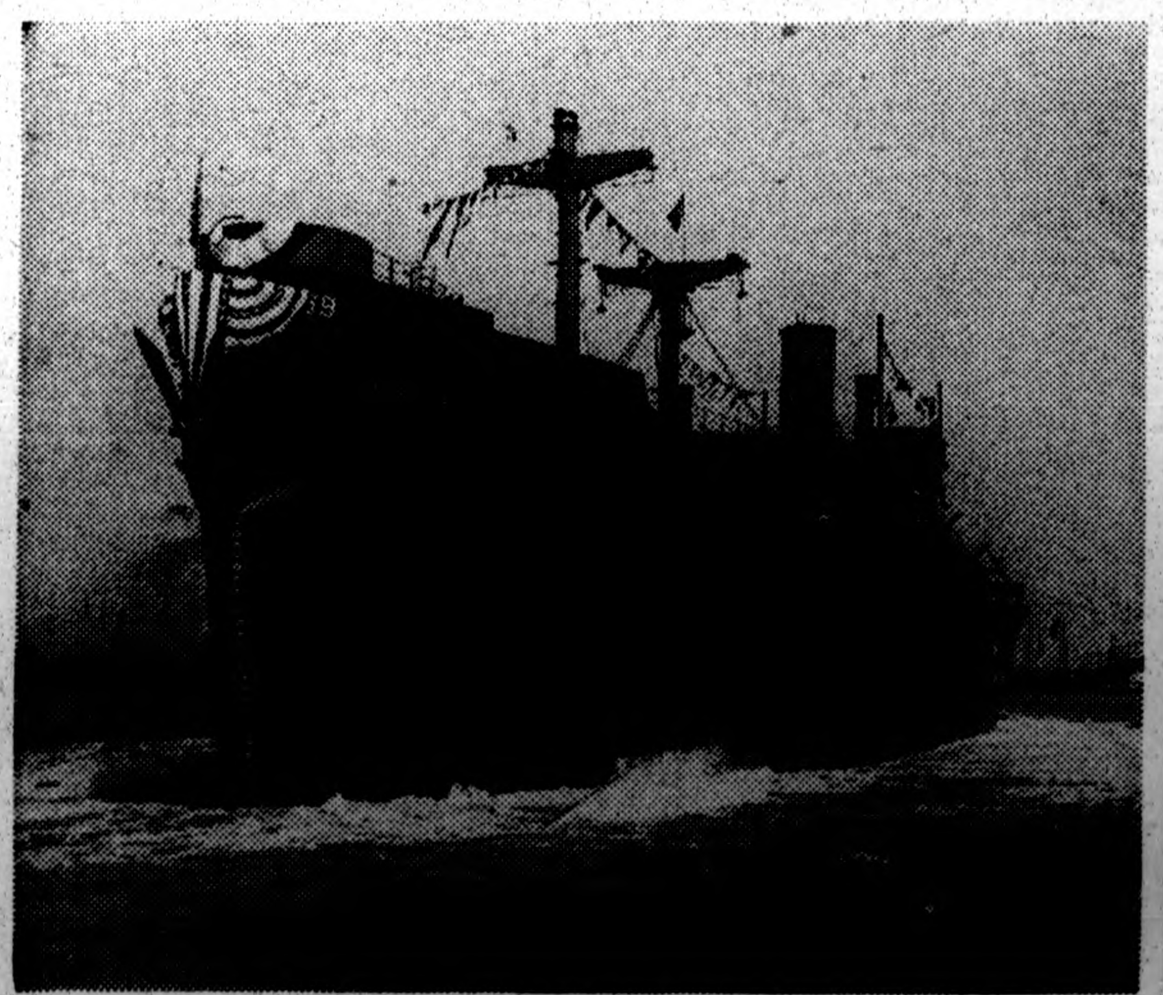
One of the many presentations for bravery under fire, as Pvt. Don Barrett receives the Bronze Star presented by Capt. Morgan.

Gaining Charm . . .



Charm—a half ton of it! They found time to laugh, as all did in the Navy's production of one of its many musicals at Villanova. Left to right are: Hank Strauss, Roger McCrea, Alex Coleman, Vince McPeak and Bob Austin.

From Her Own Ship . . .



Named in honor of Villanova College, the 10,500 ton Victory Ship was launched April 27, 1945 by the California Shipbuilding Corp. This was the second ship named after Villanova College to serve in the Armed Forces. The 136-foot Diesel powered trawler Villanova, launched at Bath, Maine, in 1937, was taken over by the Navy in 1940 and converted into the minesweeper Bullfinch.

To Ships Manned by Her Own Men

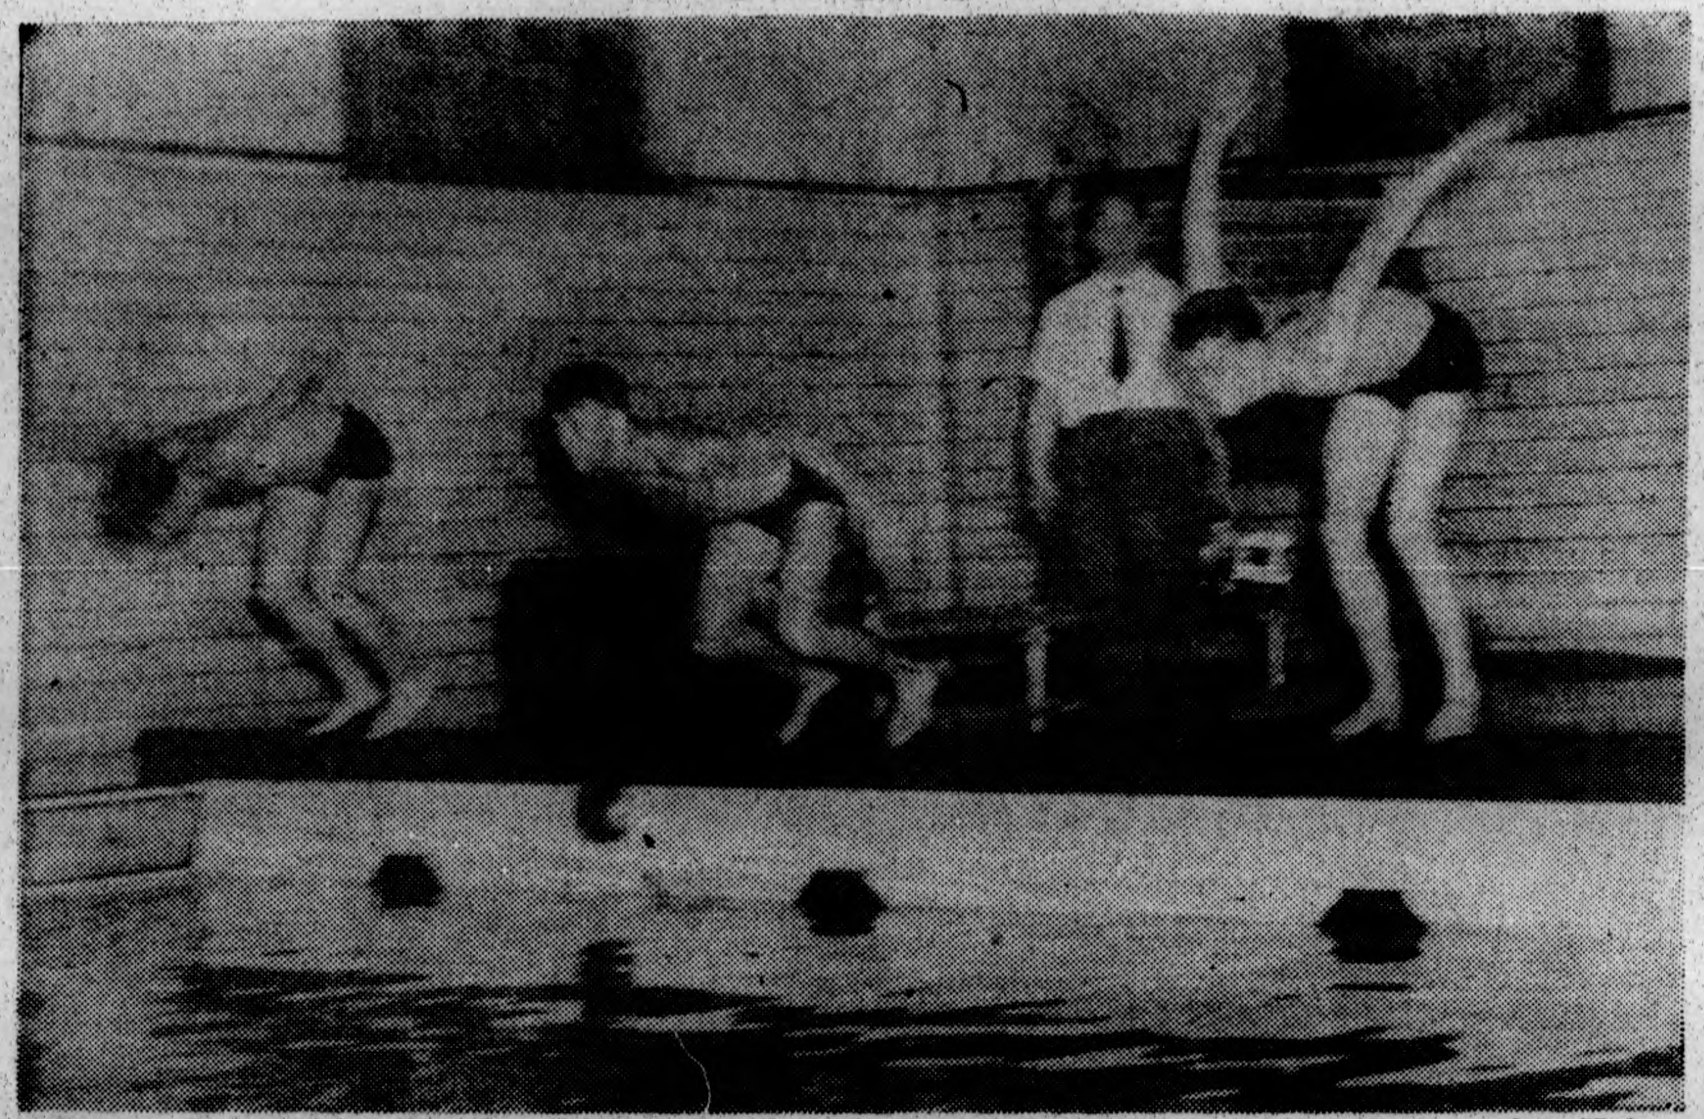
During the recess between semesters last February, 160 trainees from Villanova's Naval Unit embarked on a seven day training cruise aboard the U.S.S. Columbia, pictured above. This was the first cruise of this type to be undertaken by any Navy unit since the beginning of the war. The trainees were accompanied by the Executive Officer of the Unit, Commander J. W. Whaley, three officer instructors, the unit's medical officer, and six members of the ship's company. The U.S.S. Columbia is a 10,000 ton cruiser, veteran of Guadalcanal, Munda, Bougainville, Leyte and other important engagements.

Livingston Breaks College Underwater Record

Marines Cop 1st, Fedigan 2nd in Swim Meet

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Making Big Splashes!



Taking off for the final of the 50-yd. freestyle in Wednesday night's meet. Left to right: Nuber, Fedigan, Rivard, V-5; Sheddon, Marines.

Smith Leads 'Cat Batting with .405

Chojnacki Highest Pitching Average; O'Neil Runner-Up in Batting; Smith Held 1.28 ERA

With the victory over the Yale Bulldogs last week, the Villanovan diamond crew officially closed their 1946 season. Eleven wins against six losses was the final record and we might say a rather good one.

Bill Smith, aggressive left fielder and relief hurler, won the team batting championship hands down. Wee Willie smashed the opponent's pitching for some twenty-six hits this year, giving him a high .405 batting average.

Smitt, in his mound work, did right well for himself, not to mention the team. He whittled out a nice 1.28 ERA, in winning one and losing one. He had ten strikeouts in that time, giving up only four free passes.

The King of the Moundstaff title must go to the amazing performances of Stan Chojnacki, who really had everything out on the hill this year. Stan toiled in ten games, winning six and dropping one for the best average of the team. Choj had fifty strikeouts and an ERA of 1.91.

Third in the limelight is Jigger Donohue, who despite his bad luck, wound up with a .500 record of four and four. Tops for the team in the fanning department, Hen sent sixty-one enemy batters down swinging.

Last, but not least, is runner-up in hitting, big Frank O'Neill.

Final Averages

Player	g	ab	r	h	ave	po	a	e	ave	rbi	bb	so
Smith	15	64	16	26	.405	21	5	2	.930	8	8	3
McCarthy	4	5	3	2	.400	2	0	0	1.000	0	2	3
McDonnell	8	13	2	5	.385	4	12	0	1.000	3	1	2
O'Neill	17	54	12	19	.352	128	16	5	.965	10	14	7
Litwa	17	57	12	19	.332	16	3	3	.865	13	10	6
Chojnacki	11	22	4	7	.315	2	23	0	1.000	6	3	6
Nunan	5	10	1	3	.300	20	2	1	.958	0	0	1
Kline	9	35	5	10	.285	11	12	5	.823	3	3	2
Casey	15	62	8	17	.274	19	0	0	1.000	7	9	14
Doherty	18	76	13	18	.238	26	35	11	.848	7	7	11
Comerford	18	74	13	17	.230	152	9	2	.988	13	6	21
Henry	7	14	2	3	.214	1	4	2	.715	0	3	4
Eisenhart	8	22	5	4	.181	18	1	0	1.000	0	5	9
Lord	17	58	9	10	.173	41	32	3	.960	7	12	10
Capriotti	5	12	1	2	.166	2	1	3	.500	1	2	4
Marano	8	22	5	3	.136	4	17	7	.750	0	5	6
Brehmer	3	7	0	1	.143	16	0	1	.942	1	0	2
Donohue	11	11	1	0	.000	3	18	3	.875	0	4	8
Boos	5	6	1	0	.000	3	6	2	.818	0	3	3
Rothenhouser	2	1	0	0	.000	0	1	0	1.000	1	1	0
Schliecher	2	1	0	0	.000	0	0	0	.000	1	1	0
Robinson	1	1	0	0	.000	0	1	0	1.000	0	0	0
Totals	*18	627	113	166	.264	489	198	50	.932	51	99	112

*These averages include the exhibition game with the Phillies.

Final Averages—Pitching

Player	g	cg	ip	r	er	ave	h	bb	so	hb	wp	w	l
Smith	2	0	7	5	1	1.28	6	4	10	1	0	1	1
Donohue	11	3	53 1-3	28	11	1.85	42	27	61	2	6	4	4
Chojnacki	10	4	58 1-3	22	13	1.91	51	10	50	2	2	6	1
McDonnell	8	0	42	30	20	4.28	46	13	39	0	4	0	1
Rothenhouser	1	0	3	6	3	9.00	9	0	7	0	0	0	0
Matas	1	0	1	4	0	0.00	2	1	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	33	7*	163 2-3	94	48	2.64	156	65	178	5	12	11	7

*These averages include the exhibition game with the Phillies.

Dick Livingston Swims 240 Feet for Sub Record

Fedigan Sailor Submerged For 80 Seconds in Brilliant Exhibition at Meet

The Intramural swimming meet last Wednesday night was acclaimed by 150 students who lustily welcomed the sport back to the campus. Judging from the applause that nudged Fedigan's Dick Livingston on to a new pool record, his exhibition was the highlight of a thrill packed program.

Entered in a special event, Dick stole the show when he glided 240 feet underwater in 80 seconds to better the previous pool record of 216 feet, established in 1940 by another Fedigan man, Jack Gleason. Going the entire distance with a slow but powerful stroke, Dick swam three lengths and added 15 more feet after the third turn before breaking water. Most of the spectators were exhausted as they mentally helped "Gills" through the water.

Chief Swimmer in 8 Months

Most of those present were unaware of the human interest story behind the feat. It so happens that "Lungs" was a non-swimmer when he entered the V-12 program here back in July 1944. He felt frustrated as he enviously watched his more accomplished roomate, Dave Marano, swim almost half a length before he was dragged out exhausted. Dick took advantage of three swimming classes a week and after two months he passed his third class test. By the end of that first semester "Gills" had passed through three advanced classes and breezed through his Chief Swimmer's test. This orgy consists of 36 lengths by any stroke and 75 feet underwater.

During a swimming class this past semester Don Power, a V-5 trainee, made 2½ lengths underwater and Chief Kiziwicz offered the handsome prize of a "coke" to anyone who could better this mark. Livingston dove in and came up 225 feet later. (It took four weeks for the chief to break down and come across.) This accomplishment prompted Jack McDermott, captain of Fedigan's mermen, to enter Dick in the special event.

Close Finishes Plentiful; Nye, McFarland Stellar

Marines' Maygers, Fedigan's Nuber Take Firsts; Nye's Disqualification Put V-5's Down

By BOB MANSKE

Running up a total of thirty points in a thrilling meet, the Austin Hall Marines took Villanova's first post-war swimming Championship in a close finish from Fedigan Hall's Navy R. O. T. C. Wednesday night at the college pool. The capacity crowd saw plenty of action and excitement as the meet was decided in favor of the Marines on a close decision in which Alan Nye was disqualified in the 50 yd. breast stroke for breaking water. This turned the victory to the Marines and crowned them Champs.

The first event of the night was the fifty yard, free style race, which was won by George Nuber of Fedigan Hall, in the moderate time of twenty-eight seconds flat. Jack Sheddow of the Marines placed second, while Paul Rivard of the V-5 took third. Fedigan's lead in points was short-lived, however, when Alan Nye, team captain of the V-5 team, took the one hundred yard free style race in one minute, six and two-tenths seconds. Captain Hank Maygers of the Marines placed second, eight-tenths of a second behind Nye, and Joe Nash of Fedigan took third.

The third event of the evening produced the only civilian to place in the meet, Gene McFarland, won the fifty yard breast stroke for Mendel Hall, in thirty six and six-tenths seconds. Fedigan kept in the thick of things when Duilio D'-Albora placed second in this event; Paul Rivard of the V-5's placed third.

In what proved to be one of the most exciting races of the night, the Marines pulled out a first and second in the fifty yard back stroke, when Dick Shedden and Tom Davis swam the course in thirty-three and two-tenths seconds and thirty-five seconds respectively. Sam Madara of Fedigan, kept Fedigan in the race by placing a close third.

In the one hundred yard free style relay, the Marines placed first with the fast time of forty-nine and eight-tenths seconds. Fedigan placed second and kept in the race for points, while the V-5's placed third. The Marines, at the end of this race, were in the lead for points with Fedigan a close second.

The Medley relay was the last race of the night and upon it hung the outcome of the meet. Fedigan Hall won out in forty-four seconds, while the V-5 team was second with forty-four and two-tenth seconds. Ordinarily, this race meant that the Marines and Fedigan would have been tied for first with twenty-six points apiece; however the V-5 team was disqualified, because Alan Nye broke water with his feet in the breast stroke. This moved the Marines up into the second slot and put the Alumni team third. So the Marines took the meet with thirty points; Fedigan was second, with twenty-six; the V-5 third with nine; Mendel fourth with five and Alumni fifth with two.

In a special event, Richard Livingston, N.R.O.T.C., bettered the old underwater distance record of two hundred and sixteen feet, by doing two hundred and forty-one feet.

All the diving events were cancelled, because of the lack of bolts for the diving board.

Marines, 30
Fedigan, 26
V-5, 9
Mendel, 5
Alumni 2

Team Beats Yale, New London Sub Base on Road

Cats Take Two Out of Three in Finale; Lose to Boston College in Overtime

Villanova's travelling baseball team completed a successful trip by winning two of the three games played in the New England twilight circuit. As a result, the season record reads eleven victories and six defeats in collegiate competition in Coach Weinert's first year at the helm of the Blue and White team.

Rain ended the Holy Cross game after three and one-half innings of play. Up to this point Stan Chojnacki and Harper Gerry were engaged in a scoreless and hitless pitching duel. Heavy skies helped Gerry record seven strikeouts, the first six being consecutive.

Moving over to Boston College, Villanova lost its first overtime game of the year, the Eagles winning number thirteen by a 4-3 score in 10 innings. Henry Donohue pitched himself out of numerous difficulties as seventeen enemy runners were stranded. Faulty support and a mental error that allowed a runner to move into scoring position proved his undoing.

Key play in the defeat was a perfect peg to the plate by John Yurewicz to catch Al Litwa in the first of the tenth. Bob Fitzgerald was the villain when he lined a clean single to right with the bases full and two out in the home half of the inning.

"Major" McDonnell was also the victim of foul play in the first inning of the New London Submarine Base game. However, the varsity jumped into the breech late in the game and Bill Smith turned in a neat four inning relief job to gain credit for a 7-5 victory in 12 beautiful game for the Sailors but weakened in the closing rounds.

Stan Chojnacki sent the game into overtime with a pinch-hit single with two out in the ninth. Frank O'Neill threw a perfect strike to Joe Brehmer to nail Meurn at the plate in the eleventh. Successive singles by Smith, Al Litwa, Dan Casey and Brehmer, with two out in the twelfth, clinched the decision for the 'Cats.

Playing the only afternoon game of the trip at New Haven, Villanova completed its season on the right side of a 5-1 score. Stan Chojnacki tossed his third four-hitter of the year in shackling the powerful Yale team which had won eleven of its fourteen starts.

Art Moher and Bob James grounded a double and single respectively into right field to give the Blue a lead in the first inning. The 'Cats opened up in the second. Norm Kline led off with a single but was forced at second by Doherty. Charlie Comerford then proceded to belt one of Frank Quinn's pitches halfway up into the left

NEW ENGLAND
Continued on Page Eight

Tennis Matches Approach Finals

Neitzke, McNamara, Topper, Weilly and Gaffney Strong Contenders for Semi-Finals

The Intramural tennis tournament was packed with upsets and excitements during the past week wtih a number of contenders being elminated, including last year's finalist, Dick Sheddon.

The rivalry in Austin Hall has been rough all week with Joe Nietzke advancing to the finals by downing Sheddon after a bad start 3-6, 6-1, 6-1. Also to fall before the power of Neitzke was Bob Powers who gave Shell a terrific battle, but succumbed 6-3, 3-6, 6-4. The other finalist for the Austin crown is Paul Rivard, who downed Norm Reistine, 6-3, 6-3 and Paul Cavanaugh, 6-3, 6-3.

In the early rounds Powers defeated Harry Ways 6-1, 6-1 and Cavanaugh took Joe Braezler 6-3, 6-3.

Over in the Doms tourney, Frank Weilly and Mike Gaffney will play for the Doms crown. Gaffney worked up by knocking off Russ Welsh, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3 and Sam Canning 6-1, 6-4.

Fedigan Hall's leading contender, Walter Deemer, has advanced to the finals after a long and keenly contested match with Bill Post in what was the best match of the tournament so far. Deemer finally won out 8-6, 5-7, 8-6. Bill Space gave Joe Topper a run for his money, but lost out 4-6, 6-3, 6-1. Jim McNamara advanced another notch by beating Fred Otto 6-3, 6-0.

The winners in the individual tournaments will square off this week for the coveted gold trophy.

ATTENTION!

This will be the last issue of the Villanovan. Therefore, the sports staff, in order to insure adequate coverage of our school sports until the closing week, will publish a list of results. This list will be placed on the bulletin board in the Villanovan office.

Canning Says:—

During the past four months we have endeavored to bring to you readers a complete coverage of Villanova sports. In this, our last issue, we'd like to present to you a picture of what we think of next year's teams.

The Wildcat baseball team is going to be one of the best in the East and will have an excellent chance of winning the newly formed Eastern Inter-Collegiate Baseball Tournament. This tournament will be similar to the annual Inter-Collegiate Basketball Tournament held every year.

With the entire team back next season under the able leadership of Coach Phil Weinert, after winning eleven games against six losses, the Cats are going to be terrific. If an all American baseball team is chosen, as are teams in football and basketball, Villanova's Bill Smith and Stan Chojnacki are sure bets to be on it. They are in our estimation the most valuable players on the team and the most versatile. Smith, who is batting a cool .405, for the seventeen game season, is a marvelous outfielder, a rabbit on the base paths and his relief pitching assignments have saved two games this season. We've yet to see a ball player on any of the seventeen teams encountered this year who was worthy to hold Bill's bat while he adjusted his pants.

Stan Chojnacki's six wins against one loss including three four-hitters, makes him one of the best college pitchers in the East. His earned run average of1.91, and his strikeout total of 50 are proof of this. And when you remember what a potent bat he wields, slashing out long extra base hits, you'll agree that Stan will definitely be in on any honors to be bestowed by this new Inter-Collegiate Tournament.

It's our guess that Coach Weinert will send Bill Smith as Villanova's representative to the All-Star Baseball game at Boston this month.

We don't intend to belittle the remainder of the excellent squad by these few remarks but on every team you're bound to have one or two outstanding men and I think everyone will agree that Smith and Chojnacki are standouts.

For his first season Coach Weinert has done a superb job. We realize it took Mr. Weinert some time before he could iron out all the kinks in his team and find out each man's individual qualifications. But he knows now and you can bet that it's going to take a terrific powerhouse to knock us off next year.

As far as football is concerned, we're quite sure that many of you are going to be quite surprised when the Cats dump a couple of these big name teams on this potent schedule we have. We'll lose games. That's understood when you're playing Army, Navy, Miami, Holy Cross, Detroit, Boston College, Marquette, Florida, Georgetown and Kings Point M. M. Academy. This looks more like Notre Dame's or Army's schedule. But those are the kind of teams you take pleasure in knocking off their pedestals. So take all the odds you can get, men, and pay your way through school on a couple of up-sets in these games!

At this writing, the basketball schedule is still not complete but you can be sure it's going to be a tough one. Coach Al Severance is bringing in a number of former stars on service teams and some very noted New Jersey and Pennsylvania high school stars. With the hold-overs from this year's team and this new array of talent the Villanova basketball team should go great guns.

oCach Jumbo Elliott has the only really tough job for next year as far as the varsity sports go. With the loss of his one man track team of John Di Carlo, Inc., Coach Elliott is back in the same position he was when he first came to Villanova. His job is to start building up the track team to its former pre-war standard when Villanova's cindermen were feared and respected by all. We're quite confident that Coach Elliott will have a fine array of talent coming in this Fall and that he will whip them into a crack team in another year or two.

That sort of covers our predictions for the varsity sports. As for minor sports, the only one definitely scheduled is 150 lb. football in which the Kittens are entered in the Eastern Inter-Collegiate League. Being that this will be the first appearance of 150 lb. ball since the war, the only indication one can have of the prowess of our team-to-be is that it has been met with great enthusiasm and of the seventy applicants eight have college 150 lb. experience and the rest all have high school experience. The other entrants in the league are faced with the same situation of not having played since the war so the championship is just a toss-up but we wish the team lots of luck.

That about winds up the athletic situation for next year and winds up this writer and this column.

NEW SPORT EDITOR

James McNamara, Junior II, has recently been appointed to the position of Sports Editor for the 1946-47 school year. Now an NROTC trainee, he will be discharged by that time. Mac has worked for the Villanovan for the past year. We, in retiring, extend to Jim our heartiest wishes for a successful year.

Sports Editors

Marines' Victories Give Them Lead Going Into Finals

Alumni, Austin Runners-Up as League Enters Last Week; Johnston's Homer Beats Fedigan 5-4

Inclement weather has greatly curtailed intra-mural softball, with only two games being completed. The Marine-Fedigan clash resulted in a 5-4 victory for the Marines. It was the second time the league-leading Marines have edged out the sailors by a single run. The game, which produced a total of twenty-six safeties, was a thriller right down to the last ball pitched, which Marine Johnston turned into a homer with two mates aboard, thus breaking the Fedigan 4-2 lead and winning the game.

The Navy scored three runs on four hits in the second. Their final tally came unearned in the fourth on two walks and a long fly to the outfield. Bob Deemer led in the batting department with three safeties off Marine pitcher Jackman. For the victors Molloy's double in the fourth drove the first two runs over and Johnston's four-sacker sewed up the game in the last of the seventh. Dick Sheddin, Gladfelter, and Metessick each collected three runs off Ad Bassin, Fedigan pitcher.

On Wednesday, Austin nosed out the Doms by a 3-1 score in a pitchers duel between Lou DiGiacomo, who pitched a five-hitter for the Doms and Red Nealon, who allowed only six safeties. Hits by Koener and Pallito in the fourth accounted for the lone Dom tally. Pitcher Nealon kept the remaining four hits and three passes scattered enough to hold the spirited oposition in check. Pezelski drove across the first Austin run in the fourth and the game remained a deadlock until the seventh when the two winning runs came over on an error, two walks and hits by Haley and Manchini.

The Doms and Alumni were credited with wins when the day-hops and Fedigan failed to report for their scheduled games.

The standings of the teams remain virtually the same with the exception that the Doms have replaced Fedigan for fourth place.

Team Standings

	W	L	T
Marines	4	1	1
Alumni	6	2	0
Austin	5	3	0
Doms	3	4	1
Fedigan	3	5	0
Mendel	2	4	0
Day-hops	0	2	0

Kearney Says:—

In lasting tribute to the Naval Training program here at Villanova, we dedicate this issue of the Villanovan.

Yes, the Navy leaves Villanova on June 24th, after three years of activity here on the campus. I hope that you all will waive the fact that this is being written by one of those trainees who has been stationed here and accept what I have to say for what it is worth.

Navy and Marine trainees who have come and gone here during the last three years have contributed to Villanova in many ways. This very paper was saved from a wartime death and manned capably by men stationed here.

Sports especially have been filled with the names of many Navy and Marine men who gave their bit to the College in Intercollegiate competition. Football, basketball, track, baseball and boxing were capably undertaken by military and naval personnel when civilians here were at a minimum.

Those who came out for sports during this period of time did so under various conditions. Some were merely here because the Navy had put them here, but played their best, regardless, for a college they never intended to attend. Such good sportsmanship deserves plaudits of highest praise.

All of these men were handicapped by heavy schedules, not to mention Naval discipline and long hours. Forgetting all this, they had the indominable spirit and superior stamina to come out anyway. More power to them.

Music and drills were furnished on several occasions for athletic events by the Navy band and the Unit here at the expense of their own liberty and free time. This action gave Villanova a band even during the draft-riddled war years. The above organiztions likewise put on their best show for a strange college.

Villanova gave these fellows what they could in return. Some men took a liking to the school and have returned or intend to return upon discharge. It was a wonderful give and take exchange and, contrary to some beliefs, the Navy stay here actually helped Villanova in many ways. The Navy and Marine dorms were kept in exceptionally good condition.

Men who have gone to the fleet from here as graduates of this program, have given Villanova a real boost by their fine work in the fleet. Furthermore, the all-out interest in the school by these men was and is still surprising.

Granted, it was hard for old Villanovans to return and find their campus militarized, so to speak, by strange men. But gradually this barrier is being broken down and actually many of the Sailors and Marines are going to return to be the room-mates and classmates of the vets. They, too, will be flesh and blood Villanovans enjoying all the campus traditions which were lacking during their stay here.

—V—

With this last issue of the Villanovan for the year 1945-6, sports also close their yearly work. This year has been not a bad year at all. Football experienced a mediocre season against a very tough schedule. Basketball showed some fine games and good individual performances. Track, as we reviewed it last week, did fairly well for itself all told. Baseball in this first post-war season was good with the team ending up over the .500 mark.

Sports will be dormant during the summer season, with the possible exception of a softball league. The football team reports back on August 12th for the practice and will go at it until the Homecoming game here in early September.

All sports here are looking for banner seasons next year with the veterans already on the campus and those expected next Fall.

Your sports coverage for this publication will be undertaken by the recently appointed Sports Editor, Jim McNamara. Mac is a well-known man to say the least. We congratulate him on his appointment. We turn the position over to him realizing he'll give his usual best.

Thus we write the end to the Sports here at Villanova for another year and say a hearty "Well Done!" to all those athletes and those who supported them in collegiate sports this past year.

In The Sportlight

Your roving reporter, Kilroy, used mental telepathy to gather his information for this weeks Sportlight. The reason being that the subject is that elusive character Dick Somers, better known as "Smiley."

As an innocent freshman, back in 1941, Dick fell into the power of "Major" McDonnell and Joe Lord, who took him to the Field House and introduced him to Al Severance. The season was only six games old when our hero became both varsity and freshman manager.

Jim Elliot stepped into the picture and drafted "Smiley" as varsity track manager. With this went part of the responsibilities of the Villanova Interscholastic Track and Field Meet in 1942.

During his sophomore year, Dick continued to handle the basketball team which finished the season with a 19 and 2 record. In the spring, however, he switched his allegiance to the baseball team. Father McGuire, then Moderator of Athletics, entrusted him with the job of Travelling Secretary for both teams.

A check on the schoolastic records reveals that the name Richard Somers appeared on the Dean's List for each of the first four semesters. In addition he found time to play in the Marching Band, Symphonic Band, and the Villanovans.

Dick continued his basketball and baseball activities during the next two years with occasional trips to New York with the track team during the indoor season. There was a break of one year during which time he worked in the accounting department at Westinghouse.

Next year the position of varsity baseball manager is open to any one who would like to be out in the fresh air practically every afternoon from the middle of March until the middle of June. The prospective schedule will make it an enjoyable season. Also the lucky person will hold the position for three years, assuming that he is a sophomore.

New England Box Scores . . .

Villanova

	ab	r	h	po	a
Smith, lf	5	0	1	2	1
Litwa, rf	5	0	2	2	0
Casey, cf	5	0	1	2	0
O'Neill, c	3	0	1	6	1
Kline, 3b	4	0	0	1	2
Doherty, ss	4	0	0	1	4
Comerford, 1b	4	1	1	12	0
Lord, 2b	2	2	1	3	3
Donohue, p	2	0	0	0	3
Totals	34	3	7	29x	14

Boston College

	ab	r	h	po	a
Daunt, 2b	3	1	2	2	4
Lanoue, lf	4	0	1	0	1
Spinner, 1b	4	1	0	14	0
Lynch, cf	3	0	0	1	0
Fitzgerald, c	5	0	1	6	0
Buckley, rf	4	0	1	1	0
Maloney, 3b	4	1	1	1	5
Yurewicz, ss	5	0	1	5	6
McManus, p	3	0	0	0	0
Levinson, p	1	1	1	0	0
Totals	36	4	8	30	18

x—Two out when winning run scored.

Villanova ....0 0 0 0 1 0 2 0 0 0—3
Boston College ..1 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 1—4

Villanova

	ab	r	h	po	a
McCarthy, lf	2	0	0	0	0
aSmith, lf-p	4	1	3	0	0
Henry, rf	2	0	0	0	0
bLitwa, rf	4	2	3	0	0
Casey, cf	5	0	2	3	0
Brehmer, c	6	0	1	13	0
Doherty, ss	6	0	1	2	3
Comerford, 1b	4	2	1	10	5
Lord, 2b	3	0	0	3	7
cO'Neill, lf	2	0	0	1	1
Marano, 3b	1	1	0	0	0
dKline, 3b	3	1	1	0	1
McDonnell, p	3	0	1	3	3
eChojnacki	1	0	1	0	0
Nunan, 2b	1	0	0	1	0
Totals	47	7	14	36	20

Sub Base

	ab	r	h	po	a
Charouhas, ss	6	0	0	1	4
Ellender, cf	6	1	1	1	0
Parrish, 3b	6	2	1	1	2
Swain, rf	5	1	2	2	0
McCorkle, c	6	1	4	12	3
Hynes, 1b	5	0	0	13	1
gLarounas	1	0	0	0	0
Bocian, lf	4	0	2	2	0
fCluzeski, lf	2	0	0	0	0
Sotelo, 2b	5	0	0	2	2
Meurn, p	4	0	0	2	3
Totals	50	5	10	36	15

a—Batted for McCarthy in 5th.
b—Batted for Henry in 6th.
c—Batted for Lord in 9th.
d—Batted for Marano in 7th.
e—Batted for McDonnell in 9th.
f—Batted for Bocian in 10th.
g—Batted for Hynes in 12th.

Villanova

	ab	r	h	po	a
Smith, lf	5	1	2	1	0
Litwa, rf	5	1	2	1	0
Casey, cf	4	0	2	4	0
O'Neill, c	4	0	2	7	1
Kline, 3b	4	0	1	0	0
Doherty, ss	4	1	0	2	2
Comerford, 1b	4	1	1	6	2
Lord, 2b	4	0	1	5	3
Chojnacki, p	3	1	0	1	3
Totals	37	5	11	27	11

Yale

	ab	r	h	po	a
Moher, ss	2	1	1	4	2
F. O'Brien, 3b	4	0	1	1	5
James, cf	4	0	2	3	0
Elwell, c	4	0	0	9	0
Howe, lf	4	0	0	0	1
Heath, rf	4	0	0	1	0
Bush, 1b	3	0	0	6	0
Stimola, 2b	3	0	0	3	2
Quinn, p	2	0	0	0	1
xLilley	1	0	0	0	0
H. O'Brien, p	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	31	1	4	27	11

x—Batted for Quinn in 8th.

Faculty Comments

Ever Climb A Mountain?

By FATHER JAMES HANNAN

THE world over, unique and somewhat curious epitaphs grasp the attention of even the hasty traveler. There is one such in Europe in the Alps which is especially significant. It marks the grave of a guide who fell and was killed in the performance of his duty. The small stone, here in the crisp stillness of these God-made, heaven-searching monuments of earth and rock, is inscribed thus: "He died climbing." Though brief, the inscription fairly shouts an epitaph which we all might justly wish to be written over our final resting-place.

Any form of exercise is, of course, tedious, and demands effort an stamina. Most individuals can, and do, indulge in some form of exercise, at least, mild though it be. Every exercise has a goal in view; it may be crossing a goal-line, throwing a ball through a basket, or hitting it into a cup; even one walking for exercise has in mind some destination, at least vaguely, before he expects to return home.

In every case, there is a definite aim in view, but there is hardly any physical exercise which so closely parallels the supernatural life of a Catholic as does mountain-climbing. The climber, like the true Catholic, is seeking to go ever higher, higher; the way gets rough, the trail may momentarily be lost, boulders jut out to block the progress, but somehow, they all are passed, as one, intent on reaching the summit, climbs higher.

Virtue is something which can be found in every phase of life. The virtue especially characterizing a mountain-climber is courage or merely natural fortitude, and its equivalent in the life of the soul is the supernatural virtue of fortitude. We usually call fortitude by the more familiar name of courage. Physical courage may, and usually is, helped in a crisis by the exhilaration, the excitement of the moment. Moral courage goes deeper, requires firmer roots. It is the strong foundation, the right answer to temptations and trials of soul.

We may aptly fix the modern norm for measuring courage as the ability to stand one's ground. To be able to "hold the fort,' to be good and exemplary Catholics, to remain steadfast in the face of every peril of soul, to hold ourselves true to the faith at all costs: all these are marks of greatness, signs by which we recognize true heroes of our faith. These marks call for genuine Christian manhood, unwavering Christian womanhood; they demand great strength of character, and the virtue that identifies and sustains that character is the virtue of fortitude.

To keep on the straight and narrow highway that leads to the Eternal Kingdom requires steady effort. By ourselves, how true are those words: "Without Me you can do nothing." How different the picture when He is with us, for "I can do all things in Him who strengtheneth me."

When we start the Journey of Life, we enter the main road from the shaded lane of Original Sin. We pass through gates opened by Baptism; when the Gate-keeper, the Priest, pours the cleansing waters, then it is that we receive the infused virtue of Fortitude. The way is now clear. We cannot always anticipate the traffic snarls and accidents, the imperfections and sins; we can obey the lights: GO on green; STOP on red, as directed by the Officer-in-Charge, our Holy Mother Church. As each mile is covered, we become more firmly entrenched and set and less inclined to careen off the road, however slippery and otherwise dangerous it may become. What keeps us firmly on the path, what gives us the will to win at all costs is God's grace, and the steady push, and oftentimes, firm prodding of the virtue of Fortitude.

We live not in a perfect world. Is it not one drunk with intemperance, foolish with imprudence, sometimes very wrong as regards true justice and the rights of man, boastful and cowardly when fortitude is needed? Men, we have here a definite challenge. Do we DARE to be different? Will we courageously rise above the level of a material-minded world, and fighting hard, win for ourselves repose in the sacrificing Sacred Heart of Jesus, the Son of God—His Heart through which we honor Him so particularly in June? June is also the month of commencements, the time when you must leave the sheltered halls and atmosphere of your Catholic college to meet this challenge by action. There is no question about it, men, the fight is ours. We all want virtue, we all need virtue. A virtuous life is a taining of all virtue requires forlife destined for heaven. The sustitude. Can you accept the challenge? Yes, you can, if you DARE to be different, and recall the prayer of David to his God in the Psalm: "I have lifted up my eyes to the mountains, from whence help shall come to me. My help is from the Lord, Who made heaven and earth."

Senior and Junior R.O.T.C. will Be Provided Under New Policy

Continued From Page Three

desiring to provide a distinctive type of uniform or individually tailored uniforms for the Junior ROTC or the elementary Senior course may draw commutation in lieu of issuance of government uniforms in an amount set by the quartermaster. Students at ROTC Summer camps will be furnished the necessary field-type uniforms.

Must Be 21

Minimum requirements for a reserve commission will include the successful completion of four years education at the college level and the successful completion of the Senior ROTC course. The student also must have reached the age of 21 before he is granted a commission. For a commission as a 1st Lt. in a professional branch, such as the Medical Corps, the candidate must have received his professional degree.

In case a student is specializing in a technical or scientific field, such as engineering or chemistry, at an institution which does not have that ROTC branch, he may be sent to a Summer camp of the appropriate branch, such as the Corps of Engineers or Chemical Warfare Service camp, and obtain his commission in that branch within quota limitations.

The War Department also plans to negotiate with schools maintaining ROTC units to obtain academic credit for such training on the same basis as for non-military subjects where such an agreement does not now exist.

Annual Quota

Quotas for the Senior ROTC will be allotted annually by the War Department, and separate contracts will be executed by students admitted to the elementary and advanced Senior ROTC courses. No contracts will be executed for the Junior ROTC.

Military instruction at each institution will be under the direction of the Professor of Military Science and Tactics appointed by the War Department. He will be assisted by other officers and non-commissioned officers of the Army. If authorized by legislation, the War Department will also negotiate with the individual institutions for the services of civilian instructors in the teaching of certain academic subjects related to the military.

"The new program will go into effect," Colonel Davis said, "with the start of the Fall term of 1946 insofar as existing laws and appropriations will permit. The present interim ROTC program will be absorbed into the new program insofar as practicable."

Library Prizes Announced

Mr. William J. Gilligan, Chairman of the Friends of Villanova's College Library, announced at a meeting here last Thursday evening, that $10,000 in cash will be awarded to holders of the lucky membership tickets to be sold during the drive for the new Villanova Memorial College Library.

First Prize $5000

An award of $5,000 will be given as first prize. Four prizes of $1000 each and ten prizes of $100 each will also be awarded. Persons selling winning tickets will be given 5 percent of the prize awarded.

It is hoped the membership tickets will be available to students before the end of this term. The tickets will number twenty-two per book and will sell for 50c per ticket. The person selling an entire book will turn in $10 and retain $1.00.

Tickets Due Soon

In the event tickets will not arrive from the printers in time to be distributed before the end of the term, they will be delivered to students during the summer. Tickets will also be sent to alumni, faculty and other associates of Villanova and to the Augustinian Fathers.

Fr. Handran

Continued from Page One

nothing new to Father Handran as he had been chaplain at Rosemont College for several years before his call to service.

Into Carriers

From Norman he was transferred to the aircraft carrier Cowpens. This was in January 1944. Although he didn't know it at the time, Father Handran was destined to stay with the Cowpens from then until well after the end of the war.

During his tour of duty Father Handran saw the skipper of the Cowpens change three times. The personnel also saw some radical changes but Father Handran stayed on. At one time his carrier was bombed almost continuously for seven days and seven nights. This was during the push towards Tokyo late in 1944 and early in 1945. The Cowpens also took a torpedo about that time but it proved to be a dud.

Enviable Record

Father Handran has had as much or more continuous combat sea duty than any other chaplain in the Corp. This is a record that he may be justly proud of.

After long action the Cowpens put into a forward base. As they came into the anchorage they received blinker congratulations from every ship lying at anchor and a rousing cheer from their crews.

One amusing incident that was nevertheless rather trying to Father Handran was when he heard "Tokyo Rose" announce three nights in succession that the Cowpens had been sunk.

Relieved After VJ Day

About two months after the war was over Father Handran was relieved and caught a tanker to an advance base where be boarded a transport for San Francisco. From there he was assigned to Pensacola. He stayed there until his discharge.

Father Handran has returned and will take up his teaching chores in the fall. His terminal leave was spent in Miami and Havana. Welcome back, Father Handran!

Priest at St. Mary's Adds Livestock to Food Production Plan

Under the able guidance of Rev. John Joseph McCabe, of St. Mary's Hall seminary, a crusade has been launched against world hunger.

During the war Fr. McCabe was in charge of all campus gardens and has enlarged his program in the present food situation.

Students and priests of the seminary have aided in the cultivation of the two large plots. They have also aided in the feeding of the hundreds of chickens, turkeys, ducks and the heavy hog.

"In the world-wide famine, saving and raising food is a number-one job," Father McCabe said. "Everyone everywhere should lend all possible aid to the program."

Located on the college campus the 400 chickens supplied the seminary with over 120 eggs daily. Vegetables from the farm included tomatoes, corn, potatoes, cabbage and lettuce. This year the form should yield a bumper crop if the weather remains favorable.

Commencement

Continued From Page One

Robert McNally Jr., William Michael O'Rourke, Dominic Joseph Palladino, Thomas John Riley, Edward George Robinson, James Gerald Ryan.

Bachelor of Science in Education: John Joseph Selfridge.

Bachelor of Civil Engineering: Joseph Anthony Centrone, William Kenneth Koerner.

Bachelor of Electrical Engineering: Alphonse Canuel, V-12, Thomas Monnett Davis, V-12, Richard Goodrich Hensen, V-12.

Bachelor of Mechanical Engineering: Paul Hilding Christenson, Carl George Fritz, Joseph Hoffman, Bernard Leo Poppert, Carl George Schneider, V-12.

Bachelor of Chemical Engineering: Maurice Charles Labarrere.

Bachelor of Science in Chemistry: Edward Joseph Costello, Albert oJseph Derr.

Bachelor of Science in Biology: James Thomas Mackey, Alfred Joseph Piluso, Raymond Francis Stone, Joseph Russell Sweeney.

Bachelor of Science in Economics: Bernard Carroll Crumb, William J. Devine Jr., John Joseph DiCarlo, Louis John DiGiacomo, William C. Dillon, George William Famiglietti, Theodore Richard Galysh, Edward Francis Grote, Francis Vincent Moscariello, George Lawrence O'Neil, Joseph C. Pezelski, James Power Riley, Richard Earl Somers, Walter Joseph Wentling.

The Baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Bishop Lamb. His Excellency is one of Philadelphia's best known and best loved prelates. He last preached at Villanova College for the Centenary Celebration in 1942.

Alumni Board Present

Present at the ceremony will be the Board of Governors of the Alumni Association, it was announced by the Very Reverend Francis X. N. McGuire, President of Villanova College. In the afternoon after the commencement they will hold their quarterly meeting, at which time the ballots in the elections for national officers will be counted.

It was also announced by Father McGuire that this year will mark the end of the somewhat informal, war time type of commencemnt exercises. Since 1942 there has been three per year instead of the one combined ceremony itself. Starting next June, there will be the one commencement yearly, with the Mass in the morning and the exercises held in the afternoon in the Field House.

JEANNETT'S
FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas for All Occasions
SPECIALIZING IN CORSAGES
Member Florists' Telegraph
Delivery Association
823 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR
BRYN MAWR 570

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

More
Long Distance
Calls than a year ago

JUST ONE YEAR AGO the Bell System was serving 21,600,000 telephones.

There are now 400,000 more telephones and Long Distance calling has steadily increased even though the war is over. Actually the volume of calling is now about 40% higher than the average for all the war years.

That's why we are asking you to please help by making only necessary Long Distance calls.

We are building new lines and new switchboards, but it will take a while to get them into use. In the meantime we'll appreciate your help and understanding.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
OF PENNSYLVANIA

Debating Team Elects Officers

Arrangements Made for Next Semester; New Members Invited

On June 6th the debating society of Villanova College held their last meeting of the current semester. Among the many important points under consideration was the reorganization of the society for the coming Fall semester.

The members, along with the moderator, Father Krupa, unanimously nominated and elected Peter Turney, president of the society for next term. "Pete" has been a regular since the advent of the society. The position as secretary of the society went to Edward Sullivan who has been a "spark plug" on this past debating team. Along with these two ardent orators is the capable efforts of one "Bill' Turner, another holdover from this semester.

October Arrangements Made

The president and secretary-elect were presented with all the necessary material for arrangemnts of the debates for October. The debating society will thereby have a running start when classes resume after the summer holidays.

Unlike this past semester, the coming semester will have the much needed financial backing of the school. In this way the traveling teams will have something to fall back on when a road trip is necessary.

Interest in the debating society during the current semester has been noteworthy, however, there is still, at the present time, a need for any students who would consider entering this activity. At the past meeting there were many new members present ready to fill the the seats of those men who will not return for the Fall semester. This does not mean by any token that all the empty seats have been filled, in fact, there is many an empty seat awaiting any student who to date has not enrolled in the society. Any student who has an interest in debating looks forward to the coming meetings and makes it a point to be there. The president-elect would heartily welcome them into the society.

Many Trips Planned

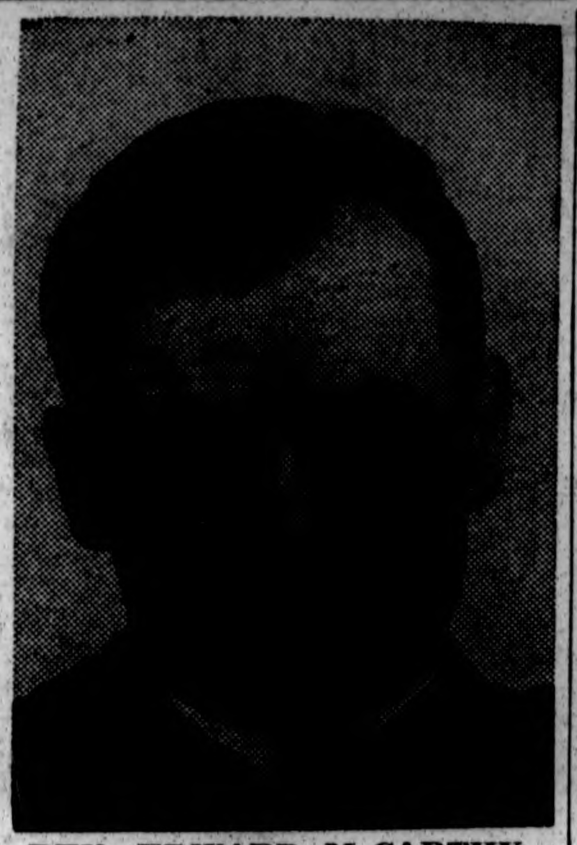
It might be well to note that the following tentative debates that are planned, many of them to take place at the respective colleges, means that there are many trips in store for prospective debaters who have a yen for such extra-curricular activity. Annapolis, Syracuse, Rosemont, Chestnut Hill, University of Pennsylvania, Temple, Pennsylvania University for Women, Haverford, Swarthmore, Rider, Rutgers, Bryn Mawr, St. Joseph's, Ursinus, Boston University, Boston College and Princeton University. These are only a portion of the coming events destined to fill the roster of the debating society.

Along with the above mentioned debates Villanova College is a member of the Benjamin Franklin Debating Conference that holds debates once during the course of every college year. During the past year while Villanova was judged fifth, they made a good showing considering the long layoff of the debating team. More honor was bestowed upon the society when "Bob" Grodinsky was judged the best speaker of the entire conference with three other Villanova speakers, "Jeff" Warren, "Ben" Reist and "Al" Rothwell.

September Reunion Of Alumni Planned For Opening Game

Mister William J. Friel, Secretary of the National Alumni Association of Villanova College has announceed that the first reunion of the Alumni since 1941 will take place on the 13, 14, and 15 of September on the College campus. The plans for this affair have not crystallized as yet since the preparation will be in the hands of the new officers to be elected on June 23, the day of the next quarterly meeting of the Alumni Association.

"This is the last time that the Alumni will be notified of the meeting and if they wish to retain membership in our organization they must bring their dues up to date before then", said Mr. Friel. He also wishes to check up on the men who have been displaced by the war and is trying to get in touch with those men whose addresses have been changed.



REV. EDWARD McCARTHY

Fr. McCarthy

Continued From Page One

of priests from the United States. Father McCarthy will teach history at the University.

The University of St .Thomas of Villanova is a new institution recently organized from a number of independent colleges. In Cuba Father McCarthy will have a genuine opportunity to come into contact with the true and living South America. His experiences "south of the border" will no doubt add many an interesting sidelight to his future teaching of South American History, which he hopes he will resume some time in the future at Villanova College.

During his leadership of the Villanova war nine, he coached his team through many a victory. Although the record of the '44-'45 teams is not outstanding, their achievements with the small amount of material there was to work with, were respected and admired by all.

Witnessed Change

In his stay at Villanova, Father McCarthy witnessed a metamorphosis of a normal peacetime college into an institution geared for war. He stated "There was a big change on the campus from 1942 until the end of the accelerated program. The school was entirely different under Navy discipline. It seemed more like a Naval Base than a school."

Father McCarthy will be the only faculty member from Villanova College who will journey to the Cuban University in Havana.

Fall Bulletin Is Released

Accelerated Program To Be Discontinued

Villanova College has recently published a mimeographed bulletin concerning the requirements for all applicants to the new Fall semester of 1946. The bulletin this year has been mimeographed rather than printed in the usual bound volume. The new edition of the bulletin will be ready in a short time, for all those desiring it.

The college has found it advisable to discontinue the war-time accelerated program of three full terms per year. The program ceases as of June 23, 1946. However, a summer term of eight weeks has been arranged during the summers of 1946 and 1947. Only those students admitted to the College as Freshmen in November 1945, March 1946, and July 1946 will be eligible for admission to these summer terms. Other students will be required to follow the normal academic calendar of two terms per year.

Registration Dates

The new fall term will begin on September 27, on which date there will be registration for all freshmen. On September 28, non-resident upper-classmen will undergo the process of registration and their resident classmates will follow the same procedure on September 30. The term will open officially on October 1 with the celebration of Solemn High Mass in honor of the Holy Ghost.

In determining the qualification of an applicant for admission, particular attention will be given to (1) the student's record considered with the academic standing of the school; (2) the recommendations furnished by his principal or by one of his teachers concerning his character, native ability and purpose; (3) the personal interview, which is advised.

Since the college has an expectation of an abnormally high enrollment for the coming years, the entrance requirements have been stepped-up slightly over those of pre-war years.

Fr. J. J. Coffey Delivers Text

Delivers Address to Immaculata College Groduates

College girls must assume the responsibility of leadership in the world through good example and appropriate utilization of their talents, was the thought stressed by Rev. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., in delivering the sermon at recent Baccalaureate ceremonies for the Immaculata College graduates.

Using the text, "Even to let your light shine before men, in order that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father in heaven" (Matt. 5:16), he lucidly pointed out to the girls especially that salvation of one's soul should be the paramount concern of all. Because of the advantages of a Catholic college education which she possesses, a young lady, in assuming leadership in the world, is more apt that not to enhance the dignity of womanhood, in whatever field or vocation she enters.

Exploit Talents Wisely

After four year of higher education, moreover, a young lady must exploit her talents wisely and to the maximum in order to reap the greatest benefits for herself and to share them fully with the world.

Having based his sermon on the general theme, "Women Assuming Leadership in The World," Father Coffey focused his attention on the two ideas of leadership and good example.

Good example, he pointed out, should be part and partial of the college girls life, but throughout her student days and during the years following.

Reiterates Pope's Plea

Leadership should be manifested, in the main, in the instruction of the ignorant. To bring this point more to the foree, Father made reference to the recent plea by Pope Pius XII, "Be conscious of your responsibility . . . Go ahead with your example. Go and illuminate the ignorant consciences, the uncertain, the hesitant ones. Go home by home, family by family, street by street, country by country."

At the Solemn High Mass, on Immaculata's Baccalaureate Sunday, Dr. Furey, President of the girls' college was celebrant, Fr. Walsh, one of the professors at the school was deacon, and Fr. Martin, a priest from the neighboring parish, was sub-deacon. It was during this Mass that Father Coffey delivered his sermon.

Alumnus Chaplain Named to A.T.C.

Major Anthony A. Cirami of of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, former assistant pastor of St. Nicholas Church, has been named Chaplain for the Air Transport Command's North Atlantic Wing, it has been announced by Brigadier General Haywood S. Hansell Jr., commanding, at Wing Headquarters, Westover Field, Mass.

This new assignment will bring under his paternal guidance the many outlying bases of the North Atlantic Wing, stretching across the Atlantic Ocean to Europe, including its many isolated outposts in the Far North.

Major Cirami will continue to serve as base chaplain at Westover Field in addition to his new responsibility.

Base Chaplain

Major Cirami entered the service in August, 1942, and after attending the school for Chaplains at Harvard University, was assigned to the Greenville Army Air Base, Greenville, South Carolina, as base chaplain, where he remained until July, 1946. Following a brief period as base chaplain at Seymour Johnson Field, Goldsboro, North Carolina, he came to Westover Field in December, 1945.

When the Air Transport Command took over Westover Field as operation headquarters for the North Atlantic Wing, Major Cirami transferred to this outstanding airforce component, whose giant aircraft ply the airways of the world carrying key government personnel, supplies and equipment to all corners of the globe.

Studied Here

During his long years of study preparing himself for the Catholic priesthood, Major Cirami attended Villanova College, the International College in Rome, Italy and Catholic University, Washington, D. C.

His father, Mr. Joseph Cirami, lives at 2360 85th St., Brooklyn.

Collins Succeeds Welsh As Editor of Villanovan

By PAUL CARMICHAEL

"It is with sad and heavy heart . . ." That's what Russ would like to say now that he claims the title of ex-editor; however, that gleam of light in his eye and the snappy air of relief in his walk seems to contradict such a statement at this time.

Our "chief" leaves us for the happy hunting grounds of St. Louis University School of Medicine, following in the footsteps of a notorious predecessor. He also leaves us (of all things) Don Collins as the new editor.

Relieves - - -

DONALD M. COLLINS

Was V-12 Trainee

Russ attended Villanova College during the war years as a Navy V-12 trainee. Russ was formerly a student at St. Meinrad College in Indiana before his entry into the service. He served with the FMF eleven as a Pharmacist's Mate, second class, before he entered Villanova.

At St. Meinrad's Russ starred as pole vaulter on the track squad and bestowed his musical talents upon the school's musical organization. Besides being editor of the Villanovan Russ also lists among his activities at Villanova intramural basketball, intramural tennis, the Navy band, chairman of the Sophomore Cotillion, and member of the Sanctuary Society.

Collins New Editor

"Hail to the Chief!" (et cetera). One of the most precocious youths ever to enter the hallowed Villanovan portals is our new editor-in-chief Donald M. Collins. Don takes over the duties of writing the "Letters to the Editor" column, after having served time as Managing Editor.

Manager

WM. GOLDEN

Don claims he came to Villanova to give the Augustinians a break, after he had been trained by the Jesuits at St. Joseph's Preparatory School. Besides playing varsity football at the Prep he also was editor-in-chief of the yearbook, associate editor of the Chronicle, the school magazine, and headed the booster's club. His most gruelling experience was the time he and a few of his other classmates were chosen to star in a Senior Class Production of the Dramatic Society. The plans called for an operetta, but lo and behold, the vocal cords of the young gentlemen played havoc with all the plans . . . yes, you guessed it, the tenors became baritones and the baritones, well, they just changed. At least Don can now give out with lyrics. if with nothing else.

Marine Veteran

In July 1944 a desperate Marine Corps accepted the services of "the brain." He fulfilled his duties well until it was decided by the "brass" that Collins should be spending his time better by developing his leadership qualities at Villanova. You see, Commandant of the Corps, General Vandergrift, felt that his position as Commander was being jeopardized. So back to a wild rejoicing campus he came in October of 1945. No, they weren't cheering for Donald, the V-J day celebrations were still going on. He's here with us now and we're stuck with him. But in all seriousness Don will make a fine editor, he has the background and he definitely has more than the usual ability required for such a position.

Real Sad - - -

RUSSELL L. WELSH

Golden New Managing Editor

Moving up from the position of Feature Editor of the Villanovan to the post of Editor's protege (Managing Editor) is William "Kilroy" Golden. Bill was born way out Iowa way, and before he was through with his elementary and secondary grade schooling he had seen quite a bit of our land. However, he was destined to see more of it when he entered the Army in September of 1942. During his vacation with the armed forces he found time to develop his talents in the musical field, penning such musical tidbits as "I Built My Heaven on a Dream," and "What Makes Me Wan't to Say No." During this time he also published the famous poem, "Mom's Battle," which was syndicated in all newspapers throughout the country. There is no doubt that Bill is well qualified for his new post.

McNamara Sports Editor

James McNamara has been named sports mentor of the staff. Jim is a graduate of St. Joseph's Prep and among his many talents claims that of a concert violinist. He made his musical debut at nine years of age. Before he entered Villanova Jim was a Radio Technician second class in the Navy. He is a member of the NROTC unit at Villanova. Jim has served well and faithfully under former Sports Editors Matt Kearney and Sam Canning, and has shown his ability in the editorial field.

The remainder of the staff will be appointed next semester by the editors. As yet the all-important post of Circulation Manager, formerly held by Warren "most valuable man" Sexton, has not been filled. All bids for the post are now being accepted in the Villanovan Office.

Don Collins, in conclusion, has stated "I will try to give the energy, if not the talent that Russ Welsh has expended during his retention of the Editor's chair." A fine and fitting tribute to a fine gentleman.

New England

Continued from Page Five

field bleachers some 360 feet from the plate. Stan Chojnacki reached base on a pass and scored on Smith's double to the scoreboard in center. Litwa followed with a single to left to drive in the fourth run of the inning. Singles by Litwa, Casey and O'Neill accounted for the final run in the seventh.

Yale's only threat was in the sixth when two men died on the paths. In all only six men reached base off Chojnacki's pitching and five of them were stranded.